PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev. Robert R. Ferguson·

Eternal God, Our Loving Father, The Scriptures say many are called but few are chosen In a real sense these members have been chosen by the people and have the privilege of co-operating with Thee in helping to make this a better world Be with them as they face their tasks this day May their spirits not be seared by defeats, vindictive by victories, dulled by monotony, or gilded by glamor Give that fortitude to work when the inspiration has vanished, to think when the mind must plow deep for ideas, to do one's duty when we crave only our own pleasure
We pray for stability this day in our Master's name —AMEN

WHEREAS, State and national committees and conferences have in the past been created dealing with juvenile delinquency, crime, mental health and public assistance, yet the aforesaid primary cause of these serious social evils has long been neglected, the sole concern for this disruption of family life being largely left to bar associations, whose primary and limited interest has been in legal procedures connected with marriage, divorce and adoptions, and

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev. Robert R. Ferguson.

God, Our Loving Father, We confess we experience something of Whitman's reaction to a learned astronomer's lecture, with proofs, figures, columns, charts and diagrams Suddenly the poet became tired and sick, 'til rising and gliding out he wandered off by himself in the mystical moist night air and from time to time looked up in perfect silence at the stars

We pray, O God, that the dome of this Capitol may be something of our observatory When we become confused with issues, blurred with budgets, sick of pressures, may we from time to time in silence look up and see beyond the stars. In Our Master's name —AMEN

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO PRINT IN JOURNAL

Mr. Willson was granted unanimous consent that the following communication be ordered printed in the Journal.

COMMUNICATION FROM DIRECTOR OF EMPLOYMENT

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
DEPARTMENT OF EMPLOYMENT
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA

Hon George A. Willson
Member of Assembly
State Capitol, Sacramento

DEAR MR WILLSON: You have advised me that you will introduce a bill to provide that severance payments are wages under the Unemployment Insurance Code, and to provide that Section 1265 of that code, under which certain payments to individuals are not wages, shall not apply to severance payments You have requested that a statement of the statutory construction of the Department of Employment on this matter be supplied to you In accordance with your request, I submit the following statement

The 1959 Regular Session of the Legislature enacted Section 1265 of the Unemployment Insurance Code which provides that payments to an individual under a plan or system established by an employer which makes provisions for his employees generally, or for a class or group of his employees, for the purpose of supplementing unemployment compensation benefits shall not be construed as wages or compensation for personal services under the code and that benefits payable under the code shall not be denied or reduced because of the receipt of payments under such arrangements or plans

Following the enactment of Section 1265, the Attorney General of California in 34 Opinions of the Attorney General 305 (1959) ruled that Section 1265 was broad in scope; that the section was applicable to the severance payments considered by the opinion, and that such payments therefore were not wages Under the plans considered by the Attorney General, the severance payments varied in amount depending upon an employee's years of seniority and other factors and were paid to employees who were laid off for a continuous period of at least 12 months, or who were retired on or after age 60 but were not eligible for a retirement pension, or who became disabled but did not qualify for a disability pension In a 1961 opinion, the Attorney General ruled that Section 1265 applied to severance payments made to employees not only as to payments available at layoff but also to payments made upon closing of the employer's plant where the payments were made immediately in a lump sum to employees not eligible for optional retirement, with a right in an employee who would be eligible for optional retirement within one year to waive the severance payments and later elect optional retirement. (37 Ops Cal Atty Gen 83)

The Attorney General in his 1959 opinion cited above, discussed the question of whether separation (severance) payments are for the purpose of supplementing unemployment compensation benefits in the following language:

> "The obvious purpose of the separation payments is to help workers retired for age or disability but ineligible for an employer pension, and those who are the victims of technological improvements Thus they serve a function not unlike that of the statutory unemployment compensation and disability benefits The statutory benefits are designed to ease the burden placed upon an employee by unemployment. Weekly benefits under SUB Plans further ease the burden of unemployment Neither is long in duration. Neither provides substantial aid to the worker, to take but one example, who due to the closing of an obsolete factory may perhaps be required to move himself and his family hundreds of miles to find another job Yet it is this type of worker who is in most need of additional funds to supplement the unemployment compensation benefit award. It would be unreasonable to say that payment of additional amounts to such an individual pursuant to the 'separation payment' provisions of the SUB Plan are not made 'for the purpose of supplementing unemployment compensation benefits' merely because they have been called 'separation payments' It is concluded therefore that separation payments are not 'wages' as that term is used in the sections involved in this question and that their receipt does not render the recipient ineligible for unemployment compensation or disability benefits"

Based upon Section 1265 as construed by the opinions of the Attorney General, the statutory construction of the Department of Employment now is that under Section 1265 of the Unemployment Insurance Code, any severance payments made pursuant to a plan or system is "for the purpose of supplementing unemployment compensation benefits", in the absence of clear language in the plan provisions or other showing which demonstrates a contrary intention, and hence severance payments ordinarily do not constitute wages or compensation for personal services by reason of the application of Section 1265 thereto Thus, such severance payments are not subject to the tax under the Unemployment Insurance Code upon the employer for unemployment insurance; they are not subject to the tax under that code upon the employee for disability insurance; they may not be used as wages to support an award for either unemployment insurance or disability insurance benefits; and the receipt of such severance payments does not result in the reduction or denial of either unemployment insurance or disability insurance benefits to which any person is otherwise entitled

The above-stated statutory construction of the Department of Employment would, of course, be continued unless the California Legislature enacts legislation which would reverse or alter such construction Thus the passage of your bill would require the reversal of such construction, but the failure of such a bill would, in my opinion, affirm and ratify the department's construction that severance payments made in accordance with Section 1265 are not wages or compensation for personal services.

Please do not hesitate to inquire if I may be of further assistance

Sincerely,

ALBERT B TIEBURG, Director of Employment

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev. Robert R. Ferguson:

Eternal God, Our Compassionate Father, Help us to be aware of our part in this vast world Enable us to be developing into real people and total personalities May we not settle for a nation of intellectual giants, but moral pygmies Give us a moral equivalent for war May we see that spiritual and Christian values are not negative, but explosively creative

As we are exploring the atom and giving top priority in our march toward outer space, may we not forget the quality which can help us to walk confidently upon this earth May we love Thee our God, and then our fellow man, as ourselves

In They name we pray —AMEN

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

The following veto message from the Governor was received, and read

Veto Message

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
SACRAMENTO, April 26, 1963

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly
State of California
Sacramento, California

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith, without my signature,

Assembly Bill No. 393 entitled "An act to amend Section 79 01 of the Civil Code, relating to premarital blood tests"

This bill provides that if applicants for a marriage license are 65, or over, and neither desire premarital blood test examination, they shall not be required to obtain it, but if either desire such an examination, then both must submit thereto and file a certificate of examination with the marriage license application

This bill reflects an understandable concern for elderly persons who have experienced undue shock as a result of undergoing a blood test However, the premarital blood test law is for the purpose of discovering and preventing the transmission of syphilis Each year there are approximately 1,000 marriages in California in which both the bride and groom are over 65 years of age I have been advised by the Department of Public Health that premarital blood tests would disclose the existence of latent syphilis, and that prompt treatment would prevent the development of paresis or other paralysis of the nervous system, and other mental disturbances caused by the tertiary stage of syphilis

The existing law which requires all marriage applicants to take premarital blood tests is warranted if only a few cases of needless suffering by both the infected spouse and the innocent spouse can be avoided

Accordingly, I am returning the bill without my signature

Respectfully,

EDMUND G BROWN, Governor

Acknowledgment of Receipt of Message

I acknowledge receipt this 29th day of April, 1963, 9 o'clock a m of Assembly Bill No 393 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Caroline J Dunning, Secretary to the Legislative Secretary to the Governor

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev Robert R. Ferguson

Eternal God, Our Loving Father, We can easily become discouraged because Thy mills grind so slowly, that justice is often blocked; that righteousness is seldom as alluring as evil, that expediency wins so often over principle and that the way to better laws must climb such a precarious trail

Give us the vision to see that our historic faith did not roll out of a featherbed and yawn across the world Rather it came down from a Cross, climbed out of dungeons, walked through the flames of persecution, and for centuries lived on the brink of annihilation Forgive us for becoming soft and craving ease. May we live creatively for that for which others have died

In our Lord's name —AMEN.

SUPPLEMENT TO FINAL REPORT OF THE JOINT INTERIM COMMITTEE ON THE INVESTMENT OF PUBLIC RETIREMENT AND PENSION FUNDS

Introduction

Finding number three of the final report of this Joint Committee based upon hearings in December of 1961 and February of 1962, stated that "A retirement system invested partly in common stocks and partly in fixed-dollar investment, apparently provides a more adequate retirement income in terms of purchasing power under all types of economic conditions."

Some doubt concerning the wisdom of this finding arose on May 28, 1962 when the stock market fell to 576 93 on the Dow Jones industrial average The market did rally by the week's close to 611 05, but by the end of June the market experienced two more sharp drops, the latter one being the ultimate low of 535 76 of June 26 Such extreme and dramatic fluctuations in the market naturally raised questions concerning the prudence of investing the funds of California employees' retirement systems in common stocks Fortunately the State could draw upon the experience of other such funds which have invested in common stocks This was the principal purpose of the additional hearing held by this committee in San Diego in December of 1963 This report summarizes the findings of this meeting

First the general rationale of investing during market dips will be considered This will be followed by a summary of the practical experience of retirement funds which invested in common stocks during the 1962 market decline In this instance both the effect upon the attitude of the members and the changes in the value of the fund will be considered in light of the stock market decline

General Rationale for Investing During Market Fluctuations

Mr. Arthur H Hausserman, General Counsel of Vance Sanders and Company, testified that periodic dips in the market are not necessarily a disaster for the investor interested in long-term growth, and as a matter of fact they may be a blessing in disguise A retirement system has the advantage of new money coming in on a regular basis and can thus take advantage of "dollar cross averages " This means that stocks are purchased on a regular basis regardless of fluctuations in the market Should the market take a rapid downswing the retirement system is not forced to liquidate at that moment when it could get a minimum return on its investment As a matter of fact it can increase its investment at this time and thereby get more shares for its money It is by no means always unwise to invest during these dips in the market for there is a basic difference in the market price and the value of a share of stock This point was explained in detail by Mr. Robert S Driscoll, senior partner in Lord-Abbett and Co Mr Driscoll noted that seldom at any given time are the actual market price and the true value of a stock identical Price is of course based upon the many factors which cause fluctuations in the stock market Value is calculated from a thorough study of the earning power of a stock in terms of growth, stability and risk In times of declining market prices the professional investor has an opportunity to obtain values that are not present in rising enthusiastic market periods In other words although price may temporarily decline value often has a tendency to remain firm giving the prudent experienced investor a chance to obtain high value at a bargain price

The fact that value has tended to remain firm is demonstrated by the growth of tangible assets per share of good common stocks through retained earning power over a specific period of time While no one with absolute certainty can predict earnings and dividends for a given year, the record shows that the 30 companies in the Dow Jones industrial average earned approximately the same percentage of their tangible assets in 1961 as they did in 1935 Yet the dollar earnings in 1961 were nearly five times as much as in 1935, and dividend payments were over five times as much If the per share net assets of each of these 30 companies were added, applying the same correction figures used to compute the Dow Jones industrial average, it would be found that the assets behind each share of stock have more than quadrupled since 1935, largely because of retained earnings In brief the relationship between price and value, and the record of the past points to the likelihood, but not the absolute certainty, that in a period of declining market prices, the wise investor will be able to purchase high value stocks at relatively low prices.

Practical Experience During the 1962 Market Fluctuations

Membership Attitudes

One problem that arises when considering the investment of retirement funds in common stocks is that of the reaction of the members when there is a sharp decline in the stock market Should a significant number of the members become gravely concerned and fear that their savings are endangered because of a rapid decline in the stock market, and should these members then attempt to influence the investment policy of those responsible for the plan, the soundness or indeed, the very existence of the plan may be threatened A good index of membership reaction to the 1962 market dips can be obtained by examining membership reaction in the Teachers' Insurance Annuity Fund (TIAF) and the companion College Retirement Equity Fund (CREF) TIAF is the nonprofit organization founded in 1918 by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching Its purpose is to provide retirement and other benefit plans for the academic profession. CREF is the companion variable annuity open to TIAF members. TIAF income is fixed and does not fluctuate with the market CREF funds are invested in common stocks and the income from CREF does fluctuate with the market TIAF members therefore have the option of investing their retirement income in either fixed income bonds or common stocks and the number of TIAF members who voluntarily chose to participate in CREF during the 1962 market fluctuations is a good index of membership reaction to these fluctuations Mr. Thomas Edwards, Vice President of TIAF, testified that normally 85 percent of new TIAF members voluntarily choose to invest half of their money in CREF variable annuity, but during the 1962 market fluctuations the number of teachers who chose to invest in CREF jumped to 94 percent Mr. Edwards stated "I won't generalize from it, but it is surprising to see that even though we have been having blue Mondays and things, it seems that it hasn't disenchanted anybody with a long-term prospect putting some of their funds in common stock investments and variable annuity benefits" Similarly Mr R S Driscoll of Lord-Abbett noted that there was only a very slight increase in the number of shareholders who desired to liquidate during 1962 as compared to 1961 when there were no sharp market fluctuations.

Effects on the Value of Retirement Funds

The most basic problem faced by retirement funds which invest in common stocks is of course the fears of a decline in the value of their portfolio due to market fluctuations Careful examination of all records will quickly allay and almost refute such fears.

Officials of several retirement systems which so invest returned to San Diego in order to describe the effects of the 1962 market fluctuations upon their fund. Dr. J C Dolley, Vice Chancellor of the University of Texas, stated that the 1962 market decline produced only one change in security purchasing by the Permanent University Fund In early May the allocation of new money to corporate bonds was sharply reduced and this reduction was transferred to the equity side of the market. In effect the new money transferred to common stocks was roughly doubled and this policy continued in effect The results of this revised program were to increase overall yield (on a cost basis) from 2 78 percent to 3 50 percent On a portfolio of $395,000,000 this meant an increase of about $2,844,000 in income It must be admitted that a good portion of this resulted from switches in the government bond portfolio As overall yield increased despite market fluctuations so did the value of principal As of June 22, 1962 when the market was at a low point the market value of shares held were still 4 6 percent over book cost, and by August 31 of 1962 they were 16 8 percent over book cost Some of this increase must be credited to a judicious purchasing policy at times of market decline, and would not have been possible without market fluctuations

Mr. Thomas Edwards, Vice President of TIAF and CREF, stated that while it was true that the value of his fund did decline in the recent market dip, the overall value of the fund continued to increase to about 2½ times its original value The share value per person was $10 in 1952 and $23 69 in 1963 The annuity unit value which measured the amount a person receives in retirement also increased from $10 in 1952, and in December of 1962, after the market decline was worth $26. A teacher who paid $50 monthly to CREF since it began would have put in a total of $6,000 by 1962 At the lowest point of the market this would have been worth $8,832 and by December of 1962 he would have put in $6,250 and have $10,715 worth of accumulated units At the lowest point of the market in 1962 capital gain and dividends paid to participants measured 8 percent

In qualifying these two statements it must be pointed out that while variable annuity programs as such are not recommended by this committee, they are a useful direct method of measuring possible increased equity investment in retirement funding

Investment in common stocks are, of course, no panacea for fluctuations in the market Mr. Lewis G Kearns, Director of Financial Planning for Wellington & Co emphasized the importance of a balance between investments in fixed dollar positions and investment in common stocks Mr Kearns suggested 75 percent in fixed income and 25 percent in common stocks and noted that in 1962 the fixed position investment would have provided stability and preservation of dollar values during periods of market decline, while investment in common stocks is during the market decline using dollar cost averaging principles during the market decline would have resulted in bargain purchases of common stocks and mutual fund shares

Funds such as the Wisconsin Teachers' Fund which participate in both fixed income and common stocks offer a good comparison of the value of the retirement dollar as it fared in both systems A statement from Mr Raymond L. Lilywhite, Executive Secretary of the Wisconsin State Teachers' Retirement System, stated that despite the sharpest stock market decline since 1937 the variable portion of annuities show an average payment over the past four years of $110 02 per month as compared to $100 per month for the more rigidly controlled fixed portion of the fund

Summary

In the previous committee hearings in Los Angeles and San Francisco the preponderance of evidence and testimony demonstrated the superior characteristics of equity investment as compared to fixed dollar investment such as bonds, during periods of favorable economic growth

The San Diego hearing examined the value of equity investment during periods of economic uncertainty and stock market decline The experience of 1962 indicated that such institutional investors such as private retirement plans (TIAF-CREF), public pension fund, (State of Wisconsin Teachers' Fund) mutual funds (Wellington & Co) all continued policies of dollar cost averaging equity investment, and the value of such policies was proven sound

House Resolution No 274

Relative to the State Park System

WHEREAS, The continuing rapid increase in the population of California, together with the growth of the recreational and tourist industries upon which the economy of many areas of this State depend, make it imperative that new and enlarged state park and recreational areas be provided without delay, and

WHEREAS, This requirement for new and enlarged state parks and recreational areas is reinforced by an urgent necessity of state action to prevent the despoiling of, and to protect and conserve for further generations, natural resources of the State, including the redwood groves for which this State is justly famous, and

WHEREAS, The acquisition by the State of additional lands for park and recreational purposes or to protect and preserve the natural resources of the State and the consequent removal of such lands from the tax rolls, however, has a serious effect upon the income of local governmental agencies, which may threaten the continuation of local governmental services and functions, and

WHEREAS, While the loss of tax income may be offset in some instances by recreational and tourist trade which is generated by a public park, where lands are acquired by the State for future development and conservation, no immediate economic benefit is derived by the areas in which such lands are located, and

WHEREAS, A thorough study should be made of the entire State Park System and the acquisition of lands by the State for park and recreational purposes and to protect and preserve the natural resources of the State, including the responsibility of the State to take action, possibly in the form of in lieu payments, to local governmental agencies whose tax revenues are impaired by the State's acquisition of such lands, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Assembly Rules Committee is directed to assign to an appropriate interim committee for study the subject of the State Park System and the acquisition of lands by the State for park and recreational purposes and to protect and preserve the natural resources of the State, including but not limited to, the relationship between the State and local governmental agencies that are directly affected by the State Park System and the acquisition of lands by the State for park and recreational purposes and to protect and preserve the natural resources of the State, and to direct such committee to report thereon to the Assembly not later than the fifth legislative day of the 1965 Regular Session of the Legislature

If all of the districts are not under the jurisdiction of the same county superintendent of schools, then duplicate copies of the petition shall be presented to the county superintendent of schools of each county in which any part of any of the districts is situated. The county superintendent of schools shall verify the signatures of the governing boards of the district, or districts, under his jurisdiction. "SEC. 15. Article 3 (commencing with Section 2361) of Chapter 5 of Division 5 of the Education Code, as proposed to be added by Senate Bill No. 718, is repealed.

SEC. 16. Article 3 (commencing with Section 2361) is added to Chapter 5 of Division 5 of said code as proposed to be added by Senate Bill No. 718, to read

Article 3. Transfer of Territory From One Elementary or Unified District to Another

2361. The boundaries of any elementary or unified school district may be changed only when at least 25 percent of the registered electors, residing in the territory to be transferred from one district to another district by the proposed change of boundaries, present to the county superintendent of schools a petition setting forth the changes of boundaries desired, and the reasons for the changes, except that territory in which no registered electors reside may be transferred from one school district to another upon the petition of 10 electors residing in the districts which would be affected by the proposed change of boundaries.

2362. When a petition for a change of boundaries is presented, the county superintendent of schools shall examine the petition. If he finds it sufficient and signed as required by law, he shall, within 30 days of presentation of the petition to him, transmit a copy of the petition to the governing board of each district affected by the proposed change of boundaries and to the county committee on school district organization. The governing board of each district may, within 30 days after receiving such copy, file written notification with the county superintendent of schools of its opposition to the boundary change. The county committee on school district organization shall make its recommendation on the petition to the county superintendent of schools within 30 days of receipt of the petition. Within 35 days after transmitting a copy of the petition to the governing boards and the county committee, the county superintendent of schools shall file the petition with the board of supervisors accompanied by the written notification, if any, of opposition by the governing board of any district affected and the recommendation of the county committee, as well as his recommendation, which shall include a statement of his belief as to whether the electors residing in the districts which would be affected are substantially divided in opinion with respect to the desirability of such change.

2363. Upon the filing with it of the petition, the recommendations and notice, the board of supervisors has jurisdiction to hear and determine the petition.

The board of supervisors may determine that an election shall be held in the entire district from which the territory is proposed to be transferred if either (1) at least 25 percent of the assessed valuation of such district is located in such territory and the territory contains no school building, or (2) the territory contains the only school building or buildings of the district.

2364. On receipt of the petition from the county superintendent the board of supervisors shall hold a hearing within 30 days. Notice of such hearing shall be posted in at least three public places in the districts affected and in three public places within the territory which is the subject of the petition.

The notice shall be prepared by the county superintendent and shall state when and where the petition will be heard and will give a general statement of the purpose of the petition and the boundaries proposed to be changed.

2365. The board of supervisors shall at the time and place fixed in the notice, hear all persons interested in the petition and may continue the hearing from time to time, but for not more than two weeks in all.

Within one week of the conclusion of the hearing the board of supervisors shall do one of the following:

(b) Grant the petition.
(c) Order an election held in the area of the proposed change.
(d) Order an election held in the districts affected.
(e) Defer action if the territory is under study by the county committee.

2367. If, pursuant to subdivisions (c) or (d) of Section 2365 the board of supervisors orders that an election be held, the election shall be called, held, and conducted by the county superintendent of schools.

Except as provided in this section, the election shall be called, held, and conducted in as nearly the same manner as is practicable as are elections for governing boards and the county superintendent of schools shall have all the applicable powers and duties with respect to the election which school district governing boards have in elections for such governing boards.

The election shall be called by posting notices in at least three public places in the district if the election is to be held in the entire district, or if not in the territory proposed to be transferred, at least 30 days before the election. Notices may, in the discretion of the county superintendent of schools be published in the territory pursuant to Section 6066 of the Government Code. Notices shall specify the time and place of election and the proposition to be voted on by the electors, shall describe the territory proposed to be transferred, and shall specify the location of the polls, the hours during which the polls will be kept open, and the hour when the returns of the election will be canvassed.

The ballots used in the election shall contain substantially the words "Shall the territory in which this election is held be transferred from the _____ School District(s) to the _____ School District?" Opposite such words, in separate lines, the words "Yes" and "No" shall be printed, with a voting square opposite each such word.

The costs of the election shall be paid in equal shares out of the funds of the school districts to be affected by the proposed change of boundaries.

The county superintendent of schools shall certify the results of the election to the board of supervisors. If a majority of the votes cast were in favor of the proposed change of boundaries, the board of supervisors shall, by an order placed on its minutes, order the change of boundaries.

A copy of the order of the board of supervisors, certified by the clerk of the board, shall be recorded in the office of the county recorder of each county in which the new district is situated, or in each county where the district whose boundaries are changed is situated.

ADDRESS BY DR. DuBRIDGE

Dr. Lee A. DuBridge then addressed the Joint Convention as follows:

CALIFORNIA AND THE SPACE AGE

GENTLEMEN It is a very great honor to me to be invited to address this joint session of the Senate and the Assembly of the State of California Thank you very much for the very flattering resolution of invitation which was passed by both branches of the Legislature

Though I shall not pretend to understand why I was the particular individual chosen for this occasion, I nevertheless am impressed with the fact that you thought it right and proper that a scientist and educator should be invited to this platform at this time These are days in which science and technology, as well as education, have an extraordinary influence on the strength and welfare of our nation and of our State of California I only wish I had the eloquence of a Daniel Webster in presenting to you some of the great challenges and great problems which our nation and our State face in this age of space But it is not my function to persuade you, for I have no bill of goods to sell you I only wish to present you with some facts and let you draw your own conclusions

This age of space, as you know, dawned in October 1957 when the first Russian Sputnik went into an orbit around the earth All Americans were distressed that this first space event occurred under Russian and not under American auspices And yet American technology was not as far behind as some supposed, for it was only four months later (a very short time, as such things go) that American Explorer I successfully went into an earth orbit

That Explorer I, as you know, was designed and fabricated at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory of the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena The large booster which projected the capsule into orbit was, of course, fabricated at what was then the U S. Army Ordnance missile development facility in Huntsville, Alabama

Thus, California entered the space race at its very outset, and its space activities have been growing at an extraordinary—some might even say at an alarming—rate ever since

Explorer I was not as heavy as was Sputnik I, but it carried a far more precious load of scientific instruments, it made far more extensive scientific observations; and indeed, in that very first flight, it uncovered the first evidence for the existence of the cloud of charged particles trapped in the earth's magnetic field hundreds to thousands of miles above the surface—the cloud now known as the 'Van Allen Belt."

Since those early days of the space age, the United States has launched 118 successful capsules which either circled the earth or went off into other parts of the solar system The Russians have launched 34 It has continued to be true that the Russian vehicles were heavier than the American It has also continued to be true that the American vehicles were more efficiently equipped with scientific instruments and have yielded a vastly greater quantity of scientific data about the earth, the moon, the planet Venus, and the characteristics of the so-called 'empty space" that lies beyond the earth's atmosphere In the launching of every one of these American spacecraft California scientists and engineers and California industry have had some part—often a predominant part

There are a host of scientific achievements which have come as a result of these American space projects We have explored the earth's magnetic and gravitational fields We have obtained valuable information on world weather phenomena. We have more fully explored the characteristics of the Van Allen Belt We have sampled the radiations, the matter, and the gravitational and magnetic fields which exist in deep space We have detected and measured the so-called "solar wind"—the flood of charged atoms which emerge continually from the sun itself, adding to the cosmic rays which strike the earth and influencing the earth's magnetic field We have measured the temperature of the atmosphere and of the surface of Venus and have determined that the planet Venus rotates only slowly about its own axis, possibly keeping always the same face pointed toward the sun, as the moon keeps the same face pointed toward the earth We have determined that Venus possesses a zero, or at least a very small, magnetic field. We have observed the face of the sun from space vehicles, getting information on radiations which cannot get through the earth's atmosphere to our surface observatories We have launched communication satellites—and opened a whole new era in worldwide communication technology We have achieved many other advances in science and technology, much too numerous to mention here It is not too much to say that a real scientific and technological revolution has taken place in these few short years.

And, yet, we have made but a bare beginning in exploiting our opportunities for space exploration We shall soon be sending spacecraft to land on the moon and tell us about its physical and chemical composition We shall launch a vehicle to pass in the vicinity of the planet Mars We shall send additional spacecraft to Mars and to Venus—and, eventually, we hope to land instruments on both of those planets. All these spacecraft aimed at distant objects will, during their hundreds of millions of miles of travel, gather new information about the sun and about the solar system We shall someday launch astronomical telescopes into orbits far above the earth's atmosphere where, for the first time, man will be able to see the universe unimpeded by the murky, the wiggly, and the partially opaque blanket of air which shrouds the earth's surface We shall soon outrun the capabilities for instruments alone to make all the scientific and technical observations which are desired, and we shall then send men into space to enhance the value of our observations and our explorations. Never before in human history has such an exciting and such a far-reaching scientific and technical enterprise been possible. Never before have man's horizons been broadened so far and so fast And, yet, it was only a short 25 years ago that anyone who suggested that man would soon be able to embark on an era of space exploration would have been thought to be either demented or possibly a science fiction writer—or a comic-strip artist!

And yet here we are, already immersed in the five-year-old space age, already dreaming even grander dreams with each passing year Dreams now, however, which are based on fact—not on fancy

What, then, is the major purpose of these dreams? What is the purpose of the huge national effort we are putting into the task of making these dreams come true?

You will find many answers to these questions

Some will say, "We must catch up with the Soviets"—which is to say we must prove that we can build just as big and powerful rocket boosters as they Well, someday we will have bigger boosters—vastly more powerful than the ones we now have But a big booster is surely not an end in itself—what do we wish to do with it? It's what's up front that counts Our present boosters are quite adequate for military purposes—that is what they were originally designed for They can carry powerful nuclear war heads to any spot on earth Our military striking power thus will not be enhanced in any critical way by larger boosters Maybe the Russians had to have big ones because they did not—at the time—have such compact nuclear war heads as we did And so we have just made a virtue out of their necessity

We do need bigger boosters for our more ambitious space ventures, however Yet we have, as I have said, done pretty well with those we have They are adequate to send spacecraft to Venus and Mars The fact that the weight of these capsules is smaller than the ones the Soviets launch only means we must be more clever in designing light and compact instruments And that's what we have done We need not be ashamed of what our spacecraft have achieved And isn't that the final test?

But to return to the goal of our space program There are some who say its only goal is to put Americans on the moon before any Russians land there Well, that is an announced national policy We are working strenuously to that end—and it will be several years before we know whether we shall succeed—whether we shall in fact be the first

But why do we send men to the moon—why do we send so many instruments into space? As I have already pointed out, the goal is really a scientific one We are seeking to learn more We want to explore the moon—with instruments and with men We want to find out what it is like—what it is made of We think that a close look at the moon may tell us about its origin—and thus about the origin of the earth and the solar system

There is recent evidence that the moon has something to do with the earth's weather When the moon is "new"—that is, when it is between the earth and the sun—there is less rainfall than when the moon is full—that is, on the side away from the sun Why is this? Does the new moon shield the earth from charged particles or dust streams emanating from the sun—and do such things affect our weather? We don't know But it would be a good thing to find out

But the moon is only our first step into space Our space program will not cease when men first arrive there We must send many expeditions to the moon We must send instruments, and later men, to circle the planets Venus and Mars—perhaps, someday, to land on the surface.

Why?

Just to beat the Soviets?

Surely there is something deeper Surely here, too, our aim is scientific exploration —to seek new knowledge Mars and Venus are deep mysteries to us We can never find out too much about them until we get there

Think, for example, of the one staggering discovery that remains to be made Is there, or is there not, some form of life on Mars? If not, why not? If there is life, what is it like? Is it like earthly life? Does it employ the same chemistry as does life here? Is the pattern of genetics, reproduction, and evolution the same as on earth? These are deep and profund and immensely interesting questions Civilized men cannot be content until they are answered

But even Venus and Mars are hardly a step from our door—as cosmic distances go What about going still further? Yes, someday, Jupiter and Saturn and the other planets that rotate about our sun will be our goals too They are much farther away—but the technology for reaching them is clearly in sight

And what about beyond our solar system? What about visiting other stars—like our sun—which might have planets rotating around them?

On this point, the news is not so good Even the nearest large star—Alpha Centauri—is so far away that even if we could escape from the colossal gravitational pull of our sun (a tremendous task) and could then speed our capsule up again to, say, 20 miles per second (another stupendous task), we would still find it would take 40,000 years to reach Alpha Centauri It would take a million years to reach other nearby stars, three-quarters of a billion years to reach the center of our Milky Way, 40 billion years to reach the next nearest galaxy of stars—and 40 trillion years to get to the most distant galaxies the Palomar telescope can see

No—reaching out to other parts of the universe will have to be deferred for a while Deferred forever, perhaps—for man's lifetime is just too short

But we can, nevertheless, learn much more about the distant universe from our space capsules For, as I have said, once we can get fine telescopes above our atmosphere, the distant reaches of the universe will come into sharper focus—and we can't even imagine all the new things we will learn.

So there are the goals of our civilian space program to learn more about the earth, about the moon and the planets, about the empty space that lies between them—and to get a clearer view of the rest of the universe

Does this justify the huge sums of money we are spending?

That, of course, depends on your point of view Clearly, no great modern nation can stay out of the space age entirely, clearly America cannot help but assume leadership in this great and new human enterprise Whether our level of spending is too large or too small, I will not attempt to judge But the space age is here, our nation is committed to a substantial program—and, whether Congress should appropriate 4 5, 5, or even 5 7 billion dollars for the space agency next year, we still face the fact that space exploration is to produce a tremendous impact upon our national life and upon the minds of men and women all over the world

But let us turn our attention again to California's place in the space age Why is it that this State occupies such a predominant place in this picture? Why do the expenditures in California for space work loom larger, by a factor of three, than for any other state in the union? Why is such a large fraction of the nation's efforts in the development and fabrication of large rockets, in the development and manufacture of intricate electronics, guidance and communication equipment, and in scientific instrumentation to be found in California?

The story, of course, goes back many years to the early days of the airplane when the first flight enthusiasts found that, because of its weather, California offered an excellent location for building and testing airplanes Pioneers, such as Donald Douglas, saw here the opportunity to initiate an aircraft industrial development

Those early aircraft were pretty fragile contraptions by modern standards, and they were fragile, undependable, and inefficient because, in those days, there was no real science of aeronautics We did not really understand the principles which made it possible for heavier-than-air craft to fly through the atmosphere In about 1927 a group of scientists and engineers perceived that further developments in the technology of flight could be carried forward only if the science of aeronautics were first explored And so, with the help of the Guggenheim Foundation, the first university laboratory of aeronautical science was established at Caltech in Pasadena in 1929, stimulated by that farsighted scientist and educator, my predecessor, Dr Robert A Millikan Within a few short years the scientific work of that laboratory had uncovered quantities of new data on the nature of airflow around such things as aircraft wings, had pinpointed the factors which underlie the lift and drag phenomena, and, more important, that laboratory was educating engineers broadly trained in the basic science and technology of flight These engineers joined the staffs of the growing aircraft industrial companies, and soon California-made airplanes were the finest in the world Many additional aircraft companies began operations in Southern California to be near the scientific and engineering developments which were revolutionizing aircraft design, and which eventually made possible the modern highly efficient high-speed jet aircraft—and also the modern rocket Here was one of the first startling examples of the way in which a relatively small educational institution, devoted to advanced education and scientific research, contributed so heavily to the economy of a great state

But there were many more examples to come At Stanford University a great research laboratory in the field of electronics was in the making in the 1930's. Scientific discoveries in this area led to technological developments which revolutionized communication, navigation, air defense, and led eventually to the modern era of automation It is no accident that one of the great centers of the electronic industry in the country is to be found within a few miles of Stanford University in Palo Alto, California

As a third example, in this same Guggenheim Aeronautical Laboratory at Cal Tech there was emerging in 1940 the idea that jet propulsion had now become a practical technological possibility A small test laboratory was set up near the mountains, in what was then an uninhabited part of Pasadena, to make tests on jet propulsion devices During the war that laboratory developed to vast proportions as a center for the development of large rocket engines—and it is now the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, operated under the National Aeronautics and Space Administration by the California Institute of Technology, employing 4,000 people, and being responsible for the expenditure of some 200 million dollars annually The science and technology developed in that laboratory spread to the aircraft and rocket industries

The present great Aerojet-General Corporation, with plants in Southern California and also one near Sacramento, began as a small manufacturing concern to supply to the government the first jet propulsion devices developed at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory initially used to serve as booster engines for aircraft taking off from short runways—the so-called JATO equipment Aerojet-General is now one of the large industries of California Dozens of other California companies began in a similar way as manufacturing agencies for electronic, aircraft, or rocket manufacturing to put into production new ideas developed in university laboratories

Another great boost to the missile and space industry of the nation was the development of nuclear warheads for military rockets As everyone knows, the University of California at Berkeley was already, by 1940, one of the great nuclear science centers in the world Because of the University's leadership in this field, it was asked by the Manhattan District during World War II to set up and manage the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory in New Mexico which has been the center for all developments of nuclear warheads for bombs and rockets The great laboratory at Livermore was later set up to supplement the work of Los Alamos It was out of these laboratories that the first compact hydrogen-burning or thermonuclear warheads were first developed which made it feasible to mount these powerful warheads on ballistic missiles The Atlas missile manufactured by Convair, with headquarters in San Diego, was the first such military intercontinental missile to be developed, and the Atlas has also been an essential element in our space exploration projects

Thus in California, through the collaborative efforts of universities and industry, all of the essential technical foundations of our space program were brought into being—flight science, jet propulsion, electronic science, and military missiles No area in the country could bring together so rapidly and so effectively these four basic requirements for our entry into the space age And no state had acquired the great resources of highly educated and highly skilled manpower as could be found right here

A cogent illustration of how important economic and industrial impacts follow these centers of education and research is the study of what happens to the very large research and development budget now operated by the government Last year some 12 billion dollars of government funds were spent for research and development in the fields of space, electronics, defense, as well as for basic scientific and engineering investigations Needless to say, a research and development contract can only go to those institutions and to those companies that have the brains, the know-how, and the access to new ideas Of this large research and development budget, 41 percent was spent in the State of California Next in line was the State of New York with 12 percent—less than one-third of California's share—and Massachusetts stood third with 5 7 percent It is no accident that these three states carry on 59 percent of the dollar value of the government's vast research and development program for these are also the three states in which some of the greatest universities in the world are located Research money follows the brains, and the brains are developed in university centers It is just as simple as that

Over two years ago, in a speech delivered to a Caltech audience, the great industrialist Alfred P Sloan, Jr, formerly Chairman of the Board of the General Motors Corporation and now the Chairman of the Sloan Foundation, expressed this situation very clearly He said

> "I believe a revolution has taken place as to the status of education among the activities of our society In the new concept education is evolving as a problem of major social and economic significance in the deliberations of our society
> "The business impact on education and the impact of education on business stand out crystal clear in fact, education becomes a competitive necessity in business"

I have already pointed out the way in which great universities and their great research centers are essential elements in modern industrial development But it goes far beyond that Professional schools in law, medicine, agriculture, and business also play an essential role—for a great and prosperous state requires men and women of many talents Our liberal arts colleges add another major element—for educated citizens in all walks of life are essential to a civilized and well governed and prosperous community

And whence come the young people who enter our colleges and universities? From our primary and secondary schools, of course So they must be fine too And I can assure you of this our best high schools in California are pretty fine, and are getting better every year The freshmen who are entering Caltech and Stanford and Berkeley and Occidental and Pomona and other colleges are much better prepared for college than they were a few years ago They have had better courses in mathematics, in science, in English and history and foreign language than they had ten, or even five, years ago We have much further to go to make all our public schools even finer—but they are now on the march

Now I am sure that these things are well known to the members of the legislative body before whom I speak You have supported education in this State in our public schools and state colleges and universities to a magnificent degree Through your wisdom and foresight you have enabled the University of California to become one of the great centers of education, scholarship, and research in the entire world You have recently adopted the Master Plan for Higher Education in California, which recognizes and sets up machinery for co-ordinating the three great segments of public higher education (the University, the State Colleges, and the junior colleges) and giving also due recognition to the great importance of our private institutions It is now clear that the California Master Plan is going to be taken as a pattern for the development of higher education in many other states It is a document of historic importance, and tremendous credit goes to the Master Plan Study Committee headed by President Arthur Coons of Occidental College, to Governor Brown who saw the great value and significance of this plan, and to this Legislature which passed it and put it into effect On behalf of all the educators in California, I want to express congratulations and thanks to you for this wise action

In your deliberations you have also recognized the importance of our private institutions of higher learning You placed before the voters last year Proposition 13 which extends the property-tax exemption for private institutions—a measure of very great value and importance At the same time, you authorized the submission of Proposition 1-A to insure adequate capital funds for the building of our state institutions Had this measure not been submitted and passed, our state institutions would have been seriously handicapped in accommodating the great flux of young people seeking to go into higher education in the State, and a serious problem would have been presented not only to state but also to private education We in the private institutions believe it to be of utmost importance that the State support in an adequate and judicious manner its state institutions When these institutions are inadequately supported, they must seek additional funds from private donors—and yet the private donors are the only source of support of the private institutions We hope that you will keep in mind that whenever the public institutions are forced into the private sector for support for capital expenditures or for operating expenses, these institutions come into direct competition with the private colleges and universities who all desperately need additional private support

This problem is one which has been discussed at some length by the officers of the Association of Independent California Colleges and Universities (the organization of which I am currently president) and with the officers and Regents of the University of California President Clark Kerr of the university has assured our association that his institution will not seek large private donations other than from alumni and the great foundations, and will seek not to compete with the private institutions in their urgent quest for funds from private donors You in this Legislature can help in this matter by making sure that the essential needs of the university and the state colleges are satisfied from state funds to the largest possible extent

There is one other important piece of legislation which has passed the California Legislature for which I wish to express appreciation This is the creation of the system of state scholarships to aid worthy and needy students to attend the institutions of their choice in the State of California To administer this program you set up the State Scholarship Commission which has, under its present leader, Mr Arthur Marmaduke, done a superb job in carrying out this program This program is of especially great importance to the private institutions, but it is also important in an economic sense to the entire State As the private institutions of the State are strengthened, and as they expand their enrollments, they assume a substantial portion of the burden of caring for the rapidly growing population of young people in California However, there are many families who cannot afford to send their children to the private institutions—which they might in fact, for various reasons, prefer to attend—because of the fact that private institutions are forced to charge tuition fees ranging from about $700 to around $1,000 per year By authorizing state scholarships in amounts which may range up to $900 per year for worthy students, you have enabled many of them to attend private institutions and thereby relieve some of the burden on the public institutions The figure of $900 as the maximum award was set at a time when tuition fees were lower than they are today A proposal is now before you to increase the maximum allowance to students attending private institutions with high tuition rates in order to maintain the opportunity for more students to attend these institutions The Association of Independent California Colleges and Universities hopes very much that you will find it possible to approve this amendment to the California scholarship plan We are sure that it is an economically sound plan from your point of view, for every student going to a private institution relieves you of the burden of paying the costs and building the additional facilities which the public institutions would then require

Yes, through your efforts—and through the efforts of many other agencies and many people—California has built a fine educational system And it is a system that can become even finer as the years go by

And, as I have said, these efforts are now paying off economically For our fine educational system has been a major factor in the State's industrial and technological development Our investment in education is paying off a hundredfold

But I know you would not want me to leave you with the impression that the purpose of our educational system is only to contribute to economic and industrial development Far from it The purpose of education is to serve the needs of our young people—to enable them to develop and use their talents, to live richer and more fruitful lives, to be better citizens In 1787 the Congress of the United States passed the Northwest Ordinance—leading to the development of the western states That document said

> "Religion, morality, and knowledge, being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged"

The State of California has followed that injunction It has not been an easy task Education is a large, complex and costly enterprise To encourage it properly requires wisdom, understanding, and farsighted judgment—and also money But I hope I have helped to confirm your opinion that the building of a fine educational system is the most important task you have achieved—and the most important objective for the future, if we wish to maintain in California the finest environment in the nation in which fine people can live happy and fruitful lives

The following veto message from the Governor was received, and read:

Veto Message Concerning Assembly Bill No. 188

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
SACRAMENTO, May 3, 1963

To the Honorable Members of the Assembly
State of California
Sacramento, California

GREETINGS I am returning herewith, without my signature,

Assembly Bill No. 188 entitled "An act to add Section 16507.5 to the Education Code, relating to school supplies and equipment."

Section 16501 of the Education Code provides that elementary school districts having an average daily attendance of less than 2,500 during the preceding fiscal year shall purchase standard school supplies and equipment through the county school superintendent. The new section added to the code by Assembly Bill No. 188 has the effect of exempting from the provisions of Section 16501 districts which at one time had an average daily attendance of more than 2,500, but in which the average daily attendance has since declined to 2,500 or less.

I am informed that the legislation was requested by a school district in Stanislaus County which had established its own purchasing system at a time when its average daily attendance was above 2,500, and which desires to continue this system, even though its average daily attendance dropped to a point just below 2,500 last year.

I am of the opinion that the measure as finally enacted by the Legislature is special legislation, in fact, though possibly not in form. However, my major objection to the bill is that by exempting one or more districts, in a county, from the requirement that they purchase supplies and equipment through the county school superintendent, all the other small districts in the same county may be required to pay higher prices for their supplies, since some of the advantages of quantity purchasing would obviously be lost by reasons of the exemptions.

I should like to add that in my opinion the best solution to the supply purchasing problems, as well as many other problems of small school districts, is unification.

I am advised that there is an alternative procedure not requiring legislation available to any small school district which wishes to utilize it. This alternative consists of the purchasing of supplies through the State Purchasing Agent.

Accordingly, I am returning the bill without my signature.

Respectfully submitted,

Acknowledgment of Receipt of Bill

I acknowledge receipt this third day of May 1963, 2 16 o'clock p m , of Assembly Bill No 188 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Caroline J. PRAYER

Eternal God, Father of Us All, We pray this morning for our Country Give guidance to our President and national officials Be with our Governor, his staff, and all officers of our State As we give affirmation of our belief in Thee, in our flag salute, and on our coins, may we not defy Thee and Thy laws in our dealings with each other Remove from us race prejudice, and may no actions be foolishly taken now which weaken the moral structure of our people and Nation

Forgive those of us who call ourselves Christian, yet do not give equality of opportunity to other races. May we see our hypocrisy in sending money overseas to the people we humiliate here at home Take away our masks and may we see ourselves as all forgiven sinners needing Thy grace —AMEN

Relative to an interim study on consolidation of elections

WHEREAS, Provision is now made in the law for 300 different types of elections; and

WHEREAS, A great majority of these elections are held on different days, with different precincts, and with different election officials, and

WHEREAS, The holding of separate elections in all of these situations is very costly, and creates a heavy burden on the taxpayer, and

WHEREAS, It also creates considerable confusion among the voters, and in many instances results in a poor voter turnout on important issues involving large sums of money, and

WHEREAS, If a method could be devised to consolidate many, if not all of these elections, it would greatly facilitate the administration of elections in this State, would bring about substantial savings of public funds, and promote the interest of voters in important issues which they are called upon to decide, and

WHEREAS, It is essential that a study be made to determine whether such consolidation can be effected, giving due consideration to the advantages and disadvantages of holding elections separately or on a consolidated basis, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Committee on Rules is directed to assign the subject of consolidation of elections to an appropriate interim committee for study, and to direct the interim committee to report its findings to the Legislature not later than the fifth legislative day of the 1965 General Session

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev Robert R Ferguson

God Our Father, As we approach Mother's Day and Christian Home Sunday, may we be neither cynical nor overly sentimental As many of our friends through their office must pay the sacrifice of spending much time away from home, may its strength be an inspiration to them while performing their legislative duties Give us the unsophisticated wisdom and humility of the father who said

Last night my little boy confessed to me
Some childish wrong,
And kneeling at my knee,
He prayed with tears—
"Dear God, make me a man
Like Dad—wise and strong;
I know you can."

I knelt beside his bed,
Confessed my sins,
And prayed with low-bowed head
"O God, make me a child
Like my child here—
Pure, guileless,
Trusting Thee with faith sincere."

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev Robert R Ferguson.

Our Eternal Father, We ever pray for peace and are so often frustrated by what we read of strife in distant places Yet Thou dost show that world wars are only individual tensions multiplied We pray that as persons we may be growing toward maturity and unified beings rather than individual civil wars which are the world problems Guide the special areas of strife in our own land that they may be contained and reasonable solutions achieved

As we condemn others for prejudices which bring about hostilities, may we look honestly within and see that we are not harboring this disease

In Thy name we pray.—AMEN
