Upon invitation of Speaker pro Tempore Mullin, the following prayer was offered by Assembly Chaplain Rev. Constantine C. Pappademos:

Lord, As we begin our work this day, we pause to remember Saint Patrick, whom we will officially commemorate in a few days. When he came to Ireland in the fifth century, it was a pagan country. When his earthly life ended some thirty years later, faith in You, Lord, was established in every corner. And so, to honor Saint Patrick this morning, we offer this traditional Irish prayer:

May God give you . . .
For every storm, a rainbow,
For every tear, a smile,
For every care, a promise,
And a blessing in each trial.
For every problem that life sends,
A faithful friend to share,
For every sigh, a sweet song,
And an answer for each prayer.
—AMEN.

Budget Subcommittee No. 3 on Resources and Transportation, on Wednesday, April 8, 2015, at 9:30 a.m., in Room 447.

California State Auditor

2014-125
March 12, 2015

*The Honorable Speaker of the Assembly
The Honorable Members of the Assembly of the Legislature of California
State Capitol, Room 3196
Sacramento, California*

Members of the Assembly: As requested by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, the California State Auditor presents this audit report concerning the California Department of State Hospitals' (State Hospitals) Sex Offender Commitment Program (program). The program targets a small but extremely dangerous subset of sexually violent offenders (offenders) who present a continuing threat to society because their diagnosed mental disorders predispose them to engage in sexually violent criminal behavior. State Hospitals evaluates these offenders to determine whether they meet criteria to be considered sexually violent predators (SVPs) and whether courts should consider committing such offenders to a state hospital.

Our report concludes that State Hospitals' evaluations of potential SVPs were inconsistent. Although state law requires that evaluators consider a number of factors about offenders, such as their criminal and psychosexual histories, we noted instances in which evaluators did not consider all relevant information. We noted that gaps in policies, supervision, and training may have contributed to the inconsistent evaluations. Specifically, State Hospitals' standardized assessment protocol for conducting evaluations of potential SVPs lacks adequate detail and direction for SVP evaluators on how to perform evaluations. Further, State Hospitals' headquarters lacks a process of supervisory review of evaluators' work from a clinical perspective. We also noted that State Hospitals has not consistently offered training to its evaluators, and did not provide SVP evaluators with any training between August 2012 and May 2014. Also, State Hospitals could not demonstrate that its evaluators had training on a specific type of instrument used when assessing whether an individual would commit another sexual offense until it began offering such training at the end of 2014.

We also noted additional areas in which State Hospitals could improve its evaluation process. Specifically, it has not documented its efforts to verify that its evaluators met the experience portion of the minimum qualifications for their positions. In addition, in March 2013, State Hospitals developed a process for assigning and tracking the workload of its evaluators and recently revised it in January 2015. Although the revised process addresses some concerns about workload assignments, it omits other elements and State Hospitals has not established a formal process for periodically reviewing its workload assignment process. Finally, State Hospitals needs to address its backlog of annual evaluations of currently committed SVPs at Coalinga State Hospital (Coalinga). When Coalinga fails to promptly perform these evaluations, it is not fulfilling one of its critical statutory obligations, leaving the State unable to report on whether the SVPs continue to pose risks to the public and whether unconditional release or release to a less restrictive environment might be an appropriate alternative.

Respectfully submitted,

ELAINE M. HOWLE, CPA
State Auditor

Above report referred to the Committee on Human Services.
