PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker pro Tempore Lowenthal, the following prayer was offered by Reverend Patti Oshita:

It is interesting that Confucius has said, “One who wishes to be a leader of others should play music for four hours a day.” It is also said that the historical Buddha would engage in solitary meditation for four hours a day. And interestingly, the late Archbishop Desmond Tutu began each day with four hours of quiet prayer.

Whether it is playing music, meditating, or praying... I feel these spiritual leaders are encouraging the need to engage in calming self-reflection, in order to keep ourselves centered. If we allow ourselves to listen deeply, in trying to play music, we can hear and reflect on how we feel. It’s impossible to play when we are angry or preoccupied. So too is it impossible to meditate or pray when we are upset, distracted, and unfocused.

And the greater the responsibilities of leadership, the more there is a need for deep and quiet reflection in each day. Remembering again, the humility it takes to truly lead. Let us all embrace our responsibilities of leadership with daily self-reflection. Whether it is with music, meditation, or prayer, self-reflection can help keep us focused and undistracted as we continue to set the bar of leadership high.

Namo Amida Butsu—With gratitude and kindness beyond words.
