PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker pro Tempore Lowenthal, the following prayer was offered by Reverend Patti Oshita:

“How can I be happy?” This is a Universal wonderment. True teachers and genuine spiritual traditions of Humanity all try to teach us that our Happiness begins when we are able to transcend our Self-Centered Minds. We feel contentment when we feel one with the world around us. It is the contentment and fulfillment of a parent holding close their child. Where does the parents’ life end and the child’s life begin. The oneness they feel is their happiness. When we feel we are truly one, happiness and contentment naturally emerge.

2,400 years ago, the Taoist philosopher, Chuang Tzu shared this lesson in a humorously, profound poem. He wrote, “When the shoe fits, the foot is forgotten. When the belt fits, the belly is forgotten. When the mind is right, for and against are forgotten.” Chuang Tzu is saying that true contentment is found in the comfort of being one. Like the shoe and the foot or the belt and the belly; when they fit, they are not separate. Chuang Tzu ends with the real lesson. “When the mind is right, for and against (me against you) are forgotten.”

The Persian Spiritual Poet Rumi and Chuang Tzu would say, “Beyond Right and Wrong, Beyond Inside and Outside, Beyond for and against, there is a place where we are One with All Humanity.”

When our minds are right, we feel the contentment and happiness of a parent holding their child.

Namo Amida Butsu—Let us try to live with kindness and gratitude beyond words.

Upon request of Speaker pro Tempore Lowenthal, Assembly Member Lackey then led the Assembly in the pledge of allegiance to the Flag.

REPORTS

The following letter of transmittal was presented by the Chief Clerk and ordered printed in the Journal:

California State Auditor

2025-120
May 28, 2026

*The Honorable Speaker of the Assembly
The Honorable Members of the Assembly of the Legislature of California
State Capitol, Room 319
Sacramento, California*

Members of the Assembly: As directed by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, my office conducted an audit of six East Bay transit agencies providing bus service in Alameda and Contra Costa counties and the Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC). Our assessment focused on the agencies' coordination with each other, their financial conditions, and the potential benefits and challenges of combining these transit agencies. The following report details the audit's findings and conclusions. In general, we determined that the agencies are coordinating with each other and that transferring between transit systems is generally straightforward and accessible; however, the East Bay transit agencies are at risk of having to reduce service in the near future because of structural budget deficits, and combining these agencies is alone unlikely to solve these financial difficulties.

We found that the transit agencies regularly coordinate, including directly with each other and as part of regional initiatives, and there are few barriers to their collaboration. To arrive at this conclusion, we rode 25 percent of East Bay transit agencies' bus routes that cross service areas, and we did not identify significant obstacles for transit riders, such as difficulty transferring between the agencies. However, MTC has taken longer than it initially projected to complete many of its regional initiatives to improve the transit rider experience in the Bay Area. In fact, my office reviewed nine of these initiatives, and MTC has not completed any of them within its preliminary time frames.

We also determined that five of the six selected transit agencies may exhaust their reserves within the next one to five years and may need to reduce service if they do not secure additional funding. The East Bay transit agencies also anticipate challenges in meeting the State's requirements to purchase zero-emission buses because of the vehicles' high cost.

My office attempted to identify benefits of combining the selected transit agencies but found that various combinations did not resolve the financial challenges of the individual agencies, in part because the combined entities would still have negative unrestricted net positions. Various legal impediments would also complicate such combinations, including federal protections for private contractors. Finally, we determined that standardizing wages and benefits after combining agencies could increase overall labor costs because AC Transit has significantly higher labor costs than the other agencies.

Respectfully submitted,

GRANT PARKS
California State Auditor

Above report referred to the Committee on Transportation.
