PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker pro Tempore Campos, the following prayer was offered by Assembly Member Ken Cooley, of the 8th Assembly District:

Lord, the ancient writer of Ecclesiastes wrote, "There is a time for everything, and a season for every activity under heaven." In this way, You affirm the value of time spent in work.

As we begin each day in this chamber to examine issues and discuss proposals, never let us be so distracted by the argument and rhetoric as to forget that we are dealing with the lives and living patterns of human beings—some who have prosperity, and some who do not—but all possessing an indescribable dignity and destiny.—AMEN.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE TO THE FLAG

Upon request of Speaker pro Tempore Campos, Assembly Member Salas then led the Assembly in the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

REPORTS

The following letter of transmittal was presented by the Chief Clerk and ordered printed in the Journal:

California State Auditor

2013-123
June 26, 2014

*The Honorable Speaker of the Assembly
The Honorable Members of the Assembly of the Legislature of California
State Capitol, Room 3196
Sacramento, California*

Members of the Assembly: As requested by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, the California State Auditor (state auditor) presents this audit report concerning the accreditation process of California's community colleges. This report concludes that inconsistent application of the accreditation process and a lack of transparency in that process, are weakening the accreditation of California's community colleges. In July 2013 the commission notified the City College of San Francisco (CCSF) of its decision to terminate the college's accreditation after allowing it only one year to come into compliance with accreditation standards. However, the commission could have taken a less severe course. In comparison, between January 2009 and January 2014, the commission allowed 15 institutions to take two years to comply with accreditation standards and allowed another six institutions to take up to five years to come into compliance. Further, according to federal regulations, the commission has the ability to extend CCSF's time period beyond the one year it provided or even the two-year maximum for good cause. In January 2014 the San Francisco Superior Court granted a request for an injunction preventing the commission from terminating the college's accreditation pending further court order or the outcome of a lawsuit filed by the city attorney of San Francisco. A trial is currently scheduled for October 2014, and the injunction does not prohibit the commission from reversing its decision to terminate CCSF's accreditation.

The commission's decision regarding CCSF's accreditation raises concerns about its reasoning for taking such a severe action. Although the commission's policies describe its obligation to provide transparency in accreditation, the commission conducts its most significant decision making regarding an institution's accreditation status in closed sessions. A significant minority—38 percent—of college executives responding to a survey we conducted also felt the commission's decision-making process was not adequately transparent. Some suggested opening the process to the public, while others suggested allowing the college executive to be present for the deliberations on his or her institution. Further, although institutions are allowed to appeal a commission decision to terminate accreditation, the appeal process does not provide an institution with a definitive right to introduce new evidence as part of its appeal and such a limitation could be detrimental to an institution that has made progress in addressing deficiencies in the time following the commission's termination decision. We also found that the commission sanctions—an action taken when an institution has not met the commission's standards—California's community colleges at a significantly higher rate than any of the six other regional accreditors in the nation. Although the commission is the only entity currently authorized to accredit California's community colleges, options exist that could allow for greater choice, provided the State modifies its regulations to allow for additional accreditors. Finally, the California Community Colleges Chancellor's Office could improve its monitoring of community colleges to identify institutions that might be at risk of receiving a sanction—or worse—from the commission.

Respectfully submitted,

ELAINE M. HOWLE, CPA
State Auditor

Above report referred to the Committee on Higher Education.

Urgency Clause

Urgency clause read.

Debate and Decorum

Speaker pro Tempore Campos advised Assembly Member Wagner that engaging in a back-and-forth dialogue between Members is not in order during debate.

Request for Unanimous Consent

Assembly Member Wagner requested permission to ask a question of the author.

Assembly Member V. Manuel Pérez withheld unanimous consent to suspend Assembly Rule 108 for the purpose of yielding time to pose an additional question to the author.

Point of Order

Speaker Emeritus Pérez arose to the following point of order:

That the Rules require Members to speak to the merits of the legislation before the Body; Assembly Member Grove is speaking broadly to issues which are irrelevant to the measure under consideration.

Ruling by Speaker pro Tempore Campos

The Speaker pro Tempore ruled the point of order well-taken.

Point of Order

Assembly Member V. Manuel Pérez arose to the following point of order:
