LICENSING OF PROFESSIONAL ENGINEERS

This study was undertaken pursuant to House Resolution No. 189, the full text of which is as follows:

"House Resolution No. 189

"Requesting the Assembly Interim Committee on Governmental Efficiency and Economy to study and investigate the laws and regulations relating to the registration of engineers, and the administration thereof

"WHEREAS, From time to time complaints have been received by Members of the Assembly relating to the administration of the laws governing registration of engineers; and

"WHEREAS, Many complaints allege that arbitrary discrimination is practiced by the State Board of Registration for Engineers in various matters, and particularly, that graduates of our own state universities and certain colleges and universities are not afforded the same credit for their educational achievements and degrees of engineering as are afforded graduates of other institutions; and

"WHEREAS, Further arbitrary exclusion of licensing many engineers whose scholastic standing is as high and whose degrees are at least equal and whose experience exceeds by many years the greatest conceivable requirement of those now in the profession hampers and handicaps the building and development program of the State; and

"WHEREAS, It is necessary that the Assembly be fully informed as to all facts relating to any phase of this subject, in order that it may determine what, if any, legislative action is needed; and

"WHEREAS, The ascertainment of such facts and the investigation of such subject falls within the scope of the powers and duties conferred and imposed upon the Assembly Interim Committee on Governmental Efficiency and Economy; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, by the Assembly of the State of California, That the existing Assembly Interim Committee on Governmental Efficiency and Economy, or any committee created at this session with similar powers and duties, is hereby requested to study and investigate all laws and regulations relating to the registration of engineers, the administration thereof by the State Board of Registration for Civil Engineers, and all other matters relating to or in any way bearing upon the recitals of this resolution, and to report thereon to the Assembly, including in its report its recommendations for appropriate legislation.

"Resolution read, and adopted unanimously."

We find it true, as alleged in the resolution, that Members of this Legislature have received numerous complaints from those who have been unsuccessful in their efforts to become licensed professional engineers.

While these complaints generally allege that failure to get a license results from arbitrary and unreasonable standards set by the licensing board, we find this to be a matter of judgment in which there is room for honest differences of opinion.

One who seeks any advantage as valuable as a license to practice as an engineer will naturally have confidence in his own ability to qualify, and will naturally seek someone to blame when he fails to meet the requirements. Some of the complaints, therefore, must be dismissed as normal human reactions, which any of us would share under the same circumstances.

We find cases in which it is our own judgment that there appears to be a just cause for complaint. The committee does not care to cite such individual cases, however, for reasons which will appear below.

The only question, in the final analysis, is whether a situation exists which requires corrective legislation. In our judgment, no such condition exists.

The State has created many boards and bureaus for licensing and regulating the practice of a wide range of businesses and professions. It has been typical of all these agencies that their governing body is selected from among the business or profession being regulated, and that each business and profession in effect sets its own standards and practices.

We believe that in the cases of legitimate callings, it is entirely fitting and proper that those engaged in the field should be entrusted with the administration of laws to protect their own calling, and at the same time protect the public against low standards and malpractice.

If that is to be the means by which these businesses and professions are regulated, then it would not be fitting for the Legislature to attempt to substitute its judgment in individual cases for the judgment of those in charge.

Should any board or bureau ever so conduct its affairs that the public interest is endangered, or the practice of any calling is so restricted that it limits service to the public, then there may be occasion for a full review of the manner in which one or all of these regulatory bodies are administered.

The public has a deep concern for the proper regulation of the profession of engineering. Tremendous sums of money are invested in public and private buildings, the quality of which depends on sound engineering skill in their design and construction. Public safety is completely at the mercy of those who plan and build bridges and dams and highways and railroads and buildings.

This Legislature has on more than one occasion had to pass corrective legislation, imposing more rigid standards, after some tragic event has driven home once again the lesson that we cannot relax safety measures.

If, in holding to a high standard, the Board of Registration for Civil and Professional Engineers withholds its license from some few who might be successful practitioners, but in doing so is doubly certain that engineering practice in California will be of the highest order, we believe the Legislature should not interfere.

We urge the board to introduce every possible safeguard against unfair discrimination in any case; but we feel this must be done by the board itself in the proper exercise of its administrative authority.

INSURED BUSINESS LOANS

Assembly Bill No. 126 in the 1950 First Extraordinary Session was "An act for the prevention or alleviation of unemployment by providing for stimulation of employment in private industry through a system of insured business loans; creating a state finance corporation, as the public agency to administer this act; prescribing its powers and duties; and making an appropriation."

The subject matter of this bill was referred to this committee for study and report.

It is the opinion of your committee that, while the fostering and development of employment opportunities in private industries by providing venture capital is an important objective, it is not a function which the State Government should undertake. The resources of private capital which are available, supplemented by those provided by the Federal Government are, in our judgment sufficient without creating the additional administrative organization and the additional financial responsibilities which would be involved in the State of California entering into such a venture.

World conditions being such as they are, we seriously doubt that there is any need at this time to provide machinery for encouraging employment, even if it were thought to be a proper function of State Government.

CONSTRUCTION OF A SCIENTIFIC AND TECHNICAL MUSEUM

Assembly Bill No. 92, introduced in the 1950 Extraordinary Session, proposed to create a scientific and technical museum in Exposition Park, Los Angeles; and proposed to appropriate $50,000 for the purpose.

The subject matter of the bill was referred to this committee for consideration.

The sponsors of this measure have not sought to present evidence to the committee to justify the proposal; and the committee sees no purpose in encouraging such construction at this time We oppose such a measure for the following reasons:

1. The State has many more critical needs for public works.
2. The sum proposed would not begin to provide an adequate museum. Any such museum would require additional funds to complete it, to provide its contents and to staff it.
3. In the face of current world conditions, critical materials and skilled labor cannot be justified for the purpose.

LOBBYING

In response to the requests of various citizens, officials and civic organizations, the members of the committee voted, at a public meeting of the committee held in Los Angeles on August 26, 1949, to undertake an investigation of the authenticity of facts related and statements made in an article appearing in Collier's magazine and dealing with lobbying and the activities of one Arthur Samish.

Pursuant to this decision, a hearing was held in San Francisco on September 22, 1949. Mr. Samish was subpoenaed and appeared as a witness. In response to detailed questioning by counsel for the committee, Mr. Samish testified as to his clients and his methods of operation, and denied generally the bulk of the statements attributed to him in the Collier article. A further hearing was scheduled for November 9 and 10, 1949, in Los Angeles to proceed further in this matter, and Mr. Samish was instructed to be present at that time.

On or about November 3, 1949 articles appeared in the press to the effect that Governor Warren had requested the District Attorney of Sacramento County to commence a grand jury investigation of lobbying activities at the State Capitol, and that the District Attorney had inaugurated such investigation in compliance with the Governor's request. It was further reported that the District Attorney had expressed his intention to ask for indictments if the Grand Jury's investigation disclosed criminal conduct.

At the hearing in Los Angeles on November 3, 1949, (mentioned above) these developments were considered by the committee sitting with its special counsel and the Legislative Counsel. Mr. Eugene Williams, Special Counsel, and the Honorable Fred B. Wood, then Legislative Counsel, advised the committee that further hearings on this subject at that time might impede the work of the Sacramento Grand Jury and might confer immunity from criminal prosecution upon persons who might be involved in the grand jury's investigation.

Acting upon the advice of its counsel and the Honorable Fred B. Wood, Legislative Counsel, the committee voted to proceed no further with the matter until the findings of the Sacramento Grand Jury were made public. The committee feels that the recent case of McLain vs. Superior Court, 99 Cal. App. 2d 109, amply demonstrates the wisdom of that decision.

Shortly thereafter the Governor announced his intention of calling a special session to deal with, among other things, legislation relating to lobbying, and on December 7, 1949, the Governor's Proclamation so doing was issued.

The committee had caused the Legislative Counsel to compile and analyze the laws of all other states and of the Federal Government, relating to lobbying and the regulation thereof, and this compilation was made available to Members of the Assembly at the special session. A bill was introduced by a member of this committee, regulating lobbying, and was enacted at the special session. At the same session the Joint Committee on Lobby Regulation was created by Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 12, (adopted December 20, 1949) and committees specifically authorized to investigate matters relating to this subject have been in existence ever since that date.

For all the courage of their cry
That echoes down from sky to sky;
Thanksgiving for the armed seers,
And heroes called to mortal years—
Souls that have built our faith in man,
And lit the ages as they ran.

We pray in Jesus' blessed name.—AMEN.

"Sec. 9 (a) Notwithstanding the limitations contained in paragraph (b) of Section 2 of this act, for the purposes of this Section 9 and of Sections 9.1 and 9.2 of this act, the following definitions shall apply to the terms used therein: The terms "municipal water district," "municipal utility district," "public utility district," "county water district," and "county water authority," shall have the meanings respectively ascribed to said terms as set forth in paragraph (a) of said Section 2; the term "city" shall mean any city, and any city and county, of the State of California, whether organized under a freeholders' charter or under the provisions of general laws, but shall not have any of the other meanings ascribed to said term as set forth in said paragraph (a) of said Section 2; and the terms "municipal corporation" and "municipality" shall mean any municipal water district, any municipal utility district, any public utility district, any county water district, and any county water authority, but shall not mean any city or any city and county.

(b) Territory may be annexed to any metropolitan water district organized hereunder by one of the following methods.

(1) By annexation to, or consolidation with, the area of any city, the area of which, as a separate unit, shall have become a part of any metropolitan water district organized hereunder, such annexation or consolidation to occur upon compliance with the provisions of law governing such annexation to, or consolidation with, the area of such city. Upon completion of such annexation to, or consolidation with, such city in compliance with the provisions of law applicable thereto, such territory shall become, and be, a part of such metropolitan water district, and the taxable property therein shall be subject to taxation thereafter for the purposes of said metropolitan water district, including the payment of bonds and other obligations of such district at the time authorized or outstanding.

(2) By annexation to, or consolidation with, any city which, as a separate unit, shall have become a part of any municipality, the area of which municipality, as a separate unit, shall have become a part of any metropolitan water district organized hereunder, in instances where, under the applicable provisions of law governing the change of boundaries of such municipality, such annexation or consolidation automatically will result in the enlargement of the area of such municipality, such annexation or consolidation to occur upon compliance with the provisions of law governing such annexation to, or consolidation with, the area of such city. Upon completion of such annexation to, or consolidation with, such city in compliance with the provisions of law applicable thereto, such territory shall become, and be, a part of such municipality and of such metropolitan water district, and the taxable property therein shall be subject to taxation thereafter for the purposes of said municipality and of said metropolitan water district, including the payment of bonds and other obligations of such municipality and of such metropolitan water district at the time authorized or outstanding. If any such territory shall have been so annexed to, or consolidated with, any such city prior to the effective date of this subparagraph (2), under conditions which would have resulted in the enlargement of the area of such metropolitan water district had the foregoing provisions of this subparagraph

(2) then been in effect, upon compliance with the following provisions of this subparagraph (2), such territory shall be annexed to, and shall become and be a part of, such metropolitan water district, and shall be a part of such municipality for all purposes, the last-mentioned provisions being as follows:

(aa) The governing body of such city, at any time after the effective date of this subparagraph (2), may adopt an ordinance which, after reciting that such territory has been annexed to, or consolidated with, such city by proceedings theretofore taken under statutory authority, and after referring to the applicable statutes and to the date and place of filing of the certificate or certificates evidencing such annexation or consolidation, shall describe such territory and shall determine and declare that the said territory shall be, and thereby is, annexed to such metropolitan water district, and said ordinance shall further determine and declare that the said territory shall become and be, and thereby is, a part of such metropolitan water district, and shall be, and thereby is, a part of such municipality for all purposes.

(bb) The governing body, or clerk thereof, of such city shall file a certified copy of such ordinance with the Secretary of State of the State of California. Upon the filing of said certified copy of such ordinance in the office of the Secretary of State, such territory shall become, and be, a part of such metropolitan water district, and shall be a part of such municipality for all purposes, and the taxable property therein shall be subject to taxation thereafter for the purposes of said metropolitan water district and of said municipality, including the payment of bonds and other obligations of such metropolitan water district and of such municipality at the time authorized or outstanding.

(cc) Upon the filing in his office of the aforesaid certified copy of such ordinance, the Secretary of State shall, within ten days, issue his certificate, describing such territory, reciting the filing of said certified copy of such ordinance in his office and the annexation of said territory to such metropolitan water district, and declaring that the said territory is a part of said metropolitan water district and of such municipality. The Secretary of State shall transmit the original of his said certificate to the secretary of such metropolitan water district and a duplicate original of his said certificate to the clerk of the governing body of such municipality, and shall forward a certified copy of his said certificate to the county clerk of each county in which is situated such metropolitan water district or any part thereof.

Annexation to a metropolitan water district under the provisions of subdivisions (1) and (2) of this paragraph shall be subject to terms and conditions fixed by the board of directors of the metropolitan water district which may provide, among other things, for the levy by the district of special taxes upon taxable property within the area annexed to the city in addition to the taxes elsewhere in this act authorized to be levied by the metropolitan water district.

Prior to calling an election, or publishing notice thereof, for the submission of the proposition of annexation to a city which, as a separate unit, is a part of a metropolitan water district or which is a part of a municipality, the area of which municipality, as a separate unit, is a part of the metropolitan water district, the governing body of the city shall request the board of directors of the metropolitan water district concerned to fix the terms and conditions to which the area sought to be annexed would be subject by reason of the annexation. If the terms and conditions provide for the levy of special taxes, the board of directors of the metropolitan water district shall specify the amount to be raised through such taxes and the number of years prescribed for raising of the same and that substantially equal annual levies will be made for raising the amount specified over the period prescribed. The board of directors of the metropolitan water district shall fix the terms and conditions without delay.

Any terms and conditions fixed by the board of directors of a metropolitan water district in connection with proceedings to annex territory to a city shall be included in all election notices and upon holding the election, a vote in favor of the proposition to annex shall be deemed a vote in favor of accepting the terms and conditions fixed by a metropolitan water district.

Upon the annexation of any area to a city with respect to which terms and conditions have been fixed by the board of directors of a metropolitan water district, the board of directors of the metropolitan water district shall be empowered to do all things necessary to enforce and make effective these terms and conditions.

(3) Upon terms and conditions fixed by the board of directors of such metropolitan water district and in the manner provided in paragraph (c) hereof, by direct annexation, as a separate unit, of the corporate area of any municipality or city.

(4) Upon terms and conditions fixed by the board of directors of such metropolitan water district and in the manner provided in paragraph (d) hereof, by annexation to, or consolidation with, any municipality, the area of which, in whole or in part, is included within such metropolitan water district as a separate unit; provided, that unless such territory shall be so annexed to such metropolitan water district with the consent of such board of directors, the annexation of such territory to, or the consolidation of such territory with, any such municipality shall not authorize or entitle such municipality or such territory to demand or receive any water from such metropolitan water district for use in such territory; and provided further, that, except where automatic annexation results under the conditions mentioned in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph (b), nothing in this act shall prevent the annexation of territory to, or the consolidation of territory with, any such municipality for its local purposes only and without annexing such territory to such metropolitan water district, and such local annexation or consolidation may occur without requesting or obtaining the consent thereto of the board of directors of such metropolitan water district.

(c) The governing body of any municipality or city may apply to the board of directors of such metropolitan water district for consent to annex the corporate area of such municipality or city to the metropolitan water district. The board of directors may grant or deny such application and in granting the same may fix the terms and conditions upon which the corporate area of such municipality or city may be annexed to and become a part of the metropolitan water district. Such terms and conditions may provide, among other things, for the levy by such metropolitan water district of special taxes upon taxable property within such municipality or city in addition to the taxes elsewhere in this act authorized to be levied by such metropolitan water district, and in case such terms and conditions shall provide for the levy of such special taxes, the board of directors in fixing such terms and conditions shall specify the aggregate amount to be so raised and the number of years prescribed for raising such aggregate sum, and that substantially equal annual levies will be made for the purpose of raising such sum over the period so prescribed. The action of the board of directors evidenced by resolution shall be promptly transmitted to the governing body of such applying municipality or city, and if such action shall grant consent to such annexation, such governing body may thereupon submit to the qualified electors of such municipality or city, at any general or special election held therein, the proposition of such annexation subject to the terms and conditions fixed as herein provided. Notice of such election shall be given by posting or publication; when given by posting such notice shall be posted at least 10 days and in three public places in the municipality or city; when given by publication such notice shall be published once at least 10 days before the date fixed for the election in a newspaper of general circulation published in the municipality or city. Such notice shall contain the substance of the terms and conditions fixed by the board of directors, as herein provided. Such election shall be conducted and the returns thereof canvassed in the manner provided by law for elections in such municipality or city. If such proposition shall receive the affirmative vote of a majority of electors of such municipality or city voting thereon at such election, the governing body of such municipality or city shall certify the result of such election on said proposition to the board of directors of said district, together with a legal description of the boundaries of the corporate area of such municipality or city, accompanied by a map or plat indicating such boundaries. A certificate of proceedings hereunder shall be made by the secretary of the district and filed with the Secretary of State. Upon the filing thereof in the office of the Secretary of State, the corporate area of such municipality or city shall become, and be, an integral part of such metropolitan water district, and the taxable property therein shall be subject to taxation thereafter for the purposes of said metropolitan water district, including the payment of bonds and other obligations of such district at the time authorized or outstanding, and the board of directors of such metropolitan water district shall be empowered to do all things necessary to enforce and make effective the terms and conditions of annexation fixed as hereinabove authorized. Upon the filing in his office of the aforesaid certificate of proceedings the Secretary of State shall, within 10 days, issue his certificate, reciting the filing of said papers in his office and the annexation of the corporate area of such municipality or city to such metropolitan water district. The Secretary of State shall transmit the original of his said certificate to the secretary of such metropolitan water district and shall forward a certified copy thereof to the county clerk of each county in which is situated such metropolitan water district or any portion thereof.

(d) The governing body of any municipality, the area of which, in whole or in part, is included within such metropolitan water district as a separate unit, may apply to the board of directors of such metropolitan water district for consent to annex to such metropolitan water district territory which it is sought to annex to, or consolidate with, such municipality, or territory which, without making the same a part of such metropolitan water district, already has been annexed to, or consolidated with, such municipality. The board of directors may grant or deny such application and in granting the same may fix the terms and conditions upon which such territory may be annexed to, and become a part of, the metropolitan water district. Such terms and conditions may provide, among other things, for the levy by such metropolitan water district of special taxes upon taxable property within such territory in addition to the taxes elsewhere in this act authorized to be levied by such metropolitan water district, and in case such terms and conditions shall provide for the levy of such special taxes, the board of directors in fixing such terms and conditions shall specify the aggregate amount to be so raised and the number of years prescribed for raising such aggregate sum, and that substantially equal annual levies will be made for the purpose of raising such sum over the period so prescribed. The action of the board of directors evidenced by resolution shall be promptly transmitted to the governing body of such applying municipality, and if such action shall grant consent to such annexation, such territory may be annexed to such metropolitan water district as provided in subparagraph (1) or in subparagraph (2) hereof. Unless the board of directors of such metropolitan water district shall grant such consent, such territory cannot be annexed to, or consolidated with, such metropolitan water district.

(1) If such territory has not theretofore been annexed to, or consolidated with, such municipality, upon completion of such annexation to, or consolidation with, such municipality in compliance with the provisions of law applicable thereto, including this Section 9, such territory shall become, and be, a part of such metropolitan water district, and the taxable property therein shall be subject to taxation thereafter for the purposes of said metropolitan water district, including the payment of bonds and other obligations of such district at the time authorized or outstanding, and the board of directors of such metropolitan water district shall be empowered to do all things necessary to enforce and make effective the terms and conditions of annexation fixed as hereinabove authorized; provided, that if the applicable provisions of law governing such annexation to, or consolidation with, such municipality shall require any notice of any election called for the purpose of determining whether such proposed annexation or consolidation shall occur, or shall require any notice of hearing or other notice to be given to the residents or electors of, or owners of property in, such territory, such notice shall contain the substance of the terms and conditions of annexation to such metropolitan water district fixed by the board of directors of such district as herein provided; and provided further, that the governing body of such municipality or other officer thereof having the duty of certifying the proceedings resulting in such annexation to, or consolidation with, such municipality, pursuant to the provisions of law applicable thereto, shall include in such certification a record of the proceedings by which such territory has been annexed to such metropolitan water district in accordance with the provisions hereof, and shall file a duplicate of such certificate with the board of directors of such metropolitan water district.

(2) If the territory sought to be annexed to such metropolitan water district theretofore has been annexed to, or consolidated with, such municipality, the governing body of such municipality, upon being advised of the action of the board of directors of such metropolitan water district, as above provided, and if such action shall grant consent to such annexation, may submit to the qualified electors of such territory, at any general or special election held therein, the proposition of such annexation to such metropolitan water district subject to the terms and conditions fixed by the board of directors of such metropolitan water district, as herein provided. Notice of such election shall be given by posting or publication; when given by posting such notice shall be posted at least ten days and in three public places in such territory; when given by publication such notice shall be published once at least ten days before the date fixed for the election in a newspaper of general circulation published in such municipality. Such notice shall contain the substance of the terms and conditions fixed by the board of directors, as herein provided. Such election shall be conducted and the returns thereof canvassed by the governing body of such municipality in the manner provided by law for elections in such municipality. "CHAPTER 1. POLICY; TITLE OF ACT

Section 1.1. It is hereby declared to be the policy of the State of California to develop interurban rapid transit systems in the various metropolitan areas within the State for the benefit of the people. A necessity exists in Los Angeles County for such a system. Because of the numerous separate municipal corporations and unincorporated populated areas in Los Angeles County, the areas within all of which are necessary and integral parts of such a system, only a specially created district comprising all of Los Angeles County can operate freely in said county in, through and between said various municipal corporations and unincorporated populated areas. Because of the unique problem presented by Los Angeles County, no general law can be made applicable to the carrying out of the objects and purposes of this act, and the facts and circumstances relative to the establishment of an interurban rapid transit system in said county require the adoption of a special act and the creation of a special authority; and it is, accordingly, necessary to enact this legislation applicable solely to said county to provide the necessary interurban rapid transit system in said county.

Sec. 1.2. This act shall be known and cited as the "Los Angeles Metropolitan Transit Authority Act."

CHAPTER 2. DEFINITIONS

Sec. 5.1. The authority may issue revenue bonds for the acquisition, construction or completion of the system or any part thereof. The total amount of revenue bonds that may be issued by the authority shall not be limited as to aggregate principal amount, except as the authority may provide in any resolutions relating to the issue of any revenue bonds hereunder.

Sec. 5.2. The purpose, nature and extent of each separate improvement comprising a part of the system shall be described in general terms prior to the issuance of any bonds.

Sec. 5.3. The validity of the authorization and issuance of any revenue bonds by the authority is not dependent on nor affected in any way by:

(a) Proceedings taken by the authority for the acquisition, construction or completion of the system or any part thereof.

(b) Any contracts made by the authority in connection with the acquisition, construction or completion of the system or any part thereof.

(c) The failure to complete any part of the system for which bonds are authorized to be issued.

Sec. 5.4. The authority shall issue revenue bonds in its name. These bonds shall constitute obligations of the authority only, and neither the payment of the principal or interest of any such bond constitutes a debt, liability or obligation of the county or the State of California. All bonds issued by the authority shall contain a recital on their face that neither the payment of the principal or any part thereof nor any interest thereon constitutes a debt, liability or obligation of the county or the State.

Sec. 5.5. The authority shall determine the time, form and manner of the issuance of revenue bonds.

Sec. 5.6. The authority may enter into indentures providing for the aggregate principal amount, date, or dates, maturities, interest rate, denominations, form, registration transfer and interchange of such bonds and coupons, and the terms and conditions upon which the same shall be executed, issued, secured, sold, paid, redeemed, funded and refunded. Reference on the face of the bonds to such indenture by its date of adoption, or the apparent date on the face thereof, is sufficient to incorporate all of the provisions thereof and of this act into the body of the bonds and their appurtenant coupons. Each taker and subsequent holder of the bonds or coupons, whether the coupons are attached to or detached from the bonds, has recourse to all of the provisions of the indenture and of this act, and is bound thereby

Sec. 5.7. An indenture pursuant to which bonds are issued may include such covenants and agreements on the part of the authority as the authority deems necessary or advisable for the better security of the bonds issued thereunder.

Sec. 5.8 An indenture may include a clause relating to the bonds issued thereunder requiring the authority to pay or cause to be paid punctually the principal of all such bonds and the interest thereon on the date or dates, at the place or places, and in the manner mentioned in such bonds and in the coupons appertaining thereto in accordance with such indenture.

Sec 5.9. An indenture may include a clause relating to the bonds issued thereunder requiring the authority to continuously operate the system acquired, constructed, or completed, in whole or in part, from the proceeds of the bonds in an efficient and economical manner.

Sec. 5.10 An indenture may include a clause relating to the bonds issued thereunder requiring the authority to make all needful and necessary repairs, renewals and replacements to the system and to keep it at all times in good repair, working order and condition.

Sec 5 11. An indenture may include a clause relating to the bonds issued hereunder requiring the authority to preserve and protect the security of the bonds and the rights of the holders thereof and to warrant and defend such rights.

Sec. 5 12. An indenture may include a clause relating to the bonds issued thereunder requiring the authority to pay and discharge or cause to be paid and discharged all lawful claims for labor, materials and supplies or other charges which, if unpaid, might become a lien or charge upon the revenues, or any part thereof, of any improvements acquired, constructed or completed from the proceeds of the sale of the bonds, or upon any physical properties, or which might impair the security of the bonds.

Sec. 5 13. An indenture may include a clause relating to the bonds issued thereunder which limits, restricts, or prohibits any right, power or privilege of the authority to mortgage or otherwise encumber, sell, lease or dispose of any part of the system constructed from the proceeds of the bonds, or to enter into any lease or agreement which impairs or impedes the operation of the system, or any part thereof, necessary to secure adequate revenues or which otherwise impairs or impedes the rights of the holders of the bonds with respect to such revenues

Sec. 5 14. An indenture may include a clause relating to the bonds issued thereunder requiring the authority to fix, prescribe and collect rates, fares, tolls, rentals or other charges in connection with the services and facilities furnished from the system or any part thereof, acquired, constructed or purchased from part or all of the proceeds of the bonds, sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds as they become due and payable, together with all expenses of operation, maintenance and repair of the system, and with such additional sums as may be required for any sinking fund, reserve fund or other special fund provided for the further security of such bonds or as a depreciation charge or other charge in connection with such improvement

Sec. 5 15. An indenture may include a clause relating to the bonds issued thereunder requiring the authority to hold in trust the revenues pledged to the payment of such bonds and the interest thereon, or to any reserve or other fund created for the further protection of the bonds, and to apply such revenues or cause them to be applied only as provided in the indenture.

Sec. 5 16 An indenture may include a clause limiting the power of the authority to apply the proceeds of the sale of any issue of bonds for the acquiring, constructing or completing of the system or any part thereof.

Sec 5 17. An indenture may include a clause limiting the power of the authority to issue additional bonds for the purpose of acquiring, constructing or completing the system or any part thereof

Sec. 5 18. An indenture may include a clause requiring, specifying or limiting the kind, amount and character of insurance to be maintained by the authority on the system, or any part thereof, and the use and disposition of the proceeds of any such insurance thereafter collected.

Sec 5 19 An indenture may include a clause providing the events of default and the terms and conditions upon which any or all of the bonds of the authority then or thereafter issued may become or be declared due and payable prior to maturity, and the terms and conditions upon which such declaration and its consequences may be waived.

Sec 5 20 An indenture may include a clause designating the rights, limitations, power and duties arising upon breach by the authority of any of the covenants, conditions or obligations contained in any indenture

Sec 5 21. An indenture may include a clause prescribing a procedure by which the terms and conditions of the indenture may be subsequently amended or modified with the consent of the authority and the vote or written assent of the holders of a specified principal amount of the bonds issued and outstanding. Such clause may provide for meetings of bondholders and for the manner in which the consent of the bondholders may be given. The clause shall specifically state the effect of such amendment or modification upon the rights of the holders of all of the bonds and interest coupons appertaining thereto, whether attached thereto or detached therefrom.

With respect to any clause providing for the modification or amendment of an indenture, the authority may agree that bonds held by the authority, by any department, political subdivision or agency of the State of California, or by any public corporation, municipality, district or political subdivision shall not be counted as outstanding bonds, or be entitled to vote or assent, but shall, nevertheless, be subject to any such modification or amendment.

Sec. 5.22. An indenture may include a clause providing for such other acts and matters as may be necessary or convenient or desirable in order to secure the bonds or to make the bonds more marketable.

Sec. 5.23. The authority may designate a bank or trust company, qualified to do business in this State, as a trustee for the authority and the holders of bonds issued hereunder, and may authorize the trustee to act on behalf of the holders of the bonds, or any stated percentage thereof, and to exercise and prosecute on behalf of the holders of the bonds such rights and remedies as may be available to the holders.

Sec. 5.24. The authority shall fix and determine the conditions upon which any trustee shall receive, hold or disburse any or all revenues collected for or on account of the authority. The authority shall prescribe the duties and powers of such trustee with respect to the issuance, authentication, sale and delivery of the bonds and the payment of principal and interest thereof, the redemption of the bonds, the registration and discharge from registration of the bonds, and the management of any sinking fund or other funds provided as security for the bonds.

Sec. 5.25. The authority may issue bonds in series or may divide any issue into one or more divisions and fix different maturities or dates of such bonds, different rates of interest, or prescribe different terms and conditions for the bonds of the several series or divisions. It is not necessary that all bonds of the same authorized issue be of the same kind or character, have the same security, or be of the same interest rate, but the terms thereof shall in each case be provided for by the authority, at or prior to the issue thereof. The authority may provide for successive issues or may provide for one maximum issue.

Sec. 5.26. Bonds may be issued as coupon bonds or as registered bonds. The authority may provide for the interchange of coupon bonds for registered bonds and registered bonds for coupon bonds, and may provide that the bonds shall be registered as to principal only, or as to both principal and interest, or otherwise as the authority may determine.

Sec. 5.27. Bonds shall bear interest at a rate of not to exceed six (6) percent. per annum, payable annually or semi-annually or in part annually and in part semi-annually. Prior to the isuance of bonds the authority may fix limitations or restrictions on the payment of interest.

Sec. 5.28. Bonds may be callable upon such terms, conditions, and upon such notice as the authority may determine, and upon the payment of the premium fixed by the authority in the proceedings for the issuance of the bonds. No bond is subject to call or redemption prior to its fixed maturity date unless the right to exercise such call is expressly stated on the face of the bond.

Sec. 5.29. The authority may provide for the payment of the principal and interest of bonds at any place within or without the State of California, and in specified coin or currency of the United States of America.

Sec. 5.30. The authority may provide for the execution and authentication of bonds by the manual, lithographed or printed facsimile signature of officers of the authority, and by additional authentication by a trustee or fiscal agent appointed by the authority. If any of the officers whose signatures or countersignatures appear upon the bonds or coupons cease to be officers before the delivery of the bonds or coupons, their signatures or countersignatures are nevertheless valid and of the same force and effect as if the officers had remained in office until the delivery of the bonds and coupons.

Sec. 5.31. Bonds shall bear dates prescribed by the authority. Bonds may be serial bonds or sinking fund bonds with such maturities as the authority may determine. No bond by its terms shall mature in more than 50 years from its own date and in the event any authorized issue is divided into two or more series or divisions, the maximum maturity date herein authorized shall be calculated from the date on the face of each bond separately, irrespective of the fact that different dates may be prescribed for the bonds of each separate series or division of any authorized issue.

Sec. 5.32. The authority may fix terms and conditions for the sale or other disposition of any authorized issue of bonds The authority may sell bonds at less than their par or face value but no bond may be sold at a price below the par or face value thereof which would result in a sale price yielding to the purchaser an average of more than six (6) percent per annum, payable semiannually, according to standard tables of bond values All bonds issued and sold pursuant to this act shall be sold on sealed proposals to the highest bidder after advertising for bids by publication of notice of sale once, not less than 10 days prior to the date of sale, in a newspaper of general circulation printed and published in the county. The authority may reject any and all bids submitted and may thereafter sell the bonds so advertised for sale at private sale under such terms and conditions as it deems most advantageous to its own interests, but the bonds shall not be sold at a price below that of the highest bid which was rejected.

Sec. 5.33. The authority may provide for the security of bonds. The authority may also provide for the payment of bonds out of any appropriations or other funds contributed to the authority by the State of California, the United States of America, or by any department or agency of either thereof. However, nothing in this act shall obligate the State of California to make any appropriation for that purpose.

Sec. 5.34. Interest on bonds may be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of the bonds during the actual construction of the system or any part thereof for the acquisition, construction or completion of which the bonds have been issued, and for a period of not to exceed two (2) years thereafter as provided for in the indenture.

Sec. 5.35. The authority may provide in the proceedings for the issuance of bonds that the bonds and the interest thereon constitute such lien upon the revenues of the system or any part thereof acquired, constructed or completed from the proceeds of such bonds as may be provided for in the indenture.

Sec. 5.36. Pending the actual issuance or delivery of revenue bonds, the authority may issue temporary or interim bonds, certificates or receipts of any denominations whatsoever, and with or without coupons, to be exchanged for definitive bonds when ready for delivery.

Sec. 5.37. All bonds, and the interest or income therfrom, are exempt from all taxation in this State other than gift, inheritance and estate taxes.

Sec. 5.38. The authority may provide for the issuance, sale, or exchange of refunding bonds for the purpose of redeeming or retiring any revenue bonds issued by the authority. All provisions of this act applicable to the issuance of revenue bonds are applicable to the funding or refunding bonds and to the issuance, sale or exchange thereof.

Sec. 5.39. Funding or refunding bonds may be issued in a principal amount sufficient to provide funds for the payment of all bonds to be funded or refunded thereby, and in addition for the payment of all expenses incident to the calling, retiring or paying of such outstanding bonds, and the issuance of such funding or refunding bonds. These expenses include the difference in amount between the par value of the funding or refunding bonds and any amount less than par for which the funding or refunding bonds are sold, any amount necessary to be made available for the payment of interest upon such funding or refunding bonds from the date of sale thereof to the date of payment of the bonds to be funded or refunded or to the date upon which the bonds to be funded or refunded will be paid pursuant to the call thereof or agreement with the holders thereof, and the premium, if any, necessary to be paid in order to call or retire the outstanding bonds and the interest accruing thereon to the date of the call or retirement.

Sec. 5.40. All bonds issued under the provisions of this act are negotiable instruments, except when registered in the name of a registered owner.

Sec. 5.41. The bonds issued under this act are subject to investigation and certification by the California Districts Securities Commission under the California Districts Securities Commission Act as such act reads or is hereafter amended to read. If the commission determines that the bonds are adequately secured and the revenues of the authority applicable to the payment thereof are or will be sufficient to pay the principal and interest of the bonds, and if the commission certifies to that effect, the bonds shall be eligible as legal investments for both public and private funds in the same manner as is provided in the California Districts Securities Commission Act.

Sec. 5.42. Prior to the issuance of any bonds, the authority may commence in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Los Angeles, a special proceeding to determine the right to issue the bonds and their validity. Such proceeding shall be instituted and prosecuted in the same manner as provided by Sections 22670 to 22684, inclusive, of the California Water Code, as these sections now read or may hereafter be amended to read, and these sections apply to and govern all such proceedings instituted under this act. Such proceeding is a proceeding in rem and the judgment rendered therein is conclusive against all persons whomsoever and against the State of California.

CHAPTER 6. ACQUISITION, CONSTRUCTION AND COMPLETION OF SYSTEM

Sec. 6.1. Whenever in the judgment of the authority it is advisable that the system or any part thereof be acquired, constructed or completed, in whole or in part, it shall cause a report thereon to be made which shall include:

(a) An estimate of the probable cost of the acquisition, construction and completion including all incidental expenses, engineering, legal and administrative, during construction;

(b) An estimate of the probable sources of income and the amount thereof;

(c) An estimate of the cost of maintenance and future operation upon completion, including the cost of all repairs, administrative and overhead charges.

The expense of the preparation of such report shall be paid by the authority out of any funds available, including the proceeds of revenue bonds thereafter issued.

Sec. 6.2. If the report is approved by the authority, the authority may adopt a resolution declaring that the public interest and necessity demand the acquisition, construction or completion of the system or part thereof, authorizing such acquisition, construction or completion, and may thereupon authorize the issuance of revenue bonds for the purpose of obtaining funds in an amount estimated by the authority to be sufficient for such purpose.

Sec. 6.3. The authority has full charge of the acquisition, construction and completion of the system or any part thereof authorized by it and may proceed with such work forthwith.

Sec. 6.4. The authority may construct the system or any part thereof and acquire all property necessary therefor on such terms and conditions as it deems advisable. The authority, without awarding a contract for the construction of the system or any part thereof, may do the work directly and may purchase materials, hire labor and do all other things necessary for the doing of the work. When any part of the work is to be done or performed by any public body or by the United States jointly or in conjunction with the authority, the portion of the cost thereof to be borne by the authority may be turned over to the Government of the United States or to any other public body to be expended by it in the acquisition, construction or completion of the system or any part thereof. Construction contracts entered into by the authority shall not be subject to the provisions of the State Contract Act and shall be governed solely by the provisions of this act, except that the provisions of Chapter 3, Division 5 of Title 1 of the Government Code are hereby expressly made applicable to the system or any part thereof under this act. Any such contracts may be entered into in such manner and upon such terms as the authority deems advisable.

Sec. 6.5. Title to all property acquired by the authority, and the revenues and income therefrom, is in the name of the authority. The title to any moneys, revenues, sinking funds, reserve funds and other funds of the authority and the income thereof pledged to the payment of the principal or any interest on any bonds issued hereunder is subject to the trusts hereby created in favor of the bondholders. All such property, and the income therefrom, are exempt from all taxation by the State or by any county, city and county, city, municipality, district, political subdivision or public corporation thereof. The management, operation and control of the system and of every part thereof, acquired, constructed or completed by the authority shall be vested in the authority and the powers, rights, functions and duties of the authority with respect thereto shall not be interfered with.

Sec. 6.6. The authority may use for the payment of the acquisition and construction or completion of the system or any part thereof any funds made available to the authority to be expended for the accomplishing of the purposes set forth in this act or the proceeds of revenue bonds issued and sold by the authority.

Sec. 6.7. The authority may insure against any accident to or destruction of the system or any part thereof. Any money collected on such insurance shall be used for the purpose of repairing or rebuilding the system or any part thereof damaged, injured or destroyed, or for the retirement of any revenue bonds issued in connection therewith which may be outstanding unredeemed, as may be agreed upon by the authority in the resolution authorizing the issuance of the bonds.

Sec. 6.8. The authority may insure against loss of revenues from any cause whatsoever and the proceeds of any such insurance shall be used solely for the payment of bonds and the interest thereon.

Sec. 6.9. The authority may insure against public liability or property damage. It may provide in the proceedings authorizing the issuance of any revenue bonds for the carrying of such or any other insurance, in such amount and of such character as may be specified, and for the payment of the premiums thereon.

CHAPTER 7. RATES, FARES, TOLLS, CHARGES AND FEES

Sec. 7.1. The authority shall fix the rates, fares, tolls and other charges for all transportation facilities comprising the system or any part thereof acquired, constructed or completed under the terms of this act, for the use thereof by any persons utilizing such facilities. Subject to such contractual obligations as may be entered into by the authority and the holders of the revenue bonds issued under this act, the authority is authorized to change such rates, fares, tolls and charges from time to time as conditions warrant. All rates, fares, tolls and charges shall be at all times fixed to yield annual revenue equal to annual operating and maintenance expenses, including insurance costs and all redemption payments and interest charges on the revenue bonds at any time issued and outstanding hereunder, as the same become due. The bond redemption and interest payments shall constitute a first, direct and exclusive charge and lien on all such rates, fares, tolls and charges and other revenues and interest thereon, and sinking funds created therefrom, received from the use and operation of the system; and all such rates, fares, tolls, charges and other revenues, together with interest thereon, shall constitute a trust fund for the security and payment of such bonds and, except as and to the extent provided in any indenture with respect to the payment therefrom of expenses for operation, maintenance, improvements or extensions of the system, shall not be used or pledged for any other purpose so long as such bonds, or any of them, are outstanding and unpaid. The authority may provide that the rates, fares, tolls and charges established are minimum rates, fares, tolls and charges and subject to increase or decrease in accordance only with the terms of the indenture under which the revenue bonds are issued.

CHAPTER 8. COMPETITIVE SYSTEMS

Sec. 8.1. The authority may include, in any indenture for the issuance of revenue bonds, a clause that no interurban passenger transportation line or facilities, excepting only such lines and facilities as shall comprise parts of the system and excepting also any other passenger transportation line or facilities then in existence in the county, will be acquired or constructed by the authority or by any other public corporation or agency of the State of California within the county, so long as any of the bonds of the authority are issued under any such indenture and then outstanding. Such limitation shall be valid and binding upon the authority and the State of California.

Sec. 8.2. The authority may also include in any indenture for the issuance of bonds a clause that no system or part thereof acquired, constructed or completed from the proceeds of revenue bonds issued by the authority shall be used without charge therefor or be furnished free of charge to any person, including the State of California or any political subdivision thereof, or any public corporation or individual, other than employees of the authority or of the State of California or other public body actually engaged in rendering service to the authority in connection with the system.

Sec. 8.3. The State of California hereby agrees that, so long as any bonds issued hereunder are outstanding and unpaid, or so long as there are not funds available, after construction of the system or any part thereof, in the treasury of the authority in an amount sufficient to retire all outstanding bonds, it will not directly or indirectly construct or permit the construction of any interurban transportation system in the county other than the system provided for in this act. The provisions of this section shall be binding upon Los Angeles County and upon all agencies, departments or instrumentalities of this State, and the prohibition of this section shall restrict and limit the powers of the Legislature of the State of California in respect of the matters herein mentioned as long as any of such bonds are outstanding and unpaid, or as long as there are not funds available after the construction of the system, in the treasury of the authority in sufficient amount to retire all the outstanding bonds, and shall be deemed to constitute a contract to that effect for the benefit of the holders of all such bonds.

CHAPTER 9. RIGHTS OF BONDHOLDERS

Sec. 9.1. The holder of any bond issued pursuant to this act may for the equal benefit and protection of all holders of bonds similarly situated (a) by mandamus or other appropriate proceeding, require and compel the performance of any of the duties imposed upon the authority or assumed by it, its officers, agents or employees, in connection with the acquisition, construction, operation, maintenance, repair, reconstruction or insurance of the system, or the collection, deposit, investment, application and disbursement of rates, fares, tolls or charges and all other revenues derived from the operation and use of the system or in connection with the deposit, investment and disbursement of the proceeds received from the sale of bonds under this act; (b) by action or suit in equity, require the authority to account as if it were the trustee of an express trust, or enjoin any acts or things which may be unlawful or in violation of the rights of the holders of the bonds or apply for the appointment of a receiver of the system; or (c) by action or suit in equity, apply for the appointment of a receiver of the system and of the business and assets of the authority, if the authority is insolvent or in imminent danger of insolvency, or if in any other circumstances a receiver of the system may properly be appointed according to the usages of courts of equity. The enumeration of such rights and remedies does not, however, exclude the exercise or prosecution of any other rights or remedies available to the holders of bonds issued pursuant to this act.

CHAPTER 10. CONTRIBUTIONS AND COOPERATION

Sec. 10.1. The authority may accept contributions or appropriations from the United States of America, the State of California, or any department or agency of either thereof, or from any county, city and county, city, political subdivision, agency, district or other public corporation of this State.

Sec. 10.2. The authority may cooperate and contract with the United States under any act of Congress heretofore and hereafter enacted authorizing or permitting such cooperation. The authority may enter into any contract, arrangement or agreement with any other public agency and may cooperate with the State of California or any other public agency for the development of the system.

Sec. 10.3. The State of California or any public corporation of this State may cooperate and enter into contracts with the authority for the acquisition, construction, completion, maintenance, operation, repair, joint or otherwise, and in whole or in part, of the system. In connection with any such cooperation or contract, the State or any such public corporation may make public contributions to the authority as in the judgment of the Legislature, or the governing board of the public corporation, are necessary or proper for its undertaking, and the authority may reimburse the State or such public corporation for any such advance or contribution from the proceeds of the sale of revenue bonds or any other funds available to the authority. Any agreement made by the authority for such reimbursement of advances or contributions made to it shall be valid and enforceable against the authority. The State or any such public corporation may also authorize, aid and assist the authority to carry out any activity which the State or such public corporation is by law authorized to perform and carry out on its own behalf.

CHAPTER 11. FUNDS

Sec. 11.1. The proceeds from the sale of all bonds authorized under the provisions of this act may be paid upon the direction of the authority either to the treasurer of the authority as custodian of the special trust fund, which fund is created by Section 11.2 hereof, to be held for the account of the authority, or may be paid direct to any bank or trust company designated as the fiscal agent and depositary of the authority, as in this act provided.

Sec. 11.2. There is hereby created a fund to be known as the "Los Angeles Metropolitan Transit Authority Construction Fund," in the event the proceeds of the sale of bonds authorized under this act shall be paid to the treasurer of the authority. The moneys in the construction fund shall be paid out and disbursed solely for the construction of the system pursuant to the provisions of this act, including surveys, preparation or acquisition of plans and specifications, engineering reports and studies, patents, rights, licenses and interests, and for the payment of all other costs and expenses prior to and during construction, including the acquisition of necessary rights of way, easements, lands and other property of every kind and description and appurtenances thereto, and the payment of all expenses, engineering, legal and administrative costs as provided by the authority in the proceedings for the issuance of such bonds. The treasurer shall keep an accurate account of all money deposited in and withdrawn from the construction fund

Sec. 11.3 In the event the proceeds of the sale of bonds are deposited in a special construction find in the custody of the treasurer, such moneys may be deposited as demand deposits in such depositary or depositaries as may be authorized by law to receive deposits of county funds

Sec. 11.4. If any surplus shall exist in the construction fund after the payment in full of all costs of acquisition, construction and completion of the system or part thereof for which the revenue bonds were issued, the same may be paid out and disbursed for any of the purposes of the authority in addition to those for which it may be paid out and disbursed pursuant to Section 11.2 hereof, but subject to any agreement which may be made by the authority in any indenture for the issuance of the revenue bonds with respect to the application of such surplus.

Sec. 11.5. In lieu of depositing the proceeds of sale of said bonds with the treasurer, the authority may, in any indenture for the issuance of bonds, designate a trustee or fiscal agent, which shall be a bank or trust company, or banks or trust companies, duly qualified to do business in this State, to receive the proceeds of such revenue bonds and to hold the same to the credit of a fund to be designated as the "Los Angeles Metropolitan Transit Authority Construction Fund," which fund shall be kept segregated and set apart from all other funds and shall be paid out and disbursed solely upon the application and demand of the authority.

Sec. 11.6. The authority may provide that the payment of interest becoming due and payable on the revenue bonds prior to and during the period of actual construction of the system or part thereof for which the bonds are issued, and for the period specified in the indenture for the issuance of the bonds, which period shall not exceed two (2) years after the completion of construction, and that the payment of all costs and expenses of administration during a period of one year after the completion of construction of the system or part thereof, shall be made out of the construction fund as the need therefor shall arise, and any moneys in the construction fund are hereby made available for such purposes.

Sec. 11.7. Moneys in the construction fund, whether held by the treasurer or in any fiscal agency or depositary of the authority, not required to meet acquisition or construction costs or expenses payable from the construction fund, or interest on the bonds, may be invested in bonds and other obligations eligible for investment of surplus county moneys; subject to such limitations as may be provided in the proceedings authorizing the issuance of the bonds. Any income or interest thereon shall be added to and become a part of the construction fund for the benefit of the authority.

Sec. 11.8. All revenues received from the operation of the system acquired or constructed or completed by the authority may be paid over by the authority either to the treasurer as custodian thereof or to any fiscal agent or depositary appointed by the authority.

Sec. 11.9. If the revenues are paid over by the authority to the treasurer, the same shall be held by the treasurer in a special fund and applied exclusively for the account of the authority. Said special fund is hereby designated "Los Angeles Metropolitan Transit Authority Revenue Fund." The moneys in the revenue fund shall be deposited by the treasurer in time or demand deposits in such depositary or depositaries as may be authorized by law to receive deposit of county funds, to the credit of the revenue fund, or may be invested in such bonds or obligations as are by law legal investments for county moneys, subject to such limitations and restrictions as may be provided in the resolution under which bonds of the authority are issued and

The authority may, in its absolute discretion, fix the terms and conditions upon which the trustee or trustees or fiscal agent or depositary shall receive, hold and disburse such revenues, and may prescribe the duties and powers of such fiscal agent, trustee or trustees or depositary in the indenture or other proceedings for the issuance of the bonds.

CHAPTER 12. GENERAL AUTHORITY

Orange County coast line, containing some 35 miles of coastal frontage, contains two harbors and many piers from which commercial and sport fishing boats operate, largest of said harbors being Newport Harbor, which, alone, has in excess of 4,000 boats. Most of these boats fish either commercially or for sport fishing The economic value of these boats, plus the employment they afford are a tremendous asset to the economic well-being of the County of Orange and the State of California.

Many fish which were formerly plentiful in this area have now been seriously depleted, due primarily to purse seining. The spawning season for most species of these fish is between May 1st and September 10th.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT THAT OPINION OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL BE PRINTED IN JOURNAL

Mr. McGee asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent that an opinion of the Legislative Counsel, relative to liens of mechanics and others, be ordered printed in the Journal, in 10 point type, as follows:

Opinion of Legislative Counsel

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

Honorable Patrick D. McGee
Assembly Chamber

Liens of Mechanics and Others—No. 8622

DEAR MR. MCGEE: You have asked that we compare the provisions of Assembly Bill No. 1051, as amended May 31, 1951, with the existing law relating to liens of mechanics and others to determine what, if any, changes would be made in such provisions if Assembly Bill No. 1051 is enacted, and have submitted a schedule indicating the source of the provisions in Assembly Bill No. 1051 and the differences between such provisions and the existing law for our verification.

We have made a detailed comparison of the provisions of Assembly Bill No. 1051 with the existing law, and have found that this bill would rearrange and reenact the existing law to improve clarity of expression and grammatical construction without substantive change.

The fact that Section 5 of the bill expresses the intent of the Legislature in enacting such bill, to accomplish a formal revision of the law without change in the meaning or substance thereof, would resolve any question of interpretation or construction which might arise by reason of the revision. The courts have consistently relied upon the express declaration of the intent of the Legislature, contained in a statute, as a guide to its interpretation and construction. Similar revisions and restatements of existing law, prepared by the California Code Commission, have been before the courts of this State, and have been construed as a restatement and continuation of existing law. (See Sandstrom vs. Cal. Horse Racing Board (1948), 31 Cal. 2d 401, 413; So. Cal. Jockey Club vs. Cal. etc. Racing Bd. (1950), 36 Adv. Cal. 107, 113.)

It is our opinion, therefore, that the provisions of Section 5 of the bill would avoid the effect of any unintentional changes which might arise by reason of the revision, and would require that the provisions of the bill be construed as a restatement and continuation of the existing law.

The attached memorandum contains the text of the schedule which you submitted, revised in accordance with our findings.

Very truly yours,
RALPH N. KLEPS
Legislative Counsel
By BERNARD CZESLA, Deputy

Assembly Bill No. 1051
Cross Reference Tables and Notes

Assembly Bill No. 1051, as amended May 31, 1951, repeals the existing provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to mechanics' liens and would adopt new sections consolidating and clarifying the existing statutory provisions by the elimination of duplication, where possible, and breaking long, complicated sentences into shorter statements. The act also regroups the various provisions so that related matters are together.

The act, with the exceptions noted, uses language identical with existing provisions, and does not make any material change in existing substantive law. The proposed sections are identical with or differ from existing provisions, as follows:

Proposed Section:	Sources and Differences, If Any:
1181	First paragraph of Section 1183 except last clause of that paragraph. Miners omitted from list of persons entitled to a lien. (Miners' lien is separately provided for in new Section 3060, added to the Civil Code by Section 2 of the bill). For clarity the word "on" was added to the phrase "bestowing skill or other necessary services." Term "teams and power" changed to "teams or power." New section uses the term "work of improvement" and omits enumeration wharf, bridge, etc., which is covered by a later section defining work of improvement. Term "labor done and materials furnished" changed to "labor done or materials furnished." To the phrase "shall have a lien upon the property upon which they bestowed labor or furnished materials" added "or appliances," for the reason the next clause provided, in part, that the lien was measured by the value of the use of "such appliances." For clarity the phrase "whether at the instance of the owner" was changed to read "whether done or furnished at the instance of the owner." The unnecessary word "other" omitted from the phrase "instance of the owner or of any other person acting by his authority." In this section the punctuation has been changed to set off paranthetical matter by commas, and to place a comma before the connecting word joining the last item with other items enumerated in a series. The two changes of "and" to "or" is a recognition of the present rule that liens arise for teams furnished or any other kind of power, and labor done either separately or in connection with furnishing materials.
1182 (a)	Definition of "work of improvement" and is a restatement of the portions omitted in the new Section 1181 from present Section 1183 as noted above, and covers the identical matters, in a brief direct statement.
1182 (b)	Definition of work of improvement to mean entire scheme and identical with first clause of the last paragraph of Section 1187.

Proposed Section:	Sources and Differences, If Any:
1182 (c)	Definition of "agent of owner" taken from last clause of the first paragraph of Section 1183, and the second paragraph of Section 1191 (a). Term "work of improvement" used in place of "improvement", no change as definitions identical.
1183.1 (a)	Identical with Section 1185, except the reference to Section 1192 is corrected to refer to Section 1183.1 (b).
1183.1 (b)	Identical with Section 1192 except references changed to refer to new sections.
1184.1	Identical with first clause of first paragraph of 1191 (a).
1185.1 (a)	First sentence of the third paragraph of Section 1183. This one long sentence is broken down into three separate sentences, and as a result some grammatical changes are made, but no change made in the substance of the original text.
1185.1 (b)	Second sentence of the third paragraph of Section 1183. Unnecessary punctuation omitted. Term "such original contract" was properly changed to "an original contract" as original contract is not defined in this section. Term "giving of such actual notice" changed to "giving of actual notice of the provisions" to show what the notice covered.
1185.1 (c)	From third sentence of the third paragraph of Section 1183. Phrase "which bond shall be in addition to * * * be also conditioned" changed to omit the first "be" which is unnecessary. The word "so" was omitted from the phrase "be made to inure * * * so as to give such persons a right of action". In addition punctuation changed by omitting unnecessary commas, and adding commas preceding the connecting word of items stated in series.
1185.1 (d)	Identical with last paragraph of Section 1183.
1186.1 (a)	Identical with first clause of Section 1193.
1186.1 (b)	From remaining portions of Section 1193 except last sentence. The only changes resulted from breaking the matters into two sentences, but using identical phraseology.
1186.1 (c)	Identical with the last sentence of Section 1193.
1187.1	Identical with Section 1201.
1188.1	From Section 1186. The exception added by the phrase "except as otherwise in this article provided" merely recognizes the statutory exceptions in the code, e g. 1191 (c). The term "lienholder" changed to "lien claimant", a more accurate description. The last two lines are rephrased, to include "appliances or power" and to change "improvement with which" to "improvement on which".
1189.1 (a)	Identical with Section 1191 (b) except "this section" changed to "that section" to properly refer to new section 1184.1.
1189.1 (b)	From Section 1191 (c), except last two sentences which are covered by Section 1200.1 (f). The only changes being the elimination of unnecessary commas and correcting references to other sections.

Proposed Section:	Sources and Differences, If Any:
1190.1 (a)	From first sentence of Section 1184. The only changes being the elimination of unnecessary commas, and correcting references to other sections to state the new numbers.
1190.1 (b)	From the second, third and fourth sentences of Section 1184. In the new section State and the names of the various agencies were capitalized.
1190.1 (c)	From the last sentence of the first paragraph of Section 1184. The only change being the elimination of an unnecessary comma.
1190.1 (d)	Identical with Section 1184 b, except the elimination of an unnecessary comma.
1190.1 (e)	Combines the provision of Section 1184 c, forfeiture of right to participate in distribution, and first sentence of Section 1202, forfeiture of lien.
1190.1 (f)	From balance of Section 1184 c. Corrects cross-references to other sections and acts. The term "surety or sureties on his bond" shortened to "his sureties".
1190.1 (g)	Identical with last paragraph of Section 1184, except for capitalizing "State".
1191.1	From Section 1184 d. References to other sections corrected to show new numbers. The long phrase "controller, auditor or other public disbursing officer * * * commissioner, managers, trustees, officers, board of supervisors, board of trustees, common council or other body" was shortened, as had had been done in that and other sections, to "public agency, body, or officer".
1192.1 (a)	From Section 1184 e. Corrects cross-reference to new section numbers and uses the short phrase "public agency, body or officer".
1192.1 (b)	Second paragraph of Section 1184 e. Corrects reference to new section numbers, and the word "and" added where formerly no connecting word used when enumerating items in series.
1192.1 (c)	Third paragraph of Section 1184 e. Corrects references to new section numbers.
1192.1 (d)	Fourth paragraph of Section 1184 e. No change.
1192.1 (e)	Fifth paragraph of Section 1184 e. No change.
1192.1 (f)	Sixth paragraph of Section 1184 e, a comma being inserted prior to the connecting word of items listed in series.
1193.1 (a)	First paragraph of Section 1187. No change.
1193.1 (b)	Second paragraph of Section 1187. No change.
1193.1 (c)	Third paragraph of Section 1187 except provision relating to fee for recording covered by new Section 1203.1.
1193.1 (d)	Fourth paragraph of Section 1187. No change.
1193.1 (e)	Fifth paragraph of Section 1187. No change.

Proposed Section:	Sources and Differences, If Any:
1193.1 (f)	Last clause of first paragraph of Section 1191 (a) rephrased to make a complete sentence.
1193.1 (g)	Last sentence of Section 1202. The word "appliances" is added.
1194.1 (a)	From Section 1188 except two proviso's covered by new Section 1194.1 (b). Commas were added to set off parenthetical matter and to separate items listed in series.
1194.1 (b)	The two proviso's of 1188 (See above). No change.
1195.1	Last paragraph of Section 1187. Rephrased for grammatical reasons, but covering identical matters. Cross reference corrected.
1196.1	Section 1203. No change.
1197 1 (a)	First two sentences of Section 1184 a. Changes "any such claim" to "any claim", and adds cross reference to identify claim.
1197.1 (b)	Third sentence of Section 1184 a, corrects cross-reference to new section numbers.
1197.1 (c)	Fourth sentence of Section 1184 a. No change.
1197.1 (d)	Fifth sentence of Section 1184 a. No change.
1198.1 (a)	From first paragraph of Section 1190. Phrase "except as hereinafter provided" added, to recognize the existing exception in the statute. The provisions relating to the lien period have been rephrased to clarify provisions.
1198 1 (b)	Second paragraph of Section 1190. No change.
1199.1	Section 1195. Provision relating to costs rephrased to clarify provision and improve grammatical construction.
1199.2	Section 1194. No change.
1200.	From Section 1197. Omits unnecessary comma in "execution, therefor".
1200.1 (a)	A rephrasing of the third sentence of the third paragraph of Section 1183 and the third sentence of 1191 (c).
1200.1 (b)	Last sentence of the third paragraph of Section 1183. No change.
1200.1 (c)	From fourth paragraph of Section 1183. Changes cross-reference to refer to new section numbers.
1200.1 (d)	From fifth paragraph of Section 1183 except the last sentence of that paragraph. No change
1200.1 (e)	Last sentence of the fifth paragraph of Section 1183. No change
1200.1 (f)	From the last sentence of Section 1191 (c). Reworded without changing substantive matter.
1201.1 (a)	Section 1198. No change.
1201.1 (b)	From Section 1199. No change.
1202.1	Section 1196. No change.

Proposed Section:	Sources and Differences, If Any:
1203.1	Covers fees of the county recorder originally the last sentence of the third paragraph of Section 1187. There has been added a statement of the duties of the recorder, consistent with the existing provisions prescribed by Sections 1169 to 1172, incl., of the Civil Code, and Chapter 6 of Part 3, Division 1, Title 3 of the Government Code.
3060, Civil Code	From second paragraph of Section 1183. The placing of this section in the Civil Code required the addition of the manner of enforcement, presently contained in Section 1198.
5463, Health and Safety Code	From Section 1191 a and Section 1191 b. A shorter and more direct re-statement of such provisions without change in any substantive law.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT THAT COMMUNICATION BE PRINTED IN JOURNAL

Messrs. Thomas and Gaffney asked for, and were granted, unanimous consent that the following communication be ordered printed in the Journal, in 10 point type, as follows:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
DEPARTMENT OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS
SAN FRANCISCO, June 5, 1951

Honorable Vincent Thomas and Edward M. Gaffney
Members of Assembly, State Capitol
Sacramento 14, California

SUBJECT: ASSEMBLY BILL NO. 2737, AS AMENDED MAY 24, 1951

DEAR MR. THOMAS: This will confirm our telephone conversation of June 1, 1951, concerning the above-mentioned bill.

I have conferred with the director of the department on this matter, who has indicated that there is no doubt the Industrial Safety Board will agree to schedule hearings as soon as possible for the purpose of considering safety orders applicable to longshore dock activities

You will recall that mention has been made of the fact that the Federal Government, through the Bureau of Labor Standards of the U. S. Department of Labor, is currently considering preparing a set of safety standards in collaboration with the states, employers and labor unions, which will be uniform and will include the shipside operations which is under the Federal Government's jurisdiction. Preliminary discussions have been held on this subject and it is expected that further work will be done within the next several months.

It is important, of course, that those operations which are under the jurisdiction of the State have standards which do not conflict with those that might be established for operations being conducted on the ships.

Preparatory work can be undertaken, however, for those operations which are under the jurisdiction of this department, and as you have suggested, this division will undertake this work just as soon as possible.

Cordially yours,

A. C. BLACKMAN, Chief
Division of Industrial Safety

c.c. Hon. Edward M Gaffney, Member of the Assembly, Sacramento, California.

Amendment No. 4

On page 1 of said bill, after line 17, insert

"SEC. 3. Section 1 of this act, adding Section 30201.5 to the Streets and Highways Code, is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, and safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall take effect immediately. The facts constituting such necessity are that proceedings have already been instituted by the State to acquire two privately owned toll bridges and it is contemplated that toll revenues from said bridges shall be used to rehabilitate the same. The present law is not clear as to the power to so use toll revenues and the uncertainty may make it impossible to sell the proposed revenue bonds. In order to insure the sale of revenue bonds at the lowest possible interest rates it is necessary that Section 1 of this act take effect immediately."

If from any cause the revenues of the district shall be inadequate to pay the principal or interest on any bonded debt as it becomes due, the board must, or if funds are needed to carry out the objects and purposes of the district, which can not be provided for out of the revenues of the district, then the board may levy a tax for such purposes as herein provided

60751. The board shall state the purposes for which such taxes are necessary, and must fix, by ordinance, the amount of money necessary to be so raised by taxation. If the amount to be raised at any one time by taxation for a purpose other than interest or sinking fund payments exceeds the sum of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000), such ordinance shall not go into effect before 30 days from its final passage.

60752. The board of directors shall avail itself of the assessment or assessments made by assessors of the counties in which the district is situated, and take such assessments as the basis for district taxations

60753. All assessments shall be made and taxes collected by the county assessors and tax collectors of the counties in which the district is situated.

60754. The said county auditors must, on or about the third Monday in August of each year, transmit to the board a statement in writing showing the total value of all property within the district, which value shall be ascertained from the assessment book of the respective counties for that year as equalized and corrected by the boards of supervisors of such counties.

60755. The board shall, on the first weekday in September, or if such weekday falls upon a holiday then on the first business day thereafter, fix the rate of taxes, designating the number of cents upon each hundred dollars, using as a basis the value of the property levied upon as assessed by the county assessors and so returned to the board by the county auditors, which rate of taxation shall be sufficient to raise the amount previously fixed by the board, as hereinabove prescribed; which acts by the board are a valid assessment of such property and a valid levy of such taxes so fixed The board must immediately thereafter transmit to the said county auditors a statement of such rate so fixed by the board.

60756. Any district taxes required to be levied to pay the interest on or principal of any bonded indebtedness incurred by the district for the benefit of less than the whole of the district shall be levied on and shall be a lien upon only the property benefited by the bonded debt as stated in the resolution of the board declaring the necessity to incur the debt Where any district taxes are to be levied upon less than the whole district the board shall furnish the county assessors and auditors of the counties with a description of the property upon which such taxes are to be levied and the county auditors shall include in the statement furnished pursuant to Section 60754 the total value of all property so described.

60757. The said auditors must then compute and enter in a separate column in the assessment book or assessment books, to be headed "Community Services District Tax" the respective sums in dollars and cents or dollars or cents to be paid as a district tax on the property therein enumerated and assessed as being in the district, using the rate or rates of levy so fixed by the board and the assessed value as found in such assessment books.

60758 Such taxes so levied shall be collected at the same time and in the same manner as county taxes; and when collected the net amount, as ascertained as hereinafter provided, shall be paid to the county treasurer for the district, under the general requirements and penalties provided by law for the settlement of other taxes.

60759 All taxes levied under the provisions of this law shall be a lien on the property on which they are levied; and the enforcement of the collection of such taxes may be had in the same manner and by the same means as is provided by law for the enforcement of liens for state and county taxes, all the provisions of law relating to the enforcement of the latter being hereby made a part of this law, so far as applicable

60761. Each county auditor and tax collector affected by the provisions of this act shall annually file with the board of supervisors of his county itemized statements showing the additional expense to his office caused by the performance of the duties imposed upon him or his office under the provisions of this act, and upon the filing of such statements the board of supervisors shall, by an order spread upon its minutes, deduct such expenses from the tax money of the district, while in the hands of the tax collector, and transfer the amount deducted into the county salary fund, provided, that not more than one-half of 1 percentum on the amount collected shall be so charged or deducted by any county. The boards of supervisors of such counties may provide such extra help for their county offices or officers as in their judgment may be necessary for the proper performance of their duties hereunder.

PART 7 CHANGES IN ORGANIZATION

CHAPTER 1. ANNEXATION

60800 Land not a part of the district whether or not contiguous to it or to other portions added to the district, and consisting of any unincorporated territory may be annexed to the district.

60801. The land annexed shall be susceptible of service by the district and of being benefited by the district.

60802. A majority in number of the holders of title to any tract of land proposed to be annexed and who are also the holders of title to a majority in acreage of the land, or a majority in number of the voters residing within the tract, may file with the secretary a petition signed by them containing a description of the land proposed to be annexed sufficient to identify it and praying that the land be annexed in the district.

60803 A guardian, executor, administrator, or other person holding property in a trust capacity under appointment of court may sign any petition or protest provided for in this article when authorized by the proper court, which authorization may be made without notice.

60804. The petition may consist of one or more separate instruments and each signature thereto shall be acknowledged or proved in the manner required to entitle an instrument to be recorded.

60805. The last equalized assessment roll of each county containing land proposed by the petition to be included is prima facie evidence of the ownership of the land in that county proposed to be annexed and the names and number of the holders of title to the land.

60806. If the owners of a majority in acreage of the land described in the petition file a written protest at or before the hearing on the petition, the land shall not be annexed to the district.

60807. The secretary shall commence the publication of a notice of the filing of the annexation petition not more than forty days after the filing of the petition

60808. The notice shall be published in a newspaper of general circulation circulated within the district at least twice with an interval of at least six days between the first and last publication.

60809. The notice shall contain:

(a) A statement of the purpose of the petition.

(b) A description of the land proposed to be annexed.

(c) The time of the hearing.

(d) An announcement that any persons interested in the proposed annexation may appear at the office of the board at the time of the hearing and file objections in writing showing cause, if any they have, why the land or any of it should not be annexed as proposed in the petition.

60810. The time of the hearing specified in the notice shall be the regular meeting of the board next after the giving of the notice is complete

60811 The secretary shall, within two days after first publication of the notice, mail a copy to each person who has not signed the petition and to whom any land proposed to be annexed to the district was assessed on the last equalized assessment roll of the county containing that land at that person's address appearing on the assessment roll.

60812. Irregularity or defect in mailing or failure to mail copies of the notice shall not in any manner impair nor invalidate the annexation of the land to the district.

60813. The petitioners shall advance to the secretary the cost of publication and mailing of the notice of the annexation hearing, and unless so advanced at the time of filing the petition or as provided by the board the secretary shall not publish nor mail the notice.

60814 At the time and place specified in the notice or at the time to which the hearing may be adjourned the board shall hear the petition and all objections to it presented in writing.

60815 The board after the hearing of any annexation petition shall by ordinance order the annexation of all or any part of the land described in the petition when as to the land to be annexed the board finds that the following are true:

(a) The petition complies with this chapter.

(b) The annexation of the land is authorized by this chapter

(c) The annexation will be for the best interest of the district

(d) The annexation of the land will be for the best interest of the land

60816. The board shall not determine that only a portion of the land shall be annexed unless the petitioners include a majority in number of the holders of title to the portion of the land which is to be annexed and represent a majority in acreage of that land.

60817 The annexation ordinance shall contain a description of the land annexed to the district sufficient to identify the land.

60818. A finding by the board in the annexation ordinance in favor of the genuineness and sufficiency of the petition for annexation and notice of the hearing of it is conclusive against all persons except the State upon suit by the Attorney General commenced within six months after the adoption of the ordinance annexing land to the district

60819. The board, without petition except as required by the laws of the United States, may by resolution propose the annexation to the district of any public land of the United States which might, if privately owned, be annexed on petition.

60820. After the adoption of a resolution pursuant to Section 60819, the secretary shall publish a notice and otherwise comply with Sections 60807 to 60813, inclusive.

60821. The board shall hold a hearing pursuant to the notice and if it finds that all requirements of this chapter and of the laws of the United States have been complied with, and that the annexation of all or part of the land is authorized by this chapter and will be for the best interest of the district and of the land to be annexed, the board shall by ordinance describe the land which is to be annexed and declare that the land is annexed to the district.

60822. If no petition for the holding of an election for the disapproval and veto by the electors of any ordinance annexing land to the district is filed within the period provided by Section 60451 after the adoption of the ordinance, or if the petition is filed and at the election thereon the voters shall not disapprove and veto the ordinance, it shall be effective.

60823. If the ordinance annexing land to the district is effective, the president and secretary shall, if no petition for disapproval and veto of such ordinance is filed within the time provided by law, or if such petition is filed and upon the election the electors shall not disapprove and veto said ordinance, file with the Secretary of State and with the county recorder of the county in which the district is situated certified copies of the ordinance and certificates stating said facts.

60824 Within 10 days after he receives the certified copies of the ordinance and certificate of the president and secretary the Secretary of State shall issue his certificate reciting the annexation to the district of the land, describing it, and shall transmit to and file with the county clerk of the county in which the district is situated a certified copy of the certificate

60825. From and after the date of the certificate of the Secretary of State the land therein described is annexed to the district and forms a part thereof and is subject to existing bond issues and indebtedness of the district.

60826. When the board finds that the annexation of any land without condition would work an injury as to the land already within the district, the board may by resolution prescribe any conditions upon the annexation that the board deems just, which may include:

(a) Any condition which the board deems to be reasonably necessary to avoid injury as to the land already in the district.

(b) Payment of special taxes upon the land to be annexed.

(c) Special rates for district services to the land proposed to be included

(d) A requirement that the land shall be annexed to and form a part of any improvement district then existing within the county water district.

(e) A requirement that the land to be annexed shall constitute one or more additional improvement districts

(f) A requirement that the owners of the land to be annexed pay to the district a specific sum of money representing an equitable share of the cost of district facilities and improvements which benefit the land to be annexed.

60827. If any conditions are prescribed by the board, it shall adjourn the hearing for not less than 30 nor more than 60 days

60828. If at or prior to the adjourned hearing written objections to the annexation of the land subject to the conditions, signed and acknowledged by the majority in number of the holders of title to the land proposed to be annexed to the district and representing a majority in acreage of the land are filed with the secretary, then the board shall by resolution at the hearing dismiss the petition.

60829. If the objections have not been so filed at the adjourned hearing the board may by ordinance declare that the land is annexed to the district subject to the prescribed conditions.

60830. Without any other proceedings than those necessary to comply with the laws of the United States and regulations issued thereunder, the board may by any ordinance providing for annexation to the district of any public land of the United States impose upon that land any conditions it deems just.

CHAPTER 2. DISSOLUTION

60850. Any district may be dissolved in the manner provided in this chapter.

60851 Fifteen percent of the electors or the owners of 15 percent in assessed value of the land and improvements in the district may propose the dissolution of the district by a petition filed with the secretary.

60853. The latest general index of the books of affidavits of registration of voters and latest equalized assessment rolls of the county in which the district is situated are prima facie evidence of each of the following:

(a) The number and names of the electors

(b) The value of the land and improvements in the district.

3409. The charges imposed by and pursuant to this article are due from and shall be paid by the person who is operating the property subject to assessment on the first Monday in March, except that, where the actual operation of any well has changed hands during the period for which the charge is imposed, the charge shall be apportioned to each operator upon the basis of oil or gas produced during the period, and the lien provided for in Section 3423 shall be a lien against the property of each operator. Costs of publication shall be paid from the Petroleum and Gas Fund.

SEC. 15. Section 3415 is added to said code, to read:

3415. The Controller shall transmit all returns to the department for audit of the production of oil and gas as shown therein.

As soon as possible after the sixth Monday after the first Monday in July, the Controller shall notify the department, giving the names of all persons listed in the record of estimated assessments and charges who have failed to make a return as provided in this article.

SEC. 16. Section 3416 is added to said code, to read:

3416. In any case where the audit by the department discloses an overpayment, the department shall so certify to the Controller, who shall repay the amount of the overpayment to the person making it out of the Petroleum and Gas Fund.

SEC. 17. Section 3417 is added to said code, to read:

3417. (a) If the department is dissatisfied with the return filed or amount of charges paid by any person, it may make a deficiency determination of the charges required to be paid by the person based upon information contained in the return or upon any information in its possession. All deficiency determinations, exclusive of penalties, shall bear interest at the rate of one-half of 1 percent per month, or fraction thereof, from the date the first installment of the charge was due.

If any part of the deficiency for which a deficiency determination is made is due to negligence or intentional disregard of this article or authorized rules, a penalty of 10 percent of the amount of the determination shall be added thereto.

If any part of the deficiency for which a deficiency determination is made is due to fraud or an intent to evade the charge, a penalty of 25 percent of the amount of the determination shall be added thereto.

(b) The department shall give the person written notice of its determination. The notice may be served personally or by mail; if by mail, service shall be made pursuant to Section 1013 of the Code of Civil Procedure and shall be addressed to the person at his address as it appears in the records of the department. Service shall be deemed complete at the time of the deposit of the notice in the mail without extension of time on account of the distance between the place of deposit and the place of address.

(c) Except in the case of a fraudulent return or neglect or refusal to make a return, every notice of a deficiency determination shall be mailed to the person within three years after the return of the person is filed.

SEC. 18. Section 3418 is added to said code, to read:

3418. (a) If any person from whom charges are due and payable under this article fails, neglects, or refuses to file a return within the time required, the department shall make an estimate of the amount of the production of oil and gas by the person for the preceding calendar year and shall compute and determine the amount of charges payable by the person, adding to the amount so determined a penalty equal to 10 percent thereof.

All determinations so made, exclusive of penalties, shall bear interest at the rate of one-half of 1 percent per month, or fraction thereof, from the date the first installment of the charge was due.

If the neglect or refusal of any person to file a return is due to fraud or an intent to evade the charges, a penalty of 25 percent of the charge shall be added thereto in addition to the 10 percent penalty.

(b) Promptly after making its determination the department shall give to the delinquent written notice of the estimate, charges, and penalty, the notice to be served personally or by mail in the manner prescribed for service of notice of a deficiency determination.

SEC. 19. Section 3419 is added to said code, to read:

3419. (a) Any person against whom a determination is made under Sections 3417 or 3418 may petition for a redetermination within 15 days after the date of mailing the notice thereof to the person. If a petition for redetermination is not filed within the 15-day period, the determination becomes final at the expiration of the period.

(b) If a petition for redetermination is filed within the 15-day period, the department shall reconsider the determination and, if the person has so requested in his petition, shall grant the person an oral hearing and shall give him 10 days' notice of the time and place of the hearing. The department may continue the hearing from time to time as may be necessary.

The order or decision of the board upon a petition for redetermination becomes final 15 days after the date of mailing the notice thereof to the operator.

(c) All determinations made by the department under Sections 3417 or 3418 are due and payable at the time they become final. If they are not paid when due and payable, a penalty of 10 percent of the amount of the determination, exclusive of interest and penalties, shall be added thereto.

Payment shall be made in the form of a remittance payable to the Controller and shall be transmitted to the department together with a copy of the notice of determination which the department shall furnish for that purpose to the person against whom the determination was made.

(d) Any notice required by this article shall be served personally or by mail in the manner prescribed for service of notice of a deficiency determination.

SEC. 20. Section 3420 is added to said code, to read:

3420. The department shall notify the Controller of all determinations and redeterminations of charges due and payable under this article. The Controller shall keep an appropriate record thereof and shall proceed to collect the amounts of such charges, interest, and penalties as provided in this article, if such amounts are not paid when due.

SEC. 21. Section 3423 of said code is amended to read:

3423. The assessment and charges levied [under] by this article are a lien upon all the property of every kind and nature belonging to the persons assessed. The assessments and charges levied upon oil or gas removed from any land in this State are a lien upon the land from which the oil or gas has been extracted. The lien shall attach on the first Monday in March of each year. The lien may be enforced and the charges collected by an action by the State Controller as provided by this article.

When an assessment [shall have been levied, but] shall not have been paid prior to the first Monday in February following such levy, if the certificate of delinquency is to be recorded as hereinafter provided, the Controller shall, within twenty-five (25) days thereafter, mail a notice to the owner of the land at his last known address as it appears in the office of the county assessor for the county in which the land is situate, or if no address appears in the office of the county assessor, then to the last address of the owner of the land as last shown on the records of the said county assessor. The notice shall contain a statement of the amount of the assessment, the date upon which the assessment was [levied] due, the fact that the records of the Controller show the assessment to be unpaid, and shall declare that unless the assessment is paid before the first Monday in March following, the lien provided for in this section will attach.

When any person assessed shall be delinquent in the payment of the charges, interest or penalties as herein provided, the Controller may, on or before the thirtieth day of May next following the delinquency, file a certificate with the county recorder of the county in which the oil or gas was extracted, specifying the amount of the charges, interest and penalty due, the name and address of the assessee liable for the same, as it appears from his records, the name and address of the assessed owner of the land from which the oil or gas was extracted, together with its description, as it appears on the records of the county tax collector in which the property is located, that there has been compliance with all the provisions of law in relation to the computation and assessment of the charges. Upon filing said certificate the amount of the lien as above provided is determined and shall have the same force, effect and priority as a judgment lien upon the land from which the oil or gas is extracted.

A warrant may be issued by the State Controller or his duly authorized representative for the collection of any charges, interest and penalty and for the enforcement of any lien directed to the sheriff or constable, and shall have the same effect as a writ of execution. It may and shall be levied and sale made pursuant to it in the same manner and with the same effect as a levy upon and sale of real property pursuant to a writ of execution.

Notwithstanding any provisions of law to the contrary, the owner of said land may redeem from any execution sale within a period of three years upon payment of interest, penalties and charges as provided in the case of other sales of real property under execution.

The sheriff or constable shall receive, upon the completion of his services pursuant to a warrant, and the Controller is authorized to pay to him the same fees and commissions and expenses in connection with services pursuant to said warrant as are provided by law for similar services pursuant to a writ of execution, provided, that fees for publication in a newspaper shall be subject to approval by the Controller rather than by the court; said fees, commissions and expenses shall be an obligation of the person or persons liable for the payment of said charges and may be collected from such person or persons by virtue of the warrant or in any other manner provided in this article for the collection of such charges.

In the event that the lien of the charges, penalties or interest attaches to real property from which the oil or gas is extracted and more than one parcel of property is included within the lien, the Controller may release by certificate as hereinabove provided from the lien of said charges, interest, penalties and costs, upon payment by the owner of any parcel or parcels of property of his proportionate share of the assessment of the oil or gas extracted from all land included within said lien owned by him.

The Controller may at any time release all or any portion of the property subject to the lien from the lien or subordinate the lien to other liens if he determines that the charges are sufficiently secured by a lien on other property of the taxpayer or that the release or subordination of the lien will not endanger or jeopardize the collection of such charges. A certificate by the Controller to the effect that any property has been released from the lien herein provided for or that such lien has been subordinated to other liens shall be conclusive evidence that the property has been released or that the lien has been subordinated as provided in the certificate.

It is expressly provided that the remedies provided herein of the State shall be cumulative and that no action by the Controller shall be construed to be an election on the part of the State, or of any of its officers, to pursue any remedy hereunder to the exclusion of any other remedy for which provision is made in this article.

SEC. 22. Section 3425 of said code is repealed.

SEC. 23. Section 3426 of said code is amended to read:

3426. The Controller shall, on or before the thirtieth day of May next following the delinquency of any charge, bring an action in the name of the people of the State, in the county in which the property assessed is situated, to collect any delinquent charges or assessments, together with any penalties or costs, which have not been paid and which are [shown as] delinquent [upon the record of assessments and charges for the petroleum and gas fund].

SEC. 24. Section 3428 of said code is repealed.

SEC. 25. Section 3428 is added to said code to read:

3428. In the action a certificate issued by the department showing unpaid charges determined against any person shall be prima facie evidence of all of the following:

(a) The determination of the charges, the delinquency thereof, and the amount of the charges, interest, penalties, and costs due and unpaid to the State.

(b) The indebtedness of the person to the State in the amount of the charges, interest, and penalties therein appearing unpaid.

(c) The full compliance by all persons required to perform administrative duties under this article with all the forms of law in relation to the determination and levy of the charges.

SEC. 26. Section 3429 of said code is amended to read:

3429. Payment of the penalties and charges, or the amount of the judgment recovered in the action, shall be made to the State [Treasurer] Controller.

SEC. 27. Notwithstanding the provisions of this act, the provisions of Article 7 of Chapter 1 of Division 3 of the Public Resources Code as they read prior to the effective date of this act are continued in effect as respects the collection of all amounts due or which may become due under said article arising from charges assessed and levied thereunder prior to the effective date of this act."

Amendments read, and adopted.

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS

SACRAMENTO, April 30, 1951

Honorable Sam L. Collins, Speaker of the Assembly
Assembly of the State of California
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. SPEAKER: Transmitted herewith is a report requested of the Division of Water Resources by the Assembly, in House Resolution No. 198, adopted June 1, 1949. It covers investigation and study of the feasibility, economic and otherwise, and means of conveying to Santa Clara County water reclaimed from sewage at sewage disposal plants of San Francisco, peninsula communities, and San Jose, and the distribution and utilization of such water in Santa Clara County.

As a result of the investigation and study, it is recommended that:

1. In view of the limited amount of sewage from disposal plants or outfalls from the City of San Francisco which is acceptable as to mineral constituents for reclamation and utilization in Santa Clara County, and in view of the relatively high unit cost that would be involved in the reclamation and utilization of such sewage in Santa Clara County, no further consideration be given at this time to this source as a possible supplemental water supply for Santa Clara County.

2. Further investigation of feasibility of reclamation of waste waters from San Jose and nearby peninsula cities and communities be deferred until the need therefor is indicated.

3. The County of Santa Clara and the agencies therein responsible for the furnishing of needed water supplies in the area (a) proceed with their planned local projects as far as practicable, and (b) give early consideration to plans for securing a water supply from outside sources to supplement the local supplies, to meet not only the immediate deficiencies but also the future needs of the county.

Respectfully submitted.

A. D. EDMONSTON, State Engineer

APPROVED: RANDAL F. DICKEY, Chairman

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
SACRAMENTO, June 8, 1951

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly
State of California
Sacramento, California

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature,

Assembly Bill No. 2128, entitled: "An act to add Section 644.2 to the Agricultural Code, relating to oleomargarine."

My objections to the bill are as follows:

This bill would require that on the outside of each container of oleomargarine sold at retail there shall be a statement showing the ingredients by name and the percentage of each ingredient. An exception is made to this requirement in the case of "domestic vegetable oils" which may be stated in the aggregate of all types of such oil.

The sponsor of this measure has urged me to approve it as a "truth in products measure." This argument completely overlooks the fact that our laws now contain a requirement for stating the ingredients of oleomargarine.

Section 643 of the Agricultural Code requires a statement "within and upon the contents of each * * * package, and next to that portion of the same which is commonly and most conveniently opened" stating among other things "the names and percentages of the various ingredients used in the manufacture of such oleomargarine."

If truth in stating the contents of oleomargarine is the goal sought by this bill, the present law is stronger than this bill for it requires all ingredients to be shown and does not permit all "domestic vegetable oils" to be lumped together but requires them to be separately stated like all other ingredients. It is not apparent in what manner truthful revelation of the ingredients of a product is increased by permitting some of the products to be combined when the present law requires them to be separately stated.

Neither is any reason apparent why the public welfare requires the ingredients of any product to be stated twice. The present law adequately and clearly protects the public by requiring each package of oleomargarine to be distinctively marked with the word "oleomargarine" in plain Roman type, the letters of which shall not be less than one inch in height by one-half inch in width. It requires the statement of the ingredients to be within the package and next to that portion of the package which is commonly and most conveniently opened. In the light of the existing law, it is obvious that this bill cannot be advocated as necessary to advise the public of the contents of the package.

The California Grocers Association has urged a veto of this measure on the further ground that the requirements are entirely different than those of the Federal Government. Since California is the only State on the West Coast manufacturing oleomargarine, its products enter interstate commerce. Our laws should therefore conform to the federal laws to facilitate interstate shipment.

The Grocers Association further points out that this bill will require unnecessary expense. If ingredients are changed the expense of changing the carton is large, particularly during war conditions. The manufacturers purchase these cartons in large quantities to receive the benefits of a lower rate on quantity purchases and to insure an adequate supply during emergency conditions.

Interfering with the interstate shipment of a California product or increasing its cost is detrimental to our State and particularly to the producers of the ingredients going into its manufacture. It certainly is detrimental to the consumer particularly in these times of rising prices.

Since the bill does not serve the purpose intended by its sponsors and since it would be detrimental to the manufacturer, the producer, and the consumer, I am returning it without my approval.

Respectfully,

EARL WARREN, Governor

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
SACRAMENTO, June 9, 1951

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly
State of California
Sacramento, California

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature,

Assembly Bill No. 137, entitled: "An act to amend Sections 4530 and 4536 of the Elections Code, relating to campaign statements."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

It is a recognized principle that money either collected by a candidate or expended by him in his campaign for election should be reported. Our laws in this respect are presently inadequate to actually accomplish their purpose. They should be strengthened rather than weakened. This bill would further weaken them in that it permits a candidate to collect or otherwise accept money for a campaign but authorizes him not to report the fact so long as he does not actually spend it for campaign purposes. This, it seems to me, is worse in principle than not reporting when the money is received and actually spent for campaign purposes It would permit a candidate to profit financially in a campaign in a manner which could make him subservient to sinister influences. The fact that the position is one of honor and is not compensated does not, in my opinion, detract either from the importance of the governmental responsibility involved, or from the desirability of keeping it within the terms of the purity of the election law.

Respectfully submitted.

(e) Govern the storage of state-owned motor vehicles.

The provisions of this section shall not apply to the incumbents of elective state offices.

Any state officer or employee who interferes or obstructs the enforcement of this section shall be subject to punitive action prescribed in the State Civil Service Act.

Any violation by a state officer or employee of this section or the rules and regulations adopted pursuant thereto shall constitute misuse of state property under Section 19572 of the Government Code.

The State Personnel Board, upon its own initiative or upon request of any person, may suspend from state service without pay for a period not exceeding 30 days, any officer or employee of this State exempt from civil service for violating this section or the rules and regulations adopted pursuant thereto. The procedure prescribed in the State Civil Service Act for taking punitive action against state employees shall apply to punitive action taken under this paragraph.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT THAT OPINION OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL BE PRINTED IN JOURNAL

Speaker Sam L. Collins asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent that an opinion of the Legislative Counsel, relative to presentation of bills to the Governor after final adjournment, be ordered printed in the Journal, in 10 point type, as follows:

Opinion of Legislative Counsel

OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

Honorable Sam L. Collins
Assembly Chamber

PRESENTATION OF BILLS TO THE GOVERNOR AFTER FINAL ADJOURNMENT—No. 9356

DEAR MR. COLLINS:

Question

You have asked that we re-examine the conclusions reached in a prior opinion of this office respecting the presentation of bills to the Governor for his signature, in the light of recent changes in the Constitution and statutes of this State. The conclusion reached in that opinion was that no precedent could be found in California for the presentation of bills to the Governor following final adjournment of the Legislature.

Opinion

It is our conclusion that the prior opinion accurately sets forth the state of the legislative precedents in California, and that presentation of bills to the Governor prior to final adjournment is the safest procedure. In the light of the 120 day limitation on the length of general legislative sessions adopted on November 8, 1949 (Art. IV, Sec. 2), however, the Legislature may be unable to present every bill which it has passed in the closing moments of the session to the Governor prior to adjournment. If this happens and if every act requiring action by the houses of the Legislature has been performed prior to final adjournment, we think it very probable that the California courts will follow the precedents established in other states which have had constitutionally-limited sessions and will sustain the validity of such acts if they are approved by the Governor within the 30 day period following adjournment which is prescribed in the Constitution. The validity of this conclusion can only be established by a decision of the California Supreme Court, however, and we recommend that (to the extent possible) all bills be presented to the Governor prior to final adjournment.

Analysis

Our previous opinion on this question [1] pointed out that there was no limitation on the length of any session of the Legislature and that, should the time fixed for adjournment sine die provide insufficient time to allow the legislative officers charged with the duty of enrolling, engrossing, and presenting bills to the Governor, to properly perform those vital functions, the Legislature could fix a later time for adjournment sine die. The opinion then pointed out that it is possible to show that by long standing usage and custom, past Legislatures had uniformly presented all bills to the Governor prior to adjournment.

Since that opinion was written Section 2 of Article IV of the California Constitution has been amended to provide that no general session shall exceed 120 calendar days, exclusive of the constitutional recess, and no budget session shall exceed 30 calendar days.

This amendment, in effect, puts regular law making in this State on a biennial basis and compresses the process of considering and acting upon all legislative proposals into a period of 120 days in odd numbered years. Conceding the desirability of so spacing the consideration of proposed legislation as to avoid a rush in the closing days of the session, it appears from statements of qualified authorities on legislative procedure that such a rush occurs in most state legislatures and that effective means to prevent it have not yet been found.[2]

It is, therefore, not unlikely that a considerable number of bills will be finally passed by the Legislature shortly before the session expires pursuant to Section 2 of Article IV of the Constitution, and the Legislature will, for the first time, be unable to extend the time for adjournment sine die.

[1] See Assembly Journal, April 12, 1949, pp 1930 et seq; Senate Journal April 12, 1949, pp. 1136 et seq.
[2] See, for example, "The Legislature of California," C C Young, p. 243

In the face of this new situation, brought about by the adoption of a constitutional amendment since our prior opinion was rendered, the legislative precedent of presenting bills to the Governor before final adjournment loses much of its force. Where a legislative body has full control over the length of its sessions it properly could decide to remain in session, after having concluded its law-making activities, to supervise the ministerial and clerical task of certification, verification and delivery of bills to the Governor. We doubt that this would impel a conclusion that such legislative body is compelled to remain in session for the sole purpose of supervising the completion of those ministerial and clerical tasks.

In view of these factors we believe it probable that a California Court, being presented with this question for the first time [3] would be inclined to follow the great weight of authority in other jurisdictions, and particularly those jurisdictions in which the Constitution limits the duration of a session. If we are correct in this belief the California courts would hold, with the courts of other jurisdictions, that a bill which has been duly passed by both houses of the Legislature during a session, may be presented to the Governor after final adjournment of that session.

In Dow vs. Beidleman, 5 S W. 297, The Supreme Court of Arkansas [4] in holding that a bill could be presented to the Governor after final adjournment said:

> "The question, then, is resolved into this: Whether a bill, that has passed both houses, may be submitted to the governor, for his approval, after the adjournment of the legislature, or whether it must be presented to him while the legislative body is still in session. The constitution ordains that every such bill shall be presented to the governor. If he approves it, he shall sign it; but if he shall not approve it, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it originated, which house shall proceed to reconsider it. 'If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within five days, Sundays excepted, after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the general assembly, by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall become a law, unless he shall file the same, with his objections, in the office of the secretary of state, and give notice thereof by public proclamation within twenty days after such adjournment.' Const. art. 6, § 15. Nothing in this language implies that all bills must be transmitted to the governor before the adjournment of the assembly. He is prevented by the adjournment from returning the bill, whether the bill is in his hands before it adjourns, or reaches his hands afterwards. The term of members does not expire when it adjourns, nor do all the functions and powers of its officers then cease. It may often happen, in the case of bills passed in the closing hours of a session, that there is not sufficient time to enroll them

[3] "Fowler vs Peirce," 2 Cal 165, did not involve this question The question presented was whether a bill signed by the Governor after final adjournment was valid The Constitution at that time provided that if the Governor shall not return a bill within 10 days it shall become a law "unless the Legislature, by adjournment prevents such return" There was no provision, as there is in our present Constitution, authorizing the Governor to sign a bill within 30 days after final adjournment The case cited, assuming part of it has survived the overruling language in "Sherman vs Story," 30 Cal 253, 279, 280, goes no further than to hold that the Constitution of 1849 did not authorize the Governor to approve bills after final adjournment In 1879, however, that power was given to the Governor, and he has exercised it ever since.

[4] The duration of legislative sessions in Arkansas is limited by the constitution of that state, but may be extended by a two-thirds vote (Art V, Sec. 17.)

properly, and present them to the executive, before an adjournment takes place. The effect is not that, under the circumstances, the bill fails to become a law."

To the same effect is Monroe vs. Green 76 S.W. 199, in which the right to present a bill after final adjournment was affirmed, provided the presentation occurred within the 20-day period during which the governor could constitutionally veto it. See also Russell vs. Cone, 272 S.W. 678 in which the same court upheld the validity of a statute providing for a committee of the legislature charged with the duty of enrolling bills and presenting them to the governor after final adjournment,[5] and Barker vs. State, 174 S.W. 2d 545.

In Amos vs. Gunn 94 So. 615, three justices of the Florida Supreme Court [6] indicated that bills must be presented to the governor prior to final adjournment. However, in the later case of State ex rel Thompson vs. Davis, 169 So. 199, the same court stated that bills duly passed in the closing hours of a session could constitutionally be presented to the governor after final adjournment.

In Preveslin vs. Derby and Ansonia Developing Co., 151 Atl. 518, the Supreme Court of Connecticut [7] rejected the contention that bills must be presented to the governor before final adjournment, but in view of the fact that the governor in that state has only three days after final adjournment within which he may sign bills, the court declared all bills enacted must be presented to the governor "forthwith following adjournment", without taking time for engrossment or enrollment.

The case does not require presentation to be made before final adjournment, and in view of the fact that in California the Governor has 30 days in which to act rather than the three days allowed in Connecticut, and in view of the fact that the enrolling and engrossing process lightens the Governor's task by securing for him a bill, in easily readable form, it would appear that the requirement of presentation forthwith would be relaxed in this State if our courts agreed with the Connecticut court that presentation could be made after final adjournment.

The Maryland [8] Court of Appeals has held that bills passed by the legislature during a session may be presented to the governor after final adjournment. (Lankford vs. County Commissioners 20 Atl. 1017; Johnson vs. Leurs, 99 Atl. 710; Roby vs. Broersma 26 Atl. 2d 820, 29 Atl. 2d 827).

Illinois and Vermont whose legislative sessions are not limited are in accord with the above cases. (People vs. Rose (Ill.) 47 NE 657; People vs. Hughes (Ill.) 25 NE 2d 75; Hartness vs. Black (Vt.) 114 Atl. 44).

The only contrary case which we have found is In re Opinion of the Justices 81 Atl. 170, in which the Supreme Court of New Hampshire in an advisory opinion the justices stated that "the constitutional question whether the legislature could authorize the presentation of bills to the governor after its adjournment does not arise" but indicated that under existing statutory provisions relating to enrolling, engrossing and related matters it was "implied that the presentation authorized is to be made before adjournment."

[5] For similar California provisions see Gov C. Sec 9220; Rule No. 13, Standing Rules of the Senate.
[6] Regular sessions of the Florida Legislature are limited to 60 days.
[7] Connecticut's regular session is limited to 150 days
[8] Maryland's regular legislative sessions are limited to 90 days.

The case is worthy of note since it appears that the statutes involved were similar to Sections 9500 to 9516 of the Government Code, and the case points up a possibility that those sections could be restrictively construed by the California courts. However, Section 9220 of the Government Code places on the Speaker of the Assembly the duty, after final adjournment, of delivering bills to the governor, and Section 9126 makes the Senate Committee on Rules (which has charge of engrossing and enrolling bills under Senate Standing Rule No. 13) an agency of continuing existence. Since these statutes were enacted at a later date than Sections 9500 to 9516 and since they indicate a legislative intent to permit action after adjournment, it would appear unlikely that the California court would make the restrictive implication that the New Hampshire court did.

As we have already mentioned, the question as to whether a bill which has been duly passed by both houses of the Legislature during a session, but is presented to the Governor after adjournment sine die and signed by him would be invalid is a question of first impression in this State. Because of this fact, and because of the fact that the language of the constitutions of the various states is not the same, we are unable to guarantee that the California courts would follow the weight of authority in other jurisdictions which is set forth above. We believe, however, the California courts would respect the problems of the Legislature growing out of the closing rush of legislative business and would probably follow the line of authority indicated above and would sustain the validity of any bill presented to the Governor after final adjournment which he signs within the 30-day period.

Very truly yours,

RALPH N. KLEPS, Legislative Counsel

INTERIM COMMITTEE REPORT ON WAYS AND MEANS

ASSEMBLY, CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE
INTERIM COMMITTEE ON WAYS AND MEANS, June 7, 1951

To the Honorable Sam L. Collins, Speaker and to the Members of the Assembly

Your Interim Committee on Ways and Means presents this report of its work since the adjournment of the Sixtieth Session of the Legislature.

A meeting of the interim committee was held in Los Angeles, December 14 and 15, 1950, for the purpose of considering the financial factors involved in the pending initiative referendum and the probable cost of the proposed program for aid to the totally and permanently disabled. Preliminary figures were developed at this meeting which were of assistance to the members in their later consideration of these matters during the present session.

The Sixty-first Session of the Legislature convened on January 8, 1951. The Budget Bill, Assembly Bill No. 500, was introduced on January 11th. The committee decided to hold its budget hearings during the constitutional recess for the purpose of giving adequate consideration to the Budget Bill at a time when the subcommittee hearings would not conflict with other committee meetings during the regular session. The committee met for 16 days in January, February, and March, 1951.

Intensive work on the part of the Legislative Auditor and his staff enabled the committee to have the Analysis of the Budget Bill in printed form during these hearings. The committee had the undivided assistance of the staff of the Legislative Auditor and the Department of Finance, because the Senate Finance Committee did not commence its hearings until after the Legislature reconvened.

The committee found that the budget as presented showed more careful preparation than any budget it had considered in the past. Many items which had been criticized in the past by the Legislative Auditor and deleted by the Legislature had been eliminated from the budget by the various departments or by the Department of Finance. The committee was pleased to find that agreement had been reached by the Department of Finance and the Legislative Auditor on most requests for equipment as a result of physical inspection by representatives of those offices. The committee was thereby saved the necessity of making decisions on such questions with inadequate information.

During the 16 days of its deliberations the committee met daily and in the evenings as subcommittees, and occasionally as the entire committee. Two and three subcommittees met simultaneously, and in this way were enabled to consider the budgets of all departments during that period. A schedule of subcommittees is attached hereto as Exhibit "A". In addition special subcommittees were appointed for particular purposes as indicated on Exhibit "B".

The interim committee recommended that the state farm near Napa be sold. The report of the Legislative Auditor in the Analysis of the Budget Bill recommended this action. A bill to carry out this recommendation, Assembly Bill No. 3408, was introduced by Mr. Silliman.

The interim committee found that costs in adult education were increasing with unusual rapidity. It was reported that this was due in part to radio advertising and the popularity of courses which had a doubtful place in an educational program financed by the State. A subcommittee was appointed to study the question. It met with the Director of Education and members of his staff. The committee reported that action had been taken to withdraw State support from courses not educational in character and to eliminate certain practices which had caused unjustified State expenditures in this program. The committee reported that there was much room for improvement in the distribution of state aid for this program, but that a substantial survey would be required before a satisfactory result could be accomplished.

The committee found that much economy had been effected by restrictions in the previous budget concerning the use of state-owned automobiles. Assembly Bill No. 2005 was designed to incorporate in the statutes restrictions which would continue those economies without impairing the efficiency of employees requiring the use of automobiles. This bill was amended with care as the result of considerable effort by members of the subcommittee and the interim committee who studied this question.

The committee found that its decisions to hold budget hearings during the constitutional recess was largely justified. This procedure enabled the members of the committee upon the reconvening of the session to devote adequate time to bills before the standing committee and to their other committee assignments. The committee recognizes, however, that in the future even if this procedure is adopted it might be desirable to reserve its recommendation on many items of importance until information not available during the recess can be obtained.

The Legislature reconvened on March 12, 1951, and on March 12th the standing committee approved the amendments recommended by the interim committee and reported the Budget Bill to the Assembly with the recommendation "Do pass, as amended".

House Resolution No. 28, under which this interim committee was created, made $20,000 available for its use. Of this sum $10,456.65 has been expended to date.

This report is not intended and does not purport to be a statement of views of all the members of the committee, but to include a statement of certain actions made by a majority of those present which are not reflected in the budget amendments above referred.

Respectfully submitted.

By Mr. Chapel:

House Resolution No. 183

Relative to the creation of the Assembly Interim Committee on Educational Practices and Textbooks

WHEREAS, It is ever essential that the Legislature exercise eternal vigilance to protect and preserve our cherished principles of freedom and democracy; and

WHEREAS, It is vital that our System of Public Education be safeguarded and protected against attempts by those persons and groups, who would undermine and destroy the American way of life, to utilize our educational institutions as a means of achieving their vicious purposes, and who seek to corrupt and pervert the ideals of our students by the subtle insertion of propaganda in school textbooks, mocking and condemning our national ideals and standards and praising and advocating the economic and political ideologies of alien powers; and

WHEREAS, In this connection, we call attention to the textbook, "Our American Neighbors," used in the public schools of this State, in which the authors, with the apparent approval of the State Curriculum Commission, at pages 208 and 209 voice their praise for State Socialism, hold it up for admiration, and by implication denounce the America form of government and our economic practices; and

WHEREAS, State legislation to combat this problem can best be based on a thorough and impartial fact-finding study, in order that the Members of the Legislature may be fully informed thereon; now, therefore, be it

Relative to the introduction of resolutions

WHEREAS, The principle of home rule for local governments on local affairs is now firmly embodied in the California Constitution; and

WHEREAS, The election of candidates to public offices in the local governments in this State is, and should be, a matter of purely local concern, and should not be influenced by any action of the State Legislature; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That no Member of the Assembly shall introduce any resolution designed to aid or adversely affect the campaign of any candidate for local office; and be it further

Resolved, That if any such resolution is introduced it shall not be received, nor shall it be printed or appear in the Assembly Journal.

Resolution read, and ordered referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. Brown:

House Resolution No. 185

Relative to studying the continuous revision of the statute law by the Assembly Interim Committee on Judiciary

WHEREAS, By the enactment of the Financial Code and of the Public Utilities Code, as Chapters 364 and 764, respectively, of the Statutes of 1951, the Legislature has enacted the last two codes called for by the California Code Commission's long-recommended plan of organizing the statutes of the State into 24 codes; and

WHEREAS, It appears from the 1950 Report of the California Code Commission, heretofore filed with each of the Members of the Legislature, that the commission anticipates bringing its work of codifying the laws of the State to substantial completion by the time the 1953 General Session of the Legislature convenes; and

WHEREAS, The commission has recommended that the problem of "keeping the codes in shape" and the problem of carrying forward a program for continuous revision of the statute law, both in matters of form and substance, be made the subject of careful study during the interim between the 1951 and 1953 General Sessions of the Legislature; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Assembly Interim Committee on Judiciary is authorized and directed to ascertain, study and analyze all facts relating to the subject matter of the recitals of this resolution, and particularly to the desirability of directing the California Code Commission or some other law revision agency to undertake a continuing program of revising the statute law, including but not limited to a study of the experience of other states (such as the State of New York which has carried on such work over a period of years) and of the desirability of providing representation by Members of the Legislature on any such agency, and to report thereon to the Assembly, including in the reports its recommendations for appropriate legislation.

By Mr. Stewart:

House Resolution No. 186

Relative to the creation of the Assembly Interim Committee on Governmental Efficiency and Economy

WHEREAS, The complicated machinery of State and local Government in this State, erected to serve the citizens of this State can function only under law; and

WHEREAS, Numerous changes in the organization and administration of State and Local Government are proposed at each session of the Legislature by reason of new circumstances constantly arising which previous statutes did not contemplate; and

WHEREAS, It is necessary for the Legislature to study these circumstances carefully, with a view to revising and amending the laws relating thereto, in order that the most efficient, economical and equitable administration of the laws may be fostered; and

WHEREAS, During the interim between sessions it is desirable to ascertain and collate the facts upon which legislation may be based, which fact-finding work can best and most expeditiously be performed through a legislative committee charged with the duty of considering every phase of the subject; now, therefore be it

Relative to the taxation of women's and fraternal organizations

WHEREAS, As the result of a recent court decision in the case of Simms vs. Los Angeles County (1950), 35 Cal. 2d 303, many women's clubs, fraternal organizations and others similar in nature have been denied tax reductions on their club houses which they have heretofore enjoyed; and

WHEREAS, These organizations are of great benefit to their communities and the State of California because of their interest in civic betterment and philanthropic work, and

WHEREAS, The activities in which these organizations engage result in great savings to the taxpayer, since many of the services they render would otherwise have to be furnished and financed through some governmental agency; and

WHEREAS, The added taxes imposed upon these organizations may cause many of them to cease operating and thus force additional responsibilities and duties upon governmental agencies at great cost to the taxpayers; and

WHEREAS, These organizations are non-profit in nature and afford no profit or gain to any individual; and

WHEREAS, It is to the interest of all levels of government to extend support to these organizations so that they may continue in the performance of their good work; and

WHEREAS, Despite repeated efforts during the 1951 Session of the California Legislature, no adequate solution to the furnishing of such support has been found; now, therefore be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the present Assembly Interim Committee on State and Local Taxation, or any committee with similar functions created at this session of the Legislature, is hereby directed to study ways and means of providing adequate property tax relief to the aforementioned organizations so that they may be returned to the position which they heretofore enjoyed, and be it further

Resolved, That the committee report its findings and recommendations to this body at the next general session of the Legislature.

Resolution read, and adopted unanimously.

By Mr. Geddes:

House Resolution No. 195

Relative to directing the Assembly Interim Committee on Finance and Insurance to undertake an investigation

WHEREAS, It appears from information submitted to committees of the Assembly by the Department of Insurance, and from complaints received by various Members of the Assembly from their constituents, that there is a considerable and growing number of unlicensed, unregulated and nonprofessional persons and organizations who, to the detriment of great numbers of the citizens of this State, are for a consideration promising or purporting to promise such citizens that they will furnish or procure medical, surgical, hospital and other related services or treatments upon the illness or accidental injury of such citizens but who, when the time for performance arrives, almost invariably furnish or procure no service or treatment or wholly inadequate service or treatment, or service or treatment grossly below the quantity or quality represented; and,

WHEREAS, There are also operating in this same field a number of reputable persons and organizations who offer such services and who, when the time for performance arrives fulfill all commitments, but who would discontinue operations if required to comply with onerous regulatory provisions of law which might be enacted by the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, Efforts by the Legislature to enact appropriate legislation to protect citizens from the persons and organizations first mentioned above have been unsuccessful because of the probability that such regulations might drive from the field persons and organizations of the type last mentioned above; and

WHEREAS, In order to enact such legislation, which is vitally needed, it is necessary that the Legislature be fully informed as to all facts concerning or relating to the detailed methods of operation of all persons and organizations mentioned above, in order that it may determine (a) whether regulations might be drafted which would be sufficient to protect the public from the first named class of persons and organizations without causing the second named class of persons and organizations to discontinue their services or (b) whether facts exist sufficient to establish a natural, intrinsic and constitutional distinction between said first and second classes of persons and organizations so as to justify legislation regulating the former and exempting the latter from its operation; and

WHEREAS, It appears that such study is within the scope of the functions of the Assembly Interim Committee on Finance and Insurance; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Assembly Interim Committee on Finance and Insurance be and it hereby is authorized and directed to ascertain, study and analyze all facts relating to the subjects expressed in the recitals of this resolution including but not limited to the methods of operation and need for regulation of the persons and organizations mentioned in said recitals, and to the adequacy or inadequacy of the existing laws which might be used to regulate such persons and organizations, and to report thereon to the Legislature not later than the fifteenth legislative day of the 1953 General Session, including in its reports its recommendation for appropriate legislation.

Resolution read, and ordered referred to the Committee on Rules.

He may revoke any such certificate issued by him at any time in his discretion.

220.24. All bonds issued pursuant to this article which have been first certified by the Superintendent of Banks are legal investments for all trust funds, for the funds of all insurance companies, commercial and savings banks, and trust companies, and for state school funds.

220.33. Whenever the committee deems that it will increase the salability or the price of the bonds to obtain, prior to or after sale, a legal opinion, other than that of the Attorney General, as to the validity of the bonds, the commission may authorize the State Treasurer or the Department of Finance, or both, to obtain such a legal opinion. REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT THAT STATEMENT OF VOTE OF OVER 50 WORDS BE PRINTED IN JOURNAL

Mr. Brady asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent that an explanation of vote, of over 50 words, relative to Assembly Bill No. 2367, be ordered printed in the Journal, as follows:

EXPLANATION OF VOTE ON ASSEMBLY BILL NO. 2367

My "NO" vote is based on imperfect or improper provisions contained in Sections 5 and 6 of the bill.

On May 9, 1951, I voted against Assembly Bill No. 2874 which referred to Penal Code Section 647a—just as Assembly Bill No. 2367 presently voted on refers to Penal Code Section 647a.

In both instances the age of a child is being raised from 14 years to 18 years. I must vote "NO" against such a proposal. Every parent abhors the type of person who molests or annoys little children. Our citizens properly demand strong punishment for such an offense But surely the degree of horror which the parent or citizen experiences when the child is almost 18 years is far less than when the little girl or boy is six or seven years.

Therefore, lest we harm the public conscience and ultimately bring about a situation where the protection of little children (Penal Code 647a) becomes confused with the punishment for crimes against almost mature young people in their late teens I maintain a "NO" vote is the recommended one.

Again—a "NO" vote on the bill is recommended by Section 6 of Assembly Bill No. 2367.

The extant Penal Code Section 288 provides that the terrible person found guilty of lewd and lascivious acts on the body of a child under 14 years is guilty of a felony; and such person must be imprisoned in the penitentiary for from one year to life

Therefore, a recidivist—one who is not a first offender—one who knows the penal consequences of his act—under the Penal Code must be incarcerated.

But under Assembly Bill No. 2367 any such habitual offender on the bodies of little children may ask to be castrated, and, thereby, save himself a term in San Quentin.

I am unalterably opposed to this alternative I insist it to be better that such a person be incarcerated in the penitentiary as the Penal Code Section 288 presently provides.

It must also be indicated that if this bill is a proposal to increase the imprisonment penalty on such a lewd and lascivious character in order to indirectly compel him to submit to castration then it should be noted that the making of eunuchs practically disappeared from our civilization centuries ago.

Therefore, in order to pinion the criminal who molests or annoys children, I recommend that we keep the age of a child at "14 years or under"—and to keep the evil person who commits lewd and lascivious acts on the bodies of little children I recommend that we continue to send him to prison and not permit him the choice of becoming a guinea pig and avoiding punishment for his heinous offenses.

1203. A commercial bank may hypothecate its assets in any manner provided by law to secure the deposits of moneys of the United States, of postal savings funds, of bankrupt estates, of the State of California, or of any political subdivision, public corporation, or district of the State of California With the prior approval of the Superintendent of Banks a bank may hypothecate its assets to secure moneys payable to other states.

SEC. 3. Section 2058 is added to the Financial Code, to read:

2058. Subject to the prior approval of the Superintendent of Banks and the affirmative vote of two-thirds of all of its directors, a bank or trust company may purchase in one transaction 100 percent of the outstanding shares of any state bank or of a national banking association, or trust company operating in this State, in accordance with a plan by which:

1. The bank whose stock has been purchased shall immediately be merged with the purchasing bank in the manner contemplated by law; or

2. The bank whose stock has been purchased, shall immediately be dissolved, its assets vested in its shareholders and its deposits and all other liabilities, including trust liabilities, shall be assumed by the acquiring bank or trust company, subject to the right of each depositor of the bank whose stock has been purchased to withdraw his deposit and of the right of trustors and beneficiaries under trusts held by such bank to nominate another trustee as in the case of the purchase and sale of the business of a bank under Section 2051 of this code.

The acquiring bank may permit directors of the bank or trust company, whose shares are so acquired, to retain their respective qualifying shares until dissolution; provided, that each such director agrees to accept the purchase price of his shares in lieu of his proportionate share of the assets upon dissolution

Upon the approval by the superintendent of the plan, he shall fix a time when the consummation of such plan shall become effective. Upon completion of the plan, the acquiring bank ipso facto and by operation of law and without further transfer, substitution, act or deed, succeeds to the rights, properties, assets, investments, deposits, demands, agreements and trusts of the bank or trust company whose stock has been purchased under all trusts, executorships, administrations, guardianships, agencies, and all other fiduciary or representative capacities to the same extent as though it had originally assumed the same and shall succeed to and be entitled to take and execute the appointment to all executorships, trusteeships, guardianships and other fiduciary and representative capacities to which the bank whose stock has been purchased may be named, or is thereafter named, in wills whenever probated or to which it is, or may be named, or appointed by any other instrument, all subject to all other provisions of this code.

Before granting the approval required by this section, the superintendent may direct the purchasing bank to continue banking facilities at the location, or locations, of the purchased bank, if, in his judgment, public convenience would require the continuation of such banking facilities. The superintendent may also impose such other terms and conditions as will, in his judgment, be considered necessary to insure the faithful carrying out of the requirements hereof

SEC 4 Section 1203 of the Financial Code is amended to read:

1203. A commercial bank may hypothecate its assets in any manner provided by law to secure the deposits of moneys of the United States, of postal savings funds, of bankrupt estates, of the State of California, or of any political subdivision, public corporation, or district of the State of California With the prior approval of the Superintendent of Banks a bank may hypothecate its assets to secure moneys payable to other states.

SEC. 5. Sections 3 and 4 of this act become operative only if the Financial Code is enacted by the Legislature at the 1951 General Session, and in such case at the same time as said Financial Code takes effect, at which time Sections 1 and 2 of this act are hereby repealed."

The governing board shall determine whether the increase or decrease shall remain in effect for a specified or unspecified period of time, unless the petition filed by the electors provides for a specified or unspecified period of time. If a specified period is provided for in the petition or determined upon by the governing board, such period shall be stated on the ballot.

If the maximum tax rate is increased pursuant to this section after such effective date, no petition requesting an election for a decrease in such increased tax rate shall be filed for one year after such election at which the tax rate was increased.*

"SEC. 3. This act is an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety within the meaning of Article IV of the Constitution and shall go into immediate effect. The facts constituting such necessity are:

It will be necessary for many school districts to hold elections in the months of June, July, and August, 1951, in order to change the maximum tax rate for the district before the next tax levy is made. Under the provisions of this act, a school district may decrease its tax rate, and, if the rate is proposed to be increased, it is not necessary that the ballot question specify the purpose for which the proceeds of any increase are to be applied, nor is it necessary to limit the period of time during which such increase or decrease will be effective. Unless this act takes effect immediately any decrease or increase in the tax rate voted for pursuant to the act will not be effective in time to be used for the next tax levy. In order that school districts, the tax rates of which are a matter of urgent concern to all the people of the State, may take advantage of this act before the next tax levy is made and to avoid a year's delay, it is urgently necessary that this act take effect immediately."

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT THAT OPINION OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL BE PRINTED IN JOURNAL

Mr. Geddes asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent that an opinion of the Legislative Counsel, relative to legislative investigating committees and service of subpenas, be ordered printed in the Journal, in 10 point type, as follows:

Opinion of Legislative Counsel

OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

Honorable Ernest R. Geddes
Assembly Chamber

LEGISLATIVE INVESTIGATING COMMITTEES: SUBPENAS, SERVICE OF (A. B. 954, AS AMENDED JUNE 6, 1951) No. 9618

DEAR MR. GEDDES:

Question

You ask whether Assembly Bill No. 954, as amended in the Assembly on June 6, 1951, will, if enacted, apply to subpenas issued by legislative investigating committees.

The bill proposes the addition of Section 1987.5 to the Code of Civil Procedure to provide that the service of a subpena duces tecum is invalid unless there is served along with it a copy of the affidavit upon which it was issued.

Opinion

It is our opinion that the bill will not, if enacted, apply to any service of a subpena duces tecum issued by a legislative investigating committee.

Analysis

The Section 1987.5 of the Code of Civil Procedure which would be added by Assembly Bill No. 954, as amended on June 6, 1951, reads:

> "1987.5. The service of a subpena duces tecum is invalid unless at the time of such service a copy of the affidavit upon which the subpena was issued is served on the person served with the subpena."

The second paragraph of Section 1985 of the Code of Civil Procedure provides:

> "All applications before trial for subpenas duces tecum shall be accompanied by an affidavit specifying the exact matters or things desired to be produced, and setting forth in full detail the materiality thereof to the issues involved in the case and stating that the witness has the desired matter or things in his possession or under his control."

The affidavit referred to in proposed Section 1987.5 is evidently the one mentioned in Section 1985. Moreover, since, generally speaking, a subpena duces tecum is issued only by a court clerk in a judicial proceeding (C.C.P. 1986), it would appear that the scope of Section 1987.5 is further narrowed to situations where affidavits are issued by that official. Accordingly, unless there is something to the contrary elsewhere in the law, Section 1987 5 would seem inapplicable to any service of a subpena issued by a legislative investigating committee.

Section 37 of Article IV of the State Constitution authorizes the creation by resolution of legislative fact-finding committees, and states in this connection:

> "The resolution creating any such committee may authorize it to act either during sessions of the Legislature or after final adjournment. Any such committee shall have such powers and perform such duties as may be provided by the resolution creating it and in addition shall have such powers and perform such duties as may be provided by law or by the Rules of the Legislature or either house thereof."

In Joint Rule 36 are the following provisions regarding the summoning of witnesses and the procuring of evidence by legislative investigating committees:

> "Each such committee is authorized and empowered to summon and subpena witnesses, require the production of papers, books, accounts, reports, documents, records and papers of every kind and description, to issue subpenas and to take all necessary means to compel the attendance of witnesses and to procure testimony, oral and documentary.
> "Each member of such committees is authorized and empowered to administer oaths, and all of the provisions of Chapter 4, Part 1, Division 2, Title 2 of the Government Code, relating to the attendance and examination of witnesses before the Legislature and the committees thereof, shall apply to such committees.
> "The Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate or Assembly, or such other person as may be designated by the chairman of the committee, shall serve any and all subpenas, orders and other process that may be issued by the committee, when directed to do so by the chairman or by a majority of the membership of the committee."

The chapter of the Government Code mentioned includes Sections 9400 to 9412 thereof. The more relevant of these provide, briefly:

For the issuance of subpenas by the presiding officer of each legislative house or the chairman of a committee (9400).

That a subpena is sufficient if it (a) names the legislative body before whom the proceeding involved is pending, (b) is addressed to a witness, (c) requires the attendance of the witness at a particular time and place, (d) is signed by the presiding officer or committee chairman (9402).

That the service of a subpena may be made by any person over 18 years of age (9403).

For arrest and punishment for contempt in the event of the refusal of a witness to obey a subpena or his refusal to testify (9405 to 9412).

It is our opinion that in enacting Joint Rule 36 and these Government Code provisions, the Legislature thereby intended that only they should govern the issuance of subpenas by legislative investigating committees, and that the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure were not to apply Were this not so, the situation would be enshrouded in much uncertainty in view of various conflicting Code of Civil Procedure provisions on subpenas (see C. C. P. 1985.5-1997).

Also, favoring an argument against the application of Assembly Bill No. 954 to subpenas issued by legislative investigating committees is the thought that in the very nature of things it would be pointless to require an affidavit as a condition for their issuance. Since they may be issued directly by the chairman of such a committee (Joint Rule 36), that is to say, by one who virtually is a party to the proceeding involved, the requirement of an affidavit would be tantamount to a condition that one prove to oneself the necessity for issuing a subpena In the ordinary judicial proceeding, however, the court clerk is not a party litigant, and without the affidavit might otherwise have no information at all as to the materiality of the records and documents specified.

It may also be noted that under the wording of Section 1987.5, there is an assumption that there presently is some requirement for the filing of an affidavit as a condition for the issuance of a subpena. Such there is, but only as to a subpena issued in a judicial proceeding, and not as to one in a legislative inquiry. To our knowledge, there has never been any requirement for affidavits in respect to subpenas of legislative investigating committees.

RALPH N. KLEPS, Legislative Counsel

REMARKS BY MR. KILPATRICK UNDER POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Last week the Senate Interim Committee on Un-American Activities filed a report in which it criticized my associations and actions, implying that I was, or am, either a Communist or a fellow traveler. I rise to assure the Assembly which, under our Constitution is the judge of the qualifications of its members, that I am not now, nor have I ever been, a member of the Communist Party. I further state that I have never and will never knowingly do anything which will further the cause of international Communism.

It is interesting to note that the ex-chairman of the Senate committee apparently knew of its intentions toward me before the committee report was published, and released that information to the press and to my opposition just one week before the election for City Councilman of Los Angeles, in which I was narrowly defeated. In 1949, popular reaction to the use of legislative committees for political purposes was such that proposals were advanced to amend the Joint Rules to prevent such conduct. I suggest that the need for such a rule is as urgent now as it was then, and that the action of the Senate Committee on Un-American Activities demonstrates this.

Whatever my feelings concerning the personal attack on myself, I feel even more deeply the unjustified criticism of the Assembly Committee on Crime and Corrections, of which I am chairman. The record of that committee for the past few years speaks for itself. Due to its exposure of conditions in state and local custodial institutions, many changes have been instituted which have benefited not only the inmates but also the State.

When the committee turned its attention to abuse of authority by police officials resulting in deprivation of civil rights it was, I suppose, to be expected that the committee would become the target of criticism.

However, that such criticism should emanate from the other house of this Legislature was unexpected, and constituted a flagrant breach of the spirit of cooperation between the two houses which led to the adoption of Joint Rule No. 40.

The Senate committee's criticism of the conduct of the Assembly Committee on Crime and Corrections is made by way of innuendo that the Assembly committee, in holding hearings on alleged police brutality in Oakland, was "furthering the party line." This is an utter and complete falsehood.

The Committee on Crime and Corrections has received numerous communications from respected citizens commending its conduct of the Oakland hearings. I should like to read just one, written by the Chairman of Public Affairs of the Oakland Young Women's Christian Association. I quote:

> "The Public Affairs Committee of the Oakland Y.W.C.A. wants to assure you of our interest in and support of the very important work your committee is engaged in and also to commend you for the excellent manner in which the hearings were held in Oakland.
> "We feel that what may seem to be a lack of interest on the part of the general public is the result of poor, and in our opinion, distorted news coverage. The constant implication that only Communists were backing the investigation is a matter to be vigorously protested.
> "Already, as a result of the investigation, first steps are being taken in Oakland to improve the police force. It is our belief that legislation setting up minimum standards for police officers would be a step in the right direction.
> "May the facts be brought out to the end that conditions will be improved all over the State." End quote.

The Senate Committee on Un-American Activities also criticizes the committee by innuendo by casting doubt upon the loyalty and integrity of Mr Robert Powers, who was employed as investigator by the Assembly committee in connection with the Oakland hearings mentioned above. The complaints received by the Assembly committee from several loyal and conservative American organizations, relating to alleged brutality in the Oakland Police Department were turned over to Mr. Powers and he was given a free hand in interviewing and lining up witnesses to appear before the committee We think it natural that his pre-hearing work included interviews with any persons and groups who had the complaints. The committee responsibility was to inquire into police brutality and racial discrimination. We did not feel it our responsibility to determine his political status as a preliminary to that inquiry. Because one of those persons happened to be a lawyer who represents the Civil Rights Congress, the Senate Committee on Un-American Activities infers that Mr. Powers was, in effect, "playing ball" with that Communist dominated organization I believe the unfairness of that innuendo is self-evident. I would, however, like to point out that Mr. Powers' background was investigated carefully by this committee before he was hired and that his employment record showed that he had served honorably as Chief Law Enforcement Officer of the Governor's War Council in a position exempt from civil service; that he had been Assistant to the Director of the California State War Council and subsequently, became Coordinator of Law Enforcing Agencies of the State Department of Justice.

As I mentioned earlier, this criticism of myself and of the committee of which I am chairman, was carefully released during the week immediately preceding the election at which I was defeated for the position of City Councilman of Los Angeles and, in my opinion, influenced the result of that election. With rancor toward none, and a deep sense of appreciation to this body for your many expressions of confidence, I assure you time will prove you right and the report wholly wrong.

The following testimonial letters from reputable citizens and organizations are selected from the many which attest to the high quality of public service rendered the citizens of Oakland by the Assembly Interim Committee on Crime and Correction:

June 12, 1951

Hon. Sam Collins
Speaker of the Assembly
State Capitol
Sacramento, California

MY DEAR SPEAKER COLLINS: This is with respect to your telephone conversation of today, in which you stated to me that Assemblyman Vernon Kilpatrick had been subjected to criticism in the Senate for the inquiry of the Assembly Interim Committee on Crime and Corrections held in Oakland in January, 1950. You stated to me that it was claimed that the Committee's investigation was "Communist inspired."

By birth, I am a native American; by profession, I am a practicing lawyer of twenty-five years' experience in the City of Oakland; by political affiliation, I am a life-long Republican. I deplore Communism and everything associated with it. I had no connection whatever with the hearings of the Assembly Committee, other than, in response to a subpoena by the Committee, I testified as the former Chairman of the Mayor's Committee for Civic Unity. I did not participate in, or attend the hearings with the exception of the few minutes during which I testified.

My testimony was given solely and entirely as this former Chairman of the Mayor's Committee for Civic Unity. Six months previously, the Mayor's Committee had been directed and empowered by the City Council of Oakland to make an investigation of incidents that had been reported with reference to alleged Police brutality in the City. The Mayor's Committee was given no funds and no official investigators. Our work was performed entirely on a voluntary basis. After two months of thorough investigation, hearing voluntary witnesses, and the reading of much correspondence, the Mayor's Committee submitted a complete report to the City Council setting forth its findings, conclusions and recommendations, a copy of which is herewith enclosed. This report speaks for itself as evidence of the objectivity and the thoroughness of the investigation made by the Mayor's Committee, and the dedication of its members to community betterment. This report was received by the City Council and referred to the City Manager. The investigation by the Mayor's Committee for Civic Unity was "inspired" by no one. It was brought about at the direction of the City Council to which the unfortunate incidents had been reported.

The members of the Mayor's Committee who signed this report were all men and women of the highest character, outstanding in their civic endeavors and imbued with a desire to make America a better place in which to live.

At the hearing of the Assembly Committee, I testified concerning the incidents of alleged Police brutality mentioned in the report of the Mayor's Committee for Civic Unity. I stated, in effect, that the situation in Oakland was not beyond the control of the City Police Department and that, in my judgment, no legislation was required. I believed that certain incidents reported had been exaggerated; I also believed that others had been minimized. I reiterated the recommendation of the Mayor's Committee that a thorough program of Police training on minority problems be given in the City of Oakland. This recommendation was subsequently adopted.

The record of the Assembly Committee hearings reveals that, among others, such outstanding Christian ministers as the Rev. Harold N. Geistweit and the Rev. John Dillingham, and Mr. Walter Gordon, Chairman of the California Adult Authority, testified. To infer that the testimony given by these men was "Communist inspired" is unsound. To associate Communism with that hearing, just because leaflets and pamphlets criticizing the Police Department were distributed, is equally illogical. We are all acquainted with the tactics of the Communists, who by their presence and distribution of literature, attempt to disrupt the normal and democratic processes. They espouse the right of free speech for themselves in order to deny free speech to others. They espouse the democratic cause in order to destroy Democracy.

As far as I know, the testimony given by me and the others referred to herein, and the report submitted by the Mayor's Committee for Civic Unity, were solely for the purpose of serving the public cause.

Trusting that this will answer your inquiry, I am

Sincerely yours,
HOWARD H. DESKY

Assemblyman Vernon Kilpatrick

DEAR MR. KILPATRICK: I have noted with interest the accusations made against you, part of which seems to be as a result of your activities as Chairman of The Assembly Interim Committee on Crime and Correction. I supervise the Los Angeles Division of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, of which I am an international vice-president, and make four or more trips to Los Angeles every year. Since I had heard of no such charges on my many trips to Los Angeles, I consulted our representatives there and they have assured me that from their knowledge as well as from their investigation that the charges are unfounded and they are of the opinion that they are absolutely untrue.

As the President of the Alameda County Branch National Association for the Advancement of Colored People I talked with you and Assemblyman Rumford on the telephone and then I wrote you as Chairman of the Interim Committee requesting that you bring your committee to Oakland for the purpose of investigating law enforcement as it affected Negroes and other minorities. As I told you on the telephone as well as in the communication, police brutality in Oakland, insofar as Negroes and Mexicans were concerned, was the order of the day and had been such for a quarter of a century to my personal knowledge. Your committee sent one Mr. Powers here to make the investigation and arrange for the hearings. I am taking this opportunity to again inform you that Mr. Powers remained in close contact with me during his stay in Oakland and we went over the many cases of police brutality together. Mr. Powers checked with me, not only the cases we had in the N.A.A.C.P. files but on every other case other people had brought to his attention, and we agreed on the cases that we thought should be presented to your committee. In other words, every case presented had my approval. Therefore no one can honestly say that the communist dominated the hearings held here. As the records will show, I opened the hearings with a verbal statement on police brutality and its affect upon Negroes here. And again at the close of the hearings I took the stand in an attempt to clear the atmosphere which had resulted from an attempt which had just been made to show that the cases presented had been solicited. I don't think that a majority of the committee members caught the point I was trying to make. I then closed the hearings with a verbal statement and approved certain recommendations that had been presented to the committee. The only reason that the N.A.A.C.P. didn't play a more noticeable part in presenting the cases was because we have no paid personnel on the staff here whatever.

Finally, I wish to assure you that the hearings were not dominated by the communist. It is my opinion that there are very few persons in Oakland who know more about the communist and their tactics than I do. I am pretty well known, in the ranks of the A. F. of L. as well as among Negroes for my knowledge of them and ability to spot them. After all, I have had nearly 30 years experience in Oakland and have participated in labor and civic activities for some 26 years. Obviously then I have had many contacts with the reds as well as many "brushes" with them, therefore I think I am in a position to give a good appraisal of the hearings your committee conducted here.

Very sincerely yours,

/s/ C. L. DELLUMS, President

DEAR SIR: You and your committee are to be commended for holding your forthcoming investigation of the charges of abuse and discrimination by the Oakland Police Department. We have heard of these charges for several months, but nothing seems to have been definitely proved, and nothing was done by the Oakland Council to try to determine the truth. Neither, as far as we know, was any action taken to improve any unhealthy conditions which might exist.

We therefore welcome your investigation and trust that a most thorough inquiry will be made, which will uncover all the facts in the various complaints. We also urge you to give full publicity to the hearings and to your findings.

As citizens of Oakland, we naturally do not like such charges and reflections against our city, and we do not like the uncertainty as to whether the charges are true. But we like even less that any of our officials should deny civil rights to any citizen, or discriminate against any because of race, color or creed.

We trust that your committee will have the full cooperation of all the officials and all the citizens of our city.

HONORABLE SIR: This is just to thank you for the fine work of your committee investigating police brutality in our city; and to say we feel sure your work was much needed and will be affective also effective.

DEAR MR. KILPATRICK: It was difficult to thrust aside prior appointments to attend the sessions of your committee's hearings on the Oakland Police Department, but it was gratifying to have had this experience, and I would like to commend you, as chairman, for the fairness with which you were able to conduct them.

I am, however, deeply resentful of the implication which emanated from police testimony that only Communists or members of the Civil Rights Congress are concerned with the carelessness of citizen's rights in this community. There are many very conservative members of this community who are distressed with this attitude.

Further, it is the feeling of many of this group that the Oakland Police Department does not generally command the respect of the community. Business men complain continually of it, and continual comments of dissatisfaction in regard to the kind of protection which can be expected of a force whose members are so frequently criminal offenders themselves are heard.

The general discourteous attitude used in traffic regulations is common discussion in Oakland.

And so, it is the sincere hope of a great many of us who are not Communists that our community will derive more benefits from the hearings of your committee than some of the publicity would indicate.

Yours very sincerely,

DEAR SIR: There is no political aspect to this letter. I have noticed in the press that you are chairman of a committee of the Assembly dealing with the subject of police brutality.

As an attorney, and, I trust, an observant citizen, I have felt for many years that there has been a growth of police brutality, and that it is a practice which should be openly and strongly condemned. Like many other people, I have simply made my observations and done nothing.

Therefore, I was pleased when I noticed that your committee is about to take up this very important subject, and I hope the committee will do the job thoroughly on a non-partisan basis and come up with recommendations that will put a permanent stop to a practice which is entirely un-American and one which, in my opinion, goes a long way toward destroying respect for law and those who administer it.

Yours truly,

Kilpatrick Committee
Sacramento, California

SIRS: It is my understanding that you are a committee whose duty it is to investigate cases of police brutality in California, and I merely wish to place myself on record as favoring this activity; and I hope that the work of your committee will continue for an indefinite period.

For some reason, the minute a man gets into uniform—any uniform—something psychological seems to happen to him. He forgets that he is still a citizen in a democracy and he begins to think of himself as The Law, and above the law.

Then under certain circumstances he tends to ignore the constitutional processes he has sworn to uphold, and to violate the constitutional rights of some unfortunates who happen to incur his displeasure In the San Francisco CHRONICLE this morning there is a good editorial entitled "Justice, Amity and Understanding" which I wish all citizens would read and ponder. In part it reads,

"For prejudice and discrimination and intolerance are still a powerful influence on our daily lives. We are a Nation . . . dedicated . . . to the principle that every person is an individual who deserves the right to be judged as an individual . . . every American must, not only this week, but always, consider primarily to security of every minority group in our social system."

I listened to a sermon yesterday, and in that sermon there was an incident that I have heard before. It bears repeating, not once but many times. It seems a certain high school offered a prize to the student submitting the best essay telling how he thought Hitler should have been punished, had he lived. And the prize was won by a 16-year old Negro girl who wrote simply, "Hitler should have been painted black and required to spend the rest of his life in any American community."

Yours sincerely,

Like a great sea its frozen fetters breaking,
Every hour new signs of promise tell
That the great soul should once again be free

Recommendation of the Governor

In accordance with Article IV, Section 34, of the Constitution, the Governor presented the following communication recommending the passage of Assembly Bill No. 1818:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
SACRAMENTO, June 7, 1951

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly
Sacramento, California

GENTLEMEN:

Assembly Bill No. 1818, "An act to revise and consolidate the law relating to the receipt, custody, investment, management, disposal, and escheat of various classes of unclaimed property to the possession of which the State is, or may become entitled, by repealing Titles 8 and 8A of Part 3 of the Code of Civil Procedure, Sections 3163, 3164, 3165, 3166, and 3167 of the Banking Code, Sections 3163, 3164, 3165, 3166, and 3167 of the Financial Code, and an act entitled 'An act providing for the dissolution and winding up of savings banks, trust companies, and banks of deposit, and providing for the disposition of all funds deposited therein and not claimed within five years after such banks have ceased to do business, or after the commencement of proceedings to dissolve,' approved March 31, 1891, (Chapter 190, Statutes of 1891), amending and renumbering Section 3168 of the Banking Code, Section 3168 of the Financial Code, and the headings of Titles 9 and 10 of Part 3 of the Code of Civil Procedure, amending Section 13470 of the Government Code, Sections 870, 3121,

3150, and 3162 of the Banking Code, Sections 870, 3121, 3150, 3162, and 9073 of the Financial Code, Section 13 16c of the Building and Loan Association Act, Sections 231, 739, 1064, and 1148 of the Probate Code, Section 5061 of the Penal Code, and Sections 166 and 1015 of the Welfare and Institutions Code, and adding Title 10 to Part 3 of the Code of Civil Procedure, Sections 5062, 5063, 5064, 5065, and 5066 to the Penal Code, and Sections 166 1, 166.2, 166.3, 166.4, 166 5, 1016, 1017, 1018, 1019, and 1020 to the Welfare and Institutions Code, and making an appropriation,"

in my opinion constitutes an emergency bill within the meaning of that term as used in Section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, the consideration of which should not await the final enactment of the Budget Bill.

This bill with certain minor exceptions constitutes a codification of existing provisions of the law now found in various acts relating to unclaimed property. It contains technical appropriations now found in the laws, but does not provide any new appropriations. Under these circumstances its enactment should not await final approval of the budget

I therefore recommend consideration of Assembly Bill No. 1818 as an emergency measure.

Respectfully submitted

EARL WARREN, Governor

Assembly Bill No. 1818—An act to revise and consolidate the law relating to the receipt, custody, investment, management, disposal, and escheat of various classes of unclaimed property to the possession of which the State is, or may become entitled, by repealing Titles 8 and 8A of Part 3 of the Code of Civil Procedure, Sections 3163, 3164, 3165, 3166, and 3167 of the Banking Code, Sections 3163, 3164, 3165, 3166, and 3167 of the Financial Code, and an act entitled "An act providing for the dissolution and winding up of savings banks, trust companies, and banks of deposit, and providing for the disposition of all funds deposited therein and not claimed within five years after such banks have ceased to do business, or after the commencement of proceedings to dissolve," approved March 31, 1891, (Chapter 190, Statutes of 1891), amending and renumbering Section 3168 of the Banking Code, Section 3168 of the Financial Code, and the headings of Titles 9 and 10 of Part 3 of the Code of Civil Procedure, amending Section 13470 of the Government Code, Sections 870, 3121, 3150, and 3162 of the Banking Code, Sections 870, 3121, 3150, 3162, and 9073 of the Financial Code, Section 13.16c of the Building and Loan Association Act, Sections 231, 739, 1064, and 1148 of the Probate Code, Section 5061 of the Penal Code, and Sections 166 and 1015 of the Welfare and Institutions Code, and adding Title 10 to Part 3 of the Code of Civil Procedure, Sections 5062, 5063, 5064, 5065, and 5066 to the Penal Code, and Sections 166.1, 166.2, 166.3, 166.4, 166.5, 1016, 1017, 1018, 1019, and 1020 to the Welfare and Institutions Code, and making an appropriation.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT THAT OPINION OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL BE PRINTED IN JOURNAL

Mr. Elliott asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent that an opinion of the Legislative Counsel, relative to Party National Conventions, be ordered printed in the Journal, in 10 point type, as follows:

Opinion of Legislative Counsel

OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO 2, CALIFORNIA, May 31, 1951

Honorable Edward E. Elliott
Assembly Chamber

PARTY NATIONAL CONVENTIONS—No. 7632

DEAR MR. ELLIOTT:

Question

You have asked us the following question:

Is California entitled to additional delegates at the next Republican and Democratic Party National Conventions as a result of gaining increased congressional representation under the 1950 Federal Census, or will it not obtain an increased number of delegates until 1956?

Opinion

The number of delegates to the party national conventions are determined by the national rules of each party. As those rules now stand, and as we interpret them, California would be entitled to 14 new delegates at the next Democratic National Convention, but will probably be entitled to no additional delegates at the next Republican Party National Convention.

Analysis

Section 2050 of the Elections Code provides that the Chairman of the State Central Committee of each political party qualified to participate in the presidential primary shall notify the Secretary of State on or before the first day in March immediately preceding the presidential primary as to the number of delegates to represent the State in the next national convention of the party.

Section 2052 provides that if a chairman of a state central committee fails to file a notice of the number of delegates, the Secretary of State shall ascertain the number from the call for the national convention issued by the national committee of the party. Section 2053 requires the Secretary of State in turn to notify the county clerks of the number of delegates to be elected by each political party.

The method by which the national committee of each party determines the number of delegates to its national convention to which each state is entitled is a matter of rule of the particular party, rather than a matter of law.

The national rules of the Democratic Party provide that in the Democratic convention each state is entitled to twice as many delegates as it has presidential electors, plus two delegates at large if it went Democratic at the last presidential election.

The rules of the Republican Party provide that each state is entitled to four delegates at large; two for each Congressman at large; one for each congressional district having cast at least 1,000 Republican votes, and an additional one if it cast 10,000 Republican votes; and a bonus of three delegates at large if it went Republican at the last presidential election or if it later elected a Republican United States Senator.

California is entitled to seven new Congressmen under the reapportionment based upon the 1950 Federal Census. Accordingly, the State is also entitled to seven additional presidential electors (U. S. Const., Art. II, Sec. 1).

It would appear, therefore, that the State is entitled to 14 new delegates at the next Democratic National Convention, pursuant to the present rules of that party.

Under the rules of the Republican Party, however, it would appear that California will have no additional delegates to the national convention based upon the number of additional Congressmen to which the State is entitled, since it will be impossible to determine how many new delegates should be authorized until the number of votes in the new congressional districts formed at this session of the Legislature is established. This cannot be ascertained until after the 1952 elections, which will occur subsequent to the national convention. Accordingly, as we interpret the rules of the Republican Party, the number of delegates to the national convention from California will be determined on the basis of the congressional districts of California as they existed before the reapportionment, unless such rules are amended to provide otherwise.

Very truly yours,

RALPH N. KLEPS
Legislative Counsel

EXPLANATION OF FAILURE TO VOTE ON ASSEMBLY BILL NO. 1216

When Assembly Bill No. 1216 was presented on Friday, June 15th, I had been excused by the Assembly for the afternoon in order to attend my daughter's graduation from the University of California, Berkeley, California.

Since legislative business, in connection with Assembly Bill No. 1015, (in June, 1947) had prevented my attending her graduation from high school, I felt that this absence was justifiable.

Had I been present, I would have voted "Aye" on Assembly Bill No. 1216, providing for state assistance to the permanently and totally disabled

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions were offered:

By Mr. Lyon:

House Resolution No. 214

Relative to the creation of the Assembly Interim Committee on Highways, Streets, and Bridges

WHEREAS, The public highways, streets, and bridges of the State are useful, necessary, and indispensable arteries of travel and commerce and have been constructed and improved at great public expense; and

WHEREAS, The State, in providing highway, road, and street facilities, is in effect managing and financing a full-scale transportation system, costing the highway users and taxpayers of the State in excess of $200,000,000 annually; and

WHEREAS, Pavements and other highway improvements are not permanent but must be rebuilt, resurfaced, expanded, and modernized both to maintain and improve the existing facilities and to meet changing economic and industrial conditions; and

WHEREAS, The Legislature is responsible to the people as a whole for the imposition of taxes levied to support state highway, county road, and city street programs and in discharging this responsibility cannot be indifferent to the inefficient use of tax resources, but it appears possible that less diligence is presently exercised over expenditures of state-collected highway-user taxes by the State, the counties, and the cities than is exercised over the expenditure of other tax moneys because such expenditures do not directly affect the General Fund of the State or the tax rates of local government; and

WHEREAS, The Department of Public Works has reported to the Legislature that the cost of improving the state highways alone to standards adequate for 1950 traffic conditions is estimated in excess of three billion dollars, but only fourteen billion dollars will be available for construction in the next 10 years; and

WHEREAS, The cost of acquiring rights-of-way and the limitation of access has risen to alarming proportions and appears to be continuing to rise, and the reasons for the increasing costs should be ascertained and the wisdom of limiting access construction under certain conditions, should be reviewed by the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, Serious criticisms have arisen from time to time with respect to the advisability of constructing freeways in metropolitan areas where parking problems are not being solved and mass transit is not being improved; and

WHEREAS, The Legislature in its 1951 Regular Session considered alternative plans of financing an accelerated state highway construction and right-of-way acquisition program but it appeared that further study should be given to all aspects of California's highway problems, including an appraisal of the efficiency and effectiveness with which state-collected highway-user tax funds are now being expended by all agencies of government to which such funds are entrusted; and

WHEREAS, The Senate Interim Committee on Highways, Streets, and Bridges, created by Senate Resolution 129 in the 1949 Regular Session of the Legislature during the course of its inquiries found that several counties were apparently failing to comply with the spirit, if not the letter of the Highway Act of 1947 with respect to county road administration, and, it, therefore, appears that the Legislature should have additional information on this subject in view of the fact that almost fifty million dollars is apportioned annually by the State to counties for road purposes, and

WHEREAS, The State Controller is annually collecting data on county road and city street finance as required by the Highway Act of 1947 and such information should be carefully digested and evaluated for the use of the Legislature in considering legislation dealing with county road and city street affairs; and

WHEREAS, Expenditures by the Department of Motor Vehicles and the Department of the Highway Patrol are directly supported by taxes collected from highway-users and such expenditures directly reduce the amount of funds available for highways and, therefore, should be investigated by the Legislature in view of the apparent need for additional revenue; and

WHEREAS, The Legislature is faced with difficult problems of cost allocation in devising just and reasonable taxes for highway support, which problems have not been fully solved particularly with respect to the equitable taxation of heavy commercial vehicles although alternative solutions have been considered, and, therefore, further study is necessary in this connection; and

WHEREAS, Additional and more comprehensive data regarding the operating characteristics of various classes of motor vehicles, including such factors as annual vehicle mileages, average fuel consumption, loaded and empty vehicle weights, and the like, are indispensable to the formation of a reasonable and equitable system of highway-user taxation and, therefore, should be collected, analyzed, and made available to the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, No one of the administrative agencies of the State Government is so constituted that it can consider and advise the Legislature on all aspects of highway, road, and street management and finance, and, therefore, the Legislature finds a lack of complete and coordinated information on over-all highway problems; and

WHEREAS, The entire problem of proper maintenance, development, and financing of the highways, streets, and bridges requires continued study, investigation, vigilance, and exercise of foresight on the part of the Legislature to insure that the money of the people of California is wisely expended, that modern and efficient methods are employed, that existing facilities are maintained, and that reasonable measures consistent with efficiency and economy are being taken to maintain, improve, and make safe the arteries of vehicular travel of the State; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, As follows:

1 The Assembly Interim Committee on Highways, Streets, and Bridges is hereby created and authorized and directed to ascertain, study, and analyze all facts relating to and in any way connected with the maintenance and development of safe, efficient, economical, and adequate highways, streets, and bridges and the administration and financing thereof, including but not limited to the operation, effect, administration, enforcement, and needed revision of any and all laws in any way bearing upon or relating to the subject of this resolution and to report thereon to the Assembly, including in the reports its recommendations for appropriate legislation.

2 The committee is further specifically authorized and directed to collect by questionnaires, direct investigation, or otherwise, all such information from the owners and operators of motor vehicles on the highways, roads, and streets of this State as it deems necessary in order to formulate a reasonable and equitable system of Highway-User Taxation for all classes of motor vehicle operation and to carry out the other purposes for which it is created.

3 The committee is further and specifically directed, without any limitation on its other powers, to ascertain, study and analyze all facts relating to the following:

(a) California's highway, road, and street needs, including an appraisal of the 1951 deficiency report made by the Department of Public Works and the criteria adopted in the preparation of that report;

(b) The efficiency and effectiveness of State highway, county road, and city street expenditures, including a determination of whether unnecessary, wasteful, or extravagant expenditures have been or are being made by any agency of government;

(c) Budgetary practices relating to highways, roads, and streets of the State, counties, and cities, including expenditure programs of the Motor Vehicle Department and the Department of the Highway Patrol,

(d) The effectiveness and efficiency of present administrative arrangements pertaining to highways, roads, and streets;

(f) The costs and economic effects of present state policies with respect to the construction of limited access highways and metropolitan freeways;

(g) Alternative methods of financing the highway modernization program of California;

(h) Alternative methods of taxing heavy commercial vehicles equitably in relation to taxes on other highway users;

(i) The need for continuing collections of data regarding highway use, vehicle operating characteristics, and the effects of heavy vehicles on highways and vehicle traffic from which can be devised more equitable tax policies;

(j) The advisability of establishing a permanent committee or other agency in order (1) to provide a continuous check on expenditures of state-collected highway-user taxes by the State, counties, and cities; (2) to study and recommend legislation to guarantee and insure the most effective highway, road, and street management and the most efficient expenditure of highway, road, and street funds; (3) to accumulate and coordinate data which will provide a rational basis for the allocation of state-collected highway-user taxes among the various levels of government and among geographical areas of the State; (4) to accumulate and coordinate data which will provide a basis for the improvement of the highway-user tax structure and for such modifications of the structure as conditions may justify from time to time, (5) to study, analyze, and appraise on a continuing basis all aspects of highway, road, and street management, expenditure, and finance to the end that the Legislature will at all times be fully advised on the existing facts, new developments, and emerging issues in the transportation field; (6) to make studies of the economics of transportation in general, including taxation and regulatory policies, to the end that the State's role in providing the road plant will be properly integrated with the overall development of an efficient transportation system for California; (7) to cooperate with other agencies, public and private, to accomplish the objectives of the committee or agency

4. The committee shall consist of seven Members of the Assembly appointed by the Speaker thereof. Vacancies occurring in the membership of the committee shall be filled by the appointing power. The Speaker shall appoint the chairman and vice chairman of the committee.

7. The committee has the following additional powers and duties.

(a) To employ an executive secretary, engineers, auditors, and other personnel, as it deems necessary to carry out the purposes for which it is created.

(b) To contract with such other agencies, public or private, as it deems necessary for the rendition and affording of such services, facilities, studies and reports to the committee as will best assist it to carry out the purposes for which it is created.

(c) To cooperate with and secure the cooperation of county, city, city and county, and other local law enforcement agencies in investigating any matter within the scope of this resolution and to direct the sheriff of any county to service subpenas, orders, and other process issued by the committee

(d) To report its findings and recommendations to the Legislature and to the people from time to time and at any time, not later than herein provided

(e) To do any and all other things necessary or convenient to enable it fully and adequately to exercise its powers, perform its duties, and accomplish the objects and purposes of this resolution.

8. The committee and its employees may meet and act any place within the State or within the United States

ECONOMIC STABILIZATION AGENCY
WASHINGTON 25, D. C., June 11, 1951

Mr. Arthur A. Ohnimus, Chief Clerk
Assembly Chamber, State Capitol
Sacramento 14, California

DEAR MR. OHNIMUS: Thank you for sending me a copy of House Resolution No. 148, adopted by the California Assembly on May 25, 1951.

Regional boundaries and regional headquarters were established by the Budget Bureau to provide a standard regional pattern for field organizations of the new production, manpower and stabilization agencies. This agency is governed by the Budget Bureau's directive on the subject.

The Regional Headquarters for the California, Nevada, Arizona Region was established in San Francisco. The Office of Price Stabilization, which is the only part of the Economic Stabilization Agency to organize a field staff to date, has established several district offices. These district offices, including one in Los Angeles, implement the regional office services to the various business communities.

As evidenced by the above, the matter of determination of regional boundaries and regional headquarters is beyond my jurisdiction.

Sincerely yours,

ERIC JOHNSTON, Administrator

SACRAMENTO, June 15, 1951

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly
State of California
Sacramento, California

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature,

Assembly Bill 282, entitled: "An act to add Sections 9518.1 and 9522.18 to the Business and Professions Code, relating to dry cleaning"

My objections to this bill are as follows:

This bill would amend those sections of the Business and Professions Code relating to dry cleaning. It would provide that the word "code" means the Business and Professions Code, and provides that for the purpose of the chapter and any rules and regulations of the board the present tense includes the past and future, the future tense includes the present, the masculine gender includes the feminine and the feminine the masculine, and that the singular includes the plural and the plural the singular.

It is obvious that when found in the Business and Professions Code, the word "code" of necessity refers to that code. The other provisions are found in slightly different form in Section 14 with one slight exception.

It is also obvious that the adoption of this bill will not accomplish any change in the law and that it is not desirable to re-introduce in each chapter of this code a statement that is found in the preliminary sections of the code applicable to all chapters.

I am therefore returning the bill without my approval.

Respectfully submitted.

EARL WARREN, Governor

Assembly Bill No. 282 ordered to unfinished business file.

SACRAMENTO, June 18, 1951

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly
State of California
Sacramento, California

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature,

Assembly Bill No. 997, entitled: "An act to provide for the number and succession of judges in municipal court judicial districts in Los Angeles County."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

This is the bill providing for the number of judges of the Municipal Courts in the County of Los Angeles under the constitutional provision submitted to the people by the Legislature.

This court reorganization plan was represented to the people as one to effect efficiency and economy in our inferior courts. In order to keep faith with that promise the Judicial Council has surveyed the judicial workload in all affected parts of the State for the purpose of determining the number of judges in the new municipal court districts established by the boards of supervisors pursuant to the reorganization program. The boards of supervisors are responsible to the people for the tax rate of their counties, and working with the Judicial Council, have determined the number of judges needed in the several judicial districts in their counties.

Some years ago the people established the home rule principle for county government in Section 7½ of Article XI of the Constitution. I believe that it is in keeping with that principle to rely largely on the boards of supervisors in such matters as court reorganization, particularly when the boards agree substantially with the Judicial Council of the State, based on the recommendation resulting from the studies of the judiciary in the various districts.

With reference to this bill the Chief Justice of the State, as Chairman of the Judicial Council, advises me as follows: "In my opinion, provision for the number of judges for each of these courts should have been made by a separate bill, as the determination in respect to each should stand on its own merits. In a few instances where the bill provides for a greater number than the supervisors or the council recommended, there is some basis for a difference of opinion as to the number of judges needed. However, there can be no justification for providing as many judges for some of these courts as the bill does. I therefore recommend that AB 997 be vetoed."

The Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles County, through the county counsel, advises me as follows: "This letter is written pursuant to the specific instructions of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, adopted May 15th, at which time the county counsel was instructed to advise you by letter of the unanimous position of the board of supervisors of this county in opposing an increase in the number of judges of the municipal court, brought about by the plan to reorganize the inferior courts over and above the 74 judges recommended by the board of supervisors to the Legislature. Assembly Bill 997 provides for an excess of ten such judges."

And on June 1st reaffirms its position in the following language: "The purpose of this communication is to reaffirm the unanimous opposition of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles to Assembly Bill 997, which provides, according to the recommendations of Chief Justice Gibson and the Judicial Council, for at least ten unneeded municipal court judges for this county."

The City Council of the City of Los Angeles advises me as follows: "Whereas the State Assembly has passed a bill authorizing additional 10 inferior court judges, increasing the number of such offices from 74 to 84, and whereas the board of supervisors, Supreme Court Chief Justice Phil S. Gibson, the Judicial Council and others in authority in the State feel that these 10 additional judges are not essential and whereas in view of the fact that this increase in personnel will add more than $600,000 annually to the county tax bill, and whereas a proper portion of this additional tax burden will be borne by tax payers in the City of Los Angeles; therefore be it resolved that the City Council of the City of Los Angeles joins with the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors in protesting to the California State Senate the passage of the bill approved by the Assembly."

I have stated that I would veto any bill, regardless of the county involved, that proposed a number of judges in excess of the recommendations of both the Judicial Council and the board of supervisors. I have no personal knowledge of the number of municipal court judges required in Los Angeles or in any other county in this State. In the absence of such personal knowledge, and in furtherance of the principle of home rule, I believe that it is my duty to give great weight to the recommendations of the Board of Supervisors and the Judicial Council. Where there is a difference of opinion between these two I will, of course, be required to exercise my independent judgment based on the facts presented.

I was prepared to veto this bill on its arrival in my office. However, at the request of several Members of the Legislature from Los Angeles County, I held off returning the bill to give them an opportunity to again contact the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors and the Judicial Council. Because this is the last week of the session I can no longer withhold returning this bill, and accordingly am returning it herewith.

Respectfully submitted.

Letter of Transmittal

CALIFORNIA STATE LEGISLATURE

Hon. Sam L. Collins, Speaker of the Assembly
State Capitol
Sacramento, California

The Assembly Interim Committee on Aviation herewith submits its final report.

The committee was created by House Resolution No. 291 of the 1949 Regular Session. The resolution directed the committee to study:

"(a) The regulation and taxation of aircraft;

"(b) The location, establishment, construction, improvement and financing of landing facilities;

"(c) The responsibilities and activities of the California Aeronautics Commission;

"(d) The continuation of the study of zoning in relation to airports, including but not limited to the operation, effect, administration, enforcement and needed revision of any and all laws in any way bearing upon or relating to the subject of this resolution, and to report thereon to the Assembly, including in the reports its recommendations for appropriate legislation."

Under the directions contained in the resolution, the Speaker appointed the following Members of the Assembly to serve on the committee: Earl W. Stanley, Balboa Island, Chairman; Ralph M. Brown, Modesto; L. Stewart Hinckley, Redlands; Lester A. McMillan, Los Angeles; and Laughlin E. Waters, Los Angeles; all of whom gave of their time to the formulation of the conclusions contained in the preliminary and final reports of the committee.

Ways and means of financing airports, and additions to airports, was under consideration, and after a great deal of research and study, ACA 5, AB 182 and AB 183 were introduced in the Assembly. These bills passed the Committee on Constitutional Amendments and the Committee on Municipal and County Government, and upon reaching the Ways and Means Committee, that Committee recommended a further study of the measures by the Interim Committee on Finance and Insurance. This final report is based entirely upon the financing of airports and other public projects.

Respectfully submitted.

Final Report of the Assembly Interim Committee on Aviation

FINANCING OF AIRPORTS AND OTHER PUBLIC PROJECTS

General Background

In the course of its investigation of the problems of aviation, it became clearly apparent to the committee that one of the major obstacles in the way of the establishment of needed public airports was the difficulty in securing the necessary funds to acquire sites and improve them.

While legal authority exists for the issuance of general obligation, tax supported, bonds for such purposes, practical difficulties often prevent proceeding under this authority. In many cases cities have either reached the statutory limit of the amount of general obligation bonds which they may issue, or desire to reserve whatever remaining margin of bonding capacity they may have in order to carry out other desired improvements. In other cases, notwithstanding the fact that a very substantial majority of the voters may favor an airport project, it may be impossible to obtain the two-thirds vote required by law for the issuance of general obligation bonds by cities and a few other classes of public bodies.

At present there is no state law which permits the issuance of revenue bonds for airport purposes, although airports, if established where there is a need for them, and if the planning and management are good, can and should be fully self-sustaining, and therefore within the classes of public improvements which it is appropriate to finance through revenue bonds. The need for a state law authorizing the issuance of revenue bonds for airport purposes is thus apparent.

However, the studies of the committee revealed that the adoption of such a law, desirable and necessary as it is, would not, in itself, solve the whole problem. This was for two major reasons, first, that in some cases there may be difficulty in selling such bonds to private investors (this suggesting state financing) and, second, that a provision of the California Constitution, as construed by the courts, hampers, and in some cases may preclude, successful financing through revenue bonds, this suggesting an appropriate amendment to the Constitution. These two matters will be discussed separately.

Marketing Bonds—Private and State Financing

It is well known to those who are in touch with such matters that there is a reluctance on the part of private investors to purchase revenue bonds issued for the original construction of a revenue producing public undertaking, because there is no history of earnings, and the sufficiency of the expected earnings must be determined on the basis of estimates and the opinions of experts.

In the case of bonds issued for additions to existing works, the difficulty is somewhat less, for in such cases there is a history of the earnings of the existing works. However, this advantage from a history of earnings is almost completely lost if the earnings of the existing works cannot be charged with the payment of the bonds for the addition. Unfortunately, under the decisions referred to in the next section of this report, there are many cases where the revenues of existing works cannot be applied to the payment of bonds for additions, and such bonds become to all intents and purposes bonds for original construction, unaided by the revenues from existing works. To avoid complexity, the problem will be discussed as if only bonds for original construction were involved, omitting any discussion of the varying differentiations which arise in the comparatively few cases where the revenues from existing works can be used for the payment of bonds for additions.

The reluctance of investors to buy revenue bonds where there is no record of past earnings is natural, for, as their name implies, revenue bonds are payable only from the revenues of the utility, and if the revenues prove to be inadequate obviously the bonds will not be paid. There is a wide and ready market for revenue bonds of public revenue-producing works which have been in operation long enough to demonstrate that their earnings are adequate to meet all costs of operation and maintenance and the principal and interest payments on all bonded indebtedness. In cases where the record is long enough and the adequacy of the revenues is unquestionable, such bonds can be sold at interest rates as low as if they were general obligation bonds. On the other hand, it is not true that in no case can revenue bonds for original construction be sold on the private money market, for there are many projects, large and small, throughout the Country, the original financing of which has been by the sale of revenue bonds on the open market. Generally speaking, these have been cases where information readily at hand disclosed clearly that the need for the improvement was obvious and that there could be no question that the revenues would be adequate.

As the need for a project, the probable demand for its services, and the adequacy of the expected returns become less apparent on the surface, the bonds either become unsalable on the open market, or the interest rate demanded becomes so high as to be almost or completely prohibitive.

Nevertheless, there are many projects where the financial feasibility is not so plainly apparent on the surface, but where on complete investigation they will be found to be intrinsically sound and fully justified. It is at this point that the need for state financing comes into the picture, and this committee believes that such state financing is economically sound and fully justified.

This committee believes that the State should be authorized to purchase revenue bonds issued for projects which, on the fullest investigation, it finds to be intrinsically sound and financially justified as self-sustaining projects, and resell these bonds on the open market as soon as the soundness of the project has become demonstrated to the point where such bonds become marketable.

The committee is fully aware that there are some who believe, and most strenuously assert, that such a plan will result in the bonds of sound projects being sold on the open market to private investors, and a flood of bonds for unsound projects, not economically justified, being bought by the State, remaining in its hands unsold, ultimately going into default, and leaving the taxpayers of the State to suffer the loss.

The committee does not question the sincerity of these objectors, but firmly believes that their objections are based upon a fallacy. If the plan suggested by this committee contemplated or authorized the purchasing by the State of bonds without the requirement that the State first ascertain that the project is economically sound and will produce adequate revenues, and if it be assumed that the commission proposed to be created would fail to make such investigation (whether or not required by the act) and, in flagrant violation of their trust, use the State's money to buy unsound bonds, such fears might be justified.

But such is not the intent of the plan, and the purchase of unsound bonds would be the plainest violation of the terms of the proposed act. The plan contemplates, and, in effect, the proposed act requires, that the State shall purchase only such bonds as would find a ready market among private investors if as a practical matter they could make the investigation which the State is required to make.

Therein lies the whole reason for state financing. The private investor in most cases cannot, and even if he could, will not make the necessary investigation to ascertain that a project, the soundness of which is not obvious on casual investigation, is in fact intrinsically sound. The State can and will make such an investigation, and under the plan proposed this would be without cost to the State, for it is required that the interest received by the State shall exceed the interest it pays by an amount sufficient to cover all costs. Thus the cost of investigations falls where it should—on the project itself.

The committee is not overlooking the fact that this element of furnishing to prospective purchasers of the revenue bonds of a project full factual information is customarily covered, so far as practicable, by issuing printed Official Statements, including reports of engineering, accounting and other experts. However, such reports are often unavoidably highly technical and not readily understood by the intending investor without employing other technical experts to check them, at a cost out of all proportion to the investment he may be considering.

In the case of a negotiated sale, as distinguished from sale on competitive bidding, investment bankers may be willing to incur the cost of such an independent investigation, recouping themselves by correspondingly reducing the price they pay for the bonds, but on a competitive sale, no bidder can be sure that he will be the successful bidder, and so has no assurance that he can recoup the costs. Even on a relatively small airport project the cost of an independent investigation by aviation engineers, aviation traffic experts and accountants would certainly be several hundred dollars. On a larger one it might run well into several tens of thousands of dollars. Obviously, no banking syndicate, without assurance that it is to be the purchaser, will incur such costs, and even more obviously, no prospective purchaser from such a syndicate of a single bond, or even a substantial block of bonds, can think of incurring any such cost. It follows that revenue bonds can be readily marketed only when the official statement carries, both to the banking syndicate which considers bidding for the bonds, and to the ultimate investors considering their purchase on the open market, conviction, unaided by further technical advice, that the project will pay out.

On the other hand, the State can, and under the proposed legislation would be required to, make such an investigation as would assure the ready sale of the bonds on the open market if the purchasing syndicates and the ultimate purchasers in the secondary market could afford to make that investigation for themselves.

What has been said on this subject is not mere theory. The soundness of the principles involved has been demonstrated over a long period and on a huge scale. Whatever may be the merits of the widespread charges of recent politically inspired improprieties in the management of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (a subject which this committee will not, and obviously should not, enter upon in this report) the record shows beyond question that the plan on which it was founded, basically the same in principles as that here involved, has brought inestimable benefits to public projects throughout the country, and yet resulted in a very substantial cash profit to the United States.

It is not necessary to look outside California to realize what the availability of federal financing has meant to public projects. Three major California projects required financing early in the depression which followed the financial crash of 1929. These were the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, the Colorado River Aqueduct of the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California, and the Boulder Canyon Project Transmission Line of the Department of Water and Power of the City of Los Angeles At that time there was no demand by investors for municipal bonds. The normal bond market would not absorb such issues. In each case application to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation resulted in the bonds being purchased by it, and the projects proceeding without delay. Without such financing there would have been long and costly delays. Today all of these bonds, not wanted by the private money market when offered, are recognized as securities of the highest standing.

Not only was the Reconstruction Finance Corporation ready to purchase bonds when the unwillingness of private capital was based on the depression, but for many years since the depression was over it has continued to purchase bonds of public agencies which the private money market would not absorb, but which, on just such an investigation as it is contemplated that the State will make, ascertained it to be intrinsically sound, and which experience has proved to be sound, for the records show that defaults in the payment of such bonds have been almost negligible, and no greater than would be normal among a like number of issues, in like amounts, purchased by private bankers.

One of the charges made by those who oppose the plan suggested by this committee is, in effect, that a public board will not pass upon applications for loans with the same intelligence and ability as private bankers exercise in passing upon bonds offered to them for purchase The record of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation refutes this, for, as stated, its record shows a negligible and normal number of defaults, and a very substantial profit to the United States from its purchases of public agency bonds.

One feature of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation plan, and a most important one, may not be too well known. It was not set up to compete with investment bankers, but to provide financing for projects found by it to be financially sound but the securities for which private capital was unwilling to purchase. The act of Congress under which that corporation was organized and under which it has operated, expressly provides that it shall not make loans of certain classes, including loans to states, municipalities and public agencies, "unless the financial assistance applied for is not otherwise available on reasonable terms". In other words, it was not to, and does not, purchase bonds which the private money market was or is willing to purchase at reasonable interest rates. This is precisely what the plan suggested by this committee contemplates. The experience of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation demonstrates two things, first, that within the Country there have been a vast number of projects which would pass rigid tests of economic justification, but which private capital would not finance on reasonable terms, and, second, that experience has shown that such projects were in fact intrinsically sound. If this is true as to the Country at large, it is surely true that loans made by the State, in California, under like restrictions and safeguards, will prove as sound and as beneficial as these loans made by the Federal Government.

In closing this discussion of the need for and advantages of state financing, it seems proper to speak briefly of the composition of the commission which it is proposed shall administer the plan. The proposed bill would create a new state commission vested with full authority to administer the plan. This commission would be composed of the

Governor
State Controller
Attorney General
Superintendent of Banks
Director of Finance
State Treasurer
Director of Public Works

These officers would serve ex officio and without additional compensation.

Two Senators, appointed by the Senate Committee on Rules, and two Members of the Assembly, appointed by the Speaker, would sit with the commission, as advisers.

This committee is confident that with the commission so constituted there need be no fear that irregularities such as charged against some of the present officers of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will ever occur.

This committee preferred to recommend an ex officio commission, and the inclusion of a provision that the Director of Finance should furnish such assistance as the commission might require, because it believed that such a plan of organization would be in the interest of economy.

However, it has been suggested to this committee that it might be preferable to provide for a somewhat larger commission, with the appointees to be persons having no other connection with the service of the State, and with long terms, somewhat after the pattern of the Board of Regents of the State University, in order to remove the commission as far as possible from state politics. If the committees considering the proposed legislation should prefer such a plan of organization, this committee would not object.

The Constitutional Obstacle

As noted above, one of the major difficulties in issuing revenue bonds arises out of the interpretation the California courts have given to a provision of the State Constitution. The subject is an exceedingly complex one. A completely accurate discussion would involve a statement of refinements and exceptions which would unduly extend this report. An over-simplified statement will be sufficient for present purposes.

The constitutional provision involved is usually referred to as the "debt limitation clause" and is found in Section 18 of Article XI. This clause provides that no "county, city, town, township, board of education, or school district" shall incur any indebtedness exceeding its ordinary annual income without two things, first, a two-thirds vote of the electors voting on the proposition, and, second, provision for a tax to pay the principal of and interest on the indebtedness.

The constitutions of many other states contain more or less the same provisions. As a matter of history, the purpose of such debt limitation provisions was to limit the levying of taxes. Consequently, the courts of all the states where the question has arisen, including California, accept the basic principle that the issuance of bonds payable solely out of revenues of a public utility or improvement, and to the payment of which tax money cannot be applied, does not constitute the incurring of an indebtedness within the meaning of such debt limitation provisions. This principle has become generally known as the "special fund theory" or "broad special fund theory."

However, the courts of a few states, including California, have placed a limitation on this broad special fund theory, and adopted what has come to be known as the "limited special fund theory". Stating this limited special fund theory incompletely, but sufficiency for present purposes, it is to the effect that an indebtedness payable out of revenues escapes this debt limitation provision only if the revenues to be applied are the revenues of the works acquired or constructed out of the proceeds of the indebtedness. Thus, in California, while revenue bonds may legally be issued for the original acquisition or construction of works, and be made payable out of the revenues of those works, revenue bonds for an addition to or extension of existing works can be legally issued only if they are payable from the revenues of the addition or extension, as isolated and distinguished from the revenues of the existing works.

This makes it extremely difficult, and in many cases impossible, to legally issue and successfully market revenue bonds for additions and extensions. Yet cases where it is desirable to finance additions and extensions are probably more frequent than cases of original acquisition or construction.

The first difficulty is in the segregation of the revenues of the addition from those of the existing works. Suppose, for example, an airport has been established and in operation for some years, with, say, three runways, loading and unloading facilities, and the usual buildings for waiting rooms, ticket offices, repair shops, and the like. Later it is desirable, as the traffic increases, to acquire additional land and provide, say, two additional runways, and to do so through issuing revenue bonds. Who can segregate with any accuracy the revenues of the addition from the revenues of the previously existing facilities? It may be possible to keep a record of what planes use the new runways, but these planes would also use the previously existing loading and unloading facilities and repair shops, and their passengers would use the waiting rooms, ticket offices and other facilities. Possibly the courts would approve a proration, based on the investment in the original works and the investment in the addition, but they have not done so as yet, and it is by no means certain that they would. An additional investment of, say 20 percent of the original investment might result in only, say, a 10 percent increase in revenue. Some of the increase might have come without the additional runways. Who is to say?

But assuming that in a test case the legal problems arising out of these circumstances have been surmounted, the second obstacle would be encountered Investors might decline to purchase bonds secured by only 10 percent or 20 percent of the net revenue They might purchase them if it appeared that the 10 percent or 20 percent would be amply sufficient, but obviously the bonds would not be as attractive as if they were payable out of the entire revenue of the original works plus the addition. True, the outstanding bonds for the original construction or acquisition would have a claim on the same revenues, but under the logicl assumption made above that some years would have passed, a substantial part of the original issue would have been paid. Assume that the original bonds still outstanding were equal in amount to the new issue, the new bonds, if payable out of all the revenues, would, in effect, be secured by one-half the net revenues, instead of the 10 percent or 20 percent basis resulting from the interpretation of the constitutional provision which the California courts have adopted, and which is out of line with the more generally adopted interpretation in other states.

There are other complications arising out of the California interpretation, but the ones discussed are ample to show that the logical and proper thing to do is to propose a constitutional amendment which will unmistakably give the debt limitation clause the same interpretation as is adopted by the courts of most states in interpreting provisions similar to the existing California provision. This would obviate the difficulties arising out of the California decisions, and put California in step with the majority of the states.

In closing this discussion of the constitutional question, it seems proper to answer an argument which some might otherwise make. Some may say that it is not necessary to amend the Constitution, and that all that is necessary is for the Legislature, in adopting revenue bond legislation, or for the local authorities, in taking revenue bond proceedings, to provide for a two-thirds vote, either in all cases, or at least in those cases where, under the California decisions, such a vote is required. This is not true. It is true that a two-thirds vote could be so required, although we believe that it should not be. The two-thirds vote requirement is only one of two requirements of the debt limitation clause. The other is that provision must be made for a tax to pay the principal and interest. If, as held by the California decisions, the debt limitation clause is applicable to certain classes of revenue bonds, both requirements are equally applicable. Not only a two-thirds vote is required, but provision for a tax to pay the bonds is equally required. It is true that the requirement of provision for a tax does not mean that a tax must actually be levied and collected, if sufficient revenues are available from year to year, but the obligation to levy and collect a tax exists if revenues are not sufficient. Many general obligation bonds, issued for water works purposes, and the like, are in fact paid out of revenues, without actual taxation.

But even provision for a tax, regardless of actual taxation, cannot be made in the case of revenue bonds without destroying their character as revenue bonds. It would be utterly incongruous and meanlingless to say in one breath that the bonds are to be payable solely out of revenues, and not out of taxation, and in the next to say that provision must be made for a tax to pay the same. In those cases where under the present California decisions a two-thirds vote is required, clearly provision for a tax is also required, and if such provision is made, the bonds become to all intents and purposes general obligation bonds, and all the advantages of the use of revenue bonds is lost. A constitutional amendment is the only way to obviate the requirement of provision for the levying of a tax, without which revenue bonds cease to be such, and become, in practical effect, general obligation bonds.

Interests Other Than Aviation Affected

When the committee began its study of the problems of financing airports and came to the conclusion that the situation demanded provision for the issuance of revenue bonds for airport purposes, it consulted with representatives of the League of California Cities, with investment bankers, and with others familiar with revenue bond financing. These consultations quickly brought the conviction that if it proposed legislation relating to the issuance of bonds only for airport purposes, coupled with provision for the state purchasing such bonds, it would be but adding to the patchwork of inadequate revenue bond laws; that many other public projects were confronted with the same problems as confronted those concerned with aviation, and that the existing laws were just as inadequate for most of them as they were for airport projects. The logical and sensible thing obviously was to propose legislation which would not be limited to airports, but would extend to public revenue projects of all classes.

The committee therefore requested the Legislative Counsel Bureau to draft the necessary measures to accomplish two objectives, first, to authorize public agencies to issue revenue bonds to finance revenue-producing projects which, under other laws, they were authorized to undertake, and, second, to authorize the issuance of state bonds, to provide a fund for the purchase of bonds issued for such projects, and to establish a proper board to administer the fund. This resulted in the preparation of Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 5, Assembly Bill No. 182 and Assembly Bill No. 183, which were introduced by the chairman of the committee in its behalf.

However, the office of the Legislative Counsel stated that revenue bond legislation was inherently a complex and specialized matter, and suggested that the committee should have the assistance of a qualified lawyer specializing in that field. Upon inquiry, the committee was told that Mr. Stephen B. Robinson of Los Angeles had probably had more experience in the field of revenue bond law than any other available lawyer, and was nationally recognized as an expert in that field. The committee, therefore, employed Mr. Robinson and he has very substantially revised the three measures, and these revisions have been incorporated in the measures by amendments, as shown by reprints.

The Proposed Legislation

The three measures, so proposed in order to meet the problems discussed above, have been referred to the Assembly Committee on Finance and Insurance for interim study, and for report to the next session of the Legislature which can receive and consider the report of that committee.

The following is a brief statement of the purport of, and reasons for proposing, the three measures, so far as not incidentally disclosed in the foregoing statement.

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 5

This is a proposed constitutional amendment, which—

First, authorizes the issuance of general obligation bonds of the State of California, in an aggregate amount not exceeding $200,000,000, to provide a fund, to be used for the purchase by the State of bonds of public agencies, local and state-wide, issued for any public improvement, building, work or undertaking, and for the expenses of preparing and issuing the bonds and administering the fund. By the terms of the bill next discussed, the use of the proceeds of the bonds for expenses is limited to the expenses incident to the first issue of the bonds, and expenses of administration prior to the availability of other funds.

Second, leaves to the Legislature the determination of all other terms and conditions of the bonds and their issuance, and the administration of the fund.

Third, ratifies the act proposed by Assembly Bill No. 183, discussed below.

Fifth, declares that the issuance under said Assembly Bill No. 183, or under any other law or charter, of bonds payable out of revenues, and for the payment of which the power of taxation cannot be exercised, shall not constitute the incurring of indebtedness within the meaning of any provision of the Constitution.

It should be noted that this does not in any way remove the requirement of a two-thirds vote and provision for a tax with respect to the issuance of general obligation bonds by cities and other entities named in the constitutional provision hereinabove discussed. It merely makes it clear that, in line with the prevailing view in other states, the issuance of revenue bonds, for the payment of which the power of taxation cannot be exercised, does not incur an indebtedness within the meaning of the State Constitution, thus in effect overruling the decisions of the California courts, which, as noted above, are out of step with the rule prevailing elsewhere.

In this connection it may be stated that while this committee is not advocating the repeal of the two-thirds vote requirement now found in the State Constitution, it might well do so, for that provision, notwithstanding its guise of respectability, based on its long standing, and its similarity to provisions in other Constitutions, is, the considered judgment of this committee, unjust, discriminatory, and un-American. It is unjust and discriminatory in that the people of the State, in adopting the Constitution, have saddled upon counties, cities, and the few other public entities named in Section 18 of Article XI, the burden of a two-thirds vote for carrying through any local public improvement, but, by Section 1 of Article XVI have reserved to a mere majority of the voters of the State the privilege of subjecting to taxation for state bond issues all property in the State, which might include the property in some city or county, or other one of the few entities named in Section 18 of Article XI, in which not one single voter may have voted for the state bonds. Thus the State has reserved to itself a right it denies to counties, cities and a few other public entities.

It is also unjust and discriminatory in that it singles out six specified kinds of public entities, viz., any "county, city, town, township, board of education, or school district" from possibly a hundred or a hundred and fifty kinds of public entities existing in the State, and requires a two-thirds vote in them, but leaves all the others free to issue bonds with a mere majority vote, or for that matter, without any popular vote. So far as the Constitution is concerned irrigation districts, conservation districts, reclamation districts, sanitary districts, water districts, and some hundred or more other kinds of districts are free to issue bonds without any popular vote, by mere action of their governing bodies. True, acts of the Legislature usually require a majority vote, and in some cases a two-thirds vote, but the Constitution does not. In the case of the California Toll Bridge Authority the State Legislature permitted the issuance of bonds for the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge without any vote whatsoever, state-wide or local. If a two-thirds vote is required by any inherent reason or logic, it should be required for all public entities, not a few arbitrarily selected ones.

The two-thirds requirement made applicable to a few but important, classes of public entities, is un-American in that it is repugnant to the rule of majority control which is the basis of the concept of a republican or democratic form of government, guaranteed to the states by the Federal Constitution, and adopted by the State Constitution in all other respects. This form of government contemplates that the majority shall control, but Section 18 of Article XI of the State Constitution vests a minority with the control, so far as a few specially selected classes of public bodies are concerned. To say that in such few public entities a two-thirds vote is required to issue bonds for a public improvement is, in effect, to say that each voter who is opposed to the particular public improvement shall have two votes, but that each person who is in favor of the improvement is to have but one vote. This is wholly un-American.

It should be noted that the approval of the voters of this Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 5 is necessary to put Assembly Bill No. 182, discussed below, into effect. This is true not only by the express terms of Assembly Bill No. 182 but by virtue of the fact that Section 1 of Article XVI of the Constitution forbids the incurring of state indebtedness without compliance with the terms of that section. A constitutional amendment is necessary to overcome that section.

Approval of Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 5 by the voters is not necessary to put Assembly Bill No. 183 into effect, but is necessary to overcome the California decisions hereinabove discussed, and give that bill its full usefulness.

This proposed constitutional amendment, Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 5, is a companion measure to both Assembly Bill No. 182 and Assembly Bill No. 183. If either one of the two Assembly bills should not ultimately be approved, Assembly Consitutional Amendment No. 5 should not be rejected, but should be amended so as to relate to the one of the Assembly bills which may receive approval.

Assembly Bill No. 182—State Financing Plan

This bill implements Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 5 by establishing the procedure, terms and conditions under which the state bonds authorized by that constitutional amendment are to be sold and issued, sets up a commission to administer the fund, and defines its powers and duties.

The composition of the commission has been sufficiently discussed above.

The bill authorizes the commission to determine when and in what amounts (within the total authorization of $200,000,000) the state bonds are to be issued; that payments on the principal shall begin in not more than five years, and be completed in not more than 45 years, from the issuance of the respective issues, and that the bonds may be made subject to redemption.

It is required that sales of the bonds shall be on competitive bidding, and on the basis of the lowest interest cost.

The proceeds of the state bonds are to be used only for the purchase of bonds of public agencies, local or state, except only that such proceeds may be used for expenses until other funds are available. It should be noted that the authorization is broad enough to permit the commission to purchase not only revenue bonds of public agencies, but also their general obligation bonds. As a practical matter, however, the power to purchase general obligation bonds would probably be exercised in comparatively few cases, for, generally speaking, the private market for general obligation bonds would usually be adequate. However, this power might be of the greatest importance in times of depression, when as above noted, there may be substantially no private market for public agency bonds, no matter how sound they may be intrinsically.

The bill provides that the commission may expend in each year, for the purchase of public agency bonds, only such amount as may be budgeted by the Legislature. This would reserve to the Legislature complete control of the extent of the operations of the commission.

One of the most important provisions of the bill is to the effect that, before the commission purchases the bonds of any public agency, it must have satisfied itself, through studies and reports made by or for it, or furnished by the public agency, that the project is economical and feasible, and that the revenues will be sufficient to pay the bonds, in addition to paying all other charges upon the revenues. This provision, as noted above, goes to the very heart of the reason for providing state financing. These are the studies and investigations which, in many cases, private investors cannot or will not make, but which the commission can, and would be required to, make.

The bill further provides that before such bonds are purchased by the commission, they must have been approved by a majority vote of the electors of the public agency. This is subject to two exceptions. The first is that where bonds are issued under a law or charter which does not require a vote, but accords to the voters the right of referendum, the bonds may be purchased. This, in effect, is just what the Legislature did in authorizing the California Toll Bridge Authority to issue revenue bonds for the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge. The law required no popular vote, but of course was subject to referendum. The second exception is that the commission may waive the requirement of a vote by adopting a resolution stating reasons which show that it is in the public interest that it should do so. This, of course, is akin to the power of the Legislature, and of the legislative bodies of cities and other bodies, to enact urgency legislation, to take effect immediately, thereby cutting off the usual right of referendum.

Another important provision is that the commission shall not purchase any public agency bonds unless they will yield to the State an interest return at least $\frac{1}{4}$ percent above the interest cost to the State of the money used for the purchase. This differential is designed to be the source from which all the expenses of the plan will be paid. The differential is not limited to $\frac{1}{4}$ percent, but must be such as in the judgment of the commission will make the plan self-sustaining at the earliest possible time. It is also provided that after the plan has become fully self-sustaining, and any advances have been repaid, the commission may purchase future bond issues on the basis of a less differential, but not less than it determines will keep its operations self-sustaining.

The bill further provides that the commission may resell public agency bonds purchased by it, upon due notice. Obviously, the time when such resales shall be made must be left to the discretion of the commission, for otherwise the State might suffer losses, but the intent is that such resales shall be made as soon as private investors will purchase the bonds.

The bill requires the commission, Controller and Treasurer to keep full accounts and to make annual reports to the Governor.

The bill also contains many routine provisions, appropriate for a bill authorizing state bonds.

By its terms the bill is only to become effective upon the adoption of a constitutional amendment authorizing the state bonds.

Assembly Bill No. 183—Public Agencies Revenue Bond Law

This bill is designed solely to provide an alternative method for financing public revenue-producing projects, local or state. It does not authorize the undertaking of any project whatsoever. The project must be authorized by other laws or charters. If so authorized, and only if so authorized, it may be financed under this bill through the issuance of revenue bonds, as an alternative to any other medium of financing which may be provided by law or charter.

It has been recognized by many concerned with the financing of public revenue-producing projects, whether as investment bankers or as representatives of such public agencies, that there is great need in California for an adequate and uniform revenue bond law, applicable to all public agencies which may desire to issue revenue bonds. Representatives of the League of California Cities have stressed the need for such a law. This bill proposes just such a law.

A limited number of highly successful California projects have been financed through revenue bonds.

The San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge is a notable example, but its financing was carried through under a law applicable only to the California Toll Bridge Authority.

The more recent developments of the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power have been financed solely through revenue bonds. These developments have included the Boulder Canyon Transmission Line, the acquisition of the electric system of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, and the Owens Gorge Power Plants, now in course of construction, and numerous substantial developments of a more routine character. These, however, were all carried out under provisions of the Los Angeles charter, applicable to that department alone, and not available even to other departments of the same city.

The Imperial Irrigation District, and some other major irrigation districts, have successfully financed major undertakings by means of revenue bonds. This, however, has been done under the Irrigation Districts Law, which while of somewhat more general application, is available only to irrigation districts.

Notwithstanding the highly successful use of this method of financing by these outstanding agencies, operating under laws of strictly limited application, this method of financing has been practically unavailable to cities generally, and to the great number of public agencies, local and state, which exist in California. A revenue bond law for sewage and sanitation purposes has been on the statute books for 10 years, and more recently other enactments have authorized revenue bonds for water supplies of cities, for off-street parking, and for a few purposes of limited interest. These laws, however, have remained practically unused, and it is generally understood that this has been for two reasons, first, the inadequacy of these present laws, and, second the decisions of the California courts discussed earlier in this report. For undertakings other than those of the kinds referred to, there is absolutely no revenue bond law on the statute books.

The proposed legislation would correct this unsatisfactory situation, Assembly Bill No. 183 supplying a revenue bond law available to all public agencies, local and state, and Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 5 overcoming the difficulties arising from the court decisions.

Detailed discussion of Assembly Bill No. 183 seems unnecessary. The bill is of considerable length, but most of its provisions relate to the necessarily complex and technical procedures for issuing revenue bonds.

Its provisions, other than those of a technical nature, can be summarized as follows:

No revenue bonds are to be issued without a majority vote, excepting only that where works have already been established and the public agency has the legal duty to supply its services to those within its service area, such bonds may be issued without a vote, if the proposition of issuing them is subject to referendum.

The plan would be available for groups of public agencies cooperating in undertaking a common project.

Before the public agency issues such bonds it must obtain a report from agency officers or independent experts, covering the cost of the project, the probable sources and amount of income, and the costs of maintenance and operation, including administrative and overhead expenses.

The bonds shall be payable solely from specified revenues and shall not be general obligations of the agency.

First maturities of bonds may be deferred five years. Maximum maturity not to exceed 40 years.

Bonds to be sold only on competitive sale, except when sold to the United States or the State, and except in cases of extreme emergency. It should be noted that there is no requirement that the bonds shall be sold to the State under Assembly Bill No. 182. The public agency would be free to sell its bonds on the open market, and the act would be operative even if Assembly Bill No. 182 were not passed, or did not become effective through the failure of the voters to approve Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 5.

Bonds not to yield to purchasers more than 6 percent.

Refunding bonds may be issued.

Validation proceedings may be had in superior court.

Contributions may be accepted, and public agency may cooperate with other public agencies, local, state, or federal.

This brief summarization of the provisions of the bill has been prepared from the standpoint of commenting upon those elements of the bill which affect the interests of the public, as distinguished from the interests of those who may become purchasers of the bonds. The bill contains ample provisions for the protection of the bondholders and those who may be interested in the problem from that standpoint should, of course, study the provisions of the bill itself.

Conclusion

It is the purpose of the committee in proposing these measures to facilitate the undertaking of public revenue-producing projects which are well planned to meet real needs, and which are economically and financially sound. Projects which do not come up to these standards should be rejected. The committee is confident that the plan will be ably administered by the proposed commission, and that inestimable benefits will result to the people of the State of California through the adoption of the measures, and the consummation of the plans they would authorize.

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 5

Introduced by Mr. Stanley

REFERRED TO COMMITTEE ON CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No 5—A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by adding Section 17 to Article XVI thereof, authorizing the issuance of bonds to create a fund for the purchase of bonds issued by any public agency of the State of California, including any county, city and county, city, political subdivision, municipal corporation, public corporation, public district, public board, commission, department, authority, officer, body or entity, or any other public agency, state-wide or local, or by any combination of such public agencies, for any public improvement, work or undertaking.

Resolved by the Assembly, the Senate concurring, That the Legislature of the State of California, at its 1951 Regular Session, commencing on the eighth day of January, 1951, two-thirds of the members elected to each of the houses of the Legislature voting therefor, hereby proposes to the people of the State of California that the Constitution of the State be amended by adding Section 17 to Article XVI thereof, to read:

SEC. 17. The issuance and sale of bonds of the State of California in the sum of two hundred million dollars ($200,000,000) is hereby authorized.

The proceeds of such bonds shall be used:

(a) To provide a fund to purchase bonds issued by any public agency of the State of California, including any county, city and county, city, political subdivision, municipal corporation, public corporation, public district, public board, commission, department, authority, officer, body or entity, or any other public agency, state-wide or local, or by any combination of such public agencies, for any public improvement, building, work or undertaking.

(b) To pay expenses incurred in, or as incidental to, the preparation, sale and issuance of the bonds authorized hereby and the administration of the said fund.

All matters pertaining to the terms and conditions of the bonds authorized hereby, and to their preparation, execution, sale and issuance, or in any manner relating to said bonds, and all matters pertaining to the administration of the fund created by the sale thereof, shall be as from time to time provided by the Legislature.

The Public Agencies Improvement Bond Act of 1951 (Chapter ____, Statutes of 1951) is hereby ratified, validated, confirmed, and made fully and completely effective. No further act of the Legislature shall be necessary in furtherance of the provisions hereof, but this shall not prevent such legislative action.

The Public Agencies Revenue Bond Law (Chapter ____, Statutes of 1951) is also hereby ratified, validated, confirmed, and made fully and completely effective, and it is hereby declared that the issuance under said act, or under any other law or charter, of bonds payable out of revenues, and for the payment of which the power of taxation cannot be exercised, shall not constitute the incurring of indebtedness within the meaning of any provision of this Constitution, and nothing in this Constitution shall be a limitation upon the provisions of this section.

The ratification, validation, confirmation and making effective of said acts shall not preclude the subsequent amendment of said acts, or either of them, by the Legislature; provided, that no such amendment of either of said acts shall impair or adversely affect the rights or interests of the holders of any bonds theretofore issued under said act.

The people of the State of California in adopting this section hereby declare that the great growth in population of the State has made it necessary to provide for the welfare of the people through facilitating the establishment of public improvements, buildings, works or understandings as rapidly as possible, and at the lowest cost consistent with sound planning, and it is therefore in the interest of the State and of the people thereof for the State to finance public improvements, buildings, works or undertakings of state and local public agencies issued therefor.

Article 3. Creation of Commission and Fund

SEC. 4. There is hereby created a State Public Agencies Improvement Finance Commission composed of the Governor, State Controller, Attorney General, Superintendent of Banks, Director of Finance, State Treasurer, and Director of Public Works, all of whom shall serve thereon without compensation and a majority of whom shall be empowered to act for said commission. Two Members of the Senate appointed by the Senate Committee on Rules and two Members of the Assembly appointed by the Speaker, shall meet and advise with the commission to the extent that such advisory participation is not incompatible with their respective positions as Members of the Legislature. The Director of Finance shall provide such assistance to the State Public Agencies Improvement Finance Commission as it may require. SEC. 5. There is hereby created in the State Treasury a fund to be known as the Public Agencies Loan Fund.

Article 4. Appropriation for Expenses

Upon the deposit of such amounts to the credit of such appropriations, respectively, such appropriations shall revert to the unappropriated surplus in the General Fund. Upon the reversion of the General Fund appropriations made by this section, respectively, as herein provided, all expenses subsequently incurred by the State Treasurer in preparing, advertising for sale, or advertising the redemption prior to maturity of any bonds authorized by this act, and all expenses subsequently incurred by the commission in the administration of the fund, shall be payable out of the fund.

Article 5. Amounts, Maturities and Other Terms of Bonds

SEC. 7. The commission shall determine the necessity or desirability of issuing any bonds authorized under this act in order to purchase bonds issued by any public agency or agencies to finance public improvements, and the amount of bonds then to be issued and sold. Successive issues of bonds may be authorized and sold to make such purchases progressively and shall be designated by an appropriate number or other designation. It shall not be necessary that all of the bonds herein authorized to be issued shall be sold at any one time.

SEC. 8. Whenever the commission shall have determined that the sale of all or any part of the bonds authorized to be issued under this act is necessary or desirable to purchase bonds issued by any public agency or agencies to finance public improvements, it shall adopt a resolution to that effect. The said resolution shall authorize and direct the State Treasurer to provide for the preparation of the requisite number of suitable bonds then authorized to be sold and shall specify as to such bonds then to be sold:

1. The aggregate number, aggregate par value, denominations and the date of the bonds to be then sold. Such denominations shall be in the sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000), or multiples thereof.

2. The dates of maturity, and the amount and numerical sequence of the bonds maturing at each date of maturity, which amounts need not be equal, but which dates shall be at annual or semiannual intervals, and the first of which dates of maturity shall be not more than five years, and the last of which dates of maturity shall be not more than 45 years, after the date of said bonds.

3. Whether or not said bonds are to be subject to redemption at the option of the commission prior to maturity, and, if so, the provisions for such redemption, the manner of the call thereof, and the price or prices at which said bonds shall be subject to redemption.

4. The maximum annual rate, or rates, of interest which the bonds to be issued shall bear, which shall be in multiples of one-fourth of 1 percent, and which rate, or rates, shall not exceed 5 percent per annum, payable semiannually.

5. The number, numerical sequence and due dates of the interest coupons to be attached to said bonds.

6. The technical form and language of said bonds and of the interest coupons to be attached thereto.

7. Whether or not the right is reserved to make delivery in the form of temporary or interim bonds, certificates or receipts, exchangeable for definitive bonds when executed and available for delivery, and if such right is reserved the denominations and form of such temporary securities.

8. Whether or not the bonds are to be subject to registration, and if so, whether such registration is to be as to principal only, or as to both principal and interest, or in either of said forms at the option of the holder, and the form and all of the terms and conditions of such registration. If such registration is provided for, all of the provisions of this act with reference to the payment of bonds and interest coupons shall be subject to the terms and conditions of such registration with respect to the payment of registered bonds and the interest thereon.

9. All other terms and conditions of the bonds and of the execution, issuance and sale thereof, which shall be consistent with all of the provisions of this act.

10. The date and hour fixed for the sale of the bonds, but such date may be changed by the Governor, in his discretion, by his directions given to the State Treasurer under Section 20 of this act.

SEC. 9. In determining the dates of maturity of the said state bonds, and the amount thereof to mature at each date of maturity, the commission shall be guided, so far as it may deem to be practicable, by the estimated amounts and dates of maturity of, and interest payments on, the bonds of public agencies expected to be purchased, and the expected amount and time of the receipt of the proceeds of the resale thereof, and shall fix and determine said dates and amounts of such maturities of such state bonds in such manner that, together with the dates and amounts of interest payments on the bonds of said issue, they shall coincide, as nearly as it may deem to be practicable, with the dates and amounts of such estimated receipts.

SEC. 10. The rate of interest to be borne by the said state bonds need not be uniform for all bonds of the same issue, and the interest coupons first payable may be so payable at any time within one year after the date of such bonds.

SEC 11. Both principal of and interest on the state bonds hereby authorized shall be payable in lawful money of the United States, at the Office of the State Treasurer, or at the office of the state fiscal agent, in the City of New York, State of New York, or at the office of any duly authorized agent of the State Treasurer.

SEC 12. Each bond issued under this act shall contain a reference to this act, and to the resolution or resolutions of the commission under which said bond is issued, and, if subject to call or redemption prior to maturity, shall contain a recital to that effect.

Article 6. Preparation and Execution of Bonds

SEC. 13 Immediately after the adoption by the commission of any resolution provided for in Section 8 of this act, the State Treasurer shall arrange for the preparation of the requisite number of suitable bonds, in accordance with the specifications contained in said resolution, and in so doing shall arrange for the imprinting thereon of the interest rates and other appropriate matter after the sale of the bonds and the awarding thereof to the successful bidder.

SEC. 14. All bonds issued under this act shall bear the facsimile signature of the Governor and the facsimile countersignature of the Controller and shall be endorsed by the State Treasurer either by original signature or by a signature stamp, and each of said bonds shall bear an impress of the Great Seal of the State of California. Interest coupons attached to each bond shall bear the facsimile signature of the State Treasurer. Each such signature shall be that of the person who shall be in office at the date of the affixing thereof, in the case of original or stamped signatures, or at the date of authorizing the affixing thereof, in the case of facsimile signatures. Bonds and coupons so executed shall be valid and binding notwithstanding any of such persons having ceased to hold his respective office before their issuance and delivery.

SEC. 15. Whenever the commission may determine by resolution that for any reason any bonds which have been prepared and executed under the foregoing provisions should not be sold or issued, the State Treasurer shall cancel the same by perforation with a suitable device in a manner to indicate such cancellation and the date thereof. Upon the commission so determining by resolution, new bonds, conforming to its directions, may be prepared and executed in lieu of any bonds so canceled, and may be sold and issued in the same manner as other bonds authorized by this act.

SEC 16 If the right so to do has been reserved in the resolution adopted under Section 8 of this act, temporary or interim bonds, certificates or receipts may be issued and delivered in lieu of definitive bonds, and shall be exchangeable for such definitive bonds when they are executed and available for delivery. Such temporary securities shall conform to such resolution, and the signature of the State Treasurer alone, which may be by signature stamp, shall be sufficient execution thereof.

Article 7. Pledge of Full Faith and Credit, and Authorization of Taxation

SEC. 17. All bonds herein authorized, which shall have been duly sold and delivered as herein provided, shall constitute valid and legally binding general obligations of the State of California, and the full faith and credit of the State of California is hereby pledged for the punctual payment of both the principal thereof and the interest thereon.

SEC. 18. There is hereby appropriated from the General Fund in the State Treasury such sum annually as will be necessary to pay the principal of and the interest on the bonds issued and sold pursuant to the provisions of this act, as said principal and interest become due and payable.

SEC. 19. There shall be collected annually in the same manner and at the same time as other state revenue is collected such a sum, in addition to the ordinary revenues of the State, as together with such sums as may be made available from the fund created by this act, shall be required to pay the principal of and interest on said bonds as herein provided, and it is hereby made the duty of all officers charged by law with any duty in regard to the collection of said revenue, to do and perform each and every act which shall be necessary to collect such additional sum.

Article 8. Sale of Bonds

SEC. 20. Following the adoption by the commission of any resolution provided for in Section 8 of this act, the Governor shall direct the State Treasurer, in writing, under the seal of the State, to offer the bonds specified in said resolution for sale at a specified day and hour.

SEC. 21. Due notice of the time and place of sale of the said bonds shall be given by the State Treasurer by publication in one newspaper published in the City and County of San Francisco, by publication in one newspaper published in the City of Sacramento, and by publication in one newspaper published in the City of Los Angeles, once a week during two weeks prior to such sale. In addition to the notice last above provided for, the State Treasurer may give such further notice as he may deem advisable, but the expense and cost of such additional notice shall not exceed the sum of five hundred dollars ($500) for each sale so advertised.

SEC. 22. The State Treasurer may from time to time, by public announcement at the place and time fixed for the sale, continue such sale to such time and place as he may select.

SEC. 23. Each bid shall be in writing and signed by the bidder and sealed, and shall be accompanied by the deposit of a certified check or cashier's check for one percent (1%) of the par value of the bonds so offered for sale, drawn on a bank or trust company authorized to transact and transacting business in the State of California, payable to the Treasurer of the State of California Such deposit shall not bear interest.

SEC. 24. The said bonds specified in said resolution and in said direction of the Governor shall be sold by the State Treasurer at the time so directed by the Governor, or at the time to which the sale shall have been so continued, at public sale, upon sealed bids, to the bidder whose bid will result in the lowest net interest cost on account of such bonds, but the State Treasurer must reject any and all bids for said bonds which shall be below the par value thereof plus the interest which shall have accrued thereon from the date thereof (or, if any past due coupon or coupons have been detached from said bonds prior to the delivery thereof, then from the due date of the latest coupon so detached) to the date of the purchaser's payment for said bonds. The net interest cost under each bid shall be determined by ascertaining the total amount of interest which the State would be required to pay under that bid, from the date of sale to the respective maturity dates of the bonds then offered for sale, at the coupon rate or rates specified in such bid, less the total amount of the premium (if any) offered by such bid. The bid under which the amount so ascertained is the least shall be deemed to be the bid resulting in the lowest net interest cost.

Such sale shall be for cash, payable upon the delivery of the bonds in definitive form, or if the right to deliver temporary securities has been reserved, then upon the delivery of such temporary securities.

SEC. 25. The deposit of each unsuccessful bidder shall be returned to him immediately upon the rejection of his bid or the acceptance of another bid.

The deposit of the successful bidder shall, immediately upon the acceptance of his bid, become and be the property of the State of California and be placed in the State Treasury to the credit of the fund, and shall be credited to the successful purchaser upon the purchase price of the bonds bid for in case such purchase price is paid in full by him within the time mutually agreed upon between the successful bidder and the State Treasurer. If the purchase price is not so paid, the successful bidder shall have no right in and to said bonds or by reason of said bid, nor, unless it shall appear that the bonds would not be validly issued if delivered to the purchaser in the form and manner proposed, shall such successful bidder have any right to the recovery of said deposit accompanying said bid or to any allowance or credit by reason of such deposit.

SEC. 26. Upon payment in full for said bonds, the same shall be delivered to the purchaser in definitive form, unless the right to deliver temporary securities has been reserved or the purchaser has waived the right to receive definitive bonds at the time of payment, in either of which events such temporary securities, exchangeable for definitive bonds, may be delivered upon such payment. In case the purchase price is not so paid, the bonds so sold but not paid for shall be resold by the State Treasurer, upon notice, as provided in case of original sale.

SEC. 27. The proceeds of each sale of bonds authorized by this act, and such amount as may have been paid as accrued interest on such bonds, shall be forthwith paid over by the State Treasurer into the fund. All money deposited in the fund under the provisions of this section which is derived from premium and accrued interest on bonds sold shall be reserved in said fund and shall be available for transfer to the General Fund as provided by Section 38 of this act.

SEC. 28. Whenever the commission deems that it will increase the salability or the price of the bonds to obtain, prior to or after sale, the legal opinion, other than that of the Attorney General, as to the validity of the bonds, the commission may authorize the State Treasurer or the Department of Finance, or both, to obtain such a legal opinion. Payment for such legal services shall be made from the fund, upon approval of the State Board of Control and on Controller's warrant duly drawn for that purpose.

SEC. 29. The commission shall have full charge and control of the administration of the fund. The proceeds of the sale of all bonds authorized by this act, other than such sums as may be received as premiums or as accrued interest, shall be used exclusively for the purchase of bonds issued by public agencies for public improvements, excepting only that, to such extent as other moneys are not available therefor, such proceeds may be used for the purposes specified in paragraph (b) of Section 3 of this act. The commission may also use for the purchase of such bonds issued by public agencies any money in the fund, whether derived from the resale of bonds of public agencies or otherwise, not required by the terms of this act to be applied to some other purpose. No portion of such proceeds or of the fund shall be used for the purchase of general obligation bonds of the State.

SEC. 30. The commission shall not disburse in any fiscal year for the purchase of bonds issued by public agencies any amount in excess of an amount determined by the Legislature and by it budgeted for such use.

SEC. 31. Before any bonds of a public agency, other than general obligation bonds, are purchased by the commission:

(a) The public agency shall have approved the public improvement for which its bonds are issued.

(b) The commission shall have satisfied itself, either through a thorough study and investigation made by or for it, or through studies and reports, satisfactory to the commission, furnished by the public agency, that the public improvement for which the bonds are issued is economical and feasible and that the receipts of the public agency charged with the payment of such bonds will be sufficient to pay all sums accruing as principal or interest on said bonds until they have been fully paid, in addition to paying all other charges against said receipts. If it so determines, it shall approve the public improvement.

(c) The issuance of such bonds of such public agency shall have been authorized or approved by a majority of the electors thereof voting on the proposition at an election at which the same shall have been duly submitted; provided, however, that the commission may waive the requirement of this paragraph (c) in any case where the law or charter under which the bonds of the public agency are issued does not require such vote, but accords to the electors thereof the right of referendum on the question of the issuance of such bonds, or in any case where the commission shall determine by resolution that, for reasons stated in such resolution, it is in the public interest to do so.

Before any bonds of a public agency are purchased by the commission it may require the public agency to furnish a legal opinion as to the validity of the bonds, rendered by bond counsel approved by the commission.

SEC. 32. The commission shall not purchase any bonds issued by any public agency unless it shall be satisfied that such bonds will yield to the State an average rate of return of not less than one-fourth of 1 percent ($\frac{1}{4}\%$) above the net interest cost to the State of the money used for such purchase. It is the intent of this provision that the differential between the yield received by the State on bonds of public agencies purchased and the net interest cost of the money used for such purchase shall be the primary source from which the expenses of administering the fund shall be paid, and the prices to be paid for bonds of public agencies shall be such as in the judgment of the commission will result in its operations becoming self-sustaining at the earliest practicable time. At any time after the operations of the commission have become fully self-sustaining, and after all amounts advanced from the General Fund for payments of principal or interest on state bonds issued under this act, not met by moneys in the fund, have been repaid, the commission may purchase bonds of any public agency on a basis estimated to yield less than one-fourth of 1 percent (¼%) in excess of the net interest cost of the money used, but not less than it shall estimate to be sufficient to keep the operation of the commission self-sustaining.

SEC. 33. The commission may purchase any such bonds of a public agency either by direct negotiation or by becoming a bidder when any such bonds are offered for public sale. In any case where the commission may purchase any such bonds of a public agency which are issued to provide only a part of the cost of a public improvement and it is contemplated that one or more additional issues of such bonds will thereafter be issued to provide the cost of completing such public improvement, the commission may enter into a commitment to purchase such future issues, subject to such limitations of price and interest rates and such other terms and conditions as the commission may deem proper.

SEC. 34. Whenever any combination of public agencies shall be authorized to undertake any public improvement jointly or in cooperation, bonds issued by any such public agencies jointly or by any board or commission established to administer or control such undertaking, to finance the same, shall be deemed to be bonds of a public agency within the meaning of this act, and, to the extent necessary to give effect to this section, the words "public agency" and "public agencies," wherever used in this act, shall be deemed to include such combination of public agencies or such board or commission; provided, however, that the approval required by paragraph (a) of Section 31 of this act shall be the approval of each public agency so joining or cooperating, and the approval by vote of the electors required by paragraph (c) of said section, unless waived as herein provided, shall be the approving vote of a majority of the electors of each public agency so joining or cooperating voting on the proposition.

SEC. 35. Whenever the commission shall deem it to be in the interests of the State so to do, it may offer any or all bonds of public agencies held by it for public sale at such times and places and after such notice as it may determine to be proper. Sales need not be made after such offer, but the commission may withdraw such bonds from sale, and may again offer them for sale from time to time as it may determine to be proper to effectuate the purposes of this act, and as the commission may determine to be required by sound financial administration.

SEC. 36. The proceeds of the sale of bonds pursuant to Section 35 of this act shall be deposited in the fund.

SEC. 37. All interest paid to the State by any public agency upon bonds purchased by the commission pursuant to this act shall be deposited in the fund.

SEC. 38. On the several dates when payments of principal or interest become due on bonds issued under this act there shall be transferred into the General Fund in the State Treasury from the fund, so far as available therein, amounts equal to all sums so becoming due for principal or interest on said bonds. Money in the fund derived from the differential provided for in Section 32 of this act, or derived from the proceeds of the sale of bonds authorized by this act (other than sums received as premiums or accrued interest) shall not be deemed to be available for such transfer; provided, however, that if the commission shall deem the amount in the fund derived from such differential to be inadequate to meet the current expenses of administering the fund, it may direct that such additional amount as it may specify shall be withheld from such transfers; and provided further, that if the commission shall deem the amount in the fund derived from such differential to be more than sufficient to meet such current expenses, it may direct that such amount thereof as it may specify shall be included in any such transfer to the General Fund.

SEC. 39. If the amounts transferred to the General Fund pursuant to Section 38 of this act are insufficient to reimburse the General Fund in full for all amounts of principal and interest paid on said bonds, the balance remaining unpaid shall be transferred from the fund to said General Fund as soon thereafter as such transfer can be made consistently with the provisions of Section 38 of this act as to the availability of moneys in the fund

SEC. 40. All actual and necessary expenses of the commission and of the members thereof incurred in the performance of their duties arising out of the provisions of this act shall be paid out of the fund. Such expenses incurred by members of the commission shall be so paid upon claims filed with the State Controller by the member or members of said commission who incurred such expenses.

SEC. 41. The Department of Finance is authorized, to invest any surplus money in the fund in bonds or other obligations of the United States, or of the State of California, or of any public agency, and to sell such bonds, or obligations, or any of them, at the governing market rates. Interest earned or other increment derived from investments made pursuant to this section shall, on order of the State Controller, be deposited in the fund, and shall be available only for transfer to the General Fund, as provided in Section 38 of this act.

SEC. 42. The Controller, the State Treasurer and the commission shall keep full and particular account and record of all their proceedings under this act and they shall transmit to the Governor an abstract of all such proceedings thereunder, with an annual report, to be transmitted by the Governor to the Legislature annually; and all books and papers pertaining to the matters provided for in this act shall at all times be open to the inspection of any party interested, or the Governor, or the Attorney General, or a committee of either branch of the Legislature, or a joint committee of both, or any citizen of the State.

Article 10. Payment and Cancellation of Bonds

SEC. 43. The State Treasurer, directly or through the state fiscal agent, at New York, New York, or through a duly authorized agent, shall, on the respective dates of maturity of all bonds issued under this act, or on the date fixed for the prior redemption of any thereof which may be duly called for redemption, and on the respective due dates of all coupons pertaining to any of said bonds (other than coupons canceled because of the redemption of any of said bonds prior to maturity) or as soon thereafter as said bonds or coupons respectively are surrendered to him, or to such state fiscal agent, or other duly authorized agent, pay the same.

SEC. 44. Upon the payment of any such bond or coupon, the State Treasurer, or such state fiscal agent, or other duly authorized agent, shall perforate the same with a suitable device in a manner to indicate such payment and the date thereof. The State Treasurer, or such state fiscal agent, or other duly authorized agent, shall also on the respective dates of maturity of any such bonds which have been executed but which remain unsold, cancel the same by perforation with a suitable device in a manner to indicate such cancellation and the date thereof, and on the respective due dates of all coupons attached to any such bond remaining unsold, shall detach all such coupons the due date of which has been reached, and cancel them in the same manner as provided for the cancellation of bonds remaining unsold.

SEC. 45. Not less than four (4) years after the final maturity date of any particular issue of bonds, the State Treasurer, or such state fiscal agent, or other duly authorized agent, may destroy or cremate any or all bonds of such issue and any or all coupons pertaining thereto which have been previously paid or canceled as provided herein.

SEC. 46. Whenever any payment of principal of any bonds issued under this act shall become due, either upon the maturity of any of said bonds or upon the redemption of any thereof prior to maturity, and whenever any interest on any of said bonds shall fall due, warrants shall be drawn against the appropriation made by Section 18 of this act from the General Fund by the Controller of the State in favor of the State Treasurer, or the state fiscal agent, or other duly authorized agent, pursuant to claims filed with the State Controller by the State Treasurer, in the amounts so falling due, and the amounts so paid for such principal and interest shall be charged against the proceeds of said warrants.

Article 11. Redemption of Bonds

SEC. 47. Whenever the commission shall determine that any bonds issued under this act and then outstanding, and which by their terms are subject to redemption prior to maturity, should be redeemed, and that money sufficient for such redemption will be available in the fund at the time proposed for such redemption, it may by resolution direct the State Treasurer to call and redeem any such bonds, at a time specified in such resolution, and the State Treasurer shall thereupon give notice of such proposed redemption and redeem said bonds in accordance with the provisions for redemption provided for in the resolution of the commission adopted under Section 8 of this act pursuant to which the bonds so to be called were issued.

Article 12. Other Laws Applicable

SEC. 48. So far as consistent with the provisions of this act, all of the provisions of Part 3, entitled "State Bonds," of Division 4, Title 2, of the Government Code, and of such other acts of the Legislature as relate to state bonds generally, and to the powers and duties of state officers related thereto, but not such acts as relate to specific issues of state bonds, or to state bonds of specified classes, shall be applicable to the bonds authorized by this act and to the powers and duties of state officers related thereto.

Article 13. Taking Effect of This Act

SEC. 49. This act shall take effect only if an amendment to the Constitution of the State of California authorizing the issuance of bonds of the State of California in the sum of one billion dollars ($1,000,000,000) for the purposes specified in Section 3 of this act, and ratifying, validating, confirming and making fully and completely effective this act, shall be adopted by the voters and become effective, and in such case this act shall take effect at the same time such amendment takes effect

AMENDED IN ASSEMBLY MARCH 26, 1951

ASSEMBLY BILL No. 183

REFERRED TO COMMITTEE ON MUNICIPAL AND COUNTY GOVERNMENT

An act to add Chapter 5.5 to Part 1 of Division 2 of Title 5 of the Government Code, relating to the powers and duties of public agencies of the State, including any county, city and county, city, political subdivision, municipal corporation, public corporation, public district, public board, commission, department, authority, officer, body or entity, or any other public agency, state-wide or local, and the powers and duties of the legislative and governing bodies thereof, and authorizing the issuance and sale by such public agencies, or by any combination of such public agencies, of revenue bonds to finance any public improvement, building, work or undertaking, or expenditures incidental thereto.

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

1 SECTION 1. Chapter 5.5 is added to Part 1 of Division 2
2 of Title 5 of the Government Code, to read:
4 CHAPTER 5.5. PUBLIC AGENCIES REVENUE BOND LAW
6 Article 1. General
8 54150. This chapter may be cited as the Public Agencies
9 Revenue Bond Law.
10 54151. This chapter shall be liberally construed to carry 11 out its objects and purposes and to facilitate the financing of 12 public improvements as herein defined through the medium of 13 revenue bonds, and to protect the holders of such bonds.

54152. As used in this chapter, "public agency" means any county, city and county, city, political subdivision, municipal corporation, public corporation, public district, public board, commission, department, authority, officer, body or entity, or any other public agency, state-wide or local.

54153. As used in this chapter, "public improvement" means any revenue producing public improvement, building, work or undertaking, whether by original acquisition or construction, or by the acquisition or construction of any extension or betterment of, or addition to, any existing public improvement, building, work or undertaking, and shall include maintenance, repair and operation of any such public improvement, building, work or undertaking.

54154. As used in this chapter, except as otherwise indicated in Section 54158, "legislative body" means the board of supervisors in the case of a county or city and county, the city council, board of trustees or other legislative body in the case of a city, and the board of directors or other governing body in the case of a district or other public agency which has such a board of directors or other governing body. In the case of a public agency which is itself a board, "legislative body" means such board. In the case of any other public agency, "legislative body" shall mean the board or officer having control of the expenditure of the funds of such public agency.

54156. As used in this chapter, "revenue" means all fees, rates, charges, rentals, or other income and revenue actually received or receivable by or for the account of the public agency from the operation of any revenue producing public works, including without limiting the generality of the foregoing, interest allowed on any money or securities in which any revenues or other moneys applicable to the payment of such bonds may have been invested, any proceeds derived from the sale of any such securities, and any consideration in any way derived from any such revenue producing public works owned, controlled, operated or maintained by the public agency.

54157. When any public agency is now or hereafter authorized by law or charter to undertake any public improvement, either by itself or in conjunction with any other public agency, such improvement may be undertaken through the issuance of revenue bonds, pursuant to this chapter.

54158. (a) No revenue bonds shall be issued by any public agency under this act unless and until there shall have been submitted to the electors of such public agency at a general or special election the proposition of issuing such revenue bonds, and such proposition shall have received the approving vote of a majority of such electors voting upon the proposition.

(b) If the legislative body (as defined in this chapter) of such public agency is not invested with the power to call and conduct elections in such public agency, the appropriate legislative body (as commonly understood and not as so defined) invested with power to call elections within the area within which the public agency, or a portion thereof, lies, shall have power to, and upon the request of the legislative body (as so defined), shall, call, conduct and declare the result of such election, in accordance, as nearly as such body calling such election shall deem to be practicable, with the laws relating to the holding of elections within the area over which it has jurisdiction.

If the public agency is a state agency, the appropriate legislative body, within the meaning of this section, shall be the State Legislature.

If the public agency is a local agency, the appropriate legislative body, within the meaning of this section, shall be as follows: (i) If the public agency lies within more than one county or city and county; the board of supervisors of the county or city and county of greatest population within which any part of the public agency lies; (ii) if the public agency is coterminous with any county or city and county; the board of supervisors of such county or city and county; (iii) if the public agency lies within a county but embraces less than the whole area thereof and consists in major part of territory not within any city; the board of supervisors of such county; (iv) if the public agency lies within a city and county but embraces less than the whole area thereof; the board of supervisors of such city and county; (v) if the public agency lies within a county but embraces less than the whole area thereof and consists in major part of territory within one or more cities, the legislative body (as commonly understood) of such city, if but one, or, if more than one, of the one of such cities having the greatest population.

For the purposes of this section population shall be determined by the latest Federal Census.

In the case of any public agency which has no defined area it shall be deemed for the purposes of this section to have an area coterminous with the State, if it is a state agency; with the county or city and county with respect to which it functions, if it is a county or city and county agency, or activated by action of the legislative body (as commonly understood) of a county or city and county; or with the city with respect to which it functions, if it is a city agency or activated by the legislative body (as so understood) of a city.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section in the case of any public agency which has already established any public works for supplying any public service to the inhabitants of any area and thereby assumed the obligation to supply such service within such area, such public agency may issue under this act bonds for any extension or betterment of, or addition to, such existing works, without such vote, if the proceedings for issuing such bonds are so taken that the propsition of issuing such bonds is made subject to the right of the voters to invoke a referendum upon such proposition.

(d) If there is no procedure established by law or charter for invoking the right of referendum with respect to the action of the legislative body (as defined in this chapter) taken pursuant to subdivision (c) of this section, authorizing, subject to referendum, the issuance of revenue bonds, the provisions of law or charter relating to the exercising of the right of referendum with respect to the legislative acts of the appropriate legislative body, as specified in subdivision (b) of this section, shall apply to such action authorizing such bonds, as nearly as may be, but all of such provisions which relate to the qualifications of signers of a referendary petition, the number of signatures required, and the right to vote at the election held pursuant thereto, shall be determined on the basis of the qualified electors residing within the area of the public agency proposing to issue the bonds.

Article 2. Authority to Issue Revenue Bonds and Powers Incidental Thereto

54160 Subject to the provisions of this chapter, any public agency may borrow money to provide funds to pay the cost, or in the case of a joint undertaking, its share of the cost, of any such public improvements as in the opinion of the legislative body may be reasonably necessary for the welfare of the inhabitants of the area to be served thereby and may issue revenue bonds to evidence the indebtedness created by such borrowing. Such bonds may be issued in an amount estimated to be sufficient to pay, and for the purpose of paying, the cost of such public improvement, or such share of such cost, including the cost of preliminary reports, studies, preparations, plans and specifications, legal and engineering costs; the cost of the acquisition of any necessary rights of way, easements, lands and other property of every kind and descripition and appurtenance; interest on the bonds during, and for not to exceed two years after, the period of the construction of a public improvement, or in the case of bonds issued for the acquisition of a public improvement, until, and for not to exceed two years after, the completion of such acquisition; expenses of administration pertaining to the project prior to, during, and for not to exceed one year after, the period of such construction, or prior to, and for not to exceed one year after, the completion of such acquisition; and all other costs of the authorization, preparation, sale and issuance of the bonds, or the carrying out of the undertaking, or incidental to any of such matters; and such cost may include such items which have already been paid out of other funds, to be reimbursed out of the proceeds of such bonds.

54161. Whenever any combination of public agencies shall be authorized to undertake any public improvement jointly or in cooperation, such public agencies jointly, or any board or commission established to administer or control such undertaking, may issue, subject and pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, revenue bonds to finance the same. Such bonds shall be deemed to be bonds of a public agency within the meaning of this chapter, and, to the extent necessary to give effect to this section, the words "public agency" and "public agencies" wherever used in this chapter, shall be deemed to include such combination of public agencies or such board or commission; provided, however, that such public improvement must be approved by each public agency so joining or cooperating, and that the approval by vote of the electors when required by Section 54158 shall be the approving vote of a majority of the electors of each public agency so joining or cooperating, voting on the proposition, or in cases coming within the proviso of said section, the provisions as to referendum shall be such as to accord the right of referendum to the electors of each such public agency separately.

54162. Such revenue bonds may be issued for any public improvement or groups of public improvements. Each individual improvement or group of improvements, work or undertaking for which any issue of revenue bonds is proposed to be issued shall be designated as a "project" and is so referred to in this chapter.

54163. If in the opinion of the legislative body, it is advisable that any project be undertaken and financed through the issuance of revenue bonds pursuant to this chapter, it shall cause a report thereon to be made by any appropriate public agency officer or officers, or by independent experts employed for the purpose, which shall include:

(a) An estimate of the probable cost of the project, including all incidental expenses, engineering, legal and administrative;

(b) An estimate of probable sources of income and the amount thereof;

(c) An estimate of the cost of maintenance and for the operation upon completion, including the cost of all repairs, administrative and overhead charges.

The expense of the preparation of the report shall be a public charge and the legislative body shall make provision for the payment thereof out of any funds of the public agency available therefor.

54164. If the report is approved by the legislative body, it may adopt an ordinance or resolution declaring that the public interest and necessity demand the undertaking of the project, the purpose, nature and extent of which shall be described in general terms, and authorizing such project. The adoption of such ordinance or resolution shall be conclusive evidence of the making and sufficiency of such report. Subject to the provisions of Section 54158, the legislative body may thereupon authorize the issuance of revenue bonds for the purpose of obtaining funds required for the project, in an amount determined in accordance with the provisions of Section 54160.

54165. The proceeds of the sale of any revenue bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be used only for the purposes for which such bonds are issued, except that any premium received on the sale thereof and any sums received as interest accrued to the date of the delivery thereof may be used for the payment of principal of and interest on such bonds.

54166. Wherever by the terms of this chapter the legislative body is empowered to authorize, or the public agency to enter into, any covenant or agreement to do or perform any act or thing, such legislative body and such public agency, respectively, shall have the power so to do and perform such act or thing.

54167. This chapter provides a procedure alternative to any procedure otherwise provided by law or charter for financing any project, and shall not operate to limit or control the power of the public agency to finance any project in any other manner authorized by law or charter.

Article 3. Issuance, Terms and Conditions of Revenue Bonds

54175. The public agency shall have power to issue revenue bonds in its name.

54176. The bonds of each issue shall constitute special obligations, and evidence a special indebtedness of the public agency, which shall be a charge upon, and payable, as to the principal thereof, interest thereon, and any premiums upon the redemption of any thereof, solely from, such revenues and funds as are specified therein and in the proceedings for their issuance. They shall not constitute general obligations of the public agency, and they shall neither constitute obligations, nor evidence any indebtedness, of any other public agency of which the public agency issuing the bonds may be a part, or of the State. All such bonds shall recite upon their face the substance of the preceding portions of this section, and shall also recite upon their face that they are issued under this chapter, which for that purpose may be designated by the short title provided for in Section 54150 of this chapter.

54177. In specifying the revenues and funds upon which such bonds are to be a charge and from which they are to be payable, there may be included:

(a) Revenue, as defined in Section 54156, whether to be derived from the project, or from public works previously existing, or from any future extension or betterment of, or addition to, any such public works;

(b) Contributions in aid of the project; and

(c) Funds from any source which the public agency may lawfully apply to the purpose, other than the proceeds of taxation.

54178. Nothing in this chapter, nor in the specification in the proceedings for the issuance of any bonds of the sources of payment thereof, shall preclude

(a) The payment of interest on or principal of any such bonds out of sums received as premiums or accrued interest on the sale thereof;

(b) The payment of principal of or interest on, or premiums on the redemption of, any such bonds out of the proceeds of the sale of refunding bonds issued for that purpose;

(c) The payment of any interest on any such bonds accruing during, and for not to exceed two years after, the period of the construction of a public improvement on account of which they were issued, or for any other reasonably limited period, out of the proceeds of the sale of such bonds;

(d) The payment of any principal of, interest on, or premiums on the redemption of, any such bonds by the purchasers thereof, or by any entity other than the public agency issuing the same, in any case where such purchasers or entity may have guaranteed such payment; or

(e) The application to the payment of any principal of, interest on, or premiums on the redemption of, any such bonds of any funds which the public agency may lawfully so apply.

54179. The legislative body shall have power to determine, by ordinance or resolution, or by indenture, contract or other agreement made with, or for the benefit of, the bondholders, with reference to each issue of bonds to be issued under this chapter, all the terms and conditions of such bonds, and of the sale and issuance thereof, and any and all matters necessary or appropriate to be determined in connection therewith, excepting only as such power is limited by, or under the authority of, express provisions of this chapter. Without excluding the exercising of any other powers under, or in any way limiting the generality of, the preceding general grant of power, or in any way excluding or limiting the exercising of any or all other powers granted by this chapter, the general power granted by this section shall include, and each such public agency shall have and in its discretion may exercise, the specific powers provided by this chapter.

54180. The legislative body may provide for the aggregate principal amount, date or dates, maturities, maximum interest rate, interest payment dates, denominations, and form of such bonds, and may provide for the issuance thereof as serial bonds or sinking fund bonds, as payable to bearer or to named payees, or as registered bonds, and for the issuance thereof with or without coupons, and for the subsequent registration of bonds, and for the transfer and interchange of such bonds, and for all other terms and conditions upon which the same shall be executed, issued, secured, sold, paid, redeemed, or refunded. The legislative body may provide that any ordinance or ordinances, resolution or resolutions, adopted in connection with the authorization of any bonds shall constitute a contract with the holders of such bonds, not subject to repeal, and not subject to any modification other than to an extent and in a manner provided in any such ordinance or resolution. Reference on the face or the bonds to any such ordinance or resolution by the date of its adoption, or to any such indenture, contract or other agreement by the date of its execution, or the apparent date on the face thereof, is sufficient to incorporate all of the provisions thereof and of this chapter into the body of the bonds and their appurtenant coupons; provided, however, that with respect to such provisions of this chapter as invest the legislative body with discretion as to the inclusion or noninclusion in the proceedings for the issuance of the bonds of certain provisions, or as to the form thereof, such provisions of this chapter shall be deemed to be incorporated only to the extent to which the legislative body has exercised its discretion to include such provisions and in accordance with the form thereof adopted by the legislative body. Each taker and subsequent holder of the bonds or coupons, whether the coupons are attached to or detached from the bonds, has recourse to all of the provisions of any such ordinance or resolution, indenture, contract or other agreement and of this chapter, and is bound thereby, subject to the foregoing proviso with reference to the provisions of this chapter vesting the legislative body with discretion.

54181. The legislative body may provide for such covenants and agreements on the part of the public agency as the legislative body deems necessary or advisable for the better security of any bonds.

54182. The legislative body may provide for the making of a covenant requiring the public agency to continuously operate in an efficient and economical manner, any or all facilities and properties, any revenues of which are charged with the payment of any bonds in connection with which such covenant is made.

54183. The legislative body may provide for the making of a covenant requiring the public agency to make all repairs, renewals and replacements necessary to the operation of any or all facilities and properties, any revenues of which are charged with the payment of any bonds in connection with which such covenant is made, and to keep any and all such facilities and property at all times in good repair.

54184. The legislative body may provide for the making of a covenant requiring the public agency to pay and discharge or cause to be paid and discharged from the funds available for that purpose all lawful claims for labor, materials and supplies or other charges which, if unpaid, might become a lien or charge upon the revenues, or any part thereof, of any or all facilities and properties, any revenues of which are charged with the payment of any bonds in connection with which such covenant is made, or upon any of the physical properties thereof which might impair the security of the bonds.

54185. The legislative body may provide for the making of a covenant which limits, restricts, or prohibits any right, power or privilege of the public agency to mortgage or otherwise encumber, sell, lease or dispose of any or all facilities and properties, any revenues of which are charged with the payment of any bonds in connection with which such covenant is made, or to enter into any lease or agreement which might impair or impede the operation of such facilities or properties, or any part thereof, or which might otherwise impair or impede the rights of the holders of the bonds with respect to such revenues.

54186. The legislative body may provide for the making of a covenant requiring the fixing, prescribing, and collection, with respect to any or all facilities and properties, and revenues of which are charged with the payment of any bonds in connection with which such covenant is made, of fees, tolls, rentals or other charges in connection with the services and facilities furnished from any of such properties operated by it, and the fixing, prescribing and collection of rentals or other charges for any such properties leased by it to others for operation, sufficient, with such other funds as may have been made available for and charged with such payment, to pay the principal of and interest on such bonds as they become due and payable, together with all expenses of operation, maintenance and repair of such facilities and properties, and with such additional sums as may be required for any sinking fund, reserve fund or other special fund provided for the further security of such bonds or as a depreciation charge or other charge in connection with such facilities and properties, and all other charges payable out of said revenues or funds, and requiring that all receipts from all or any such fees, tolls, rentals or other charges shall be deposited in a certain specified fund or in certain specified funds. If, under the law or charter applicable to the public agency, the power to fix and prescribe any such fees, tolls, rentals or other charges is vested in any other board or body, or is subject to approval by any other board or body, such other board or body may provide for the making of a covenant to the same effect as stated in this section, or a covenant to approve fees, tolls, rentals, or other charges fixed or prescribed by the legislative body which shall be sufficient for the purposes specified in this section.

54187. The legislative body may provide for the making of a covenant requiring the fixing and prescribing by the public agency and the collection by any lessee of any or all facilities and properties, any revenues of which are charged with the payment of any bonds in connection with which such covenant is made, of all fees, tolls, rentals, or other charges in connection with the services and facilities furnished by such lessee, sufficient to assure the payment by such lessee to such public agency of the rentals or other charges so payable.

54188. The legislative body may provide for the making of a covenant requiring the establishment and maintenance of reserve funds, sinking funds or other special funds, in the treasury in which the funds of the public agency are deposited, or special trust accounts in a bank or trust company, to insure payment when due or payable, whether at maturity or upon redemption, of the principal of and interest on any bonds, including premiums if any due upon the redemption of any thereof, or to insure the application of the proceeds of such bonds to the purposes for which the same were issued, or requiring the establishment and maintenance of a reserve fund or trust account for any other appropriate purpose, or requiring that any money placed in any such reserve fund or trust account shall constitute a trust fund to be applied only to the purposes for which such reserve fund was created.

54189. The legislative body may provide for the making of a covenant requiring the public agency to apply the proceeds of the bonds in connection with which such covenant is made, or any part thereof, to the acquisition or construction of a specified facility, or other specified purpose.

54190. The legislative body may provide for the making of a covenant restricting the incurring of additional indebtedness payable in whole or in part out of revenues or funds which are charged with the payment of any bonds in connection with which such covenant is made.

54191. The legislative body may provide for the making of a covenant requiring the public agency to carry insurance on any facilities or properties any revenues of which are charged with the payment of any bonds in connection with which such covenant is made, or any operations incident thereto, specifying or limiting the kind, amount and character of such insurance and providing for the use and disposition of the proceeds of any such insurance thereafter collected.

54193. The legislative body may provide for the making of a covenant restricting, limiting or prohibiting the rendering or furnishing of service or facilities free of charge, or at less than the regular established charges therefor, by or from any facilities and properties, any revenues of which are charged with the payment of any bonds in connection with which such covenant is made.

54194. The legislative body may provide for the terms and conditions upon which any bonds may become or be declared due and payable prior to maturity, upon the happening of any specified event of default, and the terms and conditions upon which such declaration and its consequences may be waived.

54195. The legislative body may provide for the rights, limitations, powers and duties arising upon breach by the public body of any of the covenants, conditions or obligations contained in any ordinance, resolution, indenture, contract or agreement.

54196. The legislative body may provide for a procedure by which certain specified terms and conditions of any ordinance or resolution, indenture, contract or agreement may be subsequently amended or modified, or any provision thereof waived, with the consent of the legislative body and the vote or written assent of the holders of a specified principal amount of the bonds issued and outstanding, Such provision may authorize meetings of bondholders and specify the manner in which the consent of the bondholders may be given. Such provision shall specifically state the effect of such amendment, modification or waiver upon the rights of the holders of all of the bonds and interest coupons appertaining thereto, whether attached thereto or detached therefrom. The provisions for such procedure may include an agreement that bonds held by the public agency, or by any other person or entity who or which the legislative body may determine to be so interested in the matter as to make it proper, shall not be counted as outstanding bonds, and that the holders thereof shall not be entitled to vote or assent with respect to such amendment, modification or waiver, but shall nevertheless be subject thereto.

54197. The legislative body may provide for such other acts and matters as it may deem to be necessary or convenient or desirable in order to secure the bonds or to make the bonds more marketable.

54198. The legislative body may designate a bank or trust company as a trustee for the holders of bonds issued hereunder, and may authorize the trustee to act on behalf of the holders of the bonds, and to exercise and prosecute on behalf of the holders of the bonds such rights and remedies as may be available to the holders.

54199. The legislative body may fix and determine the conditions upon which any trustee shall receive, hold or disburse any or all funds coming into its hands pursuant to any ordinance or resolution, indenture, contract or agreement. The legislative body may prescribe the duties and powers of such trustee with respect to the payment of principal and interest on bonds, the redemption of bonds, the registration and discharge from registration of bonds, and the management of any sinking fund or other fund provided as security for bonds, and with respect to any other appropriate matter.

54200. The legislative body may provide for the issuance of bonds in series, and for the division of any issue into two or more divisions, and may fix different maturities or dates of

1 such bonds, different rates of interest, or prescribe different
2 terms and conditions for the bonds of the several series or divi-
3 sions. It is not necessary that all bonds of the same authorized
4 issue be of the same kind or character, have the same security, or 5 bear the same interest rate, but the terms thereof shall in each
6 case be provided for by the legislative body. After the authori-
7 zation or issuance of bonds, the legislative body may, from 8 time to time thereafter, authorize the issuance of other bonds,
9 subject to any covenants it may have made restricting the future
10 issuance of bonds.
11 54201. Bonds may be callable, at the option of the public
12 agency, upon such terms and conditions, and upon such notice
13 as the legislative body may determine, and upon the payment
14 of the premium, if any, fixed by the legislative body in the pro-
15 ceedings for the issuance of the bonds. No bond shall be subject 16 to call or redemption prior to its fixed maturity date unless the 17 right to exercise such call is expressly stated on the face of the 18 bond.
19 54202. The legislative body may provide for the prin-
20 cipal and interest of bonds being payable in any specified coin 21 or currency of the United States and at any place within the 22 State of California, or for such principal and interest being pay-
23 able or collectible at any place without the State of California.
24 54203. All of the signatures on said bonds and on the 25 interest coupons thereof may be printed, lithographed or en-
26 graved facsimile, except that on the bonds, but not on the inter-
27 est coupons, the countersignature of the clerk or other officer
28 or representative of the public agency designated by the legis-
29 lative body shall be manually affixed. If any of the officers or 30 representatives whose signatures or countersignatures appear
31 upon the bonds or coupons cease to be officers or representatives
32 before the delivery of the bonds or coupons, their signatures or 33 countersignatures are nevertheless valid and of the same force
34 and effect as if the officers or representatives had continued to 35 hold their respective offices or positions until the delivery of the 36 bonds and coupons.
37 54204. Payments of any serial bonds, and payments into 38 the sinking fund for any sinking fund bonds, may be deferred,
39 but the first maturity of any such serial bonds, and the first
40 payment into the sinking fund for any such sinking fund bonds,
41 shall be no later than five (5) years from the date of the bonds,
42 and no bond, whether serial or sinking fund, shall mature more
43 than forty (40) years from its date. In the event any author-44 ized issue is divided into two or more series or divisions, the 45 periods specified in this section shall be calculated from the date
46 on the face of each bond separately, irrespective of the fact that 47 different dates may be prescribed for the bonds of each separate 48 series or division of any authorized issue.
49 54205. No bonds shall be sold except at public sale, after 50 advertising for proposals and to the bidder whose bid will result in the notice of such sale; provided, however, that such advertising and public sale shall not be necessary, first, if the bonds are sold to the United States, or any agency thereof, or to the State of California, or any agency thereof; second, if upon advertising for proposals for the purchase thereof, no satisfactory proposal is received, or third, if the legislative body shall determine, by ordinance or resolution, that by reason of war, disaster, conditions affecting the public health, or other reason of extreme urgency, it is in the public interest to sell any such bonds without advertising or public sale. If the legislative body shall adopt any such ordinance or resolution, the reasons for its determination shall be fully and clearly stated therein. Bonds may be sold at less than their par or face value but no bond may be sold at price which would result in a yield to the purchaser of an average of more than six (6) percent per annum, payable semiannually, according to standard tables of bond values.
51 in the lowest net interest cost, determined in a manner specified

54206. The legislative body may provide for the issuance and delivery, pending the actual issuance or delivery of definitive bonds, of temporary or interim bonds, certificates or receipts of any denominations whatsoever, and with or without coupons, to be exchanged for definitive bonds when ready for delivery.

54207. The legislative body may provide for the issuance, sale, or exchange of refunding bonds for the purpose of redeeming or retiring any revenue bonds issued by the public agency. All provisions of this act applicable to revenue bonds and to the issuance and sale thereof, other than the provisions of Sections 54158, 54163 and 54164, are applicable to refunding bonds and to the issuance and sale thereof; provided, however, that the legislative body may provide that in lieu of the sale of such refunding bonds they, or any part thereof, may be exchanged for bonds to be refunded thereby, upon such terms and conditions as it may deem proper.

54208. Refunding bonds may be issued in a principal amount sufficient to provide funds for the payment of all bonds to be refunded thereby, and in addition for the payment of all expenses incident to the calling, retiring or paying of such outstanding bonds, and the issuance of such refunding bonds. These expenses include the difference in amount between the par value of the refunding bonds and any amount less than par for which the refunding bonds are sold, any amount necessary to be made available for the payment of interest upon such refunding bonds from the date of sale thereof to the date of payment of the bonds to be refunded or to the date upon which the bonds to be refunded will be paid pursuant to the call thereof or agreement with the holders thereof, and the premium, if any, necessary to be paid in order to call or retire the outstanding bonds and the interest accruing thereon to the date of the call or retirement.

54209. All bonds issued under the provisions of this act are negotiable instruments.

54210. Prior to the issuance of any bonds, the public agency, on authorization by the legislative body, may commence a special proceeding to determine the right to issue the bonds and their validity in the superior court of the county in which the public agency is located, or, if the public agency is a state agency, in any county in which such agency maintains an office. Such proceeding shall be instituted and prosecuted in the same manner as provided by Sections 22670 to 22674, inclusive, and 22676 to 22684, inclusive, of the Water Code, as these sections now read or may hereafter be amended to read, and these sections apply to and govern all such proceedings instituted under this act; provided, however, that in so applying said provisions, all references to a district shall be understood as references to the public agency; all references to any assessment or the levying thereof shall be disregarded, and the provisions of Section 22681 relating to the exchanging of bonds for property shall be understood as relating to the exchanging of refunding bonds for bonds to be refunded thereby. Such proceeding is a proceeding in rem and the judgment rendered therein is conclusive against all persons whomsoever and against all entities whatsoever, public or private, including the public agency and the State of California.

54211. Whenever the legislative body deems that it will increase the salability or price of the bonds to obtain a legal opinion, other than or in addition to that of the regular legal adviser of the public agency, it may obtain such legal opinion.

Article 4. Duty to Perform Covenants

54220. It shall be the duty of the public agency fully and faithfully to keep and perform any covenant it may make pursuant to Section 54186 with or for the benefit of the holders of the bonds with respect to the fixing and maintaining of fees, tolls, rentals or other charges, and each and every other covenant it may make, or obligation it may assume, pursuant to any provision of this chapter, and it shall be the duty of each and every officer, representative and employee of the public agency to do and perform each and every act necessary or appropriate for such keeping and performance by such public agency of every such covenant and obligation.

Article 5. Rights of Bondholders

54230 The holder of any bond issued pursuant to this chapter may by mandamus or other appropriate proceeding, require and compel the performance of any of the duties imposed upon the public agency, the legislative body or the officers, agents, or employees of the public agency, by this chapter, in all cases where the failure to perform such duty might impair the rights of such bondholder or the security of any bond or bonds held by him. This shall not exclude the exercise or prosecution of any other rights or remedies available to the holders of bonds issued pursuant to this chapter.

54231. While any revenue bonds issued by the public agency under this chapter remain outstanding, its powers and duties, and the powers and duties of the legislative body, shall not be diminished or impaired in any manner that will adversely affect the interest and rights of the holders of such bonds. This shall not preclude any reorganization or change of the public agency, by consolidation, change of the boundaries, or otherwise, or any modification, change or transfer of the powers and duties of the legislative body, or any transfer of physical properties; provided, however, that such act or matter is done, arranged and carried into effect in such manner as to preserve all the substantial rights and benefits to which the holders of such bonds are entitled.

Article 6. Contributions and Cooperation

54240. The legislative body may accept contributions or appropriations from the United States, the State, or any public agency of this State, or from any other source.

54241. The legislative body may authorize the making by the public agency of any contract, arrangement, or agreement with the State or any public agency, to join or cooperate with such state or public agency for the establishment, development, maintenance, operation, or use of any project or the services or facilities thereof financed in whole or in part through the issuance of revenue bonds, and the public agency may so join or cooperate.

54242. The public agency, when authorized by the legislative body, may cooperate and contract with the United States under the War Mobilization and Reconversion Act of 1944, approved October 3, 1944, and any acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto, or under any other act of Congress heretofore or hereafter enacted, authorizing or permitting such cooperation.

Article 7. Funds

54250. The proceeds from each sale of bonds authorized under this chapter, other than any sums received as premium or accrued interest, shall be deposited in the treasury in which funds of the public agency are kept, to the credit of a fund, which the legislative body shall establish therein, and which shall be designated by an appropriate name, to insure the application of such proceeds to the purposes for which the bonds were issued; provided, however, that where successive sales are made of bonds of a public agency, and the same are issued for the same identical purpose, such proceeds of more than one sale may be deposited in such treasury to the credit of the same fund. The provisions of this section shall be subject to the provisions of this article with respect to the establishment of other reserve funds and trust accounts.

54251. The proceeds from each sale of bonds authorized under this chapter received as premium or accrued interest, shall be deposited in such treasury to the credit of the fund out of which payments on the principal of and interest on such bonds are to be made, whether such fund shall be a fund already established or a reserve fund established pursuant to Section 54252, and shall be applied only to the payment of such principal and interest.

54252. The legislative body may from time to time establish one or more reserve funds in the said treasury, for any of the purposes specified in this section. Any such fund may be so established as a sinking fund, or otherwise, to insure the payment, when due and payable, of the interest on any such bonds, the principal thereof, whether upon maturity or redemption prior to maturity, and premiums upon the redemption thereof prior to maturity, or for any of said purposes, or for any other purpose related to the expenditure of the proceeds of such bonds, the security of the bondholders or the payment of such bonds.

54253. If, under the law or charter applicable to the public agency, the power to establish funds in said treasury is not vested in the legislative body, then the officer or board having power to establish such funds, shall establish any fund provided for in this article, upon the request of the legislative body.

54254. The money in any fund provided for in this article, other than any previously established fund referred to in Section 54251, shall be kept separate and apart from all other funds in the treasury, and, subject to all provisions of this article, shall be paid out and disbursed on the order of the legislative body in the same manner that other funds of the public agency are paid out and disbursed. Bonds, and coupons pertaining thereto, duly issued pursuant to this chapter shall be deemed to be orders of the legislative body, within the meaning of this section, and shall be payable upon presentation, when due, without further order or approval, subject only to the terms of the registration of such bonds, if registered.

54255. In lieu of or in addition to the establishment of any fund by or at the request of the legislative body pursuant to this article, the legislative body may provide for the establishment of a trust account with a responsible bank or trust company for any of the purposes for which any such fund could be established.

54256. Money so deposited in any fund or special trust account established pursuant to this article shall remain therein until from time to time expended for the purposes for which said fund or trust account was created, and shall not be used for any other purpose whatsoever, but may be invested as hereinafter in this article provided; and provided

(a) that money may be paid or transferred from any such fund or account in furtherance of its establishment to any other such fund or account established for a like purpose in connection with the same bonds to such extent as may be required or permitted under the terms of the issuance thereof; and

(b) that any surplus money remaining in any such fund or trust account after the full accomplishment of the purposes for which such fund or trust account was established, or which is in excess of the full amount required to accomplish all such purposes, may be applied to the payment of principal, interest or premiums on redemption of such bonds, if any thereof remain unpaid, or to capital costs or expenses incident to any facilities or properties the revenues of which were charged with the payment of the bonds, or, if it cannot be so applied, then to any purpose to which the legislative body may direct that it be applied, subject, however, to any covenant which may have been made in connection with the issuance of such bonds.

54257. If, under the law or charter under which the public agency exists, provision is made for the establishment of funds or trust accounts to accomplish substantially the same purposes as provided for in this article, such funds or trust accounts may be established pursuant to such law or charter instead of pursuant to this article.

54258. Pending use for the purposes for which any reserve fund or special trust account established pursuant to this article was so established, money deposited therein may be invested when and to such extent and in such manner as may be directed by the legislative body and as may be consistent with any covenant made upon the issuance of the bonds in connection with which such fund or account was created. Such investment shall be in bonds and other obligations eligible for investment of surplus funds of the public agency, or eligible for investment of surplus county money. If, under the law or charter under which the public agency exists, the power to direct the investment of surplus money is not vested in the legislative body, then the direction provided for in this section shall be the direction of such board or officer as is vested with such power. Any income, interest or increment resulting from such investment shall be added to and become a part of the fund or trust account out of which such investment was made.

REPORT OF SUBCOMMITTEE OF WAYS AND MEANS INTERIM COMMITTEE ON ADULT EDUCATION

COMMITTEE ON WAYS AND MEANS, June 18, 1951

Honorable Sam L. Collins
State Capitol

DEAR MR. COLLINS: I am handing you herewith Report of the Subcommittee of the Ways and Means Interim Committee on Adult Education. I will ask that this report be printed in the Journal as a supplement to the report of the interim committee.

Very truly yours,

MARVIN SHERWIN
Chairman, Ways and Means

Report of Subcommittee on Adult Education

June 14, 1951

On February 5, 1951, Messrs. Kirkwood, Lowrey, and Hinckley were named as a subcommittee to check on the budget request of the Bureau of Adult Education (page 208 of the Budget), and also to report on the subvention which is granted to school districts on account of the attendance in adult education classes (page 1058 of the Budget). It was felt that the Ways and Means Committee should be informed concerning the reason for the rapid expansion of state support for adult education. (The Budget indicates an increase in classes for adults from 55,321 for the year 1949-1950 to a projected 71,350 for 1951-52, or an increase of close to 30 percent in two years.)

The subcommittee has been assisted in its inquiries by Alan Post, the Legislative Auditor, and his staff, particularly George Clucas and William Young. A questionnaire was worked out in cooperation with the Legislative Auditor's office and mailed to each district which conducts adult education programs. This questionnaire was designed to develop material concerning the nature of the program, the procedures used in the selection of courses, accounting practices followed, practices concerning the recording of attendance, and other related material. A copy of the questionnaire, together with a digest of the material obtained, is attached to this report. Two or three meetings were held by the subcommittee to discuss this material and other information collected by Mr. Young. Subsequently, two meetings were held with representatives of the Department of Education to discuss further their policies concerning the program of adult education. Both of these meetings were attended by Roy Simpson and George Mann, the Chief of the Bureau of Adult Education, and by various other members of the staff of the department.

RECOMMENDATIONS

(1) That there should be a continuing study of the program of adult education by a legislative committee during the period between the adjournment of this session of the Legislature and the next session. This study should include a study of the nature of a proper program of adult education, the best method of financing the program, and methods of maintaining proper accounts and audits of expenditures.

(2) That the State Department of Education be requested to prepare and submit to the Ways and Means Committee prior to the adjournment of this session regulations incorporating the proposals made by Mr. Mann to the subcommittee in his letter dated May 2, 1951, which is attached, showing the extent to which such regulations have been put into effect.

(3) That the Ways and Means Committee request and authorize the members of this subcommittee to appear at the next meeting of the State Board of Education to urge upon that board the consideration and adoption of regulations which will more clearly define the scope of the adult education program, and which will guarantee to all districts providing adult classes basic equality in the receipt of state subventions.

(4) That the interim committee be requested in cooperation with the State Board of Education and the Department of Education to develop statutes for introduction at the next session of the Legislaure which will divorce state support of the adult education program from state support of the other parts of the educational program, and which will provide equitable allocation of state funds.

FINDINGS

The study of the subcommittee was of necessity cursory and its findings are inconclusive. It is readily apparent, however, that from a fiscal standpoint there are insufficient controls over the program. It should be noted that once attendance at an adult program is recognized, the Legislature is bound under the Constitution to set aside $120 for each unit of average daily attendance. Where this practice is followed, certainly the purposes of the program should be clearly defined and the supervision should be such that the equity of the allocation of state funds is clearly established. Even a cursory examination of this program discloses an appalling lack of adequate accounting procedures. For this and other reasons, a proper audit of the expenditure of state funds has so far been impossible.

Our contacts with the department indicate that the limits on the program have not been clearly established, but that they depend on the one hand upon pressures brought by local groups for expansion, and on the other by pressures brought by legislative suggestion for contraction. The subcommittee believes that the Department of Education should be able to define and defend the exact limits and fundamental philosophy of the program which it proposes to support. It would appear that this the department cannot do.

The subcommittee believes in the program of adult education and believes in a pattern of state support similar to that which exists for other parts of our educational program. It suggests that the Legislature should be afforded the opportunity of working with the Department to formulate a sound basis for the development of such a program.

RESULTS OF A QUESTIONNAIRE SURVEY ON ADULT EDUCATION

June 14, 1951

The Subcommittee on Adult Education of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee desiring to secure an over-all view of the adult education program in California, constructed, with the assistance of the Staff of the Legislative Auditor, a questionnaire which was mailed to 138 evening high schools in the State. The questionnaire was designed to obtain information on the program being offered throughout the State, the cost of the program, how it is financed, the general administrative practices employed in carrying out the program and the types of special groups for which adult classes are organized.

The questionnaire was sent to the evening high schools rather than to all high schools having adult classes because most of the adult classes are conducted in organized evening high schools.

Returns were received for 132 out of the 138 questionnaires mailed out. However, in tabulating the answers only 126 returns, or 91 percent are useable because some districts did not report each school separately. In some cases a questionnaire was answered incompletely, thus the tabulation on some questions will show fewer than 126 schools reporting

There were 56,230 units of average daily attendance for all adult classes in California in the 1949-50 school year. The 126 evening high schools reporting represent 48,515 units of average daily attendance, or 86 percent of all adult A.D.A. in the State.

The Program of Adult Education

Adult education in California represents a significant part of public education in California, according to the answers received to the questionnaire. For the 126 evening high schools reporting, 16 percent of the total average daily attendance in the districts wherein these evening high schools are located is adult A.D A. In terms of the 91 school districts maintaining these 126 evening high schools, there were 25 districts in which the percent of adult A D.A. to the total A.D.A. in the district was 21 percent or more. The range was from 1 percent to 76 percent.

Another way of characterizing the adult education program is in terms of the percent taking courses for credit. For the school year of 1949-50 approximately 5 percent of the persons enrolled in 117 evening high schools were taking at least one course for credit.

The emphasis of the adult program in terms of courses offered at 110 evening high schools is shown in Table I. It will be noted that 28 percent of courses offered are in the areas of arts, crafts, and music, and 26 percent are vocational courses. Courses in general education comprise 14 percent of all classes offered and home-making courses represent 10 percent of the total.

Cost of Adult Education

The total cost of adult education in 1949-50 in 126 evening high schools reporting was approximately $9,500,000. The state aid to local districts at the rate of $120 per A.D.A. amounted to $5,800,000 in the school year 1949-50. Approximately 60 percent of the cost of adult education in these 126 evening high schools was financed from state aid.

A detailed analysis of the reported cost of adult education in terms of one unit of A.D.A. revealed that for the 126 schools reporting, the combined state and district cost per A.D.A. is $208.90. There were 43 evening high schools which reported a cost per A.D A. greater than $208.90, and 83 which reported a cost per A.D.A. of $208.90, or less.

Financing

In contrast to these figures on cost per A. D A. the study showed that 78 out of the 126 schools received $120 or more in state aid per A. D. A. with a range up to $205 per A. D. A.

Another way of expressing the state contribution to the total cost of adult education classes is in terms of the percentage of state aid received to total cost. The answers to the questionnaires revealed that 78 out of 126 evening schools received more than 60 percent of their reported cost of adult education from the State. Forty-four evening high schools received 80 percent or more of the total cost of adult classes from state money.

Administrative Practices

A brief analysis of the amounts allocated or spent for the various classifications of expenditure for accounting purposes revealed considerable variation among the schools for a given expenditure class. It was evident that some schools made more detailed expenditure allocations by classification than other schools. The over-all analysis of expenditures revealed the following percentage expenditure breakdown for the 1949-50 school year.

Cost by Classification of Expenditure	Percentage of total Reported Cost
Total	100
Administration	5.6
Instruction
Salaries	64.6
Other	10.7
Operation of School Plant	7.4
Maintenance	2.5
Fixed Charges	5.9
Capital Outlay	1.4
Other	1.9

It was very difficult to ascertain the specific administrative practices employed by the evening high schools in administering their programs. There was no attempt to determine the effectiveness of the practices but only to establish the practices general to most evening schools.

The questionnaire inquired into four general administrative areas which revealed the following results:

1. Procedure Followed in Developing Curriculum. The survey showed that all the evening high schools sampled used one or more of the following methods in developing their adult education curriculum.

a. Follow the Education Code and the Administrative Code.
b. Analyze the previous year's program.
c. Hold conferences with advisory committees consisting of business, industrial, professional, labor and civic organizations.

To enlarge the examination of curriculum development the schools were asked what criteria govern the formation of curriculum; there were 10 general points mentioned although there was wide variation in replies. Four criteria were mentioned by 32 out of 126 or more schools and are listed below in order of most frequent mention.

a. To meet community needs.
b. To maintain a well balanced program.
c. To meet current demand.
d. Previous demand and attendance.

2. New Classes. When a new class is offered which has never been offered before, the basis for starting the new class is whether there is a need for it. Just as in the formation of the over-all curriculum, need is the major factor, as interpreted by school officials and advisory groups guided by the desire to improve the curriculum and by administrative limitations.

3. Recording Average Daily Attendance in the Classroom. The information obtained showed that there are two general ways of recording attendance in the classroom.

a. An attendance book or sheet may be used. In some cases the student initials or signs the sheet each period or the teacher marks the presence or absence of each individual.

b. Attendance is kept by a count of the number of students present without regard to specific pupils.

4. Checking Instructor Attendance Reports. The schools reported two ways of verifying the attendance reports turned in by the instructors.

a. In some cases the principal or another administrative officer visits the classrooms to check the actual attendance This is a form of spot check.

b. Schools using a sign-in sheet check the pupils initialed on the sign-in sheet against the attendance reported by the instructor. The sign-in sheet may also be used to check to see that those who sign-in are officially enrolled.

Special Groups

A trend in adult education that appears to be becoming significant is expansion of adult classes to serve groups that either cannot attend regular adult classes or because of the nature of the group can secure special classes exclusively for the group. The survey attempted to learn the extent of these special classes and the types of groups for which these classes are organized.

The questionnaires revealed that 48 out of 126 evening high schools offered classes to one or more special groups in the school year of 1949-50. These 48 adult schools served a total of 61 special groups which consisted of five major types: Business and industry, hospitals, correctional institutions, military and governments sponsored groups.

In terms of units of average daily attendance, 9.8 percent of all A.D.A. reported by the 126 evening high schools was for special group adult classes. Adult classes in correctional institutions made up 64 percent of the 9.8 percent total A.D.A. of special groups. The next most important group was hospitals consisting of public and private hospitals, with 23 percent of the total A.D.A. of special groups. Classes held at military installations made up 11 percent of all such A.D.A.

The Honorable Robert C. Kirkwood
Member of Assembly
Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. KIRKWOOD: I had hoped to talk briefly with you when I was in Sacramento last week but I found that you were unavailable that day. I had realized that we did not get down to the heart of the problem when we had the brief meeting with your committee on April 10. I had not known that I was to be at the meeting and had not had time to study the items on the agenda.

For some time I have been working on the development of some new regulations and policies which should tend to eliminate the abuses which have been found to exist in the adult education program and which should otherwise strengthen the program by increasing the emphasis on that part of the curricula which most objective people appear to consider essential.

The regulations and policies that have been worked out and which will be presented to the State Board of Education as soon as they have been put into the proper form for inclusion in the Administrative Code, Title 5, relate to the following: The elimination of classes held at regular meetings of organizations such as toastmaster and toastmistress clubs; the elimination of programs which continue beyond the point of learning and the consequent elimination of "repeaters;" the definition of activities which must meet limitations on attendance; the reduction of maximum attendance in lecture series; the elimination of unrelated film presentation; the elimination of all but strictly nonmilitary courses in military establishments; the elimination of all physical education classes in correctional institutions for adults; the elimination of the counting of attendance of all persons not "regularly enrolled" in a well defined procedure; the definition and enforcement of rules on summer programs so that the great majority of such programs will be eliminated; and the elimination of all programs which have become leisure time or recreational practices.

With these additional proposed policies and regulations and others which are being formulated, and with a staff that would permit reasonable coverage of the State, the entire adult education program would be improved in quality and enrollment would be reduced by 10 percent.

I have made a careful estimate of the effect these new policies and regulations would have on present enrollment. With some additional assistance in the Bureau of Adult Education to insure proper interpretation of these and existing laws, rules and regulations, I feel that we could guarantee a reduction of at least 10 percent in enrollment and cost.

I hope that soon I may have an opportunity to discuss this whole matter in such detail as you would like to have.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) GEORGE MANN
Chief of Bureau

By Speaker Sam L. Collins:

The following resolution was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

CALIFORNIA STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE
SACRAMENTO

Resolution

RE: Continuing Joint Legislative Committee on Agriculture and Livestock Problems

WHEREAS, The agriculture and livestock industries of California have, during the past six years, benefited immeasurably from the wise counsel and diligent assistance given by the Joint Legislative Committee on Agriculture and Livestock Problems on many important features requiring legislation directed toward solving the difficulties involved after careful and unbiased analysis on subjects such as: Revision of hide and brand laws; codification of dairy laws; reasonable regulation of custom application of injurious pest control materials; uniformity in procedures governing agricultural pest control operators both through use of aircraft and ground equipment; sound program for agricultural research; progressive measures establishing responsibility of farm labor contractors, etc.; and

WHEREAS, The aforesaid committee has been cognizant of the serious threat to the State's crop and animal production through the menace of Oriental fruit fly and other fruit flies from Hawaii and foot-and-mouth disease from Mexico, resulting in published reviews pertinent to each of these situations, including valuable recommendations for cooperative action by Federal, State, and local governmental agencies to prevent the introduction into and the spread within California; and

WHEREAS, The issuance of timely reports on plant parasitic nematodes; egg marketing; farm labor; beet leafhopper suppression; milk control law questions; etc., has been the means of advising producers of methods for coping with such problems with or without legislation or financial support from the State; and

WHEREAS, Recognizable savings of state funds through basic recommendations have resulted from the interest of committee members in studying the needs of agricultural educational plants supported by funds allocable by the Legislature and in reviewing the propriety of institutional farm structures and equipment; now, therefore, be it

Recommended by the California State Board of Agriculture, meeting at Sacramento, California, on June 18, 1951, That the Joint Legislative Committee on Agriculture and Livestock Problems be continued in order that government, the farming industry of California, and the management, business, and labor generally associated directly or indirectly with our agricultural economy may obtain such comparable aid in the future.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Mr. Lyon:

House Resolution No. 229

Relative to the study of the administration and financing of highways, streets, and bridges by the Assembly Interim Committee on Revenue and Taxation

WHEREAS, The public highways, streets, and bridges of the State are useful, necessary, and indispensable arteries of travel and commerce and have been constructed and improved at great public expense; and

WHEREAS, The State, in providing highway, road, and street facilities, is in effect managing and financing a full-scale transportation system, costing the highway users and taxpayers of the State in excess of $200,000,000 annually; and

WHEREAS, Pavements and other highway improvements are not permanent but must be rebuilt, resurfaced, expanded, and modernized both to maintain and improve the existing facilities and to meet changing economic and industrial conditions, and

WHEREAS, The Legislature is responsible to the people as a whole for the imposition of taxes levied to support state highway, county road, and city street programs and in discharging this responsibility cannot be indifferent to the inefficient use of tax resources, but it appears possible that less diligence is presently exercised over expenditures of state-collected highway-user taxes by the State, the counties, and the cities than is exercised over the expenditure of other tax moneys because such expenditures do not directly affect the General Fund of the State or the tax rates of local government; and

WHEREAS, The Department of Public Works has reported to the Legislature that the cost of improving the state highways alone to standards adequate for 1950 traffic conditions is estimated in excess of three billion dollars, but only 1.4 billion dollars will be available for construction in the next 10 years; and

WHEREAS, The cost of acquiring rights of way and the limitation of access has risen to alarming proportions and appears to be continuing to rise, and the reasons for the increasing costs should be ascertained and the wisdom of limited access construction under certain conditions, should be reviewed by the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, Serious criticisms have arisen from time to time with respect to the advisability of constructing freeways in metropolitan areas where parking problems are not being solved and mass transit is not being improved; and

WHEREAS, The Legislature in its 1951 Regular Session considered alternative plans of financing an accelerated state highway construction and right-of-way acquisition program but it appeared that further study should be given to all aspects of California's highway problems, including an appraisal of the efficiency and effectiveness with which state-collected highway-user tax funds are now being expended by all agencies of government to which such funds are entrusted; and

WHEREAS, The Senate Interim Committee on Highways, Streets, and Bridges, created by Senate Resolution 129 in the 1949 Regular Session of the Legislature, during the course of its inquiries found that several counties were apparently failing to comply with the spirit, if not the letter, of the Highway Act of 1947 with respect to county road administration, and, it, therefore, appears that the Legislature should have additional information on this subject in view of the fact that almost $50,000,000 is apportioned annually by the State to counties for road purposes; and

WHEREAS, The State Controller is annually collecting data on county road and city street finance as required by the Highway Act of 1947 and such information should be carefully digested and evaluated for the use of the Legislature in considering legislation dealing with county road and city street affairs; and

WHEREAS, Expenditures by the Department of Motor Vehicles and the Department of the Highway Patrol are directly supported by taxes collected from highway users and such expenditures directly reduce the amount of funds available for highways and, therefore, should be investigated by the Legislature in view of the apparent need for additional revenue; and

WHEREAS, The Legislature is faced with difficult problems of cost allocation in devising just and reasonable taxes for highway support, which problems have not been fully solved particularly with respect to the equitable taxation of heavy commercial vehicles although alternative solutions have been considered, and, therefore, further study is necessary in this connection; and

WHEREAS, Additional and more comprehensive data regarding the operating characteristics of various classes of motor vehicles, including such factors as annual vehicle mileages, average fuel consumption, loaded and empty vehicle weights, and the like, are indispensable to the formation of a reasonable and equitable system of highway-user taxation and, therefore, should be collected, analyzed, and made available to the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, No one of the administrative agencies of the State Government is so constituted that it can consider and advise the Legislature on all aspects of highway, road, and street management and finance, and, therefore, the Legislature finds a lack of complete and coordinated information on over-all highway problems; and

WHEREAS, The entire problem of proper maintenance, development, and financing of the highways, streets, and bridges requires continued study, investigation, vigilance, and exercise of foresight on the part of the Legislature to insure that the money of the people of California is wisely expended, that modern and efficient methods are employed, that existing facilities are maintained, and that reasonable measures consistent with efficiency and economy are being taken to maintain, improve, and make safe the arteries of vehicular travel of the State; now, therefore, be it

1. The Assembly Interim Committee on Revenue and Taxation is hereby authorized and directed to ascertain, study, and analyze all facts relating to and in any way connected with the maintenance and development of safe, efficient, economical, and adequate highways, streets, and bridges and the administration and financing thereof, including but not limited to the operation, effect, administration, enforcement, and needed revision of any and all laws in any way bearing upon or relating to the subject of this resolution and to report thereon to the Assembly, including in the reports its recommendations for appropriate legislation.

2. The committee is further specifically authorized and directed to collect by questionnaires, direct investigation, or otherwise, all such information from the owners and operators of motor vehicles on the highways, roads, and streets of this State as it deems necessary in order to formulate a reasonable and equitable system of highway-user taxation for all classes of motor vehicle operation and to carry out the other purposes for which it is created.

3. The committee is further and specifically directed, without any limitation on its other powers, to ascertain, study and analyze all facts relating to the following:

(a) California's highway, road, and street needs, including an appraisal of the 1951 deficiency report made by the Department of Public Works and the criteria adopted in the preparation of that report;

(b) The efficiency and effectiveness of state highway, county road, and city street expenditures, including a determination of whether unnecessary, wasteful, or extravagant expenditures have been or are being made by any agency of government;

(c) Budgetary practices relating to highways, roads, and streets of the State, counties, and cities, including expenditure programs of the Motor Vehicle Department and the Department of the Highway Patrol;

(d) The effectiveness and efficiency of present administrative arrangements pertaining to highways, roads, and streets;

(e) The effectiveness of present policies of the State Department of Public Works with respect to advance planning of highway construction and the advance acquisition of rights-of-way;

(f) The costs and economic effects of present state policies with respect to the construction of limited access highways and metropolitan freeways;

(g) Alternative methods of financing the highway modernization program of California;

(h) Alternative methods of taxing heavy commercial vehicles equitably in relation to taxes on other highway users;

(i) The need for continuing collection of data regarding highway use, vehicle operating characteristics, and the effects of heavy vehicles on highways and vehicle traffic from which can be devised more equitable tax policies;

(j) The advisability of establishing a permanent committee or other agency in order: (1) to provide a continuous check on expenditures of state-collected highway-user taxes by the State, counties, and cities; (2) to study and recommend legislation to guarantee and insure the most effective highway, road, and street management and the most efficient expenditure of highway, road, and street funds; (3) to accumulate and coordinate data which will provide a rational basis for the allocation of state-collected highway-user taxes among the various levels of government and among geographical areas of the state; (4) to accumulate and coordinate data which will provide a basis for the improvement of the highway-user tax structure and for such modifications of the structure as conditions may justify from time to time; (5) to study, analyze, and appraise on a continuing basis all aspects of highway, road, and street management, expenditure, and finance to the end that the Legislature will at all times be fully advised on the existing facts, new developments, and emerging issues in the transportation field; (6) to make studies of the economics of transportation in general, including taxation and regulatory policies, to the end that the State's role in providing the road plant will be properly integrated with the over-all development of an efficient Transportation System for California; (7) to cooperate with other agencies, public and private, to accomplish the objectives of the committee or agency.

4. The committee and its employees may meet and act any place within the State or within the United States to carry out the objects and purposes of this resolution.

Resolution read, and ordered referred to the Committee on Rules.

SEC. 2. This act is an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety within the meaning of Article IV of the Constitution and shall go into immediate effect The facts constituting such necessity are:

Under the existing law, proceedings for the formation of a county high school district may be commenced, pursuant to Article 5, Chapter 11, Division 2 of the Education Code, upon a petition signed by only 50 qualified electors in the county. A county high school district formed under Article 5 would not ordinarily include other high school districts already in existence in the county. Therefore, the formation of a county high school district would, in most of the counties in the State, result in a school district composed of noncontiguous territory. Small areas of the district may be isolated by many miles from the larger portion or portions of the district A school district composed of noncontiguous territory presents many difficult problems of administration and is unduly expensive to maintain. The transportation of pupils becomes a major problem and expense and the holding of school elections is complicated in districts composed of noncontiguous territory.

Unless this act takes effect immediately, it will be possible to commence proceedings for the formation of such a district before the provisions therefor are replaced.

In order to preserve the orderly structure and administration of the school districts of the State, it is necessary that this act take effect immediately "

OPINION OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL
SAN FRANCISCO 2, CALIFORNIA
EDMUND G. BROWN
Attorney General

OPINION OF EDMUND G. BROWN, Attorney General
LEONARD M. FRIEDMAN, Deputy Attorney General
No. 51/122 June 18, 1951

The HONORABLE EARL WARREN, GOVERNOR OF CALIFORNIA, presents the following question:

Is it competent for the Legislature to deliver to the Governor, and for the Governor to receive, enrolled bills after the date fixed by Article IV, Section 2 of the Constitution for final adjournment of the legislative session?

Our opinion is summarized as follows:

There is no authoritative California precedent which furnishes assurance that legislative bills may be presented to the Governor after sine die adjournment of the Legislature. Nevertheless, in view of Article IV, Section 16, State Constitution, and the weight of judicial decisions in other states, it is our opinion that bills, having been adopted by both houses, may be prepared in an enrolled form and presented to the Governor as soon as possible after final adjournment of the legislative session.

Analysis

The question is whether a bill which has passed both houses of the Legislature may be presented to the Governor following the final adjournment of the legislative session. Article IV, Section 16 of the State Constitution provides in part:

> "Every bill which may have passed the Legislature shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the Governor. If he approve it, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it originated, which shall enter such objections upon the Journal and proceed to reconsider it. If after such reconsideration, it again pass both houses, by yeas and nays, two-thirds of the members elected to each house voting therefor, it shall become a law, notwithstanding the Governor's objections. If any bill shall not be returned within 10 days after it shall have been presented to him (Sundays excepted), the same shall become a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Legislature, by adjournment, prevents such return, in which case it shall not become a law, unless the Governor, within 30 days after such adjournment (Sundays excepted), shall sign and deposit the same in the Office of the Secretary of State, in which case it shall become a law in like manner as if it had been signed by him before adjournment * * *."

The above provision does not expressly require that a bill shall be presented to the Governor at any particular time after passage. If the Legislature is in session the Governor has 10 days after presentation within which to sign or veto it. If the Legislature has adjourned he has 30 days after adjournment within which to approve or pocket veto the bill. Obviously, any delay between adjournment of the Legislature and presentation of bills will consume a portion of the 30-day "bill signing" period allotted to the Governor.

The matter was not of great moment when legislative sessions had no mandatory adjournment date. A rush of legislation during the last few days of the session might create a backlog in the process of printing, comparing and certifying enrolled bills; in such case, the Legislature was at liberty to adopt a resolution delaying adjournment until all adopted bills could be printed, enrolled and delivered to the Governor. In 1949, however, Article IV, Section 2 of the Constitution was amended to limit general sessions to 120 days and budget sessions to 30 days. The 1951 Regular Session, now in existence, must therefore adjourn prior to midnight, June 23, 1951. If the Legislature requires the full allotted time for the consideration and passage of bills, and if the flow of last-minute legislation outstrips the mechanical work of enrolled bill preparation, the Legislature is no longer in a position to extend its adjournment date. If the law requires bills to be enrolled and presented to the Governor before adjournment, it might be necessary to call a halt to the process of bill consideration and adoption during the last day or two of the session.

California judicial precedents are lacking. In Attorney General's Opinion No. 25, March 21, 1899, the conclusion was expressed that the Governor has power to sign bills, properly enrolled, presented to him after the Legislature in fact adjourns, citing Dow vs. Beidleman (Ark.) 5 S. W. 297.

Harpending vs. Haight, 39 Cal. 189, held that a veto was ineffective where the Governor had sent a bill back to the Senate after it had recessed for the day on the last of the 10 days allotted for bill signing during the session. The court likened the "return" of the bill to its "presentation" to the Governor. From this, it could be implied that the existence of a session is necessary not only to the return of a vetoed bill, but also to the presentation of a bill to the Governor in the first instance. Harpending vs. Haight, however, turns upon the fact that the Governor's messenger, finding that the Senate was in recess, had retained the bill in his own custody. By way of dictum, the court observed that had the messenger actually delivered the bill and veto message to an officer of the Senate, the veto would have been sufficient even though the Senate itself was not in session (see Gov. Code, Sec. 9515).

It has been said that the California Legislature is not a continuing body, that its legislative powers cease upon adjournment sine die (Special Assembly Interim Committee vs. Southard, 13 Cal. 2d 497, 507; Swing vs. Raley, 13 Cal. 2d 513, 519). From a theoretical standpoint, the preparation and presentation of enrolled bills are acts of a legislative nature, a manifestation of the legislative process which may take place only while the Legislature is in session (see Fowler vs. Pierce, 2 Cal. 165). Quite aside from such theoretical considerations, there are many kinds of legislative activity which occur after and between sessions. Such activities are only incidental to the primary function of considering and adopting legislation (see Rich vs. Industrial Accident Commission, 36 Cal. App. 2d 628). By statute, the Legislature has created a number of interim committees with power to act between sessions (see Gov. Code, Secs. 8000-8004, 9107, 9126, 9127). The Constitution (Art. IV, Sec. 37) authorizes the creation of interim fact-finding committees by resolution of one or both houses. The officers and attaches of the two houses have numerous post-session and inter-session duties of an administrative and clerical nature (see Gov. Code, Sec. 9220; Rules 10.7, 11, 13, Standing Rules of Senate; Rule 12, Assembly Standing Rules; and recurring house resolutions of each session, such as H.R. 339, 1949 Regular Session, directing post-session compilation of legislative records). If bill enrollment and presentation are necessarily characterized as legislative activities, it is a sufficient answer to say that not all legislative activities need take place during the session (Edwards vs. United States, 286 U. S. 482, 490, 76 L. Ed. 1239).

The actual fact is that, following passage of a bill, the work of printing, comparing, enrolling and presenting it is a nondiscretionary, ministerial, mechanical task (see Gov. Code, Secs. 9500-9509; Rule 24, Joint Rules of Senate and Assembly). There is no deep-seated consideration of public policy, nor any feature of our organic scheme of government, which requires both houses to remain in session while these administrative activities take place. Assuming that the Constitution permits it, ample arrangements exist for post-session enrollment and presentation. Section 9220, Government Code, authorizes the Speaker of the Assembly to sign enrolled bills and cause their delivery to the Governor after final adjournment. Rule 13 of the Senate Standing Rules places the Senate Committee on Rules in charge of bill enrollment and gives that committee continuing existence following final adjournment of the Legislature.

In most of the states where the question has arisen, the courts have decided that, in the absence of express constitutional requirements, a bill passed by the Legislature may be presented to the Governor after the Legislature has finally adjourned (Dow vs. Beidleman, supra; Monroe vs. Green (Ark.) 76 S.W. 199; Barber vs. State (Ark.) 174 S.W. 2d 545; Preveslin vs. Derby & Ansonia Developing Co. (Conn.) 151 Atl. 518, 70 A.L.R. 1426; State ex rel. Thompson vs. Davis (Fla.) 169 S. 199; People vs. Hughes (Ill.) 25 N.E. 2d 75; Lankford vs. Somerset County (Md.) 20 Atl. 1017, 22 Atl. 412, 11 L.R.A. 491; Johnson vs. Luers (Md.) 99 Atl. 710; Robey vs. Boersma (Md.) 29 Atl. 2d 827, 146, A.L.R. 687; Hartness vs. Black (Vt.) 114 Atl. 44).

The question has had a somewhat checkered career in Florida, whose constitution, like our own limits the length of legislative sessions. In Amos vs. Gunn, 94 So. 615, the Florida Supreme Court held that bill presentation must occur while the Legislature remains in session. The holding was reaffirmed in State ex rel. Cunningham vs. Davis, 166 So. 289, which indicated, however, that the legislature could "hold over" past the constitutional deadline for the purpose of performing such nondiscretionary duties as bill enrollment and presentation. No doubt dismayed by the spectacle of the entire legislative assembly sitting in solemn session for the sole purpose of gazing at the mechanical process of bill preparation, the Florida Court ultimately conceded that bills passed during the last few days of the session could be certified and presented "reasonably beyond the end of the session" (State ex rel. Thompson vs. Davis, supra).

An advisory opinion of the New Hampshire Supreme Court held that under the existing statutes presentation had to occur before adjournment. The court, however, left open the question whether the Legislature could constitutionally authorize the opposite result (Opinion of the Justices, 81 Atl.170).

So far as our own Constitution is concerned, the preeminent fact is that Article IV, Section 16 does not expressly require the bills be presented to the Governor while the Legislature remains in session. Guided chiefly by this fact, and by the great weight of judicial authority in other states, we are of the opinion that it is competent for the Legislature to deliver to the Governor, and for the Governor to receive, enrolled bills after the final adjournment of the Legislature, regardless that the constitutional time limit on the legislative session has expired.

On its surface the legal problem is a matter of mere mechanics. There should be an awareness, nevertheless, of the high governmental considerations involved. The Constitution contains a meticulous plan, so designed that the Legislature and the Governor, as units in a single scheme of operation, may perform their respective roles in the lawmaking process, neither being able to invade the authority of the other. There may be eras of party struggle, or of antagonism between Legislature and the Executive. No interpretation of the Constitution or the laws should furnish either of these great agencies an opportunity to place the other at a disadvantage. In the last analysis, however, there is a limit to the effectiveness of verbal formulae. "We must trust to the good faith and integrity of all the departments Power must be placed somewhere, and confidence reposed in some one" (Myers vs. English, 9 Cal. 341, 349). We are free to recognize that the preparation and enrollment of bills following the Legislature's adjournment consumes a portion of the 30-day bill consideration period allotted to the Governor. Conceivably the activity could be so slow as to deprive him of a substantial portion of that time. Implicit in the constitutional scheme is the mandate that these tasks be performed as promptly as possible. In our opinion, it is the duty of the legislative officers and attaches charged with bill enrollment and presentation to perform their tasks forthwith upon the close of the session.

A caveat is in order. There is no authoritative California precedent on which to base an assurance that the courts of this State will arrive at a similar view. Nevertheless we have reached the conclusion that bills, having duly passed both houses, may be printed, enrolled and presented to the Governor as soon as possible following the final adjournment of the Legislature. So far as this office is concerned, the opinion is unqualified.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
SACRAMENTO, June 19, 1951

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly
State of California
Sacramento, California

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature,

Assembly Bill No. 61, entitled: "An act to amend Section 8201 of the Government Code relating to notaries public."

My objections to the bill are as follows:

This bill would add a requirement that to be appointed a notary an applicant must answer a written questionnaire on a form prescribed by the Governor to determine his fitness to exercise the functions of office I do not believe that this bill would be effective to improve the standards of notaries public. To be of any value, the bill would require an extensive organization to check the answers to questions and to prepare examination papers. No provision is made in the budget for any state department for any such function. In the absence of an extensive investigation of applicants, together with a carefully thought out and frequently changed questionnaire, with adequate checking of answers, this bill would be of little benefit. For this reason, I am returning it without my approval

Respectfully submitted.

House Resolution No. 236

Relative to congratulating Loyola University of Los Angeles on recent accomplishments

WHEREAS, Loyola University of Los Angeles has its origin and traditions deep in the early history of California, and has maintained an outstanding scholastic, religious, and athletic program; and

WHEREAS, Scholastically, the university has high admission and performance requirements, and believes in a rigorous foundation of knowledge and a generous share of culture which will support any superstructure of science, arts or letters, and has effected marked successes thereby, and

WHEREAS, Religiously, the university promotes the philosophy that knowledge and intellectual development of themselves have no moral efficacy whatever, but that religion is necessary to provide the integrity to guide the use of learning in every endeavor; and

WHEREAS, Athletically, the university attaches relative importance to a sound body for a sound mind, maintaining intermural athletics on a year-round basis, and engages in intercollegiate football, basketball, baseball, tennis, and golf; their winning football teams of the past two seasons presage greater gridiron power; the university has permitted its football games to be televised for the coming year, thus permitting many sports fans to enjoy and be attracted to the games; and

WHEREAS, Such a broad yet integrated educational program uniquely develops the "Complete Man" under the century-tried methods of the Jesuit Fathers; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That Loyola University of Los Angeles be congratulated on their outstanding scholastic, religious, and athletic accomplishments; and be it further Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly transmit suitable copies of this resolution to Rev. Charles S. Casassa, S. J., President of the University.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT THAT FINAL REPORT OF ASSEMBLY INTERIM COMMITTEE ON JUDICIAL SYSTEM AND JUDICIAL PROCESS BE PRINTED IN JOURNAL

Mr. Brown asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent that the Final Report of the Assembly Interim Committee on Judicial System and Judicial Process be ordered printed in the Journal, in 10 point type, as follows:

FINAL REPORT OF THE ASSEMBLY INTERIM COMMITTEE ON JUDICIAL SYSTEM AND JUDICIAL PROCESS (H. R. 232—1949)

June 20, 1951

Honorable Sam L. Collins
Speaker of the Assembly

MR. SPEAKER: The Assembly Interim Committee on Judicial System and Judicial Process hereby presents its final report.

The Progress Report of the Committee, which appears in the Assembly Journal for April 11, 1951, outlined the work done during the Interim and described the proposed legislation prepared. Among the subjects included were criminal procedure, mechanics' liens, the tort liability of the State, adoption procedure, legal publication rules, judicial salaries, legal education and admisssion to the bar, technical changes in conveyancing and property statutes, sex crime laws, and certain Uniform Acts. Legislation in line with the committee's recommendations on most of these points has passed the Assembly, and many such bills have already been signed into law.

The committee devoted a great deal of time and effort to the problems of mechanics' lien legislation. With the cooperation of all parties concerned, one bill, Assembly Bill No. 1051, was worked out, codifying the present law without substantive change. An opinion of the Legislative Counsel analyzing Assembly Bill No. 1051 in detail and concluding that it makes no changes in the present law was printed in the Assembly Journal of June 7, 1951, pp. 5255-5260. It must be emphasized that this opinion applies only to the one bill. Several other measures relating to various phases of the Mechanics' Lien Law have passed the Assembly; these do make changes in the present law and, of course, the analysis and opinion of the Legislative Counsel does not apply to these bills, which amend the statute as codified by Assembly Bill No. 1051.

Of the technical and procedural bills, more than a dozen, relating to publication of notices, have already been enacted as have most of the series of measures described in Part VII of the Progress Report relating to interests in and conveyances of property. Also relating to property was a bill which writes into the Civil Code the "rule against perpetuities", in line with the suggestions set forth in Part XI of the Progress Report. Several of the measures intended to strengthen adoption procedure (see Part IV of the Progress Report) have already been chaptered, as has a bill aimed at clarification of the definition of a prior felony conviction (Part I).

The standing Judiciary Committee and the Assembly itself have processed a remarkable volume of inferior court legislation. This extraordinary burden, imposed by the new constitutional provisions, has not been easy to cope with. Nevertheless, with the advice and assistance of the Chief Justice and the Judicial Council, and the cooperation of the individual Members of the Assembly, and the boards of supervisors and other local authorities, California cities and counties will shortly be equipped with a new and more efficient inferior court system. Much credit is due to Mr. Ernest Shellander of the Judicial Council staff for his hard and diligent work in this regard.

Part IX A of the Progress Report, the Report of the Subcommittee on Judicial Salaries, discussed in some detail the problems of standardizing the salaries of the judges of the State. Assembly Bill No. 2464 represents an attempt to enact such standardization into law.

Assembly Bill No. 2367 relates to the punishments for sex crimes. Briefly, it provides for an indeterminate sentence, with a life imprisonment maximum for a first conviction of the more serious crimes and for second convictions of certain offenses of this type, of which the first conviction is punishable as a misdemeanor. One step the committee deems constructive is the proviso added to Penal Code Section 288a, recognizing (in line with Part XVII of the Progress Report—Final Report of the Subcommittee on Sex Crimes) the principle that the heaviest penalties in these cases should be applied where force or violence is used or where there is substantial disparity of age between the parties and one is a minor.

Assembly Bill No. 1164, which has now passed both houses, provides for the compensation of attorneys appointed to defend indigent defendants in criminal cases (in counties which have no public defender). Such legislation was recommended in the Progress Report, Part IX E. In line with Part VI of the Progress Report, which recommends enactment of the Uniform Nonsupport Act or some similar measure, Assembly Bill No. 1191 has now been signed into law as Chapter 694 of the 1951 Statutes.

The tort liability of the State Government (Part III proved to be too technical and controversial a subject to admit of the passage of the suggested legislation at this session, and it was therefore referred by the standing committee to the interim committee for further study. The Uniform Commercial Code was likewise referred to the interim committee, an additional reason in this case being that the Commissioners on Uniform State Laws had not yet produced their final version of the proposed code. The Uniform Trustees Accounting Act and the Uniform Probate of Foreign Wills Act were likewise put over for interim study, while the Uniform Acts relating to the use of photographic copies of business records as evidence and to the reciprocal interstate transportation and support of indigent persons have already been signed into law.

Other topics or subjects referred to the Interim Committee include legal education, narcotics enforcement, traffic law problems, several matters relating to criminal procedure, including wire-tapping and the use of illegally-obtained evidence, appellate rules and procedure, legal rights in underground water, and the substitution of the rule of comparative negligence for the present one of contributory negligence. It should also be pointed out that several matters dealt with by this and previous committees and by this and previous Legislatures still require further study; a good example of this is the problem of sex deviates and sex crimes. (The Assembly has already passed one resolution directing such further study by the interim committee.) Likewise, there will undoubtedly be further questions and problems arising as the new system of lower courts is put into operation, more legislation will be required, and further study is therefore indicated.

Respectfully submitted.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT THAT FINAL REPORT OF ASSEMBLY INTERIM COMMITTEE ON SOCIAL WELFARE BE PRINTED IN JOURNAL

Mrs. Niehouse asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent that the Final Report of the Assembly Interim Committee on Social Welfare, on Welfare Services in Civil Defense, be ordered printed in the Journal, in 10 point type, as follows:

"WELFARE SERVICES IN CIVIL DEFENSE"

FINAL REPORT OF ASSEMBLY INTERIM COMMITTEE ON SOCIAL WELFARE

(House Resolution No. 71, Second Extraordinary Session, 1950)

Introduction

Because of the increasing emphasis being given to civil defense planning, it is timely to review for Members of the Assembly the civil defense welfare services program. Should it be necessary, because of enemy attack, to implement these plans they will have far-reaching effects for the people of this State, require the expenditure of great sums of money, and alter considerably the operations of the county and State Social Welfare Departments as well as those of most voluntary social agencies.

In the war of the future the civilians in our cities and productive centers will be front-line participants. To a considerable extent maintenance of civilian moral and fortitude will depend upon how adequately provision is made to meet people's basic needs. Preservation of our productive power and our ability to fight back will depend upon the efficiency of our civil defense.

Without a complete and effective plan for operation of welfare services, efforts of other civil defense services will not achieve their basic objective to enable us to surmount the disruption of community life and industrial production by atomic bombing or other forms of enemy attack.

The objective of civil defense welfare services planning is to provide the necessities of life and help to people who are homeless, separated from their families, or otherwise disrupted in their lives as the result of enemy attack. Through these services much can be done to minimize or prevent the panic and disorder that would interfere with rebuilding our cities and maintaining our industrial life. They will enable workers to remain on the jobs which are essential to the defeat of an enemy.

> "The most important goal of the government and the community is the prompt orderly restoration of normal community life, thereby preserving maximum civilian morale and support of the war effort." [1]
> "Whether atomic attacks of our cities result in rout and utter disaster or in a brave and orderly dealing with the facts will depend first and last upon the morale of the people in the cities—all the cities For, as things stand and as they probably will stand in the long years to come, if we become involved in war it will be atomic war; and to win an atomic war we shall depend upon the manning and maintenance of our cities along with the industries and plants which they contain." [2]

The Problem Posed

The civil defense program is based on the assumption that this Country is subject to attack, with or without warning, and that the enemy is capable of attacking by atomic weapon by air or sea and of creating sabotage. It is assumed that atomic weapons would be used against major strategic installations and densely populated areas with intent of creating maximum damage to our productive capacity and disorganization and panic within the civil population.

A number of areas in this State have been designated by military authorities as primary targets and thus subject to enemy attack. These are our major centers of population and industry. It has been stated that there can be no absolute military defense against attack and thus it must be presumed that such an attack would be partially successful.

It would be impossible to determine where or when attack might come, or the violence of attack. It seems certain that if there were atomic attack on one or several of our cities the destruction and dislocation resulting would tax all of the resources of the State to keep our cities and our production going.

No precise estimate has been made of the possibilities in numbers of homeless persons who might have to be fed, housed, clothed, and provided with the great array of help and services necessary to meet human needs. Certainly it would have to be assumed that hundreds of thousands of persons might have to be cared for.

The Federal Civil Defense Administration has estimated that "A surprise daylight attack with a nominal bomb exploded at 2,000 feet over an 'average' metropolitan area would produce a total of about 120,000 casualties—killed and injured." [1]

The number of persons not killed or injured but rendered homeless, children orphaned, persons losing all of their worldly possessions, separated from their families, etc., would undoubtedly be as great or greater than the medical casualties. These social casualties would be the primary concern of the welfare services charged with responsibility for providing emergency disaster relief and for rehabilitating people who must be helped to find new homes and new jobs and make an adjustment to life under new conditions.

The State Civil Defense Evacuation and Welfare Services Plan

In January, 1951, the State Office of Civil Defense issued its basic plan for evacuation and welfare services.[2] This plan establishes the framework for the organization and direction of the facilities and resources of the State, beginning at the level of local subdivisions and coordinated into regional and state-wide plans, for evacuation and welfare services for civilians in emergencies created by natural or war-caused disasters.

Enunciated in this plan are the following basic policies:

(1) Evacuation: Evacuation of civilians is contemplated only under conditions of utmost seriousness and will be considered only after all other means of insuring mass safety have been evaluated. The plan emphasizes that "In a major disaster every effort should be made to maintain normal productive capacity." It specifies priority groups, limiting evacuation planning generally to persons not essential to maintenance of production and community facilities.

(2) Welfare Services: First line reliance for welfare services is on utilization of facilities of the local community with these resources to be supplemented by other communities. These services, designed to minimize distress and restore morale and self-maintenance, are to "be available without regard to race, creed, residence, nationality, economic class, or other extraneous factors." The services "will be designed for temporary help until individuals or families can be reestablished or other agencies are able to assume responsibility for care of such persons."

The plan establishes the responsibility for care of civilians affected by major disasters as shared by all levels of government assisted by voluntary organizations and individual citizens. Responsibilities at the various levels of government are defined as follows:

(1) Local—(city and county): Responsible for development of programs to meet the needs of their respective jurisdictions, including negotiation of mutual aid agreements with other political subdivisions.

[2] "California State Civil Defense and Disaster Relief Plan, Annex 3e, Evacuation and Welfare Services."

(2) State: To provide leadership in development of operational programs and to continuously evaluate local programs; to provide funds to supplement local resources for care of victims of disaster caused by enemy action; and to be in readiness to assume operating responsibilities as may be required.

(3) Federal: Responsibility for administering a national program and for providing guidance and help to States and coordinating interstate operations and agreements.

The American Red Cross is traditionally responsible for disaster relief activities in peace-time. Under the State plan it continues to carry those responsibilities, including the financing of these programs, in situations of natural disaster. However, its role and responsibilities in war-caused disasters are limited and do not include financial responsibilities. Red Cross personnel and facilities are available to civil defense organizations as arranged at the local levels, but in event of enemy attack the Red Cross would lose its identity as an organization and function as a component of the civil defense organization.

The state plan requires that operational plans be developed at local levels to include the following services:

(1) Designation of assembly centers for temporary care of persons pending their movement, and planning transportation services and routes to reception points;

(2) Establishing suitable facilities for temporary mass shelter and care of the homeless, both within and without the jurisdiction affected by disaster;

(3) Disseminating public information concerning evacuation policies and priorities for evacuation;

(4) Making provision to prevent mass flight of persons not within the areas of destruction;

(5) Arranging for a variety of services on a mass care basis, such as medical examination, first-aid and health services in assembly and reception centers; development of supply and facilities for mass feeding and emergency clothing in centers; providing emergency welfare services for persons enroute to reception centers; appropriate group activities and recreational services in centers.

(6) Establishing procedures for registering and classifying affected persons and registering and identifying persons at assembly points and centers and handling inquiries concerning affected persons;

(7) Providing individualized emergency welfare services, including granting of financial assistance, temporary rehabilitation, rehousing and resettlement, counseling services, and referral of individuals and families to regularly established public and private agencies for continuing care and long-term rehabilitation.

Organization of Evacuation and Welfare Services

The basic state plan provides for a Division of Evacuation and Welfare Services in the State Office of Civil Defense with responsibilities to develop specific plans for state-wide application; integration of plans with other civil defense services; providing advice and assistance to local communities; and to otherwise represent the director in the execution of the responsibilities of the state office for evacuation and welfare services.

At regional levels, the plan provides that the Civil Defense Regional Coordinator will coordinate local plans into regional plans and represent the state office in providing for evacuation and welfare services.

The plan urges designation of an officer responsible for evacuation and welfare services at the city, county, or city-county level with a local operating organization. It provides for an evacuation board comprised of the chiefs of various civil defense services to assist in planning and developing evacuation programs.

This suggested organizational plan at the local level was spelled out in a bulletin from the Director of Civil Defense to local jurisdictions on February 7, 1951.[1] This bulletin urged uniformity in organization and planning to facilitate regional and state-wide action in emergencies and emphasized the need for individual communities to define problems against which they could plan to meet specific assumed conditions. It suggested a basic plan for local organization, developed on a functional basis and providing for the maximum utilization of existing public and private agencies into the planning and operating organizations.

The Developing Program

Only a beginning has been made in development of the welfare services program. Most communities have not yet fully organized these civil defense services.

The approach of the State Office of Civil Defense is that this is essentially a job of organizing and mobilizing existing agencies into a simple and workable operating plan, supplementing their personnel and material resources on a cooperative basis within the community. It recognizes that most of the services to be provided under conditions of extreme emergency are services that are regularly provided by an array of governmental and voluntary welfare agencies. These services need to be organized into a civil defense welfare services operating program and expanded through recruitment of volunteers to cope with disaster conditions.

Thus there is not visualized the establishment of new organizations, but a cooperative alignment of public and voluntary agencies into the civil defense structure. This requires the all-out mobilization of a great many agencies, assigning to them planning and operating functions most nearly fitting their normal scope of activities.

It has also been recognized that the approach of communities will vary in relation to the problems they present. While only a few areas are considered primary targets for enemy atomic attack, no area of the State can consider itself without responsibility for organizing to render maximum assistance and aid to the stricken areas. As a basis for planning, the State Office of Civil Defense classifies areas into three general groups, with primary and secondary welfare services missions as follows:

Target Area: Primary responsibility for caring for own population within limits of resources. Secondary mission of providing assistance to other areas through (1) receiving and caring for refugees, and (2) providing trained personnel and supplies.

Areas surrounding Target Areas: Primary responsibility for receiving and caring for homeless persons from the target areas. Secondary mission of providing trained personnel and supplies to target area communities.

[1] Bulletin No. 16, "Evacuation and Welfare Services—Office of Civil Defense," Sacramento, February 7, 1951.

Areas remote from Target Areas: Primary responsibility for providing trained personnel and supplies to devastated areas. Secondary mission of receiving and caring for homeless persons from other areas.

These definitions reflect the thinking that large-scale evacuation of persons out of the critical areas is neither practicable nor advisable. They assume that the movement of persons out of areas suffering attack will be limited to the resources available for caring for them. As a general rule, only as there was insufficient emergency shelter and supplies would persons be moved out of the immediate vicinity of the devastated areas and then only so far as necessary to provide for them.

In its contact with local jurisdictions, staff of the state office has been emphasizing the need for organization of the welfare services program on a county-wide basis, using the county departments of public welfare as the nucleus around which the emergency organization is developed. The reasons for this are several: (1) it is assumed that disaster needs will be met from state and federal funds to be allocated for use through the county welfare departments; (2) the county welfare departments are the largest welfare organizations in terms of full-time staff; (3) county welfare departments have established fiscal control and accounting units not duplicated in other agencies; and (4) any welfare service program to effectively meet large-scale disaster conditions would need to be organized on a basis larger than any individual city organization, and as such the county is the smallest practical subdivision of government for this purpose.

It can be expected that the county welfare departments will be assigned in most instances the function of developing the local welfare services program, coordinating the planning of city organizations into a county-wide operational porgram. The State Department of Social Welfare would be expected to assist the Office of Civil Defense in development of procedure and policy for application in emergencies, to provide supplementary personnel support in disaster operations, and aid in planning post-disaster operations.

In the event of atomic attack on the larger population centers, the problem would undoubtedly exceed the ability of the county organization to handle it. Thus for operational purposes the Civil Defense Regional Coordinator or the state office itself would be expected to step in to direct welfare services in a state of extreme emergency.

The degree of readiness of the State to cope with a major war-caused disaster will improve week by week Many local Red Cross chapters, experienced in disaster relief, are organized for meeting natural disaster situations. As they are brought into the civil defense organization and expand their planning to meet the larger problems of war-caused disaster, they provide a nucleus for first-phase operations of feeding, shelter, and clothing distribution At present in the larger areas, there is thus a partial state of readiness now to meet initial problems

The primary need now is for intensive and detailed organization at the local level and development of uniform procedure for operations through the state and federal organizations. To be effective, this organization must enlist the active support and cooperation of every public and private agency which has functions and responsibilities for meeting the needs of people.

There is a tremendous amount of detailed planning and surveying that must be done in preparation for operations. Buildings suitable for temporary care of large numbers of persons must be identified and equipment and supply needs determined. Surveys of wholesale and retail stocks of food, clothing, blankets, cooking utensils, and a great variety of other items must be made so that such items may be requisitioned quickly when needed. Plans must be made for meeting the wide variety of needs of thousands of persons quickly and effectively. Consideration must be given to the problem of children, orphaned or separated from their parents, who will need special care facilities and placement. A staggering job of registration and identification of affected persons must be planned for in detail. Procedures must be developed for providing financial aid, not only for food and shelter, but for minor home repair, transportation for relocation of persons, and occupational rehabilitation. Arrangements for billeting individuals in private homes, with all of the attendant difficulties and problems, must be worked out in advance. These and a host of other problems face those engaged in planning and developing civil defense welfare services.

The need for careful and complete organization was emphasized from experiences of England after several years of World War II bombings. In 1944 the Ministry of Health, in its guide on "The Care of the Homeless" made this statement:

> "Experience in all parts of the Country has underlined the necessity for careful organization in advance; nowhere yet has a bombed area suffered from over-organization or from a too ample provision of buildings, equipment or personnel. Experience has shown also the high value of securing in advance the right personnel in the localities, both for organization and operations, and of continuous cooperation both before and after raids between the Ministry's regional office, the local authorities and the voluntary organizations, and between the local authorities and the voluntary organizations of the target areas and those around them. In general, preparations can never be regarded as perfect and complete."

The Impact on Our Public Agencies

Government has the primary responsibility for civil defense. While the facilities and personnel of private agencies must be used to the maximum extent, the basic responsibility and thus the primary burden of organizing for civil defense and of directing and carrying out operations must fall upon our public agencies

In the event of a major disaster resulting from enemy attack, the State and County Welfare Departments must be prepared to radically alter their normal operating processes Particularly at the county level, their first concern must be to quickly meet the needs of all people requiring help. Usual routines will have to be temporarily abandoned.

The impact of such disaster will be of particular concern following the initial emergency or disaster relief phases of disaster operations. The rehabilitation of persons, through re-housing, repair of homes, foster home care of children, re-employment for those whose jobs were bombed out, re-uniting families, and otherwise helping people to assume their normal functions in the community will present tremendous problems. How these functions can be performed effectively while carrying on the normal operating responsibilities of providing public assistance and child welfare services as provided in the Welfare Code will present major problems for our public agencies.

These post-disaster problems will need to be carefully considered and planned for. Once a major emergency develops and is immediately met, emphasis must be given to the quickest possible transition from an emergency welfare services program to normal operating methods. Because of the potential magnitude of this emergency problem, this transition will present especially difficult problems requiring considered and cooperative planning by our state and county agencies and by the Legislature.
