I do solemnly swear that I will support the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of California, and that I will faithfully discharge the duties of the office of Speaker of the Assembly, according to the best of my ability.

Speaker Presiding

At 12.23 p.m., Hon. Sam L. Collins, Speaker of the Assembly, presiding.

REMARKS BY THE SPEAKER

Speaker Sam L. Collins then addressed the Assembly as follows:

Members of The Assembly: May I first thank you all for the trust and faith you have placed in me by again electing me your Speaker of the Assembly.

It is an honor I cherish deeply and one, with your cooperation, which I hope to dispatch with fairness to all.

It seems good to meet old friends and colleagues of many years standing and to anticipate the friendships to be generated with the 18 new members to whom I wish to extend a firm handclasp of special greetings.

To the nineteenth new member—well, he can hardly be classed as "new" to many of the present members. His vacation away from these halls he found not too alluring and so decided to return.

In the same vein of good fellowship, may I congratulate the Members of the Assembly on your selection of the one-and-only—San Francisco's favorite son—the Honorable Thomas A. Maloney, as our Speaker pro Tempore. Also, I'm glad to know that our good friend Arthur A. Ohnimus will be on hand to prevent chaos and keep order at the desk as Chief Clerk while his counterpart, Wilkie Ogg, Sergeant-at-Arms, will perform a similar service on the floor

But midst all this warm feeling of good will, as we are about to embark upon our legislative duties for the people of the State of California, I cannot help but pause to express my own feelings of sorrow—and I know full well I express yours—over the untimely passing of Assemblyman John C. Lyons, Representative of the Sixty-fourth Assembly District in Los Angeles.

John was good man; a kindly man.

Assemblyman Lyons was forthright and he was honest in every sense of the word.

Look at the record:

At a time when the designation "labor leader" may have meant different things to various groups of people, in the Handbook of the California Legislature you will find opposite John's name and under the heading, "occupation," he had listed "labor leader."

He was proud of what he stood for and those who knew him best were proud of him for the recognition he had achieved among his fellow craftsmen.

While labor has lost a strong advocate, those of us who served the three long sessions with John Lyons, whether we agreed with him or not in the debates on this floor, regret the passing of a real man—a man's man.

If I were to sum up my hopes for the accomplishments of this session of the Legislature * * * if I were to tell you in a single word what I believe should be our motto and our objective during the next months of our deliberations here that word would be "ECONOMY!"

I'm afraid that during the war and in the years that have followed—years in which most of us have been experiencing the somewhat hypnotic effects of a war-inflated, money-mad, price-spiralling world, ECONOMY is a word that has been forgotten.

In fact, there have been times when to mention it would bring looks of askance from your audience.

Now, however, if we, as Members of the California Legislature, are to bring any signs of hope to California taxpayers, ECONOMY must be our watchword!

Everywhere we see signs pointing unmistakably to the end of the inflation road

Gradually there are those who are coming to the realization that the tax-dollar has definite size and shape; that it is not a limitless dollar.

The issues arising out of pre-existing financial problems, as well as the new ones added by the adoption of Proposition No. 4 at the last general election, are upon us, and accompanying these issues are many divergent thoughts as to the proper solution

Without attempting to pre-judge the issues or any of these divergent thoughts, I feel constrained to say that personally I hope we can find a solution without any increase in the tax burden now resting upon the people of this State. By this I mean a continuance of the tax rates which we have had since the 1943 enactments of the Legislature. Clearly, careful consideration must be given to the funds which have been set aside out of surplus tax receipts in boom years, as well as to the ability of the taxpaying public to bear additional tax burdens These problems have already had study from our Interim Taxation Committee, and I am sure will have the careful and diligent consideration of our standing committee and the Members of this Legislature

I am sure, too, that Governor Warren has given this matter careful study, and look forward to his recommendations contained in his message to us today, which I am sure that our Taxation Committee and members will be pleased to receive and carefully consider.

With intelligent direction and an alert and responsive Legislature, I'm hopeful that this Legislature can complete its duties with honor and distinction. And, I might add, in a minimum amount of time

In this, let me say you will have my complete cooperation—complete and as full as my thanks again to you for electing me your Speaker

REMARKS BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

Speaker pro Tempore Maloney then addressed the Assembly as follows:

Mr. Speaker, Members of the Assembly: Once again may I extend to you my sincere thanks and appreciation for electing me as the Speaker pro Tempore for this coming session.

I wish to assure you one and all that when I am presiding over you, I will carry on in a manner that will leave no cause for complaint when the session ends.

I will make mistakes, as do we all, but if I do, they will be mistakes of the mind, and not of the heart.

Before coming to Sacramento, I have in the past few weeks made many utterances that this will be a real tough and arduous session. Common sense will verify my predictions. The State of California has grown tremendously in population and industry in the past eight years, and as we grow and expand, the problems of those who are charged with the making of laws naturally grow too.

I pray that at this session of the Legislature we can meet our problems in the same honest and decent way we have done in the past. There will be differences of opinion on many issues that will be presented, so I also pray that, when we come to our final conclusions, all of our differences be left inside of this Assembly Chamber.

That is the way Democracy works, and I'm sure it will work at this session.

To you all, I wish you good luck to you and your families. I join with the Speaker in extending to you best wishes for a happy, prosperous and enjoyable new year. Thank you.

Remarks by Mr. Maloney Relative to Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 1

Mr. Speaker, Members of the Assembly: Most grievous of all occasions in life is that of bidding farewell to one whom we have known and loved. Truly it is not easy for me today to face the need or to give expression to what you and I most deeply feel.

Into the home of one of our dearest friends, there has come a sorrow, and if by brief and single tribute, we can make it known to them, that this sorrow is not only theirs, but yours and mine as well, we do it gladly.

So today, upon the convening of the 1949 Session of the California State Legislature, meeting for a common purpose, we pause and share a few minutes, to signify our respect, our sympathy and our love to the memory of a member of this body—the late Assemblyman John C Lyons of the Sixty-fourth District, Los Angeles, California, indicating, if sorrow is capable of division, we tenderly assume our part.

No man or no woman ever graced the legislative halls of this great State of ours, who was more loved and respected than our late colleague.

No man and no woman ever represented his constituents in a more able manner than John C. Lyons.

Possessed with ability to be a leader, he was chosen by his organization—The Plasterers Union of Los Angeles—as its manager, striving and succeeding to promote closer relationship between Employer and Employee. His goal was better working conditions and wages for his fellow man, and lasting peace for the Industry he so well represented.

John C Lyons was a Christian man, a devoted husband, a perfect father, and a staunch and devoted friend In all of the years I had known him, I never heard him speak ill or disparagingly of anyone. He loved his family, he loved you and me, and, above all, Gentlemen, he loved his Country As this fine American goes down the lane from which no one has ever returned, he leaves behind him broken hearts which never can be healed, but he also leaves behind a cherished memory, with those who had the privilege of serving with him

Some one once said, "Life is but a day in the cycle of eternity," then I may say of him,

"For memory has painted this Perfect day
With colors that never fade,
And we find at the end of a
The soul, of a friend we've made"

To Mrs. Lyons, his devoted wife; to his daughter, Virginia, we extend our sympathy in their hours of bereavement

REPORT OF THE STATE PERSONNEL BOARD TO THE GOVERNOR CONCERNING THE STATUS OF STATE EMPLOYEES' SALARIES PREPARED IN CONFORMANCE WITH HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 80

January 3, 1949

The State Personnel Board at its regular meeting on December 3, 1948, adopted the following resolution:

It is hereby resolved that the Report to the Governor concerning the Status of State Employees' Salaries together with recommendations be adopted as the report prepared in conformance with House Resolution No. 80. The Secretary of this Board is directed to transmit the Report to the Governor and to file a copy of same with the Clerk of the Assembly in accordance with House Resolution No. 80.

AYES—Messrs. Chatters, Lutgens, Mallary, Olson, and Gray. The motion was carried.

I, John F. Fisher, Secretary of the State Personnel Board, hereby certify that the foregoing resolution was duly and regularly adopted at the regular meeting of the State Personnel Board on the third day of December, 1948.

JOHN F. FISHER, Secretary

CALIFORNIA STATE PERSONNEL BOARD, December 3, 1948

The Honorable Earl Warren
Governor of California

We are submitting to you herewith, in accordance with House Resolution No. 80, and in fulfillment of our general responsibilities, a report on the current status of salaries of state employees (See pages 2 to 5) This report includes three specific conclusions:

1. In order that salaries of state employees may be brought in line as of September 1, 1948, with those paid by other governmental agencies and by private business, there is need for a further appropriation of $1,660,000 from the General Fund for the balance of this fiscal year. This will permit the board to grant to 15,500 state employees comparable increases already given to 18,000 employees as of September 1, 1948 (See pages 5 to 7)

2. From our best information, there is a strong possibility that there will be further wage increases in private industry and other governmental agencies during the next fiscal year. In order for the State to meet this possible increase, it will be necessary to provide a salary increase fund of 5 percent of total state salaries (See pages 7 and 8)

3. In order to make it possible for the board to continue to adjust inequities in salaries of individual classes within the state service, a further salary increase fund of $300,000 will also be required for the next fiscal year (See page 9.)

All of the figures quoted above refer to appropriations from the General Fund for civil service employees Comparable adjustments should be provided for employees paid from special funds

We have been informed that the Department of Finance is preparing recommendations for salaries of exempt employees We have also been informed that the University of California has been requested to submit recommendations for its employees.

The reasons and evidence supporting these conclusions are contained in the following report

Respectfully submitted,
STATE PERSONNEL BOARD

Report to the Governor Concerning the Status of State Employees' Salaries

December 3, 1948

This report is prepared pursuant to House Resolution No. 80, a copy of which is attached, requesting the State Personnel Board to make a "full and complete report on the status of state employees' salaries in relation to prevailing rates in private business and other public jurisdictions, together with its recommendation to the Governor in such time as will enable him to give consideration to it in connection with preparing his Message to the 1949 Session of the Legislature"

Several different authorities determine salaries for state employees. The salaries for some are set by specific provision in the State Constitution. Another group of employees, including the Governor and most of the department heads and judges, have their salaries determined by direct action of the Legislature A larger number of exempt employees, approximately 3,000, have their salaries set by the Director of Finance. In arriving at his decision, the Director of Finance may call upon the staff of the State Personnel Board for its recommendations. Approximately 11,225 employees on the staff of the University of California have their salaries determined by the University. The largest number of employees, approximating 46,000 on July 1, 1948, the civil service employees of the State of California, have their salaries determined by the State Personnel Board in accordance with Section 18850 of the Government Code.

Section 18850: The board shall establish and adjust salary ranges for each class of position in the state civil service. The salary ranges shall be based on the principle that like salaries shall be paid for comparable duties and responsibilities. In establishing or changing such ranges consideration shall be given to the prevailing rates for comparable service in other public employment and in private business, improvement of living standards, the current costs of living, and the State's financial condition The board may make a change in salary range retroactive to the date of application for such change. (Amended by Stats. 1945, Ch 1279)

The salaries of all civil service employees are also subject to Section 18852 which provides that salary ranges shall consist of minimum and maximum salary limits together with some intermediate steps within those limits.

For all monthly-salaried employees, the board must establish a uniform salary which is paid throughout the State regardless of locality. For a small group of "laborers, workmen and mechanics employed on an hourly or per diem basis," approximately a thousand, the board in accordance with Section 18853 of the Government Code sets prevailing rates of compensation for different localities in the State. This group of employees is usually referred to as "prevailing-rate employees" Their salaries or wage rates are determined primarily by union contracts existing in the particular locality of the State. It should be noted, however, that the "prevailing-rate employees" are entitled to a range in rates above the actual rate when the practice in the specific craft is for the payment of a single rate.

The status of state employees' salaries can be most effectively considered if the problem is divided into two principal parts:

Part I—General Analysis of the Present Status of State Salaries
- A. Actions Taken Between June, 1946, and September, 1948
- B. Adjustments Received by "Prevailing-Rate Employees"
- C. Actions Taken Since September 1, 1948

Part II—Estimate of the Future
- A. Estimates of Possible Salary Trends in the 1949-50 Fiscal Year
- B. Estimates of Salary Adjustment Funds Needed to Meet Individual Class Adjustments

Part I—General Analysis of the Present Status of State Salaries

In the following discussion we propose to review those factors which most significantly affect the present state salary structure and which must be taken into account in determining the relative status of state employees' salaries.

A. Actions Taken by the Legislature and the State Personnel Board Between June, 1946, and September, 1948, to Keep Salaries of State Employees in Line With Prevailing Rates.

1 On June 1, 1946, from funds made available by the Legislature for the 1945-1946 Fiscal Year, the State Personnel Board provided for an increase of $10 in the base salary of all employees having minimum entrance salaries of less than $400 a month.

2 On March 25, 1947, the State Senate requested, in Senate Resolution No 61, that the State Personnel Board make a complete report on the status of state salaries.

3 On April 12, 1947, the State Personnel Board made its report to the Legislature indicating that the cost of living had increased 14 percent since June 1, 1946, that the State was lagging behind salaries in other governmental jurisdictions, and that a "second round" of salary increases in private industry had materialized at from $25 to $35 per month

4 To meet this critical situation, the Legislature appropriated the sum of $8,777,100 from the General Fund to provide salary increases during the 1947-1948 Fiscal Year, plus an additional amount to make such an adjustment retroactive

5 On July 25, 1947, the State Personnel Board provided a general salary increase of at least $15 and averaging $22 a month to all civil service employees retroactive to April 1, 1947. This adjustment brought state salaries in line with those prevailing in private industry and other governmental employment. At the same time a new salary plan was adopted which permits employees in each salary range to advance over a four-year period to a maximum salary rate that is approximately 21 percent higher than their starting salary. This plan eliminated many of the inequities which existed under the former salary plan and provided a sound base on which future upward or downward adjustments might be applied with uniform equity to all employees. In addition to this general salary increase, the State Personnel Board continued its program of studying and adjusting the salaries of individual classes to correct internal salary inequities. During the 1947-48 Fiscal Year, increases were granted to 5,532 employees in 528 classes.

6 Beginning on October 1, 1947, many employees, principally in the institutions, benefited from a reduction of working hours to a 40-hour week made possible by legislative action.

7. At the close of 1947 and the beginning of 1948, there were some indications that the cost of living was increasing and that there would be a third round of wage and salary increases At the same time, however, there were other indications that the cost of living would be stabilized. The prices of some commodities broke sharply. Many major companies such as United States Steel Corporation and the large electrical manufacturing companies stated publicly that they would not grant further wage increases In view of the evidence, the board concluded that it had no basis on which it could recommend to the 1948 Budget Session of the Legislature that a large fund should be provided for a possible third-round increase in salaries. The board did request and the Legislature did appropriate $2,000,000 for the correction of internal inequities. The Director of Finance on July 1, 1948, made $1,005,000 of this salary increase fund available for use by the State Personnel Board to adjust salaries of General Fund civil service employees during the 1948-49 Fiscal Year.

8. As of September 1, 1948, the State Personnel Board was confronted with a different situation The rapid change in events beginning at the end of May, 1948, resulted in the conditions which are briefly summarized as follows:

a The general business and economic conditions in the United States had been stimulated by the passage of the European Recovery Program and the increased expenditures by the Federal Government for national defense.

b. By June, 1948, the cost of living had increased 10 percent in the United States, 7 2 percent in Los Angeles, and 7 9 percent in San Francisco over April, 1947, the date of the last general increase in salaries of state employees. The September figures show further increase to a total of 11.8 percent for the United States, 8 6 percent for Los Angeles, and 9 7 percent for San Francisco. The figures on the changes in the Bureau of Labor Statistics Index of Consumers' Prices is included as an appendix to this report.

c. A third round of wage and salary adjustments had resulted in increases of from 7 to 9 percent or from 11 cents to 13 cents an hour ($19 to $22 50 a month) in private industry.

d A few indications of the third round had appeared as early as November 19, 1947 The real impetus for a third round, however, began in May, 1948, with a settlement of the General Motors negotiation A substantial number of industries such as automobile, coal, electrical manufacturing, steel, and rubber granted increases during June and July Other industries such as telephone and railroads made adjustments subsequent to September 1. A majority of these industries have major plants in California whose employees received the increases These adjustments provided the impetus for local industries to provide corresponding increases It appeared reasonable, therefore, to use the date of September 1, 1948, as an approximate time when a substantial majority, but not all of the employers, had granted the third round.

e. As of July 1, 1948, Congress increased the salaries of federal classified employees by $27 50 a month and of Postal employees by $37 50 a month. At the same time widespread salary increases were granted by San Francisco City and County, Los Angeles City, Los Angeles County, Los Angeles School District and other governmental jurisdictions such as Vallejo, Berkeley, Sacramento County and Bakersfield As a result of these changes, the salary ranges for many classes in the state service averaged from $10 to $40 a month below those of other governmental agencies in California.

f Within the preceding few months there had been a considerable reduction in the number of persons on civil service employment lists who would accept state employment.

g A survey in the Los Angeles area by the Merchants and Manufacturers Association showed an average increase over the six-month period from February to August, 1948, for the classes surveyed of 5 6 cents an hour for office and technical classes, and 5 4 cents an hour for shop classes This would represent an average increase of approximately 4 percent The average increase over the year period from August, 1947, to August, 1948, was 9 4 cents an hour for office and technical, and 11 7 cents an hour for shop classes or average increases of approximately 6 percent and 8 percent.

From the above summary of facts, it appeared to the members of the State Personnel Board that the salaries of a large number of state employees were falling below those prevailing in private industry and in other governmental jurisdictions. Based on the above prevailing rate information, salary adjustments were found to be warranted for approximately 85 percent of the state employees as of September 1, 1948.

B Adjustments Received by Prevailing Rate Employees in the State Service

Most of the approximately 1,000 laborers, workmen, and mechanics in the state service whose salaries are set by prevailing rates, in accordance with Government Code Section 18853, have received "third-round" adjustments which have averaged 8 6 percent over their 1947 rates.

The Personnel Board would like to point out that under provisions of Government Code Sections 18050 and 18100, which provide for vacation and sick leave benefits, these state "prevailing-rate employees" who are paid at hourly rates receive the regular state benefits of 15 working days' vacation with pay and may receive 12 working days for sick leave. Most comparable employments in the construction industry do not receive these benefits.

Under the provision of Government Code Section 18853 requiring the establishment of minimum and maximum salary limits for these prevailing rate classes, the trades and craft employees who are paid on a prevailing hourly rate basis receive a 5 cent and a 10 cent per hour differential over the prevailing rate after one and two years' employment with the State.

The result of these provisions of law has been that these state employees receive the same wage rates negotiated with private contractors and receive all the collateral benefits such as premium pay for night work, and overtime as received by employees in private industry, and in addition, they receive the added state benefits of vacation and sick leave with pay, plus the 5 cent and 10 cent premium pay. Legislative action would be required to place these employees on the same basis as comparable employees in private employment with respect to both pay and special benefits. Some private employers have complained that the present practices have placed them at a disadvantage in recruiting and retaining employees.

C Actions Taken by the State Personnel Board Since September 1, 1948

Having noted the salary trends in private and other public employment, the State Personnel Board instructed its staff to make a study of the effect of the third-round adjustments on the salaries of state employees. This study involved the detailed comparison of state salaries with rates paid in private industries and other governmental jurisdictions for comparable employment. The primary sources of this information were surveys conducted jointly with other governmental agencies in February and March, 1948, in the major population centers of the State, and comparisons with salaries of other governmental agencies which were effective on July 1, 1948. These governmental rates generally were based on this same information. A check of a representative sample of 175 firms in San Francisco and Los Angeles indicated that 58 percent of these firms had granted wage increases from March 1, 1948, to September 1, 1948, and an additional 11 percent were negotiating salary adjustments. The information from these surveys was supplemented by later information from a private agency survey in one area and by special studies conducted by the staff. It should be pointed out, therefore, that the prevailing rate information used does not reflect all of the third-round wage increases granted by industry.

On the basis of this study, the State Personnel Board reported to the Governor and the Director of Finance that if state salaries were to be maintained in a reasonable relationship to prevailing rates, increases should be granted, effective September 1, to 1,100 classes and affecting approximately 85 percent of the state employees. The board estimated that the granting of these increases would involve an expenditure from the General Fund of approximately $3,700,000 for the remainder of the fiscal year. Inasmuch as there remained a total of only $1,275,000 in the Salary Adjustment Fund, it was agreed that the State Personnel Board should present the problem to the Joint Legislative Budget Committee for its recommendation.

On September 3, 1948, the State Personnel Board submitted to the committee a "Memorandum on State Employees' Salaries" which indicated the extent of adjustments needed and which presented much of the data contained in this report. The Budget Committee requested the Legislative Auditor to analyze the information upon which the Personnel Board's recommendation was based and report to the committee.

The Legislative Auditor, on October 15, 1948, reported that there was basic justification for an increase in nearly all cases where individual adjustments had not been made by the State Personnel Board since April, 1947. However, he suggested that the matter be referred to the Legislature in January. The Joint Legislative Budget Committee expressed its inability to commit the Legislature to any substantial expenditure in excess of budget authorization for purposes of pay roll increases.

The State Personnel Board had informed the Budget Committee that of the money remaining in the Salary Increase Fund, $993,000 could be used immediately by the State Personnel Board to adjust salaries of general fund civil service employees. While this amount was insufficient to make all of the adjustments which the facts warranted, several members of the Joint Legislative Budget Committee expressed the thought that the State Personnel Board should use all of the resources at its disposal to meet the immediate situation and refer the general problems to the Legislature in its regular session.

At the State Personnel Board meetings of November 5th and 6th and November 19th and 20th, salary adjustments were approved for approximately 300 classes in the lower salary brackets affecting 18,000 employees, after receiving certification by the Director of Finance that sufficient funds were available to make these adjustments.

These adjustments have exhausted the salary increase funds. If the remaining civil service classes for which increases are warranted are to be adjusted as of September 1, 1948, an additional amount of $1,660,000 would be required from the General Fund for the balance of the present fiscal year. We understand that the Department of Finance and the University of California, the other two salary fixing authorities, are preparing estimates of the funds needed to grant comparable adjustments to employees of the University of California and other exempt employees

A. Estimate of Possible Salary Trends in the 1949-50 Fiscal Year

It is not possible at this time to make definite predictions as to trends in salaries for the Fiscal Year 1949-50 As of the date of this report, various reliable governmental and private sources seem to agree that there is little or no evidence pointing to a reduction in the current high level of employment, production, and consumption in the forthcoming year Prices and wages will probably remain at a high level with a possible leveling off or even a slight drop in some industries, such as some agricultural products and some household appliances. The tone of almost all reports, however, is optimistic and indicates no serious setback in prospect The Department of Finance in its August 13th circular letter on "Tentative assumptions regarding state population, economic conditions, and price levels for use in 1949-50 budget requests" states the following:

> "Continued high level of economic activity through the 1949-50 Fiscal Year appears to be the most logical prediction possible at the present time. Although there are factors of weakness in the business outlook, they are more than balanced by factors of strength. Limitations upon production capacity will curb expansion in physical volume of output in many basic lines. However, further price rises may increase the dollar value of production."

There are indications that in certain commodities there will be a closer balance between supply and demand and, therefore, it may be expected that there will be greater resistance to those salary increases that cannot be reflected in higher prices.

The Department of Finance report of August 13th further states that "record employment, further wage increases, the reduction in federal income tax, available workers, and a large volume of liquid assets in the hands of consumers are all factors which will support the domestic economy for a considerable time in the State."

The exact pattern of changes in salaries and prices during 1949-50 is not clear at present. The two most likely patterns are that either salaries and prices will rise still further, or that salaries may become stabilized and prices will decline.

The United Mine Workers have announced further wage demands amounting to 15 cents. The Wage Research Division of the National Foreman's Institute in October reported fourth-round adjustments averaging 9.4 cents an hour based on an analysis of 600 contracts signed in the last 60 days Based on increases granted and promised under the General Motors cost of living formula, a 6 cents an hour wage increase is indicated. The American Federation of Labor has announced its intention to seek a fourth round of wage increases based on increases of 35 percent in cost of living since the end of the war as contrasted with an increase in factory wages of 29 percent. On November 17, 1948, Henry Ford II, president of the Ford Motor Company, said a fourth round of wage increases "is inevitable. Workers are going to get another pay boost." Some recent wage settlements in California may be significant: an increase of 12½ cents an hour in the oil industry, an increase of 15 cents an hour on the water front, and increases for meat cutters of $10 a week ($43 a month) in Los Angeles and $14 a week ($60 a month) in Ventura, Santa Barbara, and San Luis Obispo.

A reasonable estimate of the extent of additional wage adjustments, should they develop, would be a pattern of from 5 cents to 9 cents per hour, which would represent a monthly increase of from $9 to $15. At the same time there are indications that attention in 1949 may be focused on reducing prices rather than on increasing wages

A wide variety of industries is surveyed to determine prevailing rates for classes comparable to those in the state service There is a considerable time lag until the full effects of wage increases granted by the major industries are completely reflected in prevailing rates. Because of this time lag, and because only a portion of the third round was reflected in the April, 1948, area surveys, it can be anticipated that the April, 1949, surveys will reflect continued increases in the prevailing rates of classes comparable to state employment. In estimating the amount required for 1949-50 salary adjustments, the further influences of third round plus the possible additional increases should be considered.

A minimum reasonable estimate of funds needed for salary adjustments to meet possible increases in prevailing rates appears to be approximately 5 percent of salaries and wages. This salary increase fund would be used only if and when required by prevailing rates in California. This policy was followed by the board in the 1947-48 Fiscal Year and resulted in there being an unexpended balance in the salary increase fund at the end of the fiscal year of $878,000 This saving reverted to the General Fund.

Because the economic situation is subject to rapid changes and in order to provide the Governor and the Legislature with current information on the status of employees' salaries, the State Personnel Board will continue its study of economic conditions and salary trends in order to provide further reports or information that may be requested.

B. Estimate of Salary Adjustment Funds Needed to Meet Individual Class Adjustments

Regardless of what occurs generally and in addition to the possibility of the need for a widespread adjustment of salaries, there is a continuing need for special adjustments in individual occupations or classes. These adjustments are required to meet prevailing rate changes that affect only individual classes or series of classes, to maintain equitable salary relationships within the state service, and to compensate employees for changes in workload, work assignments, and responsibility.

Based on an analysis of the experience of the last two years, it is estimated that $300,000 would be required from the General Fund for the 1949-50 Fiscal Year to enable the State Personnel Board to make these individual adjustments for civil service employees.

APPENDIX

House Resolution No. 80

Relative to Salaries of State Employees

WHEREAS, Full salary fixing responsibility in state service is placed by law upon the State Personnel Board insofar as the establishment and continuous adjustment of salaries of civil service employees are concerned under Section 18850 of the Government Code which provides: "The board shall establish and adjust salary ranges for each class of position in the State Civil Service"; and

WHEREAS, Section 18850 of the Government Code also requires that in establishing salaries for state employees "consideration shall be given to the prevailing rates for comparable service in other public employment and in private business"; and

WHEREAS, The Legislature has heretofore declared itself in favor of the principle that state employees' salaries should be maintained as nearly as possible up to prevailing salaries with a minimum of lag in doing so; and

WHEREAS, It appears that as of this date the overall salaries of state employees are reasonably comparable with prevailing rates, which has been made possible by the appropriation of sufficient funds in the Salary Increase Fund of the budget by the last session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, In order to keep the salary ranges of various classes in the state civil service properly adjusted it is necessary that, and the duty of, the Personnel Board to make continuous studies and keep current data in its files on prevailing rates and salary trends; and

WHEREAS, If between now and the convening of the 1949 Session of the Legislature the Personnel Board, on the basis of its studies and information, should determine that state employees' salaries in general are below the prevailing rates there may not be sufficient funds in the salary increase item of the Budget for the 1948-49 Fiscal Year to enable the Personnel Board and other salary fixing agencies to keep the salaries of state employees in line with prevailing rates; and

WHEREAS, It appears that the Governor in preparing the Budget for this session of the Legislature gave only limited consideration to this general problem and it further appears that the Personnel Board does not have any policy or procedure for keeping the Governor and the Legislature regularly advised and informed on the salary status of state employees, or salary trends generally, thus leaving the Legislature without the benefit of the Governor's recommendation in this regard and without the benefit of up-to-date data and recommendations from the State Personnel Board unless specifically requested for such sufficiently in advance of the time of need for legislative consideration; and

WHEREAS, It might therefore be necessary and desirable that the Legislature give consideration to the matter of state employees' salaries upon convening in January, 1949, and in order to properly do so should have immediately available to it all pertinent and necessary information on the subject; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the State Personnel Board be and it is hereby requested to make a full and complete report on the status of state employees' salaries in relation to prevailing rates in private business and other public jurisdictions together with its recommendations to the Governor in such time as will enable him to give consideration to it in connection with preparing his Message to the 1949 Session of the Legislature, and also to file a copy of the same with the Clerk of the Assembly not later than the second day of the 1949 Session of the Legislature; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly is directed to send a copy of this resolution to the Governor, the Director of Finance and the State Personnel Board.

EXCERPT FROM THE MINUTES OF THE MEETING OF THE CALIFORNIA STATE PARK COMMISSION, HELD IN SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, ON NOVEMBER 19, 1948

Proposed Acquisition—Angel Island

Commissioner Kasch presented report upon the findings of this commission relative to the acquisition of Angel Island as an addition to the State Park System. It was moved by Commissioner Kasch that the following resolution be adopted:

Resolved, That the following be approved in the matter of the proposal that Angel Island be acquired as a state park

Under the provisions of Assembly Joint Resolution No. 2, the State Park Commission was requested to investigate "the suitability of Angel Island, relative to cost, development, cost and mode of transportation, water facilities and suitability as a state park or recreational area," and that if the commission, after such investigation, concludes that it would be desirable for inclusion in the State Park System, to proceed with acquisition.

This commission has made an investigation in conformity with the foregoing resolution, without, however securing detailed engineering studies. We felt that the wide engineering experience of General Hannum, Director of the Department of Natural Resources, and Colonel Kelton of our staff qualified them to supply adequate information to enable us to reach a decision without incurring heavy expense.

In an opinion of the Attorney General dated September 24, 1948, it is concluded that the island itself is owned in fee by the United States of America. It has been declared surplus real property to War Assets Administration by the War Department Corps of Engineers and, we were advised, could be acquired by the State of California, acting through this commission, for the sum of $350,000

Under the provision of Chapter 1422, Statutes of 1945, $5,000,000 was appropriated for state parks, which would enable this commission to proceed with the acquisition if, in its opinion, it is desirable for inclusion in the State Park System

Angel Island comprises approximately 640 acres. It is in San Francisco Bay, lying principally in Marin County, but a small portion is in the City and County of San Francisco. The summit, on clear days, commands inspiring views of the bay and hills of San Francisco, Alameda, Contra Costa and Marin Counties. A road has been constructed around the island not a great distance above the water line Virtually all the improvements and installations are between this road and the shore The lands above the road are arid and rocky. The vegetation is not varied or interesting. Nature has not been able to do much by itself for lack of soil and water.

There are several small beaches on the island, but it must be recognized that they are wholly inadequate for bathing or even sunning on the sand. After a thorough investigation we must conclude that the beaches on Angel Island are not of sufficient size or so situated with reference to climate as to justify a belief that any considerable number of families would prefer them to the beaches of San Francisco, Marin, San Mateo and Santa Cruz Counties. We recognize that various trails could be developed. However, we cannot convince ourselves that these trails could afford specialized recreational activities or will be attractive to hikers. At present the state has mountain trails and public areas on Mount Tamalpais, Samuel P Taylor and Mount Diablo State Parks, all reasonably near the populated Bay area.

Transportation can only be by a special ferry service or a high level suspension bridge from Tiburon. We have not attempted to secure figures from which a reliable estimate can be made of the cost of a bridge to Angel Island. We are convinced, however, that the recreational opportunities of the island do not justify such expenditure of public funds. We are also convinced that an equal sum expended in the development of an accessible area could be justified in the public interest. The island cannot be developed as a recreational area according to policies of the State so as to warrant the expense to sufficient visitors who must arrive by ferry.

The water supply of the island is inadequate. In the past water has been brought from San Francisco by barge. If an intensive use is to be made of the area a water main must be laid on the bottom of the bay. This can be done, but we are advised that the cost would be from $369,000 to $567,000, depending on whether the water comes from Treasure Island, San Francisco or Richmond

It is our conclusion that the great cost of a submarine water supply or a capital investment of several millions of dollars in bridge construction could not be economically justified for the development of 640 acres of real estate for recreational purposes situated as is Angel Island.

There are many large and substantially constructed buildings. Some of these structures might be utilized if the area is developed as a state park The remainder should either be destroyed, which would be pure economic waste, or should be put to some beneficial use, and such use would not be compatible with a recreational area or playground.

Consideration has also been given to the use of a portion of the island as a small boat harbor, in addition to other recreational facilities, but again we are forced to the conclusion that the island is not so situated as to make it attractive to a sufficient number to warrant the initial expenditure estimated at a minimum of $1,000,000

We appreciate that many persons and organizations have advocated the inclusion of Angel Island into the State Park System. Pursuant to the resolution of the Legislature, we have made a thorough study of the suitability of the area for recreational purposes, bearing in mind that in the consideration of the expenditure of such a large sum of public funds, we must seek the greatest good for the greatest number Accordingly, we conclude that it is not desirable to acquire Angel Island for inclusion in the State Park System.

Seconded by Commissioner Scott and approved.

ANNUAL MESSAGE TO THE LEGISLATURE

By

GOVERNOR EARL WARREN

Sacramento, California

January 3, 1949

Members of the Senate and the Assembly of the State of California

Once again I welcome you to Sacramento for what I trust will be an interesting and a purposeful session of the Legislature. I particularly welcome the new members who are here for the first time to share in the responsibilities of our State Government. To them I say, as I have said on other occasions to the older members, that I not only believe in, but have always respected in practice, the wise constitutional separation of powers which assigns to the Legislature the power of making the laws, and to the Governor, the responsibility for their administration. This constitutional pattern makes us partners in the Government of our State. It contemplates, and I am sure the people expect, that we will work as partners to achieve for them honest, efficient, humane, and forward looking government.

It is in this spirit of welcome and cooperation, and in compliance with our Constitution, that I report to you upon the condition of our State Government, and make certain recommendations which call for your consideration.

Anniversary of Days of '49

There is both historic and practical significance in the fact that we commence this session of the Legislature in the Centennial Anniversary of the Days of '49. Just 100 years ago California experienced its first great influx of settlers in search of the gold that had been discovered in the hills of the Mother Lode. Those were colorful, adventurous days that have been recorded for us in the romantic, stirring tales of our history books. But they were also difficult days for those thousands who found themselves striving for existence in a new region which had never expected them and had never prepared itself for their arrival.

When gold was discovered there were less than fifteen thousand people, exclusive of native Indians, in the length and breadth of what is now California. In the spring of 1849 the settlers came by sea and trail, pouring in by the thousands, and within little more than a year there were over a hundred thousand people. They clustered in makeshift communities and attempted to get along without houses, without roads, without law enforcement services, without health or sanitation facilities. They were without schools for their youngsters and those that would soon be born here. They had no havens for the care of the unfortunates among them who broke under the strains of a feverishly busy, but thoroughly disorderly, life.

Those forty-niners had no time to theorize about government. Their day-to-day experience, however, gave them a very practical realization of the discomforts, the severities, and the tragedies that multiplied as long as they delayed the work of setting up the basic services that make for orderly community life. They realized that other thousands following them into California would aggravate the living problems of all. They reacted with common sense, energy, foresight, and speed. They understood their predicament and they did something about it to save themselves from disaster.

Local governments were quickly created. Before the year's end, in the American tradition, a State Government was established under a Constitution. Courts were set up, roads were planned, and the first state services—schools, jails and other institutions—were authorized by the Legislature and built with remarkable speed.

History Repeats Itself

Since that time history has been repeating itself. Wave after wave of migration has swept over California, often to find us unprepared. The first came in the 'sixties with the building of the first transcontinental railroad, another during the 'eighties with improved transportation and the silver boom, another during the first decade of the present century with a drift of settlers from the Middle West; another during the 'twenties with the great movement of easterners and middle westerners to Southern California; another during the 'thirties with the exodus from the drought and the dust bowl.

Present Population Growth

But it remained for World War II to put into motion the greatest and most overwhelming influx that our State has ever known.

From less than seven million people in 1940 we have swelled in population to more than ten million in the short period of eight years, an increase of 46 percent in contrast to a national increase of 9 percent—an absorption of over three million people, the equivalent of the combined populations of many states of the Union. It is without question one of the greatest voluntary peacetime migrations in recorded history.

In 1940 no one could have visualized the tremendous proportions of this population growth. We did not realize then that a million war workers from other parts of the nation would come to and remain in California after the war. We did not realize then that over three hundred thousand service men from other states would take their discharges and stay in California. We did not realize that this population movement would continue on at the rate of almost a quarter of a million new settlers in California every year since the war.

From the fifth state of the Union in population in 1940 we are now pressing Pennsylvania for second place, with an official estimate by the United States Department of Commerce that our 1948 population was 10,031,000.

California is happy to receive these people and make them a part of its life. For the most part they come here with the very simple, understandable, and commendable object of improving themselves and creating a better life for their families. They will make possible the fuller development of our State. But this unprecedented growth has also created urgent governmental problems, partly because we did not expect to digest so large a population in so short a time, and partly because, even if we had been forewarned, we could have done little to prepare for this situation during stringent war years.

Now we must make up for those lost years—for the losses and delays caused first by depression and then by a world war, and finally by inflation with its resultant shortages and increase in costs. Just as the pioneers of one hundred years ago faced their predicament and did something about it, so we must accept the responsibility of adjusting this State to its growth and for preparing ahead of time for the requirements of the future.

It is easy to be misled into the error of assuming that growth itself is prosperity, particularly in inflationary times. Yet, the terms are clearly not synonymous. In every phase of life, growth can be either good or bad, orderly or disorderly. Growth, if it is to be good growth, must receive constant attention. We must prepare for it and adjust to it. Otherwise, it will bring distress and disaster—the very opposite of prosperity.

I am sure everyone who has had occasion to travel our State during recent months and survey the growth and expansion which has taken place, recognizes this distinction. Growth in population in California has outstripped physical plant, and in public facilities the shortage has become so extreme that the security, the health, and the education of a growing population is involved.

As we meet here today to bring action to bear upon this problem, we are fortunate, in view of the enormity of the job to be done, that through foresight we have an accumulation of reserve funds with which to finance our endeavors. These reserves were saved during wartime and since, in fulfillment of a fixed state policy of setting aside funds for the construction of needed public utilities when such construction is possible. During the years we have set aside enough to take care of some of the most urgent construction needs of State Government, but there is need for every dollar saved and there will be need for additional dollars, for construction costs have been rising even as our requirements for additional facilities have risen. It is not my purpose to discuss finances today. That will be done in the Budget Message at a later date.

But in reporting on the condition of the State I must comment on its needs. And needs call for money, either money that has been saved or money that must be raised by taxation.

Education

The needs for which these reserves have been created are great in every branch of our State Government. They range from the requirements for schools and hospitals to correctional institutions. Our State University is grossly overcrowded. It is endeavoring to meet the requirements of 17,000 more students than it had in 1940, the year of its peak enrollment before the war. The same thing is true of our state colleges. They are trying to care for 12,000 more students. Our public schools—elementary, high schools, and junior colleges—are desperately trying to meet the needs of 500,000 more pupils than we had in 1940.

We have set up reserves for the minimum construction needs of our university and state colleges. But, the needs increase day by day and sound public policy requires that these reserves be used for their intended purposes as promptly as building conditions permit.

We must also have a comprehensive program to assist, as far as State Government can reasonably do so, in the construction of elementary, high school, and junior college facilities in order to catch up with the tremendous educational requirements of a new population.

In the last two years, the State Government has appropriated $55,000,000 to hard-pressed school districts in order to relieve their classroom shortage But, we find that school classes are still being held under difficult conditions, oftentimes in temporary war housing, church buildings, or makeshift quarters.

The crowding of children into our public schools in this way makes it difficult to maintain the teaching standards that our people demand. It is of the utmost importance that we formulate an orderly program for the construction of new schools, one that will be based on the idea of the cooperation of all levels of government in order to get the job done.

California schools have been the pride of our State. I am sure that all of us want them maintained in accordance with high standards. But, if these standards are to be maintained, we must see to it that our state colleges for the training of teachers are adequate, that the conditions of the school teaching profession are attractive to present and future teachers, and that class-room facilities are sufficient to permit proper teaching and training of our children.

Hospitals for the Mentally Ill

Then there are the hospitals which all civilized and humane societies provide for the care of their unfortunate mental casualties. For years these hospitals have been inadequate Overcrowding, fire hazards, a high incidence of tuberculosis, and lack of adequate treatment facilities combine to create a deplorable situation that would touch the heart of anyone capable of pity. One of our first moves six years ago was to eliminate certain serious fire hazards and take measures for the over-all improvement of treatment and care. The Department of Mental Hygiene was reorganized and modern methods put into effect as far as possible to transform it from a mere custodial agency into one for the prevention and cure of mental illness

But at no time have we caught up with the housing needs at our hospitals. Even the acquisition of two former army general hospitals with temporary facilities for approximately 5,800 patients did not materially ease the strain These facilities and others of a more permanent nature to be added will still leave our hospitals overcrowded by approximately 30 percent at the end of the next fiscal year.

The funds which have been set aside by the Legislature for this purpose will measurably relieve these conditions but the ever increasing needs and higher construction costs will require many more millions if the building program originally authorized by the Legislature is to be completed If there ever was a conscience fund in government, this reserve fund is it

Youth Authority

As a result of the complete reorganization of the California Youth Authority, we are now in a position for the first time in the history of our State to make an intelligent approach to juvenile delinquency. But the demands upon it have more than doubled in the last five years and it must be given the minimum need facilities for which provision has also been made in our postwar building construction reserve

Unless these additional facilities can be made available at once, we will again have hundreds of young boys and girls waiting in our county jails and juvenile homes for long periods of time before they can be accepted by the Youth Authority. This deplorable and demoralizing situation must not be allowed to occur.

This is an obligation that rests heavily upon all of us, and I am sure that the people of the State do not want us to neglect the young people who need the assistance of the Youth Authority in their retraining for good and useful citizenship.

Corrections

There is also the problem of providing adequate facilities for the confinement and rehabilitation of the criminal offenders in our state prisons The public safety requires that every effort be made to prepare prison inmates for a useful place in society, thereby diminishing the possibility that these persons will be a menace to the lives and property of law abiding citizens upon release.

Our prison population is now the highest in the State's history—more than ten thousand as of this date Although the ratio of prison inmates to total population is still less in California than in many states, the continuing growth in population forces us to conclude that the present steady increase in prisoners will continue for years to come.

To house its more than ten thousand prisoners, California now has capacity in permanent structures for a total of only 5,300 The excess population is being cared for by overcrowding of the institutions, by the use of unsatisfactory temporary facilities, and by the expansion of prison road and forest camps to an unprecedented degree. San Quentin is overcrowded by 68 percent and Folsom by 41 percent The California Institution for Women, built to house 150 inmates, is now caring for more than 315 We have reached, and perhaps already passed, the limit beyond which we may expect to avoid serious trouble. Prisoners cannot be handled under such circumstances in an orderly, or even a safe manner

Although we have completely reorganized our prison system and have initiated one of the Country's most progressive correctional programs, lack of proper facilities is forcing a well-trained and efficiently organized personnel in the Department of Corrections to perform its functions under the most difficult conditions. Funds have been saved and authorized for new institutions to take care of immediate needs and to provide additions and modernization for existing prisons. Postwar conditions have delayed construction until now. In the interests of public safety we must now catch up with 20 years of accumulated needs.

Unemployment Insurance

Our Unemployment Insurance System, in operation since 1936, has demonstrated its great value as an economic stabilizer in a state where job turnover is high because of diversified and seasonal employment. The number of individuals in the Unemployment Insurance System increased more than one million between 1940 and 1948 Five percent of these insured workers drew benefits during the first months of 1948 as compared with 6.2 percent during 1940.

We have learned through experience a great deal about unemployment insurance administration. Many of the loopholes through which the fund could be abused by persons fraudulently claiming benefits have been discovered and the Department of Employment has been constantly reducing this kind of exploitation It has been somewhat handicapped in this field by restrictions of the Federal Government, but the latter is being urged to authorize sufficient funds to continually improve administration. It is only through such improvement that we can give better service to workers and employers and eliminate the abuses which defraud a system to which millions of honest workers look for effective protection against economic upsets and inevitable job turnover.

At the present time, substantial groups of workers, mainly agricultural workers and employees of nonprofit corporations, are denied protection and are excluded from the system. The exclusion of farm workers has worked unfairly against many rural communities which have had to deal with unemployment of farm workers by the unsatisfactory and costly method of relief. I have always believed that, if unemployment insurance is sound government policy for some employees, it is equally sound for all.

I, therefore, urge that you give consideration at this session to extending the protection of our unemployment insurance program to those groups which have heretofore been excluded.

Disability Insurance

Two years ago we established a disability insurance program under which the employees' unemployment contributions were set aside for their protection against unemployment due to illness. I am happy to report that this program has been successful. The results have been even better than we anticipated. Industry, workers, and private insurers have cooperated under good administration by the Department of Employment.

After payment of all expenses and benefits, we have already built up a reserve of approximately eighty-five million dollars—a reserve substantially exceeding the present and reasonably anticipated requirements of the program In addition, there is the sum of $107,000,000 in the Unemployment Fund in the Federal Treasury consisting of employees' contributions made prior to the time our disability program went into effect These funds can also be used for disability purposes if needed

The working men and women of the State have contributed this entire fund. They are entitled to receive such liberalization of disability benefits as their contributions make possible.

I, therefore, urge that the benefits of this disability program be liberalized as far as can be done consistently with the financial solvency of the program.

Our disability program, which is one of the pioneers of its kind, now covers 3,100,000 wage or salary workers in our State. Of this number, 930,000 are covered under voluntary plans, which, as you know, are permitted to participate in the program.

I have always believed that workers need protection when their unemployment is due to illness even more than when their unemployment is due to job market conditions. A liberalization of this protection will give our California working people a measure of security in the event of sickness or injury—risks which are a constant source of anxiety to every family.

Highways

The conditions of California's Highway System proved in another way what a doubling of population can do to public facilities that have not been expanded to meet growth. The congestion of nearly four million vehicles on our highways and streets required more and wider traffic lanes with safer operating conditions. Positive action was necessary to reduce an appalling accident record by building modern safety features into highway facilities, including a more widespread application of the freeway principle.

Our present program for the extension and modernization of California's highways and major city streets was adopted in the nick of time. The increase in revenue which it provided will help to correct, in substantial part, the deficiencies of our highways, streets, and bridges.

I am sure that the highway construction now under way in all parts of the State strikingly demonstrates the need for the program and the justification for its adoption. We are working at the program diligently and, I believe, effectively. I am hopeful that in a comparatively short time, we will have relieved the immediate, serious congestion and will have reduced the hazards that would otherwise retard the progress of our State.

Public Health

No state can absorb millions of new residents as swiftly as California without being confronted with conditions calling for vigorous steps to protect the public health. We have made considerable progress in the last few years through measures designed to reorganize and improve our State Department of Public Health, to raise the standards of local health departments and assist them financially, to stimulate the construction of new community hospitals, to speed up the fight against tuberculosis and cancer, to expand the medical center at San Francisco and to establish a new and badly needed medical center at Los Angeles.

We have not, however, come to grips with the fundamental problem of bringing good medical care within the financial means of the average family. We have developed high standards of medical service and facilities in our State, but they have become so costly as to be beyond the means of a large percentage of our people. I do not refer to those who are indigent. The public hospitals and clinics in most places supply them with adequate services. I refer to those who work hard for modest pay and who do not want to become indigent, who want to raise good American families and pay their own way as they go through life. They are the backbone of America.

For these people, and there are millions of them in California, the cost of medical care is so high that they cannot pay for it without crippling their finances and without depriving themselves of other things that are needed to raise a good American family.

I believe this situation can be remedied by a System of Health Insurance to which everyone contributes and through which everyone will receive benefits in time of sickness.

In 1945 and 1947 I recommended such a system, but the bills were never permitted to reach the floor for debate—this in face of the fact that it was recommended by a special interim committee of the Senate in January, 1947.

I have never had any pride of authorship on this subject. I have never claimed that the bill sponsored by me was the only one that could solve the problem. I have always offered to counsel and advise with any group that is sincerely interested in bringing good medical care within the financial means of our people. I repeat that offer now in renewing my recommendation for action in this field.

I also repeat that this should be and can be done without interfering with the traditional freedom of choice between patient, hospital and doctor—a freedom which I have always wanted to see preserved—and that it can be done without socialization of either our physicians or our hospitals—a system to which I have always been opposed.

Water Pollution

In the field of public health I again call your attention to the need for preventing the contamination of the waters of this State—the waters of our streams, our offshore waters, and our underground waters. These waters are being polluted to an alarming degree by industrial wastes and by sewage disposal. The rapid growth of our population, coupled with industrial expansion, has made this problem more urgent day by day. It has increased in seriousness since I called it to your attention two years ago.

Unless something is done, the pollution of our waters will destroy their usefulness to agriculture, will retard the expansion of industry, and will create a constant menace to the public health. Pollution of water is waste of water, and we cannot afford to waste water for any of its purposes. Certainly we cannot continue to carry on germ warfare against our people.

I trust that your committee studies of this subject will result in effective measures to meet this condition.

Workmen's Compensation

At the 1947 Session of the Legislature a commendable advance was made to bring the schedule of workmen's compensation benefits up to date. While the maximum death benefit was then increased from $6,000 to $7,500, payable $30 a week, I call your attention to the fact that in the case of a widow with small children the period of these benefits would terminate in about five years, leaving such a widow without further resources.

I recommend that our workmen's compensation schedule of benefits be reviewed in the light of present living costs, and, particularly, that the death benefit provision be reviewed for the purpose of making better provision for a widow during the period of her children's dependency.

I also believe that the time has come when consideration should be given to the inclusion in our Workmen's Compensation System of the groups that are now excluded from this protection by law.

Small Loans

Two years ago, I instructed the Corporation Commissioner to request legislation designed to correct a deficiency in our laws governing small loans, a deficiency which has become more serious during this inflationary period.

Under present law, loans only up to $300 are regarded as small loans subject to control on interest rates. But no ceiling has ever been fixed for such loans over $300. Legislation was introduced at the 1947 Session of the Legislature to impose a ceiling on such loans over $300, but in the course of the session, amendments were adopted which had the effect of making these ceilings ineffective. The bill in its final form was so obviously inadequate that neither the Corporation Commissioner nor I could longer support it in good conscience.

The legislative deficiencies in the small loan field which existed two years ago still remain. I, therefore, again urge that action be taken to provide a ceiling on interest rates and charges in the small loan business on loans over $300 This ceiling should be so fixed as to give, not the mere appearance of control, but real protection to necessitous borrowers in our State.

Labor-management Relations

Three years ago we established the Institute of Industrial Relations at the University of California. It has been given a good start and I believe that it can be made an even more practical means of bringing about better understanding in the field of industrial relations in California. Both labor and management have taken a real interest in its work. We should now make increasingly practical use of the information that has been developed by the institute concerning the technique of collective bargaining. We can do this now by taking the forward looking step of establishing a representative Industrial Relations Commission, which would have the benefit of the institute staff and committees, to make enlightened findings on labor relations in industry without waiting for actual controversies to arise. If we do this, we will place our State firmly upon the only true road to labor-management cooperation. I suggest that such a commission be established

I have on occasions similar to this expressed the belief that industrial peace can best be achieved, not by legislative counterattacks of management and labor against each other for their own advantage, but only through the better understanding that comes from a knowledge of the other fellow's problem as well as our own. It depends upon the extent to which management and labor look upon their relations as something that involves the public interest as well as their own.

This is particularly important in a state where basic industry is not yet expanding as rapidly as population. Industry in our State is still insufficient to give any long term assurance of jobs and payrolls to our additional thousands of breadwinners.

If the conditions causing present high level employment should change, and if workers should be looking for jobs instead of jobs looking for workers before we get more basic industry, we would be hit harder than any state in the Union. We must, therefore, encourage the development of industry. There is no better way to do this than by establishing a reputation for and by practicing good industrial relations.

Housing

The extent to which the population of California has outstripped our physical plant has been distressingly demonstrated by our housing shortage. For nearly two decades and for reasons peculiar to the depression, the war, and inflation, we have fallen far behind in the supply of housing within the means of the new families that have been clamoring for them. Only recently has it been possible to make some headway with the construction of thousands of new homes. But, we are still a very congested State and thousands of families are living under conditions that are not good for them or their communities.

At my suggestion the 1945 Legislature passed an Urban Redevelopment Act establishing the procedure by which a city, largely with private funds, could clear and rebuild its slums and blighted districts, modernize its physical environment, and stimulate the construction of decent housing, especially for low income groups that are the victims of slum conditions.

At the 1947 Session of the Legislature we followed with the creation of a State Redevelopment Agency through which California might formulate a real program to stimulate the supply of dwellings for its people, eliminate slums and temporary war housing, and assist our cities with urban redevelopment projects.

The law creating this Redevelopment Agency became effective in September, 1947. It was given only a temporary tenure with a terminal date 91 days after the adjournment of this 1949 Legislature. Funds for its support were provided only until June 30, 1948. I appointed its personnel and instructed it to proceed as expeditiously as possible. The 1948 Budget Session of the Legislature failed to approve funds requested for its continued operation and it therefore became inoperative before it had a chance to make a real start.

The Redevelopment Agency was a logical and practical step in the development of sound state policy in the field of housing, which is filled with complex, difficult problems. It must be reactivated if this State is to keep itself properly informed on housing conditions and upon the soundest methods for stimulating the production of the amount and kind of housing the situation requires. Only through such an agency can we determine the appropriate time and manner of replacing temporary war facilities with permanent housing, develop a policy that will encourage the construction of rental units; bring about more uniformity in our building codes and requirements; work with the Federal Government and the local communities on any federal housing program that may be undertaken, and find a formula for implementing and stimulating the Urban Redevelopment Act of 1945.

It seems fundamental to me that California, which has been experiencing a housing shortage greater than any state in the Union, should not neglect the first step for improvement of its housing situation; namely, the creation of an agency to work at it.

I, therefore, recommend that the Redevelopment Agency be made permanent and that it be enabled to resume its important work as soon as possible.

Social Welfare

In the field of social welfare our State Government has been engaged in the task of preparing to put into effect the recently adopted Proposition No. 4, now Article XXV of our State Constitution. This constitutional amendment calls for a transfer of the administration of our old age assistance program from the counties to the State and provides a new schedule of benefits for old age assistance.

I wish to commend the efficiency and resourcefulness of our State Controller, our Director of Finance, and the former Director of our Department of Social Welfare. These officials and their staffs have accomplished what for a time seemed to be the almost impossible task of adjusting present administrative procedures to the requirements of the new constitutional amendment, which became effective January first.

This difficult adjustment has been made in such a way that there will be a minimum of inconvenience and delay in the service of those entitled to old age assistance.

I also wish to express the appreciation of the State to the counties for their cooperation in entering into contracts under which the county personnel has been temporarily enlisted to put the new procedure into effect. This cooperation has been invaluable pending such time as this service can be integrated into the State Government.

There has been a great deal of discussion concerning the amount of additional money required by the new constitutional amendment and the source from which that money should come. This has been stimulated by the new constitutional provision creating a first lien on all money in the State Treasury for the payment of old age assistance benefits.

I am quite sure that the people of our State, when voting for old age assistance increases and liberalizations, expected the Legislature to provide for their payment under a soundly devised financing program. Such a program certainly means that provision should be made for a permanent source of revenue that will raise funds regularly to meet the new requirements.

The expedient of using funds presently on hand, but accumulated for and committed to other necessary humanitarian purposes, would not meet the requirements of a real financing program. That would be a mere gesture of financial legerdemain which would leave the financing of the new program still unsolved.

I, therefore, recommend that the Legislature take into consideration not only all of the revenue resources of the State, but also all of its needs and obligations, and take such steps as may be necessary to raise such additional funds as may be required to soundly and regularly finance the old age assistance program as modified by Article XXV of the Constitution.

Planning and Research

No state can grow as swiftly and variously as California without attention being given to its fundamental economic and social trends as reflected by dependable statistical information. Coupled with this, attention must also be given to comprehensive planning for its public works in order to bring public services into line with industrial and community growth. We have had for many years on our statute books a Planning Act, and in the 1947 Session of the Legislature, we adopted a Planning and Research Act which, among other things, would implement this Planning Act. This Planning and Research Act, however, contained a time limit which would terminate its operation on the ninety-first day after the adjournment of this present Legislature. This made it difficult to obtain a qualified director and staff to carry out its provisions As a result of this difficulty, together with the fact that no funds were provided for research and physical planning at the 1948 Budget Session, there is now no means at all for carrying out the Planning Act. I, therefore, recommend that the research and planning function be made a permanent state activity.

Such action will be of great value to the Legislature, the Governor, the state departments, local units of government, and the public It will minimize the danger of costly mistakes that often result when public agencies fail to plan ahead cooperatively among themselves and with private industry.

Crime Commissions

In November, 1947, acting under statutory authority, I created five special crime commissions for the purpose of making a careful factual study of the various phases of criminal justice in our State. To these commissions I appoint outstanding citizens. They have worked courageously and diligently.

While their tasks have not yet been completed, progress reports are being made and I commend them to your consideration. In accordance with the original plan, these commissions will make their final reports and be discharged on or before July 1, 1949. The work of most of them should be completed by that time and the need for their activities at an end.

However, in the case of the Commission on Organized Crime, the developments to date indicate clearly the necessity for a continued study of underworld conditions The fact that there is in our State an underworld which is reaching out and seeking to organize crime on a commercial basis must be apparent to all who read the news of the day.

That California is a fertile field for such activities no one can doubt. Law enforcement officers know it and want the public to appreciate the seriousness of it. They feel the need for a public understanding of crime conditions. Through their state associations and as individuals they have worked cooperatively with the commission They have commended the commission for its activities and have urged that the work be continued. I thoroughly agree with them. I am also certain that a failure to do so would be a complete surrender to the underworld and an invitation to racketeers, crooks, and gangsters everywhere to prey upon the people of our State.

Agriculture

No report on the condition of our State could be complete without reference to the foundation of its economy. It is important to remember that for a number of years, California's agricultural crops and products have exceeded in value those of any other state of the Union, with the single exception that during 1948, when our $2,000,000,000 agricultural crop was exceeded in one state by a very small margin.

California agriculture, upon which we so greatly depend for our welfare and prosperity, was tremendously stimulated by wartime requirements. Its condition is still, to a large extent, abnormal by reason of the requirements of foreign relief and other federal programs. Our many specialty crops have not had the protection of subsidies and supports that has been provided for the more staple crops of the Nation. It is of the utmost importance, therefore, that we be alert to any change of economic conditions that might disrupt our agriculture, and in so doing, injure our whole state economy.

We must prepare ourselves ahead of time to meet any such situation It would, therefore, be well at this time for the Legislature to review all our state programs affecting agriculture, agricultural research, standards, soil conservation and utilization, pest control and animal diseases, and especially the various marketing programs that have been devised in the past to meet the unique requirements of California agriculture.

The latter should be reviewed in the light of present conditions to make certain that they serve the best interests of both producer and consumer.

No discussion of agriculture, or, for that matter, of business or industry In California, would be adequate without mention of our all-important problem of water conservation.

I firmly believe that the most important feature in the development of our State is the conservation of our water. We must save every drop of it. We must use it for every purpose that it can be used for, irrigation, flood control, power, domestic use, preservation of wild life, and many other uses.

There is developing throughout the Country a general awareness of the necessity for water conservation in the West. I believe the federal programs for that purpose will be accelerated, and we must continue to do our part in seeing that California is a beneficiary of them.

Political and Economic Equality

In recent years we have had an influx into our State of thousands with varied racial backgrounds. For the most part we have enjoyed freedom from racial bitterness and conflict. It cannot be denied, however, that this situation presents a constant occasion for racial tension which would be aggravated by any economic or political crisis.

I have always believed that the government of a great State like ours has a continuing obligation to concern itself with the promotion of a good relationship between racial groups. We must seek continuing improvement and ultimately the eradication of those habits of thought and action which block the road to an era of mutual respect and consideration.

This is a problem to be solved by bringing about more thoughtfulness on the part of all of us. We can do this if we have some fair-minded, thoroughly representative body, acting on behalf of all the people, to survey actual conditions and bring to light such latent causes of conflict as threaten to disturb our community life.

I have on several occasions recommended the establishment of a Commission on Political and Economic Equality. Such a commission would investigate, study, and report conditions to the Legislature and to the Governor At the present time, State Government has no means of obtaining objective information in this field. A commission, such as I have suggested, would be in a position to center public attention on fundamentals of Americanism that are involved. It would be a constructive move toward the building of a finer, more livable State for all. I, therefore, again recommend its establishment.

I have spoken to you at this length because the Constitution contemplates that on this occasion we should take stock of the condition of our State. There are many other matters, of course, that will require your consideration. I have no doubt that many of you have additional problems in mind. It is not possible to deal adequately with all these matters within the limits of this formal message. I will, however, be glad to discuss all of them with you from time to time in my office to which I invite each and every one of you for the discussion of anything that you consider of importance to our State.

I believe you will find, as I have, that few of our problems are really new. Most of them have been with us for some time, but they are becoming more pressing as our State grows. They will not solve themselves We must do something about them.

With a desire to cooperate for the common good I am sure that we can accomplish a great deal to prepare this wonderful State for a second century of progress.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS
SACRAMENTO, December 6, 1948

Honorable Arthur A. Ohnimus
Chief Clerk of the Assembly
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

DEAR SIR:

Re: H. R. 110, 1948 Regular Session

By House Resolution No. 110, adopted March 26, 1948, the Assembly requested the California Highway Commission to defer further acquisition of right of way on that portion of the Hollywood Freeway between Van Ness Boulevard and a point midway between Hollywood Boulevard and Sunset Boulevard until May 1, 1949, or until the Legislature acted on legislation creating a proper authority on rapid mass transit.

The said resolution also requested the city council of the City of Los Angeles to survey and renegotiate any existing agreements in order that the matter might be finally resolved for the best interests of all the people.

While the resolution does not request a report from this department, I wish, in view of the fact that the department felt unable to comply with the request, to report to the Assembly the reasons for noncompliance. These reasons are:

1. The department and the City of Los Angeles had previously made and executed certain contracts for cooperative action on this freeway project. There was no request from the City of Los Angeles that these contractual arrangements be renegotiated. The city council did at one time adopt a resolution (the so-called Warburton resolution) requesting delay pending an engineering report. The engineering report was made by the city engineer to the council, whereupon the said resolution of the city council was rescinded.

2. After careful and serious consideration of House Resolution No. 110, it was our conclusion that the resolution was based on the mistaken premise that it is essential in the construction of rail rapid transit to the San Fernando Valley to utilize that portion of the Hollywood Freeway between Van Ness Avenue and Selma Avenue. This is not the fact, for as shown by the above referred to report of the City Engineer of the City of Los Angeles, it is perfectly feasible to construct the rail line independently of the freeway between said points.

A few months before House Resolution No. 110 was adopted, the proponents of rail rapid transit had requested a delay of a few months on the section of the Hollywood Freeway between Vermont and Selma Avenues, on which section a real saving could have been accomplished through joint construction. At the time that request was made, it was understood by the proponents of the rail rapid transit that the department had acquired rights of way, had plans practically completed on the Vermont to Selma section and, accordingly, the delay was requested only until it could be ascertained whether the legislation could be secured at the 1948 Regular Session or at a special session held concurrently with said session.

In view of the circumstance that House Resolution No. 110 was never referred to committee, the department did not have opportunity to explain this situation properly to the Assembly and felt that had the factual situation been properly understood, the resolution might not have been adopted.

3 Another major reason for not delaying the Hollywood Freeway project was the effect which delay would have had on the existing budget and on the overall program for the completion of the freeway.

I wish to assure you that the decision to proceed with the existing program was not made lightly or without regard to House Resolution No. 110. The subject of the resolution was most carefully and seriously considered by the California Highway Commission, the Director of Public Works, and this office. I know that the matter was also thoroughly and carefully studied by the responsible officials of the City of Los Angeles

A full and detailed explanation of the position taken in this matter has been made to the Assembly Interim Committee on Highways, Streets and Bridges, and will be found in the testimony of Fred J. Grumm, Deputy State Highway Engineer, in the transcript of the official proceedings of said Interim Committee for Wednesday, the thirteenth day of October, 1948, beginning on page 37, line 16, of said transcript, and ending on page 84. Attention is also respectfully directed to the testimony of Hugo N. Winter, Deputy City Engineer, City of Los Angeles, pages 103 to 120 of said transcript.

Respectfully submitted,

G. T. McCOY, State Highway Engineer

DEAR MR. OHNIMUS: I know of nothing that has occurred since our report to the President was completed which I have as deeply appreciated as the resolution of the Assembly of the California Legislature.

We were very, very earnest in the job we did as we had a definite conviction after months of consideration and after hearing the most confidential information from all government sources, that the peril to this Country has never been as great as it is today, and that the 70 group airforce is the minimum strength required to protect this Country if attacked or probably to prevent an attack within the next three or four years.

If we have that force of the type of planes which are essential, I question whether this Country will have serious difficulty with Russia until their airforce is greatly superior to ours both in number and efficiency—and that we can never allow to happen.

Sincerely yours,

A. D. WHITESIDE, President

DEPARTMENT OF SOCIAL WELFARE, SACRAMENTO, April 28, 1948

Mr. Arthur A. Ohnimus, Chief Clerk
California State Assembly
State Capitol, Sacramento 14, California

DEAR MR. OHNIMUS: House Resolution No. 93 of the 1948 Regular Session of the Legislature has been received and considered by the State Social Welfare Board.

In my letter of August 4, 1947 (printed on page 37, Journal of 3/1/47) I stated that an increased budget was put in effect on August 1, 1947, and that the department was preparing to make another survey of prices beginning September 1, 1947. House Resolution No. 93 makes it appear that the revised budget adopted by the Social Welfare Board on March 19, 1948, was the result of the pricing survey begun in September, 1947. This is not the case.

The pricing survey conducted in September and October, 1947, indicated that prices had undergone the following variations from the previous survey:

Food	increase of	$0.34
Household operations	decrease of	.15
Clothing	decrease of	.70
Overall decrease		$0.51

The adoption by the Social Welfare Board of a revised Old Age Security budget based on the September-October, 1947, pricing survey would have resulted in a decrease in the grant of many recipients of aid. In view of the fluctuations to which prices appeared subject, the Social Welfare Board, on my recommendation, declined to put the decreased budget schedule in effect, and directed the department to continue its cycle of pricing surveys.

The next survey was completed in March, 1948, and showed the following variations from the April, 1947, survey:

Food	increase of	$1.64	($2.90 if all meals
Household operations	decrease of	.15	purchased in rest.)
Clothing	decrease of	62
Overall increase		$0.91	($2.13 if all meals purchased in rest.)

Upon being informed of this increase in prices the Social Welfare Board adopted a revised budget under which recipients, depending on their needs and income, may receive increases in the monthly grant amounting to as much as $3.

Since the amount of the increase depends on the individual's need and income, cases must be recomputed individually. This is a tremendous task, to be performed by the local county welfare departments. In order that the processing of new applications and the other essential services rendered by the county welfare departments might not be retarded, the board allowed a period of slightly more than three months for the purpose of this recomputation, and prescribed July 1, 1948, as the effective date of the new budget schedule.

In April 1948, the board was informed that some counties had reported their ability to make the increases effective at an earlier date without delaying their other essential work. The board thereupon amended its order and declared the new budget schedule effective as soon as administratively possible, but in no event later than July 1, 1948.

Very sincerely yours,

CHARLES M WOLLENBERG, Secretary
State Social Welfare Board

CHAMBERS OF THE SUPERIOR COURT
LOS ANGELES 12, CALIFORNIA, April 27, 1948

Mr. Arthur A. Ohnimus
Chief Clerk of the Assembly

DEAR ARTHUR: We have just received yesterday three copies of the resolution adopted by the Assembly on March 24, 1948, in memory of my mother, Sara Wilde Houser, who passed away the day preceding the adoption of said resolution.

It was very thoughtful of the Members of the Assembly to adopt this resolution and all the members of our family deeply appreciate it. We thought, too, that the resolution itself was beautifully prepared, and all three copies arrived in fine condition. Thanks very much for your thoughtfulness and courtesy in sending us the three copies.

Most sincerely,

FREDERICK F HOUSER

Again we thank you.

LOCKEFORD, CALIFORNIA, April 8, 1948

DEAR MR. OHNIMUS: I am deeply grateful to you for your kind expressions of sympathy, and am sincerely touched by the wonderful copies of the Assembly resolution you have so kindly sent us.

I wish you could convey to the Members of the Assembly my sincere thanks for the expression of their regard for Jim. He was always so interested in his "job" there and would not consider the thought of giving it up as long as he was able to keep going I cannot help but feel it was a blessing he went as he did—in the harness, and was not forced to suffer a period of retirement.

He often spoke of you as his friend, and I want to thank you at this time for the extra attention you always gave him.

My son lives in Burbank and when he comes next time I will give him his copy of the resolution My daughter is living in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, and I will send hers to her.

We are terribly lonesome without Jim and it is gratifying to know others also are missing him.

Sincerely yours,

THERESA L. THORP

By Speaker Collins:

The following report of progress from the Hon. T. Fenton Knight was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

JOHANNESBURG, SOUTH AFRICA, December 27, 1948

DEAR SAM: Your job of riding herd on 79 Assemblymen is no easy task, as I know full well from watching you do it in 1947 and 1948, but I can assure you that it is nothing compared with bucking the "mosquito fleet" from one end of the Congo to the other. These insects are as thick as Democrats in the States and their attack equally as deadly, if the reports I get on the November election out here are true.

If the Belgians could only get the mosquito to organize the traveler might get a little peace during one shift of the day but this pest never heard of an eight-hour day or a five-day week One group starts to work at dusk and another takes over at dawn. I slept in so many beds draped with bridal veils that I found myself getting young ideas but the hot tropical sun takes that sort of thing out of you fairly early in the morning.

You may recall that I am traveling under authorization of House Resolution No. 72, authorized by Assemblyman A I. Stewart, which calls for a report from me as to my findings upon my return to California. This is a progress memo only. My final report, which should not exceed more than 400 printed pages, will include among other important findings, the recommendation that every public servant in California, whether elected or appointed, shall forthwith take a journey substantially along the route I have been traveling. If this recommendation is favorably acted upon I am sure that I will have rendered my State a great service.

This entire trip has been a wonderful and wild experience but should be tackled only by those who have had legislative training for one is constantly coming in contact with the strange and weird here in Africa just as he does in the halls of the Capitol during the session. In spite of all the fun I am having I must confess that I do miss the old associations and an occasional opportunity to press the red button in opposition to some excessive appropriation but I am confident that Bruce Reagan will do the job much better than I ever did. My very best to all the gang, both old and new.

Sincerely yours,

FENTON

PRAYER

Eternal God: May we meet together with the spirit of Christmas still aglow within us, and its glory about us.

Let us come like the Wise Men, who looked to the Star, emblematic of the infinite enlightenment which shines upon seekers after truth.

Let us look back upon the Shepherds, the humble men of the field and forest, and remember that the soil of the earth is the source of wealth and the basis of industry.

Let us cherish the vision of the Mother and the Child in the Manger, and the sacred halo and sentiments of love it awakens in every home, and the eternal gladness of childhood.

When we behold the gorgeous Magi and the lowly shepherd before a common shrine, may it remind us that all classes of society can unite in the common cause of human betterment.

Above all, let the song of the Heavenly Host that echoed above Judaean hills continue to fill us with the goodwill and harmony for which the Prince of Peace was born.—AMEN.

Opinion of Legislative Counsel

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO 2, CALIFORNIA, December 28, 1948

Hon Randal F. Dickey

Alameda, California

Interim Committees—No 1764

DEAR MR. DICKEY: You have asked whether it would be possible to create or continue a number of Assembly interim committees in one house resolution rather than to adopt a separate resolution for each committee continued or created.

In our opinion there is no legal reason why such action may not be taken by a single resolution.

Article IV, Section 37 of the Constitution provides that "the Legislature may by resolution provide for the appointment of committees" for certain purposes. Nothing contained in this section expressly prohibits the Legislature from creating more than one committee in any one resolution, and we do not believe that such a prohibition exists by necessary implication.

We can see no reason why this "single resolution" method should cause any great administrative or accounting problems. As a result of conversations with Mr. Artz of the Controller's Office, we believe a resolution similar to the one enclosed will not present any great problems to that office.

We do not, however, believe that such resolution can, at the present time, allocate to the committees named therein the "unexpended balances" of sums originally allocated to them.

The reason for this is that the committees in question were created at the 1947 Regular Session, and many of them received allocations of Assembly Contingent Funds both at that session and at the Budget Session. As a result some of the funds from which the allocation was made have "lapsed" and are no longer available for expenditure.

Instead of providing in the resolution that the "unexpended balances" are available to the several committees, we believe it would be safer and less uncertain to determine from the Controller the available balance in each committee's account, and to provide for the allocation of that amount to the committee.

The resolution we have prepared is drafted in this manner, with blanks in which the appropriate amounts may be inserted.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel
By A. C. MORRISON, Deputy

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO OFFER HOUSE RESOLUTION OUT OF ORDER

Mr. Dickey asked for unanimous consent that he be permitted to introduce a House resolution, out of order, at this time

Mr. Lowrey withheld unanimous consent.

Mr. Lowrey withdrew his objections.

RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. Dickey:

House Resolution No. 13

Relative to creating the Assembly Legislative Process Committee and defining its powers and duties

WHEREAS, Many of the legislative proposals involve problems within the jurisdiction of more than one standing committee of the Assembly, and the adequate consideration of such measures requires the cooperation of such several committees in order to avoid duplicating the work of one such committee by another, and much delay in the legislative process could be avoided if it were possible to eliminate such duplication of effort and provide a means for expediting the consideration of such measures; and

WHEREAS, There is a need for a committee equipped to ascertain facts and secure facts and information upon assigned topics from time to time during the session, a committee acting in aid of and in collaboration with the several standing committees of the Assembly; now, therefore, be it

5 The committee has the following additional powers and duties:

Temporary Rules

6. The Committee on Rules may at any time report a temporary rule. Upon adoption by an affirmative recorded vote of two-thirds of the entire elected membership of the Assembly, such temporary rule shall have the effect, for the time being, of a standing rule. If such temporary rule shall be in conflict with a standing rule, it shall supersede such standing rule only for the time being.

Parliamentary Rules

7. In all cases not provided for by the Constitution, by the Assembly Rules, or by the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly, the authority shall be Mason's Manual of Legislative Procedure.

Standing Committees

Standing Committees

8. For their convenient functioning and in furtherance of the thorough consideration of all bills on a given subject, the several standing committees of the Assembly are respectively grouped into the following categories:

A. LEGISLATURE:

Two committees to consider legislative organization, functions and procedure:

Committee on Rules

There is a Committee on Rules, No. 1, which shall act as an executive committee of the House having the following powers:

To recommend the appointment of all attaches and employees of the Assembly not otherwise provided for by statute. It shall have authority to suspend, with or without pay, any such attache or employee for incompetency or dereliction of duty, pending final action by the Assembly.

The Committee on Rules shall for the purpose of Joint Rule No. 2 be deemed to be the Rules Committee of the Assembly.

Committee on Legislative Procedure

There is a Committee on Legislative Procedure, No. 2, which shall have and exercise the following powers:

To be the Committee on Engrossment and Enrollment within the meaning of the Joint Rules. It shall be the duty of the Committee on Legislative Procedure to compare all bills, ordered or considered engrossed by the Assembly, with the engrossed copies thereof; and, before they pass out of the possession of the Assembly, see that the engrossed bill is a true copy of the original, with such amendments as may have been made thereto; and said committee shall see that all engrossed bills are reported back in the order in which they were ordered engrossed. The report of the Committee on Legislative Procedure shall be in order at any time.

To consider and report on bills introduced after the constitutional recess.

To assist the Speaker, upon his request, in recommending the reference of bills to the appropriate standing committees.

Prior to the assignment of members to serve on the several standing committees, the Speaker shall consider the preferences of the members with regard to committee assignments, while keeping in view the practical necessity of making assignments so that members will not serve on more than one committee which meets at the same time, and the Speaker thereafter shall determine the number and members to serve on each standing committee. Upon publication in the Journal of the number of members on each standing committee, no further change in the number of members of the committee shall be made otherwise than by a majority vote of the elected membership of the Assembly.

No Member of the Assembly shall be a member of more than three standing committees except that upon appointment by the Speaker or the approval of the House a member may serve on four committees.

Bills

Bills Defined

34. Each bill shall be signed by the member, or each of the members, who is an author of the bill before it is introduced. If any bill is introduced which does not contain the signature of such author or co-author, the same, on motion of the member whose name appears thereon without such signature, shall be stricken from the file by a recorded vote of a majority of the elected membership. In each legislative session, on the first day when bills are introduced under "Introduction and Reference of Bills," the roll shall be called from A to Z and then back from Z to A, and as each member's name is called, he may introduce one bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent or joint resolution.

After these two roll calls, any member desiring to introduce bills, constitutional amendments, concurrent and joint resolutions may at any time during a session send the same to the Clerk's desk.

When received at the Clerk's desk it shall, under the proper order of business, be numbered, read the first time, referred to a standing committee, be printed, and a copy placed upon the desk of each member.

All bills, constitutional amendments, concurrent and joint resolutions introduced before the standing committees of the Assembly are appointed, shall be referred to committees, references to take effect when the committees shall be appointed.

If, in the opinion of the Legislative Counsel, any correction made by him under the authority of this rule should in any manner be construed to be a change in the bill other than a change in form, he shall obtain the consent of the author of the bill before making such change.

Immediately upon the completion of the check of the bills referred to the Legislative Counsel in accordance with the provisions of this rule, he shall deliver the bills to the State Printer. Under no circumstances shall the Legislative Counsel retain in his possession any bills referred to him under the provisions of this rule for any period longer than two legislative days.

Introduction of Bills After Constitutional Recess

37. Any member requesting permission to introduce a bill, except a resolution or constitutional amendment, after the constitutional recess shall send such request together with the bill to the Clerk's desk, and it shall be referred by the Speaker to the Committee on Legislative Procedure. The committee shall ascertain if the granting of such request will exceed the limitations as set forth in Section 2 of Article IV of the Constitution, and if it will not, shall report back on the same legislative day each bill so referred to it. The adoption of the report of the committee granting permission to introduce any bill shall require an affirmative recorded vote of three-fourths of all members elected to the Assembly.

Standing Committee Functions

Standing Committee Rules

38. The Rules of the Assembly shall govern the conduct of all committee meetings. Each committee may adopt, by a majority vote of its entire membership, such additional rules as it may deem necessary for the conduct of any business referred to such committee.

A majority of the committee members present may order a call of the committee.

41. All committees shall act upon bills referred to them as soon as practicable, and when acted upon each bill shall be reported back to the Assembly forthwith, and the chairman of each committee is charged with the observance of this rule.

Reports of Committees

42. Reports of standing and special committees shall be delivered to the Chief Clerk or an assistant, and shall be read and ordered printed in the Journal unless otherwise ordered by the Speaker or a majority vote of the members present.

Signing Bills Out of Committee

43. No bill shall be signed out of committee unless the committee has failed to hold a meeting on two consecutive scheduled dates, or having so met, has failed to have a quorum present for the transaction of business.

Committee of the Whole

44. The Assembly may resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole at any time by a majority vote of the members present. While sitting as such committee, persons other than members may address the committee. A motion that the Committee of the Whole "do now rise and report back to the Assembly," shall always be in order, and shall be decided without debate. 2. Second Reading, Assembly Bills
3. Second Reading, Senate Bills
4. Unfinished Business

Committee Amendments

51. Committee amendments reported with bills shall be considered upon their second reading and such amendments may be adopted by a majority vote of the members present. Assembly bills so amended shall be ordered reprinted and engrossed, and Senate bills so amended shall be ordered reprinted and to third reading.

Amendments From the Floor

52. Any member may move to amend a bill during its second or third reading and such motion to amend may be adopted by a majority vote of the members present.

Before debate an extra copy of the proposed amendment must be delivered to the Clerk's desk and made available to the author of the bill. Bills so amended on second reading shall be treated the same as committee amendments. Any bill so amended upon second or third reading shall be reprinted and re-engrossed. The Chief Clerk shall order printed not to exceed 1,000 copies of all amended bills.

Consideration of Constitutional Amendments, Concurrent and Joint Resolutions

53. Constitutional amendments, concurrent and joint resolutions may be amended by a majority of the members present and shall be treated the same as bills, except that they shall be read but once. The ayes and noes shall not be called upon the adoption of concurrent resolutions, except those presenting charter amendments or authorizing expenditures of money, unless regularly demanded or required by statute or by the Constitution.

Bills Transmitted to the Senate

54. Upon the final passage of any bill if no notice of motion to reconsider such bill be given, the Speaker shall order the bill transmitted to the Senate under signature of the Chief Clerk. Senate bills refused passage shall forthwith be returned to the Senate under similar signature.

Bills Considered During Last Seven Days

55. No Assembly bill shall be passed by the Assembly within seven calendar days previous to the time set for adjournment sine die of the Legislature, except upon recommendation of the Speaker and permission to consider and vote on such bill being granted by a recorded vote of three-fourths of the entire elected membership of the Assembly.

Concurrence in Senate Amendments

56. It shall require the same affirmative recorded vote to concur in any Senate amendment to an Assembly bill as the vote required by the Constitution for the passage of such bill. It shall require an affirmative recorded vote of two-thirds of the entire elected membership of the Assembly to concur in any Senate amendment to an Assembly bill which contains an item or items of appropriation subject to reduction or elimination under the provisions of Section 34a of Article IV of the Constitution. The vote on concurrence shall be deemed the vote upon final passage of such bill. When Senate amendments to an Assembly bill are concurred in, the bill shall be forthwith ordered enrolled, and the Chief Clerk shall notify the Senate of such concurrence.

Nonconcurrence in Senate Amendments

57. If the Assembly refuse to concur in Senate amendments to an Assembly bill, and when notified that the Senate has refused to concur in Assembly amendments to a Senate bill, the Speaker shall appoint a committee of three (3) on conference, and the Chief Clerk shall immediately notify the Senate of the action taken by the Assembly and request the appointment of a like committee.

Committee on Conference

58. The Speaker, in appointing a committee on conference, shall select two members from those voting with the majority on the point about which the difference has arisen, and the other member from the minority, in the event there is a minority vote.

59. The Chairman of the Senate committee on conference for the same bill shall arrange the time and place of meeting of such committee. It shall require an affirmative vote of not less than four of the members constituting the committee on conference to agree upon a report, and the report shall be submitted to both the Senate and the Assembly. Such report is not subject to amendment, and if either house refuses to adopt such report, the conferees shall be discharged and other conferees appointed. No member who has served on a committee on conference shall be appointed a member of another committee on conference on the same bill. The presentation and consideration of any report of a committee on conference shall always be in order, except during a roll call or when a member has the floor. It shall require the same affirmative recorded vote to adopt any conference report as required by the Constitution upon the final passage of the bill affected by such report. It shall require an affirmative recorded vote of two-thirds of the entire elected membership of the Assembly to adopt any conference report affecting any Assembly bill which contains an item or items of appropriation which are subject to reduction or elimination under the provisions of Section 34a of Article IV of the Constitution.

The vote on concurrence or upon the adoption of such conference report by the Assembly shall be deemed the vote upon final passage of such bill.

Engrossing and Enrolling Bills

60. The Engrossing and Enrolling Clerk shall engross and enroll all bills which shall come to his hands for such purposes, in compliance with the provisions of Section 9503 of the Government Code, and in the order of time in which the same shall be acted upon by the Assembly.

Enrollment

61. After final passage by both houses, any Assembly bill not amended by the Senate shall be forthwith ordered by the Speaker to be enrolled, as provided in Sections 9508 and 9509 of the Government Code. The Committee on Legislative Procedure shall report both the day and the hour each enrolled bill is presented to the Governor, which report shall be entered in the Journal.

SECTION 4

PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE

Motions and Questions

Precedence of Motions During Debate

62. When a question is under debate or before the Assembly, no motions shall be received but the following, which shall take precedence in the order named:

First—To adjourn;
Second—To recess to a time certain;
Third—To lay on the table;
Fourth—For the previous question;
Fifth—To set as a special order;
Sixth—To postpone indefinitely;
Seventh—To refer, or re-refer;
Eighth—To amend.

Questions of Order Decided Without Debate

63. All incidental questions of order, arising after a motion is made for any of the questions named in Rule 62 and pending such motion, shall be decided by the Speaker without debate, whether on appeal or otherwise.

Appeal From Decision of the Speaker

64. Any member may appeal from a decision of the Speaker without waiting for recognition by the Speaker, even though another member has the floor. No appeal is in order when another is pending, or when other business has been transacted by the Assembly prior to the appeal being taken.

Upon the appeal being seconded, the Speaker may give his reasons for the decision, and the member taking the appeal may give his reasons for making his appeal, and the Speaker shall forthwith put this question to the Assembly: "Shall the decision of the Speaker be sustained?"

An appeal cannot be amended and yields only to a motion to recess or adjourn, to lay on the table, or a question of personal privilege. If an appeal be laid on the table, such action shall have no effect on the pending question.

An appeal cannot be debated when relating to indecorum, transgression of Rules, or priority of business. A majority vote of the members present shall decide any appeal.

Speaker Explains Order of Business

65. The Speaker may, on his own motion or upon the motion of any Member of the Assembly, explain the order of business when the motion pending before the Assembly is not debatable. Such explanation is not to consume more than two minutes.

To Adjourn

66. A motion to adjourn is not debatable and cannot be amended, and is always in order, except (a) when another member has the floor; (b) when the Assembly is voting; (c) during a call of the Assembly. The name of any member moving an adjournment and also the hour at which the motion was made and adjournment taken shall be entered in the Journal. A motion to adjourn must be adopted by a majority vote of the members present.

When a motion to adjourn is made and seconded, it shall be in order for the Speaker, before putting the question, to permit any member to state to the Assembly any fact relating to the condition of the business of the Assembly which would seem to render it improper or inadvisable to adjourn. A statement shall not occupy more than two minutes and shall not be debatable.

To Recess to a Time Certain

67. A motion to recess to a time certain shall be treated the same as a motion to adjourn, except that such motion is debatable when no business is before the Assembly, and can be amended as to the time and duration of the recess. It yields only to a motion to adjourn.

To Lay on the Table

68. A motion to lay on the table is not debatable and cannot be amended.

A motion to table a bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent or joint resolution requires a majority vote of the entire elected membership.

Any motion to lay on the table, if carried by a majority vote of the entire elected membership, carries with it the main question and everything that adheres to it; provided, however, that a motion to lay an amendment on the table, if adopted, does not carry with it a bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent, joint, or House resolution.

A motion to lay an amendment on the table may be adopted by a majority vote of the members present.

The Previous Question

69. The previous question shall be put only when demanded by five members, and in this form: "Shall the question be now put?" And its effect, when sustained by a majority of the members present, shall be to put an end to all debate and bring the House to a vote only on the question then pending; except that the proponent of the matter pending shall be allowed not to exceed five minutes to close the debate.

Motion to Set Special Order

70. A motion to set any matter before the Assembly as a special order of business must be adopted by a two-thirds vote of the members elected. It is debatable only as to the propriety of setting the main question as a special order of business, and may be amended only as to the time.

Motion to Postpone to a Time Certain

71. A motion to postpone to a time certain shall be deemed and treated as a motion to set as a special order.

Motion to Postpone Indefinitely

72. When a motion is made to postpone indefinitely any bill, motion, or amendment, it opens the main question to debate. Should the motion to postpone indefinitely prevail by a majority vote of the entire elected membership, the main question shall not be acted upon again during the session.

Motion to Amend

73. A motion to amend may itself be amended, but no "amendment to an amendment" can be amended. A motion to amend is debatable, except where the main question to be amended is not debatable. Any motion to amend may be adopted by a majority vote of the members present.

A motion to amend having been decided in the negative, shall not again be in order on the same day, or at the same stage of proceeding. A motion to amend by striking out certain words having been decided in the negative, shall not preclude a motion to amend by adding words, or a motion to amend by striking out and inserting words; but in no case shall a further amendment be substantially the same as the one rejected.

Subject to the above provisions of this rule, a motion to amend is in order during the second or third reading of any bill.

A motion to lay an amendment on the table may be adopted by a majority vote of the members present, as provided in Rule 68.

Amendment to Be Germane

74. No amendment to any bill, whether reported by a committee or offered by a member, shall be in order when such amendment relates to a different subject, or is intended to accomplish a different purpose, or requires a title essentially different from the original title of any bill.

No amendment shall be in order which adds or deletes the name of a member as an author or co-author, or which changes the original number of any bill.

Substitute Motion

75. A motion to substitute shall be deemed and treated as a motion to amend.

Motions in Writing

76. Upon request of the Speaker all motions shall be reduced to writing and shall be read by the Speaker before the same are acted upon.

Constitution of Motions

77. No motion, whether oral or written, shall be adopted until the same shall be seconded and distinctly stated to the Assembly by the Speaker.

Division of Questions

78. Any member may call for a division of the question, and the Speaker shall order the question divided if it comprehend propositions in substance so distinct that, one being taken away, a substantive proposition shall remain for the decision of the Assembly.

Withdrawal of Motions

79. After a motion is stated by the Speaker, or a bill, resolution, or petition read by the Clerk, it shall be deemed to be in the possession of the Assembly.

Motion to Be Germane

80. No motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted as an amendment.

Motion to Withdraw and Recall Bills

81. A motion to withdraw a bill or resolution from committee, or to re-refer a bill or resolution from one committee to another committee may be made during the regular order of business. A motion to re-refer shall only be debatable as to the propriety of such reference, and shall require a recorded vote of a majority of the elected members.

No bill or resolution shall be withdrawn from committee and placed upon the file except upon two days' notice thereof and except by a recorded vote of a majority of the elected members.

Bills Stricken from File

82. A motion to strike from the file any bill or House resolution requires a majority vote of the entire elected membership. Such bill shall not be acted upon again during the session.

Motion to Rescind Action and Expunge Record

83. Previous to the approval of the Journal by the Assembly, any action may be rescinded and its record ordered expunged by an affirmative recorded vote sufficient to take such action originally; except that no action shall be rescinded and the record expunged by a vote less than a majority of the entire elected membership. No motion to rescind the action and expunge the record shall be made twice on the same proposition.

Reconsideration of Vote

84. Notice of a motion to reconsider on the next legislative day, the vote whereby any bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent or joint resolution was passed or refused passage, must be given on the same day such vote to be so reconsidered was taken.

A notice of motion to reconsider a vote must be given by a member voting on the bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent or joint resolution, and shall take precedence over all motions, except a motion to adjourn. Upon such notice of motion being given, the bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent or joint resolution shall forthwith be placed upon the unfinished business file, and no further action shall be taken prior to the next legislative day. When a notice of a motion to reconsider has once been made, the same shall be considered to be the property of the Assembly.

Any member voting on any motion, amendment, concurrence, Assembly resolution or proposition other than a bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent or joint resolution, may give notice of reconsideration of the vote whereby the same was passed or refused passage on the same day such vote to be reconsidered was taken, which notice shall suspend all further consideration until the next legislative day; provided, however, that a motion to reconsider on the same day the notice was given shall take precedence over and above such notice and upon demand of any member must be put to an immediate vote. A motion to reconsider any proposition other than a bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent or joint resolution shall require an affirmative recorded vote of a majority of the entire elected membership.

No notice of motion for reconsideration shall be in order on the day preceding the last day for consideration of Assembly or Senate bills in the Assembly. No motion to reconsider shall be adopted except upon an affirmative recorded vote of a majority of the entire elected membership, except that it shall require a two-thirds vote of the entire elected membership to reconsider the vote on any matter originally requiring a two-thirds vote for its passage or adoption.

When reconsideration is granted, the bill shall resume its exact position before the Assembly previous to its being voted upon.

Call of Assembly

85. After the roll has been called, and prior to the announcement of the vote, any member may move a call of the Assembly. A majority of the members present may order a call of the Assembly, and the Speaker shall immediately order the Sergeant-at-Arms to lock all doors and shall direct the Clerk to prepare a list of absentees as disclosed by the last roll call, which list of absentees shall be furnished to the Sergeant-at-Arms and printed in the Journal. Thereupon no members shall be permitted to leave the Assembly Chamber except by written permission of the Speaker, and no person shall be permitted to enter except such member as is taken into custody as herein provided, or Senators, officers, attaches, or employees of th Legislature in the official performance of their duties.

Those members who are found to be absent, and for whom no leaves of absence have been granted, shall be forthwith taken into custody wherever found by the Sergeant-at-Arms or his assistants or any person designated by the Sergeant-at-Arms, including members of the California Highway Patrol, the State police, and sheriffs or their deputies, and brought to the Assembly Chamber. No recess or adjournment shall be taken during a call of the Assembly. During such call, the Assembly may consider and transact any matter of business by unanimous consent. No call of the Assembly shall be ordered on any matter while the Assembly is already under call. A call of the Assembly may be dispensed with at any time upon a majority vote of the members present, at which time the completion of the roll call pending when the call of the Assembly was ordered shall become the immediate order of business before the Assembly.

Resolutions

86. The adoption of any resolution authorizing the expenditure of money shall require an affirmative recorded vote of a majority of all members elected to the Assembly. All House resolutions shall be numbered and shall be referred to the appropriate committee by the Speaker.

Motions and Resolutions

87. Any motion or resolution not otherwise provided for under the Rules shall be placed before the Assembly only under this order of business. Unless otherwise provided by law or Assembly rule, any motion or resolution may be adopted by a majority vote of the members present.

Adjournment

88. Adjournment for the constitutional recess or adjournment sine die shall be ordered by concurrent resolution. The resolution for adjournment sine die shall be adopted by the Assembly not less than seven days before the date set therein for such adjournment.

Members' Decorum and Privileges

Order in Speaking to Questions

89. When a member desires to address the Assembly, he shall rise from his seat and respectfully address himself to "Mr. Speaker." Upon being recognized, he may speak, confining himself to the question under consideration. When two or more members rise at the same time, the Speaker shall designate the member who is entitled to the floor.

No member shall speak more than once during the consideration of any one question on the same day and at the same stage of proceeding, except that the author of a bill or resolution or the mover of a question shall have the right to open and close the debate thereon. No member shall be allowed to speak more than 10 minutes to open and five minutes to close the debate thereon, and no member other than the author or the mover of the question shall be allowed to speak more than five minutes thereon. No member shall yield to any other member the time for which he is entitled to speak on any matter.

Leave of Absence

90. No member shall absent himself from attendance at any session of the Assembly without leave of the Assembly, and no member shall obtain such leave of absence or be excused for nonattendance, except by a two-thirds vote of all members elected to the Assembly, or by unanimous consent.

Personal Privilege

91. Any member may rise to explain a matter personal to himself and shall forthwith be recognized by the Speaker, but shall not discuss a question in such explanation. Such matters of personal privilege yield only to a motion to recess or adjournment.

Objection to Reading of Any Paper

92. Any member upon recognition by the Speaker may object to the reading of any paper before the Assembly. After such objection, the question of reading shall be determined without debate by a majority vote of the members present, upon a brief statement of its substance by the Speaker.

Members Called to Order for Transgressing Rules

93. a. If any member transgresses the Rules of the Assembly, the Speaker shall, or any member may, call the offending member to order. The member so called to order shall immediately take his seat, until the Speaker without debate, shall have determined whether he is in order or not. Such decision by the Speaker shall be subject to an appeal to the Assembly.

b. If any member be called to order for offensive words spoken in debate, the person calling him to order shall state to the Assembly the words to which exception is taken. No member shall be held to answer, or be subject to censure by the Assembly, for language used in debate, if other business shall have been transacted by the Assembly prior to exception being taken to the words spoken.

Members Voting

94. Every member in the Assembly Chamber when a roll call is required shall record his vote openly and without debate, unless the Assembly shall, by a majority vote of the members present, excuse him.

The name of any member who refuses to vote as required by this rule, after being requested by the Speaker to do so, shall be entered in the Journal of the Assembly, together with a statement that he was present and did so refuse to vote. Any member who refuses so to vote may, if he so desires, and immediately after the announcement of the vote, submit a written explanation of his failure to vote and have such explanation printed in the Journal, provided no such explanation shall exceed 50 words in length.

In addition to the entry of his name in the Journal, any member who refuses so to vote when required, and who has not been excused from doing so, may, immediately after the announcement of the vote, in the discretion of the Speaker or upon demand of any member, be summoned to appear before the bar of the Assembly for public censure by the Speaker or by any member designated by the Speaker. Censure of a member as provided by this rule shall not constitute a bar to proceedings for his expulsion from the Assembly pursuant to Section 9 of Article IV of the Constitution.

A member may submit a written explanation of his vote on any bill or House resolution, and have such explanation printed in the Journal immediately following such vote, provided no such explanation shall exceed 50 words in length.

Ayes and Noes

95. The ayes and noes shall be recorded by the electrical voting system on the final passage of all bills, or by viva voce when demanded by three members or when ordered by the Speaker, and on any other question when called for by three members or ordered by the Speaker, the names of which members shall be entered in the Journal.

Voting Not to Be Interrupted

96. When once begun, voting shall not be interrupted, except that before the vote is announced any member may have the total pending vote flashed on the visible vote recorder. Prior to the announcement of the vote the Speaker shall inquire if all members have voted. Any member may move a call of the Assembly after the completion of the roll and prior to the final recording, but no member shall be allowed to change his vote, or have his vote recorded after the vote is announced.

Members at Clerk's Desk

97. No member or other person shall be allowed at the Clerk's desk while the ayes and noes are being recorded or the votes counted.

Tie Vote

98. In case of an equal division, or tie vote, the question shall be lost.

"Two-thirds of the Entire Elected Membership" Defined

Communication ordered filed with the Secretary of State. Resolution ordered printed in the Journal as follows:

Resolution

Requesting the California State Legislature to memorialize the Congress of the United States to make it possible for the California State Polytechnic College to acquire for educational purposes the Pomona Remount Station

WHEREAS, The agricultural and industrial welfare of the State of California is materially assisted by a sound program of practical public education in fields leading to occupations in farming and industrial production; and

WHEREAS, The rapid increase in population in California, especially in the southern part on the State, demands increased facilities for conducting such a program in practical education; and

WHEREAS, The California State Polytechnic College has demonstrated its ability to conduct such a practical training program in these and other fields; and

WHEREAS, The present facilities of the California State Polytechnic College, especially at its Voorhis Unit located near San Dimas, are completely inadequate to meet the need and the demand for student enrollment; and

WHEREAS, The Pomona Remount Station (commonly known as the Kellogg Ranch) currently owned by the United States Government, is being discontinued and is located within a short distance of the Voorhis Unit of the California State Polytechnic College; and

WHEREAS, The acquisition of this property would provide many hundreds of young men, and perhaps young women, with an opportunity which they do not now have to secure practical training leading to employment; and

WHEREAS, The Committee for the Study of Higher Education, in its survey made at the request of the legislature in 1947, recommended the expansion of the educational offerings and facilities of the Voorhis Unit of the California State Polytechnic College at San Dimas; and

WHEREAS, No other institution is as favorably situated as the California State Polytechnic College, either by location or type of education, to carry on the animal husbandry program, particularly the breeding of Arabian horses, as established by the founder of the Kellogg Ranch; or to carry on and develop the extensive plantings of trees and shrubs; or to utilize more completely for instructional purposes the land and the other available facilities that are a part of the Kellogg Ranch; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the State Board of Education, That the Assembly and Senate of the State of California be respectfully requested to memorialize the Congress of the United States to make available the Pomona Remount Station to the California State Polytechnic College as an extension of and an addition to its Voorhis Unit at San Dimas, for the continuation of its practical education of young men and women in useful occupations, and for the continuation of the Arabian horse breeding program already established at the station

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev. Torrance Phelps:

O God of the Dawn: May we be grateful for the advent of the New Year, with its fresh opportunity, and behold the new beginnings that beckon to us.

Let us now forget the dark experiences of the past that may hinder a fresh beginning, and every memory that casts a shadow upon our mind and heart.

Let us begin with a new spirit of good nature, free from old hates and grudges, and cherish a new mood of kindliness and benevolence to every living creature.

Let us begin with a mind free from old prejudices and preconceptions, and have an open mind to new suggestions and fresh ideas.

Let us begin with that new spirit of mutuality and kinship with all classes and races—the new feeling of oneness with all mankind, which is the prophecy of universal concord.

So by our new minds and new attitudes we may make a new world of unity about us, and make every yesterday a memory of service and every tomorrow a vision of hope.—AMEN.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT THAT REMARKS BY SPEAKER SAM L. COLLINS, RELATIVE TO THE PASSING OF THE LATE HONORABLE JOHN C. LYONS, BE PRINTED IN THE JOURNAL

Mr. Lewis asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent that the remarks delivered by Speaker Sam L. Collins last night at a memorial meeting in the Labor Temple, relative to the passing of the late Honorable John C. Lyons, Member of the Assembly from the Sixty-fourth District, be ordered printed in the Journal.

Remarks by Speaker Collins

On an occasion such as this, we pause as though to catch our breath as we speed on life's way with always "Hurry! Hurry!" the order of the day. In this mad rush, we scarce have time to make a friend or learn to know him well.

In the firm conviction that we are doing the bidding of One who holds our destiny in His hand, we play our part in this drama of life always, I am sure, to the best of our ability. And so with John—more talented than most, more understanding than many, more forthright and honest in the part he played Blazoned in bold type were the words "Labor Leader" as the occupation set forth in the Handbook of the California Legislature. He was proud, and rightfully so, for the recognition he had achieved among his fellow craftsmen.

We, of the Legislature, were proud, and yet retain this pride in his achievement. Words now are wholly inadequate, as words so often are Actions now are of no avail except to place a wreath to mark the passing from one scene to another. So little we can do. So much we wish to do. My effort seems so puny—and thus I feel, in contemplation of the one we eulogize this day.

I think of John C. Lyons as you must think of him, expressed so well in the words of James Whitcomb Riley

"I cannot say, and I will not say
That he is dead—he is just away!
With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand
He has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since he lingers there

Think of him faring on, as dear
In the love of There as the love of Here;

Think of him still as the same, I say
He is not dead—he is just away."

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev. Torrance Phelps:

God of Our Fathers: May we realize this morning how ancient and universal is this practice to pray at this opening moment.

May we remember that famous Cicero in the Roman Senate began every address with an invocation, and recall that Columbus knelt on San Salvador and invoked the Divine blessing upon the new continent.

Let us behold Washington, when he knelt at Valley Forge to pray that his army might maintain its morale and fight on 'til victory dawned.

And behold Lincoln kneeling in his chamber in the White House praying for light and power to do the right.

Above all, let the vision dawn, of the vast multitude of men and women, who at altar and fireside offer up their earnest supplications.

So may we believe that by the prayers of our own lips our minds may be enlightened and our courage strengthened for the great work to be performed.—AMEN.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

House Resolution No. 23

WHEREAS, At a public hearing of the Assembly Interim Committee on State and Local Taxation held in Los Angeles December 21 and 22, 1948, it was generally agreed by those testifying that $27,500,000 additional funds will be required to administer and pay claims for the balance of the Fiscal Year from January 1 to June 30, 1949, under Section XXV of the Constitution, known as Proposition No. 4.

WHEREAS, It was further generally conceded that by the terms of the act all state funds are available for use, for the purpose of the amendment, regardless of their prior appropriation by the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, The Department of Finance and the Legislative Auditor agreed substantially that without the additional demand on the moneys of the State due to the act there would probably be an unencumbered accumulated surplus in the General Fund June 30, 1949, in the amount of $16,000,000; and

WHEREAS, The Controller's Office agreed with others that No. 4 establishes a prior claim upon all existing funds regardless of appropriations, but that in the absence of specific language in the amendment and lack of sufficient legal instructions, in any month in which there was insufficient unappropriated funds available to service claims, he would be unable to determine which "appropriated funds" he should draw against; and

WHEREAS, It being apparent that with an estimated accumulated surplus of $16,000,000 to pay claims of $27,500,000 a deficit of $11,500,000 will be created; and

WHEREAS, It is necessary to clarify the problem of the departments as to funds, and in order that money will be available to meet the demands voted by the people and until such time as the Legislature can permanently provide for the same, the Legislature desires to reaffirm its concurrence with the Governor in the intent, when the "Rainy Day Fund" was established in 1947 to the amount of $75,000,000, that it was for the purpose of support of aid to the needy among other things; and

WHEREAS, On the final page of a "Summary of Governor Earl Warren's Recommendations to the Fifty-seventh Legislature," prepared for the assistance of the Members of the Legislature, the press, and the public, by William T. Sweigert, Executive Secretary to the Governor, dated February 18, 1947, we find "Third, the creation of a $75,000,000 Revenue Deficiency Reserve within the General Fund * * * described by the Governor as a "Rainy Day Fund," would * * * put the State in a position to maintain its obligations for * * * support of aid to the needy * * * would ease the burden on the taxpayers * * * when such relief would be most important to them"; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That it does reaffirm its original and expressed intent to use the $75,000,000 "Rainy Day Fund" for the purpose of paying claims of the needy and hereby informs the State Controller, the State Treasurer, and the Department of Finance of its intentions and hereby gives its approval to the above departments for such use of these funds.

Resolution read, and ordered referred to the Committee on Rules.

FINAL REPORT OF INTERIM COMMITTEE ON MILITARY AFFAIRS

January 6, 1949

MR. SPEAKER: Your Interim Committee on Military Affairs, created in May, 1947, by House Resolution No. 205, and further augmented in March, 1948, by House Resolution No. 48, submits herewith its final report, as follows:

State and National Guard

Your committeemen have been mindful of the general unrest throughout the world since the cessation of hostilities, and we have been especially mindful of the fact that for national defense the United States now count heavily upon "reserve" military forces such as the National Guard. In this connection numerous bills had been passed during the 1947 Session dealing with the change-over from our State Guard to the National Guard. Your committee therefore undertook the business of conducting an immediate and thorough investigation of National Guard operations in California.

We had two main objectives in this matter, (1) to determine the adequacy of our change-over legislation, and (2) to learn what was needed or what could be done to bolster enlistments in California's National Guard so that we might have on hand the full authorized complement assigned to our State. After several meetings your committee engaged the services of Mr. Lynn Coe, a World War I officer and investigator whose previous good work for this committee has been well known and appreciated. Mr. Coe obtained the complete cooperation of Adjutant General Curtis D. O'Sullivan, Brigadier General Floyd W. Stewart, and the full staff of the California command, and we were supplied with the complete confidential information necessary for our purposes. Mr. Coe then made an unscheduled and unannounced tour of the guard units in California, visiting on drill nights, et cetera, without notice or fanfare. In this manner the actual conditions were observed and officers and enlistees were interviewed on the spot. Equipment and facilities were noted and leading local citizens were also interviewed in order to get the full picture. The results thus gathered were very complete and authentic, but extremely discouraging.

Accordingly, your committee assembled in Sacramento in December of 1947 to discuss the Coe report with the military authorities, both State and Federal. The main points were:

1. Our legislation had been reasonably adequate;
2. Our Guard had a personnel of only 8,000 men;
3. California's component, as authorized by the Federal Government and accepted by us, was 43.301 men;
4. Most of our units that had been activated were without uniforms, guns, or elementary practice armament;
5. The morale of our Guard was reasonably good, under these circumstances;
6. The Federal Government had contributed $4,350,000 in drill pay and other maintenance for our Guard, and stood ready to double this budget as we grew;
7. Some $45,000,000 worth of ordnance, uniforms, guns, jeeps, radios, tanks, and so forth were in storage at San Luis Obispo, being held by the Federal Government for ultimate distribution to National Guard Units;
8. The main fault, by all odds, in California's position was (and still is) our lack of military housing, i.e , armories

All of the above facts were confirmed by the military authorities present, and while we discussed many miscellaneous matters relative to the subject, all things led back to the main problem of armories. Colonel Leonard R. Boyd, Infantry, Regular Army, and Lieutenant Colonel Weyland Miller, United States Property Custodian, testified in confirmation of the equipment in storage, but held that federal regulations prohibited the distribution of same until our units had proper buildings for safe keeping. We could not be given motor vehicles nor tanks for our anti-tank companies until we had properly fenced yards; nor could we have small arms issued until we had storage rooms with properly barred windows. And so it went, leading in each instance to the need for armories.

These hearings were highlighted by official testimony regarding dependence upon our National Guard units in case of attack. References were made to other states, even mid-western states not exposed with a vulnerable coast line, showing California to be dangerously behind in all phases of National Guard work. A 364 page transcript of such testimony is in our records for those who wish detailed data on this subject, yet your committee feels it is sufficient in this report to state the alarming conclusion that our National Guard is in very serious need of armories, and that our National Guard was (at that time) disastrously small, lacking equipment, and totally inadequate.

Your committee, although thoroughly disturbed by its investigation into this matter, took satisfaction in the plans for development presented by the California command Adjutant General O'Sullivan and his staff carefully and firmly defended the situation. Your committee readily agreed that they had hardly had time to get a full organization under way. Enlistment problems, uniforms, temporary housing, and plans for new armories were thoroughly discussed. It was obvious that insufficient funds were available to the Adjutant General for a reasonable armory program, and in this matter your committee sponsored $10,000,000 in new appropriation bills during the legislative session of March, 1948, which amount was thereupon included in our current budget.

Pending another meeting on this subject, to be called at a later date after the Guard had had a chance to gain in strength, your committee chairman, and each member thereof, was directed to keep in close contact with the situation. We made many appearances to encourage interest in the Guard, with excellent cooperation from all veteran organizations. We visited our colored officers with good results, contacted city councilmen regarding the urgency of new armory sites, and we were supplied with data showing the growth of the Guard, week by week.

Armories and National Guard Improvements

As agreed, your committee again assembled the military authorities in August, 1948, for a further examination of the Guard and its progress. The following main points are to be noted:

1. Enlistments in the California National Guard had been tremendous, even exceeding our quota;

2. Additional units had been activated in excess of previous estimates;

3. Temporary armory facilities were available in most areas;

4. A minimum amount of equipment had been issued;

5. The new armory program was progressing with about a dozen such buildings now under construction.

In all of these matters the Adjutant General and his staff are to be accordingly complimented, for, in the judgment of your committee, their work has been excellent. California now has the framework of a full National Guard, the efficiency of which depends now upon the completion of our new armories. And, as to new armories, we now have three standard types of buildings to be used as required by the various communities. These armories are approved by the State Architect and can be made available in every city having a population of 5,000 or over as rapidly as the sites for same are given over to the State. Some delay has been encountered in the conveying of these sites and your committee requested that new instructions covering the necessary procedure be sent to all city councils, which was done. In addition, the Adjutant General has assigned liaison officers to work in cooperation with local government on this subject.

National Guard Recommendations

The National Guard now serves three important functions, namely:

1. It is an integral "reserve" portion of our national military forces to be activated in time of war;

2. It is an alternate training force; and

3. It is our State Militia.

Your committee is mindful of these functions and further mindful of the unfinished business and still necessary items needed by the National Guard. We therefore recommend that the new and forthcoming budget of the Adjutant General be readily and willingly approved by this Legislature. Also, your committee recommends that such unused portions of funds for new armories as may remain unexpended under the current budget be reappropriated, as will no doubt be requested by the Adjutant General. No other basic or major remedial legislation regarding the National Guard appears necessary at this time.

Interest Rate: Farm and Home Loans

Through the correspondence that customarily comes to this committee on all varieties of veteran matters, we were apprised of a wide difference of opinion on the proper rate of interest to be charged on veteran farm and home loan purchases This subject emanates from recent legislation empowering the Department of Veterans' Affairs to set the interest rate at not less than 2½ percent nor more than 4 percent. Once again, Mr. Lynn Coe was detailed by your committee to make an inspection of the accounts in this department, and Mr. Lawrence Stevens, Director of the Department of Veterans' Affairs, and Mr. Marvin Russell, Manager of the Farm and Home Loan Purchase Fund, were both called into session with your committee for a discussion of Mr. Coe's findings.

Mr. Coe submitted figures showing this fund had been operating at a loss since the establishment of the 3 percent interest rate. At that time (December, 1947) the deficiency amounted to approximately $300,000 (exact figures for each month, etc , available upon request), and your committee discussed the ramifications of this situation.

Mr. Russell confirmed the deficiency figures obtained by Mr. Coe, but contended that such losses were true only as a bookkeeping feature. Supporting data were submitted by Mr. Russell showing that this fund actually has a large undistributed surplus that belonged to the participating veterans. He further contended that as the plan increased its volume of borrowers the technical operating loss would be eliminated. It was his opinion that the fund was perfectly solvent and that the 3 percent interest rate was ample, under the circumstances.

Upon the basis of this explanation the matter was continued, with instructions to your committee chairman that the subject be considered again prior to the 1949 Session of the Legislature Accordingly, the Farm and Home Loan Purchase Fund was again checked in November, 1948, and it was found that the previous operating loss has been overcome. Still at 3 percent, the operation of this fund is now showing a slight profit. Therefore, in view of the aforementioned surplus on hand, and in view of the requirement to change the interest rate as necessary, which duty is imposed upon this department by present statutes, your committee reports herewith that no new legislation seems necessary on the subject.

G. I. Schools

Through requests made to your committee we were asked to examine the circumstances surrounding the approval or disapproval of California schools charging tuitions for training under the G. I. "Bill of Rights", as administered by our State Department of Education, Bureau of Readjustments. Accordingly, your committee held two meetings on this subject during 1948.

At our first meeting the G. I. school procedure was discussed, including an outline of our state responsibility to govern the qualifications, number of instructors, validity of courses, etc., within the schools to make certain that the veteran would get a proper training. The minutes of this meeting show no particular points, other than a request by your committee for direct and detailed reports on the status of four schools about which we had received complaints. The department was directed to reinvestigate each of these schools and to meet with us again within 30 days.

At the second meeting it developed that the four schools in question were training approximately 100 veterans in watchmaking, locksmithing, short story writing, and commercial art After an exhaustive review of the reports on each school, and without reciting herein the troubled details, your committee wishes to report that it agreed and recommended that:

1. The writing school be disapproved;

2. The art school be limited in size; and

3. The watchmaking school be approved subject to certain corrections. The locksmithing school withdrew voluntarily, and the Department of Education agreed with your committee in carrying out the recommendations. (Names of schools, etc., available upon request.)

Rehabilitation Contracts

On the subject of the contracts made between the Department of Veterans' Affairs and the qualified veterans' organizations, under Section 699.5 of the Military and Veterans Code, all relative to rehabilitation service to veterans, your committee was asked to schedule a meeting between Mr. Lawrence Stevens, Director of the Department, and representatives of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the Disabled American Veterans. For this purpose we assembled in executive session.

It appeared that the $500,000 appropriated under this section was not enough to meet the budgetary requirements of the participating veterans' organizations, and that Director Stevens as well as the organizations were hard pressed to meet the prescribed matching basis and other contract requirements.

While this was, and is, an administration problem, we did, however, take part in the discussions which led to the present allocation of funds and contract changes which were necessary in order to reach an agreement satisfactory to all present.

Although no new legislation seems necessary, as a result of our participation above outlined, your committee does recommend that this Legislature approve as a budgetary item in the new budget that amount which, under this section, will equal the total requests submitted by all participating veterans' organizations.

Miscellaneous Matters

Your committee, in addition to the above, considered many requests for new legislation. The following items are listed for consideration by the full legislature, together with our recommendation:

1. To provide that veteran memorial districts may construct recreational facilities, swimming pools or parks as memorials. APPROVED.

2. To provide that California veterans now on active duty may participate in the Farm and Home Loan Purchase Fund. APPROVED.

3. To provide that members of the Coast Guard Temporary Reserve may qualify for veteran benefits. NO RECOMMENDATION.

4. To provide state funds for the construction of a family reception building at the Yountville Veterans Home. APPROVED.

5. To amend Section 699.5 of the Military and Veterans Code so as to include the organization known as the AMVETS. NO RECOMMENDATION.

6. To permit veteran organizations to purchase prison made goods as post furnishings. APPROVED.

7. To provide for reemployment rights of new draftees. APPROVED.

8. To memorialize Congress that operation of the National Guard be left with the states. APPROVED.

New legislation to accomplish the approved subjects has been drafted and will be introduced during the 1949 Session under the sponsorship of your committee.

Upon the appeal being seconded, the Speaker may give his reasons for the decision, and the member taking the appeal may give his reasons for making his appeal, and the Speaker shall forthwith put this question to the Assembly: "Shall the decision of the Speaker be sustained?"

An appeal cannot be amended and yields only to a motion to recess or adjourn, to lay on the table, or a question of personal privilege. If an appeal be laid on the table, such action shall have no effect on the pending question.

An appeal cannot be debated when relating to indecorum, transgression of Rules, or priority of business A majority vote of the members present shall decide any appeal.

Speaker Explains Order of Business

65. The Speaker may, on his own motion or upon the motion of any Member of the Assembly, explain the order of business when the motion pending before the Assembly is not debatable. Such explanation is not to consume more than two minutes.

To Adjourn

66. A motion to adjourn is not debatable and cannot be amended, and is always in order, except (a) when another member has the floor; (b) when the Assembly is voting; (c) during a call of the Assembly. The name of any member moving an adjournment and also the hour at which the motion was made and adjournment taken shall be entered in the Journal. A motion to adjourn must be adopted by a majority vote of the members present.

When a motion to adjourn is made and seconded, it shall be in order for the Speaker, before putting the question, to permit any member to state to the Assembly any fact relating to the condition of the business of the Assembly which would seem to render it improper or inadvisable to adjourn. A statement shall not occupy more than two minutes and shall not be debatable.

To Recess to a Time Certain

67. A motion to recess to a time certain shall be treated the same as a motion to adjourn, except that such motion is debatable when no business is before the Assembly, and can be amended as to the time and duration of the recess. It yields only to a motion to adjourn.

To Lay on the Table

68. A motion to lay on the table is not debatable and cannot be amended.

A motion to table a bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent or joint resolution requires a majority vote of the entire elected membership.

Any motion to lay on the table, if carried by a majority vote of the entire elected membership, carries with it the main question and everything that adheres to it; provided, however, that a motion to lay an amendment on the table, if adopted, does not carry with it a bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent, joint, or house resolution

A motion to lay an amendment on the table may be adopted by a majority vote of the members present.

The Previous Question

69. The previous question shall be put only when demanded by five members, and in this form: "Shall the question be now put?" Motion to Amend.

73. A motion to amend may itself be amended, but no "amendment to an amendment" can be amended. A motion to amend is debatable, except where the main question to be amended is not debatable. Any motion to amend may be adopted by a majority vote of the members present.

A motion to amend having been decided in the negative, shall not again be in order on the same day, or at the same stage of proceeding. A motion to amend by striking out certain words having been decided in the negative, shall not preclude a motion to amend by adding words, or a motion to amend by striking out and inserting words; but in no case shall a further amendment be substantially the same as the one rejected.

Subject to the above provisions of this rule, a motion to amend is in order during the second or third reading of any bill.

A motion to lay an amendment on the table may be adopted by a majority vote of the members present, as provided in Rule 68.

Motion to Withdraw and Recall Bills

81. A motion to withdraw a bill or resolution from committee, or to re-refer a bill or resolution from one committee to another committee may be made during the regular order of business. A motion to re-refer shall only be debatable as to the propriety of such reference, and shall require a recorded vote of a majority of the elected members.

No bill or resolution shall be withdrawn from committee and placed upon the file except upon two days' notice thereof and except by a recorded vote of a majority of the elected members

Upon such notice of motion being given, the bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent or joint resolution shall forthwith be placed upon the unfinished business file, and no further action shall be taken prior to the next legislative day. When a notice of a motion to reconsider has once been made, the same shall be considered to be the property of the Assembly.

Any member voting on any motion, amendment, concurrence, Assembly resolution or proposition other than a bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent or joint resolution, may give notice of reconsideration of the vote whereby the same was passed or refused passage on the same day such vote to be reconsidered was taken, which notice shall suspend all further consideration until the next legislative day; provided, however, that a motion to reconsider on the same day the notice was given shall take precedence over and above such notice and upon demand of any member must be put to an immediate vote. A motion to reconsider any proposition other than a bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent or joint resolution shall require an affirmative recorded vote of a majority of the entire elected membership.

No notice of motion for reconsideration shall be in order on the day preceding the last day for consideration of Assembly or Senate bills in the Assembly. No motion to reconsider shall be adopted except upon an affirmative recorded vote of a majority of the entire elected membership, except that it shall require a two-thirds vote of the entire elected membership to reconsider the vote on any matter originally requiring a two-thirds vote for its passage or adoption.

During such call, the Assembly may consider and transact any matter of business by unanimous consent. No call of the Assembly shall be ordered on any matter while the Assembly is already under call. A call of the Assembly may be dispensed with at any time upon a majority vote of the members present, at which time the completion of the roll call pending when the call of the Assembly was ordered shall become the immediate order of business before the Assembly.

Quorum present

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Dr. Torrance Phelps:

God of the Stars: May we lift up our thoughts for a moment, above our material affairs which appear to us so momentous, to the vast and mysterious Universe above us.

Let us consider the stars which revolve in their stupendous orbits and which are so remote that 10,000 years will pass before their rays will reach our planet.

May we think of the infiniteness of space, which extends beyond the farthest constellations, and stretches on into depths only eternity can measure.

Then let us behold our planet which is but a moving pin point in the vast empyrean, and yet so many here anxiously strain and scramble for a place in the sun.

Upon the background of these infinite distances may we place our finite problems and view them through the eyes of the Watcher in the Skies.

May the spectacle of every part working in harmony for the whole of the universal obedience to law and of the spirit of cooperation which binds the constellations, be the Divine pattern for us to follow.—AMEN.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions were offered:

By Messrs. Thomas, Erwin, and Butters:

House Resolution No. 31

Relative to the preservation of young lobsters

WHEREAS, Lobsters in their natural state are subject to attack by various marine predators, particularly by the predatory fish called the sheepshead; and

WHEREAS, The natural defense against such attack is for the lobster to conceal himself in a crevice into which the predator can not reach; and

WHEREAS, The lobster beds ordinarily do not contain sufficient natural crevices to furnish protection for all of the lobsters, with the result that in time of danger the larger lobsters occupy the available shelters and the younger ones are left to their fate; and

WHEREAS, There are a number of substances which would provide suitable shelter for small lobsters at little cost, particularly broken sewer tile, which could be scattered among the lobster beds and thereby afford the younger lobsters a better chance for survival; and

WHEREAS, The California Fish and Game Commission has general authority to encourage the propagation of fish and could with very little trouble or expense provide the necessary shelters for the young lobsters and thereby preserve them from destruction; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the California Fish and Game Commission is requested to investigate the feasibility of dumping broken sewer tile and other materials likely to provide shelters for immature lobsters onto lobster beds for the purpose of preserving such lobsters for purposes of human consumption and if such procedure is likely to produce desirable results to follow it; and be it further

Resolved, That said commission is requested to report the results of its investigations and its activities taken pursuant to this resolution to the Assembly; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly is directed to transmit copies of this resolution to the members of the Fish and Game Commission and its executive officer

Resolution read, and ordered referred to the Committee on Rules

By Messrs Thomas and Butters:

House Resolution No. 32

Relative to soup-fin sharks

WHEREAS, The soup-fin shark is the principal source of shark-liver oil and the taking of such sharks for the purpose of obtaining such oil has increased within recent years to such an extent that the supply is steadily decreasing; and

WHEREAS, It is a biological fact that male soup-fin sharks prefer cool water while the females prefer the warmer waters, with the result that 90 percent of the sharks taken in the water off the north coast of the State are males, while 90 percent of those taken in the waters off the most southerly portions of the State are females; and

WHEREAS, The soup-fin shark has come to play an important part in the fisheries industry of California and provides a source of vitamins and other useful materials of importance to the public health, and the propagation thereof should be encouraged by all practicable means; and

WHEREAS, The Fish and Game Commission has vessels and equipment which could be used to capture soup-fin sharks in the northern waters and transport them to the southerly waters where most of the female sharks are found, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the California Fish and Game Commission is requested to investigate the feasibility of encouraging the propagation of soup-fin sharks by capturing male sharks in the northerly waters of the State and liberating them in the southerly waters of the State and if it finds that such a procedure is practicable to proceed to follow it; and be it further

Resolved, That the California Fish and Game Commission is requested to report its findings and activities in respect to this resolution to the Assembly; and be it further

Opinion of Legislative Counsel

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO 2, CALIFORNIA, January 9, 1949

Hon. Lloyd W. Lowrey
Assembly Chamber

Administration of Wildlife Conservation Act—No. 2381

DEAR MR. LOWREY: The Wildlife Conservation Act (Chapter 1325, Statutes of 1947) creates a Wildlife Conservation Board consisting of the President of the Fish and Game Commission, the executive officer or some other employee of the commission and the Director of Finance. The act further provides (Sec. 2) that three Members of the Senate, appointed by the Committee on Rules, and three Members of the Assembly, appointed by the Speaker, shall meet with the board and participate in its activities to the extent that such participation is not incompatible with their respective positions as Members of the Legislature. The section further provides that these Members of the Legislature shall constitute an interim investigating committee on the subject of the act. You have called our attention to this latter provision and ask our opinion whether it limits the participation of the legislative members to the period between sessions.

It is our opinion that the act contemplates and provides for participation by the legislative members in the activities and deliberations of the Wildlife Conservation Board at any and all times, regardless of whether the Legislature is or is not in session.

The provision of Section 2 directing three Members of the Senate and three Members of the Assembly to meet with and participate in the action of the board is clear and unqualified. There is no constitutional reason why Members of the Legislature should not perform that function during sessions as well as between sessions. The subsequent provision of the section designating these members an interim investigating committee is not, in our opinion, a limitation or restriction of their powers to participate in the activities of the board but, rather, is an implementing and enlarging of those powers and a granting to the legislative members of a certain degree of independent authority to meet and act independently of the board and to conduct investigations in the legislative field upon the subject matter of the act itself.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel

COMMUNICATIONS

By Speaker Collins:

The following communication was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, STATE FIRE MARSHAL
SACRAMENTO 14, January 11, 1949

The Honorable Sam L. Collins
Speaker of the Assembly
Sacramento, California

MY DEAR SIR: Senate Bill No 658, passed by the 1947 Legislature and approved by Governor Warren, directed that the State Fire Advisory Board conduct a study of the facts relating to the need for State Fire Training Schools in California. The bill further directed that the board report its findings and recommendations to the Legislature on the seventh legislative day of the next regular session of the Legislature.

The State Fire Advisory Board has complied with the mandate and has prepared and submitted the attached report to me with the request that I submit it to the Legislature in accordance with the provisions of the act

In making their study, the Fire Advisory Board has consulted fire officials all over the State of California They have discussed the problems with both state and local governmental agencies concerned with the matter and have prepared for you a brief but complete report with their recommendations.

In submitting this report to your honorable body, I am happy to report that, in my opinion, the subject has been thoroughly studied and carefully considered, the recommendations made therein should, if followed through, greatly improve the fire fighting procedure in California. I am also pleased to report that even though this study and survey required considerable time and effort on the part of the board members, it was not necessary to expend any of the $5,000 appropriated by the Legislature to make this survey.

The report on the subject of a State Fire Training Program is respectfully submitted to the State Legislature by

cc: Governor Warren
Members of the Board

REPORT TO THE STATE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE FIRE ADVISORY BOARD IN ACCORDANCE WITH AN ACT ADOPTED AT THE 1947 LEGISLATURE AUTHORIZING AND DIRECTING THE STATE FIRE ADVISORY BOARD TO INVESTIGATE A STATE FIRE TRAINING PROGRAM

This report is submitted to the Legislature of the State of California by the State Fire Advisory Board in compliance with Senate Bill No. 658 passed by the Senate and Assembly and approved by the Governor at the 1947 legislative session. Senate Bill No. 658 directed the State Fire Advisory Board to ascertain, study and analyze all facts relating to the establishment of a State Fire Training School or schools; to submit its findings and recommendations to the Legislature on the seventh legislative day of the 1949 Session and appropriated the sum of $5,000 to meet the cost of the study.

The State Fire Advisory Board is composed of 11 fire chiefs appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate and is advisory to the office of the State Fire Marshal. Copy of Senate Bill No. 658 is attached and marked as Appendix "A."

The board believes that it is proper to point out to the Legislature the background of Senate Bill No. 658. At the request of the fire chiefs of California, at the 1947 legislative session proposals were introduced in the Legislature calling for appropriation totaling $811,000 to establish a State Fire Training School for the purpose of furnishing training to officers and members of fire departments, to standardize procedures of fire departments throughout the State and to improve the efficiency of fire departments in the State. After a number of committee hearings, it was generally agreed that the problem required more mature study and Senate Bill No. 658 resulted.

It is the opinion of the board that complete needs for fire training in the State cannot be properly met by establishing one or more State Fire Training Schools. There now exists and has for a number of years existed under the State Department of Education, Bureau of Trade and Industrial Education, a Program of Fire Training. This is one of the vocational services of the State Department of Education. Under this program itinerant instructors have been employed who visit fire departments maintained by political subdivisions of the State and carry on courses of vocational training. To the extent to which it has been carried out, the board believes that the program has been highly successful.

The board believes that the first step which should be taken to improve fire training in the State is to amplify the program already established. Personnel now available consists of one special supervisor and two traveling instructors. This personnel has proven entirely inadequate. During the Fiscal Year 1947-1948, this small staff conducted 131 classes with 2,557 men registered for a total of 2,023 class hours of instruction. Nevertheless, 200 additional requests for this instruction from departments in the State were pending and could not be complied with. It is the belief of the board that not less than six additional traveling instructors should be employed.

Senate Bill No. 658 instructed the board to secure the cooperation of state agencies in investigating the matters set forth in the bill. In compliance with this, conferences were held with the deputy superintendent representing the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, the State Director of Vocational Education, the Chief of the Bureau of Trade and Industrial Education and other members of the staff of the State Department of Education. The Department of Education indicated its willingness to expand this program subject, of course, to necessary appropriations and authority of the Legislature.

Normal expenditures for the California State Fire Training Program are $32,003 annually. The board believes that this should be increased to not less than $101,520.83. Attached and marked as Appendix "B" is a detailed breakdown of present expenditures, proposed increases and proposed totals. This was not the original estimate of the Bureau of Trade and Industrial Education. The original estimate was carefully reviewed and in a number of respects revised and reduced by the State Fire Advisory Board. The proposal is, in our opinion, a minimum. It will make it possible to carry the Itinerant Training Program into those political subdivisions in the State which need it and where it will serve the best purpose.

Our first recommendation is, therefore, that the program now being carried on by the Bureau of Trade and Industrial Education under the Department of Education of the State be augmented and appropriations be increased as set forth in Appendix "B."

The State Fire Advisory Board has carefully considered and investigated the advisability of establishing a state fire training school, schools, center or centers with land, building, buildings and equipment. This may be the ultimate solution. We do not believe that it should be undertaken at this time and certainly not until greater experience in fire training on the state level has been developed. It is the board's belief that there is definite need for some type of centralized state fire training which would provide to the fire departments of all political subdivisions the best thinking and the combined experience of fire officers throughout the State. In order to accomplish this, we propose two annual fire training institutes—one in the northern and one in the southern section of the State. We propose that these institutes be under the supervision of the Bureau of Trade and Industrial Education of the State Department of Education.

We have investigated the feasibility of conducting these institutes during the summer months, utilizing public school facilities not in use during vacation periods. We have found that this is feasible and very economical. We believe that certain instructors must be drawn from the fire service itself as the only source of experience in certain specialized subjects. We have investigated the possibility of local fire officials being employed by the State temporarily as instructors under contract with their employers, whether a municipality or other political subdivision. It is possible and legal for the State to enter into a contract with a political subdivision for the services of a fire official, paying to the political subdivision a sum comparable to the salary paid that official locally, and in addition paying necessary travel and subsistence expenses. In certain specialized subjects such as physics and chemistry, it will be necessary to employ instructors, at state expense, which can be done legally and without great difficulty. In view of the fact that the proposed institutes will be in the summer time, we believe that such instructors will be readily available, coming either from the Public School System, junior or state colleges

The initial institutes are proposed to cover a period of five weeks each. We have determined that this can be done for a cost of not to exceed $21,785. Attached as Appendix "C" is a detailed estimate of the cost of these two fire training institutes.

Senate Bill No. 658 instructed the State Fire Advisory Board to develop a curricula. This has been done. Attached as Appendix "D" is the proposed curricula for the first two institutes It should be noted that the same curricula will be offered in the northern and southern portions of the State and in all probability a number of the instructors will be the same in both cases.

We respectfully point out to the Legislature that this recommendation entails an expenditure of less than 25 percent of that proposed at the 1947 legislative session. We also respectfully point out that in the case of the extension of the Itinerant Training Program, a number of the expenditures are initial and will not be repeated annually thereafter, being for certain equipment required If approved, this means that the continuing expenditure annually will be substantially less than the first year's expenditure.

We respectfully point out that there is a definite need for fire training in the State of California; that it is a problem which cannot be entirely and satisfactorily met on the local level by individual fire departments; that it is to the advantage of the entire State that the standards and efficiency of the state fire service be improved.

We urge your favorable consideration of this report and express to the Legislature our appreciation of the opportunity given for this study by your adoption of Senate Bill No. 658.

CONSIDERATION OF HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 26

By Mr. Maloney:

Relative to the Memory of Matthew A. Flynn

WHEREAS, In the City and County of San Francisco on December 5, 1948, there was called to his heavenly home the late Matthew A. Flynn, pioneer San Franciscan; and

WHEREAS, Matthew A. Flynn, born in County Sligo, Ireland, on September 4, 1860, came to America in the year 1880, making his residence in San Francisco in the State of California; whereupon, arriving in San Francisco, he married Mary O'Malley who was also born in Ireland in the County Mayo; and

WHEREAS, This lovable individual, recognized for his ability as a marine surveyor and a ship builder, was drafted to supervise the building of the Doheny fleet of oil tankers during World War I, a fleet of ships so badly needed during that emergency; and

WHEREAS, For his outstanding accomplishments in the supervising of the building of ships, and his capabilities, which were recognized as a marine surveyor, he became one of the national organizers of the Propellor Club, an organization built upon a foundation in the interests of ship building and commerce upon the waters of this great Nation; and

WHEREAS, During an honorable and beautiful life, spent by Matthew A Flynn, principally in the State of California, he raised two fine, lovely children, Frank X. Flynn and Katharine Demarest; and

WHEREAS, Upon his death he not only leaves behind two children, but five grandchildren, Raymond Demarest, James Demarest, Mary Demarest Townsend, Patricia Ann Flynn and Mary Frances Flynn, and three great-grandchildren, Mary Lynn Demarest, Sally Ann Demarest and Raymond Orr Demarest II; now therefore, be it

Resolved, That when the Assembly adjourns this day, we do so out of respect to the memory of Matthew A. Flynn; and be it further Resolved, That suitable engrossed copies of this resolution be sent to the son and daughter of Matthew A. Flynn, Mrs. Katharine Demarest and Frank X. Flynn.

Resolution read, and adopted.

By Messrs. Thomas, Erwin, and Butters:

House Resolution No. 31

Relative to the preservation of young lobsters

WHEREAS, Lobsters in their natural state are subject to attack by various marine predators, particularly by the predatory fish called the sheepshead; and

WHEREAS, The natural defense against such attack is for the lobster to conceal himself in a crevice into which the predator can not reach; and

WHEREAS, The lobster beds ordinarily do not contain sufficient natural crevices to furnish protection for all of the lobsters, with the result that in time of danger the larger lobsters occupy the available shelters and the younger ones are left to their fate; and

WHEREAS, There are a number of substances which would provide suitable shelter for small lobsters at little cost, particularly broken sewer tile, which could be scattered among the lobster beds and thereby afford the younger lobsters a better chance for survival; and

WHEREAS, The California Fish and Game Commission has general authority to encourage the propagation of fish and could with very little trouble or expense provide the necessary shelters for the young lobsters and thereby preserve them from destruction; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Assembly of the State of California, That the California Fish and Game Commission is requested to investigate the feasibility of dumping broken sewer tile and other materials likely to provide shelters for immature lobsters onto lobster beds for the purpose of preserving such lobsters for purposes of human consumption and if such procedure is likely to produce desirable results to follow it; and be it further.

Resolved, That said commission is requested to report the results of its investigations and its activities taken pursuant to this resolution to the Assembly; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly is directed to transmit copies of this resolution to the members of the Fish and Game Commission and its executive officer.

Resolution read, and adopted.

CONSIDERATION OF HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 32

By Messrs. Thomas and Butters:

House Resolution No. 32

Relative to soup-fin sharks

WHEREAS, The soup-fin shark is the principal source of shark-liver oil and the taking of such sharks for the purpose of obtaining such oil has increased within recent years to such an extent that the supply is steadily decreasing; and

WHEREAS, It is a biological fact that male soup-fin sharks prefer cool water while the females prefer the warmer waters, with the result that 90 percent of the sharks taken in the water off the north coast of the State are males, while 90 percent of those taken in the waters off the most southerly portions of the State are females, and

WHEREAS, The soup-fin shark has come to play an important part in the fisheries industry of California and provides a source of vitamins and other useful materials of importance to the public health, and the propagation thereof should be encouraged by all practicable means; and

WHEREAS, The Fish and Game Commission has vessels and equipment which could be used to capture soup-fin sharks in the northern waters and transport them to the southerly waters where most of the female sharks are found; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the California Fish and Game Commission is requested to investigate the feasibility of encouraging the propagation of soup-fin sharks by capturing male sharks in the northerly waters of the State and liberating them in the southerly waters of the State and if it finds that such a procedure is practicable to proceed to follow it; and be it further

Resolved, That the California Fish and Game Commission is requested to report its findings and activities in respect to this resolution to the Assembly; and be it further

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Dr. Torrence Phelps:

O God of Truth. May we catch the vision of the majesty of noble character to which Thou dost call us and which is the most august and admirable possession of our human life.

When we feel the sense of duty urging us, and hear the voice of conscience speaking to us, we rise above the animal level of existence to the real glory of human life

May we find that the moment of greatest satisfaction, the time when we feel an inner glow and a stirring emotional surge, is the time when we do right against great odds

Let us behold the superior men of history, who were great because they had strength to obey the voice of conscience in the face of opposition, and behold the Man of Galilee who even found joy in being crucified for righteousness' sake.

May we aspire and strive to gain the feeling of buoyant elevation, the gladness that comes from the courageous decision to follow the hard right against the easy wrong.

Then shall we walk among men with the calm eye of those who are inwardly fortified against temptation and who never need to fear the muck rakers of society.—AMEN

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Dr. Torrance Phelps:

O God of Law: We assemble in this historic place aware of the majesty of the Laws, which Thou hast ordained in the universe above us and in human society about us.

By Thy Laws, the stars are contained in their orbits, the electron in every atom and the cell in every tissue are controlled, and bud and blossom come to their fruition.

By laws human society maintains its orderly pursuits, disciplines the lawless and careless, and guards the sacred precincts of altar and fireside.

By the statutes which have been enacted here, the liberties of this Commonwealth have been preserved, the rights of all of the citizens guaranteed and their welfare insured.

May the people honor these ordinances which have sprung from the long experience and genius of the past and reveal the wisdom of the Almighty.

May every citizen stand in awe before the inviolate Majesty of the Law, and be quick to obey its injunctions, knowing that its provisions are the sacred charter of his own and his children's security.—AMEN.

Mr. Speaker and Fellow Members: Mere words cannot express my deep feeling on the passing of Marguerite McBride.

All of the older members and attaches knew Marguerite McBride well. She always had a big smile and a word of cheer for everybody.

Had this fine woman been with us at the opening of this session you new members and your families would have been greeted by Marguerite. Her greeting would have been full of cheer, intended to bring sunshine and warm friendship to your hearts.

She was a Pal, and she was, to all of us, everything that the word "Pal" implies.

We have many of the members of the Pals Club seated in the rear of this Chamber, today. They are here out of respect to a departed friend—a Pal.

Marguerite McBride was just a grand person. I must stop, I cannot go on.

Relative to the Report on Investigation of Personal Property Brokers by Special Deputy Attorney General

WHEREAS, The Attorney General of the State of California has appointed a special deputy to investigate the administration of the Personal Property Brokers Act; and

WHEREAS, On or about December 28, 1948, said special deputy did report to the Attorney General, and release to the press the following copy of his report:

To: Hon. Fred N. Howser, Attorney General Place. Los Angeles
From. Geo. W. Rochester, Special Deputy Attorney General
Subject: REPORT ON INVESTIGATION OF PERSONAL PROPERTY BROKERS

Since your appointment of me as Special Deputy Attorney General, with unqualified directions to investigate all phases of the enactment of statutes, applications in granting licenses, the practical administration and the transacting of business under the Personal Property Brokers Act of California, and to make recommendations to the Legislature, if any amendments are necessary to more equitably protect the borrowers from the brokers. I have to report up to this time what my study of the Act investigation of the brokers, and examination of their operation of their businesses, has accomplished

THE STATUTE The long history of the Personal Property Brokers Act since 1905, and its amendments down the years, preclude me in this bi-monthly report detailing all of these legislative changes The Act and amendments, taking into consideration the modification of the California State Usury Law, is now before the Supreme Court of our State in case entitled CARTER v. SEABOARD FINANCE CO., and therefore my final conclusions and interpretations necessarily must wait the Court's opinion and decision

It can be stated that the Act as now interpreted places no ceiling on the interest chargeable on loans over $300, and personal property brokers have been since 1934, by the same interpretation, exempted from the general usury law of our State, that provides a maximum of 10% per annum on loans

We find, therefore, an anomaly in our law, where certain classes of money lenders are exempt from even maximum interest charges on loans (in the case of Personal Property Brokers no interest limitation on loans over $300), and for other lenders of money a limitation of 10% per annum. This situation should be observed by the Legislature and remedied at the next session so that uniform interest rates are established. I have wondered why the Corporation Commissioner, whose duty it is to administer the Personal Property Brokers Act, has not considered the doubtful constitutionality of the accepted discrimination exempting one class of money lenders from any usurious limitation, and limiting another class of money lenders to a 10% legal interest rate. This would seem to be contrary to the Fourteenth Amendment of the U. S. Constitution

APPLICATION IN GRANTING LICENSES AND PRACTICAL ADMINISTRATION:

The Personal Property Brokers Act provides that the Commissioner of Corporations shall grant licenses to the Brokers, supervise and examine the business of the Brokers, enforce their compliance with the provisions of the Act, renew licenses each year, and it delegates to the Corporation Commissioner the general administrative and quasi-judicial powers to regulate the personal property brokers, vesting in him in the exercise thereof, a high degree of discretion in determining that these licensees have good character, and are worthy of public confidence

In the money lending business in our State there are annual loans exceeding $166,000,000, to more than 425,000 of our fellow citizens from approximately 436 business sites throughout the State. The Commissioner of Corporations is supposed to examine all the accounts, check the due compliance of each operator with the law, check applications for licenses and renewals each year. In addition the Commissioner has many other acts to enforce, excluding his primary duty to enforce the Corporate Security Laws of our State. His personnel for all these multifarious duties, examinations, investigations and decisions is entirely inadequate. This may explain why the Personal Property Brokers Act has not been efficiently enforced and why violations are readily observed, even upon a cursory investigation of some of the licensees' account books

With all the duties imposed upon the Commissioner of Corporations by the Legislature, and with no additional employees provided, he does not, and possibly cannot, adequately administer the Personal Property Brokers Act.

For example, the annual report of each licensed place of business concerning its loan accounts and operations under the law, must be filed with the Corporation Commissioner by March 15th of each year, and the Commissioner in turn files his report to the Governor. If the licensees do not report by March 15th the commissioner is empowered to examine their books within ten days and make the report for them. In 1947 such annual report to the Governor was not made until October 1, 1948—7½ months late

In examining the files of the Corporation Commissioner, I found felons and ex-convicts to be licensees and operating their money lending businesses under successive annual permits.

TRANSACTING OF BUSINESS: A most limited examination of some of the licensees' places of business has disclosed numerous violations of the law. For instance, additional charges on loans of $300 and less exclusive of the 2½% per month on the first $100, and 2% per month on the next $200; a "kick-back" to the lender of a percentage on the premium collected for insurance on the personal property offered by the borrower to secure the loan; errors in the interest calculating charts used by some lenders, allowing more than the maximum interest chargeable on loans of $300 and less These are misdemeanors under the Personal Property Brokers Act.

I perceive from my examinations and inspections to this date a probable unity of action in these violations by some of the licensees, which constrains the inference of a possible concerted action on these violations that could sustain conspiracy complaints. Further time to gather more evidence will confirm this statement Nothing has been done by the Corporation Commissioner to stop the above violations. As has been suggested, he may not have the manpower to ascertain the existence of violations. The least that should be done is to institute actions to rescind the licenses of violating brokers.

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR LEGISLATION: I shall not burden this report with the situations which cause my recommendations for amendments to the Act, for the reason that the Legislature will be petitioned to appoint an Interim Committee to investigate, and I trust they will pave the way for your office to present the evidence and appropriate adequate funds to bring before the public the true condition which now prevails in this business among some licensed brokers.

1. I think, from past failures, in efficiently enforcing the law, possibly because of insufficient personnel, the Commissioner of Corporations has sufficient to do without his attempting to administer the Personal Property Brokers Act, and allied loan acts. Consequently, there should be created an Industrial and Personal Property Loan Commissioner. The expense of his office can easily be supported from the license fees now paid by the licensees. Each applicant pays a $100 application fee and $200 each year for license fees. One Commissioner, two assistants, five investigators and 10 accountants could efficiently administer and enforce the law, if they had no other duties to perform. The Commissioner should be appointed by the Governor, and confirmed by both Houses of the Legislature. He should serve for a term of two years.

2. There should be a maximum interest charge on all loans, whether they be for $300 or less, or $300 or more, in this classification of money lenders (Personal Property Brokers.) I think the amount for delineation of interest rate differences should be at least $750 rather than $300. At present over 75% of all loans are over $300, and this fact is perceptibly erasing the $300 delimitation.

3. All other charges such as insurance fees, collections, investigations, registrations and incidental fees, should be included in the over-all interest rate permitted to be collected, and such charges should not be allowed to be unlimited, as is now the practice for loans over $300. The limitations should be plainly written into the law.

4. There should be a percent limitation placed on the amount of money a money lender can receive on a line of credit from a banking institution. The Personal Property Broker borrows from the banks between 25% to 75% or more of his money, at from 1% to 3% per annum, and then lends to an unfortunate borrower for not less than 24% per annum, and many times for more. This practice subjects the borrower to a great disadvantage on the one hand, and tends to allow banks to indirectly control a line of business they are not chartered to engage in under the national banking laws. A Personal Property Broker should not be permitted to borrow over 49% of his lending money from a bank, if the Legislature concludes this system should be tolerated at all.

5. I suggest you use your good offices to endorse a legislative resolution to appoint a Committee to investigate what is known as the "small loan" division of financing in California, and I trust that the Legislature will act at this time.

It is upon the assumption that the Legislature will so act, that I recommend cooperation with the Legislature rather than the empanelling of a Grand Jury in the different large counties of the State to investigate the subject, ascertain any law violations, and make recommendations for remedial legislation.

Let me thank you for the complete and free hand you have given me in my work, and that no qualification was placed on my duties at the time of appointment. No law enforcement officer could, or has been, more impartial that you in this matter.

Respectfully submitted,

GEO. W. ROCHESTER

now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Assembly respectfully request the Rules Committee or any Interim Committee on Lending Transactions which may be formed at this 1949 Session to thoroughly and completely consider this report.

Resolution read, and ordered referred to the Committee on Rules.

REPORT OF THE ASSEMBLY INTERIM COMMITTEE ON DETENTION HOMES AND COUNTY AND CITY JAILS (CRIME AND CORRECTIONS)

Letter of Transmittal

January 13, 1949

To the Speaker and Members of the Assembly

GENTLEMEN: On behalf of this committee, re-created by House Resolution No. 164 of the 1947 Session, we have the pleasure of submitting our further report.

Included herein are recommendations for legislation; also suggestions leading in the direction of further legislation but which, because of inadequate investigation due to lack of time and funds, the committee is loathe, in some instances, to place in the form of actual legislative proposals.

Your committee calls attention to Assembly Journals of previous sessions containing extensive and far-reaching studies, suggestions, and recommendations. All of the committee's earlier reports re-affirm the further study herewith submitted.

Your committee believes it has been diligent and conscientious in its work, and strongly recommends this report to your most earnest attention. It is the committee's firm contention that it contains information of the most vital importance to the welfare of the State of California.

Respectfully submitted,

VERNON KILPATRICK, Chairman
MONTIVEL A. BURKE, Vice-chairman
ELWYN S. BENNETT, Secretary
GORDON R. HAHN, Member

(Edward J. Carey, former member, is no longer a Member of the Assembly)

Introduction

During the course of its studies the committee has availed itself of the most competent advisers and authorities in the Country on the matters committed to its investigations. Its conclusions have been arrived at after extensive hearings, investigations, and the accumulation of a great mass of information attested by many agencies and officials.

It is worth noting at this point that the Adult Corrections and Release Procedures Commission has within the past several weeks issued a report covering to some extent the same ground as that covered by your committee. It, too, has had the advantage of consultation and investigation with and by eminent men in the field under study.

It is extremely agreeable to the committee to report that the recent findings of the Adult Corrections and Release Procedures Commission are in almost all major respects on a city and county level closely parallel to the earlier reports advanced by this committee.

However, this report is at variance to the Adult Corrections and Release Procedures Commission as it pertains to the State Penal and Rehabilitation System, and offers a number of suggestions and recommendations which are backed by data and arguments more persuasive to the committee than the report of the Adult Corrections and Release Procedures Commission. The major recommendations are listed below, with supporting data.

Before listing the recommendations—which are supplemental to the numerous ones previously presented to this body—the committee would like to mention the following, which come within the scope of this report:

A brief of hearings held in Los Angeles, and visits by committee members to the Los Angeles County Honor Farm and road camps, Fresno County penal road camps, the Fred C. Nelles School for Boys, the Paso Robles School for Boys, the Ventura School for Girls, the Santa Barbara-Ventura joint program facilities for boys, the California Institution for Men at Chino, the California Institution for Women, State Prison at San Quentin. Also a brief of a Los Angeles County Grand Jury Report containing material pertinent to this committee's work, and numerous other inquiries.

Recommendations

In offering these recommendations, the committee desires to point out that the substantiating material has been kept at a minimum.

Increase in Personnel of Adult Authority

Your committee believes:

First. The personnel of the Adult Authority should be increased, probably from three to five members, and the supervision of paroles transferred to the Department of Corrections—for these reasons:

The present Adult Authority, a vital part of our Penal System set up in 1944, has been headed by generous-hearted men who have worked hard during its formative period. Yet the investigation of its functioning by the committee—admittedly not complete—indicates vital deficiencies in its organization and operation.

In the first place, it has exclusive judicial powers within the Department of Corrections (Men's Division). At the same time, it has extensive administrative powers and administers parole supervision to approximately 3,300 parolees.

Your committee is firmly convinced that administrators should never, under our government system, be judges of their own operations or administration (The Board of Trustees for the California Institution for Women will be dealt with in a later report). Yet that appears to be happening within the Adult Authority, which, during its period of growth, has been singularly free to develop its own policies and form of organization.

Under the law, the authority is composed of three members, each of whom is appointed by the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, for the term of four years and until the appointment and qualification of his successor, with the chairman designated by the Governor from time to time. One member, says the law, shall be an attorney-at-law, one shall have had practical experience in handling adult prisoners, and one a sociologist in training and experience.

It is not known to your committee whether any member can qualify as a sociologist. Whether he can or not, the three-man board is composed of three ex-policemen To be sure, one is also an attorney, and one an ex-police chief. All are quite human. But their training essentially appears to have been that of prosecutors or law-enforcement agents—and not that of experts in rehabilitation. And rehabilitation presumably is the groundwork upon which California's prison system is built.

In any case, it appears obvious that the present three-man board has a greater load on its shoulders than any three men should bear.

Consider these facts; actual comparisons with other agencies are enlightening, and the committee's principal reason for suggesting more detailed study of the problem.

Under the Adult Authority there are now about 10,000 men in prison, and 3,300 on parole within the State—the parolees being roughly one-third of the prison figure.

Under the Board of Trustees for the California Institution for Women there are approximately 315 persons in prison and about 200 on parole—about two-thirds of the prison total.

The Federal System

Without attempting to compare the federal system with that of the State, 38.8 percent of those convicted before the federal court, according to the most recent figures, were not sent to prison, but placed on probation—at a greatly reduced cost to the taxpayer. In other words, of 27,311 convicted under the federal system, only 16,724 were sent to prison, while more than 10,000 were placed on probation at a saving of about $10,000,000 a year, and 96 percent make good. In Los Angeles County, the Probation Department reports that about 90 percent make good.

In this connection, it is interesting to note that federal officials estimate that persons on federal probation earned during the year something like $25,000,000 for their own support

Overburdened System of Adult Authority

To illustrate how clogged the Adult Authority is with its three-man overburdened system, last July the authority passed judgment on more than 500 parole cases and nearly 200 other matters.

Take a single prisoner, to narrow the illustration. He is one of more than 30 that appear in a single day's session of the authority. Under the authority's present method of operation, he will have waited more than a year to get his hearing for parole. Is it any wonder that he should feel like a kernel of wheat entering a thresher?

What sort of a hearing will this one man among 30 receive on his fateful day—when it finally arrives?

This committee is strongly inclined to believe, from first-hand observation that he will not get what he is legally entitled to, a matter that will be discussed under a later heading.

Meanwhile, your committee would like to make a few observations concerning what appears to be an excessively costly method of operation by the Authority—which might be greatly cut with increase of the body to five men, and transferring the matter of paroles and other administrative duties from its jurisdiction.

First of all, such contact with and study of the Authority as the committee was able to make revealed an apparently deep distortion of aim and goal in that body's program

Two Penal Systems Operating in State

Briefly, there seem to be two penal systems operating in the State. One, the avowed basis of penology in California, and the system endorsed by the highest authorities in the land, aims to keep a man in prison no longer than necessary—releasing him on parole as soon as it can be established that he may rehabilitate himself.

The other system in California, which preliminary study by this committee indicates is largely due to the questioned operation of the Adult Authority, throws a man in jail and leaves him there. It is the system the State of California aimed to overthrow when it reorganized its prison system in 1944. It is operated by three men with police backgrounds—which appears to be out of harmony with the language and intent of Section 5077 of the Penal Code. These men carry heavy administrative as well as operational duties and thereby, in many respects are, as administrators, judges of their own acts.

One keeps a man in prison, often seemingly unnecessarily, at an estimated cost of from $800 to $1,300 a year, while the other would release him and provide supervision at under $150 a year.

The difference between these two systems, the inferior one operating virtually within the framework of the other, may well be responsible for the greatly overcrowded conditions in our prisons, which it is estiated need plant additions and new structures to the tune of something like $5,000,000.

If your committee's brief inquiry is supported by further study, it may appear that not only will society receive better protection through a more thorough and scientific study and, thereby, the release of only those who are fit to live with, making more certain that those who could be good risks be given the benefit of parole, but we believe that millions of dollars annually will be saved in the process.

All this is said with full awareness by the committee of the dangers of either a "do-gooder" or a "police" attitude toward the problem. Rehabilitation is no field for either police or the soft-hearted, but rather for the most learned men in the field.

Probably half of those in prison today in California have been there before—a pretty certain indication that the system has fallen short of what it should do, thus providing much of its own overcrowding problem.

Suggested Personnel of Adult Authority

Psychiatrists, medical men, sociologists, and men trained in probation and similar work, it would seem, should replace the present police-trained personnel for the most part in our jails and penitentiaries and parole systems. The committee's brief review seems to justify further study of this field, but at present an extremely conservative recommendation would be that a minister, (with a social service background) and a psychiatrist be included in the membership of the Authority.

Parole Hearings

Second—The shortcomings of parole hearings should be overcome by transfer of the Authority's administrative duties to the Director of Corrections, thus releasing more time for parole study.

Some of the members of your committee have, through the courtesy of the Adult Authority, sat in on several parole hearings; and each member has been impressed by the seeming lack of factual data surrounding the circumstances for which the prisoner was committed to prison as required by law, and upon which decision concerning the prisoner should properly be based. Many times after five or ten minutes of explanation of the prisoner's record, followed by brief questioning, the latter was excused. In some instances, because of the lack of pertinent data, questions asked concerning the prisoner or his fitness for release could not be answered. In view of the latter fact, the prisoner, if denied parole, was informed he could again appear before the board a year hence.

Section 5077 of the Penal Code, concerning powers and duties, states:

"The Adult Authority shall cause each person committed to a state prison to be examined and studied. This includes the investigation of all pertinent circumstances of his life and the antecedents of the violation of law because of which he has been committed to prison. Any person may be re-examined to determine whether existing orders and dispositions should be modified or continued in force.

"The granting and revocation of parole, the fixing of sentences, and the commitment of a prisoner to a particular state prison for the serving of his sentence shall be made by the Adult Authority by majority vote."

From the foregoing it is apparent the Authority is charged with the duty of making thorough inquiry, yet in following through on one complaint brought to the attention of this committee, it was learned that the files of the prisoner involved were decidedly incomplete though the prisoner had several times appeared before the Authority. Data offered by a relative was ignored The interview date for parole consideration was passed without notice to the prisoner's wife, who had requested the privilege of being present upon notice.

Following the above incident, your committee requested, six months in advance, to be notified of the next interview date of this prisoner. The request was never complied with.

Indeterminate Sentences

Probably the most important duties of the Adult Authority as it is now set up are its functions to fix terms and act as parole board and administer parole custody under the Indeterminate Sentence Law.

The indeterminate sentence in California is of comparatively recent origin and, from a review of the rich and varied literature on the subject, it is clear that, while the indeterminate sentence in theory represents advanced thought on the subject and has as its chief feature rehabilitation, its operation falls far short of a desired goal.

California has indeed been fortunate in securing the type of men it has had to head up the Adult Authority during its formative period. They have given of their time and talents generously, and have labored long hours and far into the night to clear their desks. They have been unusually cooperative to the members of the committee, and have indicated a zealous effort to insure the success of the Authority

Your committee has shown great interest in the practical working of the Adult Authority in its administration of this important function, and has made every effort to investigate complaints directed against the operation of the Authority:

(1) To the method of hearings of the Authority, which are closed to the public.

(2) To the failure to make extensive investigations into the background for which the prisoner was convicted, as required by law, which your committee believes has not been carried out.

(3) To the fact that a man's record is based on so-called confidential reports from arresting officers, jailers and transportation officers, the information contained therein being based on conclusions rather than fact and by persons untrained in human behavior.

(4) To the fact that this information together with all other data is withheld from the prisoner.

(5) To the fact that the Adult Authority simply does not have the time to spend on collecting information and for consideration of the average case considered by it. The Authority, according to its own report, December 1, 1946, considered, on an average, 488 cases per month for the previous two years. July, 1948, 537 cases.

(6) To the fact that the Adult Authority has arbitrarily set up conditions and required the signing of forms as a condition of release on parole, which appear on the face to be contrary to practical compliance and all of otherwise accepted legal concepts.

(7) To the fact that the Adult Authority has, wholly on its own initiative, imposed parole conditions which have no bearing upon the offense for which the prisoner was sentenced, and which the prospective parolee must agree to, regarding rights of contracts, marriage, ownership of property, etc., which tend to degrade rather than rehabilitate.

(8) To the fact that actions taken in fixing sentences and granting paroles are not subject to review by an impartial reviewing body.

(9) To the fact that although the Authority is charged with the establishment of diagnostic clinics and providing treatment to the end of rehabilitating the prisoners, it is a fact that of this date the Adult Authority does not go on record as having effected any increase in the rehabilitation of paroled or released prisoners or in any actual beneficial behavior on the part of inmates.

The foregoing nine facts which we present for consideration impel this committee to believe that further investigation of the Adult Authority and the indeterminate sentence procedure should be made. Many sincere people have expressed wonderment at the intent of the California Legislature in passing legislation creating a body composed of three men, no matter how wise, sincere, or well-intentioned, having in their hands so absolute power over the lives of some 13,000 wards of the State without power of review.

Further Recommendations

The wholly reasonable view has been expressed that the Adult Authority, being still in its swaddling clothes, should be very carefully watched by the Legislature to the end that abuses can be detected and corrected.

The committee recommends that the Adult Authority:

1. Provide for appearances of a limited number of relatives or friends who request the privilege of being present at hearings.

2. Make prisoner's record available to him in advance of hearing.

3. Cease to rely on information or records, other than court records and such behavior records as are attested to and signed by a psychiatric diagnostician.

4. Revise present form required for parole limiting the action of the parolee to the extent of degrading him

5. Use a form prescribed by proper legislative action, which will be in effect a contract between the parolee and the people of the State of California, a contract based on human dignity and a sincere living belief in rehabilitation.

The committee also suggests study of the works of the Adult Authority based on its first four and one-half years to determine whether or not the system can be greatly improved. To this end we suggest a study providing for a hearing authority within each prison organization, and subject to review by the Adult Authority. The committee suggests the desirability of requiring the Adult Authority to provide stenographic notes of all revocations, this parole hearing, which notes shall be subject to review.

Just as your committee believes that quasi-judicial and administrative powers should not be vested in the same officer or body, so it also believes that investigations in aid of legislation should not normally be vested in or under the supervision of officers or bodies exercising administrative powers. While an efficient administrator needs to make investigations in aid of his administration, he should not be permitted to carry his inquiry beyond the scope of the laws governing his own agency nor should he be permitted so to occupy the field of investigation as to preclude investigation by the legislative department in accordance with the express mandate of our State Constitution.

Committee Recommendations Enacted Into Law

The committee submitted to the 1945 Extraordinary Session of the Legislature a progress report; and in January, 1947, at the regular session, submitted its final report under the original authorization. This report covered testimony by leading state officials and top-ranking penologists of the State and Nation.

The summing up of that first two years' study resulted in the committee making 11 recommendations for changes in the penal laws of California.

The committee's entire legislative program was approved by the Assembly, and the following measures were enacted into law:

1. Creation of the office of jail inspector within the Department of Corrections.
2. Approval of plans for alteration or new jail or local custodial structures by Department of Corrections.
3. Prohibition of the fee system of feeding prisoners.
4. Prohibition of "Kangaroo" court.
5. Provision that Director of Corrections shall determine standards of quality and quantity of food and clothing to be used within jails.

Other Recommendations Presented to the Legislature, 1947

Among the committee's recommendations was the request for the establishment of two inebriate colonies, (one in the northern and one in the southern part of the State) under the Department of Mental Hygiene.

Provision of law should be made for a Department of Rehabilitation on the county level, which authority and responsibilities should be comparable to the State Department of Corrections. In counties too small to support such a department, we have recommended that two or more counties join together in a regional program.

Establishment of a uniform accounting system for local penal institutions.

Authority of State Health Department to enter and inspect jails without previous notice.

Establishment of minimum standards both as to facilities and personnel set up by the Department of Corrections.

A report was made on public hearings at San Diego and San Jose. The former pertaining to Juvenile Hall and the latter largely devoted to jail conditions. In that report we recommended:

1. Juvenile Hall should be administered by probation officer instead of by probation committee or the juvenile court and gave six detailed reasons therefor, together with operational breakdown.
2. Closing of Santa Clara County Jail as unfit for housing prisoners, and recommended that the jail be closed and prisoners transferred to Santa Rita (Alameda County Jail Farm) where ample facilities exist.

The committee now suggests, in line with a report issued April 15, 1947, that a Manual for Grand Juries be issued. The latter reports referred to, and subsequent investigations by the committee, has brought to light the impotency of many grand juries and their lack of concrete knowledge concerning their responsibilities. One glaring instance uncovered by the committee, which at least to some degree would be overcome by issuance of such a manual, is the failure of many grand juries in the State to make investigations of jails and other penal institutions definitely required by law.

While not the only causative force, economic privation is often the motivating cause for criminal conduct. Accordingly, the committee believes funds should be available, particularly to probationers, on a loan basis limited to $5 or $10 as a means of relieving an extreme incident during the period of their rehabilitation, giving them the means to live without being forced into illicit activity.

Your committee also believes that, as a result of its work, it can tentatively offer the following proposals as suitable for further study: (1) Although prison labor should not interfere with private enterprise to any serious degree, a much more likely method, whereby sale of prison handiwork can be effected, surely should be given study. (2) The pay of teachers in penal institutions is now grossly inferior to that of regular public teachers; there is no apparent reason why this should be so—in fact, if real justice were done, the penal teacher would receive more than the outside teacher. At least some adjustment in this matter is in order. (3) A more thorough study of the handling of sex offenders is surely overdue. (4) More study of the lengthy waits parole applicants are forced to undergo seems almost obligatory; corollary to this is the fact that serious consideration and recommendations by our most thoughtful and learned authorities should be given to the desirability of placing parole on a uniform basis for those eligible. (5) More study should be given to the efficiency of the Executive Department's handling of pardon applications based upon claim of innocence by the applicant.

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Dr. Torrance Phelps:

God of Lights: Upon this day when Benjamin Franklin was born (January 17th), let us look with gratitude to the immense service he rendered our Country in its critical struggle for independence.

Let us honor his labors as Ambassador to France in securing French aid to win our struggle to become an independent Nation, and his steadying influence in the constitutional era.

Let us behold in him an example of versatility of mind, of the amazing variety of interests that a man can pursue and the discoveries one can make.

Let us honor him for his practical inventions for our comfort—bifocals for the eyes, lightning rods for the houses, and the common stove, and his discovery of the practical uses of electricity.

Let us remember his great contribution to education—the circulating public library—and his prophecy of aerial transportation.

May we cherish his faith in democracy and in the future of the Republic, his religious faith in the Divinity who presides over the destinies of nations, and emulate his devotion and sacrifices for this Republic.—AMEN.

(Benjamin Franklin asked in a deadlock in the Constitutional Convention that they rise and pray to the God of Lights).

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Dr. Torrance Phelps:

Source of Health and Healing: May we pause this day to realize that we live below the level of our possibilities, and always before us lies the opportunity to enhance the efficiency of the body and the clarity of the mind

Help us to realize the power of the mind over the physical body, and observe how thoughts and feelings can increase or deplete our vital energy.

Let us see how the mood of trust—the firm belief that the Divine is with us, calms the nervous system, promotes the healthy action of every organ and tissue, and thereby arouses our latent resourcefulness.

Then let us see how anxiety and fear cause the strain and tension that retards circulation, overtaxes the heart, and threatens our very existence

Above all, let us see how scornful doubt and cynicism irritate the nervous system, lower our vital resistance, and invite mental and physical illness.

Remind us how many people today go crazy because they have no sustaining Faith

May we keep the thoughts of faith and hope in the subconscious margins of the mind so that we may have a sense of adequacy for every task, and enjoy health of body and sanity of mind.—AMEN.

House Resolution No. 48

Relative to the seventy-fifth birthday of the Honorable George A. Clarke

WHEREAS, This Assembly has permitted the ninth day of January, 1949, to pass without taking note that that day marked the seventy-fifth birthday of the Honorable George A. Clarke, Assemblyman from the Thirty-first District; and

WHEREAS, It is eminently fitting and proper that this Assembly pause to consider the long and distinguished public career of this esteemed colleague and to dwell upon the characteristics which make him one of the finest examples of American manhood; and

WHEREAS, George A. Clarke was born in Bishop, California, on January 9, 1874, and since early manhood has engaged in public enterprises and public service, participating in the incorporation of the Town of Bishop and serving as trustee thereof for 13 years, organizing the Owens Valley Bank, promoting a local light and power enterprise, serving as president of a county farm bureau and for seven years as State Director of the Farm Bureau Federation, serving as Director of the Production Credit Association and as a member of the Farm Debt Adjustment Commission, in which latter capacity he was instrumental in saving the homes of many people; and

WHEREAS, By virtue of his years of practical and legislative experience in the fields of irrigation, mining, and agriculture he became a counsellor and guide to the younger Members of the Legislature in matters relating to these fields, and such members have frequently sought counsel and guidance in much the same way a student consults a highly respected dean; and

WHEREAS, George A. Clarke has not only been ever willing to share his wisdom and experience with other members in the fields in which he has special knowledge and training but brings to bear upon each governmental problem that confronts this body the calm, sure judgment and the sound appraisal of all relevant factors that his lifetime of experience in public and private affairs has qualified him to exercise; and

WHEREAS, His calm and courteous demeanor, his inherent integrity, his instinctive turning to whatever is fundamentally right, coupled with his deep understanding of events and men acquired through a lifetime of activity in affairs of a public nature have made George A. Clarke a man in whom all Members of this Assembly have always reposed the most implicit trust and confidence and a man with whom long association serves only to bring more clearly into focus the fundamental virtues with which he is endowed; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That this Assembly, somewhat belatedly but with the greatest sincerity, hereby congratulates the Honorable George A. Clarke upon having attained and passed the seventy-fifth milestone in his long and distinguished career and wishes for him a long continuance of life full of all the good things which he so richly deserves

OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

Hon. John F. Thompson
Assembly Chamber

A.B. No. 271—Relocation of portion of State Highway in Santa Clara County—No. 3219

DEAR MR. THOMPSON: You have asked our opinion whether Assembly Bill No. 271 is an appropriation bill within the meaning of Section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution, which section provides that until the Budget Bill has been finally enacted, neither house shall place upon final passage any other appropriation bill except emergency bills recommended by the Governor.

In our opinion, Assembly Bill No. 271 is not an appropriation bill and is not subject to the restriction in Section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution referred to above.

This bill amends Section 2 of Chapter 19 of the Statutes of the 1947 First Extra Session. That chapter provided for the relocation of a portion of a state highway in Santa Clara County and made an appropriation for that purpose. The appropriation is contained in Section 1 of that chapter which is not amended by this bill.

Section 2 provides for the transfer of the appropriation from the General Fund to the State Highway Fund It also contains certain restrictions and limitations upon the expenditure of the money appropriated. Assembly Bill No. 271 would delete these restrictions and limitations. We do not believe that the amendment proposed to be made by this bill constitutes an appropriation of money.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD
Legislative Counsel

THIRD READING OF SENATE BILLS

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 16—Relative to honoring Robert Mathias.

Resolution read, and adopted unanimously.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT THAT REMARKS BY MR. HAGEN BE PRINTED IN THE JOURNAL

Mr. Way asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent that the remarks by Mr. Hagen, relative to Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 16, be ordered printed in the Journal

Remarks by Mr. Hagen

Mr Speaker and Members of the Assembly

On behalf of all the people of California and particularly the personal friends of the Mathias family of Tulare, California, I urge the adoption of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 16 honoring Bob Mathias, the greatest athlete and junior citizen of Tulare County and the San Joaquin Valley

As you all know, Bob out-ran, out-threw, out-jumped and out-vaulted 34 of the cream of the world's athletes at the recent Olympic Games in London, in that great test of athletic ability and endurance, the Decathlon

Bob is the pride of Tulare High School He is not only a great track athlete, but also a great football and basketball player I recall first observing him in action at the 1947 Fresno Relays where he won four or five events I thereafter saw him continue his magnificent performance on the football field.

Not only is Bob a great athlete, but he is also a great citizen, and it is appropriate that our Gallery today is crowded with persons of high school and junior high school age who take personal pride in his accomplishments, and inspiration from the fact that a person of their approximate age has received world admiration

The good citizenship of Bob is verified by the fact that, while participating in the Olympic Games, he transmitted a message across the Atlantic Ocean urging the adoption of a bond issue vital to the best interests of his high school.

Most of the credit for Bob's accomplishment belongs to his parents, Dr. and Mrs Mathias of Tulare, who are exemplars of fine American parenthood.

I am proud to state that I am one of the legislative representatives of the area wherein Bob Mathias resides, and I urge a "Yes" vote on the adoption of the resolution

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Dr. Torrance Phelps:

Infinite and Eternal God: Before Thee, the generations come and go, and our own lives are but a ripple in the vastness of Eternity, and yet contain the essence of the Everlasting

Let this be an august moment, in which we acknowledge Thee, to whom we owe all things, and show by our reverence what manner of men we are.

Let us see that this is a creative time for the mind and soul, and may be to us what blooming is to the rose, and in this moment, while our busy minds rest, that greater nature below our conscious minds, expands like a flower in the sun.

In this time of prayer, we may strengthen every God-like impulse and thought and enkindle the spark of the Divine within us, and do a greater work in the white flame of its fire.—AMEN

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Mr. Lindsay:

House Resolution No. 52

Relative to commending the Auburn Sierra Rangers for their study and Report on the Overland Emigrant Road through Donner Pass

WHEREAS, The Overland Emigrant Road through Donner Pass was the principal route used by wagon trains during the early period of the Gold Rush and is for that reason an extremely important part of the early history of California; and

WHEREAS, The Auburn Sierra Rangers have undertaken the task of locating and marking this historic road, which the passage of time has largely obscured; and

WHEREAS, The Report of the Auburn Sierra Rangers on the performance of this task is so rich in details of historical interest that it is incorporated in full as a part of this resolution.

Report on Overland Emigrant Road

The Overland Emigrant Road over the Sierra Nevada at Donner Pass carried more wagons and more people to California in the Gold Rush of 100 years ago, than any other wagon trail then in use by California pioneers.

It was first traveled when a wagon train guided by the Indian Truckee, and Captained by Elisha Stevens proved the route with 10 wagons and many horsemen in December, 1844. The wagon tracks of the Stevens Party were followed by others in following years.

Then came the tragedy which indelibly wrote the name Donner on this mountain pass through the Sierra. The Donner Party were following the tracks of other parties who preceded them in 1846. At this time, and later during 1849 and the early 'fifties, the pass was known as Truckee Pass and the lake as Truckee Lake.

The early winter of 1846, which brought deep smothering snows to the Sierra Nevada beginning on the last day of October, caught the careless, slow traveling Donner Party as the victim of a tragedy of cold and starvation. It has impressed the Donner name ever deeper into the fabric of names and places in this portion of the mountains as time rolls by. The location of their most forward camp has been thoughtfully preserved by the Donner Memorial Monument and the Donner Lake California State Park.

During the period of our western emigration, it was the common custom of travelers to keep written diaries of the daily incidents of their trip. Therefore, our libraries and historical collections today have many of the original manuscript diaries, or published copies of them, which are accurately descriptive of the road traveled and its location with relation to the present geographical features we are familiar with. By study of a number of these personal records, members of our organization in this region have been able to accurately mark the route of the Overland Emigrant Road from Donner Lake to the old Johnson Rancho, in the Sacramento Valley. This Overland Road was the principal route used by Gold Rush wagon trains to California, and carried the great load of the over-the-plains travel to California from 1848 to 1852. In 1852, toll road improvements on the Donner Summit took the wagon wheels from the old tracks to better grades.

Marking the route is admirable and important, but today the old Overland Road can again render new service to the rapidly expanding population of California. There is great need of an open recreational riding and hiking trail to cross the Sierra, that is removed from congested and dangerous traffic on over-crowded highways. The route of the old Emigrant Road is best located to serve this requirement, and adds to the advantages of location, the absorbing historical interest of all Californians, which attaches to the greatest of all roads to the Gold Rush of '49. The Overland Emigrant Road should be open for such use as a project of the State, and developed under the Riding and Hiking Trails Program of the State Park Commission.

The beneficial character of this proposal has been recognized by the member clubs belonging to the Sacramento Region of the California Horsemen Association, and endorsed by them for state approval during this Centennial Year of 1949.

It is believed the actual work of opening this trail on the old Emigrant Road would be assisted in a considerable measure by the Tahoe National Forest on the portion from Mule Springs to Donner Lake, as most of it lies on national forest land.

In the work which has been done to locate and sign this road of the pioneers, our people have accumulated many old records and notes of the past. A few of these may be interesting, and are quoted here for your information.

The Donner Camp by an Eye Witness

From the John Markle Diary of 1849, the original of which is in Auburn, comes the following, dated August 20, 1849. "Tonight we camped in a valley at the base of the mountain, about ¾ of a mile east of Truckee Lake. Today we passed the valley where Donner encamped, and where his cabins were. There are a number of fragments left, but more human bones than anything else. It was 6 miles before we came to where the Graves family wintered, and to the Foster and Breen's cabins just beyond. They present a gloomy appearance, and with old clothes, which were worn by females, and also long female hair, which appeared as if it had fallen from the head, and any quantity of bones in and around the cabin."

Crossing the Summit

E. Douglas Perkins wrote in his diary of 1849, which is now in the Huntington Library, "the ascent to the pass from the Donner cabins is about 5 miles, as the road was very winding in finding a passage thru the trees and rocks. At 3 o'clock we arrived at the foot of the terrible passage over the backbone. The pass is thru a slight depression in the mountains, about 1500 feet lower than the tops of the mountains in its immediate vicinity. As we came up to it, the appearance was like marching up to an immense wall, and the road goes up to its very base, before turning short to the right, and then ascends by a track in the side of the mountain, when about ¼ of the distance from the top, it turns left again, and goes directly over the summit In a distance of about ½ mile, I judge this steep climb covers an elevation somewhere near 2000 feet. We rested ½ hour at the top, and went down into the valley to camp."

Mountain Lakes

Both the Markle and Perkins Party camped in Summit Valley. The next day both of them mentioned a group of lakes on the road. Markle says, "They are six in number. The water in them is cool and perfectly clear. They average a mile or two in length, and from 400 to 500 yards in width." Perkins speaks in addition of a lofty and solitary rocky peak. This is today called Devil's Peak. Beyond the lakes, the road turned sharp down the side of the mountain to the valley of the South Yuba. Markle said it is the "infernalest roughest road that ever was traveled. The last mile was so steep we had to check down with ropes." Perkins says "Camp was down an almost perpendicular descent, where the wagons are let down with ropes, and trees at the top are cut and marked deeply by the friction."

Along the Yuba

All speak of a location in the granite rock along the Yuba, where again they had to rope down a short distance. The tree used to check the wagons down this granite slope, was located by our sign party, and the marks of the rope observed. This is only 200 yards from Rainbow Tavern on the north bank of the Yuba River. Below it, on the trail to Big Bend Ranger Station, are trees notched deeply where bumped by the hubs of emigrant wagons, and old, rusty marks in the granite where marked by the iron tires and hub caps of emigrant wagons A number of oxen shoes were found by the Sign Party along the route of the old road from Big Bend Ranger Station, where the old road crossed the Yuba and took to the south bank, and southwesterly around a steep hill to the flat valley of the present Auburn Ski Club location. Below the Cisco Road, the old road turns sharp up a rocky shelf, where all the wagons were compelled to travel in the same tracks, and where the rock is deeply scored with parallel wagon tracks It again drops in to the flat along the river at Indian Springs, and then climbs directly up the ridge to Crystal Lake Half way up this climb is the place where young Stanton of the Donner Party died from exhaustion, after so bravely guiding help and assistance to the snow bound camp from Sutters Fort

Emigrant Gap to Bear Valley

All along this portion, the road is again clearly defined, by red rust from the wagon tracks, among the granite ledges and boulders Beyond Crystal Lake at the pass into Six Mile Valley is a place where many emigrants were forced to abandon their wagons. M A Kelly of Newcastle stated he saw them there in 1858. A short distance below is a cottonwood tree blazed 1847 On the road beyond Carpenter Flat the Emigrant Road passed through the famous Emigrant Gap, to Bear Valley. The old Emigrant Gap is now covered by a 90-foot railroad fill Markle states "in descending to the valley, there is a very steep hill where we let down with ropes for ¾ of a mile The trees are much worn by the friction of the ropes. We camped at the lower end of the valley, and mowed grass for our stock"

Fremont's Camp

Near the top of the ridge beyond Bear Valley is a limb-stripped cedar tree which John C Fremont used as a flag pole for one of his camps. It is probably the first place in the mountain region to fly the Stars and Stripes. Nearby are two massive cedars, one of which marks the grave of a '49er. Not far beyond Fremont's Flag Pole is the location of Mammoth Springs, where a 16-year-old emigrant girl, Eliza Ann McAulay, wrote in her dairy of 1851, "This is most delicious water"

The Mother Pine and Mule Springs

Beyond Springfield Flat, which was reached by some of the survivors of the Donner Party, is the famous Mother Pine, which was recorded by many members of emigrant trains as the largest pine tree ever seen by them in California This was a gigantic sugar pine 13 feet in diameter and with a circumference then of 48 feet Many years later, two men of Lowell Hill sought shelter under the Mother Pine during a winter storm, and to warm their chilled bodies, they built a fire in the hollow of the tree. Their fire spread up the trunk, and in a few hours the Mother Pine became a dead tree, and now is only a tall, blackened stump From the Mother Pine, the Emigrant Road leads over the shoulder of a hill to Mule Springs in a beautiful meadow, which was used in 1846 as the base of operations by the rescuers of the Donner Party. The name of a party of Mormons is retained at Mormon Springs, where two of them were buried at the base of a large black oak

Steep Hollow and Storm's Ranch (Now Chicago Park)

West of Liberty Hill the road passes over the Camel Humps, and into Steep Hollow, which was named from the diary record of Edwin Bryant when he stated in 1846, that "We entered a Steep Hollow by a descent so steep for a mile and a half, that our animals slid rather than walked down it." Beyond the Greenhorn, were the famous ranches of Ben Taylor, who brought the first horse herd of good blood to California, and the well known Storm's Ranch, which came into prominence when United States Troops and State Volunteers rounded up the Indian followers of Chief Wemah at this ranch, and deported them to Mendocino County, with Storm as the first Indian Agent in California.

On part of the old Storm Ranch is now located the town of Chicago Park, Nevada County. It is at this place that the old Overland Emigrant Road, leading eastward over the Sierra, intersects with the present route of the State Riding and Hiking Trail

In the present State System of Riding and Hiking Trails, there are trails through passes of the Coast Range Mountains, which provide for travel between the counties of the Coast and of the Central Valley.

No riding or hiking trail in the state system now supplies the need in the system for a trail to reach the mountain and recreational regions in the counties eastward of the Sierra. We desire to point out that the addition of the route of the old Overland Emigrant Road will answer this requirement in the most central portion of the State, in that it leads directly to the Lake Tahoe country, and the recreational regions north and south along the eastern border of California. It is especially desirable for riding and hiking purposes, in that this route is truly a trail in scenic and historical surroundings, and is not a part of present motor roads or highways. Riding and hiking parties on a state trail, to follow the Overland Emigrant Road, would have protection from traffic hazards. Only three highway crossings would exist, and they are direct crossings, without requiring travel on shoulders or the adjoining right of way.

Since it is reasonable for the use of our people to provide this route in the State Trail System, and desirable to preserve to all future generations of state citizens the opportunity to see and know intimately the road traveled by the pioneers over the California mountains, we ask your support to this legislation. Here 100 years after the wagons rolled over mountains, you can see the marks of the wagon tracks over the rocks. If the route is marked and preserved in right of way now, then in future generations these marks of wagon travel will remain for other hundreds of years. The signs in iron stains and rock wear where the wagon wheels rolled, are imperishable, if retained for use as an over mountain trail. The memory and record can be lost, if other kinds of development should block access, and knowledge of the original road location forgotten. Inclusion in the State Trail System now, will preserve it forever

AUBURN SIERRA RANGERS

Postscript

If you desire some information in a short description of the Overland Emigrant Road as traveled from Storm's Ranch to the Sacramento Valley at Johnson's Rancho, then you may be interested in this Addenda for that purpose.

To Camp Far West and Johnson's Rancho

Beyond Windy Hill, to the west of Chicago Park, and down the old Emigrant Road, is the location where Edwin Bryant wrote, on August 30, 1846, "After rising and descending a number of hills from the summit of one more elevated than the others surrounding it, the spacious Valley of the Sacramento burst upon our view"

After descending to the valley along the watersheds of South Wolf Creek and the north bank of Bear River, the Emigrant Road approaches the side of old Camp Far West, a small Army post maintained in 1849 and 1850. It is located on a slight, rocky bluff overlooking Bear River about two miles east of the site of Johnson's Rancho.

Saved from destruction is a small cemetery, used jointly by the people of Johnson's Rancho and the military post, in the period from 1844 to 1856. It is occupied by 18 graves, mostly Soldier victims of Indian raids and disease, generally malaria. One little girl, Betsey Parker, occupied a brick lined grave in the corner of the plot. All are unmarked and lost to memory, except for a common monument erected there in 1911 by the Native Sons of the Golden West.

Two miles beyond the mountain section of the Overland Emigrant Road terminates in the Valley of the Sacramento, at Johnson's Rancho, 3½ miles east of the present Town of Wheatland. The small adobe buildings are gone without a trace. Today, only a mammoth oak remains to mark the resting ground of the emigrant trains, and the grassy site of a once huge spring. Nearby is the worn track where the wagons pulled down the bank for the crossing of Bear River and the valley road to Sutters Fort.

AUBURN SIERRA RANGERS

Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Auburn Sierra Rangers are commended on their fine work in locating and marking the Overland Emigrant Road and on the excellence of their report; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly is requested to send a copy of this resolution to the President of the Auburn Sierra Rangers.

By Mr. Ralph C. Dills:

House Resolution No. 40

Relative to the Report on Investigation of Personal Property Brokers by Special Deputy Attorney General

WHEREAS, The Attorney General of the State of California has appointed a special deputy to investigate the administration of the Personal Property Brokers Act; and

WHEREAS, On or about December 28, 1948 said special deputy did report to the Attorney General and release to the press the following copy of his report:

To: Hon. Fred N. Howser, Attorney General Place Los Angeles
From Geo W. Rochester, Special Deputy Attorney General

Subject: REPORT ON INVESTIGATION OF PERSONAL PROPERTY BROKERS

Since your appointment of me as Special Deputy Attorney General, with unqualified directions to investigate all phases of the enactment of statutes, applications in granting licenses, the practical administration and the transacting of business under the Personal Property Brokers Act of California, and to make recommendations to the Legislature, if any amendments are necessary to more equitably protect the borrowers from the brokers, I have to report up to this time what my study of the Act, investigation of the brokers, and examination of their operation of their businesses, has accomplished.

THE STATUTE: The long history of the Personal Property Brokers Act since 1905, and its amendments down the years, preclude me in this bi-monthly report detailing all of these legislative changes. The Act and amendments, taking into consideration the modification of the California State Usury Law, is now before the Supreme Court of our State in a case entitled CARTER v. SEABOARD FINANCE CO., and therefore my final conclusions and interpretations necessarily must wait the Court's opinion and decision

It can be stated that the Act as now interpreted places no ceiling on the interest chargeable on loans over $300, and personal property brokers have been since 1934, by the same interpretation, exempted from the general usury law of our state, that provides a maximum of 10% per annum on loans.

We find, therefore, an anomaly in our law, where certain classes of money lenders are exempt from even maximum interest charges on loans (in the case of Personal Property Brokers no interest limitation on loans over $300), and for other lenders of money a limitation of 10% per annum. This situation should be observed by the Legislature and remedied at the next session so that uniform interest rates are established I have wondered why the Corporation Commissioner, whose duty it is to administer the Personal Property Brokers Act, has not considered the doubtful constitutionality of the accepted discrimination exempting one class of money lenders from any usurious limitation, and limiting another class of money lenders to a 10% legal interest rate This would seem to be contrary to the Fourteenth Amendment of the U S Constitution.

APPLICATION IN GRANTING LICENSES AND PRACTICAL ADMINISTRATION

The Personal Property Brokers Act provides that the Commissioner of Corporations shall grant licenses to the Brokers, supervise and examine the business of the Brokers, enforce their compliance with the provisions of the Act, renew licenses each year, and it delegates to the Corporation Commissioner the general administrative and quasi-judicial powers to regulate the personal property brokers, vesting in him in the exercise thereof, a high degree of discretion in determining that these licensees have good character, and are worthy of public confidence

In the money lending business in our State there are annual loans exceeding $166,000,000, to more than 425,000 of our fellow citizens from approximately 430 business sites throughout the State. The Commissioner of Corporations is supposed to examine all the accounts, check the due compliance of each operator with the law, check applications for licenses and renewals each year. In addition the Commissioner has many other acts to enforce, excluding his primary duty to enforce the Corporate Security Laws of our State. His personnel for all these multifarious duties, examinations, investigations and decisions is entirely inadequate This may explain why the Personal Property Brokers Act has not been efficiently enforced and why violations are readily observed, even upon a cursory investigation of some of the licensees' account books.

With all the duties imposed upon the Commissioner of Corporations by the Legislature, and with no additional employees provided, he does not, and possibly cannot, adequately administer the Personal Property Brokers Act

For example, the annual report of each licensed place of business concerning its loan accounts and operations under the law, must be filed with the Corporation Commissioner by March 15th of each year, and the Commissioner in turn files his report to the Governor. If the licensees do not report by March 15th the commissioner is empowered to examine their books within ten days and make the report for them. In 1947 such annual report to the Governor was not made until October 1, 1948—7½ months late.

In examining the files of the Corporation Commissioner, I found felons and ex-convicts to be licensees and operating their money lending businesses under successive annual permits.

TRANSACTING OF BUSINESS A most limited examination of some of the licensees' places of business has disclosed numerous violations of the law. For instance, additional charges on loans of $300 and less, exclusive of the 2½% per month on the first $100, and 2% per month on the next $200; a "kick-back" to the lender of a percentage on the premium collected for insurance on the personal property offered by the borrower to secure the loan; errors in the interest calculating charts used by some lenders, allowing more than the maximum interest chargeable on loans of $300 and less. These are misdemeanors under the Personal Property Brokers Act

I perceive from my examinations and inspections to this date a probable unity of action in these violations by some of the licensees, which constrains the inference of a possible concerted action on these violations that could sustain conspiracy complaints. Further time to gather more evidence will confirm this statement. Nothing has been done by the Corporation Commissioner to stop the above violations As has been suggested, he may not have the manpower to ascertain the existence of violations The least that should be done is to institute actions to rescind the licenses of violating brokers.

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR LEGISLATION I shall not burden this report with the situations which cause my recommendations for amendments to the Act, for the reason that the Legislature will be petitioned to appoint an Interim Committee to investigate, and I trust they will pave the way for your office to present the evidence, and appropriate adequate funds to bring before the public the true condition which now prevails in this business among some licensed brokers.

1. I think, from past failures, in efficiently enforcing the law, possibly because of insufficient personnel, the Commissioner of Corporations has sufficient to do without his attempting to administer the Personal Property Brokers Act, and allied loan acts Consequently, there should be created an Industrial and Personal Property Loan Commissioner. The expense of his office can easily be supported from the license fees now paid by the licensees. Each applicant pays a $100 application fee and $200 each year for license fees. One Commissioner, two assistants, five investigators and 10 accountants could efficiently administer and enforce the law, if they had no other duties to perform. The Commissioner should be appointed by the Governor, and confirmed by both Houses of the Legislature. He should serve for a term of two years.

2 There should be a maximum interest charge on all loans, whether they be for $300 or less, or $300 or more, in this classification of money lenders. (Personal Property Brokers) I think the amount for delineation of interest rate differences should be at least $750 rather than $300. At present over 75% of all loans are over $300, and this fact is perceptibly erasing the $300 delimitation.

3. All other charges such as insurance fees, collections, investigations, registrations and incidental fees, should be included in the over-all interest rate permitted to be collected, and such charges should not be allowed to be unlimited, as is now the practice for loans over $300. The limitations should be plainly written into the law.

4 There should be a percent limitation placed on the amount of money a money lender can receive on a line of credit from a banking institution The Personal Property Broker borrows from the banks between 25% to 75% or more of his money, at from 1% to 3% per annum, and then lends to an unfortunate borrower for not less than 24% per annum, and many times for more. This practice subjects the borrower to a great disadvantage on the one hand, and tends to allow banks to indirectly control a line of business they are not chartered to engage in under the national banking laws. A Personal Property Broker should not be permitted to borrow over 49% of his lending money from a bank, if the Legislature concludes this system should be tolerated at all.

5. I suggest you use your good offices to endorse a legislative resolution to appoint a Committee to investigate what is known as the "small loan" division of financing in California, and I trust that the Legislature will act at this time.

It is upon the assumption that the Legislature will so act, that I recommend cooperation with the Legislature rather than the empanelling of a Grand Jury in the different large counties of the State to investigate the subject, ascertain any law violations, and make recommendations for remedial legislation.

Let me thank you for the complete and free hand you have given me in my work, and that no qualification was placed on my duties at the time of appointment No law enforcement officer could, or has been, more impartial than you in this matter

Respectfully submitted,

GEO. W. ROCHESTER

now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Assembly respectfully request the Rules Committee or any Interim Committee on Lending Transactions which may be formed at this 1949 Session to thoroughly and completely consider this report.

Resolution read, and adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS

By Speaker Collins:

The following communication was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES

Hon Thomas A. Maloney
Member of California Assembly
Capitol, Sacramento, California

DEAR TOM. I have received your telegram of January 10th, with reference to the conference of the three Pacific Coast Delegations in the matter of shipbuilding on the West Coast.

The enclosed material will explain all that has been done up to the present time. With kindest personal regards and best wishes, I am

Very sincerely yours,

RICHARD J. WELCH, M. C.

January 7, 1949

The letter inviting you to this conference, which I as senior member of the Pacific Coast Delegations took the liberty of sending to you, gives a fairly good outline of the purpose of this meeting We have been through this fight before and, with the united effort of the three Pacific Coast Delegations, we were successful in restoring shipbuilding on the Pacific Coast prior to the outbreak of the Second World War in Europe We did not ask or receive the support of West Coast shipbuilders which would have drawn the fire of the selfish group of Eastern shipbuilders who are still 150 years behind Balboa. We based our fight on national defense and won

At one time, when it looked as if we might be stymied, I went to the White House and presented our problem to President Roosevelt. He had a good knowledge of Pacific Coast conditions, having served as First Assistant Secretary of the Navy during the First World War and had spent considerable time on the West Coast. He was astounded to learn that not one merchant ship had been built on the Pacific Coast in 20 years and gave us the help we needed. I am sure if it becomes necessary for the three Pacific Coast Delegations to present the facts to President Truman, he too will give us the necessary assistance.

Today there is only one tug boat of 100 tons under construction on the Pacific Coast from San Diego to Puget Sound. As a result our shipyards are again going to wrack and ruin

Now, let us see what has happened.

The Marin Shipyards, in Sausalito across the Golden Gate from San Francisco, where tankers of the type of this model were built, has been dismantled Two out of three of the so-called Kaiser Yards on the east side of San Francisco Bay have been dismantled. Yard III was built for permanency and is intact Mr. Kaiser has no financial investment in either of these yards, but I understand he is receiving something like $20,000 or more a year to keep a number of men there as a maintenance crew to look after the machinery. The Western Pipe and Steel Company's plant, located in South San Francisco in San Mateo County, likewise has been dismantled. The California Shipyard built on Terminal Island, near the City of Los Angeles, and which ran up one of the finest records for shipbuilding in the United States, has been completely dismantled Congressman Angell, of Portland, Oregon, is here and will tell you of existing conditions in the government-built yards on the Columbia River.

Congressman Jackson, from the Seattle District, with whom I served for years on the Committee on Merchant Marine, is here and will tell you of the condition of the yards in the Seattle-Puget Sound area.

There is no way in which we can force construction of ships on the Pacific Coast by private interests, but we should and can secure the assignment of a reasonable number of merchant ships to be built in the interest of national defense through a building subsidy from the government.

Available figures indicate that the only new ship construction on the West Coast is that of a harbor tug of about 100 gross tons However, current records show that approximately 100 merchant ships have been contracted for on the East Coast of the United States, as well as 11 naval ships to be built in private yards.

It should be remembered that Pacific Coast shipyards constructed 42 percent of the ships built by our Nation during the Second World War

The Maritime Commission has awarded contracts for five passenger vessels, two 972 passenger liners for the American Export Lines, costing $25,000,000 each, and three 230 passenger vessels for the American President Lines, costing $10,000,000 each. It is unnecessary to state that San Francisco and Los Angeles are the home ports for this government-owned steamship line.

From information I have received, the Maritime Commission also is contemplating the construction of a 2,000 passenger super liner estimated to cost $65,000,000, and is discussing also the construction of 12 passenger-cargo ships with no specific cost attached to them at this time. But we find the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company at Quincy, Massachusetts, being awarded the $25,000,000 passenger ships and the New York Shipbuilding Corporation at Camden, New Jersey, the three $10,000,000 ships, and all of this to the entire exclusion of the Pacific Coast. Who will construct the others is unknown However, based upon past performance, it is to be expected that these additional vessels to be awarded by the Maritime Commission will be confined to the small area of the North East Atlantic which yards already are the recipients of huge contracts from private sources The most distant any of these so-called standard yards is the Bethlehem Steel yard at Quincy, Massachusetts All the others are within a few hours ride of this Capitol

It will be interesting for you to know that the following contracts receiving construction subsidy have been let

Bethlehem Steel, Sparrows Point, Maryland
22 tankers 1 bulk ore carrier
Bethlehem Steel, Quincy, Massachusetts
10 tankers 2 $25,000,000 passenger liners
Sun Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co., Chester, Pennsylvania:
15 tankers
New York Shipbuilding Corporation, Camden, New Jersey
3 Round-the-World Passenger Ships
Ingalls Shipbuilding Corporation, Pascagoula, Mississippi
2 dry cargo ships 1 tanker
Newport News, Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation.
11 tankers
American Shipbuilding Company, Lorain, Ohio:
1 bulk ore carrier
Welding Shipyards, Incorporated, Norfolk, Virginia
2 tankers

May I again call your attention to the fact that the West Coast has been completely ignored, shipyards of California, Oregon, and Washington are nowhere to be found on the foregoing list

Hon. Thomas M. Erwin

Carry-over and carry-back of agricultural loss due to weather conditions in connection with federal income tax—No. 3113

DEAR MR ERWIN:

Question

You have asked whether or not losses accruing to farmers on account of recent cold weather conditions may be carried over and carried back as a net operating deduction for purposes of the federal income tax.

Opinion

In our opinion, they may

Analysis

In computing net income for the purpose of the federal income tax, subdivisions (e) and (f) of Section 23 of the Internal Revenue Code permit as a deduction

"In the case of an individual, losses sustained during the taxable year and not compensated for by insurance or otherwise—

(1) if incurred in trade or business, or

(2) if incurred in any transaction entered into for profit, though not connected with the trade or business; or

(3) if property not connected with the trade or business, if the loss arises from fires, storms, shipwreck, or other casualty, or from theft. No loss shall be allowed as a deduction under this paragraph if at the time of the filing of the return such loss has been claimed as a deduction for estate tax purposes in the estate return."

"In the case of a corporation, losses sustained during the taxable year and not compensated for by insurance or otherwise"

Depending on the particular circumstances, the loss occurring to farmers on account of weather conditions might be allowed under one or more of the specified conditions permitted under subdivisions (e) or (f).

If the loss produces an excess of all of the deductions allowed the taxpayer under the Internal Revenue Code over gross income with certain exceptions, additions, and limitations, the taxpayer has a net operating loss, which is required to be used as a net operating loss carry-back for each of the two preceding taxable years and as a carry-over for the succeeding two taxable years (I R C 122)

A net operating loss in any taxable year must first be applied against the second preceding year, then if there is a remainder against the first preceding year, then if there is a remainder against the first succeeding year, and if there is still a remainder against the second succeeding year (I R C. 122)

Extensive provision is made in the Internal Revenue Code for computing the amount of net operating loss which is applicable to each of the years in which it may be taken (I.R.C 122)

To the extent that a net operating loss may be carried over, it may be taken as a deduction from net income in future returns (I R C 23 (s)). To the extent that a net operating loss is carried back, the over-payment resulting therefrom must be credited against any income, war profits or excess profits tax or installment thereof then due from the taxpayer, and any balance must be refunded immediately to the taxpayer (I R C. 322). However unless a claim for credit or refund is made by the taxpayer within the period ending with the expiration of the fifteenth day of the thirty-ninth month following the end of the taxable year of the net operating loss no credit or refund may be allowed (I R C 322).

In addition provision is also made for the extension of time for the payment of subsequent taxes to the extent of anticipated refund if appropriate application is filed (I R C 3779)

Within the year following the taxable year out of which a carry-back arises, the taxpayer may file an application for a tentative carry-back adjustment of the taxes for prior taxable years which application is required to be used as a basis for tentative refund subject to later adjustment (I R C 3780)

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel

RECOMMENDATION OF THE GOVERNOR

In accordance with Article IV, Section 34, of the Constitution, the Governor presented the following communication recommending the passage of Assembly Bill No. 527:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
SACRAMENTO, January 18, 1949

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly
Sacramento, California

GENTLEMEN:

Assembly Bill No. 527, "An act making an appropriation for the purpose of increasing the salaries of state employees, to be expended during the 1948-49 Fiscal Year, to take effect immediately," in my opinion constitutes an emergency bill within the meaning of that term as used in Section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, the consideration of which should not await the final enactment of the Budget Bill.

This bill makes an appropriation as recommended by the State Personnel Board to grant the third round of salary increases to those employees who were not included in the increase granted other employees effective September 1, 1948.

I therefore recommend consideration of Assembly Bill No. 527 as an emergency measure.

Respectfully submitted,

EARL WARREN, Governor

RECOMMENDATION OF THE GOVERNOR

In accordance with Article IV, Section 34, of the Constitution, the Governor presented the following communication recommending the passage of Assembly Bill No. 27:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
SACRAMENTO, January 18, 1949

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly
Sacramento, California

GENTLEMEN:

Assembly Bill No. 27, "An act making an appropriation for support of the Department of the California Highway Patrol for the 1948-49 Fiscal Year, providing for the transfer of such appropriation, to take effect immediately," in my opinion constitutes an emergency bill within the meaning of that term as used in Section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, the consideration of which should not await the final enactment of the Budget Bill.

This bill is in lieu of the appropriation made by Item 188 of the Budget Act of 1948 which omitted reference to the Motor Vehicle Fund, thus inadvertently making the item payable from the General Fund. Under existing provisions of law money was transferred temporarily from the Department of Motor Vehicles to the Department of the California Highway Patrol. This bill does not appropriate additional or new money, but makes possible a return of the money transferred from the Department of Motor Vehicles to reflect the true intention of the Budget Act of 1948.

I therefore recommend consideration of Assembly Bill No. 27 as an emergency measure.

Respectfully submitted,

EARL WARREN, Governor

INTRODUCTION

Since all of us, city and country people alike, ultimately make our living from the soil, it is therefore our Nation's most important resource. Industry and labor and professional people, as well as farmers, have a large stake in the Country's land. Today they are all rightly concerned about America's productive soil and water resources; they realize as never before that these basic resources are linked directly to the future prosperity of the United States. These same resources also have a real bearing on the future of civilization. Food, which comes from the soil, was an important weapon in the winning of the war, and it is becoming increasingly apparent that it is important to winning the peace.

Land, therefore, is our base for everything we do, all we share; in fact, whatever we amount to as a great people begins with and rests on the sustained productivity of our agricultural lands. It goes without saying that what concerns the United States also concerns the great State of California, for, while our land resources have not been damaged to the extent the lands of some other states have, we are not the exception—there is no exception. Our lands have been, and are continuing to be, damaged by erosion and mismanagement. The conservation farming approach to the management of our rich lands is the open door to long sustained production from our basic resource, the land.

On the basis of latest and official United States Department of Agriculture figures the United States suffered the loss, or badly damaged, about two hundred eighty-two million acres of land. California is represented in this figure to the extent of three million acres of land. In the United States another seven hundred seventy-five million acres of our crop, grazing, forest, and other kinds of land have experienced erosion to some extent. California is registered in this figure to the extent of thirty-eight million acres.

In the United States today it is estimated that we are losing by erosion, from both wind and water, for future immediate practical cultivation, about 500,000 acres annually. This is equivalent to about 2,500 farms of 195 acres each.

(The average size farm, according to the United States Farm Census for 1945, is 194.8 acres.) It is also the equivalent to one acre lost from each 12 farms in the United States, or one acre to each 900 acres of cropland.

Since the California State Soil Conservation District Law was passed in February of 1940, 55 districts have been organized. These organized districts embrace over seven million acres of California farm lands, including range, forest, and cropland, or about 25 percent of the State's thirty million acres in farms This represents about thirty-five thousand of the State's 130,000 farms

The following House resolution was passed by the Legislature on June 20, 1947:

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 224

Relative to the creation of the Assembly Interim Committee on Soil Conservation

WHEREAS, It is the declared policy of the Legislature that the conservation of soil is of great importance to the prosperity and welfare of the people of this State; and

WHEREAS, Many of the provisions of the Public Resources Code relating to soil conservation are conflicting and other provisions although not conflicting are in need of clarification; and

WHEREAS, Many problems have arisen relative to formation of soil conservation districts and election of officers thereof, consolidation of such districts which require legislative action; and

WHEREAS, The people of the State look to the Legislature for leadership in the matter and the Legislature requires information based upon an impartial study and investigation of all of the factors involved in order that it may proceed intelligently toward a solution of these problems; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, As follows:

FEDERAL AID

The committee is grateful for the cooperation of Mr. John S. Barnes, Chief Conservationist for the State of California, under the Soil Conservation Service of the United States Department of Agriculture. The committee has been impressed with the splendid work which has been accomplished by this organization in the conservation of our soils and water; and feels that every effort should be expended by the State of California to continue this service, and obtain assistance in many parts of the State which at the present time do not have organized soil conservation districts.

The interest which the farmers themselves are taking in their soil conservation districts indicates the tremendous need of great expansion. The committee has been impressed with the personnel in the Federal Soil Conservation Service. The training which the engineers and conservationists in this service have acquired has made them indispensable in the carrying out of this most important work, which will become more and more apparent as the years go on.

The following statement by Mr Barnes was presented to the Interim Committee on Soil Conservation at its hearing on December 13, 1948, in Berkeley:

"I welcome the opportunity to appear before your committee today and present the viewpoint of the Soil Conservation Service regarding proposed changes in the laws relating to soil conservation and soil conservation districts in California.

"I would like to call the committee's attention to this map of the United States, showing the extent of soil conservation district development up to July 1948. As of that date, there were over 2,000 soil conservation districts in the continental United States, along with 23 grass conservation districts, with similar objectives. These districts contain 748,602,000 acres of land in farms and ranches and over 4,400,000 farms. As of the same date, California had 55 soil conservation districts, including about eight million two hundred fifty thousand acres and 37,000 farms (about six million acres of farm and ranch land are included in these 55 districts). There are large areas of the State, outside of soil conservation districts, which have important soil and water conservation problems. In these areas, little organized effort has been made to bring about soil and water conservation

"The Soil Conservation Service is actively cooperating with 54 soil conservation districts in California We believe the districts are making excellent progress and have demonstrated the effectiveness of this approach in protecting soil resources.

"The service receives many inquiries from farmers outside of soil conservation districts as to what action is necessary to organize districts. When the procedure is explained to them, many have felt that they could not ask their neighbors to spend the time and effort required by the present procedure. Others have started petitions, but became discouraged. Some local groups have gotten into arguments over proposed boundaries and dropped the idea of a district, or the boards of supervisors have denied the requests because of local differences of opinion.

"The increasingly serious water shortage in California is a factor which should be recognized in connection with soil conservation district development. Every district in California, as far as I know, has water problems which include water development, more efficient use of existing water supplies, drainage and flood control. In order that the districts may plan and carry out their programs most effectively, entire watersheds should be included in these districts. It does not appear to be of major importance whether or not an entire watershed is in one district or in several, since a number of districts can work together on the problems of one watershed It is very difficult, however, to carry out an effective watershed program when only part of a watershed is in soil conservation districts.

"The Soil Conservation Service feels that the California Soil Conservation Law should be amended to provide the following:

1. Development of a statewide plan of soil conservation districts so that the boundaries will be determined on a planned basis, considering all pertinent factors.
2. Simplification of the organization procedure which will make it possible to bring the remaining lands of the State into districts at an early date.
3. Removal of certain features of the present law which have proved to be objectionable and have been used but little or not at all.

"We believe the changes which are being proposed at this time by the officers of the State Association of Soil Conservation Districts will accomplish the objectives which appear desirable to the Soil Conservation Service.

"I would like to call the committee's attention to the soil conservation laws of certain other states:

Wisconsin

" 'Section 92 05. Creation of soil conservation districts. When the board of supervisors of any county determines that conservation of soil resources and control and prevention of soil erosion are problems of public concern in the county, and further determines that a substantial proportion of the rural land occupiers of the county favors such a resolution, the said board of supervisors, by a resolution adopted at any regular or special meeting of the board, may declare the county to be a soil conservation district for the purpose of effectuating the legislative policy announced in Section 92.02. These determinations may be made through hearings, petitions, referenda or any other means which the county board deems appropriate. (1937 c. 341; 1939 c. 323)' I understand that in carrying out the provisions of this section of the act, no petitions or referenda have been used.

New Hampshire

"New Hampshire was one of the last states to pass a soil conservation districts law—November 1945. Having studied the acts of the other states, it passed an act creating a district comprising the entire state. Subdistricts are set up for carrying out the work when twenty-five or more owners or operators of land petition the State Committee.

Rhode Island

"This law was passed in 1943 and established three soil conservation districts which include the entire state. The districts became active when the State Committee had determined that a 'substantial number' of the land occupiers of the district were in favor of its becoming active.

New York

"Section No. 5, provides that when the board of supervisors of any county determines that conservation of soil resources and prevention of erosion are problems of public concern to the county, and further determines that a substantial proportion of the rural land occupiers of the county favors such a resolution, the board of supervisors, by a resolution adopted at any regular or special meeting, may declare the county to be a soil conservation district. * * *

"I have copies of these and other state acts in case the committee is interested in further details.

"I have mentioned features of these particular laws because of their similarity to some of the features being proposed by the State Association. It appears that other states have recognized the same problems with which we are faced in California and have adapted their laws to meet the situation.

"Thank you for the opportunity to appear before you today."

RECOMMENDATIONS

A good start has been made on the soil conservation problems of the State, but it is felt by the committee that additional steps should be taken to speed up the work These could well include the following:

Education

Soil and water conservation should be taught in all the elementary and high schools of the State and in all the tax supported colleges. The soil and water resources of this State are of fundamental importance to the future welfare of every boy and girl and this importance should be taught in our Public School System Legislation to bring this about is recommended.

Coordination of Activities of Public Agencies

Close coordination of effort between representatives of public agencies working in soil conservation and allied subjects is essential if farmers are to secure maximum assistance with their soil conservation problems and the public is to receive full value for the tax money expended. That there has not always been full cooperation and coordination of effort has been apparent at certain state commission meetings attended by this committee. Also, statements by representatives of public agencies, which were detrimental to soil conservation districts have appeared in the press and have confused the public. It is recommended that the State Soil Conservation Commission take the leadership in coordinating the efforts of the various agencies to bring about full support and active participation on the part of such agencies in furthering the State's soil conservation program and to assure full support of soil conservation districts. In order to accomplish such coordination it appears desirable for the commission to have sufficient funds to reimburse its members for time spent on necessary commission affairs

Required Changes in State Soil Conservation Act (Division 9, Public Resources Code)

The 55 soil conservation districts in California were organized around local problems and, in many cases, without adequate consideration of broader aspects such as watershed protection and flood control problems. As a result, numerous additions to districts have been made and many boundaries changed time and again.

The present procedure for district organization is very time-consuming and requires an undue amount of work on the part of organizing committees and public officials. It has taken from one to four years to organize individual districts and the organization of many which were begun has failed to materialize because of the cumbersome procedures required.

This committee recommends that the act be amended to provide for a planned system of soil conservation districts throughout the State. This plan should be worked out cooperatively by the State Soil Conservation Commission and local groups, under the supervision of the county boards of supervisors. Also, the procedure for district organization should be simplified so that districts can be created in a shorter time than is now possible. Features of the present act involving land use regulations, taxation and condemnation should be eliminated as little use is made of these features and they tend to cause undue concern regarding the authorities of districts.

State Financial Assistance to Districts

It is felt that the State is not contributing to the soil conservation districts' program to the extent which the importance of the problem justifies. The Federal Government has recognized the importance of California's soils to the Nation by spending some three-quarters of a million dollars annually giving direct assistance to soil conservation districts. The federal funds are inadequate to give all the technical assistance required by farmers in districts in order to put soil conservation plans into effect. State funds are necessary and justified to supplement the federal funds in helping farmers get the practices established and structures built. An appropriation to accomplish this is recommended.

Soil Conservation Pays

Farmers have demonstrated that soil conservation pays directly as well as indirectly. By using their lands for best adapted crops and following soil conserving farming methods individual farm incomes have been increased and more and better quality crops grown. As a consequence they have paid more taxes and brought additional income to many other groups dependent upon farmer prosperity. It is estimated that every public dollar spent for soil conservation is repaid several times over through increased tax returns. However, the most important feature is the saving of our soils for continuous productive use. The State should recognize this through adequate financial support in the same manner as does the Federal Government.

WATER CONSERVATION

In California, soil conservation and water conservation are inseparable. Therefore, while this is a soil conservation committee it is felt that the committee would be remiss in its responsibilities if it did not also point out the importance of water conservation.

Every soil conservation district plans and puts into effect a joint program of soil and water conservation. This program provides for getting as much rainfall into the ground as can be absorbed and the impounding of the remainder behind small dams. As a result, not only is erosion controlled, but water is put to beneficial use. This is particularly important due to the heavy demands upon our water supplies which are already inadequate in many localities.

The water conservation program also includes better use of water through improved irrigation practices. Redesigning of irrigation systems to prevent loss of water by seepage and better field distribution brings about material savings. Land leveling is carried on extensively by soil conservation districts to make more efficient use of water, save labor in irrigation, and secure better yields. Sprinkler irrigation systems are being installed on many farms and are materially reducing the amount of water required and giving better production.

Soil conservation districts have sponsored surface and underground water surveys in cooperation with the State Division of Water Resources to get information essential for planning the best use of available water resources. Districts are carrying on flood control programs designed to reduce flood peaks by holding as much rainfall as possible on the watersheds Other districts are draining wet lands and using the drainage water for irrigation on adjoining dry areas.

In carrying on the water conservation features of the soil conservation districts program it is necessary to use heavy equipment such as bulldozers, draglines, carryalls, etc. Encouragement is given to local contractors to do all of this work which they will undertake. Much of the work is scattered in small jobs on numerous farms and contractors have not been interested. The Federal Government has furnished some heavy equipment to districts for such construction but it has been inadequate to meet the needs. Some districts have been able to get county equipment or funds while others have raised funds for its purchase in one way or another. The committee recommends legislation providing for a State Revolving Fund to finance the purchase of heavy equipment for district use and the cost of which would be repaid from charges collected for its use, where contract equipment is not available to do all required work.

STATE SOIL CONSERVATION UNIT OF GOVERNMENT

This committee feels that the responsibility of the State for maintaining the productivity of its soils justifies the setting up of a unit of State Government specifically designed to carry out a state-wide soil conservation program.

Soil conservation is essentially an action program in which the State gives leadership and guidance to farmers who have organized themselves into soil conservation districts for most effective action. In carrying out this state leadership the program must be fully coordinated with other closely related programs, such as those of the State Division of Water Resources, State Forestry, and various programs of the State Department of Agriculture It therefore appears appropriate to establish a unit of State Government to carry on this activity. It is the recommendation of this committee that the next Interim Committee on Soil Conservation be specifically instructed to make a study of this matter and determine where such a soil conservation unit of State Government should be set up, and to recommend specific legislation to bring about such a unit of government.

The committee believes that consideration should be given to the placing of soil conservation under the State Department of Agriculture; and suggests that during the 1949 Session the members of the interim committee make a complete survey of the possibilities of improving the state soil conservation service under the supervision of this department.

Recommendations by State Soil Conservation Commission for Changes in the Present Act

The committee heartily endorses the fine efforts of Mr. Vince Garrod of Saratoga, California, President of the State Association of Soil Conservation Districts, for his splended cooperation and his untiring efforts in the cause of soil conservation in California. A statement by Mr. Garrod and proposed changes in the act follow:

"In order to form a basis for recommendations to the interim committee by the California Association of Soil Conservation Districts, it is necessary that we review the operation of soil conservation districts and the many suggestions made for furthering the work of soil and water conservation and that of soil conservation districts in California

"At present the soil conservation districts of California are operating under Division 9, Public Resources Code, 1948, of the State of California. These districts are operated by an elected board of directors of farmer-landowners who reside within the district boundaries. The work of the districts is done by agreement with the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Soil Conservation Service, state and local county organizations.

"Funds for the districts are obtained in four ways: (1) by direct taxation of the land within the district for an amount limited by law to 2 percent per $100 assessed agricultural land valuation before improvement; (2) by a direct grant to the districts by boards of supervisors of the major counties they operate in from the general fund of that county; (3) by the rental of equipment to cooperating farmers; and (4) by direct subscription and donations to the district from interested parties.

"Equipment for district operation is obtained by purchase by the district of needed equipment for district operation and by loan to the district from the Soil Conservation Service of certain types of unusual equipment for district use.

"Personnel for the districts are in two categories, one the technical personnel is furnished free to the district through a Memorandum of Understanding by the Soil Conservation Service and clerical and other assistance furnished by the district itself.

"Work that a district may undertake is determined by the district board of directors and carried out under their supervision. They may, when they deem necessary, call on any group or agency to assist them in carrying out their schedule of work.

"If we recognize as one of the basic means for combating soil loss the acre-by-acre treatment afforded the land by soil conservation districts, it becomes evident that if California lands are going to continue to prosper under a bountiful agriculture a program must be initiated that will enable the majority of California's agricultural land to be under a district program (under the present organization procedure this is a very intricate and cumbersome process—slowing down the organization of new districts, allowing valuable time to be lost and also hindering our assisting agencies by limiting their activity in that they cannot secure enough personnel to operate at an efficient rate both for themselves and for the cooperating districts). We have prepared a proposal which is attached for the committee to study and which will, if adopted, we believe simplify our state laws regarding district formation and operation, remove some of the controversial items that have hindered district formation in the past and place soil conservation district structure in every agriculture county of the State. This program is to be activated when the need and interest is shown that will make a district effective.

"The districts of the State feel the very great need for additional technical assistance and at present this assistance is limited due to several reasons. One of them being that the Soil Conservation Service, the cooperating agency furnishing most of the personnel, is limited in funds to the districts organized in the State, no great recognition by the Federal Government being taken as to additions to district, the main criteria being the number of districts in the allocating of federal funds. So in order to have more personnel one of the main changes necessary is to have additional districts formed.

"In this proposal for a change in the law there have been two main deletions from the main law: (1) the provision for 'land use regulations' has been removed. This provision was put in the original law before any districts were formed. The districts can see no use for it other than to raise controversial questions when a district is organized. Technically it is almost impossible to initiate, once it is initiated it will cause so much ill feeling within a district that it is possible to make a district absolutely useless as far as conservation work is concerned. We do not know of a board of directors of farmers that would ever try to initiate it due to the natural distrust of the rural mind for regulations on property which they own, by merely being on the statutes it can do more harm than good. (2) The taxing privilege of districts has also been removed. This was done because it is felt that while there are a few districts exercising this privilege the amount of funds that can be raised is very small. Without a doubt it is much more expensive for the county to collect than the value received by the district. As conservation work has been ruled in the general welfare of the people of a county it is only reasonable to assume that the general fund of the county would be the correct source for funds for district operation if funds are necessary. The funds could be granted outright, and the counties, having no recourse to direct taxes would be saved the expense of calculating and collecting taxes, good will would be obtained within the district, and the urban areas would bear a fair share of the cost of maintaining our land for future use.

"You may wonder how we arrived at such a complete change in the law rather than just minor additions. We appreciate the good work that the interim committee has done for the districts but as you know every session minor and major changes have been requested. We do not wish to appear dissatisfied but after considering the many changes suggested we felt that if this major change in the law could be obtained a great many of the minor difficulties would be removed. As you know some of the suggestions made for current changes in the law have been: A complete change in the State Soil Conservation Commission, making it a board composed of farmer directors entirely; the establishment in the State Government of a Division of Conservation; the setting up of a sum of money to act as a rotating pool from which to finance newly organized districts and to loan money to districts to buy needed equipment and material—this pool to be refunding, not direct grants to the districts; it has been suggested to appropriate a greater sum of money for the state commission to operate with in order that the State can take a greater part in furthering the activities of soil conservation; the methods of organizing new districts under the law are still difficult to follow out, more educational work needs to be done, and once established the districts must have a very pressing problem to attack or there is the possibility that several years will pass before real active work will be undertaken by the board of directors; there is at present no plan or program for the need and organization of districts on the part of the State —no work has been done to determine the relative need for districts in any areas until the farmers become completely aware of their need; there is considerable lack of uniformity between counties as to the administration of district funds, taxation, allocating and use of funds, use of county owned equipment, elections and qualifications for directors; it is not mandatory for the State Soil Conservation Commission to promote soil conservation districts or to investigate any proposed soil conservation districts at present until after it has been passed on by the local county board of supervisors—(the present established soil conservation districts feel that the State has a direct concern in conservation work and as such should take a very direct interest in it, additional funds for the commission are of no importance if the commission is not obliged to assist in the groundwork of the formation of districts).

"We have investigated the laws of several different states regarding the establishment and operation of soil conservation districts and after considering these other laws and the numerous suggestions made for changes in our own laws we arrived at the conclusion that before any great expansion in soil conservation districts in California and before any great participation on the part of the State can be asked, some basic changes in the state law must be requested. We must have a district set-up in the State of California that justifies our agricultural nature before we can rightly expect state and federal aid of the proportion that the conservation work necessary in California requires. Hence, we respectfully submit this suggested revision of our state laws regarding soil conservation districts. We ask that you consider it carefully, weigh its merits, criticize it carefully, make any additions or deletions that you feel necessary, and if you feel it is sufficient, request that the Legislature pass on it.

"It must be noted that this recommendation is not the recommendation of the whole State Association, rather it is one of a committee of the State Association. The State Association will not be in regular session to pass on it until January 29, 1949. The committee has taken the liberty of presenting it to you before ratification because of the fact that the Legislature will convene before the association has time to act officially and also the report of your committee will be necessarily finished before that time It is felt, however, that little question exists as to the conclusion the State Association will reach on this matter—we have incorporated the suggestions made by the districts in what we feel is the best possible manner. The association will support the interim committee in whatever decision it makes and will also assist in the passage of any legislation that is derived from the final recommendation of the interim committee."

A bill to accomplish these changes should be introduced as follows:

ASSEMBLY BILL NO. ------

CHAPTER NO. ------

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Section 9000 of the Public Resources Code is amended to read:

9000. The Legislature hereby declares that the conservation of the soil is of fundamental importance to the prosperity and welfare of the people of this State. Severe pressure has been placed upon the State's soil resources in order to supply the basic food requirements of a greatly expanded population, and the productivity of agricultural, range and forest lands must be preserved and increased if the present standard of living is to be maintained under continuing population increases. Special effort must be made to speed up the present program of soil and water conservation in order to provide for permanent productive use of all remaining resources. To promote such effort, the Legislature believes that the State must assume leadership in formulating and putting into effect a state-wide program of soil and water conservation and hereby declares that the provisions of this division of this code are enacted to accomplish the following purposes:

(a) To provide a means by which the State may cooperate with the United States and with soil conservation districts organized pursuant to this division in securing the adoption in this State of farm, range, and woodland practices and land use best adapted to save the soil resources of the State from unreasonable and economically preventable waste.

(b) To provide for the organization and operation of soil conservation districts comprising all nonurban lands of the State, and such urban areas deemed necessary as hereinafter provided, for the purposes of soil and water conservation, including the improvement of farm irrigation and land drainage, and to provide means for conserving and supplying water for district lands. Such districts, in addition to their other powers, shall have legal authority:

(1) To cooperate with the United States, this State, counties, public districts, other soil conservation districts, persons, associations, and corporations in matters relating to the control of run-off and to soil conservation through the prevention and control of soil erosion.

(2) With the consent of the owner, to construct on privately or publicly owned lands necessary works for the control of run-off and the prevention and control of soil erosion.

SEC. 2. Section 9016 of said code is amended to read:

9016. "Principal county" means the county of which the board of supervisors has jurisdiction over the proceedings on organization of a district, and is the county in which the land described in the petition for organization of a district is situated, or, if the land is in more than one county, the county in which the greatest portion of the area of the land described in the petition is situated. The principal county remains the same regardless of any change in boundaries.

SEC. 3. Sections 9022, 9024, 9025, and 9026 of said code are hereby repealed.

SEC. 4. Section 9027 is added to said code, to read:

9027. "Committee" means the County Soil Conservation Districts Boundary Committee.

SEC. 5. Section 9041 of said code is amended to read:

9041. The commission shall take state-wide leadership in promoting the organization and operation of soil conservation districts.

SEC. 6. Section 9041.5 is added to said code, to read:

9041.5. The commission shall establish and submit to county boards of supervisors standards and criteria for determining soil conservation district boundaries, and shall make suggestions for representation on county soil conservation districts boundary committees.

SEC. 7. Section 9042 of said code is amended to read:

9042. The commission shall receive county soil conservation districts boundary plans submitted by county boards of supervisors as provided in Section 9071 and shall return such plans to such boards of supervisors with its recommendations or suggested modifications.

SEC. 8. Section 9060 of said code is amended to read:

9060. All nonurban lands of each county and such portions of urban areas as are determined advisable, as provided in Section 9072, shall be included in a soil conservation districts boundary plan to be developed in each county.

SEC. 9. Section 9061 of said code is hereby repealed

SEC. 10. Section 9062 of said code is amended to read:

9062 No lands may be included in more than one district.

SEC. 11. Articles 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 of Chapter 3 of Division 9 of said code, comprising Sections 9070 through 9152 are hereby repealed.

SEC. 12. Article 2 is added to Chapter 3 of Division 9 of said code, to read:

Article 2. County Soil Conservation Districts Boundary Committee

9070. Within sixty days from the effective date of this act, each county board of supervisors, hereinafter called the "Board", shall appoint a county soil conservation districts boundary committee, hereinafter called the "Committee", for the purpose of developing a soil conservation districts boundary plan.

9071. The committee shall include one representative of each existing soil conservation district situated wholly or partially within the county, the county assessor or one representative of the county planning commission, if such exists, and one representative of the county district boundary commission, if such exists, and such other local representation exclusive of state and federal agency representatives, but not less than three persons, as determined by the board of supervisors. In addition to such members, the board of supervisors shall elect one of its members to be a member of the committee and he shall serve as its chairman. The board may appropriate funds and establish rates of pay for necessary expenses of the committee.

9072. The committee shall develop a soil conservation districts boundary plan defining the boundaries for districts throughout the county, such districts to include all nonurban lands of the county and such urban areas as the committee, in consultation with city governing bodies, determines should be included. In defining such boundaries, the committee may make whatever changes it deems appropriate in the boundaries of existing districts. The committee may call upon representatives of any local, county, state or federal agency to assist in its work, and it shall consult with like committees of adjoining counties where existing or proposed districts overlap county boundaries, and reach agreements regarding common district boundary recommendations. Within ninety days after its appointment, the committee shall submit its soil conservation districts boundary plan, together with suggested district names, to the county board. In case additional time is required, the committee may request the board for a 30-day extension of time. The committee may be continued as long as the board feels its services are needed, and its members may be replaced by the board when necessary.

SEC. 13. Article 3 is added to Chapter 3 of Division 9 of said code, to read:

Article 3. Approval of Districts Boundary Plan

9101 Upon receipt of the soil conservation districts boundary plan, the board shall determine from such plan whether any of the proposed district boundaries will extend into adjoining counties and, if so, shall furnish the board or boards of any such other county or counties with a copy of the plan. After it has reviewed the plan, the board of the principal county shall submit such plan to the commission.

9102. The commission shall review the proposed districts boundary plan and return it to the board with the commission's recommendations or modifications. Upon receipt of the report of the commission, the board shall, within sixty days, fix a time and place, and give notice thereof, of a public hearing to afford landowners, and other interested persons, an opportunity to make recommendations for final boundary adjustments and changes in district names. It shall notify the board of any other county in which lands of a proposed district may be located in order that such other board, or its representatives, may be present at the hearing.

9103. The notice of the hearing shall be published at least once a week for two successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the principal county and also in some newspaper of general circulation in each county in which a part of the proposed district lies 9104. Following this hearing the board will make such final adjustments between district boundaries and changes in district names as are considered to be in the public's interest. As to those districts which include areas in adjoining counties, the final determination of boundaries shall be made by the board of the principal county upon agreement with the board of any such other county.

SEC. 14. Article 4 is added to Chapter 3 of Division 9 of said code, to read:

Article 4. Establishment of Districts

9110. Within thirty days after the hearing, the board shall, by an order entered in its minutes, declare the establishment of soil conservation districts throughout the county under the names designated. The establishment of the county into soil conservation districts is complete when such order has been entered. The board of any other county into which a part of any such district may extend shall also, within thirty days after the hearing, enter in its minutes an order showing the inclusion of lands of that county within such district or districts. Each board entering such an order shall forward a certified copy thereof to the Secretary of State and to the State Soil Conservation Commission, which shall keep a list showing the boundaries and names of all districts.

9111 The board of the principal county shall, within ten days after the entry of an order declaring a district organized, cause a certified copy of the order to be filed for record in the office of the county recorder of each county in which any portion of the district is located.

SEC. 15. Article 5 is added to Chapter 3 of Division 9 of said code, to read:

Article 5. Proceedings Supplemental to Establishment

9115. Within thirty days of the date on which the establishment of soil conservation districts in the county is complete, the board shall publish a notice to that effect in a newspaper of general circulation throughout the county and also in a newspaper of general circulation in each other county in which a part of a district may lie. These notices shall state that in order for any newly established district to function and to receive assistance from local, county, state and federal agencies, a petition must be presented to the board of the principal county to hold a public meeting for the purpose of organizing the district and selecting an interim governing body consisting of five directors, three to be elected at the public meeting and two to be appointed by the board.

9116. Any twenty-five or more owners of land within a newly established district may petition the supervisors of the principal county in which the district is situated to hold a meeting for the purpose of organizing the district and selecting an interim governing body. Any existing district, the boundaries of which have been changed by the deletion of more than 50 percent of its acreage, will, for the purposes of this section, be considered a newly established district; provided, that such district shall continue to function under its present board of directors until an interim board is selected in accordance with the provisions of this act.

9117. Within thirty days after the receipt of such petition the board shall fix a time and place, and give notice thereof, for the holding of a public meeting. If the district is situated in more than one county, the board of the principal county shall invite the board of such other county or counties, to participate in the meeting.

9118. The notice shall be published at least once a week for two successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the principal county and also in some newspaper of general circulation in each county in which a part of the district lies.

9119. If at the hearing the board determines that there is not sufficient information on the part of landowners to justify organizing the district, the board shall adjourn the meeting and shall, at the next meeting of the board, request the commission to conduct a series of meetings in the district to inform the public of the purposes of the district. In conducting such meetings, the commission may utilize the services of the Agricultural Extension Service, the Soil Conservation Service and other public agencies and may solicit the help of farmers organizations, such as the California Farm Bureau, Grange, livestock associations, and farm cooperatives, in a position to help, and shall utilize any other means, such as press and radio, which it deems appropriate.

9120 If, at the hearing mentioned in Section 9119 above, the board determines that there is sufficient interest on the part of landowners and operators of the district to justify organization of the district, it will ask for a motion for the election of three members of an interim board of directors. After passage of such a motion, nominations for the positions of district directors will be made from the floor. To qualify for such positions, candidates must own lands within the district. At least three candidates must be nominated. If only three are nominated, the chairman will declare the candidates elected, subject to confirmation of their qualifying as owners of land within the district. If more than three candidates are nominated, the chairman will take a vote and the three candidates receiving the largest number of votes will be declared elected. Any qualified elector residing in the district may vote in this election. Within ten days following the election, the board shall appoint two directors, who must also be owners of land within the district. This interim board of directors will function as provided under Article 7 of this chapter and all subsequent elections of directors will be in accordance with Article 8 of this chapter.

9121. All existing districts, the boundaries of which remain unchanged, shall continue to function under the present board of directors; provided, that for those districts the boundaries of which remain unchanged but which have only three directors, the board of the principal county shall appoint two additional directors, one to serve until the next general election and one to serve until the second next general district election, their successors to be elected in accordance with Article 8 of this chapter.

SEC. 16. Section 9160 of said code is amended to read:

9160. The directors first elected or appointed shall take office immediately upon qualifying.

SEC. 17. Section 9164 of said code is amended to read:

9164. After all have qualified, the directors first elected or appointed shall meet and classify themselves by lot into two classes as nearly equal in number as possible. The term of office of those in the class having the least number shall expire at noon on the first Tuesday in March of the next odd-numbered year after the year in which the meeting is held. The term of office of those in the other class shall expire at noon on the first Tuesday in March of the second odd-numbered year after the year in which the meeting is held.

SEC. 18. Section 9252 of said code is amended to read:

9252. The directors may acquire by purchase, lease, contract or other legal means all lands and property necessary to carry out the plans and works of the district.

SEC. 19. Section 9255 of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 20. Section 9261 of said code is amended to read:

9261. The directors shall develop district-wide comprehensive plans for soil and water conservation, including the improvement of farm irrigation and land drainage within the district.

SEC. 21. Section 9280 of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 22. Articles 11 and 12 of Chapter 3 of Division 9 of said code, comprising Sections 9290 through 9325, are hereby repealed.

SEC. 23. Article 12 is added to Chapter 3 of Division 9 of said code, to read:

Article 12. Discontinuance of Organization of Districts

9310. At any time after the organization of a district, the board of the principal county may determine in the manner hereinafter provided that continuance of the functioning of the district is not in the best interest of the people of the district.

9311. A petition requesting that organization of a district be discontinued and signed by not less than one hundred landowners of a district may be presented to the board of the principal county. If any part of the district lies in any other county, the board of the principal county shall notify the board of such other county, or counties, that the petition has been received.

9312. If, upon receipt of this petition, the board of the principal county determines that such petition is sufficient, it shall fix a time and place, and give notice thereof, for public hearing upon such petition. All owners of lands lying within the district, and all other interested persons, shall have a right to attend such hearing and be heard. The board shall also notify the board of any other county in which lands of the district may be located.

9313. The notice shall be published at least once a week for two successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the principal county and also in some newspaper of general circulation in each other county in which a part of the district lies.

9314. The board of the principal county shall transmit to the commission a notice of the receipt of the petition and a copy of the notice on the petition. The commission shall advise the board as to the judgment of the commission regarding the proposed discontinuance.

9315. At the hearing the board shall hear and consider all evidence and testimony in favor of or in opposition to discontinuance, and shall consider the advice of the commission, as well as that of the board of any other county in which any part of the district lies.

9316. If the board denies the petition its action is final.

9317. If the board determines that the operation of the district is no longer in the best interests of the people of the district, it shall enter an order declaring the organization of the district discontinued and thereupon the operation of the district is discontinued.

9318. The board of the principal county shall wind up the affairs of a district the organization of which has been discontinued and may do anything necessary to accomplish that purpose.

9319. Upon the completion of the winding up of the affairs of a district the real property of a district shall become the property of the county in which it is situated. The personal property belonging to the district shall be sold by the board of the principal county and the proceeds of such sale and any other money of the district remaining after the payment of all the obligations of the district shall be paid to the general funds of each of the counties in which any part of the district lies in the proportion which the assessed value of the land in the county bears to the total assessed value of the land within the district as determined by the assessment rolls.

SEC. 24. Article 1 of Chapter 4 of Division 9 of said code, comprising Sections 9350 through 9361, is hereby repealed.

SEC. 25. Articles 1, 2, and 3 of Chapter 5 of Division 9 of said code, comprising Sections 9425 and 9492, are hereby repealed.

SEC. 26. Article 1 is added to Chapter 4 of Division 9 of said code, to read:

Article 1. Regular Funds

9350. The board in each county in which a soil conservation district, or a portion thereof is located may, upon a showing by the directors that funds are needed for the purposes of the district for the current year, appropriate money from the general fund of the county for the use of said district. In appropriating such funds, the needs of all soil conservation districts in the county shall be considered prior to allocating funds to any specific soil conservation district.

SEC. 27. Chapter 8 is added to Division 9 of said code, to read:

CHAPTER 8. CHANGE OF DISTRICT BOUNDARY

9700. Petitions signed by a majority of the members of each of the governing bodies of adjoining soil conservation districts may be filed with the board of the principal county in which the districts lie, asking that the boundary line between such districts be changed. The board shall prescribe the form of such petitions, which shall set out the existing boundary line between such districts and the proposed new boundary.

9701. Within thirty days after such a petition has been filed with the board, it shall fix a time and place, and give notice thereof, of a public hearing upon the question of the proposed change of boundary. All owners and occupants of lands lying within the said districts, and all other interested persons, shall have the right to attend such hearing and be heard. The board shall also notify the board of any other county in which lands of the districts may be located.

9702. The notice shall be published at least once a week for two successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the principal county and also in some newspaper of general circulation in each other county in which a part of the districts may be located.

9703. The board of the principal county shall transmit to the commission a notice of the receipt of the petition and a copy of the notice of hearing on the petition. The commission shall advise the board as to its judgment regarding the proposed change of boundary.

9704. At the hearing the board shall hear and consider all evidence and testimony in favor of or in opposition to the proposed change of boundary, and shall consider the advice of the commission, as well as that of the board of supervisors of any other county in which any part of the districts may be located.

9705. If the board denies the petition its action is final.

9706. If the board determines that the districts within the proposed new boundaries will be administratively practicable and feasible, the board shall enter an order declaring the boundaries changed and setting out the new boundaries, and shall notify the commission and the governing bodies of the districts of its action.

PRELIMINARY REPORT
INTERIM FACT-FINDING COMMITTEE ON WATER POLLUTION

January 19, 1949

MR SPEAKER: There is presented herewith, in preliminary form, a brief summary of the major findings and recommendations of your Fact-Finding Committee on Water Pollution, as authorized and directed under House Resolution No. 27 of the 1947 Regular Session. This preliminary report is presented as a statement of the intent of four bills which will be introduced to implement the committee's recommendations.

The findings and recommendations which are stated represent a nearly unanimous consensus of opinion of all those who have taken part in the extensive hearings and investigations of your committee during the past 18 months As presented in bill form the recommendations will necessarily be brief and incomplete, but as such they are an initial common ground of agreement from which your committee, in a few further hearings, may proceed to build up the complete detail of its recommended legislation The urgency of obtaining action on this complex and critical problem at the 1949 Regular Session of the Legislature is acknowledged by all The possibility of reaching a sound and practical solution of lasting value is increased by approaching the matter in this way, rather than by presenting a completed structure of legislation which has not been fully developed in public hearings.

The purpose, therefore, of this preliminary report is to provide a starting point from which your committee may advance to the complete detail of acceptable legislation for effective and equitable control of water-pollution in California At the time that the bills are amended to their final form, the full report of the committee, including a record of future hearings, and possibly including the formal statements of representatives of the many interested groups, will be presented.

The task of investigation and analysis of the facts surrounding literally thousands of instant cases of pollution or threatened pollution has been difficult and time-consuming. This study of factual details of existing conditions, however, has not only provided the committee with a sound basis for its conclusions, but it has also resulted in actual physical progress toward solution of many critical pollution conditions throughout the State. Your committee wishes to express its grateful thanks to the hundreds of persons, representing the many governmental, agricultural, industrial, and recreational interests involved, for their generous and invaluable assistance which has demonstrated the practicability of a cooperative approach to this problem

Summary of Preliminary Proposals

Existing laws and administrative procedures do not provide for effective and equitable control of water-pollution under present conditions of rapid growth of population in California.

The public health is not protected with sufficient certainty from the effects of sewage-polluted waters.

There is unquestioned and unanimous agreement between everyone concerned in this problem that whatever changes are made in our laws must strengthen the power of the State to insure complete protection of the people from the spread of communicable disease or poisoning by polluted water.

Maximum usefulness of the water resources of the State is impaired by the effects of unreasonable practices in the disposal of sewage and industrial waste; at the same time economic development of the State is being jeopardized by undue restriction on the reasonable use of land and water for necessary waste disposal purposes.

The tremendous growth of population in California demands planning for a supporting balance of industry and recreational facilities, without damage to existing agricultural development. Protection of our water resources, and provision for maximum use and reuse of water, is the most important factor in that planning.

Therefore, to insure effective abatement of water-pollution and equitable control of waste-disposal practices, existing laws should be amended to accomplish the following purposes:

1. To strengthen existing laws for protection of the public health from effects of water-pollution by providing clear distinction between conditions which justify emergency action, and those which are subject to orderly and planned corrective procedures, by amendment of the Public Health and Safety Laws.

a. To provide for emergency and peremptory action to abate pollution which constitutes an imminent threat to the public health through spread of communicable disease or poisoning; such action to be the peremptory order of the State Department of Health or the local health authority for specific emergency measures;

b. To provide for emergency action to correct pollution conditions which are causing permanent and irreparable damage to surface or underground waters; such action to be injunctive relief, with court order for emergency measures pending adjudication;

c. To provide that in all other matters, which do not constitute imminent hazards as stated above, action for correction, prevention or control of water pollution shall be taken in full cooperation with all local governmental agencies or other parties at interest; to provide that such action shall be based upon separate consideration of the local conditions of land and water use, and shall include consideration of all economic factors involved;

d. To provide statutory authority to enable the State Health Department to recognize the jurisdiction of a local agency, and accept its actions as sufficient under this law in any particular pollution problem;

e. To alter present practices concerning "permits" for sewage and waste disposal by provision that the agency having jurisdiction shall state its requirements in terms of specific conditions to be maintained, and to provide that the agency may make a report to any community or industry as to the types of alternative treatment procedures which may accomplish this, and shall make such report when requested, and may obtain from the community or industry any information relative flows, processes or other facts only so far as necessary to evaluate the potential hazards involved;

f. To provide in the law that prime responsibility for proper disposal of waste rests with any agency operating a community or cooperative waste collection system; and to provide that action against contributors to such system may be taken only after failure of action against the responsible agent, and only in matters of imminent hazard to the public health, or permanent damage to a natural resource;

g. To provide for extension of processes of eminent domain so that necessary lands and rights of way for sewerage works may be taken and entered upon while condemnation proceedings are in progress;

h. To perfect the laws relating to certain public domestic water supplies, particularly the so-called "small" water systems and the water supplies of resorts, camps, etc., to make possible practical action by state or local health authorities to insure complete protection of those water supplies from pollution by sewage.

2. To coordinate the action of the many governmental agencies and private interests concerned in pollution control by creation of a State Pollution Control Board, and seven regional pollution control boards for the seven major drainage areas of the State; the regional boards to be composed of five persons representative of city government, county government, industry, agriculture, and the public at large; the elected chairmen of each of the regional boards to hold membership on the State Pollution Control Board, along with the directors of the State Departments of Natural Resources, Public Health, Public Works, and Agriculture.

The regional boards to have the duty to obtain coordinated action, through formal or informal meetings of all interested parties, with respect to all matters concerning water-pollution, its abatement, prevention and control; to have the duty to encourage and assist in effecting self-policing waste disposal programs for industry; to have the power to call upon any state or local agency for inspection, for determination of technical factors involved, or for other report; to have the power to request enforcement action from any state or local agency; to have the power to hold hearings and make rulings relative to any of the points at issue in problems of pollution control, except matters related to imminent hazard to the public health; to have the duty and authority to formulate and adopt long-range plans and policies with respect to all matters of water-pollution control within the watersheds of the region; to have the duty to recommend to the State Pollution Control Board projects which are considered eligible for any financial assistance which may be made available through the state board; to provide for review by the courts of rulings of the regional boards.

The State Pollution Control Board to act in an advisory capacity to the regional boards; to have the duty to formulate over-all state policy for water-pollution control with due regard to programs adopted by the regional boards, and to make recommendations to appropriate state agencies to effect such policies; to have the duty to administer any program of state financial assistance for pollution control which may be assigned to it by law, and to have the power to accept funds from the Federal Government or from any other source for disbursement as loans or grants for assistance in pollution control; to have the power to administer any state program of research in technical problems of water-pollution control which may be assigned to it by law, and to have the power to accept funds from the Federal Government, or from any other source, for disbursement to state or local governmental agencies, or to any other agency, for this purpose.

3. To assist communities in the solution of fiscal problems which presently impede sewerage improvements, by provisions to liberalize laws relating to limitations on taxation for public sewerage improvements, and/or to provide a source of state funds to be used to assist in construction of required sewage treatment plants by communities; such state funds to be administered by the State Pollution Control Board, with due consideration given to the recommendations of the regional boards, and on the basis of the urgency of each particular pollution control problem; the administration of such funds to allow for deferred repayment agreements, or other means for equalization to be applied in those cases where, because of unusual conditions, a high degree of treatment is required and the cost of the necessary works is greater than can be currently supported by the local development; to provide for appeals from orders establishing sewer rentals or sewer service charges before the regional boards and the state board, the state board to have access to services of the State Public Utilities Commission in such an appeal and determination; to provide that any industry, located in any city or district of any type may proceed with its own resources to dispose of its wastes separately from the community, and in such event shall not be subject to assessment of either taxes or rentals or service charges for support of the community sewerage facilities.

4. To provide for a continuing survey of the quality of the water resources of the State, including all surface and underground waters; such survey to be conducted by the Division of Water Resources, Department of Public Works, with the duty to report to the State Pollution Control Board upon the conditions found, and upon the sources of pollution of whatever nature; to provide that the division shall prepare and submit recommendations to the state board as to any possible steps which may be taken to correct or prevent a condition of pollution from natural causes, and upon request of any of the regional pollution control boards shall make special studies of water quality in specified localities, which studies may include matters relating to a specific disposal problem, or to the use of reclaimed water for recharge of underground basins, or to good practice for construction of wells in any locality, or to methods for sealing of abandoned wells, or to any matters relating to water-quality control; to provide that the division shall at all times immediately recommend to the State Pollution Control Board, and to the appropriate regional board, minimum standards for well-construction practices in any particular locality, whenever in its opinion the quality of the underground water in that area may be adversely affected by failure to use such methods; to provide that the state board, after due hearing before the appropriate regional boards, and upon recommendation of the regional board, may by issuance of an order establish minimum standards for well construction in a particular locality; to provide for registration of existing wells, and the registration and filing of the logs of newly constructed wells with the division.

It is recognized by your committee that there are many specific details of existing laws and administrative procedures which are debatable as to their effect upon the progress of pollution abatement and control. To appraise such minor matters now would be unwise, in the opinion of your committee, since it is felt that a solution to most of those problems will be found in due course of events when the major steps which have been outlined are placed into operation.

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Dr Torrance Phelps:

God of Rectitude May we strengthen in this moment our love of right and adoration of the ideal, so we shall be able to resist the allurements of evil.

Let us see how the sins of selfishment and passion, to which multitudes surrender, cause many problems with which we wrestle here, and the crime that burdens society

May we see how temptations spring like beasts of prey upon the unwary, and mortally wound or degrade them in body and soul

When temptations suddenly assail us, clothed in enticing colors, may we think of the sorrowful consequences to ourselves, to the family that loves us, and to the community that needs our integrity

Day by day, may we exercise the habit of overcoming every temptation, so that we shall do right without hesitation or reservation, and acquire the blameless and unselfish character which is the basis of domestic and social stability —AMEN

ASSEMBLY CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, January 20, 1949

MR. SPEAKER. Your Committee on Rules, to which was referred

A communication from Legislative Counsel dated January 17, 1949, addressed to the Honorable Ralph C. Dills, subject: "Immunity in Legislative Proceedings" (No. 2957). Has had the same under consideration, and reports the same back with the recommendation: Be printed in Journal.

DICKEY, Chairman

COMMUNICATION ORDERED PRINTED IN JOURNAL

Pursuant to recommendation of the Committee on Rules, the following communication from the Legislative Counsel was ordered printed in the Journal.

Opinion of Legislative Counsel

OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

Hon. Ralph C. Dills
Assembly Chamber

Immunity in Legislative Proceedings—No. 2957

DEAR MR. DILLS: You have asked us to inform you as to when and under what circumstances a witness before a legislative committee obtains immunity in connection with his testimony, and what a committee can do to prevent such immunity from attaching.

It is our opinion that.

(1) The immunity extends to every person "sworn and examined before a legislative committee";

(2) The immunity extends only to "any fact or act touching which he is required to testify";

(3) The immunity does not extend to volunteered testimony; and

(4) The immunity is a personal privilege and may be waived by the witness

Section 9410 of the Government Code which provides for immunity to a witness before a legislative committee reads.

> 'A person sworn and examined before the Senate or Assembly, or any committee, can not be held to answer criminally or be subject to any penalty or forfeiture for any fact or act touching which he is required to testify. Any statement made or paper produced by such witness is not competent evidence in any criminal proceeding against the witness. The witness can not refuse to testify to any fact or to produce any paper touching which he is examined for the reason that his testimony or the production of the paper may tend to disgrace him or render him infamous. Nothing in this section exempts any witness from prosecution and punishment for perjury committed by him on examination."

It will be noted that the witness, under this section, is not entitled to immunity until (1) he is sworn and examined, and (2) is "required" to testify. The latter provision implies some degree of compulsion, and there is some uncertainty in the decisions as to just when a witness is "required" to testify. It has been held that a witness must expressly claim the immunity and that if he fails to do so the testimony is not regarded as being under compulsion (United States vs. Skinner, 218 Fed 870; see also People vs. Eiseman, 78 Cal. App 223), but other cases imply that any witness who is sworn is required to testify and acts under compulsion (See People vs Schwarz, 78 Cal App. 561.).

The safe procedure for any committee to adopt to avoid granting immunity to a witness is to make it plain, on the record, that his testimony is voluntary. If the testimony is voluntary, the witness does not come within the statute, and the immunity does not attach (In re Connolly, 16 Cal. App 2d 709). The immunity granted is personal to the witness, and can be expressly waived by him

Very truly yours.

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel

Thou hast richly endowed this land with men of organizing and inventive genius sufficient to abolish poverty and provide food, shelter and culture for all.

Now may we have the insight, the patriotism and the solicitude for family welfare that can use these fabulous resources to fulfill mankind's undying dream of a Kingdom of Abundance.

May it be our glory to stand, like the discoverers on the rim of a new world, and to have an epochal part in the hastening of the Golden Age.—AMEN.

RECOMMENDATION OF THE GOVERNOR

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
SACRAMENTO, January 24, 1949

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly
Sacramento, California

GENTLEMEN:

Assembly Bill No. 425, "An act to amend Section 781 of the Vehicle Code, relating to disposition and transfer of moneys from the Motor Vehicle Fund, declaring the urgency thereof, to take effect immediately," in my opinion constitutes an emergency bill within the meaning of that term as used in Section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, the consideration of which should not await the final enactment of the Budget Bill.

While this bill does not in itself make an appropriation, the Legislative Counsel has suggested that as a matter of safety there should be a letter from the Governor authorizing the Legislature to consider the bill prior to enactment of the Budget Bill The bill does not change the amount of money which the Division of Highways will receive. It merely provides that the apportionment from the Motor Vehicle Fund to the Highway Users Tax Fund may be quarterly instead of annually.

I therefore recommend consideration of Assembly Bill No. 425 as an emergency measure.

Respectfully submitted,

EARL WARREN, Governor

By Messrs. Brown, Weber, and Stanley:

House Resolution No. 46

Relative to memorializing the President and the Congress of the United States to effect legislation which will enable the Civil Aeronautics Administration to prohibit the taking off of aircraft from airports during periods of poor visibility.

WHEREAS, There have recently occurred several serious aircraft accidents in Seattle, Washington, Portland and other areas during periods of poor visibility; and

WHEREAS, These accidents have resulted in the deaths and injuries of many persons, thereby causing tremendous losses to the air transportation industry due to lack of public confidence in air transportation because of such accidents; and

WHEREAS, It is believed these accidents were caused by take-offs from airports during weather conditions of poor visibility; and

WHEREAS, The Civil Aeronautics Administration does not have authority under the presently existing laws to prevent aircraft from taking off during periods when visibility is below the legal minimum; and

WHEREAS, If granted such authority it is believed that many of the recent tragic aircraft accidents could have been prevented; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Assembly of the State of California, That the President and the Congress of the United States be memorialized to effect and enact legislation authorizing the Civil Aeronautics Administration to prohibit the taking-off of aircraft from airports during periods when visibility is less than the legal minimum; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly is hereby directed to transmit copies of this resolution to the President and Vice President of the United States, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States, and to each Senator and Representative from the State of California.

Resolution read, and adopted.

By Mr. Lindsay:

House Resolution No. 52

Relative to commending the Auburn Sierra Rangers for their study and Report on the Overland Emigrant Road through Donner Pass

WHEREAS, The Overland Emigrant Road through Donner Pass was the principal route used by wagon trains during the early period of the Gold Rush and is for that reason an extremely important part of the early history of California; and

WHEREAS, The Auburn Sierra Rangers have undertaken the task of locating and marking this historic road, which the passage of time has largely obscured; and

WHEREAS, The Report of the Auburn Sierra Rangers on the performance of this task is so rich in details of historical interest that it is incorporated in full as a part of this resolution.

Report on Overland Emigrant Road

The Overland Emigrant Road over the Sierra Nevada at Donner Pass carried more wagons and more people to California in the Gold Rush of 100 years ago, than any other wagon trail then in use by California Pioneers.

It was first traveled when a wagon train guided by the Indian Truckee, and Captained by Elisha Stevens proved the route with 10 wagons and many horsemen in December, 1844. The wagon tracks of the Stevens Party were followed by others in following years.

Then came the tragedy which indelibly wrote the name Donner on this mountain pass through the Sierra. The Donner Party were following the tracks of other parties who preceded them in 1846. At this time, and later during 1849 and the early 'fifties, the pass was known as Truckee Pass and the lake as Truckee Lake.

The early winter of 1846, which brought deep smothering snows to the Sierra Nevada beginning on the last day of October, caught the careless, slow traveling Donner Party as the victim of a tragedy of cold and starvation. It has impressed the Donner name ever deeper into the fabric of names and places in this portion of the mountains as time rolls by. The location of their most forward camp has been thoughtfully preserved by the Donner Memorial Monument and the Donner Lake California State Park.

During the period of our western emigration, it was the common custom of travelers to keep written diaries of the daily incidents of their trip. Therefore, our libraries and historical collections today have many of the original manuscript diaries, or published copies of them, which are accurately descriptive of the road traveled and its location with relation to the present geographical features we are familiar with By study of a number of these personal records, members of our organization in this region have been able to accurately mark the route of the Overland Emigrant Road from Donner Lake to the old Johnson Rancho, in the Sacramento Valley. This Overland Road was the principal route used by Gold Rush wagon trains to California, and carried the great load of the over-the-plains travel to California from 1848 to 1852. In 1852, toll road improvements on the Donner Summit took the wagon wheels from the old tracks to better grades.

Marking the route is admirable and important, but today the old Overland Road can again render new service to the rapidly expanding population of California. There is great need of an open recreational riding and hiking trail to cross the Sierra, that is removed from congested and dangerous traffic on over-crowded highways. The route of the old Emigrant Road is best located to serve this requirement, and adds to the advantages of location, the absorbing historical interest of all Californians, which attaches to the greatest of all roads to the Gold Rush of '49. The Overland Emigrant Road should be opened for such use as a project of the State, and developed under the Riding and Hiking Trails Program of the State Park Commission.

The beneficial character of this proposal has been recognized by the member clubs belonging to the Sacramento Region of the California Horsemen Association, and endorsed by them for state approval during this Centennial Year of 1949.

It is believed the actual work of opening this trail on the old Emigrant Road would be assisted in a considerable measure by the Tahoe National Forest on the portion from Mule Springs to Donner Lake, as most of it lies on national forest land.

In the work which has been done to locate and sign this road of the pioneers, our people have accumulated many old records and notes of the past. A few of these may be interesting, and are quoted here for your information.

The Donner Camp by an Eye Witness

From the John Markle Diary of 1849, the original of which is in Auburn, comes the following, dated August 20, 1849 "Tonight we camped in a valley at the base of the mountain, about 3/4 of a mile east of Truckee Lake. Today we passed the valley where Donner encamped, and where his cabins were. There are a number of fragments left, but more human bones than anything else It was 6 miles before we came to where the Graves family wintered, and to the Foster and Breen's cabins just beyond They present a gloomy appearance, and with old clothes, which were worn by females, and also long female hair, which appeared as if it had fallen from the head, and any quantity of bones in and around the cabin"

Crossing the Summit

E Douglas Perkins wrote in his diary of 1849, which is now in the Huntington Library, "the ascent to the pass from the Donner cabins is about 5 miles, as the road was very winding in finding a passage thru the trees and rocks. At 3 o'clock we arrived at the foot of the terrible passage over the backbone The pass is thru a slight depression in the mountains, about 1500 feet lower than the tops of the mountains in its immediate vicinity. As we came up to it, the appearance was like marching up to an immense wall, and the road goes up to its very base, before turning short to the right, and then ascends by a track in the side of the mountain, when about ¼ of the distance from the top, it turns left again, and goes directly over the summit In a distance of about ½ mile, I judge this steep climb covers an elevation somewhere near 2000 feet. We rested ½ hour at the top, and went down into the valley to camp."

Mountain Lakes

Both the Markle and Perkins Party camped in Summit Valley. The next day both of them mentioned a group of lakes on the road Markle says, "They are six in number. The water in them is cool and perfectly clear They average a mile or two in length, and from 400 to 500 yards in width." Perkins speaks in addition of a lofty and solitary rocky peak This is today called Devil's Peak Beyond the lakes, the road turned sharp down the side of the mountain to the valley of the South Yuba. Markle said it is the "infernalest roughest road that ever was traveled. The last mile was so steep we had to check down with ropes." Perkins says "Camp was down an almost perpendicular descent, where the wagons are let down with ropes, and trees at the top are cut and marked deeply by the friction."

Along the Yuba

All speak of a location in the granite rock along the Yuba, where again they had to rope down a short distance The tree used to check the wagons down this granite slope, was located by our sign party, and the marks of the rope observed This is only 200 yards from Rainbow Tavern on the north bank of the Yuba River. Below it, on the trail to Big Bend Ranger Station, are trees notched deeply where bumped by the hubs of emigrant wagons, and old rusty marks in the granite where marked by the iron tires and hub caps of emigrant wagons. A number of oxen shoes were found by the Sign Party along the route of the old road from Big Bend Ranger Station, where the old road crossed the Yuba and took to the south bank, and southwesterly around a steep hill to the flat valley of the present Auburn Ski Club location. Below the Cisco Road, the old road turns sharp up a rocky shelf, where all the wagons were compelled to travel in the same tracks, and where the rock is deeply scored with parallel wagon tracks It again drops in to the flat along the river at Indian Springs, and then climbs directly up the ridge to Crystal Lake Half way up this climb is the place where young Stanton of the Donner Party died from exhaustion, after so bravely guiding help and assistance to the snow bound camp from Sutters Fort.

Emigrant Gap to Bear Valley

All along this portion, the road is again clearly defined, by red rust from the wagon tracks, among the granite ledges and boulders. Beyond Crystal Lake at the pass into Six Mile Valley is a place where many emigrants were forced to abandon their wagons. M. A. Kelly of Newcastle stated he saw them there in 1858. A short distance below is a cottonwood tree blazed 1847. On the road beyond Carpenter Flat the Emigrant Road passed thru the famous Emigrant Gap, to Bear Valley. The old Emigrant Gap is now covered by a 90 foot railroad fill. Markle states "in descending to the valley, there is a very steep hill where we let down with ropes for ¾ of a mile. The trees are much worn by the friction of the ropes. We camped at the lower end of the valley, and mowed grass for our stock."

Fremont's Camp

Near the top of the ridge beyond Bear Valley is a limb stripped cedar tree which John C. Fremont used as a flag pole for one of his camps. It is probably the first place in the mountain region to fly the Stars and Stripes. Nearby are two massive cedars, one of which marks the grave of a '49er Not far beyond Fremont's Flag Pole is the location of Mammoth Springs, where a 16 year old emigrant girl, Eliza Ann McAulay wrote in her diary of 1851, "This is most delicious water."

The Mother Pine and Mule Springs

Beyond Springfield Flat, which was reached by some of the survivors of the Donner Party, is the famous Mother Pine, which was recorded by many members of emigrant trains as the largest pine tree ever seen by them in California. This was a gigantic sugar pine 13 feet in diameter and with a circumference then of 48 feet. Many years later, two men of Lowell Hill sought shelter under the Mother Pine during a winter storm, and to warm their chilled bodies, they built a fire in the hollow of the tree. Their fire spread up the trunk, and in a few hours the Mother Pine became a dead tree, and now is only a tall blackened stump. From the Mother Pine, the Emigrant Road leads over the shoulder of a hill to Mule Springs in a beautiful meadow, which was used in 1846 as the base of operations by the rescuers of the Donner Party. The name of a party of Mormons is retained at Mormon Springs, where two of them were buried at the base of a large black oak.

Steep Hollow and Storm's Ranch (Now Chicago Park)

West of Liberty Hill the road passes over the Camel Humps, and into Steep Hollow, which was named from the diary record of Edwin Bryant when he stated in 1846, that "We entered a Steep Hollow by a descent so steep for a mile and a half, that our animals slid rather than walked down it." Beyond the Greenhorn, were the famous ranches of Ben Taylor, who brought the first horse herd of good blood to California, and the well known Storm's Ranch, which came into prominence when United States Troops and State Volunteers rounded up the Indian followers of Chief Wemah at this ranch, and deported them to Mendocino County, with Storm as the first Indian Agent in California.

On part of the old Storm Ranch is now located the town of Chicago Park, Nevada County. It is at this place that the old Overland Emigrant Road, leading eastward over the Sierra, intersects with the present route of the State Riding and Hiking Trail.

In the present State System of Riding and Hiking Trails, there are trails through passes of the Coast Range Mountains, which provide for travel between the counties of the Coast and of the Central Valley.

No riding or hiking trail in the state system now supplies the need in the system for a trail to reach the mountain and recreational regions in the counties eastward of the Sierra. We desire to point out that the addition of the route of the old Overland Emigrant Road will answer this requirement in the most central portion of the State, in that it leads directly to the Lake Tahoe country, and the recreational regions north and south along the eastern border of California. It is especially desirable for riding and hiking purposes, in that this route is truly a trail in scenic and historical surroundings, and is not a part of present motor roads or highways. Riding and hiking parties on a state trail, to follow the Overland Emigrant Road would have protection from traffic hazards Only three highway crossings would exist, and they are direct crossings, without requiring travel on shoulders or the adjoining right of way

Since it is reasonable for the use of our people to provide this route in the State Trail System, and desirable to preserve to all future generations of state citizens the opportunity to see and know intimately the road traveled by the pioneers over the California mountains, we ask your support to this legislation. Here 100 years after the wagons rolled over mountains, you can see the marks of the wagon tracks over the rocks If the route is marked and preserved in right of way now, then in future generations these marks of wagon travel will remain for other hundreds of years The signs in iron stains and rock wear where the wagon wheels rolled, are imperishable, if retained for use as an over mountain trail. The memory and record can be lost, if other kinds of development should block access, and knowledge of the original road location forgotten Inclusion in the State Trail System now, will preserve it forever

If you desire some information in a short description of the Overland Emigrant Road as traveled from Storm's Ranch to the Sacramento Valley at Johnson's Rancho, then you may be interested in this Addenda for that purpose.

To Camp Far West and Johnson's Rancho

Beyond Windy Hill, to the west of Chicago Park, and down the old Emigrant Road, is the location where Edwin Bryant wrote, on August 30, 1846, "After rising and descending a number of hills from the summit of one more elevated than the others surrounding it, the spacious Valley of the Sacramento burst upon our view."

After descending to the valley along the watersheds of South Wolf Creek and the north bank of Bear River, the Emigrant Road approaches the side of old Camp Far West, a small Army post maintained in 1849 and 1850. It is located on a slight, rocky bluff overlooking Bear River about two miles east of the site of Johnson's Rancho.

Saved from destruction is a small cemetery, used jointly by the people of Johnson's Rancho and the military post, in the period from 1844 to 1856. It is occupied by 18 graves, mostly Soldier victims of Indian raids and disease, generally malaria. One little girl, Betsey Parker, occupied a brick lined grave in the corner of the plot. All are unmarked and lost to memory, except for a common monument erected there in 1911 by the Native Sons of the Golden West.

Two miles beyond the mountain section of the Overland Emigrant Road terminates in the Valley of the Sacramento, at Johnson's Rancho, 34 miles east of the present Town of Wheatland. The small adobe buildings are gone without a trace. Today, only a mammoth oak remains to mark the resting round of the emigrant trains, and the grassy site of a once huge spring. Nearby is the worn track where the wagons pulled down the bank for the crossing of Bear River and the valley road to Sutters Fort.

AUBURN SIERRA RANGERS

Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Auburn Sierra Rangers are commended on their fine work in locating and marking the Overland Emigrant Road and on the excellence of their report; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly is requested to send a copy of this resolution to the President of the Auburn Sierra Rangers.

Resolution read, and adopted.

BUDGET MESSAGE BY GOVERNOR EARL WARREN
1949-1950 BUDGET

To the Senate and Assembly of the State Legislature of California:

In compliance with the provisions of the State Constitution and the needs of the State, I present herewith for your consideration the budget representing my estimate of expenditures to be made, and revenues required, by the State of California during the next fiscal year.

The total of this budget is $1,060,187,939—an increase of $140,244,652 over the budget which I submitted for the current fiscal year.

The total in the normal sense is actually $912,278,995. The sum of $147,908,944 budgeted for capital outlay will be paid out of moneys saved since 1943 for building purposes It is not necessary, therefore, to consider this amount in connection with tax needs.

Tremendous as the budget total may be it will become evident that, exclusive of items for critically needed buildings under the program just mentioned, only $233,638,000 in General Fund appropriations affecting taxes were in any sense subject to my control.

Analysis of the budget will reveal that it includes $153,262,000 of increased expenditures for school and social welfare traceable to initiative measures approved by the voters during the past two years. As a matter of fact, one-third of this budget, or $350,589,000, represents school apportionment and welfare programs required by constitutional provisions approved by the voters at the general elections in 1946 and 1948.

This budget reflects for the first time the action of the voters in approving Proposition No. 4 at the November 2, 1948, election. Proposition No. 4, in budget terms, means that $88,767,000 has been added to our expenditures for old age and blind assistance next year In addition the sum of $29,468,000 is required to operate the program between January 1 and June 30 of this year. This means that, to the extent of $29,468,000, balances that might have been used to finance requests in this budget will not be available. In total, the additional cost to the State of Proposition No. 4 will be $118,235,000 up to July 1, 1950.

This is the budget of a State striving to service the needs of 10,350,000 people—a budget which must of necessity serve more people than heretofore and also reflect the increase in housekeeping cost now affecting every growing institution, both public and private.

Population increase has been a dominant influence behind the increased cost of government in California in the past six years. Growth continues as the principal factor in determining state expenditures. It is found in this budget translated into requests for more funds for education, state hospitals, prisons, public health, highways, the regulation of motor vehicles, and the construction of long needed buildings to house these important functions of State Government.

In terms of the total budget dollar, 30 2 cents will be expended for education, 20.0 cents will go for social welfare and public health; 19.4 cents for roads, streets, highways, and the regulation of motor vehicles; 8 9 cents for hospitals, correctional schools, and prisons; 5 1 cents for conservation and development of agriculture, water, and other natural resources; and 16 4 cents for all other state activities.

For some time we have believed that the State Budget might be more easily understood if it were presented in the three important units in which it naturally divides itself. Therefore, this year we are showing separately the totals for State Operations, Capital Outlay and Local Assistance. It so happens this year that there has been a major transfer of obligations from Local Assistance to State Operations which is brought clearly into focus by this new method of budget presentation The State Operations Budget has been sharply increased and the Local Assistance Budget has been decreased as a result of Proposition No. 4 which transferred all old age assistance and needy blind costs to the State

		Amount
I	State Operations Budget	$428,672,779
II.	Capital Outlay Budget	241,122,553
III.	Local Assistance Budget	390,392,607
	Total	$1,060,187,939

State Operations Budget

The Budget for State Operations amounts to $428,672,779. Excluding the amounts which must be provided as a result of voter liberalization of the social welfare program, the Operations Budget total amounts to $262,367,000 as compared with $234,821,000 for the current year—an increase of $27,546,000. This increase is occasioned in the main by salary adjustments and the still increasing volume of service made necessary by our mounting population. We have made many improvements in the quality of state service during recent years, but I am making only moderate recommendations for such improvements this year in order to present as economical a budget as possible under the circumstances.

The increase in administration cost for the Social Welfare Department is not included in the $27,546,000 but will be found included in the cost of Proposition No. 4, as mentioned above. A deficiency appropriation of $3,075,323 is required to cover administrative cost of the State Department of Social Welfare until June 30 1949, the end of the current fiscal year.

Salary Adjustments

Pursuant to House Resolution No 80 of the 1948 Legislature the State Personnel Board has made a detailed comparison of state salaries with those paid by private industries and other governmental agencies. It recommended a 5 percent adjustment, effective September 1, 1948, and has used available funds to provide such an increase for 18,000 employees in the lower salary brackets.

In order to extend the 5 percent increase to other classes where adjustments are due, the sum of $1,800,000 should be made available immediately from the State General Fund to be paid on a retroactive basis to September 1st. I recommend a deficiency appropriation in this amount. There is included in the budget $5,300,000 necessary to continue these increased salaries through 1949-1950

You also have before you a report of the State Personnel Board and its recommendation for a special salary increase fund to be available in the event of a further general increase in salaries and wages in private business I concur in this recommendation and have included a General Fund appropriation of $5,600,000 for this purpose on condition that the fund shall be used only if and when studies of the Personnel Board show the necessity of further salary increases to maintain state salaries on a parallel with those in private industry. No legislative appropriation will be necessary for special fund agencies, since amounts can be made available by executive order, if salary increases are approved.

Other major increases which I am recommending in the State Operations Budget, and the reasons therefor, follow·

1. Education: Provision is made for the expenditure of $48,171,321 for operation of state educational institutions, the Department of Education and other educational activities. (Apportionments to the Public School System which amount to $196,250,900 are not included in this item.) This total contains an increase of $7,561,422 over current operating expenses Of this increase, $5,519,296 is for the University of California. Explanation of the increase is found in items dealing with the amount and quality of education offered by the State. Some provision is made for larger teaching staffs in relation to enrollments and for an increase of courses available at both the University of California and the state colleges. A new law school and college of engineering at Los Angeles, extension of agricultural courses at Davis and the Fresno State College, and expansion of the agricultural research program contribute to the total. The largest single item of increase is $1,000,000 required to offset student fees formerly paid by the Federal Veterans' Administration under the GI Bill of Rights

2 Mental Hygiene: Provision is made for the expenditure of $34,223,959 which represents an increase of $1,366,390 over current expenditures The increase is recommended in accordance with the needs of an additional 2,200 patients and to carry on a program to improve the standards of care provided for all persons in our mental institutions The department is now in the third phase of a carefully worked out program designed to improve the ratio of medical and nursing personnel to patients. Until adequate facilities can be provided to house all of the 37,500 persons in our mental institutions and the 2,200 net increase anticipated each year, we must give extra supervisory attention to the conditions provoked by overcrowding If we are to fulfill our responsibility to operate our institutions under an enlightened program, the improvement program now under way must be completed

3. Corrections: Provision is made for the expenditure of $15,207,460—an increase of $638,669 over current expenditures. Factors to be considered in connection with the increase are the operation of additional facilities and an estimated 884 increase in the number of inmates. During the last two years we have followed a policy of replacing convict workers in our institutions with free personnel where confidential records or prison safety are involved. This program is carried to completion in this budget. It is recognized that a delicate balance exists between the direct economy of a liberal parole policy and the potential cost of releasing convicts not ready for, or incapable of, leading a normal free life. Additional emphasis is therefore being placed upon classification, education, and parole work with a view to returning as many prisoners as possible to self-supporting activities.

A sum of $102,734 is included herein for the continuation of the work of the Crime Commissions and particularly the work of the Commission on Organized Crime. This is a substantial reduction from the $214,341 in the current budget because most of the commissions will have completed their work and been discharged before the end of this fiscal year. The work already accomplished by the commissions, however, demonstrates that there is an active underworld in our State and that it is reaching out to organize and commercialize vice and crime.

The public, the Legislature, and the Governor are entitled to have the facts from a viewpoint of a citizens' survey made by people who represent a cross-section of our best citizenship. This is a difficult task for any group of citizens. Their efforts are bound to be impeded by the ramified influences of the underworld, but, as I said to you in my recent message to the Legislature, a failure to continue this work on the modest basis herein recommended would be a complete surrender to the underworld and an invitation to criminals everywhere to close ranks and prey upon our people in an organized manner. This is not law enforcement work. It is not duplication. It is merely keeping ourselves properly advised before conditions become intolerable. The work has had the cooperation of the peace officers of the State and carries the endorsement of their association.

4. Public Health: Provision is made for the expenditure of $4,826,858, an increase of $1,025,585 over current expenditures.

State expenditures for health supervision have shown the largest increase of any governmental function during recent years—and properly so. This department was being allocated approximately $750,000 a year when I took office as Governor six years ago. Believing that constant vigilance in matters of public health is of vital importance at all times, and particularly at a time when millions of new residents were crowding into our State, I first called for a reorganization of the department. Since that time I have consistently advocated a fuller recognition of state responsibility in this field.

One of the major increases in this budget is for health supervision in connection with problems of water supply and sanitation. State Government is charged with the responsibility of investigating and approving the domestic water systems, and facilities for the disposal of sewage, industrial waste, and other refuse. This budget will permit the State to discharge this responsibility in a more thorough manner than ever before. Other items involving increases are programs through which the State is extending additional assistance to the smaller counties in aiding crippled children and additional expenditures for the cerebral palsy program. Greater emphasis is placed upon the control of communicable diseases, especially research in connection with Q Fever, which constitutes a latent threat to health unless adequate control measures can be developed.

5. Veterans Affairs: Provision is made for the expenditure of $4,769,101— an increase of $383,655 over current expenditures.

Three-fourths of the increase recommended for this department relates to the program of educational assistance to veterans and veterans' dependents under legislation adopted in 1921. The act provides that veterans who desire to continue their education may receive an assistance grant, not to exceed $1,000. This provision also applies to veterans of the Second World War As eligible students exhaust their rights under the federal education program an increasing number are turning to the State for assistance. The estimated cost of this program, including educational assistance to veterans' dependents, in 1949-50 is $2,516,800. Other increases reflected in the department's budget are in connection with the operation of the Veterans' Home at expanded capacity and a moderate increase in state payments to service organizations for their work in connection with veterans' claims for care, preference or compensation.

6. Motor Vehicles: Provision is made for the expenditure of $10,039,944 for normal operations—an increase of $834,872 The budget also provides $1,275,000 for purchase of materials and manufacture of license plates to be issued in 1951. This will occur but once in five years, in accordance with your approved five-year plan. This is the budget of a state department that, while working under the handicap of inadequate quarters, has been faced with a rising work load, the reorganization of its system to machine operation and the assumption of the entirely new financial responsibility program Recognizing that this department leads all others in service contacts with the public, I am recommending expansions which will not only save time and expense for thousands of individual motorists, but which will compensate—through improved service—for the increased taxes now being paid by all motor vehicle owners. Included in this budget is a provision for the establishment of new branch offices of the department in a number of communities.

7. Highway Patrol: Provision is made for the expenditure of $10,774,137—an increase of $1,783,704. Explanation of the increase will be found in provisions made for 200 more highway patrolmen. This recommendation for the expansion of the Highway Patrol is in keeping with the program inaugurated two years ago. It is the second major increase which I have requested to bring our traffic regulation and safety activities more in line with the increases that have occurred in motor-vehicle traffic. By the end of next year it is expected that 4,500,000 vehicles will be traveling our streets and highways. In the last 12 months at least 3,000 deaths have occurred as a result of traffic accidents. This fact alone is convincing argument in support of expansion of the Patrol.

8. Natural Resources: Provision is made for the expenditure of $18,010,634—an increase of $1,105,386 over current expenditures. Conservation of natural resources has received increased recognition in recent state budgets. This budget provides for additional modern equipment to protect our foothill and brush areas from fire, for the further development of recreational areas, and for the expansion of the fish and game conservation program, pursuant to legislation adopted in 1947.

9. Agriculture: Provision is made for the expenditure of $8,193,302—an increase of $599,997. In the main the increase recommended for the Department of Agriculture is for the control and suppression of agricultural diseases and pests, and for the better dissemination of crop and market information.

10. Industrial Relations: Provision is made for the expenditure of $4,030,470—an increase of $213,157. The recommendations made in this budget provide for expansion of the Conciliation Service inaugurated as an experiment two years ago. Our experiences with this work have fully justified its continuation and enlargement. Funds for the Division of Industrial Safety are being increased to meet the added work load developing through industrial expansion.

Capital Outlay Budget

Since 1943 it has been my responsibility to report at each legislative session on the condition of the physical plant of our State Government. I have endeavored to keep you currently and frankly informed on the problems and the needs of our educational institutions, prisons, hospitals and office buildings—neither minimizing nor exaggerating the extent of the accumulated obsolescence and depreciation of the last 20 years and the impact of population growth upon admittedly inadequate facilities.

This is the section of the budget in which we deal with the problem of the physical plant needs of State Government—needs which all of us realize are not static but are increasing day by day, both in urgency and in volume.

Because of war produced restrictions upon construction, this is the first time since I have been Governor that I have been able to report actual progress in the building of new facilities for state use. It is therefore time for a review of the steps we have taken in what I consider to be one of the most sound and humanitarian programs of expenditure ever undertaken by our State Government.

Working together during the past six years, we have fostered a program through which much of the long deferred construction and replacement needs of our State can be financed. We have called it our postwar building program. It is the program through which we have shown our concern over the manner in which 37,500 mental casualties are housed. It is the program through which we have shown our recognition that 30,000 more students are seeking the educational benefits of our university and state colleges than before the war. It is the program that reflects our concern over a prison situation created by 10,000 prisoners when permanent accommodations are adequate for only 5,300, and a trend that will necessitate the housing of 13,000 by 1955. It is the program to which we must look if hundreds of young boys and girls are to be kept out of jails or detention homes and afforded the retraining for good and useful citizenship offered by our Youth Authority.

In brief, it is to this program to which all of us have come to link our natural desire for enlightened and humane treatment for every person for whom the State must provide housing and direction. Likewise, we look to this program for relief from the drain upon tax moneys caused by the rental of buildings needed by State Government—an item which has grown to $2,500,000 a year. It is a program designed to fill the void created by financial inability to build during a depression and necessary wartime restrictions against construction. It is a program for bringing the inadequate facilities of a State of 7,000,000 people into line with the needs of a State of 10,350,000 people

It was in the year 1943, my first year as Governor, that we faced this tremendous problem of housing with resolution, and evolved the program which we are now carrying forward It was a year of abnormal wartime revenue—a year in which we recognized that it would be possible to both reduce state taxes and develop a surplus for postwar construction use. We came to agreement on such a program. Taxes were reduced and the Building Fund was started. Our first step, under the building program, was to start the acquisition of sites for the new and expanded schools, office buildings, mental hospitals and correctional institutions which the program permitted us to envision.

The conclusion of the war made it possible to begin assigning accumulated funds to specific projects. In 1946 we developed, at an estimated cost of $154,000,000, what has become known as the Unified Construction Program. We created a State Public Works Board, as a joint legislative-administrative body, to administer the program It was our belief at that time that the Unified Construction Program then approved, plus appropriations already made, would permit the replacement of obsolete structures and provide the State with new facilities capable of meeting all normal requirements by 1951.

In 1947 I reported to you that steadily rising costs of construction and our continuing population growth had made the attainment of this 1951 goal impossible with the funds available. As a result of this report, you took action in your 1947 and 1948 Sessions and earmarked first $90,150,000 and then $26,800,000 for use when the funds available for the Unified Construction Program had been exhausted.

Through this same period since 1943, you also made appropriations for specific construction projects not included in the original Unified Building Program. Among these projects were the medical and law schools on the Los Angeles campus of the University of California ($8,000,000), a teaching hospital at the San Francisco Medical Center ($6,000,000), the two new state colleges in Southern California and one in Sacramento ($4,500,000), new wards at Napa State Hospital ($1,326,000), a new building at Hastings College of Law ($1,450,000), student housing at the state colleges and university ($9,570,000), and the vocational and agricultural institution for young offenders at Tracy ($3,165,000).

These specific appropriations—and there were more than fifty of them—were also supplemented to provide for increased construction costs. In the aggregate, with the supplementation, they now amount to $141,259,000. In order to maintain one consolidated construction program for the State, these projects were incorporated into the Unified Building Program in 1947 under the direction of the Public Works Board. This action gave us in fact, as well as in name, a Unified Building Program.

Thus, in total, during these years you have made available for construction use the sum of $295,259,000 and earmarked $116,950,000 as a reserve. These totals were not developed by guess or estimate, but through step-by-step approval of individual projects under a well-studied, long-term building program. Each dollar purpose, including use of the $116,950,000 held in reserve has been given legislative screening and approval.

For the purpose of undertaking an analysis of this entire building program, it is helpful to break the program down into three broad classifications. The sum of $102,963,000 has been appropriated under the general category of fixed available appropriations The sum of $192,296,000 has been appropriated under the general category of interchangeable available appropriations. The sum of $116,950,000 is in the category known as "funds frozen in reserve." The current condition and availability of each of these funds is as follows:

Fixed Available Appropriations

Appropriated	$102,963,000
Allocated	35,754,000
Balance	$67,209,000

History—The total appropriation in this category is for specific purposes and the funds are limited in their use to such purposes. Uses included are site purchase appropriations and the building projects to which I have just referred. Out of these funds commitments totaling $35,754,000 have been made for projects now under construction, such as: the School of Veterinary Science and the Plant Science Building on the Davis campus of the University of California, three dormitories and other buildings at the Institution for Men at Chino, the library and other improvements at the California Polytechnical College, new ward building at Agnew, Camarillo, Napa, Norwalk, and Pacific Colony State Hospitals, and the new Business and Professions Building Annex in Sacramento. In addition, sites have been purchased for a new state prison at Soledad and at Tracy, and a prison medical center at Vacaville; and for new buildings at San Jose, Humboldt, San Francisco and Fresno State Colleges.

We have in the active planning stage projects which will soon utilize a large portion of the $67,209,000 balance now remaining in this special purpose fund.

Interchangeable Available Funds

Appropriated	$192,296,000
Allocated	107,396,000
Balance	$84,900,000

History—In this category are the matters over which the Public Works Board has the greatest discretionary authority. It is made up of the original $154,000,000 appropriation of 1946 and the 1947 and 1948 supplementations for increased buildings costs and additions.

The bulk of the projects making up this total were contained in the proposed capital outlay statements submitted to the Legislature in 1946 by the Director of Finance and approved at that time. This program includes projects in connection with every institution in our State Government. The Public Works Board has since approved construction expenditures amounting to $107,396,000, leaving an available balance of $84,900,000, which, at the rate plans are now being prepared, will be substantially committed before July of this year.

Funds Frozen in Reserve

History—This fund of $116,950,000 is made up of the money set aside by the Legislature in 1947 and 1948. The enabling act under which it was set aside characterizes the fund in this manner: "To be expended for construction improvements and equipment for state agencies as may hereafter be authorized by the Legislature."

It is my recommendation that at this session you make this $116,950,000 available for use during the coming fiscal year. Such action is required if the construction program contemplated at the time of its creation is to push forward without interruption. Unless such action is taken a slowdown in construction activities under our Unified Building Program will occur during the coming year. All necessary planning in connection with projects to be constructed out of the Fixed Available Appropriations and Interchangeable Available Funds will have been completed during this calendar year.

Looking at our construction program in its entirety we find that Public Works Board commitments to date total approximately $143,000,000 out of the $295,259,000 that it has had available for immediate use. In my opinion this is evidence of real progress. The board has only been able to undertake large scale construction during the last 18 months. Prior to that time the program was circumscribed by controls, shortages of materials and supplies, and by the inability to get satisfactory construction bids. Moreover, we were reluctant to compete with private contractors and home builders for material and manpower.

I have mentioned previously the manner in which steadily rising prices have brought about changes in our original concept of the cost of the Unified Building Program. I consider it unfortunate that most of the construction must be undertaken during a period of high costs. We are dealing with a problem of urgent need, however, and cannot afford to let other factors interfere. Increasing rental costs, outlays for temporary construction forced by crowded conditions, confusion and inefficiency caused by congestion, and widely scattered divisions in our major departments, all add to the expense of delay, and offset any savings that might accrue from waiting for construction costs to decline.

With the completion of the Unified Building Program, we will have eliminated the most glaring state building deficiencies. Since this phase of our construction program is now clearly defined, with the exception of making the funds frozen in reserve available. I wish to point out that we are still a growing state. Unless the needs of each year's growth are contained in each annual budget we will again find ourselves slipping behind even while we are correcting errors and omissions of the past. No budget is honest that does not contain the amount needed for normal replacement and expansion.

With this thought in mind, I am submitting for your consideration the new construction needs of seven divisions of State Government. In no case are these items included in the Unified Building Program. Each item has been carefully analyzed by the Department of Finance and represents a matter of urgency. The total request has been held to a minimum. The construction items recommended are as follows:

Department of Education $6,610,000

To permit construction during the coming fiscal year of the partially financed priority building program of the state colleges; to expand the size of the basic campus facilities of San Francisco State College; to improve utilities at San Jose State College; to permit initial construction of the new four year college at Sacramento; and to purchase additional needed land at the Humboldt, San Diego and Chico State Colleges.

National Guard $6,050,000

To complete the state-wide permanent armory building program.

Department of Mental Hygiene $402,000

To raise the height of Suttenfield Dam at the Sonoma State Home and to provide additions to the laundry building at the Norwalk State Hospital.

Department of Public Health $160,000

To permit acquisition of the remaining parcels of land at the site of the departmental headquarters office building and laboratory in Berkeley.

Department of Natural Resources (Forestry)_____ $2,207,139

To construct six new forestry work camps to be operated jointly by the Department of Corrections and the Division of Forestry. These camps will afford additional protection against fire for our forests, and, at the same time, help relieve overcrowding at our prisons, and provide useful working opportunities for the prisoners

Department of Corrections_____ $1,570,400

To provide a new administration building, sewage disposal plant, maintenance and shop building at San Quentin; maintenance shops, combination gymnasium-auditorium, and residences at Chino, additional improvements to the cell blocks and industrial buildings at Folsom.

Department of Finance_____ $6,645,000

To construct a new two-square-block state office building on the Capitol Mall; to provide additional office space in the Public Works Building Annex; to remodel completely State Office Building No 1; and to acquire additional warehouse space, all in Sacramento; and to augment the appropriation for purchase of the state building site in San Diego.

Local Assistance Budget

This is the section of the budget which lists all payments made by the State to local government agencies including cities, counties and school districts The total is $390,392,607, or almost 40 percent of the entire State Budget

All costs in connection with old age and needy blind assistance programs formerly listed in this section as subventions to counties, have been transferred to the State Operations section of this budget as a result of voter approval of Proposition No. 4. This transfer coupled with the ending of certain emergency school subventions accounts for a decrease in subventions Aid to partially self-supporting blind will continue under county administration I recommend that payments to these blind people be increased immediately to $85 per month, in accordance with the increase in the other assistance programs.

The major subventions accounted for in this budget are school support, $208,615,000; payments in connection with social welfare and public health programs, $30,161,000, state subventions for flood control and local public works, $35,280,000; and tax collections by the State for return to local governments, $112,417,000.

Two items which have appeared in this section of the State Budget for the past two years will, I am sure, be discussed by you during the weeks to come. They are:

Child Care Centers—State Government during the fiscal year has been supervising and providing financial assistance for 298 child care centers located largely in metropolitan areas. The enrollment has been almost 14,000 children and it is increasing. The cost to the State in the current year is estimated to be $5,296,000.

In discussing this subject in my message to you one year ago, I said

> "I also believe the Legislature should determine the future of child care centers, which automatically expire on May 30th of this year. No new centers could be established since February 20th. These child care centers were established first by the Federal Government in wartime, but federal aid has long since been discontinued and they have since been maintained on a year-to-year basis. If they are not to be maintained beyond May 30, 1948, provision must be made for the care of many of these children in another manner."

I am now repeating my comment of last year because there has been no change in the situation except that the life of child care centers has been extended one year We still have no long-term policy in this matter. The current law provides that child care centers shall be closed on or before June 30, 1949. It is my belief that a better solution than this year-to-year consideration should be found. You have before you the findings of a recent interim committee on this subject.

School Building Aid—During the last two years the State has appropriated $55,000,000 to aid financially distressed school districts in meeting their school building needs. These appropriations represented a distinct departure from the precedent that public school facilities should be provided by local districts. We went into this type of 100 percent grants-in-aid to help in an emergency and to give distressed local districts time to develop major long-range building programs I advocated these emergency appropriations because I believed the grants to be a proper use for excess funds which we then had in our State Treasury. The days of surplus are ending. There is no surplus existent to recommend for such use at this session, and for this reason I suggest that the Legislature attack the problem in its entirety, recognizing that the principal responsibility for constructing school buildings is that of local government. The problem is one of such magnitude, however, that its solution is of fundamental importance to the welfare of all our people and calls for the cooperation of both State and local government.

Revenue and Taxation

To finance this budget, adjustments in taxes are necessary. More revenue will be required than can be developed by present tax rates. Revenue receipts under current tax rates will produce only $507,268,782 for the State General Fund during 1949-50. The General Fund expenditure requirements set forth in this budget total $619,575,098.

The gap between proposed General Fund expenditures and revenues amounts to $112,306,316. An anticipated June 30, 1949, surplus of $27,335,857 will close this gap to $84,970,459. This, then, is the amount which must be considered in relation to new tax revenues if we are to operate State Government with this budget in balance.

I have repeatedly expressed my objection to using any of our present state reserves to balance this budget. Such funds as we have available in this category are earmarked for specific purposes under a long-agreed-upon program. I have expressed the belief elsewhere in this message that the urgency of our building program is such that it will actually be cheaper to carry on this program in a period of high prices than to delay the program in anticipation of a distant day when prices may be lower. Once spent, these reserve funds will never again be available. Unless they are spent for the purposes for which they were earmarked and saved we will find ourselves struggling through another generation with inadequate facilities and will lack the finances with which to improve what is already a costly and deplorable situation.

I have likewise expressed my opposition many times to the diversion of funds now held in what we have come to call our "Rainy Day" fund. This fund was created for a specific and easily understood purpose during a period when surpluses were accumulating in our State Treasury. It was advocated as an emergency fund for use if and when state revenues suddenly declined. I am sure the purpose is understandable in every home in our State. It is the kind of a fund the head of every family strives to create—a fund that can be drawn upon when emergencies arise which cannot be met from normal income. It takes no argument to convince the average household that its modest "Rainy Day" fund cannot be looted to increase the standard of living without quickly being dissipated and the household being left without any cushion for emergencies. The same situation exists in State Government. We have managed to build up a "Rainy Day" fund amounting to $75,000,000. It is a large amount of money, but it is not a great fund when we bear in mind that if our General Fund revenues were to shrink 15 percent, this fund would be eliminated in a single year.

I take the position that this fund should be held intact for a day of real emergency. It should not be used for day to day expenditures. When either the Legislature or the people increase the costs of government, revenues should be increased to pay for each new activity. To apply the "Rainy Day" fund to the increased costs of government this year would only delay for another year the balance which sound government requires between taxes and expenditures.

My first recommendation toward closing the gap between General Fund revenues and expenditures is that we terminate the temporary tax reductions and return to the 1943 tax levels in the sales, corporation and personal income tax fields, as provided under existing law. This would normally produce $86,000,000 next year in additional General Fund revenue. However, only $64,725,000 of this amount will be available for the financing of this budget, due to the lag between sales tax collections by our retailers and the actual receipt of the money into the State Treasury, and due to the fact that the corporation and personal income tax rates do not become collectible until January 1, 1950.

In 1943 we found we could maintain a balanced budget with lower sales, corporation and personal income tax rates A reduction was made on a temporary basis and at each subsequent legislative session we have taken action to continue this reduction in force In total, more than $535,000,000 have been saved to the taxpayers of California by this program since 1943. Without legislative action this session the rates will return to their higher and permanent level. This will involve a return to the 3 percent retail sales and use tax, elimination of the 15 percent credit allowed under the bank and corporation franchise tax and corporate income tax, and a moderate increase in the personal income tax. The $64,725,000 thus obtainable for General Fund use will reduce the gap between General Fund resources and proposed expenditures to $20,245,459. This figure is basic in the consideration of new tax sources with which to balance this budget. There are other considerations which require attention, however, if the budget is to be balanced in a sound and workable manner.

1. Included in the estimated General Fund resource total is $27,335,-857 of surplus which is not recurring and has no place in a long-range tax program.
2. The $88,767,000 cost of Proposition No 4, falling in the budget year, is not representative of the annual cost of the liberalized program when in full effect. The cost in 1950-51, the first full year of operation, is estimated at $110,000,000 and an increased drain of $21,233,000 on state revenues available for financing the next budget.
3. No provision is made for special appropriations which the Legislature may authorize in addition to the expenditures proposed in the budget.
4. Sound fiscal procedure requires a small margin of safety between tax income and expenditure requirements.

A survey of new or additional tax possibilities which could be used for sound and adequate budget financing points to three sources from which this amount could be obtained without hardship to any taxpayer group. They are:

1 An increase in the distilled spirits excise tax.
2. The imposition of a cigarette tax.
3. An increase in the license fees levied upon pari-mutuel betting at horse-racing meet.

All of these taxes rest upon luxury items which enjoy a comparative advantage under California tax laws The present liquor excise tax of 80¢ per gallon is well below the $1 42 national average. It can be raised to $1.50 per gallon with complete equity. This adjustment would yield an additional $11,600,000 to General Fund on an annual basis. But here again there will be a lag in collections which will make only $9,150,000 available for financing this budget.

California is one of only 12 states which does not currently employ a cigarette or tobacco tax A cigarette tax of 2¢ per package would produce at a normal rate of $23,300,000 in a 12-month period, but collection methods permit us to count upon only $18,000,000 during the period covered by this budget. With 36 states now levying either a cigarette or tobacco tax, California could well turn to this source for needed revenue.

The State is now granting monopoly preference in horse racing. Some of these enterprises, particularly the larger ones, are yielding fabulous returns for stockholders. A larger part of the excess profits could well be taken by the State in payment for the special privilege which it is granting. It is not unreasonable to look to this source for at least $4,000,000 of additional revenue during the next fiscal year.

These three proposed adjustments would produce $31,150,000 available for financing the budget I am herewith submitting.

Because $29,468,000 of our surplus has been required to finance Proposition No. 4 for the remainder of this fiscal year, it would seem appropriate to finance that portion of the program out of this year's revenue. This could be largely accomplished by restoration of the 3 percent sales tax and by making provision for the liquor and cigarette taxes herein mentioned to start as of April 1, 1949, rather than July 1st. The sales tax would thus produce $14,400,000 additional and the latter an aggregate of $8,000,000 Under existing law, the tax restoration on corporate earnings and personal incomes becomes effective for the entire year 1949, payable in 1950.

I am opposed to the use of the ad valorem tax to make up either the amount needed to balance this budget or to develop revenues to finance any special appropriations which may be enacted during this session.

Large as this budget is in total, it is a budget of necessities determined by acts of the Legislature and by measures initiated by the people. It contains no frills, innovations, or extravagances. It is within both the spirit and the letter of the law. The revenues recommended should keep us in balance with a few million dollars for a cushion. But these revenues will not permit of any great amount of special appropriations. It will take a maximum of self-restraint to keep within our financial means, particularly in view of the fact that the Legislature has already taken preliminary steps to establish new state colleges in Los Angeles and new campuses of the University at Santa Barbara and Riverside. If new provisions are made for these institutions, there will be little or no money left for any other special appropriations, if the budget is to remain in balance.

The only other sound alternative, if there are to be additional appropriations, would be to increase the revenues by additional taxation

It is not possible to deal with all matters in detail in this message, but I am confident that as your committees engage in the study of the detail of the entire budget you will find an honest and fair presentation of facts The Department of Finance and the representatives of all state departments stand ready to discuss the detail herein contained and to cooperate in the development of additional facts

The State Government is a large institution. It serves the people in many ways. It has grown in response to the demands of the people for more and better services and in keeping with the needs of our greatly increased population. Often the people themselves initiate the legislation for these new or expanded services. We have tried to keep the scope of its activities within the bounds of sound organization. But we must recognize that the growth has been rapid and that some of the activities, have of necessity, been established through the years in accordance with the principles of trial and error. In such circumstances, a complete inventory of our situation might be in order. It would not be beyond the realm of probability that both our tables of organization and some of the methods used might be subject to considerable improvement that would save money for our taxpayers, and that a study of the entire governmental structure and our relations with all levels of government might accomplish such a result. If the Legislature is of the opinion that a commission of governmental experts and private citizens could do such a job for the benefit of our State, I would be happy to cooperate in such a program.

PARTIAL REPORT ON THE SAN FRANCISCO OFFICE OF THE FRANCHISE TAX COMMISSIONER

BY

ASSEMBLY INTERIM COMMITTEE ON GOVERNMENTAL EFFICIENCY AND ECONOMY

House Resolution No. 216, 1947

A. I. STEWART, Chairman

Partial Report of Assembly Interim Committee on Governmental Efficiency and Economy

To the Honorable Sam L. Collins, Speaker, and to the Members of the Assembly:

Your committee desires to make the following Report of Its Investigation of the Office of the Franchise Tax Commissioner:

OCCASION FOR THE INVESTIGATION

In its report printed in the Assembly Journal of March 10, 1948, the Assembly Interim Committee on Ways and Means stated:

> "It was brought to the attention of the committee that for a period of years considerable criticism had been presented to the Ways and Means Committee concerning the lack of efficiency in the Office of the Franchise Tax Commissioner in San Francisco. The Legislative Auditor's investigation showed that the State was not receiving a 40-hour week of work from many of the employees in that office Neither the director nor anyone in charge of the office appeared before the committee. The committee recommends that approval be given to a resolution requesting the Assembly Interim Committee on Governmental Efficiency and Economy to investigate the conduct of this office." (Assembly Journal, March 10, 1948, p. 21.)

In view of this statement, and the fact that the desired investigation clearly fell within the powers and duties of your Interim Committee on Governmental Efficiency and Economy, it was decided that the committee should conduct an investigation to determine the facts in the matter and to ascertain what, if any, legislative action should be taken.

HISTORICAL BACKGROUND OF OFFICE OF FRANCHISE TAX COMMISSIONER

The Office of Franchise Tax Commissioner was created in 1929 by Section 22 of the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act (Statutes 1929, Chapter 13). The commissioner was given the power and charged with the duty of administering that act and the authority to prescribe "all such rules and regulations as are necessary and reasonable to carry out its provisions."

In addition to the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act the commissioner is now charged with the duty of administering the Corporation Income Tax Act (Statutes 1937, Chapter 765) and the Personal Income Tax Act (Statutes 1935, Chapter 329). The vital interest of the State in the efficiency of the Franchise Tax Commissioner's Office is amply demonstrated by the fact that the revenues from the acts administered by that office amounted to $118,659,592 for the Ninety-ninth Fiscal Year ending in 1948.

The manner of appointment to that office, provided for by the same section, has no parallel in any other civil executive office in the state service. Section 22 of the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act, which has remained unchanged since 1929, provides that "the Franchise Tax Commissioner shall be appointed by the Director of the Department of Finance, the Controller of the State and the Chairman of the State Board of Equalization who are authorized to provide him with such assistants as they may deem necessary, and he shall serve for such compensation, and under such conditions, as they may prescribe"

This provision was enacted prior to the adoption of the Civil Service Amendment to the Constitution. (Constitution, Article XXIV.) Upon the adoption of that amendment in 1934, with certain other exceptions not material to this report, every officer and employee of the State was included in the Civil Service System except elective officers and officers appointed by the Governor.

Since the Franchise Tax Commissioner was neither an elective officer nor an officer appointed by the Governor, he was, after the adoption of the amendment, and now is, included within the Civil Service System.

PRELIMINARY STUDY

Your committee believed at the start that any investigation of the office would be ineffective and not in the public interest unless each step was carefully planned. Accordingly, in March of 1948 the Legislative Auditor was requested to conduct a preliminary investigation and to prepare a report to the committee, on which further action could be based.

The report of the Legislative Auditor on this preliminary investigation was received by your committee at a meeting called in Sacramento on July 9, 1948. That report indicated that numerous employees in the Office of the Franchise Tax Commissioner in San Francisco had engaged in the practice of accounting, including the preparation of state and federal income tax returns, for a fee, in addition to their state employment. It also contained certain evidence which, if substantiated, would justify a conclusion that the management of the office was inefficient, and that an efficient administrator would have been aware of that condition

In view of the latter fact, the committee felt that the Franchise Tax Commissioner should be afforded an opportunity to place any facts he might consider relevant before the committee. The committee further decided that hearings should be scheduled at which the matters brought out by the preliminary investigation could be substantiated by testimony given under oath, and additional facts developed.

Hearings were held in Sacramento on August 5, 1948, to take the testimony of the Franchise Tax Commissioner, and in San Francisco on September 29 and 30, 1948, to secure testimony on outside employment of employees of the Office of the Franchise Tax Commissioner and other related matters.

The testimony and documentary evidence before the committee deal with various matters which, though closely related, are, for convenience, separately treated in this report.

INCOMPATIBLE EMPLOYMENT

Section 19251 of the Government Code provides:

> "A state officer or employee shall not engage in any other activity or enterprise inconsistent, incompatible, or in conflict with his duties as a state officer or employee."

Although your committee felt that private employment involving preparation of state and federal income tax returns was obviously inconsistent or incompatible with the duties of state employees whose function it is to review and audit state income tax returns, the report of the Legislative Auditor revealed that the employees of the Franchise Tax Office had some doubt on that point, and that the commissioner and his division chiefs had never taken the time to secure a ruling from the Attorney General on the issue.

Before commencing the investigation therefore, your committee requested opinions of the Legislative Counsel and the Attorney General as to whether such work violated the provisions of Section 19251 of the Government Code. Both opinions, which were subsequently received by your committee, held that an income tax examiner who engages in outside accounting work or who prepares state income tax returns for a fee thereby engages in incompatible employment within the meaning of Section 19251 of the Government Code. Copies of these opinions are appended hereto as Exhibits "A" and "B," respectively.

Evidence before the committee establishes beyond any possibility of doubt that the majority of the personnel of the Franchise Tax Commissioner's San Francisco Office whose official duties include auditing and reviewing of tax returns and making field investigations, engaged in outside employment which entailed keeping and auditing books upon which tax returns are based, and preparing state and federal tax returns.

The extent of this practice is best summarized in the testimony of one such employee who gave the following testimony:

> "Q. Do you know of any employees in the Franchise Tax Office that are doing [accounting and tax] work for merchants or private individuals and collecting a fee?
> A. I can't say definitely, but by hearsay, yes. I have never seen one of them paid, if that is what you mean. My opinion is that the biggest majority of the income tax examiners do outside work at home nights and over week ends the same way I do. I do it myself."

While this particular witness was probably truthful in his statement that all his outside work was done on his own time and away from the state office, evidence before the committee clearly shows that other employees were not so meticulous about the use of state time, equipment and clerical personnel. That will be brought out under another heading. The point which your committee desires to bring out here is the fact that a large number of employees of the Franchise Tax Office were engaged in outside activities, and that this practice could result in a loss of revenue to the State.

This is best illustrated by the following excerpt from the testimony of one such employee:

> "Q. Now, you told Mr. Brown that there was a possibility of a man having outside work, preparing a return and subsequently being assigned to review it. Is that correct?
> A. Yes."

While such a return may subsequently be reviewed in the Sacramento Office, if it was questioned there it would be returned to the San Francisco Office for "field investigation" and that investigation might be made by the same man who made out the return.

The committee believes it only fair to state that it has no evidence of any particular case wherein a tax return was reviewed and investigated by an employee who had prepared that return while employed by a taxpayer On the other hand, it is obvious that sound administrative policy would insist that the conditions which give rise to such a possibility be eliminated.

If the "outside activities" of the state employees involved were completely unrelated, the possibility that the interests of the State might suffer would not, perhaps, be great. However, evidence before the committee clearly shows that there was a considerable amount of collaboration among the employees of the Franchise Tax Commissioner on such outside employment.

For example, several of the income tax examiners were employed in an office known as the "Mission Tax Office" and there is reasonable ground for concluding that such office was maintained by one or more of the examiners mentioned.

An investigator employed by the committee visited this office, and testified as follows:

"On the same date, May 18, 1948, at or about 11.15 a.m., we visited the office of Mrs. Bob Burns, an insurance office located at 3250 Mission Street, San Francisco The reason for this visit was because we had been informed that Mr. Thomas Mitchell, Mr. Jacot, and Mr. Maloney (income tax examiners employed in the Franchise Tax Commissioner's Office) did quite a bit of income tax work and return preparation there during each of the filing periods.

Mrs. Bob Burns was away from the office at the time and a Mrs. Kennedy was acting in charge of the office. * * * We questioned her as to who did the actual tax work in the office and she said, 'Mr. Tom Mitchell does,' and incidentally she stated Mr. Mitchell had just telephoned a moment before we came in, asking if there was any business. She further added that during the filing period Mr. Mitchell, Mr Jacot, and Mr. Maloney are there during the day and take turns in coming out evenings in the matter of preparing tax returns, both state and federal."

Another example of close collaboration of such employees on private tax work is found in the testimony of a certified public accountant who appeared before the committee. In evaluating this testimony it should be borne in mind that the Mr. Ragan mentioned in the testimony was Ney's immediate supervisor, and is now the acting area income tax supervisor, and that Ney himself held a supervisorial position in the Franchise Tax Office. After testifying that he had secured a profitable contract to audit the books of a political subdivision of the State through the cooperation of Ragan, and in spite of the fact that he was high bidder on the job, the public accountant testified:

"Q. How and when did you get in touch with Mr. Ragan on this matter? You know nothing about this Butte County audit according to your testimony. How did you get in touch with him to discuss this business?

A. There again, Mr. Ney was instrumental in acting as a go-between. He approached me and said he believed he knew a way in which I could secure the audit for Butte County. At first, I wasn't interested because municipal county audits are generally not profitable and I wasn't enthusiastic about it, but he insisted that I go up there to the Franchise Tax Office and meet Mr. Ragan and discuss it, and as a result of that—

Q. Where did you have that discussion?

A. In Mr Ragan's office.

Q. His office in the Income and Franchise Tax Collector's Office?

A. Yes.

Q. Did Mr. Ney suggest it would be a profitable thing for you to see and talk with Mr. Ragan?

A. Yes, sir, he did. He said it would be a good connection to cultivate.

Q. Did he indicate to you any kind of financial consideration that would be forthcoming from you to Ragan in the event your talks with him were successful?

A. Yes, sir, I don't remember his exact words but he intimated that.

Q. Was Mr. Ney present with you on any of the conversations with Mr. Ragan?

A. Yes, sir, he was present in all of them.

Q. He introduced you to Mr. Ragan and was present with you in the conversation that resulted in your bidding on the Butte County contract?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In other words, it originated in the Office of the Income and Franchise Tax Collector?

A. Yes, sir."

The witness also testified that it was understood that Ney should assist in making the audit; that Ney accompanied him to Oroville for that purpose and was there from Monday, September 30th, to Thursday or Friday of the same week; that Ney then left, but "sent a Mr. Spaulding up" a few days later to take his place; and that Spaulding was also an employee in the Franchise Tax Commissioner's Office. The job might be termed a "project" of the Franchise Tax Office, and we believe the citizens of this State might so regard it.

The possibility that the state employees who cooperated so closely in securing and performing "outside" work might demonstrate a similar spirit of cooperation in avoiding any difficulties which might arise as a result of such outside work is obvious. It is equally obvious that the interests of the State might be jeopardized, and that an able and conscientious administrator would not have permitted this condition to exist.

It is interesting to note that after this committee's investigation was well under way the Mr. Ragan mentioned in this testimony was promoted to "acting area supervisor" in charge of the San Francisco Office.

MISUSE OF STATE TIME AND FACILITIES ON PRIVATE ACCOUNTING AND TAX WORK

Testimony given under oath and documentary evidence in the possession of your committee establish, beyond all possibility of doubt, that the Office of the Franchise Tax Commissioner was used by state civil service employees engaging in outside activities as their base of operations for such outside activities. Office space and telephone facilities were used to carry out and build up the outside business activities of these employees, and the evidence will clearly justify the conclusion that state equipment and the services of state clerical employees were used in connection with such outside activities.

A taxpayer for whom an income tax examiner was performing accounting services for a fee testified:

"Q. Did he ever call on you in regard to the bookkeeping work he was doing, to discuss it after he had taken the books?

A. No, I call him sometimes.

Q. When would you call him?

A. Oh, I called him Underhill 1-7234.

Q. You called him at the Franchise Tax Office?

A. Yes."

Similar testimony was given by a considerable number of the witnesses subpenaed by the committee

Other taxpayers testified that they delivered their books and records to the state employees involved, at the State Franchise Tax Office. One income tax examiner's outside work developed to such a point that he had to employ help. His employee testified that he consulted his "boss" at the state office, during normal working hours, and further testified:

"Q. What I want to know specifically, Mr. Tandy, is whether Mr. Ney [the income tax examiner concerned] has gone with you to visit these various clients during the regular working hours when he should be employed?

A. He has.

Evidence before the committee compels the conclusion that the "outside" work of some state employees involved was too extensive to have been carried on during lunch hours and at nights and week ends.

For example, George Ney's net income for the year 1947 was $10,371.64. Of this amount he received $4,939 as compensation for his services as a permanent full-time state employee, $815 as compensation for teaching school at night, and $4,617 as fees and salaries for accounting and income tax work, including preparation of state income tax returns.

Ralph Ebner, another income tax examiner, conducted a real estate business and a tax accounting service in addition to his full-time state employment. During 1945 his gross receipts from his real estate enterprise were $6.747.50 and from his private tax accounting work, $3,038.73. During 1946 his receipts were $7,914 from his real estate business and $1,266.67 from private tax accounting work.

It is highly improbable that enterprises yielding such remuneration could be confined to lunch hours, week ends, and evenings.

As stated above, the evidence clearly establishes the fact that clerical employees in the Franchise Tax Commissioner's Office performed services in connection with this outside work. Some of this work was performed after working hours. Some was performed in the Franchise Tax Office during recess and lunch periods, using state materials and equipment. However, the evidence before the committee justifies the conclusion that some of this work was performed on state time, in the ordinary course of business.

One such clerical employee testified that her duties included doing typing, during slack periods, and that such work was brought to her by a senior legal stenographer. She testified that, under this arrangement, she had typed federal income tax returns (which obviously is not part of the duties of a state office), upon request. She gave the following testimony concerning such work:

"Q. At the time you did that [typed federal returns on request] did you feel that was part of your duties?

A. No, I really didn't think anything about it.

Q. You felt you were employed by them and the work was coming from them and you should therefore do it, is that correct?

"A. That is right.

"Q. Do you know if other people in the office feel or felt the same way about it?

"A. I imagine lots of them did. Lots of the girls that I didn't know, I imagine.

"Q. Lots of the other girls operated in the same manner?

"A. I would say they did.

"Q. In other words, when a superior sent work to you, you did it. You didn't ask questions.

"A. That was our job, yes."

Testimony of this sort, when considered together with the fact that there was considerable cooperation between the income tax examiners and supervisors on "outside" work, compels the conclusion that the clerical staff of the Franchise Tax Office aided those examiners on such work on state time, using state equipment under the assumption that it was part of their state duties to do so.

IMPROPER CONDUCT

While your committee feels that its primary function is to ascertain whether the Office of the Franchise Tax Commissioner is functioning properly, it feels it would be remiss in its duty if it failed to note that during the course of investigation testimony indicated that one of the employees of this office has come very close to committing subornation of perjury.

The employee concerned is Mr. George Ney. In the course of his outside tax and accounting work, Mr. Ney employed a Mr. Tandy to assist him in such work. Mr. Tandy was subpenaed and appeared before your committee. After testifying to the effect that he had not discussed the matter with Mr. Ney, Mr. Tandy was confronted with a statement which he had previously signed which reads in part as follows:

"* * * Mr. Ney at that time told me that if I was approached by anyone in connection with an investigation of the Franchise Tax Office or Mr. Ney's activities that I was to confirm what Mr. Joel Nelson of the Druggist Specialty Company of San Francisco would testify to. This was that I, Will Tandy, did most of the work and that Mr. Ney only came down to the Druggist Specialty Company at noon time on his lunch hour to supervise my work, negativing other facts by another employee of the Druggist Specialty Company to the effect Mr. Ney did call at that place of business during regular business hours * * *."

Thereupon Mr. Tandy gave the following testimony:

"Q. Your conversation between you and Mr. Ney regarding this hearing—it was regarding this hearing wasn't it? In other words, by your own statement, he attempted to influence your testimony before this committee?

"A. Well, * * *.

Q. Now, you have got to discredit one or the other.

A. Well at the time I didn't want to get a client in bad and so I decided to corroborate his statement, but at this time, I change that, so you can get it straight now."

THE FRANCHISE TAX COMMISSIONER

The conditions previously mentioned in this report constitute only a segment of the entire picture of inefficiency and maladministration in the San Francisco Office of the Franchise Tax Commissioner. The testimony given before your committee, and the documentary evidence in its possession justify only the conclusion that the inefficiency or inexcusable neglect of duty on the part of the Franchise Tax Commissioner, Mr. Charles J. McColgan, is the direct cause of these conditions.

In his voluntary testimony before the committee Mr. McColgan demonstrated his familiarity with the vital affairs of his office as follows:

> "Q. I see. I would just like to ask at this time, Mr. McColgan, do you consider it a part of the duties of the executive officer of this agency to familiarize yourself with the budget provided by the Legislature—do you consider that a part of your responsibility or not?
> A. I do.
> Q. Mr. McColgan, do you know what is the size of your budget in dollars and cents for the year '48 and '49?
> A. I couldn't say exactly for '48 and '49.
> Q. Have you any idea?
> A. I would say the cost of administration would be a good barometer. That is about one point two to collections. You can figure around about one million four hundred thousand, I suppose—somewhere around that. I haven't got the figures right here. I didn't bring any figures with me."

Actually the budget appropriation for the Franchise Tax Commissioner was $2,088,896 for the 1948-49 Fiscal Year—or some $680,000 in excess of the amount named by the commissioner. In other words, the budget appropriation was approximately 40 percent above the amount named by the commissioner, and an equal amount above the fractional figure set by the commissioner as a "barometer" of efficient operation. Such an error could not be expected even from a public opinion poll taker —and should not be expected from a responsible public official who believes it part of his duties to familiarize himself with the budget of his department.

The commissioner further testified that he has not since 1931 appeared before the Ways and Means Committee when the budget of his office was being considered, and that he "was satisfied with whatever they did." While such satisfaction might normally be gratifying to the Legislature, when it is coupled with ignorance of the amount appropriated, it presents the possibility of allowing vital governmental functions to be curtailed because of failure of an administrative official to properly inform the Legislature of the needs of his department.

The Main Office of the Franchise Tax Commissioner is in Sacramento, and, according to the commissioner's testimony, is in charge of a Mr. Young. Area offices are located in San Francisco and Los Angeles, in charge of Mr. Ragan and Mr. McReynolds, respectively. The heads of these three offices report to Mr. Walsh, the Assistant Commissioner in Sacramento, and the latter is apparently the sole contact the commissioner has with the workings of his office.

By way of illustration, Mr. McColgan testified that his only contact with the Los Angeles Office within the past two years consisted of correspondence and telephone calls. Similarly, although the commissioner was able to name the seven branch offices maintained by his office, he testified he had never visited those offices.

The commissioner himself uses the San Francisco Office as his headquarters when he works, although as mentioned above, the main office is in Sacramento. The reason advanced by the commissioner for this is revealed in the following testimony:

"Q. How many times in the last year have you appeared in this office, the chief Office of the Franchise Tax Commissioner and discussed the problems with your chiefs here in Sacramento?

A. I think once. I generally discuss it in San Francisco. As I say, I was compelled to keep a close watch on San Francisco because that is where all my trouble was. The entire departmental trouble at that time was in San Francisco."

The method used by the commissioner to "keep a close watch" on the troubles which made his presence in San Francisco necessary, was to read or listen to the reports made by Mr. Young or Mr. Walsh in Sacramento. This is illustrated by the following testimony given by Mr. McColgan relating to the practice of employees in the San Francisco Office accepting incompatible work and using state time and equipment thereon:

"Q. Is your office in San Francisco or Sacramento or Los Angeles so set up in its administration that if there were a flagrant violation of that rule that anybody would report it?

A. They should yes. They should report it immediately.

Q. Have you ever had any impression made on you recently that this work was being done? I believe you stated that Mr. Feeney's suspension was because of that fact—that he was doing outside work.

A. Oh, no. I didn't personally file the charges against Mr. Feeney. The complaint was filed with me by Mr. Young under oath and a request to me to permit him to file the charges against him, and I consented to it.

Q. But, you have had nobody tell you at any time in your office that any of your employees were going to Oroville and doing auditing and at the same time drawing money from the State?

A. They never told me.

Q. Isn't there somebody in your office that should have reported it?

A. The area supervisors should report it in writing. You may occasionally hear someone make a rumor of some kind, but no official report has ever been given to me, nothing in writing.

Q. And you have never had anything up to this day that was concrete and impressed upon your mind the necessity of making an investigation along that line?

A. Not until it was called to my attention through the newspapers."

The pathetic statement "They never told me" and the denial of "official report" as distinguished from "rumor" are irreconcilable with the previous statement of the reason for establishing headquarters in San Francisco.

Further illustration of the methods by which Mr. McColgan watched the troubles of the San Francisco Office is contained in the following testimony. After stating there were "internal troubles" and continuous bickering and complaining among the employees, Mr. McColgan testified:

"Q. How did that come to you attention?

A. In the newspapers.

Q. You weren't aware of it yourself?

A. It was called to my attention as a matter of fact before it came out in the press. In other words, I came to the office one morning and I was advised that one of the heads of the department had his office removed from one floor to another and he was told to take a vacation for a period of two weeks by reason of the fact he insulted one of the girls in the office, causing her to collapse and necessitated the calling of a physician to the department.

Q. You came to the office one morning and somebody told you that one of your supervisors' office had been moved?

A. That is right.

Q. And it gave you the reason—

A. As a matter of fact, Mr. Walsh, is the one that moved it.

Q. I was going to ask you who ordered the moving of that office.

A. Mr. Walsh. He happened to be there at that time.

Q. Your idea is that was the proper solution to the problem at the moment?

A. It was the proper thing to do at the moment Maybe a more drastic action should have been taken.

Q. What did you do when you heard that information?

A. I approved it.

Q. What more did you do?

A. I did nothing further.

Q. You didn't inquire into the background of it? If it was a specific case and you felt it had been solved at the moment?

A. That is entirely up to my immediate assistant. I depend upon them entirely until they prove they are not fit to hold the position."

It seems incredible that the bickering and dissension between employees which culminated in this incident could remain unknown to a responsible official who had made that office his headquarters because all his troubles originated there. Further, the fact that after this incident occurred the commissioner not only "did nothing further" but did not even bother to inquire into the cause of the outbreak, amply demonstrates his unfitness for the office he holds and provides the reason why the conditions mentioned in this report exist and will continue to exist.

The Report of the Ways and Means Committee quoted at the beginning of this report is a public record, published in the Assembly Journal. That report, it will be remembered, contained a flat statement to the effect that the State was not receiving a 40-hour week of work from employees in the San Francisco Office of the Franchise Tax Commissioner. With regard to this, the commissioner gave the following testimony:

"Q. Didn't any one of your officers or any one of your executives report to you or discuss with you the discussion of the Ways and Means Committee in regard to your budget?

A. They did, yes. They discussed that with me, and I told them it didn't make any difference to me whether they denied the $4,000 or whatever it may be.

Q. Didn't Mr. Walsh or anybody point out to you that at the time he appeared before the Subcommittee of the Ways and Means Committee that the Legislative Auditor of this State had reported to the committee that men were not putting in their full time?

A. Oh, yes, they reported that. I got that information, yes, but I had nothing official."

The facts reported by your committee clearly show that the situation complained of in the Ways and Means Committee's Report continued to exist, and that no effective action was taken by the commissioner to correct the situation. From the testimony last quoted it would appear that the commissioner did not feel compelled to take any action or make any investigation until he had something "official" to go on, rather than a mere finding of a legislative committee charged with the duty of analyzing the budget. If the head of a state agency is not concerned when his agency's budget is slashed, who should be concerned? Similarly, if a budget cut made because of waste and inefficiency in a department does not constitute "official notice" of the need for investigation and other action by the head of such agency, is there anything which would constitute "official notice"? It is difficult to imagine a more damning confession of incompetence than that contained in the testimony last quoted.

The record keeping of the Office of Franchise Tax Commissioner was criticized by the Department of Finance in its audit report for 1944-1946 and again in its audit report for 1946-1947. Sick leave and overtime records were specifically singled out for criticism. While the Franchise Tax Commissioner asserts these matters have been rectified, the facts do not bear him out.

Testimony of several witnesses sworn and examined before your committee clearly establishes the fact that George Ney was in Oroville, on private business, on September 30, and October 1, 2, and 3, 1946. The attendance report, filed in Sacramento by the San Francisco Office of the Franchise Tax Commissioner showed Ney as present and working on September 30, and reported him "sick" on October 1st, 2d, and 3d. The facts are that when Ney left for Oroville the attendance clerk was informed he was taking October 1st, 2d, and 3d off on vacation. The original daily report showed him on vacation on those days. The rough draft monthly report also showed Ney on vacation on the days mentioned. However, before the monthly report (on the basis of which salaries are paid) was typed in final form, it was discovered Ney had used all his vacation prior to October 1st. The records were then changed to show Ney on "sick-leave," although he was well enough to work in Oroville. It now appears that this record was again changed, within the past year, on the grounds that the attendance clerk had been mistaken.

The fact that these records do not, even now, accurately reflect the days or hours worked by employees is demonstrated by the personnel records and the following testimony given by Mr. McColgan:

"Q. Well, approximately how many hours a week do you spend in the office?

A. I couldn't say.

Q. Could you tell me, say for last Tuesday?

A. I wasn't in the office last Tuesday.

Q. Wednesday?

A. I was laid up with a cold this week. As a matter of fact, I got out of bed sick to come up here. I didn't want anybody to accuse me that I was trying to avoid this committee.

Q. Last week on Friday, could you give us any idea?

A. I couldn't say, no. I wouldn't say offhand. I would rather have the records to answer that."

The plain meaning of this testimony is that Mr. McColgan could not remember whether he had worked on Friday, September 3d (the date of the hearing was Friday, September 10th), but that he had not been in his office from September 6th to 10th because he was "laid up with a cold" and "got out of a sick bed" to appear before the committee. The attendance report filed by his office shows Mr. McColgan present on every day mentioned, except the 7th and 8th, when he was credited with vacation—not sick leave. It may be that Mr. McColgan has received "nothing official" to notify him that he was not present on September 9th, but is credited with working on that day. The fact remains, the records of his office are still inaccurate.

The record before your committee is replete with similar examples of inept inefficiency or wilful neglect of duty on the part of the Franchise Tax Commissioner. The evidence shows, among other things, that his attendance at his office was spotty and sporadic; that he had almost no personal contact with the key officials who, according to his own testimony, were directly responsible to him; that he was not familiar with the functions of the various branch offices maintained by his department, had no personal knowledge as to whether such offices were needed, and had made no study or survey to determine whether they could be eliminated; and that he not only used a state car for private purposes, but also had state employees "take him for rides" not connected with state business.

In order to prescribe the best method of eliminating the conditions mentioned in this report it is necessary to determine what factors led to these conditions and permitted them to continue.

The historical background of this office has been set forth earlier in this report. It will be remembered that under Section 22 of the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act, "the Franchise Tax Commissioner shall be appointed by the Director of the Department of Finance, the Controller of the State, and the Chairman of the State Board of Equalization who are authorized to provide him with such assistants as they may deem necessary, and he shall serve for such compensation, and under such conditions, as they may prescribe."

The incumbent Franchise Tax Commissioner, Charles J. McColgan, was appointed in 1931, pursuant to this section, by Mr. Vandegrift, then Director of the Department of Finance, Mr. Riley, then State Controller, and Mr. Corbitt, at that time Chairman of the State Board of Equalization. He has remained in office since that date, with no admitted responsibility to any state officer.

When the Civil Service Amendment (Article XXIV) was added to the Constitution in 1934, there was some doubt as to the status of Mr. McColgan. The Attorney General ruled that the effect of that amendment was to include the Franchise Tax Commissioner with the Civil Service System. (Opinion NS 1781, dated June 19, 1939.) A copy of that opinion is annexed to this report as Exhibit C, but your committee respectfully directs attention to the following language taken from that opinion:

> "Neither the Controller nor the Chairman of the State Board of Equalization is given any power or authority over the commissioner other than is specified in Section 22 of the act. Such control as may be provided for in that section vests in the three persons occupying the three offices therein mentioned and not in any one of them * * *. The responsibilities of the commissioner have no connection with or relation to the duties and responsibilities of such other officers." (Italics added.)

It will be observed that, while the opinion flatly held the Franchise Tax Commissioner was a civil service employee, it did not attempt to say what action the appointing authorities could take with respect to him.

In a subsequent opinion (NS 4188, dated April 6, 1942) the Attorney General held that the three officers named in Section 22 of the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act constituted the "appointing power" as that term is used in the Civil Service Act, and that they were required to act on or approve his performance reports. It is obvious that a group charged with the duty of approving the performance report of a civil servant has the right and the duty to see that it is properly marked—which would necessarily include the right and duty to ascertain whether he was efficiently performing his duties.

In the same opinion, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit D, the following appraisal of the duties of the three-man group was given:

> "The wording of this section seems clearly to indicate that the appointing power is authorized to set up the machinery by which the commissioner shall operate, to fix his compensation within a range now regulated by the Personnel Board under civil service, and to prescribe the 'conditions' under which the commissioner and his office shall function. These 'conditions' have reference to the administration of the office itself and not the administration of the act." (Italics added.)

The plain meaning of this language is that the commission is answerable to the three-man appointing authority for the efficient operation of the office.

The question immediately arises as to why the appointing authority has taken no action to correct the situation. Early in the course of the investigation contact was made with members of the appointing group. While admitting they were aware that the Franchise Tax Office was not being efficiently operated and that the commissioner was either unwilling or unable to correct the situation, they implied that they had no authority to take any corrective or disciplinary action.

Your committee is convinced that this three-man appointing authority has the authority to correct the situation, and should have taken action for that purpose long ago.

As pointed out by the Attorney General in the language quoted above, the three-man appointing group has authority to prescribe the conditions under which the commissioner and his office shall function with respect to administration of the office.

Misuse of state equipment, abuse of sick leave, faulty and inefficient record keeping, widespread acceptance of incompatible employment by employees, bickering and dissension between employees, and incompetence or wilful neglect on the part of the highest official, the Franchise Tax Commissioner, are all matters relating directly to the administration of the office rather than the administration of the taxing statute. As such, under the Attorney General's opinion, they are matters for which the three-man appointing authority is responsible.

Section 19574 of the Government Code provides:

> "The appointing power, the (Personnel) board, or any person with the consent of the board, the appointing power or the Attorney General, may file charges against any employee or any person on any employment list for punitive action for one or more causes for discipline defined in this article."

Under this section it is clear that the three-man group which, under the Attorney General's opinion, is the "appointing power" has the authority to file charges against the Franchise Tax Commissioner. Among the grounds for such charges listed in Section 19572 of the same code are (b) incompetency, (c) inefficiency, (d) inexcusable neglect of duty, and (r) any other acts which are incompatible with or inimical to the public service.

The record before your committee shows that the Franchise Tax Commissioner, Charles J. McColgan is not, has not, and probably will not efficiently perform the administrative duties for which he is responsible. Your committee has not attempted to build a complete case against Mr. McColgan which will, in itself, be sufficient to meet all the legal and technical requirements connected with administrative and judicial proceedings. Your committee believes that the function of a legislative committee is to obtain facts and make recommendations, and not to prosecute any individual.

However, the facts heretofore related in this report are substantiated by sworn testimony and documentary evidence. If for any reason more evidence is needed, that evidence could and should be secured by the appointing authority. The overall fact remains that the public welfare requires the removal of the incumbent Franchise Tax Commissioner, and the responsibility for accomplishing that now rests, has rested, and will continue to rest in the State Controller, the Director of the Department of Finance, and the Chairman of the State Board of Equalization.

Your committee feels it only fair to mention that the present members of the three-man appointing authority inherited a bad situation which was already out of control. Some of the present members of the three-man appointing authority supported a bill at the 1947 Regular Session which would have made the Office of Franchise Tax Commissioner appointive by the Governor. In addition, the present group commenced an investigation of the commissioner which was subsequently dropped, presumably because of lack of funds, before facts had been uncovered which would be sufficient to support disciplinary charges before the State Personnel Board.

While the removal of the incumbent Franchise Tax Commissioner and the appointment of an efficient administrator to that office would be beneficial, it is not the complete answer to the problem. In addition to that action legislation should be enacted which will make the Franchise Tax Commissioner answerable to some higher authority on all matters relating to his office and the statutes he administers. The incumbent commissioner testified that he was responsible only to the Legislature—and then stated he had made no report to or appearance before that body in the last 15 years.

It is obvious that legislation is needed which will either:

(1) Clarify the rights, duties and responsibilities of the three-man "appointing power," authorize it to act by majority vote, and require the Franchise Tax Commissioner to report periodically to that group; or

(2) Provide that the Franchise Tax Commissioner be appointed by, and responsible to, the Governor.

CONCLUSION AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Based on its investigations, your committee concludes that now, and for some years past, the interests of the State have been jeopardized by inefficiency and mismanagement in the Office of the Franchise Tax Commissioner, and by the widespread practice of employees in that office soliciting and performing outside employment which is incompatible with their duties as state employees.

Your committee also concludes that this condition has resulted from lack of proper supervision at top levels in the commissioner's office and that this condition can be remedied by an efficient commissioner and proper organization and control within the department. Your committee recommends:

(1) That legislation be adopted which will clearly prohibit income and franchise tax auditors and examiners from preparing state or federal income tax returns or accepting outside accounting work;

(2) That legislation be adopted clarifying the rights, duties, and responsibilities of the board which now constitutes the "appointing power" for the commissioner, or providing that the Office of Franchise Tax Commissioner be filled by appointment of the Governor by and with the consent of the Senate, and that the commissioner be directly responsible to the Governor;

(3) That the commissioner and the board file charges against George Ney, Income Tax Examiner, and review the evidence brought out in the proceedings of this committee and the investigation conducted by the commissioner to determine whether charges also should be filed against other employees. No specific recommendation is made as to Ralph Ebner, Income Tax Examiner, solely because that individual has resigned from state service;

(4) That the appointing authority, consisting of the Director of Finance, the Chairman of the State Board of Equalization, and the Controller, be requested to perform their duties under Section 22 of the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act, and to file charges against the incumbent Franchise Tax Commissioner pursuant to Section 19574 of the Government Code.

(5) That the heads of all state departments review the procedures within their departments and take such action as may be necessary to eliminate the acceptance of incompatible employment by employees thereof. It is specifically recommended that, in all cases of doubt, an opinion be secured from the Attorney General without delay.

Your committee wishes to emphasize the fact that although its investigation was limited to the Office of the Franchise Tax Commissioner, the conditions uncovered as an incident to that investigation justify the conclusion that similar investigations of other state departments and agencies would be worthwhile and in the public interest.

OPINION OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO 2, CALIFORNIA, August 5, 1948

State Employees—Outside Employment—No. 1038

We have been asked for our opinion on the following questions:

Question

1. If an income tax examiner employed by the Franchise Tax Commissioner engages in the business of accounting for a fee (after the close of his normal state working day and on his own time) including the preparation of state and federal income tax returns, would such conduct constitute a violation of Section 70 of the Penal Code?

2. Would such conduct constitute a violation of Section 19251 of the Government Code?

Opinion

In our opinion the answer to the first question is in the negative, and the answer to the second question is in the affirmative.

Analysis

Section 70 of the Penal Code provides:

> "Every executive or ministerial officer, employee or appointee of the State of California, county or city therein or political subdivision thereof, who knowingly asks, receives or agrees to receive any emolument, gratuity or reward, or any promise thereof, excepting such as may be authorized by law for doing an official act, is guilty of a misdemeanor."

Reference to this section is made in only four decisions of the California Courts, and in only one of those cases was a prosecution under the section involved. In that case, People vs. Kalloch, 145 Cal. 116, the court said:

> "* * * the obvious intent of the statute was to prevent any improper influences being brought to bear upon official action. But the indictment in this case does not charge the defendant with having received any reward or promise thereof as an inducement to his official action." (Italics are the court's.)

The court affirmed a judgment sustaining a demurrer to the indictment for the above reason, although the indictment charged the defendant, Mayor of San Francisco, with using his official position to secure a raise in salary for one Hughey, and then demanding that Hughey turn over the increase to him, and further charged that he received said increase from Hughey.

It is apparent that, as interpreted by the court, the section is meant to apply only to a corrupt act done with evil intent. This is further borne out by the Code Commissioner's notes at the time the section was codified in 1872. Resort may properly be had to such notes to determine the meaning of the section. Estate of Toule, 14 Cal. 2d 261. The note to Section 70 states "The offense implies the existence of a corrupt mind, and it is not committed when the fee came voluntarily in return for real benefits conferred by extra exertions put forth."

In our opinion an employee of the Franchise Tax Commissioner who accepts a fee for preparing, on his own time and pursuant to other employment, a state income tax return, would not be guilty of a misdemeanor under Section 70 of the Penal Code.

A different situation obtains with respect to Section 19251 of the Government Code. That section provides:

> "A state officer or employee shall not engage in any other activity or enterprise inconsistent, incompatible, or in conflict with his duties as a state officer or employee."

This section has never been considered by the Supreme Court or appellate courts of this State. In construing the section the Attorney General has said:

> "Generally speaking, any outside employment would be 'inconsistent or incompatible or in conflict' with state duties whenever the nature or duties of the respective offices or positions were such that if both were held by one person, the public interest would be likely to suffer" (Ops. A.G. 202, 204).

We believe that is a proper construction of the section.

An accountant who completes income tax returns is frequently called upon to determine various problems, such as whether certain items are allowable business expenses, or which method should be used to show depreciation or depletion, and many which might have a considerable effect upon the amount reflected by the books as profit or income. The duties of income tax examiners, as compiled by the State Personnel Board, include making investigations and audits to determine whether the books reflect the true profit or income, and reviewing income tax returns.

It is obvious that an income tax examiner who was called upon to investigate or audit the books of a person who employed him to keep such books in order would, for obvious reasons, be less likely to discover irregularities in such books than would a person who had not been so employed. Similarly an income tax examiner who had been paid to fill out a return would be less likely to discover any error in that return than an examiner who had no previous connection with the return. The possibility that the interests of the State would suffer is obvious.

It is therefore our opinion that an income tax examiner who engages in outside accounting work for a fee or who prepares state income tax returns for a fee, violates the provisions of Section 19251 of the Government Code.

Incompatible Employment—#1090

DEAR MR. STEWART: You have asked our opinion as to whether legislation prohibiting state employees whose duties include reviewing tax returns, making audits and investigations, and considering claims for tax refund, from accepting outside employment as bookkeeper, accountant or attorney at law, would be valid.

In our opinion such legislation would be valid.

The Legislature is vested with the whole of the legislative power of the State, and may deal with any subject within the scope of civil government, except so far as it is restrained by the provisions of the Constitution. In re Madera Irr. District, 92 Cal. 296. The Constitution restrains that power only insofar as the restriction appears by express constitutional provision, or by necessary implication. Bourland vs. Hildreth, 26 Cal. 161.

We are aware of no provision of the Constitution, including the civil service amendment (Art. XXIV), which expressly or by necessary implication, restricts the power of the Legislature to prescribe, by general law, the standard of conduct which the State may, to protect the public interest, demand from its employees as a condition of employment.

It is well settled that the right to an office or employment with the government is not a vested property right and removal therefrom will not support the question of due process. Ludolph vs. Board of Police Commissioners, 30 Cal. App. 2d 211. It follows that a state employee has no vested right in the terms or conditions of his employment.

The only other constitutional question which could seriously be raised is whether the proposed bill, inasmuch as it applies to only certain designated employees, is 'special legislation' within the meaning of Article IV, Section 25 (33) of the Constitution which prohibits special laws where a general law can be made applicable. That provision does not prevent legislation imposing burdensome conditions upon a designated class of persons, unless the classification is arbitrary and not founded on a natural, intrinsic or constitutional distinction People vs. Schomig, 74 Cal. App. 109.

The purpose of the proposed legislation obviously is to protect the interests of the State by preventing a situation whereby an employee of the State might be tempted to overlook errors in tax returns which were prepared by him, or which were based on work performed by him for a private citizen. Since the situation to be remedied arises because of circumstances connected with employees performing certain duties, legislation which operates only on employees with those duties is, in our opinion, based on a natural and intrinsic distinction, and therefore is valid.

From a practical standpoint, legislation of the type mentioned is no more than a legislative determination that certain types of outside employment are incompatible with certain types of state employment, within the meaning of Section 19251 of the Government Code. We believe legislation of the type mentioned is valid.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE
OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL
LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, October 8, 1948

Hon. A. I. Stewart, Chairman
Assembly Interim Committee on Governmental Efficiency and Economy
600 State Building, Los Angeles, California

DEAR SIR: You have requested the advice of this office relative to outside employment by civil service employees of the Franchise Tax Commissioner's Office. You desire this for immediate use of the committee but there is not sufficient time to have an opinion go through the regular channels. If you desire an official opinion on the problem, we will be glad to render it to you upon your so stating.

It appears that certain civil service employees of the Franchise Tax Commissioner's Office are engaged in making out state and federal income tax returns and doing accounting and bookkeeping for private clients. You state that some of this work is done during regular office hours with state equipment, and that some of it is done outside of office hours. You desire advice as to whether or not such outside employment is in conflict with Government Code Section 19251, which provides:

> "A state officer or employee shall not engage in any other activity or enterprise inconsistent, incompatible, or in conflict with his duties as a state officer or employee."

Aside from all other considerations, if private employment is carried on during regular office hours or during the time when the employee is assigned to official duties, obviously such private employment is inconsistent, incompatible, and in conflict with his duties as a state officer or employee. The Civil Service Act does not prevent nor preclude the acceptance of employment by a state officer or employee outside the office, and at such times as the person is not assigned to duties, providing, of course, that there is nothing inconsistent or incompatible or in conflict with his duties as a state officer or employee. (See A. G. Ops. NS 4040.) Even accepting permissible employment during leisure time cannot be carried to such an extent that by reason of the loss of sleep, or some other cause, the employee is less efficient in performing his duties for the State.

This provision in the Civil Service Act (Government Code, Section 19251), however, does not prevent the Personnel Board or an appointing authority from further restricting the outside activities of employees by proper rules and regulations.

Aside from the question of time of performance of duties involved, your question fundamentally is concerned with incompatibility of such employment and the duty to the State. For an answer to this problem we refer to the question of incompatability with respect to different public offices. The same fundamental rule of law applies with reference to a civil service employee and private employment. It is somewhat difficult to formulate a general definition of what constitutes incompatibility, but the courts have laid down certain rules and tests for determining the matter. No one rule or statement is sufficiently clear and comprehensive to be decisive in every case. We are not concerned here with the mere physical inability to perform the duties of both employments. The test, however, is to be found in the character of the employments and their relation to each other, and in the nature of the duties and functions which will attach to each. Incompatibility exists where there is a conflict in the duties of the office, so that the performance of the duties of the one interferes with the performance of the duties of the other. This is something more than a physical impossibility to discharge the duties of both employments at the same time. They are generally considered incompatible where such duties and functions are inherently inconsistent and repugnant, so that, because of the contrariety and antagonism which would result from the attempt of one person to discharge faithfully, impartially, and efficiently the duties of both employments, considerations of public policy render it improper for an incumbent to retain both. It is not an essential element of incompatibility of offices at common law that the clash of duties should exist in all or in the greater part of the official function. It is immaterial on the question of incompatibility that the party need not and probably will not undertake to act in both offices or employment at the same time. 42 Am Jur. 935.

In People vs. Garrett, 72 Cal. App. 452 (1925), it was pointed out that incompatibility between two offices is an inconsistency in the functions of the two, "as judge and clerk of the same court—officer who presents his personal account subject to audit, and officer whose duty it is to audit it." It was also pointed out in that case that in order to render two offices incompatible there must be some such relation between them as that of master and servant—that the one must have controlment of the other, or that the one must be charged with the duty of auditing or supervising the accounts of the other, etc. (Emphasis added.)

With these general principles in mind let us examine the functions and duties of the staff of the Franchise Tax Commissioner who review or audit in any way whatever or have any determination to make regarding franchise or income tax returns. It is their duty to assess and collect the proper and legal amount of taxes which may be due the State of California. This does not necessarily mean that the greatest amount of tax be assessed and collected, but only that the legal amount be assessed and collected. The duty, then, which these employees owe to the State of California is to see that all amounts legally due the State of California are reported and the taxes paid. Obviously in examining income tax returns and dealing with the public this function involves a certain amount of discretion by the examining employee. On the other hand, if an employee keeps books or prepares accounts for the purpose of preparing income or franchise tax returns, or prepares federal or state income or franchise tax returns, it is his duty to his employer to keep the taxes as low as legally possible. This obviously, in many instances, involves considerable discretion, not only as to whether certain items should be reported but also as to the manner of reporting such items. Basically then these duties, that is, the private employment of keeping books, preparing accounts, preparing federal and state returns, is in conflict and is incompatible with the public employment of those employees of such taxing offices, which employees are auditors, accountants or other persons who have accounting or supervising functions of any type over the returns filed. Books of account are kept for, and their condition is necessarily reflected in, the tax returns filed.

The inclusion of the preparation of federal forms in this opinion is made upon the basis of the fact that there is cooperation between the Federal Government and the State Government on income taxes, with respect to audit and review. Furthermore it is required that the amount reported on the federal and state tax returns be reconciled.

Therefore, in reply to your question my advice may be summarized as follows:

1. Aside from any incompatibility or conflict in employment, a civil service employee may not engage in private business on time when he is assigned to duty for the State.

2. If there is no conflict or incompatibility between his duty to the State and private employment, a civil service employee may, within reasonable limits, and subject to further restrictions by rules of the Personnel Board or the appointing authority, engage in private business during such times he is not assigned to duty by the State.

3. That the accepting of private employment at any time in preparing state or federal income tax returns or doing bookkeeping and accounting by a state officer or employee who is employed as an auditor or accountant or in some other supervisory position whereby his discretion is involved in reviewing tax returns is incompatible with his duties as a state officer or employee; and therefore is in violation of Government Code Section 19251.

Exhibit "C"

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19, 1939

Hon. Chas. J. McColgan
Franchise Tax Commissioner
Sacramento, California

DEAR SIR: I have your letter of June 10th in which you ask for my opinion on the question of the civil service status of the Franchise Tax Commissioner.

Section 22 of the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act (Statutes 1929, page 19, as amended) provides and has at all times provided as follows:

> "The Franchise Tax Commissioner, herein referred to, shall be appointed by the Director of Finance, the Controller of the State and the Chairman of the State Board of Equalization, who are authorized to provide him with such assistants as they may deem necessary, and he shall serve for such period, and for such compensation, and under such conditions, as they may prescribe.
> He shall have power and it shall be his duty to administer this act, and to prescribe all such rules and regulations as are necessary and reasonable to carry out its provisions; and said commissioner and the State Board of Equalization, for the purpose of administering their duties under this act, each shall have the powers conferred upon said board by Section 3669e of the Political Code."

The state civil service amendment was adopted November 6, 1934, as an initiative measure and became Article XXIV of the Constitution.

Section 4a of Article XXIV reads as follows:

> "(a) The provisions hereof shall apply to, and the term 'State civil service' shall include, every officer and employee of this State except:
> (1) State officers elected by the people.
> (2) State officers directly appointed by the Governor with or without the consent or confirmation of the Senate and the employees of the Governor's Office.
> (3) State officers and employees directly appointed or employed by the Attorney General or the Judicial Council; or by any court of record in this State or any justice, judge or clerk thereof.
> (4) State officers and employees directly appointed or employed by the Legislature or either house thereof.
> (5) One person holding a confidential position to any officer mentioned in paragraphs (1), (2) or (4) hereof except that there shall be but one such position to any board or commission composed in whole or in part of officers mentioned in said paragraphs, each such person to be selected by the officer, board or commission to be served.
> (6) One deputy for the Legislative Counsel and for each state officer elected by the people, each such deputy to be selected by the officer to be served.

(7) Persons employed by the University of California.

(8) Persons employed by any state normal school or teachers college.

(9) The teaching staff of all schools under the direction or jurisdiction of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Department of Education or the director thereof or the State Board of Education who otherwise would be members of the state civil service.

(10) Employees of the Federal Government, or persons whose selection is subject to rules or requirements of the Federal Government, engaged in work done by cooperation between the State and Federal Government or engaged in work financed in whole or in part with federal funds.

(11) Persons appointed or employed by or under the State Board of Prison Directors or any warden of a state prison.

(12) The officers and employees of the Railroad Commission.

(13) Member help in the Veterans' Home of California and inmate help in all state charitable or correctional institutions.

(14) The members of the Militia of the State while engaged in military service."

It is obvious that the Franchise Tax Commissioner is either an officer or employee of the State and that he is included in the State Civil Service System unless he is excluded therefrom by one of the 14 exceptions.

Clearly he does not come within exceptions 1 to 4, inclusive; or exceptions 6 to 14, inclusive. Therefore, if he is excepted from civil service status it must be because of the provisions of exception (5).

Can it be said that the commissioner is a person "holding a confidential position to any officer mentioned in paragraphs (1), (2) or (4)?" If so, who is the officer under whom he served in such confidential capacity?

Of the three persons mentioned in Section 22 of the act two are elected by the people, namely, the Controller and the Chairman of the State Board of Equalization, the Director of Finance being appointed by the Governor.

Neither the Controller nor the Chairman of the State Board of Equalization is given any power or authority over the commissioner other than is specified in Section 22 of the act. Such control as may be provided for in that section vests in the three persons occupying the three offices therein mentioned and not in any one of them. It is clear that the commissioner does not serve in a confidential position to the Controller since the duties of that office are entirely separate and distinct from the duties imposed upon the commissioner under the act and the Personal Income Tax Act.

Nor does the commissioner serve in a confidential position to the Chairman of the State Board of Equalization or to the Director of Finance. The responsibilities of the commissioner have no connection with or relation to the duties and responsibilities of such other officers.

It is my opinion, therefore, that the Franchise Tax Commissioner does not fall within any of the exceptions mentioned in Section 4(a) of Article XXIV and that he now has civil service status. As such civil service officer or employee the statutes and the lawful rules and regulations of the State Personnel Board are applicable to him as in the case of other officers and employees having civil service status.

Exhibit "D"

OPINION OF ATTORNEY GENERAL

April 6, 1942

Hon. George Killion
Director of Finance
Sacramento, California

DEAR SIR: In your letter of March 23, 1942, you state:

"Section 22 of the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act, Deering's Act 8488, provides as follows:

"Section 22. Franchise Tax Commissioner and assistants: Appointment: Powers and duties. The Franchise Tax Commissioner, herein referred to, shall be appointed by the Director of the Department of Finance, the Controller of the State and Chairman of the State Board of Equalization, who are authorized to provide him with such assistants as they may deem necessary, and he shall serve for such period, and for such compensation, and under such conditions, as they may prescribe.

He shall have power, and it shall be his duty, to administer this act, and to prescribe all such rules and regulations as are necessary and reasonable to carry out its provisions; and said commissioner and the State Board of Equalization, for the purpose of administering their duties under this act, each shall have the powers conferred upon said board by Section 3669e of the Political Code of this State.

Section 6 of the State Civil Service Act provides as follows:

'Sec. 6. "Appointing power" means the person or group of persons having the authority to make appointments to positions in the state civil service.'

In your Opinion NS1781 it was held that the Franchise Tax Commissioner has civil service status and that

'As such civil service officer or employee the statutes and the lawful rules and regulations of the State Personnel Board are applicable to him as in the case of other officers and employees having civil service status.'

Clarification is desired of the powers, duties and responsibilities of the above group of state officers in directing the Franchise Tax Commissioner with respect to the administration of the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act and other laws.

Your opinion is accordingly desired on the following questions:

1. Does the group of state officers mentioned in Section 22 of the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act constitute the appointing power of the Franchise Tax Commissioner within the meaning of Section 6 of the State Civil Service Act?

2. If your answer to the above question is in the affirmative, is action or approval by said group necessary in connection with the following:

(a) The filing of performance reports for the Franchise Tax Commissioner under Section 142 of the State Civil Service Act.

(b) The granting of a leave of absence without pay for said official under the provisions of Section 149 of the State Civil Service Act.

(c) In the event the Franchise Tax Commissioner should become eligible for retirement for disability, would said group of officers constitute 'the head of the office or department' within the meaning of Section 85a of the State Employees' Retirement Act?

3. If your answer to question 1 is in the negative, who would be the commissioner's appointing power under Section 6 of the State Civil Service Act?

4. Is the Franchise Tax Commissioner subject to direction or supervision by said group of officers in determining allocations of income under Section 10 of the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act?''

I will answer your specific questions as follows:

1. It is my opinion that the group of state officers mentioned in Section 22 of the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act, to wit, the Director of Finance, the State Controller and the Chairman of the State Board of Equalization, constitute a continuing appointing power of the Franchise Tax Commissioner within the meaning of Section 6 of the State Civil Service Act.

In Attorney General's Opinion NS1781, as you have pointed out, it was held that the Franchise Tax Commissioner has civil service status. His original appointment having antedated Article XXIV of the Constitution, he was thereby blanketed in as such commissioner when the State Civil Service Amendment became the law. He thus holds that position for an indeterminate period and the three officers who appointed him continue ex officio to remain his appointing power. Our former opinion held that he was not appointed by any of these three officers individually, but was an appointee of all of them as a group.

2. Action or approval by said group is necessary in connection with (a) the filing of performance reports for the Franchise Tax Commissioner under Section 142 of the Civil Service Act. That section provides in part—''Performance reports shall be filed by appointing powers at such intervals as the board may by rules provide * * *.''

(b) Action or approval by said group is necessary in connection with the granting of a leave of absence without pay for the Franchise Tax Commissioner under the provisions of Section 149 of the State Civil Service Act. That section provides in part that ''* * * an appointing authority may grant a leave of absence without pay to any employee under his jurisdiction for a period not exceeding one year * * *.''

(c) In the event the Franchise Tax Commissioner should become eligible for retirement for disability, this group of three state officers would constitute the ''head of the office or department'' within the meaning of Section 85(a) of the State Employees' Retirement Act, and these three state officers would be required to take appropriate action as a group constituting the "head of the office or department" within the meaning of Section 85a of the State Employees' Retirement Act.

3. Since my answer to Question 1 is in the affirmative, this question need not be answered.

4. It will be noted that Section 22 of the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act, quoted above, provides that the appointing power is "authorized to provide him (the commissioner) with such assistants as they may deem necessary, and he shall serve for such period and for such compensation, and under such conditions, as they may prescribe."

In this same section the Franchise Tax Commissioner "shall have power and it shall be his duty to administer this act and to prescribe all such rules and regulations as are necessary and reasonable to carry out its provisions;" said paragraph further granting to the commissioner for the purpose of administering his duties under this act the same powers as are conferred upon the Board of Equalization by Section 3669e of the Political Code. The wording of this section seems clearly to indicate that the appointing power is authorized to set up the machinery by which the commissioner shall operate, to fix his compensation within a range now regulated by the Personnel Board under civil service, and to prescribe the "conditions" under which the commissioner and his office shall function. These "conditions" have reference to the administration of the office itself and not the administration of the act.

The commissioner is given the specific power to administer the act. Since Section 10 of the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act deals with the matter of computation of tax on intra-state businesses and the allocations of the incomes of banks and corporations within the State, this is clearly a matter of administration of the act itself, which is within the powers and duties of the Franchise Tax Commissioner and not subject to direction or supervision by the appointing power.

Yours very truly,

EARL WARREN, Attorney General
By JOHN QUINCY BROWN, Deputy Attorney General

Relating to, and further defining the powers and duties of, the Assembly Interim Committee on State and Local Taxation

WHEREAS, Wage earners stand alone among persons subject to the income tax, in that they are the only group as to whom completely accurate figures on income are available; and

WHEREAS, Under the existing laws it is an administrative impossibility to audit any substantial number of income tax returns; and

WHEREAS, It has become apparent that evasion of taxes, particularly the state income tax, is increasing; and

WHEREAS, A need exists for a legislative study to determine the extent, if any, of such evasion and the means and devices used to accomplish it, in order that effective legislation to prevent such practices may be enacted; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That in addition to the powers and duties heretofore conferred upon it, the Assembly Interim Committee on State and Local Taxation (created by House Resolution No. 37, 1947 Regular Session and continued by House Resolution No. 16, 1949 Regular Session) is authorized and directed to ascertain, study and analyze all facts relating to, or in any way bearing upon any of the subjects mentioned in the recitals of this resolution, and to report thereon to the Assembly.

By Mr. Morris:

House Resolution No. 66

Condemning piracy on the high seas and in Sacramento hotels and dining rooms

WHEREAS, The demands of the State Government of California annually require Members of the Legislature and many hundreds of other people to spend a considerable amount of time at the State Capitol in the City of Sacramento; and

WHEREAS, These people are required to find such living accommodations and services as may be available and to pay for them at whatever prices are demanded; and

WHEREAS, A majority of those in Sacramento furnishing living accommodations and meals take advantage of such enforced patronage of their places of business to increase prices far beyond a reasonable range and above prices for comparable services in other cities of California; and

WHEREAS, Such practices are inimical to the best interests of the State of California, and are not in accord with the spirit of gracious and generous hospitality for which the people of the City of Sacramento formerly were famous, and bring upon the capital city of California a reputation for greed and unfair dealing which is an undesirable reflection upon the good people of this lovely city; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That measures should at once be taken to curb these practices, and to remind all that in these years of California's Centennial Celebrations we are reviving merely the romantic spirit of the days of Black Bart, Murietta, and other banditti, and that the practices of these long-gone highwaymen are quite as undesirable when employed behind a price list as behind a gun; and be it further

Resolved, That the City Council of the City of Sacramento is memorialized and urged to enact at once an ordinance providing controls upon living accommodation and food prices in the City of Sacramento at such levels as prices in effect in other large cities of California, at ranges within the amounts which can be paid by Members of the Legislature and employees of the Legislature and the State of California whose services are required for the functioning of the State Government and whose presence in Sacramento is required for that purpose; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly send copies of this resolution to each member of the City Council of Sacramento, to the Better Business Bureau of Sacramento, and to the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce.

Resolution read, and ordered referred to the Committee on Rules.

WHEREAS, It has been reported by certain commercial fishermen that increasing numbers of sturgeon are being taken incidentally with nets used for the taking of other species of fish; and

WHEREAS, The sturgeon is a valuable food fish and if this species exists in sufficient numbers in California waters to warrant the taking thereof consistently with sound conservation principles, this natural resource should be utilized for the benefit of the people; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Fish and Game Commission is hereby requested to make such investigation of the data already in its possession and also that which it can obtain within the time limits imposed by this resolution relating to the possibilities of the establishment of a commercial sturgeon fishery in California and to report the results of such investigation to this Assembly on or before the fifteenth of April, 1949; and be it further

LEGISLATIVE BUDGET COMMITTEE, CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE
LEGISLATIVE AUDITOR, SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, January 21, 1949

Hon. Thomas J. Doyle
Assemblyman, Forty-fifth District
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

DEAR TOM: You made a request in two parts in relation to aid to the aged:

1. What would be the approximate savings under Proposition 4 if the residence requirements were raised to 15 years, effective January 1, 1949?

2. What effect would this have on the federal program and federal support?

We have checked with the Bureau of Research and Statistics, Department of Social Welfare, and have secured the following information:

1. A resident sample study was made covering recipients who were qualified for benefits prior to effective date of Number 4. This study shows that 82 percent of all recipients drawing benefits have 15 years or more of residence in California. The remainder, or 18 percent, would not qualify with 15 years residence.

In other words, you would eliminate 18 percent of the claimants by increasing the residence requirements to 15 years. But more important, you would delay the potential claimants from 5 to 15 years, and you would discourage persons coming from other states into California to take advantage of our liberal law. Such a residence requirement (15 years) would also have the effect of stabilizing the demands, and would guarantee that these persons were at least potential taxpayers in California for 15 years before becoming charges of the State.

2. Federal participation is at the rate of $30 per month out of a total of $75 per month, prior to January, 1949, for the needy aged. In other words, the Federal Government is paying two-fifths of the cost, and also certain administration costs. The federal law requires only five years residence in a state at the age of 65, such five years to be in the last nine years The law further provides that if the federal assistance is given, the state residence requirement cannot exceed the federal requirement; so, if the residence requirement was increased to 15 years, federal participation would be withdrawn and the State would then be required to make up the $30 for each recipient.

The net result would be that we would take 18 percent of the caseload off by requiring a 15-year residence, and we would lose the federal support of two-fifths, or 40 percent, on the other 82 percent.

For quick figuring, let us say there are 200,000 recipients on the aged benefit roll at $75 a month This is $15,000,000. If we eliminate 18 percent, there would be a savings of $2,700,000 But, on the remaining 164,000, we would make up the federal loss of $30 per month each, or $4,920,000, so the net additional cost to the State per month would be $2,220,000.

Trusting that this supplies the information you desire, I am

Very sincerely yours,

ROLLAND A VANDEGRIFT, Legislative Auditor

CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE, STATE CAPITOL

Hon. Sam L. Collins
Speaker of the Assembly
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

The Assembly Interim Committee on Aviation submits herewith its preliminary report.

This committee was created by House Resolution No. 247 of the 1947 Session. Therein the committee was directed to "ascertain, study and analyze all facts relating to the aviation industry, including the regulation and taxation of air carriers, the location, establishment, construction, improvement and financing of landing facilities, and the administration or needed revision of any and all laws bearing upon or relating to the subject of this resolution and to report thereon to the Legislature."

Pursuant to the directions contained in the resolution, the Speaker appointed the following Members of the Assembly to serve on the committee: Lester A. McMillan, Los Angeles, Chairman; Carl Fletcher, Long Beach, Vice Chairman; Mrs. Kathryn T. Niehouse, San Diego; William S. Grant, Long Beach; Laughlin E. Waters, Los Angeles.

In the time and to the extent permitted by available resources, the committee held many informal meetings, attended meetings of various aviation groups and visited many communities to study their aviation and airport problems and to discuss their future plans. In order to study at first hand the problems confronting the user of personal type aircraft and in order to appraise in their own minds the value of personal aircraft as a means of extending one's radius of movement and to view at close range what, a part of our State at least, had to offer to the personal aircraft user, the committee participated in the annual three-day "Redwood Empire Air Tour." In addition the committee held a series of public hearings in San Diego and Sacramento to identify the problems of the industry, to discuss possible solutions of them and to obtain technical advice and information from all interested persons including private flyers, aviation trade groups, representatives of scheduled air carriers, representatives of public and privately operated airports, and city, county and state officials and employees.

The committee wishes to express its appreciation to all the persons who appeared before it for their helpful assistance and cooperation.

Respectfully submitted.

CARL FLETCHER, Vice Chairman

INTRODUCTION

Because California is ideally suited climatically and topographically for aviation, the growth of private flying is tremendous and constant. With only 7 percent of the total population of the United States in California, this State has 11 percent of all airplanes registered in the Nation, and has 13 percent of all pilots licensed by the Civil Aeronautics Administration. On July 1, 1948, that agency reported 10,639 personal aircraft registered in California.

It will be recalled that on October 15, 1946, this agency reported 7,200 private aircraft in the State. Thus, in 20 months there has been an increase of 3,439 personal aircraft—an increase of 47.7 percent. It is estimated that by 1950, personal aircraft in the State will approach 15,000.

Of the 10,639 private aircraft registered in this State on July 1, 6,265 were located in the 10 counties in Southern California, 4,374 were located in the remaining 48 counties.

Within the 10 southern counties Los Angeles County had 3,720, San Diego County had 724. In the northern part of the State, the Bay area counties accounted for 1,983, of which San Francisco County (which has no airport within its boundaries) had 301. Alameda County had 413; Fresno County had 311; Santa Clara County had 297.

Appendix A shows in tabulation form, by counties, the status of registration in 1946 and in 1948, and, percentage wise, the relation of county registration to the state total.

It is estimated that there are five miles of non-air carrier flying to each mile of commercial airline flight, and that the personal aircraft mileage flown in California in 1948 will total 262,500,000 miles. This approximates the amount of personal flying estimated for the entire Country in 1940. Such figures indicate the need for a bold approach to the problem of additional landing fields and landing strips. It should be borne in mind that an aircraft always demands two airport facilities—a home base and a destination. It follows then that the utility of aircraft is keyed in to these two factors, a base convenient to the user's home and/or office and a terminal facility convenient to his objective. Since 80 percent of personal flying is "contact" flight, the need for air navigation markings and airway markings is evident. A particularly important aspect of this problem is involved in the general acceptance of aircraft by large numbers of people as a means of speedy and comfortable conveyance. The modern aircraft does not require a superman to operate it safely but the navigational aids presently available are designed primarily for the use of highly skilled pilots. Thus the need for additional air navigation aids for personal flying forms one of the most important current problems.

A similar situation exists with respect to airports devoted to air carrier or airline operations. Millions of dollars have been spent and more millions are now being expended to increase these facilities Many municipalities are extended to the financial limit in providing their share of such costs and in providing additional facilities.

The problems of aviation are not solely those relating to the expansion of physical plants; there are those of taxation, of registration, of the proper use of funds derived from various aviation sources, of zoning, of the codification of aviation law, of the operation of the California Aeronautics Commission and of changes in and additions to existing laws relating to aviation.

After giving thoughtful consideration to these problems, the committee set up the following partial agenda to be used as a guide in its deliberations touching non-air carrier operations:

Subjects for study with special reference to publicly owned airports, airports owned by private interests but available for the public use, and the extended utility of personal aircraft.

I. Investigation to determine the feasibility of recovering that portion of the state motor vehicle fuel tax which is paid by the operators of aircraft but remains unclaimed by them with a view to returning these unclaimed moneys to aviation for its development.

1) Assuming that the recovery of the unclaimed fuel tax is found to be feasible, a study should be made to determine the proper legislative mechanics to be utilized in the efficient administration of the foregoing.

2) Assuming the preceding steps, a study to be conducted leading to recommendations touching the final distribution of such moneys in the manner which will most benefit California's aeronautical development.

II. Investigation to determine the present status of the assessment and collection of personal property taxes on aircraft. A survey of status of taxation in this category to be conducted in the office of each county assessor within the State by means of a suitable questionaire.

1) On the basis of the above investigation a study undertaken leading to a definite opinion on the adequacy or inadequacy of the present system.

2) Should the above study indicate that the present system results in any or all of the following:

a) Penalizing of a group or groups of aircraft owners.

b) That there exists a substantial amount of tax evasion within this category.

c) That the county assessors are unable for technical reasons to assess fairly this type of moveable property.

d) That the rates of taxation are sufficiently excessive as to materially discourage the ownership and use of aircraft.

Then a study should be conducted which will lead to recommendations for legislation to correct the errors and abuses as determined.

3) In connection with the foregoing, it is deemed wise to consider the legality, feasibility, and wisdom, of subventing tax moneys from this source to aviation purposes from the state level via an "in lieu" tax to the counties.

III. Should either of the foregoing or any of the succeeding investigations indicate that funds might be available to cities and counties for aviation purposes, it is deemed advisable to study the practicability of establishing appropriate depositories within accounting systems of the cities and/or counties. Some of the factors touching upon the establishment of such depositories are as follows:

1) Legality and precedence.

2) Uses to which funds placed in depository may be put.

a) Matching of federal funds under the Federal Airport Aid Act.

b) Expenditures for airport and aviation purposes which would fall within the general class of capital outlays.

c) Maintenance and operation of publically owned airports.

d) Purchase of easements and air rights for public use.

e) Air marking and navigational aids.

f) Planning and engineering costs for aeronautical development.

3) The extent to which the State should control funds in such depository.

4) Formulae for determining the just apportionment of funds collected at the state level among the several cities and/or counties.

IV. Investigation to determine the extent, complexity, bibliographic difficulty presented by the existing California laws relating to aviation. Should this investigation indicate that substantial difficulty exists in reference, and that the likelihood exists that the subject may become increasingly complex, then a study to be conducted which would lead to a recommendation on the necessity and feasibility of instituting proper codification to the end that an adequate aviation code may develop in an orderly manner.

V. Investigation and study of the Joint Interim Committee on Aviation Report to the Fifty-seventh Session and the California Aeronautics Commission Act enacted by the Fifty-seventh Session to determine the intent of the Legislature in this matter. The foregoing study to be applied to the Aeronautics Commission on its record to date to determine whether the intent of the Fifty-seventh Session of the Legislature is being prosecuted with diligence.

1) On the basis of the foregoing and subsequent investigation a study should be made touching on the advisability of maintaining the control of the size and scope of the Aeronautics Commission by means of supporting it out of the General Fund subject to legislative budgetary action as opposed to automatic support by fees, taxes, and charges levied against the aviation industry.

2) This study revolves around the question of whether it was the intent of the Legislature to create a planning and coordinating body or a regulatory agency.

With this general introduction to the problems faced by it, the committee presents the specific subjects submitted for its consideration.

While the committee has attempted to resolve all of the questions brought before it, some will require further study before definite recommendations may be made. One of these relates to the matter of the taxation of air carriers engaged in interstate commerce, another relates to the matter of the zoning of land for airport purposes.

USE OF UNCLAIMED AVIATION GASOLINE TAX REFUNDS

It is the present thought of the committee that it is not advisable at this time to give consideration to an outright tax upon sales of aviation gasoline. However, the committee believes that thought should be given to the appropriate use of the unclaimed refunds of the tax on sales of aviation gasoline.

At present 4½ cents per gallon is collected on all gasoline sales which, if not refunded, goes directly to the Highway Fund. Recognizing that nonhighway users should not be taxed for highway purposes, the Legislature has authorized refunds to nonhighway users, which refund when made is at the full rate of tax less sales tax.

It was estimated by a representative of the State Controller that the sales tax revenue derived from the sale of aviation gasoline in the Fiscal Year 1947-1948 amounted to $183,651.52. It is worthy of note that this amount of money paid into the General Fund by the aviation industry closely approximates the Aeronautics Commission appropriation for the Fiscal Year 1948-1949 of $188,846.

In the case of aviation gasoline the net amount refunded is about 4 cents per gallon. Distributors at present do not report the sales of aviation type gasoline separately from other types of this fuel, e.g., from auto use gasoline, hence there is no opportunity at this time to determine accurately the aviation gasoline gallonage sold. That it is large is evidenced by the refunds paid in the period January, 1946–July, 1948 as shown in the following table:

* The bulk of claims processed cover purchases during the half-year period preceding month in which claims approved

These refunds are usually claimed within three months of sale—90 percent are so claimed—less than 1 percent carry over beyond six months.

These figures reflect refunds to scheduled air lines, nonscheduled operators and private flyers. The great bulk of the refunds goes to the first two categories, who claim the refunds as a matter of good business. Testimony taken by the committee indicates that not more than 50 percent, if that many, of the private flyers claim the refund. The failure so to do is ascribed to difficulty in retaining sales slips, to difficulty in allocating the sales to the owner of the aircraft, to the procedures incident to making a claim, and general lassitude.

It is estimated, with what the committee regards as reasonable accuracy, that aviation fuel tax collected by the State but not refunded amounted to $400,000 in 1946 and to $500,000 in 1947. (The State Board of Equalization has been requested to obtain accurate figures reflecting the sales of aviation gasoline in the State; however, at the time of the writing of this report, they are not yet available.) This money has gone to the Highway Fund, a disposition evidently not the legislative intent, since all nonhighway users are afforded an opportunity to recapture their payments for gasoline.

In hearings conducted by the committee opinion was unanimous that unclaimed aviation gasoline tax moneys should be made available for use in developing aeronautical facilities. Such use would include the matching of federal funds under the Federal Airport Act, maintenance and operation of publicly-owned airports, purchase of easements and air rights for public use, planning and engineering costs, the augmenting of air navigation aids and the development of air fields and air strips in areas where the private development of such facilities is not economically feasible.

Such problems are not those of any individual community. They are state-wide in nature because of the inherent qualities of and the consequent use of aircraft. There is need for facilities to afford more opportunities for the use of privately owned aircraft, such as landing strips adjacent to beaches, forest areas, state and national parks, and fishing and hunting areas. In many instances their development would not be commercially feasible because of the lack of return on invested capital, yet they would greatly aid in the use of resort areas. So far no state funds have been made available for such purposes. The committee strongly urges the use of unclaimed aviation gasoline taxes for this purpose.

The committee has been advised by the Legislative Counsel that such use is legal and that there is no constitutional bar to such proceeding, as stated in the following opinion:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO 2, CALIFORNIA, October 15, 1948

Hon. Lester A. McMillan
639 S. Spring Street
Los Angeles 14, California

Gasoline Tax, Aviation—No. 1233

DEAR MR. MCMILLAN:

Question

You have asked our opinion as to the constitutionality of proposed legislation which would set up a special fund to be used for aviation and airport purposes. The special fund would consist of that portion of the money collected under the motor vehicle fuel tax which is derived from distribution of aviation fuel used in aviation The aviation fuel would be appropriately defined.

Opinion

Analysis

Article XXVI of the State Constitution provides in part as follows:

"Section 1. (a) From and after the effective date of this article, all moneys collected from any tax now or hereafter imposed by the State upon the manufacture, sale, distribution, or use of motor vehicle fuel, for use in motor vehicles upon the public streets and highways over and above the costs of collection, and any refunds authorized by law shall be used exclusively and directly for highway purposes, as follows:" (Italics ours)

It is our opinion that this article only restricts the use of money "collected from taxes imposed upon the manufacture, sale, distribution or use of motor vehicle fuel, for use in motor vehicles upon the public streets and highways." It in no way restricts the use that may be made of money collected from any tax imposed upon the manufacture, sale, distribution, or use of motor vehicle fuel for non-highway use.

The words "refunds authorized by law" in subdivision (a) of Section 1 is a part of the single clause "over and above the costs of collection, and any refunds authorized by law." Its effect is to exclude costs and refunds authorized by law from the "moneys collected" that must be used exclusively for highway purposes.

Thus the only money collected under the motor vehicle fuel tax which under the Constitution must be exclusively used for highway purposes is that portion which is derived from the distribution of motor vehicle fuel for use in motor vehicles upon the public streets and highways, excluding therefrom the costs of collection and any refund authorized by law.

Hence legislation providing for a special fund to be used for aviation purposes consisting of that portion of money collected under the motor vehicle fuel tax which is derived from distribution of motor vehicle fuel for non-highway use is constitutional, providing of course, such portion of the money collected is identified or segregated from the portion derived from distribution of motor vehicle fuel for highway use.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel
By BERNARD CZESLA, Deputy

It is the opinion of the committee, it having been held that unclaimed refunds on sales of aviation gasoline may be legally so used, that the Board of Equalization should be directed to obtain from oil companies information as to the total gallonage of aviation gasoline sold which is subject to tax; that the Controller should be directed to establish a fund into which shall be paid the amount of tax collected on the sales of aviation gasoline, less refunds thereon; that the proceeds of such fund should be distributed, 75 percent to the counties and 25 percent to the California Aeronautics Commission. The amount allotted to the Aeronautics Commission should be a discretionary fund to be allotted to counties on a basis of need; the 75 percent allotted to the counties should be apportioned in the same manner as federal funds are now apportioned among the states; i e., one-half on a basis of area and one-half on a basis of population. The counties should be authorized to allot the moneys received from this source to cities but the use of any such money should be limited to capital outlays; its use for administrative purposes should be prohibited.

TAXATION OF AIRCRAFT AS PERSONAL PROPERTY

One of the first questions to which the committee devoted its attention was that of the taxation of aircraft as personal property. This divides into two parts—the taxation of certificated carriers engaged in interstate commerce; and the taxation of aircraft not so used, i.e., non-scheduled flight operators, commercial users such as crop dusters, and personal aircraft used for business or pleasure purposes or a combination thereof. This division is quite logical when considered as a problem in jurisdiction. The State of California and its political subdivisions do not have, in the opinion of your committee, complete taxable jurisdiction over an interstate carrier whose operations are spread over many states in accordance with the route patterns granted it by the Civil Aeronautics Board. On the other hand it is felt that aircraft not in interstate commerce and owned and based in California are clearly within the jurisdiction of this State and its political subdivisions.

It is the considered opinion of the committee at this stage of its deliberations that the matter of equitable taxation of the moveable property (flight equipment) of interstate air carriers is one which must be solved in part at least at the federal level. The basic problem is that of allocation, the assignment of portions of a carriers total fleet to the states having a taxable jurisdiction over the carrier in question. To achieve equity in this category and to avoid multiple taxation is, in the opinion of the committee, within the sphere of endeavors that the Federal Government can best undertake.

Your committee is not prepared at this time to recommend that the Federal Government should collect the tax but merely that the allocation of taxable interest be equalized federally.

To illustrate the variation that exists among the several states there follows a series of examples of state practices with reference to taxation of commercial air lines. It is to be noted in the following that similarity does not exist either in the method of allocation or in the method of evaluation.

Arkansas. If the home port of the aircraft is within the state, it is assessed locally.

Colorado. Assessed by State Tax Commission, using the full cash value less depreciation. Real and personal property is assessed on an equitable basis with other property in the county where it is situated and the value allocated to the county.

Connecticut. Locally assessed and levied, with no uniform practices.

Delaware. All personal property is exempt from taxation.

Florida. All aircraft are classed as "motor vehicles" for purposes of taxation, and are charged a registration fee in lieu of state and local taxation. Additionally, a charge is made whenever any aircraft is used for hire over the airspace of the state.

Idaho. Aircraft engaged principally in commercial flying constituting an act of interstate commerce are exempt from the in lieu tax imposed upon private aircraft and from all other personal property taxes.

Illinois. Commercial airlines are assessed and taxed locally. Although all personal property is, by law, to be assessed on a uniform basis, practices vary to an unknown extent.

Iowa. A registration fee is imposed in lieu of all other taxes. The provision does not apply to aircraft principally engaged in commercial flying in interstate commerce unless operated in scheduled interstate airline operation, owned by an Iowa person and operated part time within that state.

Indiana. No personal property taxes are levied on flight equipment.

Kentucky. Commercial airlines are assessed and taxed, as a public utility, by the State Department of Revenue. The basis for taxation is a composite of miles of route, property, ton and passenger miles and gross receipts, equalized at 80 percent. Aircraft are assessed with the remaining value as a "franchise."

Michigan. Aircraft in interstate commerce are exempt from the registration fee, imposed upon all other aircraft, which is in lieu of all property taxes. The registration fee is at the rate of one-half cent per pound of net empty weight, with a maximum of $50.

Minnesota. Commercial airlines are assessed by the State Commission of Taxation on the full value of all flight property operated or used in air commerce in the state The valuation apportioned to Minnesota is the proportion of the total valuation based on three percentages, viz. 33⅓ percent is the proportion of total tonnage of passengers, express and freight first received in the state plus total tonnage of similar categories finally discharged in the state to the total tonnage of passengers, express and freight first received or finally discharged by the carrier. The calendar year is the unit for comparison; 33⅓ percent of the percentage of equated plane hours in Minnesota when measured against the total time of all of the carriers' aircraft; 33⅓ percent of the percentage which the revenue ton miles of passengers, express and freight flown by the carrier in Minnesota bears to the total of such miles flown by the carrier. The flight property is assessed at 40 percent of the full and true value.

Nebraska. Airlines are assessed and taxed by the State Tax Commission. The proportion of flight equipment allocated to the state for taxation purposes is the arithmetical average of three ratios; viz. (1) the ratio of aircraft arrivals and departures in the state to the total arrivals and departures of the carrier during a calendar year; (2) the ratio of revenue tons first received or finally discharged in the state to the total revenue tons of the carrier; (3) the ratio of originating revenue within the state to the total originating revenue of the carrier.

Nevada. Valuation is established by the Nevada Tax Commission using the following formula · the commission fixes the valuation of the franchise and all physical property used directly in the operation as a collective unit. If operating in more than one county the commission determines the aggregate mileage operated within the state and within the several counties and apportions the same upon a mile-unit basis The number of miles apportioned to a county is subject to assessment in the county according to the mile-unit valuation established by the Tax Commission.

New York. All personal property is exempted from taxation.

Oklahoma. Assessment and taxation by the State Tax Commission, using the "Official Aircraft Price Guide" and assessing at about 50 percent of fair cash value. Allowances for depreciation are based on use and age of aircraft. Formula for interstate carriers is on the basis of the total number of miles flown in the state as a percentage of the total number of miles in the airline system.

Pennsylvania. No personal property taxes are levied on any aircraft.

Utah. Assessment by the State Tax Commission is on a basis of 40 percent of fair cash value of system flying equipment apportioned in Utah. Book value of "Aircraft Account" less depreciation divided by number of planes equals net flying equipment to be apportioned to the state. Company depreciation is allowed, if reasonable. Allowances for the time the aircraft are not within the state are based on revenue ton miles, hours in the air and on the ground, air miles flown, and the book value of tangible property.

Washington. Assessed and taxed by the State Tax Commission at 50 percent of market value, based on aircraft blue book values The unit system of valuation is used and transient flight equipment is apportioned to the state on a relative mileage basis, without regard to time.

West Virginia. Assessed and taxed by the State Tax Commission, on the basis of "enterprise value," as declared by the owner. About 20 percent depreciation per year is allowed. Method of valuation not given Wisconsin. Assessed annually by the State Department of Taxation, on the basis of full market value.

Wyoming. The State Board of Equalization fixes an arbitrary value of approximately 50 percent of fair value. The Wyoming portion of the value is the ratio of the miles flown in the state to the total miles flown on the entire system There is no set allowance for depreciation because of the present practice of accepting figures submitted by the various companies.

Federal legislation to prevent multiple taxation has been introduced in two sessions of Congress, but in each instance has failed of passage. Studies have been made of multiple taxation of air commerce by an Advisory Committee to the Civil Aeronautics Board and a staff study on air carrier taxation has been submitted to the Joint Legislative Committee on Interstate Cooperation of the State of New York. The Committee on Taxation of Airlines of the National Association of Tax Administrators has been studying the subject for more than three years and is now making recommendations with reference thereto. Their recommendations were embodied in a suggested uniform law for the taxation of flight property. Their actions were based upon the possibility that federal legislation relating to multiple taxation of air carriers, if passed, may lead to further legislation regulating the state taxation of interstate commerce in general.

It may well be said that the subject deserves much study before a solution can be found.

However, the second part of the problem—that of the taxation of personal aircraft—is capable of solution at this time. When it is recalled that there are more than 10,500 such aircraft registered in California their aggregate value of $31,500,000 becomes important when considering taxation. It is interesting to note that this value exceeds that of the portion of the air carrier fleet which would be allocated to California under the suggested allocation formulas. The scheduled air lines of the United States are currently operating a total of 1,054 aircraft throughout the world. The Massachusetts formula, for example, would allocate 9 percent of the United States fleet of aircraft to California for tax purposes.

It became immediately apparent to the committee that this matter would require a considerable amount of investigation and testimony the general tenor of which we will attempt to set forth. There were three basic factors in the testimony presented. (1) Evasion of tax (2) Equity of tax in respect to evaluation and the application of rate (3) Necessity of state registration of aircraft to effectuate an "in lieu" tax.

The Assessors' Association at a recent meeting in Yosemite Valley appointed a committee to study the question of aircraft taxation. The membership of this committee comprises Mr. Crowell D. Eddy, Assessor of San Diego County as chairman, and O. J. Hempstead of San Mateo County, Jack Hartman, Assistant Assessor of Los Angeles County, Louis Kennedy of Alameda County, and Russell L. Wolden of San Francisco County. It might be of interest to note that these counties rank in the matter of aircraft registration as follows: Los Angeles (3,730) first, San Diego (724) second, Alameda (413) third, and San Francisco (301) sixth, and San Mateo (234) twelfth.

In the testimony presented, a portion of which we quote, Mr. Crowell D. Eddy of San Diego County, was the principal spokesman on behalf of the aircraft tax investigation committee appointed by the Assessors' Association.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: At your meeting in Yosemite did you discuss this problem?

MR. EDDY: It was only discussed very briefly as far as that is concerned. The committee was appointed to give it further study and appear before any of your bodies Certain matters were agreed upon, however, at that meeting.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: What do you propose to do? Does your committee propose to make a study of this?

MR. EDDY: It hasn't been the custom of the Assessors' Convention to in any way attempt to devise an assessment or to in any way influence the method of taxation in the State. It has rather been the policy of the convention during the 23 years that I have been a member of that convention to only try to influence such legislation as would better conserve and facilitate the methods of taxation. There are two principles which I think I could state, if you prefer to have me state them before Mr. West's written statement is given.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: If you will.

MR. EDDY: First, we are opposed to the in lieu tax of airplanes.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: You mean your association is opposed to it?

MR. EDDY: Yes.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: Have you discussed the problem with your association and taken a vote on it?

MR. EDDY: Yes. We have not taken a vote of the association. It was taken as a vote of the committee. The committee met at the close of the session. There was no committee existing during the session of the convention.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: Did your committee believe that the present system of taxation is adequate and practical?

MR. EDDY: So far as privately owned planes are concerned, yes.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: Did you offer any recommendations or any change in the present procedures?

MR. EDDY: We did not. We think that the present method is adequate, that the revenues from these planes should go directly to the county the same as the revenues from the taxation of other properties, that it can be more economically administered on the county level, and that there is no need at the present time at least for establishing another state function which must of necessity take out a certain part of the revenues for the purposes of the maintenance of that function. And, I would like to state one thing more, that when an in lieu tax is levied it inevitably has to be at a lesser value or a lower level than it does on a straight ad valorem basis where we can assess each piece of property on its value.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: Do you feel that there is very much evasion?

MR. EDDY: Not any more evasion on airplanes than there might be on any other migratory property such as cattle.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: Did your committee make any survey of all the counties? I mean, did you determine that from actual facts whether there is evasion?

MR. EDDY: As a committee we have not.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: You haven't made any survey to determine the rate of taxation to find out any inequity or discrepancy?

MR. EDDY: As a committee we have had no opportunity to do that. The committee was just recently appointed, but there have been from time to time conferences between those counties that have a large number of privately owned airplanes.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: What I was trying to get at is, in your meeting in Yosemite when you went on record as being opposed to an in lieu tax, was that decision based upon any facts that you had gathered throughout the State, or was it merely the opinion—the personal opinion —of the members of the committee?

MR. EDDY: Undoubtedly it was the personal opinion of the members of the committee. Bear in mind, the next to youngest member has been assessing airplanes for 13 years, another member for much longer than 13 years, and most of the privately owned airplanes in the State are in the counties that are represented by the assessors on the committee. It would be rather a presumption to say they were not familiar with the method of the assessment of airplanes.

MR. WATERS: I have a couple of questions, Mr. Chairman. This committee, of which you are the chairman, Mr. Eddy, was that committee authorized to speak for the convention of assessors as a whole, or are you in a position where you are to make studies and make recommendations back to the convention?

MR. EDDY: That is true, however, we were authorized by the convention at the time of the appointment of the committee to make such reports as we deemed advisable to committees such as this.

MR. WATERS: I have in mind particularly from the make-up of your committee, you represent primarily the large counties in California.

MR. EDDY: May I correct you in this respect. San Mateo is not a large county. It was represented because there are many planes.

MR. WATERS: It is your large airplane (ownership) counties?

MR. EDDY: Yes.

MR. WATERS: Those counties that have very few planes are not represented on your committee actually?

MR. EDDY: No, they are not.

MR. WATERS: When you say that the committee has recommended against an in lieu tax, are you also speaking for the smaller counties in the State?

MR. EDDY: I think I made that clear in previous testimony that I cannot make testimony for the unanimity of the convention at the present time because the committee was not appointed until the very closing session of the convention.

MR. WATERS: I want to clarify my question on it. When you say you are opposed to the in lieu tax, you are speaking only for the counties represented on the committee?

MR. EDDY: Yes. so far as official action taken, but this is again a projection of a personal opinion. My opinion is that the counties generally would take that position, and that the convention as a whole will support that. That is my personal opinion on it.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: Do you feel you are catching all of the planes located in San Diego?

MR. EDDY: Yes, I think definitely we are.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: You feel there is no evasion?

MR. KENNEDY: (Louis Kennedy, Assessor, Alameda County) Absolutely. I think it is nearly perfect. I really do. Mr. Rathie will tell you how the evaluation is arrived at It is practically the same as Mr. Eddy's It will only be a repetition.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: How about the privately owned aircraft?

MR. RATHIE: (William Rathie, Assistant Assessor of Alameda County assigned to private aircraft taxation) We have approximately 186 privately owned aircraft at the Hayward and Oakland Airport. Our method of determining ownership is through the cooperation of the Airport Manager at Hayward Airport, and through Guy Turner, Superintendent of the Oakland Airport. They have both been very cooperative in giving us all the information that we have ever required regarding the owners of the various aircraft on their fields. We have had no trouble at all.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: In your opinion, are there a lot of planes in the State today that are not taxed?

MR. NEWSOM: (Noble Newson Jr, Manager Contra Costa County Airport) Very definitely.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: You think there is a definite attempt on the part of owners to evade taxation by moving their planes on the lien day?

MR. NEWSOM: I would say that was a small percentage—the attempt to evade—but I think a lot of airplanes are scattered throughout the State that aren't being taxed. In Contra Costa County they are all being taxed though.

The opposing testimony was presented in the main by members of the staff of the California Aeronautics Commission portions which the committee feels is relevent to the question of evasion follows. There is possibly some value in drawing a distinction at this time between the number of aircraft registered in a given county and the number of aircraft having taxable situs in a given county. The County of San Francisco serves as an excellent example there being 301 aircraft whose registered owners have given an address within the County of San Francisco; however there is no facility for the use of nonmilitary aircraft in the county hence there are no aircraft which have situs or are within the personal property tax jurisdiction of that county.

COLONEL WARREN E. CAREY, Director of Aeronautics: "If I may, I would like to call before your committee, Mr. Derham, who has prepared a paper, the results of his study, which indicates quite clearly a certain amount of disparity in the various tax jurisdictions. He will have comments to make on this paper.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: Will his comments have to do with the taxation on the county level?

COLONEL CAREY: Yes.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: You want to read a report?

MR. JOSEPH E. DERHAM: Not necessarily; the report will enlarge on what I will tell you. At the direction of Colonel Carey I made a survey of the assessor's offices in 33 counties in an effort to learn how they assessed aircraft, on what basis, and also to determine whether there was a uniformity of assessment. I found the records in 21 counties were only sufficient for my purposes. Some counties didn't know how many aircraft were in the county. Others I knew had a very inaccurate record. I took the 21 counties that I considered their records sufficient to base some figures on, and I find by projecting their averages, the shortage of airplanes in this State accounted for by assessors of 3,207 aircraft out of 10,547 aircraft as shown by the C. A. A. being in this State on June 1, 1948.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: There are over 3,000 airplanes not being taxed by the counties. Did you break that down into counties?

MR. DERHAM: Yes, sir, into 21 counties.

MR. FLETCHER: And in the 21 counties there are over 3,000?

MR. DERHAM: In the 58 counties. I took the records of 21 counties because they were accurates. The shortages in those counties were projected against the total of 10,547 and I arrived at a figure of 3,207.

MR. FLETCHER: Nearly a third?

MR. DERHAM: Yes, approximately a third are escaping taxation Some of the counties hadn't taxed up until this year.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: Have you any record among the 21 counties of any large counties? Was Los Angeles or San Diego included?

MR. DERHAM: Yes, sir.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: Have you a break-down on San Diego County?

MR. DERHAM: Yes, sir. San Diego County is charged by the Civil Aeronautics Administration with having 719 privately owned aircraft

The records in the county as given by the county assessor showed 628 assessed with a total assessed value of $434,880.

MR. EDDY: May I ask a question for clarification of the record? If it is irregular, I don't wish to do so, but that was for a June date, wasn't it?

MR. DERHAM: That was June 1st. The C. A. A census was June 1, 1948, and your figures were as of March 1, 1948.

MR EDDY: Did you try to determine whether the differences there were in the county on the first of March?

MR. DERHAM: No.

MR. EDDY: You can't say they escaped taxation. They may have come in the county after that date. Those figures are entirely misleading

MR. DERHAM: They could be. I found in every county there was such a disparity between the planes accounted for by the assessor and those accounted for by the C. A. A. I don't think that is the situation.

MR. DERHAM: In Los Angeles County the C. A. A. census charges them with 3,734 privately owned aircraft. The county assessor's records showed 2,662 aircraft with a total assessed value of $3,379,040.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: Did you take Alameda County?

MR. DERHAM: I took Alameda County. The C. A. A. charges them with 399 planes. The records of the assessor's office showed 200 aircraft assessed. Only two counties in the State accounted for as many or more planes than the C. A. A. census showed. One was Napa County, and the other was Contra Costa County.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: When were these registered with the C. A. A.? They are not planes that were registered and perhaps wrecked or destroyed in the meantime.

MR. DERHAM: When a plane is destroyed, a report of the accident is sent to the C. A. A. and that plane is removed from their records.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: There is quite a difference in a county like Alameda where 399 are reported and the taxes are based on 200. There is a difference of 199.

MR. GRANT: Am I right in assuming that Los Angeles County missed one-third of the planes registered there? That is 1.072.

MR. DERHAM: Those are the figures given to me by the assessor's office in Los Angeles County.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: That is the difference between the number registered and the number the taxes are collected on.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: The figures are available to the counties, and any county wanting to do it could request of the C. A. A. the number of aircraft registered in that county, could they not?

COLONEL CAREY: We would be glad to furnish them with that information now. They have had that information available to them in the past.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: We are getting misinformation, when the assessors get up and say there is no evasion, every aircraft in the county is accounted for, and here you have the records where they are registered at the C. A. A., and they should know that there are 1,000 more registered there than they are collecting taxes for. Maybe they can clear it up and explain it to us why they can say that there are no evasions.

COLONEL CAREY: I don't think any of the assessors would say that.

CHAIRMAN MCMILLAN: You are not saying it. I am drawing that conclusion from the testimony offered before this committee this morning.

COLONEL CAREY: This was an attempt, Mr McMillan and members of the committee, to provide you with at least some factual information Now, it may not be factual in detail, but at least it is an indication of the trends. And, as to the 2,000 or 1,000 discrepancy, the fact that in each and every county of the State there is some omission at least in the present system of taxation."

In order to obtain directly from county assessors a report as to taxing methods, evasion and problems of similar nature, a questionnaire was mailed by the committee to each county assessor. Replies have not been received from all of them but there follows immediately a tabulation of the answers from 55 counties. It is to be noted that basis for the number of aircraft registered is taken as of January 1, 1948, as distinguished from those registered on tax lien day and from the number registered on July 1st, the date used in the California Aeronautics Commission Survey.

I

Number of aircraft assessed

Assessors answering question	48
Aircraft registered in these 48 counties on 1/1/48	9,238
Aircraft assessed in these 48 counties tax day 1948	6,523
Difference	2,715

Seventy percent of aircraft registered in these counties were assessed. It does not necessarily follow that 30 percent escaped taxation; some of those registered may have been wrecked or dismantled. Those aircraft registered in San Francisco County, which has no airfield within its boundaries, should have been taxed in the counties in which those airplanes are based.

II

Veterans exemptions—48 counties reporting

a. In these counties 339 veterans exemptions were applied against aircraft.
b This represents 3.3 percent of aircraft registered.

III

Number of aircraft on which tax is still unpaid

a. In the 37 counties answering the question 354 are unpaid.
b. This represents 4.7 percent of assessments in these counties.

IV

Various methods are employed to arrive at the "Full cash value" The following methods were used as shown by 43 counties answering.

1. Owners' estimate	15 counties
2. Table of aircraft values	14 counties
3. Physical appraisal	6 counties
4. Book value	1 county
5. First cost less depreciation	1 county
6. Average value ($1,500)	1 county
7. Market value	5 counties

V

Twenty-one counties supplied answers to the question on tax rates. The average rate for the 21 counties was $4.28 per 100 of assessed valuation.

VI

Thirty counties answered the question on amount collected. These counties collected $78,760.37 on 2,246 aircraft for an average of $35.07.

VII

Forty-five counties answered the question on evasion as follows: 29 felt there was not a substantial amount of evasion by private aircraft owners; 16 felt there was a substantial amount of evasion by private aircraft owners.

VIII

Fifty-one assessors answered the question: "Would you favor an 'in lieu' tax collected at state level and subvented to the counties as follows":

Yes	32

IX

Forty-three counties answered the question on the relative difficulty of taxing the category as follows: Much difficulty, 8; little difficulty, 22; no difficulty, 13.

These figures are substantiated by the information obtained by the Bureau of Public Administration of the University of California from a questionnaire survey. Fifty-eight county assessors were queried; 50 responded. The findings of the bureau may be summarized as follows:

On what basis of valuation are the aircraft assessed?

Private Flight Equipment

There is no uniformity of practice among counties. For example, the following basis of assessment are now used:

(1)	Full cash value	Fresno, Yolo
(2)	50 percent purchase price	Lassen
(3)	50 percent actual value	Butte, Calaveras, Colusa, El Dorado, Glenn Inyo, Los Angeles, Madera, Mendocino, Merced, Modoc, Nevada, Plumas, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Joaquin, Santa Clara, Shasta, Solano, Sonoma, Stanislaus, Tulare, Tuolumne, Yuba
(4)	40 percent cost value	Placer
(5)	40 percent market value	Napa, Orange, San Diego, San Luis Obispo
(6)	33⅓ percent present market value	Alameda, Contra Costa, Santa Cruz
(7)	30 percent cost	San Benito
(8)	25 percent original cost	San Mateo

(9) 25 percent market value ---------- Mariposa
(10) Unknown or uncertain---------- Del Norte, Humboldt, Kern, Kings, Lake, Marin, Mono, Monterey, Sacramento, Santa Barbara, Siskiyou, Sutter, Tehama, Trinity, Ventura

In determining the actual value ("market value," or "cash value") a variety of sources is used:

(1) Declaration of value by owner of aircraft.

(2) Personal inspection of each aircraft by assessor or representative.

(3) Valuation shown by such publications as Aircraft Values Guide, Sell-Plane News, and the Official Aircraft Price Guide.

(4) Newspaper want-ads, interviews with prospective purchasers and airport operators, and other miscellaneous methods.

In many instances a combination of these techniques is used. There is no uniformity in placing depreciation value upon flight equipment.

In California, all aircraft are assessed annually as of the first Monday in March. The situs of taxation is generally the permanent location of the plane on that date. However, practices are not uniform. For example, Colusa, Imperial and Santa Barbara Counties use the residence of the owner as test of taxable situs.

What are the total number of registered aircraft within California counties?

It should be noted that there is no definite data on the number of registered aircraft maintained in many counties. Thus, the number of aircraft as shown by the Federal Civil Aeronautics Authority is in most cases different from the number reported by the county assessor. It is apparent that few, if any, counties maintain any current system to determine the number of registered aircraft domiciled within their area at any particular date, other than the first Monday in March of each year. There is also evidence from the questionnaire responses that some planes escape taxation because of their transient nature and the lack of adequate controls by assessors. Because of these conditions, no definite answer can be given to the question.

What total market value do these airplanes represent by counties?

As in the case of the number of airplanes within each county, the market value cannot be ascertained. In all responses, the assessor indicated that the figure given was "only approximate." Again it seems clear that there is no definite system now used by counties to determine the market value of aircraft domiciled within their boundaries. In several instances, assessed value was not obtainable because aircraft are not separated from other personality.

The preceding surveys point up the significant discrepancy that exists state-wide between the number of aircraft registered and the number of aircraft assessed. This committee selected the number of aircraft registered as of January 1st as the basis for its independent survey for the express purpose of determining the magnitude of error in the use of July 1st registration as was done in the Aeronautics Commission's survey. Considering the over-all increase in the number of aircraft registered in California between January 1st and July 1st, it appears that the discrepancy shown by the Aeronautics Commission's survey is not accounted for by the March to July increase in registration.

It is the opinion of this committee that a very substantial portion (in the neighborhood of 30 percent) of the personal aircraft in the State of California are not being taxed. Your committee feels further that it is rather clearly demonstrated that under the present system there is lack of uniformity as to method and that there is material variation between counties in arriving at the value for tax purposes.

Considering, for the moment, the taxation of this category of property as a state-wide problem your committee takes the view that the treasuries of this State are being deprived of more than $100,000 annually or approximately one-third of the revenue from this source which is due them.

It is obvious in light of the above and that in justice to all owners that assessment should be universally and uniformly applied. It appears that this is only possible by the adoption of a method very similar to the "in lieu" tax prescribed for automobiles.

In the hearings there was unanimity of opinion, except by a group of county assessors, that this would provide uniformity in fixing values, remove the problem of determining the taxing area in which the airplane is located on the lien date, remove the problem of locating this migratory property for taxing purposes and reduce evasion to a minimum.

The assessor's committee raised two principal points of objection to an "in lieu" tax for aircraft: (1) that aircraft would of necessity be given a preferential assessment under an "in lieu" tax resulting in a decrease in net tax collected and (2) that another set of tax collection machinery must be set up at the state level with its consequent increase in cost of State Government further reducing the net tax yield.

The average rate in tax districts having airports approximates 2 percent of full cash value. Your committee is of the opinion that an "in lieu" tax based on 2 percent would increase the over-all net tax yield from this category by approximately 30 percent merely by its completeness of coverage.

The committee recognizes that funds obtained from an "in lieu" tax should not remain with the State but that they should be returned to the counties. The committee feels further that when so returned such funds should be earmarked for the purpose of improving and augmenting aviation facilities.

To best accomplish this purpose, it is the belief of this committee that an aircraft fee, in lieu of a county ad valorem tax, should be imposed; that the administration of the fee should be made a responsibility of the State Board of Equalization; that the moneys received, less administrative expense, be distributed between the counties on the basis of C. A. A registration. It is estimated that based upon a 2 percent collection this proposal will immediately produce a revenue of not less than $300,000 per year.

STATE REGISTRATION OF AIRCRAFT

Witnesses testifying before the committee on the subject of personal aircraft taxation demonstrated that the idea is widespread that an "in lieu'' tax goes hand in hand with the registration of aircraft at the state level. Certain witnesses were of the opinion that the benefits of an ''in lieu'' tax would vanish when considered in the light of duplication of federal registration of aircraft. It is to be noted that registration at the state level would in no way excuse an owner from federal registration.

Representatives of the California Aeronautics Commission presented in evidence a study prepared by them entitled ''Staff Study of Necessity for State Registration of Aircraft.'' This paper includes a statement of the discrepancy existing between the assessment and registration which has been previously discussed and concludes * * * ''a proper remedy can only be effected through legislation requiring registration of aircraft at the state level and the imposition of a state operation or license fee in lieu of taxes.'' Together with the above there was presented a suggested addition to the Aeronautics Commission Act to be known as Section 15 which would require the registration of aircraft at the state level.

The Director of Aeronautics, in his testimony made the point that the principal advantages of state registration were two: (1) administration of an ''in lieu'' tax and (2) identification of aircraft in violation for law enforcement purposes.

Your committee, however, is of the opinion, based on further testimony of the Director of Aeronautics that sufficient information for these purposes is currently being supplied to the State by the Federal Government. A portion of this testimony follows:

COLONEL CAREY: In other words, title is investigated in the Civil Aeronautics Administration in Washington as differentiated from our pink slips in automobiles on the state level. The C. A. A. maintains an I. B. M. card system of ownership corrected monthly. Our office receives duplicate cards on the ownership records in Washington. On that basis, the registered ownership in California as of last June 1st, I believe, was 10,500 odd airplanes, most of which are in the category that we hear described as private or personal aircraft. That includes, of course, the flying school aircraft and everything other than certificated carrier aircraft.

COLONEL CAREY: We are supplying the sheriffs of each county with a list, current as of the latest revision of the federal I. B. M. cards, and we are keeping them as current as possible. We get corrections each month. We are furnishing each sheriff with the registered owners in his county. With that aid it should not be difficult for them to track down a local offender.

We are also providing a central source in the California Highway Patrol Headquarters, and we are telling each one of these people that he can check on numbers outside of his county—those that don't appear on his list—by reference to the state teletype system.

MR. WATERS: What information does the C. A. A. have on individually registered planes?

MR. DERHAM: Every aircraft must be registered with the C. A. A. before it can be flown.

MR. WATERS: What constitutes registration? What information do they require?

MR. DERHAM: Mr. Carey, would you answer that question?

COLONEL CAREY: With the permission of the chairman. The registration at the federal level consists of a recording of the title to the aircraft as it does in the case of the automobile at the state level in the recording of the bill of sale, which results in a certificate of title known as the pink slip. The Federal Government issues a somewhat similar issue of title, and assigns an identification number to the airplane which is painted on the under side of one wing and the upper side of another, and both sides of the vertical fin. That identification number stays with the airplane.

MR. WATERS: What information goes on this bill of sale? Do they want the type of airplane, the name, etc?

COLONEL CAREY: A complete description.

MR. WATERS: What is the complete description they have, and what subsequently comes down to your office through this I. B. M. card?

COLONEL CAREY: I can't give you off-hand all of the information that may be derived from the I. B. M. cards, but we have two sets of cards. One gives the owner's name and address. It starts with that information. It describes the aircraft, make, year and model, the engine make, year and model, and other information of that nature. Then there is another set of cards that comes through that relates to the aircraft alone. On one of those sets the address is brought down to the county and city, and they may be sorted for a total by cities and counties.

It is to be borne in mind that at the time of passage of the California Aeronautics Commission Act authorization to register and license aircraft and airmen was specifically omitted from the act. The thought being that these functions were performed adequately by the C. A. A. and that entrance into this field was unnecessary and functionally unsound.

At the hearings held by the committee the proposal that the Aeronautics Commission should duplicate the federal function of aircraft registry was attacked as being unnecessary. We quote a portion of the testimony of Mr. Richard B. Thurber, Executive Secretary of the California Aviation Trades Association.

MR. THURBER: I have also heard the statement that the Federal C. A. A. recordation of aircraft and registration of aircraft lags and is behind schedule and is behind time I have some of our people here in the room this afternoon, and I just asked some of them what kind of service they were actually getting out of the Federal Government in the way of title search, ownership, lien recordation, and things of that kind, and I was interested to learn, and you will be interested to know that title searches may be had from Washington, D. C. in eight hours time out here in California. And, if we can get a title search in eight hours, then we as an industry feel that the way the Washington Office of C. A. A. is recording these is entirely adequate.

MR. THURBER: Now, the California Aviation Trades Association favors an "in lieu" tax if that "in lieu" tax will result in an overall reduction in tax from the many counties where we feel the tax is unusually high. We take a somewhat unusual position, however, in that we also feel that contrary to common thinking, an "in lieu" tax on aircraft does not necessarily require state registration of aircraft.

In the light of the foregoing facts the committee is of the firm conviction that the registration and the administration of an "in lieu" tax of aircraft by the California Aeronautics Commission would impose a function on that body that it was not intended that they perform, that information currently available to the State is sufficient to serve the public need adequately if properly disseminated and that the Board of Equalization should administer an "in lieu" tax if adopted on the basis of C. A. A. registration information supplied to that agency by the Aeronautics Commission as required.

CODIFICATION OF AVIATION LAW

The committee was advised that the original objective of the California Code Commission was the development of some 33 codes of which aviation was to be one. Later the figure was reduced to 24 codes, at which time it was planned to include material relating to aviation in the Vehicle Code and in the Streets and Highways Code. This was based on the theory that an airplane is a vehicle and an airport is similar to a street or highway. This thinking has changed. Both codes are virtually complete but aviation is not included in either.

Aviation has developed tremendously since the second decision was made. Much aviation law has been enacted and more will probably be enacted in the near future. There follows a list of existing laws prepared for the California Aeronautics Commission:

It is the opinion of the committee that aviation law of the State should be codified at the earliest possible date. A request has been addressed to the Code Commission to that effect.

OPERATION OF THE CALIFORNIA AERONAUTICS COMMISSION

Section 2 of the act which established this agency declares "that the purpose of this act is to further and protect the public interest in aeronautics and aeronautical progress: by encouraging the development of private flying and the general use of air transportation; by fostering and promoting safety in aeronautics; by effecting uniformity of the laws and regulations relating to aeronautics consistent with federal aeronautical laws and regulations; by granting to a state agency such powers and imposing upon it such duties that the State may properly perform its functions relative to aeronautics and effectively exercise its jurisdiction over persons and property within such jurisdiction, assist in the development of a State-wide System of Airports, encourage the flow of private capital into aviation facilities, and cooperate with and assist the political subdivisions of this State and others engaged in aeronautics in the development and encouragement of aeronautics; by establishing only such regulations as are essential and clearly within the scope of the authority granted by the Legislature, in order that persons engaged in every phase of aeronautics may so engage with the least possible restriction consistent with the safety and the rights of others; by providing for cooperation with the federal authorities in the development of a National System of Civil Aviation and for coordination of the aeronautical activities of those authorities and the authorities of this State."

The commission has then, in general, four functions—Planning Coordination, the Promotion of Aviation, Advisory Assistance and, only to the extent necessary to carry out these three functions, Regulation. Their approach must be state-wide, not local, in considering how best they can assist in effectuating legislative policy; they must assist in the orderly development of aviation in the State; the things they are called upon to do constitute a necessary function of State Government, yet they must remain clearly within the scope of the authority granted by the Legislature.

To determine the commission's own appraisal of its activities, the committee requested a report of the work accomplished in its first year of operation. In response the committee received the following statement from the Director of Aeronautics:

2. Functional Analysis of the Act (Chap. 1379, Stats. 1947)

The operational functions assigned to this agency by the State Aeronautics Commission Act fall generally into three divisions, as shown below, which suggest the form of Staff Organization required to carry out those functions.

(a) Development

Encourage the development of private flying and the general use of air transportation. (Sec. 2.)

Cooperate with and assist political subdivisions and others engaged in aeronautics in the development and encouragement of aeronautics. (Sec. 2.)

4. Staff Recruitment

(a) Special Technical Positions

The act required that all positions on the staff, other than the director, shall be selected under the Civil Service Laws of the State.

The twenty-three (23) positions thus created consist of twelve (12) clerical positions for which position classifications were established from the outset and eleven (11) special technical positions for which no suitable position classifications existed at the inauguration of the staff. This may be explained by the fact that no state agency had existed previously which required position classifications relating to similar phases of aeronautics.

The 11 technical positions and six new classifications involved were:

Chief of Aeronautical Development	1
Field Representative	3
Air Safety and Enforcement Representative	2
Supervising Airport Engineer	1
Airport Design Engineer	2
Airport Planning Engineer	2

For these 11 technical positions it was necessary, therefore, to write six new sets of position specifications, and secure Personnel Board approval thereto before even temporary employees could be appointed. Following this it was necessary to announce examinations, review applications, hold written examinations, grade the results, arrange and hold qualification appraisal board hearings and finally develop eligible lists from which probationary appointments could be made. This process required six months and until it was completed no reasonably permanent staff could be recruited.

It was considered inadvisable to initiate the field work of the commission with a full staff of temporary employees due to the probability that employees thus selected and indoctrinated would be displaced in subsequent examinations. Moreover, the confusion which would be created in the industry by the introduction and subsequent replacement of any appreciable number of temporary employees would prove highly detrimental to the program and extremely wasteful of state funds.

For these reasons, only the most urgently needed technical employees were appointed on a temporary basis and these were carefully selected from among available applicants for examination in order to assure continuity of service insofar as possible. A maximum of four (4) such temporary technical employees were appointed. (Other temporary appointments were also made in clerical classifications where eligible lists were depleted temporarily.) It was not until August and September that eligible lists for technical positions became available to permit the selection of a reasonably permanent staff. Only one temporary employee was displaced by these lists.

However, the first series of examinations failed to produce eligible lists in the classifications of Airport Design and Airport Planning Engineers and to date it has been impossible to recruit temporary employees in these categories. A second series of examinations is scheduled for early December and a nominal number of applications have been received.

The problems attendant to staff recruitment are illustrated by the following tabulation.

5. Projects Undertaken

(a) Aeronautical Development

(1) Air Cargo Project—An industry-wide committee intended to attack the obstacles to more rapid development of California's Air Cargo potential. Has led to the formation of the Air Cargo Institute of California, Inc., a nonprofit cooperative organization of aviation and agricultural interests with same objectives.

(2) Highway Sign Posting—Securing cooperation of Division of Highways to provide suitable directional signs to all public airports in State. Program nearing completion.

(3) G. I. Flight Training—Commission has given support to industry efforts for more effective administration of aviation phases of G. I. Training Program and is now undertaking to aid State Department of Education in broadening the field of aviation training available to veterans.

(4) Agricultural Aircraft Operation—Commission has interested itself in the many problems—operational and legislative—relating to the aerial application of insecticides, fungicides and weed control media and is undertaking to provide clearing house service on such matters and act as a coordinating agency.

(5) Air Age Education—Broadening of Air Age Education to include adults is being discussed and planned in cooperation with the State Department of Education and Civil Aeronautics Administration.

(b) Air Safety and Enforcement

(1) Compendium of Aviation Law—A first project was the preparation and publication of a brochure containing all laws relating to aeronautics now on California statute books. This was considered basic to the commission's program. Over two thousand copies printed and distributed to prosecutors, chiefs of police, sheriffs and other law enforcement organizations.

(2) Enforcement Program—An active program has been underway for six months to assist and educate law enforcement officers on the California and federal laws and regulations relating to aeronautics and their duties thereunder.

(3) Enforcement Manual—As an aid to the enforcement program this manual has been prepared to provide each peace officer in the State with accurate data on Civil Air Regulations, crimes thereunder, methods of filing complaints, securing evidence and prosecuting offenders. Manual now in galley proof stage.

(4) Air Marking Program—As an aid to air safety, the commission is attempting to secure the cooperation of local interests in gridding the State with standard air markers and/or roof signs to facilitate safe navigation of California skyways. Signs have been pledged by 100 committees through staff activities—the expense thereof to be borne locally.

(5) Aircraft Ownership Records—These records secured from C. A. A. in Washington are being disseminated to interested agencies throughout the State, particularly law-enforcement agencies.

(c) Airport Engineering

(1) Reprint of "California Airports"—To aid in an appreciation of California's Airport Problem this 1947 Master Plan was revised and reprinted by the commission for wider distribution.

(2) San Francisco Bay Area Airport Plan—This document was prepared by the commission and printed at the request and expense of the Bay Area Council to invite attention to the need for active consideration of airport problems in the Bay area. Subsequently the staff has cooperated with local planning agencies in a further study of Bay area requirements.

(3) Airport Directory and/or Map—The commission has authorized the preparation of an accurate Directory of California Airports to encourage air travel in the State. Compilation of necessary information has been underway for three months and is nearing completion.

(4) Cooperation With Local Agencies—Although the Airport Engineering Staff is still incomplete it has furnished information to several political subdivisions on airport problems, aided in engineering estimates, site selection and preparation of applications for federal aid. Requests for such aid exceed available personnel.

(5) State Airport Master Plan—Notwithstanding incomplete staff, attention is being given to a revision of the two-year-old Master Plan of Airports for California. Local planning agencies are being encouraged to prepare and adopt master plans.

(d) Administrative Staff

(1) Airport Regulations—Pursuant to Section 17 of the act, the commission has prepared and coordinated in the industry, regulations designed to cover the approval of airport sites and the issuance of airport permits. Public hearings have been held thereon and the regulations are now nearing completion.

(2) Legislative Program—An attempt has been made to provide a clearing house for the collection and dissemination of information on proposed legislative issues. This is intended to be an educational and coordinating service designed to provide the Legislature with industry viewpoints on proposed measures.

(3) Tax Study—A complete study has been made of the methods of assessment of aircraft as personal property in the several counties of the State with report to the Legislature.

(4) Fuel Tax Refunds—A study to determine the annual volume of aviation fuel sales taxed in California, the annual refunds made (by counties and airports) and the annual amount of unrefunded aviation fuel tax now remaining in the Highway Fund has been undertaken and a report thereon made to the Legislature. This study is continuing to secure more authentic information.

(5) Evaluation of the Aviation Industry—A study has been initiated to determine the over-all value of the aviation industry to California measured in terms of capital investment, employment, wages, and taxes paid and value of associated industries. Conservatively, aviation is a billion dollar industry in California.

(6) News Letter—To acquaint the industry with the program of the commission and provide a medium of contact with all aviation interests, a periodic "News Letter" has been inaugurated which has met with wide acclaim.

(7) Correspondence—Currently the commission's offices receive over five hundred letters per month and dispatch over one thousand letters and releases in the same period

The foregoing items constitute only a partial list of the projects and activities undertaken by the commission under the broad powers of the act which created it, as enumerated in Paragraph 2 hereof. In less than nine months the program has progressed from absolute zero to a vital force designed to serve this major California industry which has such a promising future. Each passing week provides new evidence of the opportunities for such service and the need for a state agency devoted to aviation.

It will be noted that one part of the Director of Aeronautics' report stresses delays in staffing the agency and the inability to obtain the services of qualified engineering personnel. From this, it may be expected that the work of the Aeronautics Commission has lagged, or at least not moved forward as rapidly as might be hoped.

As a practical matter the Aeronautics Commission has not yet become the potent factor in the development of aviation in California that it was intended that they should Your committee feels that it is incumbent upon them to report to the Legislature not only the aims and plans of the Aeronautics Commission but the observable results and factual accomplishments of that body to date.

It is not the intention of your committee to minimize the value of the various reprints of previous work by other state agencies, the publication of three issues of a news letter, "lending support" to various aeronautical programs, but the committee does feel that their significance has been somewhat overemphasized in the Director of Aeronautics' report if we are to consider at this time the observable over-all benefit to the State of California aviation-wise.

In the matter of over-all planning and advisory assistance with local aeronautical problems it must be observed that constructive results in these fields are not yet apparent on a state-wide basis

The formation of the Air Cargo Project Committee on the other hand, it is felt, was a very well conceived and potentially beneficial undertaking. The Air Cargo Project Committee which was sponsored by the Aeronautics Commission was the precursor of the present Air Cargo Institute of California, a private nonprofit corporation. The Chairman of the Aeronautics Commission has advised this committee that in their opinion they have carried the project as far as is proper for them.

Now that the institute has become a corporate entity it is the feeling of the Aeronautics Commission that the organization should move forward of its own motivation Naturally the commission's interest in the basic objectives of the institute have not waned but they have elected to assume a role of participation in the work of the institute rather than a role of direction.

At the direction of the commission the administrative staff prepared a set of proposed regulations governing the issuance of airport permits and airport site approvals the first draft of which was presented at a public hearing on June 28th of this year. Unfortunately this proposal was not well received by the aviation industry or the political subdivisions of the State as represented by the League of California Cities and the County Supervisors Association of California.

It appears that the basic objections are:

(1) The regulations as proposed would have an inhibiting effect on airport development.

(2) The regulations are an encroachment on the sphere government enjoyed by the cities and counties in local planning and zoning.

(3) That the entrance into this field is not mandatory upon the Aeronautics Commission under the Aeronautics Commission Act and that their entrance into the field at this time is ill advised.

(4) That the move represents an inclination to regulate and control in contradistinction to coordination, planning and assistance.

In order to resolve these differences of opinion existing between the Aeronautics Commission on the one hand and the industry and local government on the other, the commission acted on a suggestion offered by certain industry representatives that an advisory committee be formed representing the various interested groups to work out an amicable compromise.

This principle has been very effectively applied. As of this writing a compromise set of regulations has been devised which is acceptable to the members of the advisory committee in the event that entrance into this field of regulation is incumbent upon the commission.

An opinion from the Attorney General has been requested to resolve that question. In this connection the Chairman of the Aeronautics Commission in a joint meeting with your committee expressed a desire that the situation be clarified by legislative action. The chairman stated very strongly that the commission had no desire whatsoever to become a regulatory body other than as required of them under the act.

It is the opinion of your committee that members of the Aeronautics Commission have a very excellent viewpoint and appreciation of their function which is probably best stated by Dr. Fred D. Fagg, Chairman of the Commission:

"So far as policy is concerned, I would like to say that we have interpreted the act under which we operate as being primarily promotional in nature. In other words, we have been given a duty, we believe, to help encourage aviation in the State of California. Wherever there has been a regulatory function imposed on the commission, we have assumed that if we exercised that power properly it would be an aid of aviation development, and that we were not a regulatory body for regulation sake.

Basically we felt the duty cast on this commission has been one of promoting and encouraging aviation development in the State in all phases. One of the ways in which that will work out and manifest itself will be by the provision of a technical staff on behalf of the State to help either individuals, municipalities or other political subdivisons of the State in their aviation activities, and there is a nice question as to just where we are welcome and where we are not welcome in that set of promotional activities. But it is quite clear if you look at the number of requests that have come to this commission that in the minds of a large number of people there is a function to be performed by an agency at the state level that is not performed by any other single agency in the State.

Now, if that be the basic philosophy behind the policy of the legislation set-up, let's come now to some specifics that we have tried to operate under. The first attempt to get into the regulatory field on the part of the commission has concerned that of airport regulation, the giving of a temporary field approval and later a permanent approval to airports in the State. We have found clear differences of opinion as to what the legislation actually says, and what it means, and to that extent I wish that you people, with what help we can give you, and with what help you can get from any other area, would help us interpret the basic act that we operate under.

It developed right at the outset when we began to have hearings that the county groups felt that in the first place this act was written in the permissive form only, and that no duty was cast upon the commission to do anything in the way of either issuing site approvals or permits, and that particularly if we construed this as being mandatory we were without jurisdiction whenever it came to a matter of county airport authorities as a political subdivision, and I think that is a difference of opinion in good faith.

In the opinion I gather of the Attorney General's Office, at least in an informal way, the State not only has the authority but should act with the broad basic purpose of safety aviation in mind. We have been so slow in trying to promote any regulations in order to be sure that we didn't make a fundamental mistake or diplomacy or legislation that to date we have not yet issued any formal regulations. That can be construed as a defect in the commission's willingness to act. It has been our opinion that we should in the first months go sufficiently slowly, that we were pretty sure of our position before we stumbled into difficulty with any agency, because we know perfectly well that we need the support of these agencies, as well as they need our help. And so I will say we are risking a criticism of not doing anything by being doubly sure that anything we do in the field is not only bottomed on a correct interpretation of the law, but what was really in the minds of the people when they wrote this legislation, and that is one place where we would welcome the help either of the legislative group or an interpretive group through the Attorney General's Office."

That the State of California is destined to prosper immeasureably by virtue of the development of its aeronautical potential is without question. That the direction of this development must be applied to the entire State as a unit is equally apparent, and it is the firm belief of your committee that a suitable statutory framework was provided for the purpose at the last session in the California Aeronautics Commission Act. The Legislature recognized that an undertaking of this nature to be effective must be adequately provided for financially. Your committee has given a great deal of thought and consideration to the proper source of funds for the support of the commission. On the basis of this study this committee is firm in the conviction that the expense is a proper one for appropriation out of the General Fund.

The benefits to be derived from the existence of an aviation agency are of such nature as to affect the cultural and economic well-being of the entire State as a unit and is not for the benefit of any individual group

Further, in the interest of governmental efficiency it is felt that it is desirable for an agency of this type to come before the Legislature and justify by means of properly presented facts the appropriation requested It has been adequately demonstrated in the past that governmental agencies not subject to such budgetary control have a tendency to grow and perpetuate themselves in a manner which was not intended at the outset. In this connection we have the statement of the Chairman of the Aeronautics Commission that the agency anticipates no expansion in personnel for the next five years

It is with these thoughts in mind that your committee recommends to the Legislature that they recognize and continue to support the important functions which the Aeronautics Commission can perform as a planning, coordinating, advisory and regulatory body as presently constituted.

The legislative bodies of the State of California and many other states have been cognizant of these needs in the past and have been generous in their appropriations shown by the following tabulation:

The committee is of the opinion that the work of the commission has been confined to the fields in which it is authorized to operate, that the commission has not exceeded its authority; and that the commission has partially carried out the legislative intent. The committee recognizes and asks that the Legislature recognize that the work of the commission has been handicapped by delays, inherent in setting up any new organization, and by difficulties in securing the services of qualified personnel. However, the first handicap has now been overcome; the second should be in the near future. The Legislature should therefore look for, and expect, greater accomplishment in 1949.

AIRPORT ZONING PROBLEMS

As has been previously remarked, the intrinsic and inherent long distance nature of aviation results in an interest in aviation facilities which extends far beyond local boundaries. This results in a demand for facilities which, to survive, must meet requirements in excess of local needs. It also results in a demand for facilities reasonably adjacent to the other economic and cultural activities of a local community. Further, it results in a demand for continuity in the operation of airports. Hence there is much more than local interest affected when adverse action, at the local level, results in the discontinuation of a local airport.

The fundamental question, from an aviation standpoint, is (1) the establishment of an airport where it will serve a useful purpose and (2) keeping it there. In this connection, it should be noted that there is no fundamental difference between the private operation of an airport and the public operation of such a facility save one very important factor—the publicly operated airport usually enjoys stability of location.

The privately owned airport is, as a rule, located on land which is leased for a relatively short term to protect the land owner from loss due to the enhancement of land values. Failure to negotiate a satisfactory renewal of the lease results in one of two actions, viz., the removal of the airport and its corollary activities to a location where the rental terms can be met, or the abandonment of the airport. If the operator owns the land in fee, this problem does not arise; he can further consolidate his position by dedicating his runways and other landing and take off facilities to public use. In either instance the private airport operator faces other hazards to continue operation.

One of these is abatement proceedings. They usually develop and intensify as the surrounding territory becomes built up and as adjacent property owners, whose interests were acquired subsequent to the development of the airport, move into the area. This has happened frequently, as residential subdivisions approached the airport boundaries. It is due partly to the fact that the zoning ordinance, or land use map of the local planning agency did not allocate that part of the territory to airport use as is done in the case of land set apart for industrial use, for residential occupancy and for recreational purposes.

If a prospective home builder elects to locate his residence in an area set aside under the zoning ordinance or land use map for industrial purposes, he does so knowing full well the discomforts to living brought about by adjacent industrial establishments. He cannot, then, base an abatement proceeding on the grounds that he had no knowledge of the nuisance that might be caused him by additional industrial development. But because airport sites are not specifically so set out, the new owner does have recourse to abatement proceedings.

There is another hazard found by the airport operator which might be prevented by appropriate zoning or land use allocation. Under present practice the airport is usually located in an area zoned for "other uses," this being a catch-all phrase to cover many uses of the land, any of which would be "conforming uses." Thus the airport operator faces the possibility of encroachment by various types of activity, some of which, by the construction of buildings, erection of pole lines and similar development, bring about a hitherto inexistent hazard to flight or to safe take-off and landing. Because it is a "conforming use" the airport operator is powerless to act, whereas, had the land been zoned for airport use, the new developer would have been on notice that his proposed construction and its appurtenances might be enjoined as a "non-conforming use."

The basis for these disturbances is the fact that the land is not zoned for airport use, hence other persons may develop housing projects or industrial activities secure in the knowledge that the "land use" map authorizes such use of the land, while its use as a landing and take-off facility is, at best, a variance.

If the situation were reversed, i.e., if the land is zoned for airport use and a variance permit required before housing or industry could be located upon land zoned for airport purposes, reasonable stability might be obtained. Such action would serve notice on the prospective developer, housing or industrial, that his plans would have to take into consideration the continued existence of an already established airport or the possibility of the later establishment of such facility.

The actual working out of the problem, with all of its implications is, under existing law, a responsibility of local government. Yet, as has been stated, there is a demand for local airport facilities which extend far beyond county lines—hence a reason for state intervention. The committee believes that there should be legislation enacted requiring that zoning ordinances, to be valid, must contain the provision of suitable areas in which airports may be located as conforming uses or a finding that there is no area within the jurisdiction suitable for airport use. It further believes that legislation should be enacted providing that after an airport has functioned as such for three years such operation is, prima facie, not a nuisance. It also believes that the Legislature should act to require that an airport operator be given notice before the filing of a suit to abate an airport as a nuisance and that the operator be given a reasonable time to correct the condition upon which the complaint is based.

Your committee offers these suggestions in the sincere belief that they will serve to meet an immediate and pressing need, that they will aid in preventing the further discontinuance of privately operated airports; and that they will aid aviation by maintaining existing facilities.

However, your committee believes that the question of the protection and preservation of airports, so vital to aviation yet involving other interests of any community as well, deserves much further study before the questions of air space, air easements, zoning, the exercise of the right of eminent domain, and similar problems may be completely resolved for the good of all the people and in the best interests of the public welfare.

AMENDMENTS AND ADDITION TO EXISTING LAW RELATING TO AVIATION

The committee has also considered various changes in, and additions to, existing law.

One relates to a suggested amendment to Section 14, Article I of the Constitution. This section of Article I as it now stands gives to any of the political subdivisions therein mentioned, the right in an eminent domain proceeding to take immediate possession and use of any right of way or lands to be used for reservoir purposes required for public use Experience, both in this State and others, has demonstrated the necessity of amending this law so as to include, not only rights of way and lands to be used for reservoir purposes, but lands and easements sought to be acquired for airports required for public use.

Commenting on this subject the District Court of Appeal, Third District, in the case of Alameda vs Superior Court of Napa County, in its decision rendered May 26, 1944, remarked in substance: "Experience has shown that cities, in acquiring long stretches of rights of way for public purposes, were often held up by unreasonable and arbitrary owners who attempted to take advantage of a rule which required that cities could not go into possession prior to a jury actually fixing the compensation to be paid. As a result, in 1918, said Section 14 of Article I was amended to give the political subdivisions therein mentioned the right in an eminent domain proceeding to take immediate possession and use of any right of way, required for public use."

The court in closing stated "Since the immediate possession amendment as to right of way was added to the Constitution in 1918, said immediate possession clause has been further amended to include lands to be used for reservoir purposes, and it may well be that a still further amendment adding state, county and municipal airports would be highly desirable."

An addition to the Penal Code relating to injuring or tampering with aircraft has been proposed.

Section 504 of the Vehicle Code extends to the owners of vehicles protection from injuries to or tampering with such vehicles by making such acts misdemeanors It is obvious that similar statutory protection is even of more importance to the owners of aircraft.

An addition to the Penal Code relative to the theft or unlawful operation or taking of aircraft has also been proposed.

Section 499b of the Penal Code declares the unauthorized taking of an aircraft for the purpose of temporarily using or operating the same to be a misdemeanor punishable by a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding three months, or by both. Section 503 of the Vehicle Code, however, makes the taking of a vehicle, without the consent of the owner, and with intent to either permanently or temporarily deprive the owner of his possession of such vehicle, whether with or without intent to steal the same, a felony.

The Legislature, in determining whether an offense is to be regarded as a felony or misdemeanor, must take several factors into consideration, and in the case of theft the value of the property involved is normally one of the principal measures of the seriousness of the crime.

Apparently, however, the factor of value was disregarded when the Legislature classified as a misdemeanor the unauthorized taking of aircraft and it is believed that the permissible punishment is inadequate in view of the seriousness of the offense.

A further element to be considered in deciding the seriousness of the offense of "unlawful taking" is the fact that such takings are usually accomplished by a flyaway process and the offender, due to his inability to properly navigate the appropriated aircraft, becomes a menace to life and property.

Two recent instances of "unauthorized taking" of aircraft occurred in Los Angeles County, both of which demonstrate the inadequacy of Section 499b of the Penal Code In each case the culprits wrecked the airplanes involved and fled the jurisdiction. Since extradition does not lie for offenses classed as misdemeanors, law enforcement officers were powerless to do anything in the matter.

There has also been proposed an addition to the Civil Code relating to liability for injury or death of a nonpaying guest.

Section 403 of the Vehicle Code, in the absence of intoxication or wilful misconduct on the part of the driver, denies to guests accepting a ride in any vehicle upon a highway without giving compensation for such ride, a right of action for civil damages on account of injury to or death of such guest

A similar exemption was extended to the owners and operators of aircraft by the provisions of Section 11½, as added to the California Air Navigation Act by Statutes of 1933. The California Air Navigation Act, however, was repealed in its entirety by Chapter 1379, Statutes of 1947, so that the owners and operators of aircraft are presently without the protection extended by law to owners and operators of vehicles despite the fact that they are equally entitled to the same security.

While the enactment of a special code section possibly could be avoided by amending Section 403 of the Vehicle Code so as to include aircraft, it is felt that, in the interest of proper codification and further in view of court decisions to the effect aircraft are not vehicles, the proposed legislation should be set up as an addition to the Civil Code.

There has also been proposed an addition to the general laws to provide for labor and material liens on aircraft as a protection to vendors and mechanics engaged in work on aircraft.

Subdivision (b) of Section 23 of the State Aeronautics Commission Act requires the commission to maintain a record of convictions under Section 13 of the act, yet the commission, at present, has no means of obtaining the information needed to maintain the record. It is proposed to require municipal court judges or justices of the peace in whose court an offender is found guilty to cause a report of the conviction and sentence to be sent forthwith to the commission.

The foregoing proposals are simply extensions of existing law or the restoration of law inadvertently repealed. The committee believes that the changes herein outlined are justified and meritorious and recommends their enactment.

SUMMARY

In summation the results of the committee's studies and investigation are perhaps best set forth in a discussion of the program of legislation to be proposed by this body. The committee asks that this program be considered as an entity as each individual piece of legislation is keyed in with the others in such manner as to render consideration of the program as a unit essential.

The investigative work of this committee has compelled it to the conclusion that there are three distinct phases to the problem of widespread and economic development of aeronautical facilities in California. The committee is further convinced that these three phases must be approached concurrently.

With this thought in mind then the committee has founded its legislative program on three basic endeavors.

I. To identify and isolate those moneys currently being placed in the public treasuries of the State by the owners and users of personal aircraft by virtue of their ownership and use.

II. To apply these funds to aeronautical purposes in such a manner as to benefit those who have provided these moneys and in the general sense to invest, if you will, those moneys in the development of California's aeronautical potential with the specific expectation that moneys so invested will be returned many fold to the general good of the State through the more general use of aircraft as a mode of personal transportation. The overall benefit from both cultural and economic standpoints of an increased radius of movement of persons and property within the State has been so magnificently demonstrated by the highway system and the use of the private automobile that it hardly requires comment as a statement of principle at this time.

III. To facilitate the location of airports in such a manner as to provide the utmost utility for their users and the maximum service to the community consistent with good planning. To insure, to the extent reasonable, the continued existence of established airports insofar as abatement actions and approach protection are concerned. This based on the principle that airports which are open for the unlimited use of the public serve a public need and are therefore public facilities.

It would perhaps be of interest to examine the reasoning exercised by the committee in arriving at the particular provisions of their legislative program.

I

In the first category, the diversion of moneys paid by aircraft users to aeronautical purposes, this committee proposes the use of the unclaimed fuel tax refunds and an aircraft use fee in lieu of the county ad valorem tax. Your committee feels that a tax on aviation fuel is not a proper method of providing funds as the amount of fuel delivered into aircraft in this State has no direct relation to the use by these aircraft of aeronautical facilities but does believe that unclaimed refunds due aviation users should go to aeronautical rather than highway purposes.

So far as the non-air carrier aircraft of this State are concerned your committee feels that an aircraft use fee in lieu of the personal property tax on aircraft is a proper source of funds for aeronautical development. It is our opinion that moneys so obtained should be subvented in their entirety to the counties in proportion to C. A. A. aircraft registration within the counties.

By the application of such a fee in lieu of the ad valorem tax it is obvious that the counties suffer a reduction in total assessed valuation. In the main, however, your committee is convinced that the overall net tax yield to the individual county will be increased due to the inclusion, under this system, of the many aircraft throughout the State presently escaping taxation.

The several counties of the State recognize that they have a responsibility in the matter of aeronautical development. By the subvention of funds positively identified with aviation activity the county is automatically afforded a measure of this responsibility and is provided with the means to accept it.

II

On the subject of the application of these funds to aeronautical purposes your committee proposes the incorporation of an aviation fund in the accounting system of the counties and a discretionary fund for use by the Aeronautics Commission.

It is anticipated that the counties will have aeronautical programs embracing city, county and district developments and that a depository should be available at the county level for the receipt of funds from state, federal, and other sources.

In many instances a period of time will be required to build the fund to usable proportions hence the depository should be cumulative in nature.

It is recognized that in many instances the aeronautical needs of a given location will far surpass that locality's ability to provide for them.

By making accessible to aircraft the wilderness areas, parks, and beaches of this State marked social, cultural, and economic benefits accrue to the State of California as a whole.

Programs designed to serve the general good such as the provision of air navigation facilities are properly functions to be undertaken at the state level.

Your committee is firm in its conviction that in the light of the foregoing that the Aeronautics Commission should be provided with a discretionary fund to be used in accomplishing such endeavors of state-wide import. Such a discretionary fund should, however, be used only for developmental purposes and not administrative expenses.

III

The utility of aircraft is linked inextricably to the number of destinations available. It follows, therefore, that the key to the extended use of aircraft involves first the building of airports and, second, the maintenance of airports in being.

From the standpoint of the aircraft utility it matters little whether the airport at a selected destination is owned by a body politic or a private interest so long as it is available for the public use. As a practical matter the classification of airports as public or private is a matter of their availability for use and not one of ownership.

Your committee does not feel that it is economically feasible for the State and its political subdivisions to undertake to provide for all the airport needs of the State. It is evident, however, that many private interests are willing to invest in airports which would serve the general public. It is the opinion of this committee that a large segment of the airport requirements of the State would be provided by private capital if they were afforded some measure of statutory protection.

The legislative proposals of this committee will attempt in part to take cognizance of these facts by recognizing that an airport whose landing area is open to the unlimited use of the public is in fact a public facility. By virtue of an airport's existence for the use of the public and its contribution to the public weal as a part of the communities transportation facility, it is felt by this committee that its truly public aspects i. e., landing area and approach zones should be accorded appropriate standing in law as befits its public function.

RECOMMENDATIONS

The committee recommends:

(a) That the Legislature substitute an "in lieu" tax for the present ad valorem tax so far as it relates to aircraft, other than aircraft regularly flying in interstate or foreign commerce or by scheduled airlines; that the Board of Equalization be made responsible for fixing the value of aircraft for taxation purposes, for the collection of the tax and for the issuance of receipts of payment thereof; that the Controller be directed to disburse such funds in accordance with an agreed upon formula, and the counties be directed that when such funds are received they are to be expended solely for maintaining, improving or augmenting aviation facilities for nonair carrier aircraft within the county.

(b) That the Legislature take no action with reference to the state registration of aircraft which would duplicate federal occupation of this field.

(c) That the Legislature amend the motor vehicle fuel tax to require the Board of Equalization to obtain from oil companies information as to what proportion of gasoline on which tax is collected is sold for aviation purposes; require the Controller to establish a special fund into which shall be deposited the amount of motor fuel tax collected on aviation gasoline, less refunds thereon, require the Controller to disburse such fund in accordance with a formula which would distribute 25 percent of such moneys to an Aeronautics Commission Discretionary Fund and 75 percent to the counties; require the counties to establish an "Aviation Fund" into which such moneys shall be deposited; limit the expenditure of such moneys to capital outlays for aviation purposes, prohibit its use for administrative expense, and authorize counties to pass on such moneys to cities to be expended by them for capital outlays.

(d) That the Legislature enact legislation directing each county to establish therein an "Aviation Fund" as a depository and that the Legislature specify the purposes for which moneys coming from the State and deposited in such fund may be expended. It is suggested that such purposes might include: Matching of funds under the Federal Airport Aid Act; purchase of easements and air rights for public use; air marking and navigational aids;

(e) That the Legislature define a public airport as an airport, publicly or privately owned, open to the use of all aircraft for landing and take-off purposes at a reasonable charge; require a contract that, for the period specified therein, non-commercial aircraft are to be permitted free use of the landing area; give public airports (as herein defined) the right to condemn the use of airspace for public airports; authorize cities and counties to acquire airspace, for public airports as defined herein.

(f) That the Legislature declare that in order for any ordinance providing for land use (zoning) to be valid, either (1) a provision must be made therein for suitable areas in which airports may be located as conforming uses or (2) a finding must be made that there is no area within the jurisdiction suitable for an airport site.

(g) That the Legislature provide that the existence and operation of an airport are prima facie not a nuisance after an airport has functioned as such for three years; provide for notice of filing suit for abatement of an airport be given the airport operator at least ninety days before such filing, provide for a stay of not less than ninety days, after a court finding that a nuisance exists, to permit the airport operator to correct the condition, if such correction can be accomplished.

(h) That the Legislature by resolution direct the California Code Commission to present to the 1951 Session of the Legislature a codification of aviation law.

(i) That the Legislature enact the changes in and additions to existing law relating to theft, unlawful use and similar subjects contained in the chapter relating to other changes and additions to existing law.

(j) That the Legislature memorialize Congress to defer the enactment of legislation with reference to the taxation of interstate carriers until after the subject has been further studied by the Committee on Airline Taxation of the National Association of Tax Administrators and until the states have had an opportunity to consider the enactment, by the individual states, of substantially uniform laws.

(k) That there be included in the duties of a future Interim Committee on Aviation, responsibility for surveying the responsibilities and activities of the California Aeronautics Commission to the end that, where necessary, appropriate changes in legislation be recommended to effectuate the purposes of that agency.

(l) That there be included in the duties of a future Aviation Interim Committee a directive to continue its study of zoning in relation to airports to determine whether additional legislation is necessary to bring about an equitable solution.

(m) That, in view of the continued rapid growth of aviation with its resulting problems and impact upon other phases of the economy of the State, there be established an Interim Committee on Aviation to report its findings and recommendations to the 1951 Legislature.

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Dr. Torrance Phelps:

Infinite Goodwill: May we realize today that the source of public influence and of the drawing power that all men covet is spiritual and springs from grace and nobility of spirit.

May we have the cheerful temper and genial countenance at all times, that dispels gloom, and makes people glad to see us.

Let us see that the simplicity of the great wears no airs of self importance, and by its humanness and friendliness makes all people feel at home.

May we covet the magnanimous spirit that sees the latent greatness in the lowliest, which is above resentment, and which seeks to evoke the dormant nobleness in all men.

Let us manifest the royal spirit of kindness, and sympathy so that men may feel through us the touch of the Infinite Heart.

Above all, may our speech be charitable, and free from harsh judgments, so that our words may reflect the silver tongue that all men honor.—AMEN.

WHEREAS, The State of California is the largest producer of fruits and vegetables of all the states; and

WHEREAS, Surveys instituted by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce have indicated great dissatisfaction on the part of producers with existing wholesale marketing facilities and the operation thereof and it would appear in many instances that the extremely valuable fruit and vegetable crops of this State are marketed in antiquated surroundings and by archaic methods; and

WHEREAS, It appears that in other states progressive cities, notably Denver, Colorado, and Dallas, Texas, have established modernized wholesale markets and marketing facilities which annually save for the producers and also the consumers many millions of dollars; now, therefore be it

The following resolution was offered:

By Mr Evans:

House Resolution No. 74

Urging retention of the Pension System provided by Article XXV of the Constitution as enacted by Proposition 4 of the General Election Ballot of 1948

WHEREAS, In November of 1948, Proposition No. 4 appearing on the General Election Ballot was duly adopted by vote of the people of the State of California, adding to the California Constitution a new article numbered XXV, providing for a System of Aid to the Aged and Blind; and

WHEREAS, Immediately upon the adoption of Proposition No. 4, certain conservative political elements and sections of the press raised a hue and cry, filled with dire predictions as to the cost of the aid plan so adopted by the voters; and

WHEREAS, All these lengthy and doleful wailings are based upon estimate, conjecture, or fanciful imagining rather than upon any basis of experience in the administration of such a plan of aid to the aged and blind, and are intended to frighten and confuse the voters of this State and to make them believe that the plan is a threat to the financial stability of the State and that their property and investments are endangered unless the plan is repealed; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the citizens of this State are hereby respectfully and sincerely urged not to sign any petitions to place on the ballot a measure to repeal Article XXV of the Constitution until after a sufficient time has elapsed in which to give the plan a fair trial under effective administration to the end that the aged and blind of this State may have the aid which the people of this State felt that they needed, and intended that they should have, when voting in favor of Proposition No 4, and to the further end that the motives of the reactionary elements opposed to the aid plan may be exposed and discussed in the public press and the people fully informed as to the merits and feasibility of the plan as it is actually working and providing needed aid to the aged and blind according to the mandate of the people.

Resolution read, and ordered referred to the Committee on Rules.

At 11.45 a.m., on motion of Mr. Stewart, the Assembly recessed until 2 p.m.

Eternal Spirit: May this be a moment when we expand our minds and widen our thoughts to the far reaches of Infinity.

In this moment, we lift up our thoughts above the material, and look away to the hills and the sky, and see that there is another and wider life beyond the problems of the day.

We look up to the stars and behold Thy invisible power that revolves the constellations, and directs the majestic forces of the universe, and causes them to flow in unbroken harmony.

May we expand our intelligence by looking beyond our boundaries to other climes, and cherish sympathetic concern for other races struggling for bread and happiness.

May we expand our minds and hearts by our broad sympathies for all classes of people and like the greatest soul of earth enjoy the widest possible circle of human contacts.

So may we see the purpose of life is to widen our horizons, and enlarge our outreach until our stature touches the stars.—AMEN.

DEAR MR. DOYLE: You have asked us what would be the effect of the withholding of federal old-age assistance and assistance for aid to the needy blind upon state payments of old-age security and blind security under Article XXV of the State Constitution, particularly with respect to residence qualifications for such security.

We are enclosing a copy of a memorandum we have prepared on this subject, in which we conclude that in the event of the withdrawal of federal assistance the state obligation to continue payments of old-age security and blind security would be unchanged, that the residence qualifications for old-age security would not be affected, but that the State residence qualifications for aid to the needy blind would be increased, in respect to those persons who became blind while not residents of the State of California, from the present requirements of one year immediately preceding the date of application and five years within the nine years immediately preceding the date of application (under Section 3043 of the Welfare and Institutions Code) to 10 years immediately preceding the filing of the application

If the Legislature desires to prevent such an increase in residence qualifications for aid to the needy blind for such persons this could readily be accomplished by an amendment to Section 3041 of the Welfare and Institutions Code, and the repeal of Section 3043 thereof In case you may wish to introduce such a bill, we are enclosing a draft of a bill which would accomplish that purpose

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel
By HARRIETT R BUHLER, Deputy

SENATE CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, January 26, 1949

MR. SPEAKER: I am directed to inform your honorable body that the Senate on this day adopted:

Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 43
Assembly Joint Resolution No. 10

J. A. BEEK, Secretary of the Senate
By C. V. TAYLOR, Assistant Secretary

REMARKS BY MR. MALONEY RELATIVE TO ASSEMBLY CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 29

By unanimous consent previously granted, the following remarks by Mr. Maloney relative to Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 29 were ordered printed in the Journal:

Remarks by Mr. Maloney

Mr. Speaker and Members of the Assembly: It is with sorrow in my heart that I arise to speak a few words in memory of Mrs. Marguerite McBride, wife of Senator James McBride of Ventura.

Functions of the Pals' Club in the next few years will not be the same until the shock of her passing has been lessened.

Members of the Legislature, both past and present, are grieved over the loss of this grand wife and mother. Her everlasting smile, her cheerful personality, and her love for humanity will be sadly missed. Her desire to be kind and charitable to everyone, and to every good cause, made her a splendid example of American womanhood for others to emulate.

We, in San Francisco, who had the good fortune to know Marguerite McBride will miss her. When she came to our fair city to visit Mrs. Hulda McGinn, she never failed to contact some member of the San Francisco Delegation to extend to us the greetings of the south.

Marguerite McBride was not only an outstanding citizen of California, but a religious woman who was not afraid to meet her Maker when that time arrived; and as it did arrive, she now sits in her heavenly home looking down at you and I, praying for our success and happiness in the hard task that lies before us as the lawmakers of this glorious State of California.

To the husband, Senator James McBride, their two children and grandchildren, we express our deepest sorrow in the hours of bereavement.

May God have mercy on her soul.

CONSIDERATION OF DAILY FILE (RESUMED)

By Messrs. McMillan and Dickey:

House Resolution No. 73

Memorializing the Federal Government to preserve the forests of sugar pine growing in Tuolumne County, California

WHEREAS, Hundreds of giant sugar pine trees of Tuolumne County have grown to great height and size, in the 500 or more years of their lives, and exist today only in the State of California and Southern Oregon; and

WHEREAS, These beautiful and majestic monarchs of the forest that can never be replaced, are threatened with complete destruction within the next few months at the hands of a mid-West lumber company, notwithstanding that there is no valid commercial requirement for their cutting; and

WHEREAS, It is represented that the present financial condition of the Government of the State of California may be used to delay fatally the immediate acquisition of this sublime forest as part of a great state park now proposed to be created as a permanent memorial to those who gave their lives for us in the world wars; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Assembly of the State of California, That these sugar pine forest areas ought, in spite of all obstacles, to be preserved for the enjoyment, pleasure, and cultural enrichment of the present generation and all posterity; and be it further

Resolved, That this Assembly, on behalf of the people of the State of California, hereby memorializes and urges the United States Government to take immediate action pursuant to Title 16, Section 494, United States Code, which statute grants to the United States Secretary of Agriculture full authority, at his discretion, to take possession of these forest lands by allowing the present private owners the right to select, in lieu thereof, within 60 days, other forest lands belonging to the United States Government; and be it further

Resolved, That when this immediate and most feasible emergency action has been taken to preserve the forests from destruction by logging operations, that Chapter 368, United States Statutes At Large, be amended to permit the State of California to acquire title to the sugar pine forest areas in Tuolumne County in addition to the 1,200 acres of land in this immediate vicinity already offered to the State of California for state park purposes; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly at once send copies of this resolution to the President and Vice President of the United States, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, to each Senator and Representative from California in the Congress of the United States, and to the United States Secretary of Agriculture.
