By Mr. Speaker:

SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, January 19, 1931.

California State Assembly, Sacramento, California.

GENTLEMEN. All members of the Assembly who are veterans, are cordially invited to attend a stag party given by Lieutenant Lansdale Post No. 67, V. F. W., Thursday, January 22, 1931, at our hall at 3333 I Street.

A very interesting evening is promised with plenty to eat.

By Mr. Speaker:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL,
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, January 15, 1931.

Hon. Edgar C. Levey,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.

DEAR MR. LEVEY: I seek advice and instructions on a certain matter.

This office is endeavoring to the best of its ability in its work for the members of the Legislature, not only to prepare all proposed legislative measures carefully and expeditiously, but to deliver the same personally to the authors. The latter we do by sending one of the men into the Senate or Assembly every little while with a batch of bills ready for delivery with the instruction to deliver each personally to the author, and if the author can not be found to bring them back to our office.

Probably it will be more satisfactory if we put each bill in an envelope addressed to the author and deposit the same in the Assembly Post Office or in the Senate Post Office, as the case might be.

At present a great deal of our time is taken away from the pivotally important work of drafting legislative measures and of experting the same, merely to check up and inform a member whose bill, while in process of preparation is not quite completed, that it has been dictated and is in process of being typewritten; or that the man working on the bill is in the Law Library checking up the pertinent provisions of law involved; or that the bill has been completely written and is merely awaiting final check.

If the sort of work last described could be eliminated or at least reduced to a minimum, the members of the staff of this office could put all of their time on the essential work which is before us, thus the better, more expeditiously and effectively to serve the members of the Legislature.

Any suggestions you may have in this connection will be greatly appreciated.

Yours very sincerely,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel.

By Mr. Speaker:

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE.

The following report of the special committee to investigate the cannery at the mouth of the Klamath River was received and ordered printed in the Journal.

To Hon. Edgar C. Levey, Speaker of the Assembly

RESOLUTION.

Relating to the investigation of the cannery at the mouth of the Klamath River.

WHEREAS, The continued existence and operation of the fish cannery at the mouth of the Klamath River is inimical to the best interests of the Klamath River fish and game district, in that commercial fishing resorted to within the river is not beneficial to the run of salmon and steelhead trout; and

WHEREAS, This river is the last great source of supply of salmon and steelhead trout spawn and is necessary to supply the hatcheries of the State with those species of food fishes for artificial propagation; and

WHEREAS, There has been introduced in the last two sessions of the Legislature a bill prohibiting commercial fishing of salmon in the Klamath River; and

WHEREAS, These bills have been defeated by the committees of both houses on the grounds that the said bills would take away the right of private property and would be a condemnation of the cannery operating on the Klamath River without due process of law; and

WHEREAS, It has been suggested by the Fish and Game Commission and members of the Legislature that the said fish cannery operating at the mouth of the Klamath River be purchased by the State of California, so as to prohibit the commercial fishing on the said Klamath River; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Speaker of the Assembly appoint a committee of three members of the Assembly to make an investigation and appraisal of the said cannery located at the mouth of the Klamath River, and the said committee confer with the Fish and Game Commission for the purpose of reaching an amicable adjustment of fair value of the said cannery for the purpose of having the Bureau of Fish and Game of the Department of Natural Resources immediately proceed with the purchase of the said cannery, and that the cost thereof be defrayed out of the fish and game preservation funds; and be it further

Resolved, That the sum of $1,000 is hereby appropriated out of the contingent fund for the purpose of making said investigation and appraisal of the said cannery property located at the mouth of the Klamath River.

COMMITTEE VISITS THE KLAMATH.

Responsive to the foregoing joint resolution your committee, composed of Assemblyman Henry McGuinness, Jerrold L. Seawell and Frank McGinley, made a personal visit to the Fields Cannery at the mouth of the Klamath River and after subsequent interrogation of citizens and anglers, conversant with conditions in the Klamath River country, begs to report as follows:

LAST OF THE SALMON CANNERIES.

The Fields Cannery is situated near the mouth of the Klamath River, adjoining the town of Requa. It is a relatively small institution and is the sole survivor of the former important industry of salmon canning in California.

SEASONS OF OPERATIONS SHORT

The canning season generally begins early in July when the fish enter the river and is ended on September 5 following, when the legal limit for taking fish is reached.

CANNERY OUTPUT DIMINISHES.

For a number of years the output of the Fields Cannery at the mouth of the Klamath has shown a steady falling off. From the year 1925, which was a peak year in production, down to 1929 the amount of salmon canned and reported to the State Fish and Game Commission has been as follows:

1925	12,079	cases averaging 48 pounds each.
1926	7,080	cases averaging 48 pounds each.
1927	3,242	cases averaging 48 pounds each.
1928	2,348	cases averaging 48 pounds each.
1929	2,627	cases averaging 48 pounds each.
1930	5,171	cases averaging 48 pounds each.

PRESENT LAW.

The authority under which the commercial fishing is conducted is found in section 634, paragraph 11, Penal Code, amended 1929

"11. In tidewater in the Klamath River district salmon may be taken between the twenty-ninth day of May and the thirty-first day of December, both dates inclusive, with hook and line, or with gill nets of not less than seven and one-half inch mesh between the first day of July and fifth day of September, both dates inclusive; provided, that no nets may be used between the hours of six a.m. and eight p.m. between the first day of August and the fifth day of September, both dates inclusive. During the netting season there shall be no bag limit but at other times there shall be a bag limit of two per day. For the purpose of this act tidewater on the Klamath River shall be that portion of the river between its mouth and the Douglas Memorial bridge. Above tidewater in the Klamath River district two salmon per day may be taken between the twenty-ninth day of May and the thirty-first day of December with spear and hook and line."

WHERE SALMON SPAWN IS OBTAINED.

For many years the major portion of salmon raising by artificial means have been hatched from salmon spawn taken in the Klamath River by the California Fish and Game Commission. For more than fifteen years past the Klamath has supplied all of the salmon spawn taken by the State in its work of propagating salmon. All of the State's sources of supply previously available have failed because the salmon are fast disappearing.

HOW SPAWN IS DISTRIBUTED

The sole remaining salmon spawn station, operated by the Fish and Game Commission, is located near Hornbrook, Siskiyou County. Salmon spawn here taken is transferred to the State's various fish hatcheries and developed for planting in California's streams

SALMON SPAWN GROWING SCARCER

The amount of salmon spawn taken at the Hornbrook station has steadily decreased since 1925 and is recorded by the Fish and Game Commission as follows:

1926	11,725,000	eggs.
1927	4,621,000	eggs.
1928	5,016,000	eggs.
1930	2,231,545	eggs.

STATE DISCRIMINATES AGAINST SELF

The falling off in the number of salmon eggs taken at the Hornbrook station shows clearly the need for immediate action if the State is to continue to furnish the eggs required for propagation. Undisturbed by commercial fishing, there is no question but that many thousands of salmon would then be available in the Klamath River for the purpose of propagation. At the present time the spectacle is presented of the State of California waiting at its egg-taking station for the salmon the commercial fishermen can not capture

REPRODUCTION OF SALMON IMPERILED.

Salmon is what is technically known as an anadromous fish, that is, although spawned in fresh water it spends most of its life in salt water. It returns to fresh water only for the purpose of reproduction. The salmon spawns once and then dies

It returns to spawn in its parent stream and will not spawn at any other place. Therefore, with the continuation of netting operations the salmon run is seriously interfered with and if continued will ultimately be destroyed

ANGLING IS GREATER ASSET THAN CANNING.

Your committee found that since the adoption of the Initiative Act of 192 declaring the Klamath River a recreational territory, many citizens have purchased home sites upon the river and have erected recreational homes. The river has become widely known for its angling opportunities and thousands of people visit it each summer and fall to enjoy the fishing

AMPLE LAND AVAILABLE FOR RECREATIONISTS

Over 200 miles of the lands bordering the Klamath River are now available for purchase from private owners or may be leased by citizens from the national government The future of the Klamath River as a recreational ground is, in the opinion of your committee, unbounded while its advantage, also to the State of California from an advertising standpoint, can not be excelled.

CONCLUSION

In conclusion, the people of the State of California decree, by an initiative act, adopted in 1924, that the Klamath River shall be maintained forever as a recreational ground free from obstructions inimical to the free passage of fish The maintenance of the cannery in the river together with commercial fishing is, in the opinion of your committee, a menace to the success of this initiative act It is also, in our judgment, a menace to the successful propagation of steelhead as well as salmon, inasmuch as the steelhead are trapped by the commercial fishing activities together with the salmon and thus destroyed

COMMERCIAL FISHING TO BE DISCONTINUED.

For the foregoing reasons your committee recommends that commercial fishing in the Klamath River be forbidden and that the cannery at the mouth of the river be purchased with the funds of the California Fish and Game Commission It is further recommended that the value of the cannery be determined by the Fish and Game Committee of the Assembly.

Respectfully submitted.

HENRY McGUINNESS,
JERROLD L. SEAWELL,
Committee.

BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS.

Scope of Word "Bill."

4. Whenever the word "bill" is used in these rules it shall include constitutional amendments, joint and concurrent resolutions.

Joint and Concurrent Resolutions.

5. Joint resolutions are those which relate to matters connected with the federal government. All other resolutions relating to matters to be treated by both houses of the Legislature are concurrent resolutions.

Resolutions Treated as Bills.

6. Joint resolutions, concurrent resolutions and constitutional amendments shall be treated in all respects as bills; except that they shall be read but one time in each house and that they shall not be deemed bills within the meaning of section 2 of article IV of the constitution, and shall not be referred to the Committee on Introduction of Bills, and shall not require a vote to authorize their introduction. As in the case of bills, they shall be engrossed in the house in which they originate before being voted upon.

PREPARATION AND INTRODUCTION OF BILLS.

Title of Bill.

7. The title of every bill introduced shall convey an accurate idea of the contents of the bill and shall be indicative of the scope of the act and the object to be accomplished. In amending a code section, the mere reference to the section by number shall not be deemed sufficient.

Division of Bill Into Sections.

8. Bills amending more than one section of existing laws shall contain a separate section for each section amended.

Bills which are not amendatory of existing laws shall be divided into short sections, where this can be done without destroying the sense of any particular section, to the end that future amendments may be made without the necessity of setting forth and repeating sections of unnecessary length.

Changes in Existing Law to be Marked by Author.

9. In case of a bill amending a code section or a general law, any new matter shall be underlined and any matter to be omitted shall have a single horizontal line through the center. When printed the new matter shall be printed in italics and the matter to be omitted shall be printed in canceled or "strikeout" type.

Committee on Revision and Printing to Examine Bills When Introduced.

10. Unless otherwise ordered by the house in which the bill was introduced, all bills before being printed shall be immediately sent to the Committee on Revision and Printing, which shall examine the bill, with the aid of the Legislative Counsel Bureau. The committee shall have authority to correct any clerical error such as in orthography, adding or correcting the enacting clause, mistakes in numbering sections and references thereto, errors in grammar, phraseology, or in the form of the bill, but the attention of the author shall be called to any change made No bill which bears the stamp of the Legislative Counsel Bureau showing that before introduction it has been examined as to form, shall be sent to the Committee on Revision and Printing Whenever any provision of law or of the rules shall refer to the Senate Committee on Printing, or Engrossment, Enrollment and Printing, such reference shall be deemed to mean the Committee on Revision and Printing, provided for in these rules.

NOTE—The submission of bill copy to Legislative Counsel Bureau for approval of form before introduction will expedite its course.

Bills Introduced to Indicate Changes in Existing Laws.

11. The Committee on Revision and Printing shall see to it that rules 7 and 9 of these joint rules are observed by the author, and that the bill shall not be sent to the printer until the provisions of these rules have been carried out.

Reports of Committee on Revision and Printing.

12. The Committee on Revision and Printing shall return to the Secretary of the Senate or Chief Clerk of the Assembly all bills in the order in which they were sent to it, but shall not retain any bill for longer than three legislative days, unless otherwise ordered.

Printing of the Daily File.

20. A daily file of bills ready for consideration shall be printed each day for each house, and copies of the file of each house shall be distributed each day to all of the members of both houses.

Printing of History.

21. Each house shall cause to be printed on Monday of each week, during the session, a complete History of all bills, joint or concurrent resolutions and constitutional amendments originating in or acted upon by the respective houses.

Such History shall show the action taken upon each measure up to and including the legislative day preceding its issuance.

For each legislative day intervening there shall be printed a Supplementary History showing the action taken upon any measure since the issuance of the complete History. A regular form shall be prescribed and no other form shall be used.

Immediately following the adjournment for the constitutional recess the History shall be compiled and printed to date of recess.

Authority for Printing Orders.

22. The Superintendent of State Printing shall not print for use of either house any matter other than provided by law or by these rules, except upon a written order signed by the Secretary of the Senate or the Chief Clerk of the Assembly. The Secretary of the Senate and the Chief Clerk of the Assembly may also, when necessity requires it, order certain matter printed in advance of the regular order, by the issuance of a rush order.

RECORD OF BILLS.

Secretary and Chief Clerk to Keep Register.

23 The Secretary of the Senate and the Chief Clerk of the Assembly shall keep a register, in which shall be recorded every action taken by the Senate and Assembly on every bill, concurrent or joint resolution or constitutional amendment

Secretary and Chief Clerk Shall Endorse Bills.

24. The Secretary of the Senate and the Chief Clerk of the Assembly shall endorse on every original bill a statement of any action taken by the Senate and Assembly.

ACTION IN ONE HOUSE ON BILL TRANSMITTED FROM THE OTHER.

Bills Read and Referred to Committee.

25. When a Senate bill has been received by the Assembly or an Assembly bill by the Senate, with a message announcing that the same has passed the Senate or Assembly, such bill shall be read the first time by the Secretary or the Chief Clerk and referred to a standing committee by the presiding officer, unless otherwise ordered by the house.

After a Bill Has Been Passed by the Senate or Assembly.

26. When a bill (if it be a Senate bill) has been received from the Senate by the Assembly, after its passage, or (if it be an Assembly bill) has been received from the Assembly by the Senate after its passage, it shall be taken up by the Senate or Assembly, as the case may be, under the regular order of business ("Senate messages" or "Assembly messages"), read the first time, unless otherwise ordered by the house, and shall then be assigned to the proper committee, unless otherwise ordered, who shall act upon the same as soon as practicable, and report the same back to the Senate or Assembly forthwith, and the chairman of each committee is charged with observance of this rule.

Special File.

27. On the second day after the close of the recess provided for in section 2, article IV of the constitution, the Senate and Assembly shall each adopt and provide a special file upon which shall be placed: In the Senate, only Assembly bills that have passed the Assembly; and in the Assembly, only Senate bills that have passed the Senate. Such special file shall be taken up at two o'clock p.m. of each day in the Assembly and at two o'clock and thirty minutes p.m. of each day in the Senate and be considered at least one hour and a half after being so taken up unless its consideration shall be completed in a lesser period of time. This rule shall not be suspended in either house except by a three-fourths vote of such house.

REPORTS FROM ONE HOUSE TO THE OTHER AS TO ACTION ON BILL.

Bill or Resolution in One House, Rejected in the Other, Requires Notice.

28. When a bill or resolution which shall have passed one house is rejected by the other, notice thereof shall be given immediately to the house in which the same shall have passed.

Each House to Transmit Papers.

29. Each house shall transmit to the other papers on which any bill or resolution shall be founded.

Endorsement of Date of Introduction.

13. Bills introduced in either house shall be endorsed with the date of introduction.

Printing of Amendments.

15. All bills amended by either house shall be immediately reprinted; in the case new matter is added by the amendment such new matter shall be printed in italics in the printed bill, and in the case of matter being omitted, the matter to be omitted shall be printed in type bearing a horizontal line through the center and commonly known as "strikeout" type. When a bill is amended in either house, the first or previous markings shall be omitted. When a bill amendatory of a code section or general law is engrossed, all figures or symbols shall be removed.

Distribution of Bills During Constitutional Recess.

16. All requests for mailing or distribution by the members shall be filed with the Secretary of the Senate or Chief Clerk of the Assembly, who shall compile the same with the elimination of duplication as a general mailing list. The distribution of bills, constitutional amendments, joint and concurrent resolutions shall be systemized as follows: Members' clerks and legislative officers' files, one hundred fifty full sets; to authors, fifty copies of their own bills; accredited newspaper representatives, twenty-five; to public and law libraries, newspapers, county officials, and other civic, commercial, fraternal or industrial organizations as the Secretary of the Senate and Chief Clerk of the Assembly may compile from the recommendations of the members of both houses, one thousand two hundred copies; to State officers, State Library and Secretary of State, two hundred copies; to legislative committees, bill room files and public requests—confined to single copies of bills designated—one thousand copies. The State Printer shall cause to be printed in the standard form adopted by the Senate and Assembly as many copies of all bills, constitutional amendments and joint or concurrent resolutions as may be necessary to conform to the provisions of this rule

A similar number and distribution shall be made of the Semifinal History and Final Calendar.

17. Following the recess, new bills introduced shall be forwarded to the public libraries and law libraries only, and one copy each of amended bills as may be requested. 33. Each house shall act in the usual course upon all bills that may be made to take effect immediately, under the provisions of section 1, article IV of the constitution.

Passage of Urgency Provisions in Bills.

34. Upon the third reading of an act which is an urgency measure within the meaning of section 1, article IV of the State constitution, the presiding officer shall direct that the section of said act setting forth the facts constituting the necessity for such urgency (which shall be known as the urgency section) be then read and put to vote. The question shall be thus stated: "Shall this section, setting forth the urgency features of this bill, be passed?" If upon such final vote two-thirds of all the members elected to the house in which the vote is being taken shall not vote in the affirmative, no further action shall be taken on the bill; but, in case an identical bill without such an emergency clause be again introduced into such house, such bill shall be placed on file without reference to any committee.

Passage of Bills Preceding Final Adjournment.

36. After a bill shall have passed both houses, it shall be duly enrolled after being carefully compared, by the engrossing and enrolling clerk and committee of the house in which it originated, with the engrossed bill, as passed in the two houses. 37. After a bill shall have been thus passed in each house, it shall be presented by the engrossing and enrolling committee of the house in which it originated to the Governor of the State for his approval (if being first indorsed by the presiding officers of the two houses, and by the Secretary of the Senate and the Chief Clerk of the Assembly). Two of the members comprising such committee from each house shall be selected from those voting with the majority on the point about which the difference has arisen, and the other member from each house of such committee shall be selected from the minority, in the event there is a minority vote. The first Senator named on the free conference committee shall act as chairman of the committee from the Senate, and the first Assemblyman named on such committee shall act as chairman of the committee from the House, and the chairmen thus selected shall arrange the time and place of all meetings and prepare or direct the preparation of reports. The Committee on Free Conference shall report to both the Senate and Assembly.

Committee on Free Conference.

41. In every case of an amendment of a bill agreed to in one house and dissented from in the other, if either house shall request a conference and appoint a committee to confer, the other house shall appoint a like committee; and such committee shall meet at a convenient hour, to be agreed upon by the respective chairman of the committees.

Report of Committee on Free Conference.

42. The report of the Committee on Free Conference shall not be subject to amendment, and if either house refuse to adopt such report the conferees may be discharged and other conferees appointed.

It shall require the affirmative vote of not less than four of the members constituting the committee to agree upon a report No member who has served on a Committee on Free Conference shall be appointed a member of another Committee on Free Conference on the same bill.

When Conference Committee Report Is in Order.

43. The presentation of the report of a Committee on Free Conference shall always be in order, except when the Journal is being read or a question of order or a motion to adjourn is pending, or during roll call, and, when received, the question of proceeding to the consideration of the report, if raised, shall be immediately passed upon, and shall be determined without debate.

DEAR SIR: In the name of the First Filipino National Convention in America, I respectfully submit to you herewith a copy of the resolution passed by the convention, petitioning the California State Legislature for the creation of a joint commission of Americans and Filipinos to make a study of the Filipino situation in California with the view to making it possible to establish a permanent commission for the Filipino department to serve the best interests of all concerned.

The First Filipino National Convention in America keenly feels the necessity and advisability of forming the joint commission of Americans and Filipinos for the solution of the Filipino problems which affect greatly California's economic and social life. The joint commission will be of tremendous service in paving the way toward better and more enduring American-Filipino relations. We shall highly appreciate any courtesy that you may extend us in the consideration of our resolution, and we desire to assure you that the Filipinos in California are always and ever ready to render their services for the good of California.

Hoping for your generous attention and reply and wishing you the best of success for your administration of the California State Legislature Assembly, I beg to remain

Very truly yours,

WHEREAS, The First Filipino National Convention in America firmly advocates fair play and square deal for the solution of the Filipino problems by seeing all matters involved in a comprehensive way and by making sacrifices in favor of tranquillity and amity; and

WHEREAS, There is urgent need for all the people directly and indirectly concerned to come together and in all sincerity speak frankly and kindly face to face in the utmost spirit of mutual cooperation; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the First Filipino National Convention in America, under the direction of the president, respectfully petitions the Governor of the State of California and the members of the California State Legislature for the creation of a joint commission of Americans and Filipinos to study carefully and humanly the Filipino situation in California in all its phases, to the end that a permanent commission for a Filipino department will be officially established for the best interests of all concerned, and be it further

By Mr. Kline:

RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA, November 6, 1930.

Hon. Chester M. Kline,
San Jacinto, California.

DEAR SIR: At a regular meeting of the advisory committee of the Riverside County Chamber of Commerce, held in the courthouse, Riverside, at 10.30 o'clock a.m., on Tuesday, October 28, 1930, it was moved by Mr. J. L. Andrews of Corona, seconded by Mr. A. M. Lewis of Riverside, and carried:

That we be in favor of and recommend that steps be taken to establish a five (5) year closed season on deer in the San Jacinto mountains.

Yours very truly,

RIVERSIDE COUNTY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.
JAMES L. DAVIS, Secretary.

By Mr. Jespersen:

SAN LUIS OBISPO, CALIFORNIA, January 19, 1931.

Hon. Chris N. Jespersen,
Sacramento, California.

DEAR MR. JESPERSEN: At the regular January semiannual meeting of the San Luis Gun and Rod Club, the opening date of the trout season in the coast territory applying principally to San Luis Obispo and Monterey counties, was discussed, and a resolution, unanimously passed, recommending that the opening of the season be changed from the date of May 1st to April 1st.

In the district mentioned, most of the trout streams are small and conditions quite different from other sections of the State. The water is usually cleared up by April 1st, and in most streams the flow decreases and moss accumulates early in the season.

Our main interest and reason for favoring April 1st as the opening date, is that the month of April is most favorable for fishing. It is difficult for the officers to protect all the small streams, with the result that the poachers clean up the streams during mouth of April. Thus law observers find the streams about exhausted after May 1st.

We shall greatly appreciate your interest in this matter, and any action you may take to accomplish the change of the opening date, in which we are much interested.

Thanking you very much for past favors and with best wishes, we are,

Yours very sincerely,

SAN LUIS GUN AND ROD CLUB.
W. D. BUTLER, M. D., President.
WM. M. DUFF, Secretary.

COMMUNICATION.

By Mr. Speaker:

LOMPOC, CALIFORNIA, January 16, 1931.

Mr. Edgar C. Levey,
Sacramento, California.

HONORABLE SIR: The Santa Barbara County teachers in convention assembled desire your aid in promoting education in this State. We need legislation on the following propositions:

1. High school apportionment, for attendance in junior high schools.
2. Luxury, severance, and inheritance taxes for benefit of the schools.
3. Permitting high schools to vote an increase of tax over the 75 per cent limit, as elementary schools do.
4. Teachers Retirement Law, whereby teachers pay in at least $50 a year and receive same back if they stop teaching before they are entitled to a pension

5. Tenure Law—a three or four-year probation period, then a four-year contract instead of a life job.
6. Against State printed textbooks for high schools.

I am yours sincerely,

P. H. BENSON, President,
Santa Barbara Teachers Association.

By Mr. Speaker:

THE AMERICAN LEGION,
INDIANAPOLIS, INDIANA, January 17, 1931.

The Honorable Mr. Levey,
Speaker of the House of Representatives,
Sacramento, California.

MY DEAR MR LEVEY: In view of the pending legislation in the California Legislature, in behalf of a State Home for Ex-service Nurses, I am taking the liberty of calling your attention to the following resolution, which was adopted by our convention in Boston last October:

"WHEREAS, At the present time there is no government hospital for women in the State of California; and

WHEREAS, There is great need for such an institution; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the American Legion, Department of California, go on record as favoring the establishment of a Hospital for Women Veterans in the State of California; and be it further

Resolved, That the proper committees of the American Legion be instructed to use their best efforts to secure the construction of adequate hospital facilities for the care of honorably discharged women veterans of the World War."

In view of this much needed and worthy legislation for ex-service nurses, I take pleasure in calling to your attention the fact that this has the endorsement not only of the Department of California of the American Legion, but of our entire national organization.

I am hoping that this will receive your unqualified support, and that you will be glad to go into this important matter with any committees that may happen to call upon you.

Very truly yours,

FRANK E SAMUEL, Assistant National Adjutant.

PRESENTATION OF PETITION.

The following petition was presented, and ordered printed in the Journal:

By Messrs. West and Nielsen:

A RESOLUTION.

WHEREAS, Economic conditions in this country have not been satisfactory for some months, resulting in an alarming number of citizens being deprived of employment and thereby rendering it increasingly difficult for them to properly support their families, and causing more and more of these families to be thrown upon the mercies of their more fortunate neighbors or upon organized charity; and

WHEREAS, It has become well known that a great proportion of this serious condition of unemployment has been caused by the influx of hundreds of thousands of aliens, who have entered this country illegally, coupled with the fact that great corporations and large employers of labor have adopted a plan of hiring these aliens at greatly reduced wages, thus eliminating the white American citizen from the opportunity of employment at a wage commensurate with our well established standard of living; and

WHEREAS, At present there are several million persons in this country out of employment, thousands of whom are members of the United Spanish War Veterans or Veterans of the World War or other campaigns in which the United States has engaged, and statistics now show that there are at least 2,500,000 aliens in this country illegally, most of whom are of the unassimilable type and prone to accept labor at wages which white American citizens cannot consider and continue to maintain a reasonable standard of living; and

WHEREAS, It is evident that, if these aliens were barred from entry into this country, or having entered illegally, were ferreted out and deported forthwith, and if employers generally were enjoined by law from hiring any but American citizens; with the burden of proof of citizenship resting upon the shoulders of the alien seeking a continuance of residence, with these measures energetically adopted, all unemployed American citizens in this country would be able to secure the necessary employment without delay; and

WHEREAS, This is a situation wherein the members of the United Spanish War Veterans, composed of volunteers who offered their services willingly when the need came for the Spanish-American War, the Philippine Insurrection and the China Relief Expedition, can again render a signal service to the people of this country by sponsoring a movement to improve working conditions in this country by expelling the alien, thus forcing upon the employer the necessity of hiring American citizens only, and another service in that, with the troubles incident to unemployment removed, the country would at once observe an abatement of the crimes and social problems now so prevalent; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That J. Holland Laidler Camp No. 5, Department of California, United Spanish War Veterans, in regular meeting assembled, does hereby demand that city, county and State officers inaugurate the fullest measure of activity to bring about the expulsion of the alien hordes now demoralizing the workmen of the country and even jeopardizing the stability of the government itself; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to: Governor James Rolph, Jr.; Senators Hiram W. Johnson and Samuel M. Shortridge; Congressman-elect Charles F. Curry; National Headquarters, the United Spanish War Veterans; Department Headquarters, Department of California, The United Spanish War Veterans, The Veterans' Affiliated Council of Sacramento County; to all local veteran organizations; the county board of supervisors; the city council of Sacramento; the local press, and to Senator J. M. Inman and Assemblymen Roy J. Nielsen and Percy G. West, local representatives in the State Legislature

Approved at the regular meeting of the Camp at Memorial Hall, Courthouse, this fifteenth day of January, 1931.

Attest: HENRY H. BROWN, Adjutant. RUSH U. ALBRIGHT, Commander.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE.

The following report of the committee appointed in accordance with Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 41 of the forty-eighth session of the Legislature for the purpose of studying joint highway laws was received, and ordered printed in the Journal:

SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, October 1, 1930.

Hon. C. C. Young, Governor.
State of California,
Sacramento, California.

DEAR SIR: Your joint committee of the Senate and Assembly appointed pursuant to Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 41 of the forty-eighth session of the Legislature of the State of California (Statutes 1929, chapter 73) for the purpose of studying joint highway laws of the State of California and making recommendations concerning any changes therein, and to make such recommendations for the financing of joint highway districts, and directed to report back and transmit its report to yourself not later than the first day of October, 1930, reports as follows:

This committee has conducted public hearings over a period of several months in various cities of the State of California, and after entertaining the views of those persons interested in the problem under consideration of this committee, and to the engineers and attorneys at law who have made an intense study of the Joint Highway District Act, and its administration, has arrived at the following conclusion, and desires to make the following recommendations.

LEGISLATIVE RECOMMENDATIONS.

It is recommended that the statutory provision for the creation, organization, and government of joint highway districts (Statutes 1917, chapter 52 as amended) be amended so that the following results are obtained:

1. That the title to the above act be amended to comply with section 24 of article IV of the constitution of the State of California. That is, that the title be made sufficiently broad to cover the provisions of the act.

2. That in the organization of a joint highway district the organization of a district be accomplished immediately, rather than being a preliminary organization as now provided with a permanent organization to follow.

3. That counties be enabled to contribute to the cost of the improvement undertaken by the joint highway district in a less restricted manner.

4. That the provisions of the act relating to the levying of an assessment upon real property within the district be redrafted to provide for the necessary machinery therefor and so drafted as to become an optional method of financing the cost of the improvement contemplated by a joint highway district.

5. That the provisions for the issue of revenue bonds in the existing act be amended to provide for the issuance of a bond that will be a general obligation of the district or be a lien upon an unpaid assessment list in each county. That this provision of the act be amended to set up adequate machinery to enable the district or the counties constituting the district to properly incur a bonded indebtedness.

6. That the powers of the board of directors of a joint highway district be enlarged to include a provision that the board of directors may pass a resolution that will be conclusive evidence in any condemnation suit brought by said board of:

A. The public necessity for the proposed improvement.
B. That the property is necessary therefor, and
C. That such proposed public improvement is planned or located in a manner that will be most compatible with the greatest public good and the least private injury.

That the board of directors may meet any place within the State of California; that the board of directors may establish a contingent fund out of which any preliminary expenses may be paid.

FINANCIAL RECOMMENDATIONS.

Your committee in its study to ascertain a method of financing joint highway districts and after obtaining the views of various State and county officials in the matter recommends that a direct appropriation be made from the General Fund of the State of California for the purpose of enabling the State of California to participate in the cost of improvements to be made by joint highway districts. It is recommended that any such appropriation be sufficient to permit the State of California to assume a fair participation in joint highway district ventures and that said appropriation be a recurrent appropriation or that a definite policy be adopted of making a biennial appropriation so that the construction and maintenance of public highways under the method provided for by the Joint Highway District Act may progress in an orderly and systematic manner.

Your committee has caused to be compiled statutes of the several states of the United States similar in intent to the Joint Highway District Act which your committee files herewith for your information.

Your committee desires at this time to acknowledge the splendid cooperation in its labors, and in the various cities throughout the State, of many public officials and private citizens interested in this work, and also to particularly acknowledge the valuable help, advice and cooperation of Mr Fred B. Wood, Legislative Counsel Bureau, C. C. Carlton and Richard Lazarus, of the Department of Public Works, Mr. Ben Blow, of the National Automobile Club, Mr. John B. Piatt of Santa Rosa, J. Allen Davis, of the Automobile Club of Southern California, C. C. Cottrell of the California State Automobile Association, Mary R. Schwab, attorney-at-law, Donald C. Young, attorney-at-law, of San Francisco, California, Carl F. Mow, Redding, California, the chairman of the Joint Highway District Study Committee and the California State Chamber of Commerce.

Signed this first day of October, 1930.

REPORT OF THE ASSEMBLY COMMITTEE ON LEGISLATIVE PROCEDURE.

To the Assembly of the State of California:

We, your committee, beg leave to report as follows:

The committee has held several meetings and both as a committee and as individuals the members have made a study and investigation of the legislative procedure of the various legislative bodies of the different states in the Union. Also we have attempted to determine wherein the procedure of the Assembly of our State could be improved.

In addition to our meetings as a committee, we have sent members of our committee to the meetings of the American Legislators Association at Memphis, Tennessee, in 1929, and at Cleveland, Ohio, in 1930. Hon. Robert L. Patterson and Hon. Roscoe J. Anderson attended the Memphis, Tennessee, sessions in 1929; and Hon. Robert L. Patterson attended the session in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1930.

We have found that the American Legislators Association is a valuable organization, and is becoming more valuable each year. The national convention meetings are devoted to a study of problems that are common to legislators, that is, problems dealing primarily with procedure and with research bureaus or departments that are of aid to the legislators. The American Legislators Association, however, does not take up issues as regards the advisability or nonadvisability of adopting certain legislation. Our committee recommends that the Legislature of California cooperate in every way possible with the American Legislators Association and recommends that each member of the California Legislature become and remain an active member of the association.

For the past two years, one of the members of our Assembly, Robert L. Patterson, has been the president of the American Legislators Association, and Mr. Patterson, in conjunction with the other officers and members of the American Legislators Association, has put in a large amount of time at great personal expense in making this association of value to the legislators of the country; and the interstate legislative reference bureau inaugurated by the American Legislators Association is destined to be of great value to every legislator, who makes a study of the subject he is handling and ascertains the experience of other states along that or similar lines.

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL BUREAU.

We find that the other states, who employ a legislative counsel bureau, as we do, make it a practice to have the chief of that bureau named by the officers of the Legislature on the theory that it is a distinctive legislative service, and therefore the head of that bureau should be responsible to the Legislature alone.

While we are not registering any complaint of the service in the past rendered by that bureau, yet we do point out that the present system employed in California might bring about a situation in which there would not be cooperation between that bureau and the Legislature and we suggest that the law be changed in such a way so that immediately upon the organization of the Legislature the Speaker of the Assembly in conjunction with the Speaker pro tempore and the President pro tempore of the Senate, together with the Judiciary Committee of the Senate, meet and designate the individual who will hold the position as head of the Legislative Counsel Bureau.

GOVERNOR'S VETO.

We also find that some of the states permit the majority to override a Governor's veto, rather than requiring a two-thirds vote as our State does.

We can see no reason why the Executive Department of the government should have such great authority over the Legislature to permit a majority of each house to control in such matters.

We believe it is safe to say that if a Governor would actually point out serious defects in legislation passed when he returned the bill to the Legislature with his veto that no house would muster a majority vote to pass it in the face of such difficulties. While on the other hand if the Legislature felt at all times that the responsibility rested upon it in the final analysis we believe that there would be less temptation to pass the responsibility down to the Governor, and that this would tend to make a more responsible Legislature. Therefore we recommend the necessary changes to give the Legislature the authority to override a veto by the majority vote of all of the members elected to each house. The idea suggested herein is not new and untried for a majority is all that is required in a number of the states including Alabama, Arkansas, Maryland, Kentucky, New Jersey, and West Virginia. While less than two-thirds but more than a majority is required in such other states as Delaware, Nebraska, and Ohio, Rhode Island requires three-fifths of the members present and voting.

ROLL CALLS.

We find that a large percentage of the time of the Assembly while in session is taken up with roll calls, and in fact it appears that the amount of time consumed by roll calls in the Assembly of California is approximately 30 per cent of the total time that the Assembly is in regular session.

Therefore we suggest and recommend that an investigation be made to determine the feasibility of installing an automatic roll call in order to conserve this large amount of time, as it appears self-evident that the installation of such a system would be an investment that would bring enormous dividends, not only in the saving of thousands of dollars in money to the State, but also in the conserving of time of the members of the Legislature, thereby enabling them to put more time upon committee work and other important matters.

PERMANENT COMMITTEES.

Another important factor which tends to make the work of the Assembly less satisfactory is the fact that our committees are temporary, and that they have had no opportunity to investigate the subject matter of governmental phases before them. The committees as now conducted, that is, with the present procedure of our Legislature, are frequently nothing more or less than the judges of the debates on the different bills before them.

Our committees now hold their hearings, listen to the contending forces and are compelled to act upon a vast number of bills without being advised as to the merits or demerits of those bills except by specially interested partisans

We believe it would be more satisfactory, and that the people of the State would be better represented and fairer and better legislation would be secured if the committees were more permanent in character, and that, instead of merely holding hearings and meetings to vote recommendations upon measures before them they should be vested with the duty of investigating all governmental matters relating to the problems coming before such committees.

Such a change will be difficult to effect unless we modify to a material extent the organization of the Legislature. The suggested changes could be brought about in the following manner:

First. An Assemblyman should hold office for at least four years.

Second. The members should be paid a salary that would enable them to do practically full time work.

Third. Very soon following the election the Legislature should organize by the election of its officers and the appointment of its committees, and a member appointed to a committee should serve on that committee during the full term for which he is elected.

Fourth. After organization, the committees should start to work and make a comprehensive study of that part of the State government and of the legislation in which that committee is naturally interested. As, for instance, the Committee on Banks and Banking should be thoroughly informed as to the banking laws and the conditions of the banking business throughout the State. And likewise the Committee on Universities, Normal Schools, and all other matters of that kind should proceed to master their subject so that they would be ready to make a comprehensive report to the Legislature when it convened.

The Legislature, after its organization and appointment of its committees, should not convene again in regular session and especially not for the passage of bills until its various committees have had the opportunity to make the studies suggested herein and prepare their reports. Such reports by the various committees should be required before the passage of new legislation, other than emergency legislation.

DEPARTMENT COMMITTEES

If we in California are to retain the present system with the Governor's cabinet and the thirteen departments in the executive branch of the government it will be well to arrange the committees in the Legislature in recognition of that fact. Such committees could be so arranged that the committee corresponding to the most important department could be larger, and then subcommittees could be created whose duty it would be to especially look into the work of certain particular divisions of that department.

GOVERNMENTAL EFFICIENCY AND ECONOMY.

The adoption of the plan of a practically full time Legislature and permanent committees, together with the other features proposed, which would enable the Legislature to accept the responsibility intended to be placed upon it, would, we believe, result in: Better prepared legislation, less experimental legislation, less duplication by departments, and great saving in governmental expense.

The cost of the legislative department today is about four-tenths of 1 per cent of the total State expenditure, so that the additional cost of the Legislature according to the plan suggested herein would still leave the total legislative cost a small item in comparison with the grand total of the State government and it is safe to assume that with such a Legislature as planned it would then be unnecessary to create from time to time the great number of special commissions for investigation and report upon various problems or proposed legislation, and it is further safe to assume that the savings from the abolishment of special commissions and the duplication in governmental agencies and other improvements that could be brought about through the plan proposed that the saving in cost to the government would be far in excess of the additional cost for a full time Legislature.

FULL TIME LEGISLATURE DEFINED.

By a full time Legislature we mean practically a full time service of the individual members, and we do not mean the Legislature as an entire body must necessarily be in session any more than at the present time

But we do mean that the committees themselves will be constantly at work and that the committee members will then become expert in their knowledge of the government relating to the subject matter of the committee of which such individual is a member, and in short, we propose to abolish the present haphazard system and adopt a plan whereby the responsibility will be definitely placed and we will thereby restore basic constitutional principles of government.

NECESSARY CHANGES

Your committee realizes that in order to bring about the changes proposed it will be necessary to: Adopt amendments to the constitution, pass new legislation, adopt the necessary rules by the Legislature itself, and by each house.

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL.

January 23, 1931.

To His Excellency, Honorable James Rolph, Jr.,
Governor of the State of California, and
The Members of the Forty-ninth Session of the Legislature.

SIRS:

In accordance with Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 20, the Joint Legislative Committee on Taxation has the honor to transmit herewith its report.

Upon the basis of the committee's study of the tax system of California it is recommended:

Recommendation No. I.

A That for the present the existing system of State taxation involving "Separation of Sources" be retained.

B That the Legislature be empowered to make such further classifications and subclassifications of utility groups taxable upon their gross receipts for State purposes as may be necessary in order to achieve a more equitable distribution of the tax burden

C That the State Board of Equalization extend its studies with respect to the average tax burden on common property and the tax burden on utilities in order that more accurate comparisons between the tax burden on common property and the property of utility groups may be ascertained.

Recommendation No. II.

A. That a research department, consisting of technical experts in the fields of economics, valuation procedure and taxation, be created within the State Board of Equalization to operate under the coordinate control of the Governor, the Director of Finance and the State Board of Equalization, the function of which shall be to gather facts concerning all matters appertaining to revenue and taxation and submit such facts and recommendations thereon to the Legislature.

B That the name of the State Board of Equalization be changed to "State Tax and Equalization Board."

Recommendation No. III.

That the constitution be amended to eliminate the requirement that the counties contribute an amount equal to the contribution of the State for elementary schools and a sum twice the amount contributed by the State for the support of high schools.

* Appointed as member of Assembly, elected as Senator from Sixth District November 6, 1930.

Recommendation No IV.

That the board of supervisors of the county wherein school districts are located be empowered to review and revise the budgets of school districts.

Recommendation No. V.

That the research bureau, herein referred to, give consideration to devising ways and means of relieving the present excessive tax burden borne by homes, farms and all other real estate taxed locally.

Among other things attention is directed to the following suggestions which this committee believes will aid materially in accomplishing the above:

(a) Proper tax limitation methods;

(b) Transference to the State of certain general governmental functions now performed locally,

(c) Determination of proper sources of new revenue;

Recommendation No VI.

That the Legislature of the State take appropriate action designed to secure an amendment to section 5219 of the revised Statutes of the United States so that the State will be permitted greater latitude in the taxation of national banks.

Recommendation No. VII.

That the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act be so amended that the tax base will be increased by providing that the allowance for depletion in the case of oil and gas wells shall be based upon the provisions of the Federal Revenue Act of 1928 and other amendments to improve the administration of the act be made.

INTRODUCTION.

Due to the impoverished condition of the finances of this committee, caused by a failure of the appropriation made for it, it would have been difficult, indeed, to have compiled this report without material assistance from many sources. To accomplish this, many individuals and groups have generously assisted the committee in its labors of investigation. To these the committee desires to express grateful acknowledgment for the valuable assistance extended.

The committee is particularly indebted to the assessors of the State and their legislative committee, the offices of the State Board of Equalization; the Controller; the State Banking Department and Railroad Commission.

Individuals who have been more than responsive to the request of the committee for counsel and assistance and devoted to the committee's work a generous portion of their time and service, cannot go unmentioned. These are:

Dixwell L. Pierce, Secretary of the State Board of Equalization; Fred B. Wood, Legislative Counsel, Assessor Russell L. Wolden, and his executive secretary, Harold Boyd, San Francisco; A. G. Mott, chief engineer, California Railroad Commission; Lester S. Ready, consulting engineer of the Railroad Commission, J. A. Crumb, statistician, State Banking Department, Von T. Ellsworth, research director; Lowell Miller, attorney, and Anthony Bledsoe, statistician, all of the staff of the California Farm Bureau Federation, Edward F. Treadwell of the California Constitutional Commission, Professor Carl Plehn, University of California; Professor Roger Traynor, University of California, and Vincent K. Butler, of the California Bar.

The resolution creating the Joint Legislative Committee on Taxation directs that the following program be carried forward, namely,

(1) An investigation and report of the 1927-29 California Tax Commission's several recommendations;

(2) An independent investigation and report of the entire system of local and general taxation of the State and the relative burden borne by all property in proportion to its value.

The 1927–1929 California Tax Commission, under the direction of Dr. Robert Murray Haig of Columbia University, made a searching investigation into the present system of taxation submitting its recommendations in a report filed with Governor C. C. Young, March 5, 1929. This report proposed a complete revision of the existing tax structure of the State with these general ends in view.[1]

[1] Final report of the California Tax Commission submitted to the Governor of California March 5, 1929, Sacramento, California State Printing Office 1929, XXIV, 317 pages. Hereafter this document will be referred to as the 1929 report.

(1) To bring about a more fair and equitable distribution of the tax burden;

(2) To collect from the corporations and public utilities doing business within the State a full and just contribution, but one which will not be unduly repressive or competitively disadvantageous;

(3) To remove real estate from its present exposed position where increased expenditures are almost inevitably translated into increased taxes on real property, resulting in unduly heavy burdens particularly on the farmers and small home owners;

(4) To exact a reasonable contribution from persons resident within the borders of the State without imposing burdens which will make residence in the State unattractive; and

(5) To promote the interest of the citizens of the State in exercising an intelligent control over the expenditures of the State and all of its political subdivisions, and to enable that control to be exercised without undertaxing special groups of taxpayers.

Hereafter this commission will be referred to as the 1927 commission or simply "the commission".[1] From the exhaustive analysis which it made of the tax system of the State, the 1927 commission became convinced that the present tax system, which was established in 1910, has outlived its usefulness and should be abandoned. The 1927 commission criticises the present system in the following language:[2]

"Its faults are serious and fundamental. It discriminates against certain localities and favors others by the manner in which it withdraws property for State taxation which should properly be subject to local tax levies. It supplies the State with revenues in amounts determined by factors quite unrelated to its fiscal needs. The problem of adjusting the rates of the gross receipts taxes on public utilities so as to equalize their burden with the burden on common property is difficult, if not impossible, to solve and is provocative of disputes pregnant with unfortunate political consequences. It is impossible to adjust the rates on gross receipts so as to achieve a tolerable degree of equity as between company and company. Its advantages of simplicity and fiscal productivity are purchased at too high a price.

"The commission favors the gradual transformation of the present tax system, which is essentially an impersonal objective property tax, into a system consisting of three main divisions as follows: (1) An objective property tax of more restricted scope than the present property tax, imposed where the property is located, to serve primarily as a source of local revenue. (2) A comprehensive business tax, measured by net income arising from business carried on within the borders of the State, to serve chiefly as a source of State revenue, and (3) A personal contribution from each person resident within the State, apportioned according to ability to pay, the yield being divided between the State and the localities. Such a system would comprehend no measures which have not been thoroughly tested by experience in other states."

The 1927 commission proposed ten recommendations to make effectual their tax reform program. These recommendations with the commission's accompanying summarized comments follow:[3]

"First. That the operative real estate of all public utilities be valued by the State and then returned to the counties to be added to the local tax rolls and subjected to the same tax rates as are imposed upon the real estate of corporations and individuals. This step will eliminate the necessity of computing a rate to be imposed on public utilities because the rate will be determined automatically when the local property rates are struck. It will remove the cause for complaint arising from the counties which now suffer from the withdrawal of the operative property of the public utilities. It will almost completely solve the problem of the exemption of publicly-owned public utilities. These advantages will be gained at the cost of a considerable but not unreasonable increase in administrative difficulty. There must be a State assessment of the utility property returned, a State determination of the percentage of full value at which the utility property shall be added to the local rolls, and a distribution of the utility property to the various taxing districts of the State.

"Second. That a franchise tax be imposed by the State on all public utilities measured by their net income in the same manner and at the same rate as the similar tax on banks and other corporations. The effect of this action will be to establish ultimately a uniform business franchise tax on all corporations, the public utility corporations being treated exactly as other corporations. Another effect will be to strengthen materially the legal position of the new tax on banks.

"Third That the State levy a direct tax on property in general, including the real estate of the public utilities, to make good any deficiencies in revenue which may arise after the adjustments herein recommended are made. Such a direct State tax will tend to increase the interest of the ordinary citizen and property owner in State expenditures. It will supply the State with an elastic element in its revenue system which will be of substantial assistance in scientific budgeting. Together with the step suggested in the first recommendation, it will give the State the opportunity to perform a badly needed service in supervising the local assessment of property. The commission estimates that such direct tax will be sufficiently light to make possible a reduction in the tax on ordinary real estate. Further substantial reductions in real estate taxes will be possible through the adoption of the fourth and sixth recommendations.

"Fourth That the personal property taxes of corporations now paid to the localities and then offset against the new franchise tax be abolished (suitable compensation being made to the localities for the loss of revenue involved) and that the rate of this franchise tax, applying to all corporations, banks and public utilities, be then increased from 4 per cent to 5 per cent, in case the experience during the next three years indicates that such an increase is desirable. The acceptance of this recommendation will result in the elimination of an important part of the present personal property tax, a part of that tax which has proven incapable of fair application. It will simplify the task of the local assessor and enable him to perform the remainder of his work more satisfactorily. It will simplify the administration of the new franchise tax. It will place the ordinary business corporation on an exact equality with the banks and with the public utilities assuming that the first and second recommendations relating to changes in the public utility taxes are adopted. Because of the very liberal definition of income, even with the rate of 5 per cent, California will compare favorably with other states with respect to the weight of its taxes on business.

"Fifth That the taxes on insurance companies be modified (1) Through the reduction of the ratio of the gross-premiums tax from 26 per cent to 2 25 per cent; (2) Through the elimination of the privilege of offsetting real estate taxes against the gross-premiums tax; and (3) Through provisions designed to prevent evasion of the gross-premiums tax through reinsurance. The present taxes on insurance companies appear to be relatively heavy as compared with those imposed in other states and as compared with the taxes on other businesses in California. The present arrangement for a real estate offset results in the entire exemption of some companies from the gross receipts tax and is out of harmony with the general system of taxation which the commission is suggesting. It is not feasible to use net income as the measure of a tax upon insurance companies The situation will be adjusted in the best manner at present possible by the adoption of the steps outlined.

"Sixth That the people of the State be given an opportunity to record clearly their desire regarding the substitution of a personal income tax for the present tax on intangible personal property and such other classes of personal property as it may prove desirable to eliminate from the tax base. Viewed as a property tax the present tax on intangibles has no logical foundation. Viewed as a measure of personal taxpaying ability, it is without merit. If the people of the State desire an adequate and fair personal tax, they should establish a personal income tax Such action should certainly be accompanied by the abolition of the property tax on intangibles and perhaps by the abolition of such other remnants of taxes on personal property as will remain after the adoption of the second fourth and seventh recommendations. There is at present a constitutional provision of long standing authorizing the Legislature to impose an income tax, but a constitutional change would be necessary to abolish any part of the personal property tax. It appears to the commission that the present constitutional power to impose an income tax should not be exercised until the constitution has been so changed as to make a suitable adjustment in the personal property tax.

"Seventh That the present local personal property taxes on motor vehicles be abolished and that the present State license tax of $3 be increased sufficiently to reimburse the counties for the loss of revenue involved The local tax on motor vehicles is difficult and expensive to administer and it is widely evaded. The State license fee, imposed as a condition to the issuance of plates, is cheap to administer and impossible to evade. After the increase, the fees will still compare favorably with those charged in other states.

"Eighth. That sufficient authority be granted the Legislature to equalize the taxation of motor carriers That inequity will still exist in spite of the adoption of the Wagy Measure seems clear, but the commission has been unable to secure the data essential to the formulation of definite recommendations of bases and rates. It suggests that this problem be given further study during the next two years

"Ninth That the rates and exemptions of the inheritance tax be adjusted so as to reduce the burden falling on shares of widows and so as to reduce certain high rates which in operation are seldom imposed, but which nevertheless give a false appearance of severity to the law The acceptance of this recommendation will remove the ground for much of the complaint against the inheritance tax and will place California in substantially as favorable a position to attract residents as that of any state

"Tenth. That the elective State Board of Equalization be abolished and that in its place a permanent Professional Tax Commission be established, consisting of three members appointed by the Governor, with powers to administer the State taxes, to value the real estate of the public utilities for return to the localities, to determine the degree of undervaluation in the assessments of the various counties and to supervise and assist the local assessors. The adoption of this suggestion will provide California with the form of State tax administration which has been proved satisfactory by the experience of other states The commission considers that recommendation fundamental and desires to condition its other recommendation for changes in the tax system upon its acceptance.[1]

In addition to the above ten recommendations which form the basis of the 1927 commission's general report, it issued a special report[1] on August 10, 1928, analyzing the bank tax problem and related subjects and urging that a special session of the Legislature be called to consider an amendment to the constitution The members of the commission were convinced that certain litigation and court decisions had placed in jeopardy State revenue estimated to be in excess of $22,000,000 and that emergency action was imperative The Governor and the Legislature acted upon the advice of the commission and submitted the constitutional amendment to the electorate, and at the November 6, 1928, election the people authorized a new plan of taxing banks corporate franchises, securities and solvent credits, which method was duly enacted into law by the Legislature of 1929

The Joint Legislative Committee on Taxation is charged with the duty of analyzing various aspects of this recent legislation, as well as the ten recommendations set forth above

In stating the main objectives of the problem which confront the Joint Legislative Committee on Taxation, some current history in tax reform efforts have been mentioned

A review of the earlier history of tax reform in California and a brief description of the present State system of taxation will make the sections of this report which follow more readily understood

An additional reason for inserting this history is that the committee has been impressed by the fact that many well informed persons have confused ideas regarding the State taxation system holding the opinion that local and State taxes have no relation to each other However the State and local methods under the systems of raising revenue are closely related and should be studied together.

HISTORY OF THE SYSTEM OF TAXATION IN CALIFORNIA

Taxation prior to 1909

Tax history in California for the past 50 years is divided into two major periods of approximately equal duration. Following the adoption of the present constitution of the State in 1879, there ensued an era during which the general property tax, established in that document as the basic source of public revenues, remained practically unchanged This era came to a close in 1905 when general dissatisfaction with the operation of the system culminated in the creation of a Commission on Revenue and Taxation[2] With minor changes and additions the labors of this commission continues to form the basis for the present revenue system.

Economic conditions prevailing in 1879 were free from many of the complexities which became prevalent 20 years later. When the constitution was adopted California was essentially a rural state with only the beginnings of population and industrial development Except for the railroads, public utility operations as they are now known were scarcely conceived. The entire business and financial structure was comparatively simple. In such an era the general property tax, administered by local officials with a small measure of State supervision, seemed adequate Provision was made for the central assessment of the roadbed, rolling stock, rails, rights of way and franchises of railroads operating in more than one country[2] These valuations were fixed by the State Board of Equalization and apportioned on a mileage basis among the several counties. Aside from this, all values, both for State and local tax purposes, were fixed by county and municipal assessors. Inasmuch as the State tax rate was applicable to valuations fixed by county assessors, power to raise or lower county assessment rolls as a whole was vested in the State Board of Equalization in an effort to prevent a low tax base in some counties at the expense of others in the application of a common State rate.

With the passing of the years it came to be generally recognized that the old system of taxation was failing to meet the requirements of fair and adequate public finance. Consequently, there was widespread interest in the work of the Commission on Revenue and Taxation, which held its organization meeting in the office of the Governor on May 27, 1905. In accordance with the provisions of an act of the thirty-sixth session of the Legislature meeting that year, the Senate and Assembly had appointed a joint committee composed of Senator J. B. Curtin and M. L. Ward, and Assemblymen H. S. G. McCarty and E. F. Treadwell. By the terms of the statute creating the commission, Governor Geo. C. Pardee, was its ex officio chairman and was authorized to appoint an expert in taxation and public finance "to sit with said committee, and with said committee to constitute a Commission Upon the Revision and Reform of the System of Revenue and Taxation in Force in This State." Pursuant to this authorization the Governor appointed Carl C. Plehn as expert and at the organization of the commission the latter was elected its secretary [1]

Ten meetings were held by this commission at various places in the State. Recognizing the value of stimulating the public interest and understanding of tax problems, in August, 1906, the commission published a preliminary report of 71 pages which was submitted to the members of the Legislature, sent to the newspapers and to all persons interested in the work of the commission Effort was made to afford the several interests affected by the studies of the commission full and complete hearing.

From the very beginning of its work, the 1905 Commission on Revenue and Taxation announced a decision "not to search for or to try to investigate untried or novel methods of taxation" [2] It seemed the consensus of opinion among the members of the commission that its recommendations should all be based upon "good American precedents"

In a summary of its findings the commission pointed out what it regarded as the principal faults in the old system and outlined the remedies recommended for their correction. At the outset, the view was expressed that the system then in force did not meet the demands made upon it because it had become antiquated and had not been revised to keep pace with the changing conditions. The commission's arraignment of the revenue system of that day contained these significant observations:

> "It is full of inequalities, which impose a handicap upon the growth of the State, a handicap which only the vigor and inexhaustible energy of our people can carry.
> "These inequalities twist and distort our industries and prohibit a symmetrical development of our resources They place an undue burden upon agriculture especially; the foundation of our wealth, the one industry which most fully exploits the great natural resources of the State." [2]

Pointing out that the chief tax in the revenue system, called a general property tax, had in fact become a real estate tax, the commission said that only from 15 to 18 per cent of the entire taxes were levied upon personal property with the result that the amount of personal property on the tax rolls in 1905 was hardly larger than it was in 1872. It was further developed that money and credits escaped taxation almost entirely as did national banks, while State commercial and savings banks were taxed in a haphazard and unfair fashion.[3]

Further fault was found by the commission with the failure of equalization under existing system and "the constant piling up of tax on tax on the same base." It was pointed out that if a city had a rate of $1.00 which might be "reasonable enough, there often came on top of that a county tax of another dollar, a few special school taxes or a newer tax or a tax for bonds until the effects of any inequalities in the original assessment would be multiplied anywhere from two to fivefold. It was found that counties with relatively undeveloped resources often had high tax rates on relatively high valuations, while some of the richest counties enjoyed low tax rates on low valuations. It was felt that the addition of a State tax to these merely intensified inequalities which were almost unbearable in the first place." [4]

Objection was also made to the taking of revenue derivable by taxation from large general organizations like the railroads which, in the view of the commission, belonged by right to the people of the State at large and distributing it "most inequitably among the local divisions of the State which have no proper claim to it whatsoever." It was said that under the old system equitable adjustment of the burden of taxation between different classes of corporations was impossible and that in general the system was "a school for perjury" putting a penalty on honesty and paying high premiums for dishonesty." [4]

To remedy these serious faults the Commission on Revenue and Taxation recommended as the first step in reform separation of State and local taxation as to sources of revenue. It was believed that this would take the burden of State taxation from real estate and save the owners of real estate about $4,000,000 annually. Further advantages were found in the establishment of home rule in matters of local taxation and the abolition of any necessity for equalization between counties, thus curing the evils which State equalization failed to reach The commission felt also that the new system would open the way for "a proper classification of the subjects of State taxation with a greater approximation to equality than is possible, without it." The final report of the commission was filed in December, 1906, and contained about 300 pages. It is a remarkably thoughtful and complete document and, despite modern trends in taxation which tend to discount anything not of recent origin, is still regarded as one of the most authentic and scholarly analyses ever made of the tax problems in an American state

Following the presentation of this report the Legislature convening in 1907 acted favorably upon a proposed amendment to the constitution designed to carry out the recommendations of the commission. This amendment was voted upon by the people in 1908 and of the 202,081 votes cast upon the proposition, 87,977 were in favor of its adoption and 114,104 were against it. Four defects were pointed out, and were said to have been the controlling factors in the defeat of the amendment. There were (1) the failure to provide the way for meeting any deficit which might occur in State revenues without again amending the constitution; (2) indefiniteness as to whether or not utilities would be exempt from payment of their share of bond taxes on indebtedness created prior to the adoption of the system of "separation of sources"; (3) omission to provide that a deficiency ad valorem tax would apply to property taxed for State purposes as well as to property taxed locally, and (4) failure to afford a means for changing any of the rates for State purposes in the event that it should later be discovered that they required adjustment. However, defeat of the proposition was not regarded as indicative of public satisfaction with the existing system or of absolute condemnation of the plan proposed as a substitute therefor. [1]

Consequently, when the Legislature met in 1909 provision was made for the continuance of the Commission on Revenue and Taxation in order that its proposal might be revised to correct the defects believed to have been responsible for the initial defeat. Believing that the main work of the commission had been completed, Governor Pardee sponsored an amendment whereby the membership of the committee was reduced to three. As so reorganized that body consisted of Governor Pardee, as chairman, Senator J. B. Curtin and Professor Carl C. Plehn.[2] In September, 1910, the commission filed a report consisting of 77 pages and containing, among other things, a series of tables showing what the actual effect of the adoption of the proposed system of taxation would have been for the years 1905, 1908 and 1909. An amendment designed to meet the defects which were regarded as fatal to the plan as first submitted was endorsed by the Legislature and was placed upon the ballot for the consideration of the people at the general election in November, 1910 Basically, its objective was the same as the plan first submitted by the commission It provided for the taxation of public utilities, such as railroads, gas and electric companies and telephone and telegraph companies, upon the basis of their gross receipts from operations. Special taxes were also provided for bank shares, insurance companies and corporate franchises All these revenues were to go to the support of the State government which would not be required to resort to a general property tax under normal conditions. Thus, a separation or segregation of sources of State and local revenues would be accomplished.

This proposition became known as Amendment No. 1. It was adopted by a substantial majority and forms the basis for the present tax system of California. Under it, revenues for State purposes have since been derived from sources other than the general property tax, the tax from which has been confined exclusively to local purposes, with the exception of a small tax for a few years levied to defray part of the expenses of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco in 1915.[3]

After the new system had been in force some five years the Legislature convening in 1915 authorized another investigation of the general subject of taxation[4] and Governor Johnson appointed as members of the State Tax Commission to make that study, Clyde L. Seavey, E. A. Dickson and Leo C. Gates, William V. Cowan acted as secretary of this body and in January, 1917, a report containing 280 pages was transmitted to the Governor.[5] This report was preceded by an investigation covering a period of one year and four months comprehending the following salient features as listed by the commission:

A. Report upon all matters covering the subject of revenue and taxation in the State.

B. Report on the burden borne by general property and corporation property.

C. Report upon losses of revenue sustained by counties caused by the withdrawal of railroad property from general taxation.[6]

A large portion of the report of this body is devoted to a criticism of Amendment No. 1. Apparently, all that the commission could concede in its favor was it had accomplished one specific thing—the separation of State and local revenues and that it was an improvement over the old system so far as the separation of assessments of public utility property and franchises was concerned. Complaint was made that with the original rates the system would have resulted in financial paralysis of the State; that it had not brought about equality either as between the corporations and the people or as between the various classes of corporations; that it had not tended to correct the evil of undervaluation by counties; that it had not lightened the burden upon real property; that the provision requiring a two-thirds vote of each branch of the Legislature to increase rates was too stringent and that Amendment No 1 had generally complicated the tax system by compelling "an altogether unnecessary dual method of fixing tax rates on the property of public utilities—first, a rate according to property value and then a corresponding rate upon gross receipts." [1]

Concluding its observations with reference to the operation of the tax system the State Tax Commission suggested remedies which it said could be grouped in two main headings, thus:

First. Changes in the statutory law which permanently and substantially will strengthen tax administration, either under present constitutional provisions or under amendments which may in the future be made to the constitution.

Second. Changes in the constitution necessary to eliminate present defective provisions, and to allow the development of a permanent and sound taxation body.[2]

Need for Budgetary control of public expenditures was stressed and full value assessment of property was advocated. There was also advocacy of a personal income tax which it was said should be levied in part as a substitute for the tax on personal property in the form of household furniture, workmen's tools and farm machinery and as a means of reducing the burden on other forms of property locally taxed. Urgent haste in adopting such a plan was suggested, the commission assigning as its reason the novel proposition that "California should inaugurate this form of taxation before the source has been dried up because of the application of the federal income tax.[3] Abandonment of the system of taxation for which provision was made by Amendment No. 1 and substitution therefor of one of three alternatives were proposed by the commission. These alternatives were described as follows:

First. Change the system back to the basis of assessment and taxation of property at situs, all taxable property to be levied against for State and local purposes but retaining central assessment of public utilities, franchises and other liquid forms of property and a central control of all assessments, leaving to the State the separate sources of revenue such as inheritance, license and franchise taxes, and giving to the counties and cities an income tax in place of a tax on certain types of personality.

Second. Adopt a true separation of State and local revenue, leaving the tangible property for taxation in the locality where it is situated, necessitating a central assessment of the physical property of public utilities and the central control of all assessment for proper equalization, leaving to the State the income tax and other forms of special taxes and fees.

Third. Eliminate the present restriction of the constitution giving the Legislature freedom of action in dealing with the entire revenue system.[4]

The third proposal was in fact previously attempted by a constitutional amendment which was defeated at a special election in October, 1915. but notwithstanding this the commission expressed a definite preference for it By an overwhelming vote the people had apparently indicated an unwillingness to leave the matter of taxation wholly in the hands of the Legislature, and since then no Legislature has seen fit to submit to the people an amendment designed to accomplish the purpose of this proposal.

No legislative action followed any of the recommendations of the 1927 Tax Commission, and there was an interval of ten years before the creation of another tax investigating body was authorized. In the meantime certain adjustments of the rates of taxation on utilities and others taxed under the plan of Amendment No. 1 were effected and the State Board of Equalization undertook the taxation of automotive carriers on a gross receipts basis comparable to that employed with reference to other transportation agencies The automotive carrier tax was begun under a legislative act of 1923 and has continued since then with its application restricted to common carriers operative over regular routes or between fixed termini under a constitutional amendment adopted in 1926 [5]

There may be mentioned as the most significant development in the interim, the inauguration of the gasoline tax in 1923, the administration of which has been placed in the hands of the State Board of Equalization in conjunction with its other duties. This tax has produced a constantly increasing flow of revenue for road purposes. Because of its almost ideal distribution of the tax burden it has achieved a well deserved popularity.

In 1927, following a suggestion in the inaugural message of Governor C. C. Young, the Legislature authorized the creation of the California Tax Commission to make findings and conclusions concerning revenue matters This body was expected to report its "recommendations as to necessary changes in the existing system of taxation" so that they would be available at the next legislative session. The Governor was authorized to appoint the commission without limitation as to constituency or number.

The first meeting of the California Tax Commission was held in October, 1927. The Director of Research came to California in February, 1928, and during the month of March, following, a series of public hearings were held at various places throughout the State.

As an emergency measure designed to meet difficulties in bank taxation arising out of federal restrictions on the power to tax national banks, the commission recommended in August, 1928, the immediate abandonment of the bank share and corporate franchise taxes then in force and the substitution of a method according to or measured by net income. A provision of the preferential tax on intangibles was included in the proposal which was endorsed at a special legislative session called in September, 1928, for that purpose. The constitutional amendment covering these changes was adopted by the people at the general election in the following November and in 1929 legislation was passed to carry the new plan into effect. Its operation is discussed in detail elsewhere in this report. On March 5, 1929, the commission filed its final report containing ten major recommendations of a far-reaching character with reference to the entire revenue system of the State.

The present Joint Legislative Committee on Taxation was thereupon created to analyze these recommendations of the Martin Commission 1927 and to consider tax problems generally for the purpose of future report at the 1931 session.

For the personnel of the commission see page __.

REPORT OF THE JOINT LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE ON TAXATION.

Outline of procedure.

In order to ascertain and record the views of all interested bodies, this committee arranged a series of public hearings in various groups that discussions of particular taxation problems would take place.

At such meetings the fullest discussions were had and recorded in complete detail. These records form a part of the committee's working library.

In addition to oral presentations of their particular cases many groups took advantage of the committee's invitation and presented written briefs. Many of these briefs were prepared by taxation experts of national reputation and have materially lessened the labors of this committee in ascertaining the viewpoint of the various taxpayers.

Shortly after the conclusion of these public hearings, the committee selected a technical staff which commenced work in June, 1930.

The committee realized that the time has passed when any single state, unaided by the experience of others, can hope to develop a modern, practical and just system of taxation. Accordingly, the committee's technical staff entered into correspondence with tax commissions throughout the country, various departments of the State and federal government and with all California assessors, exchanging views of mutual interest, receiving printed taxation reports and statistical data. Thus, a practical and modern working library of taxation literature has been acquired. The committee will have occasion to quote from these sources to substantiate certain findings as this report proceeds.

Considerable time was devoted to an intensive study of the 1927 commission's report and the various tables and statistical material contained therein. It is quite clear that the 1929 report condensed the present system of taxation in California in no uncertain terms. That commission indicted the present system as antiquated and charged to the present method of raising revenue to the fault that it has no balanced relation to the fiscal needs of the State. The commission gave up as useless any effort to establish a true equalization between common and utility property and, in short, recommended a complete change in the present system of State taxation.

This committee adds its corroboration to the 1927 commission's charges of inequality in the tax burden and the inelasticity of the present tax system. The committee is of the opinion, however, that these faults may in a great measure be corrected without resort to a basic change in the State's general tax structure. Progress can and should be made in taxation methods, but changes should be brought about with reasonable certainty that they are practical and will result in adequate revenue to the State and its political subdivisions.

For example, the recommendation of the Martin Commission that the State abandon the gross receipts tax upon utilities contemplates an immediate and basic change in our existing State tax system. This committee believes that it would be practically impossible to put this major recommendation into execution without grave fiscal disturbance to various political subdivisions of the State as well as to private business

This committee has been impressed with the thought that one outstanding difficulty connected with the taxation situation is the fact that the State has made no provision whereby adequate aid may be extended to local assessors in matters pertaining to research and administration.

Every assessor in the State in response to various questions sent out by this committee have called special attention to this particular need. This committee is further supported in this opinion by the members of the State Board of Equalization; by the records of the special commissions of inquiry in our own and other countries; by reports of the National Tax Conference, by the latest writings of such recognized tax authorities as Professor Edwin R A Seligman of Columbia University, Dr H L Lutz of Princeton University, and others of equally high standing

The tax reform program which this committee will suggest comprehends among other things specific recommendation calling for closer cooperation between local and State taxation authorities.

The ten recommendations of the Martin Commission will now be considered in detail.

COMMENTS ON THE MARTIN TAX COMMISSION'S RECOMMENDATIONS ONE, TWO, THREE AND FOUR

For convenient reference the first four recommendations of the Martin report are listed together, relating, as they do, to the suggested abandonment of that part of the system generally spoken of as "Separation of Sources"

The Martin Commission recommended:

First. That the operative real estate of all public utilities be valued by the State and then returned to the counties to be added to the local tax rolls and subjected to the same tax rates as are imposed upon the real estate of corporations and individuals.

Second. That a franchise tax be imposed by the State on all public utilities measured by their net income in the same manner and at the same rate as the similar tax on banks and other corporations

Third. That the State levy a direct tax on property in general, including the real estate of public utilities, to make good any deficiencies in revenue which may arise after the adjustments herein recommended are made.

Fourth That the personal property taxes of corporations now paid to the localities and then offset against the new franchise tax be abolished (suitable compensation being made to the localities for the loss of revenue involved) and that the rate of this franchise tax, applying to all corporations, banks and public utilities, be then increased from 4 per cent to 5 per cent, in case the experience during the next three years indicates that such an increase is desirable.

Recommendation of 1927 commission on separation of sources

Such recommendations collectively form the basis of the new proposed State system designed to supplant the present tax for State purposes upon the public utility corporations. In brief, it is proposed to value the operative real estate of all public utilities by the State and apportion such value between the counties and localities to be taxed locally as other real estate is there taxed; to also impose a franchise tax on such utilities for State purposes at the same rate and in the same manner as is imposed on banks and other corporations, and then also have the State levy a direct tax on all property, including the real estate of public utilities for any deficiencies that may be found to exist in State revenues. Under the tenth recommendation of the Martin Commission, it urged that the valuations be made by an appointive State Tax Commission.

Fiscal aspects of present system.

The present tax system, in so far as the raising of revenue for State purposes is concerned, has proved simple and inexpensive in administration, it has produced adequate funds for ordinary State needs, it has made available a surplus of approximately $30,000,000 From the revenue producing standpoint it can not be declared unsatisfactory The criticism that inequalities have developed between various classes of utilities and between various companies within the same class of utilities, might possibly be directed with equal force against any tax system These inequalities can be eliminated or at least reduced to a practical minimum by allowing the Legislature greater powers of classification and reclassification Furthermore, the criticism of inequalities between groups is more properly available to the companies that are affected by the present tax method, that is, the taxpayers themselves. In no instance has any group or company that has made its views known to this committee requested or urged the abandonment of the present system and, in each instance where asked, has expressed opposition to the plan proposed by the Martin Commission While this fact should by no means be controlling, it is at least significant that the taxpayers affected are not asking for a new system by reason of existing inequalities of tax burden among themselves. The present system has been definitely established from a legal standpoint; its revenues are ascertainable with reasonable certainty and the State's financial policy can be pursued with assurance of adequate funds.

Tax on utilities as a property tax.

The more serious complaint against the present system of State taxation has been directed toward the alleged discrepancy or inequality between the tax burden on common property for purposes of local taxation and that borne by public utility property for State purposes. In administrative and legislative theory and practice, the legal justification for the present utility tax, as determined by the courts, has been based on the premise that it is a property tax and that a dollar value of public utility property should bear and pay the same proportion of taxes that a dollar value of common property pays. The provision in our constitution for the levy of an ad valorem tax on all property,[1] including property of the public utilities, in the event of a deficiency in the gross receipts revenues for State purposes, further emphasizes the underlying principle that the gross receipts tax is essentially a property tax and that as such the utilities should bear an equal tax burden with common property. Attempts at equalization of tax burdens of these two general classes of property have been made from time to time. For instance, in 1920, the rate paid by common property, as found by the State Board of Equalization, was $1.45 per $100 of value. Tax rates on the gross receipts of utilities were increased in the year 1921 for the purpose, it was claimed, of equalizing the burden between utility and common property. In 1929, the State Board of Equalization found that the average burden on common property was about 1.80 per cent.[2] The 1927 Commission found it to be not definitely determinable, but somewhere between 1.52 and 1.73 per cent.[3] The rate of tax burden borne by the utilities differed from that borne by common property, in some instances being higher and in others lower. It is admitted by all that the tax burden should, as far as possible to secure it, be equal between the two classes, but no attempt at a general equalization of burden on all utilities has been undertaken since 1921.

This problem must of necessity be considered from a statewide viewpoint. A comparison of the tax burden on the operative property of utilities and on common property can only be based upon averages of the tax burden on property within each class. This study is usually made according to counties. From such averages, it appears that there are admittedly instances where the present system of separation of sources seems to operate to the disadvantage of the particular county with respect to the tax burden on common property in such county. Increase of State aid to general State functions such as schools may to some extent compensate such counties for the inequalities arousing complaint. A full consideration of the many factors necessarily incident to a complete change in the system of State taxation, as proposed by the 1927 commission, and the possible resulting effect upon State revenues and the burden on local or common property forces the conclusion that the effect upon the State as a whole, rather than upon the certain counties, must be the controlling factor.

One of the declared primary purposes of the commission's recommendations was to remove real estate from its present exposed position and not to place the increasing burden of government upon the owner of real estate, nor to increase the tax burden of the farmer and the small home owner.

No assurance can be given that the adoption of the 1927 commission's recommendations would not, in all probabilities, produce the very result that all desire to avoid; and, which result, if known beforehand, would certainly cause its rejection. In other words, its operation might result in a lesser tax from public utilities as such, and a greater burden upon common property as such.

Difficulties of valuation.

The method of State assessment of operative utility real estate would require the valuation for assessment purposes of all real estate improvements in the several counties, municipalities and districts where the same may be situated. It would not include the personal property of such public utilities. In fact, under recommendation fourth the personal property taxes of such corporations would be entirely abolished. Then, it is proposed, a franchise tax would be imposed in the same manner and at the same rate as is imposed upon banks and other corporations. In other words, what may be called the "unit" value, or the total value of a utility (which combines with the value of all its tangible and intangible assets its going concern value to arrive at its actual value for State equalizing purposes) would be separated into the different elements or factors which constitute its actual value. The result to the counties might well be that the elimination of the personal property tax from utility corporations and the low yield from the franchise tax (especially if the real estate offset is to be allowed and continued, as now in effect in the Bank and Corporation Franchise Act and the elements of deduction and depreciation are to be contended with) will cause the ultimate tax burden that the owner of common property would have to pay to local as well as to State government to exceed that which he is now paying to the support of local government alone. This is particularly true as the recommendations of the Martin Tax Commission while proposing that the personal property of all corporations should be exempt from both State and local taxation seem to imply that the individual besides State and local taxes on real estate would also pay taxes upon his personal property to both the State and local governments.

Probable increase in tax burdens.

The State has not found the most satisfactory method of taxing national banks. It is hoped that Congress will liberalize its present stringent provisions of such taxation. While the State may continue under the present system to tax national banks and corporations upon the basis of income, it seems inadvisable to place public utilities in the same class. With the real estate tax offset in the system and no previous experience to guide the Legislature, it might result in little or no revenue from this source for several years. In other words, the addition of the operative real property of utilities to the county tax rolls, under the plan proposed, carries no assurance that the tax burdens on common property in the counties will be lessened. It seems practically certain that the tax contribution from the public utilities would, by reason of the factors involved, such as elimination of personal property tax of utilities and low yield of franchise tax, be less than that now made by them. The burden would thus be transferred, in so far as deficiencies in revenue are concerned, to already overburdened real estate.

Should the farmer and home owner find his taxes increased by reason of the exemption of the personal property of the public utilities, and the failure of inability of the Legislature to impose an adequate revenue producing franchise tax on such utilities, as a result of the proposed change, they might well state that such a contingency should have been called to their attention before they voted upon the matter. This committee can not at this time give any reasonable assurance that if the plan of the Martin Commission was adopted such an increase in the tax burden on common property will not occur.

Recommendation of committee on separation of sources.

The effect of the adoption of 1927 commission's plan is so uncertain, particularly with respect to the tax burden now borne by real estate, and particularly the farmer and home owner, that this committee is unwilling to recommend the submission to the Legislature of any proposed constitutional amendment designed to make the same effective.

This committee accordingly recommends a retention at this time of our present gross receipts tax system in preference to the adoption of the Martin Commission plan. When Congress shall have amended section 5219 of the Revised Statutes so as to permit the several states to tax national banks in any manner that they may see fit as long as the burden on such banks does not exceed that borne by state banks and other corporations (so that the necessity of continuing the real estate tax offset will no longer exist) and the factor of depreciation is more definitely determinable, the Legislature may be in a better position to judge and pass upon the feasibility of the suggested plan. But with the grave uncertainties on the one hand as to the effect and operation of the proposed plan, particularly as to those classes upon whom it is least desired to place added taxes, placed, on the other hand, against the known operation of our present system, the committee is constrained to recommend the retention of the existing method rather than to change to one, the effects of which are uncertain.

Adjustments in tax rates of utilities.

The retention of our present system, however, involves the further consideration of whether the tax burden upon public utility property and upon common property has reached its limit or can such classes of properties carry added tax burdens as costs of government increase. It is generally conceded that real estate as taxed locally is not only carrying its full share but is in fact overburdened by taxes. It has not been determined, at least to the same degree, that all classes of public utility property have reached their full limit of taxation. In fact, the retiring Governor recommended in his last biennial message that the rate upon light and power and upon telephone companies be increased. Many contend that in the case of regulated monopolies the gross receipts tax is simply a sales tax upon service rendered and that the tax is shifted to the ultimate consumer and for this reason the tax rates on utilities should be kept as low as possible. This may be partly true. It must be recognized, however, that when competition enters, the entire tax burden imposed upon the utilities through the gross receipts measure is not thus transferred to the consumer, and the argument that the tax is shifted to the consumer is not a complete answer to a proposed equalization.

If it is determined, therefore, that in fact there is an unequal distribution of the tax burden of certain public utilities and that borne by common property, then the means of securing greater equality in tax burden as between these two classes of property is present by the method of adjusting the rates on utilities to conform to the average tax burden upon common property.

If the equalization of the tax rates on public utilities to the level of the tax on common property necessitates an increase that will produce more revenue than the State actually needs, then increased contributions by the State toward costs of local government should have tendency to reduce the tax burden of the counties to that extent. Such a reduction would result, of course, if the equivalent amount of money thus saved to the counties would not be in fact collected and spent for other purposes. In other words, it would be incumbent upon local taxpayers to see that the local tax rate would be reduced in proportion to the amount of the State's added contribution to activities formerly supported to a greater degree by the counties, rather than to allow the tax levy to remain the same and the money, intended to be saved, nevertheless collected and spent for new purposes.

Accordingly, when the time arrives (if it has not already) when utility property and common property are paying their full share of the cost of government, then new and additional sources of revenue must be found, if deficiencies exist, or if a general lowering of the tax burden on each class is to be attained.

Consideration of personal income tax and other proposed new sources of revenue.

Numerous methods and proposed schemes for tax limitation, gradual reduction of present tax burdens and new sources of revenue have been suggested.

Some suggest, as did the 1927 commission in its sixth recommendation,[1] the personal income tax; others, the sales tax; others, a limited sales or luxury tax; still others, a severance tax; and some, the diversion of revenues now collected for special purposes into the general fund.

Effect upon tax rates of utilities.

The legal effect of any material change in the relative tax burden borne by common property as against that borne by the utilities, by the introduction of new taxes has not been determined. Should the State, for example, continue to tax utilities under the present method and divert all new sources of revenue to the localities? Again, it has not been determined whether the revenues from the proposed new sources could legally, under the State and federal constitution, be applied only to reduction of local taxes, or whether there must be maintained the general equality of tax burden between public utility and common property, thus necessitating a decrease in the tax rates upon public utilities in the proportion that the tax rates on common property had been lowered by receiving revenue from other sources.

If the rates upon utilities were decreased for this reason, it would necessarily mean that the State would have to receive some portion of the revenue derived from the new sources to make up for the loss it would sustain by a reduction in the tax rates on utilities.

Effect upon local taxpayers.

Nor has the committee had the means, time, nor opportunity to consider intensively the effect of the income tax, or sales tax or other forms of taxation upon our system. The experience of other states furnishes slight assistance. Those states that have the income tax now in effect are seriously studying and have commissions at work on the problems, whether such tax is in fact a substitute tax, resulting in a lessening of the tax burden upon real estate, or is simply an additional tax giving greater opportunity for increased expenditures with no benefit to real estate; whether new tax payers are reached by the introduction of a personal income tax or taxpayers already paying heavy taxes upon their real property furnish the bulk of the income tax; whether or not a sales tax is to be urged as an added source of revenue to the income and property tax; whether or not the sales tax is one that is passed on to the consumer and to the one who is least able to bear it rather than the one who is best able to pay; as to what articles should be selected for the imposition of the so-called luxury sales tax.

The same situation prevails generally throughout the country and is receiving much attention by the officers of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. A research committee has been appointed, of which Professor Simeon E. Leland of the University of Chicago is in charge, with several assistants from different universities. He has been authorized by the national association to make a detailed study and report. The national association in this movement has secured the cooperation of the United States Building and Loan League, the National Association of Building Owners and Managers and the Mortgage Bankers Association of America. The four points to be studied and reported on are as follows:

1. Are state income taxes a method of relieving real estate of some of its tax burdens?
2. Can sales taxes be used as a method of relieving real estate?
3. Are constitutional and statutory limitations on taxes and public indebtedness effective?
4. What miscellaneous city revenues can be developed to make the real estate levy more equitable?

The New York state tax survey commission is delegated to report to the 1931 New York legislature on the following subjects:

1. Whether real property can be relieved from any of the tax burden it now bears.
2. Whether the imposition of a sales tax is desirable.
3. Whether the laws relating to the taxation of personal income should be revised.
4. Whether taxation of industries under the existing system is detrimental to industrial development of the state.

5. Whether tax burdens may be distributed more equitably among the tax paying abilities and taxable objects.
6. Whether the laws relating to tax exemption should be revised.
7. Whether federal and state revenue systems can not be better coordinated.
8. Whether the methods of apportioning revenues collected by the state to the localities are best suited to existing conditions.

This demonstrates that California is not alone in its consideration of this problem. There is as yet no definite answer. Accordingly, the research bureau hereinafter recommended, if adequately provided for, may in the course of its investigations and by the time the 1933 session of the Legislature convenes, furnish information and suggestions that will enable California to adopt a definite course based upon an accurate forecast which is not now available.

Other recommendations of 1927 commission.

The recommendations of the 1927 commission not specifically dealt with above may be briefly considered as follows:

Tax rates on gross premiums of insurance companies.

The fifth recommendation suggested a revision of the rates and elimination of the reinsurance deductions which the courts have in effect read into the constitution. A constitutional amendment would be required to include the reinsurance deductions in the tax base and also to abolish the deduction from the tax assessed for real estate taxes paid. Because of lack of proper information, this committee does not feel warranted in making any recommendations in the suggested revision in rates. This also applies to the present tax rates on short line railroads, light and power and gas companies, telephone companies, Pullman and refrigerator car companies. Such matters may properly be considered by the standing committees of the two houses of the Legislature when reports based upon the investigations of other State agencies are made available. The State Board of Equalization and certain departments of the University of California, have during the past two years, investigated certain phases of this general subject matter and their reports thereon will undoubtedly be of material assistance.

Motor vehicles.

The seventh recommendation of the Martin Commission proposed that the present local personal property tax on motor vehicles be abolished and that the present State license tax of $3.00 be increased sufficiently to reimburse the counties for loss of revenue involved. Substantially, such a proposal was submitted to the people at the last general election, known as Amendment No. 18[1] It was defeated. It does seem, however, that proper legislation can and should be enacted which would effectively place such property upon the county tax roll and thus secure to the counties, at little expense, substantial revenues that now entirely escape legislation. Some form of cooperation between the local assessors and the State Motor Vehicle Department, it would seem, could readily accomplish this objective. The assessors of the State claim that over 400,000 automobiles escape taxation each year, with a consequent loss of local revenue of over $3,000,000 annually.

Equalization of taxes on motor carriers.

The eighth recommendation of the 1927 commission[2] suggests granting sufficient authority to the Legislature to equalize the taxation of motor carriers. It is apparent that motor carriers that are common carriers are paying a greater tax burden than those that are not, and it is suggested that further equalization of this burden be given consideration by the Research Bureau recommended herein. At the same time it is recommended that the revenues collected by the State under the gross receipts tax from common carriers be placed in the General Fund for the general support of State government, the same as the revenues from other utilities. The gas tax paid indirectly by such carriers, may well be considered the contribution of such utilities to the Highway Fund.

Inheritance taxes.

The ninth recommendation of the Martin Commission relating to inheritance taxes was adopted by the 1929 Legislature and requires no further comment.[3]

State Board of Equalization.

The tenth recommendation of the Martin Commission suggests that the State Board of Equalization be abolished and that an appointive tax commission be appointed to administer the State taxes and value the real estate of the public utilities to be returned to the localities.[4] Inasmuch as the committee does not recommend the basic change involved in the first four recommendations of the 1927 commission, and the adoption of such four are made dependent upon the adoption of the tenth recommendation, further comment seems unnecessary.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF JOINT LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE ON TAXATION ON 1927 COMMISSION'S PLAN.

From the foregoing the committee submits the following recommendations with reference to the recommendations set forth in the 1927 commission's report and also recommendations with reference to the present system of taxation.

RECOMMENDATION I

(a) That for the present the existing system of State taxation involving "Separation of Sources" be retained.

(b) That the Legislature be empowered to make such further classification and subclassification of utility groups taxable upon their gross receipts for State purposes as may be necessary in order to achieve a more equitable distribution of the tax burden.

(c) That the State Board of Equalization extend its studies with respect to the average tax burden on common property and the tax burden on utilities in order that more accurate comparisons between the tax burden on common property and the property of utility groups may be ascertained.

RECOMMENDATION II

(a) That a research department, consisting of technical experts in the fields of economics, valuation procedure and taxation, be created within the State Board of Equalization to operate under the coordinate control of the Governor, the Director of Finance and the State Board of Equalization, the function of which shall be to gather facts concerning all matters appertaining to revenue and taxation and submit such facts and recommendations thereon to the Legislature

(b) That the name of the State Board of Equalization be changed to that of the State Tax and Equalization Board.

Assistance to local assessors.

It seems advisable to have some agency of the State Government permanently authorized and charged with the duties of collecting tax facts and data. A beginning of such an agency is recommended herein Whether it shall ultimately be a new constitutional body enjoying a broad grant of powers which shall be appointive or elective may depend somewhat upon the system of taxation in effect

Under the present system the State Board of Equalization is almost wholly administrative. All policies are determined by the Legislature. The board collects facts as directed by the Legislature and administers the computation of taxes due from insurance companies, public utilities and motor vehicle fuel producers, our largest sources of revenue No complaint has been made of its administration of such laws and no need has been shown for its abolition

Certain details of administration of the local tax laws, particularly as to the matter of uniform and improved methods of local assessments and valuation have suggested themselves to the committee Great variation exists among the several counties of the State as to rate of assessment of real property to actual value; thus, in San Bernardino County the 1927 commission from data of the State Board of Equalization found the ratio to be 26.3 per cent of actual value, San Diego 27.2 per cent, Humboldt 47.7 per cent, San Francisco 44.7 per cent, Sacramento 46.7 per cent, Placer 51.5 per cent and Imperial 49.7 per cent. The attitude of the assessors themselves is expressed in a resolution adopted at their annual association at Los Angeles, September 24 to 27, 1930, as follows:

RESOLUTION.

"WHEREAS, The County Assessors' Association of California, recognizing the steadily increasing demand that exists for the revision of State laws relating to local taxation and assessment procedure, express the belief and conviction, that before such revision can be intelligently undertaken, it is essential that facts concerning the present conditions in so far as local taxation and assessment procedure are concerned, be secured and

WHEREAS, The county assessors of the State of California are firmly of the opinion that any tax legislation based solely upon theory is a dangerous expedient, now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the County Assessors' Association of California, in annual convention assembled, records itself as recommending the creation of an agency of the State Government to consist of men experienced in the practical administration of laws relating to local taxation and assessment procedure, and in the practical handling of the problems that administration of such laws impose —said agency under the direction of elected officials, to be vested with the duty of assembling and compiling as directed, the basic facts which relate to local taxation laws and local assessment procedure, the said agency acting under such direction to devote its entire time to the study of local taxation and assessment problems, with the definite restriction of its powers to such task, said agency to have no powers, duties, functions or jurisdiction beyond assembling and compiling and reporting facts relative to local taxation and assessment problems, and be it further

Resolved, That the chairman of the legislative committee of this association be, and hereby is, instructed to transmit on January 5, 1931, duly authenticated copies of this resolution to His Excellency, the Governor of the State of California, the Lieutenant Governor, and the Speaker of the Assembly of the State of California."

Through such an agency it is believed that greater uniformity in assessing methods can be secured with the result that the determination of the average tax burden borne by common property as distinguished from public utility property can be determined with greater accuracy. Such property might properly aid local assessors in an entire revision of the local assessment roll the costs for such assistance to be paid to the State. Manuals for setting forth elements or factors and methods of valuation and assessment might properly be prepared by the State and furnish the assessors.

Research department

To eliminate the recurrent necessity of interim special committees and special commissions, it is recommended that a research department be established in the State Board of Equalization, the same to be under the coordinate control of the Governor, the Board of Equalization and the Director of Finance. This will grant representation from the important fiscal department as well as the executive department of the State Government, a voice in, and impose a corresponding responsibility toward securing the broadest character of information on the subject of revenue and taxation and should reduce the possible political aspects thereof to the minimum.

To such agency should be delegated the duty of considering and suggesting methods and means, where found necessary or advisable, to equalize the tax burden on various classes of property, of securing some effective reduction of taxes on real estate, the possible new source of revenue for State and local purposes and the operation and effect thereof if in force in other states.

Name of State Board of Equalization

The change in the tax system introduced as a result of the 1906 report changed to a considerable degree the functions of the State Board of Equalization. The name originally selected for the board was suitable for the character of its duty at that time, when its chief function was the equalization of assessments between counties. Due to the changes in methods of taxation, the State Board of Equalization at the present time performs little or no work of equalization. Its time is devoted to the administration of the tax on utilities, the tax on insurance companies, the tax on highway transportation companies and the tax on motor vehicle fuel. Its full equalization functions still exist but no need to exercise them is present in the absence of a deficiency in State revenues and the imposition of a deficiency tax for State purposes upon all property in the State. The present name is therefore a misnomer and it is recommended that the name be changed in keeping with the functions of the board to the "State Tax and Equalization Board."

RECOMMENDATION III

That the constitution be amended to eliminate the requirement that the counties contribute an amount equal to the contribution of the State for elementary schools and a sum twice the amount contributed by the State for the support of high schools.

Elimination of restriction on State's contribution to schools.

It is recommended that the present provision in the State constitution requiring counties to match the State's contribution for teachers' salaries be changed so the ratio of contribution by the State and county be not necessarily the same as now existing, such requirement providing, however, that such burden of which the county may be relieved shall be assumed and paid by the State, and not by the district.

As it now stands, the State constitution prevents the State from assuming a larger share of the cost of education without requiring the county to match the State's contribution. Such inelasticity is entirely without supporting reason and should not exist. If the State should desire to increase its aid to schools there is no sound basis for requiring the counties to do likewise.

RECOMMENDATION IV

That the board of supervisors of the county wherein school districts are located be empowered to review and revise the budgets of school districts.

Review of school district budgets.

Much of the complaint that has reached the committee relative to the excessive tax burdens borne by real estate deals with the cost of the support of educational activities of the local government. The annual report of financial transactions of the State Controller for 1928 shows that at least 30 per cent of the budgets of counties is made up of items for educational purposes. These expenditures are augmented by municipal and district tax levies for the same purpose. The determination of whether or not these expenditures are too great would involve a study of the question of whether or not the present educational expenditures are justifiable. This task is beyond the purpose and power of accomplishment of this committee.

It seems, however, that taxpayers justly complain of the provisions of law which allow boards of school trustees to arbitrarily determine the amount of their budgets and require boards of supervisors of the counties to accept these budgets without power to review or revise them. The fairness of budgets for education purposes as well as for other purposes should be a matter within the jurisdiction of the board of supervisors and one in which the taxpayer ultimately paying the bill should be allowed a hearing.

It is therefore recommended that the board of supervisors of the county shall have the power to review and revise, for the purpose of reduction, the budget for all classes of elementary and high school districts and in such districts that are in two or more counties the board of supervisors of the county in which the greatest area of the assessed valuation of the district lies shall have jurisdiction for such review and revision.

RECOMMENDATION V.

That the Research Bureau, herein referred to, give consideration to devising ways and means to relieving the present excessive tax burden borne by homes, farms and all other real estate taxed locally.

Tax limitations.

No effective or satisfactory method of proposed tax limitation has been suggested to the committee which it feels warranted in recommending to the Legislature. If the limitation is placed upon the rate, the assessments are raised; if upon the assessments of value or increase thereof, the rates are raised. If limitation is placed upon both rate and value, the orderly functioning and progress of government may be halted, or strangled to an undesirable degree, and the right of self-government too seriously handicapped.

In several states, namely, Indiana, Utah, Iowa, and Kansas, the state boards or tax commissions, upon demand of comparatively few taxpayers may require that local budgets, including bond issues, be reviewed and approve or disapprove or modify the same. It is claimed that appeals to such board have been few, and that the plan has actually resulted in conservative budgets or bond proposals in the first instance. It seems improbable that the several communities of California would surrender such power to a state agency.

In New Mexico it is provided that no county, municipality or school district shall increase the tax levies in any one year in excess of 5 per cent of the total levy for the preceding year, except in case of certain emergencies, in which case it is presented to a certain State board for approval. For like reasons applicable to the so-called Indiana plan, the New Mexico plan seems unadaptable to California.

Further suggestions have been made by the California Real Estate Board and affiliated groups providing for a gradual reduction of the tax burden on real estate for State, county and municipal purposes, so that by 1942 real estate therein will be limited to pay not to exceed 50 per cent of the budgeted requirements thereof. Such a limitation would of necessity compel adoption of new or other forms of taxation to supply the deficiency thus created. If the 1927 commission plan should ultimately be adopted, or should the State return to the general ad valorem plan, then the reduction would become effective alike upon public utility real estate as well as upon common property. It is claimed that real estate now pays 80 per cent of the cost of local government. A reduction to 50 per cent would indeed be a substantial one; and, if this plan of limitation is applicable alike to public utility and common property, the amounts required to be raised from new or added sources would be large. While there is a manifest desire to relieve the tax burden on real estate, and, if possible, to put a practical limitation thereon, it seems doubtful whether the State at large would approve such a limitation if it must also apply equally to public utility real estate or be reflected by a substantial reduction in their taxes. If the present separation of sources plan is retained and the proposed limitation plan adopted, the question remains as to whether or not the added revenues which would have to be raised to meet the lessening of revenues from real estate taxes can be applied only to county or local purposes, or should be divided between State and local government. Other groups interested in this general question of reduction of the local tax burden on real estate locally taxed suggest that the State take over and pay the cost, or at least make greater contribution to, the support of certain activities, such as schools, so as to correspondingly lighten the tax burden on locally taxed real estate. If the additional contribution by the State would in fact reduce the local tax burden as it should, then it would appear that the tax limitation plan suggested by the California real estate group would not only be unnecessary, but would in fact be impracticable. It will require new sources of revenue yielding large returns if the burden on locally taxed real estate, as now taxed, and on present values, it is to be reduced from an 80 per cent contribution to a 50 per cent contribution annually. estimates place the figure in the neighborhood of $90.000,000. Should the State take over such added functions and the proposed 50 per cent limitation become effective, it would be necessary to secure still added sources of revenues, either for the counties and municipalities to levy locally, or in the form of State collected monies to be remitted to the counties and municipalities. It would require the highest practical tax rates to secure sufficient revenue from all new suggested sources of revenue, such as income and sales taxes, to meet the cost of added State participation, and under the proposed limitation, there would still remain a deficiency of 50 per cent of the local tax burden to be financed from sources other than a tax on real estate.

It would appear advisable for those interested to determine upon, if possible, and recommend some definite theory or principle upon which the State is to be asked to proceed, whether it be that the State take over and assume the cost of certain governmental activities, either in whole or in part, and thus lighten the local tax burden, or whether it be the levy of a State tax with refund to the counties and municipalities to accomplish the same result.

The two methods are inconsistent with each other and a choice must be made. Further considering this particular plan of limitation, it may be added that no definite proposals of legislation, as to the priorities of several tax levies, or the effect of overlapping invalid levies, have been suggested; nor has any definite suggestion been made as to a definite new source of revenue Certain elasticity must be provided as to tax levies, for the functions of government must continue; and before a source of revenue is frozen, reasonable certainty as to sources and amounts of additional revenues should be available. The State should hesitate before fixing an arbitrary limit on one source of revenue when it does not know how the deficiency resulting from the limitation is to be replaced. Accordingly, as this suggestion was made to the committee since January 1 last, and in view of its importance and the comprehensive effect thereof on State and local government, it is suggested that the matter of tax limitation be given special consideration and study by the research bureau herein recommended.

At a number of the hearings held by the committee in different cities of the State, individual taxpayers appeared and complained of the burden of taxes levied against their homes, farms and business properties. In every instance it was disclosed that the burden complained of was due to the aggregate taxes levied by county, city, and district authority, including not only taxes for ordinary governmental expenses, but also bills to meet payments for interest and principal upon bonds. In many instances special assessments added to the burden

It is of these taxes that the average citizen complains most bitterly. They are direct taxes levied upon his real and personal property that are payable in a lump sum and can not be shifted. That the burden of local taxation is exacting and sometimes inequitable, the committee readily admits. Many suggested panaceas for the alleviation of this burden have been proposed to this committee, but none of these appears practical or workable. This committee believes that real estate should be in some measure relieved of the severity of the exaction now made from it. However, in view of the impracticability of the methods suggested the committee hesitates to express any recommendation for a definite plan of action to accomplish this purpose. This problem more than any other, should be considered with the purpose of our entire tax system in mind. Following a full study of the research department recommended to be established in this report, some plan that is practical may be evolved But in any case and under any system, the matter and amount of local taxes will remain largely a local question as assessments and tax rates are determined by local authorities. Only through rigid economy, careful scrutiny of proposed bond issues and restriction of special assessments and tax levies, coupled with the courage to admit that many desirable things can not be afforded, can any appreciable reduction in local taxes be secured.

RECOMMENDATION VI.

That the Legislature of the State take appropriate action designed to secure an amendment to section 5219 of the revised statutes of the United States so that the State will be permitted greater latitude in the taxation of national banks.

BANK TAXATION IN CALIFORNIA.

Introduction.

Of particular importance in the problems confronting this committee has been the problem of taxation of banks in this State. It will be remembered that the State changed its method of taxation of banks by a constitutional amendment adopted in 1928, followed by legislation of the 1929 session of the Legislature. This committee would be happy to report that the legislation of the last legislative session proved efficacious as an equitable solution of the bank tax difficulty. The committee, however, is unable to do so. The present situation, with respect to bank taxation, calls for a critical analysis and a detailed presentation, in order that the Governor and the members of the Legislature may be accurately informed of the precise problem existing with respect to the tax status of these institutions, particularly existing legal difficulties and the tax burden of these institutions as compared with the burden of other tax payers. To understand fully the present condition of banks in the State's revenue system it is necessary to sketch, briefly, the history of bank taxation in this State.

TAXATION OF BANKS BEFORE 1929.

Prior to 1910 banks were taxed upon their real property and the shareholders were taxed upon the value of their shares of stock by the local assessors. The 1906 Tax Commission found the method of taxation then existing to be very unsatisfactory A case had been carried to the Supreme Court of the United States which had decided that, as between state banks and national banks, national banks were being discriminated against in treatment.[1] The 1906 commission reported:

> "Since that time (the decision in the case of S F. National Bank vs. Dodge) national banks have been locally taxable only on whatever real estate they might hold As the law discountenances the holding of real estate by these banks, save for bank premises, the taxes on this are a very small proportion of what is properly due from these banks for the benefits conferred upon them by the state and local governments. Some few of the national banks, realizing this, have voluntarily submitted to an assessment that they knew was not enforceable by law and have paid taxes thereon. The number of banks showing this conscientious and patriotic spirit is not large, nor has their generosity in this direction been carried to any quixotic length, as the amount they thus contribute to the support of governments is never very large, nor even approximately what should be required of them "[2]

In view of this condition, part of the burden assumed by the 1906 Tax Commission was the devising of an adequate and legal method for the taxation of banks. To fulfill this function the commission of 1906 and its successor, the commission of 1909, included in the proposals for a unified tax system a complete plan for the taxation of national and state banks.

As national banks are agencies of the federal government, the power of a state to tax these institutions must be derived from permissive federal legislation. The national Congress has given the states this permission, the specific statute, title XIII, paragraph 548, sub-paragraph 1-b M S. Code, more commonly, and hereafter referred to as section 5219 United States Revised Statutes

At the time the 1910 commission's recommendation was enacted as law, section 5219 permitted only the real estate and shares of capital stock of national banks to be taxed.[3] The method thus followed by the commission was the so-called "share tax" method. This method of taxation comprehended that banks were to be locally taxed upon their real property and the shareholders of the banks were to be taxed by the State upon the value of their shares of stock[4]

The method of determining the value of each share of stock was fixed by the constitution as the amount paid in thereon, together with its pro rata of the accumulated surplus and undivided profits. In computing the total value of shares of stock the assessed value of real estate taxed for county purposes was deducted. The rate of tax upon this value at the time of the adoption of the amendment in 1910 was fixed at one per cent. During the history of the tax this rate was changed three times.[5]

The method of taxing banks inaugurated by the 1906 commission, proved satisfactory for a period of eighteen years. In commenting upon the results of the system, the 1927 commission said.

> "In general, the experience under the present plan of taxing banks has been good The method provided is definite, and there has been no complaint of discrimination as amongst banks The rates have been changed on three occasions, and although these changes, and particularly the change made in 1921, provoked considerable controversy, and although some of the bankers now feel that they are heavily taxed, it may be said the present method has given fair satisfaction both to the State and to the banks "[6]

From a revenue standpoint, particularly, the experience of the State between 1910 and 1928, in taxing banks upon their shares of stock proved satisfactory. The revenues derived under this system during the time it was in operation are shown by schedule "A."

THE 1928 AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Early in its labors the Statutory Tax Commission of 1927 turned its attention to the matter of bank taxation. During the 1927 session of the Legislature, the Legislature had been forced to increase the rate of taxation on securities and solvent credits to avoid possible discrimination against national banks. The commission was of the opinion that the same decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States responsible for the 1927 legislative change in the tax rates on intangibles entirely condemned the California method of taxation of national banks.[1] It is unnecessary to review here in detail the decisions of the United States Supreme Court which caused the 1927 commission to be concerned as to the legality of the California method of taxation and convinced the commission that the method was invalid. It is only necessary to remark that one of the restrictive conditions of section 5219—that the rate of tax on national bank shares can not be greater than the rate of tax upon competing moneyed capital—had been broadened by interpretations of the Supreme Court of the United States to the effect that mortgages and intangible properties were construed to be competing moneyed capital. In the opinion of the commission, the allowance under the California law of mortgage exemptions, preferential treatment of intangibles and the deduction of debts from the assessed value of solvent credits to individuals unjustly discriminated against stockholders in national banks when such stockholders were taxed upon the full value of their shares.

Within the last two years many cases have been decided by the federal courts holding the share tax method in other states to be invalid, because of one or more discriminating features, some of which, at least, were present in the California law prior to its amendment in 1929

The situation was patently critical to the Statutory Tax Commission that the commission argued that unless immediate action was taken by the State to solve the bank tax difficulty the State would have revenues in jeopardy amounting to $22,050,000 The commission, therefore, recommended that the Governor call a special session of the Legislature to consider the problem. This was done. This session of the Legislature approved the submission of what is now section 16 of article XIII to the voters at the November 1928 general election The people of the State adopted the amendment The final step in the commission's plan of reform was the passage of legislation to carry into effect the new constitutional provision. This legislation was prepared under the direction of the commission and upon the recommendation of the commission was passed by the Legislature and approved by the Governor The legislation became chapter 13 of the Statutes of 1929 and has the short title "Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act."

By section 16 of article XIII, the new method for the taxation of banks comprehends the taxation of banks according to or measured by their net income The "according to or measured by net income" method is the method of paragraph (c) of section 5219, as amended in 1926 Section 5219 at the time the State adopted section 16 of article XIII read as it does now The text of this section is set out below

"Sec. 5219. The Legislature of each state may determine and direct, subject to the provisions of this section, the manner and place of taxing all the shares of national banking associations located within its limits The several states may (1) tax said shares, or (2) include dividends derived therefrom in the taxable income of an owner or holder thereof, or (3) tax such associations on their net income, or (4) according to or measured by their net income, provided the following conditions are complied with:

1 (a) The imposition by any state of any one of the above four forms of taxation shall be in lieu of the others, except as hereinafter provided in subdivision (c) of this clause.

(b) In the case of a tax on said shares the tax imposed shall not be at a greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of such state coming into competition with the business of national banks; provided, that bonds, notes, or other evidences of indebtedness in the hands of individual citizens not employed or engaged in the banking or investments not made in competition with such business, shall not be deemed moneyed capital within the meaning of this section

(c) In case of a tax on or according to or measured by the net income of an association, the taxing state may, except in case of a tax on net income, include the entire net income received from all sources, but the rate shall not be higher than the rate assessed upon other financial corporations nor higher than the highest of the rates assessed by the taxing state upon mercantile, manufacturing and business corporations doing business within its limits; provided, however, that a state which imposes a tax on or according to or measured by the net income of, or a franchise or excise tax on, financial, mercantile, manufacturing, and business corporations organized under its own laws or laws of other states and also imposes a tax upon the income of individuals, may include in such individual income dividends from national banking associations located within the state on condition that it also includes dividends from domestic corporations and may likewise include dividends from national banking associations located without the state on condition that it also includes dividends from foreign corporations, but at no higher rate than is imposed on dividends from such other corporations

(d) In case the dividends derived from the said shares are taxed, the tax shall not be at a greater rate than is assessed upon the net income from other moneyed capital.

2. The shares of any national banking association owned by nonresidents of any state, shall be taxed by the taxing district or by the state where the association is located and not elsewhere; and such association shall make return of such shares and pay the tax thereon as agent of such nonresident shareholders.

3. Nothing herein shall be construed to exempt the real property of associations from taxation in any state or in any subdivision thereof, to the same extent, according to its value, as other real property is taxed

4. The provisions of section 5219 of the Revised Statutes of the United States as heretofore in force shall not prevent the legalizing, ratifying, or confirming by the states of any tax heretofore paid, levied, or assessed upon the shares of national banks, or the collecting thereof, to the extent that such tax would be valid under said section."

PRESENT STATUS OF BANK TAXATION IN CALIFORNIA.

Legal aspects.

Certain aspects of bank taxation since the passage of the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act required that the problem of bank and corporation taxes be considered jointly. This committee has reached the conclusion that the present method of taxation of banks in California is unsatisfactory both from a fiscal and a legal viewpoint. This determination, however, has involved a consideration of section 5219 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, which statute is the State's sole authority for the taxation of national banks. After full consideration of the possible methods of bank taxation, the committee recommends that for the present the method of taxing banks, be retained, as its presents less legal difficulties than any other method. California's difficulties in bank taxation inhere in the rigid provisions of section 5219 of the Revised Statutes of the United States Until this statute is amended, the State cannot hope for greater latitude in the matter of taxation of these associations In an attempt to secure an amendment to section 5219, the committee will submit its views by filing a brief with the Senate and House committees on Banking and Currency and by providing each member of the California delegation in Congress with a copy of the brief The brief will express the legal problems involved in the taxation of national banks and for that reason will be printed as an appendix to the published report. Because of the statement of the problem therein, it is unnecessary to duplicate the discussion here.

FISCAL ASPECTS OF THE TAX ON BANKS "ACCORDING TO OR MEASURED BY NET INCOME" METHOD.

During the period that the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act has been in operation, sufficient time has elapsed so that corporations and banks have been required to file at least two returns with the Franchise Tax Commissioner upon which a tax has been based From the returns on file in the office of the Franchise Tax Commissioner a study has been made of the revenue contributed by banks to the State upon their net income The returns were examined to ascertain for every bank doing business in this State the amount of federal net income, additions to federal net income; the amount of deductions from federal income such as federal income tax paid; the net income for State purposes; the amount of tax before offset; the amount of the offset and the resultant tax. After the completion of this investigation the office of the Franchise Tax Commissioner began an independent research to gather the same data.

COMPARISON OF REVENUE YIELD OF SHARE TAX AND INCOME TAX

There is a sharp diminution in the revenues paid by banks under the new method when compared with receipts under the former share tax. In 1928, under the share tax, banks paid over $4,700,000 to the State in taxes. In 1929 the yield was reduced to less than $550,000 and in 1930 the yield was less than $908,000.[1]

The 1927 commission, by inference from sample data which showed that banks paid 11 8 per cent of their net income in taxes under the share tax, while corporations paid 4.4 per cent of their net income in franchise and personal property taxes, determined that the tax on banks under the share tax was too high.[2] It was conceded by the commission that the new tax would substantially reduce the yield from banks, the commission estimate being that the new tax would yield one-third of the old tax without the real estate offset and about 1 1 million dollars with the real estate offset.[3] Even with the substantial reductions predicted by the commission, however, the yield has not been up to expectations.

The first year of the income measure yielded about one-third of the tax paid by banks in 1911 when the share tax was first introduced and the rate was 1 per cent and only one-eighth the tax paid by banks in 1928, the last year in which the share tax method was in operation, and the rate 1 45 per cent. The second year of the income measure shows some improvement in the revenues derived as compared with the first year of the new tax, but the net yield still falls short of the revenues accruing under the share tax method. Revenues paid in 1930 by banks under the share tax method. Revenues paid in 1930 by banks exceed the revenues paid in 1929 by $343,000 00.

Despite the percentage of increase of the 1930 taxes over 1929 taxes, the contributions of banks to the support of the State government are rendered meager when compared with the tax accruing to the State from the same source in 1928 under the share tax method. The taxes paid by banks in 1930 are less than one-fifth of the taxes paid in 1928 under the former share tax.

THEORY OF THE BANK TAX AS A BUSINESS TAX.

It was the intention of the 1927 Tax Commission that the tax on banks, which they inaugurated, should be a forerunner for the modification of the theory of the property tax. It was intended that the property tax should be ultimately resolved into a tax upon real estate alone and that proposed business and personal taxes should be developed and put into operation to supply revenues displaced by the abandonment of the property tax concept. This was one of the elements which the commission has in mind in presenting the method of taxation of banks and corporations under section 16 of article XIII.

As the other recommendations of the Tax Commission were not accepted by the Legislature the system of taxation advised by the 1927 commission became effective for banks and corporations alone. As a result, banks are the only type of corporate organizations in the State whose tax is not in some way related to their entire property holdings. Local taxes upon their real property are measured by the property standard but the balance of their tax depends solely upon their ability to pay through use of the income measure. All other business enterprises and individuals are taxed under the benefit theory, upon their property, and must pay a tax upon the value of their property holdings, whether the ability is or is not present.

The present method of taxation, therefore, accomplishes the 1929 commission's desideratum for banks alone, and banks thus occupy a position of unique advantage in the State's tax system where they are taxed only upon their real property and by an excise tax, while all other corporations are taxed either directly or by a commutated tax upon their real property, their tangible personal property and upon their intangible assets (franchises) or by an excise measure.[1]

In considering the relative merits of the property tax upon banks as comprehended by the share tax method and the present method of taxation upon the excise basis, it is to be observed that the share tax method had the advantage over the present excise measure—that banks were taxed upon the same basis, the basis of property, as all other taxpayers. Under this method of taxation every bank in the State contributed at least something to the support of the State government. The present system of taxation, founded upon the theory of ability to pay, instead of benefits received, in its practical operation has the effect of exempting many banking institutions from State taxation. Such a method could be theoretically justified if, instead of an exception, it was a component part of a coordinated system of taxation where every taxpayer was entitled to have some portion of his total tax burden measured by the ability theory. The effect, however, of setting banks up as a special class has had the result of rendering our tax system susceptible to the criticisms of other groups of taxpayers upon whom the state depends for much of its revenue.

In the face of such criticisms it is pertinent to note the comparison between the burden on banks under the excise tax and the burden on common property which theoretically is the basic common measure for the determination of tax rates.

RATIO BETWEEN 1928 TAXABLE VALUE OF SHARES OF STOCK AND 1929 AND 1930 TAXES.

	Taxable value of shares as of March 1, 1928*	Taxes 1929	Ratio of 1929 taxes to value. Percentage	Taxes 1930	Ratio of 1930 taxes to share value. Percentage
National Banks	$175,600,000	$316,402	00.17	$549,176	00 31
State Banks	153,100,000	232,458	00 13	356,493	00.23
Totals	$328,700,000	$548,850	00.15	$907,669	00.27

The burden on common property was determined by the State Board of Equalization for the year 1928 to be 1.8 per cent on actual value. In 1929 under the "according to or measured by net income" tax the tax burden on taxable value of shares of stock in banks was only 8.3 per cent of this average burden on common property

* Taxable value of shares is determined by dividing the taxes paid by national and State banks by the rate of 1.45 per cent. In 1928, taxes assessed by the State board amounted to 2 5 millions for national banks and 2 2 millions for State banks.

[1] The addition of section 18 to article XIII of the constitution will result, with the passage of legislation, in having one other type of business, namely—ocean marine insurers—excluded from a strict property tax basis. Under the amendment to the constitution business of this character will be taxed upon the basis of underwriting profits.

for 1928[1] In 1930 the tax burden on bank shares was only 15 per cent of the tax burden on common property. These figures assume, of course, that the tax on banks is not declared invalid insofar as income from tax-exempt sources is concerned.

Despite this disparity in tax burdens, the committee deems it inadvisable to increase the tax on banks at the present time. Until section 5219 of the United States Revised Statutes is amended, the present method of taxation for banks should be continued. The condition of this fourth method, that the tax rate on banks be not higher than that assessed upon other financial corporations nor higher than the highest of the rates assessed upon mercantile, manufacturing and business corporations, would require that if the rate on banks was increased, the rate upon corporations must be increased also. The committee does not feel that it would be sound policy to excessively tax all corporations in the State merely to increase the banks tax yield, particularly so, when industry is in such a depressed condition.

The suggestions that have been made for a change in bank taxation in the opinion of the committee cannot be adopted with assurance. One of the suggestions is that the State return to the share tax method of taxing banking institutions. This, if held to be valid, would undoubtedly increase the revenue. In view of the decisions of the United States Supreme Court, however, it is felt that the method would allow national banks to claim discrimination on the ground that mortgages are exempt from taxation, intangible properties are treated preferentially and a deduction is allowed from assessment on credits for debts due residents

The other possible solution that has been advocated is that the offset provisions in the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act be abolished and that banks be taxed at a flat rate of 4 per cent, while corporations are taxed at a rate in the neighborhood of 2.25 per cent. The justification for this, it is argued, is that corporations pay personal property taxes which banks do not pay and the personal property taxes paid by corporations could be used as a measure of comparison with the tax on banks in addition to the tax paid by corporations according to or measured by their net income. The committee feels, however, that such a method of taxation would be unknown in its effect upon corporations and further would be subject to legal question as far as the validity of the tax on national banks is concerned as such associations might establish that corporations were being taxed at a lower rate. For these reasons the committee recommends that the present system of taxing banks be retained until an amendment to section 5219 of the Revised Statutes of the United States is adopted and the states are allowed greater latitude in the matter of bank taxation.

Withdrawal of right to file consolidated returns.

While the committee does not believe it advisable at the present time to increase the rate of tax on bonds, it does propose that our benefit now allowed to banks be withdrawn. This is the right of a bank to file a consolidated return with a non-banking corporate subsidiary. At the present time banks are allowed to file a consolidated return with an ordinary business corporation when there is an affiliation in corporate organization. The effect of this has been that banks are allowed to write off against their net income losses sustained by the subsidiary and, also, to take advantage of the offset provision by reducing its tax on account of local taxes paid by its subsidiary.

TAXATION OF CORPORATIONS.

The 1927 commission considered the problem of taxation of banks and corporations to be an interrelated one and in its plans for the revision of the tax on banks, the problem of taxation of corporations formed an integral part.

Until 1929, corporations were taxed under the method proposed by the 1906 commission. The 1906 commission had found that the method then existing of taxing special franchises and general franchises of corporations by local assessors was entirely unsatisfactory. The 1906 commission carefully analyzed the subject and its report contained explanations of the legal effect and economic incidents of such a tax that has not since been surpassed

The 1910 commission successfully carried out the plans of the 1906 commission for the taxation of corporations and, until 1929, corporations, except the utility, bank, and insurance groups, were taxed under the provisions of Amendment Number One upon their franchise value as determined by the State Board of Equalization.[2]

The commission of 1917 criticized the franchise method of taxation, but apparently did not believe that it was necessary to change the method as its recommendations contemplated that the franchise tax be retained as part of the State's tax system[3] The franchise method of taxation continued until 1929

THE 1929 COMMISSION'S RECOMMENDATIONS FOR A CHANGE IN THE FRANCHISE TAX.

The 1929 commission considered the franchise tax on corporations as a joint problem with the tax upon banks and prevailed upon the Legislature to treat both types of business enterprises in the same manner.

The reasons underlying the change by the commission are disclosed by the following excerpt from its report.[1]

> "The trend in modern tax reform is distinctly away from the theory of the general property tax. Tangible property, or at least land and buildings, will doubtless continue to be taxed where located and without deduction for debts. In addition to such property taxation, there is rapidly being developed a system of business taxes imposed where the business activity is carried on, and measured by the earnings of the business or by some approximation thereto. In connection with its statistical study, the results of which are set forth later in this report, the commission's technical staff has subjected the present franchise tax to an exhaustive test with respect to its adequacy as a modern business tax, and measured by this test, as will be seen from the figures there presented, it it without merit * * *
> "The commission has a positive reason for suggesting a change in the form of the present franchise tax. It wishes to make it available for use as an element in the solution of the tax in operation leads to the conclusion that there are no strong reasons for preserving the present form of the tax. On the contrary, the proposed changes in the form of the tax may be expected to improve greatly its equity and general usefulness as a business tax."

This excerpt from the special report may be considered to state the commission's theoretical and legal case justifying the treatment of the franchise tax as an emergency measure. The theoretical argument was that the trend in modern tax reform is distinctly away from the theory of the general property tax and as the franchise tax was a property tax it should be discarded; the legal argument was that the commission wished to validate the tax on banks.

Upon the whole, the tax upon corporations under the "According to or measured by income" statute has been satisfactory. It is true that including banks and corporations in the same tax statute presents questions which would not otherwise arise and in some respects make the taxing statute artificial in nature. These difficulties, however, can only be eliminated by having a distinct basis for the tax on banks and the tax on corporations. The present measure furnishes a satisfactory basis for the taxation of corporations and should be retained. Basic improvement in the act can not be made until a different method for the taxation of banks is provided by concessions from the federal government in the form of liberal amendments to section 5219 of the Revised Statutes of the United States.

The improvement of greatest merit that could be effected would be to have an established rate of tax for all corporations. This would necessitate the elimination of the offset for taxes on real and personal property paid to localities and a corresponding reduction in the amount of the tax rate. Under the provisions of the act at the present time, all corporations are taxed at the rate of 4 per cent according to or measured by their net income. On the amount of the tax thus determined, they are allowed an offset up to 75 per cent of the amount of the tax for taxes paid to localities, but in no case can more than 10 per cent of real property taxes be used as an offset.

In other states where the offset feature has been a part of the tax statute, it has been abandoned for a straight tax on or according to or measured by net income. Four states, Mississippi, Missouri, North Dakota and Wisconsin, have attempted to utilize this device but have found it to be unsatisfactory. In a publication by the National Industrial Conference Board, Inc., the history of the offset provision in these states is given[2]

> "Four states, Mississippi, Missouri, North Dakota and Wisconsin, have experimented with provisions in their tax laws allowing the taxpayer to offset against the income tax the amount of property tax paid. In Wisconsin, the original act of 1911 contained a provision allowing the taxpayer to offset against the income tax the amount of personal property tax paid. The law was in effect until 1925, when it was repealed, leaving the income tax a part of the tax system separate and distinct from the personal property tax. Under the Wisconsin plan, the taxpayer paid the personal property tax when it exceeded the income tax and paid the income tax when it exceeded the personal property tax. The original intent of the Wisconsin legislature was to supplant the personal property tax with the income tax, but it was thought advisable to retain the personal property tax until the income tax had become established as a part of the fiscal system. It was further believed that the difficulty of administering the personal property tax would be overcome, since the taxpayer would pay the personal property tax in order to reduce the income tax.
> "This system, no doubt, had some effect in increasing the valuations of personal property. Prior to its adoption, owners of personal property escaped the property tax. Under the 'personal property offset' plan, it was possible to exact some tax from all persons having any taxpaying ability, indicated by either property or income. However when the owner of personal property had no income tax to pay because of allowable deductions from gross income, the incentive to pay the personal property tax was removed. Administrative difficulties were experienced with the Wisconsin provision, because (1) Taxpayers desired to have personal property classified in real property, (2) Many taxpayers prepared returns when no tax was due and thus incurred considerable expense to the state.

[1] 1929 report, pages 267, 268
[2] State Income Taxes, volume 2, pages 88, 89

"A further objection to the use of the 'personal property offset' is the interference with the application of the progressive income tax rates. For example, assume that A receives $10,000 net income from property, and B receives $10,000 for personal services, and that A's personal property tax is equal to or less than his income tax. A and B will pay the same amount of tax, but A has greater taxpaying ability since a portion of his income is funded. If A's property tax should exceed the income tax, then it would work out so that A would pay a larger tax than B, although their incomes are equal. The personal property offset at least served one useful purpose in Wisconsin, and that was to insure revenues while the income tax was still in the experimental stage.

"North Dakota, probably influenced by the Wisconsin plan, introduced the 'personal property offset' in 1919. Objections similar to those in Wisconsin were raised and it was repealed after only a few years experience with it. Under the Missouri Act of 1917, the taxpayer was allowed to offset against the income tax both real and personal property taxes. The provision purported to substitute the income tax for the property tax for state purposes. The property offset so seriously affected the yield of the income tax that it was repealed after two years' trial."

Exact data in this State are difficult to obtain, but from the best evidence available, it seems that the offset provisions work to the advantage of the large corporations possessing large property holdings to the disadvantage of the small corporations that own little, or leases, business property. For the present, the offset provision can be justified as an expedient in that it insures to the State a minimum amount of revenue and requires each corporation to pay taxes either to the State or local government equivalent to the amount of taxes paid by national banking associations.

Allowance for depletion.

There are many changes which can be made in the statute at the present time which will tend to improve it. The chief of these is that the depletion allowance in the case of oil and gas wells be restricted to the allowance under the federal statute. At the present time, oil companies are allowed to compute their allowance for depletion either upon the basis of the Federal Revenue Act or under section 19 of the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act. Under the provisions of section 19 of the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act, January 1, 1928, is established as a basic date from which to measure gains and losses for property acquired prior to said date. Under the Federal Revenue Act the basic date is March 1, 1913. The use of the 1928 basic date has worked to the distinct advantage of oil corporations. Many of these concerns paid the minimum tax of $25 because of the liberal depletion allowance they were able to take by using the January 1, 1928, value on their properties. It is therefore recommended that the act be amended so that the allowance for depletion in the case of oil and gas wells will be computed on the same basis as under the Federal Revenue Act of 1928. This the committee believes will result in increased taxes from these organizations to the extent of $300,000.

Deficiency assessments.

Under the provisions of section 25 of the act, the Franchise Tax Commissioner has authority to assess a deficiency tax against a corporation whenever he determines that the tax disclosed by the original return is less than the tax disclosed by the examination by the commissioner. The only limitation of time to make this examination is that the commissioner make it "as soon as practicable after the return is filed."[1] The Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act has not been in force long enough for serious questions to arise under the provisions of this section. It should be remembered, however, that the tax to be paid by corporations, is, under the act, a lien upon all the property of the corporation as of the first Monday of March. It is very possible that the title to the property of corporations may in many instances become clouded because of the failure of the corporation to correctly state the amount of its tax in original return and a deficiency assessment levied thereafter by the administrator of the act. Some limitation should be placed upon the time within which a deficiency assessment may be levied. This will insure to corporations that their tax liability has ended and no further taxes for the taxable year for which a return has been filed will be assessed.

Refunds.

Under the provisions of the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act, where a tax has been illegally or erroneously computed, the corporation is entitled to a refund of the amount erroneously or illegally assessed. There is no limitation of time within which such refunds should be claimed. It is possible that due to suits now pending, corporations that have not protested their tax payments were entitled to a refund of such part of their tax. All such refunds bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum It is possible under this provision for a taxpayer not to contest the validity of certain provisions of the act but to allow other taxpayers to assume this burden. If such taxpayers contesting the act are successful, then all corporations having a similar question in their returns would be entitled to the benefit of the refund provision This provision should be so reconstructed that before a corporation would be entitled to a refund it would be necessary for the corporation to file a protest and bring a suit upon the protest within a specified time.

[1] Statutes 1929, chapter 13, section 25

Definition of "doing business," and other amendments.

The present definition of "doing business" in the act excludes many corporations from the tax provision of the act. The committee recommends that this definition be so revised that all corporations having the right to do business be included within the provisions of the statutes

Other amendments of a minor nature should be made in the act which would strengthen the act and improve its administration. These include: the allowance of a deduction for federal income taxes, for only that portion of the tax payable upon California business, and a change of one month in the time for final suspension for nonpayment of taxes and the surcease of tax liability.

MINORITY REPORT OF ASSEMBLYMAN ISAAC JONES.

I find myself not in accord with the foregoing report in the following particulars:

First—Regarding the present system of separation of sources.

Second—Regarding a personal income tax law.

Third—Regarding the membership of the governing board of the Research Department if created in the Board of Equalization.

First: I can not join in the recommendation of the majority of the committee, "That for the present the existing system of State taxation involving 'separation of sources' be retained"

The author of that system, Professor Carl C. Plehn, in a statement to the 1921 Revenue and Taxation Committee of the Senate and Assembly, in joint session, declared that the system was never designed to carry the load being imposed upon it and that the plan of gross receipts taxes had broken down under the burden. The professor was speaking of the system in operation under the provisions of so-called Amendment No. 1, (I am writing from memory; probably I am not repeating the professor's exact words, but the essence of his statement is contained in the language I have used)

I consider that Professor Plehn was justified in his statement to the Legislative committee in 1921 and I believe that the breakdown has become intensified in the years that have passed since the 1921 session.

The gross receipts plan of taxation, of the "separation of source of revenue under the provisions of 'Amendment No. 1,'" has not conformed to the requirements of good government the greatest good to the greatest number. It has tended to place the greater tax burden where the load can not properly be placed, and has lessened the load on taxpayers who justly should bear the heavier burden.

It was promised for Amendment No. 1 that, under its provisions, all future fiscal needs of the State would be met by the gross receipts tax on public utilities and that the result of writing this amendment into the constitution would be a reduced tax on real estate in the counties. These promises for its operation have not been justified.

Under the working of Amendment No. 1 the public utilities corporations have been relieved of all burden of local taxation, and it is justly claimed, the utilities have, to a very considerable degree, succeeded in passing the tax burden that properly belongs to them to the consumer of the utility. While the gross receipts plan of taxation in California has been a good plan for the corporations, it has not been a good plan for the common property owners.

At the same time, during the years that have passed since the adoption of Amendment No 1, the State has increased the number and character of its functions and has imposed an unfair portion of this increased burden of maintenance upon the counties. An example of the burden unfairly imposed upon the counties is found in the matter of support of the schools, orphans' aid, the needy blind, and assistance for the aged. These are all matters of great importance and matters that should be fully supported, but the support should come from the State as a whole and not from the counties.

Of the great number of briefs received by this committee none was unqualified in praise of the present system; even those utility companies occupying a favored position at the present time admitted the faults and shortcomings of the system.

Under the tax system provided by Amendment No. 1 there can be no such adjustment of the rates as will impose even approximately a just and equitable burden of taxation between the public utility property on the one hand and common property on the other, between the property of the different classes of public utilities, or even between the property of different utility companies of the same class.

Further, in its operation, the tax system provided under Amendment No. 1 unjustly imposes an additional tax burden upon some of the counties of the State and with the same injustice lightens the tax burden upon other counties.

Under this system an equitable tax burden is impossible. This injustice to the counties was recognized at the time Amendment No. 1 was adopted and, because of this fact, the constitutional amendment contained the following provision: "Until the year 1918 the State shall reimburse any and all counties which sustain loss of revenue by the withdrawal of railroad property from county taxation for the net loss in county revenue occasioned by the withdrawal of railroad property from county taxation."

Commenting upon the loss sustained by the counties, the Tax Commission of 1917, page 126 of the report, said as follows:

> "Another adjustment which it is necessary to make is that in the case of counties suffering because of the withdrawal of railroad property. If the present system of separation is continued, in all fairness it will be necessary to make adjustments with counties suffering net losses because of the withdrawal of all operative property of public utilities.
> Under the present provision of the constitution, adjustment can be made between the State and the several counties only for losses suffered on account of the withdrawal of the railroad property. (Provision not operative after 1918.)
> This commission has made a detailed study of this particular phase of the matter and recommends a change in the present method of determining the loss.
> Under the method adopted by this commission it was found that San Bernardino County, which is the heaviest sufferer, lost $134,016 93 more than she had been reimbursed during the five years from 1911 to 1915.
> Figures on the other counties will be presented later during the session, if it shall appear that where a county has suffered on account of the withdrawal of operative property other than operative railroad property, adjustments of the loss should be made. There is no good reason why reimbursement should be made for loss sustained by the withdrawal of operative railroad property than for loss sustained by the withdrawal of other operative property.
> If a county has suffered loss in the past or should suffer loss in the future because of the development of public utilities, that loss should be in some way adjusted either between the State and the county or between the different counties themselves. There certainly is no justice in allowing one county to gain and another county to lose because of the present system of separation under Amendment No. 1."

Continuing on page 129 of the report, the Tax Commission of 1917 says:

> "In approaching a possible solution remedying the evils which have been pointed out as existing under the present rigid provision in the constitution, it is hardly necessary to say that to leave the present system stand as it is would be an utterly irresponsible way of handling the matter. Such a procedure would lead to continued and greater inequality and injustice."

I believe that the portions of the report of the 1917 commission that I have here set out were printed in that document as the result of clear vision and sound logic on the part of the commission. I believe that their finding in 1917 is applicable to the situation as it exists today. The Martin Commission of 1929 is in substantial accord with the report of the 1917 body. I am convinced that the conclusions set out in these reports are correct.

I therefore consider recommendations First, Second, Third and Fourth on page XXII of the Martin Commission Report correct in theory and justified by fact, and that it is for the best interest of the taxpayers of the State of California that these recommendations be enacted into law.

Second: Recommendation No. 6 of the Martin report is as follows:

> "Sixth: That the people of the State be given an opportunity to record clearly their desire regarding the substitution of a personal income tax for the present tax on intangible personal property and such other classes of personal property as it may prove desirable to eliminate from the tax base."

I believe the tax situation as it exists in California not only justified but emphatically demands that a personal income tax be provided. The constitution authorizes a personal income tax. The Tax Commission of 1917 suggested a personal income tax and the Martin Commission recorded a belief in the justice and equity of taxation that would come about with the enactment of a law providing for a well considered income tax.

The suggestion that California enact such a tax law will probably meet the opposition that enactment of personal income tax laws in other states has met. This is the same opposition that has been urged against forward-looking legislation of all time: "Stop!"; "Linger and wait!"; "It is premature!"; "It is inopportune!"; and "The time is not ripe!"

I believe that the people of California will approve a personal income tax. I am certain that the enactment of a personal income tax law will provide a more equitable spread of the tax burden. Therefore, I approve Recommendation No. 6 of the Martin Commission but feel that it does not go far enough and believe that the commission should have emphatically recommended that a personal income tax law be enacted for the State of California.

Third. I am of the opinion that the Research Department recommended to be established in the State Board of Equalization should be under the coordinate control of the Governor of the State, the chairman of the Board of Equalization, the State Controller, and the Director of Finance, sitting as a governing board of such department. Such controlling board, through the various offices of its members, would have a wide source of information as to all of the needs of the State, and in its personnel would include those individuals most familiar with, where and how facts necessary to full information concerning tax matters could be obtained. Every State taxing agency would be represented on this board and the contributions of each member in directing the activities of the research department should add to its efficiency and to the value of its work.

Aside from the exceptions noted, I am in substantial accord with the report of the majority of the committee.

ISAAC JONES.

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.

The select committee appointed to escort the Governor to the bar of the Assembly announced to the Speaker of the Assembly the presence of His Excellency, James Rolph, Jr., Governor of the State of California.

At the invitation of Hon. Edgar C Levey, Speaker of the Assembly, Governor James Rolph, Jr., was escorted to the platform by the following committee: Messrs. Riley, Cronin and Witter.

ADDRESS OF THE HON. JAMES ROLPH, JR, GOVERNOR OF CALIFORNIA, BEFORE THE ASSEMBLY, JANUARY 23, 1931.

Hon. Edgar C. Levey, Speaker of the Assembly, introduces the Governor.

Enter Hon. James Rolph, Jr.

GENTLEMEN OF THE ASSEMBLY: The purpose of my visit this morning is to pay my respects and my compliments to the Assembly. I did not have an opportunity on the sixth day of January, 1931, of presenting to you here at the joint session of the Senate and the Assembly, the Governor's inaugural address in presenting it on the outside steps of the Capitol Building I did not, therefore, have an opportunity of coming into your Chamber and meeting you all in person. Since the inauguration, nearly all of you have done me the honor of calling upon me in the Governor's office I could not under any circumstances permit you to leave on a recess without coming and returning the compliment of the calls and visits which you have all paid to me Therefore, I come in person and return the calls and to recognize that after 18 days of good work here, you are about to recess according to law, remaining away approximately 30 days and returning to take up the problems of discussion of the bills which you have introduced Here are the representatives of the people; here is the typical cause of our democratic government, here the people have sent their representatives from every village; from every farm, and from every town; from every part of the great State of California; from the great congested centers of population, to meet as their representatives to discuss matters and for the purpose of legislating for their welfare. It has never been my conception of government that the Chief Executive should interfere with the conduct of the government to satisfy the people He is the head of the government and he should not exert himself in the matters pertaining to the economics of the Senate or the Assembly He should not use a "big stick" He should not carry on politics He is the representative of that branch of government which is supreme authority for the State and therefore you have seen nothing in the shape of politics; you have seen nothing in the shape of interference, I have done nothing on my part, except as I saw it My conception of the duties of the Governor, duties of the Assembly and duties of the Senate is that they should work together and I have endeavored in harmony and unity to cooperate during these brief 18 days we have held executive authority over the administration on which we are just launching. You will go home to your various parts of our State and your people will not ask you, "What did you do this time?" They won't ask you that because the papers are heralding it not only all over the State, but all over the United States They will not ask you that because they will know that you have passed legislation and that you are sincerely attentive to this unemployment problem; that you have delved into the surplus which is there for the purpose of creating necessary work for improving buildings and for building new and needed buildings and that you have advanced the welfare of our State. You will go home and they will say, "Well, this is the first time you have come from a session of the Legislature that we have not seen a row. We have seen work done and we sent you for the purpose of doing work."

Before this call, I have had an opportunity of discussing many problems with you

In my inaugural message, I set forth after weeks and weeks of study, after getting the best advice I could, many suggestions which I would bring to your attention You have taken hold of those matters in real earnest and in keeping with the many problems which confront you today. We have had many serious problems in the United States during the past 14 months and I will avoid most of the details which are not necessary to repeat here When the losses in the stock market are forty-five billions of dollars, you could not expect to get all of the necessary relief through the legislative action of the State of California. We have shown the way throughout the United States that we are capable of handling the situation and that confidence will be restored in the State of California or by the action of the Assembly and the Senate. During the brief period you have been here you have authorized the expenditure of $5,125,000, you have ordered public building; you have authorized the departments of the State government through the progress of public works to proceed, and you have indicated the work which you want to go ahead We are on our way Instead of permitting work to remain in the Department of Architecture through no fault of the Department of Architecture, but simply because this work had to go ahead, and with the confidence of the representatives in the Senate and Assembly, we are going ahead and do the work as a business institution would, employing the best outside architects to build and create plans and specifications so that the work may be that art of the American Institute of Architects, and the administration is trying to place in the hands of well educated, experienced architects throughout various sections of California where the buildings are to go up and is employing architects privately so that the work may go ahead Therefore, we have been taking hold of the remedial bills passed during this first part of the session to see that the work goes ahead.

When I was in Los Angeles last week, I learned at the Ebell Club and in newspaper channels that there is a splendid feeling throughout the State. I have met many men and women from all over the State; I have spoken of the fine thing it is to see the Legislature of the State of California and the Governor cooperating; that we are gettting work done and their progress is manifest on every hand

It will be necessary to pass deficiency bills for some $200,000 not anticipated by the former administration in the plans for the completion of the State Building at Los Angeles.

There will be measures coming here today trying to separate the Division of Oil and the Division of Mines from the Director of Natural Resources. Oil, as I have pointed out in my message, represents $321,000,000 and is an important part of the welfare of our State in value And there is a great contest waging between the oil producers of the United States and the importers of foreign oils from Mesopotamia and from Turkey and other foreign ports shipping to the United States in competition with the oil produced in California. There is a body of twenty-five men, all oil men, now at Washington, known as a Governor's Oil Conference, called by the governors of Kansas and Oklahoma They are discussing with the Secretary of the Interior and with the President and Congress ways and means that will prevent the importation of these foreign oils in competition with our own oils by the passing of a tariff that will put a tariff on the importation of foreign oils so that we may stabilize the oil in the United States There ought to be an oil representative of the State of California there with them There ought to be an Oil Department in our State of California where knowledge of oil is known by the director and furthermore the director should not be appointed by the Director of Natural Resources but there should be a department where the director is appointed by the Governor and the department responsible to the Governor You know how difficult it is for the Governor to appoint a Director of Natural Resources that knows about mining, that knows about oil, forestry, and all the other resources of the State. You might get a fish and game man to be Director of Natural Resources and it is very difficult to get an oil man to serve under a man who knows other natural resources and knows nothing about the business of the oil industry and therefore for the purpose of giving these two great resources an opportunity to function you will find bills being introduced for your discussion at your recess for the purpose of giving to the Governor the opportunity of putting the oil on its feet if possible and to put mining on its feet. In every part of the State where mining may be conducted they are handicapped by high prices, by high employment insurance. There are more fortunes in the bowels of the earth of California than ever were taken out in the days of '49 We must help the mining industry of the State Gold has not increased in value The price of gold is $20.60 an ounce A man can not make wages because it is not profitable to produce gold, and, therefore, I repeat that it is estimated that there is more gold in the bowels of California than ever before in the palmiest day of mining. A miner can not today make a day's wages out of the mines of California. Capital will not come in and invest their money to develop that great industry which needs help. I believe there should be a Department of Mines irrespective of the Department of Natural Resources. There will be a bill received, prepared with my recommendation, from the mining men of the State I have a bill that will be before you, a bill that will open up again the one outstanding great resource of our State that builded the city of San Francisco, and the city of Sacramento. Gold trinkets are manufactured from it. The domes of our public and municipal buildings are always gilded with it. Gold is in a greater demand than it ever was before We want to help mining in every possible way To try and correct this problem we should give some thought to this matter.

I mention these matters to you Mr Speaker, and to the members of the Assembly, so that you can think about them when you are away on your recess There are also questions about changes of boards and commissions to make them more responsible to the Governor for good, efficient government, not for the purpose of firing people, not for the purpose of hampering, not for the purpose of the spoils system; but for the purpose of putting into effect our principles of government. After receiving a million votes, surely the Governor ought to have a council in which he can have a majority on the board The Governor should not have to continue with three or four of his members on the board Therefore, I have approved the bill which is coming into here from the Senate, Mr. Speaker, for your consideration I come for the purpose not of discussing these matters, they come to you by messages from the Governor; they come to you in letters and communications from the Governor. I have come to show that this is the first time in many long years that there is no politics between the Assembly and the Senate The Governor is trying to do the best he can to help out the State in the emergency. I want every one of you to feel there is no politics in the Governor's office because I am no politician and I know nothing about politics The only reason that I have succeeded, if I have succeeded, is because I attend to business; because I have something to show the people through public buildings which have been built. The best kind of politics is to do something that the people like us to do; because after all, the people want to see something for the use of their money. As I told you before, when you go home you are going to get a "Thank you" for the work that you have speeded up and what it means to the welfare of the people of our great State.

I thought it was necessary for me to get a leave of absence if I left the State for a minute, an hour, or a day. I thought I ought to tell you that I have been invited to open the fair, to which the State contributes to some degree, as the first fair of the season, at El Centro on the seventh of February. There will be there, or have been invited, the governors of Arizona and Nevada and the governor of Lower California has also been invited. As a representative of the State of California, I should return the calls. I should run over officially for a minute or two simply to call on the governor of Lower California, solely for the purpose of returning the call and to go into Arizona to see Governor Hunt because of the Boulder Dam Project about which there is some disagreement between the states of Arizona and California that might be straightened out by the governors. A deputy attorney from Washington, D. C., has been in to see me, and we think that a friendly discussion on the parts of your Governor and the governor of Arizona will do more to bring an early end than a great long drawn out controversy to the Supreme Court of the United States. Whereas a friendly discussion of the matter might bring it to a speedy conclusion. I have never seen a problem of human endeavor that can not be settled. The proper way to settle these matters is by a meeting between the chief executives. Therefore, I might be out of the State for a day, if the governors come to California; because after all, the motto of the United States is honest friendship with all nations; and if I return that call, I am doing a friendly act on the part of the people of California to our southern neighbor. So that if I have to go, I bespeak for that permission on your part. So I am here primarily to thank you for your calls upon me and to bid you goodby before you go. I hope you get a very refreshing recess. When you get away from this building where United States Senators have been elected—where men have gone to high places throughout the world; where many governors have come to these old Chambers of this old Capitol I come as your Governor this morning, Mr. Speaker, to thank you for the courtesy that you have shown to me as the new Governor and to prophesy the fact that we are going to get along fine; we are going to build up this State of California. You are going to see that period of prosperity. Captain Dollar told me the other day that ships are now going out of San Francisco and Los Angeles filled, which has not been done before; and we are going to see that the railroads are carrying freight throughout the United States. You can see the stock market steadily rising in the value of stock; you can see a better feeling coming along. What you have done pleased me so much I am sure it pleased the people of the State. I have come now to thank you for calling, and I hope that harmony and unity will confront the people of California. I thank you, Mr. Speaker, and members of the Assembly; I thank you for the compliments you have just paid me.

In the Senate this morning, I left a request that the Unemployment Committee have an appropriation of approximately $50,000 to be set aside for ascertaining the facts throughout California, the causes and cure of the necessary help on the unemployment situation. The data has been compiled by your State Community Unemployment Committee. It has the backing of Archbishop Hanna, Bishop Parsons, and the Jewish Rabbis, who are all serving on the committee of unemployment matters without pay. I want a little later on to extend some of the information which has been compiled and which I have left with the Senate, which will recommend to you the necessary procedure to pass an act creating a commission, nonsalaried, for the purpose of ascertaining facts so that we will know how many men and women are unemployed in this State. What caused it, what is necessary to be done to alleviate the situation. It is in such fine, splendid form, that it would be an education for you to listen to it when it comes over here for an emergency. I have therefore recommended it to be passed in the Senate. It is an act to create a State Unemployment Commission to study the problem, the proposed committee therefor to make an appropriation for that purpose. The principal positions are as follows: (The Governor here read a letter and a copy of a proposed act together with other papers, then closed his remarks.)

RESPONSE BY HON. EDGAR C. LEVEY, SPEAKER OF THE ASSEMBLY.

Mr. Edgar C. Levey, Speaker of the Assembly, replied to the Governor:

Governor Rolph, on behalf of the members of the Assembly, I express to you our very deepest thanks for the honor of your visit and for the very important message which you have just conveyed to us. The people of California, who are our constituents, are certainly appreciative, I am sure, to you for the magnificent program of legislation which you have recently submitted to the Legislature in line with your determination to alleviate unemployment in this State. Coming, as I do, from your city and my city of San Francisco, and, therefore, being fully cognizant of your record as mayor of that great metropolis, I feel sure that, with you at the helm of your ship of State, we are destined to go on and to progress to a point of success which has never before been attained. On behalf of the eighty members of this Assembly, I thank you, and, as Presiding Officer of this House, I express to you my personal appreciation for your great work In closing, Governor, I assure you of the unqualified approval of the course already set in motion by you in this Assembly, in which I feel certain the people of California join.

WHEREAS, As a result of that discovery of gold at Coloma, on January 24, 1848, there came to California those hardy immigrants who, upon their arrival discovered that California held not only gold, but a wealth of other resources and of beauty as well, and

WHEREAS, During the period of over fourscore years that has since elapsed this great commonwealth has grown and prospered, and within that period has reached a place high in the aggregation of our several states which compose this nation; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Assembly, when it shall adjourn this day, do so in commemoration of the eighty-third anniversary of the discovery of gold, and in commemoration of the dauntless courage and high ideals of those rugged pioneers who founded this great State.

Resolution read, and on motion, unanimously adopted.

ADDRESS BY HONORABLE H. E. DILLINGER.

The following remarks were made by Mr. Dillinger in moving the adoption of the resolution:

We have just listened with much interest and profit to the remarks of our Governor concerning the part that gold has played in California history.

As the days go by and the years roll on, we are becoming more and more engrossed in our daily round of duty, so more and more with the fleeting years it is becoming fitting and needful that we should pause in the busy turmoil of our daily lives and turn our thoughts backward, to reflect for a moment upon the achievements and the high ideals of those pioneers of yesterday, who carved from out the vastness of the forest and the trackless plain, this great State that we love, to draw, if we can, from their precept and example, renewed inspiration that shall sustain us and guide us aright as we face the problems that lie before us now.

Today we are returning to our respective homes, to counsel with our constituents respecting the wisdom of our acts, to reflect upon the task that lies before us upon our return, that our labors may find fruition in wise laws.

The twenty-fourth of January marks the anniversary of a great event in California's history—a new epoch in the history of the world. Fourscore and three years ago, on that January morning, from the little valley of Coloma, there sped forth to the world the magic word that gold was found. But it is not alone for the mere accidental discovery of gold that we mark the day. Rather it is for the momentous events that flowed therefrom and wrote upon the fair white page of time the record of the deeds of men, turned another spotless page on which to spread the stirring annals of an empire born to the world that day. The golden voice of the yellow siren called to her side, here on the sunny slope of the broad Pacific, the very flower of the nation's manhood and womanhood, for none but those of the highest courage could dare the great adventure and none but the very fittest and finest could survive its hardships. The lure of adventure and gold called them from the plow, the forge, the bench, and they broke the clasp of clinging arms to follow that call into the land of the setting sun, braving the dangers of plain and sea.

By such men as these, upon a strength of purpose such as this, and upon their high ideals of simple honesty and common justice was founded and built our priceless heritage. Nor is all the pioneering yet done. We face today some of the most gigantic and perplexing problems that have ever faced any people. So let us now, in the light of those high ideals, this day be consecrated to the task that lies before us, that we may prove worthy of that heritage and wisely administer that trust.

Tomorrow, once again, we are assembling in the little valley of Coloma, and I bring to you, ladies and gentlemen of this Assembly, and to your friends, a most cordial invitation to join with us in commemorating that great event and honoring the memory of those hardy argonauts and I move that when we do this day adjourn, that we do so out of respect to the memory of James W. Marshall and those rugged pioneers who, through their unquenchable spirit and lofty ideals, have bequeathed to us this priceless heritage.

IN ASSEMBLY.

ASSEMBLY CHAMBER,

Quorum present.

During the roll call, when the name of Hon. Myron D. Witter was called, the Speaker requested the members of the Assembly to arise in respect and memory of the passing of Hon. Myron D. Witter, a member of the Assembly.

EULOGY BY MR. KLINE.

Hon. Chester M. Kline, Speaker pro tempore of the Assembly, arose and addressed the Assembly as follows:

I have a duty to perform this morning for which I feel totally unprepared and absolutely inadequate. When the roll was called this morning, silence followed the calling of the name of Assemblyman Myron D. Witter. His voice will be forever silenced in this Hall for he was called into the Great Beyond, Thursday of last week.

Assemblyman Witter has been in poor health for years and though very often in physical pain he never complained. For such was his character.

When he left at the beginning of the recess he went home and gradually grew worse. He was taken to the hospital for an operation, but as soon as it was performed the physicians knew that there was no hope.

The funeral services were held Sunday in the Presbyterian Church in Brawley and, at the suggestion of Speaker Levey of this Assembly, Assemblyman Craig, Assemblyman Brock and myself attended, not only to represent the Assembly, but to pay our own last respects. The church was crowded, every available seat taken, showing the respect and the honor in which the Assemblyman was held, every walk of life being represented there from Imperial County. The front of the church was an entire mass of flowers, mute tokens of that same love and respect. The most impressive of all was a huge chair made of beautiful roses and carnations representing the Assembly.

I first met Assemblyman Witter years ago as a fellow publisher, but I never really knew him until he was elected to the Assembly five years ago, the present session being his third one.

Although shy and retiring, all those who came into close contact with him were compelled to honor and respect and greatly admire him for his sterling qualities and ability. While in the Assembly I had frequent conferences with him over legislation. He never, in considering bills, thought of the effect that they might have on his personal career; his first consideration always was whether they would benefit his district of the State regardless of his own personal political future, and that was his attitude through life.

He went to Imperial years ago, when that valley was only a desert and it was due to his ability as a publisher and his personal efforts that caused Imperial Valley to "blossom as a rose" and become one of the most fruitful and productive sections in the State of California.

He has been foremost in the movement to harness the Colorado River to save Imperial Valley from possible extinction and to use the water for the development of agriculture. He was one of the prime movers in the fight in the valley before he came to the Legislature and when he came here he handled the Boulder Canyon Dam legislation, and it was his help personally, and through his newspaper, that spurred on that remarkable little band of men in Imperial Valley through the long years of labor and expense, in a campaign that finally ended in the passage in Congress of the Boulder Canyon Dam legislation which will end in the construction of the Boulder Canyon Dam, the biggest engineering project of its kind in the forty-eight states. If he had never done anything else than this we can apply the words "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

I could not help but think when I sat there in the church that this thing of Life and Death is a very peculiar and mysterious proposition.

We are born, we live and we die, but to have a man taken away in the prime of his life, when he has just reached that period when he can be of the greatest good, seems beyond our understanding. He was 51 years of age and every year of his life had contributed to his wisdom, to his ability to perform things in every walk of life, and then just when he has reached that period he is taken away.

"I can not say,
I will not say
That he is dead.
He is just away.
With a smile on the face
And a wave of the hand,
He has wandered into an Unknown Land."

And so our only consolation and the consolation of the family is to feel and to know that he has just gone on a journey, a journey which we shall take. It may be sooner or it may be later, but when we do take it we know that he will be waiting there at the other end of the line and there he will be answering the Roll Call in a Greater Assembly, that shall not meet for a day, not for a month, but for all time, presided over by the Eternal Speaker, the "Almighty God from out Whose hand the centuries fall like grains of sand."

And now Mr. Speaker, I move that a committee of three be appointed, to draw up a suitable resolution in honor of Assemblyman Witter, to be printed in the Journal, and that an engrossed copy be sent to the bereaved family.

And I do also move that when we adjourn this day we adjourn out of respect to our departed member.

APPOINTMENT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.

In accordance to the above resolution the Speaker appointed Messrs. Kline, Brock and Craig as such Select Committee.

PRAYER.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Lawrence Wilson, Chaplain of the Assembly.

READING OF THE JOURNAL.

During the reading of the Journal, on motion of Mr. Easley, its further reading was dispensed with.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

On motion of Mr. Sewell, Mr. Bonelli was granted leave of absence for the day.

PRESENTATION OF PETITIONS.

The following petitions were presented, and ordered printed in the Journal:

By Chief Clerk:

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
STATE OF NORTH DAKOTA.

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME: I, Robert Byrne, secretary of state of the state of North Dakota and keeper of the great seal thereof, do hereby certify that the following copy of Senate Resolution C, Twenty-Second Legislative Assembly, state of North Dakota, has been compared by me with the original resolution on file in this department, and that the same is a true copy thereof, and of the whole of such resolution.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the great seal of the state at the capitol in the city of Bismarck, this eighteenth day of February, A.D., 1931.

ROBERT BYRNE, Secretary of State.
By CHARLES LIESSMAN, Deputy.

SENATE RESOLUTION C—HAMILTON AND ATKINS.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION FOR MEMORIAL TO CONGRESS.

Be it resolved by the Senate of the State of North Dakota, the House of Representatives concurring; that

WHEREAS, During the World War and at the time that the Price-fixing Act of Congress became effective and was put in operation, No. 1 northern wheat was selling as high as $3.49 per bushel at Minneapolis, and other agricultural products were selling accordingly; and

WHEREAS, The minimum price of $2.17 per bushel for No. 1 northern wheat at Minneapolis fixed by Congress, was in fact made the maximum price; and

WHEREAS, During this time No. 1 northern wheat was selling at an average price of $4.41 per bushel in the allied governments; and

WHEREAS, During the war the price on all other commodities used by the farmer in connection with agriculture, together with freight and transportation rates, were increased by leaps and bounds, and these prices were for a long time, and many of them still are maintained on such commodities, and especially is it true of freight and transportation rates; and

WHEREAS, A large part of the agricultural indebtedness was created during the time that the price of agricultural products was considerably higher than at present, and then during the period of inflation of our currency; and

WHEREAS, The farmer during the period of deflation was made the shock absorber, so that now it takes approximately 6220 bushels of wheat to pay an indebtedness that could have been paid with 1000 bushels prior to the price fixing and the deflation periods; and

WHEREAS, As a result of these conditions thousands and hundreds of thousands of once prosperous farmers in this state and Nation have lost their homes and their all by mortgage foreclosures; and

WHEREAS, The price of agricultural products during the present year have in fact been below the cost of production; and

WHEREAS, There is no adequate way of refinancing existing agricultural indebtedness and the farmers are at the mercy of their mortgagees and creditors throughout this state and Nation; and

WHEREAS, Unless immediate relief is given thousands and hundreds of thousands additional farmers will lose their farms and their homes and millions more will be forced into our cities and villages, and the army of unemployed will necessarily increase to alarming proportions; now, therefore,

The legislative Assembly of the state of North Dakota respectfully petitions the Congress of the United States of America to pass Senate Bill 5109, known as the "Farmers Farm Relief Bill," in order that the agricultural indebtedness of this state and Nation may be speedily liquidated and refinanced and agriculture saved from utter ruin and destruction.

The farmers ask for no charity—they simply ask "that American agriculture be placed on a basis of equality with other industries." They ask that the Federal Reserve system be made to function for them, as it is functioning for other industries. Since the Federal Reserve Bank is now loaning federal reserve notes to New York banks at 2 per cent interest—and since our government refinanced the foreign nations to the extent of $15,000.000,000 at less than 2 per cent interest—we feel that this bill asks nothing but simply justice and a square deal for agriculture. As a nation we have protected industries by tariff laws for generations, and we feel that the farmer is now entitled to first consideration at the hands of Congress. Be it further

Resolved, That sufficient copies of this resolution be printed and the secretary of the state requested to mail a copy to the President of the United States and the President of the Senate of the United States, with the request that the resolution be read from the desk, and a copy to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States, with the request that the resolution be read from the desk; and a copy to the governors of all of the states in this Union, and a copy to the president of the senate of all of the states in the Union, with the request that it be read from the desk; also a copy to be mailed to the speaker of the house of representatives of all of the states in this Union, with the request that it be read from the desk.

JNO W. CARR, President of the Senate.
J. L. ROSHOLT, Secretary of the Senate.
C. VERNON FREEMAN, Speaker of the House.
C. R. VERRY, Chief Clerk of the House.

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, February 16, 1931.

To Whom It May Concern.

WHEREAS, During the past three or four years there has been a burden put upon the property owners of this city and county by continued increases in taxes from year to year; and, whereas this unusual burden and the stress of the economic situation in our whole Nation has resulted in hundreds of property owners being forced to pay penalties to retain their properties or relinquish the same and lose their equities; and, whereas this situation will not be bettered or relieved unless some drastic means are taken to remedy the situation; and, whereas, the Southwest Protective Association has consistently used its influence in the past to help the overburdened taxpayer; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we earnestly call upon the members of our State Legislature to enact some corrective taxation reduction measures that will help lighten the load, and earnestly urge our representatives in the Legislature to be intensely vigilant in voting down any bills favoring increases in taxation. Be it further

Resolved, That we submit as indisputable that appreciable remedies as aforesaid would aid in encouraging home owning and home building, which has so appreciably declined in the past fifteen or eighteen months.

Resolved, also, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to each of the following Assemblymen: Samuel M. Greene, Emory J. Arnold, Willard E. Badham, Chas. W. Dempster and James E. Stockwell, and to State Senators J. W. McKinley and George W. Rochester, to the reading clerks of the two branches of the State Legislature, and to the three newspapers of this locality and one copy for the files of this association.

By Chief Clerk:

WHEREAS, This organization has been advised that it is the intent of said Assembly Bill No. 127 to also affect any child that may have been adopted by others in case the natural parents have found it necessary to relinquish their rights over such child; now, therefore, be it, and it is hereby Resolved, In the event that said Assembly Bill No. 127 does affect the right of adoption, that Hope McFall Unit No. 249, American Legion Auxiliary, does hereby go on record as opposing the passage of said Assembly Bill No. 127 and strongly express our belief that the passage of said bill will constitute a hardship and a detriment to the progress of child welfare.

WHEREAS, Winter living conditions in a great part of southern California have become unhealthy and intolerable by reason of the filth and dirt thrown off by the smudge pots used by a small portion of the inhabitants thereof; and

WHEREAS, The people of southern California have extensively advertised it as an ideal location for home sites, and have especially advertised the desirability of its winter climate and by reason of the truth thereof, large numbers of people have located here; and

WHEREAS, The smudge menace has increased and will constantly increase unless regulated by legislative act until it will be undesirable and unsafe to live within the areas of the smudge evil, which areas are being constantly increased by reasons of the increased use of smudge pots and the extension of territories in which they are being used, and their use in higher temperatures than has heretofore been the custom, until practically the whole of southern California will be affected; and

WHEREAS, Members of the Pomona Ebell in the county of Los Angeles have established homes and do not desire to be compelled to abandon them, which will be necessary unless they secure relief from the condition which interferes with the health of their families and makes their home life unsanitary and unpleasant; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the Pomona Ebell Club of Pomona, respectfully appeal for relief to the legislative bodies of the respective counties of southern California and the legislative body of the State of California; and, be it further

Resolved, That we appeal to the Women's Clubs of the various communities not at present so directly affected by the smudge evil for assistance in securing the necessary regulations; and, be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution, signed by the president and secretary, be forwarded to the board of supervisors of Los Angeles County, to the Legislature of the State of California now in session, to the Governor of the State of California, and to the women's clubs of southern California.

POMONA EBELL CLUB.

Corresponding Secretary.

I can not say, and I will not say
That he is dead. He is just away
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand—
He has wandered into an Unknown Land,
And left us wondering. How very fair,
It needs must be, since he lingers there.
And you, oh you, who the wildest yearn
For the old time step and the glad return,
Think of him the same, I say—
He is not dead, he is just away.

Resolution on Assembly Bill No. 1206, prohibiting employment agencies from charging fees to workers sent to work on public works.

WHEREAS, It is generally known that many contractors and subcontractors on public works hire their laborers through private fee-charging employment agencies, which exact unreasonable fees from such laborers; and

WHEREAS, It is a matter of common knowledge that there exists collusion between foremen and superintendents of public works and private employment agents, by which laborers are frequently discharged and hired, in order that more fees could be collected by private employment agents; and

WHEREAS, It is wrong in principle that a worker hired to perform labor on public works should be compelled to pay an employment fee for the privilege of doing work for the people of the State, or other political division of the State; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of the Steam Shovelmen's Union, Local 45, in regular meeting assembled, on February 7, 1931, do hereby urge the passage of Assembly Bill No 1206, introduced by Assemblyman T. M. Wright, to prohibit any person to charge fees to workers who are sent to work on any public works; and, be it further

Resolution on Senate Bill No. 26, providing that prevailing rates of wages should be paid on public works.

WHEREAS, The practice of employing men on public works at lower rates of pay has been detrimental to the interests of American workers whose standard of living demands that they be paid fair wages for a fair day's work; and

WHEREAS, Many unscrupulous contractors are known to have taken advantage of prevailing unemployment to depress wages, thereby further aggravating the privation and misery which is the lot of thousands of workers at the present time; and

WHEREAS, This policy of cutting wages is unfair to contractors maintaining decent wage conditions and prevents them from securing contracts; and

WHEREAS, Contractors and subcontractors who are awarded public works contracts should not be permitted to lower the standard of living of the workers of our State by paying wage rates that are lower than those prevailing in the communities where public works are pursued; be it

Resolved, That we, the members of the Steam Shovelmen's Union, Local 45, in regular meeting assembled, on February 7, 1931, do hereby urge the passage of Senate Bill No. 26, introduced by Senator J. Resolution on Senate Bill No. 83, and Assembly Bill No. 54, providing that only citizens of the United States should be employed on public works.

WHEREAS, The State of California has appropriated millions of dollars for public works in order to relieve the present condition of widespread unemployment among the people of California; and

WHEREAS, It is generally known that the contractors and subcontractors doing public work employ foreign-born workers who have not become citizens of the United States in preference to American citizens; and

WHEREAS, The alien laborers are employed by contractors principally for the reason that they work for less wages than American citizens are willing to work for; and

WHEREAS, The practice of employing aliens on public works tends to lower the standard of living of American workers and citizens; be it

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, February 20, 1931.

Mr. Edgar C. Levey, Speaker of the Assembly,
Sacramento, California.

DEAR MR. LEVEY: The motor car dealers of northern California take this opportunity of expressing to you their sincere thanks for the efforts of the members of the Legislature in adopting Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 9, which provided for the appointment of a committee to attend a motor vehicle conference of the several western states in Portland on February 6th.

This meeting was held for the purpose of having the several states enact uniform motor vehicle legislation similar to the Legislature in California.

The result of the conference was of great value to California, and the legislature of Washington and Oregon now has pending bills which provide for the same rules of road, and the same laws that exist in California will be enacted at this session of the legislature.

The committee appointed by both houses of the Legislature did much to bring about the favorable result of the conferences of the several legislators of the several states who met in Portland.

We believe that the uniform laws that are now being proposed in the several western states will bring about a better understanding of the law for the people of the several states when traveling on the highways of our states.

The motor car dealers of California are more than appreciative of the kind cooperation of the members of the Senate and Assembly in aiding them to adopt uniform motor vehicle laws in the several western states.

Very truly yours,

MOTOR CAR DEALERS ASSOCIATION OF SAN FRANCISCO.

DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY, OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,

Hon. Edgar C. Levey, Speaker,
California Legislature, Assembly Chamber,
Sacramento, California.

MY DEAR MR. SPEAKER: In the matter of the memorial of the State Legislature of California, and accompanying Assembly Joint Resolution No. 7:

It is true the Navy is reducing personnel from 84,500 to 79,800, and this reduction is practically completed. It is being accomplished by curtailing first enlistments and by discharging men by special order, who so request such discharges All men discharged under honorable conditions, recommended for reenlistment, and applying for reenlistment within three months from date of discharge have been accepted. Men discharged for other reasons, and honorably discharged who have failed to apply within three months of date of discharge have not been accepted.

The statement contained in Assembly Joint Resolution No. 7 that men are being surveyed out to accomplish this reduction is not borne out by the facts. During the current fiscal year from July 1, 1930, to January 31, 1931, 828 men have been discharged for physical disability. Figures for the corresponding period in past fiscal years are as follows: 1930, 1023 men discharged for physical disability; 1929, 983 men so discharged, and 1928, 1172 men so discharged.

Sincerely yours,

C. F. ADAMS.

A bank which locates or commences to do business within the limits of this state, and a corporation which commences to do business in this state, after the effective date of this act, shall thereupon prepay the minimum tax hereunder, and upon the filing of its return within two months and fifteen days after the close of its taxable year its tax for that year shall be adjusted upon the basis of the net income received during that taxable year. Any bank or corporation which is dissolved and any foreign corporation which withdraws from the state during any year shall pay a tax hereunder only for the months of its fiscal year which precede such dissolution or withdrawal, according to or measured by such proportionate part of the net income of the preceding taxable year as the number of months of the year prior to such dissolution or withdrawal bears to the entire preceding taxable year. In any event, each such corporation shall pay a minimum tax of twenty-five dollars for such period.

If any bank or corporation discontinues actual operations within the state in any year and thereafter has no net income but does not dissolve or withdraw from the state, it shall in the succeeding year and thereafter until dissolution, withdrawal or resumption of operations, pay an annual tax to the state of twenty-five dollars.

The tax liability imposed under this act shall attach whether a bank or corporation has a taxable year of twelve months or of less duration."

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.

The following report of Select Committee was received and read:

The members of this Assembly were shocked to learn that our good friend and coworker, Assemblyman Myron D. Witter, was called into the Great Beyond.

He was a staunch friend, an ideal family man, a legislator who by his earnest and unfailing efforts and devotion not only to his constituents but to the entire State, marked him as a man particularly fitted for his legislative work.

Conscientious in everything his attitude was always an unselfish one. It was never a question what effect any legislation might have on his own personal future but always that high principled thought: "What is best for my district and for the State?"

Therefore, be it resolved, that we extend to the bereaved family our sincere sympathy with the assurance that we feel he has not lived in vain, and that the Chief Clerk of the Assembly be and he is hereby directed to forward to the bereaved family an engrossed copy of this resolution and that the same be spread upon the pages of the Assembly Journal.

MY DEAR GOVERNOR: The committee appointed by you to proceed to Washington, D. C., to confer with officials of the United States on the California State Water Plan, begs leave to submit the following report:

MEMBERSHIP OF COMMITTEE.

The personnel of the committee was:

Colonel Walter E. Garrison, Director of Public Works, Chairman.
Edward Hyatt, State Engineer.
Major A. M. Barton, Chief Engineer, State Reclamation Board.
W. B. Mathews, General Counsel, Metropolitan Water District.

State Senator B. S. Crittenden, Chairman, Legislative Water Committee.
State Assemblyman Robert P. Easley, Member, State Legislative Water Committee.
W. M. Wiley, Secretary Kern County Water Commission.

OBJECTIVES.

The first recommendation of the California Joint Federal-State Water Resources Commission, whose report was presented in January, was that "a commission authorized to represent the State be appointed to go to Washington and endeavor to come to a definite understanding with the executive department of the federal government" on these matters.

While the main objectives of your committee were well expressed in this report, the committee also had in mind the arranging, if possible, for an inspection on the ground of the California water project by subcommittees or members of Congress next summer, and for the transmittal to Congress and making public by the Army engineers the report of the War Department on this project. Minor objectives were conferences with many federal departments relative to cooperation with the State in various matters not directly connected with the water plan, if time permitted.

Appointments with the President, the Secretary of the Interior, members of Congress and others were made before leaving California.

CONFERENCE WITH PRESIDENT HOOVER.

The committee arrived in Washington February 16th, and met with President Hoover that morning. We were very cordially received by the President and presented to him your message of greeting. After an opening statement, a brief written resume of the mission of the committee and of the California Water Plan was presented. This statement covers the entire subject and a copy is attached to this report as Exhibit A.

CONFERENCES WITH OTHER FEDERAL OFFICIALS.

During the next two days your committee called upon Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur Secretary of Interior; Dr. Elwood Mead, Commissioner of Reclamation; General George B. Pillsbury, Assistant Chief of Engineers, War Department; the Board of Engineers of the War Department, consisting of seven members; and officials and engineers of these and other executive departments.

Your committee also discussed the California Water Plan with Senators Johnson and Shortridge. A meeting was arranged with the California House Delegation, which was attended by all California members except Congressman Clarence Lea, who was sick, at which meeting the whole plan was explained with the aid of a relief map sent to Washington for this purpose.

Your committee also called on Congressman Murphy of Ohio, chairman of the Interior Department Subcommittee on Appropriations, relative to having his committee inspect the California water project next summer.

FINAL CONFERENCE PRESIDENT HOOVER.

Before leaving Washington another meeting with the President was arranged, attended by Director of Public Works Garrison and State Engineer Hyatt, at which the progress made was explained to him. As before, we were most graciously received.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

The pressing water needs of California and the project to relieve present shortages with Federal-State cooperation as recommended in the joint Federal-State report were competently presented to both executive and legislative branches of the United States government. In the executive departments a clear understanding of our water problems was found and effective cooperation received. Our congressional representatives, while helpful in every way possible, seemed unadvised of the plan and took the view that California must press the plan locally and enact the necessary constitutional amendments before definite action could be had from the United States.

Senators Johnson and Shortridge assured us that they would jointly request the Senate to appoint a Senate committee to inspect the area involved during the coming summer and report its findings to the next Congress, provided, that the report of the Army engineers of the War Department is presented to Congress during the present session. The War Department has assured us that its report will be given to Congress before its adjournment March 4th.

The California House delegation passed a resolution requesting all Congressmen visiting California during next summer, to avail themselves of the opportunity of investigating the California Water Conservation Plan. Congressman Murphy assured us that he and his subcommittee would visit California during the summer of 1931 and would devote at least four days to the inspection of this project. Dr. Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, stated that he would accompany this committee during a part of that time. Dr. Elwood Mead, Commissioner of Reclamation, also signified his intention of accompanying this committee during its inspection of the project.

It is desired particularly to point out the importance of the report of the War Department and the progress made in expediting its transmittal to Congress. As soon as this report reaches Congress it is not only publicly available, but is officially before the Congress for action. Due to telegrams sent by yourself, the assistance of our Senators and Congressman, and by the appearance of this Committee before the assistant chief engineer and the Board of Engineers, we believe that this report will reach Congress and the California Legislature promptly and afford material basis for action by the Legislature during its second session.

CONCLUSIONS.

Your committee believes that the recommendations of the Federal-State Commission have been carried out as far as possible at this time. With the information and assurances received by your committee from the executive and legislative departments of the United States the way is open for the State of California, through its Legislature, to proceed further by preparing and submitting to the vote of the people of the State the constitutional amendments necessary before the State can act.

In arranging for inspection of the project by congressional committees and members and by expediting the War Department report, much has been accomplished. The executive departments are well informed and are sympathetic to federal cooperation on the California Water Plan. Congress, on the other hand, is not informed and much educational work will be necessary. Close and continuous cooperation between the State and federal departments, both executive and legislative, will be necessary to put the plan into execution.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

1. Immediate action by the California Legislature as recommended in the Federal-State report, in putting before the people of California the three constitutional amendments necessary for the execution of the plan. Detail of these amendments are given on page 15 of the Federal-State report.
2. The informing of Congress of the water problems of California and the proposed plan by congressional inspection trips, by furnishing to it data and information, and in all other ways possible.
3. Close and continuous contact with all federal agencies interested.

OTHER ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF TRIP.

While in Washington it was possible to take up with various federal departments many other matters of interest to California, particularly those affecting the Department of Public Works and the Reclamation Board. Conferences were held with officials of the Federal Power Commission; U. S Geological Survey, both water resources and topographic branches; National Forest Service; Department of Agriculture; and War Department.

Arrangements were made whereby a $5,000 additional federal allowance will be made available during the present year for stream gaging in California, and a commitment secured for an allowance of $100,000 for topographic mapping in California during the next biennium, contingent on being matched by the State, as compared to $35,000 formerly obtained Other important decisions, impossible of determination by correspondence, were also arrived at. In view of the multiplicity of cooperative interests of the State and the United States along these lines, and the availability of federal assistance, it is also recommended that much closer contact between State and federal departments on these matters be maintained in the future than has been had in the past.

Accompanying this report are three appendices as follows:

Appendix C—Small map of California Water Plan.

WALTER E. GARRISON,
Director of Public Works, Chairman of Committee.

EXHIBIT A.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 16, 1931.

To the President of the United States:

Subject: California Water Resources Commission.

Members of the commission:
Colonel Walter E. Garrison, Director of Public Works, Chairman.
Edward Hyatt, State Engineer.
Major A. M. Barton, Chief Engineer, State Reclamation Board.
W. B. Mathews, General Counsel, Metropolitan Water District.
State Assemblyman R. P. Easley, Member Legislative Water Committee.
W. M. Wiley, Secretary, Kern County Water Commission.

MR. PRESIDENT: This commission is here to ask your advice and help concerning a program of California water development, and as to how the United States can be interested in this subject which we think is of national importance.

Mr. President, I know that there are few, if any, men who personally know more about the California water situation than yourself, and, therefore, the engineering presentation need take but little of your time. We have heard and read your past public expressions regarding such great water storage projects as are proposed in California.

The California water plan has passed the visionary stage and is now definitely up for decision and a very potent factor in such progress has been your own interest and help in initiating the California Joint Federal-State Water Resources Commission and appointing thereon able and qualified representatives of the federal departments concerned.

This commission's report was made to you and to the Governor of California early in January and the first recommendation of the report was as follows:

> First, that a commission authorized to represent the State be appointed to go to Washington and endeavor to come to a definite understanding with the Executive Department of the federal government as to the terms upon which it will recommend to Congress that federal aid be extended, and also endeavor to arrange for the introduction in Congress of bills in conformity with such understanding. The importance of this can not be overemphasized. There is reason to believe that there is in process of formulation a new policy with respect to the federal relationship to the states as to water development. A federal commission is now studying this very question. Here there is a project most carefully investigated both by State and federal agencies which should go ahead and to which any new policy to be adopted may well be related.

I may say, Mr. President, that Governor Rolph is keenly aware of the importance of water problems in California and in his inaugural address in January said that he stood ready as Governor to do everything in his power toward finding a practical solution of these pressing problems. Therefore, Mr. President, this delegation representing the whole State of California is here at the direction of Governor Rolph to follow up the report of the Federal-State Commission and to attempt to obtain information which will permit the California Legislature, which will meet again this month, to take the necessary forward steps.

As you well know, Mr. President, the main water problem in California is water shortage, shortage during summer and fall in many places and all year in others. The second problem is flood control. There is enough water to fill all requirements and what is needed and what must be had is regulation and distribution. The character of water problems differs somewhat in different sections, but all parts of the State have such problems.

The California water plan as recommended by the Federal-State Commission is essentially a relief project. It does not propose irrigation of new lands with consequent increase of the overproduction situation, but is limited to the relief of developed areas, facing retrogression or abandonment, unless help can be obtained Relief is possible, but only with the assistance of both the State and the United States.

The most pressing urgency in which the aid of the Federal Government is believed justified and necessary is that in the southern San Joaquin Valley. Here the stream flow is small and irrigation from wells has badly overdrawn or exhausted the underground water supplies In this area about 400,000 acres now under irrigation of a high type and supporting a large population are seriously short of water, and it is estimated in the Federal-State report that unless new water can be brought in 200,000 acres of highly developed land worth $50,000,000 and producing crops of an annual value of more than $20,000,000 must largely go back to desert conditions. The Commission finds the Sacramento-San Joaquin relief project economically sound and goes on to state:

> "The Commission reached this conclusion without giving weight to the sentimental consideration that relief is essential if a large, highly developed and heretofore prosperous section is to be preserved. But that consideration is entitled to weight. Putting aside the loss of labor and capital already invested, it is not possible for these sections to go back in a large part to their original desert condition without a great toll of human misery and suffering This misery and suffering will just as surely be present as if the calamity were one of earthquake or flood, and the occasion is as truly one which justly calls for governmental assistance if the communities themselves can not bear the burden alone. In this case we believe they can bear the burden, if this burden is thrown on all the portion of the State benefited and not entirely on the lands directly assisted. Even if this were not so, our recommendation would still be that the project was one worthy of State and federal aid."

In Tulare County, about the center of this distressed area some 10,000 acres have already been abandoned and assessed valuations are decreasing

We believe, Mr. President, that a project of this kind, economically sound, involving no material increase in production, but rescuing 400,000 acres of valuable irrigated land from depreciation or destruction should be of more interest to the United States than an entirely new land project.

New water can best be brought into the southern San Joaquin Valley by means of the storage of an equivalent amount in the Sacramento water shed. This brings us to new areas of distress with different problems.

While the Sacramento drainage produces more water than the Colorado and far more than the ultimate needs of its own basin, in its present unregulated condition the summer flow has dropped so low that salt water from Suisun Bay has worked up the channels of the Sacramento-San Joaquin delta. This condition has resulted in curtailing irrigation to some extent and in endangering the whole delta section of over 300,000 acres of extremely fertile lands which produce crops valued annually at $30,000,000, as well as creating a fresh water shortage in the industrial section along Suisun Bay. This situation has been brought about by several causes, chiefly upstream diversion for irrigation. For the same reason navigation has been badly impaired in the upper Sacramento River and more so in the San Joaquin River above the delta At the same time flood control is a necessity in the Sacramento Valley and there is an existing project under way at this time to cost $51,000,000 in which the United States, the State, and local interests each pay one-third.

The government of the United States is, as we feel, directly concerned in the solution of the pressing water problems of these areas, particularly because of its interest in navigation, flood control, reclamation and the rescue of existing developments from threatened destruction.

For ten years past the State has studied these water problems in great detail, and a general Sacramento-San Joaquin Valley plan to best overcome them has been presented. This plan has been reviewed by the best engineers of California, and by the engineers of the War Department and the Reclamation Bureau and there is substantial agreement as to its being the best solution.

Large storage on the Sacramento River at Kennett near the head of the valley would be provided The stored water when released would flow down the river to the delta and be available for transmission into the San Joaquin Valley. Storage would be necessary on the San Joaquin River at Friant, 30 miles north of Fresno, from which point a high line canal would be taken south 157 miles to the Kern River.

This plan, if executed, would solve all of the problems mentioned and have other advantages. It would materially assist navigation and flood control on both rivers, would eliminate the salinity trouble and would rescue and relieve the southern San Joaquin Valley from the destructive effect of water shortage.

This project is estimated to cost about $160,000,000 total. The construction of certain items essential to the program costing approximately $20,000,000 can possibly be safely deferred some years, however, the entire program should be authorized at one time.

Revenues from sale of water are calculated on the basis of the reasonable ability of the lands to pay and from sale of power at competitive prices. While these revenues are large they are not sufficient to meet the total annual costs, and the Federal-State Commission concluded that the project could not be undertaken without State and federal aid.

Basing computations on an interest rate not to exceed 3½ per cent, the project was found economically sound if all benefits direct and indirect were taken into consideration. The Commission then stated:

> "It is manifest that the federal government alone can obtain money at 3½ per cent interest. It may well be that it can obtain or be willing to advance the money at a less rate of interest. It may also be that the federal government will be willing to advance funds for construction of certain portions of the project without interest."

The Commission recommended that the project be financed and built by the United States and operated by the State as far as practicable, the State of California to guarantee the United States payment of interest and principal as due, less such amount as the United States would contribute on account of flood control and navigation The difference between the annual costs and the revenues would be taken care of within the State.

The conclusions of the State reports are now completed. Reports are under way by the War Department and Bureau of Reclamation which we understand will be available shortly

Mr. President, we are seeking your counsel and advice on all phases of this subject. Advice at this time will be particularly valuable since the California Legislature reconvenes late this month, will adjourn in April, and will not meet again until 1933. Without better information relative to the participation of the United States in this project than is now available it is doubtful if much can be accomplished in the 1931 Legislature.

We have available detailed information and would be happy indeed to explain any items further.

Washington, D. C., February 16, 1931.

The complete report of the California Joint Federal-State Water Resources Commission will appear in full in the appendix of the final Journal as corrected by the Minute Clerk.

GOVERNOR'S OFFICE, SACRAMENTO, February 24, 1931.

To the Honorable, The Assembly of the State of California, State Capitol.

PROGRESS REPORT OF EXTENT TO WHICH STATE HIGHWAY AND STATE INSTITUTIONAL BUILDING PROGRAM HAS BEEN ADVANCED.

JAMES ROLPH, JR., Governor.

In accordance with my request to the Department of Public Works, that all public works be speeded up as a measure of affording a larger measure of employment to labor and a larger market to business, very substantial progress has been made in making these policies immediately effective. This is true both in construction and maintenance operations of the Division of Highways, and in the building activities of the Division of Architecture.

Generally speaking the State highway situation may be summarized as follows: State highway projects financed from the July 1, 1931–June 30, 1933, budget have been advanced as follows:

4 contracts awarded, total	$491,200
3 projects now advertised for bids, total	1,011,500
32 projects to be advertised for bids April 1, total	4,976,000
Grand total of advanced highway construction program	$6,478,700

In addition to the construction, the specific State highway maintenance program has been advanced as fast as seasonal conditions permit. This specific maintenance program includes such work as spraying roadside vegetation; dust oiling; contract and day labor work for furnishing rock for base reinforcement and oil surfacing.

The cost of this work, which will be well under way by April 1, will approximate $577,500.

By May 1 a program of specific shoulder improvement on sections of highway in Imperial and Riverside counties will be started, expenditures upon which will approximate $256,000.

It should be noted that this specific maintenance program is in addition to routine maintenance work and upkeep upon the State highways, which totals nearly $300,000 per month.

Special unemployment relief work upon the State highway system is affording employment to 3056 men. Of this number 1200 men are employed in the five unemployment relief labor camps; 175 men are employed on the special relief projects out of Monterey, the men living in Monterey; 1681 men are employed on the special relief maintenance crews. These latter men work on the basis of three days a week.

It is of interest to note that a careful check made on the men employed on the Monterey project showed an average of four dependents to each man employed.

Detailed information as to the construction and specific maintenance program is attached to this report.

The State institutional building program also has been advanced in a most gratifying manner. I feel that the detailed progress reports attached hereto fully justifies the action of the Legislature in acceding to the request made by me during the first half of the legislative session that the State Institutional Building Bills be passed in emergency preference order.

The following summary gives the status of building construction projects handled since January 5, 1931, by the Division of Architecture, Department of Public Works:

1. Total work put under way in field	$973,185
2. Total work pending contracts being executed	307,000
3. Total work now being advertised for bids	294,000
4. Total work drawings under way	2,464,000
5. Total work awaiting securing of sites or information	1,424,000
6. Two projects awaiting appointment of architects in private practice	50,000
Total value of projects	$5,512,185

MECCA-BLYTHE TOLL BRIDGE ACQUISITION.

Upon my instructions, the Department of Public Works has thoroughly investigated the stability, the suitability, and the value of the Blythe toll bridge. Engineers of both states and the bridge company participated in this investigation, which has just been completed. A full report in the findings of this investigation will soon be ready for submission.

The importance of this structure as a part of the interstate highway system of California and Arizona was such that I felt it my duty to personally contact the governor of Arizona and other officials of that state regarding this bridge. I found their attitude in this matter to be extremely cordial and agreeable. The state of Arizona is willing to cooperate with California to the fullest extent. Officials of that state expressed their willingness to participate to the amount of 50 per cent of a fair and just cost; the cost to be determined by joint action of the highway department engineers of the respective states and the bridge company.

The bridge company officials on their part have expressed their willingness to sell the bridge at a fair price. By agreement with Arizona officials, Colonel Garrison, Director of the Department of Public Works, and State Highway Engineer C. H. Purcell have entered into negotiations with the bridge officials.

In connection with the bridge, it will be necessary to add to the State highway system a piece of now existing county road adjacent to the bridge, and about four miles long.

The reports and proposed methods of purchase will be completed in ample time for the Legislature to take action during the present session.

The acquisition of the bridge by California and Arizona will eliminate the present unhappy situation in which travelers from the east find themselves compelled to pay a toll at their first entrance into California.

In order that a complete picture may be shown. I might further state that this bridge crosses the Colorado River at a point near Blythe. The desirability of making it a free structure to travel can be seen in the fact that it forms a direct interstate connection between Route 64 (Mecca to Blythe State Highway) in California and the Wickenburg-Ehrenburg road in Arizona. It forms an important gateway into California for transcontinental traffic through Phoenix from the east.

The states of California and Arizona contemplate, in their present budgets, to spend large sums of money on the roads leading to this bridge. The state of Arizona proposes to relocate a large part of the present road between Phoenix and the Colorado River. In so doing, it will transform the present desert road into a high speed, well aligned highway. Likewise, California is relocating its Route 64 in many places and transforming this important road into a high speed highway. The budget for the 1931–1933 biennium carries an appropriation of $300,000 for this road. It is certain this route is destined to become one of the most important and heavily traveled roads leading into Southern California and Los Angeles from the east, and that traffic over this route will be increased to many times its present travel.

SPECIFIC MAINTENANCE PROJECTS.

In addition to the routine maintenance work of upkeep to the State highways which totals nearly $300,000 each month, the Maintenance Department is making every effort to advance the specific program as fast as the seasonal conditions of the road will permit.

The spraying of roadside vegetation is already under way in some sections and will be well completed during March. This work will cover some 1150 miles and represents an expenditure of $80,000.

Specifications are being prepared covering the dust oiling work, which is one of the important seasonal programs from a motorist's point of view. This type of work is programmed for 1040 miles of roadway and 330 miles of shoulders at an expenditure in excess of $300,000 The greater part of this work should be advertised and under way the latter part of April, although road and weather conditions must always be considered in this work.

Preliminary reports are prepared and specifications under way for contract and day labor work for furnishing rock for base reinforcement and oil surfacing. The base reinforcement, etc. is estimated to cost $225,000 and the armor coat and oil processing work about $160,000 Approximately one-half of the rock will be produced under contract, and work will be under way as soon as contracts can be let, which should be by the middle of April. The balance of the rock will be purchased from commercial plants and hauled with rented or State-owned equipment The oil work will follow the production of the rock, and is planned to start by May 15th In addition to this work plans are under way for shoulder improvement in Imperial and Riverside counties totaling $256,000. This work should start about May 1.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were received, and ordered printed in the Journal:

By Mr. Speaker:

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT, FIRST ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL,
WASHINGTON, February 24, 1931.

Hon. Edgar C. Levey, Speaker,
California Legislature, Sacramento, California.

MY DEAR MR. LEVEY: The Postmaster General has asked me to acknowledge receipt of the joint resolution adopted by the Legislature of California, January 23, 1931, urging the Post Office Department to cease its survey for and action in reducing the personnel of the postal service of the United States.

It is indeed unfortunate that the members of the Legislature failed to ascertain the conditions before giving to the public such alleged facts. The resolution is based on false information and does not at all represent the conditions existing in the postal service.

At present owing to a large decrease in the volume of mail, from 7 to 15 per cent, in the larger cities, certain offices were found to be over-manned. In comparing the amount of mail to be handled with the number of men employed, it was determined after a careful investigation of the mail handling activities that there was an excess number of regular men being employed above the number actually required to maintain an efficient postal service.

Under similar circumstances, it is reasonable to assume that the ordinary business house would have dispensed with the services of these excess regular employees who are receiving approximately $2,100 each per year.

However, recognzing the fact that these men are civil service employees who are devoting their lives to the postal service, instructions were issued to use these surplus regular employees in any capacity until, by retirement or other causes, vacancies occur permitting these extra employees to be assigned to the positions involved.

In other words, the changes which have been made in the service have been so handled that no employee who had a regular job has been laid off or lost his position as the result of such changes.

In view of the unusual decrease in the volume of mail, less regular and auxiliary manpower is required, and, as it is mandatory under the law to work regular postal employees eight-within-ten hours, there is no other course to pursue but to organize the post office to require a fair day's work from each employee, and in doing this, where the volume of mail has materially decreased, it has been found necessary not only to reduce the amount of auxiliary assistance required, but to withhold filling vacancies in the regular force.

We can not increase employment in post offices unless there is sufficient work to employ additional men, and, of course, you appreciate the fact that the Post Office Department can not accelerate the post office business.

Very truly yours,

ARCH COLEMAN, First Assistant Postmaster General.

PRESENTATION OF PETITIONS.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, March 3, 1931.

WHEREAS, As a result of the general business depression now existing over our entire country and the Post Office Department's curtailment of service and retrenchment of expenditures, the substitute clerks in the San Francisco Post Office have been forced into a condition of actual want and suffering; and

WHEREAS, The Post Office Department is at this time conducting a survey by postal inspectors which is responsible for the present deplorable condition of the substitutes and of those dependent upon them; and

WHEREAS, Formerly the substitute clerks were given for the most part, approximately eight hours work per day, which enabled them to earn a bare livelihood; now, however, they are given only two or three, and, in some instances, one hour per day at the rate of sixty-five cents per hour worked; and

WHEREAS, We believe that during this period of depression with its unemployment of millions of workers in the country, when the Congress of the United States and other governmental agencies are making all possible attempts to alleviate suffering and adjust and improve conditions, the postal service should not add to the number of the unemployed On the other hand, we believe that this great governmental institution should make every possible attempt to provide employment for those who have been called into its service; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of Local No. 2 of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks, in special meeting assembled in San Francisco, California, on this, the fifth day of February, 1931, do hereby appeal to the California members in the two houses of Congress to insist that the Post Office Department call off the postal survey until the country's business again becomes normal, and that this department will pursue a most liberal policy in providing work for its substitute clerks; and, be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the President of the United States, a copy to each of the two United States Senators from California, and to the California members of the House of Representatives, a copy to the secretary of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks, and a copy shall be placed on the minute books of this organization.

Yours truly, JAMES L. QUIGLEY.

By Mr. Speaker:

RESOLUTION.

WHEREAS, Section 2653 of the Political Code of the State of California provides that the board of supervisors of the various counties of the State must annually levy a property highway tax not to exceed 40 cents on each $100 of assessable property, the proceeds of such tax to go into the various district road funds, and

WHEREAS, This tax must be paid entirely by the owners of farming land, and not by the owners of property located in cities, it is manifestly unfair and unjust to the rural population, especially so when the roads thus provided for are used more by city people than by the farmers; and it is also unjust for other reasons, namely:

That the city communities are much more benefited financially by reason of good highways than the farmers, because without good roads leading into the cities they would not grow and prosper:

That city and country property are taxed just the same for all other county purposes and the additional forty cents upon country property is an antiquated system adopted in the pioneer days of the country, but now no longer necessary:

That the government of this nation recognizes the tax burden that is now upon the rural districts and is endeavoring in every way to bring about some relief;

That many of the states have abolished all special road taxes and in place of such direct taxation are diverting the money received from the so-called gasoline taxes for the road funds:

If the county roads are built out of the gasoline tax, and the road tax is eliminated in every county in the State, each county would have only about 25 per cent less money to spend on roads at the present returns from the gasoline tax. At the rate it has increased in the past, within a very short time the revenue will be as great as it is now.

That it is imperative that some relief from the present excessive taxation upon the farmers be obtained and this can be helped materially by a repeal of the section of the State law herein before referred to providing for said road tax; therefore be it

Resolved, That the members of Sacramento Grange No. 12 do most respectfully petition the members of the California State Legislature to repeal section No 2653 of the Political Code of the State of California and to pass all necessary legislation that will hereafter prevent the farmers from being taxed in excess of any other class of taxpayers; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of the resolution be forwarded to the Clerk of the Senate and of the Assembly at Sacramento, and to the Honorable J. M. Inman, Senator, and Honorable Percy G. West and Roy J. Nielsen, Assemblymen, representatives from Sacramento County.

PRESENTATION OF PETITION.

The following petition was presented, and ordered printed in the Journal:

By Mr. Dillinger:

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, March 2, 1931.

Honorable H. E. Dillinger, Assembly Chamber

Subject: Assembly Bill No. 540 (Dillinger).

DEAR SIR: On behalf of the Chamber of Commerce of Calaveras County, which is acting in association with the chambers of commerce of Amador, El Dorado, Mariposa, Placer and Tuolumne counties, I venture to set forth the following in support of Assembly Bill No. 540.

1. It concerns the situation arising from the rate at which mountain streams have been tied up for external development in the valley and coast regions. Cities, power plants, irrigation districts, and finally the State plan have intervened. This bill of the mountain people, without impairing these accrued conditions, hopes to save a little opportunity for their own development before more external claims make it too late.

The propriety of this is generally recognized. Governor Rolph when speaking of water problems in his inaugural message said: "We may not rob or wreck one section, industry, or group, in order to sustain another." The Joint Legislative Water Committee had this passage in its 1929 report (p. 19), namely that "no water should be diverted from the area of origin which is now or which may ever be required for any beneficial use within such area of origin." The Division of Water Rights in the Department of Public Works said of the previous bills that only their method was questioned, but that "the underlying justice of such an idea is generally admitted." (1926 Report, p. 23.)

Therefore the subject of consideration is the bill's method of bringing the conceded aim into operation. The first endeavor has been to obtain flexibility.

2. To this end Assembly Bill No. 540 declares a mountain superiority of right "unless it be proved that such superiority would be unreasonable. What is unreasonable is a question of fact determined by comparing the relative needs, relative hardships, and all other facts and circumstances surrounding the parties and the regions."

The authorities will sustain, I venture to believe, that elasticity is the characteristic of these terms. It operates by conferring a discretion to treat each case according to its own facts. Thus, the Interstate Commerce Commission acts "in accordance with a general rule that Congress first lays down that rates shall be just and reasonable." Hampton & Co. vs U. S., 276 U. S. 394. Our Railroad Commission is acting upon the same basis. Other instances are that a statute authorizing the Secretary of War to determine what is "an unreasonable obstruction" of a navigable stream is proper. Wisconsin vs Illinois, 49 U. S. Sup. Ct. R. 163 at 170.

The latest instance is the new Oil Conservation Law. The District Court of Appeal and the Supreme Court have upheld its validity. The act directs the suppression of "unreasonable waste." Among other expressions is the following in the opinion of the Supreme Court: "The adoption, therefore, of such a measure seems to us to be within the scope of cases upholding other legislative enactments which have employed the so-called 'rule of reason'." People vs. Associated Oil Co., 80 Cal. Dec. at 607. (December 3, 1930).

4. The results of this in the present matter are fivefold.

(a) The objections to a fixed reservation are satisfied by substituting flexibility, and it is done in a way that escapes the counter danger of indefiniteness and uncertainty The indefinite possibilities of the term "reasonable" (which are what allow the elasticity), are accompanied by an investigation which results in making a particular application of it. By this application to each case separately it becomes freed of indefiniteness. A similar occurrence is where contracts for "reasonable time" or a "reasonable amount" or a "reasonable right of way" are good because the parties fix what it means by acting upon it, or if they do not act it is fixed by the courts from all the circumstances, and is precise thereafter.

(b) It has each future mountain mine, ranch, summer home or other use decided on its own merits, in contrast to having to get all the thousands of future mountain developments into one estimate.

(c) It requires, by settled interpretation of the term "reasonable," that each case be considered with regard to all sides that are affected It therefore has the advantage of assuring mutual consideration.

(d) It requires decision at the time when the use arises. It leaves no need for fortune telling As a consequence, until such time actually arrived, all of the supply would continue to be available for temporary use elsewhere.

5 The bill is further sustained by conformity to the 1928 constitutional amendment of article XIV. Section 3 of this article was made to read "that the waste or unreasonable use or unreasonable method of use of water be prevented," and that a water right "does not and shall not extend to the waste or unreasonable use or unreasonable method of use or unreasonable method of diversion of water." In the word "unreasonable" the bill is only using what is now a constitutional term.

6. A presumption of reasonableness is guided by the very reduced leeway that now remains for the bill's operation The bill is locking the stable door after most of the horses have gone. Ordinarily the presumption inclines toward lower levels as against the upper ones; but the lateness of the relief has altered this situation. It is probably fair to say, as is the bill's effect, that the burden of proof in future development should favor the mountain regions.

7 Vested rights have nothing to fear from the bill. The mountain superiority which the bill declares is placed only over claims "initiated after the passage of this act" Rights existing before the passage of the law are explicitly unaffected

Those coming after a law, on the other hand, always acquire any rights subject to the risks of the law as they find it Sutter Butte Co vs. R. R Comm., 202 Cal 179, affirmed in 279 U S 125; Butte etc Assn vs. R R Comm., 185 Cal 218, 225.

8 The bill's use of the term "mountain region" comes under the rule of the "farming neighborhood" case In holding that a statute concerning "farming neighborhoods" was valid the Supreme Court said: "Whether the particular region is a farming neighborhood, and whether the supplying of water to that neighborhood constitutes a public use, are questions of fact, which must be determined by the court before whom the proceeding is had" Lindsay Irr Co. vs Mehrtens, 97 Cal 676, 681. Localities may be classified according to their natural differences. 12 Corpus Juris, 1133, Sec 858; Id 1150, Sec 880, 45 Id 1376-8

9. Section 2 of this bill deals with its mode of operation, by fitting it into existing machinery without change, and without new offices or officeholders

The bill supplies a factor upon which the Water Commission will pass when considering an application to appropriate water. Anyone opposing a mountain region application will be putting this factor in issue by protesting, in usual form, before the Water Commission, subject to the same judicial recourse as now.

10 Section 3 of the bill saying that there is no intention to make it paramount to the law of eminent domain, doubtless would be understood without express words. Saving this explicitly, however, guards against misconstruction

11. Reference is sometimes made, in these discussions, to Finance Department filings under Senate Bill No 141 and Assembly Bill No. 773. It will be noted that these are only authorized for "a general or coordinated plan". This has acquired practical interpretation as the plan for the interior valleys. It is probably fair to conclude that these bills consequently fall short of covering withdrawals for future development within the mountain regions themselves

Between rival claimants who are alike unconnected with the State plan the State filings do not operate The records of the Division of Water Resources will confirm this It has continued to issue permits to appropriate water under such circumstances unabated

The only way that the mountain people could benefit by those bills, it seems to me, is by some Finance Department action transferring to some mountain representative some part of the State's claims. As this has not been attempted, I make no comment concerning the adequacy of the assignment clause of those bills to permit it.

A separate mountain measure therefore continues to be desirable.

12. It is evident that Assembly Bill No. 540, just because of its elasticity, does not assure the mountain counties absolutely. Its operation is a qualified one. Any results that they get from it will rest principally upon what they get from the Water Commission's handling of it

But with that admitted, there is still one important thing that I venture to think the bill itself assures It guarantees to the mountain people a right to be considered. With the power that it puts in the Water Commission it imposes a duty upon that office to make a sincere effort and render an honest judgment.

Without interference with current procedures, a fair disposition is thus made possible of this important question; and I venture to believe that it effectuates the endeavor to find a method in which operability would be a principal attribute.

Yours truly,

SAMUEL C. WIEL,
Attorney for Chamber of Commerce of Calaveras County.

Upon the withdrawal of any sum evidenced by any investment certificate hereafter issued, no interest shall be paid upon any sum which shall have been received by the association on account of such certificate within six months prior to such withdrawal, except that interest may be paid in respect of sums received on installment investment certificates within six months prior to the date of the final payment which the holder shall be obligated to make thereon. All investment certificates hereafter issued shall expressly state the limitation upon the holder's right to interest, as provided by this section in respect of such certificates. If a part only of the sum evidenced by an investment certificate is withdrawn, the sum withdrawn shall be deemed to be that first received by the association. No association shall make any contract with any of its certificate holders waiving in any manner the provisions of this section, and if any such contract shall be so made, such contract shall be void."

AMENDMENT NUMBER ONE HUNDRED TEN.

On page 14 of the printed bill, strike out all of lines 11 to 44, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Sec 5 06 Redemption of certificates. All investment certificates hereafter issued shall be subject to redemption, either in whole or in part, at the option of the association at any time after the issuance thereof, by giving the holder at least thirty days' notice of such intended redemption; provided, however, that an association may provide that such certificates shall not be subject to redemption for an initial period after the issuance thereof, which initial period in the case of definite term investment certificates shall not exceed two years and in the case of all other investment certificates shall not exceed six months. All investment certificates hereafter issued shall expressly state that such certificates are subject to redemption, and the period of notice which shall be required for redemption, and if there be an initial period in which the certificate may not be redeemed, shall also state such fact and the length of such initial period. The redemption price of all investment certificates shall be the value thereof at the date fixed for redemption; provided, however, that in the case of definite term investment certificates, such redemption price, if so provided in such certificates, shall include a premium of not to exceed one per cent of the principal amount thereof. On or after the date fixed for redemption as stated in the notice of redemption, each holder of an investment certificate called for redemption shall surrender his certificate properly endorsed to the association and shall thereupon be entitled to receive payment of the redemption price of such certificate, or of the portion thereof to be redeemed, and in case a certificate shall be redeemed in part, to receive a new certificate representing the unredeemed part thereof. If such notice of intended redemption shall have been duly given and if on or before the date fixed for such redemption funds necessary for such redemption shall be and continue available therefor, then, notwithstanding that any certificate called for redemption in whole or in part shall not have been surrendered, the interest thereon with respect to the amount called for redemption shall cease to accrue after the date fixed for such redemption, and all rights of the holder in respect of the amount so called for redemption shall forthwith after such redemption date cease and determine, except only the right of the holder to receive the redemption price without interest after the date fixed for redemption. In all cases the notice of redemption shall expressly state that interest will cease on the date fixed for redemption."

AMENDMENT NUMBER ONE HUNDRED ELEVEN.

On page 14 of the printed bill, strike out all of lines 45 to 52, inclusive, and on page 15 of the printed bill, strike out all of lines 1 to 15, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Sec. 5.07. Modification of certificates. If so stated in any investment certificate hereafter issued and subject to the conditions stated in this section and such additional conditions, if any, as may be stated in such certificate, any such certificate shall be subject to modification at the option of the association as to the rate of interest payable thereon, but not otherwise, at any time after such initial period as may be provided in such certificate (which initial period in the case of definite term investment certificates shall be at least two years, and in the case of all other investment certificates shall be at least six months) by giving the holder thereof ninety days' notice of such modification, and by mailing notice thereof to the commissioner; provided that if any holder of any such certificate within said ninety-day period shall demand the redemption price of his certificate and shall tender such certificate properly endorsed for surrender upon payment of such redemption price, then such proposed modification shall not take effect unless such payment shall be available for such certificate holder on or before the expiration of said ninety-day period. If such demand and tender shall be made and such payment shall not be made or made available, then such certificate holder shall be entitled, subject to section 6.02 of this act, upon tendering his certificate properly endorsed for surrender within fifteen days after said ninety-day period, to receive the redemption price of the certificate surrendered. For the purpose of this section, the redemption price of a certificate shall include accrued interest to the date of the payment thereof.

AMENDMENT NUMBER ONE HUNDRED TWELVE

On page 15 of the printed bill, beginning with line 18, strike out all of the printed matter down to and including the period on page 18, line 30, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Sec. 6.01. Notice of intention to withdraw. Each association must prescribe by its by-laws, or by contract with its shareholders or certificate holders, or by both, the period of notice of intention to withdraw which such association at its option may require, which period shall not be less than thirty days nor more than six months. All certificates hereafter issued evidencing shares or investment certificates shall state the period of such notice and shall also state that the right of the holder thereof to withdraw funds evidenced thereby is subject to the provisions of article six of this act. Each association may prescribe by its by-laws, or by contract with its shareholders or certificate holders, or both, the terms and conditions of withdrawal, provided such terms and conditions shall not be contrary to the provisions of this act.

Any notice of intention to withdraw shall be invalid unless it is given in writing to the office of the association at which the shares or investment certificates in question were issued, or at which the account of such association as to such shares or investment certificates is kept, or to the principal office of such association, signed by a holder entitled to make withdrawal, or by his attorney or agent, and unless it contains a statement of an intention or desire to make a withdrawal and of the amount to be withdrawn, either in dollars or by the statement that the withdrawal is to be in full or words to that effect. Any such notice shall also be invalid, subject to the subsequent provisions of this paragraph, unless it contains the following: its date; the time to elapse previous to making the withdrawal, which time shall be not less than the period prescribed for such notice by the by-laws or contract; a reference to or description of the shares or investment certificates from which the withdrawal is to be made sufficient for ready and clear identification; an address to which the association may send notices to such shareholder or certificate holder; and a statement that the title to the shares or investment certificates is the same as when issued, or if such is not the case, a statement of the state of such title as it then is. The omission of any fact or statement required by the preceding sentence shall not render a notice invalid, however, unless (a) within seven days after the receipt of such notice the association shall notify the shareholder or certificate holder of such omission, and (b) such omission shall not be corrected within seven days after such notice. A shareholder or certificate holder may at any time revoke or waive, either in whole or in part, a notice of intention to withdraw and thereupon such notice shall become invalid either in whole or as to such part, as the case may be.

All notices of intention to withdraw shall be filed when and as received by each association or by the several offices thereof in the order in which they are received, and each shall be kept on file with the exact time of the receipt thereof noted thereon or recorded, until it is paid or becomes invalid. When any notice shall have been on file for the period prescribed therefor, or for the period stated in such notice as the period to elapse previous to making the withdrawal (whichever shall be longer) such notice shall be a "matured notice" for all the purposes of this act.

No shareholder or certificate holder whose shares or investment certificates are pledged as security for a loan from the association issuing such shares or investment certificates shall be permitted to make a withdrawal or be entitled to give any valid notice of intention to withdraw in respect of such shares or investment certificates until the indebtedness for which such shares or investment certificates are security has been fully paid, except that withdrawals therefrom may be made without notice provided the full amount of such withdrawals shall be used to pay such indebtedness or any part thereof; provided that in the case of loans upon the mutual plan, such withdrawals without notice shall be permitted only at the option of the association unless the entire indebtedness shall be simultaneously paid.

No valid notice of intention to withdraw may be given in respect of definite term investment certificates, nor shall the holders thereof be entitled to withdraw prior to the maturity thereof except at the option of the association issuing such certificates; provided, however, that if an association is on a pro rata basis, as hereinafter defined, the holder of any definite term investment certificate which has not reached the date of its maturity may, notwithstanding the expressed date of maturity thereof, give thirty days' notice of intention to withdraw, and at the expiration of such period such notice shall be a "matured notice" and such holder shall be entitled to withdraw, subject to section 6.02 of this act. Every definite term investment certificate shall expressly state that such notice for said period of thirty days may be given at any time prior to the date of the maturity thereof in the event that such association shall thereafter be on a pro rata basis.

If the shareholder or certificate holder shall tender his certificate for surrender, duly endorsed, within ten days after any valid notice of intention to withdraw shall have matured, he shall be entitled, subject to section 6.02 of this act, to receive the withdrawal value of his shares or investment certificates or of that part thereof referred to in such notice, which withdrawal value is hereby defined as the full amount paid in upon the shares or investment certificates surrendered exclusive of the entrance fee, if any, together with dividends, profits or interest, if any, applicable thereto, subject to such adjustment of earnings or interest as may be provided by by-law or contract. Shareholders or certificate holders who shall have given notice of intention to withdraw and who shall fail to tender their certificates for surrender within ten days after notice from the association that funds are available for the payment thereof shall have no right to withdraw except after giving new notice of intention to do so and such prior notice of intention to withdraw shall become invalid for all of the purposes of this act; provided, such notice from the association shall have stated that unless such certificates shall be tendered for surrender within such ten-day period the holder shall have no right to withdraw except after giving new notice of intention to do so.

If in the case of any association the sum of the following, to wit, (1) the value of all shares or investment certificates or parts thereof in respect of which valid notices of intention to withdraw (whether or not the same shall be matured) shall be on file and unpaid, including notices of intention to withdraw by defaulting shareholders pursuant to section 3.05 of this act as well as notices of withdrawal generally pursuant to section 6.01 of this act; (2) the value of all shares which shall have matured pursuant to section 3.03 of this act and which shall be unpaid; (3) the value of all investment certificates in respect of which the holders, pursuant to section 5.07 of this act but subject to section 6.02 of this act, shall be entitled to receive the redemption price but which shall be unpaid, and (4) the value of all definite term investment certificates which shall have reached the expressed date of their maturity but which shall be unpaid, shall exceed three per cent of the value of all outstanding shares and investment certificates of such association, then such association, unless it is on a pro rata basis, shall be an "association on notice" for all the purposes of this act. If in the case of any association said sum shall exceed fifteen per cent of the value of all outstanding shares and investment certificates of such association, then such association shall be an "association on a pro rata basis" for all the purposes of this act; provided, however, that if said sum shall exceed ten per cent of the value of all outstanding shares and investment certificates of such association, then its board of directors may at their option by resolution declare such association to be on a pro rata basis, and thereupon such association shall be an "association on a pro rata basis" for all the purposes of this act An association which is on notice or on a pro rata basis shall continue to be on notice or on a pro rata basis, as the case may be, notwithstanding the fact that the sum of the foregoing items may become less than the respective percentages aforesaid, unless and until all of the foregoing items shall be paid or funds shall be available for the payment thereof In making computations for the purpose of this paragraph, shares and investment certificates shall not be deemed to be unpaid if the association has funds available for the payment thereof and has given notice of that fact to the respective holders thereof

Sec. 6 02 Limitation on withdrawals The term "matured withdrawal claims," as used in this article, shall include each and all of the following, to wit, (1) the value of all shares or investment certificates or parts thereof, in respect of which valid notices of intention to withdraw shall be on file, matured and unpaid, including notices of intention to withdraw by defaulting shareholders pursuant to section 3 05 of this act, as well as notices of withdrawal generally pursuant to section 6 01 of this act; (2) the value of all shares which shall have matured pursuant to section 3 03 of this act and which shall be unpaid; (3) the value of all investment certificates in respect of which the holders, pursuant to section 5 07 of this act but subject to section 6 02 of this act, shall be entitled to receive the redemption price, but which shall be unpaid; and (4) the value of all definite term investment certificates which shall have reached the expressed date of their maturity but which shall be unpaid.

Regardless of whether or not an association is on notice or on a pro rata basis, its obligation to pay matured withdrawal claims, and the right of shareholders and certificate holders to receive payment of matured withdrawal claims, shall be secondary and subsequent to the right of such association to pay, and to provide reasonable reserves for the payment of, the following: taxes, assessments, insurance and other sums necessary to protect and preserve its properties and its interest in properties (including those on the security of which it holds loans), principal and interest on borrowings by such association, otherwise than through the issuance of investment certificates; interest on investment certificates and dividends on shares, rent, compensation of officers, agents, salesmen and other employees, and other usual and ordinary operating expenses of such association, and commitments on its incomplete loans or investments, provided, however, that an association on notice or on a pro rata basis shall not pay any dividends on its stock or distribute any profits to its stockholders or make any loans or investments, except loans or investments pursuant to its obligations incurred before it became an association on notice Moreover, regardless of whether or not an association is on notice or on a pro rata basis, its obligation to pay matured withdrawal claims, and the right of shareholders and certificate holders to receive payment of matured withdrawal claims, shall be limited to payments from its cash on hand or in bank, proceeds from sale of investments and loans and other cash receipts of such association; and if the association is on notice or on a pro rata basis shall be further limited to payments pursuant to the subsequent provisions of this section.

If the sum of all matured withdrawal claims exceeds the amount available for that purpose, then, if the association is on notice but is not on a pro rata basis, payment of such matured withdrawal claims shall be made, to the extent of the funds from time to time available for that purpose, as follows.

First: To the payment of withdrawals in respect of investment certificates pursuant to section 6.01 of this act to the payment of definite term investment certificates which have reached the date of their maturity and to withdrawals through payments following notice of modifications pursuant to section 5.07 of this act, without preference of one type of such withdrawal over the other, according to the priority in time of the maturity of the claims for such withdrawals, which in the case of withdrawals pursuant to said section 6 01 shall be deemed to be the time notice of intention of such withdrawal shall have matured, in the case of withdrawals through payment of definite term investment certificates shall be deemed to be the date of maturity of such certificates, and in the case of withdrawals through payments following notice of modifications pursuant to section 5.07 of this act shall be deemed to be the date of the expiration of the period of such notice of modifications; provided, that as between the holders of certificates upon which the claim for withdrawal shall have matured at the same time, payment shall be made in the order of demand for or notice of such withdrawal, which in the case of definite term investment certificates shall be deemed to be the date of issuance thereof.

Second To the payment of withdrawals in respect of shares pursuant to sections 3.05 and 6 01 of this act and withdrawals through payment of matured shares pursuant to section 3.03 of this act, without preference of one type of such withdrawal over the other, according to the priority in time of the maturity of the claims for such withdrawals, which in the case of withdrawals pursuant to said sections 3 05 and 6 01 shall be deemed to be the time notice of intention of such withdrawal shall have matured and in the case of withdrawals through payment of matured shares pursuant to said section 3 03 shall be deemed to be the time such shares shall be declared by the board to be matured. In respect of shares so declared to be matured at the same time, then such payment shall be made in the order provided in the by-laws, or in the absence of such provision in the numerical order of issuance.

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this act, however, any association which is on notice but not on a pro rata basis may at its option pay in each month, with or without requiring notice of intention to withdraw, and regardless of the nonpayment of any or all matured withdrawal claims, not to exceed fifty dollars per person to any one or more of its shareholders or certificate holders; and withdrawals may be made at any time from pledged shares and investment certificates, whether or not the association is on notice or on a pro rata basis, and without notice, provided the full amounts of such withdrawals shall be used to pay the indebtedness for which such shares or investment certificates are pledged, or any part thereof; and, provided further, that in the case of loans upon the mutual plan, such withdrawals without notice shall be permitted only at the option of the association unless the entire indebtedness shall be simultaneously paid.

If the sum of all matured withdrawal claims exceeds the amount available for that purpose, then, if the association is on a pro rata basis, payment of such matured withdrawal claims shall be made once in each period of three months, to the extent of the funds available for that purpose, as follows:

First: To all matured withdrawal claims in respect of investment certificates until all sums payable thereon are paid and, as between several holders thereof, pro rata according to the unpaid principal thereof at the time of each such payment.

Second: To all matured withdrawal claims in respect of shares until all sums payable thereon are paid and, as between the several holders thereof, pro rata according to the unpaid value thereof at the time of such payment.

No association shall make any contract waiving in any manner any of the provisions of this section and, if any such contract shall be so made, such contract shall be void.

Nothing contained in this act is intended or shall be construed to impair the obligations of any contract existing at the effective date of this act in respect of the withdrawal or other rights of the holders of shares or investment certificates then outstanding, and the withdrawal and other rights of such holders shall continue to be governed by the obligations of their respective contracts, regardless of the provisions of this act. The provisions of this act, however, shall govern the withdrawal and other rights of the holders of all shares and investment certificates hereafter issued and shall also govern, to the extent that the same do not impair the obligations of contracts existing at the effective date of this act, the withdrawal and other rights of holders of shares and investment certificates then outstanding.

Sec. 6 03. Withdrawals without notice or before maturity. Any association, other than an association on notice or on a pro rata basis, may pay at its option any or all withdrawals without requiring notice of intention to withdraw or before the maturity of a notice of intention to withdraw, but no association shall agree in advance to do so. Any association, other than an association on notice or on a pro rata basis, may at its option pay any or all definite term investment certificates before the expressed date of maturity subject to such adjustment of interest, if any, as may be provided in such certificates, but no association shall agree in advance to do so. Except as otherwise provided in this act in respect of shares and investment certificates pledged to the association issuing the same and except as otherwise so provided in respect of payments in each month not to exceed fifty dollars per person to any one or more shareholders or certificate holders, no association on notice or on a pro rata basis shall pay any withdrawals except upon matured notice of intention to withdraw, nor allow the withdrawal of any definite term investment certificate before the expressed date of its maturity; provided, however, that an association on notice but not on a pro rata basis may pay withdrawals before the maturity of such notices if such withdrawals are paid in the order provided in section 6.02 of this act in respect of associations on notice and not on a pro rata basis; and provided further that an association on a pro rata basis shall pay withdrawals of definite term investment certificates after the maturity of notices of intention to withdraw subject to the same conditions as investment certificates of other classes. Any agreement contrary to the provisions of this section shall be void.

Sec 6.04. Reports while on notice or on a pro rata basis. Each association on notice shall, within twenty-four hours after becoming an association on notice, mail to the commissioner a statement that such association is on notice; and so long as such association is on notice or on a pro rata basis it shall mail to the commissioner daily or otherwise as the commissioner may direct a statement showing (1) the amount of its cash on hand and in bank; (2) the amount of its United States government bonds and treasury certificates; (3) the amount and description of all its other bonds; (4) the amount of all unpaid notices of withdrawal filed with such association; (5) the amount of all borrowings other than through the issuance of investment certificates; (6) the amount of all matured shares and of all definite term investment certificates of such association which shall have reached the date of their maturity; (7) the amount of its incomplete loans; and (8) any other data required by the commissioner.

Sec 6.05 Delay in paying after one year Whenever an association shall have been on a pro rata basis for a period of one year, the commissioner may in his discretion forthwith or at any time thereafter take possession of the property, business and assets of such association and retain such possession until its affairs be finally liquidated in the manner provided by law for the liquidation of associations by him, or until such association may be allowed to resume business upon such conditions as may be approved by the commissioner. The right of the commissioner to take possession under this section is not exclusive, but is additional to his right to take possession under each and every other provision of this act

Sec. 6.06 Payments received while on pro rata basis. In the event of the liquidation or dissolution of any association which shall have been on a pro rata basis, then notwithstanding anything to the contrary in section 13 16 of this act or elsewhere in this act, all sums paid in to such association on investment certificates or shares after such association shall have been on a pro rata basis shall be repaid in full before any payments shall be made to other certificate holders or other creditors or other shareholders, or to stockholders. An association which has issued and outstanding both shares and investment certificates shall not, while on a pro rata basis, accept any money on account of free shares. No association while it is on a pro rata basis shall accept any money on account of investment certificates or shares if the commissioner in writing shall have directed the association not to accept such money."

AMENDMENT NUMBER FIVE.

On page 4 of the printed bill, as amended in Assembly March 2, 1931, following line 28, insert the following:

"Sec. 2. Urgency measure. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure, deemed necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace and safety, within the meaning of section 1 of article four of the constitution of the State of California, and as such it shall take effect immediately.

The following is a statement of the facts constituting such necessity:

On February fourteenth of this year, the state supreme court handed down a decision in the case of Swenson et al vs Engelke et al, the effect of which is to nullify that portion of section 634 of the Penal Code which is designed to give protection to salmon in the ocean fish and game districts on the coast of California during certain closed seasons. The present law intended to provide a closed season of eight and one-half months during which time it would be unlawful to take or possess salmon in the ocean districts of the state. The greatest destruction to small and immature salmon is caused by fishing during this closed time and it was for the purpose of preventing this great destruction that the closed seasons were imposed.

The decision was made strictly on an interpretation of the statute, it being the judgment of the court that the present statute does not prohibit the possession of salmon in these closed districts which have been caught on the high seas beyond the jurisdiction of the state. It is impossible to enforce the closed term in these districts unless the possession of salmon is at the same time prohibited. Therefore, as a result of this decision, there is no closed season in these districts and great destruction to salmon, which are desperately in need of this protection, will result.

There is one exception to this statement, however, in the case of Monterey bay, which is one of the most important salmon trolling regions. The bay of Monterey and three miles beyond are within the jurisdiction of the state and as practically all the commercial salmon trolling is here carried on within this area, the present closed seasons can be fairly well enforced, a condition which does not exist in the other trolling areas of the state, where much of the trolling is carried on on the high seas outside the three-mile limit and where the laws can not be enforced to any great extent within the three-mile limit, thus bringing about a condition which discriminates against the Monterey and Santa Cruz fishermen and places them at a great disadvantage.

It so happens that the present open season of three and one-half months for the Monterey bay area is not the right season in that it opens too late to enable the fishermen to catch the fish which are mature, and for that reason their fishing is in a large part unprofitable and covers a time during which the destruction to small salmon is excessive.

The Monterey fishermen have just passed through a disastrous sardine season and many of them are so greatly in need of profitable employment that a serious emergency exists. The present urgency measure is designed to fix the open season for the Monterey bay region at the proper time and for this present year to open it on March fifteenth to relieve the distress now existing among these fishermen.

The bill, if passed as an emergency measure, also will prevent the excessive destruction of immature salmon both at Monterey and in the districts to the north and will enable the officers of the state to enforce the laws without the dissatisfaction and probable resistance on the part of the fishermen. There are over one thousand commercial fishermen affected."

Amendments adopted.

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, engrossment, and third reading.

PRESENTATION OF PETITIONS.

By Mr. Speaker:

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, March 4, 1931.

Edgar C. Levey,
State Capitol,
Sacramento, California.

Sixty-two members of the faculty of University High School urge you to defeat Bill 1630 because:

1. It would complicate the present economic situation.
2. It is unfair and undemocratic.
3. Appointment should be made on the grounds of merit only.
4. It would deprive us of many of our best teachers.

LUCY B. JACK.

By Mr. Speaker:

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, March 4, 1931.

State Assembly,
Sacramento, California.

I protest Bill No. 1630 and other similar bills, as I know, in order to maintain a home and support a family at some salaries offered men now, many mothers who are anxious for their children to have good educations will be forced to leave their present positions and go out into the business world to seek positions which will probably offer much smaller salaries than they are now receiving; which would be great injustice to every member of her family. Trust that you will use your influence in killing this bill before it leaves committee.

BERT SHEPARD, Instructor.

By Mr. Speaker:

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, March 3, 1931.

Sacramento, California.

DEAR SIR: This is simply to inform you that the Methodist Preachers' Meeting of Southern California went on record yesterday as favoring bills 347-8, doing away with steel traps in the hunting and trapping of fur animals, and we trust that this humanitarian measure may have your influence in its enaction into law at this session of the Legislature.

Very cordially yours,

H. B. SELLERS, Secretary.

By Mr. Speaker:

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, March 4, 1931.

Hon. Edgar C. Levey, Speaker of the House,
Capitol, Sacramento, California.

As an old teacher, formerly president of the Los Angeles City School Board for 5 years, and serving on the board for 10½ years, I earnestly and respectfully register my protest against Assembly Bill No. 1630 as detrimental to the best interests of the school children and subversive of the rights of experienced and devoted school teachers and trust you will use every legitimate influence to prevent this bill becoming law.

JOSEPH SCOTT.

By Mr. Kline:

ON CONTESTED ELECTIONS.

ASSEMBLY CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, March 4, 1931.

MR. SPEAKER: Your Committee on Contested Elections, to which was referred the contest of Robert B. Fry of the election of J. P. Hayes to the office of Member of the Assembly for the Thirtieth Assembly District of the State of California, met pursuant to previous notice on January 15, 1931, at four o'clock p.m., with a full committee present, perfected its organization, and the members were advised to read the statement of grounds of said contest which were printed in the Assembly Journal on the date of January 8, 1931; said Committee then adjourned to meet again on January 16, 1931, at one o'clock and thirty minutes p.m., at which meeting, with a quorum present, said Committee set the time for hearing said contest upon February 24th, at the hour of eight o'clock p.m. Subsequently said Committee met pursuant to previous notice on January 22, 1931, at the hour of one o'clock p.m., and adopted rules of procedure for said Committee for guidance at said hearing.

Subsequently, on February 24, 1931, at eight o'clock p.m., pursuant to previous notice duly given all parties and the members of said Committee, said Committee met with all members present and proceeded to read the depositions of witnesses for the contestant; said Committee then adjourned before completion of the reading of said depositions until March 2, 1931, at two o'clock p.m., for the purpose of permitting the members of said Committee to read all of the depositions of witnesses and documentary evidence before it and for the further purpose of giving J. P. Hayes, the contestee, additional time to procure witnesses on his behalf.

Said Committee thereafter met on March 2, 1931, with all members present, heard the oral testimony introduced on behalf of both parties to said contest, and then heard the arguments of counsel representing said parties.

The principal grounds of contest are set forth in contestant's statement of grounds of contest in allegations 9 and 11 thereof, which read respectively as follows:

> "9. That said J. P. Hayes had not been a citizen or inhabitant of said Thirtieth Assembly District at least one year next before said August primary election and that said J. P. Hayes had not been a citizen or inhabitant or resident of said Thirtieth Assembly District for at least one year next before said general election for the said office of Member of Assembly for said Thirtieth Assembly District which was held in said Assembly District on the fourth day of November, 1930, and that under and by virtue of section 4 of article IV of the constitution of the State of California said J. P. Hayes was not on said twenty-sixth day of August, 1930, eligible or qualified or entitled to be a candidate at said August primary election for said nomination of said republican party for the said office of Member of Assembly for said Thirtieth Assembly District and that under and by virtue of said section 4 of said article IV of said constitution of the State of California said J. P. Hayes was not on said fourth day of November, 1930, eligible or qualified or entitled to be the candidate or nominee of said republican party or a candidate or nominee at all for said office of Member of Assembly for said Thirtieth District or to be voted for or elected to said office on said fourth day of November, 1930, and that under and by virtue of said section 4 of said article IV of said constitution said J. P. Hayes is not eligible or qualified or entitled to receive said office of Member of Assembly for said Thirtieth Assembly District or to enter upon the duties of said office or to hold or occupy said office or to be the Member of Assembly for said Thirtieth Assembly District, on the contrary he is and was ineligible and disqualified from being declared to have been elected at said general election held November 4, 1930, in said Assembly District to said office, and from receiving from the said Secretary of State of the State of California a certificate of election to said office."
> "11. That at all times herein mentioned said J. P. Hayes well knew, and now well knows, that he was not eligible or qualified to be a candidate at said August primary election held in said Assembly District for said nomination of said republican party for said office of Member of Assembly for said Thirtieth Assembly District and that he was not at said general election held in said Assembly District on the fourth day of November, 1930, eligible or qualified to be the candidate or nominee of said republican party, or a candidate at all for said office of Member of Assembly for said Thirtieth Assembly District or to be elected to said office or to hold or occupy said office."

and said contestant, Robert B. Fry, further contends that inasmuch as he was the candidate receiving the greatest number of votes next to the contestee, cast for said office, at both the primary election held August 26, 1930, and the general election held November 4, 1930, he is entitled to said office in the event said contestee be disqualified.

To all of which your Committee, after giving careful consideration to the evidence, both documentary and oral, introduced in the matter before it, respectfully reports the same back, with the following findings:

1. That said J. P. Hayes received the highest number of votes cast for the office of Member of Assembly from said Thirtieth District at both said primary and general election; and that Honorable Frank C. Jordan, Secretary of State of California, did issue to the said J. P. Hayes under date of December 13, 1930, a certificate of election certifying that said J. P. Hayes has been elected to said office of Member of Assembly for the Thirtieth Assembly District.

2 That although somewhat conflicting the evidence in the main apparently indicates that the said J. P. Hayes was not a citizen or inhabitant of the said Thirtieth Assembly District for at least one year next before either said August primary election or said November general election and it is apparent that said Robert B. Fry initiated said contest in good faith.

3. That said Committee is in receipt of an opinion from Honorable U. S. Webb, Attorney General for said State of California, to the effect that if said J. P. Hayes be disqualified under said contest the said Robert B. Fry would not be entitled to the office of Member of the Assembly for said Thirtieth Assembly District, and said committee adopts said opinion in this regard.

In view of the foregoing the Committee is of the opinion that further proceedings in this matter would be useless and that the question resolves itself to principally one of expediency to be determined by the Assembly itself and for the purpose of enabling the members of the Assembly to fully examine and study the evidence, the Committee has attached hereto the transcript of the proceedings in the above contest.

Wherefore your Committee respectfully submits this report.

MINORITY REPORT.

I dissent from above report because of the wording in paragraph 2 of the finding, in which the Committee apparently concludes that Mr. Hayes was not a resident of District No. 30 for a year before the primary and the election.

GREENE.

MOTION TO ACCEPT REPORT.

Mr. Sewell moved that the report of the Committee on Contested Elections be accepted, and that in the light of expediency, the contest of Robert B. Fry be dismissed.

In the event the assessment district includes property without the territorial jurisdiction of the city council conducting the proceeding, the legislative body of the city or county having jurisdiction thereover may in its discretion, order by resolutions entered upon its minutes, a copy of which shall be transmitted to the city council conducting the proceedings, that any part of the cost or expense of said improvement shall be paid out of the treasury of the municipality or county as the case may be, and a liability for the portion of the costs set forth in said resolution shall thereby be created against said municipality or county. The street superintendent in making up the assessment as provided in section 21 hereof shall deduct from the costs and expenses, in addition to any sum or percentage payable by the city council conducting said proceeding, such part thereof as has been so ordered to be paid out of the treasury of said municipality or county All notices provided for, to be published by the city clerk, shall be published in a newspaper published and circulated in the county

SEC. A3. Section 3 of said act is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 3. Before ordering any work done or improvement made which is authorized by this act, the city council shall pass a resolution of intention to do so, referring to the street by its lawful or official name, or the name by which it is commonly known; when the work is not upon a public street or public way, then by briefly describing the property or right of way on which same is to be constructed, and briefly describing the work. The said resolution of intention shall be sufficient if it states in general terms the class or kinds of work contemplated such as grading, paving, sewering or other work or improvements, and gives in general the location of the proposed improvement and refers to plans, profiles, detailed drawings and specifications or such of them as may be suitable or proper for the full and detailed description of the said proposed work or improvement Said resolution shall contain also a notice of the day, hour and place when and where any and all persons having any objections to the proposed work or improvement may appear before the legislative body and show cause why said proposed improvement should not be carried out in accordance with said resolution; said time shall not be less than fifteen nor more than sixty days from the date of the passage of said resolution.

In the event that it is contemplated that mains, services, pipes, fittings, valves, regulators, governors, meters, traps, drains, tanks, ditches, tunnels, conduits, channels or other appurtenances for supplying or distributing a domestic or industrial gas supply, or any of them, or that the construction of wells, dams, reservoirs, storage tanks, channels, tunnels, conduits, pipes, hydrants, meters or other appurtenances for supplying or distributing a domestic water supply, or any of them, be included as a part of the work contemplated by the said resolution of intention with the possibility in view that the same or some portion thereof may thereafter be sold and transferred into private ownership, then the said resolution of intention shall provide that the expense of such of the hereinabove enumerated items as may be desirable shall be kept separate throughout the proceedings. A list of such items as it is contemplated shall be handled in the aforesaid manner shall be contained in said resolution of intention.

The city clerk shall cause said resolution of intention to be published twice in one or more newspapers published and circulated in said city. If no newspaper be published in said city, then the publication shall be made twice in some newspaper published in the county in which said city is located. The city council may include in one proceeding, under one resolution of intention and in one contract, any of the different kinds of work mentioned in this act on any number of streets, properties and rights of way or portions thereof, contiguous or otherwise, and it may except therefrom any of said work already done.

The grade to which any work shall be done or improvement made shall be such as may be shown on the plans or profiles therefor or it may be done on such a grade as may have been formally established by the city council. If any official grade has already been adopted or established for any of the streets, avenues, or other places or property, proposed to be improved, it shall be lawful for the resolution of intention to provide that said work shall be done to new grades or grades different from those so established or adopted, and shall refer to plans, profiles or specifications for the description of the grade at which the work is to be done. Any property owner whose property is to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses of the proposed improvement may at the time fixed in the resolution of intention for hearing of objections to the proposed work and improvement, appear before the city council and make objection to the proposed grade or proposed change or modification of grade. A failure to make objection at such time shall be deemed to be a waiver of all objections to the proposed grade or proposed change or modification of grade and shall operate as a bar to any claim for damages or any subsequent action looking to the prevention of the work or the recovery of damages on account of the performance of the work to such grade or changed grade. The provisions of this section relative to grades are alternative and shall not repeal other provisions of this act or other statutes relative to change of grade."

Sec. 6. At any time not later than the hour set for hearing objections to the proposed work as provided in section 3 hereof, any owner of property liable to be assessed for said work may make written protest against the proposed work or against the extent of the district to be assessed, or both. Such protest must be in writing and must contain a description of the property in which each signer thereof is interest, sufficient to identify the same, and be delivered to the said clerk of the city council, and no other protests or objections shall be considered. In the event that the resolution of intention states that it is contemplated that the cost and expense of any mains, services, pipes, fittings, valves, regulators, governors, meters, traps, drains, tanks, ditches, tunnels, conduits, channels or other appurtenances for supplying or distributing a domestic or industrial gas supply, or the cost and expense of the construction of any wells, dams, reservoirs, storage tanks, channels, tunnels, conduits, pipes, hydrants, meters or other appurtenances for supplying or distributing a domestic water supply, be kept separate to the end that the same or some portion thereof may be thereafter transferred to private ownership, any owner of property liable to be assessed for said work may make written protest against the said proposition for the segregation of the cost and expense of such items. At the time set for hearing protests the city council shall proceed to hear and pass upon all protests so made and its decision shall be final and conclusive; provided, however, that when the protest is against the proposed work, and the cost thereof is to be assessed upon the property fronting thereon, and the city council finds that such protest is made by the owners of a majority of the property fronting on the proposed work, or when the protest is against the proposed work and the cost thereof is to be assessed upon the property within a district, and the city council finds that such protest is made by the owners of more than one-half of the area of the property to be assessed for said improvements, no further proceedings shall be taken for a period of six months from the date of the decision of the city council on said hearing, unless the said protests be overruled by an affirmative vote of four-fifths of the members of the city council. The words 'proposed work' as used herein, shall mean and include all the work described in the resolution of intention. The city council may adjourn said hearings from time to time.

Unless the power to proceed shall have ceased, as hereinbefore provided, the city council may, at the conclusion of the aforementioned hearing, by resolution entered upon its minutes, make such changes in the boundaries of the proposed assessment district and/or changes in the work proposed to be done as it shall find to be proper and advisable, and shall define and establish such boundaries and the work proposed to be done, but said city council shall not have the power to modify such boundaries so as to include any territory which will not, in its judgment, be benefited by said improvement.

Said city council shall not modify such boundaries or change the work proposed to be done except after notice of its intention so to do given by one insertion in said newspaper in which the resolution of intention was published describing the proposed modification and specifying the time for hearing objections to such modification, which time shall be at least ten days after the publication of said notice. Written objections to said proposed modification may be filed with the clerk of said city council by any interested person at or before the time set for hearing the same. Said city council shall hear and pass upon such objections at the time appointed, or at any time to which the hearing thereof may be adjourned, and its decision thereon shall be final and conclusive.

SEC. 1*b*. Section 7 of said act is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 7. If no protests or objections in writing have been delivered to the clerk up to the hour set for hearing provided in section 3 hereof, or when a protest shall have been found by said city council to be insufficient, or shall have been overruled, or when a protest against the extent of the proposed district shall have been heard and denied, or when modification of said proposed district and/or proposed work has been made and all objections or protests thereto have been heard and denied, immediately thereupon the city council shall be deemed to have acquired jurisdiction to order the proposed improvements.

SEC. 1*c*. That section 10 of said act is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 10. Before the awarding of any contract by the city council for doing any work authorized by this act, the city council shall pass a resolution ordering the work. In the event that the resolution of intention shall provide that it is contemplated that the cost and expense of any mains, services, pipes, fittings, valves, regulators, governors, meters, traps, drains, tanks, ditches, tunnels, conduits, channels or other appurtenances for supplying or distributing a domestic or industrial gas supply, or the cost and expense of the construction of any wells, dams, reservoirs, storage tanks, channels, tunnels, conduits, pipes, hydrants, meters or other appurtenances for supplying or distributing a domestic water supply be kept separate to the end that the same or some portion thereof may be thereafter transferred to private ownership, then in such event the bid must set forth separately the price at which the bidder proposed to do the said work in such units as will enable the assessment thereafter to be made to show the cost to be properly chargeable against each separate lot, piece or parcel of land assessed therefor. Notice shall be posted conspicuously for five days on or near the council chamber door of said council inviting sealed proposals or bids for doing the work ordered. Notice inviting such proposals, and referring to the specifications on file, shall be published twice in a daily, semiweekly, or weekly newspaper published and circulated in said city, designated by the council for that purpose, and in case there is no newspaper published in said city, then it shall only be posted as hereinbefore provided. The time fixed for the opening of bids shall be not less than ten days from the time of the first publication or posting of said notice. All proposals or bids offered shall be accompanied by a check payable to the city certified by a responsible bank, for an amount which shall not be less than ten per cent of the aggregate of the proposal, or by a bond for the said amount and so payable, signed by the bidder and two sureties, who shall justify, before any officer competent to administer an oath, in double the said amount, and over and above all statutory exemptions. Such proposals or bids shall be delivered to the clerk of the said city council, and said council shall, in open session publicly open, examine and declare the same; provided, however, that no proposal or bid shall be considered unless accompanied by said check or bond satisfactory to the council. The city council may reject any and all proposals or bids should it deem this for the public good, and also the bid of any party who has been delinquent or unfaithful in any former contract with the municipality, and shall reject all proposals or bids other than the lowest regular proposal or bid of any responsible bidder, and may award the contract for said work or improvement to the lowest responsible bidder at the prices named in his bid. If the bids are rejected or no bids are received the city council may within six months thereafter readvertise for proposals or bids for the performance of the work as in the first instance, without further proceedings, and thereafter proceed in the manner in this section provided, and shall thereupon return to the proper parties the respective checks and bonds corresponding to the bid so rejected. But the checks accompanying such accepted proposals or bids shall be held by the city clerk of said city until the contract for doing said work, as hereinafter provided, has been entered into, either by said lowest bidder or by the owners of three-fourths part of the frontage, whereupon said certified check shall be returned to said bidder But if said bidder fails, neglects or refuses to enter into the contract to perform said work or improvement, as hereinafter provided, then the certified check accompanying his bid and the amount therein mentioned, shall be declared to be forfeited to said city and shall be collected by it and paid into the general fund, and any bond forfeited may be prosecuted, and the amount due thereon collected and paid into said fund.

SEC. 1*d*. That a new section be added to said act to be known and designated as section 20*k* and to read as follows:

Sec. 20*k*. Whenever it has been determined that the cost and expense of any mains, services, pipes, fittings, valves, regulators, governors, meters, traps, drains, tanks, ditches, tunnels, conduits, channels or other appurtenances for supplying or distributing a domestic or industrial gas supply, or the cost and expense of the construction of any wells, dams, reservoirs, storage tanks, channels, tunnels, conduits, pipes, hydrants, meters or other appurtenances for supplying or distributing a domestic water supply, shall be kept separate, then in making up the assessment the total charge for such work as the council shall have determined to be kept separate shall be segregated including a ratable amount of the incidental expenses properly chargeable therefor in the assessment against each separate lot, piece or parcel of land assessed, that is, the total aggregate assessment against the lot, piece or parcel of land shall be set forth and there shall be included a statement therein to the effect that of such gross total assessment a certain specified sum is assessed as the amount properly chargeable against said lot, piece or parcel of land for the specified improvement of which the expense under the proceedings is to be kept separate

SEC. 1*e*. That a new section to be added to said act, to be known as section 30*a* and to read as follows:

Sec. 30*a*. In the event that an assessment has been made as hereinbefore provided in section 20*k* of this act, segregating the amount chargeable for the specific improvements therein mentioned, then at any time after the assessment has been recorded any owner or owners of real estate which has been assessed to pay the costs and expenses of the said improvements mentioned in section 20*k* may petition the city council to have a hearing upon the matter as to whether or not the said utilities mentioned in section 20*k* or any of them should be sold and disposed of to some owner or owners capable of conducting said public utility, which contemplates rendering service through the utilities so constructed Thereupon or upon its own motion the city council may in its discretion give notice of a hearing upon the said matter by publishing notice in a newspaper of general circulation in the city that on a date therein named, which will not be less than fifteen days from the date of the first publication of said notice, the council will hear any and all persons who may be interested in the question as to whether or not the sale of such gas or water producing or water serving equipment, or such thereof as may be contemplated to be sold shall be attempted. At such hearing or at such time or times to which the same may be continued the city council shall hear all persons interested and shall at the conclusion thereof make its determination as to whether or not negotiations shall be entered into with some owner or owners capable of operating such utilities as may be involved for the sale and transfer of those constructed as herein mentioned In the event that as a result of such proceedings it shall be determined that such a sale shall be made, it shall be competent for such city council to enter into negotiations with any public or private corporation or any individual capable of handling public utility service through or by means of such equipment, for the purpose of fixing the price of such equipment and the terms of such sale. When the price and terms of such sale shall have been agreed upon such city council shall conduct a hearing for the purpose of determining whether or not such sale shall be made. Notice thereof shall be published at least once in a newspaper published and circulated in said city, which notice shall contain a statement of the price and terms of such sale and a notice that all persons interested therein may appear and be heard at a time and place therein set out, which time shall be not less than fifteen days from the date of such publication At said hearing or at the date to which the same may be continued the city council shall hear all persons interested in the matter and shall have power to order the sale and transfer of the said utility or such part thereof as it may deem wise to sell at the price and upon the terms of payment and conditions determined at said hearing. The terms and conditions of said sale shall be set forth in a written contract executed by the purchaser and by the city council, and may provide that the purchase price may be paid in installments from time to time, or as and when consumers are connected to said utilities so sold, or upon any other basis agreed upon As and when moneys are paid to the city treasurer on account of the purchase price, they shall be applied by the city treasurer as follows: The amounts received shall be refunded to the property owners who may have been assessed, each ratably in proportion to the total aggregate of his assessment, if the assessment has been paid, and in the event of the issuance of bonds, the said ratable sum to be allowed to each respective assessed property owner shall be applied on the unpaid amount of said bonds (the excess, if any, to be paid directly to the property owner), and the owners shall be credited on the bond register for the amount of their respective refunds The details respecting the refunds shall be determined upon and fixed by the city council at the final hearing upon the sale, and provisions covering the said refunds shall be included in the written contract of sale executed by the purchaser and the city council. When, pursuant to procedure herein authorized, the city council shall have acquired jurisdiction to order the sale and transfer of any improvement, or part thereof, it shall have full power and authority to convey title to such improvement, or part thereof, to the corporation or individual operating the public utility and to which the said improvement, or part thereof, shall have been sold, immediately upon the execution of said agreement of sale. Such conveyance shall be executed in the name of the city and by such officers thereof as shall be designated by the city council. Upon the delivery of such instrument of conveyance, title to the property therein described shall vest in the grantee named therein, subject to forfeiture of title in the event the purchaser fails to perform any of its obligations under the terms of the purchase agreement."

PRESENTATION OF PETITIONS.

By Mr. Speaker:

WHEREAS, The county of Los Angeles is entitled to seven and a major fraction congressional representatives, based upon the population of said county as determined by the recent census; and

WHEREAS, The reapportionment of the State and of this county in particular, is of vital interest to the residents of Los Angeles County, in that the determination of the same be consummated at this session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, By reason of the difficulty confronting the present Legislature, it is the opinion of this committee that a half loaf is better than none, and that reapportionment under an adjusted plan is far better than no reapportionment at all; now therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Assemblywoman from this district be instructed that it is the sense of this meeting that she use her every endeavor to secure full complement of eight congressional districts within the county of Los Angeles, to her utmost, but that upon a failure of the Legislature to agree to such reapportionment for this county that she then adhere to a policy of agreeing to accept seven congressional districts within the county, should all other affirmative efforts fail concerning the obtaining of eight; and, be it further

Resolved, That it is the sense of this committee and of this meeting, that seven congressional districts is far preferable to a reapportionment at large under any conditions, and that the efforts of said Assemblywoman be used toward obtaining seven districts if it is found impossible to obtain the eight to which the county might be entitled otherwise.

Speaker Edgar C. Levey,

MY DEAR MR. LEVEY: You will remember the writer as a friend of Mr. Bonelli's, having had the pleasure of meeting you at the instance of our Assemblywoman, Mrs. Kellogg, at the time the Legislature adjourned in January.

May I suggest to you that you use this resolution, after consulting with Mr. Bonelli, in any manner which may be of support and strength to you in the north.

With kind personal regards, I am,

Yours very truly,

C. NEWELL CARNS, Chairman.

By Mr. Speaker:

CITY CLERK, CITY OF LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, March 4, 1931.

Sacramento, California.

DEAR SIR: Permit me to enclose to you certified copy of a resolution which was unanimously adopted by the council of the city of Los Angeles at its meeting of March 4, 1931, endorsing the proposed constitutional amendment providing for the issuance of bonds for the financing of self-supporting municipally-owned utilities upon a majority vote.

Respectfully yours,

ROBT. DOMINGUEZ, City Clerk.

RESOLUTION.

WHEREAS, The California Constitutional Commission submitted to the Governor of California on December 29, 1930, a report providing among other recommendations for the issuance of bonds for the financing of self-supporting municipally-owned utilities upon a majority vote, proposing a new provision of the State constitution to read as follows:

"A municipality which owns and operates a public utility and desires to incur indebtedness to improve or extend the plant of such utility may request the Railroad Commission to certify that for the preceding five years the revenues from the rates charged for services of such utility have been sufficient to pay all operating expenses thereof and interest on all existing indebtedness incurred by such municipality on account of such utility and to provide all sinking funds required by law or contract for payment of the principal of such indebtedness. When such request is made, said commission shall ascertain the facts and according as it finds them shall issue or refuse such certificate. If such certificate be issued, the municipality may within one year after date of such certificate submit to its electors a proposal for incurring such indebtedness, and if a majority of the voters on such proposal vote in favor thereof, such indebtedness may be incurred. This method shall be alternative of and in addition to the method of incurring indebtedness elsewhere in this constitution provided"; and,

WHEREAS, This proposal will be before the Legislature of the State of California at this session, now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the city council of Los Angeles approve this proposal and urge its adoption by the Legislature and its submission to the voters of this State at the earliest appropriate election.

The following report of the Uniform Vehicle Act Conference Committee was received and ordered printed in the Journal:

REPORT OF THE UNIFORM VEHICLE ACT CONFERENCE COMMITTEE.

To the Hon. James Rolph, Jr., Governor of the State of California, and to the Legislature of California, Sacramento, California.

On January 23, 1931, the Legislature adopted Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 9. Under authority of said resolution a committee was appointed consisting of Senator C. C. Baker and Assemblymen Ben Hill and William Hornblower

The committee attended the conference on February 6 and 7, 1931, held at the Multnomah Hotel in Portland, Oregon, and there met with representatives of the states of Washington, Oregon, Nevada and Arizona.

The conference approved and recommended to the various states the following regulations (section numbers refer to article IV of the recommendations of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety):

"Sec. 20. Restrictions as to Speed.

(a) Basic rule.

No person shall drive a vehicle upon a highway at a speed greater than is reasonable and prudent, having due regard to the traffic, surface and width of the highway and the hazard at intersections and any other conditions then existing.

Nor shall any person drive at a speed which is greater than will permit the driver to exercise proper control of the vehicle and to decrease speed or to stop as may be necessary to avoid colliding with any person, vehicle or other conveyance upon or entering the highway in compliance with legal requirements and with the duty of drivers and other persons using the highway to exercise due care; provided, that this provision shall not be construed to relieve the plaintiff in any civil action from the burden of proving negligence upon the part of the defendant as the proximate cause of an accident.

Any person convicted of a violation of the above basic rule, unless such violation occurs under the conditions of subdivision (b) of this section, shall be punished by a fine of not to exceed twenty-five dollars or by imprisonment for not to exceed five days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Any person who drives a vehicle upon a highway at a speed in excess of that indicated as follows for the particular district or location, and who, while so driving, violates the basic rule set forth in subdivision (a) or any provision of articles seven to twelve, both inclusive, shall upon conviction be punished by a fine of not to exceed one hundred dollars or by imprisonment not to exceed 10 days or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Said indicated speeds are as follows:

1. Fifteen miles per hour:

a. When passing a school building or the grounds thereof during school recess or while children are going to or leaving school during opening or closing hours, or

b. When approaching within one hundred feet of a grade crossing of a steam, electric or street railway where the driver's view of such crossing or of any traffic on such railway within a distance of four hundred feet in either direction is obstructed.

2. Twenty miles per hour:

a. In any business district as defined herein, or

b. Upon approaching within fifty feet and in traversing an intersection of highways where the driver's view in either direction along any intersecting highway within a distance of two hundred feet is obstructed, except that when traveling upon a through street or at traffic controlled intersections the district speed shall apply.

3. Twenty-five miles per hour:

a. In any residence district as defined herein, or

b. At any railway grade crossing where the view is not obstructed, or c In public parks within cities, unless a different speed is indicated by local authorities and duly posted.

4. Forty-five miles per hour;

Sec. 22. Minimum speed regulation.

It shall be unlawful for any person unnecessarily to drive at such a slow speed as to impede or block the normal and reasonable movement of traffic except when reduced speed is necessary for safe operation or because upon a grade or when the vehicle is a truck or truck and trailer necessarily or in compliance with law proceeding at reduced speed

Traffic and police officers are hereby authorized to enforce this provision by directions to drivers and in the event of apparent wilful disobedience to this provision and refusal to comply with direction of an officer in accordance herewith the continued slow operation by a driver shall be unlawful and constitute a misdemeanor.

Sec. 26. Drive on right side of highway.

(a) Upon all highways of sufficient width, other than one-way highways, the driver of a vehicle shall drive the same upon the right half of the highway except when the right half is out of repair and for such reason impassable or when overtaking and passing another vehicle subject to the limitations set forth in section 30.

(b) In driving upon the right half of a highway the driver shall drive as closely as practicable to the right hand edge or curb of the highway except when overtaking or passing another vehicle, or when placing a vehicle in position to make a left turn.

(c) In approaching any bridge, viaduct or tunnel, or approaching or crossing a railroad right of way or an intersection of highways, the driver of a vehicle shall at all times cause such vehicle to travel on the right half of the highway unless such right half is out of repair and for such reason impassable. This provision shall not apply upon a one-way street.

Sec. 29. Overtaking a vehicle.

Except as otherwise provided in section 30 the following rules shall govern the overtaking and passing of vehicles:

(b) The driver of an overtaken vehicle shall give way to the right in favor of the overtaking vehicle on suitable and audible signal and shall not increase the speed of his vehicle until completely passed by the overtaking vehicle.

(c) In the event two or more vehicles are moving in the same direction in parallel lines upon the right half of the paved portion of a city street or upon any hard surface highway having space for two or more lines of traffic in each direction, the provisions of subdivisions (a) and (b) of this section shall not be considered as prohibiting the vehicles in the right hand line overtaking or passing those in the left hand line, nor shall the provisions of subdivisions (a) and (b) of this section be construed to prohibit a driver overtaking and passing upon the right another vehicle which is making, or about to make, a left turn.

(d) The driver of an overtaking motor vehicle when traveling outside of a business or residence district, and under other conditions when necessary to insure safe operation, shall give audible warning with his horn or other warning device before passing or attempting to pass a vehicle proceeding in the same direction.

Sec. 30. Limitations on privilege of overtaking and passing.

The driver of a vehicle shall not drive to the left side of the center line of a highway in overtaking and passing another vehicle proceeding in the same direction unless such left side is clearly visible and is free of oncoming traffic for a sufficient distance ahead to permit such overtaking and passing to be completely made without impeding the safe operation of any vehicle approaching from the opposite direction or any vehicle overtaken, nor shall the driver of a vehicle in any event drive to the left side of the center line of a highway when approaching the crest of a grade or upon a curve in the highway where the driver's view along the highway is obstructed within a distance of five hundred (500) feet. The driver of a vehicle shall not overtake and pass another vehicle at a railway grade crossing or at an intersection unless such movement can be made in safety.

Sec. 32. Turning at intersections.

The driver of a vehicle intending to turn at an intersection shall do so as follows:

(a) Approach for a right turn shall be made in the lane for traffic nearest to the right hand side of the highway and the right turn shall be made as closely as practicable to the right hand curb or edge of the highway.

section, and upon leaving the intersection by passing to the right of the center line of the highway then entered.

(c) Approach for a left turn from a two-way street into a one-way street shall be made in the lane for traffic to the right of and nearest to the center line of the highway and by passing to the right of such center line where it enters the intersection. A left turn from a one-way street into a two-way street shall be made by passing to the right of the center line of the street being entered upon leaving the intersection.

(d) Local authorities in their respective jurisdictions may, by placing markers, buttons or signs within intersections, require and direct that a course be traveled by vehicles turning left different from that specified in subdivision (b), and it shall be unlawful for the driver of a vehicle to make a left turn, otherwise than as so directed and required by such markers, buttons or signs.

Sec. 33. Signals on turning. Corresponds with section 130 California vehicle code.

(a) The driver of any vehicle upon a public highway before starting, turning or stopping such vehicle shall first see that such movement can be made in safety, and if it can not be made in safety, shall wait until it can be made in safety; then, if the operation of any other vehicle may reasonably be affected by such movement, the driver shall give a signal plainly visible to the driver of such other vehicle of the intention to make such movement. Such signal may be given either by the use of the hand and arm in the manner hereinafter provided, or by means of a mechanical or electrical device which meets the requirements hereinafter set forth and which has been approved by the division of motor vehicles as hereinafter provided.

Whenever the signal is given by means of the hand and arm, the driver shall indicate his intention to turn to the left by extending his hand and arm horizontally from and beyond the left side of the vehicle, his intention to turn to the right by extending his hand and arm upward and beyond the left side of the vehicle, and his intention to stop or to suddenly decrease speed by extending his hand and arm downward from and beyond the left side of the vehicle.

The signal herein required to be given before turning to the right or left, whether given by means of the hand and arm or by means of an approved mechanical or electrical device, shall be given continuously during the last fifty feet traveled by the vehicle before turning.

MECHANICAL AND ELECTRICAL DEVICES—EXAMINATION AND APPROVAL.

(b) Any person may submit a mechanical or electrical signal device to the division for its inspection and approval. The division shall charge and collect a fee of fifty dollars for examining any such signal device which is manufactured for sale. All such fees shall be paid by the division into the state treasury and deposited in a fund to be known as the signal device testing fee fund, and the moneys in such fund, or so much of them as may be necessary, are hereby appropriated to meet the expense of the test provided for in this section, and the balance thereof, if any, shall be paid into the motor vehicle fund. No fee shall be charged for examining a device not manufactured for sale.

The division shall not approve any stop signal device unless such signal when used upon a vehicle shall give a stop signal plainly visible during the times specified in (insert appropriate section number in various state codes referring to period of time when lamps shall be lighted) of this act, for a distance of at least one hundred feet to the rear of such vehicle nor any device intended to give a signal that the vehicle upon which it is used is about to turn, unless such device, when used upon a vehicle, clearly indicates the direction in which such vehicle is to be turned, which signal shall be plainly visible at least one hundred feet to the rear of the vehicle upon which the same is used.

Whenever the division shall approve a signal device as meeting the requirements hereinabove set forth, it shall give to the applicant a certificate of approval.

(c) Any vehicle which is so constructed or carries a load in such manner as to prevent the hand and arm signal specified in subdivision (a) of this section from being visible both to the front and rear of such vehicle, shall be equipped with an approved mechanical or electrical signal device which shall fulfill the requirements of this section with reference thereto.

Sec. 34. (Turning around prohibited on curve or near crest of grade.)

The driver of a vehicle shall not turn such vehicle around so as to proceed in the opposite direction upon any curve or upon the approach to or near the crest of a grade or at any place upon a highway where the view of such vehicle is obstructed within a distance of five hundred (500) feet along the highway in either direction.

Sec. 35. (Right of way between vehicles.)

(a) Vehicles approaching an intersection. The driver of a vehicle approaching an intersection shall yield the right of way to a vehicle which has first entered the intersection. When two vehicles enter an intersection at the same time the driver of the vehicle on the left shall yield to the driver on the right. Any driver entering an intersection at an unlawful speed shall forfeit any right of way which he would otherwise have under this subdivision.

(b) Vehicle entering a through highway. The driver of any vehicle who has stopped as required by law at the entrance to a through highway shall yield to other vehicles within the intersection or approaching so closely on the through highway as to constitute an immediate hazard, but said driver having so yielded may proceed, and other vehicles approaching the intersection on the through highway shall yield to the vehicle so proceeding into or across the through highway.

(c) Vehicle turning left at an intersection. The driver of a vehicle within an intersection intending to turn to the left shall yield to any vehicle approaching from the opposite direction which is within the intersection or so close thereto as to constitute an immediate hazard, but said driver having so yielded and having given a signal when and as required by law may make such left turn, and other vehicles approaching the intersection from said opposite direction shall yield to the driver making the left turn.

(b) The driver of such a vehicle upon a highway shall yield the right of way to authorized emergency vehicles when the latter are operated in emergencies and the drivers thereof sound audible signal by bell, siren, compression or exhaust whistle. This provision shall not operate to relieve the driver of an authorized emergency vehicle from the duty to drive with due regard for the safety of all persons using the highway, nor shall it protect the driver of any such vehicle from the consequence of an arbitrary exercise of such right of way."

Each of these regulations is either existing law or is pending before the legislature of each of the states of Washington, Oregon, Nevada, Arizona and California.
