PRAYER

Upon invitation of Assistant Speaker pro Tempore Celeste Rodriguez, the following prayer was offered by Reverend Patti Oshita:

After a few months of marriage, I remember saying to my husband, “You know, you are a much better minister than you are husband.” Surprised, he asked me what I meant. I explained, “When people come to talk with you at the temple, you listen attentively, consider their words and you respond thoughtfully. At home, I feel that sometimes you’re not even paying attention when we’re talking.”

He thought a moment, nodded his head and said, “You’re right. But you know, I’ve been a minister a lot longer than I’ve been a husband. So, if you’ll give me some time, I know I can get better at being a husband.” Then he added with a grin, “Until I get better, if there is something you really need to talk to me about, just make an appointment at the office....”

Although I still roll my eyes at him, his husband skills have improved over the last 40 years. We both know that for a relationship to work, we must try to be the best versions of ourselves with each other too.

My early Valentine’s encouragement is this: Let’s always try to be the best versions of ourselves with everyone; but most especially with those whose lives give meaning to our own.

Namo Amida Butsu—Let us live with kindness and gratitude beyond words.
