REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO PRINT IN JOURNAL

Mr Unruh was granted unanimous consent that the following article be printed in the Journal

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—SENATE

Tribute to Mrs. Clair Engle

Mr Young of Ohio. Mr President, last year, on August 14, in Doctors Hospital in Washington, Mrs Clair Engle, my wife, and I were in attendance on our late, great colleague, Senator Clair Engle

He was one of the bravest and finest men I ever knew

He was a great athlete, an active, vigorous young man of 52

That night of August 14 last year, he was wheeled into the operating room accompanied by his wife Lucretia on one side and myself on the other, where he underwent the first of two operations for brain surgery

Throughout the period following that time, I met with his wife Lucretia on many occasions at Doctors Hospital, and again at the Naval Hospital in Bethesda

The Engle home is located near Capitol Hill, and on her way home from the hospital in Bethesda late at night, Mrs Engle would frequently stop at my home My wife and I would insist on her remaining with us rather than continuing alone to Capitol Hill

Mr President, Mrs Engle is a very great lady

In today's Washington Evening Star there is published an article written by William S White, entitled "A Tribute to Mrs Clair Engle"

I have personal knowledge that the statements made by this respected and nationally known columnist are factually correct—as everyone knows

I have personal knowledge of the fact that my colleague and friend Clair Engle, with whom I vacationed over the Christmas weekend in 1962 and New Year's weekend of 1963, was a great athlete, a man of the utmost vigor, who could run for nine miles in the sand, when I would give out at the end of a third that distance

Yet he was stricken fatally—we who loved him knew, but he felt that he was going to recover He had confidence that he would recover and would be able to run for reelection as a Senator from the State of California

While Clair Engle was in the hospital, many people misunderstood the situation This tribute to Mrs Clair Engle written by William S White is factually correct, because I can attest to every word in every line of it from my personal knowledge and I hope it will clear up some misunderstanding

Mr President, I ask unanimous consent to have the article printed in the Record

There being no objection, the article was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows

A Tribute to Mrs. Clair Engle

(By William S White)

The feeling that politicians are not really people and that they can in no circumstance deserve pity is so deeply embedded as perhaps never to be dislodged by a more humane view

The general attitude is an oversimplification of Harry Truman's wry observation: "If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen" Mr Truman did not mean that politicians did not bleed like other men when wounded He only meant that those who dish it out should be ready to take it He did not intend to promote the idea—though he has done it—that in politics anything should go, anything at all

Even so American folklore has commonly exempted the women and children from the more pitiless forms of political combat, just as we still don't believe that girls should serve in the infantry Not so in the case of Mrs Lucretia Engle, widow of Senator Clair Engle, of California Since nobody is suddenly so friendless as a man out of power—or a widow bereft of a man who had lost power before he died —this column is meant to put the case for Lucretia Engle

For many weeks her husband, Clair Engle, lay ill in a hospital of a brain tumor and for many months thereafter he could only hobble about his home, barely able to speak, before death came at last to end his agony For all those weeks and months he was sustained most of all by Lucretia Engle She remembered that line— "* * * in sickness and in health" She was the only "night nurse" he had in all that hopeless span of time She was, in the very nature of things, the only "political associate" with whom he could be always in touch and upon whom he could rely day and night and in between

Now all during this time until at length he withdrew himself from all politics, the position was specially sensitive Since he was up for reelection in California and since carrying California was the legitimate concern of the Democratic Party and its leaders, special problems were created And all these special problems fell on the already desperately tired shoulders of Lucretia Engle

That some politicians in California pushed her without too much sensitivity to get Clair Engle out of the race quickly was understandable, for much was at stake But that in doing so they made no secret of their cool belief that he was of course going to die at any moment anyhow was something less than understandable, even in the hard, tough trade of politics And that they believed, and said, that it was only the "ambitions" in Lucretia Engle which kept him from conveniently withdrawing early was too much altogether

For while the eventual inheritor of Clair Engle's nomination for the Senate, Pierre Salinger, dealt in unfailing gentleness and gallantry with Lucretia Engle, other men were quite unable to show here either They misled much of the press into honestly supposing that Lucretia Engle was some sort of female Svengali to Clair Engle's Trilby, that she was moving him about for her own pride and ends

The simple truth was piteously different Lucretia Engle was at every step of the way doing what she thought Clair Engle wanted her to do—and only that There is, moreover, this strongly suggestive evidence If Lucretia Engle was pushing Clair Engle about without his knowledge, why did she welcome and encourage others to call and talk to him, rather than the reverse?

Her ambition was in fact the ambition to keep Clair Engle alive and to keep burning in him some small flame of hope for a recovery and a continued career Hope, surely, is an allowable human motive, even in a man who is gravely ill

Of course, Lucretia Engle had her doubts all along that Clair Engle could attempt another campaign But, after all, she could hardly say to him—with that wonderful objectivity which is so much easier to maintain by those who do not love a sick man than by those who do "Look here, Clair You will never recover, so give up these, your empty dreams of returning to the Senate Too much is involved for you to hang onto the possibility of making a race you cannot run"

To recall all this is too late to do much good for Lucretia Engle Yet it is worth putting into the record for two reasons To salute the decent humanity of Pierre Salinger, whatever his shortcomings otherwise may be And to make us all think a bit upon the proposition that maybe even politicians—and politicians' wives—are people, too

ADDRESS BY THE GOVERNOR

Governor Brown then proceeded to address the Joint Convention as follows:

Mr President, Mr Speaker,
Members of the Legislature, and My Fellow Californians:

Once again, democracy's work summons us to this chamber. To answer the call, we have traveled from many places, left many occupations, brought with us differing views But we are all here as Californians That is at once our pride, our bond and our challenge

California is our home and our house is ever-changing and never quite complete Where our people live, there are problems to solve, opportunities to explore, visions to follow So it is here, in this stately room, dedicated to the processes of democracy, where we gather to resume the task of developing sound public policy—to measure the needs of our people and measure out the resources to meet those needs

As before, we will work in an exciting, demanding age of discovery and change As never before, we must match our work to the breathtaking pace at which science and technology are rearranging the world around us, a pace which most of us are only beginning to comprehend

The startling pace of change in this decade can be measured by the revolutionary discoveries of the few short years since we first gathered here On that day, ours was an earthbound nation Since then, four Americans have circled the globe through space We have photographed the moon Our unmanned space craft is closing on Mars

Since that 1959 session, scientists have cracked the genetic code—solved the mystery of the molecular chemistry of heredity The laser beam has taken its place as a powerful tool of industry and medicine

And during all of those years, the digital computer has been spinning at a dizzy rate, tearing down barriers to progress and tearing down established economic and employment patterns with them

At the end of World War II, the future of nuclear science was still largely uncharted Today, a short distance from this capitol men are building a nuclear engine to power new ventures in space and we, ourselves, are about to put nuclear energy to work to generate prodigious amounts of power to pump new water supplies into Southern California

In the past ten years, ninety percent of the drugs we now use have been developed and three-fourths of those will be obsolete by 1970 Half of the children now studying in the sixth grade or below will work at occupations when they grow up that do not now exist

These are the dimensions of the challenge of the second industrial revolution The implications for government and for our state are clear

Medical discoveries prolong life It is our duty to keep pace with the achievements of science by creating programs to secure comfort and dignity for the late years of our older citizens and to put other medical knowledge to work in behalf of our people

The methods of commerce and industry increase in complexity In the past ten years, American industry has doubled its production while the blue-collar work force has actually declined This places a premium on skill It means we must constantly improve our education programs to guarantee our youngsters can compete for jobs

And we must recognize at the same time that science and technology generate new ills, new ignorance, new problems and new dangers almost as fast as they dispel the old

Automobiles, for example, bring the burden of smog with the blessing of mobility The jet airliner compresses flight time but it extends the length and cost of runways And you need only ask a parent who has tried to help his child with new math to verify that progress can create new ignorance

For California, the challenges of scientific advancement are complicated by a rate of population growth unparalleled in the world. Since our first session, the population of California has increased by more than enough to fill a city the size of Los Angeles, three cities the size of San Diego or a metropolis the size of the San Francisco Bay Area The population of young people has grown even faster During this decade, the number of young people will nearly double This means substantially higher investments in higher education and in community development to accommodate young families

When we first convened the number of people living in urban areas had climbed from 70 per cent in 1940 to 86 per cent Today, nine of every ten Californians live in or near a city and it is precisely in urban areas that the cost of transportation, clean water and air, education and other services are highest

We have kept pace with this remarkable growth by adopting more progressive and pioneering legislation than any administration in California history

We launched the California water project In six years, it has grown from an idle plan blocked by sectional differences to an engineering marvel, nearly one-half completed, on schedule and on target as to cost estimates The fact that Marysville and Yuba City were spared another Christmas tragedy last month is evidence of the wisdom of this project and of the fact that we did not move one day too soon

We created the Master Plan for Higher Education to avoid waste and logrolling while we expand the nation's number one system of public colleges and universities Under this plan, we have started six new colleges, three new campuses of the University of California and we have a sound foundation for future growth

We increased aid to local schools, made pioneering improvements in teacher training programs, placed more emphasis on basic subjects and foreign languages, and made great progress toward cutting down on the overhead in our school system

We strengthened the guarantees of equal opportunity for all Californians with the Fair Employment Practices Commission and other new human rights statutes

We improved the quality of our social insurance and social welfare programs and restored them to California's traditional position of national leadership We created new scholarships, took steps to curb smog, inaugurated state aid to libraries, enacted the most enlightened narcotics laws in the nation, improved highway safety, reorganized state government, gave junior colleges their first state aid and embarked on the most ambitious park development program in state history

We did all of this and more with six balanced budgets and with a single major tax increase to erase the deficit we inherited six years ago

Every program was developed to meet the needs of human beings in our state—the school for a child, medical care for an aging widow; the freeway for a commuting father But at the same time, we were demonstrating something about state government

When we put this administration in motion, political scientists were writing off the state as a unit of government that was withering away in America California—with its willingness to experiment and with its insistence on high standards of administration—has changed that. The accomplishments of this administration and this Legislature demonstrate that state government can not only survive but prevail

We have demonstrated, also, that the state still serves as the testing ground for new approaches to government which may later prove useful to the nation as a whole The most recent example is our experiment in the use of the talents of aerospace companies to suggest answers to some of our problems here on earth Last year, we asked whether the engineers who devised a system for getting John Glenn into space and back might devise a better system for getting a father to work and back We suggested that the engineers who designed a system to explore the face of the moon explore new ways to care for the mentally ill The response was immediate and gratifying By the end of this month, we expect to sign contracts with four companies for pilot studies

As part of this effort to enlist science in our effort to enrich the lives of our people through the use of new systems and new techniques, I will ask you during this session to create an office of Science and Technology This can be accomplished by expanding the functions of the existing Advisory Council on Atomic Energy and Radiation Protection It will enable us, at no additional cost to the state whatsoever, to draw upon the most distinguished scientific community available to any state government for advice on other ways to put technology to work for our people

But let me emphasize that the scientists can only suggest ways in which man can reap the full benefit of his new knowledge It is here in this laboratory— in the crucible of this chamber and these halls— that the final decisions will be made Let me emphasize also that the decision is yours and mine. No one else will relieve us of the responsibility of making sure the benefits of this golden age of science will flow to our people

In obedience to the constitution, I turn now to specific recommendations for action by this Legislature

Two of the tasks before us stand above the rest in difficulty and urgency One is reapportionment The other is revenue

I regret that the United States Supreme Court has left the people of California no voice in the apportionment formula of their Senate

The court's rule for compliance is simple and rigid—one citizen, one vote The Senate has wisely chosen to prepare for compliance while it explores the possibility of tempering the impact of the court ruling. Many of us could support an amendment which would permit Californians to choose the kind of senate they want But there is insufficient reason to hope that Congress would approve such a proposal, and certainly not within the time alloted by the Federal courts There is, then, a sense of history about this meeting of a distinguished state senate Its members, some of whom may be here for the last time, have performed exceptional service for the people of California. The journal of their achievements is unsurpassed in any legislature in this nation

My interest as governor in your work on reapportionment will be twofold As the elected representative of all Californians, I will want to be sure that whatever plan is adopted is fair to all I will also be available to help in any way I can, as I have been in the past when the legislature and I have undertaken equally difficult but happier jobs together

The decision on reapportionment lies before us The decision on revenue already has been made Tax increases became inevitable last year when the legislature gave bipartisan support to increases in local schools to improve our school systems and help ease the burden on local property owners

I will submit recommendations for increasing revenue along with an austerity budget for 1965-66 The budget will be adequate only to meet present commitments to education, resource development, care of the ill, custody of the criminal offender and the broad range of other state services

A dynamic state government, genuinely concerned with the needs of its people, must do more than mark time, however We know, for example, how to unlock the door that bars a child of poverty from the world of opportunity and we should do it Dramatic new techniques for the care of retarded children are available to us and we should use them Hundreds of lives can be saved each year with expanded highway safety programs and we should put them to work

These and other programs will require sums of money beyond an austerity budget For that reason, I recommend that we proceed with both program and revenue in two stages—first, meeting the commitments already made, and, second, surveying the unmet needs of California and weighing them against the requirements of still larger tax increases

You will find in my budget a single new program—California's share of President Johnson's war on poverty I will ask for funds to support our 10 per cent share of the cost of a California office to coordinate the attack on poverty in cities and rural areas around the state

The poverty program is designed to attack poverty on every front But it strikes hardest at poverty when it strikes at ignorance

Studies have shown that half the youngsters in slum schools fail to get even a rudimentary education Many of these children start their education hopelessly behind They come from homes without pencil, paper or books—without even such commonplaces as an orange, a necktie, a simple thank you for a job well done

And these social stragglers slip further back each year Nor is this a problem to be found only in states less wealthy than ours Twenty-five per cent of California's youngsters never finish school They are doomed to walk a degrading circle from slum, to unfinished education, to failure to find work, and back to slum

It is now clear that early and intensive attention to education is our best weapon in the war on poverty Our studies show this war is often won or lost in kindergarten, and the first three grades. They show that poverty's child is so hopelessly overwhelmed by the demands of standard schooling that he is convinced of his own failure by the time he reaches the third grade. He is wrong It is our failure

California can embark upon a program of remedial education for older youngsters and preventive education for the very young by taking advantage of Federal programs already in existence

By concentrating on schools in low-income areas, we could provide special help for thousands of youngsters at a relatively low cost to the state

I urge that you give this project the highest priority if you agree that we should embark on any new programs during this session and can obtain revenues to support them

Under a measure you approved at the last session, California schools are unifying into larger, more efficient school districts with broader tax bases and better articulated curricula

I believe this trend should be followed with more control at the local level. Dr James Conant, America's leading educator, is strong in his praise for every aspect of education in this state except one He believes the Legislature exercises too great control over school curricula He suggests the Legislature set broad goals and permit the State Board of Education to implement those goals with regulations I agree with his proposal and I will support legislation to achieve that end in this session

During the past 18 months, the Study Commission on Mental Retardation has undertaken a comprehensive review of this problem From its study have come many recommendations, among them the establishment of a coordinated plan for state services The Commission, recognizing that our programs for the mentally retarded have lagged behind those for the mentally ill, recommends that we stimulate new services to meet the needs of the retarded It proposes creating regional diagnostic and counseling centers to place at least one within easy driving distance of every California family It recommends residential facilities, other than hospitals, and child care centers throughout the state I will submit legislation to improve our programs for the mentally retarded, again assuming there is agreement to augment the budget and provide the revenues necessary to do so

California is gaining rapidly in the struggle against mental illness A generation ago, we shut the sick away in remote asylums from which many never returned Today, our state hospitals and clinics treat tens of thousands of patients a year and many are able to return to their homes in a matter of weeks Yet we are not doing all that we need to do

Each year, our courts mistakenly commit hundreds of elderly patients who need help but are not mentally ill Each year, they receive treatment they do not need while help is denied to those who are truly mentally ill I will propose legislation to protect young and old alike from mistaken commitments and to open avenues to existing facilities and services to those who need them

Last year, 4,689 people died in automobile accidents in California Unless we reduce the present accident rate, 10,000 Californians will die in the single year of 1980 The lives of many of these potential victims can be spared if our traffic safety programs are strengthened My proposals are not new to you I have made many of them repeatedly and earnestly and I will continue to do so as long as there is hope that lives can be saved.

Two years ago, you responded to my request that seat belts be made mandatory in new cars Today, I ask that you make them mandatory in all school buses I ask again that you permit radar speed control by the California Highway Patrol

Again, I make the urgent request that you start a systematic effort to curb drunk driving in California

At the end of last year, 241 Americans had been killed in Viet Nam and many of us were properly shocked at that death toll But six times that many Californians died in accidents involving drinking drivers in 1964 alone I again ask for mandatory chemical tests for intoxication for everyone arrested for drunk driving

The strength of our free economy is measured by how well it serves and protects the rights of the consumer and the businessman During the past six years, you have pioneered in recognition of these rights You established the office of Consumer Counsel You enacted constructive laws to strengthen fair play in the marketplace But much remains to be done for full realization of the citizen's rights to choose, to be informed and to be heard California now leads the nation in personal income During the coming year, our citizens will buy $4 7 billion worth of new motor vehicles They will spend $2 3 billion on appliances and other durable goods and nearly $13 billion on nondurable goods To insure fair play in these transactions, we must end "suede-shoe" operations, wage garnishments before judgment and deficiency judgments The citizen's right to be informed needs to be bolstered by full information about the amount of interest a consumer is paying when he buys on credit I will propose legislation to achieve these ends Price fixing destroys the competition that makes our free economy strong I will ask you to abolish fair trade laws in the field of drugs I will ask also for new laws covering food packaging

The laws governing liquor licensing must be rewritten to curb the spiraling costs and high profits involved in transfers of such licenses I will sponsor legislation to eliminate this practice which in many cases defeats the very purpose of the law

Since 1959, we have made substantial progress in realigning the tangled structure of state government to increase efficiency and eliminate waste This year, I propose that we proceed with further consolidation of departments and elimination of unnecessary boards and commissions

At my request, the Commission on California State Government Organization and Economy has reviewed a plan to consolidate all or most revenue collection activities within a single department The Commission has now recommended a single Department of Revenue with a director appointed by and responsible to the Governor The Commission advises me this action will lead to increased efficiency and economy I concur with these findings and will support appropriate legislation to carry the recommendation into law

I will ask also that you create a Business and Commerce Agency, following the principle under which departments already have been grouped under the Agency plan The affected departments would be Insurance, Real Estate, Savings and Loan, Corporations and Banking Such a consolidation would lead to coordinated policy in these departments which regulate related business activities for the benefit of the public

Finally, I intend to ask you to combine the recreation and park commissions into a single body, making the policy level conform to a merger that already has taken place at the department level

In 1963, we took steps to provide for more orderly growth of the cities, the special districts and other agencies of government in our growing state The Coordinating Council on Urban Policy and the local agency formation commissions will, over the years, save California taxpayers millions of dollars and at the same time promote greater efficiency of service I will support legislation at this session to expand this effort I recommend a law to encourage consolidation of special districts when their services duplicate one another because of overlapping boundaries, and to encourage dissolution of obsolete districts I ask also that you move to prevent abuses of special district laws by speculators who use them to develop financially unsound subdivisions at the expense of both bond purchaser and homeowner.

Six years ago, we raised unemployment insurance maximums from $40 to $55 At that time, the average weekly wage in employment protected by insurance was $102 64, making the maximum benefit available 55 per cent of the wage Today, the average wage is $120 I propose that you raise the maximum benefit to restore the 55 per cent relationship

At the same time, I will propose legislation to close the loopholes in our unemployment insurance laws We should provide a decent level of benefits for those who are eligible We should provide no benefits at all for those whose cases meet neither the spirit nor the intent of the program.

I will submit legislation at this session to extend unemployment insurance to agricultural workers I will also ask you to raise employee contributions to the state disability insurance fund to protect the solvency of that program I will also ask for a raise in benefits under Workmen's Compensation

During the past six years, we have substantially improved the administration of justice in California The rehabilitation center at Norco, which has produced a higher rate of cure for narcotic addicts than any institution of its kind, is one example We made the first revisions in the juvenile court laws in 45 years At this session, I recommend further steps to broaden the scope of the war on narcotics and on injustice

First, I recommend you place the drug, Percodan, on triplicate prescription This measure will have the support of the Governor and the Attorney General

Second, I will ask for changes in our law covering pre-trial detention, specifically as it applies to the posting of bail An experimental program in New York demonstrates that careful screening of defendants who are then released on their own recognizance produces fewer failures to appear for trial than does the standard procedure of posting bail I will urge guidelines for the courts toward an increase in releases on the defendant's own recognizance

Third, I will ask you to strengthen the laws regulating the sale and use of firearms Although California's firearms laws rank among the best in the nation, they can be improved, particularly in the area of concealable weapons

Finally, my opposition to capital punishment as a degrading act which fails to deter crime is well known to you and to all Californians Victor Hugo said no army can withstand the strength of an idea whose time has come For the idea of an end to the death penalty, the time has come in many nations of the world, England being the most recent

The state of Oregon abolished capital punishment last year and I believe that as people become more aware of the futility of capital punishment as a means of protecting society, the trend toward abolition will continue Because of a combination of judicial decisions, California has not executed a condemned man in nearly two years If capital punishment served the purpose its supporters claim for it, then the homicide rate should have risen in that time It has, in fact, declined. I will continue to apply the law as it is written, no matter what my personal feelings may be But I intend, also, to continue to do everything I can to hasten the day when it can be said in California that the time has come to end the death penalty

I will ask you again to reform California's election laws The Bible warns that "no man can serve two masters" Our conflict-of-interest laws must reflect that admonition more effectively I will have specific proposals to accomplish that purpose

I will ask again that you strengthen the laws covering disclosure of campaign funds Our present laws are inadequate to the task The voter is entitled to know precisely who supports each candidate and to what extent—particularly in these days of sharply increased campaign costs I will propose legislation in this field

I urge you to amend the Elections Code to revive a prohibition against circulation of anonymous campaign literature With extremists stepping up their efforts to destroy confidence in government, no political group should be permitted to campaign from the shadows

California's water project, the boldest public works program ever undertaken by a state, is moving ahead on schedule as to time and cost As part of this project, we have pledged ourselves to develop recreation facilities at the dams and reservoirs this project will create and to develop them as the project is built This is being done at a cost of $5 million a year, money which must be taken from the general fund unless alternate sources are made available I urge you to act at this session to permit the use of tideland oil revenues for these facilities

I will ask again for equalization of the tax load for public welfare programs among the counties and for simplification of our present complex system under which the state and counties share the cost of welfare. Since 1947, the portion of the county tax dollar committed to welfare has shrunk from seven cents to a little over five cents due to increased contributions from the state and federal governments Still, the property owner in some California counties bears a disproportionate share of the costs of welfare. For example, the taxpayer in Solano County pledges 10 4 cents of his county tax dollar for welfare while his fellow citizen in Orange County pays only 1 5 cents of his tax dollar for the same purpose Over the years, you have secured uniform treatment of welfare recipients throughout the state I now suggest we move toward uniform treatment of the local property taxpayer This problem also emphasizes the need for property tax reforms generally, and I will deal with that subject in detail in my budget message Adjustments in the sharing of welfare costs would, of course, be subject to agreement that we should embark on new programs at this session and that revenue can be obtained to support them

One of man's most fundamental needs is decent shelter Under tremendous pressures of population growth and economic expansion, the private homebuilding industry has done a magnificent job in providing new shelter for many Californians Through no fault of the industry, many of our citizens still lack adequate housing Much of this lack could be met with federal programs already in existence but unused because they are relatively unknown I am, therefore, again recommending the creation of a Department of Housing and Community Development with a broadly representative commission to encourage the use of these federal programs

We have taken many steps to advance the cause of human rights in California during the past six years But the struggle to translate into practice the constitution's principle of equal rights and opportunities is one that never ends I pledge this administration's continued and unrelenting effort to expand and protect these precious rights I call upon all Californians to join in this cause, for the people of this state and nation are now and will be measured by the respect they accord their fellow men, by the dignity in which each may live

California's constitution should be the foundation of its house of government Instead, it has become its attic, cluttered, crowded and dimly lighted

I look forward to the day when we will clean out that attic and restore the constitution to its proper role as a foundation on which the Legislature may build

In the meantime, there are a number of amendments which should be proposed in the immediate future to free government to perform its many services

I urge you to call for an amendment to reduce the restrictive and archaic requirement for a two-thirds majority vote which is required for passage of local school bond issues

To keep pace with population growth, we must have 150 new classrooms ready on Monday morning of every week of the year in California The present provision for a two-thirds vote dates to the year 1879 and reflects conditions that no longer exist Only three other states have vote requirements on bond issues as restrictive as California's The simple majority is the rule for municipal and other local bond elections in 32 states

At the same time, I urge you to place upon the ballot an amendment to eliminate the need for a two-thirds vote in each house to approve the annual budget In recent years, the temptation to use this archaic law for political purposes has proved irresistible to the minority party Without fail, when the political maneuvering has ended, the Budget has gone through with a larger sum appropriated than I had requested in the first instance The net effect is to delay the orderly processes of government without achieving economy The right of the minority to obstruct should not be given greater weight than the right of the majority to act

The initiative is a valuable tool of democracy in California In the 50 years since it was introduced in our state it has served as the vehicle for such major reforms as the Civil Service Act and the State Executive Budget Act

But misuse of this great instrument of freedom could destroy it In recent years, it has often been used to turn the ballot into a field for jousting among public relations men wearing the colors of special interests The basic work of government should be done in these halls in full view of the public with full and detailed debate The initiative must always be available to citizens seeking to right any wrong I believe legislation is needed to prevent special interests from turning the initiative to private gain through the use of professional petition circulators and large sums of money. If such a law can be written, I will support it At the same time, I will not support any bill that would restrict the value of the initiative

Finally, the quantity and complexity of the work that lies ahead for this session makes it clear that biennial sessions are no longer adequate for a state the size of California I believe a program calling for annual sessions and for increased salaries for legislators should be placed before the people of California and I would support such a program

In my inaugural message six years ago, I said that providence seems intent on making us a great people in a great state The years support that contention California today is the acknowledged leader among equals We are the most populous state We lead in public education, in space and defense, in agriculture and home construction, in foreign trade and other fields

As the leader, California has a special obligation to mark the trail for all free men As the trustees of this state, you and I have a special obligation to bring imagination, vigor and mature judgment to the shaping of the policies our government will follow

Let us renew our determination to continue to provide bold, imaginative and humane leadership Let us pray God for the courage and endurance to grow with California and with its vision

It is time this was done for the Assembly, and it need not be a heavy strain on San Francisco's hospitality if the Assemblymen, remembering the Supreme Court's apportionment decision, will just keep in mind the rule of one man, one drink.

Since the end of the 1963 General Session, this committee has held nine public hearings, for a total of twelve (12) days, on eleven (11) Assembly Bills and three (3) House Resolutions referred from the 1963 General Session and the 1964 Budget Session of the California Legislature

The findings and recommendations contained in this report are the result of these public hearings conducted by the committee and considerable research by individual committee members and the committee secretary

It was the unanimous recommendation of the committee that there be no committee legislation The members felt that unfortunately in the past some committees had, after hearings, drafted their own bills and thus usurped legislation of other members We recommend that, based on our findings, the original authors of these bills re-introduce similar legislation if they so desire

The following resolutions were offered

By Assemblyman Henson

House Resolution No. 27

Relating to commending Michael Larabee upon his high achievements at this year's Olympic Games

WHEREAS, Michael Larabee reached the pinnacle of athletic achievement by twice winning a gold medal at the 1964 Olympic Games, one medal being awarded for the 400 meter dash and one medal being awarded for the 1 600 meter relay, and

WHEREAS, At the trials for the 440 meter dash he tied the Olympic record for that race, and along with his teammates on the relay team he set a new Olympic record for the 1,600 meter relay, and

WHEREAS, Michael Larabee was honored as one of the riders on the Helms Athletic Foundation's Olympic Salute Float in the Rose Parade on New Year's Day, and

WHEREAS, California is proud of the standard for excellence that Michael Larabee has chosen for himself and proud that he has become one of the finest athletic heroes of this state, and

WHEREAS, He has shown himself to be one of our finest examples of athletic greatness, an achievement requiring tireless effort, strong character, and great talent, and

WHEREAS, Prior to his outstanding achievement at the 1964 Olympic Games, he attended Ventura High School and the University of Southern California, and

WHEREAS, He now teaches mathematics at Monroe High School in the San Fernando Valley, devoting his energies to the education, training, and guidance of our youth, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That this body commends Michael Larabee upon his victories at the 1964 Olympic Games and for the high moral character, athletic greatness, and devoted concern for youth which he has demonstrated to his fellow citizens of this state and nation, and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly be hereby directed to transmit a suitably prepared copy of this resolution to Michael Larabee

Resolution read, and referred by the Speaker pro Tempore to the Committee on Rules.

By Assemblymen Ryan, Marks, Meyers, Burton, and Brown:

House Resolution No. 28

Relating to an additional San Francisco Bay crossing

WHEREAS, An additional crossing across San Francisco Bay becomes more urgent every day, and

WHEREAS, The need for such an additional crossing south of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge was established as long ago as 1949 in reports published by the Department of Public Works and legislative interim committees, and since that time the population of northern San Mateo County and southern Alameda County has increased vastly and a tremendous expansion in agricultural and industrial activities in these areas has also taken place, and

WHEREAS, In addition to this almost explosive population growth and agricultural and industrial expansion, there has been a tremendous increase in traffic on the San Mateo-Hayward Bridge and on the Dumbarton Bridge, which clearly establishes the value and need of an additional bridge in this area, and

WHEREAS, Sierra Point as the western terminus in San Mateo County would meet all demands for an additional crossing and, in addition, would cost between $20 and $30 million dollars less than a bridge further to the north, and

WHEREAS, A western terminus for such a bridge in the City and County of San Francisco would only add to the already chaotic traffic congestion of San Francisco and the East Bay by forcing traffic ultimately bound for, or from, the southern areas to travel on the presently overtaxed facilities within San Francisco and the East Bay, and

WHEREAS, Both San Francisco and San Mateo County officials are united in their desire that Sierra Point should be selected as the western terminus, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the California Toll Bridge Authority is requested to adopt a southern location for an additional bridge across San Francisco Bay without further delay and that the western terminus of the bridge be designated as Sierra Point in San Mateo County, and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly is directed to transmit a copy of this resolution to the California Toll Bridge Authority

Resolution read, and referred by the Speaker pro Tempore to the Committee on Rules.

State of California—Resources Agency
State Water Quality Control Board
Sacramento, November 25, 1964

Honorable Edmund G Brown, Governor and Members of the Legislature
of the State of California

Gentlemen In accordance with the directive of Chapter 1578, Statutes of 1963, the agencies under signature, below, having joined in cooperative effort, now have the honor to transmit herewith the "Detergent Report—A Study of the Effects of Detergent Residuals in Waters of the State"

The objective of this study was to assess the effects of synthetic detergent residues on waters of this State, and to decide whether there is a need for developing standards of biodegradability for synthetic detergents offered for sale in this State The recommendations made in this report take into consideration the announcement of the detergent industry that more biodegradable detergents will appear on the national market by a target date of mid-1965 By this time there will have been total conversion of present products

Respectfully submitted,

IRVING GOLDFEDER, Chairman
State Water Quality Control Board
MALCOLM H MERRILL, M.D, Director
Department of Public Health
WILLIAM E WARNE, Director
Department of Water Resources

State of California—Resources Agency
Department of Water Resources
Sacramento, January 4, 1964

Hon Edmund G Brown, Governor
and Members of the Legislature
of the State of California

Gentlemen Although I have signed the detergent report in the form in which it was approved by the majority of the State Water Quality Control Board, I respectfully suggest that the Legislature may wish to declare at the general session that it intends to establish standards during the 1967 legislative session for the biodegradability of detergents sold in California

My suggestion is made because of the findings of a recent report prepared by the Department of Water Resources, studying the persistence of detergents using ABS in the Colton Narrows area of Southern California The report found that despite considerable degradation of the material in passage through the soil, as much as twenty percent of the ABS reached the ground water, and this portion did not degrade The persistence of ABS, I submit, could impede use and reuse of our ground waters, particularly in critical basins such as the Santa Ana River Basin

Although I join in the optimism that the new biodegradable detergent called LAS that is now in production by the soap and detergent industry may fulfill all the expectations held for it, the Legislature, by establishing standards, would insure that there would be no return to the use of persistent detergents in California The Legislature, I believe, should direct the State Water Quality Control Board to develop the form and content of appropriate standards during the next two years for presentation for its consideration and adoption at the next succeeding general session

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM E. WARNE, Director

Quorum present

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev. Robert R. Ferguson:

Eternal God, Our ever present Guide, we so often generate an aspirin-like search for stability of mind, heart and soul, when real surgery is required We like to shut out certain areas of life and arrive immediately at inner peace, with a mental jet soaring over the low levels of life, believing we will land effortlessly on the runway of happiness

Guide us to more realism, and keep before us the truth that our output is only commensurate with our intake, and as a man soweth, so shall he reap

In our Lord's Name, we pray —AMEN

PRAYER

God Our Father, Thou who hast created us in Thine image, grant us courage to stand for what is right, to contend against the wrongs of life, the wisdom to discern the difference

We are aware that issues, for the most part, are not black or white, but contain strands of gray May we not lose confidence because of the intricate problems of discretion and decision, but know this is one reason we have been put here on earth —to make decisions

Give us incentive to lean toward the truth

We pray in our Lord's Name—AMEN

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

Assembly Interim Committee on Water
November 24, 1964

Hon. Jesse M. Unruh,
Speaker of the Assembly
Members of the Assembly
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

Gentlemen: Pursuant to HR 467 of the 1963 General Session and HR 54 of the 1963 First Extraordinary Session, your Assembly Interim Committee on Water herewith submits a report on State Assistance to Local Water Development under the Davis-Grunsky Act

In this report the committee presents an analysis of the act, together with comments on changes in the program which have been proposed.

In tracing the legislative development of Davis-Grunsky Act program from its origin in 1957, the committee reaffirms its support of the program but does not recommend additional legislation to implement its provisions The substantial amendments made at the 1961 and 1963 sessions appear to have been satisfactory and a workable program of state assistance to local projects has been achieved.

This report which is the result of staff research and a public hearing, was prepared by the Davis-Grunsky Act Subcommittee. The subcommittee's report was adopted by the full committee at a meeting on October 10, 1964.

Respectfully submitted,

CARLEY V. PORTER, Chairman
Assembly Interim Committee on Water

Eternal God, our loving Father, Gradually we are seeing that freedom is not free It must be worked for, we must uphold it with continual vigilance in order that our people do not fall back into slavery

Give us the vigor to be free ourselves—free of hangovers from our past environment, free from present entangling alliances, free in conscience, so we may be living the abundant life Thou hast given us

May we realize we are not free as long as there is one person in slavery

May we devote the same ingenious energies and risks in striving for freedom to elevate man that we do in the endeavor to destroy him in war

We pray in the Name of Christ, the Prince of Peace —AMEN

The following resolution was offered:

By Assemblyman Cusanovich:

House Resolution No. 42

Relating to the proposed Simi Valley and Whitnall Freeways in Los Angeles County

WHEREAS, Two basically east–west freeway routes are proposed by the Division of Highways, namely the proposed Simi Valley Freeway (Route 118) and the proposed Whitnall Freeway (Route 64), and

WHEREAS, It is felt that combining a portion of the two routes into one could result in a savings to the taxpayers of approximately $1,000,000 per year or more by removal of only half as many taxable properties from the tax rolls in addition to the savings in the initial expenditures for two freeways, and

WHEREAS, It is felt that the Division of Highways has not considered what savings may result to the taxpayers by combining the said freeways with regard to acquisition and construction costs, and

WHEREAS, It is felt that the one combined freeway could serve the needs of the people of the State of California equally as well as the two proposed freeways, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Division of Highways of the Department of Public Works is requested to make a study as to the feasibility of combining a portion of the proposed Simi Valley Freeway (Route 118) and the proposed Whitnall Freeway (Route 64) in Los Angeles County, the combined portion to be from approximately Topanga Canyon on the west to approximately the Golden State Freeway on the east, and to report its findings thereon to the Legislature not later than June 1, 1965, with such study and report to cover:

1 The acquisition and construction costs of the combined freeway, of at least eight lanes width, versus the cost of the two separate freeways,

2 An origin and destination study of traffic which would use these proposed routes,

3 Users benefit ratio for all proposed routes, and be it further

Resolved, That in such study and report acquisition and construction costs shall be extrapolated as to what they might be at the time of acquisition and construction in the same manner as are traffic studies extrapolated, and be it further

Resolved, That the Division of Highways be requested to refrain from beginning or continuing condemnation or acquisition on either the proposed Routes 118 or 64 during the period required for this study, and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly is directed to transmit a copy of this resolution to the Director of Public Works

Eternal God, Thou who dost ever go before us, even when we refuse to follow, may we have something of the zest for life of the Psalmist, who each day could say, "This is the day that the Lord hath made, let us rejoice and be glad in it"

May the things that are noble and excellent in life be real to us We confess too often we live in the shadows and are seeking escape through technicalities, and thus miss the breadth and glory of the joy of living

May our basic resolve and faith be so steadfast that we can face the issues of life straightforward, and not, through fear and inadequacy, resort to dodging the decisions before us

We pray in our Lord's Name —Amen

Request for Unanimous Consent to Print Letter of Transmittal in Journal

Mr Belotti was granted unanimous consent that the following letter, transmitting the above report, be printed in the Journal

Letter of Transmittal

Department of Industrial Relations
Division of Housing
San Francisco, January 8, 1965

To The Speaker of the Assembly,
The President of the Senate, and to the Members of the Assembly and Senate

Pursuant to Assembly Concurrent Resolution No 74, Statutes of 1963, Chapter 169, the Department of Industrial Relations, through the Division of Housing, herewith transmits a complete report of findings of the Division of Housing with respect to hardships that may have been caused by application of the State Housing Law to dwellings in unincorporated areas since it was applied to such occupancies, by legislative enactment, commencing September 15, 1961

Preliminary to scheduling a public hearing, and to request written recommendations and comments concerning any situations involving hardships that may have come to their attention, the Division of Housing communicated with more than 300 groups and agencies, which included County Boards of Supervisors, county building, health, planning and fire officials, representatives of the construction, banking, and insurance industries, utility companies, the building trades, farm groups, and other interested persons

Twenty-three counties were represented by the 36 replies Thirty-four of the 36 reported no hardships

A public hearing was held at Sacramento on December 17, 1964, substantially in conformity with procedures established by the Administrative Procedures Act Notice was published in the Sacramento Bee and publicity was released to all news media Thirty-two persons were present Three persons testified, one indicated hardships

From the evidence and testimony submitted it would appear that the State Housing Law has been well accepted and that there has been little showing of hardship due to the operation of the law and its related rules and regulations

The attached transcript of the December 17, 1964 public hearing incorporates testimony presented at the hearing as well as all communications, comments and recommendations presented to the division prior to the hearing

Respectfully submitted

The following resolutions were offered:

By Assemblymen Powers and Mihas

House Resolution No. 55

Relative to the development of subjective criteria to govern decisions concerning the form and degree to which natural resources should be encroached upon and exploited to meet other economic needs

WHEREAS, It has been the general practice of both government and private enterprise, in meeting the immediately pressing needs of the economy which involve encroachment upon or the destruction or other exploitation of our natural resources, to disregard the value to the citizens of our forests, streams, beaches and other natural resources in their natural state, and to minimize the esthetic factors which should be given prime consideration in formulating decisions which have such attendant destructive consequences, and

WHEREAS, Countless examples of encroachment upon and destruction of the natural resources are familiar to all persons, including the damage caused land, streams, fisheries, wildlife, and recreational resources from the uncontrolled exploitation of timber resources, the construction of public works such as highways and dams, and the operation of factories and other industrial and commercial installations, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Assembly Rules Committee is directed to assign to an appropriate interim committee for study the subject of the development of workable subjective criteria and esthetic standards which should be accorded consideration in connection with any proposed economic undertaking, public or private, which involves as an incident the encroachment upon or other exploitation or destruction of any natural resource

By Assemblymen Powers and Milias

House Resolution No. 56

Relative to economic criteria for natural resources decisions

WHEREAS, The questions of how to place value and what kind of value should be placed on the state's natural resources are being continually presented to policy makers in California, and

WHEREAS, In many cases esthetic values, such as the preservation of natural beauty, are set aside and ignored in favor of dollar values, which is, in effect, a decision against natural resources preservation and enhancement, and

WHEREAS, When forests are logged, irrigation systems built, and highways constructed, all too often natural resources, such as fish and wildlife, are destroyed or seriously damaged due to a lack of planning and an understanding or appreciation of the value to the people of this state of such natural resources, now, therefore be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Assembly Committee on Rules is requested to assign to an appropriate interim committee for study, the subject of economic criteria for natural resources decisions, and to direct such committee to report thereon to the Assembly not later than the fifth legislative day of the 1967 Regular Session of the Legislature

God Our Father, Thou who dost hear us, not because of our inadequate words, but for our real need;

Thou hast given us the assurance that there are a few constants in life Thy love never changeth, Thy compassion for us is the same yesterday, today and forever We so often worry about the things that do not really matter and forget completely things of eternal significance

Help us to be relevant to the times in which we are living Give us a large point of reference, so that we make our decisions, not from the perspective of a second hand, but of a sun dial

In Our Lord's Name—AMEN

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO PRINT IN JOURNAL

Mr Porter was granted unanimous consent that the following letters be printed in the Journal

Department of Water Resources, Sacramento
November 23, 1964

Hon Carley V Porter, Chairman
Assembly Interim Committee on Water
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

Subject. Report on Relocation of Butte County Roads and Feather River Railway

Dear Mr Porter You requested that we review the major Butte County road relocation problems involved in construction of Oroville Dam, the problem involved in acquisition or relocation of the Feather River Railway and the litigation which has occurred concerning these matters Our reply has been delayed because of significant developments which have occurred since receipt of your request On November 10, agreements were executed with Butte County for relocation of two of its major roads On November 9, we received a Department of the Interior decision confirming the fact that the Feather River Railway has no right to cross and must cease its operations over federal lands which are essential to its present rail operation We enclose copies of the two agreements made with the county and of the Department of Interior decision

With respect to Butte County roads affected by Oroville Reservoir, we have encountered two basic problems which have given rise to numerous incidental problems The two basic problems encountered have been to reach agreement with the county (1) concerning the extent of the department's responsibility for roads affected by the reservoir and (2) concerning design standards, routes and terminals for the relocations

Concerning the first of the basic problems, definition of the department's responsibility, the county has based its contentions on Water Code Sections 11590 to 11592 It takes the position that the department is prohibited from affecting any county road excepting pursuant to agreement with the county or an order of the Public Utilities Commission The specific contentions made by the county are that the department

1 Is obligated to provide replacement facilities for each and every road affected by Oroville Dam, regardless of the practical need or lack of need for a replacement

2 Is obligated to provide replacement facilities built to modern design standards with capacities sufficient to handle not only present but also projected future increased usage

3 Must provide money allowances for all possible increased costs of operation and maintenance and further be responsible for all possible costs of future repair or restoration, in the event replacement facilities are damaged or destroyed

4 Must provide allowances for increased costs which may be incurred by the county in later improving or expanding replacement facilities built by the department

5 Is entitled to no credit for the fact that an existing facility is an outmoded one built to standards followed many years ago

The department's basic contentions have been that it is authorized to condemn all kinds of property, including county roads, and that it is not precluded from condemning public roads by Water Code Sections 11590 to 11592 The department's specific contentions have been

1 That Water Code Sections 11590 to 11592 apply to railroad and utility type lines and plants but not to roads which are not integral parts of utility operations

2 That under Water Code Section 11577, the department has the power to condemn any type of property, including, specifically, the types of properties referred to in Sections 11590 to 11592

3 That even if the department lacks authority under state law to condemn the kinds of property referred to in Section 11590, as a Federal Power Commission licensee, it is authorized to condemn such properties under Section 21 of the Federal Power Act, 16 U S C Section 814(1958)

4 That in condemnation of public roads, the department's obligation would be limited to payment of the cost of reasonably adequate replacement facilities for those taken, if, and only if, there is a practical necessity that a replacement be provided

As to the specific factual problems encountered with Butte County roads, the reservoir will affect two types of roads First, roads which traverse and serve areas on both sides of the reservoir and, second, minor roads which run into and terminate within the reservoir site

There are three roads which fall into the first category, the Oroville-Quincy, Oroville-Feather Falls and Nelson Bar roads The first two of these roads are the subjects of the enclosed and an additional agreement covering the reach of the Oroville-Quincy road relocation which is located south of the Middle Fork Bridge As to the third, the Nelson Bar road, no agreement has been reached with the county

As to the second of the basic problems encountered, in negotiating agreements for the Oroville-Feather Falls and Oroville-Quincy road relocations, the county and the department have each favored different design standards, routes and terminals The county initially sought expensive design standards and routes The department proposed lower and, what we believe to be, reasonable standards and longer but less expensive routes After protracted negotiations, the county lowered its demands with respect to standards and agreed to the route for the Oroville-Feather Falls road relocation favored by the department In turn the department agreed to the route favored by the county for the Oroville-Quincy road relocation and increased the length of and included approximately 1½ miles of passing lanes in the Oroville-Feather Falls road relocation Relocations for both of these roads are necessary to provide access to substantial areas

As to the Nelson Bar road, the county has demanded that a relocation be provided It has indicated that such need not be built to high design standards The department's position is that a relocation for this road is unnecessary and cannot be justified This position is based on the fact that the Nelson Bar road is a little used facility which serves a sparsely settled area. This area can be readily served by other, existing, adjacent roads As to these other roads, the department's proposal is that it spend approximately $350,000 in their improvement The least expensive relocation for the Nelson Bar road would cost approximately $2,215,000

An additional problem present with relocations for all three of these roads involves the large bridges which are required The county has no comparable bridges in its road system The relocation for the Oroville-Quincy road will include the Middle Fork Bridge and a smaller, but yet substantial, bridge across the Canyon Creek arm of the reservoir The Oroville-Feather Falls road relocation will include a substantial bridge across the South Fork of the Feather River A relocation of the Nelson Bar road would require another substantial bridge The county has refused to accept responsibility for any of these bridges, except the bridge across Canyon Creek which it will design and construct as a part of the Oroville-Quincy road relocation The county contends that it should be given the right to use these bridges but that the department should retain responsibility for their operation, maintenance, repair, restoration and expansion, as needed Except for the bridge across Canyon Creek, our agreements with the county leave the matter of responsibility for bridges to later solution, either by additional agreement or by litigation

There are five minor Butte County roads which run into and terminate within the reservoir Tentative agreement has been reached with the county for abandonment of the portions of these roads which lie within the reservoir site and for provision by the department of vehicular turnarounds near the ends of these roads Engineers for the county and the department are investigating locations and sizes for such turnarounds We expect that a formal agreement will soon be executed concerning these roads

As to litigation concerning the county's roads, the county instituted two proceedings and the department one

The first proceeding brought by the county was before the California Public Utilities Commission Its petition was for an order under Water Code Sections 11590 to 11592 determining what relocations should be provided and all other incidental questions The commission denied our motion to dismiss this proceeding and we are now seeking California Supreme Court review There have been no hearings or decisions on the facts involved in this proceeding

The second proceeding brought by the county was an action filed in the superior court in San Francisco to enjoin the department from in any way affecting any county road, except pursuant to an agreement with the county or an order of the Public Utilities Commission This action is at issue waiting for a trial date to be set

The action brought by the department was filed by it in the United States District Court as a Federal Power Commission licensee It is an action to condemn those portions of the county's roads which will be inundated by the reservoir The district court held that county roads are state property and that they consequently cannot be condemned We are appealing this decision

In this litigation, we and the county asserted the contentions outlined above In addition, the department raised the contentions, first, that Water Code Sections 11590 to 11592 are unconstitutional, and, second, that the department has no obligation whatever for county roads because such are, in fact, state property We have not contended that the department has no power to relocate but only that it has no obligation We have further contended that if the department does have an obligation, that obligation is merely to pay the cost of reasonably adequate replacement facilities, if, in fact, there is a practical need that any replacement be provided

I will now discuss the problems encountered by the department with respect to acquisition or relocation of the rail line operated by the Feather River Railway Company. The railway has demanded that we provide a physical relocation which would cost in excess of $9 million It has offered to settle its demand for what it contends would be the cost of a permanent shift to a trucking operation, approximately $6 million Because of the facts hereinafter set forth, the department rejected the railway's demands and offered to pay it the fair market value of its line and plant only, a sum not in excess of $2,240,000

The rail line operated by the Feather River Railway Company is approximately 18 miles long It runs from the company owned lumber mill town of Feather Falls to a connection with the former main line of the Western Pacific Railroad Company about 2 miles northeast of Oroville Dam The easterly 12 miles of the line is located on high ground, a ridge, between the canyons of the South and Middle Forks of the Feather, this portion of the line will not be inundated The westerly 6 miles of the line is located down in the canyons of the South and Middle Forks of the Feather River below elevation 900 feet, this portion of the line will be inundated

The westerly 6 miles of the line traverses privately owned lands and, for a distance of about 1¼ miles, 3 separate parcels of United States lands The lands owned by the United States are a special kind of lands, they are not public domain but are withdrawn water power reserve lands which the President reserved and withdrew for water power development purposes 10 years before the rail line was constructed

The rail line was constructed between 1921 and 1922 A special permit for its use of the withdrawn and reserved federal lands crossed by it was granted in August of 1922 This permit was limited to a term of 25 years and was made subject to the superior right of the United States and its power licensees to use these lands, even during the 25-year term, for water power development purposes The permit issued to the railway automatically terminated in 1947 and was formally canceled in 1960 On March 18 of this year, the Bureau of Land Management of the Department of the Interior served on the railway an "Order To Cease and Desist From Continuing Trespass" on these lands That order requires that by February 12, 1964, the railway cease using the federal lands crossed by it

The Feather River Railway Company is a California corporation It was formed in 1939 as a wholly owned subsidiary of Feather River Pine Mills, Inc, a Nevada corporation This corporation had large timber holdings near and a lumber mill at Feather Falls The stock of Feather River Pine Mills was acquired by the Georgia Pacific Corporation in 1955 Subsequently Feather River Pine Mills was dissolved Its assets, including the stock of the Feather River Railway Company, were distributed to the Georgia Pacific Corporation The railway is today a wholly owned subsidiary of the Georgia Pacific Corporation

In 1940 the railway was certified as a common carrier in interstate commerce by the Interstate Commerce Commission This permitted the railway to obtain lumber freight tariff division from other railroads for lumber shipments originating at Feather Falls The net effect of this arrangement has been that the owners of the railway, Feather River Pine Mills and later the Georgia Pacific Corporation, have been able to move their lumber products out of the mountainous area where such were produced without transportation cost In some years the railway has even earned a small profit

So far as we are able to ascertain, the Interstate Commerce Commission was not informed during its consideration of the railway's application for certification that essential parts of the line to be operated were located on withdrawn water power reserve lands, that the railway's right to cross such lands would expire in 7 years, or that its use thereof was subordinate to water power development Our investigation of the 1940 Interstate Commerce Commission proceedings, in fact, indicates that the commission in granting certification acted under the misapprehension that the railway had firm title to all of the right-of-way used by it

The railway is a freight line Its principal traffic is outbound lumber produced by its parent, the Georgia Pacific Corporation, at the mill at Feather Falls This traffic constitutes over 95 percent of the business of the railway The remainder consists of miscellaneous small shipments of supplies and equipment

About 70 percent of the lumber produced by the mill at Feather Falls is shipped by rail to out-of-state destinations This traffic is initially transported over the Feather River Railway The remaining 30 percent of the lumber produced is sold within California, for a number of years, this part of the production of the mill has been shipped by truck over the existing Oroville-Feather Falls county road This road will be relocated pursuant to Department Agreement No 353761, one of the two agreements executed last week with Butte County The relocated road will be a substantial improvement over the old road

The railway bases its demands that the department either relocate the rail line or that it pay the cost of a shift to a trucking operation on Water Code Sections 11590 to 11592 and upon the fact that it is a certified common carrier

The railway contends that Sections 11590 to 11592 require that the department provide a physical relocation, even though the cost would be over 40 times the fair market value of all of the assets of the railway As to the railway's offer to settle for payment of $6 million, it contends that the department should pay $647,500 as the capital cost of setting up a trucking operation, plus the permanent capitalized increased annual cost of such operation over the cost of the existing rail operations It contends that these increased annual costs would amount to approximately $402,000 per year

The railway, in its argument that the department must provide a relocation because it is a common carrier, relies upon provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U S C 1(20), which provide that common carrier railroads shall neither extend nor abandon any part of their operations without authorization of the Interstate Commerce Commission It also relies upon cases upholding such provisions The cases involved are cases where state laws conflicted with provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act or the approval of the abandonment by the commission was required by a specific federal statute.

The department contends

1. That Water Code Sections 11590 to 11592 are unconstitutional,

2 That even were Sections 11590 to 11592 valid, they do not apply to cases where the line or plant involved is not owned by but is used pursuant to a terminable or subordinate property interest,

3 That even were Sections 11590 to 11592 constitutional and applicable to line and plant used pursuant to terminable or subordinate property interests, the department has the alternative power under Water Code Section 11577 and as a Federal Power Commission licensee to condemn any property needed for its licensed project, Oroville Dam and Reservoir,

4 That the measure of damages in a condemnation case is fair market value,

5 That the fair market value of all of the assets of the railway is not in excess of $230,000.

6 That the Federal Power Commission license issued to the department specifically authorizes its use of the 3 parcels of withdrawn water power reserve lands upon which the railway is trespassing, and

7 That the Federal Power Act and the Pickett Act, 43 U S C 141(1958), pursuant to which the federal lands involved were withdrawn and reserved, are superior to and controlling over any provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act which may purport to prohibit abandonment of the rail line

The following litigation has occurred concerning the rail line

1 The railway petitioned the Public Utilities Commission for an order under California Water Code Sections 11590 to 11592 determining what replacement facilities and monetary allowances are required by the Water Code By a decision dated November 26, 1963, the commission determined what physical relocation was required This decision did not cover the matter of monetary allowances However, it expressly reserved continuing jurisdiction to the commission of the entire proceeding and specifically reserved to the commission the power to rescind or modify the November 26 decision in the event the Interstate Commerce Commission ordered abandonment of the rail line Our petition to the California Supreme Court for review was denied Our petition to the court for reconsideration of its denial of review was likewise denied but without prejudice to the department's right to again seek such review after termination of proceedings pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission

2 The department as a Federal Power Commission licensee brought an action in the United States District Court in Sacramento to condemn the entire rail line This action was stayed pending rendition of a final decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission concerning relocation or abandonment of the rail line

3 The railway intervened in proceedings before the Interstate Commerce Commission relating to relocation of that portion of the line of the Western Pacific Railroad which is the railway's sole connection to other railroads It sought an order delaying the Western Pacific relocation until the disputes between the railway and our department had been resolved The commission denied the railway's request

4 The railway, following denial by the Interstate Commerce Commission of its request for a delay in relocation of the Western Pacific Railroad instituted an action before a special three-judge federal court to enjoin relocation of the Western Pacific Railroad This proceeding became moot when an agreement was made between the railway and the department for the railway's use of a portion of the former Western Pacific line during the period prior to resolution of our dispute

5 The railway and the department each instituted proceedings before the Interstate Commerce Commission The railway sought a certificate authorizing abandonment of the portion of the rail line which will be inundated, but only when the department has provided a relocation The department sought a certificate authorizing total abandonment of the entire rail operation These proceedings were consolidated After hearings, a commission examiner adopted a recommended decision favorable to the department A three-member division of the commission then reviewed the proceedings and held that the rail line could not be abandoned but must be relocated The full Interstate Commerce Commission then assumed jurisdiction and we are waiting for its review and decision

6 The railway brought an action in the United States District Court in San Francisco to enjoin the department from in any way interfering with its rail operation This proceeding has not yet been set for trial We are now waiting for a ruling on the railway's motion for a preliminary injunction

7 The department, as a Federal Power Commission licensee, brought an action in the United States District Court in Sacramento to evict the railway from the withdrawn water power reserve lands of the United States which it crosses and for a declaratory judgment concerning the railway's and the department's rights in those lands Cross motions of the railway and the department for summary judgment will be heard in this action in December

In addition to the litigation outlined above, the Department of the Interior has taken action affecting the railway As noted above, the Bureau of Land Management in March of this year ordered the railway to cease trespassing on the 1¼ miles of withdrawn water power reserve lands of the United States which are crossed by the rail line This action was affirmed by the November 5 decision of the Secretary of the Interior, a copy of which is enclosed

None of the foregoing proceedings have yet resulted in a definitive final ruling concerning our dispute with the railway We are, however, hopeful and optimistic that decisions favorable to the department will soon be rendered by the Interstate Commerce Commission and in the injunction and ejectment actions which are pending in the United States District Court

If you desire additional information on these matters, we will be pleased to supply it However, the summary set forth above clearly indicates that the root of the problems encountered as to both the county's roads and the Feather River Railway is Water Code Sections 11590 to 11592

Subject Feather River Railway

Dear Mr Porter In our letter of November 23, 1964, we reported to you on the problems encountered by us in connection with the Butte County roads and the Feather River Railway

There has now been an additional significant development in our litigation with the railway The Interstate Commerce Commission has affirmed the decision of its Division 3 That decision was that the rail line could be partially abandoned when a relocation is provided by the department but that the entire line could not be abandoned In affirming this decision the commission refused to consider the fact that the railway operates across withdrawn water power reserve lands belonging to the United States or that it has been ordered to cease using such lands by the Department of the Interior of the United States

Review of Interstate Commerce Commission decisions and orders is by an action brought before a special three-judge federal district court We have filed such an action and are now waiting for the commission to answer our complaint

We will keep you advised of further significant developments concerning this matter

Sincerely yours,

WILLIAM E WARNE, Director

By Assemblyman Cusanovich

House Resolution No. 42

Relating to the proposed Simi Valley and Whitnall Freeways in Los Angeles County

WHEREAS, Two basically east-west freeway routes are proposed by the Division of Highways, namely the proposed Simi Valley Freeway (Route 118) and the proposed Whitnall Freeway (Route 64), and

WHEREAS, It is felt that combining a portion of the two routes into one could result in a savings to the taxpayers of approximately $1,000,000 per year or more by removal of only half as many taxable properties from the tax rolls in addition to the savings in the initial expenditures for two freeways, and

WHEREAS, It is felt that the Division of Highways has not considered what savings may result to the taxpayers by combining the said freeways with regard to acquisition and construction costs, and

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Division of Highways of the Department of Public Works is requested to make a study as to the feasibility of combining a portion of the proposed Simi Valley Freeway (Route 118) and the proposed Whitnall Freeway (Route 64) in Los Angeles County, the combined portion to be from approximately Topanga Canyon on the west to approximately the Golden State Freeway on the east, and to report its findings thereon to the Legislature not later than June 1, 1965 The scope and detail of such feasibility study shall be as complete as the limited time period involved will allow but should be sufficiently complete as to determine whether or not this proposal should be further studied in depth

Eternal God, On this Day of Inauguration of our President and Vice President, we pray Thou wouldst drop Thy mantle of integrity, justice, wisdom, faith, and value of the individual upon them

As they have accepted their oath, with desire and purpose to fulfill it may we not be spectators looking at a pageant May we recognize that each individual in our nation is involved We have our mandate to love justice, seek mercy and wisdom, and walk humbly with Thee, our God, and our fellow man

Turn new furrows in our lives that the harvest of opportunity and leadership may come to our nation; that we may set a standard of government and individual responsibility which will inspire the world, for life and peace

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev Robert R. Ferguson·

Eternal God, We pray for enough inward fortitude so we need not be thinking merely of ourselves

Give us the qualities which allow us to empathize with the flood victims and all who are going through suffering and turmoil

We are basically concerned for self, family, and neighbor Give us the larger horizon to remember that under Thee we are one family and we are all neighbors May this belief, which most of us affirm intellectually, be transformed into our basic attitudes and actions Diminish the distance between our profession and performance

By Assemblywoman Davis and Assemblyman Belotti.

Relating to a coordinated plan in cases of disaster

WHEREAS, The unprecedented damage caused in California by the disastrous floods in December 1964 and January 1965 requires the utmost effort of all persons concerned in the repair and replacement of vital facilities and the cleanup of the debris with an absolute minimum of duplication both because of the economy possible in single coordinated efforts and the fact that if there is no unnecessary duplication this can free persons to carry on some other work, and

WHEREAS, With not only various local and state levels of government involved in this monumental task but also many federal agencies directly active in this area, a coordinated plan is essential to an efficient operation, and

WHEREAS, In a disaster of this magnitude the damage is so extensive and covers so many areas that often the usual divisions of governmental responsibility are not applicable, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That all state agencies involved in rehabilitation and repair in the area of the floods, including but not limited to, the Department of General Services Disaster Office, the Department of Water Resources, Department of Public Works, Division of Highways, Department of Parks and Recreation, Division of Forestry, and Department of Fish and Game through the respective agency administrators shall develop a coordinated plan for their activities in this regard and such plan shall also include coordination with the U S Corps of Engineers, Bureau of Reclamation and any other appropriate federal agencies also involved, and be it further

Resolved, That these agencies shall also develop a coordinated plan under which damage and injury from future storms and floods can best be prevented or minimized and to be followed in operations after any future disasters, and be it further

Resolved, That these agencies shall also develop a coordinated plan under which damage and injury from future storms and floods can best be prevented or minimized and to be followed in operations after any future disasters, and be it further

Eternal God, Thou who art the giver of wisdom, enlighten our understanding with knowledge and may our wills find their framework within Thy laws As we deal so much, not with black or white but in areas of the gray, may our own lives not be misled by deceit nor corrupted through temptations Give us a steadfastness to be able to stand for the right against the innumerable pressures which can so easily take our decisions off the main course Even in the midst of darkened times, may we have hopes which will forever outlast our fears and confidence which is greater than our frustrations

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

The following Budget Message of the Governor was received and ordered printed in the Journal·

BUDGET MESSAGE OF GOVERNOR EDMUND G. BROWN

January 25, 1965

To the Senate and Assembly of the Legislature of California

I am transmitting with this message my seventh consecutive balanced budget

It is responsible in character, reasonable in concept and novel in form

It is designed to reveal the facts of this state's fiscal life as fully and accurately as possible with the hope that it will make easier your task of coping with our problems

Making a budget in a growing, dynamic state like California, especially a balanced budget, is a demanding and not always pleasant task

Scarce dollars are a strangely inhuman and limiting measure of human need And tax systems, complex and distracting in their endless variations on who should pay what share of the costs of civilization, tend to obscure the fact that taxes often open the way for human opportunity and human aspiration

Nonetheless, it is the budget with its hard won balance between taxes and appropriations that is democracy's most vital operating document It is in this document that we succeed or fail in our effort to keep California growing in strength, wisdom, health and prosperity as well as population

Once again I have made economy the watchword in the preparation of this budget, and once again I invite your further efforts toward economy

In so doing however, I suggest we both bear in mind an observation offered by that great English parliamentarian, Edmund Burke, some 200 years ago

"... mere parsimony is not economy," said Burke "It is separable in theory from it, and in fact it may or may not be a part of economy, according to circumstances Expense, and great expense, may be an essential part in true economy Economy is a distributive virtue, and consists, not in saving, but in selection Parsimony requires no providence, no sagacity, no powers of combination, no comparison, no judgment"

I trust we will not confuse economy with parsimony, and this message does not propose to do so

We face an unusually difficult situation in the coming year, complex not only in its demands, but in its problems of communication to you and the public

When I took office in 1959, I urged a major new tax program to meet a growing deficit and to finance compelling new needs for state services You adopted such a program Since that time, most states have gone to the tax well again and again while California has had only minor changes and adjustments We have even had such reductions as the sales tax exemption on prescription drugs, minor cuts in state income tax for almost one million citizens and actual elimination of income tax liability for an estimated 120,000 of our lowest income earners

We also have brought both the personal and corporate income taxes into closer conformity with the Federal law as a convenience to the taxpayer, but at a cost of many millions of state revenue

Between 1959-60 and 1963-64, the last year for which figures are fully available, California's overall state tax burden per $100 of personal income has increased just 7 9 per cent This compares with a 17 1 per cent increase for New York, the most nearly comparable state, 20 3 per cent for Pennsylvania, 20 4 per cent for Texas; and an average of 11 per cent for all states Of all the major industrial states, only two with substantially less growth and substantially lower standards of service, Ohio and Massachusetts, showed a smaller increase in tax burden Despite New York's greater increases in taxation and lesser growth, the current New York Legislature faces far more difficult fiscal problems than I will outline to you And Massachusetts, which has let services suffer while severely limiting tax increases, now faces crises in both services and finances In short, California has fiscal problems like all states, but the responsible middle course we have followed together has kept our service standards high and our costs reasonable

Why, I am often asked, must state taxes go up at all? Why doesn't the added economic activity generated by our explosive population growth produce enough taxes to provide the services required by that growth?

There are three major reasons

● First, our population growth isn't spread equally among all age groups For every four people here when I was first sworn in as Governor, there are now five, a population increase of 25 percent That alone has placed a severe strain on public finance But the rate of public school population increase has been twice that State college enrollment has doubled, and there are 65 per cent more students on University of California campuses More than one of every four Californians is now in school, and the rest of us are footing the bill, as we should and must if California is to continue to lead the way

● Second, population growth leads to people living ever closer together, with all the consequent expense of combating urgent urban problems which range from traffic congestion to smog, to water scarcity and pollution, to added pressures on beaches, parks and other recreational areas and facilities Government expenses in densely populated areas inevitably mount faster than the rate of population growth, and inevitably local governments need more help from state government I think it is noteworthy that California leads the nation in assistance to local governments, with 6.5 9 per cent of the operating funds in this new budget assigned for that purpose I think it is also noteworthy that this budget calls for only a 6 4 per cent increase in support of state operations, but an increase of 11 6 per cent in state assistance to local governments In fact, nearly 450 million dollars (technically carried as expenditures in this budget are simply revenues which we will collect for local governments and remit with no control over their uses

● Third, while new knowledge and new technology have taught us great new lessons in how to serve the public in scores of ways, they have also greatly increased the cost of government even without respect to population growth The lengthening of an airport runway to handle jets, the design of a new institution to take care of mentally retarded children who a few years ago had little or no life expectancy, the purchase of textbooks to teach the new math—all these are well worth the investment But they are expensive

What then should we do? Turn back? Throw up our hands in despair at the prospect of having to raise enough money to meet our real needs? Not at all California has ample resources to meet not only the challenges of today, but of tomorrow Let us then simply match our needs against those resources, measuring each against each not only for the 1965–66 fiscal year but for the foreseeable future

That is what I now intend to do

As we end the current fiscal year on June 30, 1965, we will have a free surplus of 50 million dollars and another 78 6 million dollars in reserves dedicated to aid to local school districts Even so, our existing expenditure commitments, agreed to by you and me, and in part approved by direct vote of the people, will make substantial tax increases necessary Further, because of the non-recurring nature of the revenues which built our present surplus and reserves, the necessary tax increases for 1965–66 will be only a fourth of the tax increases that will be needed for 1966–67 when both the surplus and the reserves will be gone and unavailable to help carry the burden

To make this situation and its compelling urgencies clear to all, this message will deal with our fiscal problems in two phases, and I recommend that you do the same

I propose first that we act on an austerity version of the budget, one that has already been characterized publicly as the 'bare bones' or 'workload' budget, a budget that recognizes only the commitments of the past and the growth in the numbers of people to whom those commitments have been made

There are only three new aspects of this basic budget

I The manner in which it is presented Capital outlay is set forth in a separate document detailing long-term investments in physical plant and equipment for our host of University and college campuses, our correctional institutions, our highways, our great state water project, our beaches and parks and our other public facilities

Further in an unrelated but equally important change we will continue the transition to full program budgeting In a supplement to the attached budget which is cast in the traditional line item format you will receive the budgets of some fifteen departments as recast in program format The substance will be exactly the same, thus affording you an opportunity to weigh the advantages and disadvantages of each method of presentation If you concur with us that the time has come to move entirely to program and performance budgeting, we will endeavor to do so next year

II The proposed deletion or reduction of an unprecedented number of established programs that have become more traditional than useful to the State of California, and the change to a self-sustaining basis of other services which benefit certain groups

We can save the General Fund alone almost 6 million dollars if you will join with me in resisting the political protest against these proposed changes in programs which still have some utility, but no longer pass the strictest tests of economy and priority The questions we should ask ourselves as these program deletions or changes are considered are simply these Is the value of these programs still great or have they become marginal? If these programs were to be newly presented this year, would they be approved ahead of the new items I will discuss later in this message? Should some of these programs which benefit specific industries or groups now be supported by those industries or groups rather than by the general taxpayer? I have instituted a comprehensive and continuing survey to obtain answers to these questions on all state programs In this budget, I am taking the first major steps in this area with a series of recommendations which include termination of educational assistance to veterans (although maintaining assistance to their dependents), a change to self-support of the Poultry Improvement Commission, the Districts Securities Commission and the Department of Agriculture's bureaus of meat inspection, poultry inspection and dairy service, elimination of the California Cadet Corps and the State Military Reserve, elimination of the money-losing State Fair Horse Show, and a number of comparable changes in other areas I expect in the future to recommend other such savings to you as a result of this most searching reevaluation program in the last two decades A study is now being made, for example, of the savings and other advantages which might come from combining State Disaster planning with Military Department operations Another concerns the possibility of streamlining our system of district and county fairs, again with substantial savings to the taxpayers.

III Only one new appropriation is called for in this austerity version of the budget, the sum of $62,431 to finance California's administrative costs in participating in the Federal government's multi-billion dollar war on poverty It is not yet possible to determine the state's 10 per cent share of certain program costs, but I would urge that this amount, believed to be less than 2 million dollars, be included in the "bare bones" budget if the amounts can be determined at an early enough date

None of the above deals with still another special problem, one which deserves our full and early attention The disastrous floods of late December have caused not only great physical damage, but equally great economic disruption in many areas of Northern California We have not yet been able to measure the costs of repair and rehabilitation, and I will soon send you a special message on this subject It will deal with both the urgent problems of the moment and the long term requirements of a full return to economic order in the communities involved That program will include a proposal for a special one cent per gallon tax on motor vehicle fuels to be levied statewide for six months to meet the repair costs of city and county streets, roads and bridges Local governments whose tax base was badly eroded by the floods cannot hope to do the job themselves for years In fact, restoration of the tax base depends on prior restoration of adequate transportation It is estimated that the proposed temporary tax would raise 37 million dollars, enough to meet the need

With these special aspects of the budget's provisions noted, here then is a summary of expenditures in the proposed basic budget for 1965–66

EXPENDITURES

(In millions)

	Original 1964–65	Revised 1964–65	Proposed 1965–66	Dollar increase over revised 1964–65	Percentage increase over revised 1964–65
Current operations
State support	$1,053 4	$1,049 9	$1,117 4	$67 5*	6 4%
Assistance to local government	1,906 7	1,935 8	2,160 8	225 0†	11 6%
Total	$2,960.1	$2,985 7	$3,278 2	$292 5	9 8%
Capital Outlay:
From current resources (largely state highway funds)	315 1	474 7	340 4	—134 3	—28 3%
From bond funds	395 6	444 1	408 1	—36 0	—8 1%
Total	$710 7	$918.8	$748 5	—$170 3	—18 5%

* This consists of population growth at University $16 3 million, State Colleges $12 5 million, mental hygiene $6 6 million, corrections and Youth Authority $5 7 million, debt service $7 9 million, and settlement of 1955 flood damage claims $6 3 million Also included are special fund increases of $11 5 million

† This consists of increases for education $107 4 million, health and welfare $77 1 million, and revenues shared with local governments $47.2 million

If you were to add the current operations and capital outlay totals as has been the custom in past years, you would obtain a combined 1965–66 expenditure figure of 4 02 billion dollars, an increase of 121 million dollars over the comparable revised total of 3 9 billion dollars for 1964–65 and a percentage increase of 3 1 per cent

Combining these totals, however, is really almost valueless in appraising the state's expenditure pattern from year to year, for two reasons The first is the large number of capital outlay appropriations which are not spent as fast as originally planned Over 200 million dollars of such projects, approved for expenditure in prior years, have been carried over to the 1964–65 revised budget, the largest amount being 120 million dollars in highway construction This is a recurring situation and has been the major defect in comparative totals of past years The second reason, as many of you know, is the duplication caused when appropriations from present bond issues are combined with the cost of repaying prior bond issues Both of these confusing transactions are now isolated in the capital outlay totals

To avoid these distortions, which obscure rather than emphasize the proper relationship between resources and expenditures, I am presenting these figures as separate totals, and will continue to do so in the future And for a better understanding, both of the trends of state finance and the resulting revenue needs, I suggest the figures in the current operations budget are far more useful in assessing the state's fiscal situation

These current operations totals contain expenditures from both the General Fund and special funds However, the primary impact of California's growth and the need for additional revenues which this growth requires must basically be met within our General Fund

Existing expenditure commitments, primarily in assistance to local governments, are now greater than current income from our General Fund tax structure By June 30, 1966, these commitments will exceed our resources by 62 million dollars, even after we utilize our current year surplus and reserves of 134 6 million dollars And by 1966-67 this revenue gap will approximate 250 million dollars, all of which must be met by additional revenues

Two past decisions were critical in making the 62 million dollar new tax requirement for 1965–66 and the 250 million dollar requirement for 1966–67 a foregone conclusion before this budget was drafted

The most important was the decision last year by leaders of both parties in the Legislature and by both the legislative and executive branches on a new general increase in state aid to local schools This increase will reach 103 million dollars next year and must be added to the regular annual growth increase of 46 million dollars Everyone involved knew that there was no regular source of revenue to finance the new legislation once our present dedicated education reserve was exhausted, as it will be before the end of the next fiscal year It was agreed that new taxes would be required for this purpose at this legislative session, and special tax committees of both the Senate and the Assembly have been working for many months on recommendations as to sources and amounts I understand the committee reports will soon be available to you to consider alongside the recommendations I will make today

I do not intend to complain about this new state tax requirement for increased assistance to local school districts I am proud of the new level of assistance, as I am sure you are And like you, I stand ready to participate in raising the revenues required In so doing, however, I point out to local officials that we will have raised state school aid 195 million dollars (23 2%) in just two years while enrollment will be up 430,000 (only 10 8%) in the same period, and that this fact should be reflected in their local property tax requirements

The second factor that made action on new revenues urgent at this session was the decision of the 1963 Legislature not to adopt the "pay-as-you-earn" method of collecting income taxes, perhaps best known as the withholding system, when I suggested it two years ago It would have meant a minimum of 120 million dollars in increased revenues by the end of the 1965-66 fiscal year without changing or increasing a single tax or tax rate Later in this message, I propose to renew my suggestion that we put payment of our personal income taxes on a current basis, as we have already done with almost all other major types of state and federal taxation In doing so, we could eliminate a substantial portion of the need for new or higher taxes for the next two years

Quite apart from the "pay-as-you-earn" proposal, let me explain at this point that we will not solve our whole problem if we improvidently plan only to fill this year's revenue gap at this session When the present surplus and reserves are exhausted during the 1965-66 fiscal year and a number of so-called one-time revenues are thus no longer available, the true gap in our revenue-expenditure pattern will emerge The permanent gap, as I have noted earlier in this message, is approximately 250 million dollars a year, even if we do not add a single new expenditure commitment in 1965-66 or 1966-67

We are thus already committed to this 250 million dollar revenue program by our expenditure commitments of the past and our present and future growth This bill must be marked paid before we move on to other important new obligations There are many different ways to pay it, but there can be no question about the size of the bill

I intend, as I have always intended, to set forth the further requirements of other urgently needed programs as a second phase of this message I have already outlined many of them to you in general terms in my initial message to this session of the Legislature It will be the role of this budget message to reckon the cost

I will turn in a moment to this task and the accompanying task of setting forth potential sources of revenue for these needs I want first, however, to fulfill my constitutional obligation to propose a tax program to meet the needs already recognized by this Legislature at previous sessions—to pay in full the bills which we are already incurring

Roughly two-thirds of the two-year revenue program which follows—and which is limited to the needs of the "bare-bones" budget—is made up of adjustments and reforms within our present tax structure These are designed to maximize receipts, to close loopholes and to eliminate old inequities The other third of the program involves new tax rates or principles

The program's major components in terms of return are these

1 Increase the cigarette tax and enact a tobacco tax to produce 101 7 million dollars to state government and to provide 38 8 million dollars to local governments for purposes of further property tax relief This would require a 5 cent increase in the tax on cigarettes, from 3 cents to 8 cents a package, with 1¼ cents being returned to local governments Enactment of a comparable tax of 20 per cent at wholesale on cigars and other tobacco products would also be necessary Only two states have no cigarette tax, and in only two others is the tax lower than in California The 5 cent increase would put California's tax at the same level as 16 other states, including such major states as New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Texas and Florida Passage of the comparable tax on cigars and other tobacco products would end the obvious inequity between those who smoke cigarettes and those of us who smoke cigars or pipes The return of 1¼ cents to local governments on a per capita basis would be made only if local governments would agree not to tax cigarettes Los Angeles, San Diego and seven other cities now impose such a tax We believe their revenues under our approach would meet or exceed their income from their present 2 cent cigarette taxes To other units of local government, this will mean they too can use this new source to ease the pressure on the property tax

2 Change the gift and inheritance taxes to produce 54 million dollars in 1966–67 The largest personal estate in the history of California one approaching 200 million dollars, is now being appraised and processed It appears that it will mean little or no revenue to the state because of provisions of the present inheritance tax law relating to charities and charitable foundations, although a normal pattern of estate distribution might have meant approximately 10 million dollars to the state The state properly should receive a substantial tax from an estate of this size under any circumstances There are many other inequities in the inheritance and gift taxes, and I propose a thorough-going revision of these levies

Specifically, I propose ending the discount for early payment and reducing the grace period from 24 months to 15 months, conforming to Federal practice, raising Class A rates moderately; eliminating the complete exemption for charitable bequests, but exempting the first $25,000 of each such bequest, reducing the annual gift tax exemption from $4,000 to $3,000 in conformity with the Federal gift tax law, including all insurance payments, which would end the present $50,000 exemption, closing of loopholes opened by the present ability to give beneficiaries a life interest in a trust, estate or other property with power to direct disposal on death of the beneficiary with only one inheritance tax payment, integrating the gift and inheritance tax exemptions and rates, and consolidating certain classes of beneficiaries

3 Adopt "pay-as-you-earn" collection of personal income taxes beginning January 1, 1966, with no double taxation and no windfall to the state during any fiscal year The result would be an additional income to the state from those who would otherwise pay no personal income tax Closing this avenue of tax evasion, coupled with "pay-as-you-earn" tax collection, will produce at least 60 million dollars when fully effective in 1966–67 This would require no increase in tax rates and no reduction in present exemptions and credits.

If you should elect not to authorize this method of collection, it will be necessary to turn to some other new or increased tax to produce the amount it would have produced in the 1966–67 fiscal year My recommendation in this event would be that the personal income tax be raised in such a way that a substantial part of the total would be deductible from federal income tax This could be done in a variety of ways which I will discuss later in this message I would hope, however, that "pay-as-you-earn" would be adopted instead for this first phase of the revenue program

I said two years ago that 26 of the 30 states with a general income tax collect it in the same way as the Federal government by withholding on a "pay-as-you-earn" basis Since then two more states have adopted the income tax and both are collecting the tax through the withholding system Ironically, very few of these states have as compelling reasons for such action as California Only we have hundreds of thousands of new residents enter each year to enjoy all our services at a discount rate They pay no income taxes until a year later and thus are supported to the tune of many millions of dollars a year by established taxpayers who would otherwise pay just that much less in taxes I believe in welcome wagons, but this one costs established taxpayers just too much Add to this problem the multi-million dollars lost through tax evasion and non-payment by persons leaving the state during the year, and you have a huge gift from those who pay our taxes to those who don't

I recognize the costs of collection that this system adds to businesses, particularly small businesses throughout the state, and I propose that they be given indirect reimbursement of the same type now given to those who collect the sales tax

Adoption of this system would produce a 26 million dollar state revenue loss in 1965–66, the year of adoption, because of the forgiveness feature designed to avoid double taxation But the 60 million dollars of recurring increased revenue thereafter makes this approach to our revenue problems a highly desirable one

4 Close loopholes in the sales tax caused by the tremendous expansion of leasing or renting as a substitute for actual purchase, especially in the electronic data processing field This would bring the state an additional 13 5 million dollars a year, and local governments, some 4 5 million dollars Of this, the state would get 10 6 million dollars and local governments 3 5 million dollars from rental of business machines alone

5 Extend the sales tax to all occasional sales of motor vehicles and to occasional sales of boats and airplanes This would end all exemptions in this area except for sales between members of the seller s immediate family, add an estimated $8 1 million dollars in revenue and substantially eliminate an expensive and difficult problem of tax administration

6 Save 4 7 million dollars in General Fund revenue by supporting all regulatory activities of the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control from the license fees now paid by the industry

These measures taken together would produce a net increase to the General Fund of 75 million dollars in 1965–66 and of 245 million dollars in 1966–67 and would thus meet the needs of the basic workload budget for the next two years They would not meet the full needs of the State of California, however, and I therefore pass to the second phase of this budget message

Included here are those new programs and items which I feel are important to California's future, but should not be authorized until we know that the budget's first phase is in balance Also included in this second phase is a discussion of alternative methods of financing these new programs and items

Let me emphasize two positions here First, I want to make it clear that this second phase can be accomplished only through a close and cooperative working arrangement with both the Assembly and the Senate and their committees My recommendations for a revenue program have been carefully considered, but I have not yet had the benefit of study of forthcoming reports of the special legislative committees still at work in this field I assure you that I stand ready to consider variations in my tax proposals in the light of new information and new considerations I propose to maintain full flexibility in dealing with these critical revenue problems, and I would urge you to do the same

Second, I also want to recognize at this time that the expenditure additions I propose here, if adopted, would add substantially to the totals in the proposed budget There will be full acknowledgment on my part that these increases were made at my request and did not result from legislative action alone I have always believed in taking full responsibility for my own recommendations, and although this budget is different in approach, it is not different in its reflection of what I believe to be my constitutional responsibilities

Here, then, are my phase-two recommendations

1 I propose adoption of the State Personnel Board's salary recommendations and the equivalent of a five per cent across-the-board salary increase for employees of the State College system and the University of California The total cost of such increases would be approximately 33 5 million dollars

If a reduction in the number of holidays for state employees can be made, as seems possible, I would suggest you recognize the resulting savings in increased state contributions to health benefit costs

2 I propose that we finance at least 50 million dollars a year of capital outlay from new tax revenues rather than relying almost entirely on bond funds for this purpose You and I agreed last year that such action would be desirable, and a 1964 legislative resolution urges that it be taken at this time

3 I propose a realistic expansion of aid to special school programs for children from homes and neighborhoods which handicap them culturally and educationally This effort to break the cycle of poverty can be most effective in the pre-school and early school years The full details of proposed Federal aid for this purpose—not only through direct educational financing, but also through Federal poverty and welfare programs—are not yet available, but I believe a maximum state matching effort should not cost more than 10 million dollars a year

4 I propose that we make a significant start in bringing our programs for the mentally retarded up to the same high standards as those we maintain for the mentally ill The Mental Retardation Study Commission has outlined a splendid program, and I ask that we begin to carry out its objectives at a first year cost of

2 5 million dollars That amount will cover both action recommendations and necessary administrative strengthening within the Department of Mental Hygiene

5 I propose that we now begin to finance those nonreimbursable recreation and fish and wildlife enhancement features of the California Water Plan to which we are already obligated by statute and by pledges to the voters during the 1960 water bond issue campaign Your leaders on water legislation have recommended that we begin this year, and I ask that you set aside 5 million dollars more a year from tidelands oil income for this purpose

6 I propose that we reduce the work week of state forest fire fighters from 104 hours to 96 hours at a cost of $735,000 a year Their present work week is substantially longer than those in comparable work in other jurisdictions, and this longstanding inequity should be ended

7 I propose that we work out a welfare cost-sharing program which would meet at least some of the basic problems posed in the report of the Welfare Study Commission established at the 1961 session of the Legislature I estimate an additional state cost of 5 million dollars would be necessary, but any final action and decision on amount should be dependent on a solution mutually acceptable to the counties and the state If such an agreement cannot be reached, I would recommend deferring this item for another year

8 I propose a 15 million dollar program to permit California schools to take advantage of the opportunities for use of educational television in meeting our unprecedented educational tasks

9 I propose we spend $1,415,000 in strengthing the state's library resources Of that total, $600,000 would go to the University of California to maintain its present pace of library development, $600,000 to the State College system for the same purpose, $40,000 to the State Library in Sacramento to meet new demands on its resources, and $175,000 more in state assistance to local libraries as a logical second step in the program begun two years ago

10 I propose that we also provide 12 million dollars more to fund other miscellaneous programs and contingencies which deserve legislative consideration The most notable are flood relief and antipoverty appropriations as already discussed Others include funding of the state tourism program authorized last year, a new housing and community development department, specialized medical care for certain types of medically handicapped children, establishment of units for adolescents and additional staffing of children's units at the Camarillo and Napa state hospitals; release time for the academic senates of the state colleges, funds for site studies at new colleges, research funds for the University of California for developing machinery to help in the harvesting of certain crops, a work furlough program for adult prison inmates and encouragement of the expanded use of local probation, a new data processing service center and control program, strengthening of the treatment program at the Veterans Home, major State Lands Commission staffing changes to handle development of the East Wilmington tidelands oil field, and funds for control of cigarette smoking and alcoholism

In keeping with the approach which has been used for General Fund agencies those functions supported by other funds are also budgeted solely on a workload basis Such items as increased officers for the Highway Patrol, a strengthened driver improvement program, and certain construction projects which do not fully meet the minimum workload criteria of this "bare bones" budget, but may come before you, were not included in this listing because they would not require additional revenues

It should be understood that all these and any other second phase programs will be presented through special augmentation letters at the time you are ready to proceed with their consideration It should be further understood that except for extraordinary emergencies, such as that involving flood relief, no Governor's letters can be granted to permit any legislation with General Fund fiscal implications to move ahead of the basic budget

These second phase proposals would require approximately another 125 million dollars in revenue annually I suggest that the funds be obtained through one of the following tax proposals

1 If the "pay-as-you-earn" collection proposal for income tax has been adopted, and no previous income tax increase has been necessary, 127 million dollars more could be obtained by raising income tax rates one-third on each bracket of taxable income At the lowest rate the tax would go up from 1 per cent to 1 3 per cent At the highest rate, it would go from 7 per cent to 9 3 per cent It should be observed that almost all experts rate the progressive income tax the fairest in terms of equity and ability to pay It is an area in which Federal demands have eased, and, in which, by virtue of the fact that the state income tax is deductible from the Federal tax, one-fourth of the money would come from the Federal government rather than individuals

For example, a family of four with $10,000 annual income and average deductions would pay $13 33 more state tax, would have $13 33 more Federal deduction, which would reduce the Federal tax $2 53 The net increase would be $10 80, or one-tenth of one per cent of the total income.

A similar family with $50,000 annual income would pay $1,040 more to the state The Federal offset would be $468, leaving a net increase to the family of $572, or only one and a fraction per cent of the total income

2 A second income tax alternative which would raise more than 130 million dollars would be to increase the maximum state income tax rate progressively from 7 per cent to 15 per cent on income over $35,000 and deny special treatment on long term capital gains This would concentrate costs in the upper brackets, but more than half the money would come from Federal taxes

3 A third possibility would be to lower present state exemptions to the Federal standard of $600 per person This would also raise 130 million dollars, but would take far more money from low income taxpayers and reduce the amount which would be deductible from Federal income tax payments

4 Another income tax alternative would be to allow a tax credit in lieu of present personal exemptions, credit for dependents and standard deductions Five states now have provisions of this nature and the change would also raise about 130 million dollars Its principal impact would tend to be in the upper income ranges

5 Extension of the sales tax to gas, electric and communication services would produce approximately 100 million dollars a year. As an offset to consumers, reports by the Public Utilities Commission show reductions in gas and electric rates alone in the last two and one-half years totalling 77 million dollars, and this is a 77 million dollar annual savings to California residents and business firms repeated year after year In addition, a refund of 129 million dollars was made to California customers in 1963-64

A 40 million dollar annual rate reduction in telephone service has been ordered by the Commission recently Moreover, the Commission has ordered refunds of 80 million dollars as the amount it determined was paid in excess of reasonable rates as of July 1962 If this action is sustained by the courts, there will be an 80 million dollar refund to telephone customers for the two years past and a rate cut of 40 million dollars per year for the future.

6 Other possibilities outside the income tax area, which would produce the desired amount and could be modified and combined in many ways, include increases in bank and corporation tax; an unincorporated business tax of the type now levied in New York, increased taxes on alcoholic beverages, which are now well below the national average, a severance tax on petroleum and natural gas and/or reduction of depletion allowances, increased pari-mutuel taxes, elimination of the tax advantages enjoyed by insurance companies in the deduction of property taxes on their office buildings from the State gross premium tax, admissions and amusement taxes, and the granting of additional thoroughbred racing days An increase in the sales tax is also possible although I would point out that the addition of one cent to our four cent sales tax would give us, along with Pennsylvania, the highest rate in the nation My personal recommendation would be use of an income tax formula which would affect all taxpayers proportionately and draw as much money as possible from Federal income tax revenues

Since the additional requirements are 125 million dollars, it is necessary to accept only one of these proposals, or to combine them so as to meet the 125 million dollar need I emphasize that the whole list is presented not as a package, but only to offer the fullest choice and flexibility of approach

Even this listing does not complete my tax recommendations While we are considering our whole tax structure, we would be remiss if we did not discuss property tax reform and its place in state-local fiscal and program relationships

I intend shortly to send you a special message on this subject, outlining principles and possibilities of reform In the interim, I would caution you that reform aiming at property tax relief can be achieved only if we recognize that revenues thus lost to local governments must be obtained in some other way, preferably at the local level

Therefore if we are to consider such reforms as abolition of the household property tax; special treatment for elderly persons; new methods of handling business inventory assessments and an end to discrimination in such assessments, we must consider other balancing reforms in the areas of welfare and veterans exemptions and perhaps revenue replacement through a property transfer tax

My special message will deal with these and other property tax problems in detail, and I hope you will act courageously in this area this year

There are other fiscal issues which must be considered at this session of the Legislature, but are not yet formulated for presentation

Our beach and park experts are working overtime to complete a program for acquisition and development under the historic new 150 million dollar bond issue approved by the people in November, and I will also send a special message on this subject

Studies on tuition fees by the Coordinating Council for Higher Education and new scholarship programs being planned at both State and Federal levels may also be completed in time for attention at this session

To all these urgent matters I ask your careful attention This is a year in which the future of California's financing of public needs may well be decided Reapportionment casts a long shadow over this session, but it must not be allowed to obscure the fundamental problems I have just outlined or to relegate their solution to some future time California is too dynamic a state to be told to wait for next year There will be new problems to deal with then We ride the crest of the wave in California only so long as we move forward confidently and boldly

No two of us, faced with the myriad complexities and divergent issues in this massive document I send you today, would have drawn it quite the same Yet all of us must agree on a final result down to the last detail Let each of us, regardless of party, approach the task with mutual understanding and restraint And let each of us participate ultimately in the satisfaction of a result of which we can be proud, a result which will permit our continued pride that we have helped once again to make this truly the leading state in the Union

Respectfully submitted,

INTRODUCTION, FIRST READING, AND REFERENCE OF ASSEMBLY BILLS (RESUMED)

The following bills were introduced, and read the first time

Assembly Bill No. 521: By Assemblymen Casey and Duffy—An act to amend Section 7604 of the Education Code, relating to health instruction

House Resolution No. 87

Relating to motor vehicle pollution control

WHEREAS, Although the existing law for the control and elimination of the emission of pollutants from motor vehicles was adopted by an overwhelming vote of the Legislature only after the submission of evidence by experts in the field, based on exhaustive studies that such legislation was necessary for the preservation of the public health and safety, and heavy expenditures of public funds have been made in the administration of that law, many of our citizens are uncertain of its scope and application, and

WHEREAS, This uncertainty has created problems that make conformance with and the enforcement of the law extremely difficult, and

WHEREAS, Some of the proposals now before the Legislature to correct this situation are so drastic in nature that, if enacted, they would eliminate or seriously jeopardize our existing air pollution program, and

WHEREAS, A more common-sense and reasonable alternative to these proposals is necessary in the best interests of all concerned, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board and the Department of Motor Vehicles are requested to refrain for a period of four months from the date of the adoption of this resolution from requiring the installation on used motor vehicles of any devices to control the emission of air pollutants from the crankcase, and be it further

Resolved, That during such period of four months the following be done

(a) That if the Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board finds and determines that there is substantial evidence of a need for the retesting and recertifying of the presently approved crankcase and other devices designed to control emissions of pollutants from motor vehicles, it shall retest and recertify them

(b) All appropriate state and local agencies concerned with the motor vehicle pollution control laws conduct a program to explain fully to the public the need for such laws and, in particular, the necessity for equipping used motor vehicles with crankcase devices that have been approved and certified by the Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board as a means of controlling the emission of pollutants from the crankcase

(c) The appropriate governmental agency take all steps necessary to insure that those certified crankcase devices that are installed in motor vehicles are properly installed at the lowest cost possible, and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly shall transmit copies of this resolution to the Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board and to the Director of Motor Vehicles

Mr Belotti was granted unanimous consent that the following letter be printed in the Journal

Redwood Region Conservation Council
Santa Rosa, January 21, 1965

The Hon P Belotti
California State Assemblyman
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

Dear Mr Belotti The much maligned lumbermen of the redwood region are finally finding themselves on the side of the Angels

But "those up there" are hard to attack so the forester is taking the blame for "excessive" damage caused by the current flood

This charge does not stand up under investigation

Records show that the last flood as high as the one which has just destroyed so much of northern California occurred in 1862

Measured rainfall was practically the same as that which caused the flood of 1964

Man wasn't a factor in the forest then and he hadn't dammed the rivers

So what happened?

According to the Journal of William H Brewer, Professor of Agriculture in the Sheffield Scientific School, entitled "Up and Down California," Steamboats were in Sacramento!

Brewer's Journal on Friday January 31, 1862, reported that in addition to the tremendous flooding in the valleys of northern coastal rivers, "the great central valley of the state is under water—a region 250 to 300 miles long and an average of at least twenty miles wide, a district of six thousand square miles!" The Journal added "thousands of farms are entirely under water—cattle starving and drowning"

Sound familiar?

Brewer describes the telegraph being out with the tops of the poles underwater in Sacramento Valley

And the estimated cost of the 1862 flood was between 50 and 100 million dollars

Also, those attacking the lumber industry have implied that the huge amounts of flood debris is a result primarily of logging

But again I quote from Dr Brewer's Journal as he describes the immense amount of driftwood brought down to the beach from all the rivers along the coast during the flood of 1862

"Trees were cast up along this part of the coast in quantities that stagger belief It looked to me as I saw enough in ten miles along the shore to make a million cords of wood It is thrown up in great piles, often half a mile long, and the size of some of these trees is tremendous I had the curiosity to measure over twenty Logs 150 feet long and four feet in diameter at the little end were not uncommon One I measured was 210 feet long"

Foresters today estimate from Dr Brewer's description that there was more than a half-billion board feet of timber on that one beach alone

But it is interesting to note that there were other similarities between the current water rampage and the flood of 1862 Then, as now, not all people looked for someone to blame for a natural disaster—many went to work

Brewer's Journal reported "There have been some of the most stupendous charities I have ever seen"

So people haven't changed in the 102 years since the flood of '62, but some control has been put on mother nature and she's not quite as damaging as she was a century ago

But if and when nature cuts loose again the redwood region can count on the toll being heavy—with or without men in the forest

Sincerely,

ELDON V SHAFER, Executive Vice President

ODE On the Passing of Churchill

Now sound the muster of heroic dead
Who gave up life to make their faith secure
A mighty chief approaches to review
The brave who died that freedom might endure

No more the restless bosom of the sea
Shall bear the mighty fleets of his command,
No more the roaring planes and marching feet
Obey his orders for the sky and land
And yet—where planes can soar or ships can sail,
The memory of his fame will never fail

That deep sonorous voice at last is stilled
Which stirred the hosts of freedom it would lead
Example was the hall mark of his word;
His eloquence spoke loudest in his deed
He climbed the roughest path of Duty's choice
To speak the highest hope of Freedom's voice
Throughout the course his burdened hours ran
His courage took the measurement of man

For him the passing-bell shall toll in vain
And earth shall never own his better part
Then seek him not in sepulcher or crypt,
For still he lives in every free man's heart

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO PRINT IN JOURNAL

Mr. Mills was granted unanimous consent that the following opinion of Legislative Counsel be printed in the Journal

OPINION OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

Office of Legislative Counsel
Sacramento, January 23, 1965

Hon. James R. Mills
Assembly Chamber

Reapportionment—No. 9306

Dear Mr. Mills:

Question

Have the recent court decisions on legislative apportionment, in effect, invalidated state constitutional restrictions which require that county boundaries be followed in the formation of assembly and state senatorial districts or which require that assembly district boundaries be respected in the formation of congressional districts?

In our opinion one effect of the decision of the federal district court in Silver v. Jordan was to invalidate state constitutional restrictions requiring that county boundaries be followed in the formation of senatorial districts

While there are now cases pending which challenge the validity of California's assembly and congressional districts, there has as yet been no judicial determination as to whether these districts violate the Fourteenth Amendment of the Federal Constitution under the principles set forth in the recent Supreme Court decisions If such districts are held to be invalid and it is impossible to form districts which are substantially equal in population under the restrictions prescribed in the California Constitution, those restrictions would be invalid

Analysis

In a series of recent decisions, the United States Supreme Court held that the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution requires that the seats in both houses of a bicameral State Legislature be apportioned on a population basis, and that legislative districts be as nearly equal in population as may be (Reynolds v. Sims, 12 L ed. 2d 506; Lucas v The Forty-Fourth General Assembly of the State of Colorado, 12 L ed 2d 632, WMCA, Inc v Lomenzo, 12 L. ed. 2d 568; Roman v Sincock, 12 L ed 2d 620; Maryland Committee for Fair Representation v Tawes, 12 L Ed. 2d 595; Davis v. Mann, 12 L. ed. 2d 609). None of these decisions involved the validity of California's legislative districts.

In an earlier decision, the Supreme Court invalidated congressional districts in the State of Georgia (Wesberry v. Sanders, 32 Law Week 4142). The court held that Article I, Section 2 of the United States Constitution, which provides that representatives shall be chosen "by the People of the Several States," requires that as nearly as practicable one man's vote in a congressional election be worth as much as another The court concluded that congressional districts must be as nearly equal in population as practicable

It is the general rule that the language of an opinion must be construed with reference to the facts presented by the case, and the positive authority of a decision is coextensive only with such facts (River Farms Co of California v Superior Court, 131 Cal. App 365, 369; People v Winkler, 9 Cal 234, 236) It is also well settled that a person is not bound by the judgment in a prior proceeding, unless he was a party or privy to the prior action and the identical issue raised in the subsequent proceeding was determined in the previous case (Bernhard v. Bank of America, 19 Cal 2d 807, Estrat v Brush Industrial Lumber Co, 124 Cal. App 2d 42, 45)

It follows that the decisions rendered by the United States Supreme Court have no immediate effect on California's legislative or congressional districts, and that their only immediate effect is to invalidate the districting acts of the states involved While the decisions do provide the principle to be followed by other courts in determining the validity of acts forming districts in other states, they do not operate to invalidate any such act Until a successful challenge is made to such districts in an appropriate court action, candidates will continue to be elected from such districts until they are next reformed.

In a decision recently issued by a federal district court in Silver v. Jordan, it was held that the present plan of senate apportionment by districts in California is unconstitutional, being an invidious discrimination of citizens' rights and violative of the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution, as interpreted and determined by the Supreme Court of the United States The court based its conclusion on the decisions of the United States Supreme Court, cited above

While the court did not specifically state that the California constitutional restrictions on the formation of senatorial districts are invalid, the practical effect of the court's decision is to render those restrictions invalid We have reference to the provisions that no county or city and county may contain more than one senatorial district, and that not more than three counties of small population may be grouped in a senatorial district (Calif Const. Art IV, Sec. 6).

Inasmuch as Los Angeles County alone contains approximately 40 percent of the state's population, and a substantial portion of the remainder of the population is congregated in some four or five counties, it is clear that the formation of a senatorial district makes it impossible for the Legislature to form 40 senatorial districts of even close to equal population The same conclusion can be stated with respect to the restriction against grouping more than three counties in a senatorial district

The United States Supreme Court, in Reynolds v Sims, supra, indicated that where there is an unavoidable conflict between the federal and state constitutions, the latter must yield Thus, since the constitutional restrictions, mentioned above, made it impossible for the Legislature to form senatorial districts in compliance with the equal population standard prescribed by the Supreme Court, the requirements would be in conflict with the federal constitution, and would be invalid

The courts have not as yet passed on the validity of California's assembly or congressional districts, although two actions have been filed recently challenging those districts * The issue before the court in any such action will be whether the districts are substantially equal in population, so as to meet the standard laid down by the United States Supreme Court. Only if the court finds that the population disparities between districts are so great as to amount to invidious discrimination against voters in districts which are underrepresented, would there be any issue regarding the validity of the state constitutional restrictions imposed with respect to the formation of assembly and congressional districts

If a court does find that the population disparities exceed constitutionally permissible limits, the question then would be whether the state restriction made it impossible for the Legislature to reform such districts so as to comply with the federal constitution The situation would be the same as that described above with respect to senatorial districts If the restrictions do make it impossible, they would be invalid If they do not, the Legislature would be required to comply with those restrictions in reforming the districts

Very truly yours,

GEORGE H MURPHY
Legislative Counsel
By Edward K Purcell
Deputy Legislative Counsel

* In Silver v Jordan the court specifically noted that there was no controversy as to the validity of assembly districts.

WHEREAS, The importation of personnel and equipment to repair and reconstruct public facilities, where such personnel and equipment is already available locally, not only imposes a burden on the limited housing facilities but also deprives local people who have lost their employment by reason of the floods, of an opportunity to reestablish themselves, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That all state agencies which are engaged in the repair or reconstruction of public facilities in the northern areas of the state which were flooded in the recent storms are directed to utilize to the fullest extent personnel and equipment available in the vicinity of the damage for such repair or reconstruction work, and be it further

Amendment No. 1

Strike out the third "Resolved" clause of the printed measure, as printed on page 289, of the Assembly Journal for January 21, 1965

House Resolution No 71, as Amended

House Resolution No. 71

Relating to a coordinated plan in cases of disaster

WHEREAS, The unprecedented damage caused in California by the disastrous floods in December 1964 and January 1965 requires the utmost effort of all persons concerned in the repair and replacement of vital facilities and the cleanup of the debris with an absolute minimum of duplication both because of the economy possible in single coordinated efforts and the fact that if there is no unnecessary duplication this can free persons to carry on some other work, and

WHEREAS, With not only various local and state levels of government involved in this monumental task but also many federal agencies directly active in this area, a coordinated plan is essential to an efficient operation, and

WHEREAS, In a disaster of this magnitude the damage is so extensive and covers so many areas that often the usual divisions of governmental responsibility are not applicable, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That all state agencies involved in rehabilitation and repair in the area of the floods, including but not limited to, the Department of General Services Disaster Office, the Department of Water Resources, Department of Public Works, Division of Highways, Department of Parks and Recreation, Division of Forestry, and Department of Fish and Game through the respective agency administrators shall develop a coordinated plan for their activities in this regard and such plan shall also include coordination with the U S Corps of Engineers, Bureau of Reclamation and any other appropriate federal agencies also involved, and be it further

Resolved, That these agencies shall also develop a coordinated plan under which damage and injury from future storms and floods can best be prevented or minimized and to be followed in operations after any future disasters, and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly is directed to transmit a copy of this resolution to each agency administrator in state government and the director of each department in state government

Eternal God, Giver of all life, Create anew within us the desire to live life to its fullest potential But in endeavoring to find our maximum fulfillment, may we do it in relation to others who are also desiring their completion

May we not seek to have all the lights green in our travel so we are not impeded, as such desires would make red lights along our friends' highways, stopping their progress

Give us the perspective that we are people who desire to live, and are in community with others who desire to live

May we stand for our rights as long as we do not make others stumble Help us to find the delicate balance for a full and joyous life for all

In the Name of our Lord —AMEN

Relative to memorializing Arnold Hansen

WHEREAS, In our state there occurred during December of 1964 storms of terrible magnitude which caused a deluge of rapidly rising and churning water to inundate thousands of acres of our land and place many of our citizens in extreme peril, and

WHEREAS, On Tuesday afternoon December 22 a helicopter landed at the Humboldt County Fairgrounds to dispatch some passengers recently rescued, and shortly thereafter ascended on another mission having taken on Bud Hansen who had volunteered to be a spotter and guide the crew over the now flooded lands of his home community in order to help save his neighbors from the dark, treacherous waters, and

WHEREAS, Just as darkness was closing in on the encompassing devastation five more stranded persons were found and three were lifted into the plane, then as the helicopter, flying through the catastrophic storm, turned toward its base at McKinleyville airport it became lost and was not found until the next day in a remote, brushy, mountainous area east of Trinidad, and the three crewmen and four passengers including Arnold Hansen had all perished, and

WHEREAS, It was in a time of adversity and strife that Arnold Hansen came forth to aid his fellowmen in their time of dire need and in the course of that endeavor he gave his life—against no greater measure can a man's life be tested, and

WHEREAS, Arnold Hansen was a native of Ferndale and lived near there for his 46 years, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Members salute the spirit of Arnold Hansen's noble efforts as a living memorial of his humanitarianism, and acknowledge the loss of a courageous man, and extend their personal condolences and sympathy to his wife, Mrs Beverly A Hansen, his children, Mrs Bill (Bonnie) Hill, Jerry Hansen, Becky Hansen, Darlene Hansen, Judy Hansen, and Shirlee Hansen, his father, Carl L Hansen, his sisters, Mrs Karla Leger, Mrs Alma Duncan, Mrs Georgie Flowers, Mrs Dorothy Lendido, and Mrs Agnes Forsman, and his grandchildren, and nephews and nieces, and be it further

The following resolution was offered·

By Assemblyman Unruh

House Resolution No. 100

Relating to the authorization of a study to consider the adoption of the office of Ombudsman in California

WHEREAS, There is an ever-increasing growth in the extent and complexity of governmental institutions, particularly in administrative agencies, in this state, and

WHEREAS, This growth leads to the greater possibility of the citizens of this state being subject to unwise and unjust administrative decisions as well as other acts of maladministration, and, in addition, increases the possibility of public confusion about administrative handling of their problems; hence a widening gap between the citizens and their government which is detrimental to a sound democracy; and

WHEREAS, The grievances of the citizens about administrative actions, and their requests for clarification about the processes of public administration, most often are directed to elected representatives and elected executive officials who are already burdened with other primary responsibilities for the governance of the state, and

WHEREAS, The work of legislators could be aided by special attention being given to the handling of the many complaints and requests for information and assistance which they receive from the public, and

WHEREAS, In addition, a continuing review of the administrative machinery of government by those receiving questions about it could serve as an aid to improvement of the public administration, and

WHEREAS, In the United States, there is an increasing academic, legal, and political interest in the institution of an office of government with the special function of hearing the complaints of private citizens against acts of administrative officials at all levels, of having authority to act or to recommend action in valid cases of maladministration, as well as to recommend changes in administrative procedure and machinery to correct such abuses, and

WHEREAS, Such a governmental office has distinguished precedents in the Ombudsman, or Parliamentary Commissioner, in Sweden Finland, Denmark, and Norway, as well as in New Zealand, and the establishment of such office is under study in Great Britain and in our own national Congress, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the establishment of a Citizens Advisory Study Committee on the office of Ombudsman is hereby authorized to investigate the feasibility of incorporating into the structure of the state government an official similar to the Ombudsman whose function is already established successfully in several other lands. Said committee shall be composed of nine members appointed by the Speaker of the Assembly, and shall be appointed from appropriate academic, legal, and public administration fields. The committee shall prepare a report and submit its recommendations to the Assembly no later than the fifth legislative day of 1967

Eternal God, Our Loving Father, In the midst of mystery, uncertainty, and large issues which we cannot fathom, give us at least a reasonable intellectual and spiritual platform on which to stand amidst all of the relativities of life May we have the quiet confidence that,

"It fortifies my soul to know

Whate'er I do, Thou dost not change
I steadier step when I recall

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communications were presented by the Speaker, and ordered printed in the Journal

Department of Finance, Sacramento
February 1, 1965

Honorable Jesse M Unruh
Speaker of the Assembly

Dear Mr Unruh The attached report is hereby transmitted to both houses of the Legislature in accordance with Section 32 5 of the Budget Act of 1964

The amounts reported conform to those included in the revised estimate for 1964–65, and are extended into the proposed estimate for 1965–66, in the Governor's 1965–66 Budget.

Sincerely,

HALE CHAMPION, Director of Finance

Department of Finance, Sacramento
February 1, 1965

The Speaker and Members of the Assembly
The President and Members of the Senate

Pursuant to Section 32 5 of the Budget Act of 1964, the Director of Finance reports the amount by which the current estimate of expenditures for public assistance programs in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1965, will exceed the limitation on aggregate expenditures in Section 32 5 to be $10,148,600, as follows

Programs	Budget Act	Increase or Decrease (+ or —)	Current Estimate
(a) Aid to the Blind	$10,579,100	—$392,800	$10,186,300
(b) Aid to the Potentially Self-supporting Blind	369,600	—259,300	110,300
(c) Aid to the Disabled	48,206,800	—466,000	47,740,800
(d) Aid to Families with Dependent Children	105,585,500	+12,088,700	117,674,200
(e) Old Age Security	162,427,200	+2,229,300	164,656,500
(f) Medical Assistance for the Aged	23,943,600	+2,948,700	26,892,300
Total of Schedule	$351,111,800	+$16,148,600	$367,260,400

The $12,088,700 increase for Aid to Families with Dependent Children results from revised caseload and average payment estimates based on more recent and accurate experience The major part of this change has occurred in the family group caseload rather than the new unemployed parent caseload as might have been expected

The $2,229,300 increase for Old Age Security is the result of providing a $2 cost of living increase in the grant in accordance with the statutory formula instead of $1 as anticipated in the 1964-65 Budget and of estimating a higher average payment because of greater attendant care and medical care usage by recipients. These increases are being partially offset by a reduction in caseload based on actual experience.

The $2,948,700 increase for Medical Assistance for the Aged anticipates a greater utilization of services by the aged and higher payments to medical facilities based on more recent and stable experience with the program.

Respectfully,

HALE CHAMPION, Director of Finance

Assembly, California Legislature
January 21, 1965

Mr. Tom Joe, Consultant
Assembly Committee on Special Education
State Capitol, Sacramento

Dear Tom: The information you uncovered for me regarding the possible availability of funds from federal sources through our rehabilitation programs has proven extremely useful.

During last Tuesday's meeting of the Allocation Board, I was able to report to the board that it would be possible for us in the future to get additional money from federal sources for school construction and for school equipment for our mentally retarded on the secondary level. Because of the information that you generated and supplied, and because of the answers you assisted me in obtaining from the Department of Rehabilitation, the Allocation Board has now instructed its staff that all construction projects in the area of mental retardation will be discussed with the rehabilitation staff as well as the Bureau of Special Education prior to an appearance before the Allocation Board.

The Allocation Board is very enthusiastic and responsive to the suggestions offered. I am convinced that in the years immediately before us we shall make federal moneys available for school use that would have escaped us without your assistance. This single action has more than repaid the state for your valuable services.

Sincerely yours,

LEROY F. GREENE

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO PRINT IN JOURNAL

Mr. Dannemeyer was granted unanimous consent that the following letter be printed in the Journal:

Anaheim, January 26, 1965

Assemblyman Wm E Dannemeyer, 69th District
State Capitol, Sacramento 14

Dear Mr Dannemeyer I would be eternally grateful if you would see fit to read the following as a letter "from one of your constituents," to the Assembly, or at least to the Ways and Means Committee

"This is from a 'bare bones' taxpayer concerning the 'bare bones' budget It is an appeal to you as a responsible legislator, for more economy. The new state budget is nearly twice that of eight years ago—are we trying to outdo Washington? Gov Brown blames population growth, then why new taxes? Tax revenues should grow with population New people bring new income, new wealth If they do not, shouldn't we be finding ways to discourage so many from coming? We could do this by nonresident taxes of various sorts Or if the birth rate is responsible, why not a high tax on maternity bills or birth registrations?

Highway users pay 20 7 percent of the taxes, and highway transportation receives 12 8 percent of the expenditures Education gets 46 percent of the expenditures, but education users do NOT pay in proportion Isn't it time we asked parents (like myself) to absorb more of the education cost than the childless? Isn't it time we got the University of California out of research and federal projects and back into teaching? If parents had to pay extra for their children, they might think twice before conceiving them We now spend 21 5 percent of the budget for 'health and welfare' (and as much locally) to make people healthier and better off, so they will have more children to educate at still higher cost When does this spiral end—when we end it or it ends us?

We need not more taxes, more welfare, and more state aid, but more industry, more jobs, more income, and more real wealth in our state Fiscal policies should make it highly profitable for private, nongovernment industry to come here Inane restrictions and endless nit-picking of the Corporations Commission should be curbed to facilitate corporate expansion The commission should be less a protector of the public than a champion of new enterprise Let caveat emptor revive, if need be! Reduce corporate taxation for the first few years to give new companies or new branches a chance to succeed and expand End inventory taxes for new corporations, allow accelerated depreciation, and give other incentives for the start-up period A corporation now pays $100 franchise tax whether it has income or not, this is onerous A corporation pays exorbitant filing fees simply to get a permit for a stock issue, even a private one, this is onerous A corporation faces labor laws much stricter than many other states, and this is onerous How many corporations have folded up their tents and left California in the past several years? How many have refused to come here because of state policies? How many have simply gone bankrupt because they couldn't cope with the 'welfare' and restrictive legislation?

It's time we repealed a few laws before enacting more The annotated codes of California now comprise some 80 volumes and seven feet of shelf space, and this year we're adding more. Why so many statutes—has the common law failed us after 600 years?

Our only real wealth comes from private industry and the commerce it creates A continued spiral of taxation, legislation and wage demands simply stifles that industry and the consumers that give it sustenance Must we go the way of the coal industry to learn this? Can't we please return to fiscal sanity in this state, and hope the federal government will follow the lead?"

Yours very truly,

R W JOHNSON

God, Our Loving Father, We know Thy promise, that in quietness, and in confidence, we find strength We confess that we become so wound up with the details and intricacies of our daily problems that we do not apply Thy divine formula We recognize our need for strength, for we have our inner as well as our outer weaknesses We need confidence, or we walk through a world of shadows May we be so busy that sheer common sense drives us to a time of quietness so that inwardly we may be strong to face with confidence our daily tasks
In our Lord's Name—AMEN

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev Robert R. Ferguson

God, our Father, We know that our laws can be no better than those who make and administer them, and the people who follow them

As this body initiates laws, give them the courage to look at themselves Our pride, our passions, and our self interest are very real, and often dominate the center of life from which our thinking stems

We pray that Thou wouldst allow other qualities, which may be buried, to rise again in our lives—decency, consideration, unselfishness, and hard thinking with a warm heart

In our Lord's Name—AMEN

WHEREAS, Nursery Education Week was initiated over 15 years ago by the California Association for Nursery Education, the Private Nursery School Association of California, California Council of Parent Participation Nursery Schools, and the Child Care Center Supervisors and Directors Association, to inform the public of the benefits that good group programs for young children can bring to the state, and

Quorum present

Eternal God, We are aware of the scriptural admonition, "in quietness and in confidence shall be your strength" Yet Thou knowest that Thy servants have little time for quietness, and few things upon which to place real confidence They have their individual and regional problems They face themselves and their constituents As we look beyond our own boundaries, our national leaders are treading the narrow and crumbling path on the edge of an abyss Be with our President and his advisors and the leaders of those nations wishing to bury us, that they may make right decisions Strengthen the thin lines of communication, and cool the heated passions and incendiary threats

May this Assembly and our national leaders snatch moments of quietness and find in Thee their ground of sure confidence so that they may lead this nation and the world in the ways of justice, truth, and peace

In our Lord's Name —AMEN

California State College at Hayward
February 2, 1965

Hon Carlos Bee
Assemblyman, 13th District
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

Dear Carlos I am privileged to be one of the few people you have seen fit to honor with a copy of the "Proceedings of the Electors of President and Vice President

We are prone, sometimes, in our modern, sophisticated life to perceive critical events and attending ritual in an objective fashion That is, we are inclined to say, 'Sign here quick so we can all go home' This view, though coldly efficient, ignores the fact that critical events repeated periodically offer us the opportunity to pause, reexamine and renew our faith in processes fundamental to our government. The act of your assembling in Sacramento with other electors means that we the people through you are naming our leaders It is a grave moment Think of the alternatives we know about elsewhere one party systems, military juntas, constitutional dictators and the like. The people under such governments have no real vote We do. We must take opportunities to remind ourselves that we do vote One means of reminding ourselves is through appropriate, meaningful ritual

I am pleased you have directly participated in the election of our President Moreover, I thank you for permitting me to take part—through reflection—on the meaning of your act

Sincerely yours,

ALBERT R LEPORE, Dean of Instruction

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO PRINT IN JOURNAL

Mr. Veneman was granted unanimous consent that the following letter be printed in the Journal.

February 8, 1965

Hon Edmund G Brown, Governor
State Capitol, Sacramento

Dear Governor Brown Under date of December 23, 1964 I informed you of the financial condition of the Disability Fund and stated that urgency legislation would be required to protect the solvency of the Fund Copies of my communication were sent to Senator Hugh M Burns, President Pro Tempore of the State Senate, and

Assemblyman Jesse M Unruh, Speaker of the Assembly. In my letter, I pointed out that unless urgency legislation is adopted, it will be necessary under the authority of Section 2604 of the Unemployment Insurance Code that benefits be reduced to assure solvency until such time as the Legislature does enact legislation providing for additional revenue so as to bring the Fund into balance with estimated disbursements

AB 241, 1965 General Session, by Assemblyman George Zenovich, which contains an urgency clause and statement of facts constituting the urgency, is now pending in the Assembly If AB 241 is enacted with an urgency clause, the Disability Fund will be actuarially sound If the Assembly does not approve the urgency clause and the bill does not become effective until October 1, 1965, you have informed me that you will, pursuant to the authority conferred by Section 2604 of the code, declare that an emergency exists and authorize me to reduce benefits payable to unemployed disabled claimants effective April 1, 1965 Upon receipt of such authority, I am now advising you that I will, under said Section 2604, immediately suspend the payment of hospital benefits, of $12 per day not to exceed 20 days, on all such claims with a filing date from April 1, 1965 through September 30, 1965

Finally, if AB 241 or other similar legislation refinancing the Disability Fund is not enacted by the Legislature during the 1965 Legislative Session, I will be required not only to continue such suspension of hospital benefits, but also to extend the waiting period of all claimants sufficiently to assure that revenue and disbursements are in balance

Sincerely,

ALBERT B TIEBURG, Director

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO PRINT IN JOURNAL

Mr. Ryan was granted unanimous consent that the Youth Governor's talk, of the Y M C A Model Legislature, be printed in the Journal:

Y.M.C.A. Model Legislature Youth Governor's Talk

THIS IS OUR DAY

Fellow citizens, this is our day. I say citizens because this is the time in which to demonstrate what kind of citizens we will be

The Y M C A. has a motto, "Where Youth go so goes the World," but where is youth going? Many adults fiercely criticize the teenage generation. How? They point out the number of high school-age chain smokers, the sickening number of high school alcoholics, the shocking number of teenage dope addicts, the reckless driving and number of highway fatalities attributed to the hot-rodding teenager, teenage music, teenage immorality, teenage crime rate Nowadays, whenever you hear the word juvenile, you automatically associate delinquency

America's youth is America's future, but what kind of a future will America have? Many alarmists view the prospect with grave concern. They look at the younger generation with misgivings But hasn't this always been so? All throughout history the older folks have criticized the younger generation Adults have always worried about the next generation's ability to take over the reins of business and government Let us not be too disturbed about these misgivings; the important thing is, how do we feel about our responsibilities as teenagers of today and citizens of the future "As a man thinketh so is he," and he inevitably becomes what he thinks What do we think? And what kind of thoughts do we entertain about ourselves and our future? Are we afraid? Destructive? Irresponsible? Unconcerned about our fellow man? Or are we willing and able to ask and receive God's guidance as we address ourselves to the concerns of our fellow man? These questions will be of vital importance to you in these three days Will we entertain thoughts of putting first What's right and not Who's right as we deliberate before passing judgment on these bills we are asked to consider? Will we be willing to suppress selfish demands of individuals or groups as we work for the greatest good for the greatest number? God gives the ability to see that right? We now have this weekend to answer these questions to ourselves and our predecessors

Now I am not advocating complete conformity and no disagreements This great country of ours was not founded by a group of conformists Neither was it united into a great nation by individualists who were not willing to make concessions for the common good in a spirit of compromise What makes America a leader of nations, is the fact that we have learned to respect the integrity of each individual Give him a chance to express himself and to make as strong a stand for his opinion as he wishes, then cast our ballot, and finally unite behind the majority opinion We have been able to mold into the majority opinion many of the valuable concerns as expressed by the minority

In other countries, most often the rule of the minority leads to suppression and tyranny We must be careful to listen to the voice of our many minorities as we unite to develop our majority We sitting here in this Model Legislature, must demonstrate our ability to respectfully hear all sides And then stand behind those ideas that are good and with the respect for the advocate on the opposite point of view, pass those bills that are for the common good of the state, and defeat those which are not

We have a tremendous amount of education awaiting us in these three days But the learning does not come during the vote, but rather in the debate preceeding that vote We must be extremely careful not to destroy that debate by excessive use of technicality in procedure Parliamentary procedure was created to smooth legislation out, not bog it down Though the success or failure of these bills are very important, the education gained during the debate is the supreme importance

Since the bills we finally pass will be the products of our own minds, they will literally be a written statement of what we are If we have accepted the statement "as a man thinketh, so is he" how can we look at our bills as anything else? When we are through will we be proud of what we have done? When our forebears read the products of our work will they say, "We need not fear the future" Many years hence, when we look back at our work, will he be proud of what we have done?

I, for one, feel confident that we are ready and able to fully assume our responsibilities Profiting by our Y M C A experience, our education, and our religion, I feel that we are ready to be worthwhile, responsible citizens, and that we will demonstrate this in our 17th Annual Y M C A Model Legislature

But we will still hear the bitter criticisms of many adults about the irresponsible teenagers. You will still hear the alarmists point out the staggering crime statistics of our contemporaries What will you say? As future citizens, what will you say?

As Youth Governor, I will say this Yes, today's youth is tomorrow's future, but the alcoholics, and the dope addicts, and the wild drivers and the juvenile delinquents, and the hoods, and the bums aren't going to run the world We Are And we are going to have to show everybody else that we are capable of doing it and—this is our chance—This Is Our Day

Mr. Collier was granted unanimous consent that the following Opinions of Legislative Counsel and of the Attorney General be printed in the Journal:

Sacramento, February 12, 1965

Hon John L. E Collier
Assembly Chamber

Constitutional Amendment—No. 12197

Dear Mr. Collier.

Question No 1

If two-thirds of the states petition Congress to call a convention for the purpose of amending a specific item of the Constitution, would the convention be limited to that specific item or would it open the subject for the rewriting of the entire Constitution if the convention so desired?

Opinion No 1

It is my opinion that the convention probably would be entitled to modify the proposed amendment and consider other subject matters

Analysis No 1

Section 1 of Article V of the United States Constitution provides

"The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both Houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution, or, on the application of the Legislatures of two-thirds of the several states, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several states, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress, provided that no amendment which may be made prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article, and that no state, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the Senate"

The question you raise has never been decided by the courts No such convention has ever been called and there is no elaboration in the Constitution on the powers of such a convention I am inclined to believe, however, that the convention would not be limited to the specific amendment referred to by the Legislatures in view of the following factors First, the constitutional provision refers to calling a convention for proposing amendments The use of the singular, in connection with the convention, and the plural in connection with the amendments which may be proposed by the convention, indicates that Congress is not required to limit such convention to consideration of the advisability of proposing one specified amendment Second, if the convention is to propose only those amendments specifically requested by the Legislatures there would be no apparent purpose to be served in having a convention at all

I conclude, therefore, that the convention probably would be entitled to modify the proposed amendment and consider other subject matters

If Congress decides to propose the specific amendment to the Constitution prior to receiving the petitions of two-thirds of the states, and thereafter the necessary two-thirds of the states petition Congress to call the convention, would Congress have to call the convention even though it responded to the request for the specific amendment?

It is my opinion that Congress could not be forced to call a constitutional convention under Article V of the United States Constitution regardless of whether or not Congress itself proposed a specific amendment

Article V of the United States Constitution provides that the Congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to the Constitution, or, on the application of the Legislatures of two-thirds of the several states, shall call a convention for proposing amendments

All amendments to the Constitution have originated directly from Congress, and there has been no instance in which Congress, on application of the Legislatures of two-thirds of the states, has called a convention to propose amendments to the United States Constitution (16 C J S. 29) In the absence of any precedent for the calling of such a convention by Congress, or any judicial decision on the subject, it is apparent that no definitive answer to your question can be given at this time

With respect to the proposing of an amendment, I think the Constitution itself clearly confers discretion on Congress, since a prior condition is that "two-thirds of both Houses shall deem it necessary" (U S Const, Art V, Re Opn of Justices (Me 1919), 107 Atl 673, 5 A.L R. 1412)

With respect to the calling of a constitutional convention, upon the application of the states, it is true that Article V uses the word "shall" without indicating that Congress is to have discretion in the matter Legal commentators have differed as to whether this wording means that Congress is required, or merely directed, to call such a convention (See, (1959) 45 Am Bar Assn Jour 1164, 1165; and (1959) 45 Am. Bar Assn Jour 161, 196; and see "Proposing Amendments to the United States Constitution by Convention," (1957) 70 Harv L Rev. 1067, and authorities cited therein)*

There is no provision of the Constitution which relieves Congress, under any circumstances, from the requirement that it call a constitutional convention upon receipt of the appropriate number of petitions However, the Supreme Court has held that questions involving action by the states in connection with proposed amendments to the Federal Constitution are political in nature and are matters for the determination of Congress as to which the courts would not take jurisdiction (See Coleman v. Miller, 307 U S 433, 83 L. ed 1385, 122 A L R 695) Thus it is probable that the courts would be reluctant to substitute their judgment for that of Congress in determining whether or not constitutional conventions should be called. Further, even assuming that the courts might undertake to determine whether or not such a convention

* See "Problems Relating to State Applications for a Convention to propose Constitutional Limitations on Federal Tax Rates" (1952), Staff Report for House Committee on Judicial 82d Cong. 2d Sess should be called, I am unaware of any way in which Congress could be forced to act Under these circumstances, I do not think that Congress could be forced to call a convention

Very truly yours,

GEORGE H. MURPHY, Legislative Counsel

OPINION OF ATTORNEY GENERAL

Office of the Attorney General
Sacramento, February 15, 1965

Hon John L E Collier
Member of Assembly, Fifty-fourth District

Dear Sir. You have requested our opinion on the following questions:

1 "If two-thirds of the states petition Congress to call a Convention for the purpose of amending a specific item in the Constitution, would the Convention be limited to that one specific item or would it open the subject for the rewriting of the entire Constitution if the Convention so desired?"

2. "If Congress decided to enact [propose?] the specific amendment to the Constitution prior to receiving the petitions of two-thirds of the states and thereafter the necessary two-thirds of the states petitioned Congress to call the Convention, would Congress have to call the Convention even though the Congress responded to the request for the specific amendment?"

The conclusions are

1 The Congress has never called a Convention in response to a petition of the Legislatures of two-thirds of the States. Since each amendment to the Constitution has been proposed by the Congress the issue of whether an amendment has been validly proposed by a Convention has never been before the courts for decision and there are no precedents It is concluded that if the States, in petitioning for a Convention, limited their request to a particular subject, and the Congress, in calling the Convention, limited the call to a particular subject, the Supreme Court might well hold that a Convention had no authority to propose amendments concerning any subject matter other than that stated in the petition and in the call

However, it is also a permissible conclusion that the Convention, although created by the call of the Congress, would be held by the courts to have an independent existence, obtaining its authority from the Constitution rather than from the Congress Article 5 of the Constitution has no provisions expressly limiting the power of a duly called convention

2 To our knowledge, the issue raised in your second question has never been discussed by any authority Although Article 5 of the Constitution specifies that, upon petition by two-thirds of the Legislatures of the States, the Congress shall call a Convention, "shall" in this precise context has never been construed by the courts. We suggest that Baker v Carr and subsequent reapportionment cases, to the extent that they restate the issue of what is and what is not a "political question," might be applicable to this issue The Supreme Court, having indicated that it will compel legislatures to take specific action, might now construe "shall" as mandatory so that the Congress would have a compellable Constitutional duty to call a convention upon petition by the States, despite the fact that Congress itself had proposed an amendment identical to that stated in the petition

Article 5 of the Constitution of the United States[1] prescribes two possible processes of proposal and two of ratification of amendments (1) two-thirds of both Houses shall propose amendments, or (2) the Legislatures of two-thirds of the several States shall petition the Congress to call a convention for proposing amendments, ratification shall take place by (1) three-fourths of the Legislatures of the several States, or (2) by conventions of three-fourths of the several States

For an amendment to become part of the Constitution it must be both validly proposed and validly ratified No amendment, of the 29 proposed, has ever been proposed by convention, only one amendment, of the 24 ratified, has ever been ratified by convention (the 21st amendment repealing the 18th which had prohibited the sale of liquor). See U S C A , amendments to the Constitution, historical notes

"Any question as to whether the amendment procedure stated in Article 5 has been properly followed is a federal question which necessarily must ultimately be decided by the United States Supreme Court," 16 Am Jur 2d §21, at 193, see 122 A L R. 719

Article 5 alone confers the power to amend and it determines the manner in which the power can be exercised Coleman v Miller, 307 U S 433, Hawke v Smith 253 U S 221, see Barlotti v Lyons, 182 Cal 575, 577, (referendum provisions of California Constitution are in conflict with Article 5 of United States Constitution as to ratification of amendments of that Constitution and "must be held as naught" when Congress proscribed ratification by the Legislatures of the several states)

The only express limitation now existing on the power of amendment in Article 5 is that "no State, without its Consent, shall be deprived of its equal Suffrage in the Senate" Another possible limitation upon the power of amendment is Article 4, §3, cl 1 of the Constitution ("no new State shall be formed . without the Consent of the Legislatures of the States concerned as well as of the Congress")

The only express limitation in Article 5 as to what constitutes a valid proposal of an amendment is that the Congress shall propose amendments "whenever two thirds of both Houses shall deem it necessary" It was held that the mere act by the Congress of proposing an

[1] United States Constitution, Article V "The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both Houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose Amendments to this Constitution, or, on the Application of the Legislatures of two thirds of the several States, shall call a Convention for proposing Amendments, which, in either Case, shall be valid to all Intents and Purposes, as Part of this Constitution, when ratified by the Legislatures of three fourths of the several States, or by Conventions in three fourths thereof, as the one or the other Mode of Ratification may be proposed by the Congress, Provided that no Amendment which may be made prior to the Year One thousand eight hundred and eight shall in any Manner affect the first and fourth Clauses in the Ninth Section of the first Article, and that no State, without its Consent, shall be deprived of its equal Suffrage in the Senate"

amendment satisfied the "necessary" clause. Rhode Island v. Palmer (National Prohibition Cases), 253 U S 350

It is our opinion that the method of proposing amendments by convention is an equal alternative to the method of proposal by the Congress. Our conclusion that the two methods of proposing amendments are equal alternatives is based (1) upon The Federalist No. 43 (Madison) wherein it is stated that Article 5 "equally enables the general and the State governments to originate the amendment of errors, as they may be pointed out by the experience on one side, or the other" 139 Modern Library 278, 286 (Emphasis added); (2) upon Elliott's Debates of the Constitutional Convention of 1787 where the following is reported at page 551:

> "Mr Sherman expressed his fears that three-fourths of the States might be brought to do things fatal to particular States, as abolishing them altogether or depriving them of their equality in the Senate. Colonel Mason thought the plan of amending the Constitution exceptionable and dangerous As the proposing of amendments is in both modes to depend, in the first immediately, in the second ultimately, on Congress, no amendments of the proper kind would ever be obtained by the people if the Government should become oppressive, as he verily believed would be the case
> "Mr Gouverneur Morris and Mr Terry moved to amend the Article so as to require a convention on application of two-thirds of the States
> "Mr Madison did not see why Congress would not be as much bound to propose amendments applied for by two-thirds of the States as to call a convention on the like application He saw no objection, however, against providing for a convention for the purpose of amendments, except only that difficulties might arise as to the form, the quorum, etc, which in constitutional regulations ought to be as much as possible avoided
> "The motion of Mr Gouverneur Morris and Mr Gerry was agreed to nem con " (Emphasis added)

And (3) dictum in decisions of the Supreme Court, see e g, United States v Sprague, 282 U S 716 where Justice Roberts, delivering the opinion of the Court, states

> (Concerning the issue before the Court) "The United States asserts that Article 5 is clear in statement and in meaning, contains no ambiguity, and calls for no resort to rules of construction A mere reading demonstrates that this is true It provides two methods for proposing amendments Congress may propose them by a vote of two-thirds of both houses, or, on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the States, must call a convention to propose them Amendments proposed in either way become a part of the Constitution, (when ratified) " 282 U S at 730

If, as we have concluded, the convention is an equal alternative method of proposing amendments to the Congressional method, it might follow that the role of the Congress in this regard is ministerial—that is, its function is to determine whether the requisite two-thirds of the Legislatures have petitioned, and, consequent to that determination, to issue the call for the Convention

Accepting this conclusion, it then would appear that a convention so convened would be a duly authorized constitutional body, and nothing in Article 5 appears to limit the scope of the subject-matter that such a convention could consider Therefore, it is a permissible conclusion, although there is no definitive guide from either precedent or judicial decision, that the convention, although created by the call of the Congress, would be held by the courts to have an independent existence, obtaining its authority from the Constitution rather than from the Congress Once convened, it might have the power to determine for itself, by rules established by itself, as to what amendments it desired to propose

There is historical precedent for such a conclusion Acting under the Articles of Confederation, Congress, in 1787, provided that a convention of delegates appointed by the several States be held at Philadelphia

> "for the sole and express purpose of revising the Articles of Confederation and reporting to Congress and the several legislatures such alterations and provisions therein as shall when agreed to in Congress and confirmed by the states render the federal constitution adequate to the exigencies of Government & the preservation of the Union " Resolution of Congress, February 21, 1787

The Articles of Confederation, it may be recalled, specifically created a "perpetual Union "

One expert has stated·

> "The precedent of the Constitutional Convention of 1787 suggests that, when once assembled, a convention might establish an entirely new method of ratification and, indeed, propose an entirely new constitution " Edward S Corwin and Jack W Peltason, Understanding the Constitution, William Sloane Associates, Inc, New York, 1949.

Professor Orfield has expressed a similar view. the Convention, once called into being, would be free to take any action within the scope of Article 5, the instructions from Congress notwithstanding Orfield, Amending the Federal Constitution. 45–48

The following argument and conclusion, based on the same hypothesis that the convention is an alternative to the Congress as a method of proposing amendments, appears equally valid. It assumes that the Congress, in issuing the call for a convention, would provide rules by legislative act for the constituency of and procedural regulation of the convention. See Coleman v. Miller, 307 U S 433, 452, Black, 72 Yale Law Journal 964, 965; 33 Harvard Law Review 659

It has been established that when the several Legislatures act to ratify amendments they are not acting as States, but rather are acting in a federal function derived from the Federal Constitution, Hawke v Smith, 253 U.S 221, Rhode Island v. Palmer, 253 U S 350 The States' function is "like the function of Congress in proposing the amendment." Leser v Garnett, 258 U S 130, 137 In the process of adopting amendments to the Constitution, the Congress does not exercise legislative power; it acts as the delegated agent of the people, United States v.

Sprague, 282 U.S 716, infra. See Dumbauld, The Constitution of the United States, University of Oklahoma Press. Norman, 1964, pp 433–439 Therefore, an amendment is not submitted to the President and he has no veto power over proposed amendments, Holingsworth v. Virginia, 3 Dall. 378, 381–382. Whether the Congress, in calling for a convention, is exercising legislative power or not has never been discussed

It is clear that the Congress has wide powers under Article 5. Congress may validly enact legislation under the authority of Article 5 that fixes a reasonable time within which ratification must be accomplished, Dillon v. Gloss, 256 U.S 368, and may validly prescribe the procedure by which ratification of amendments becomes officially noted, Coleman v. Miller, 307 U S 433 Coleman v. Miller also establishes the proposition that "the question of the efficacy of ratifications by state legislatures, in the light of previous rejection or attempted withdrawal" is a political question with the ultimate authority in the Congress, 307 U.S. at 450. Although Article 5 requires in terms a "two-thirds" vote of both Houses, this requirement has been held to mean, not of those eligible to vote, but of only those present at the time of voting, assuming that a quorum is present, Rhode Island v Palmer, 253 U S at 386, infra. Attacks on the power of the Congress to propose particular amendments—a substantive attack rather than a procedural attack—have been summarily dismissed, see, e g , United States v. Sprague, 282 U.S. 726, 733–734

Although it is extrapolation to analyze from the Congress' established constitutional power to provide rules as it presently does, to the power of Congress to limit the power of a Constitutional convention, the underlying principle—in conjunction with the principle of separation of powers—is a recognition that Article 5 clearly does put some power in the Congress with respect to a Convention and if the Congress were to act, modern judicial practice would be to sustain its authority rather than to restrain it.

Therefore, it is a permissible conclusion—but equally unsupported by precedent or judicial decision—that if the States, in petitioning for a Convention, limited their request to a particular subject, and the Congress, in calling the Convention, limited the call to a particular subject, the Supreme Court might well hold that a Convention thereafter had no authority to propose amendments concerning any subject matter other than that stated in the petition and in the call

2. Your second question asks whether if Congress itself proposed the specific amendment to the Constitution contained in the petition from the Legislatures of two-thirds of the States—prior to receiving that petition from two-thirds of the States—it would still be constitutionally obligated to call the Convention

We have not been able to locate any prior discussion of this issue Article 5 does provide that "the Congress SHALL call a Convention." In construing "shall" the courts normally, but not always, consider its use to mean "mandatory " It is noteworthy that Justice Roberts, in the excerpt that is included in our answer to your first question, used the word "must" rather than "shall" when referring to the calling of a convention, United States v. Sprague, 282 U S. at 730, infra.

Article 4, section 4 of the Constitution provides that the United States "shall guarantee to every State in this Union a Republican Form of Government" The Supreme Court held in Luther v. Borden, 7 How. 1, 42, that it rests with the Congress to decide what government is the established one in a State and whether or not it is republican in form

We cannot say whether it would rest with the Congress as to whether it shall call a convention or not after it has itself proposed the identical amendment

It should be noted that even if the word is construed as mandatory, the problem of what remedy, if any, would be available remains to be considered Professor Corwin has stated that·

> "Although the word 'shall' is used in connection with calling the convention, there would be no way to compel Congress to do so In other words, the Constitution at this point, as at many others, relies for its observance on the good faith of Congress The Constitution's silence as to the details of such a convention—the method of choosing delegates, the number of representatives from each state, and the power of the convention once assembled—apparently leaves it with Congress to determine these important matters" Op cite at page 75.

Professor Willoughby earlier came to a similar conclusion and he, in addition, concluded that "the same reasons that militate against the issuance of compulsory judicial processes to the President, militate even more strongly against the issuance of such writs to Congress" Westel Woodbury Willoughby, The Constitutional Law of the United States, Baker, Voorhis and Co., 1929 2d Ed Vol I, at page 597 For a contrary conclusion see the comprehensive argument of W K Tuller in his article "A Convention to Amend the Constitution—Why Needed —How it May Be Obtained" in the North American Review, March, 1911, (suggesting a Constitutional Convention to propose an amendment requiring direct election of Senators at a time when the Senate would not itself propose such an amendment)

The Supreme Court in Baker v Carr, 369 U S 186, and subsequent reapportionment cases establishes not only a redefinition of what is a political question, but indicates that it is within its Constitutional power to compel legislatures to take specific action to carry out a constitutionally imposed duty In the light of these cases, and assuming that "shall" is construed to be mandatory rather than permissive, it is possible that the Court might issue a mandate to Congress to compel it to call a convention upon petition by the requisite number of State legislatures We must note, however, that one Justice, presently sitting on the Court, has stated that "Congress, possessing exclusive power over the amending process, cannot be bound by and is under no duty to accept the pronouncements upon that exclusive power by this Court " Coleman v Miller, 307 U S 433 (Concurring opinion of Justice Black, at 459)

Very truly yours,

REAPPORTIONMENT

by

Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan

The second most important crisis in this generation is reapportionment, only civil rights is more difficult and more sweeping in its effect on us all We in California will ultimately have to obey the law of the land—certainly we would not like to be grouped with Mississippi, Alabama, and Louisiana as those states who stand in selfish defiance of the law as laid down and interpreted by the Supreme Court Linking California to the Southern States-Rights groups is both disturbing and frightening, yet if we in California defy the law, what difference does it make whether the defiance be in the area of civil rights or in that of voting rights?

On the individual level, the question of reapportionment is a simple question of common sense Why are so many people so opposed to having a vote of equal weight with that of every other voter? The answer is simple they oppose reapportionment because they are afraid —afraid of being controlled by interests adverse to theirs, afraid of being dominated by "bosses" and "machines" This fear was felt back in 1787 at the Constitution Convention and was brought into the open by the debates of Madison, Hamilton and Gerry There, the example of England—the land they had left to gain freedom—was ever present It was stated by those who drew up our Constitution, "In England the people will probably lose their liberty from the smallness of the proportion having a right of suffrage" The Federalists said at this Convention "The government ought to possess not only the force but (also) the mind or sense of the people at large The Legislature ought to be the most exact transcript of the whole society . "

In California we are now called upon to do just that—to make the Legislature the exact transcript of the whole society To do this, the Supreme Court says it is necessary to remember that "Legislators represent people, not trees or acres Legislators are elected by voters, not farms or cities or economic interests As long as ours is a representative form of government and our Legislatures are those instruments of government elected directly by and directly representative of the people, the right to elect Legislators in a free and unimpaired fashion is a bedrock of our political system" No one could argue that unequal voting strength is not an impairment of a right, yet this is precisely what the proponents of the status quo argue for

Let's examine the question of reapportionment, but shall we examine it as narrow partisans, as we would a local zoning dispute, or shall we examine it as an issue so large that it has affected directly two out of three branches of our federal government, and two out of three branches of every state government in the land, and therefore worth our attention as free citizens in a free society anxious to pursue the heritage of freedom for all men throughout the world, a struggle which began right here in our own country with our own revolution The fire of that revolution still burns vigorously, sparks thrown from it are fanned in the countries of Africa, Asia, and South America

In the the 1820's, England went through one of its most serious crises because the Industrial Revolution caused the sudden growth of industrial cities and necessitated the relocation of families from the farm where they had been displaced by machinery to the city where they could find work tending new machines The resultant misery in the daily lives of these new city people is well told in the novels of Dickens and in the writings of Carlyle. In comparison, however, not enough attention has been given in literature and philosophy to the change that occurred in parliamentary representation With the sudden shift in population, members of Parliament found themselves "representing" districts or boroughs that had literally NO people—just land This was the infamous "rotten borough" system of the post Napoleonic era After years of fierce struggle, the Reform Act of 1832 was passed, and members were required to represent people. not land.

The historic struggle over representation was already going on when our forebears wrote our Constitution At the time, they did not believe in universal suffrage as we do—women could not vote, paupers could not vote, slaves could not vote, laborers could not vote Men who owned real property could Thus, although they based their representation on property holdings, at no time did these founders draw a distinction based upon geography in considering who should have the franchise In the Federalist Papers, the reason for a two-house Legislature is given and the argument made there reflects the problem the Federalists faced when dealing with two separate powers within the United States. the individual states and the individual citizen They made a central government with two houses to reflect these two powers Within each individual state there was to be only one power and that was to be the people

Such was history when California became a state A geological accident caused the first population rush to California At that time in our history the admission of states to the Union as slave or free was the burning pre-Civil War issue If you remember, California came into the Union chiefly because of the Compromise of 1850, which maintained an unstable balance between Northern and Southern forces for another decade We were rushed in so fast that we were never required to maintain even territorial status. As the men rushed in, they claimed their land, and the population grew The men who got off the ships in San Francisco Bay rushed north to dig gold—not to form a state, or to live in quiet peace. Counties were formed helter-skelter because of the need for a recorder of deeds and for a sheriff close at hand—and in that order

Look at the map of California today. The counties in the north central part of the state are very small, measured in hundreds of square miles This is the result of a population-based structuring of counties In the mining days, as soon as there were a few thousand people in a given area, county boundaries were formed Later, when we organized as a state, counties were formed with population as a key factor in the size of the county boundary In contrast, northern California counties on the edge of the gold country were larger in size, and southern California counties, where mostly Indians lived, were massive in size San Bernardino County is the largest in the nation, and is larger than some states More about this point in a moment.

The important point here is that counties were structured on population For 70 years, the same system prevailed Rural population was greater than urban, so the most effective balance between population and representation remained

In 1927 the system was changed The same problem faced by Britain a century before had finally come to the United States and to California Technology took the people off the farm, and put them in the cities Before 1920, more than half the population of the United States was on the farm After that time the majority of people had shifted to the cities Today, in California, 86 percent of all people in the state live in cities of 25,000 population or larger!

My first point then is simple Historically, representation in England, in the United States, and in California follows the one man–one vote concept The question is, shall we maintain this principle by changing our representation base as our population does, or shall we reverse ourselves and revert to a pre-industrial standard of property. Before we consider this, let us consider the arguments of those who do not favor reapportionment and let us concentrate on some key assumptions relied upon by these opponents They are

1. Southern interests will destroy the North, if they get the chance
2. Legislators represent only their own districts
3 Rural areas have equal representation.

Let us examine each briefly:

1 Southern interests, etc. How is this possible? How can the South write legislation to do this? They have had the power to do this for years already through the initiative and referendum in writing favorable legislation, and in a negative sense they have had the power to block legislation hostile to them for years in the Assembly by the size of their delegation (31/80). Can you think of any legislation in recent years that was passed by the South over the objections of the North? I say you cannot—not even water. Even the North was divided over Governor Brown's water project The bay area passed it while rural interests voted no It is ironic, in passing, to note that in a real sense, the Oroville Dam has already been paid for—paid by damage not done in the recent floods The very people who were saved this time were opposed to the dam project—and probably remain so

May I suggest an alternative to the oft-used thesis that North must always be hostile to South?

May I suggest that the cultural snobbery of San Francisco for Los Angeles has caused the bay area population to identify itself with Lassen or Amador County's interests—which are agricultural, geological and rural, when, in fact, the bay area has its counterpart in the communities and in the problems of Los Angeles and Orange Counties For Beverly Hills read Hillsborough, for Hayward read Garden Grove, for San Mateo read Pasadena, and so on The bay area shares the problems of smog, water pollution, slums, welfare, school expansion, highway congestion not with Lassen but with Los Angeles, not with Mono but with Orange County This identification based on snobbery clouds the real controversy.

The fact is that the struggle is not South versus North, but rather rural versus urban interests I say to you that I have not seen one bill killed by the Los Angeles "bloc" in the Assembly. The bloc is largely a myth. Those who compose it can't even agree on the time to adjourn But I have seen bills that would have lessened your tax burden killed by rural interests in the Senate I can site specific examples of urban versus rural interests on the state level as well as on the purely local level I say that the South versus North thesis is the greatest example of mass hypnosis, hysteria, and confusion since the story that the world was coming to an end in 1847. Millions bought bedsheets for shrouds in that year—I am open for suggestions as to what we should buy this year Perhaps it should be Union and Confederate flags, if we follow the current proposal to split the state

My second point in this discussion of anti-reapportionment logic (if it can be called logic) has to do with the implied theory that legislators vote only for their own districts I resent this. Even those who imply it don't believe it I am a member of the board of directors of the second largest governmental body in the United States I am proud of that. I am a citizen of this state first, of San Mateo County second, and of the 27th Assembly District third I represent you as citizens of this state first Just as I owe my allegiance to this nation before I owe it to this state, I owe it to this state above all local interest. There is not a man in Sacramento who does not share this feeling

I have voted against the interests of my district on occasion, and I will do it again when I think it is absolutely necessary

Parenthetically, let me propose one objection to reapportionment that has received little attention these days It is the only real argument that has any truth in it. The Senators do not want to lose their seats! I sympathize with them I would not want to lose mine either. I would fight to keep it I have done so at election time already But I would not suggest that we destroy the magnificent state we have built, just to keep my seat or my friend's seat

To that extent, I say that it appears that some people who advocate splitting the state have taken another page from the radical philosophy of violent action to maintain power in resistance to any kind of change. The irony of these suggestions is clear it will create an emotional civil war that will split our California family for years in every area except politics — the one it was designed to protect — because such a suicidal proposal has absolutely no chance for passage. Such a suggestion can only inflame and exagerate differences and accomplish nothing except to develop sectional antagonism

My third and final point is reserved for those who do not admit the validity of my first two arguments Those who argue for the status quo are on dangerous ground We can all argue, I think, that in any business or endeavor, we must develop certain basic principles, and then follow them To follow a procedure just because it works today is the kind of procedure that would make any bank or business fail I believe in that sense, that those who want rural areas to have some representation believe that rural areas do have representation now, and that this representation is fair and equal

But consider this San Bernardino County has one State Senator, like Los Angeles But urban Los Angeles has 7,000,000 people, and is the largest county in population in the United States; in contrast, San Bernardino County is the largest county in land area in the United States, but has a very small population In other words, if we were drawing a line-up for a rural versus urban battle, San Bernardino County would certainly be deemed rural

If we take this rural area, with its mountains and desert, and its 20,000 square miles, and equate it with other areas in the state, what is the result? The result is this

The counties of·

Humboldt	Sutter	San Joaquin
Sierra	Yuba	Stanislaus
Butte	Yolo	Santa Cruz
Placer	Sonoma	San Benito
Nevada	Marin	Napa

. . when added together equal San Bernardino County in square miles And these counties are represented by 11 out of 40 State Senators? As a matter of fact, this ratio is amazingly close to that used by Los Angeles County when asking for reapportionment on a population basis Both counties clamor for a change, charging unequal representation Los Angeles claims one Senator for 15 Senators on a population basis, San Bernardino can claim eleven (11) more Senators on a land basis

"Ah," you say, "but everyone knows that San Bernardino County has the Mojave Desert—surely you can't have Senators representing sand and sage brush " But why not? What shall we use as our basic principle? What kind of rule shall we make? Is it all right to represent trees, but not sand? Perhaps trees are more important than sand How many buckets of sand equal one tree? I need not carry my point any further There is absolutely no logical basis for our present system

One final comment about this one man–one vote concept In New Jersey, this year, the Senators have come up with a weighted vote plan That is, they keep the same districts and the same vote, but Senators will cast votes according to population That is, one rural Senator will cast one vote, while the Senator representing the most populous area will cast 19 votes It is an interesting idea, if nothing else The most interesting aspect of such a plan in relation to California's problem is the way that it underscores the present distortion in Senate representation in our own state If California used the same plan, the Senator from Mono, Inyo and Alpine County would continue to have one vote Would you care to estimate how many votes would be cast by the Senator from Los Angeles County? He would cast 498 votes!

We come to this point, then Southern California is growing faster than northern California, although growth in the bay area is roughly comparable to that of southern urban areas Rural areas after 150 years are being ordered to give ground to cities Even if we wanted to, would we dare to ignore the shift in population in back of this demand? History shows that tyranny breeds revolution, and tyranny begins when those who have power deliberately ignore the desires of the majority of people—whether they can express their will in the normal law-making process or not (Boston Tea Party)

Unless some reapportionment occurs, as time goes on, the imbalance will become greater At the present time 10 7 percent of the people in this state elect a majority to the State Senate In 1971, with no change, about 8 percent will do the same In 1986, 6 5 percent will do it, and so on We already have, then, something of the very system which our forefathers rebelled against Unless we return to a system that guarantees each man that freedom which is second only to religious freedom, we make a mockery of those things in which we believe

The question, then, is simple Will we sell out a fundamental principle of a free society because of a hypothetical fear that somehow a handful of men from northern rural areas are our only protection from a ravaging horde of vandals from the South? Is it not more realistic to believe that we in the cities have common problems which we must begin to solve at long last after years of allowing rural interests to veto our plans to keep pace with our urban problems As a matter of fact, when reapportionment takes place will we not exercise as much care for our interests in rural areas as those Senators do who come from those mountainous regions? One has only to look at the recent disasters of this winter caused by water running unchecked down mountainsides long since wiped clean of their protective forests, to note that perhaps we urban residents care even more about our rural assets than those who enjoy them daily and may forget how precious our land is

To turn now for a moment to consideration of a plan for reapportionment—I have no specific, detailed program to present to you as an alternative to the present system I am, however, a member of the Assembly Elections and Reapportionment Committee Drafting the new plan will be a difficult task for both houses Reapportionment requires thorough consideration of complex factors such as politics, economics, and geography as well as simple balancing of abstract population figures and growth rates In this regard, I ask you for your support—support based not on emotional, irrational resistance to an imaginary threat from the South, but based rather on a reasoned, rational examination of the situation

In contrast, however, several of the alternatives to reapportionment, which have already been presented to you, have ramifications and overtones that strike at the basic respect for law and the legislative process characteristic of this country In this respect, I think the proposal to divide the state and thus conquer reapportionment can best be likened to the old Viking cure for a gunshot wound When one of their soldiers was injured in battle, the Vikings would pour boiling oil over the wound Certainly the cure prevented death from blood poisoning, but the injured party died of burns from the boiling oil

I would like to close with just one last point In his campaign for the Presidency four years ago, I remember Lyndon Johnson's response to a reporter's question about his job in the Senate, and his party Senator Johnson's reply was inspiring to me and worth passing on to you as a distillation of my own philosophy, and I hope of yours

He said, "I am a free man first, a citizen of the United States second, a United States Senator third, and a Democrat last"

I believe that we must all place our ideas and our ideals in a scale of relative values, and then weigh a specific problem in terms of those values It is more important to me that each man in this wonderful state of ours have the confidence that his vote and his ideas have value with any other man's Within that framework, I think it is possible to come to some reasonable solution to a serious problem I also have enough confidence in the wisdom of the people of this state to believe implicitly that they can make the important decisions that affect us all and make them correctly—whether they live in northern or southern California I hope you will agree with me

Relative to an interim study of incentives for early payment of real property taxes

WHEREAS, Sections 2605 and 2617 of the Revenue and Taxation Code provide that one-half the taxes due on real property on November 1st of each year, if unpaid, are delinquent on December 10th at 5 p.m., and thereafter a delinquent penalty of six percent attaches thereto, and

WHEREAS, Sections 2606 and 2618 of the same code provide that the second installments of such taxes are due on February 1st and, if unpaid, are delinquent on April 10th at 5 p.m., and thereafter a delinquent penalty of six percent attaches, and

WHEREAS, Under Section 2607 of this code, the entire tax on such real property may be paid when the first installment is due, but the code provides no incentive to taxpayers to pay the entire tax at the earlier date; and

WHEREAS, A thorough study of the feasibility of allowing a discount to taxpayers who pay the entire amount of such tax on or before the earlier date is necessary in order to determine whether or not this encouragement would be of sufficient benefit to local taxing jurisdictions to offset the loss of revenue, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Assembly Committee on Rules is directed to assign to an appropriate interim committee for study the subject matter of this resolution, and to direct such interim committee to report its findings and recommendations to the Legislature by the fifth legislative day of the 1967 Regular Session

Eternal God, We pray for the ability to overcome our weaknesses by not concentrating on a mere segment of life As a soloist could become neurotic in thinking only of the vocal cords instead of the song, or the orchestra leader go crazy thinking of the baton instead of the score, so can we become warped, and lose our sense of destiny by centering our thought on an emotion or minute problem instead of life

While working in one area of the canvas, give us the vision of the total picture so we do our work in relationship to others

We pray in our Lord's Name —AMEN

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO PRINT IN JOURNAL

Mr Marks was granted unanimous consent that the following Opinion of Legislative Counsel be printed in the Journal·

Office of Legislative Counsel
Sacramento, February 12, 1965

Hon Milton Marks

Party Designations—No. 12118

Dear Mr Marks. You ask us to review the opinion rendered by this office to you on March 19, 1961, under our Request No. 12067, and to indicate whether the opinion still represents the view of this office. You also ask whether we would reach the same conclusion with respect to AB 300 of the present session

In the opinion to which you refer, we concluded that state legislation requiring that party designations be printed after the names of candidates for municipal offices could not be made applicable to a charter city, if the charter provides what designations may be placed after the names of candidates We remain of the same opinion, and the conclusion expressed still represents the view of this office

AB 300 would add Section 10215 5 to the Elections Code to require that the party affiliation of each candidate for a city or county office be printed following his name on the ballot On the basis of our previous opinion, we do not think that the bill could apply in a charter city, if the charter provides what designations may be placed after the names of candidates for city offices.

Very truly yours,

GEORGE H MURPHY, Legislative Counsel
By Edward K Purcell,

Mr Badham was granted unanimous consent that the following Opinion of Legislative Counsel be printed in the Journal·

Office of Legislative Counsel
Sacramento, February 17, 1965

Hon Robert E Badham
Assembly Chamber

Reapportionment—No. 12608

Dear Mr. Badham.

Question No 1

If the United States Constitution is amended to include the provisions set forth in S.J.R. 3, as amended in the Assembly on February 16, 1965, would it constitute a basis for federal preemption of the right of each state to determine the eligibility of its voters?

Opinion No. 1

In our opinion the provisions set forth in S J R. 3, as amended, would not be construed to have such effect.

S J.R. 3, as amended in the Assembly on February 16, 1965, requests Congress to propose the addition of the following article to the United States Constitution:

"Article _____

"Section 1. Nothing in the Constitution of the United States shall prohibit any state, which has a bicameral legislature, from apportioning the membership of one house of its legislature on factors other than population, provided that the plan of such apportionment be submitted to a vote of all of the people of the state at an election in which the franchise is not denied on the basis of race, creed, or color and resubmitted to a vote of all of the people of the state, prior to the implementation of the apportionment plan, and at regular intervals not to exceed 10 years"

There is nothing contained in the proposed article that would suggest an intention to deprive the states of their traditional right to prescribe the qualifications of voters within their respective jurisdiction (see Pope v. Williams, 193 U S 621, 48 L Ed. 817; Mason v. Missouri, 179 U S 328, 45 L Ed 214) The object of the measure is to allow a state to apportion one house of its legislature on factors other than population, and the phrase "vote of all of the people" is part of a proviso which conditions the privilege on a prior vote of the people of the state voting at an election in which the franchise is not denied on the basis of race, creed, or color. The provisions relating to a vote of the people are merely incidental to the main purpose of the measure

If the phrase "vote of all of the people" were construed literally, it would lead to absurd consequences Such a phrase is sufficiently broad to cover everyone in a state, including newborn infants, imbeciles, and persons who are obviously incapable of voting We doubt that a court would construe such phrase literally, where such consequences would ensue, since it is well settled that a literal construction will not be used where such a construction leads to absurdity (Meyer v San Dicquito Union High School District, 195 Cal. App 2d 420) Rather, we think that a court would construe the provision in the light of the conditions obtaining in the various states, and would hold that "vote of all of the people" means vote of all of the people qualified to vote We conclude, therefore, that the amendment proposed by S J R 3, as amended, would not constitute a basis for federal preemption of the right of each state to determine the eligibility of its voters.

Question No 2

Does not the United States Constitution and judicial decisions already preclude the denial of suffrage on the basis of race, creed, color, or religion?

Opinion and Analysis No 2

Yes (See Gomillion v Lightfoot, 364 U S 339; Nixon v Herndon, 273 U S 536, Nixon v Condon, 286 U S 73, Smith v Allwright, 321 U S. 649; Terry v Adams, 345 U S 461)

Question No 3

Is the proposed amendment, contained in S J R 3, as amended, identical in wording to similar amendments proposed by other states?

While we know that a number of states have adopted resolutions on the subject of legislative reapportionment, we have been unable to determine, in the short time available to us, whether any other state has adopted a resolution proposing an amendment identical in wording to that proposed by S J R 3

Question No 4

Does "vote of all of the people" mean that everyone could vote at such election regardless of age or literacy?

We do not think that the proposed amendment would be construed to have such effect The question here is similar to Question No. 1, and we refer you to the discussion set forth in Analysis No 1, since it is equally pertinent in answer to this question

Very truly yours,

GEORGE H MURPHY, Legislative Counsel

By Edward K Purcell, Deputy Legislative Counsel

The following resolutions were offered

By Assemblyman Hinckley:

House Resolution No. 177

Relative to an interim study of fire insurance rates

WHEREAS, Because of a revision in the rating methods used by insurers writing fire insurance in this state fire insurance premiums are no longer based on uniform rates for comparable risks; and

WHEREAS, Under the rating methods now employed the premium is based on the amount of insurance purchased with the rate increasing as the amount of insurance purchased is decreased, and

WHEREAS, The rating method now employed discriminates against low income homeowners who purchase relatively small amounts of fire insurance as they are required to pay premiums at proportionately higher rates than persons purchasing larger amounts of insurance, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Committee on Rules is directed to assign to an appropriate interim committee for study, the subject of the rating methods and underwriting practices employed by insurance companies writing fire insurance in this state to determine whether all classes of homeowners are receiving fair and equitable treatment by such insurers, and to require such interim committee to report its findings and recommendations for legislation to the Legislature not later than the fifth legislative day of the 1967 Regular Session

By Assemblyman McMillan:

WHEREAS, Mr. Bruns was born in San Francisco and reared in the Bay Area; and

WHEREAS, He attended Stanford University, leaving to cover the early part of World War I as a war correspondent, later serving in the French Army where he received the Croix de Guerre, and finally joining the American Expeditionary Forces when America entered the war, and

WHEREAS, Upon the completion of military duties he attended the University of De Dijon, France and subsequently returned to the United States where he received his L.L.B. degree from the University of Southern California; and

WHEREAS, Walter E Bruns commenced the practice of law in Reedly, California where he served as city attorney for a number of years, and

WHEREAS, He became a Trust Officer for the Bank of America N.T & S A in 1929 rising to the position of Vice President and Trust Officer for the Northern Division Trust Department in the San Francisco Headquarters; and

WHEREAS, Mr Bruns was named Governmental Relations Officer in the early 1940's, the position in which he served until his retirement in 1959, and

Relating to preference in the purchase of California-made materials by the state or its subdivisions

WHEREAS, Article 2 (commencing with Section 4330) of Chapter 4 of Division 5 of Title 1 of the Government Code authorizes the state and any county or city in the state in purchasing or authorizing the purchase of supplies for the state or the county or city, to prefer supplies grown, manufactured or produced in California, the price, fitness and quality being otherwise equal, and

WHEREAS, This Article 2 also provides that public officers and bodies charged with letting contracts for public works or with purchasing supplies for public use may let the contracts to those using material manufactured in the state or purchase the material so manufactured if the prices quoted for the materials do not exceed by more than 5 percent the lowest quoted bids by firms manufacturing supplies outside the state, the major portion of the work of manufacturing the supplies is not done outside the state, and, in the opinion of the public officers or bodies, the public good will be served thereby; and

WHEREAS, The granting of the preference is permissive upon application by a bidder for preference, which, however, does not automatically result in granting the request, and

WHEREAS, With respect to state purchases, the Director of General Services is vested with the sole authority to grant the preference when in his judgment "the public good will be served thereby," and by virtue of delegation, the State Purchasing Agent may exercise the director's discretion and award the contract to a California bidder, providing the differential is 10 percent of the allowable 5 percent preference, and does not exceed one hundred dollars ($100), and

WHEREAS, In cases where the differential exceeds 10 percent of the allowable 5 percent, all information is forwarded by the State Purchasing Agent to the Director of General Services, who then evaluates and makes a final decision in the matter, and

WHEREAS, It has been the policy of the Department of General Services to grant the 5 percent preference only when a California bidder can show hardship, in the sense that he would suffer a hardship if the bid were denied, and where otherwise it may be necessary to lay off California workers, and

WHEREAS, In several cases the Department of General Services has failed to award a contract to California bidders whose bids have been below the allowable 5 percent, and this has resulted in material hardship to the California manufacturers themselves, and caused the firms to lay off California workmen, and ultimately result in a potential cost to the state of thousands of dollars in unemployment insurance, and

WHEREAS, Many of these manufacturing firms employ persons of the minority groups with relatively very low skills, and if these persons were to continue to be employed they would contribute to the economy of the state and to the area from which they are employed, and

WHEREAS, The Director of General Services in exercising his discretion should in all cases take into account such factors as the employment of relatively unskilled workers, and that the bids submitted by manufacturers doing business in a depressed area of employment, now, therefore be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Assembly directs that the Director of General Services shall in all cases award contracts to a bidder meeting all of the qualifications of Article 2 (commencing with Section 4330) of Chapter 4 of Division 5 of Title 1 of the Government Code, bidding on the purchase of supplies or services for the use of the state or any of its institutions or offices for the use of any county or city, providing the bidder has proven to a reasonable degree that he is doing business within a depressed employment area, that he is employing persons of low skills, and that the denial of the 5 percent preferential would cause him to lay off California workmen, and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly is directed to transmit a copy of this resolution to the Governor, to the Director of General Services, and to the State Purchasing Agent.

Resolution read, and referred by the Speaker pro Tempore to the Committee on Rules

By Assemblymen Unruh and Waldie

House Resolution No. 180

Relative to an interim study of health, welfare, and educational services for children

WHEREAS, Health, welfare, and educational services for California's children are presently organized in a haphazard manner resulting in a wasteful duplication of effort and expenditures of funds, and

WHEREAS, The responsibilities of the various agencies and governmental jurisdictions are not well-defined, and

WHEREAS, The relationship between public and voluntary agency services for children is unclear, and

WHEREAS, There is a lack of coordination of research and program evaluation activities on behalf of children, and

WHEREAS, The increasing fragmentation of activity on behalf of children's needs leads to public confusion and ineffective programs, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Committee on Rules is directed to assign an appropriate interim committee for study the present condition of health, welfare, and educational services for children in California and to prepare recommendations for the more effective organization of such services, including the feasibility of establishing a California Children's Bureau, and to require such interim committee to report its findings and recommendations for legislation to the Legislature not later than the fifth legislative day of the 1967 Regular Session

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Division of Highways of the Department of Public Works is urged to take heed of the President's statements and of the national policy and to move with greater dispatch to landscape and beautify state highways as soon after completion of construction as possible, and be it further

Relative to a report on change orders

WHEREAS, The Subcommittee on State Purchasing of the Interim Committee on Ways and Means has made a thorough study of change orders and other modifications of state construction contracts, and

WHEREAS, The committee has found that nearly $100,000,000 is spent annually on state construction projects, and

WHEREAS, By the very nature of the change order process, the state departments which supervise state construction exercise substantial discretion in modifying state construction contracts; and

WHEREAS, Such modifications are generally made with no legislative oversight or other form of public scrutiny, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Legislative Analyst is directed to prepare an annual report on change orders and other modifications of state construction contracts and to submit it with his capital outlay report to the Legislature, and that the state departments are directed to give full cooperation to the Legislative Analyst in this task, and be it further

By Assemblyman Willson:

House Resolution No. 190

Relative to commending the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner

WHEREAS, The Los Angeles Herald-Examiner, a daily and Sunday Hearst newspaper with the largest evening circulation in America, rendered a public information service of great magnitude by publishing a series of articles that dealt with California's massive narcotics addiction problem and the state's efforts to cope with it; and

WHEREAS, The authoritative articles that were written by editorial staff member, Frank Lee Donoghue, and printed in January of 1965, indicated that an estimated 15,000 to 20,000 persons in California are addicted to heroin, one of the most corruptive of all narcotics; and

WHEREAS, The Herald-Examiner articles state that the California Legislature in 1961, after an interim study, had demonstrated feasibility, enacted legislation providing that "Persons addicted to narcotics, via superior court commitment, shall be treated for such conditions and its underlying causes and that such treatment shall be carried out for nonpunitive purposes, not only for protection of the addict, but also for the prevention of contamination of others and for the protection of the public"; and

WHEREAS, The Los Angeles Herald-Examiner articles point out that California's formula for narcotic addiction control through therapy and supervision instead of punishment is considered by the United States Senate Committee on Government Operations as a model of its kind; and

WHEREAS, The Donoghue series also revealed that some 1,500 men and more than 200 women are currently receiving treatment at the California Rehabilitation Center at Corona under the direction of the State Department of Corrections; and

WHEREAS, The Herald-Examiner series indicates a purported 30 percent ratio of success by the California Rehabilitation Center, four years after the Legislature created the program that has already achieved national renown; and

WHEREAS, The Department of Corrections is preparing to establish two "Halfway Houses" in the Los Angeles area, one for men and the other for women, where patients released from the Corona facility on probation would live under supervision designed to foster readjustment to community life while usefully employed at their old skills or new ones learned in the center's vocational training classes; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Members commend the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner, an outstanding daily and Sunday newspaper, for its remarkable demonstration of enterprise, journalistic aptitude and concern for the State of California, its citizens and the community it serves and informs, by the publication of the series of exceptional articles dealing with narcotics addiction and rehabilitation in California; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly shall transmit suitably prepared copies of this resolution to George R. Hearst, Jr., publisher of the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner, Donald Goodenow, the publications managing editor, and Frank Lee Donoghue
