Which of these rules (i.e., the "substantial evidence" rule or the "weight of evidence" rule) will be applicable in a particular case is a question which is always difficult of precise estimation. Stating the problem in other form, it is difficult to predict precisely what type of case the courts will consider as requiring the exercise of independent judgment on the evidence. The rule to be applied is generally made dependent first, upon the particular type of agency involved, and secondly, upon the subject matter with which its decisions deal.

With respect to types of agency involved a distinction is made between agencies which derive their authority in whole or in part from constitutional provisions, and those agencies whose existence is wholly statutory. The scope of judicial inquiry into decisions of a constitutional agency is generally more limited than in the case of an agency whose authority is derived solely from statute. Thus, in Covert v. State Board of Equalization (29 Cal. 2d 125) it was held that because the State Board of Equalization is expressly granted the power, by Section 22 of Article XX of the California Constitution, to deny or revoke liquor licenses, the board's decisions would, on review by the courts, be sustained if no error of law was committed and if the evidence, although conflicting, was sufficient to support its findings of fact. The same rule has been applied to the California Horse Racing Board, whose powers are derived from Section 25a of Article IV of the California Constitution (Southern California Jockey Club v. California Horse Racing Board, 36 Cal. 2d 167).

The Fair Employment Practice Commission, which would be created by Assembly Bill 2000 would be solely a creature of statute, and there would be no constitutional basis for its powers which might be construed to limit the scope of the inquiry into the administrative record on judicial review of the board's decisions.

With respect to the subject matter with which an administrative agency's orders and decisions deal, the extent of the judicial inquiry into the supporting evidence may depend upon whether the orders and decisions affect matters involving property rights or similar rights, or whether mere matters of privilege are involved If property rights are affected by an administrative order or decision, the courts are inclined to make a more thorough review of the supporting record, while in matters of privilege the inquiry will be less exhaustive. That is, in cases involving property rights the courts will frequently exercise independent judgment on the evidence and test the weight of the evidence, while in cases of privilege the review will be confined to examining the record for substantial evidence in support of the administrative decision.

Thus, a distinction is made, in license cases, between an administrative decision which denies a license to an applicant and a decision which revokes an existing license, with the latter being considered a property right and the former a privilege only. The substantial evidence rule is applied in the license application situation and the weight of the evidence rule in the license revocation cases (McDonough v. Goodcell, 13 Cal 2d 741; Laisne v. State Board of Optometry, 19 Cal. 2d 831; Moran v. Board of Medical Examiners, 32 Cal. 2d 309).

The orders and decisions of the Fair Employment Practice Commission could require a respondent to cease and desist from unlawful employment practices (Sec. 1426 *). Such practices include, actions by an employer in refusing to hire an individual, or in barring or discharging him from employment, or in discriminating against him in compensation and terms and conditions of employment, because of his race, religion, color, national origin or ancestry; actions by a labor organization in expelling members; restricting membership, or discriminating against individuals and employers; and actions by employment agencies and employers with respect to employment applications evidencing discriminatory employment and referral practices (Sec. 1420). The commission could order the hiring or reinstatement or upgrading of employees with or without back pay, or the restoration to membership in a labor organization (Sec. 1426).

* Section references are to sections which the bill would add to the Labor Code

It is apparent that many of the rights which would be created by the bill would involve matters in the nature of property interests. Thus, an order requiring an employer to hire or to reinstate an employee with back pay would involve a declaration of his right to a monetary award. Such a right is deemed by the courts to constitute a property right (see Thomas v. California Employment Stabilization Commission, 39 Cal. 2d 501, dealing with the right to unemployment insurance benefits). In addition such an order would directly affect the contract of employment, and the rights of parties under the contract might well be considered to be in the nature of property rights.

Membership in a labor organization is frequently essential to enable an individual to obtain employment in his trade or craft. In this respect such membership is roughly analogous to the possession of a license to practice a profession, and a commission order requiring a union to reinstate an individual to membership is, in that respect, comparable to an administrative order dealing with a license.

Viewing the bill in its entirety it is apparent that the decisions and orders of the commission, in affecting contracts of employment and the right to membership in labor organizations, in fixing money awards, in regulating certain practices of employment agencies, and in other respects, would in almost every case involve or touch upon matters which the courts have considered to be property rights. For these reasons and because there is no constitutional provision which could be construed to limit the extent to which a court could inquire into the administrative record, it is our opinion that a court reviewing a decision or order of the commission would make a complete inquiry into all of the evidence in the record, would exercise its independent judgment on the evidence, and would not restrict the scope of its inquiry to the substantial evidence test.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, April 13, 1957

Hon. Augustus F. Hawkins
Assembly Chamber

Fair Employment Practices—No. 10782

DEAR MR. HAWKINS:

Question

In connection with Assembly Bill No. 2000, introduced at the current session of the Legislature, and amended on April 10, 1957, you have asked the following questions:

1. Does bill allow enforcement of the commission's orders without court action—such as the imposition of penalty without court action?

2. Does bill allow a complainant to go directly to the courts before the holding of a commission hearing?

3. Can a respondent be taken into court prior to a commission hearing?

4. Is the bill in any way contrary to Administrative Procedure Act?

5. Does it allow powers not allowed to any other State Administrative Agency?

6. Is the right of trial by jury denied to any accused person?

7. Would commission hearings be bound by the usual rules of evidence?

8. Are the cease and desist orders as authorized by the proposed Section 1426 of the bill unusual or without precedent for such administrative bodies?

9. Is Section 1430 unusual or without precedent for such agencies in this State where "wilful violation" of a commission order is made a misdemeanor?

10. Is a criminal prosecution for violation of Section 1420, or for failure to obey a commission order under Section 1430, possible without first, a commission hearing, and second, judicial review?

Preliminary Analysis

Before dealing with each of the questions presented we shall review in general what Assembly Bill No. 2000 would accomplish.

The bill would add Part 4.5 to Division 2 of the Labor Code, to create a State Fair Employment Practice Commission to administer its provisions. The commission would be empowered to prevent discriminatory employment practices (Sec. 1421).* A series of activities constituting unlawful employment practices is set out, involving actions by employers, labor organizations, employment agencies, and others, in discriminating against individuals with respect to their acquiring or holding of employment, where the discrimination is based upon race, religion, color, national origin or ancestry (Sec. 1420). Accusations may be filed with the commission and the commission is required to conduct investigations (Secs. 1422, 1421). The commission must first attempt to eliminate any unlawful practices found to exist by means of conference, conciliation, and mediation (Secs. 1421, 1423). If such measures fail the commission is empowered to conduct hearings pursuant to the Provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act (Gov. C., Secs. 11500 et seq.), and issue orders to cease and desist from unlawful practices found to exist (Secs. 1423, 1424, 1425, 1426 and 1427). Every such final order or decision is subject to judicial review as provided by law (Sec. 1428). In addition, the commission may seek injunctive relief in the superior court to stop any violations of its final orders (Sec. 1429). Wilful violation of any final order of the commission or wilful resistance, prevention, impedance or interference with commission members or agents in the performance of their duties is a misdemeanor (Sec. 1430).

Opinion Question No. 1

The bill does not provide for the enforcement of the commission's orders or the imposition of penalties for their violation without court action.

*Section numbers used refer to sections proposed to be added to the Labor Code by the bill.

Analysis Question No. 1

The need for action to enforce an order of the commission would arise where the order was being violated or where its violation was threatened. The bill contains provisions to provide for both eventualities.

Section 1429 would be added to the Labor Code to provide that whenever the commission, on the basis of presented evidence, believes that a person "is violating or is about to violate any final order or decision issued by it pursuant to this part, the commission may bring an action in the Superior Court * * * against any such person to enjoin him from continuing the violation or engaging therein or in doing anything in furtherance thereof." In addition, wilful violation of a commission order is made a misdemeanor (Sec. 1430).

The bill specifies no other means for enforcing commission orders or penalizing persons for their violation, nor does it appear that any other means of enforcement can be implied from the other terms of the bill. It is our opinion, therefore, that the orders of the commission cannot be enforced nor can penalties for their violation be imposed without court action.

Opinion and Analysis—Question No. 2

The bill would not permit a complainant to undertake an action in the courts prior to hearings before the commisison.

The rights and liabilities which would be created by Assembly Bill No. 2000 would be new in the law. The procedures for redress for the violation of the newly created rights would be spelled out in considerable detail and would involve administrative adjudication, enforcement of administrative orders and decisions by equitable action in the courts, and would permit judicial review of the orders.

As a general rule, where a statute establishes a right and specifies the procedure by which violations of the right are to be redressed, the remedies in the statute are to be deemed exclusive (see 1 Cal. Jur. 2d 711).

Since Assembly Bill No. 2000 would provide detailed remedies to be pursued for violation of the rights created, and since the bill contains no provision which could be construed as evincing an intent to permit recourse to other remedies, it is our opinion that a complainant would be required to adhere strictly to the remedies specified therein and could not initiate court proceedings prior to a commission hearing.

Opinion and Anaylsis—Question No. 3

A respondent could not be made subject to the judgment or orders of a court before exhaustion of the procedures set out for hearings before the commission

This question is, of course, the converse of the problem presented by Question No. 3. Since its does not appear that a complainant could resort to court action on the rights created by Assembly Bill No. 2000 prior to exhaustion of the administrative remedies provided, it follows that no respondent could be subjected to such action. A respondent's liability to court action can arise only after an order or decision is made by the commission.

Opinion and Analysis—Question No. 4

The bill contains no provisions which would create a conflict with the Administrative Procedure Act.

The Administrative Procedure Act is set out in Sections 11500 to 11528 of the Government Code, and establishes the procedure to be followed in the conduct of hearings by administrative agencies to whom its provisions are made applicable. The procedures set out in the act begin with the manner in which a copy of the accusation filed with the agency is to be served on the respondent, and cover in detail the manner in which hearings are to be conducted, the procedures for compelling the production of evidence, and the manner in which decisions are to be formulated, and specifies the statutory provisions to be utilized to gain review by the courts.

The bill would empower the commission to hold hearings, subpena witnesses, compel attendance, administer oaths, and examine persons under oath and require the production of books and papers in connection therewith (Sec. 1419, subdivision g). The Attorney General or any aggrieved person would be authorized to file verified written accusations with the commission (Sec. 1422). All hearings would be conducted pursuant to the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act, and the commission would have all of the powers granted therein (Sec. 1424). Prior endeavors at conciliation would not be permitted to be received in evidence; any commissioner who participated in the investigation of a case and caused a notice to be issued would be disqualified from participating in the hearing except as a witness, and the case in support of an accusation could be presented by the commission's agents or attorneys (Sec. 1425). The commission would be empowered, in its decisions, to issue orders to cease and desist from committing unlawful practices, to require a respondent to take affirmative action, including hiring, reinstatement or upgrading of employees with or without back pay, and restoration to labor union membership (Sec 1426).

None of these provisions in Assembly Bill No. 2000 would appear to present a conflict with the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act, nor is any such conflict created by the other provisions of the bill, either when considered separately or as a whole.

Opinion Question No. 5

Although the subject matter to which the powers of the Fair Employment Practices Commission would relate is not directly comparable to that administered by any other state agency, and the combination of the powers given the commission may not exactly duplicate those given to any other agency, the commission would be given no power which could be considered unusual or extraordinary for an administrative agency.

Analysis—Question No. 5

The chief function of the Fair Employment Practices Commission would be to prevent discriminatory employment practices, and the powers given such a body will vary somewhat from those given other agencies charged with other duties. The bill would grant to the commission numerous powers which are so commonly imparted to administrative bodies as to require no discussion, and we shall, therefore, confine the analysis to the powers granted by Assembly Bill No. 2000 which might be considered somewhat unusual.

Advisory agencies and conciliation councils. The commission would be authorized to create advisory agencies and conciliation councils, and could empower them to make studies and recommendations.

The power to appoint such bodies is not an unusual one to be given a governmental agency. Thus, the California Veteran's Board is authorized to appoint such bodies (see M. & V. C., Sec. 73). Such bodies are also frequently established by statute to advise the Governor or other governmental officer or body (see W. & I. C., Sec. 2370; and M. & V. C., Sec. 1520). Empowering the commission to establish such bodies would not, therefore, constitute an extraordinary innovation.

Conciliation. The first step prescribed by the bill in the handling of an alleged unfair employment practice would be for the commission to attempt to eliminate the practice by conciliation, conference, and persuasion (Sec. 1421). Such a procedural requirement is not generally required of an administrative agency, although it is not unusual in statutory law (see, for example, C. C. P., Secs. 1730 et seq., Childrens Court of Conciliation Law; and Ag. C., Secs. 1152 and 4009 authorizing the Director of Agriculture to act as an arbitrator).

Cease and desist orders and affirmative action. The commission would be empowered to issue orders requiring affirmative action to require the hiring or reinstatement of employees on their jobs, or reinstatement to union membership (Sec. 1426).

Orders requiring such action are frequently authorized by statute. Thus, the insurance commissioner is empowered to order affirmative action such as cancellation of contracts (see Ins. C., Sec. 12928.5), and similar broad authority is given the superintendent of banks (see Fin. C., Secs. 18806, 18814).

Court action to enforce orders. The commission would be empowered to bring an action in the superior court for injunctive relief to enforce its final orders (Sec. 1429). Such powers are frequently given to administrative officers or bodies (see Ins. C., Sec. 12928.6, authorizing such action by the Insurance Commissioner; and Fin. C., Sec. 18817 giving such powers to the superintendent of banks).

No other powers to be granted the commission appear to involve matters not customarily permitted of administrative agencies.

Opinion—Question No. 6

Any person charged with wilfully resisting, preventing, impeding or interfering with the commission in the performance of its duties, or charged with wilful violation of a commission order would be entitled to a jury trial. The unlawful employment practices specified in the bill are not made crimes and would be subject to the rules governing ordinary administrative procedures.

Analysis—Question No. 6

The sole provision of Assembly Bill No. 2000 which provides criminal liability is proposed Section 1430. This provision would make it a misdemeanor to wilfully resist, prevent, impede, or interfere with any commission member or any of its agents or agencies in the performance of duties or to wilfully violate a commission order. A prosecution under this section would be a regular criminal proceeding and an accused person would be entitled to a jury trial.

The unlawful employment practices set out in Section 1420 of the bill are not made crimes. Persons committing the acts would be subject only to administrative sanctions. No jury trial is generally afforded in administrative proceedings, and none would be provided for such proceedings by the bill. Hearings would be conducted before the commission, and the latter body would be empowered to weigh the evidence and make decisions. Although the right to a jury trial is guaranteed by the Constitution (Calif. Const. Art. I, Sec. 7) the courts have held that the right so guaranteed is the right as it existed at common law (See Gregory v. Hecke, 73 Cal. App. 268; Phyle v. Duffy, 34 Cal. 2d 144). Consequently, for the administrative proceedings which Assembly Bill No. 2000 would establish, there would be no right to a jury trial.

The decisions of the commission would be subject to judicial review as provided by law (Sec. 1428), and the applicable provisions of law would be those contained in Section 1094.5 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Under subdivision (b) of Section 1094.5, the superior court is authorized to make inquiry with respect to whether the commission proceeded without jurisdiction or in excess of jurisdiction, whether there was a fair trial, and whether there was prejudicial abuse of discretion. No provision for jury trial is contained in Section 1094.5.

Thus, an accused person would be entitled to a jury trial on any criminal charge filed, but no jury trial would be available in the administrative proceedings.

Opinion and Analysis—Question No. 7

Commission hearings would be subject to the usual rules of evidence applicable to administrative agencies which conduct hearings pursuant to the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act.

All hearings of the Fair Employment Practices Commission would be conducted pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act (Gov. C., Sec. 11500, et seq.), under Section 1424 of the bill. With respect to the rules of evidence applicable to such hearings the act (at Sec. 11513, Gov. C.) provides in part as follows:

> "(c) The hearing need not be conducted according to technical rules relating to evidence and witnesses. Any relevant evidence shall be admitted if it is the sort of evidence on which responsible persons are accustomed to rely in the conduct of serious affairs, regardless of the existence of any common law or statutory rule which might make improper the admission of such evidence over objection in civil actions. Hearsay evidence may be used for the purpose of supplementing or explaining any direct evidence but shall not be sufficient in itself to support a finding unless it would be admissible over objection in civil actions. The rules of privilege shall be effective to the same extent that they are now or hereafter may be recognized in civil actions, and irrelevant and unduly repetitious evidence shall be excluded."

Under this provision the technical rules of evidence applicable in courts of law would not be used. Hearsay evidence would be admissible to supplement and explain direct evidence, although hearsay evidence alone would be insufficient to support a finding.

The rules of evidence established by this section are those customarily applicable to hearings conducted by all administrative agencies to whom the Administrative Procedure Act is made applicable.

Opinion and Analysis—Question No. 8

Though the number of administrative agencies authorized to issue cease and desist orders are relatively few, the existence of such powers in a governmental agency is not without precedent nor is it so unusual as to constitute an extraordinary innovation.

We believe that the discussion of the powers of the commission set out in the Analysis to Question No. 5 forms a sufficient basis for the opinion on this question.

Opinion and Analysis—Question No. 9

A statute making the violation of an order of an administrative agency a misdemeanor is not an unusual provision in the laws of this State.

Section 1430 of the bill would make a misdemeanor of any wilful violation of an order of the commission. There are a number of such provisions in the statutory law of the State, of which the following are illustrative.

It is a misdemeanor to violate an order or recommendation of the Division of Industrial Safety, made with respect to causes of industrial injuries (Lab. C., Sec 6315). Violation of the orders of the Industrial Welfare Commission with respect to hours of work and conditions of employment for women and minors is a misdemeanor (Lab. C., Sec. 1198). Violation of the rules, orders, and regulations of the Commissioner of Corporations with respect to industrial loan companies is a misdemeanor (Fin. C., 18054). Violation of certain final orders of the insurance commissioner pertaining to insurance rates is a misdemeanor (Ins. C., Sec. 18591).

There are but a few of the provisions of the codes which make violation of the orders of an administrative agency a misdemeanor.

Opinion Question No. 10

No criminal prosecution for violation of a commission order could occur prior to an administrative hearing and opportunity for judicial review. The unlawful employment practices set out in Section 1420 of the bill are not made crimes, their commission would subject no one to criminal prosecution and redress for their commission would be afforded by requiring compliance with commission orders.

Analysis Question No. 10

The only orders which the commission would be empowered to issue would be those authorized by the provision to add Section 1426 to the Labor Code. The orders could issue only after the commission had held hearings and made findings Thus, no criminal violation of a commission order could occur until administrative hearings had been held and the respondent would, under Section 1428, be entitled to petition for judicial review of the order. Criminal prosecution for violation of an order could occur without judicial review of the order only in those cases where the respondent had failed to apply for such review.

With respect to the unlawful employment practices set out in Section 1420, the bill contains no provision making them a crime. The use of the word "unlawful" in a statute does not of itself establish a crime. Section 15 of the Penal Code defines a crime as follows:

"15. A crime or public offense is an act committed or omitted in violation of a law forbidding it or commanding it, and to which is annexed, upon conviction, either of the following punishments:

1. Death;
2. Imprisonment;
3. Fine;
4. Removal from office; or
5. Disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit in this State."

To constitute a crime, therefore, an offense must carry with it a penalty or punishment. No penalty or punishment as specified by Section 15 of the Penal Code is annexed by Assembly Bill No. 2000 to the commission of the unlawful acts contained in Section 1420, nor is there a general provision of law which would make them a crime. The sole remedies provided for redress of the unlawful acts are wholly administrative in character, and no criminal liability would attach upon their commission.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Mr McCollister asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent that the following communication be ordered printed in the Journal:

COMMUNICATION RELATIVE TO ASSEMBLY BILL NO. 484

PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION
STATE OF CALIFORNIA
SAN FRANCISCO 2, April 12, 1957

Hon. Charles Edward Chapel
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

MY DEAR ASSEMBLYMAN: I have your letter of April 11, 1957, together with a letter sent to you by Mr. Claude Minard, relating to Assembly Bill No. 484. Mr. Minard's letter is returned herewith, as you requested.

You will recall that item 7 of our suggestions of January 9, 1956, was to the effect that a paragraph be added to Section 726 of the Public Utilities Code, providing that if a common carrier subject to regulation under the Public Utilities Act desired to transport at less than minimum rates, the commission shall authorize the lesser rate upon finding it to be reasonable. The language suggested was substantially the same as Section 3666, applicable to permitted noncommon carriers under the Highway Carriers Act. Item 8 of our suggestions noted that Section 4015, applicable to city carriers, had substantially the same language, but included the phrase "and consistent with the public interest." We suggested that the latter phrase might be stricken from Section 4015. These suggestions were made in the interest of uniformity.

You will also recall that thereafter Mr. Arlo Poe suggested that the words "and consistent with the public interest" should be retained in Section 4015 (item 8 of suggestions) and should be added to the proposed new paragraph of Section 726 (item 7 of suggestions). On April 10, 1956 we advised you that we had no objections to Mr. Poe's suggestions.

Following hearings before your interim committee, item 8 was dropped from the agenda, and item 7 resulted in Assembly Bill No. 484.

It now appears that there is a difference of opinion between the railroad and trucking interests as to the propriety of the words "and consistent with the public interest" presently in Assembly Bill No. 484, and that it is unlikely that these conflicting interests will be able to reconcile their differences during the current session. Under these circumstances we have no desire to press the bill at this session. Introduction of the bill, however, has been most helpful in that it has brought the situation to the attention of the transportation industry and other interests. Perhaps the conflicting positions that now exist can be resolved before the next legislative session, and a greater degree of uniformity achieved at that time.

May I assure you that your continued interest in regulatory problems and in helping us meet those problems is very much appreciated here at the commission.

Very cordially yours,

PETER E. MITCHELL, President

Gracious God and Heavenly Father, Who dost desire that Thy children may know wisdom and truth; remind us that the most important things in life cannot be bought, begged, borrowed, or stolen; they are only received as they are given away. Make us know that love and peace, happiness and friendship, must be shared in order to be possessed. Lead us, O Lord, into the paths of unselfish service, that in losing ourselves for Thee and for our neighbors, we may find ourselves and know the true joy of living; through Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Lord.—AMEN.

1195.1. If a work of improvement consists in the construction of two or more separate residential units, each such unit shall be considered a separate "work of improvement" or "improvement," and the time for filing claims of lien against each such residential unit as provided in this chapter shall commence to run upon the completion of each such residential unit. A separate residential unit is defined as consisting of one residential structure together with any garages or other outbuildings appurtenant thereto The provisions of this qualification shall not impair any rights conferred under the provisions of Sections 1192.1, 1194.1, and 1184.1 of this code. Materials delivered to or upon any portion of said entire work of improvement or furnished to be used in said entire work of improvement and ultimately used or consumed in one of such separate residential units shall, for all the purposes of this chapter, be deemed to have been furnished to be used or consumed in the separate residential unit in which the same shall have been actually used or consumed; provided, however, that if the lien claimant is unable to segregate the amounts used on or consumed in such separate units he shall be entitled to all the benefits of Section 1194.1 of this code.

SEC. 2. A general revision of the mechanics' lien law was effected by Chapter 1159 of the Statutes of 1951. Section 5 of the chapter provided that nothing therein was to be construed as an alteration in the public policy or legislative intent regarding the law or its meaning or substance. In the transposition of provisions from Section 1187 of the Code of Civil Procedure to Section 1195.1, the phrase "or furnished to be used in said entire work of improvement" was inadvertently omitted. The purpose of this act is to remedy that inadvertence and thus to preclude any interpretation that Chapter 1159 of the Statutes of 1951, in adding Section 1195.1, did, contrary to expressly stated legislative intention, effect a substantive change."

THIRD READING OF ASSEMBLY BILLS

Assembly Bill No. 785—An act to amend Section 20254 of the Education Code, relating to schools and colleges under the jurisdiction of the Department of Education, and making an appropriation.

Bill read third time.

Recommendation of the Governor

In accordance with Article IV, Section 34, of the Constitution, the Governor presented the following communication recommending the consideration of Assembly Bill No. 785:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
GOVERNOR'S OFFICE, SACRAMENTO, April 11, 1957

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly
Sacramento, California
GENTLEMEN:

Assembly Bill No. 785, "An act to amend Section 20254 of the Education Code, relating to schools and colleges under the jurisdiction of the Department of Education, and making an appropriation,"

in my opinion constitutes an emergency bill within the meaning of that term as used in Section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, the consideration of which should not await the final enactment of the Budget Bill.

This bill was introduced at the request of the State Department of Education to make a corrective amendment in Section 20254 of the Education Code relating to agreements by the State Director of Education for the performance of services for federal agencies by schools or colleges under his jurisdiction. It further appears that among the existing provisions retained in this section, there is an appropriation but that no additional funds are made available for expenditure by this bill. In these circumstances, prompt consideration of this bill is desirable and no purpose would be served by withholding action upon it until after final passage of the Budget Bill.

I therefore recommend consideration of Assembly Bill No. 785 as an emergency measure.

Respectfully submitted,

GOODWIN J. KNIGHT, Governor

SEC. 3. Section 4453 of the Labor Code is amended to read:

4453. In computing average annual earnings for the purposes of temporary disability indemnity only, the average weekly earnings shall be taken at not less than twenty-three dollars and eight cents ($23.08) nor more than [sixty-one dollars and fifty-four cents ($61.54)] eighty-four dollars and sixty-two cents ($84.62). In computing average annual earnings for purposes of permanent disability indemnity, the average weekly earnings shall be taken at not less than twenty-three dollars and eight cents ($23.08) nor more than [fifty-three dollars and eighty-five cents ($53.85)] sixty-one dollars and fifty-four cents ($61.54). Between these limits the average weekly earnings, except as provided in Sections 4456 to 4459, shall be arrived at as follows:

(a) Where the employment is for 30 or more hours a week and for five or more working days a week, the average weekly earnings shall be 95 percent of the number of working days a week times the daily earnings at the time of the injury.

(b) Where the employee is working for two or more employers at or about the time of the injury, the average weekly earnings shall be taken as 95 percent of the aggregate of such earnings from all employments computed in terms of one week; but the earnings from employments other than the employment in which the injury occurred shall not be taken at a higher rate than the hourly rate paid at the time of the injury.

95 percent of the sum which reasonably represents the average weekly earning capacity of the injured employee at the time of his injury, due consideration being given to his actual earnings from all sources and employments.

SEC. 4. Section 4455 of the Labor Code is hereby amended to read:

4455. If the injured employee is under 21 years of age, and his incapacity is permanent, his average weekly earnings shall be deemed, within the limits fixed in Section 4453, to be the weekly sum which under ordinary circumstances he would probably be able to earn at the age of 21 years, in the occupation in which he was employed at the time of the injury or in any occupation to which he would reasonably have been promoted if he had not been injured. If such probable earnings at the age of 21 years cannot reasonably be determined, his average weekly earnings shall be taken as [fifty-three dollars and eighty-five cents ($53.85)] sixty-one dollars and fifty-four cents ($61.54).

SEC. 5. Section 4460 of the Labor Code is amended to read:

4460. Every computation made pursuant to this section as last amended shall be made only with reference to temporary disability or such permanent disability resulting from an original injury sustained after the act last amending this section becomes effective; provided, however, that all rights presently existing under this section shall be continued in force."

OPINION OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, April 18, 1957

Honorable Harold K. Levering
Assembly Chamber

Workmen's Compensation—No. 11418

DEAR MR. LEVERING:

Question

You have asked us whether the amendments to Senate Bill No. 68 adopted in the Assembly on April 17, 1957, are germane to the bill.

Opinion

While the question in the final analysis is one for the Assembly itself, it is our opinion that the amendments would not be germane to the bill as introduced if a strict construction of Rule No. 96 of the Assembly Standing Rules is followed. If the House applies a liberal construction, however, the amendments could possibly be held germane since they relate to the same general subject as the bill.

Analysis

Senate Bill No. 68, as introduced, amends Section 4753 of the Labor Code to extend the termination date of the 1955 amendments to Sections 4751 and 4753 of the Labor Code, relating to the liability of the Subsequent Injuries Fund for injuries under the workmen's compensation provisions.

The amendments to the bill adopted in the Assembly on April 17, 1957 amend various other sections relating to workmen's compensation to provide for increases in the amounts of workmen's compensation payable.

Rule 9 of the Joint Rules of the Legislature reads:

> "A substitute or amendment must relate to the same subject as the original bill, constitutional amendment or resolution under consideration."

Since both the bill as introduced and the amendments relate to the same general subject, workmen's compensation, the amendments would not appear to violate Joint Rule 9.

However, Rule 96 of the Assembly Standing Rules reads, in part, as follows:

> "96. No amendment to any bill, whether reported by a committee or offered by a member, shall be in order when such amendment relates to a different subject, or is intended to accomplish a different purpose, or requires a title essentially different from the original title of any bill."

The amendments would not require an amendment to the relating clause of the bill. However, if the rule is construed strictly, the amendments would appear to be intended to accomplish a different purpose than the bill as introduced. As introduced, the bill would extend the termination date of provisions limiting the liability of the Subsequent Injuries Fund while the amendments would provide for increases in the amounts of workmen's compensation payable.

In the final analysis, however, the answer to your question depends upon whether the Assembly is to follow a strict or liberal construction in construing Rule 96. If the rule is liberally construed it could be held that the amendments are germane since they relate to the same general subject as the bill as introduced. However, if a strict construction of the rule is followed, the amendments would not appear to be germane since a different purpose is accomplished by the amendments than by the bill, as introduced.

Very truly yours,

RALPH N. KLEPS, Legislative Counsel
By OWEN K. KUNS, Deputy

Two copies to Honorable F. Presley Abshire pursuant to Joint Rule 34.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO SUSPEND RULE 58

Mr. Kilpatrick asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent that Rule 58 be suspended for the purpose of hearing Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 65 in the Committee on Constitutional Amendments on Monday, April 22, 1957.

1300.4. The person conducting the hearing shall report the proceedings of the hearing to the commission prior to its next regular meeting.

1300.5. The commission at its next regular meeting following any such public hearing, after considering the proceedings as reported and considering the recommendations submitted by the boards of supervisors of the affected counties, shall determine the number, if any, of deer that may be taken in each unit or area, the season for such taking, the fee, if any, for the permits, such regulations as are deemed necessary to provide for such taking and the type of permits to be issued.

The commission before it permits the taking of deer in any area in Siskiyou, Modoc, Trinity, Shasta, Lassen, Plumas, or Sierra County shall solicit the recommendations of the board of supervisors of each county containing any of the area affected. The commission shall not permit the taking of deer contrary to such recommendations.

1300 6. If the permits are to be used during the general deer hunting season they may authorize the taking of antlerless deer only. If they are for taking other than during the general deer hunting season they may authorize the taking of both antlerless and male deer.

1300.7. The commission has no power under this chapter to authorize the taking of spotted fawn, which as used in this chapter means a young deer born that year which has spotted pelage plainly visible, nor spike buck, which as used in this chapter means a male deer with unbranched antlers on both sides which are more than three inches in length.

1300.8. Permits shall be issued on a first-come first-served basis or a public drawing in the manner determined by the commission which may include issuance of a specified number on a first-come first-served basis at the county seat of a county in the unit or area involved. Issuance on a first-come first-served basis in the unit or area shall be set at such time in advance of the drawing so that applicants may still participate in any drawing for the same unit or area if unsuccessful on the first-come first-served basis.

1300.9. An application may specify a first and second preference of the unit or area and if unsuccessful in the first choice drawing the application shall be considered for the second choice unit or area.

1300.10. All applicants shall be licensed hunters and shall have purchased deer license tags. The commission may require a general season deer license tag to be used with, or in place of, or surrendered in return for a permit.

SEC. 2. Section 4 is added to said code, to read.

4. "Antlerless deer" means female deer, fawns of either sex except young deer born that year which have spotted pelage plainly visible, and male deer with unbranched antlers on both sides which are less than three inches in length.

SEC. 3. Section 16.3 of said code is amended to read.

16.3. Any order of the commission pursuant to this article relating to birds and mammals may apply to all or any districts or portions thereof, at the discretion of the commission, and may do any or all of the following as to any or all species or varieties:

(a) Establish, extend, shorten, or abolish open seasons and closed seasons.

(b) Establish, change, or abolish bag limits and possession limits.

(c) Establish and change territorial limits for the taking of any or all species or varieties.

(d) Prescribe the manner and the means of taking any species or variety.

(e) Establish, change, or abolish restrictions based upon sex, maturity, or other physical distinctions.

The commission has no power under this article to make any order authorizing or permitting the taking of any bird or mammal in any refuge or preserve heretofore or hereafter established by statute and no order of the commission authorizing or permitting such taking shall hereafter be effective for such purpose [; provided, however, the provisions of this paragraph shall not apply to Districts 1M and 4F until the ninety-first day after final adjournment of the 1955 Regular Session of the Legislature].

The commission has no power under this article to authorize the taking of antlerless deer.

SEC. 4. Section 16.4 of said code is repealed.

SEC. 5. Section 39.1 of said code is amended to read:

39.1. Whenever after due investigation the commission shall find that big game animals and upland game birds, other than antlerless deer, have increased in numbers in any [fish and game district] area, other than a refuge or preserve heretofore or hereafter established by statute, to such an extent that a surplus exists, or to such an extent that such animals or birds are damaging public or private property, or are overgrazing their range, the commission is hereby authorized to provide, by order, for a [special] hunting season for such animals and birds, additional to, or concurrent with any open season specified by law; or to provide for increased bag limits; or to remove sex restrictions specified by law. The taking of antlerless deer may be authorized under this section if the commission determines they are damaging or destroying land or property. Prior to the making of such an order the commission at an open meeting shall publicly announce the contents of the proposed order and fix a time and place at which a hearing on the proposed order shall be held. The time shall be not less than 35 days from the day of said meeting and the place shall be the county seat of the county in which the area to be affected by the order lies, or, if such area lies in more than one county, the county seat of the county in which the greater portion of such area lies. Notice of the hearing shall be published at least once, and at least 30 days prior to the hearing, in a newspaper of general circulation in each of the counties affected by the order as well as in the county in which the hearing is to be held, or if no such newspaper is published in said county or counties then in such a newspaper in an adjoining county. The hearing shall be conducted by either (a) the commission, (b) a member of the commission designated by it, or (c) the director, if requested so to do by the commission. Such employees of the department as may be necessary or are requested by any interested group s of persons, shall be present at the hearing. After the hearing the commission may abandon the proposal or make a final order, with any modifications it deems appropriate or without modification.

The order may fix a license fee [for special hunting], designate the number of special licenses to be issued, and the area in which such hunting will be permitted, the number and sex of animals or birds that may be killed by each holder of special license, and the conditions and regulations to govern such hunting. The money received from the sale of such licenses shall be paid into the Fish and Game Preservation Fund."

Gracious God and Merciful Father in Heaven, Who didst send Thy Son, Jesus Christ, into the world, and who didst allow Him to die upon the Cross, that men might live; grant that we may see in the evil darkness of that first Good Friday the blackness of our own sin. But even more, as we stand before that Cross, may we behold the brightness of the measureless love Thou hast for us. Help us to believe in Thy Son and to live in His way, that we may prove to be worth saving, and may declare to the world that the sacrifice on Golgotha's summit was not in vain; through Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Lord —AMEN

Recommendation of the Governor

In accordance with Article IV, Section 34, of the Constitution, the Governor presented the following communication recommending the consideration of Assembly Bill No. 3348:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
SACRAMENTO, April 18, 1957

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly
Sacramento, California
GENTLEMEN:

Assembly Bill No. 3348, "An act to amend Sections 4276, 4277, 4329, 4330, 4351, 4353, 4356, 4357, 4358, 4405, and the title of Chapter 8 (commencing at Section 4350) of Part 4, Division 2 of, and to repeal Sections 4328, 4332, 4333, 4350, 4359, and 4360 of, the Water Code, relating to watermaster service, and making an appropriation."

in my opinion constitutes an emergency bill within the meaning of that term as used in Section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, the consideration of which should not await the final enactment of the Budget Bill.

This bill amends a number of sections of the Water Code relating to watermaster service. It further appears that among its provisions there is an appropriation, but that no additional funds are made available for expenditure. In these circumstances, prompt consideration of this bill is desirable and no purpose would be served by withholding action upon it until after final passage of the Budget Bill

I therefore recommend consideration of Assembly Bill No. 3348 as an emergency measure.

Respectfully submitted,

GOODWIN J. KNIGHT, Governor

Said report by said zone advisory board shall be made within 30 days after the mailing to each of its members of a statement of proposed zone action and request for a report thereon by said zone advisory board. Said report may contain majority and minority opinions. Sec. 11. The board may institute projects for single zones and joint projects for two or more zones, for the financing, constructing, maintaining, operating, extending, repairing or otherwise improving any work or improvement of common benefit to such zones or participating zones and may establish zones. For the purpose of acquiring authority to proceed with any such project or establishment of a zone, the board shall adopt a resolution specifying its intention to undertake such project or zone establishment, together with the engineering estimates of the cost of any project to be borne by the particular zone and in the case of participating zones the proportionate cost to be borne by each of the participating zones and fixing a time and place for public hearing of said resolution and which shall refer to a map or maps showing the general location and general construction of said project or proposed zone. Notice of such hearing shall be given by publication once a week for two consecutive weeks prior to said hearing, the last publication of which notice must be at least seven (7) days before said hearing, in a newspaper of general circulation, circulated in such zone or each of said participating zones, if there be such newspaper, and if there be no such newspaper then by posting notice for two consecutive weeks prior to said hearing in five public places designated by the board, in such zone or territory of a proposed zone or in each of said participating zones. Said notice must designate a public place in such zone or territory of a proposed zone or in each of said participating zones where a copy or copies of the map or maps of said joint project may be seen by any interested person. Said map must be posted in each of said public places so designated in said notice at least two weeks prior to said hearing.

At the time and place fixed for the hearing, or at any time to which said hearing may be continued, the board shall consider all written and oral objections to the proposed project or zone. Upon the hearing, the board may modify the proportionate cost of any project to be borne by each of the participating zones according to the benefits to be derived from the project by the participating zones. Upon the hearing, the board may modify the boundaries of the proposed zone, as set forth in the resolution of intention to establish the zone, by excluding therefrom any land which would not be benefited by inclusion in the zone; the boundaries shall not be modified to include any land not described in the resolution of intention. At [Upon] the conclusion of the hearing the board may abandon the proposed project or zone or proceed with the same, unless prior to the conclusion of said hearing a written protest against the proposed project or zone signed by a majority in number of the holders of title to real property, or assessable rights therein, or evidence of title thereto, representing one-half or more of the assessed valuation of the real property within such zone or within any of the participating zones for which said project was initiated or the territory to be included in the proposed zone, be filed with the board, in which event further proceedings relating to such project or zone must be suspended for not less than six months following the date of the conclusion of said hearing, or said proceedings may be abandoned in the discretion of the board.

In all matters in this section referred to, the last equalized assessment roll of the County of Marin next preceding the filing of the protest shall be prima facie evidence as to the ownership of real property, the names and number of the persons who are the holders of title or evidence of title, or assessable rights therein, and as to the assessed valuation of real property within the zone, or proposed zone, or within any of the participating zones for which the project was initiated.

Executors, administrators, special administrators and guardians may sign the protest provided for in this act on behalf of the estate represented by them If the property is assessed in the name of such representatives, that fact shall establish the right of such representatives to sign the protest; if assessed in the name of the decedent, minor or incompetent person, certified copies of the letters or such other evidence as may be satisfactory to the board must be produced

Where real property appears to be owned in common or jointly or by a partnership, or where letters of representatives of decedents, minors or guardians are joint, only one of the owners or representatives or partners may sign the protest for all joint owners or representatives or partners; provided, the party claiming the right to protest for all produces the written consent of his co-owners or representatives or partners so to do, duly acknowledged by the consenting co-owners or representatives or partners in the manner that deeds of real property are required to be acknowledged to entitle such deeds to be recorded in the recorder's office of the county except that if the property jointly held is held by husband and wife and occupied by them as a dwelling, if the other spouse consents, the protest may be signed by either spouse without producing written evidence of the other's consent.

Where real property is assessed in the name of a trustee or trustees, such trustee or trustees shall be deemed to be the person entitled to sign the protest, and if assessed in the name of more than one trustee the right to sign the protest shall be determined in like manner as above provided with respect to co-owners.

The protest of any public or quasi-public corporation, private corporation or unincorporated association, may be signed by any person authorized by the board of directors or trustees or other managing body thereof, which authorization shall be in writing; and a proxy executed by an officer or officers thereof, attested by its seal and duly acknowledged, shall constitute sufficient evidence of such authority, and shall be filed with the board.

The owner of any real property or interest therein, appearing upon the assessment roll, which has been assessed in the wrong name or to unknown owners or which has passed from the owner appearing as such on the last equalized assessment roll, since the same was made, shall be entitled to sign the protest represented thereby, either by the production of a proxy from such former owner, or by furnishing evidence of his ownership by a conveyance duly acknowledged showing the title to be vested in the person claiming the right to sign the protest, accompanied by a certificate of a competent searcher of titles, certifying that a search of the official records of the county, since the date of the conveyance, discloses no conveyance or transfer out from the grantee or transferee named in the conveyance

Where the real property has been contracted to be sold, the vendee shall be entitled to sign the protest, unless such real property is assessed in the name of the vendor, in which event the vendor shall be entitled to so do.

The board shall likewise be entitled to inquire and take evidence for the purpose of identifying any person claiming the right to sign the protest as being the person shown on the assessment roll or otherwise as entitled thereto. And, unless satisfactory evidence is furnished, the right to sign said protest may be denied.

SEC. 6. Section 12 of said act is amended to read:

Sec. 12. The board shall have power, in any year:

In the event of project cooperation with any of the governmental bodies as authorized in subdivision 7 of Section 5 of this act, and requiring the making of a contract with any such governmental body for the purposes set forth in said subdivision 7, by the terms of which work is to be performed by any governmental body in any specified zone or participating zones, for the particular benefit thereof, and by said proposed contract the district is to pay to such governmental body, a sum of money in consideration or subvention for the performance of said work by such governmental body, the board may, after proceedings in the manner prescribed in Section 11 of this act, levy and collect a special tax or assessment upon the property in such zone or participating zones, whereby to raise funds to enable the district to make such payment, in addition to other taxes or assessments herein otherwise provided for.]

3. The aggregate of all ad valorem taxes or assessments levied under this act for any one fiscal year shall not exceed one dollar ($1) on each one hundred dollars ($100) of assessed valuation of the taxable property in said zones exclusive of any tax levied to meet the bonded indebtedness of any of said zones and the interest thereon, and exclusive of any tax levied pursuant to subdivision 1 of this Section 12.

4. Said taxes or assessments shall be levied and collected together with, and not separately from taxes for county purposes, and the revenues derived from said district taxes or assessments shall be paid into the county treasury to the credit of said district, or the respective zones thereof, and the board shall have the power to control and order the expenditure thereof for said purposes; provided, however, that no revenues, or portions thereof, derived in any zone from the taxes or assessments levied under the provisions of subdivisions 2 or 3 of this section shall be expended for constructing, maintaining, operating, extending, repairing or otherwise improving any works or improvements located in any other zone, except in the case of joint projects, or for projects authorized or established outside such zone, or zones, but for the benefit thereof. In cases of projects joint to two or more zones, such zones will become, and shall be referred to as, participating zones.

1300.1. The department shall designate deer herd management units or areas and designate the manager for each unit or area. The manager may be the manager for more than one unit or area. Such units or areas shall insofar as practicable correspond to the area in which each herd is found, including its migratory routes, and unless appropriate need not follow county boundary lines.

1300.2. Each year on or before June 1st the department shall recommend to the commission the number of deer that should be taken in each unit or area and whether or not the permits issued should be for antlerless deer only or on an either-sex basis. The commission shall provide for holding a public hearing within 30 days of receiving such recommendations in the county seat of each county which includes area within the management unit or area affected. Notice of such hearing shall be published once in a newspaper of general circulation in each county in the area 15 days prior to the hearing. 1300.7. The commission has no power under this chapter to authorize the taking of spotted fawn, which as used in this chapter means a young deer born that year which has spotted pelage plainly visible, nor spike buck, which as used in this chapter means a male deer with unbranched antlers on both sides which are more than three inches in length.

1300.8. Permits shall be issued on a first-come first-served basis or a public drawing in the manner determined by the commission which may include issuance of a specified number on a first-come first-served basis at the county seat of a county in the unit or area involved. Issuance on a first-come first-served basis in the unit or area shall be set at such time in advance of the drawing so that applicants may still participate in any drawing for the same unit or area if unsuccessful on the first-come first-served basis.

1300.9. An application may specify a first and second preference of the unit or area and if unsuccessful in the first choice drawing the application shall be considered for the second choice unit or area.

Bill read second time.

Motion to Amend

Mr. Kilpatrick moved the adoption of the following amendments:

Amendment No. 1

On page 1 of the printed bill strike out line 6, and insert

"1575. The Legislature finds and declares that in a war, or at the start of a war, many areas widely scattered in California are prime targets for enemy attack. Some or all of these areas could be severely damaged in the first or the repeated attacks. Injured persons would be fleeing the areas hardest hit and secondary target areas would be evacuating to the less damaged or undamaged parts of the State.

While such attacks are continuing and in the reconstruction period following such attacks law and order must be preserved and so far as possible government services continued or restored. This can best be done by civil government. The Legislature does not wish California to be taken over by martial law. To help to preserve law and order and to continue or restore local services it is essential that the local units of government continue to function.

In enacting this article the Legislature finds and declares that the preservation of local government in the event of a disaster is a matter of state-wide concern and is not a municipal affair. The interdependence of local agencies requires that for their mutual preservation and for the protection of all the citizens of the State of California that all local agencies have the powers and be required to take the minimum precautions set forth in this article. The purpose of this article is to furnish a means by which the continued functioning of local agencies will be assured Should any part of this article be in conflict with or inconsistent with any other part of this code the provisions of this article shall control. Nothing in this article shall prevent a city or county existing under a charter from amending said charter to provide for the preservation and continuation of its government in the event of a disaster.

This exemption does not apply to the gross receipts from the sale of a vehicle whenever the purchaser is not required to register the vehicle under the Vehicle Code and the sale is one of a series of sales sufficient in number, scope and character to constitute an activity requiring the person making the sale to hold a seller's permit.

SEC 9. Section 6422 is added to said code, to read:

6422 If a purchaser of a vehicle from a person other than a dealer certificated under Section 206 of the Vehicle Code, or a wrecker licensed under Section 240 of that code, holding a valid seller's permit under Section 6068 of this code, claims that no use tax is due from him under this part, he may submit to the board the facts on which such claim is predicated, and if the board determines that no tax is due, it shall so certify to the Department of Motor Vehicles, which is then authorized to complete registration or transfer of registration of the vehicle without payment of the use tax.

SEC 10. Section 6454.5 is added to said code, to read:

6454.5 (a) When a vehicle is sold at retail by a person other than a dealer certificated under Section 206 of the Vehicle Code, or a wrecker licensed under Section 240 of that code, holding a valid seller's permit under Section 6068 of this code, the retailer is not required to make a sales tax return or to pay the tax with respect to the transaction, but the purchaser of the vehicle must pay the use tax to the Department of Motor Vehicles acting for and on behalf of the board pursuant to Section 148.5 of the Vehicle Code.

(b) If the purchaser does not make timely application to that department, but is subject to penalty because of delinquency in effecting registration or transfer of registration of the vehicle, he then becomes liable also for penalty as specified in Section 6591 of this code, but no interest shall accrue.

SEC 11. Section 146 of the Vehicle Code is amended to read:

146. Application for Registration of Vehicle Previously Registered Outside This State. (a) Upon application for registration of a vehicle previously registered outside this State, the application shall be certified by the applicant and shall also state such fact and the time and place of the last registration of such vehicle outside this State and the name and address of the governmental officer, agency, or authority making such registration, together with such further information relative to its previous registration as may reasonably be required by the department, including the time and place of original registration, if known, and if different from such last foreign registration. The applicant shall surrender to the department all unexpired license plates, seals, certificates or other evidence of foreign registration. The department may require a certification from the jurisdiction of last registry when the applicant fails to surrender the last issued unexpired license plate or plates. Upon application made at the time of their surrender to the department and upon payment of a fee of one dollar ($1), the department shall return the unexpired license plates to the official in charge of the registration of motor vehicles in the state of issue of said license plates.

(b) Where in the course of interstate operation of a vehicle registered in another state it is desirable to retain registration of said vehicle in such other state, such applicant need not surrender but shall submit for inspection said evidence of such foreign registration and the department upon a proper showing shall register said vehicle in this State but shall not issue a certificate of ownership for such vehicle

(c) An application for registration of a vehicle previously registered outside of this State must be accompanied by payment of the amount required to be paid under Part 1, Division 2 of the Revenue and Taxation Code with respect to the use of the vehicle by the applicant.

SEC. 12. Section 148.5 is added to the Vehicle Code, to read:

148.5. Payment of Use Tax. (a) The department shall withhold the registration or the transfer of registration of any vehicle sold at retail to any applicant by any person other than a dealer certificated under Section 206 of this code or a wrecker licensed under Section 240 of this code, holding a valid seller's permit under Section 6068 of the Revenue and Taxation Code, until the applicant pays to the department the use tax measured by the sales price of the vehicle as required by the Sales and Use Tax Law, together with penalty, if any, unless, in accordance with the provisions of Section 6422 of the Revenue and Taxation Code, the applicant files with the department a certificate from the State Board of Equalization that no use tax is due. If the applicant so desires, he may pay the use tax and penalty, if any, to the department so as to secure immediate action upon his application for registration or transfer of registration, and thereafter he may apply to the State Board of Equalization under the provisions of the Sales and Use Tax Law for a refund of the amount so paid.

(b) The department shall transmit to the State Board of Equalization all collections of use tax and penalty made under this section. This transmittal shall be made at least monthly, accompanied by a schedule in such form as the department and board may prescribe.

(c) The State Board of Equalization shall reimburse the department for its costs incurred in carrying out the provisions of this section. Such reimbursement shall be effected under agreement between the agencies, approved by the Department of Finance

(d) In computing any use tax or penalty thereon under the provisions of this section dollar fractions shall be disregarded in the manner specified in Section 373.5 of this code. Payment of tax and penalty on this basis shall be deemed full compliance with the requirements of the Sales and Use Tax Law insofar as they are applicable to the use of vehicles to which this section relates.

SEC. 13. Section 186 of the Vehicle Code is amended to read:

186. Transfer of Title or Interest. (a) No transfer of the title or any interest in or to a vehicle registered hereunder shall pass and any attempted transfer shall not be effective unless and until the parties thereto have fulfilled either of the following requirements:

(1) The transferor shall have made proper endorsement and delivery of the certificate of ownership and delivery of the registration card to the transferee as provided in this code and the transferee has delivered to the department or has placed in the United States mail addressed to the department such certificate and card when and as required under this code with the proper transfer fee, together with the amount required to be paid under Part 1, Division 2 of the Revenue and Taxation Code with respect to the use of the vehicle by the transferee and thereby makes application for a transfer of registration except as otherwise provided in Section 180, or

(2) The transferor shall have delivered to the department or shall have placed in the United States mail addressed to the department the appropriate documents for the registration or transfer of registration of such vehicle pursuant to such sale or transfer except as provided in Section 178.

(b) The conditions of subdivisions (a) of this section shall not apply to involuntary transfers as upon repossession by a vendor under a conditional contract of sale or to transfers with respect to chattel mortgage liens subject to Chapter 3 of this division.

(c) The conditions of subdivisions (a) of this section shall not apply to a transfer of a security interest in the interest of a legal owner of a registered vehicle when such security interest arises from a pledge of a conditional sale contract, lease agreement, rental agreement or chattel mortgage by a legal owner to such transferee.

SEC. 14. Whenever an application for transfer is made pursuant to Section 186 of the Vehicle Code on or after July 11, 1957, the transfer of the title or interest in the vehicle to be registered shall be deemed to have occurred on or after July 1, 1957.

SEC. 15. This act provides for a tax levy within the meaning of Article IV of the Constitution and shall go into immediate effect, but shall not become operative until July 1, 1957."

All other provisions of Section 254.5, other than those relating to the filing date of affidavits, are nevertheless applicable to this section.

SEC. 2. This act is an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety within the meaning of Article IV of the Constitution and shall go into immediate effect. The facts constituting such necessity are:

Some organizations engaged generally in the work of assisting handicapped persons have inadvertently failed to file the required affidavit in support of the welfare exemption applicable to their property for the Fiscal Year 1957-58 and, as a consequence, are now confronted with possible tax obligations which, if met, will substantially impair their ability to function effectively. This act will remedy the situation by removing the procedural bar to the obtainment of the exemption by such organizations. In doing so, it will fulfill the public policy of the State expressed through such exemption and thereby benefit the people generally."

After adoption of the report and estimate of the amount of money required to be raised, the authority shall call a special election and submit to the qualified voters of the authority the proposition of incurring a bonded indebtedness for the acquisition, construction and completion of rapid transit facilities by the authority and all other works, property, or structures necessary or convenient therefor and for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act.

SEC. 6.4. The resolution calling the special election shall contain:

(a) A statement of the general object and purpose of incurring the indebtedness.

(b) Statement of the estimated cost of the proposed work and improvements.

(c) The amount of the principal of the indebtedness to be incurred therefor.

(d) The maximum term, which shall not exceed fifty (50) years, that the bonds proposed to be issued shall run before maturity

(e) The maximum rate of interest to be paid on said indebtedness, which shall not exceed six (6) percent per annum.

(g) The date on which the special bond election will be held, the hours during the day which the polls will be open, and the manner of voting for and against the incurring of such indebtedness; provided, however, the authority shall have no power within six (6) months after an election at which a proposition submitted to the qualified electors of the district failed to receive the requisite number of votes as provided in Section 6.12 to call another election for incurring any indebtedness for purposes substantially the same as voted upon at such prior election. If the special bond election is consolidated with any other election, the hours during which the polls shall be kept open shall be the same as those provided for the election with which the election called pursuant to this act is consolidated and reference to that effect in the resolution shall be sufficient without specifying the particular hours.

SEC. 6 5. Any election submitting the proposition of incurring indebtedness and the issuance of revenue bonds called pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, may be held separately, or may be consolidated with any other election authorized by law, at which the qualified voters of the county are entitled to vote. However, in the event any such election called pursuant to this part is consolidated with any other election, as provided by Chapter 4 (commencing at Section 10050), Part 2, Division 11 of the Elections Code, the provisions of this act setting forth the procedure for the calling of the election called pursuant to this act shall be complied with, except that the resolution calling such election need not set forth the election precincts or polling places, or the officers of election which shall be the same as those set forth in the ordinance, order, resolution, notice, or other proceeding calling or providing for, or listing or designating the precincts, polling places, and election officers for the election with which the election called pursuant to this act is consolidated, and shall refer to such election or to the ordinance, order, resolution, notice, or other proceeding calling, providing for or giving notice of such election and which sets forth such precincts, polling places, and election officers. Such reference may be made by giving the number or title or date of adoption of such ordinance, resolution or order or to the date or proposed date of any publication of such notice and the name of the newspaper or proposed newspaper in which the notice has been or will be published or by any other definite description. Whenever a bond election called pursuant to this act is consolidated with a state-wide general election held in the county, references to such general election shall be sufficient for all purposes of this act.

SEC. 6 6 Whenever a special bond election is called pursuant to this act and is not consolidated with any other election the authority shall in its resolution calling such special bond election, in addition to all other matters required to be set forth therein:

(a) Specify the precincts or consolidated precincts which are adopted for the purposes of the election and designate the location of the polling places, provided that one or more polling places may be established within the same precinct and separate ballot boxes and separate officers of election provided for each group of electors, which group shall be determined by alphabetical designations and divided into groups as nearly equal in number as practicable.

(b) Specify the names of the officers selected to conduct the election, who shall consist of at least one inspector and two judges in each precinct, but not in excess of six election officers for each polling place.

Whenever the special bond election called pursuant to this act is consolidated in whole or in part with any other election, the precincts, polling places and election officers need not be set forth in the resolution calling the special bond election except only to the extent that any precinct, polling place and election officers established for the special bond election differ or are in addition to those established for the election with which the special bond election called pursuant to this act is consolidated

SEC 6 7. Notice of a special bond election shall be given by publication of the text of the resolution calling the election and except as provided below the text thereof shall be published once a week in each calendar week for two successive calendar weeks at any time prior to the election (the first publication of which shall be not less than twenty (20) days nor more than ninety (90) days prior to the date fixed for the election) in at least one newspaper of general circulation and in not more than three newspapers, designated by the authority, which are printed and published in the county. The text of the resolution as published to constitute notice of such election shall be the resolution in form as adopted by the board. To the resolution there shall be set forth a notice substantially as follows:

"NOTICE OF ELECTION

Notice is hereby given to the qualified electors of the San Diego Metropolitan Transit Authority that the authority has duly adopted a resolution calling a special bond election within the authority which is set forth in full below."

SEC. 6 8. All the expenses of holding the election shall be borne by the authority except when the election is consolidated with another election pursuant to Chapter 4 (commencing at Section 10050), Part 2, Division 11 of the Elections Code in which case the expense borne by the authority shall be that agreed upon by the authority and the other governing body or bodies calling the election.

SEC. 6 9 No error, irregularity or omission in the calling, holding or conducting of any special bond election which does not affect the substantial rights of the taxpayers within the authority or the electors voting at any election at which bonds of the authority are authorized to be issued shall invalidate the election or any bonds authorized thereat

SEC 6.10. The returns of the election shall be made and the votes shall be canvassed by the county clerk within thirty (30) days after holding of the election, and the county clerk shall certify the result of the election to the authority

In the event that the election is consolidated with any other election, the returns of the election, the method of canvassing, and the results thereof shall be designated and declared in accordance with Chapter 4 (commencing at Section 10050), Part 2, Division 11 of the Elections Code.

SEC. 6.11. At any special bond election called pursuant to this act, all residents of the authority who are qualified electors possessing the qualifications prescribed by the general election laws of the State shall be entitled to vote thereat. All special bond elections shall be held and conducted as nearly as practicable in accordance with the general laws of the State including provisions with respect to voting by absent voters, but the requirements as to the form of ballots need not apply except to the extent adopted by the authority. Whether a resident of the authority is a qualified elector within the authority shall be conclusively determined by the last great register of voters of the county. Except when the special bond election is consolidated with any other election, the authority shall designate the hours during which the polls shall be kept open. The polls shall not be opened before 7 a.m. nor kept open later than 8 p.m. and shall be kept open for not less than four hours.

SEC. 6.12. At any special bond election two or more propositions for incurring indebtedness may be submitted at the same election in which event the votes cast for and against each proposition shall be counted separately, and whenever a majority of the qualified electors voting on any one of such propositions vote in favor thereof such proposition shall be adopted. Upon such adoption, the authority may proceed to authorize, issue, and sell revenue bonds to the amount adopted at such time, or from time to time, as is necessary to carry out the general object and purpose of the proposition as adopted."

Sacramento, California

DEAR ASSEMBLYMAN MILLER: Enclosed are two copies of a report which we have prepared at your request commenting on problems embodied in the subject matter of Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 93.

As is indicated in the analysis, there are a number of very important policy questions which, in our opinion, must be resolved by the Legislature before it will be possible to obtain the type of financial feasibility evaluation contemplated in the contract with independent municipal financing consultants which is proposed in the resolution.

I am also sending to you a copy of our report of November 13, 1956, "Considerations in Financing a State Water Resources Development Program," for such assistance as it may provide you in respect to a detailed discussion of the cost benefit ratio, state interest, cost allocation, irrigation subsidy, and related matters.

Sincerely,

A. ALAN POST
Legislative Auditor

COMMENTS ON ASSEMBLY CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 93

Prepared by Legislative Auditor March 18, 1957

Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 93, which was considered and rejected by the Committee on Conservation, Planning, and Public Works, directed the Joint Committee on Water Problems "to contract with independent municipal financing consultants to secure a preliminary report on the financial feasibility of the Feather River Project." The resolution indicated that the Legislature desires to be advised on problems related to financing the Feather River Project, repayment of total costs, the period of time for repayment and who should repay project costs, and to that end directed that a preliminary study of the financial feasibility of the Feather River Project be submitted not later than May 15, 1957.

The problems involved in either financial or economic feasibility determinations are so complex and broad in scope that it is doubtful whether a comprehensive and complete study could be prepared for even the 1958 Budget Session of the Legislature. The financial feasibility investigation proposed by the resolution is the end result to be achieved by all the planning investigations of the Feather River Project. Although the resolution contemplates taking certain intermediate steps which are required in order to achieve this end result, it does not specifically direct that these intermediate steps be studied. However, if the State of California is to undertake a major water resources development program, careful specification of the intermediate steps which relate to methods, assumptions and policies of project evaluation are far more important than the end result of financial feasibility for a particular project. The success of the State's projected water resources development program will depend largely on the wisdom and propriety of these intermediate steps which control the actual findings of project feasibility.

It is not difficult to formulate methods for evaluating economic and financial feasibility which would make any project feasible, irrespective of the best interests of the State. The problem is to select methods and policies for project evaluation which will differentiate between the feasibility of various projects based upon the policies of the Legislature, the best interests of the State and fundamentals of engineering and economics. In this respect the means of evaluation is more important than the end, particularly when a program of the magnitude of the California Water Plan is involved.

The problem contemplated by the resolution is not restricted to the Feather River Project, but also applies to Department of Water Resources Bulletin No. 59 on the Upper Feather River Service Area, the North Bay Aqueduct and any other projects which the State may consider for construction. The financial and economic feasibility studies contained in Bulletin No. 59 are the most comprehensive and thorough yet made by a California state agency, but they are based upon assumptions made by the Department of Water Resources as to policies and methods of determining feasibility and these assumptions have no legislative backing. Most of these assumptions are set forth on page 108 of Bulletin No. 59. Matters related to these assumptions can arise in the form of isolated bills and budget items which require resolution without full consideration of all policy aspects involved, or they may be handled by carefully developed policy bills of general applicability and over-all consistency. In any event, Bulletin No. 59 effectively serves to point up the fact that the State has no policies upon which the financial feasibility studies envisioned in Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 93 can be based.

The U. S. Congress has recognized somewhat belatedly the importance of legislative control over policies and methods for evaluation of economic and financial feasibility of federal water resources development projects. In general, these policies have been established by the executive branch of the Federal Government to fill the legislative void resulting from the unwillingness or inability of Congress to establish such policy. Whenever congressional views have differed from executive policies, difficulties have developed, because the policies and methods for evaluation used by the executive branch control the feasibility of planned projects, and thus determine which projects are submitted to Congress for authorization or construction This is precisely the situation developing in California, as illustrated by Bulletin No. 59.

Congress sought to take specific corrective action by the passage of U. S. Senate Resolution 281, Eighty-fourth Congress, Second Session. This resolution appears to be the initial move toward congressional determination of policies and methods to evaluate economic and financial feasibility of federal projects.

Engineering, economic and financial feasibility can be defined as follows (definitions adapted from page 15 of Bulletin No. 59):

A project meets the test of engineering feasibility if:

1. It can be built with available materials and techniques.
2. Sites for the dam, reservoir, and other facilities are geologically suitable.
3. The proposed structures serve all possible multiple-purposes, are sound and functionally sufficient.
4. The water supply is adequate in quantity and quality and is put to its maximum use.
5. The soil and climate are suitable for irrigated agriculture, when this is a project function.

A project is economically feasible if the benefits derived from its construction exceed the costs to be incurred in its design, construction, operation, and maintenance. A comparison of these benefits and costs, commonly known as a benefit-cost analysis, and expressed in terms of a benefit-cost ratio, is usually the best single criterion for the comparison of two or more projects.

The term "benefits" means all identifiable gains, assets, or values, whether in goods, services, or intangibles, which result from the construction, operation or maintenance of the project. These benefits are divided into primary benefits measurable in dollars which directly result from the project, or secondary benefits which are gains, assets or values other than primary benefits. Economic costs include all identifiable expenses, losses, and liabilties, whether in goods, services, or intangibles which are incurred as a result of constructing, operating or maintaining the project. In general it is federal practice to require that primary benefits equal or exceed all primary economic costs before the project will be authorized for federal construction, i.e., the benefit-cost ratio is greater than one to one.

The purpose of the benefit-cost ratio is to assure that the investment proposed to be made in the project will return more to the Nation's economy in goods and services than the goods and services required for its construction. Because units of government do not operate to secure a profit under normal circumstances, as does a business, the benefit-cost ratio serves somewhat the same purpose as a determination by a business that a proposed investment will return capital costs, operating expenses and a profit. Failure of the project to show a favorable benefit-cost ratio means that the project will, if constructed, result in a reduction of the total available national goods and services.

For a project to be financially feasible, it must be demonstrated that there is reasonable assurance that the necessary funds to finance construction of the project can be obtained and that the project beneficiaries are willing and able to repay costs assigned to them upon some known basis. Benefits and costs must be computed, project costs allocated to purposes and a decision made on what amounts of project costs assigned to each purpose will be repaid, before it is possible to compute the significant aspect of financial feasibility, that is, the ability of project beneficiaries to repay their assigned costs within the prescribed payout period for the project. It should be noted that economic and financial feasibility are considerations of economics, policy and management rather than engineering determinations.

In the case of the State of California and its initiation of a water resources development program, certain major problem areas requiring legislative decision on policies for evaluation of project feasibility can be rather clearly defined:

1 The general role to be played by the State in constructing by itself or furthering the construction by local public or private interests of the approximately $11,432,000,000 worth of projects contained in the California Water Plan must be determined Of this amount, $8,576,000,000 is the estimated cost of the California Aqueduct System (including the Feather River Project) which will transfer 21,000,000 acre-feet of water from the northern part of the State to Central and Southern Cailfornia. Construction of the major portions of the California Aqueduct System could obviously be undertaken only by the State or Federal Government because of the physical size of the works. Most of the remaining $2,856,000,000 of construction in the California Water Plan would probably be constructed by local private and public interests However, there is no legislative policy guidance of any type which would define the State's interest and indicate where the line could be drawn between local, state, and federal construction of any units of the California Water Plan except the Feather River Project.

The Legislature has not indicated how much of the California Water Plan the State might construct itself or how much assistance it might offer to local interests to stimulate them to construct projects The scope, intent and approach of the State's activities in water resources development are of signal importance in this respect and in formulating policies and methods for project evaluation. Not all of the legislative decisions on this matter can be made at this time. Many can be resolved only in the future. Legislative guidance could appropriately provide at this time an outline of the general direction of the State's effort. This problem of the extent of the State's effort is raised in the cases of the Upper Feather River Service Area and possibly the North Bay Aqueduct, which are before the Legislature this session.

2. A corollary to the item above is the need for a policy decision by the Legislature on those project purposes which will be considered nonreimbursable, that is, those project features for which the State will pay construction costs as a reflection of the state-wide interest, and those project purposes which will be reimbursable, that is, construction costs will be repaid by the project beneficiaries. In certain cases a project purpose may be partly reimbursable and partly nonreimbursable. In addition, the question of interest charges for the reimbursable costs may require decision. Federal practices and experience are available to the Legislature which could provide a basis for early legislative resolution of these problems.

3 Methods for cost allocation, the evaluation of project benefits and costs and determining the length of the repayment period, although rather technical and involved, are well known. Legislative decisions on these problems can be based on existing federal methods.

4. The methods of financing project construction costs with respect to both sources and amounts of money need to be decided by the Legislature. The use of pay-as-you-go or general obligation bond issues have substantial effects on project financial feasibility. A decision on this matter faces the Legislature in the form of the constitutional amendment on water rights and in the establishment of a Water Development Fund

5. Policies for rates which beneficiaries will pay for project services need to be established, whether for water, power or other services. Rates for the services from the Feather River Project cannot be prepared until much more specific data is actually available. Estimates of revenues based on projected rate schedules will have to suffice at present.

6. The integration of the San Luis Unit of the CVP substantially revises the design of that portion of the Feather River Project between the Delta and Kings County. Fortunately, all present indications are that these changes will be beneficial to Feather River Project economic and financial feasibility. The integration of the San Luis Unit of the CVP will not only raise technical problems, but it will also create policy problems between any divergent state or federal policies. The recent decision of the California Supreme Court in the Ivanhoe Case raises further questions because public statements from federal officials indicate that Congress will not appropriate construction money for any new reclamation projects in California until the Ivanhoe Case is finally settled.

In general, it is apparent that the range of problems involved in determining financial and economic feasibility of multiple-purpose water resources development projects is beyond the competence of any known financial consultants. Only the Corps of Engineers and the Bureau of Reclamation have had extensive previous experience in these problems, although the Department of Water Resources is now acquiring such experience. It is true, of course, that municipal bond houses can readily analyze the marketability of any given bond issue This, however, is not the same as establishing the policies which will determine the State's management and construction of the California Water Plan.

Before economic and financial feasibility of the Feather River Project can be finally determined for planning purposes, further extensive field work must be undertaken by the Department of Water Resources. Investigation and classification of the types of soils in the irrigated areas of the Feather River Project to determine in detail the nature and quantity of the water supply required for the land are only getting started. Until this is done, determination of financial feasibility of project features cannot be based upon the actual repayment capacity of the project lands. It is not known when the Department of Water Resources will be able to conclude repayment studies for all of the areas to receive water from the Feather River Project, but it will not be soon. The first results of these field studies will soon be published in the report on alternative aqueduct routes into San Diego County.

The most comprehensive and thorough evaluation of economic and financial feasibility yet prepared by the State is contained in Bulletin No. 59. Economic and financial feasibility studies, as defined by the Department of Water Resources in its Bulletin No. 59, have not been made for the Feather River Project by the department, its predecessor agencies, or the Bechtel Corporation. There is no benefit-cost ratio for the Feather River Project. The Corps of Engineers have not yet started their evaluation of flood control benefits at Oroville. The Department of Water Resources is in the midst of studies of land classification and repayment ability of water users. The Feather River Project has substantial power subsidy to water users but it is not apparent who gets the subsidy or how much is involved.

The Bechtel Corporation's report on the Feather River Project includes in Appendix A the report of the Stanford Research Institute which Bechtel engaged to make its economic studies. Pertinent comments are quoted below:

> (NOTE: Page references below are to Appendix A of the Bechtel Corporation's print of the report and not the reprint by the Joint Interim Committee on Water Problems.)
> p. 4. "It is imperative in project planning, therefore, to have the best possible estimates of probable water deliveries and probable water prices. Unfortunately, the Feather River Project report does not reflect an analysis of these subjects This creates uncertainties as to the desirable size of project features, the time schedule of construction, and the financial outcome"

p. 5. "In this study (Institute) it was necessary to concentrate on those points significant to the project which could be meaningfully analyzed in a short time. The work summarized here is, therefore, necessarily selective. It does not fully cover the broad subject of economic feasibility, nor does it fully cover even the narrower topic of water demand."

p. 13. "For use in an economic analysis of the Feather River Project, the data and procedures just described have two serious deficiencies. First, the basic data on water needs in the service areas relate to 'ultimate' requirements rather than to the actual rate at which the need may be expected to develop in the years of immediate concern to the Feather River Project. Second, the 'revenue' figures are really cost allocations rather than estimates of the actual amounts which could be obtained from the sale of water."

A careful reading of the Bechtel Corporation's report and the State's report of February, 1955, will show that the engineers preparing these reports were not so conscious of the economic deficiencies in planning the Feather River Project as was the Stanford Research Institute, and Bechtel did not highlight the above statements by the institute. This is not a new situation; it frequently happens that engineers are unresponsive to economic problems. As a result, the State is now committed to the Feather River Project although only its engineering feasibility has been fully evaluated. There is no evidence that the Feather River Project is not economically and financially feasible, but such feasibility has not been demonstrated. Recently there has been recognition in the Department of Water Resources that good water resources development planning requires a broader approach and additional skills than those found in engineering. This change in viewpoint is partially reflected in Bulletin No. 59. As previously noted, the Department of Water Resources is now proceeding to complete the necessary economic and financial feasibility studies on the Feather River Project.

Furthermore, considerable confusion exists over the definition of financial feasibility. Frequently engineers view financial feasibility the same as the State's report of February, 1955, and the Bechtel Report on the Feather River Project viewed it—if the required money can be found someplace, the project is financially feasible. Thus, it is possible to assume, as those reports did, that $200,000,000 to $400,000,000 of the deficiency in Feather River Project revenues to meet project annual costs during a 40-year payout period would be made up by the General Fund. A similar assumption is now being made for the recreational features of projects in Bulletin No. 59. Under such assumptions, any project has financial feasibility. Financial feasibility has no real meaning unless it is limited by a clear legislative policy which defines those project costs the General Fund or any other fund will pay as a recognition of state-wide interest and those costs project beneficiaries must pay in full. With legislative determination of such a policy, confusion would quickly disappear.

The interest rate on money borrowed for project construction costs may have an appreciable effect on economic and financial feasibility, particularly on small projects which are financed by a single bond issue In the case of the Feather River Project, the effect of the currently rising interest rates is not at all clear. However, a state general obligation bond issue for the Feather River Project would be offered to the market over a construction period of 10 or 15 years in blocks of perhaps $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 per year. During this long period the interest rate may rise and fall several times or a gradually rising interest rate may be compensated for by adjustments in the value of project services. The long-term construction period of the Feather River Project provides an element of built-in protection against any drastic effect on project feasibility by fluctuating interest rates, but these fluctuations cannot always be foreseen or evaluated in computing economic and financial feasibility.

A different problem lies in the currently increasing costs for major construction. General increases in construction costs caused by higher wages and increased costs of materials tend to be compensated for by higher dollar values for project services as a result of the general effect of inflation on the economy. However, the new federal highway program, the capital expansion of industry and other major construction programs seem to have created more demand for construction services than there are services available. If the experience of the Bureau of Reclamation at the Trinity Project is any guide, current costs can be expected to exceed estimates. As a result of present costs, some federal agencies have been curtailing their construction programs until these conditions mitigate. Commissioner Dexheimer of the Bureau of Reclamation was quoted in the Associated Press on March 13, 1957, in a statement to the Associated General Contractors of America:

> "There is the very distinct possibility that construction may be pricing itself out of the market. Certainly we can expect tighter federal budgets and a drastic curtailment of the federal public works program if construction costs get out of hand. I urge you to sharpen your pencils and figure your bids as tightly and closely as possible. Otherwise, you may kill the goose that lays the golden eggs."

To the extent that this trend represents increased project construction costs without any compensating economic adjustment in project revenues, it may have a seriously detrimental effect on the economic and financial feasibility of the Feather River Project.

The results of economic and financial feasibility investigations are normally published in a project planning report. This report serves two purposes, to acquaint the public with the design, extent, purposes and costs of the project and secondly, to serve both as a basis for construction authorization by the Legislature and to control the appropriations made by the Legislature for the project. Logical procedure is for the project report to be presented to the Legislature sufficiently in advance to permit Members of the Legislature to study the report and to decide on the basis of the report whether the project should be authorized. Thus, legislative interest in the economic and financial feasibility of a project is to determine whether it should authorize the project for construction. No more reliable or factual basis is known for presenting the essentials of a project to the Legislature for its decision.

In summary, the Feather River Project has not had the benefit of complete economic and financial feasibility studies as defined above. No definitive conclusions can be made on the feasibility of the Feather River Project or any other units of the California Water Plan by anyone until the Legislature specifies policies and methods to be used for project evaluation. Some of these policies and methods can be established now on the basis of information already available and from federal experience. Other policies can only be established after considerable legislative study and the completion of further data by the Department of Water Resources. Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 93 could be amended to serve either such a long-range or short-range purpose

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, April 22, 1957

Honorable Charles Edward Chapel
Assembly Chamber

Aviation—No. 11594

DEAR MR. CHAPEL:

Question

You have asked us whether the Public Utilities Commission has authority to regulate certain aspects of aviation?

Opinion

In our opinion, the intrastate rates of common carriers by air are under the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission.

Analysis

The principal regulatory function relating to aeronautics which has been left under the control of the State is the economic regulation of aeronautics. The federal jurisdiction asserted by the federal Civil Aeronautics Act in this field is not as exclusive as in the field of safety because it extends only to common carriage by air, and only to those carriers actively engaging in interstate, overseas or foreign commerce (49 U. S. C., Secs. 481 et seq., 401(2), 401(10), 401(21)).

In this State the economic regulation of all common carriers is vested in the Public Utilities Commission. In the recent case of People v. Western Airlines (1954), 42 Cal. 2d 621, the California Supreme Court held that the intrastate rates of common carriers by air are under the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission, under Sections 20 and 22 of Article XII of the State Constitution.

Very truly yours,

RALPH N. KLEPS, Legislative Counsel

Every company, municipality, or district whose right of way shall be intersected or crossed by said pipes, pipelines, canals, flumes, tunnels or other conduits shall unite with the agency in forming said intersections and crossings and grant the rights therefor.

SEC. 4.8 There is hereby granted to the agency the right of way for the location, construction, and maintenance of works authorized under the provisions of this act in, over and across public lands of the State of California, not otherwise disposed of or in use, but not in any case exceeding an area which is necessary for the construction of such works and adjuncts or for the protection thereof Whenever any selection of a right of way for such works or adjuncts thereto is made by the agency, the board shall transmit to the State Lands Commission, the Controller of the State and the recorder of the county in which the selected lands are situated, a plat of the lands selected, giving the extent thereof and the uses for which the same is claimed or desired, verified by the board. If the State Lands Commission approves the selections so made it shall endorse its approval upon the plat and issue to the agency a permit to use such right of way and lands.

SEC. 4.9. (a) If by any judgment in condemnation or agreement the agency is required to relocate any street, road, highway, railroad, canal or other property subject or devoted to public use, the board may acquire in the name of the agency, by agreement or condemnation, all rights of way and other property necessary or proper for compliance with such agreement or judgment of condemnation and thereafter to make such conveyance of the relocated street, road, highway, railroad, canal, or other property as may be proper to comply with the agreement or judgment. All agreements for the exchange of property and all judgments requiring relocation of other public uses, as specified in this section and in Section 3.4 of this act, shall provide that in making the exchange the property condemned and exchanged shall be limited to public use by the party with whom such exchange is made.

(b) In the event the agency and any common carrier railroad or other public utility fail to agree as to the character or location of new improvements or works sought to be performed by the agency, the character and location of such new improvements or works and any other controversy relating thereto shall be submitted to and determined by the Public Utilities Commission.

(c) Proceedings under this section relating to the jurisdiction of said commission may be instituted, maintained and determined in the manner prescribed in Chapter 6, commencing at Section 1201, of Part 1 of Division 1 of the Public Utilities Code.

SEC. 4 10. The agency may reimburse the county for any funds expended by the county in investigations, elections, or other acts incidental to the establishment of the agency.

SEC. 5. Any water or rights to the use of the works of the agency for the conservation, control or transportation of water may be sold, leased or otherwise transferred by the agency to member units, and the agency may fix and collect rates and charges for such purposes. The agency may transfer such water or the use of agency works to other than member units for use in or outside the agency upon a temporary or short term basis, upon a finding by the board that such water or works exceed the needs of member units. The provisions of this section shall not prevent the disposition of electric power or power facilities to other than member units at wholesale. Each contract for or sale of surplus water or the use of such water facilities shall expressly state that the sale or disposition is subject to the prior right to the use of such water or facilities by or for member units.

SEC. 5.1. The agency may enter into contracts with any member unit or with any district which becomes a member unit of the agency for any of the following purposes:

(a) The lease, purchase, or other acquisition by the agency of any of the works of such member unit or district.

(b) The construction of works by the agency for the conservation, regulation or transmission of water for the benefit of such member unit or district; or for the furnishing or sale by the agency or the State of California or the United States to such member unit or by such member unit to the agency of water or a water supply for any purpose; or for the assumption, by either the agency or the member unit, as principal or guarantor or underwriter of indebtedness incurred on account of works or water furnished or sold to the agency or member unit.

(c) The sale, lease, or other disposition of water, water rights, and water storage facilities or interests therein, by the agency or by such member unit.

(d) The operation of works and the delivery of water by the agency or by such member unit, except that:

(1) The works shall be operated in conformity with the vested rights and appropriations of each of its member units having an interest therein.

(2) There shall be delivered to each member unit all water to which such member unit is entitled under the contract entered into by the agency and such member unit.

(3) There shall not be delivered to any member unit more water than the amount to which such member unit is entitled under the contract entered into by the agency and such member unit, except that the release of water from any reservoir in the amount required to satisfy any vested right shall not constitute a delivery of water, and any amount of water assigned under Section 5 6 by one member unit to another member unit shall be delivered to the latter.

SEC. 5.2. The agency may market and dispose at wholesale of electric energy developed by agency facilities.

SEC. 5 3. The agency in its discretion may suspend delivery of water conserved by the agency or obtained by or on behalf of the agency or a member unit to any member unit during the period which said member unit is delinquent in its payment for or obligations due in respect to such water under any contract entered into by it with the agency.

SEC. 5.4. The liability of each member unit, as distinguished from the liability of its taxpayers and property therein for taxes levied by the agency for agency purposes, shall be limited to that portion of the total cost for water or water supply or to that portion of the total cost of construction and the operation and maintenance cost of the works acquired or constructed by or on behalf of the agency or member unit which such member unit agrees to bear.

The liability of each member unit shall be set forth fully in a written contract which shall be legally approved by the member unit in accordance with the laws governing such member unit. No contract shall be altered or modified without the consent of the agency and the legal approval of the member unit.

Each contract may provide, among other things:

(a) The total capital obligation which the member unit agrees to bear.

(b) The minimum annual payments which the member unit shall make in amortization of its capital obligation.

(c) The amount or pro rata portion of water which shall be delivered to or held in storage for the member unit

(d) The basis of allocation of operation and maintenance costs to be borne by the member unit.

(e) The amount or other measure of water supply or water agreed to be acquired by or furnished or sold to such member unit and the cost thereof to such member unit. Such contracts shall be fair and equitable to each contracting party, and no member unit shall receive any undue advantage over any other member unit, having proper regard for all factors and conditions involved.

Recommendation of the Governor

In accordance with Article IV, Section 34, of the Constitution, the Governor presented the following communication recommending the consideration of Assembly Bill No. 2970:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
GOVERNOR'S OFFICE, SACRAMENTO, April 18, 1957

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly
Sacramento, California

GENTLEMEN:

Assembly Bill No. 2970, "An act to amend Sections 127, 181, 1054, 1360, 1411, 1412, 1413, 1414, 1415, 1615, 1616, 1617, 1618, 1651, 1676, 1677, 8553, 13011, 20016, 20019, 20082, 20083, 20084, 20085, and 20086 of, to add Sections 133, 163, 189, 190, 191, 192, and 193 to, and to repeal Sections 1361, 1362 and 1363 of, the Water Code, to amend Sections 8112, 8118, 8132, 8138, and 13196 of, and to add Sections 14105 and 16049.5 to the Government Code, to amend Section 9065 of the Public Resources Code, and to amend Section 1 of Chapter 1693 of the Statutes of 1953, relating to the water resources of the State and the administration thereof," in my opinion constitutes an emergency bill within the meaning of that term as used in Section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, the consideration of which should not await the final enactment of the Budget Bill.

This bill amends and adds a number of sections of the Water Code and of other provisions of the law relating to water resources. It further appears that among its provisions there is an appropriation, but that no additional funds are made available for expenditure. In these circumstances, prompt consideration of this bill is desirable and no purpose would be served by withholding action upon it until after final passage of the Budget Bill.

I therefore recommend consideration of Assembly Bill No. 2970 as an emergency measure.

Respectfully submitted,

GOODWIN J. KNIGHT, Governor

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was presented by the Chief Clerk, and ordered printed in the Journal:

ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL
BUREAU OF PERSONNEL
WASHINGTON 25, D. C., April 18, 1957

Mr. Arthur A. Ohnimus
Chief Clerk of the Assembly of California
3196 State Capitol
Sacramento 14, California

DEAR MR. OHNIMUS: The Office of the President has forwarded to this department's attention the copy of Assembly Joint Resolution No. 17, adopted by the California Legislature during the week of April 2d, which you transmitted under date of April 11, 1957. The Postmaster General has also asked me to acknowledge the copy of Assembly Joint Resolution No. 17 which you forwarded to him on April 11, 1957.

The resolution memorializes the Congress of the United States "to enact legislation for an increase in the compensation of postal employees commensurate with existing costs of living."

It may be appropriate to point out that the postal wage scale is a national schedule, and that in some localities postal wage rates are inevitably less favorable in relation to prevailing wages and living costs in the community than in many other areas of the country.

However, the statement in the resolution, that the wages of United States postal employees have not kept pace with the spiraling costs of living, does not accord with the facts. Since 1939, for example, the entrance salary of postal clerks and letter carriers has advanced 115.3 percent, compared with an increase of 99.8 percent in the cost of living as measured by the Consumers Price Index of the United States Department of Labor.

The resolution refers also to the "high rate of turnover of personnel in California post offices." Although statistics are not readily available with respect to individual states, the national average turnover experience of the postal service cannot accurately be represented as "high." The average monthly separation rate, in percentage of total employment, has declined from 1.35 percent in 1954 to 0.98 percent in 1956. The corresponding monthly rates for the federal service as a whole are 2.10 percent in 1954 and 1.78 percent in 1956. The average monthly separation rates in manufacturing industries, meanwhile, have advanced from 3.40 percent in 1954 to 3.60 percent in 1956.

Finally, attention is invited to the fact that the salary bills cited in the resolution would increase the pay of postal employees by approximately 50 percent, at an annual additional cost of more than one billion dollars.

Sincerely yours,

EUGENE J. LYONS
Assistant Postmaster General

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
GOVERNOR'S OFFICE, SACRAMENTO, April 23, 1957

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly
State of California
Sacramento, California

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature,

Assembly Bill No. 549, entitled: "An act to repeal Section 650.7 of, and to add Section 650.7 to, the Vehicle Code, relating to emergency vehicles."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

An identical change in the law has been already effected under Senate Bill 49, approved by me on April 16, 1957.

In view of this, the author has requested that I veto the bill.

Accordingly, I am returning this bill to the house in which it originated without my signature and with this statement of my objections thereto.

Respectfully submitted,

GOODWIN J. KNIGHT, Governor

Governor's veto message read.

Assembly Bill No. 549 ordered to unfinished business file.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
GOVERNOR'S OFFICE, SACRAMENTO, April 23, 1957

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly
State of California
Sacramento, California

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature,

Assembly Bill No. 1349, entitled: "An act to amend Section 107 of the Insurance Code, relating to insurance."

My objections to this bill are as follows:

This bill contains technical defects. It amends only Section 107 of the Insurance Code to redefine 'plate glass" insurance as "glass" insurance, and to broaden the coverage to include not only breakage but damage to lettering, ornamentation and fittings The bill, however, neither contains a general provision that whenever the term "plate glass" insurance is used in other provisions of this code or of law, it shall hereafter mean "glass" insurance nor makes specific conforming amendments in other sections of the code, such as in Sections 100 and 700.01. If the bill were signed in its present form, considerable confusion would arise as to whether the new "glass" insurance is to be construed as the old "plate glass" insurance or as 'miscellaneous" insurance within the meaning of Section 100 listing the classes of insurance, and of Section 700 01 specifying the capital requirements of insurers to engage in selling these several classes of insurance. In view of this, the author has stated that he has no objection to a veto of this bill and that the necessary additional amendments will be made in another bill.

Accordingly, I am returning this bill to the house in which it originated without my signature and with this statement of my objections thereto.

Respectfully submitted,

GOODWIN J. KNIGHT, Governor

Governor's veto message read.

Assembly Bill No. 1349 ordered to unfinished business file.

SPEECH BY DAN McCALL

Constitution

When Harry Emerson Fosdick preached the dedicatory sermon in his great new Riverside Church, he expressed the desire that some sign signifying its unique function might be placed over the entryway. He then jokingly suggested he would like to steal for that purpose a Fifth Avenue sign of a utilities company: Light and Power. Light and power —we might also employ the same sign to symbolize the purpose and functions of the Constitution of the United States, for it throws light upon the proper relation of man to man, and provides for the distribution of power among people.

It is easy to praise the Constitution, and most of us can; it is far more difficult, however, to appraise it, and too few of us do. It is to be revered, yes—but more important, revealed to layman as well as lawyer. It is to this latter task that I dedicate my efforts, to discern and set down those characteristics of the Constitution which make it a unique document, which account for its unparalleled success, to which may be ascribed its world-wide recognition and acclaim. For I assume that we are met here today to pay tribute to a document, or at least to the intellectual and moral achievements of a segment of humanity as set forth therein.

I choose to place first on my list of priceless ingredients the Constitution's concern for the individual, not for people—but for persons, not for numbers and the common man, but for names, and the human man.

A tired New York City housewife answered the doorbell to greet with a weary smile the community census taker. After asking the usual questions, he requested the number of children in her family. "Well, let's see," she said, "there's Mary and Henry and Jack——"

"No, no, I don't want the names, just the number."

She patiently smiled, "They ain't got numbers. All got names."

This is important. This is important because our Constitution does not promote a nebulum of numbers, rather—a Nation of names. It places individual dignity even above the state's integrity. As James A. Garfield, who served many years in Congress before be became president, said, "I have represented a district whose approval I greatly desired for a long time, but I desired still more the approval of just one man, and his name is Garfield. For, he is the one man I am compelled to sleep with and eat with and live with and died with, and if I do not have his approval I should have bad companionship." The Constitution guarantees that every Garfield shall have the right to become the kind of Garfield he aspires to be.

It does not say Americans are lovers of freedom. Rather it says something much more basic, much more fundamental: Mr. Citizen shall be free. He may go to the Baptist church, or the synagogue, or St. Andrews—any church he likes. He may write what is in his own head. He may tell his friends what he thinks He may market his own eggs, at his own prices, collecting his own money. He is a human being. He is free, to be free. The Constitution is great then, not because it makes man free, but because it assumes he is free, that his birthright bears the stamp of individual freedom. He shall not have a number, but he may have a name. He isn't a statistic, he is a being.

The second unique feature which I nominate for distinction in documentary design is expressed in the reaction of Robert Louis Stevenson when he was a small boy standing one evening by his window watching the village lamplighter at work. Young Robert cried, "Oh look, I can see something wonderful. There's a man coming down our street punching holes in the darkness." In 1787 a group of consecrated men trod the highways of humanity "punching holes in the darkness of their day." They pierced the veil of truth, and spread new light on old ideals and principles for man to live by. They made no new laws; they only saw more clearly than ever before the immutable laws of social science and formulated statements of their operation in the affairs of man. Accordingly, the Constitution was not written through the wisdom of Franklin, the genius of Jefferson, and the effusiveness of Hancock; rather it represents the combined prescience of all who had a part in its making. As Newton discovered the law of gravitation and put it into words for man's understanding, so the lamplighters who drew our Constitution looked back down the road of history, divining from the ebb and flow of oligarchy, a tyranny, feudalism, and all the many forms of oppression and freedom under which man had lived, new concepts of dignity, of worth, of worthiness. They gave these to the people—calling them the Constitution. John Adams called them "rights that cannot be repealed or restrained by human law—rights derived from the Great Legislator of the Universe." What I am trying to say is that the Constitution is not a promise or precept which man made, but a fundamental and universal law which he discovered; and such is its unique and distinguishing characteristic which sets it above and apart from all other political documents ever written. It is a recognition of natural law expressed as ideals to which man can aspire. Carl Schurz has said: "Ideals are like stars, you will not succeed in touching them with your hands, but like the seafaring man on the desert of waters, you choose them as your guides, and following them you reach your destiny."

We reach our personal destiny only as we understand that the Constitution outlines ideals; that those who live by its principles inevitably end up better equipped to live by their own. It is not liberty, but a document which proclaims the principles of liberty, not justice, but an outline which enables us to secure justice. It is a means—a human way of making ideals become realities.

Finally, the Constitution's uniqueness resides in its timelessness, its proven adaptability to serve the needs equally well of both the horse and buggy age, and the horseless carriage era, the periods of Fulton's steamboat and Wright Brothers' Dream-boat, of the Mayflower and of air-power. An epitaph carved on a tombstone of a father's grave beside a lonely public highway in Arizona reads, "My son, if you are to see the heritage that I leave you prosper, you must build it anew yourself." The greatness of the Constitution lies in the fact that each generation may under its protection rebuild its heritage to suit the tenor of the times. In turn, each in his life must rebuild his understanding of the Constitution, his faith in it, his loyalty to it.

The great sculptor Thorwaldsen was once asked what his finest statue was He answered simply, "The next one." It is this feature of the Constitution which enables us to look to each new year as the best possible one in our history. The exuberant Twentieth Century Constitution is as modern as this morning If it is to be taken down from the shelf, it must be taken into the self. It is not for us to dedicate; rather it is for us to be dedicated. The citizen who would serve and preserve, use and not abuse this framework of law and order, must understand that the first seven amendments are his guarantee to personal liberty and individuality, that the entire Constitution is a revelation of dependable natural law, and these laws are as timeless as the force of gravity and as constant as the sun. In this atmosphere Mr. Citizen may stand with his head in the clouds of idealism and his feet on the ground of reality, his eyes to the future because of his vision of the past, his faith in humanity because of his confidence in man.

As Walt Whitman said, "I see the genius of the modern, child of the real and ideal clearing the ground for broad humanity, the true America—heir of the past so grand, to build anew a grander future."

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Messrs. Weinberger, Meyers, Gaffney, Busterud, Burton, and O'Connell:

House Resolution No. 164

Honoring and congratulating Quint Bravo, veterans' activities leader

WHEREAS, It has come to the attention of the Assembly of the State of California that Quint Bravo, of San Francisco, has over a period of years contributed a large measure of his time and energies to leadership of many worthy veterans' activities; and

WHEREAS, These activities have included visits by the Hospital Committee, Department of California, Veterans of Foreign Wars, to over 500,000 patients in our military hospitals during his leadership of that committee; and

WHEREAS, The accomplishments and devotion of a leader who has contributed so generously and effectively to such a high cause are worthy of proclamation to the citizenry of this State; Quint Bravo was born in Turin, Italy, and came to the United States at the age of five years; he adopted San Francisco as his home and attended Galileo High School in that city; he, like thousands of other adopted citizens who have, with unparalleled patriotism, answered their Country's call to arms, left his home and his work to defend our Nation in the holocaust of World War II; in the invasion of Sicily in 1943 he was disabled and like so many other gallant men whose valor is the mainstay of our freedom, he faced the prospect of being permanently disabled and never walking again; from that bleak prospect he has forged a life of service that is worthy of the admiration and appreciation of all Americans; he has rehabilitated himself and devoted his efforts to amelioration of the suffering, which he understands so well, of patients in our military hospitals; in addition to his leadership in the Veterans of Foreign Wars as chairman of the Hospital Committee of the Department of California, he has served as the Commander of Post Lt. H. C. Wreden, as a National Aide, as the Fifteenth District Chaplain and Hospital Chairman, and as the County Council Commander of San Francisco; however, his effective efforts have not been limited to the many worthy causes of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; he is a past Supreme Inspector of the Military Order of the Cooties and has served as Grand Hospital Chairman of that order; and

WHEREAS, It is fitting and proper that the Assembly take this occasion to honor Quint Bravo and express its appreciation and the appreciation of the people of California to him; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Members of the Assembly congratulate Quint Bravo on his successful leadership in patriotic and humanitarian causes, bestow upon him the honor he so richly deserves, express their appreciation to him, and wish him every success in his further endeavors; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly is directed to transmit a suitably prepared copy of this resolution to him.

Request for Unanimous Consent

All things are Thine, O Lord, and we are Thine; keep us ever conscious of our position as Thy agents for the accomplishing of Thy purposes. May Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven, and may it be done by us; through Christ, our Lord.—AMEN.

Relative to the introduction of guests

WHEREAS, This session of the Legislature must adjourn in less than seven weeks; and

WHEREAS, The number of measures on the Assembly Daily File is now large and will become larger with each passing week; and

WHEREAS, It is essential that the Assembly devote as much time as possible to its work without interruption if it is to fulfill its obligations with respect to consideration of such measures; and

WHEREAS, It is therefore necessary to restrict the introduction of guests of Members of the Assembly for the remainder of this session solely for that purpose and without any disrespect for such guests intended or implied; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, As follows:

(1) For the remainder of this session no Member of the Assembly shall introduce any guest other than a public official.

(2) In no case shall any guest be introduced from the Speaker's rostrum nor shall any recess be taken for that purpose.

By Mr. Coolidge:

House Resolution No. 168

Relative to withdrawing bills from committee for amendment and re-reference to committee

WHEREAS, The procedure of withdrawing bills from committee by unanimous consent for the purpose of amendment, to be referred back to committee, results in the bypassing of the committee and the violation of the three-day rule of notice to persons interested in following legislation, and

WHEREAS, There has developed during this session a procedure which is contrary to the Assembly rules and tends to disorganize the proper consideration of bills, and

WHEREAS, This procedure, if it continues to grow, will result in rendering the committees useless and virtually abrogating the three-day notice rule, and

WHEREAS, This procedure has grown to such an extent that it would be unwise and unsatisfactory for any one member to try to prevent it, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the procedure of withdrawing bills from committee for the purpose of amendment and reference back to committee should be discontinued except in cases of urgency and the Assembly Committee on Rules is hereby directed to take appropriate action to effectuate this resolution.
