We pray not that our problems be small, but that our wisdom be great enough to solve them; we pray not that our differences be minimized, but that our desire for the common good be strong enough to resolve them: we pray not that we escape the uncertainties and the conflicts of tomorrow, but that we face the future without fear Bless our land, its people, and all its leaders Let Thy glory dwell among us that in the darkness of the world we may reflect to all men Thy light of liberty, hope, and peace; through Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Lord, who liveth and reigneth with Thee and the Holy Ghost, ever one God, world without end —AMEN

SECTION 4

PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE

Motions and Questions

Precedence of Motions During Debate

84. When a question is under debate or before the Assembly, no motions shall be received but the following, which shall take precedence in the order named:

First—To adjourn;
Second—To recess to a time certain;
Third—To lay on the table;
Fourth—For the previous question;
Fifth—To set as a special order;
Sixth—To postpone indefinitely;
Seventh—To refer to or re-refer;
Eighth—To amend.

Questions of Order Decided Without Debate

85. All incidental questions of order, arising after a motion is made for any of the questions named in Rule 84 and pending such motion, shall be decided by the Speaker without debate, whether on appeal or otherwise.

Appeal From Decision of the Speaker

86. Any member may appeal from a decision of the Speaker without waiting for recognition by the Speaker, even though another member has the floor. No appeal is in order when another is pending, or when other business has been transacted by the Assembly prior to the appeal being taken.

Upon the appeal being seconded, the Speaker may give his reasons for the decision, and the member taking the appeal may give his reasons for making his appeal, and the Speaker shall forthwith put this question to the Assembly: "Shall the decision of the Speaker be sustained?"

An appeal cannot be amended and yields only to a motion to recess or adjourn, to lay on the table, or a question of personal privilege. If an appeal be laid on the table, such action shall have no effect on the pending question

An appeal cannot be debated when relating to indecorum, transgression of Rules, or priority of business. A majority vote of the members present shall decide any appeal.

Speaker Explains Order of Business

87. The Speaker may, on his own motion or upon the motion of any Member of the Assembly, explain the order of business when the motion pending before the Assembly is not debatable. Such explanation is not to consume more than two minutes

To Adjourn

88. A motion to adjourn is not debatable and cannot be amended, and is always in order, except (a) when another member has the floor; (b) when the Assembly is voting; (c) during a call of the Assembly. The name of any member moving an adjournment and also the hour at which the motion was made and adjournment taken shall be entered in the Journal. A motion to adjourn must be adopted by a majority vote of the members present.

When a motion to adjourn is made and seconded, it shall be in order for the Speaker, before putting the question, to permit any member to state to the Assembly any fact relating to the condition of the business of the Assembly which would seem to render it improper or inadvisable to adjourn. A statement shall not occupy more than two minutes and shall not be debatable.

To Recess to a Time Certain

89. A motion to recess to a time certain shall be treated the same as a motion to adjourn, except that such motion is debatable when no business is before the Assembly, and can be amended as to the time and duration of the recess. It yields only to a motion to adjourn.

To Lay on the Table

90. A motion to lay on the table is not debatable and cannot be amended.

A motion to table a bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent or joint resolution requires a majority vote of the entire elected membership.

Any motion to lay on the table, if carried by a majority vote of the entire elected membership, carries with it the main question and everything that adheres to it; provided, however, that a motion to lay an amendment on the table, if adopted, does not carry with it a bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent, joint, or House resolution.

A motion to lay an amendment on the table may be adopted by a majority vote of the members present.

The Previous Question

91. The previous question shall be put only when demanded by five members, and in this form: "Shall the question be now put?" And its effect, when sustained by a majority of the members present, shall be to put an end to all debate and bring the House to a vote only on the question then pending; except that the proponent of the matter pending shall be allowed not to exceed five minutes to close the debate.

Motion to Set Special Order

92. A motion to set any matter before the Assembly as a special order of business must be adopted by a two-thirds vote of the members elected. It is debatable only as to the propriety of setting the main question as a special order of business, and may be amended only as to the time.

Motion to Postpone to a Time Certain

93. A motion to postpone to a time certain shall be deemed and treated as a motion to set as a special order.

Motion to Postpone Indefinitely

94. When a motion is made to postpone indefinitely any bill, motion, or amendment, it opens the main question to debate. Should the motion to postpone indefinitely prevail by a majority vote of the entire elected membership, the main question shall not be acted upon again during the session.

Motion to Amend

95. A motion to amend may itself be amended, but no "amendment to an amendment" can be amended. A motion to amend is debatable, except where the main question to be amended is not debatable. Any motion to amend may be adopted by a majority vote of the members present.

A motion to amend having been decided in the negative, shall not again be in order on the same day, or at the same stage of proceeding. A motion to amend by striking out certain words having been decided in the negative, shall not preclude a motion to amend by adding words, or a motion to amend by striking out and inserting words; but in no case shall a further amendment be substantially the same as the one rejected.

Subject to the above provisions of this rule, a motion to amend is in order during the second or third reading of any bill.

A motion to lay an amendment on the table may be adopted by a majority vote of the members present, as provided in Rule 90.

Amendment to Be Germane

96. No amendment to any bill, whether reported by a committee or offered by a member, shall be in order when such amendment relates to a different subject, or is intended to accomplish a different purpose, or requires a title essentially different from the original title of any bill.

No amendment shall be in order which adds or deletes the name of a member as an author or co-author, or which changes the original number of any bill.

Substitute Motion

97. A motion to substitute shall be deemed and treated as a motion to amend.

Motions in Writing

98. Upon request of the Speaker all motions shall be reduced to writing and shall be read to the Assembly by the Speaker before the same are acted upon.

Constitution of Motions

99. No motion, whether oral or written, shall be adopted until the same shall be seconded and distinctly stated to the Assembly by the Speaker.

Division of Questions

100. Any member may call for a division of the question, and the Speaker shall order the question divided if it comprehend propositions in substance so distinct that, one being taken away, a substantive proposition shall remain for the decision of the Assembly.

Withdrawal of Motions

101. After a motion is stated by the Speaker, or a bill, resolution, or petition read by the Clerk, it shall be deemed to be in the possession of the Assembly.

Motion to Be Germane

102. No motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted as an amendment.

Motion to Withdraw and Recall Bills

103. A motion to withdraw a bill or resolution from committee, or to re-refer a bill or resolution from one committee to another committee may be made during the regular order of business. A motion to re-refer shall only be debatable as to the propriety of such reference, and shall require a recorded vote of a majority of the elected members.

No bill or resolution shall be withdrawn from committee and placed upon the file except upon two days' notice thereof and except by a recorded vote of a majority of the elected members.

Re-reference of Measures on File

104. A motion to re-refer a bill or resolution that is on the Assembly Daily File to committee may be made during the regular order of business. The motion shall only be debatable as to the propriety of such reference, and shall require a recorded vote of a majority of the elected members.

Bills Stricken From File

105. A motion to strike from the file any bill or House resolution requires a majority vote of the entire elected membership. Such bill shall not be acted upon again during the session.

Motion to Rescind Action and Expunge Record

106. Previous to the approval of the Journal by the Assembly, any action may be rescinded and its record ordered expunged by an affirmative recorded vote sufficient to take such action originally; except that no action shall be rescinded and the record expunged by a vote less than a majority of the entire elected membership. No motion to rescind the action and expunge the record shall be made twice on the same proposition.

Whenever any action of the Assembly is rescinded and its record ordered expunged, the record of the action expunged shall not appear in any form whatsoever, but the record of the proceedings on the motion to rescind and expunge shall appear in the Assembly Journal as and when printed.

Reconsideration of Vote

107. Notice of a motion to reconsider on the next legislative day, the vote whereby any bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent or joint resolution was passed or refused passage, must be given on the same day such vote to be so reconsidered was taken.

A notice of motion to reconsider a vote must be given by a member voting on the bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent or joint resolution, and shall take precedence over all motions, except a motion to adjourn. Upon such notice of motion being given, the bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent or joint resolution shall forthwith be placed upon the unfinished business file, and no further action shall be taken prior to the next legislative day. When a notice of a motion to reconsider has once been made, the same shall be considered to be the property of the Assembly.

Any member voting on any motion, amendment, concurrence, Assembly resolution or proposition other than a bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent or joint resolution, may give notice of reconsideration of the vote whereby the same was passed or refused passage on the same day such vote to be reconsidered was taken, which notice shall suspend all further consideration until the next legislative day; provided, however, that a motion to reconsider on the same day the notice was given shall take precedence over and above such notice and upon demand of any member must be put to an immediate vote. A motion to reconsider any proposition other than a bill, constitutional amendment, concurrent or joint resolution shall require an affirmative recorded vote of a majority of the entire elected membership.

No notice of motion for reconsideration shall be in order on the day preceding the last day for consideration of Assembly or Senate bills in the Assembly. No motion to reconsider shall be adopted except upon an affirmative recorded vote of a majority of the entire elected membership, except that it shall require a two-thirds vote of the entire elected membership to reconsider the vote on any matter originally requiring a two-thirds vote for its passage or adoption.

When reconsideration is granted, the bill shall resume its exact position before the Assembly previous to its being voted upon.

Call of Assembly

108. After the roll has been called, and prior to the announcement of the vote, any member may move a call of the Assembly. A majority of the members present may order a call of the Assembly, and the Speaker shall immediately order the Sergeant-at-Arms to lock all doors and shall direct the Clerk to prepare a list of absentees as disclosed by the last roll call, which list of absentees shall be furnished to the Sergeant-at-Arms. Thereupon no members shall be permitted to leave the Assembly Chamber except by written permission of the Speaker, and no person shall be permitted to enter except such member as is taken into custody as herein provided, or Senators, officers, attaches, or employees of the Legislature in the official performance of their duties.

Those members who are found to be absent, and for whom no leaves of absence have been granted, shall be forthwith taken into custody wherever found by the Sergeant-at-Arms or his assistants or any person designated by the Sergeant-at-Arms, including members of the California Highway Patrol, the State Police, and sheriffs or their deputies, and brought to the Assembly Chamber. No recess or adjournment shall be taken during a call of the Assembly. During such call, the Assembly may consider and transact any matter of business by unanimous consent. No call of the Assembly shall be ordered on any matter while the Assembly is already under call. A call of the Assembly may be dispensed with at any time upon a majority vote of the members present, such action to become effective upon the completion of the roll call and the announcement of the vote upon the matter for which the call was ordered.

Resolutions

109. The adoption of any resolution authorizing the expenditure of money shall require an affirmative recorded vote of a majority of all members elected to the Assembly. All House resolutions shall be numbered and shall be referred to the appropriate committee by the Speaker.

Motions and Resolutions

110. Any motion or resolution not otherwise provided for under the Rules shall be placed before the Assembly only under this order of business. Unless otherwise provided by law or Assembly rule, any motion or resolution may be adopted by a majority vote of the members present.

If the motion is in order and is seconded, it shall be stated to the Assembly by the Speaker. If the motion is debatable, the member who made it shall then be entitled to recognition to open the debate thereon.

Such decision by the Speaker shall be subject to an appeal to the Assembly.

b. If any member be called to order for offensive words spoken in debate, the person calling him to order shall state to the Assembly the words to which exception is taken. No member shall be held to answer, or be subject to censure by the Assembly, for language used in debate, if other business shall have been transacted by the Assembly prior to exception being taken to the words spoken.

Members Voting

117. Every member in the Assembly Chamber when a roll call is required shall record his vote openly and without debate, unless the Assembly shall, by a majority vote of the members present, excuse him.

The name of any member who refuses to vote as required by this rule, after being requested by the Speaker to do so, shall be entered in the Journal of the Assembly, together with a statement that he was present and did so refuse to vote. Any member who refuses so to vote may, if he so desires, and immediately after the announcement of the vote, submit a written explanation of his failure to vote and have such explanation printed in the Journal, provided no such explanation shall exceed 50 words in length.

In addition to the entry of his name in the Journal, any member who refuses so to vote when required, and who has not been excused from doing so, may, immediately after the announcement of the vote, in the discretion of the Speaker or upon demand of any member, be summoned to appear before the bar of the Assembly for public censure by the Speaker or by any member designated by the Speaker. Censure of a member as provided by this rule shall not constitute a bar to proceedings for his expulsion from the Assembly pursuant to Section 9 of Article IV of the Constitution.

A member may submit a written explanation of his vote on any bill or House resolution, and have such explanation printed in the Journal immediately following such vote, provided no such explanation shall exceed 50 words in length.

Compensation and Expenses of Member Convicted of Felony

118. If a Member of the Assembly is convicted of a felony by a superior court, his right to further compensation or expenses is thereupon suspended and his membership on any interim committee is suspended. If such conviction becomes final, the right of the member to further compensation or expenses shall terminate and any compensation or expenses withheld shall be forfeited to the State. If the conviction is reversed by an appellate court or a motion for a new trial is granted and the member is thereafter found not guilty or the charges against him are dismissed, the amounts of the withheld compensation or expenses shall be paid to the member and the suspension of his committee membership shall terminate.

Whenever a member is convicted of a felony in the superior court, the Assembly Rules Committee shall give written notice to the State Controller, directing him to discontinue any further payments to the member unless and until the Rules Committee notifies the State Controller that the member has been found not guilty or that the charges against him are dismissed. Address by Governor Goodwin J. Knight

The Governor then proceeded to address the Joint Convention as follows:

I submit the Budget for the State of California for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1958, and ending June 30, 1959, in compliance with the provisions of the State Constitution.

Formulating the budget for this great, fast-growing State of ours is no easy matter in any year. It is an especially difficult undertaking for the 1958-59 Fiscal Year. Our revenue yields, because of the economic situation, will be considerably below the trend of recent years. The estimate of General Fund revenues for the current 1957-58 year has been reduced more than $27 million below last year's estimate and the 1958-59 estimate is $57 million less than the preliminary forecast made a year ago. The State's expenditure obligations, on the other hand, are largely geared to population growth; a great part is fixed by constitutional and statutory provisions which make increased outlays mandatory whether or not revenues are available. The State's General Fund, particularly, is caught in a squeeze between rigidly fixed expenditure requirements and revenues which fluctuate sensitively with the ebb and and flow of economic conditions.

Economy in expenditures has been stressed in every one of the budgets I have presented in the last four years. The circumstances facing us at this time require even greater belt tightening. Through the very fine co-operation of state department heads substantial savings have been made within current appropriations and expenditures for next fiscal year are budgeted at rock bottom minimum amounts. Accordingly the budget I am submitting for the forthcoming 1958-59 Fiscal Year has these important characteristics:

(1) Expenditures are at a reduced total amount.
(2) No increases in tax rates or new tax measures are required.

Lest these statements be overly encouraging, however, let me hasten to point out some very serious aspects of the State's financial situation. The above-mentioned reduction in expenditures is largely a technical one for these reasons: Capital outlay for the State's building construction program is to be financed from the sale of bonds rather than from current funds, and the budget as presented temporarily omits urgently needed major expenditures for water development, as will be explained later. Let me further point out that the General Fund portion of the budget can be financed without increased taxes only by the full utilization of the Revenue Deficiency Reserve Fund (the so-called Rainy Day Fund) and by repaying the General Fund from school building aid bonds a $20 million advance made to the school building aid program in 1952.

Revenue Estimates

Again every effort has been made to formulate an accurate and reliable estimate of revenue for the coming year. As in past years we have had the advantage of consultation with economists from industry, utilities, banking, the Federal Government, and universities, in conferences both within this State and nationally.

It must be recognized that a forecast of economic conditions at this time is fraught with extraordinary difficulties. The forecasts which are the basis for the revenue estimates in this budget are predicated upon a slight increase in volume of business and personal income next year both in the Nation and in this State. Most of the improvement is expected in the last half of the year. Some might challenge these forecasts as being too optimistic, but I have great confidence in our economic strength, particularly in California. The budget document contains a complete discussion of the appraisal of the economic outlook upon which the revenue estimates are based.

Expenditures

Total Expenditures—All Funds

Expenditures estimated for the 1958-59 Fiscal Year total $1,984,576,603, a decrease of $9,271,904 from the estimated total of $1,993,848,507 for the current fiscal year. The following summary tabulation shows that this reduction is the net result of increases for State Operations and for Local Assistance which are more than offset by a decrease in Capital Outlay The Capital Outlay decrease, let me point out again, is largely technical because of the proposed use of bond funds and because of the temporary omission of recommended expenditures for water development.

Summary—Actual and Estimated Expenditures—All Funds

State Operations	$462,909,120	$548,382,129	$601,795,991	+$53,413,862
Capital Outlay	356,307,092	425,511,464	293,370,621	—132,140,843
Local Assistance	913,251,244	1,019,954,914	1,089,409,991	+69,455,077
Total	$1,732,467,456	$1,993,848,507	$1,984,576,603	—$9,271,904

I shall briefly review the more important features of the expenditure program. Complete information will be found in the budget document concerning every expenditure item. As in the past, expenditures are presented in the three main segments of State Operations, Capital Outlay, and Local Assistance.

State Operations

Generally speaking, State Operations are budgeted at the minimum amounts needed to continue existing levels of services with adjustments to meet increased workloads. The very few cases of improvements in program are set forth for your review and I am confident you will find them fully justified even in face of the scarcity of funds.

Higher Education

Education continues to be the largest single item of expenditure under State Operations, as is the case also under both Capital Outlay and Local Assistance. In the State Operations segment the greater portion is for higher education, with more than $94,500,000 for state support of the University of California and $50,800,000 for the state colleges. Much is being said these days of the importance of our educational system and the need for emphasis on science and engineering. California can take great pride in its institutions of higher education. The University of California and the California System of State Colleges is a publicly-supported system of higher education second to none in the world. In recent years we have made tremendous outlays for new classrooms and laboratories and have greatly expanded the faculties throughout the system. The University of California is one of the world's greatest centers of research in nuclear physics, to name but one important field in which it is a great leader. More and more emphasis has been given to engineering and sciences in the university and the state colleges. We are this year spending roughly $45,000,000 of state funds through our university and state college systems for instruction in science courses and for research. Another $22,000,000 is appropriated for buildings, laboratory equipment and other facilities, bringing to $50,000,000 the amount spent for this purpose in the last three years. Nearly 38 percent of the 41,200 students enrolled at the university are pursuing courses in this field and the ratio—22½ percent—is almost as great at the state colleges This budget proposes expenditure programs which will maintain the high standards of this State's university and college system and will continue the program of expansion to meet the heavy increases in enrollments

Mental Hygiene

Expenditures of $106,000,000, an increase of more than $7,500,000, or 7.7 percent, are recommended for the operations of the Department of Mental Hygiene, including its 14 state hospitals for the mentally ill and mentally retarded and its clinics and institutes. The expenditure program will provide staffing for additional facilities at the new Fairview State Hospital and at the Metropolitan and Sonoma State Hospitals Expanded programs are provided for professional training and for psychiatric research Increased allowances are provided for drugs and medical supplies.

I call your particular attention to this most gratifying evidence of the results of our modern treatment program in mental hygiene: The average number of mentally ill patients in our state hospitals during the last fiscal year was 163 less than during the preceding fiscal year in spite of the continued increase in state population. A few years ago it was taken for granted that we had the unavoidable necessity of providing upwards of 1,000 additional beds each year in our hospitals for the mentally ill to keep up with population growth. The intensified treatment program has so greatly increased discharges and so shortened the average period of hospitalization of the mentally ill that we have been able to make a radical downward revision in our scheduling of future hospital construction. It is to be hoped that future progress of this kind can be made in respect to the thousands of mentally retarded patients, the growing numbers of which continue to present a very great problem.

Highway Patrol and Motor Vehicles

Budgets for both the California Highway Patrol and the Department of Motor Vehicles make provision for an intensified traffic safety program. More adequate patrolling of the highways is a most urgent requirement A total of 264 additional positions is recommended for the patrol. A further strengthening of driver examination will result from a recommended increase of 50 additional driver's license examiners for the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Water Resources

Under State Operations appropriations totaling $11,138,062 are recommended for the Department of Water Resources, an increase of $2,719,207. Provision is made in this budget for a continuation of the program of developing the staff of the department, particularly in the engineering field. Provision is also made for engineering and planning work on the Feather River Project which is included in the proposed expenditure of $6,834,431 under Capital Outlay. The State Operations part of the budget for 1958-59 is divided as follows:

From the General Fund
General Administration and Operations	$6,258,569
Work in co-operation with the Federal Government	1,000,625
Total General Fund	$7,259,194
From the Investment Fund:
California Water Plan Development	$3,878,868
Total State Operations—Department of Water Resources	$11,138,062

The appropriation for development of the California Water Plan is recommended to be paid from the Investment Fund since this work is the initial phase of the program of capital improvements which appropriately can be financed from this fund. I am strongly of the opinion that the Investment Fund should be devoted to water development and used for no other purpose.

Salary Adjustments

The State Personnel Board, in compliance with the Government Code, has submitted its annual report to the Governor and the Legislature in which it points out that prevailing wage data indicate that by July 1st next an increase of approximately 3 percent will be required in order to maintain the levels of pay in the state service on a parity with rates of pay in comparable employment in private industry and other governmental jurisdictions. Accordingly the budget contains provision for funds with which to make such an adjustment if the actual facts next fiscal year are as forecast by the Personnel Board and the Personnel Board authorizes the adjustment.

Capital Outlay

The expenditures proposed for Capital Outlay from current funds for 1958-59 total $293,370,000, which is $132,142,000 less than the estimated corresponding expenditures in the 1957-58 Fiscal Year. The principal reason for the reduction is the proposed greater use of state building construction bonds in 1958-59 You will see from the summary tables that when bond funds are added a large building program is scheduled to go forward in line with the five-year building plan.

In the first report on the State Building Construction Program issued January 19, 1955, it was pointed out that current revenues could not provide all of the funds required for the projects urgently needed in the next four years. A bond issue of $200,000,000 was recommended, and subsequently approved by the voters, to supplement current revenues. It was anticipated the building program for the period could be financed half from current revenues and half from bond funds For the three-year period July 1, 1956, to June 30, 1959, with the adoption of the proposals in this budget we will have carried out an approximate sharing of costs.

The highway construction expenditures programed for 1958-59 amount to $221,817,079, some $23,600,000 less than in 1957-58. Expenditures had peaked in the current and preceding years because accumulated surpluses were available to help finance unusually heavy outlays. The 1958-59 program is still a large one and is more nearly on the basis of keeping pace with current income.

Local Assistance

A total of $1,089,409,991—55 percent of all required expenditures—will be paid by the State as assistance to local governments during the 1958-59 Fiscal Year. The largest item is school support; substantial amounts are also included for public assistance, roads and streets, public health and other purposes In all, local assistance will increase $69,400,000 next year. More than three-fourths of this advance is in state support for public schools and other items related to local education. Subventions for the support of public schools will rise by more than $40,900,000 next year to help to meet the cost of educating 3,000,000 youngsters Contributions for other educational purposes, such as teachers' retirement, free textbooks, and school building bond requirements, will be $11,300,000 above the corresponding amounts for the current year

Population growth, coupled with liberalization of the public assistance grants effected last year through allowance of medical benefits and aid to the disabled, has added materially to the State's financial responsibilities in the field of social welfare Subventions for this purpose in the coming year will amount to $185,718,000, an increase of nearly $11,000,000 compared with the current period and $38,300,000 above expenditures for this purpose in 1956-57.

Other important developments in state assistance to local agencies include the greatly expanded program of grade crossing separation adopted last year which will provide a total of $5,000,000 in matching funds to be used by cities and counties in the elimination of particularly dangerous railroad crossings. Additional amounts are also made available for local mental health work, support of juvenile homes and camps, and for programs of aid to crippled children.

Financial Outlook

Budget Financing Plan for 1958-59

You will see from the summary tabulation of the General Fund shown below that estimated expenditure requirements through the 1958-59 Fiscal Year exceed available current funds by $94,463,762.

Condition of the General Fund—Estimates in Millions of Dollars

Surplus July 1	$109,694,825	$8,482,620
Revenues	1,144,524,507	1,183,487,986
Expenditures:
State Operations	398,384,622	431,982,463
Capital Outlay	86,925,076	30,204,836
Local Assistance	772,302,005	831,979,109
Total Expenditures	$1,257,611,703	$1,294,166,408
Deficiency of Current Income	—$113,087,196	—$110,678,422
Transfers from Other Funds [1]	11,874,991	7,732,040
Surplus June 30, 1958	$8,482,620
Accumulated Deficiency June 30, 1959		—$94,463,762

[1] Includes transfers from School Bond Retirement Fund in accordance with Chapter 1073/1957

I recommend the following means of meeting this deficiency as a budget balancing plan which does not require additional taxes:

1. Transfer the Revenue Deficiency Reserve Fund to the General Fund	$75,000,000
2. Repay to the General Fund an advance made to the School Building Aid Fund in 1952 of	20,000,000
Total to be made available	$95,000,000
Estimated deficiency	94,463,762
Estimated working surplus	$536,238

In view of the present economic situation this is no time to impose additional tax burdens. Your 1957 Session wisely provided for a comprehensive study of the State's tax structure and expenditure trends by a committee which will make a report at your 1959 General Session. At that session there should be sufficient time for a very complete consideration of the report in face of the then current conditions. Economists advise us that the current business lag will have run its course by that time so that your re-examination of the revenue system can be made in light of normal business conditions. Meanwhile the use of the Revenue Deficiency Reserve Fund, in my judgment, is a sound action and in keeping with the basic purpose of establishing the fund. The time of revenue deficiency unfortunately has arrived.

If I may digress from my budget message text for a moment, I would like to emphasize several basic points about the history and purpose of the so-called Rainy Day Fund. As you will recall, this fund was not set up by special taxation or other financing. It actually was a fortuitous fiscal accident, the result of exceptionally large wartime increases in revenues collected from tax rates existing at that time. Instead of splurging on this windfall—as governments have been known to do—the state administration and the Legislature prudently set aside $75,000,000 as prepaid taxes for services the people would require at a future time when tax moneys might be harder to come by.

During the intervening years the State has been able to meet its budgetary needs out of current revenues. Although there have been requests for use of the Revenue Deficiency Reserve for special services, the Legislature has wisely refrained from granting them. You will recall that I have consistently contended that legislation calling for expenditures for new services should include a provision for financing those services without creating new debt and without recourse to the Reserve Fund. No such special expenditure is involved today

My request for utilization of the Rainy Day Fund now is for the fulfillment of its original purpose. It is a simple and realistic use of a down payment on future governmental costs that California taxpayers made at a time when they had a surplus in their pocketbooks.

Now, as to my second recommendation for meeting the State's anticipated deficiency of income, in 1952 a transfer of $20,000,000 was made from the General Fund to the School Building Aid Fund. The purpose of the transfer was to reduce if possible the amount of bonds to be sold from the $185,000,000 school building aid bond issue approved by the voters in November, 1952 Provision was made, however, for the return of the advance if needed at June 30, 1953, to maintain the solvency of the General Fund at that date. As it turned out the General Fund surplus was such on that date that the repayment of the advance was not then required, and there is still $20,000,000 of unsold bonds remaining in the bond authorization Since our revenue estimates now indicate a deficiency in the General Fund on June 30, 1959, I recommend that you authorize the repayment of the $20,000,000 as of that date if the deficiency actually develops as forecast It appears clear that it was the intent when the advance was made originally that it be returned if needed to maintain the solvency of the General Fund It will be necessary that you authorize the sale of the remaining $20,000,000 in authorized bonds of the 1952 issue to make funds available for this repayment.

Future Budgets

Even with an upswing in business a large deficiency of revenues under the existing tax structure will inevitably face future budgets unless basic changes are made in expenditure requirements.

As has been pointed out in previous budget messages, the State's tax structure has remained virtually unchanged for more than 20 years During this period, however, many heavy additional burdens have been imposed upon the State Treasury. Increases have been made in state support of the Public School System so that today the unit allowance is almost three times that of 1935.

Subventions for welfare and public health purposes have followed much the same pattern. Increases have been made in rates of payments. More liberal features and extensions have been added. Heavier sharing of costs has been shifted from the counties to the State.

In a number of important fields in State Operations, expenditure obligations have increased greatly too Enrollments in the University of California and in the state colleges have increased at rates much greater than the rate of growth in the State's total population. Stepped-up programs of treatment have been made in the mental hygiene hospitals and in the correctional institutions

All through these years these additions to the state expenditure obligations have been made without corresponding adjustments to the State's revenue system to finance the increased costs.

The effect of inflation on revenue yields has partially obscured the fact that during this 20-year period the many obligations which have been placed on the State Treasury in the aggregate call for heavier expenditures than the 20-year-old tax structure can finance, even in prosperous times. The day of reckoning will be here all too soon.

I cannot stress too much the great need for a very searching examination into the whole expenditure and revenue structure so that sound measures can be taken to maintain the State's finances on an even keel

Water Development

Because of its exceptional importance to the future of California, I have reserved to the end of this message a discussion of the water problem which must become a part of your consideration on this year's budget.

Substantial progress is being made in the initial highway and railroad relocation phases of the Feather River Project at Oroville It is urgent that we keep this program moving forward and now augment it by acquisition of rights-of-way and the construction of additional features of the project in order that the development of this vastly important water resource not be delayed to the future detriment of the State The budget as now drawn includes a proposed appropriation for $6,800,000 to continue the basic engineering work.

Further, I strongly recommend an additional appropriation of $71,000,000 at the earliest possible time to provide for the acquisition of rights-of-way at Oroville, on the Upper Feather River, on the South Bay and San Joaquin Aqueducts, at the San Luis Reservoir, and for the State's North Bay Aqueduct Project. This sum also includes provision for further relocation construction at Oroville, construction of Frenchman Reservoir in the Upper Feather River Basin, and beginning construction on the South Bay Aqueduct and on the North Bay Aqueduct Project.

It should not be a difficult task for reasonable people to find a solution to the water rights problem and I believe it is imperative that the Joint Committee on Water Resources Problems continue to work diligently on the problem in the hope of reaching a successful conclusion this year.

I am aware of the discouragement which some of your members have expressed and I know it is reflected by many Californians who have given unselfishly of their time and energy in an earnest effort to find the solution.

As the chosen representatives of the people you know that there can be no simple announcement of a hung jury and a dismissal of the case.

A decision is imperative. We know of California's current maldistribution of water. It is a problem which demands an answer. We must not be guilty of taking a perilous short-range view. Our State's destiny, if it is to fulfill the expectations of even the most conservative forecaster, must have available vast quantities of additional water to attract industry, to provide jobs, to increase the productive capacity of our agricultural lands and to provide abundant domestic water supplies for rapidly growing urban areas.

There is no reason why significant, affirmative progress cannot be made toward actually, physically meeting our water distribution requirements

Regardless of the ultimate details and legal technicalities, a start will have to be made quickly on the Feather River Dam if the people are to be properly served.

I consider this water development program so important that I have temporarily withheld placing this amount in the recommended budget appropriations in the 1958-59 Fiscal Year until it can be determined, after consultation with your leadership, whether a special session should be called for action on water problems. If such a special session is called I would prefer that you enact this $71,000,000 appropriation in the special session and make the funds immediately available. If, however, it develops that sectional and partisan differences are impossible of settlement at this time, I shall request an amendment to the budget when you return from your recess and will ask you to include this appropriation in the Budget Bill.

It is my hope that many of our water problems are closer to solution than some of you have indicated to me. However, whether or not final action on all the questions presently facing us can be achieved this year, we must not permit our substantial progress to date to be wiped out through failure to act decisively and affirmatively whenever we can. Prudence and deliberation are excellent virtues; when practiced to excess they can become cowardice and indecision, neither of which attracts the support of the forward-looking people of California. They look to you for positive, dynamic action.

Approval of the right-of-way and construction appropriation which I have recommended will constitute a strong demonstration of good faith and assurance that all of the manifold water problems of our State will be solved in a manner which will work to the long-range benefit of every section of California

I assure you of my full co-operation in your consideration and action on the budget.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Budget Message of the Governor was received.

Budget Message by Governor Goodwin J. Knight
1958-59 Budget

To the Senate and Assembly of the Legislature of California:

I submit the budget for the State of California for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1958, and ending June 30, 1959, in compliance with the provisions of the State Constitution.

Formulating the budget for this great, fast-growing State of ours is no easy matter in any year. It is an especially difficult undertaking for the 1958-59 Fiscal Year. Our revenue yields, because of the economic situation, will be considerably below the trend of recent years. The estimate of General Fund revenues for the current 1957-58 year has been reduced more than $27 million below last year's estimate and the 1958-59 estimate is $57 million less than the preliminary forecast made a year ago. The State's expenditure obligations, on the other hand, are largely geared to population growth; a great part is fixed by constitutional and statutory provisions which make increased outlays mandatory whether or not revenues are available. The State's General Fund, particularly, is caught in a squeeze between rigidly fixed expenditure requirements and revenues which fluctuate sensitively with the ebb and flow of economic conditions.

Economy in expenditures has been stressed in every one of the budgets I have presented in the last four years. The circumstances facing us at this time require even greater belt tightening. Through the very fine co-operation of state department heads substantial savings have been made within current appropriations and expenditures for next fiscal year are budgeted at rock bottom minimum amounts. Accordingly the budget I am submitting for the forthcoming 1958-59 Fiscal Year has these important characteristics:

(1) Expenditures are at a reduced total amount.

(2) No increases in tax rates or new tax measures are required.

Lest these statements be overly encouraging, however, let me hasten to point out some very serious aspects of the State's financial situation. The above-mentioned reduction in expenditures is largely a technical one for these reasons: Capital outlay for the State's building construction program is to be financed from the sale of bonds rather than from current funds, and the budget as presented temporarily omits urgently needed major expenditures for water development, as will be explained later. Let me further point out that the General Fund portion of the budget can be financed without increased taxes only by the full utilization of the Revenue Deficiency Reserve Fund (the so-called Rainy Day Fund) and by repaying the General Fund from school building aid bonds a $20 million advance made to the school building aid program in 1952.

Revenue Estimates

Again every effort has been made to formulate an accurate and reliable estimate of revenue for the coming year. As in past years we have had the advantage of consultation with economists from industry, utilities, banking, the Federal Government, and universities, in conferences both within this State and nationally.

It must be recognized that a forecast of economic conditions at this time is fraught with extraordinary difficulties. The forecasts which are the basis for the revenue estimates in this budget are predicated upon a slight increase in volume of business and personal income next year both in the Nation and in this State. Most of the improvement is expected in the last half of the year. Some might challenge these forecasts as being too optimistic, but I have great confidence in our economic strength, particularly in California. The budget document contains a complete discussion of the appraisal of the economic outlook upon which the revenue estimates are based.

Expenditures

Total Expenditures—All Funds

Expenditures estimated for the 1958-59 Fiscal Year total $1,984,576,603, a decrease of $9,271,904 from the estimated total of $1,993,848,507 for the current fiscal year. The following summary tabulation shows that this reduction is the net result of increases for State Operations and for Local Assistance which are more than offset by a decrease in Capital Outlay. The Capital Outlay decrease, let me point out again, is largely technical because of the proposed use of bond funds and because of the temporary omission of recommended expenditures for water development.

Summary—Actual and Estimated Expenditures—All Funds

	Actual 1956-57	Estimated 1957-58	Proposed 1958-59	Change from 1957-58
State Operations	$462,909,120	$548,382,129	$601,795,991	+$53,413,862
Capital Outlay	356,307,092	425,511,464	293,370,621	—132,140,843
Local Assistance	913,251,244	1,019,954,914	1,089,409,991	+69,455,077
Total	$1,732,467,456	$1,993,848,507	$1,984,576,603	—$9,271,904

I shall briefly review the more important features of the expenditure program. Complete information will be found in the budget document concerning every expenditure item. As in the past, expenditures are presented in the three main segments of State Operations, Capital Outlay, and Local Assistance.

State Operations

Generally speaking, State Operations are budgeted at the minimum amounts needed to continue existing levels of services with adjustments to meet increased workloads. The very few cases of improvements in program are set forth for your review and I am confident you will find them fully justified even in face of the scarcity of funds.

Higher Education

Education continues to be the largest single item of expenditure under State Operations, as is the case also under both Capital Outlay and Local Assistance. In the State Operations segment the greater portion is for higher education, with more than $94,500,000 for state support of the University of California and $50,800,000 for the state colleges. Much is being said these days of the importance of our educational system and the need for emphasis on science and engineering. California can take great pride in its institutions of higher education. The University of California and the California System of State Colleges is a publicly-supported system of higher education second to none in the world. In recent years we have made tremendous outlays for new classrooms and laboratories and have greatly expanded the faculties throughout the system. The University of California is one of the world's greatest centers of research in nuclear physics, to name but one important field in which it is a great leader. More and more emphasis has been given to engineering and sciences in the university and the state colleges. We are this year spending roughly $45,000,000 of state funds through our university and state college systems for instruction in science courses and for research. Another $22,000,000 is appropriated for buildings, laboratory equipment and other facilities, bringing to $50,000,000 the amount spent for this purpose in the last three years. Nearly 38 percent of the 41,200 students enrolled at the university are pursuing courses in this field and the ratio—22½ percent—is almost as great at the state colleges. This budget proposes expenditure programs which will maintain the high standards of this State's university and college system and will continue the program of expansion to meet the heavy increases in enrollments.

Mental Hygiene

Expenditures of $106,000,000, an increase of more than $7,500,000, or 7.7 percent, are recommended for the operations of the Department of Mental Hygiene, including its 14 state hospitals for the mentally ill and mentally retarded and its clinics and institutes. The expenditure program will provide staffing for additional facilities at the new Fairview State Hospital and at the Metropolitan and Sonoma State Hospitals. Expanded programs are provided for professional training and for psychiatric research. Increased allowances are provided for drugs and medical supplies.

I call your particular attention to this most gratifying evidence of the results of our modern treatment program in mental hygiene: The average number of mentally ill patients in our state hospitals during the last fiscal year was 163 less than during the preceding fiscal year in spite of the continued increase in state population. A few years ago it was taken for granted that we had the unavoidable necessity of providing upwards of 1,000 additional beds each year in our hospitals for the mentally ill to keep up with population growth. The intensified treatment program has so greatly increased discharges and so shortened the average period of hospitalization of the mentally ill that we have been able to make a radical downward revision in our scheduling of future hospital construction. It is to be hoped that future progress of this kind can be made in respect to the thousands of mentally retarded patients, the growing numbers of which continue to present a very great problem.

Highway Patrol and Motor Vehicles

Budgets for both the California Highway Patrol and the Department of Motor Vehicles make provision for an intensified traffic safety program. More adequate patrolling of the highways is a most urgent requirement. A total of 264 additional positions is recommended for the patrol. A further strengthening of driver examination will result from a recommended increase of 50 additional driver's license examiners for the Department of Motor Vehicles

Water Resources

Under State Operations appropriations totaling $11,138,062 are recommended for the Department of Water Resources, an increase of $2,719,207. Provision is made in this budget for a continuation of the program of developing the staff of the department, particularly in the engineering field. Provision is also made for engineering and planning work on the Feather River Project which is included in the proposed expenditure of $6,834,431 under Capital Outlay. The State Operations part of the budget for 1958-59 is divided as follows.

From the General Fund:
General Administration and Operations	$6,258,569
Work in co-operation with the Federal Government	1,000,625
Total General Fund	$7,259,194
From the Investment Fund.
Total State Operations—Department of Water Resources	$11,138,062

The appropriation for development of the California Water Plan is recommended to be paid from the Investment Fund since this work is the initial phase of the program of capital improvements which appropriately can be financed from this fund. I am strongly of the opinion that the Investment Fund should be devoted to water development and used for no other purpose.

Salary Adjustments

The State Personnel Board, in compliance with the Government Code, has submitted its annual report to the Governor and the Legislature in which it points out that prevailing wage data indicate that by July 1st next an increase of approximately 3 percent will be required in order to maintain the levels of pay in the state service on a parity with rates of pay in comparable employment in private industry and other governmental jurisdictions Accordingly the budget contains provision for funds with which to make such an adjustment if the actual facts next fiscal year are as forecast by the Personnel Board and the Personnel Board authorizes the adjustment.

Capital Outlay

The expenditures proposed for Capital Outlay from current funds for 1958-59 total $293,370,000, which is $132,142,000 less than the estimated corresponding expenditures in the 1957-58 Fiscal Year. The principal reason for the reduction is the proposed greater use of state building construction bonds in 1958-59. You will see from the summary tables that when bond funds are added a large building program is scheduled to go forward in line with the five-year building plan.

In the first report on the State Building Construction Program issued January 19, 1955, it was pointed out that current revenues could not provide all of the funds required for the projects urgently needed in the next four years. A bond issue of $200,000,000 was recommended, and subsequently approved by the voters, to supplement current revenues. It was anticipated the building program for the period could be financed half from current revenues and half from bond funds For the three-year period July 1, 1956, to June 30, 1959, with the adoption of the proposals in this budget we will have carried out an approximate sharing of costs.

The highway construction expenditures programed for 1958-59 amount to $221,817,079, some $23,600,000 less than in 1957-58. Expenditures had peaked in the current and preceding years because accumulated surpluses were available to help finance unusually heavy outlays. The 1958-59 program is still a large one and is more nearly on the basis of keeping pace with current income

Local Assistance

A total of $1,089,409,991—55 percent of all required expenditures—will be paid by the State as assistance to local governments during the 1958-59 Fiscal Year. The largest item is school support; substantial amounts are also included for public assistance, roads and streets, public health and other purposes In all, local assistance will increase $69,400,000 next year More than three-fourths of this advance is in State support for public schools and other items related to local education Subventions for the support of public schools will rise by more than $40,900,000 next year to help to meet the cost of educating 3,000,000 youngsters. Contributions for other educational purposes, such as teachers' retirement, free textbooks, and school building bond requirements, will be $11,300,000 above the corresponding amounts for the current year.

Population growth, coupled with liberalization of the public assistance grants effected last year through allowance of medical benefits and aid to the disabled, has added materially to the State's financial responsibilities in the field of social welfare. Subventions for this purpose in the coming year will amount to $185,718,000, an increase of nearly $11,000,000 compared with the current period and $38,300,000 above expenditures for this purpose in 1956-57

Other important developments in state assistance to local agencies include the greatly expanded program of grade crossing separation adopted last year which will provide a total of $5,000,000 in matching funds to be used by cities and counties in the elimination of particularly dangerous railroad crossings. Additional amounts are also made available for local mental health work, support of juvenile homes and camps, and for programs of aid to crippled children.

Surplus July 1	$109,694,825	$8,482,620
Revenues	1,144,524,507	1,183,487,986
Expenditures:
State Operations	398,384,622	431,982,463
Capital Outlay	86,925,076	30,204,836
Local Assistance	772,302,005	831,979,109
Total Expenditures	$1,257,611,703	$1,294,166,408
Deficiency of Current Income	—$113,087,196	—$110,678,422
Transfers from Other Funds[1]	11,874,991	7,732,040
Surplus June 30, 1958	$8,482,620
Accumulated Deficiency June 30, 1959		—$94,463,762

[1] Includes transfers from School Bond Retirement Fund in accordance with Chapter 1073/1957

I recommend the following means of meeting this deficiency as a budget balancing plan which does not require additional taxes:

1. Transfer the Revenue Deficiency Reserve Fund to the General Fund	$75,000,000
2. Repay to the General Fund an advance made to the School Building Aid Fund in 1952 of	20,000,000
Total to be made available	$95,000,000
Estimated deficiency	94,463,762
Estimated working surplus	$536,238

In view of the present economic situation this is no time to impose additional tax burdens Your 1957 Session wisely provided for a comprehensive study of the State's tax structure and expenditure trends by a committee which will make a report at your 1959 General Session At that session there should be sufficient time for a very complete consideration of the report in face of the then current conditions. Economists advise us that the current business lag will have run its course by that time so that your re-examination of the revenue system can be made in light of normal business conditions Meanwhile the use of the Revenue Deficiency Reserve Fund, in my judgment, is a sound action and in keeping with the basic purpose of establishing the fund The time of revenue deficiency unfortunately has arrived.

In 1952 a transfer of $20,000,000 was made from the General Fund to the School Building Aid Fund The purpose of the transfer was to reduce if possible the amount of bonds to be sold from the $185,000,000 school building aid bond issue approved by the voters in November, 1952 Provision was made, however, for the return of the advance it needed at June 30, 1953, to maintain the solvency of the General Fund at that date. As it turned out the General Fund surplus was such on that date that the repayment of the advance was not then required, and there is still $20,000,000 of unsold bonds remaining in the bond authorization. Since our revenue estimates now indicate a deficiency in the General Fund on June 30, 1959, I recommend that you authorize the repayment of the $20,000,000 as of that date if the deficiency actually develops as forecast It appears clear that it was the intent when the advance was made originally that it be returned if needed to maintain the solvency of the General Fund. It will be necessary that you authorize the sale of the remaining $20,000,000 in authorized bonds of the 1952 issue to make funds available for this repayment

Even with an upswing in business a large deficiency of revenues under the existing tax structure will inevitably face future budgets unless basic changes are made in expenditure requirements.

As has been pointed out in previous budget messages, the State's tax structure has remained virtually unchanged for more than 20 years. During this period, however, many heavy additional burdens have been imposed upon the State Treasury. Increases have been made in state support of the Public School System so that today the unit allowance is almost three times that of 1935

Subventions for welfare and public health purposes have followed much the same pattern Increases have been made in rates of payments More liberal features and extensions have been added. Heavier sharing of costs has been shifted from the counties to the State.

In a number of important fields in State Operations, expenditure obligations have increased greatly too Enrollments in the University of California and in the state colleges have increased at rates much greater than the rate of growth in the State's total population. Stepped-up programs of treatment have been made in the mental hygiene hospitals and in the correctional institutions.

All through these years these additions to the state expenditure obligations have been made without corresponding adjustments to the State's revenue system to finance the increased costs.

The effect of inflation on revenue yields has partially obscured the fact that during this 20-year period the many obligations which have been placed on the State Treasury in the aggregate call for heavier expenditures than the 20-year-old tax structure can finance, even in prosperous times. The day of reckoning will be here all too soon.

I cannot stress too much the great need for a very searching examination into the whole expenditure and revenue structure so that sound measures can be taken to maintain the State's finances on an even keel.

Water Development

Because of its exceptional importance to the future of California, I have reserved to the end of this message a discussion of the water problem which must become a part of your consideration on this year's budget.

Substantial progress is being made in the initial highway and railroad relocation phases of the Feather River Project at Oroville It is urgent that we keep this program moving forward and now augment it by acquisition of rights-of-way and the construction of additional features of the project in order that the development of this vastly important water resource not be delayed to the future detriment of the State The budget as now drawn includes a proposed appropriation for $6,800,000 to continue the basic engineering work.

Further, I strongly recommend an additional appropriation of $71,000,000 at the earliest possible time to provide for the acquisition of rights-of-way at Oroville, on the Upper Feather River, on the South Bay and San Joaquin Aqueducts, at the San Luis Reservoir, and for the State's North Bay Aqueduct Project This sum also includes provision for further relocation construction at Oroville, construction of Frenchman Reservoir in the Upper Feather River Basin, and beginning construction on the South Bay Aqueduct and on the North Bay Aqueduct Project.

It should not be a difficult task for reasonable people to find a solution to the water rights problem and I believe it is imperative that the Joint Committee on Water Resources Problems continue to work diligently on the problem in the hope of reaching a successful conclusion this year.

I am aware of the discouragement which some of your members have expressed and I know it is reflected by many Californians who have given unselfishly of their time and energy in an earnest effort to find the solution

As the chosen representatives of the people you know that there can be no simple announcement of a hung jury and a dismissal of the case

A decision is imperative. We know of California's current maldistribution of water. It is a problem which demands an answer We must not be guilty of taking a perilous short-range view. Our State's destiny, if it is to fulfill the expectations of even the most conservative forecaster, must have available vast quantities of additional water to attract industry, to provide jobs, to increase the productive capacity of our agricultural lands and to provide abundant domestic water supplies for rapidly growing urban areas.

There is no reason why significant, affirmative progress cannot be made toward actually, physically meeting our water distribution requirements.

Regardless of the ultimate details and legal technicalities, a start will have to be made quickly on the Feather River Dam if the people are to be properly served.

I consider this water development program so important that I have temporarily withheld placing this amount in the recommended budget appropriations in the 1958-59 Fiscal Year until it can be determined, after consultation with your leadership, whether a special session should be called for action on water problems If such a special session is called I would prefer that you enact this $71,000,000 appropriation in the special session and make the funds immediately available. If, however, it develops that sectional and partisan differences are impossible of settlement at this time, I shall request an amendment to the budget when you return from your recess and will ask you to include this appropriation in the Budget Bill.

It is my hope that many of our water problems are closer to solution than some of you have indicated to me. However, whether or not final action on all the questions presently facing us can be achieved this year, we must not permit our substantial progress to date to be wiped out through failure to act decisively and affirmatively whenever we can. Prudence and deliberation are excellent virtues; when practiced to excess they can become cowardice and indecision, neither of which attracts the support of the forward-looking people of California. They look to you for positive, dynamic action.

Approval of the right-of-way and construction appropriation which I have recommended will constitute a strong demonstration of good faith and assurance that all of the manifold water problems of our State will be solved in a manner which will work to the long-range benefit of every section of California.

I assure you of my full co-operation in your consideration and action on the budget.

Respectfully submitted,

February 3, 1958 GOODWIN J. KNIGHT, Governor

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO PRINT IN JOURNAL

Mr. Chapel asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent that the following opinion of the Legislative Counsel be ordered printed in the Journal:

OPINION OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, February 3, 1958

Honorable Charles Edward Chapel
Assembly Chamber

State Water Development—No. 1135

DEAR MR CHAPEL: You have asked if there are any judicial decisions which indicate a possible need for a constitutional amendment in order to preclude the State from altering contracts for the sale of water entered into with municipal corporations in connection with a state water development program.

In Mallon v. City of Long Beach (1955), 44 Cal. 2d 199, it was held that the State, acting through the Legislature, has the power to alter contractual or property rights acquired by a municipal corporation from the State for governmental purposes. The following language of the California Supreme Court in this case is of interest:

"Even if a conveyance, such as the one to the City of Long Beach in the present case, from the state to a municipal corporation is considered as a contract between the city and the state or as creating property interests in the city, the state acting through the Legislature has the power to alter contractual or property rights acquired by the municipal corporation from the state for governmental purposes. (County of Alameda v. Janssen, 16 Cal. 2d 276, 284 [106 P. 2d 11, 130 A.L.R. 1141]; Railroad Com. v. Los Angeles R. Corp., 280 U.S. 145, 156 [50 S. Ct. 71, 74 L. Ed. 234]; Trenton v. New Jersey, 262 U. S. 182, 188, 191-192 [43 S. Ct. 534, 67 L. Ed. 937, 29 A.L.R. 1471]; Pawhuska v. Pawhuska Oil & Gas Co., 250 U.S. 394, 398-399 [39 S. Ct. 526, 63 L. Ed. 1054]; Hunter v. Pittsburgh, 207 U.S. 161, 178-179 [28 S. Ct. 40, 52 L. Ed. 151] and cases cited: New Orleans v. New Orleans Water Works Co., 142 U.S. 79, 91 [12 S. Ct. 142, 35 L. Ed. 943]; see also Brooklyn & Richmond Ferry Co. v. United States, 167 F. 2d 330, 333; Schulz, 'The Effect of the Contract Clause and the Fourteenth Amendment Upon the Power of the States to Control Municipal Corporations,' 36 Mich. L. Rev. 385, 387-398, 408.) A municipal corporation has no privileges or immunities under the United States Constitution that it can invoke against the will of the state (Williams v. Mayor & City Council of Baltimore, 289 U.S. 36, 40 [53 S. Ct. 431, 77 L. Ed. 1015]), and under the California Constitution a freeholder city, such as the city of Long Beach, is exempt from legislative control only as to 'municipal affairs.' (Const., art. XI, Sec. 6; Eastlick v. City of Los Angeles, 29 Cal. 2d 661, 665 [177 P. 2d 558, 170 A.L.R. 225] and cases cited.) It is clear in the present case that any interest of the city of Long Beach in the tidelands was acquired not as a 'municipal affair,' but subject to a public trust to develop its harbor and navigation facilities for the benefit of the entire state, and was therefore subject to the control of the Legislature (City of Monterey v. Jacks, supra, 139 Cal. 542, 555-556.)" (44 Cal. 2d 1199, 209).

Thus, assuming that it is desired to preclude the possibility that the State, after entering into a water delivery contract with a municipal corporation, might at some later time alter such contract, a constitutional amendment would be necessary in order to accomplish this purpose.

Very truly yours,

RALPH N. KLEPS, Legislative Counsel
By RAY H. WHITAKER, Deputy

Letter of Transmittal
Final Report of Alcoholic Rehabilitation Commission

ALCOHOLIC REHABILITATION COMMISSION
BERKELEY, CALIFORNIA, September 4, 1957

The Honorable Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California
The Honorable Harold J. Powers, President of the Senate
The Honorable Luther H. Lincoln, Speaker of the Assembly
State Capitol,
Sacramento 14, California

GENTLEMEN: The Alcoholic Rehabilitation Commission of the State of California submits its final report.

The commission was established by the Legislature in 1954. The first meeting after the Governor's appointment of the members was held in September, 1954. At this year's general session of the Legislature, the commission was abolished effective

September 11, 1957. Under the terms of the legislation abolishing the commission the State Department of Public Health will assume the responsibility for conducting a program of treatment, rehabilitation, investigation, and study of alcoholism, including arrangements for continuation, or other disposition, of commission activities for which funds are included in the state budget for the current fiscal year.

In the period of its existence the commission has initiated pilot treatment of alcoholism, and investigation on the nature and effects of alcoholism. The program has comprised pilot out-patient treatment clinics in San Diego, Los Angeles, San Jose, Oakland, Stockton, and Sacramento, a research clinic in the Department of Psychiatry of the UCLA Medical Center, research on optimum treatment for alcoholism at the Adult Guidance Center of the Public Health Department of the City and County of San Francisco, a pilot hospitalization program in conjunction with private hospitals in San Francisco and Los Angeles, six research projects (four basic medical, one applied medical, and one sociological, at the Berkeley, Los Angeles, and Davis campuses of the University of California), treatment evaluation and causation research in the State Department of Public Health, and informational and educational services. At the legislative session of 1956, March 1, 1959 was set as the date for submission of the commission's final report. Thus most of the activities initiated by the commission have not been completed at this time.

An account of the commission's procedures and policies and of the evolution of its program has been given to you in the Commission's Interim Report submitted February 28, 1957.

Reports from the various agencies which have been carrying on treatment or research projects for the commission follow this communication. No report is given on the research project, Relationship Between Alcoholism and Family Structure and Life Cycle. Illness of the principal investigator, Professor Edwin I. Lemert, University of California, Davis, has impeded initiation of this project. Two of the commission's research projects, Measurement of Alcohol in the Body, Paul L. Kirk, University of California, Berkeley, and Biochemical Factors in Alcoholism, Dr. Wendell H. Griffith, University of California at Los Angeles, have been completed. Final reports on these projects are included here. We have also included reports on the commission's informational and educational program and on an Inter-Disciplinary Workshop sponsored by the commission in conjunction with the University of California at Los Angeles, at the Lake Arrowhead Conference Center, in June, 1957. The commission believes that the progress and results described in these reports more than justify expenditure of time, money and resources by the State of California for this program since 1954. The program is less than three years old but it already has been recognized as one of the leading public programs on alcoholism in the world.

The directors of pilot treatment clinics in six California cities are to be congratulated particularly for the progress made in less than a year to develop these facilities into integral and invaluable parts of social welfare and public health service in their communities. Commendation is due also to the scientists and research personnel of the University of California and the State Departments of Mental Hygiene and Public Health, who have applied themselves diligently and ably to the task of learning more about this baffling illness.

We urge that the Division of Alcoholic Rehabilitation in the State Department of Public Health continue the co-operative relationships that the commission has established with other state agencies and with local government in California. We also commend our staff for its loyal and able services

The members of the commission are happy to have had the opportunity to serve the State and people of California in connection with the serious public health, medical, social and economic problems related to or caused by alcoholism and excessive drinking.

Respectfully submitted,

Bulletin No. 16, Flood Flows and Stages in Sacramento and Northern San Joaquin Valleys, 1954-56

DEPARTMENT OF WATER RESOURCES
SACRAMENTO, July 12, 1957

Honorable Arthur A. Ohnimus
Clerk of the Assembly
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. OHNIMUS: Transmitted herewith for the information of the California State Assembly is Bulletin No. 16 of the Department of Water Resources entitled "Flood Flows and Stages in Sacramento and Northern San Joaquin Valleys, 1954-1956."

Bulletin No. 16 is the sixteenth of a series of reports by the department and its predecessor which present data on flood flows and stages in the Sacramento and Northern San Joaquin Valleys for the 43-year period from October, 1913, to June, 1956. The present report is of special significance because it contains a compilation of basic data relative to flows and stages for the extreme floods which were experienced in December, 1955, and subsequent high water periods in 1956. The collection and publication of such data are vital functions of the Department of Water Resources and enable the department and other agencies to better plan flood control and water supply facilities in the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys.

It is of interest to note that the December, 1955, peak flood flows were the greatest of record on the Sacramento, Yuba, Bear, American, Cosumnes, Stanislaus, Merced, San Joaquin, Kings, and Kaweah Rivers. On the Feather River near Oroville it is believed that the flood of March, 1907, slightly exceeded the peak flow in December, 1955. However, the combined flow of the Feather River and the Yuba River at their confluence at Yuba City produced the greatest flood of record at that location. The actual flood flow at this latter location exceeded the designed capacity of the Feather River levee system resulting in the disastrous flooding in Sutter County. This experience on the Feather River emphasizes the urgency of obtaining upstream control on the Feather River by the construction of Oroville Dam and Reservoir. The actual flow past the latitude of Sacramento in December, 1955, including the flow in Yolo Bypass, was the greatest since the start of construction of the Sacramento River Flood Control Project. The timely completion and the operation of Folsom Reservoir in December, 1955, demonstrated the tremendous value of adequate upstream flood control to the ever-increasing population of the Sacramento Valley.

Bulletin No. 39-56, Water Supply Conditions in Southern California During 1955 and 1956

DEPARTMENT OF WATER RESOURCES
SACRAMENTO, September 27, 1957

Honorable Arthur A. Ohnimus
Clerk of the Assembly
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. OHNIMUS: Transmitted herewith for the information of the California State Assembly is a copy of Department of Water Resources Bulletin 39-56 entitled, "Water Supply Conditions in Southern California During 1955 and 1956," dated March, 1957, which was prepared pursuant to Chapter 832, Statutes of 1929.

The report contains a discussion of water supply conditions in Southern California during the water years 1954-55 and 1955-56, and features nearly 6,150 depth to ground water measurements, and two seasonal values for each of over 350 precipitation stations.

During 1955 and 1956, there was a continuation of the drought which has prevailed in Southern California since 1944. Precipitation and surface runoff were both subnormal, ground water levels continued to decline and in coastal basins sea-water intrusion generally continued unabated. The utilization of imported water increased greatly and for a period of time during the summer of 1956, the demand exceeded the existing capacity to deliver this supply with the result that some requests to purchase imported water could not be met. This problem was somewhat relieved in September of 1956 by the completion of some additional import facilities. In areas where there is no supplemental supply or such supply is limited, and where ground water basins are small and have limited carry-over storage, problems of water supply were becoming very critical by the summer and fall of 1956.

DEAR MR. OHNIMUS: Your letter of May 13, 1957, to the President forwarding Assembly Joint Resolution No. 2, regarding hunting and fishing on military reservations in California, has been referred to this office for reply.

It is the policy of the Department of Defense that hunting and fishing at each military reservation shall be authorized and controlled by the local commander, in accordance with locally published post and station regulations. These regulations are promulgated in accordance with applicable federal, state and local laws.

Military personnel who hunt or fish on military reservations are required to observe all state hunting and fishing laws concerning bag limits, season and other such conservation measures. They must also purchase a state hunting and fishing license. In those states which refuse to give military personnel and local residents equal treatment, military personnel are permitted to hunt on reservations under exclusive federal jurisdiction without a state license.

Local commanders are encouraged to seek co-operative agreements with state and local jurisdictions and with civilian sportsmen's groups for the conservation of wildlife and the promotion of healthy recreation.

Any violations of the policies enumerated above should be brought to the attention of the local commanding officer for appropriate remedial action.

We trust that this information will explain the policy of the Department of Defense in this matter.

DEAR MR. OHNIMUS: A copy of Assembly Joint Resolution No. 25, adopted by the California Legislature on June 7, 1957, has been received. We appreciate the interest of the people of California in the multiple-use management of the national forests.

The department reiterated its policy of multiple-use management of the national forests in its report of June 19, 1957, to the Chairman of the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs on S. 1176 relating to the establishment of a National Wilderness Preservation System and for other wilderness purposes, a copy of which is attached. In that report we stated that we are sympathetic to the general objective of the bill, but recommended that it not be enacted. In lieu thereof we recommended that Congress consider a substitute bill designed to give statutory recognition to those parts of the objectives of S. 1176 which fall solely within the responsibilities of this Department and which generally have been provided for administratively over a long period of years.

DEAR MR. OHNIMUS: This refers to your letter of January 30, 1957, enclosing a copy of Assembly Joint Resolution No. 3 adopted by the California Legislature on January 22, 1957 concerning the above designated installation.

Mr. John P. Gifford, Regional Property Coordinator, Division of Surplus Property, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has advised us by letter of October 1, 1957, that the State Department of Public Works had not made a decision concerning the acquisition of this property by the State for a four-year college. We were subsequently advised that the decision of the Department of Public Works would not be made until some time after January 1, 1958.

We regret to inform you that in view of the long delay in arriving at their decision, our Washington office has directed us to proceed with the disposal of subject property by other means.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS
SACRAMENTO, January 15, 1958

Hon. Arthur A. Ohnimus
Chief Clerk of the Assembly
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. OHNIMUS: Please refer to House Resolution No. 248, adopted by the California Assembly on June 1, 1957, relating to designation of alternate state highway routes. The State Highway Engineer has made a study of the request in this resolution and reported the results of his study, which are as follows:

"The resolution states 'That the Department of Public Works be hereby requested to designate any highway under its jurisdiction which affords a route and means of travel similar to a state highway route as an alternate route to the state highway route and to place appropriate signs upon such highway indicating that it is an alternate of the state highway route.'

The Legal Department comments on this resolution are as follows:

'This resolution requests the Department of Public Works to designate highways under its jurisdiction which affords routes and means of travel similar to state highway routes as an alternate route to the state highway route and to place appropriate signs upon such highways so indicating. The recitals in the resolution indicate that the author was primarily concerned with state highways in parks which have been superseded by state highways on new alignment.

We believe that the words "under its jurisdiction" as used in this resolution refer to highways which are under the jurisdiction of the department subsequent to the time of the passage of the resolution. This means that the Assembly has requested that we sign, as an alternate, any highway which we relinquish in the future and which, in the opinion of the department, affords a route and means of travel similar to the route on new alignment, whether or not a park is involved.

If the department deems it appropriate to follow this request, we believe that particular emphasis should be placed on highways in or leading to state parks.'

It has been the practice of the Division of Highways to leave all existing signs except route shields in place on highways which are relinquished. In cases of bypassed cities and business districts this practice is made mandatory by Assembly Bill No. 1567, Chapter 1062, which requires that all signs including route shields be left in place and maintained by the local authorities having jurisdiction.

Accordingly, to comply with House Resolution No. 248, it appears that it will primarily be necessary to place a directional sign using the word ALTERNATE at the point of divergence of the new and old highways. Motorists will then have the guidance of signs already in place on the relinquished highway to the point where the new and old highways converge.

On U. S. sign routes, in cases of by-passed cities, it has been found practicable in some places to request AASHO to establish business routes on relinquished sections of highways through cities. This has only been done after an agreement has been culminated by which the local agencies affected agree to place and maintain signs from the point of divergence from the new state highway to the junction with it beyond the city so that the motorist leaving the highway can find his way back. The State places the signs at the points of divergence designating the beginning of the business route. At locations where comparatively large cities are by-passed, the usual practice of establishing business routes where appropriate and when requested by local authorities will be followed.

It appears that Resolution No. 248 is intended to provide signing on the existing Redwood Highway after the proposed new route is completed. On this highway signs such as REDWOOD HIGHWAY ALTERNATE may be placed at the points of divergence at locations where the motorist may leave the new highway, drive through a state park, and re-enter the new highway without backtracking.

The Redwood Highway will probably be the only location involved for a good many years, as other state parks are located on routes of less importance where realignment is not now being considered."

Very truly yours,

C. M. GILLISS, Director of Public Works

JOINT LEGISLATIVE BUDGET COMMITTEE
CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, February 4, 1958

To the President of the Senate the Speaker of the Assembly and to Members of the Senate and Assembly

There is submitted herewith a Preliminary Report of the Joint Legislative Budget Committee to the Legislature, pursuant to Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 126, relating to a survey of the Department of Fish and Game.

Respectfully submitted,

ARTHUR H. BREED, JR., Chairman

Enc.

February 3, 1958

PRELIMINARY REPORT OF THE JOINT LEGISLATIVE BUDGET COMMITTEE

Pursuant to Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 126, 1957, Relating to a Survey of the Department of Fish and Game

Chapter 1887, Statutes of 1957, amended the Fish and Game Code to provide for increases in certain categories of hunting and fishing license fees for additional revenue for the commission and the Department of Fish and Game. Section 16 of that act appropriated $100,000, or so much thereof as is necessary, from the Fish and Game Preservation Fund to the Joint Legislative Budget Committee "for a contract or contracts for the study of existing and future programs and plans of the Department of Fish and Game and the policies of the Fish and Game Commission."

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 126, adopted June 21, 1957, implemented the statute by indicating phases of game management and operations to be studied and directed that a final report be made to the Legislature not later than the fifteenth day of the 1959 Regular Session, with a preliminary report on or before the fifth day of the 1958 Regular Session. Time required for planning, negotiating and executing a contract for survey, together with the fact that funds from which the appropriation was made (revenue from increased fees only) were not available until January of 1958, has precluded the making of any preliminary findings or recommendations at this time. This report, therefore, is in the nature of a progress report indicating action of the Joint Legislative Budget Committee in directing a contract for survey and includes a progress report by the contracting firm as to action and plans to date.

After preliminary discussions between the Legislative Analyst and representatives of several leading management consultant firms, proposals for survey were submitted to and considered by the Budget Committee in open hearings on October 10, 1957. At this time, also, representatives of organizations interested in fish and game matters were invited to appear to review the proposals for study and to make suggestions to the committee as to the scope of the survey. This hearing resulted in several items being suggested for addition to the scope of the proposed study, as is indicated by the progress report of the contracting firm.

Action of the Budget Committee at its meeting on October 10, 1957, awarded a contract for survey to the firm of Booz, Allen and Hamilton, Management Consultants, 120 Montgomery Street, San Francisco. A part of the contract understanding is provision that the survey will proceed under a program of costs not to exceed $80,000, reserving $20,000 to be committed at the discretion of the committee for followup appraisals in the event it should prove necessary or desirable.

The progress report of Booz, Allen and Hamilton, incorporated as a part of the report of the committee, is attached.

Mr. A. Alan Post, Legislative Analyst
Room 306, State Capitol
Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. POST: Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 126, relating to a study of the Department of Fish and Game and the Fish and Game Commission, requires that a preliminary report be made by the Joint Legislative Budget Committee to the Legislature on or before the fifth day of the 1958 Regular Session. For the information of the committee we submit herein the report of our activities to date.

The survey which we are conducting for the committee is to include studies relative to the five points defined in the concurrent resolution. In addition to these points, several more were raised by witnesses at a hearing of the Joint Legislative Budget Committee. Briefly these relate to (1) brush removal; (2) creation of a special Division of Commercial Fisheries; (3) migratory deer herds; (4) water pollution; (5) rodent control; (6) the interrelationship of grazing of cattle and deer on the same range with particular respect to possible overgrazing

While some of these points are properly classifiable under the points included in the concurrent resolution, not all of them were contemplated for coverage in our original proposal letter. However, we agreed to attempt to include them in our survey, pointing out that this might necessarily mean a shallower penetration of some of the problems. It will also be recalled that in our proposal, we suggested that of the $100,000 appropriated, only $80,000 be committed at that time, with $20,000 held in reserve to be committed at the discretion of the committee. In the event that inclusion of these additional points should result in inadequate penetration of other problem areas, it may be that the committee will wish to commit further money from the reserve.

With the objective of evaluating and further defining both sets of points, we have talked with officers and members of a number of sportsmen's groups and associations as well as with individual sportsmen in various locations throughout the State. We have interviewed the members of the Fish and Game Commission and have had several conversations with the director of the department and members of his staff. We have discussed the survey and pertinent background material with the Legislative Analyst and members of his staff acquainted with fish and game activities. We now feel that we have an adequate appreciation of the problems and have the constructive suggestions of the interested people with whom we have talked.

We have interviewed informed people connected with selected national sporting publications, the Fish and Wildlife Service, and national associations, societies, foundations, and institutes concerned with wildlife management From them we obtained a list of people who, in their estimation, had the knowledge, capabilities and stature which would permit them to effectively serve with us on matters of wildlife management. After our evaluation of the problem areas, we reviewed this list and selected a group of people whom we felt to be most highly qualified. We discussed them with a sample of the group whom we were interviewing, including officers of major sportsmen's associations, members of the Fish and Game Commission, the director of the department, and the Legislative Analyst. We sought assurance that the people selected would be acceptable to all parties concerned. As a result of this, we settled on one individual as having the requisite background, capabilities, and stature, and as being acceptable to all parties interviewed.

We have approached this man and found him to be interested. We are now in the process of working out the details of his participation. Inasmuch as it is necessary for him to arrange a leave of absence from his position, some time will elapse before he can put his responsibilities in order and be available to us on a full-time basis. We expect to have him out here shortly, however, to assist in organizing the remainder of the wildlife management team and to integrate his project planning with us.

Members of our staff have conducted a preliminary survey in the Sacramento headquarters of the department and in a sample region. Our objectives here were to determine the availability of statistics and information to use in our survey and to form some preliminary hypotheses on possible improvements and cost reductions.

Based on this preliminary survey, we have developed a tentative work plan and schedule. Necessarily, this cannot be made final until we have integrated it with the wildlife management work plan. This will be our next step.

Shortly thereafter, we plan to move ahead on the full-scale survey. It is of course our objective to have our report in the hands of the committee in plenty of time for review and discussion prior to the date on which they must report to the Legislature. This date is established in Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 126 as not later than the fifteenth day of the 1959 Regular Session.

Very truly yours,

BOOZ, ALLEN & HAMILTON

Report of the State Personnel Board

Letter of Transmittal

CALIFORNIA STATE PERSONNEL BOARD
SACRAMENTO, February 3, 1958

Hon. L. H. Lincoln, Speaker of the Assembly
California Legislature
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. LINCOLN: The State Personnel Board at its regular meeting on December 21, 1957, adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, That the report to the Governor and the Legislature concerning state salaries and other matters together with recommendations be adopted as the report prepared in conformance with Government Code Section 18712. The Secretary of the State Personnel Board is directed to file the report, a copy of which is identified by the signatures of all members of the board, with the Governor and to file copies with each house of the Legislature in accordance with Government Code Section 18712.

In conformance with this resolution, we are transmitting a copy of this report to be filed with the Assembly. All Members of the Legislature have received copies of the report.

Very truly yours,

JOHN F. FISHER, Secretary

Letter of Transmittal

CALIFORNIA STATE PERSONNEL BOARD
SACRAMENTO, December 23, 1957

The Honorable Goodwin J. Knight
Governor of California and Members of the Senate and the Assembly of the State of California

GENTLEMEN: The State Personnel Board, in accordance with Government Code Section 18712, submits this report on matters relating to civil service personnel under the jurisdiction of the board.

The Legislature has delegated to the Personnel Board the authority to set and adjust salary ranges for civil service and state college employees. In setting salaries, the Personnel Board is directed to: (a) consider the salaries for comparable service in private employment and other governmental agencies; (b) consider proper internal salary relationships between state classes; and (c) keep expenditures for salary adjustments within the appropriation limits provided by the Legislature.

The following summarizes the present salary situation:

1. The July 1, 1957, adjustments which provided salary increases of 5 percent for 73 percent of the employees and salary increases of 10 percent for 26 percent of the employees kept state salaries reasonably in line with those prevailing in private industry and other governmental jurisdictions.

2. Surveys of private industry by the Personnel Board show that from March, 1957, to October, 1957, wage and salary levels for jobs comparable to those in state service increased on the average 2.3 percent during this half-year period. The State has already reflected a portion of this 2.3 percent increase in its July, 1957, salary adjustment program.
3. Although there has been some reduction in business activity which has resulted in an increase in unemployment, salaries and wages have continued to rise in California industry during 1957, but at a slower rate than in 1956. The widespread use of guaranteed future wage increases will contribute toward the gradual rise of wage rates.
4. Surveys which will be conducted by the Personnel Board in March, 1958, will reflect wage changes made by private industry between October, 1957, and March, 1958. If the current trend continues, the March, 1958, surveys may be expected to show that a 3 percent general salary adjustment, as of July, 1958, for all employees paid on a monthly salary basis will be indicated if state salaries are to be kept in line with those of private industry.
5. In addition to a Salary Increase Fund approximating 3 percent, there will be, as in previous years, need for funds for specific salary adjustments. It appears, however, that special adjustments in excess of 3 percent will be needed for a relatively small proportion of the employees.

Based on these considerations, the following recommendations for a Salary Increase Fund in the 1958-59 Fiscal Year are submitted:

1. That a fund approximating 3 percent of salaries and wages be provided to keep the salaries of state employees generally in line with prevailing rates. The estimated annual total cost is:

General Fund	$6,555,000
Special funds	3,600,000
Total	$10,155,000

2. That a fund for special salary adjustments be provided in order to recognize changes in internal relationships and extreme changes in prevailing rates. The Personnel Board recommends an appropriation of $250,000 from the General Fund and a commensurate amount from special funds.

The recommended amounts for salary increases are sufficient only for adjustments of salaries for civil service employees and for employees of state colleges. They do not include funds for employees of the University of California and other exempt employees.

In addition to information on salaries, this report covers some of the more important current problems and aspects of personnel management in state service. These discussions may be summarized as follows:

1. The slight loosening of the general labor market and the attendant rise in unemployment in the State has not greatly affected the necessity for an intensified recruitment program in state service. The increased personnel needs of state agencies and the continued shortage of professional engineers, technical, scientific, and skilled clerical personnel indicate the necessity for continuing our specialized recruitment program.
2. The development of a balanced Employee Benefit Program for the State is needed to attract and especially to retain competent employees and to keep state employee benefits in line with those in private industry and other governmental agencies. Consideration should be given to a realignment of employee benefits to make possible health and welfare and life insurance, with the State sharing the cost of the program.
3. The responsibility for administering disciplinary action rests with the operating departments. During the five-year period July 1, 1952, to June 30, 1957, the state agencies took 1,591 formal disciplinary actions. During this period, the Personnel Board modified or reversed the action of the agencies in 40 cases

Respectfully submitted,

CALIFORNIA STATE PERSONNEL BOARD

WILMER W. MORSE, President — ROBERT D. GRAY, Member
FORD A. CHATTERS, Vice President — EMERY E. OLSON, Member
GLENN R. BAKER, Member

Above transmitted report ordered referred to the Committee on Rules.

Almighty and Everlasting God, We seek Thy guidance as we begin another day and another session. In an age when not only is the world spinning around but man-made moons are spinning around the world, grant that we may not lose our sense of proportion and forget that Thou art God and we are Thy creatures. In a time when men's eyes are gazing into the vast reaches of space, grant that we may keep our feet on the ground and see the work which lies immediately at hand. In a day of tremendous programs and billion-dollar budgets, grant that we do not lose ourselves in the idea of bigness but that we ever remember that we are the servants of individual men and women, each called upon to do his task and to do it well. Lend us Thy wisdom, O Lord, that we may be good stewards of Thy gracious gifts; through Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Lord.—AMEN.

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was presented by the Speaker and ordered printed in the Journal:

March 3, 1958

To My Colleagues in the Assembly:

The beautiful floral bouquet sent to my hospital room in the name of the Assembly was the first object of joy to meet my glazed eyes when I awoke from my operation. The second was a well-formed nurse's aid. I won't attempt a comparison of the relative cheer producing qualities, but both were most appreciated.

I am sorry I won't be with you for the first few days of the session but I will try to keep abreast of your activities by means of press, radio and television.

Best luck in your endeavors and please remember to return the Capitol to Sacramento from Benicia.

My kindest regards to all.

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
WASHINGTON, D.C., February 13, 1958

Mr. Arthur A. Ohnimus, Chief Clerk
Assembly, California Legislature
Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. OHNIMUS: Thank you for your letter of February 7, 1958, calling my attention to Assembly Joint Resolution No. 1 and House Resolution No. 19.

I am a member of the Subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee, which will hold hearings on the question of a pay increase for the armed services. I am confident that a pay increase will be granted which will be of benefit to active and retired members of the armed services.

House Resolution No. 19 urging the Congress and the Secretary of Agriculture to provide necessary land at or near the Davis Campus at the University of California, upon which a conservation laboratory is to be established and maintained, is my first knowledge of this matter. This objective appears to have good merit and I will certainly keep the resolution in mind at such time as this question is discussed with my colleagues in Congress.

You can be assured of my continued desire to be of service to the State of California.

Sincerely,

BOB WILSON, Member of Congress

DEPARTMENT OF WATER RESOURCES
SACRAMENTO, February 20, 1958

Honorable Arthur A. Ohnimus
Chief Clerk of the Assembly
State Capitol,
Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. OHNIMUS: I have the honor to transmit herewith a Report on the Quality of Surface Waters in California. This is the second in a series of reports concerning this important matter.

In April, 1951, this Statewide Stream Sampling Program was initiated at the suggestion of the State Water Pollution Control Board, and since that time has been conducted by the Department of Water Resources, as authorized by Section 229 of the Water Code, in co-operation with various agencies and individuals. Its objective is to secure and interpret data on prevailing quality of water in the major streams and lakes of California. These data are utilized by the Department of Water Resources in conducting water resources development studies and implementing the California Water Plan, by the regional water pollution control boards in establishing waste discharge requirements for protection of surface waters in California, and by other water service agencies throughout the State.

This report covers the period January, 1955, through December, 1956, and presents monthly analyses of water from 150 sampling points.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Mr. Samuel R. Geddes announced that Benicia will hold a celebration on Friday and Saturday, March 14 and 15, 1958, to rededicate the restored former Capitol of California, where the legislators met in 1853-54.

On Friday, March 14th, there will be a grand parade starting at 2 p.m. from the Old Capitol Building. That night there will be an oldtime torch parade with participants wearing costumes of the 1850's. Saturday, March 15th, at 10 o'clock, a joint meeting of the Senate and Assembly in regular session will be held in the Old Capitol Building

The Restoration Committee has invited dignitaries from all over the State to attend the ceremony. Governor Goodwin J. Knight will open the regular session. In the evening there will be a Governor's Ball and Banquet.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Mr. Samuel R. Geddes asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent that the following History of the Old State House be ordered printed in the Journal:

HISTORY OF THE OLD STATE HOUSE

Under the Mexican regime and subsequent Governors appointed by the President of the United States, Monterey was the Capital of California. Governor Bennett Riley called an election on August 1, 1849, for delegates to a convention to meet on September 1st, in Colton Hall, Monterey, to write a constitution. Peter H. Burnett was elected Governor and at the call of this convention the First Legislature met on December 15, 1849, in San Jose. On September 9, 1850, California was admitted to statehood.

The Second Legislature met in 1851 in San Jose, and in accordance with an election by the people, voted to accept the offer of General Mariano Vallejo for a capital site and buildings at Vallejo and designated Vallejo as the state capital.

The Third Legislature met at Vallejo on January 5, 1852, but finding unsatisfactory the bare wooden building provided by General Vallejo, the legislators moved to Sacramento after a few days. However, their preference for Sacramento was diminished by the flood of March 7, 1852.

The Fourth Session of the Legislature opened in Vallejo on January 3, 1853, but conditions were still unsatisfactory, and on February 4, 1853, the Legislature and state officials moved to Benicia and it was designated the capital. The State House was occupied with the Senate on the first floor and the Assembly on the second.

The Fifth Session of the Legislature opened here on January 2, 1854, with John Bigler as Governor. A movement soon started to move the state capital to Sacramento, and on February 24, 1854, a bill was passed and signed by the Governor locating the permanent capital at Sacramento. On February 26, 1854, the entire State Government and its archives departed from Benicia by steamer to Sacramento.

Deserted by the Legislature the State House served as the County Court House for Solano County until 1858, when the county seat was moved to Fairfield. Since then the building has had a varied history. Church services were held there, and it housed the Benicia Grammar School. The Fire Department and Public Library occupied portions, and it was used again as the City Hall

In 1951, it was conveyed to the State as a historical monument under the State Park Commission. In 1956 funds were appropriated to the State Division of Beaches and Parks and the Division of Architecture to restore the building. Its present splendid condition is a result of that restoration.

Mr. Coolidge announced that, with the exception of three, all subcommittees of the Committee on Ways and Means have completed their labors; that hearings by the main committee will be started soon; and that it is anticipated that the Budget Bill will be ready to be reported out of committee by the middle of next week.

Mr. Coolidge further announced that the Subcommittee on Education will meet at 3 p.m. this afternoon; and that the Subcommittee on Fiscal Affairs, Capital Outlay, Fish and Game, Board of Equalization, Miscellaneous, and Water Resources; and the Subcommittee on Mental Hygiene and Veterans Affairs will meet tomorrow.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions were offered:

By Miss Donahoe, Messrs. Lanterman, Doyle, and Bruce F. Allen:

House Resolution No. 30

Relative to the continuation of state-operated community mental hygiene clinics

WHEREAS, The Legislative Counsel, in an opinion dated February 25, 1958, has stated that there is nothing in the language of the Short-Doyle Act to indicate that it was the Legislature's intention in passing the same to discontinue the operation of state community mental hygiene clinics; and

WHEREAS, Never during the course of the preceding six years when the Assembly has had before it proposals to establish programs designed to encourage the establishment of local mental hygiene clinics has the Assembly, in committee or otherwise, favored any proposal which would have resulted in the elimination of state clinics; and

WHEREAS, It is the belief of the Assembly that the continued operation of state clinics would not hamper the establishment of local clinics under the Short-Doyle Act in areas served by the state clinics, but rather would encourage local authorities to avail themselves of the act, as witnessed by the fact that of the six areas now served by state clinics the City of Fresno, the City of Los Angeles, and the County of Los Angeles have already filed applications for assistance under the Short-Doyle Act; and

WHEREAS, The discontinuance of state clinics would, in effect, make the provisions of the Short-Doyle Act mandatory by compelling those areas now served by state clinics to establish local clinics to carry on services now provided by the State, a result definitely not intended by the Assembly; and

WHEREAS, The Short-Doyle Act has actually been in operation for a very short period, entirely insufficient to determine whether local services established thereunder would compensate for the loss of state clinics, and this Assembly has no intention of binding future Legislatures, and prejudging the effectiveness of the act, by putting a termination date, express or implied, on the existing program of state services; and

WHEREAS, Statements made to the effect that state-operated clinics will soon be closed as a result of the Short-Doyle Act have been detrimental to the morale of personnel employed in those clinics, which in turn has had an adverse affect on persons now applying for or receiving aid at the state clinics; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Assembly, in order to eliminate any misunderstanding or misinterpretation concerning its action in passing the Short-Doyle Act, hereby declares that it was not its intention that state-operated clinics be discontinued, but rather that local clinics qualified for aid under the act should augment and expand the services now provided by state clinics.

Resolution read, and ordered referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. Hegland, Schrade, Crawford, and Luckel:

House Resolution No. 31

Relative to the memory of Merideth L. Campbell

WHEREAS, The Assembly of the State of California has learned to its sorrow of the death of Merideth L. Campbell, the distinguished attorney and native son of San Diego County, California; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Campbell, born in Bonita, September 14, 1911, a graduate of Sweetwater High School in National City, began his practice of law as the City Attorney of National City after receiving a law degree from the University of Southern California in 1935; and

WHEREAS, He continued in that post until volunteering for active service in the United States Army on December 6, 1940, wherein he served in the Adjutant General's Office until his discharge on March 22, 1946, with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel, at which time he resumed his practice of the law, including further duty as City Attorney of National City until his resignation on January 3, 1950; and

WHEREAS, He accepted the office of City Attorney of Chula Vista on December 31, 1953, a position which he retained until his death on November 1, 1957; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Campbell also tirelessly served as an officer or member of many fraternal, civic, and cultural societies, among which were included the Free and Accepted Masons, Royal Arch Masons, Elks, Royal and Select Masters, Rotary, Society of American Magicians, and Boy Scouts of America; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Assembly mourns the passing of Merideth L. Campbell, a valued citizen and beloved husband, father and friend; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly prepare suitable copies of this resolution and transmit them to Mr. Campbell's widow, Eddyth, to his sons, George M. Campbell and Merideth L. Campbell, Jr., and to his daughter, Mrs. Sharon C. Qualls.

Resolution read, and ordered referred to the Committee on Rules.

The committee is authorized to act during this session of the Legislature, including any recess, and after final adjournment until the commencement of the 1959 Regular Session, with authority to file its final report not later than the fifth legislative day after the constitutional recess during such session.

4. The committee and its members shall have and exercise all of the rights, duties and powers conferred upon investigating committees and their members by the provisions of the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly and of the Standing Rules of the Assembly as they are adopted and amended from time to time at this session, which provisions are incorporated herein and made applicable to this committee and its members.

5. The committee has the following additional powers and duties:

(b) To co-operate with and secure the co-operation of county, city, city and county and other local law enforcement agencies in investigating any matter within the scope of this resolution and to direct the sheriff of any county to serve subpenas, orders and other process issued by the committee.

(c) To report its findings and recommendations to the Legislature and to the people from time to time and at any time, not later than herein provided.

(d) To do any and all other things necessary or convenient to enable it fully and adequately to exercise its powers, perform its duties, and accomplish the objects and purposes of this resolution.

6. The sum of twenty-six thousand six hundred dollars ($26,600) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby made available from the Contingent Fund of the Assembly for the expenses of the committee and its members and for any charges, expenses or claims it may incur under this resolution, to be paid from the said contingent fund and disbursed, after certification by the chairman of the committee, upon warrants drawn by the State Controller upon the State Treasurer.

Because of the multiplicity of subjects to be covered in the interim and because their subject matter was so pertinent to existing problems which involved a wide variety of interests, the committee scheduled several public hearings to be held before the 1958 Budget Session in the months following the organizational meeting of the committee in Monterey on July 8, 1957. The committee has held six meetings as follows: August 12th at Redding; August 13th at Susanville; October 2d at San Diego; October 4th at San Pedro; December 5th at Visalia and January 27th at Eureka.

REDDING AND SUSANVILLE

The meetings in Redding and Susanville covered generally the same primary subjects relating to deer management, the interstate deer herds and pollution of inland waters and to a lesser extent the Kamloop project of Shasta Lake and the hatchery expansion program.

Big Game Management

Because the Department of Fish and Game's big game management program has been under considerable criticism for some time, the chairman requested the States of Oregon and Nevada to send representatives of their wildlife management departments to attend these hearings so that the committee could consider the big game management procedures used in those states as an aid to evaluating those used in California.

Considerable testimony was presented by representatives of sportsman groups, landowners, ranchers, federal agencies, the department and the States of Nevada and Oregon.

The primary differences of opinion rested on the populations of the resident and migratory herds and the relation of known populations to herd management.

Representatives of state game management agencies from California, Oregon and Nevada as well as those from the United States Forest Service and the Bureau of Land Management generally agreed that knowledge of the exact number of deer in a particular herd was unnecessary for the management of that herd inasmuch as herd management and range management is, for all practical purposes, synonymous. It was emphasized that the deer herds must be maintained at the level which the poorest range supporting that herd at any given time of the year can take care of without the range itself becoming further destroyed. This is necessary to insure healthy deer, good fawn survival and continuation of the range. It is true that no satisfactory method has been developed to determine the herd population but reasonable accuracy has been approached through deer trail dragging and track counts during migration as well as land sectioning and physical counting, then computing herd numbers from statistics resulting from these approaches.

It has been generally proven that of the total number of deer dying annually, the hunter accounts for only around 7 percent, but harvesting by hunters is the most valuable and economical deer management tool available. Constant range evaluation is being carried on by state and federal wildlife personnel, and experts in this field can determine quite accurately the degree of excess pressure on a given range and can make recommendations for harvesting of surplus animals from such determinations.

To provide for allowing an increase in herd numbers, obviously the carrying capacity of the range would have to be enhanced or, in some cases, pressures of domestic animals on the range could be reduced. On public lands, federal agencies have made considerable cuts in grazing permits to aid wildlife rehabilitation, but in considering this approach as well as that entailing all measures necessary for improving the range, all factors of compatibility of range use and the economic value of the resources to be benefited must be weighed against the costs involved and the effect of such measures on other resources involved to determine the justifiable extent of such programs.

Water Pollution

At these same meetings considerable time and testimony was spent on the various aspects of inland water pollution with primary emphasis on mining operations and the deleterious effect on fish life of heavy mineral leaching into the waters.

Apparently the procedures required in processing pollution cases under the Dickey Act are too involved and time consuming for effecting necessary action to protect fish life immediately when such a degree of pollution is found to be prevalent. In one case in question the condition has been active for many years but because of a technical ownership situation the pollution is allowed to continue. In another case, however, the offender has initiated self-policing to alleviate the situation. The department must work through state water pollution control boards in processing pollution cases; however, the degree of success of such cases is often contingent upon the degree of co-operation of those boards. It has been found that such co-operation varies quite markedly in specific areas of the State.

Another factor contributing to the excessive fish kill from heavy mineral leaching is the fluctuation in water releases from water retention facilities on the various rivers and streams. Apparently the presence of the pollutants has been prevalent for many years but normal water flows diluted this material to below the critical point; however, with the construction of dams, water level manipulation has created the existing problems. More co-operation must be solicited from the responsible dam agencies for the protection of fish life.

SAN DIEGO AND SAN PEDRO

The hearing in San Diego on October 2, 1957, dealt primarily with the problems and differences of opinion surrounding dove hunting in the State, kelp harvesting and recommended restrictions on fishing for certain ocean fish species.

Doves

One of the most contradictory subjects involves dove hunting. The opponents of such a practice base their contention that doves should be placed on the protected nongame bird list on:

1. Because of the doves' feeding habits and their tendency to congregate around watering holes they fall easy prey to indiscriminate slaughtering thus endangering the continuation of the specie.
2. They provide so little edible meat that they are often cast aside after having been shot.
3. The average dove hunter does not confine his hunting to doves but uses his dove hunting as an excuse to kill many nongame varieties of birds.
4. Trespassing and destruction of property is at a high during dove season.
5. The doves are nesting at all times throughout the year and killing of the adult doves leaves the young to fall prey to predators and disease.
6. Many other states have deleted the dove from the game bird list.

Opposing these arguments, the proponents contend that:

1. California's season on doves is set so as to take the peak of the adult dove population before migration.
2. The season is so set as to provide hunting at a time when fledgling doves are at the minimum.
3. If doves are protected in California they will fall prey to hunters in neighboring states and Mexico in their migration pattern where the limits are considerably higher than in California.
4. Because of the doves' frequent nesting they multiply as fast as quail and should they be protected they would soon become a pest to farmers by taking seed planted for field crops.
5. They maintain their population and adapt to a greater variety of habitats than any other game bird.
6. They provide the widest and most popular hunting of any game in the State.

It is apparent that many people, both for and against dove hunting, have very definite though violently opposed reasons for their respective stands.

However, we do recognize that at present there are no basic factors which would indicate that this wildlife resource is in any danger of extinction. Unlike ocean fish species the dove can be followed through its entire life history and precautions can be taken at any given stage to ensure its survival. Since it is a migratory specie, curtailment of hunting in California would not protect it from being hunted elsewhere. The maximum bag limits are set by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service; however, California has not availed itself of that limit.

Should dove hunting be discontinued it would have a decided deleterious economic effect without proper justification on the basis of contradictory information supplied. If the mourning dove specie were in danger of extinction this committee would feel compelled to make a positive recommendation for its protection. However, from all the information supplied, the committee can only draw the conclusion that opponents of dove hunting are primarily opposed because of their basic philosophy of what does or does not constitute a game bird and they would classify the dove with the meadowlark, robin, blue bird, etc. The committee is in sympathy with the sincerity of those opposed to hunting doves; however, we cannot ignore the fact that the dove in its present classification with the quail, partridge, pheasant, etc., provides the hunting population with what that particular segment considers as a vital and valuable recreation, and unless the bird were in danger of extinction the committee could not conscientiously recommend it to be dropped from the game bird list. Many birds have been taken off of the game bird list not because of their lack of edible meat, or because of their esthetic aspects, or because of their inability to provide a stimulating hunting sport, but because they were in danger of extinction; and if such a situation should ever prevail we would naturally recommend its protection.

Kelp

Kelp harvesting and its effect on the fisheries, on reproduction of kelp and on beach litter has long been considered an unknown factor because of the lack of sufficient data to appraise this practice.

In recent years the Institute of Marine Resources of the University of California, the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, the Department of Fish and Game and the kelp harvesting industry have attempted to delve into the basic biology of kelp to appraise the life cycle of kelp and its related influences. Information accumulated to date indicates that kelp can be artificially grown under laboratory conditions; it can be transplanted in the ocean at depths found to be favorable to its growth; harvesting does not result in beach litter inasmuch as the litter consists primarily of ocean weeds not involved in kelp harvesting; harvesting removes the nonproductive canopy thereby allowing penetration of sunlight which generates reproduction of kelp; exclusive of pollution which it is assumed might have a deleterious effect on kelp, oceanographic phenomena affect the condition and availability of kelp far more than does man.

By no means has scientific investigation provided all the answers desired for a better knowledge of kelp; however, it has been determined that wise kelp harvesting is probably beneficial and not deleterious to kelp, nor does kelp harvesting result in beach erosion or beach litter.

The major unknown factor is the effect of pollution on kelp. It is presumed that pollutants discharged at outfall points are the cause of the lack of and the receding of kelp beds in those areas; however, the physical and chemical relations have not been established. This phase of the study has been initiated by the State Water Pollution Control Board and the various investigations are being correlated to insure continuity and ensure against duplication in the approach.

The advisability of establishing additional regulations for the taking of several ocean species was discussed at the same meeting, including abalone, anchovy, the yellowtail, white sea bass, barracuda, lobster and the tuna fishing generally.

Abalone

In the case of abalone it was revealed that in Southern California waters the black abalone is very scarce and the green abalone is decreasing in numbers which could possibly justify legislation for curtailment of both the commercial and sport pressure on these species. The red abalone is apparently the only type which is providing a fairly stable sustained yield from San Miguel north; however, there has been a considerable decline in the pink abalone around the Channel Islands, especially since the larger pink abalone have been harvested. It was generally accepted that perhaps some slight changes might be made in the laws affecting the taking of abalone to help the various species level off to a sustained yield basis, but there is no evidence as yet to support any recommendations for sweeping closures to commercial and sport fishing. In fact, reverse recommendations were offered to relax certain size restrictions, especially on the red abalone since testimony revealed that the mature specimens of this specie are abundant in the San Diego area at depths ranging between 50 and 90 feet. Because of the crowded conditions many of these abalone apparently do not attain the size allowed for their taking and their meat is dark with little market appeal. It was felt that by relaxing the size limit on the red as well as perhaps on the green abalone, more of the mature but undersized abalone might be taken, allowing the young abalone more space in which to grow and thus possibly improving the quality and size of these two species.

Anchovy

The critical condition of the anchovy was discussed at some length. The party boat business depends quite heavily on the anchovy for bait. The scarcity of anchovy in the Lower California waters forced many to go as far north as Hueneme to secure bait for the fishermen. The sport fishermen and party boat operators were generally in favor of curtailing commercial fishing for anchovy, but it was pointed out that the commercial fishermen in the San Diego area fished for this specie to provide the sport and party boat fishermen with bait. Although the presence of anchovy in the Monterey Bay area was very encouraging in 1957, the lack of spawning has the commercial and sport interests somewhat concerned.

Lobster

Testimony also revealed that some consideration should be given to redesigning lobster traps to include materials which would eventually corrode in the ocean water to allow lobster escapement from lost traps. It was felt that a large number of lobsters are lost annually because of trap loss which left the trapped lobsters vulnerable to predaceous fish, octopi, etc.

Barracuda—White Sea Bass—Yellowtail

The barracuda and white sea bass populations increased tremendously in the California waters during the 1957 runs; however, the commercial landings will not reflect this picture because the low market prices for these species made fishing for them uneconomical during peak periods. The yellowtail fishery also increased very markedly. It was felt that the warmer waters existing off the coasts of California in 1957 was a primary factor influencing these heavy runs. Even in the face of these conditions, the sport and commercial interests are still considerably apart inasmuch as the sport fishermen desire stringent regulations on the commercial fishermen whereas the commercial fishermen feel that such regulations are unnecessary and that when the fisheries indicate any depletion, if any regulations are levied on commercial interests to reduce or eliminate fishing for those species, the sport fishermen should accept like regulations in the interest of conservation.

Tuna

The serious situation facing the tuna fishing industry was discussed. Because of outside competition from other countries the California tuna fleet has suffered considerably. To help alleviate this situation the United States Congress will consider a bill in its 1958 session referred to as the "Fisheries Protective Act" which is designed to give full protection to the tuna fishing industry in California and to allow this group to profit from the increase in tuna sales in a greater proportion than the home fishing fleet now enjoys. Because of the employment and economics involved, every effort should be made to protect the home industry. By the 1959 California Regular Session the situation may be alleviated if the "Fisheries Protection Act" is enacted—if not, further action must be taken based upon conditions prevailing at that time.

Water Pollution

In addition to subjects previously considered, the committee hearing at San Pedro on October 4, 1957, also dwelled to some extent on aspects of water pollution in the vicinity of San Pedro as well as in the Los Angeles and Long Beach Harbors.

The State, through the Water Pollution Control Board, has adopted certain long-range waste disposal and water quality objectives for the Los Angeles and Long Beach Harbors, incorporated in which is the state policy specifying the beneficial uses recognized both within and outside the harbors. The policy further specifies the condition which it is desirable to maintain so that those beneficial uses may best be realized.

Although all the objectives have not been attained the board is fairly well satisfied with the progress and co-operation being received.

Testimony revealed that the Department of Fish and Game had never invoked Section 481.5 concerning pollution affecting fish life, in the filing of formal complaints with the Regional Water Pollution Control Board of the Los Angeles-Long Beach Harbor area, but that the department has often contacted the board informally to report undesirable conditions. Activities of the board in this area involve 18 governmental agencies, each of which works without cost to the State in conducting the majority of the work performed. It was indicated that the State Public Health Service as well as the local board are in accord with the work being accomplished by these districts.

The coast communities are apparently very concerned over the untenable conditions prevalent in the Southern California ocean waters and have indicated they are willing to accept bond issues to achieve the desired results. It was noted that marine plants upon which various fish such as abalone are directly dependent and upon which lobsters are indirectly dependent are now absent from the immediate area of the sewage outfalls. The condition of the abalone in the area is very poor and many fish which should be in these waters are completely absent.

The Department of Fish and Game is not satisfied with the objectives which have been set at the outer harbor of San Pedro or at the White Point outfall and feels that the fish life is not being adequately protected in the Southern California area generally.

VISALIA

The committee held its next meeting in Visalia on December 5, 1957, where discussions were held relative to big game, upland game, trout, dove, wildlife habitat improvement and stream pollution.

Big Game

In addition to points discussed previously on big game, certain witnesses disagreed with the current big game report in its assertion that deer were overly abundant in Riverside County; also, instances of lack of discretion and common sense on the part of hunters were cited in relation to big game hunting in California, and others favored controlled hunting by districts rather than holding general either-sex hunts.

Pheasant

The pheasant program was generally discussed and the practicability of using county prison labor in the pheasant program was emphasized. As an example, the game farm production at Porterville in Tulare County proved very economical in the use of prison labor there.

Trout

In the discussion of the trout hatchery program, the decline in the efficiency of producing trout at the small Sequoia Hatchery was revealed and it was indicated that this hatchery is to be critically surveyed to determine the advisability of discontinuing it. As has been the case in the closure of all other inefficient hatchery and game farm operations, the department indicates it can absorb the output of this hatchery in other of its facilities and would therefore be able to produce the same amount of fish for less money.

The necessity for increasing the output of fingerling trout with which to stock new reservoirs which are continually becoming available, was stressed. Many reservoirs are of suitable habitat for trout—others are more suitable for warm water species. Establishing and maintaining populations of warm water species such as black bass, blue gill, crappie, catfish, etc., is much more economical than establishing and maintaining populations of trout; however, habitat is the controlling factor as to which types of fish will subsist in particular areas and the end result is the same, i.e , very favorable conditions for mass recreation which are becoming increasingly necessary to cope with expanding population and increasing leisure time.

The discussion which ensued on the mourning dove at Visalia was of generally the same nature as the discussion in San Diego which was covered previously in this report.

Water Pollution

The State Water Pollution Control Board has indicated that it has a current backlog of some 3,000 discharge operations which require investigation. The board maintains that this condition prevails because of a lack of personnel to perform the investigation function. The department has filed many complaints involving water pollution which must be investigated by the board through the cumbersome and time-consuming procedure required by the Dickey Act. It is apparent that some system for effecting more timely relief of chronic pollution deleterious to wildlife must be devised. At the present time the celerity with which such a condition can be corrected is directly dependent upon the co-operation and time afforded the department by the particular regional water pollution control board affected.

Habitat Improvement

The committee was taken on a tour of a wildlife habitat improvement project in the area of Lion's Point in Tulare County where the department is clearing nonforage types of brush and is seeding with more favorable types. As we have pointed out in a previous report, it is fairly costly to rehabilitate game ranges and before too much work is done in this respect, a determination of the estimated value of the results to the State must be ascertained.

EUREKA

The committee held its final meeting, before the 1958 Budget Session convened, at Eureka on January 27, 1958. This meeting was called primarily to consider the condition of the salmon resource, the causes of existing conditions and recommendations to improve them. The department presented a very comprehensive statement of the status of the salmon resources, pointing out that although the salmon catch was at a very high level in 1956 and was considerably less in 1957, actually the fluctuation was more pronounced in years past. However, the disturbing factors were the poor spawning runs in 1956 and 1957, the effect of which will not be felt from three to four years.

No explanation could be given for the poor runs. The scientists are aware of many conditions which could contribute, but no one major factor has been isolated. It was indicated that among the controllable factors are pollution, barriers to spawning beds in streams and rivers, and fishing pressure. Some steps have been taken by the Legislature relative to commercial fishing and by the Fish and Game Commission relative to sport fishing for salmon. It has been suggested that more controls be instituted There is tremendous room for improvement in reducing stream pollution and increasing the number of miles of spawning grounds in streams which are at present congested with debris, log jams, etc. Perhaps some steps should be taken to curtail the amount of salmon destroyed by predators such as the merganser and sea lion. Watershed protection would prevent erosion which in some areas covers the salmon roe with silt, destroying them.

The possibility of discouraging bad logging practices which have a deleterious effect on spawning streams by requiring the operators to post bonds to insure protection of the State's water and fish resources was discussed. There are many miles of stream destroyed by storm and long discontinued logging operations which must be rehabilitated possibly with state funds.

It was very apparent at this meeting that the sport and commercial interests were in general support of each other in their intention to find an answer to the salmon problem. Each faction indicated its willingness to support any measure which was equitable as long as there was some assurance that such measure would enhance the resource.

The committee will hold several more meetings on assigned and other fish and game problems before the 1959 Regular Session. It has not been the intention of this report to present any concrete recommendations inasmuch as more facets to each problem will be considered and discussed to a more detailed extent in the final report.

RESEARCH BIBLIOGRAPHY

The committee has initiated the preparation of a bibliography of all pertinent research reports on major California fish and game species. When completed, this bibliography is to provide basic information relative to the various reports and the material generally presented in those reports. When this document of information covering some 55 species of fish and game is completed, it is the intention of the committee to refer it to nationally known scientists for evaluation for the primary purpose of determining the future extent and direction of research desirable or necessary to provide the Legislature with bases for future legislative controls.

The preparation of the research bibliography is being accomplished through the services of an individual provided by the Ford Foundation's co-operative intern program. The bibliography preparation is proceeding very well and the completed report will be available for evaluation in the near future.

PROBLEMS OF LICENSING STATION WAGONS AND TRANSIT CORPORATION VEHICLES

FULL COMMITTEE ON TRANSPORTATION AND COMMERCE

Chairman: Frank Luckel; members: Edward M. Gaffney, Vice Chairman; Lee Backstrand, Frank Belotti, Frank Bonelli, John Busterud, Walter Dahl, Clayton A. Dills, Louis Francis, Myron H. Frew, Leverette House, Vernon Kilpatrick, Lester McMillan, Charles W. Meyers, William Byron Rumford, and Charles Wilson.

Hearing: San Diego, November 21, 1957.

Summary:

STATION WAGON LICENSING PROBLEMS

Representatives of the Automobile Dealers Association of San Diego County, of civic groups, of groups of station wagon owners, as well as individual owners of those vehicles, testified regarding the inadequacies of the California Vehicle Code insofar as the registration of family-use station wagons is concerned. They were especially disturbed because many of them, or those they represented, had been issued citations by the Highway Patrol alleging violation of the commercial vehicle section of the code for the reason that they happened to have property of one sort or another in their vehicle. In most instances they would not have been stopped had they been carrying the same material in any other sort of family car.

As it is now written there is no definition of a family station wagon in the Vehicle Code. There is only the general definition of a "motor vehicle" or of a "commercial vehicle." Station wagon owners are presumed to have purchased a "commercial vehicle" and are required to sign an affidavit to the effect that it will not be used commercially to avoid payment of weight fees. This condition exists, according to testimony offered by several witnesses because, historically, the station wagon has evolved from being essentially a small commercial vehicle to what it now is—almost exclusively a family passenger vehicle. In the San Diego area the registration of new station wagons in recent years has been about 30 as passenger to one as commercial vehicles. It is, in fact, a dual-purpose vehicle with the accent on its status as a family-use vehicle.

Hence the California Highway Patrol—or any other police officer who stops a station wagon carrying property—is required to make an "on the spot" decision as to whether the owner is using his vehicle for either gainful purpose or family use.

The Vehicle Code does have the qualifying phrase "used or maintained primarily for the transportation of property" in the wording of Section 372, the commercial vehicle section but the word "primarily" is not at present contained in the affidavit required of the purchaser of a station wagon.

A witness, who represented a group of engineers who use station wagons on survey business, testified that he would be satisfied with the code as presently written if "primarily" were to be included in the affidavit.

Representatives of the California Highway Patrol and the Motor Vehicle Department testified regarding the problems of licensing station wagons and the enforcement of the commercial vehicle clause in the code

The California Highway Patrol representative stated that under the present code the burden of determining whether or not a station wagon was being used primarily as a commercial vehicle did fall upon the enforcement officer. The Motor Vehicle Department representative stated that the key word "primarily" would be included in the next printing of the affidavit required from registrants of station wagons. Both representatives suggested several alternative provisions for amending or revising the Vehicle Code.

The committee found as the result of this part of the hearing that:

1. The use to which the station wagon is being put in California is progressively more and more that of a family passenger vehicle.
2. That the station wagon is still being used by many owners for business purposes and as such is properly registered as a commercial vehicle by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles.
3. That the California Vehicle Code does not now describe or define the passenger vehicle which has become known under the general term, "station wagon."
4. That some traffic law enforcement problems have been caused by the failure to have the word "primarily" inserted in the certificate demanded of station wagon owners as required by the Vehicle Code.
5. That because of the discrepancies noted in paragraphs 3 and 4, above, the California Highway Patrol has frequently been required to make "spot" decisions when issuing citations alleging violations of the commercial vehicle section of the Vehicle Code.
6. That the number of station wagons registered in California was approximately 450,000 on December 31, 1957. This figure was expected to be augmented by at least 100,000 in the registry year 1958—thus increasing the problem confronting station wagon owners and the Highway Patrol.

The committee recommends the California Vehicle Code be amended as follows:

1. To properly define a station wagon in new Section 33.5.
2. To provide exemption from payment of weight fees for station wagons as defined in Section 33.5 of the Vehicle Code.

It is further recommended that, pending the above-proposed change in the Vehicle Code, the Department of Motor Vehicles be requested to revise the affidavit they require of station wagon purchasers so that the key word "primarily" be included therein as it is contained in Section 372(a) of the code.

REPORT OF TRANSIT CORPORATION VEHICLES

A representative of the San Diego Transit System testified that financial relief is needed by them—as well as by other transit corporations—if they are to remain solvent. He stated that many such corporations in California have recently been forced out of business because of declining revenue and increasing operating costs. He requested that this committee present legislation which would alleviate the financial burden of his corporation by reducing the registration fees for transit passenger busses.

There was no rebuttal to this testimony.

The Chairman of the Interim Committee on Transportation and Commerce recommends that consideration be given to the reduction of weight fees charged transit busses somewhat as follows:

Unladen weight	Present fee	Proposed fee
1. 6,000 to 10,000 lbs.	$54 to $94	$30
2. 10,000 lbs. or more	107 to 160	50

Hearings: Los Angeles, November 19, 1957
San Francisco, December 10, 1957

Summary:

Testimony was taken from representatives of parochial, private, and public schools, as well as from city, county, and state officials (including the California Highway Patrol), relative to the problem of safe transport of children to and from school.

From this testimony the following facts were established:

1. That school busses, other than those engaged in transporting public school pupils to and from a public school or to and from public school activities, are not subject to inspection by any state agency except as provided for all vehicles in the Vehicle Code.
2. That a nonpublic school bus, engaged in the transportation of children from a school in Los Angeles recently suffered an accident which resulted in the death of five pupils and the driver and the injury of 22 other children.
3. That postaccident investigation into the causes of that school bus accident disclosed that a series of mechanical failures had resulted in the air hoses leading to the rear-wheel brakes being broken. The bus was thus deprived of any brakes because the drive shaft had broken loose preventing use of emergency brakes, and the front-wheel brakes had previously been disconnected and were inoperative.
4. That the mechanical failures noted in paragraph 2, above, would conceivably have been discovered and remedied had the bus been properly inspected prior to the accident and the tragedy thus been prevented.
5. That drivers of private school busses are not required to hold a certificate of qualification issued by the Department of Motor Vehicles as are drivers of public school busses.
6. That in some instances the Public Utilities Commission loses control of common carriers when they are diverted for limited periods of time from their regular runs and are used to transport pupils to and from public or private schools, thus creating a "loose link" in the chain of inspection authority.
7. That there is evidence to support the contention that if some sort of supplementary braking system were installed on heavy trucks this would contribute to safety on the highways.
8. That evidence was introduced which supports the assumption that the reflectorizing of license plates would serve as an advance warning of possible danger in nighttime driving, thus lessening the incidence of accidents on the highways due to poor visibility after darkness has set in.

The witnesses before this committee were unanimous in recommending that remedial action be taken to correct the deficiencies in the Vehicle Code noted above as it refers to inspection of all school busses, public and private.

The committee recommends that the code be amended or revised as follows, requiring that all busses carrying children to or from private schools or to and from private school activities be subject to the same inspection by the California Highway Patrol as is now given busses carrying public school children:

1. To revise the definition of a school bus to include busses which carry children to and from private as well as public schools and to and from public or private school activities.
2. To add a section to the code for the purpose of defining a private school.
3. To add a section to the code specifically requiring the California Highway Patrol to conduct inspections of all school busses, public and private.
4. To incorporate in the Vehicle Code the specific requirement that drivers of all school busses, public and private, obtain a driver's certificate similar to that described in the California State Department of Education Regulations and Laws Relating to Pupil Transportation in California.
5. That certain Public Utilities Commission controlled busses, when diverted from regular runs for use in the temporary transport of pupils to and from public or private schools, and from public or private school activities, be required to remain under the inspection control by the Public Utilities Commission during the temporary period.
6. That a new section be added to the Vehicle Code which will provide for the gradual changeover from nonreflectorized to reflectorized license plates by the issuance of plates containing reflectorizing materials covering all or part of all license plates issued to purchasers of new cars and to the first registration in California of out-of-state cars beginning with the registration year 1959, for experimental purposes. At such time as the Department of Motor Vehicles shall decide, but not later than the beginning of the registration year 1965, nonreflectorized license plates shall be replaced by those containing reflectorized materials, provided the experimental reflectorized plates have reduced the incidence of nighttime driving accidents.
7. That further study be made to determine what action may be taken, if any, to require the installation of supplementary braking devices on heavy motor vehicles to serve as a deterrent to the kinds of highway accidents caused by runaway trucks. The feasibility of more careful driver selection and driving training programs, to be conducted by industry and the Teamster's Union, should be considered.

The Chairman of the Interim Committee on Transportation and Commerce has requested that the Governor place this proposed legislation on special call should an extraordinary session be proclaimed.

Hearing: Sacramento, December 18, 1957

Summary:

The first item considered at this hearing was an evaluation of the effect of A. B No. 3120, passed by the Legislature in 1957, on the logging industries, the Highway Patrol, and the highways of California. A. B. No 3120, now Section 705.3 of the Vehicle Code, grants a tolerance of 2,500 pounds to a group of axles of trucks hauling logs. This grant to expire on the ninety-first day after the final adjournment of the 1959 Regular Session of the Legislature unless further extended or made a permanent part of the code.

Testimony was taken from several representatives of the logging industry, the Teamsters' Union, the California Highway Patrol, and the Division of Highways. The industry spokesmen were unanimous in expressing their satisfaction with this weight-tolerance grant. They pointed to the good relations which now exist between the loghaulers and the patrol and promised to take every precaution within the industry to assure compliance with the weight limitations contained in the code.

The Highway Patrol representative concurred in the testimony regarding the good relations which now exist between the patrol and the truckers.

The Division of Highways' witness stated that insufficient time had elapsed since the weight tolerance had been granted for an adequate evaluation to be made.

Discussion was heard on the so-called "Flat Spot Bill" which would permit a gradual increase in gross weight allowances for trucks engaged in loghauling. As it is presently written, the Vehicle Code does not permit any increase in gross carrying weight in the distances between axles from 41 feet to 46 feet. This measure would correct the deficiency.

All industry spokesmen were in accord with the intent of the bill. They stated that in addition to economies in operation which would result if the bill were passed, there would be greater advantages accruing to all from the safety standpoint.

The representative of the Division of Highways testified that his department was not in favor of increasing weight allowances in any way for individual trucks because, as he stated, the engineers have felt that they have never been able to keep up with the weights and number of vehicles that are now using the California highways within present statutory engineering limitations.

All witnesses, those representing the Highway Patrol, the logging industry and the Teamsters' Union, were unanimous in recommending some revision of our driver licensing requirements and driver selection for the specialized tasks of operating heavy trucking equipment on California highways.

Future hearings are planned to discuss further transportation problems of the logging industry.

Hearing: Los Angeles, January 13, 1958

Summary:

At this hearing the committee had testimony from a judge of the municipal court, various county officials, Highway Patrol and various women's clubs on the topic: Enforcement of the "Antidumping Law."

There was some testimony favoring A. B. No. 1872, Johnson, which would amend Section 600.5 of the Vehicle Code by the rebuttable presumption that the registered owner of the vehicle committed the violation when a vehicle was involved. The favorable testimony came from a Los Angeles municipal court judge and a member of the county commissioner's staff.

Alternate proposals included the offering of rewards for information leading to the arrest and conviction of alleged offenders.

Also studied at this hearing was the matter of a slogan and/or an advertising campaign to inform and instruct the public on the need for keeping California's highways clean. With "Smokey the Bear" as an example, "Parky the Kangaroo" and the "Litter Bug" were suggested as passable statewide symbols. Considerable interest was shown favorable to the "Parky" symbol by the Los Angeles county official. However, most of the Garden Club representatives favored the "Litter Bug" idea because of its more universal appeal.

The need for some better control over litter disposal than now exists was pointed up by testimony indicating that in the metropolitan area of Los Angeles alone, the cost of policing highways and parks amounts to about $6.000,000 annually.

It was suggested that the need for keeping our highways clean should be part of the driver-training program of our secondary schools.

Discussion was heard on the question of placing markers along state highways consisting of pioneer routes. Representatives of state historical societies and of the Franciscan Fathers were particularly interested in placing replicas of bells to mark the sites of the 21 missions which were established in California, principally during the latter part of the Eighteenth Century, by the Franciscan Fathers. Most of these sites are on or closely adjacent to what is now Highway 101.

Questions arose as to the real value which such markers might have for tourists using our highways in view of the high speeds prevalent over them, particularly over California-U. S. 101.

Mention was made of several other pioneer trails, such as the "Pony Express" and "Overland Mail" routes.

The problem of excessive use of sirens by emergency vehicles, especially in metropolitan areas, was discussed at some length. It was generally agreed that two main avenues were open for the solution of the problem. One, to rewrite the code and redefine an emergency vehicle; the other to curb siren use by intraorganizational agreements. The Los Angeles Ambulance Association has taken steps to use the latter method. Police and fire department officials have by mutual agreement reduced the siren use.

The major part of the work of the Interim Committee on Transportation and Commerce, and its several subcommittees, is to be done after the close of the Budget Session (and the special session, should one be called). A minimum of 10 hearings will be required to consider the backlog of work which has already been assigned.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions were offered:

By Messrs. Hegland, Crawford, Luckel, and Schrade:

House Resolution No. 34

Relative to Little League, Pony League, and Colt League All-Star teams of La Mesa, California

WHEREAS, Interest in boys' baseball has in recent years led to the tremendous growth and expansion of Little League, Pony League, Colt League, and Connie Mack League; and

WHEREAS, As a consequence, hundreds of thousands of youngsters are now able to participate in our great national pastime under the best possible conditions; and

WHEREAS, The participants are learning not only the game of baseball but also valuable lessons in Americanism, for participation is not dependent upon race, color or creed, and good sportsmanship is a primary objective; and

WHEREAS, In view of the thousands of teams in the leagues mentioned throughout the United States and neighboring countries, the chances are remote that a representative team from any one community will be among the best, let alone the best; and

WHEREAS, Notwithstanding the staggering odds against such a possibility, La Mesa, California, a city with a population of approximately 25,000, had in 1957 the good fortune to have: (1) the North La Mesa Little League All-Star team, which was the runner-up in the Little League World Series at Williamsport, Pennsylvania; (2) the La Mesa Pony League All-Stars, which won the Western United States Pony League championship and then placed fifth in the Pony League World Series at Washington, Pennsylvania; and (3) the La Mesa Colt League All-Stars, which won the Colt League World Series at Ontario, California; and

WHEREAS, These achievements of the La Mesa teams are without precedent in the annals of baseball anywhere, and in all likelihood will never again be equalled; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Members of the Assembly join all Californians in congratulating the La Mesa Little League, Pony League, and Colt League All-Star teams on their tremendous 1957 records and accomplishments; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly be and he is hereby directed to prepare suitable copies of this resolution sufficient in number for presentation to each of the following:

Gracious God and Eternal Father. Who hast taught us by Thy word that in quietness is our strength; grant that we may spend less time in idle talking and more in serious listening. Help us to hear the voice of history which declares that when morality weakens, nations begin to die; help us to hear the voice of others who speak from experience, and make us humble enough to heed their advice; help us to hear the voice of conscience as it commands us to halt when we would pursue unworthy aims; help us to hear Thy voice, O Lord, as it teaches us that love is the foundation of true living. Make us listen that we may learn; make us learn that we may lead; through Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Lord.—AMEN.

Minute Items Relative to Tide and Submerged Lands of Moss Landing Harbor District

STATE LANDS COMMISSION
STATE BUILDING, LOS ANGELES

REFER TO FILE NO. W.O. 2530

Hon. L. H. Lincoln, Speaker of the Assembly
California Legislature, State Capitol
Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. LINCOLN: Chapter 1190, Statutes of 1947, in effect September 19, 1947, conveyed certain tide and submerged lands of the State to the Moss Landing Harbor District, in furtherance of navigation, commerce, and fisheries. This act requires, in part, that within 10 years from the effective date of the act, the granted lands shall be substantially improved by the district, and if the State Lands Commission should determine that the district failed to improve the lands as required, the granted lands would revert to the State.

Based on a review of the development activities undertaken heretofore by the Moss Landing Harbor District, the State Lands Commission, on February 11, 1958, found that the harbor district has substantially improved the tide and submerged lands granted by Chapter 1190, Statutes of 1947, as required by that act.

Therefore, and pursuant to further authorization by the commission, a copy of the record of action by the State Lands Commission is transmitted herewith for the information of the Legislature. Copies of this report have been transmitted to all Members of the Legislature.

Yours very truly,

F. J. HORTIG, Executive Officer

Almighty God, the Creator and Sustainer of All Men Who Dwell Upon the Face of the Earth; Forgive us our pride in believing that we can manage life without Thy help; forgive our folly in thinking that we know all the answers when we haven't even understood all the questions; forgive our unfaithfulness as we again and again fail to practice what we profess. OPINION OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

Supervision of Pupils—No. 1543

Hon. Edward E. Elliott
Assembly Chamber

DEAR MR. ELLIOTT:

Question

1. Does the law require that public school pupils be under the supervision of a certificated employee of the school district at all times during the school day?

2. May a school district use noncertificated employees or other persons, such as recreation directors or members of the Parent Teachers Association, to supervise the pupils during lunch hour?

Opinion

1. In our opinion the answer to this question is no.
2. In our opinion the answer to this question is yes.

Analysis

Our research has revealed no law explicitly requiring that public school pupils be under the direct supervision of a certificated employee of the school district at all times during the school day. However, a district may not credit as attendance, for average daily attendance on which apportionments from the State School Fund are based, the time during which a pupil is not engaged in an educational activity and under the immediate supervision and control of a certificated employee (Ed. C, Sec. 6904).

The only California cases revealed by our research bearing on this question are cases involving the liability of a school district for the death or injury of a pupil based on the district negligence in not providing proper supervision. The courts find a duty on the part of a district to provide adequate supervision of school pupils, on the school playground or in the lunchroom, immediately before school starts and during recess and the lunch hour, in the language of a rule of the State Board of Education and a section of the Education Code. (Tymkowicz v. San Jose Etc. School District, 151 Cal. App. 2d 517, at 522; Charonnot v. San Francisco Unified School District, 56 Cal. App. 2d 840, 844; Forgonne v. Salvador Union Elementary School District, 41 Cal. App. 2d 423, 425-6; Buzzard v. East Lake School District, 34 Cal. App. 316, 320). In these cases there was either no supervision by a teacher or other district employee, or there was an insufficient number of teachers to provide adequate supervision, or the supervising teacher was negligent.

The rule of the Board of Education provides:

> "Where playground supervision is not otherwise provided, the principal of each school shall provide for the supervision, by teachers, of the conduct and direction of the play of the pupils of the school or on the school grounds during recesses and other intermissions and before and after school. All athletic or social activities, wherever held, when conducted under the name or auspices of any public school, or of any class or organization thereof, shall be under the direct supervision of the authorities of the district."

The Education Code provides in Section 13229:

> "Every teacher in the public schools shall hold pupils to a strict account for their conduct on the way to and from school, on the playgrounds, or during recess"

In the case of Reithardt v. Board of Education, 43 Cal. App. 2d 629, where it was claimed that the district was negligent because it breached the rule of the State Board of Education, referred to above, the court held that the rule did not apply to a 10-minute passing period at a high school and that the rule was intended to apply to the matter of playgrounds and play such as would occur at lunch hours or during the 20-minute recesses in elementary grades. The court stated, at page 633 of the report, that the rule was not intended to place on the governing body the onerous burden of employing additional teachers to follow the students about from class to class.

It is a matter of general information that teachers do not accompany pupils being transported to and from school on school busses and we do not believe that the courts would find any duty on the part of a school district, arising under Section 13229 of the Education Code or the rule of the state board to provide direct supervision by a certificated employee during such bus rides.

The rule of the State Board of Education requires that pupils be supervised by teachers while on the playground where playground supervision is not otherwise provided. Hence the rule would not be violated if some type of supervision, other than supervision by teachers, were provided.

Section 13201 of the Education Code requires the governing board of each school district to fix and prescribe the duties to be performed by all persons in public school service in the school district. In our opinion this section would authorize a school district to require playground supervision by noncertificated employees during the lunch hour. It is also our opinion that a school district may arrange to use volunteer adults, such as parents who are members of the Parent Teachers Association, for playground supervision during the lunch hour.

The use of volunteer adults to assist in the supervision of pupils is recognized by the state law in Education Code Section 16271.1 which allows the use of school busses to transport such volunteer adults in connection with activities of an educational nature.

We assume that the recreational director referred to in the question is the person holding the title referred to in Section 24409 of the Education Code which allows any school district to appoint, prescribe the duties of, and provide for the compensation of recreational directors, supervisors, custodians, assistants, deputies, and other employees as it deems reasonably necessary to carry out the provisions of Sections 24401-24411 relating to community recreation. In our opinion the use of such recreational directors to supervise school pupils during the lunch hour would be within the powers of a school district under these provisions on community recreation.

As stated above, Education Code Section 6904 provides that state funds given on account of the attendance of a pupil may be given only with respect to the attendance of a pupil while he is engaged in educational activities under the immediate supervision and control of a certificated district employee. We doubt that the use by a district of persons who are not certificated employees to supervise pupils during the lunch hour would result in any loss of state funds by virtue of Section 6904.

Very truly yours,

RALPH N. KLEPS, Legislative Counsel

Mr. Masterson asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent that the following Progress Report of the Subcommittee on Public Indebtedness of the Interim Committee on Revenue and Taxation be ordered printed in the Journal:

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

ASSEMBLY, CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE
March 7, 1958

Hon. L. H. Lincoln, Speaker of the Assembly
Hon. Members of the Assembly
Assembly Chamber, State Capitol
Sacramento, California

GENTLEMEN: Your Assembly Revenue and Taxation Interim Subcommittee on Public Indebtedness, in accordance with House Resolution No. 305, transmits herewith a Progress Report on its activities to date.

Lengthy testimony has been presented to the subcommittee on this complex and difficult problem. The importance of an equitable solution without unnecessary delay to the people of the State cannot be underestimated. Although this subcommittee report, with analysis of the facts and issues and recommendations for legislative action, will be ready for the 1959 Legislature, in the interim it is hoped the interested parties will use the facts made available to date by the subcommittee's efforts to seek and find a fair and just solution that will be in the interests of the welfare of the entire State.

Many of our first objectives have been covered in the present report, at no great expense to the subcommittee, and we plan to proceed as far as we can go in order to make a full report during the early days of the 1959 Regular Session.

We recommend augmentation of the allocation to the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee in sufficient amount and designated for the continuation of our research.

Respectfully submitted,

Preface

The Assembly Revenue and Taxation Subcommittee on Public Indebtedness was created by House Resolution No. 305 as a result of the introduction of Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46 at the last session of the Legislature.

That measure, which was introduced by Assemblyman Masterson, would have redefined public indebtedness to include "lease-purchase" agreements and revenue bonds and would have subjected such arrangements to the requirement of a vote of the people. While broadening the definitions of indebtedness to include matters not now subject to the constitutional requirement of a vote, the measure would have reduced the vote required from 66⅔ percent to 60 percent for general obligation bonds.

It was disclosed that at the present time, many public agencies do not come within the debt limitation provisions of Section 18 of Article XI of the State Constitution and that those agencies which do, had been able, because of the looseness of the definition of "indebtedness," to evade the requirement of a vote before committing tax funds to the repayment of long-term obligations.

Thus it was discovered that of Los Angeles County's approximate $96,000,000 long-term indebtedness, only $49,000,000 had been incurred after a vote by the people and $47,000,000 had been incurred without a vote.

Also it was disclosed that interest rates on those obligations incurred without a vote are considerably higher than the interest rate on bonds voted by the people, and thus impose an additional burden upon the taxpayer without his consent.

The time available for hearings at the regular session of the Legislature was insufficient to permit a complete investigation of the subject matter and the measure was referred for interim study.

S. C. MASTERSON

Scope of the Study

The problem of taxation grows greater with each passing year. As tax rates increase, cries of anguish from overwrought citizens rise ever higher. Only one thing seems certain—there is no easy overall solution to the problem.

Instead, taxation is a problem comprising many factors; each of which has many ramifications and complexities. One of these factors in the tax picture, and a very important one, is the incurring and financing of long-term public debt.

At present, Article XI, Section 18, of the Constitution of California regulates the incurring of long-term indebtedness by cities, counties, and school districts. Intended as a bulwark against the extravagant and unwise commitment of tax funds to sometimes questionable public improvements, the constitutional provision has become a sieve through which our tax funds flow for the most part without let or hindrance.

There can be no doubt that the intent of those who wrote the provision in 1879 was to require each year's expenses to be paid out of the revenues for that year, and that no expenses should be chargeable against the revenue of future years unless approved by a vote of two-thirds of the electors voting on the proposition. Such was the intent; however, it has worked out differently in practice.

In the first place, Article XI, Section 18 limits only cities, counties, and school districts. In 1879, these were the only local agencies of government which could incur an indebtedness payable from general tax funds. However, since that time, there has developed by legislative permission more than one hundred different kinds of special districts having the power to tax and to incur long-term indebtedness. These local special districts total in the aggregate in California, more than 5,000. None of them are subject to the limitations of Article XI, Section 18! Yet each has the power to create long-term, tax-secured obligations which the property owner is required to pay.

Secondly, methods have been devised by the agencies subject to the constitutional provision to evade its limitations. Chief among these is the so-called "lease-purchase" agreement under which a public improvement is purchased over an extended period under the guise of a lease with an option to buy. No vote of the people who foot the bill is required. Generally such arrangements are more expensive to the taxpayer—interest charged on the deferred payments usually exceeds that charged on general obligation bonds by 1 percent or more.

The restraining effect of the constitutional provision has been further loosened by the "special fund" doctrine and its extent limited by the "involuntary obligations" theory. Likewise, "revenue bonds" have been held not to fall within the purview of Article XI, Section 18.

If the people are to have the power to determine whether their tax funds shall be committed to the payment of long-term indebtedness, as was the original intent of Article XI, Section 18 of the Constitution, then it is obvious that this provision must be redrafted.

While the committee does not feel that Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46 is the final answer to the State's problem, we do believe it has some good basic points backed up by sound reasoning. Although Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46 does need redrafting, it is, nevertheless, a good starting point—something to work from.

The hearings held in Los Angeles and Fresno have given at least five Members of the Legislature a far better understanding of the concepts of bond financing on the state level and an insight of the problems the State will be forced to face in the near future.

We hope to be able to place our findings and recommendations before the people of the State of California at the next general session of the Legislature. Further study and evaluation of our findings should result in workable, yet corrective legislation that will protect the taxpayer, but will not hamstring the progress and future development of any local community.

Findings and Recommendations

PRELIMINARY FINDINGS

On the basis of hearings held in Los Angeles and in Fresno, the committee finds that:

1. One of the major objections to Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46 as it is now drawn is based on an interpretation of the measure made possible by somewhat ambiguous drafting. This objection can be taken care of by redrafting the constitutional amendment in such a manner as to remove the ambiguities.
2. Local governing boards faced with the need for public improvements and fearful of the results of an election requiring approval of two-thirds of those voting, have evaded the constitutional restriction by resort to "lease-purchase," "special fund," and "special district" arrangements which avoid the requirement of voter approval. Sometimes this has been done after voter disapproval of a bond issue. Such financing methods are more expensive to the taxpayer than general obligation bonds.
3. Most of the witnesses appearing before the committee had no conception of what a fraction-of-a-percent increase in bond interest rates could do in dollars and cents toward skyrocketing the price of bond financing; yet experts advise that an increase of one-quarter of 1 percent in the interest rate upon the bonds now authorized and unsold in California would result in increased costs to the taxpayer of more than $100,000,000 over the life of the bonds.

4. The majority of the opponents do not regard the lease-purchase method of financing used by so many cities, and counties as an obligation to be reckoned with in evaluating the credit rating of the State. Investment experts advise that such persons are mistaken in their belief. That in fact; resort to "lease-purchase" not only results in higher interest charges on the lease-purchase transaction, but also adversely affects the market for general obligation bonds.
5. School districts would probably welcome the reduction from two-thirds to 60 percent vote requirement to pass bond issues although school bond issues generally have not been obstructed by the two-thirds vote requirement.
6. It seems to be almost general opinion that all special districts should be subjected to the same uniform debt limitation and vote requirement as are cities, counties, and school districts.
7. California's credit rating (very high in the past) is being slowly, but surely lowered because local-level governing boards are resorting to methods of evading the constitutional limitation in order to finance public projects without a vote of the people.
8. With the huge volume of financing that faces California in the very near future, preventive measures must be taken to insure the maintenance of the State's credit rating, to protect the taxpayer from well-meaning, but inadequately informed governing boards creating unnecessarily expensive long-term obligations without voter approval, and to guarantee state progress with sound financial policy.

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR LEGISLATIVE ACTION

The seriousness of the problem and the relatively high cost, to the taxpayers of California, of financing the future bond issues of the State of California faced as it is with a desire to maintain its high credit rating and yet supply the people of the State with needed facilities makes further study important in long-range planning. Continued research and evaluation should be done during 1958 in an effort to reach a workable solution and the introduction of corrective legislation at the 1959 General Session of the Legislature.

On the basis of information available to date, it is recommended that:

A. At least three more hearings be held on the subject, preferably in San Francisco, San Diego, and again in Los Angeles, in an effort to accumulate additional information that should prove invaluable in our efforts to find a workable solution that would meet with general approval.
B. A report on the subject be compiled and made ready for distribution before the first day of the 1959 General Session of the Legislature. This report should contain the findings and recommendations of the five Assemblymen, sitting as an Assembly Revenue and Taxation Subcommittee on Public Indebtedness. It should also, and probably most importantly, contain a section devoted to proposed legislation, explained in such detail there can be no question by the general public as to the intent, purpose, and scope of that legislation.

C. The aforesaid report be distributed as far as is feasible to mayors, city managers, city attorneys, and boards of supervisors along with a covering letter asking that comments, suggestions, and possible additions to the proposed legislation suggested by the report be submitted to the chairman of the subcommittee before the last day of the bill-introducing period allotted to Members of the Assembly at the 1959 General Session of the Legislature.

D. The printing of the aforesaid report be done by the State Printing Plant and that the cost of compiling, printing, and distribution be paid out of remaining funds of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Subcommittee on Public Indebtedness.

Summary Analysis of Proceedings of Hearing on Public Indebtedness

LOS ANGELES, DECEMBER 3, 1957

CHAIRMAN S. C. MASTERSON announced the purpose of the hearing as in accord with House Resolution No. 305 for the purpose of studying the subject matter of Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46; introduced the members of the committee present (Messrs. Masterson, House, and Klocksiem) and Assemblyman John L. E. Collier, who attended the hearing as an observer; and called upon the first witness for testimony.

LES A. PARKER, representing the Los Angeles Building and Construction Trades Council and the State Federation of Labor, stated that Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46 was listed with the State Federation of Labor as one of the bad bills. He also stated that due to the increase in population it has been impossible to keep up with financing of local facilities by elections and bond issues. He felt that in case of a disaster in Los Angeles, it wouldn't make sense to have to wait for an election to provide funds to rebuild needed facilities. Mr. Parker said that the labor organizations felt our public boards had done an excellent job in protecting the public with definite savings of funds by using the present methods of financing.

RAY C. EBERHARD, Attorney for the California Municipal Utilities Association, testified that the association is opposed to Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46 in its present form. He felt that the present Constitution covered the situation adequately. The present Constitution requires a two-thirds vote before a county, city, or school district can incur an indebtedness exceeding the revenue and income provided in any one year. Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46 would grant a 10 percent reduction in that requirement. "I say a good argument might be made for that change, I won't, I'm not attempting to say what the association would think about that because that is not the only thing proposed here. Possibly a 60 percent vote would be sufficient A 50 percent vote is sufficient for state bonds, it might be that 60 percent would be sufficient for the others, although I'm not empowered to speak on that.

The association has interpreted a portion of Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46 (lines 1 to 10, page 2) to mean that all indebtedness secured by general obligation bonds must be paid from ad valorem taxes and not from revenues received from the project financed. The association feels that the present system of permitting the local officials responsible to the people of the particular areas involved to determine, as they have in the past, how the costs of these municipal enterprises should be borne is sound and should be continued.

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46 is further objectionable in its provisions relative to the issuance of revenue bonds. Larger cities which have charter provisions on the subject, are exempt from the proposal, but it does affect revenue bonds of some districts which now have authority to issue such bonds by action of their governing boards.

The association also objects to the lease-purchase feature of the amendment. According to the amendment, a city or county, or school district may enter into a lease for 50 years without an option to purchase or a lease for exactly 10 years with an option to purchase and still no public vote would be required, but a 15-year lease with an option would be illegal.

M. TELLEFSON, City Attorney for the City of Culver City, stated that in respect to the reduction from two-thirds to a 60 percent vote, it could just as well be reduced to a majority vote. "Why should a higher vote requirement be necessary for local agencies where altogether there is a much higher percentage of voters who are property owners than in the State as a whole, in which general obligation bonds are approved by a majority vote?

The lease-purchase arrangement utilized by the Federal Government and private enterprise, is a most important vehicle which should be available to all public agencies for the acquisition of necessary public improvements, the cost of which is too large to finance from current revenues, or which for one reason or another cannot be secured through general bond issues."

Attention should be given to legislation which would permit the cancellation of taxes on the facilities acquired under such agreements and dedicated to public use. The taxload which attaches itself to the property until title is actually acquired by the city is responsible for a very substantial part of the higher cost of this method of financing, Mr. Tellefson stated.

MELVIN HORTON, representing the Property Owners Tax Association of California, said his association feels that reducing the present two-thirds vote to 60 percent to make still easier the passage of general obligation bond propositions would not be in the public interest. Abuses of the power to incur public indebtednesses could take place under present law. However, submitting lease-purchase agreements to a vote of the electorate might result in public agencies resorting to straight leasing of buildings without the possible advantage of later taking title to the building by an option to purchase at a fixed price.

ALAN M. FIRESTONE, Chief Deputy City Attorney for the City of San Diego, stated that the City of San Diego is concerned primarily with that portion which deals with the requirement that general obligation bonds must be paid from ad valorem taxes. This would deprive the people of San Diego of the right to take advantage of better interest rates in the sale of bonds. General obligation bonds can be sold at better interest rates than can revenue bonds. If a utility is built it would be necessary to pay for it from ad valorem taxes and the revenues from the utility could not be used to pay for the general obligation bonds. This is not the only portion of the bill the city objects to, but it is the one which affects us most importantly.

FRANK M. WRIGHT, Associate Superintendent of Public Instruction for the State Department of Education. The chairman read into the record a statement from Mr. Wright who stated, "It is the feeling of the State Department of Education that the school districts would welcome the proposed liberalization to authorize bonded indebtedness and would agree with the definition of debt as now contained in the proposals."

H. G. RAINWATER, Chairman of the Visalia Taxpayers' Association. The chairman read into the record the following statement: "The Visalia Taxpayers' Association feels that reducing the two-thirds vote requirement safeguard would be a dangerous precedent."

RICHARD WINTER, California Taxpayers' Association. The association is opposed to any reduction in the present vote requirement. A two-thirds voted should be required before local governments may enter into lease-purchase arrangements. Property owners should be protected against any easy voting of public debt guaranteed by the property of the people. Present methods of revenue bond financing does not give the people an opportunity to express themselves directly on the creation of the liability for which they are responsible, Mr. Winter stated. He further stated that the Executive Committee of the California Taxpayers' Association opposes Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46 because it violates what they consider to be sound financial policy.

EDWARD D. LANDELS, Investment Bankers of America, California Group, stated that he felt the general objectives in Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46 are desirable; however, some further work should be done on the language of the amendment itself.

The amendment does two things: first, it would make the voting requirement applicable to the incurring of any long-term debt which constitutes a general obligation of the taxpayer; and second, it would reduce the requirement now applicable only to cities, counties, and school districts from two-thirds to 60 percent.

It is not the intention of the amendment to require that all general obligation bonds be paid exclusively from ad valorem taxes. That results, if it results at all, from clumsy drafting of the amendment This disposes of all the objections of the city attorney from San Diego and to a large extent it disposes of the objections raised by Mr. Eberhard. Some consideration should be given to liberalizing the provisions as applied to revenue bonds. The amendment needs more work, but the Investment Bankers Association is in favor of the two or three main purposes of the amendment. Those who defend the two-thirds vote requirement cannot justify eliminating from that requirement all types of special districts.

Lease-purchase obligations are not tax exempt and of necessity they carry anywhere from 1 to 2 percent higher interest rates. By requiring a two-thirds vote to incur a cheap debt, and no vote of the people at all to incur the most expensive kind of public debt, which is generally speaking lease-purchase, the credit of the State of California is being endangered.

There are in California today, approximately $2,000,000,000 worth of state and municipal bonds authorized and unsold. The difference of a fraction of a percent on those bonds which will be sold in the next year or two can put a tremendous load on the taxpayers of California. It is time to revise the amendment to bring it up to date. The same provision should be applicable to all special types of districts which in many cases are less responsible to the electorate or the taxpayer than cities or counties or school districts. A reduction in the voting requirement would encourage cities and counties to vote general obligation bonds which is the cheapest way of financing. The Investment Bankers don't believe the reduction would result in any great increase or great flood of municipal bonds The State's credit cannot remain high if this higher type of financing is continued.

FRANKLIN STOCKBRIDGE, Vice President of the Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles, appearing as Chairman of the Municipal Securities Committee of the California Group of the Investment Bankers Association, stated that the State of California and its districts are financed through bonds to the extent that each year the bonds issued amount to more than 10 percent of the total amount of the bonds issued in the Country as a whole. It is necessary to attract eastern capital to provide the bonds to build schools, water projects, etc. Out-of-state investors are becoming increasingly concerned with the lax way in which California is incurring debt. Lease-purchase type of financing is very disturbing to eastern investors. If investors decide that safeguards are being removed (taxpayers are no longer in control of the amount of debt they incur) they can look for some other place to invest their capital They do not have to buy California bonds.

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46 is basically sound. It accomplishes two things: it puts all districts on the same borrowing basis and; it closes the loopholes that allow districts to go around the financing safeguards.

DON DAVIS, general partner in the firm of Stone and Youngberg, Investment Securities, and also a member of the Municipal Securities Committee of the Investment Bankers Association, said the two-thirds vote was enacted by the Legislature when there was a great deal of nonresident ownership of property in the State and the voting power of the people was not necessarily in relationship to the taxpaying liability. The two-thirds majority vote provision, as it now stands, simply means that slightly more than one voter may defeat the wishes of two voters which is not in accordance with democratic principles.

The State of California's credit as such is being reduced and with the huge volume of financing that we are confronted with, it may be reduced more.

HARRY C. WILLIAMS, City Attorney of the Cities of West Covina and Azusa, said that he felt it is only proper that this debt limitation should apply to all those local governing boards which have the power to incur indebtedness or issue bonds. "I think there should be a general attitude in favor of the reduction of the percentage of vote required to 60 percent. The concept that one voter out of three can defeat the desire and wishes and vote of the other two is a little severe. On the other hand, it seems to me that cities would not favor any too relaxed provisions permitting the incurring of indebtedness, and therefore, it seems that this 60 percent provision would be an acceptable compromise between the present rather severe provision and the simple majority provision."

As to the lease-purchase provision—in a lease, the lease is not generally considered legally to be a debt If it is to be considered a debt, it is the obligation to pay rent that is the debt, not the option to purchase which is not binding at all except as a right which may be or may not be exercised.

F. W. CONVERSE, member of the State and Local Government Committee of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, said the Chamber of Commerce has a clear policy of opposition to changing the percent from a two-thirds vote to a majority vote, but has not reached a conclusion on a vote by 60 percent of the electors.

The chamber is further of the opinion that the Constitution should be amended to include lease-purchase financing of public improvements within the definition of indebtedness or liability subject to a vote of the electorate. Such financing devices represent a dangerous loosening of fiscal practice, taking away from the people the right to decide what long-term obligations they wish to have undertaken.

PAUL BURKE, Chairman, Los Angeles City Board of Education Committee on Law and Rules. Mr. Burke stated that the Los Angeles School System encompasses one-fifth of the entire State. Their capital expenditures are all financed by bonds. "I strongly feel that the requirement of public approval should be applied to other schemes of financing expensive capital projects of local governments and that the subjection of all such financing to a public debt limitation should be brought about and I think this one of the main objects to Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46."

The Los Angeles Board of Education is concerned because we are planning an absolutely indispensable bond issue and a large one. In June of 1958 the prospect of obtaining a two-thirds majority bond vote for a school bond issue with the current taxpayer revolt still in progress is almost minimum.

The 58 counties in this State should be subjected to a reasonable tax ceiling and any increase in the tax ceiling should be submitted to the people for a majority vote of approval as is now the case with cities, chartered cities, and all school districts in the State.

VICTOR N. HOCHEL, representing the Los Angeles County Employees Association, said his association has reviewed Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46 and desires to record its disapproval of this proposal. It would impose unnecessary restrictions upon the prosecution of needed and long overdue capital projects. It would be a grave mistake to surrender the present use of the flexible lease-purchase method of financing.

ROBERT MCKAY, Assistant Executive Secretary of the California Teachers' Association The association is not in a position to voice support or disapproval of the measure as a whole, but has a subcommittee of their Statewide Committee on Financing Public Education studying the matter very carefully. When this committee (Public Indebtedness) meets again, the association will be in a position to state what their attitude is on it.

Past attitudes of the California Teachers' Association on related matters would indicate that the association believes there should be a uniform procedure and requirement applicable to all such transactions.

CLARA MCDONALD, representing the United Patriotic People of the U. S. A., said, "We're not in a position to say at this time whether there should be a deviation from the state ruling on school bonds or whatever other bonds over and above what is produced locally. When you are paying the principal and interest as well, on these bonds we should, I think, adopt the idea to go just a little bit slower on bonds and certainly in my mind, offhand, there should be no deviation from the two-thirds vote."

CHAIRMAN MASTERSON thanked the committee members and witnesses for appearing and announced that the next meeting of the Public Indebtedness Committee would be held in Fresno on January 9, 1958.

The meeting was adjourned at 3.37 p.m.

FRESNO, JANUARY 9, 1958

CHAIRMAN S. C. MASTERSON announced the purpose of the hearing as in accord with House Resolution No. 305 for the purpose of studying the subject matter of Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46; introduced the members of the subcommittee present (Messrs. Masterson, House, Klocksiem, and Pattee) and Assemblyman Charles Wilson, who attended the hearing as a member of the Revenue and Taxation Committee; and called upon the first witness for testimony.

ALAN M. FIRESTONE, Chief Deputy City Attorney for the City of San Diego, expressed concern over that portion of Assembly Constitutional Amendment No 46 which he felt necessitated levying ad valorem taxes to pay for any additions to the City of San Diego's public facilities. He admitted that he did not feel it was the intention of anyone in California to make this ad valorem tax phase a requirement and after discussion agreed to submit to the committee proposed changes in language to take care of his objections and to clarify the meaning of the section.

Mr. Firestone also stated that any reduction from the 66⅔ vote requirement would aid in some measure to make more feasible the issuance of general obligation bonds. "If this portion of the bill were altered to reduce it to even 60 percent, although I would urgently suggest that 50 percent, or a majority, should be sufficient, that such reduction certainly would aid in some measure."

Asked if the City of San Diego had resorted to lease-purchase to any appreciable extent, he answered that the City of San Diego had never done so because it has been the position of his office that this is not the best way to finance public projects; that general obligation bond financing saves at least 1 percent per annum on the interest rate

CLARA MCDONALD, President of the United Patriotic People of the U S. A., appeared as a representative of the South Bunker Hill Association and expressed their opposition to Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46 because it gave them no tax relief.

Mrs. McDonald recommended that there be no ballot submitted to nonproperty owners on bond-issue proposals; the two-thirds majority vote by the people remain; a ceiling be placed on budget commitments for the 58 counties; and that bills such as Senate Bill No. 1234, concerning condemnation proceedings, be repealed.

R. B. JAMES, San Diego County Clerk, submitted a letter from the Board of Supervisors of San Diego County that expressed its opposition to Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46.

PHILIP GREGORY, representing the Investment Bankers Association, California Group, called attention to a study he had made of the voting requirements of California's myriad of districts which showed a completely inconsistent hodgepodge of voting requirements. This study has also been made by the Legislative Counsel, is available in printed form, and to anyone studying it, would indicate the desirability, if not pressing need, for some uniformity in this particular field.

There is general agreement in investment banking circles that the constitutional two-thirds vote requirement and the similar requirement in most district statutes has, perhaps as much as any other factor, been responsible for the generally high credit rating of California municipals and their general acceptance in the bond markets of the Country.

It is believed by the Investment Bankers Association, California Group, that the adoption of a constitutional amendment along the lines of Assembly Constitutional Amendment No 46 would, in the long run, strengthen the market for California municipal bonds and help insure a continuation of the generally high credit rating they have heretofore enjoyed. The salient effect of this proposed amendment is to allow the voters to have a chance to pass upon the incurrence of a long-term debt. Its adoption should over the years save the taxpayers millions of dollars by making it as easy for public agencies to finance needed public improvements by orthodox low-cost tax-free methods of financing as by resorting to other more costly methods.

To a question by Mr. Pattee· "If a bill like this went through which would stop a lot of the lease-purchase agreements and we went into a mandatory, or sold somewhat mandatory obligation bonds, this would help the banking industry quite a bit, too, wouldn't it?" Mr. Gregory replied: "Well, it would and wouldn't. Of course I think it's fair to say that a good deal of the funds used in a lease-purchase operation often would be borrowed from a bank so that wouldn't have any effect. But actually I'd like to make this point, Mr. Pattee, there's nothing in this proposed amendment that prohibits lease-purchase. All it does is say you have to submit it to the people."

ROBERT E. HANLEY, legislative representative for the California Farm Bureau Federation, appeared to introduce Mr. Allan Grant to the committee. Mr. Hanley's introductory remarks related to Mr. Grant's background which he (Mr. Hanley) felt, put him in a position to reflect to the committee the thinking of farm and rural people on these questions.

ALLAN GRANT, member of the Board of Directors of the California Farm Bureau Federation, said he felt the majority of farmers in California would be opposed to a reduction of the two-thirds vote requirement.

"It is of paramount importance that our government bonds be most acceptable to the investing public. Anything short of gilt-edge securities offered by us on the market will mean increased costs.

"Thus in order to keep our credit costs at a minimum and also to insure ourselves against extravagance, I would urge retention of the two-thirds vote, at least until the establishment of some other equivalent safeguard has been developed by thorough study.

"I question the advisability of incurring long-time public obligations without expressed public approval. It jeopardizes our credit and it takes government away from the people.

"I conclude with a reply to those who seek easy credit and think of it in terms of avoiding the two-thirds vote. Easy credit is short-lived unless it is cheap credit and cheap credit is based upon confidence and capacity. The investors must be confident that the dividends can and will be paid. The best assurance of that is an adequate vote of the people."

ROBERT E. HANLEY expressed appreciation of the opportunity of appearing before the committee; stated that the California Farm Bureau Federation felt the subject under study by the committee was very important and that his organization will have it under a thorough study, and would appreciate an opportunity of appearing before the committee at a future hearing.

CHAIRMAN MASTERSON thanked the committee members and witnesses for appearing and announced the next meeting would be held after the 1958 Budget Session of the Legislature. A time and place to be fixed at a later date.

The meeting was adjourned at 4.02 p.m.

FRESNO, JANUARY 9, 1958

ROBERT MCKAY, Assistant Executive Secretary of the California Teachers' Association, stated that after a careful analysis of the potential effect of the proposed constitutional amendment, not only upon school districts, but also upon other governmental agencies, the Finance Subcommittee of his association unanimously recommended approval of Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46. This recommendation was concurred in by the Committee on Financing Public Education.

The findings and recommendation of the Finance Committee were next submitted to the statewide legislative committee. After consideration the legislative committee took favorable action and recommended that the State Council of Education support Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46.

The recommendations of the Finance and Legislative Committees were submitted to the State Council at its Los Angeles meeting on December 7th. The council took the recommendations under advisement and scheduled final action at its next meeting to be held in April.

LES A. PARKER, representing the Los Angeles Building and Construction Trades Council, said that Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 46 will set up constitution standards relating to the borrowing of money for capital improvements which will be more restrictive than those presently existing. The Los Angeles Building and Construction Trades Council is opposed to any constitutional provision which will interfere with any of the devices now used to authorize funds for capital improvements.

HARRY D. ROSS, Controller of the City and County of San Francisco, urged that constitutional debt restrictions not be bypassed. "I can but warn you that this is not one of the simple matters often requiring legislative or electoral action. It is not a black or white situation. There are many ramifications that must be studied. It is a task for committees aided by attorneys and the heads of governmental units dealing with this problem.

"It is my view that government must be responsive to the will of the people. Expenditures require taxes. Expenditures require income. I am of the opinion that debts and liabilities incurred beyond revenues and incomes of fiscal years should be determined by the electorate and not by elected or appointed officers but, to reach this result, I am convinced we need a redrafting of our basic law."

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, STATE OF CALIFORNIA

Leadership in industry and commerce demands early training in scholarly aptitudes, integrity, forthrightness and character. To fill this need, many organizations, such as the Future Business Leaders of America, offer students expert guidance in all phases of their preparation for future contributions to our American Way of Life.

At no time has this been more important, for the American Way of Life faces a stern challenge from Communist Russia, both in the matter of defense, our ideologies, and in the preservation of our business economy. It is no secret that one of the Soviets' ambitions is to destroy our economy first so that they may more easily seize control of our Nation.

With branches in our schools and colleges, many American organizations offer our youth opportunities for acquiring the means of maintaining and accelerating our system of competitive enterprise. One of these organizations is the Future Business Leaders of America which continues to grow in membership and stature There are now more than 40,000 members in the United States; California has 130 chapters with approximately 2,700 members Local chapters and the California state chapter have been represented at the national conventions and have won numerous awards.

I am pleased to recognize Future Business Leaders of America Week during the period, March 16th to March 22d, inclusive, and I urge my fellow Californians to familiarize themselves with the assistance which this group and similar organizations are providing toward our economic security, and toward encouraging our young people to take advantage of the opportunities offered them by these enterprising and patriotic citizens.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this fifth day of March, A D., 1958.

WHEREAS, He commenced his career as a law enforcement official on July 8, 1936; and

WHEREAS, His training includes graduation from the Federal Bureau of Investigation Academy in 1946, and the completion of the Bureau of Investigation's Retraining Session in Washington, D. C., in 1957; and

WHEREAS, He also served two years on shore patrol for the United States Navy; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Klaumann became Chief of Police of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea on October 20, 1950; and

CONSIDERATION OF HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 30

By Miss Donahoe, Messrs. Lanterman, Doyle, and Bruce F. Allen:

House Resolution No. 30

Relative to the continuation of state-operated community mental hygiene clinics

WHEREAS, The Legislative Counsel, in an opinion dated February 25, 1958, has stated that there is nothing in the language of the Short-Doyle Act to indicate that it was the Legislature's intention in passing the same to discontinue the operation of state community mental hygiene clinics; and

WHEREAS, Never during the course of the preceding six years when the Assembly has had before it proposals to establish programs designed to encourage the establishment of local mental hygiene clinics has the Assembly, in committee or otherwise, favored any proposal which would have resulted in the elimination of state clinics; and

WHEREAS, It is the belief of the Assembly that the continued operation of state clinics would not hamper the establishment of local clinics under the Short-Doyle Act in areas served by the state clinics, but rather would encourage local authorities to avail themselves of the act, as witnessed by the fact that of the six areas now served by state clinics the City of Fresno, the City of Los Angeles, and the County of Los Angeles have already filed applications for assistance under the Short-Doyle Act; and

WHEREAS, The discontinuance of state clinics would, in effect, make the provisions of the Short-Doyle Act mandatory by compelling those areas now served by state clinics to establish local clinics to carry on services now provided by the State, a result definitely not intended by the Assembly; and

WHEREAS, The Short-Doyle Act has actually been in operation for a very short period, entirely insufficient to determine whether local services established thereunder would compensate for the loss of state clinics, and this Assembly has no intention of binding future Legislatures, and prejudging the effectiveness of the act, by putting a termination date, express or implied, on the existing program of state services; and

WHEREAS, Statements made to the effect that state-operated clinics will soon be closed as a result of the Short-Doyle Act have been detrimental to the morale of personnel employed in those clinics, which in turn has had an adverse affect on persons now applying for or receiving aid at the state clinics; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Assembly, in order to eliminate any misunderstanding or misinterpretation concerning its action in passing the Short-Doyle Act, hereby declares that it was not its intention that state-operated clinics be discontinued, but rather that local clinics qualified for aid under the act should augment and expand the services now provided by state clinics.

Give us the will and the courage, O Lord, to enter the struggle, to be not merely observers but active participants. And help us by Thy Grace to choose the right side, to fight with Thee and not against Thee, for Thy cause shall ultimately be victorious, and only as soldiers of Thine can we ever fulfill the highest purpose of life; through Christ, our Lord — AMEN

OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Honorable L. H. Lincoln
Speaker of the Assembly
State Capitol
Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. LINCOLN:

Re: State of California v. State of Washington, Supreme Court of the United States, No. 13, Original

On February 13th the above styled case was initiated in the original jurisdiction of the United States Supreme Court. Our objective in this litigation is to terminate the discriminatory trade barriers against California wine which have been in effect in the State of Washington for many years.

I have taken this action in response to Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 98 of the 1955 Session (Calif. Stats. 1955, Ch. 214). Therein the Legislature requested the Governor, the Director of Agriculture, and the Attorney General to take appropriate action to remove discriminatory trade barriers against California wine.

Copies of our Motion for Leave to File a Complaint, with attached complaint, and our brief in support thereof are enclosed. Under the procedure governing cases in the original jurisdiction of the Supreme Court, the State of Washington will have 60 days within which to file an opposition to California's effort to invoke the jurisdiction of the court.

Also enclosed is a summary and outline of the principal points involved in the case I thought that this might be helpful to you in the event you saw fit to call this matter to the attention of the Legislature by inserting it in the Assembly Journal.

The questions of constitutional law involved, as well as the importance of the wine industry to the economy of California, make this an important case.

Sincerely yours,

EDMUND G. BROWN, Attorney General

Encs.

Above transmitted copies of Motion for Leave to File a Complaint, with attached complaint, and brief in support thereof, ordered filed with the Secretary of State.

MOTION TO PRINT IN JOURNAL

Mr. Samuel R. Geddes moved that the Chief Clerk be authorized and directed to have a photograph of the State Capitol at Benicia and a short history of the Old State House in Benicia printed in the Assembly Journal for Saturday, March 15, 1958.

Mr. McCollister seconded the motion.

Motion carried unanimously.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO PRINT IN JOURNAL

Mr. Samuel R. Geddes asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent that the following report be ordered printed in the Journal:

REPORT OF THE JOINT INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE ON A LEGISLATIVE SESSION IN THE FORMER STATE CAPITOL IN BENICIA

Honorable Hugh M. Burns, President of the Senate
Honorable L. H. Lincoln, Speaker of the Assembly

The Joint Investigating Committee on a Legislative Session in the Former State Capitol at Benicia, organized under Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 3 of the 1958 Session, has conducted two meetings and several subcommittee meetings.

The committee finds that it is completely feasible and it is desirable to have a session of the Legislature in the old State Capitol at Benicia on Saturday, March 15, 1958, at 11 a m. The building will be rededicated on that date at 10 a m. as a state historical monument under the management of the State Division of Beaches and Parks.

Furnishings in the building have been reproduced as exact replicas of the furnishings in existence in 1853 to 1854 when the Legislature regularly met at that site.

The following procedure is recommended:

1. On Friday, March 14th, each house should adjourn the Budget Session to meet in Benicia at the old State Capitol at 11 a m. on March 15th.

2. Each house should adjourn the Special Session to meet in Sacramento at the desired hour on Monday, March 17th.

3. The statutory or constitutional officers of each house should be present at the session at Benicia together with such other attaches as are essential to operate and maintain a record of the regular daily session of the Legislature. These staffs should be kept to a minimum in keeping with the availability of physical facilities in that building.

4. Each house will convene in its own chamber in the old Benicia Capitol Building and will proceed with the regular order of business, including the opening prayer by the Chaplain, and the pledge of allegiance to the Flag.

5. Each house will call the roll in the regular manner, and in addition, each house, on motion from the floor, will call the roll of the names of the members of the 1853 Session.

6. Appropriate resolutions in connection with this historic meeting will be introduced, including both house resolutions and concurrent resolutions, and will be acted upon at the session. It is presumed that they will be considered without reference to committee, print, or file, and in the case of concurrent resolutions transmitted to the other house immediately for action there.

7. The Assembly, by committee, will then invite the Senate to meet with them in joint session to hear an address by the Governor of California. At this time both houses will recess for this purpose and convene jointly in the Assembly Chamber on the upper floor.

8. Following the Governor's message the respective houses will reconvene in their own chambers and adjourn the Budget Session to meet at the desired hour in Sacramento on Monday, March 17th.

Due to the limitation of space in the building it will be necessary to regulate very closely the admission of guests. A survey of these facilities indicates, and the committee recommends, that those members who desire to have their wives in attendance as guests may do so by indicating in advance of the session that their wives will be present so that adequate arrangement can be made.

There will be no other guests of members permitted. A limited number of constitutional officers of the State and a limit of nine members of the local Benicia City Council and committee will be permitted as guests on specific arrangement with Mr. C. D. Alexander of the Senate Rules Committee.

While the securing of costumes by members and their wives is to be encouraged, it is recognized that this will constitute a problem to many of the members, and, therefore, the wearing of costumes is to be considered optional.

Respectfully submitted,

Relative to augmenting the funds of the Assembly Committee on Elections and Reapportionment

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That in addition to any money heretofore made available, the sum of three thousand dollars ($3,000), or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby made available from the Contingent Fund of the Assembly for the expenses of the Assembly Committee on Elections and Reapportionment (created by House Resolution No. 214, 1957 Regular Session) and its members and for any charges, expenses, or claims it may incur under said resolution to be paid from the said contingent fund and disbursed, after certification by the chairman of the committee, upon warrants drawn by the State Controller upon the State Treasurer.

House Resolution No. 52

Relating to commending the teachers of California schools

WHEREAS, During this post sputnik era of hysteria, the faith of some people in our schools, institutions and our teachers appears to have weakened; and

WHEREAS, An appraisal of the facts clearly shows, with respect to the teachers in California schools, that such an attitude is wholly unwarranted and that rather these teachers are deserving of credit and praise for their outstanding ability to train and develop leaders in every profession, occupation, or field of endeavor; and

WHEREAS, The facts show that the enrollments in California institutions of higher education for the fall of 1956 were a total of 192,338 students, most of whom, of course, are from California high schools with their basic education received from California teachers; and

WHEREAS, This grand total of students qualified to enter higher institutions has been achieved in spite of the higher and higher entry standards of such institutions; and

WHEREAS, History proves that other California students, trained by our teachers, have gone on to be eminent leaders in government, engineering, science, the arts, the professions, and in all other occupations; and

WHEREAS, In the fields of science and engineering where the detractors claim we are specifically weak, California schools have proven their superiority by producing 10 out of 16 of the young scientists who, when called upon on short notice, provided much of the scientific knowledge needed to launch the satellite Explorer I; and

WHEREAS, These young scientists, whose average age is 34.4 years, show that the product of California teachers has improved rather than declined; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That its members take this means to commend the teachers of the schools of California on their outstanding ability to train not only good citizens but leaders in every field of endeavor and to reassert our faith in our schools, our teachers, and our institutions; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly is hereby directed to transmit suitably prepared copies of this resolution to the American Federation of Teachers and the California Teachers Association.

Resolution read, and ordered referred to the Committee on Rules.

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, the Reverend Robert A. Romeis:

Gracious God and Heavenly Father, Grant us the wisdom to separate the important from the trivial, the matters which are worthy of serious attention from those which deserve but small consideration. Help us to have the clarity to see beyond the figures in the Budget to the human element—the people to be served, the sick to be cared for, the aged to be helped, the weak to be strengthened, the warped to be straightened, the youth to be educated. We are dealing with a living thing; grant that we may not smother it with words or bury it beneath high-sounding phrases. Make us remember that the Budget represents the State's service to its people, and help us as those who determine the dimensions of that service to choose not the good, not the better, but the best; through Christ our Lord.—AMEN.

THE OLD STATE HOUSE (as restored)

Meeting Place of the California State Legislature
1853 and 1854

HISTORY OF THE OLD STATE HOUSE

Under the Mexican regime and subsequent governors appointed by the President of the United States, Monterey was the capital of California. Governor Bennett Riley called an election on August 1, 1849, for delegates to a convention to meet on September 1, in Colton Hall, Monterey, to write a constitution. Peter H. Burnett was elected Governor and at the call of this convention the First Legislature met on December 15, 1849, in San Jose. On September 9, 1850, California was admitted to statehood.

The Second Legislature met in 1851 in San Jose, and in accordance with an election by the people, voted to accept the offer of General Mariano Vallejo for a capital site and buildings at Vallejo and designated Vallejo as the State Capital.

The Third Legislature met at Vallejo on January 5, 1852, but finding unsatisfactory the bare wooden building provided by General Vallejo, the legislators moved to Sacramento after a few days. However, their preference for Sacramento was diminished by the flood of March 7, 1852.

The Fourth Session of the Legislature opened in Vallejo on January 3, 1853, but conditions were still unsatisfactory, and on February 4, 1853, the Legislature and state officials moved to Benicia and it was designated the capital. The State House was occupied with the Senate on the first floor and the Assembly on the second.

The Fifth Session of the Legislature opened here on January 2, 1854, with John Bigler as Governor. A movement soon started to move the state capital to Sacramento, and on February 24, 1854, a bill was passed and signed by the Governor locating the permanent capital at Sacramento. On February 26, 1854, the entire State Government and its archives departed from Benicia by steamer to Sacramento.

Deserted by the Legislature, the State House served as the county courthouse for Solano County until 1858, when the county seat was moved to Fairfield. Since then the building has had a varied history. Church services were held there, and it housed the Benicia Grammar School. The fire department and public library occupied portions, and it was used again as the city hall.

In 1951, it was conveyed to the State as a historical monument under the State Park Commission. In 1956, funds were appropriated to the State Division of Beaches and Parks and the Division of Architecture to restore the building. Its present splendid condition is a result of that restoration.

House Resolution No. 55

Relative to moving the State Capitol to Benicia

WHEREAS, This present session of the Legislature has revealed to the members the far superior qualities of Benicia over those of Sacramento as a capital for our noble State; and

WHEREAS, The location of the City of Benicia, being closer to the center of the State, would foster greater harmony between the north and the south; and

WHEREAS, Its proximity to the Bay area cities would offer a much wider selection of both night clubs and churches for the members to attend according to their inclinations; and

WHEREAS, The outside lavatory facilities provided here are both novel and healthful, requiring, as they do, occasional short, brisk walks in the cool air, and the members find such facilities preferable to the indoor type so prevalent in Sacramento; and

WHEREAS, Judging from our observation during this celebration, Benicia is amply supplied with attractive young ladies so necessary as secretaries to the legislators; and

WHEREAS, If Benicia was considered good enough in 1853 and 1854, it certainly is good enough now, and besides it's a nice place and everybody likes it; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the City of Sacramento is from this moment on abandoned as the capital of the State, and that as soon as possible all books, papers, furniture, and office equipment not bolted down shall be transferred to the Old State House in the City of Benicia, which henceforth and forever shall be the Capitol of the State of California.

Bill read second time, and ordered to third reading.

REMARKS BY MR. COOLIDGE

Mr Speaker and Members of the Assembly:

I hesitate to immediately follow such a learned gentleman as Assemblyman McCollister with his eloquence and his poise
But being a member of the economy-minded Assembly, I deem it proper for me to make a little noise.
I am pleased to advise this august body on behalf of the committee I adore
Yesterday at 12.15 we approved the Governor's Budget and sent it to the floor.
Four hundred and twenty-two amendments were adopted—giving us eighteen million more in hand.
It will be the taxpayers against the spenders on Monday, we hope the amendments will stand.
Folks, the history of California is symbolized by our generous act and deed,
We've taken good care of our people, we've been mindful of their every need.
Surely we'd love to raise the salaries of every living soul,
But we simply cannot do it lest we go deeper in the hole.
We're in a mild recession, let us face up to the truth,
But California will beat this thing, we have courage, we have youth.
Yes, we are a young people, we are also a hopeful people, free to experiment, to create, to bring forth new culture from our laborers, our millionaires, our sophisticate, our drone.

Where, where in all the world would you rather live and proudly call it home?
We have our rugged mountains, our beaches, and our shore.
These are our gifts from God, folks, and they are ours for ever more.
Have faith in California, bet her straight, place and show
She will fill your bags with gold dust, make you rich, you sourdough.
So hold the line on Monday, then set out to stake your claim
Give our treasury the rest it needs—the rewards will bring us fame.

Hon. Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of the State of California, then proceeded to address the Joint Convention as follows:

ADDRESS OF

GOVERNOR GOODWIN J. KNIGHT

Commemorative Session of the Legislature

Benicia, March 15, 1958

There are many who, watching the affairs of California politics in the early 1850's would have told you that most of the business of government was conducted on steamers or in wagons.

They referred, of course, to the frequent moving hither and yon of the state capital

Would the capital site be San Jose?

Would General Vallejo succeed in immortalizing his part in the early building of California by making the town that bore his name the governmental center?

Would Sacramento succeed in its bid to move the seat of government?

Or would the fine new courthouse of Benicia be the settling place of the Legislature?

I will not belabor you with the history of that time—history with which by now you are all very familiar.

I will not recount in graphic detail how close Benicia came to being the California capital.

But neither do I feel inclined on such a notable occasion as this to skip over entirely the romance of those early intriguing times.

I cannot ignore, for example, the dream of Dr. Robert Semple—the dream of founding a metropolis on the Pacific shore.

How appropriate it was that the founder of this city should indeed have been a man of Dr. Semple's stature.

Walter Colton, Dr. Semple's newspaper publishing associate, described his partner as "an emigrant from Kentucky who stands 6′ 8″ in his stockings; he is in buckskin dress; foxskin cap; is true with his rifle, ready with his pen, and quick at the typecase."

Here was truly a man to match California's mountains!

Nor can I on this occasion restrain myself from mentioning some of the similarities between the considerations faced by legislators of 1853 and those faced by legislators of 1958.

You may remember that the future of Sacramento as the state capital was at one time very questionable because of two calamities.

There was a great fire and a disastrous flood of 1852 which virtually wiped out the town.

The capital was hastily moved to Vallejo.

You see, the legislators of California were experiencing water problems even then, and, in fact, they may even have been more intimately—even desperately—concerned with the solution of the problems than is the case in 1958.

General Vallejo and his associates had established a $500,000 bond in order to bring the Legislature to its "permanent capital" in Vallejo.

The Mayor of Benicia offered to donate the free use of the new city hall to the Legislature to provide suitable offices for the state officials and to pay the expense of the removal

The brief stay of the Legislature here in Benicia, combined with its historical rivalry with San Francisco to become the metropolis of California, are reasons enough that this city deserves all honors which are paid it now.

It is a proud event which marks our appearance here today with the restoration of California's oldest Capitol Building.

I congratulate those who have had a part in the re-creation of the historical atmosphere about this building.

I am happy to know that this hall will continue to be a monument and place of interest for those who search for the color of California's history.

But I think it only accurate to remark, too, that Benicia is a place with a future as well as a past.

I have sought many times to find graphic illustrations of California's phenomenal growth.

Perhaps one of the most appropriate is to observe that every year our population increases—just as though a city like Denver, Colorado, had been picked up and transplanted onto California's soil.

I have been Governor of this State nearly four and one-half years.

In that time the population increase has been equivalent to moving all the people of a state like South Carolina into California.

I expect all parts of California to share in our continued expansion.

In the years ahead the prosperity and the better life to be found in our State will continue to attract thousands of people, hundreds of new industries, multitudes of new businesses.

It requires no gift of prophecy to say that Benicia will find its share of that rich increase.

This will be a time when the people of Solano County will have no reason to succeed or fail simply because of the location of the state capital.

Benicia in these modern times has more than ever before the opportunity to forge ahead and take its place in the top-ranking echelon of our State.

I believe that in the written history of Benicia are words of good advice for all Californians today, and I leave you now with some of those words, taken from Governor John Bigler's inaugural address given in Benicia on Saturday, January 7, 1854.

"* * * To that spirit of liberty and progress so eminently characteristic of the American people, united with the intelligence and determined energy of our fellow citizens, under the blessings of Providence, we owe all our greatness and continued prosperity, and to the spirit and intelligence, must we ever look for the welfare of our common Country, and the perpetuity of the free institutions, which have made our Union 'beloved at home and respected abroad.'"

Water is a gift from Thee, O Lord; we are its stewards, not its owners. Make us mindful of our sacred trust, and in the decisions which still must be made help us to act not from sectional rivalry, political expediency, or stubborn pride, but rather from an honest desire to bring about the accomplishment of Thy holy will; through Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Lord—AMEN.

House Resolution No. 52

Relating to commending the teachers of California schools

WHEREAS, During this post sputnik era of hysteria, the faith of some people in our schools, institutions and our teachers appears to have weakened; and

WHEREAS, An appraisal of the facts clearly shows, with respect to the teachers in California schools, that such an attitude is wholly unwarranted and that rather these teachers are deserving of credit and praise for their outstanding ability to train and develop leaders in every profession, occupation, or field of endeavor; and

WHEREAS, The facts show that the enrollments in California institutions of higher education for the fall of 1956 were a total of 192,338 students, most of whom, of course, are from California high schools with their basic education received from California teachers; and

WHEREAS, This grand total of students qualified to enter higher institutions has been achieved in spite of the higher and higher entry standards of such institutions; and

WHEREAS, History proves that other California students, trained by our teachers, have gone on to be eminent leaders in government, engineering, science, the arts, the professions, and in all other occupations; and

WHEREAS, In the fields of science and engineering where the detractors claim we are specifically weak, California schools have proven their superiority by producing 10 out of 16 of the young scientists who, when called upon on short notice, provided much of the scientific knowledge needed to launch the satellite Explorer I; and

WHEREAS, These young scientists, whose average age is 34.4 years, show that the product of California teachers has improved rather than declined; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That its members take this means to commend the teachers of the schools of California on their outstanding ability to train not only good citizens but leaders in every field of endeavor and to reassert our faith in our schools, our teachers, and our institutions; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly is hereby directed to transmit suitably prepared copies of this resolution to the American Federation of Teachers and the California Teachers Association.

Resolution read, and adopted.

March 1958

The Assembly Interim Committee on Judiciary held hearings during the past year covering the following subjects. In order to economize on committee expenses, the hearings were in each case held by some of the members sitting as a subcommittee.

1. Tidelands: Various legal problems involved in the administration of the Long Beach tidelands; proposed leasing practices of the State Lands Commission; the leasing of Los Angeles tidelands, and influence peddling relating thereto.

2. Rackets: A bunco operation in the name of United Jet Schools involving a correspondence-type course; infiltration of eastern mobsters and racketeers into the garment industry in Southern California, bookmaking and other rackets.

3. Traffic Accident Consequences: The problem of the uninsured motorist and various plans designed to resolve the problem.

4. Police Administration: Minimum standards for peace officers; sex crimes and the effect of double orchotomy as a method of treatment; narcotics, border traffic from Mexico, methods employed by peddlers of narcotics.

5. Pornographic Literature: Enforcement of laws relating to obscene literature and pictures, and effect upon juveniles.

6. Escheats: Effectiveness of present laws relating to the reversion of unclaimed property to the State, potential funds available to the State Treasury under modern escheat laws.

7. Constitutional Rights: Laws relating to loyalty oaths required of individuals, educational and religious groups, and other organizations.

Staff investigation has been made of various other problems involving the function of the county coroner in death cases involving possible criminal prosecution; the type of criminal insanity test used in criminal cases; differences from county to county in jury fees.

The following report is a summary of the information obtained by the above-mentioned subcommittees during the course of studies made by them.

Tidelands

Hearing of November 8 and 9, 1957, in Los Angeles

This hearing involved the administration of the Long Beach tidelands. Several problems were considered, including the proposed construction of an auditorium and Y. M C. A in Long Beach using tideland oil revenues for this purpose; the problem of determining what proportion of the total cost of subsidence remedial projects are to be borne by the State pursuant to Chapter 29 of the 1956 Statutes; the status of the attorney's fee suit in the case of Mallon v City of Long Beach; the status of the dispute between the State of California and the City of Long Beach relating to the legal title to mineral rights in Alamitos Bay; the controversy regarding the boundary dividing the tidelands and uplands near the vicinity of property now held by Southern California Edison and Union Pacific Railway and including very rich oil lands; the procedure to be followed pursuant to Assembly Bill No. 3813 passed at the last general session of the Legislature; the problem regarding the title to "nine wells" wherein revenues are now being impounded awaiting the outcome to the controversy; the facts surrounding the proposed expansion of the Marina near Seal Beach with the use of tideland revenues and the property exchanges in this area involving tidelands patented to private parties; the status of bridge construction projects and how they are being administered in relation to Chapter 29, Statutes of 1956; the status of the Long Beach Oil Development Company lease, including the proposed method for leasing these lands upon termination of the present leases.

Hearing of January 9, 1958, in Los Angeles

This hearing involved proposed leasing practices of the State Lands Commission in light of the passage of Assembly Bill No. 47 during the 1957 General Session of the Legislature. Arguments for and against cash bonus bids, sliding or fixed royalties' scales were discussed. No tidelands have been leased by the State since the passage of Assembly Bill No. 47. Considerable controversy in the oil industry exists about the method of leasing. The need for competitive bidding, using only one biddable factor was discussed.

It was learned that the State Lands Commission had acquired the services of petroleum engineers and geologists on a consultant basis.

The subcommittee was particularly interested in the proposed leasing of 50,000 acres of tidelands near Santa Barbara.

Hearing of January 23 and 24, 1958, in Los Angeles

Inquiry was made into the leasing practices of the City of Los Angeles in recent oil lease activity in both tidelands and other lands. This hearing revealed that three men, Frank Waters, Noah Dietrich, and James Arditto, were negotiating oil leases or had obtained oil leases on substantially all of the unleased lands lying within the harbor. Evidence at the hearing indicated that these persons were given preferential treatment by the Board of Harbor Commissioners and the City Council of the City of Los Angeles. Five parcels were involved, the 27-acre Matson terminal lease which was granted, an application for the El Rancho Golf Course, the Outer Harbor, the Inner Harbor on which a lease was approved by the Harbor Commission but never issued, and the area beyond the breakwater on which a lease was issued. In four of these the above-named persons were to have a "carried" interest, i.e., they were to contribute no money toward the oil drilling venture but were to receive a percentage of the profits. These persons were to receive a percentage for their services in negotiating favorable leases from the city, only if the lease was negotiated. If competitive bidding occurred these persons either got nothing or had to contribute financially in proportion to their percentage.

Many oil companies, including several large companies and groups of companies, such as CUSS (Continental, Union, Shell, Superior) with extensive experience tried to get into the act but were not considered. Several major oil companies and many smaller ones tried to bid on these leases, but since the activity was all negotiated, these other companies, even though with better offers, were ignored.

A lease involving several square miles beyond the breakwater was entered into with Los Angeles Harbor Oil Development Company, a paper corporation without assets. Some of the same persons were promoters of this corporation.

Other evidence indicated conflict of interest involving the parties to leases and proposed leases and a member of the Board of Harbor Commissioners.

Further hearings are contemplated for the purpose of gathering information necessary to formulate any proposed legislation.

Rackets

Hearing of September 4 and 5, 1957, in San Jose

The scope of this study covers the operation and activities of trade schools. Particular emphasis of this hearing was placed upon a correspondence school known as the United Jet School, which purported to train men to become jet engine specialists.

Experts from the jet engine industry, including representatives of Convair, North American Aviation, and General Electric testified. It was their unanimous opinion that the training course given by United Jet was of little or no value and, according to one witness, could be detrimental because of the misinformation included in the training material. It was the consensus of opinion among these experts that it was necessary, in order to effectively train men in this field, that they actually work on engines and that descriptive material, no matter how good, was not sufficient. The students of this course were not given practical mechanical training on engines. The descriptive material furnished students was, in the opinion of experts, to be of very poor quality.

Sworn testimony of students and documented evidence introduced at the hearing indicated that prospective students were informed that they would receive high-paying jobs upon graduation and would begin in a supervisory capacity; that the aircraft industry had placed requests for graduates with the school; that the school would place its graduates with the aircraft industry anywhere in the world; that the school was recommended by President Eisenhower and many other representations which were proved to be untrue at the hearing.

The operator of the school, Archie Babson, had engaged in operating other correspondence and trade schools, which have gone out of business. Complaints have been made to the better business bureaus wherever he conducted activities of this nature. The record also discloses that he has a past criminal record, including a conviction for theft.

It was found that there are no laws controlling in any way the operations or activities of trade schools, with the exception of vocational nurse training schools. It is believed some similar trade schools are active in California, with the result that innocent people, eager for an education, are being duped. The subcommittee is presently active in trying to resolve the problem.

Hearing of January 14, 15, 21, and 22, 1958, in Los Angeles

This study involved infiltration into Southern California of persons believed to be eastern mobsters, along with alleged extortion, payoffs, violence, and organized crime.

The garment industry in Los Angeles and its environs is one of the focal points for alleged hoodlumism and violence. Investigation disclosed one clear case of a garment contractor who was paying persons, some with criminal records, substantial monthly sums with no apparent consideration being received in return. Evidence was received of several unsolved acts of violence with damage amounting to many thousands of dollars. Victims of this violence were garment manufacturers. One of the questions before the committee is whether there is a connection between the violence and solicitation of "protection" payments.

There was also considerable testimony involving bookmaking activity by some of the same persons. It was stated that one of the participants was operating a $3,000,000-a-year bookmaking ring in Los Angeles until arrested approximately a year ago.

Several witnesses subpenaed refused to testify at the hearings on the ground their testimony might tend to incriminate them.

Future hearings are planned to delve deeper into alleged syndicated crime in California. The committee's efforts in this field are on a small scale and are conducted in co-operation with existing law enforcement agencies.

Traffic Accident Consequences

Hearing of September 16, 1957, in San Francisco

The scope of the subcommittee's study was delimited to the problems and issues created by, and resulting from, the existence of uninsured motorists on our highways. After the chairman's consultation with several University of California (Berkeley) faculty, staff meetings were held on October 18th (Sacramento) and November 1st (Berkeley campus) for purposes of briefing, preliminary study, pointed analysis, and discussion of pertinent legislative and nonlegislative enactments and/or proposed solutions advanced in our Nation and abroad. These meetings, and subsequent informal meetings and conferences led to the following:

(1) A conclusion that a field research project was essential to determine certain facts. An informed judgment could then be reached as to an appropriate legislative course of action to be recommended by this subcommittee.
(2) A consultant was appointed to assist in preparing a format for the above project, and otherwise assist the committee.
(3) A proposed research project budget was prepared, submitted, discussed, and approved, as amended, at a staff meeting held on March 14, 1958 (Sacramento).
(4) A conclusion that public hearings will be held concurrently with the research project. This will assure the public and parties at interest an appropriate forum.

Escheat

Hearing of February 18, 1958, in Los Angeles

The scope of this study involved laws relating to escheat, i.e., that unclaimed property revert to the State.

Laws in the State of California relating to escheat are inadequate for the following reasons, among others. Many types of valuable, unclaimed, but presently unescheatable property remain in the hands of windfall holders, and the mechanisms for discovery are wanting, procedures for the recovery of escheatable property are cumbersome, and the times for ultimate escheat are unrealistic.

Because of the apparent gap in our laws relating to escheat, Assembly Bill No. 3087 was introduced at the last general session of the Legislature. This proposed legislation was compared with a uniform law on escheats which has been adopted by several western states.

It is believed that many million dollars' worth of unclaimed property is held by windfall holders and is not being escheated to the State because of inadequacies in our laws. As stated above, these inadequacies involve procedure for discovery of this type of property, as well as providing for the mechanics by which property can be escheated. The committee has had the benefit of research by the Attorney General's Office and consultant services of Professor William Pierce of the University of Michigan.

Police Administration

Hearing of October 14 and 15, 1957, in Sacramento

This study involved the subject of police standards, such as requiring a minimum education, or that all new policemen be fingerprinted and checked for criminal history.

Evidence at the hearing was directed toward the issue of whether statewide legislation should be enacted and, if so, what those standards should be and how they should be implemented. Opponents of state legislation contended the State did not have a legitimate interest in the subject, or if so, legislation enacted should be of a permissive character whereby the local governmental bodies could comply if they chose to do so. Proponents of state legislation contended the State did have a legitimate interest in enacting legislation, some advocating that it be mandatory in character, others advocating that it should be permissive. Evidence showed present training programs available, but there was a conflict whether present programs were sufficient to solve the problems involved. Evidence was introduced on various methods of implementing state legislation.

A hearing was held in San Diego on December 17, 1958, at which evidence was introduced showing treatment available to sex offenders from the State Department of Mental Hygiene under the Sexual Psychopaths' Law; from the State Department of Corrections; and under a program of voluntary castration. A witness from the Department of Mental Hygiene testified as to the operation of the Sexual Psychopaths' Law procedures, the treatment given to persons committed to a state hospital under this law, and the relative success of this treatment. A witness from the Department of Corrections testified regarding the psychiatric and other treatment given to sex offenders in the various institutions under the department, and the probation success of persons released after treatment. Witnesses from San Diego who have submitted to voluntary castration for sex offenders testified to the conditions under which such an operation is ordered, the reaction of the offenders to such an operation, and the relative success of the program.

Narcotics

Hearing of February 18, 1958, in El Centro

Brought to the attention of the subcommittee were the availability of narcotics and dangerous drugs to juveniles because of the area's close proximity to the Mexican border; the insidious effect of dangerous drugs, especially amphetamine, on juveniles in causing them to reach for narcotics, such as heroin; the effect of the use of amphetamine (benzedrine) by truck drivers; the laws relating to the use of illegally obtained evidence; the laws relating to search and seizure and arrest; the feasibility of classifying narcotics for the purpose of giving law enforcement more authority insofar as searches and seizures and the laws of arrest are concerned; the recent court decisions relating to the disclosure of the source of confidential information and local enforcement problems.

Considerable information on narcotic traffic was gained from the testimony of a former heroin addict.

Future hearings on this subject are anticipated.

Pornographic Literature and Pictures

Hearing of November 25 and 26, 1957, in Los Angeles

Evidence was received that present Penal Code sections on obscene and pornographic literature are unworkable because of poor wording and insufficient provisions to insure successful prosecution of offenders. For that reason many local jurisdictions have enacted ordinances under which prosecution is had. Much of the testimony revolved around the issue of the definitions of the words "lewd" and "obscene".

Evidence showed that in many instances distributors are forcing "package" magazine sales on retail distributors; forcing them to buy obscene publications in order to get the more socially-acceptable publications. Suggestions were made that the present tie-in sale statute should be broadened.

Proposed statutes were submitted to the subcommittee for consideration.

Constitutional Rights

Hearing of December 13 and 14, 1957, in Los Angeles

Testimony indicated that tax liability of churches which refuse to sign an oath of nondisloyalty constitutes a real burden, exceeding in at least one case the total annual income. Some churches have paid these taxes rather than submit to an oath in a matter of conscience. There is widespread dissatisfaction among religious groups regarding the issue of the infringement of the established policy of separation of Church and State.

Several witnesses testified to an apprehension that the loyalty oath might be merely the first step of a series of breaches of this time-tested safeguard.

Several churches have opposed the loyalty oath strongly enough to pay the heavy expense of taking a test case to the Supreme Court of the United States in addition to paying the franchise tax required of nonsigners.

A number of witnesses contended that the negative nature of the loyalty oath makes it offensive and its positive effect, if any, could not begin to offset the damage it does to individuals, churches, public education, and the free development of science; since it creates an atmosphere of fear and apprehension.

The wisdom of maintaining the loyalty oath procedure was questioned on the ground that it is a heavy expense and has resulted in not a single arrest; also, that there are already more effective legal sanctions regarding loyalty and subversion.

House Resolution No. 88

Relating to the economics of disarmament

WHEREAS, The economic well-being of California is, in part, dependent upon federal expenditures for national defense, which involve thousands of California jobholders and billions of dollars; and

WHEREAS, A special study prepared for the Southern California Research Council revealed that a 50 percent cut in defense spending could result in layoffs of 120,000 people in Southern California alone; and

WHEREAS, The United States seeks multilateral disarmament agreements with all countries of the world in order to create a world free of the fear of atomic holocaust; and

WHEREAS, Such agreements could involve a substantial decrease in federal defense expenditures; and

WHEREAS, Such decreases could seriously affect the economic stability of areas heavily relying upon defense industry and could result in the loss of thousands of jobs; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Congress of the United States enact such legislation as is necessary to provide for a series of studies through appropriate federal agencies, in co-operation with state and local governments, private industry and labor, of the economic problems of disarmament, including a consideration of the following:

1. The impact of defense industry upon specific local areas such as Los Angeles and San Diego. Such a study should include information as to the numbers of people directly involved in such defense industries, the geographic distribution of such industries and a consideration of ways and means of encouraging the development of nondefense industry and the reconversion of defense to nondefense industry.

2. Ways and means of federal aid to areas depressed by a reduction in defense expenditures, including the possible relinquishment of federal taxes in favor of state and local taxes, the strengthening of government employment services, and unemployment compensation systems, and by possible methods for retraining or relocating workers facing major readjustments.

3. Ways and means whereby federal, state and local governments can co-operate in the joint solution of economic dislocations caused by a reduction in defense expenditures.

Resolution read, and ordered referred to the Committee on Rules.

PRAYER

Gracious God and Heavenly Father, While we live in the world, grant that we be not of the world. Make us realize that happiness does not come from having things, that success is not measured by figures in a bank book, or that satisfaction is not the result of having a full stomach. While we may rightly enjoy the bread of this world, make us ever mindful that man does not live by bread alone. Grant that we may see Thee, O Lord, as the center of all existence, and help us to understand that only as we serve Thee and our neighbors will we ever know the heart of happiness, the real meaning of success, and the true joy of living; through Christ, Our Lord—AMEN.

Introduction

House Resolution No. 221, approved by the Assembly on June 8, 1957, directed and authorized the Assembly Interim Committee on Industrial Relations

"* * * to ascertain, study and analyze all facts relating to industrial relations, including, but not limited to the operations, effect, administration, enforcement and needed revision of any and all laws in any way bearing upon or relating to the subject of this resolution, and to report thereon to the Assembly including in the reports its recommendations for appropriate legislation."

In addition, the 1957 Legislature referred two bills to the committee for analysis and study.

1. Assembly Bill No. 1912, which would limit the fee an employment agency can charge for securing employment to 10 percent of the first full month's compensation of the applicant.
2. Assembly Bill No. 2738, which would prevent any employment agency from requiring or accepting any payment or deposit from an applicant prior to entering into an agreement between applicant and employer for the applicant to commence work.

In order to develop basic information concerning private employment agency operations, the committee directed a staff study of agency practices in the Los Angeles area, and invited the general public to bring complaints and recommendations to the attention of the staff. A public hearing was held on December 16 and 17, 1957.

Specific Considerations

Matters which were given specific consideration by the committee were:

1. Feasibility of legislation to limit the amount of fees employment agencies may charge, including consideration of the services rendered by the State Department of Employment as compared to services rendered by private agencies.
2. Feasibility of legislation to prohibit employment agencies from charging or accepting any payments prior to a contract for work.
3. Advertising practices of employment agencies.
4. Operation of the so-called trade schools which, in their advertising and in negotiations prior to enrollment of a student, promise job placement, either in conjunction with a licensed employment agency or otherwise.
5. Feasibility of licensing of managers and placement clerks employed by employment agencies.
6. Form of the "contract receipt" now in use, and the desirability of standardizing "supplementary contracts" being used by employment agencies.
7. Discriminatory practices by employment agencies.

Fee Limitation

California's Labor Commissioner, Edward P. Park, made available to the committee a report of employment agency fee limitations throughout the United States. In summary, this report shows:

30 states (including California)	No limitations
Utah	8 percent *
Colorado (for day laborers, mechanics and domestic workers; no limitation on others)	5 percent males, 3 percent females
New York (for certain low-paid employees) (Others, one week's salary; 5 percent of one year's wages if employment lasts that long.)	10 percent
Nevada	15 percent
Washington, by city ordinances, varying from	10–30 percent
Arizona	15–33⅓ percent
Iowa	25 percent
Oklahoma	15–45 percent
North Carolina	20–60 percent
Texas	40 percent
Maine (total fee)	$1.25
Kansas (total fee)	$2.00
Montana (total fee)	$3.00

* Percentages refer to first full month's compensation.

With regard to fees charged by private employment agencies in California, several witnesses testified to the committee that agency charges were excessive. It was alleged that certain kinds of jobs are not readily available through any source other than private employment agencies, and that job seekers cannot effectively secure employment on their own or through the Department of Employment. They are forced, therefore, to use the services of private agencies at prices which are excessive. Several of these witnesses indicated that they feel employment agency fees should be limited by legislation.

A representative of the California Employment Agencies' Association told the committee that:

"Private employment agencies compete successfully with public employment services only because they have a service to render and for which people are willing to pay. Private agencies compete by all the normal rules of competition.

"In my way of looking at it, it seems to indicate an acceptance by the public that it seems to indicate their services are valuable. Otherwise, people wouldn't go out and pay fees when they can go to the State and get it for nothing. There is something there that people want."

Mr. Thomas C. Campbell, Chief of Division of Public Employment and Benefit Payments, Department of Employment, testified as follows:

"Public employment offices have been in operation in California in the larger cities since 1915. The present statewide system of local employment offices has been in operation since 1936-1937 with the advent of payment of unemployment insurance benefits.

"The basic employment service functions performed by these offices are job placement and employment counseling. In the job placement function, the offices record and classify the occupational qualifications of job seekers, receive and classify job listings from employers and match qualified workers with these listings. This job placement activity extends to (1) all occupational fields including professional and clerical, skilled and semiskilled, service and unskilled occupations, and (2) all industrial categories, including durable and nondurable goods manufacturing, wholesale and retail trade, construction, agriculture, transportation, utilities, finance, and government. Last year (Fiscal Year 1957) these offices made 1,253,001 placements with business, industry and agriculture in California, of which 787,840 were in farm jobs and 465,161 were in nonfarm occupations.

"During the same period our offices recorded and classified the qualifications of over 898,000 job seekers and made over 205,000 contacts with employers to develop jobs for the unemployed. Of the 898,000 job seekers registered and classified 534,524 were claimants for unemployment insurance and 363,476 were nonclaimants.

"With respect to cost of job placements, the department, * * * made a cost study to determine the unit cost per placement accomplished during Fiscal Year 1957.

"These cost figures are based upon the total placements made in all industries including agriculture and in all occupations The unit cost arrived at by this method is $7.59 per placement. In addition to the direct cost of making these placements, the unit cost includes the correct proportionate share of all other administrative costs of the agency such as rent, utilities, communications, travel, supervisory and executive charges, personnel and fiscal administration, janitor services, cost of retirement and similar charges."

Comparable figures showing number of job placements by private employment agencies were submitted to the committee by the Labor Commissioner. In the Fiscal Year 1957, the following placements were made:

1. Fee Paid by Applicant:

Temporary:	Men	20,284
	Women	327,033*
			347,317
Permanent:	Men	61,064
	Women	63,248
			124,312

* Includes 232,193 placements of baby sitters, based on a four-year average of 71 percent of all temporary placements of women

2. Fee Paid by Employer:

Temporary:	Men	381
	Women	2,412
		2,793
Permanent:	Men	2,175
	Women	6,284
		8,459
	Total placements	482,881
	Total placements (excluding 232,193 placements of baby sitters)		250,688

In an attempt to ascertain the profit margin of private employment agencies and to establish a tentative basis for considering the possibility of a fee limitation, the committee requested 25 agencies to submit specific information regarding financial aspects of their business. Based upon eight responses, plus information from three other agencies gathered independently by the committee, all of which were from the Los Angeles area, it appears that net profits to these employment agencies would be largely eliminated if a limitation of 40 percent of the first month's salary were imposed rather than allowing the agencies to continue their current customary fee scale of 50 percent of the first month's salary. This, of course, assumes that the agencies would make no changes in operating procedures, which in turn would affect overhead and operating costs. However, a detailed and comprehensive study would be required to obtain conclusive findings with regard to the income, expenditures, and profit margins of private employment agencies, if these factors alone were to be the basis for a reasonable limitation upon employment fees.

The limited staff study referred to above also shows that the average cost per placement by a private employment agency is $116, and that the largest single cost item for private employment agencies is advertising. The State Department of Employment does not advertise except where such is sponsored by an employer.

No direct and exact comparison of the number of placements and cost per placement in Fiscal Year 1957 by the State Department of Employment and private employment agencies can be made. However, some idea of the range of difference involved can be secured from the following.

The Department of Employment made 787,840 placements in farm jobs which do not appear to involve as much effort or expense as nonfarm placements. This distorts the State's cost per placement. However, if the total cost of state placements is divided by nonfarm placements only, the cost per placement becomes $20.45, or less than one-fifth the cost of private agency placements.

The validity of the figure of $116 as average cost per placement by private employment agencies is open to some question since it is based on reports of only 11 agencies in the Los Angeles area. However, an effort was made to include both large and small agencies and the figure may be representative.

Operators of private employment agencies stress the point that the fees charged properly reflect the economic law of supply and demand and that since no job seeker is forced to utilize the services of an agency or of any particular agency, regulation in this field is not necessary.

The Labor Commissioner testified before the committee that he does not have an opinion in the matter of fee limitations. However, he observed that legislation seems to be proper and desirable to prevent an applicant from being liable to an agency for payment of a larger fee than his total earnings from the job.

Based on this broad, overall comparison of the activity of the State Department of Employment and the private employment agencies, the committee has reached the following tentative conclusions:

1. The cost per nonfarm placement made by the State Department of Employment is not in excess of $21, or an average of approximately 10 percent of the workers' first full month earnings.
2. The actual cost per placement made by private employment agencies is probably somewhere between $100 and $125, or an estimated 35-50 percent of the first full month's earnings.
3. The cost of finding employment through a private employment agency is generally borne by the recently unemployed who, because of his unemployment, may already be in difficult financial straits.
4. The operational costs of private employment agencies include large amounts spent for advertising.

The committee further concludes that no applicant should become liable to an employment agency for a fee in excess of his actual earnings from the particular employment to which referred.

Prepayment of Fees

The committee, as a result of its investigation, became aware of the fact that many types of employment agencies, especially those specializing in placement of hotel and culinary personnel, farm workers, and nonskilled, low-paid personnel, might be unable to operate at a profit if prohibited from charging and accepting any payment in advance of an agreement to commence work, because of the transient character of the applicants and the difficulty of collecting fees after placement.

Advertising

Staff research and testimony before the committee indicated that there are many violations of laws and regulations regarding advertising practices of employment agencies and that the enforcement work of the Labor Commissioner in this field is difficult and cumbersome. Cooperation between newspapers, the Labor Commissioner and the agencies has in many cases resulted in a higher standard of compliance with the rules and regulations in this field. While violations still occur, it appears that their frequency can be minimized by constant and close supervision by the Labor Commissioner.

Trade School Operations

Numerous complaints about the operation of trade schools were brought to the attention of the committee by the general public. These complaints indicate that in many instances trade schools operate to defraud and deceive the public, especially poorly educated and financially hard-pressed people. Some of these schools appear to operate on the fringe of the Labor Law as it relates to employment agencies when they promise employment to students or graduates, either directly or by implication.

At present, any person can operate a trade school if eligible for issuance of a business license by the municipality. There is no supervision by any state or municipal agency of the standard or value of the instruction offered by many of these schools. Such schools frequently make, or imply, an offer of job placement in newspaper advertisements (often in the "Help Wanted" column). Generally, students and graduates do not appear to receive the job placement they expect.

The Labor Commissioner has jurisdiction over trade schools only if there is an offer of employment. Then, under the present law, he can demand that the school be licensed as an employment agency and that it comply with the rules and regulations governing such agencies. However, the definition of "employment agency" with regard to trade schools and the possibilities of dual ownership and operation of trade schools and employment agencies create a complicated problem in interpretation and administration of laws, rules and regulations. Tentatively, the committee is of the opinion that the only solution to this problem will be to require that trade schools be precluded from operating as, or in conjunction with, employment agencies as they are presently defined in the Labor Code.

Licensing of Employment Agency Employees

California's Labor Commissioner testified before the committee as follows:

"The investigation for application for licenses is very important because we are charged with seeing that only people of good moral character and responsibility are able to enter into the industry. There has been one or two occasions where a lack of complete investigation that was necessary may have allowed people who should never have had licenses in the first place, and this brings to my mind one of the recommendations I would like to make to the committee, and to suggest for their consideration that legislation, which would in effect, require licenses of managers of agencies and placement clerks.

"To date, we have no control over these people at all. We can license the people who have agencies in their name. However, we are stuck in instances where we refused licenses to certain people and then somebody else applies for them and they end up managing the agency. We are powerless to prevent it also with placement clerks.

"I think we are in an area where it would be beneficial to do something about this matter. The agency itself, of course, is going to be held responsible for it. They can dismiss this person. However, the damage has been done and there is nothing to prevent this particular individual from going to another agency and committing the same thing."

In addition to this recommendation by the Labor Commissioner that managers and placement clerks within employment agencies be licensed, the committee received testimony which indicated that the employment agencies themselves would not object to a licensing requirement for their employees.

In testimony before the committee, T. D. Bradbury, speaking for the California Employment Agencies' Association, said:

"We are very much interested in Mr. Parks' suggestions * * * not just to relieve the responsibility of the owner, but to establish responsibility in the rank and file."

The committee does not feel that it has sufficient evidence before it to reach a tentative conclusion as to desirability of licensing employment agency employees. This is particularly true in view of the admission by California's Labor Commissioner that existing law with regard to the licensing of agency owners is not being enforced to the fullest extent. The commissioner stated:

"Certainly, we might be criticized because of our lack of complete and thorough investigation of applications for licenses."

In the committee's opinion there is a serious question as to the desirability of the State embarking upon what could be a costly and difficult licensing program. This is especially true when existing requirements as to the licensing of employment agency owners have not been regularly enforced, when such enforcement alone might remedy existing deficiencies on the part of agency employees.

Contract Form

It appears that the form of "contract receipt" required to be used by all agencies is obsolete, contains superfluous information, and lacks information that should be contained therein. To mention only one serious defect, the contract receipt, while stating what the agency's fee is for a permanent job, does not reveal what the fee will be if the employment subsequently turns out to be temporary, i.e., lasting less than 90 days.

In addition to the "contract receipt," many agencies use a "supplementary contract" which is not standardized but must be individually approved by the Labor Commissioner. The evaluation and approval of these numerous and different contracts, some of which are lengthy and contain many technical legal provisions, consumes much time in the Labor Commissioner's Office.

In his testimony before the committee, the Labor Commissioner said:

"* * * We work with the agencies trying to get the co-operation to contain all information on one particular contract. Now they have been using them long before I was in this office, but I have been endeavoring to work with them to eliminate it. To put all this information on one contract, which the applicant will be furnished with, so he knows exactly what the conditions are that he agreed to.

We are working with the agencies particularly in the north to draw up one information form to do away with supplementary contracts and the applicant will be furnished with one and will at least know what he agreed to."

Testimony of applicant witnesses showed that in many instances where a "supplementary contract" is used by the agency, the applicant signs it without knowing or understanding the terms.

It would be desirable for the Division of Labor Law Enforcement to prepare a new form of the "contract receipt" and combine this with a clear and easily understandable contract, setting out the major provisions thereof in bold letters so that any applicant will have the opportunity to understand fully the terms of the agreement he enters into.

Discrimination in Employment

In his testimony before the committee, Milton Senn, a member of the California Committee for Fair Employment Practices and of the Los Angeles Committee for Equal Employment Opportunity, testified that:

"* * * CSES (California State Employment Service) pursues a carefully administered policy of employment on merit. All applicants receive equal treatment, and no reference is made either by way of question, code or notation, to race, religion, ancestry or national origin. It selects and refers qualified applicants on a nondiscriminatory basis. It will not accept a job order with discriminatory specifications, and where an employer attempts to attach any such, CSES endeavors to persuade him to use hiring specifications geared to the actual requirements of the job so that it may refer the best qualified applicant for the employer's selection."

This nondiscriminatory practice, the witness testified, is not being followed by private employment agencies and

"* * * Accordingly, it is our belief that only by the enactment of appropriate legislation will the harmful aspects of private employment agency practice affecting racial and religious discrimination in the hiring process be reduced and ultimately eliminated."

California's Labor Commissioner testified as follows:

"* * * There has been, as you know, considerable complaints by certain groups that the agencies discriminate in their hiring practice. Not that they discriminate, but rather, they co-operate with discriminating. I don't know whether the committee was furnished with the complaint that I filed with the present Commission on Public Work, but nonetheless, they did allege that more than 200 firms and many agencies were engaged in discriminatory practice insofar as the public was concerned. Now I know the agencies themselves have tried to co-operate and eliminate this problem. I am sure it is not their desire, either. This is something that is effected by the employers rather than by the agencies. However, it might be worthwhile for the committee to consider it. Perhaps they could relieve by legislation, any responsibility the agency would have to have to co-operate in this type of thing. However, the agency becomes the tool for discrimination."

The position of the employment agencies in regard to this problem is indicated by the following testimony:

"MR. BURTON: Wouldn't it be a fair statement to make that without the force of law, your agencies are not in a financially good position to insist that employers hire on the basis of merit? The employer places the order with you, and if you don't accept the order on the terms he gives you, why he is liable to place it elsewhere."

"MR. BRADBURY (Member, California Employment Agencies' Association): I would assume that is pretty much correct."

OPINION OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

SACRAMENTO, March 24, 1958

Hon. Carley V. Porter
Assembly Chamber

Vote on Concurrence—No. 2400

DEAR MR. PORTER: You have asked what vote is required in the Assembly for concurrence in Senate amendments to Assembly Bill No. 1 of the 1958 Regular Session (the "Budget Bill"), and whether any further vote is required in the Assembly if the Senate amendments are so concurred in.

Opinion

Analysis

Assembly Standing Rule No. 77 (as printed in the Assembly Journal for February 3, 1958, at p. 24) provides:

"77. It shall require the same affirmative recorded vote to concur in any Senate amendment to an Assembly bill as the vote required by the Constitution for the passage of such bill. It shall require an affirmative recorded vote of two-thirds of the entire elected membership of the Assembly to concur in any Senate amendment to an Assembly bill which contains an item or items of appropriation subject to reduction or elimination under the provisions of Section 34a of Article IV of the Constitution. The vote on concurrence shall be deemed the vote upon final passage of such bill. When Senate amendments to an Assembly bill are concurred in, the bill shall be forthwith ordered enrolled, and the Chief Clerk shall notify the Senate of such concurrence."

The Budget Bill contains items of appropriation, of course, and it also contains an urgency clause. Upon both grounds a "vote of two-thirds of the entire elected membership" is required (Const., Art. IV, Secs. 1 and 34a; Assembly Standing Rule 77), and that phrase means 54 votes (Assembly Standing Rule 123).

Further, Assembly Standing Rule 77 defines concurrence in Senate amendments as final passage of the bill, so that no further vote would be required. The bill would simply be ordered enrolled pursuant to the rule.

Very truly yours,

RALPH N. KLEPS, Legislative Counsel
By LAWRENCE G. ALLYN, Deputy

Report Dealing With Mining and Mineral Industries

THE UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA
March 24, 1958

The Honorable L. H. Lincoln
Speaker of the Assembly
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

DEAR SPEAKER LINCOLN: We have the honor to present a Joint Interim Report on Studies and Preliminary Plans for Basic Research and Field Studies Dealing With All Phases of Mining and the Mineral Industries, prepared by the State Department of Natural Resources and the University of California, in response to Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 84.

California's annual mineral production has now reached the value of 1.6 billion dollars, a source of new wealth second only to agricultural products. Most of the readily accessible and obvious mineral deposits in the State have been discovered and are being exploited. If new sources of mineral raw materials are to be located and developed, all modern methods of exploration and field studies must be employed. Detailed geologic mapping of rock formations and mineral deposits, development and application of geophysical and geochemical methods, and fundamental studies of the origin of ore deposits can lead to the development of new and more efficient exploration tools. Improvement in mining and production methods through research in cheaper and more efficient drilling and extraction practices can increase yield of valuable mineral products. Research in beneficiation of ores, and in methods of concentrating and separating many types of nonmetallic raw materials is leading to the successful exploitation of deposits heretofore considered uneconomic. Knowledge of the uses of minerals by industry in California, and of the specifications required by industry, is a fruitful field for research. Research in this field of mineral utilization leads to the development of new markets and new industries, and to increased use of mineral raw materials produced in California.

The interim report herewith submitted states the policies, the broad areas of basic research and field studies, and the general types of organization proposed to achieve the objectives outlined in Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 84. In developing this report, it became increasingly evident that additional time will be needed for more detailed study, particularly by the university, before a final report and recommendations can be prepared. Accordingly, unless advised otherwise, we will submit a final report to the 1959 Session.

Respectfully submitted,

DEWITT NELSON, Director, Department of Natural Resources
ROBERT G. SPROUL, President, University of California

Enc.: SCR No. 84, and interim report.

Above transmitted report ordered filed with the Secretary of State.

For state officers and employees, including officers whose salaries are specified by statute, whose compensation, or portion thereof, is payable from special funds, there is hereby appropriated from each special fund from which such officers and employees are paid an amount sufficient to provide increases in compensation for each such officer or employee, in accordance with this item, which amount is to be made available by executive order of the Director of Finance in augmentation of their respective appropriations for support or for other purposes.

Before the State Personnel Board or other administrative salary-fixing authority establishes any increased salary range during the 1958-59 Fiscal Year, a certification shall be obtained from the Director of Finance that sufficient money either is available in funds authorized for the agencies or may be made available from the appropriation in this item, to meet the cost of the increased salary range; provided, that, except for increases authorized under Section 18853 of the Government Code or by specific statute, increases in compensation provided by increased salary ranges established during the 1958-59 Fiscal Year by the State Personnel Board for each state officer or employee in the state civil service whose compensation, or portion thereof, is payable from the General Fund shall not result in total annual salary increases of more than $7,500,000. For purposes of determination of such annual cost, computations may be based upon the number of employees in such classes as of June 30, 1958, as reported by the State Personnel Board. Salary adjustments payable from funds other than the General Fund and salary adjustments fixed by other than the State Personnel Board shall be limited so as to provide equitable treatment as to the foregoing limitation.

Allocations to the University of California shall be made by the Department of Finance upon certification by the regents that proposed salary ranges are substantially comparable to the prevailing rates for comparable services in private business and public employment including the California state services"

Explanation of Votes

As Kern County legislators, we voted "No" on concurrence of Senate version of Budget Bill because it deleted $3,034,200 for the acquisition of rights-of-way, easements and lands for the Feather River Project Aqueduct, thus changing Assembly approved $4,977,000 for this purpose to $1,942,800. This deletion seriously jeopardizes Kern County water interests.

OPINION OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO, March 24, 1958

Hon. Carley V. Porter
Assembly Chamber

Enactment of Budget Bill at Special Session—No. 2315

DEAR MR. PORTER: You have presented the following questions:

If no Budget Bill is enacted before adjournment of the 1958 Regular Session,

(1) Can the Governor call the Legislature to consider the Budget?

(2) If so, could the Budget Bill be considered, or are special appropriation bills on each item necessary?

Opinion

In our opinion the Governor could call the Legislature for the purpose of considering the matters in the Budget, and while there is no express constitutional provision on this point and while all of the specific references in the Constitution to the Budget Bill relate to the enactment of such a bill at a regular session, it is our opinion that the courts would uphold the validity of a Budget Bill that was passed at a special session called for that purpose, and it would not be necessary to have a special appropriation bill for each item.

Analysis

This particular problem has never been considered by the courts of this State. It arises now because of the constitutional provision limiting the duration of regular sessions of the Legislature and specifically the provision that no budget session shall exceed 30 calendar days in duration, exclusive of the recess (Art. IV, Sec. 2).

The constitutional provisions relating to the Budget Bill are contained in Section 34 of Article IV. That section provides in part that at each regular session of the Legislature the Governor shall submit a Budget containing a complete plan and itemized statement of all proposed expenditures of the State provided by existing law or recommended by him and of all estimated revenues for the ensuing fiscal year. This Budget shall be submitted within the first 30 days of each general session, and prior to its recess, and within the first three days of each budget session. The Budget shall be accompanied by an appropriation bill covering the proposed expenditures to be known as the Budget Bill, which shall be introduced immediately into each house of the Legislature by the respective chairmen of the committees having to do with appropriations.

The section further provides "no bill making an appropriation of money except the Budget Bill shall contain more than one item of appropriation and that for one single and certain purpose to be therein expressed." (Emphasis added.)

By reason of the provision just quoted it is obvious that unless a "Budget Bill" can be considered and enacted at a special session, provision for support of the State Government for the next fiscal year could be made at such a session only by enactment of several hundred bills, each of which could contain but one item of appropriation for a single and certain purpose.

The power of the Governor to call a special session is contained in Section 9 of Article V, which provides that "He may, on extraordinary occasions, convene the Legislature by proclamation, stating the purposes for which he has convened it, and when so convened it shall have no power to legislate on any subjects other than those specified in the proclamation, but may provide for the expenses of the session and other matters incidental thereto." There can be no question that the consequences of failure to enact a Budget Bill for the next fiscal year would be such as to necessitate the exercise by the Governor of the power vested in him by this section which contains no limitation whatever as to the purposes for which the special session may be convened.

Only the very narrowest construction of the constitutional provisions relating to the Budget Bill would support a conclusion that the Legislature could not enact such a bill at a special session. Certainly the enactment thereof at a special session is not in contravention of the object of the provision that no bill other than the Budget Bill shall contain more than one item of appropriation.

It is an elementary proposition that the Constitution of this State operates as a restriction upon the powers of the Legislature and that the Legislature has all powers not expressly denied to it by that document. We conclude, therefore, that the Legislature may enact a Budget Bill containing more than one item of appropriation at a special session convened for that purpose.

This opinion is in accord with our previously expressed and published view (S. J., Reg. Sess., April 3, 1956, p. 331).

Very truly yours,

RALPH N. KLEPS, Legislative Counsel
By TERRY L. BAUM, Deputy

CONSIDERATION OF HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 88

By Messrs. O'Connell, Hawkins, Elliott, McMillan, Crawford, Schrade, Hegland, Luckel, Masterson, Nisbet, Burton, Kilpatrick, Miller, Bonelli, Don A. Allen, Unruh, Munnell, and Hanna:

House Resolution No. 88

Relating to the economics of disarmament

WHEREAS, The economic well-being of California is, in part, dependent upon federal expenditures for national defense, which involve thousands of California jobholders and billions of dollars; and

WHEREAS, A special study prepared for the Southern California Research Council revealed that a 50 percent cut in defense spending could result in layoffs of 120,000 people in Southern California alone; and

WHEREAS, The United States seeks multilateral disarmament agreements with all countries of the world in order to create a world free of the fear of atomic holocaust; and

WHEREAS, Such agreements could involve a substantial decrease in federal defense expenditures; and

WHEREAS, Such decreases could seriously affect the economic stability of areas heavily relying upon defense industry and could result in the loss of thousands of jobs; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Congress of the United States enact such legislation as is necessary to provide for a series of studies through appropriate federal agencies, in co-operation with state and local governments, private industry and labor, of the economic problems of disarmament, including a consideration of the following:

1. The impact of defense industry upon specific local areas such as Los Angeles and San Diego. Such a study should include information as to the numbers of people directly involved in such defense industries, the geographic distribution of such industries and a consideration of ways and means of encouraging the development of nondefense industry and the reconversion of defense to nondefense industry.

2. Ways and means of federal aid to areas depressed by a reduction in defense expenditures, including the possible relinquishment of federal taxes in favor of state and local taxes, the strengthening of government employment services, and unemployment compensation systems, and by possible methods for retraining or relocating workers facing major readjustments.

3. Ways and means whereby federal, state and local governments can co-operate in the joint solution of economic dislocations caused by a reduction in defense expenditures.

Resolution read, and adopted.

DEAR MR. LINCOLN: Attached is a copy of the Preliminary Report of the Subcommittee on Lending and Fiscal Agencies.

This report embodies the findings and recommendations of the staff of this subcommittee. A great deal of staff work and consultation has gone into the background work which is outlined in this report. However, this represents only the staff proposals and is not a full subcommittee recommendation.

Likewise, the proposed bill submitted herein is only a tentative draft and while it is the result of the thinking of the chairman of the subcommittee and the staff, plus the technical advice of Mr. Bernard Czesla of the Legislative Counsel's Office, it is, of course, subject to review and revision by the entire subcommittee when we hold public meetings later this year.

It is the intent of this subcommittee to expend a great deal more time and effort on the basic research in the field of installment credit with a view toward proffering whatever legislation may be necessary to adequately protect both consumer and merchandiser, at the 1959 Regular Session.

NUCLEAR ENERGY AND SALINE WATER CONVERSION IN RELATION TO CALIFORNIA'S WATER PROJECTS

Introduction

Assembly House Resolution No. 234, adopted June 9, 1957, authorized the appointment of a Subcommittee on Water Project Power of the Assembly Interim Committee on Conservation, Planning, and Public Works. This subcommittee was directed to study problems related to the energy requirements of the Feather River Project, saline water conversion, programs of state agencies relating to water project power, and the peaceful use of atomic energy as it relates to California's overall water problems.

This subcommittee assignment was largely the result of work done in the early part of 1957 by the Subcommittee on Water Project Uses for Atomic Power of the Assembly Interim Committee on Conservation, Planning, and Public Works under House Resolution No. 88, 1957 (Assembly Interim Committee Reports, Vol. 13, No. 16, 1955-57).

The committee's initial activities began in July, 1957, when its staff commenced compiling information on the status of research and development in the field of saline water conversion, an activity which has been continuous since that time. Current information on this subject is summarized in this report.

Conferences on the several problems confronting the committee have been conducted with a Member of Congress and his staff as well as with representatives of the Department of the Interior's Office of Saline Water Conversion, and the Civilian Power Branch of the Division of Reactor Development of the Atomic Energy Commission. Other discussions have been had with representatives of the University of California, Stanford Research Institute, California's Department of Water Resources, Fluor Corporation, Pacific Gas and Electric Company, and the Maxim Silencer Company.

Three committee meetings have been held. Two of these were for the purpose of receiving and discussing staff reports developed in the course of the discussions noted above. The third was held in Los Angeles on November 12, 1957, at which a substantial public interest in the problem of saline water conversion was evidenced. In addition, the committee received suggestions for procedure and reports on the activities of several research groups concerned with the subject.

All of the organizations and individuals with whom the committee's problems have been discussed have displayed an interest in co-operating to their utmost to find practical, timely solutions.

The committee staff is currently engaged in a study of the future cost and availability of fossil fuel as an energy source for conventional power requirements of the Feather River Project, and a report will be available in the near future.

California, long the Nation's second petroleum state and a leading natural gas producer, in recent years passed from a position of fuel surplus to fuel deficiency. This shift takes on critical importance when the State's almost complete dependence on these fuels for low-cost energy is considered. There are no known alternative energy fuels within the State and dependence on tanker and pipeline imports is growing rapidly.

California's rapid population growth of recent years has been in a climate of comparatively low-cost energy. Electricity production has increased much faster than population. The hydroelectric potential of the State is limited and increased power demands in the future will have to be met primarily by steam plants. In the absence of other low-cost heat sources, the steam plants will be fueled by petroleum and natural gas. If economic growth is to continue at the present rate, these fuels must be in assured supply and at reasonable prices.

This study will be concerned with the prospects of future fossil fuel supply for low-cost power generation in California. Electric energy demand will be projected to ascertain the magnitude of future fuel requirements. Fossil fuel resources, including feasible alternatives to petroleum and natural gas in California and other areas, will be reviewed. The study will assume that nuclear energy or other nonfossil fuel alternatives will not be major sources of energy in the immediate future. Probable developments in fossil fuel energy supply for California in the next 20 years will be discussed.

Findings and Conclusions

A summary of the committee's major findings and conclusions follows:

1. Significant developments since the committee's report to the 1957 General Session of the Legislature confirm the opinions, expressed in that report, that nuclear energy may be an important factor in the planning and design of the Feather River Project and must be considered in relation thereto. These developments have, in fact, shortened the time available for such consideration.

2. The potential of saline water conversion for solution of some of California's water problems is challenging and the study and evaluation of this potential should be hastened.

3. There is not presently any process for the conversion of saline water sufficiently well developed to provide the quantities of fresh water contemplated to be transported from areas of surplus to areas of deficiency in California.

4. Likewise, there is no process which could presently supply water in any quantities at costs as low as those contemplated by the Feather River Project.

5. The availability of large blocks of low-cost energy such as may result from current experimentation in the nuclear field together with developments in saline water conversion indicate possibilities of an economical solution to the problem of the redistribution of water supply in California.

6. Consequently, the problem is to develop a process or processes to the point where large quantities of fresh water can be converted from saline water at prices which will be as low as, or lower than, natural water supplies to areas of need.

7. If possible, this development should be accomplished in time to permit a choice of sources of water to be made in relation to the needs of the various areas of the State.

8. The State must play the guiding role in fostering and directing this work. This should include assembling and evaluating information and carrying out exploratory programs on a sufficiently large scale to insure adequate consideration of the problems and evaluation of possible solutions.

9. There should be a full realization that unqualified success in either the nuclear energy or the saline water conversion field is not assured, and that a great deal of work remains to be done before positive answers can be given either way.

10. Present proposals for water conservation and transportation must be pursued diligently if California is to meet its pressing water requirements. The consideration of nuclear energy and saline water conversion recommended by this committee may modify those proposals but such modification should only be made on the basis of known facts and not as the result of theoretical speculation.

Recommendations

Based upon its study, the committee makes the following specific recommendations:

1. That the Department of Water Resources give added impetus to its program of evaluation and study of nuclear energy in relation to the pump lift requirements of the Feather River Project.
2. That the Department of Water Resources give full consideration to the implications for California of the saline water conversion legislation now before the Congress and be prepared to recommend an appropriate course of action in this regard to the 1959 Session of the Legislature.
3. That the University of California, with due regard for its educational and basic research responsibilities, attempt to concentrate its efforts in nuclear and saline water conversion research into channels most likely to be of practical use to the State as a whole.
4. That the Legislature support reasonable augmentations to the programs of the Department of Water Resources and the university in these fields.
5. That definitive thought be given by all parties concerned to the best way for the State to approach these problems, with a view to assisting this committee in preparing and proposing a positive program for action at the 1959 Session of the Legislature.
6. This committee should continue to actively monitor the existing state programs in these fields, and continue its study of the best procedures to be followed by the State in its approach to these problems.

The Problem

Basic to this committee's program are certain salient facts about water and proposed solutions to water problems in California. Those areas of the State with the greatest portion of the population and industrial development together with the areas most readily available for agricultural development to support population and industrial activity are, generally speaking, those areas with the least natural precipitation and in which the least opportunity exists for further development of water resources. The currently proposed solution to this maldistribution of resources is to transport water from areas of excess supply to the areas of need.

The Feather River Project is designed to conserve water, principally at a storage reservoir near the City of Oroville, and transport it south for use in both the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys, with 1,800,000 acre-feet annually to be made available south of the Tehachapi Mountains. This is a vast and complex undertaking. The total cost of the project is estimated at approximately $1,500,000,000, and water is to be moved virtually the entire length of the State, the second largest in the Nation. It will take 2,250,000 kilowatts of energy to pump this water southward when the project is in full operation approximately 30 years from now. Approximately two-thirds of this, or 1,524,000 kilowatts, are required for the Tehachapi lifts.

In addition to the construction cost and engineering considerations, there are complex problems — water rights, cost of water to users, methods of financing and the distribution of costs among beneficiaries— to be solved in the course of development.

In view of the strain which projects of this scope and magnitude will place on the financial resources of the State, it is imperative that all avenues for increasing the economic feasibility of such projects be explored. Two of these are the particular concern of this committee. The first is the cost of pump lifts over the Tehachapi range, including energy costs and the design of waterways, required to permit offpeak use of energy. The second is the necessity to construct facilities to maximum specifications although the full capacity may not be required for many years, thus requiring maximum initial capital outlay with attendant costs for debt service, maintenance, etc., until full revenues and benefits can be realized.

It is presently estimated that the operation of the Feather River Project will require nearly five times as much energy as will be generated at Oroville Dam. The present proposal contemplates the sale of the generated energy at full market values and the purchase of the required energy for pumping as offpeak energy, at a substantially lower rate. A source of low-cost energy, which would permit continuous pumping, would have the effect of reducing the overall power cost and, in addition, reduce the capital outlay by permitting reduction in the size of aqueducts, reservoirs, pumps, etc., to transport the same amount of water. Such a source of energy might also permit saline water conversion as an alternative to the transportation of water to certain deficient areas. At this time nuclear energy alone seems to offer the opportunity for development of a large new source of low-cost energy of this kind. A detailed discussion of the possible application of atomic energy to the pump lift problems of the Feather River Project is contained in this committee's first report, "Water Project Uses of Atomic Energy" (Vol. 13, No. 16, Assembly Interim Committee Reports).

A source of low-cost energy in great quantities has important implications for the conversion of saline water and the use of such converted water in areas of deficiency in lieu of transporting large quantities of precipitated water over long distances involving extensive pumping operations. The actual phenomena of removing salt from water is not a new or necessarily complicated process. It can be accomplished easily by evaporation and condensation or, as it is more commonly known, distillation. This method is in fairly common use today on ships and in arid areas of the world, where it provides the only practical means of securing the fresh water required. The conversion of saline water by this process requires substantial amounts of energy in the form of heat in relation to the amount of fresh water produced, and the cost of the energy results in an overall cost of water substantially in excess of the cost of water from natural sources. Thus, so far, it has only been practical to convert saline water where the costs of transportation or of the facilities for producing, handling or storing other water are excessive.

Efforts to solve the problem of cost in saline water conversion have generally proceeded in three directions. First, efforts have proceeded to reduce the energy-quantity ratio of distillation processes. Examples of this work are found in the development of multistage evaporators, vacuum evaporation, and vapor compression. The second is a search for lower cost energy. This is typified by the solar still where full cost for energy is nonexistent since the sun provides the necessary heat. The potential of atomic energy also falls directly into this category. The third area involves the development of new processes, and a number of alternative methods of converting saline water are known. Among these are filtration, ion exchange, osmosis, precipitation, electrodialysis, and freezing.

None of this work can be said to have achieved a degree of success at the present time which would warrant a statement that large quantities of fresh water can be converted from saline water at costs which would be competitive in California with the cost of obtaining the same water from other sources. This results, in the case of most of these processes, from the fact that insufficient research and development work has as yet been accomplished and not from any conclusive knowledge that costs have been reduced to an absolute minimum. Even with processes which might be termed the most advanced, cost estimates are largely theoretical projections based on research experimentation and not on engineering designs and economic analyses. Such development work as has been done has been primarily directed toward the solution of specific problems, and although the results obtained have been entirely satisfactory, they are not directly applicable to the California problem.

The problem confronting the State, therefore, requires that constant attention be devoted to developments in both the nuclear energy field and in saline water conversion. The State should assist and encourage research in saline water conversion processes which seek to improve the cost factors of well developed techniques and to demonstrate the feasibility of new methods which show promise of low cost. It should also direct its attention to the problems of engineering design and economic analysis of those processes which might, in the relatively near future, be available for practical applications in California.

Recent Technological Developments

Interest in the problems confronting the committee is widespread. At its hearing in Los Angeles on November 12, 1957, the committee was told of promising developments in both the nuclear energy and saline water conversion fields. Recent work by the Fluor Corporation, the Nuclear Engineering Division of Kaiser Engineers, and the University of California in the field of nuclear energy as applied to saline water conversion, was described. These efforts are aimed directly at the problem of using the low-cost potential of nuclear energy for the demineralization of water. As yet it would generally appear that the combined capital requirements of reactors and converters make the cost of converted water (using nuclear energy) too high to be presently competitive on a large scale. However, the work in this field is very preliminary and the next few years may well bring about startling developments.

Along this line it should be noted that on February 19, 1958, the Pacific Gas and Electric Company announced plans to construct a 60,000-kilowatt atomic generating station at Eureka, California. This plant would be activated in about 1962 and is expected to produce electricity at 8 mills per kilowatt-hour. This figure is said to be competitive with conventional energy sources for that area where fuel costs are higher because of transportation distances involved. The significance of this announcement lies largely in the time element involved in relation to the predicted costs. In testimony before this committee in May, 1957, representatives of the Atomic Energy Commission indicated their opinion that atomic energy plants for industrial purposes in use between 1960-64 would have a cost range of from 10 to 13 mills per kilowatt-hour. Plants coming into use from 1965 to 1967 were expected to have costs ranging from 9 to 11 mills per kilowatt-hour. Thus, the Pacific Gas and Electric Company announcement would indicate that earlier thinking on the timing and cost of atomic energy development was conservative to say the least. If there is a continued acceleration of the timing of competitive development, the problems of energy applications to California water problems will, of necessity, have to be met sooner than expected, and substantial review of present proposals will have to be made.

In the saline water conversion field a recent international symposium on the subject in Washington, D. C., sponsored by the Office of Saline Water Conversion of the Department of the Interior, brought into sharp focus the world-wide interest in the problem. There were discussions of numerous processes for conversion under experimentation and in actual use all over the world. Many of these appear promising on the basis of statements made concerning their efficiency or low cost. For example, a plant utilizing an electrodialysis process is under construction in South Africa, designed to purify mineralized water pumped from deep mines at a rate of 2,800,000 gallons per day. This water might be termed brackish rather than saline since it has a saline concentration of approximately 3,000 parts per million parts of water, whereas sea water is a concentration of approximately 35,000 parts per million. The estimated cost is 29 cents per 1,000 gallons or approximately $90 per acre-foot. These cost estimates typify the problems confronting the State in evaluating the application of any promising processes to California conditions. At this time the components of the cost estimate are not known. For example, it would have to be determined whether this figure included only the cost of the construction, operation, and maintenance of the demineralization equipment itself, or whether it included such factors as pumping costs from the mines, distribution of the fresh water product (if so, to what extent), disposal of waste, and the relationship of factors of amortization of capital costs, interest on the investment, and the cost of alternative sources of water. The necessity of this type of evaluation exists in relation to all of the presently developed processes.

The same situation exists with regard to promising processes which are still in the research stage. Frequently cost estimate projections are made for these based on known energy requirement factors and other laboratory physical characteristics, as well as general estimates of equipment fabrication and assembly costs. These estimates serve little purpose other than to differentiate the more promising from the less promising research which might be undertaken, and are generally not entirely reliable for that purpose For example, Professor Gerald L. Hassler of the University of California at Los Angeles, is engaged in research on a heat-activated form of air film osmotic purification process for which costs are presently estimated at approximately $25 per acre-foot. However, it appears that four or five more years of technical and laboratory research will be required before this process could be considered ready to evaluate for practical applications. As yet the work has not progressed beyond a search for materials to support the air film at desired spacings and the mechanical problems involved in manufacturing, assembling, and operating laboratory equipment to test the characteristics of the phenomena. Under these circumstances it is evident that the cost figures estimated theoretically at this time cannot be said to bear any reliable relationship to what the cost of water may be from a developed process in practical application. The cost estimates of Professor Hassler's process are only discussed here to demonstrate the problems involved in cost analysis of saline water conversion in relation to California water problems. Consideration of cost elements in the field of saline water conversion must at all times be made with full recognition of the stage of development of the processes involved. Superficial comparisons of costs between processes at different stages of development will almost invariably be misleading. In the final analysis of cost factors, reliable data will result from completed research and development work as applied to specific practical problems and be compared to alternatives based on equally reliable data. The present goal should be to encourage research and development work which will produce reliable data upon which to base the decisions required by the State's water problem.

Other Current Developments

It has been noted that the committee's hearing in November, 1957, demonstrated the statewide interest and enthusiasm for the development of a sound state program for the evaluation and encouragement of the application of nuclear energy and/or saline water conversion to the State's water problems. A witness for the Mountain Counties Water Resources Association stated:

> "Our point * * * is that we think it is high time that we got the salt water conversion show on the road, in view of what we are up against for water in years to come in California."

A representative of the San Diego Scientific Advisory Committee on Sea Water Conversion who attended the International Symposium in Washington and gave a report on that conference summarized his remarks as follows:

"Summarizing the above, some excellent research has been done. We know the people who have done it. We know the main avenues of attack. We know the Government (Federal) does not intend to reduce any processes to practice. It remains for the people of California, as represented by our state officials, to generate a program by which we can fulfill our water requirements."

The Director of the Water Department of the City of San Diego had this to say:

"We have been and will continue to be intensely interested in giving every reasonable support such as will be proper for the City of San Diego to give toward the furtherance of salt water conversion problem which we think should be actively and strongly supported in a financial way by the State of California for the benefit of practically all coastal cities, including San Diego. The research is certainly of statewide interest particularly to further knowledge in this most important field.

"As a note of warning, we would like to inject that focusing of our attention on this necessary research does not in any way affect our thinking with respect to the existing practical means known of securing water by such means as importations from the Feather River Project and the State Water Plan. No conclusions should be drawn which would in any way imply that our interest in the Feather River Project could be allowed to lag for one moment while developing possible means of utilizing atomic energy and processes to reclaim fresh water from the sea

"The City of San Diego stands ready to offer a site for a pilot plant and urges the State to utilize its every reasonable resource and funds for supporting and assuming leadership in this important field."

The Los Angeles Times noted editorially on November 8, 1957, that the Los Angeles County Supervisors had requested the county counsel to investigate the possibility of saline conversion as an alternative or replacement supply for Feather River Project water in the Los Angeles County area.

In a statement submitted to the committee at its November 12, 1957, hearing, the County Counsel of Los Angeles said:

"I would like to emphasize that the inquiry that I am making respecting the scientific and economic aspects of the conversion of sea water in behalf of the County of Los Angeles should not be construed that the County of Los Angeles is retreating from its position of supporting the Feather River Project as now authorized by the Legislature, but rather to make sure that all of the alternatives are being carefully considered in the overall effort to solve California's number one problem."

In addition to the state interest, there is substantial interest in the problem at the Federal Government level. There have been two bills introduced into the present session of Congress designed to implement the early construction of a full scale demonstration type plant. One of these, Senate Joint Resolution No. 135 by Senator Anderson, would authorize the appropriation of $10,000,000 for the construction of such a plant using the ionic-membrane process or one of the three most promising processes currently under study by the Department of Interior. The other bill, House Resolution No. 10606 by Congressman Engle, provides for the construction of a demonstration type plant to produce not less than 10,000,000 gallons of fresh water per day jointly with the State of California, using a process to be selected by the Secretary of the Interior after the submission of proposals, designs and specification by six leading manufacturers of saline water conversion equipment. The State and the Federal Government would share the costs equally under this latter bill. Enabling legislation at the state level will be required if federal assistance is to be effective in California. This latter bill would also authorize the appropriation of $10,000,000.

Among the recommendations made by this committee in its first report to the Legislature in June, 1957, was a recommendation that the Department of Water Resources organize a unit to commence a study and evaluation of the problems of nuclear energy and saline water conversion as they apply to California water problems. This recommendation has been followed and the department has employed staff for this purpose. The unit is known as the Applied Nuclear Engineering Section. Among its first accomplishments has been the establishment of adequate liaison with the research efforts of the University of California. This has been done with the objective of channeling the most advanced and promising research accomplishments into practical applications in relation to California problems. Preliminarily, the joint program is directed toward study of the application of membrane processes at two brackish water locations and of vacuum flash distillation processes at four seaside locations where advantage may be taken of the thermal differences between bottom and surface ocean water. The section will, of course, attempt to keep abreast of all developments and, at the same time, secure basic data upon which to predicate a state development program in the future. The committee has worked closely with both the Department of Water Resources and the University of California in the development of their programs and will continue to do so in the future.

Possible Direction of State Program

Several suggestions for action have been made to the committee. One of these is for the establishment of a development project to utilize the combined skills of research scientists and engineers as well as industrial development techniques to apply a concentrated effort to finding a solution to the water conversion problems as soon as possible. This concept has been likened to the manner in which the development of the atomic bomb or the Salk vaccine was accomplished. A rough preliminary estimate of the scope of such an effort was a minimum expenditure of $1,000,000 a year for at least five years.

Other thinking as to the best approach for the State to take includes adequate support for a basic research program, development of trained personnel in the Department of Water Resources capable of evaluating the needs of California for both research and development, and reliance on existing nongovernment resources for specialized developmental services such as design engineering and economic and cost analysis.

This latter approach is what is actually developing from the present co-operation among the committee, the university and the department. It does not preclude the possibility of the application of crash program techniques at an appropriate time. Such a program can be conceived as an alternative to the utilization of nongovernmental resources for technical skill and evaluation. In any event, considerable work remains to be done by both the department and the committee before a sound proposal for a crash program can be made.

In the meantime, largely as a result of stimulation by the committee's interest, both the university and the Department of Water Resources are seeking to augment their respective programs for Fiscal Year 1958-59. Such augmentation appears necessary to enable the State to take full advantage of developments in the field as they occur, i.e, further reduction in nuclear energy cost and federal financial participation in demonstration plant construction, as well as speeding up the rate of progress for solving research and development problems.

In the meantime the continued monitoring and evaluation of developments by a legislative committee appears to be imperative, to insure the co-ordination of all state interest and efforts, and the prompt and reliable submission of new or augmented programs to the Legislature.

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, the Reverend Robert S. Romeis:

Almighty and Everlasting God, the Source of All Knowledge and the Author of All Wisdom; Make us wise enough to realize how little we know. Grant that we may appreciate the value of education; but help us also to understand that education is a two-edged sword; in the hands of moral men it can carve out progress and peace, but when wielded by demons it only makes more clever and efficient the accomplishment of their evil purposes. Grant that as we seek to train the minds of men, we may not forget the needs of their souls. Cleanse the hearts of men, O Lord, that their intellects may build a better world and a happier generation; through Christ, our Lord.—AMEN.

DEAR MR. DAHL: Your Subcommittee on Property Taxation has studied the testimony given at the hearing on January 7, 1958, regarding Assembly Bill No. 2981 of the 1957 Regular Session of the California Legislature.

Our final report and recommendation are forwarded herewith for the consideration of the full committee.

REPORT OF SUBCOMMITTEE ON PROPERTY TAXATION RELATIVE TO ASSEMBLY BILL NO. 2981, 1957 SESSION

Scope of Report

The Assembly Interim Committee on Revenue and Taxation Subcommittee on Personal Property was created under the general authority of House Resolution No. 238 to carry out the directive of the Assembly to study and report on Assembly Bill No. 2981.

Recommendations

The Subcommittee on Property Taxation recommends that no action be taken by the Legislature in anticipation of settlement of the problem by private tax suit. It is expected that the taxpayers in the meantime (in this case those holding leases on tax-exempt property) will invoke the provisions of law enabling them to pay their taxes under protest. The placing of a measure on the ballot, an expensive operation, is not recommended, unless the court decides adversely.

Findings

1. Local property assessors, in carrying out the mandate that all property not exempt by the Constitution be assessed, have attached a value to the leases of tax-exempt property. The basis of the assessment since 1930 has been predicated on the bonus value to the tenant in his lease. This bonus value or equity is the value in the open market of the use of the leased property for the term of the lease which is in excess of the present worth of the unpaid future rentals.

2 The owner of the tax-exempt property has offered the property for lease by private enterprises at a rental within the ability of the private party to pay. The revenues from these leases have been used to develop or maintain the program of the agency, including possibly debt service.

3 The assessors, since the De Luz case was decided, have assessed the value of the leases for the full value of the leases (without consideration of rentals paid to the tax-exempt owner).

4. Prospective lessees will be wary of engaging in leases with owners of tax-exempt property when the rentals and taxes on the leases combined will cost more than occupancy of other property.

5. Governmental jurisdictions have pre-empted certain ownerships, such as harbors, airports, etc. The industries active in fields needing such conveniences as are afforded by those governmental agencies have few alternative locations where they may operate; i.e., a fish cannery, ship repair or ship construction industry must have access to harbor waters.

Full Report

The sponsorship of this bill arises from the decision of the Supreme Court in the De Luz Homes v. County of San Diego wherein the court cast doubt on existing practices with respect to the assessment of leases on tax-exempt property, and subsequent legislation on the subject apparently has not solved the problem

Prior to the De Luz decision, the value of such lease for assessment purposes was established by the county assessors by deducting the amount of rental paid to the public owner from an amount comparable to what would be paid in a commercial rental. The De Luz decision said that it is not proper to give credit for the unpaid rents that are due in the future, and that the possessory interest must be substantially the fee value of the property; and that is taxable in full.

Subsequently, the Legislature gave temporary relief in a bill, Assembly Bill No. 456, which, among other provisions, declared that such possessory interests were personal property, were to be assessed as such, that rentals under an agreement in existence at the time the De Luz case was decided were deductible in determining the value of the lease.

The Los Angeles County Counsel and the Attorney General have opined that this statute is unconstitutional, asserting that these possessory interests are real property and the Legislature cannot declare real property to be personal property, then proceed to exempt such property. This stand is apparently disputed by the Legislative Counsel.

The assessors will consider that the opinions above mentioned will insure their defense and will make assessments as the court indicates—that the assessment on the property should be the value of the possessory interest to the taxpayer, regardless of the amount paid by him to the governmental agency as rent.

The governmental agency (harbor district, city airport, etc.) is now supported in great part by the rentals paid by the lessees of such property. They have in existence leases in various periods of time. They have until now been under the impression that their rental charges would be deductible by the taxpayer from his assessment. In turn, the taxpayer must face the cost of assessment of the total of his possessory interest's value, plus the cost of the rentals imposed by the agency. Thus, the tenant must weigh the cost of his occupancy of the property against the cost of moving to a less expensive location If he has a large plant on the property he is captive to the tax process.

The alternative is for the governmental agency to forego the rentals to the extent of the taxes imposed on the tenant, which might be a serious blow to the agency program.

Solution to the problem was discussed as being more properly accomplished by amendment to the Constitution. Possibly the same result could be had by the filing of a tax suit on a protested payment of taxes by a tenant, challenging the De Luz decision wording of the point involved here Solution by statute does not appear practical.

DEAR MR. DAHL: Your Subcommittee on Agricultural Products has studied the testimony given at hearings in El Centro on November 13, 1957, and in Fresno on December 10, 1957.

Our final report and recommendation are forwarded herewith for the consideration of the full committee.

REPORT OF SUBCOMMITTEE ON AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS

Recommendation

The Subcommittee on Agricultural Products recommends that a detailed study of the whole problem of inventory taxation, including taxation of agricultural products and other raw materials, be conducted before any further action is taken to extend the principle of in lieu taxation to agricultural products other than cotton.

Scope of Report

The Assembly Interim Committee on Revenue and Taxation's Subcommittee on Agricultural Products was created under the general authority of House Resolution No. 238 to carry out the directive of House Resolution No. 340, both of the 1957 Regular Session of the California Legislature.

House Resolution No. 340 directed the committee "to study the subject of taxation of farm products, particularly the date of attaching of a tax lien on such products and the advisability of adopting a permanent method of taxation as that applied to cotton in Senate Bill No. 2623 of the 1957 Regular Session to feed grains, such as oats, barley and others, fruit tree commodities and livestock and livestock products."

Senate Bill No. 2623 (Ch. 1861, Stats. 1957) imposed a tax on cotton in lieu of all other property taxes. Testimony was taken at two hearings, El Centro on November 13, 1957, and Fresno on December 10, 1957, relative to the advisability of imposing in lieu taxes on other agricultural products. The following report summarizes this testimony and the conclusions of the subcommittee.

Findings

1. Insufficient time has elapsed since Senate Bill No. 2623 (Ch. 1861, Stats. 1957), relative to a tax in lieu of property taxes on cotton, became effective to properly evaluate its effect on the cotton industry and to determine the advisability of extending the in lieu principle to other agricultural products.

2. Imposition of in lieu taxes, unless great caution is exercised, can lead to excessive pyramidation of taxes during a commodity's processing cycle.

3. Imposition of in lieu taxes can result in substantial shifting of tax burdens unless proper methods of distribution of tax revenues are provided.

4. In lieu taxes can have a favorable effect on the economy by stabilizing the food-processing industries and their labor forces.

5 Large parts of the total production of many agricultural products do not support the local governmental services provided them because they are shipped out of the State just before the first Monday in March. In lieu taxes on these products would make them bear their fair share of the costs of providing these services.

6. The question of in lieu taxes on agricultural products is closely related to the taxation of other raw materials, and is merely a part of the larger problem of taxing inventories in general, and should be studied as such before the principle is further extended

7. Sentiment favoring in lieu taxation is scattered and lacks cohesion at the present time.

Full Report

Of all forms of taxation, the taxation of property probably excites the most controversy. Two major factors are responsible for this First is the necessarily subjective nature of valuation determinations, and second is the arbitrary fixing of a lien date on which all taxable property is to be counted.

The first of these two factors has become so important in recent years that a special committee, the Joint Interim Committee on Assessment Practices, was created by the California Legislature at its 1957 Session to study all phases of the property assessment problem This subcommittee, therefore, has concerned itself with this factor only as an incidental to its study of the second factor

A resolution of the Assembly, adopted during the 1957 Session, directed the Assembly Interim Committee on Revenue and Taxation to explore the second factor insofar as it bears on the taxation of agricultural products. This subcommittee was created to carry out that responsibility.

In recent years a new principle of property taxation has been taking root in California. Known as the in lieu principle, it substitutes a flexible tax lien date on personal property for the arbitrary annual lien date which is normally prescribed for the counting and valuation of property. Only personal property can be made subject to an in lieu tax because of limitations written into the State Constitution.

Prior to 1957 in lieu property taxes had been established for only two classes of personal property: motor vehicles and solvent credits. The 1957 Legislature added cotton to the list. An attempt to include barley in the cotton act opened the entire field of agricultural products to discussion and led directly to the resolution directing the present investigation.

Evaluation of the extensive testimony taken at the two hearings held by this subcommittee has revealed that there is little present sentiment favoring an across-the-board imposition of in lieu taxes on farm products. As is always the case when it is proposed that a known procedure be changed, a strong fear of the unknown develops. Few deny that there are inequities and economic dislocations involved in the present system of taxing agricultural products, but, until it can be proven that substitution of the in lieu principle will eliminate or materially reduce present inequities and economic dislocations without introducing new ones, few will favor change.

Several witnesses argued in favor of an in lieu tax on their particular product because they had established to their own satisfaction that it would improve their economic position. Stockmen in the Imperial Valley, for example, were favorable to the proposal. They fatten stock raised on a distant range, often in another state. This stock is with them for only three or four months before going to slaughter. Most animals go through the whole fattening period between annual lien dates and are not taxed at all. Those that are in the feed lots on the lien date, about 32 percent of the cattle and 28 percent of the sheep, bear the brunt for the whole industry.

Grain growers in the same area, on the other hand, were opposed to the in lieu principle. They made the point that cotton is largely exported from California and, under the normal tax system, was generally shipped out of State prior to the first Monday in March in order to avoid the tax. Imposition of an in lieu tax permitted local authorities to collect on the formerly tax-free cotton. Grain grown in the Imperial Valley, however, remains in the area for consumption by fattening stock. In fact they even import grain for this purpose. In their view there are no economic problems; such as sharply fluctuating demands on transportation and storage facilities, or widespread avoidance of taxes, all of which may be found when considering export crops like cotton; involved in their industry. Operators of Imperial Valley storage facilities supported this stand.

Warehousemen and canners in the north, however, tended to favor in lieu taxes. The warehousemen find themselves loaded to capacity prior to the lien date. Then, just before that day, everything is shipped out to avoid the tax and they have virtually no business until the next crop comes in. This "feast or famine" situation, of course, extends to their labor force which enjoys plenty of overtime prior to the first Monday in March and then is faced with layoffs or part-time work afterwards.

The canners were disturbed because they are subjected to the same sharp fluctuations in their business as are the warehousemen. In addition, some products are shipped to out-of-state canneries to avoid taxes. Adoption by Oregon of a 90-day rule, which exempts for 90 days goods brought in for processing and subsequent export, has accentuated this problem.

Other cases were discussed by various witnesses, but those reviewed here reveal the general trend. A widespread feeling that in lieu taxes should either be imposed on all farm products or on none at all if there is to be equity in property taxation was evidenced by several witnesses. The fact that agricultural products constitute only a part of the raw materials produced in California was also pointed out. Those that mentioned this felt that the entire range of raw materials should be considered together when studying in lieu taxation.

A serious problem inherent in the application of in lieu taxation to farm products was discussed at length. Although it was conceded that the same amount of revenue could be raised from taxation of a given product by either method, it was pointed out that it would often go to different taxing agencies under the in lieu system than under the normal system. A product may be produced in one tax district, processed in a second and stored in a third. The recipients of the tax money would be determined by the point in the production cycle at which the tax lien is attached. In most cases this would be a different point than that which it has reached on the normal lien date. In effect this shifts the burden of taxation by increasing revenues in one tax area and lowering them in another, requiring that revenues from other tax sources be revised inversely in those areas. Until the problem of proper distribution of in lieu revenues can be solved, little progress will be made toward changing the present system of taxing agricultural products.

In this connection it should be noted that the local governmental services bought by these taxes function throughout the year, and protect and serve all property whether or not it is present on the first Monday in March to be taxed for its share. This subcommittee believes that income from personal property taxation should be on some sort of a sustained yield basis, perhaps by taxing average inventories, so that all property receiving services would pay its fair share of the costs. In order to formulate an adequate and equitable system for accomplishing this, the subcommittee recommends that the entire inventory taxation field, including agricultural products and other raw materials, be studied as a unit.

Another facet of the in lieu system of personal property taxation which deserves serious consideration is the general rigidity of the tax. Property tax rates are set at the exact amount required to raise the revenues needed to finance the budget. When an in lieu tax, such as the one-tenth of 1 percent on cotton and solvent credits, is fixed, the in lieu taxpayer neither reaps the benefit of a decreased property tax rate nor carries his share of the burden when the tax rate rises. To overcome this difficulty in lieu tax rates should be made flexible.

An interesting experiment in a flexible in lieu tax was the gross receipts tax on public utilities, one of the major provisions of the "separation of sources" program in force from 1911 to 1933. The gross receipts tax was in lieu of property taxes, but was not absolutely fixed. In essence it was computed by calculating the fair burden among property taxpayers that should be borne by the public utilities, and then calculating the gross receipts tax rate that would impose that burden. Separate computations were made for each of five classes of utilities. The tax rate, in practice, was not completely flexible because the Constitution (Art. XIII, Sec. 14 as amended by S.C.A. No. X 1, Res. Ch. 1, Stats. 1910, 2d Ex. Sess., and repealed by S.C.A. No. 30, Res. Ch. 63, Stats. 1933) required that "two-thirds of all members elected to each of the two houses" vote in favor of any rate change.

The plan embodied in the gross receipts tax could be modified to take into account estimated revenues that would accrue from normal ad valorem taxation of property subject to in lieu taxation, and then computing the in lieu rates that would raise those revenues. The semi-rigidity of the gross receipts tax could be avoided by permitting taxing agencies to adopt in lieu tax rates in the same manner as they adopt ad valorem rates.

A further problem, present in some degree in any system of taxation, can become acute when the in lieu principle is adopted unless great care is taken in writing the enabling act. This problem is pyramidation of taxes. When commodities are assessed annually most of them will pass through the complete cycle from field to consumer in less than a year and will be taxed only once, if at all. However, if the in lieu principle is adopted, the consumer may find that a new tax is imposed at each step in the production cycle with the result that the major part of the purchase price will represent taxes. One method of avoiding this situation is the average inventory system. Under this system each commodity unit is, in effect, taxed in proportion to the length of time it remains in a given inventory rather than at a fixed rate.

Several criteria have been formulated by the subcommittee which it believes should be made the focal point of a broad study of in lieu taxation of agricultural products, other raw materials and inventories in general. These criteria are:

1. Assessment and collection of property taxes should remain with local authorities.

2. Each unit of a given commodity should be taxed on the same basis as every other unit.

3. The burden of taxation should not be shifted from one group of taxpayers to another.

4. Tax revenues should not be shifted from one tax area to another, and such revenues should remain at their normal levels.

5. Revenues should be on some sort of a sustained yield basis, perhaps by establishing a tax on average inventories rather than a flat in lieu tax.

6. Changes in personal property taxation should have a favorable effect on the general economy.

7. Pyramidation of taxes should be avoided.

8. In lieu tax rates should be flexible in the same manner that normal ad valorem rates are.

Principal arguments advanced by the proponents of in lieu taxation, in summary form, are:

1. It spreads the tax base by making all items of a given class subject to taxation, thus permitting a reduced per unit tax.

2. It permits more orderly marketing of the commodity involved.

3. It promotes more stable labor conditions by eliminating the big upsurge in handling just before the normal tax lien date and the corresponding downsurge after that date.

4. It relieves congestion of transportation facilities just prior to the normal lien date.

5. It increases and stabilizes California's warehousing and processing industries by eliminating the need for shipping the commodity out of the State to avoid taxes.

6. It provides equalization between counties, removing taxes as a condition governing warehouse location.

7. It removes a burdensome tax from the small farmer who must now look to federal loans for his livelihood.

8. It promotes greater equality of taxation by taxing all producers of a given commodity rather than just those who have an inventory on hand on the lien date.

9. It removes, if adopted across the board, the present inequality between the low per unit tax on cotton and the higher per unit taxes on other agricultural products that are on hand on the lien date.

Principal arguments advanced by the opponents of in lieu taxation, in summary form, are:

1. Insufficient time has elapsed since the in lieu cotton tax became effective to adequately assess its effects.

2. Most farm products have uncontrolled movements which make it difficult to establish a time or place for attaching the tax lien.

3. Rapid turnover of some products makes collection difficult.

4. The tax is discriminatory, putting one farmer against another.

5. Commodities not now taxed would become subject to tax.

6. Pyramidation of taxes would be encouraged by collecting a new tax at each stage from the raw material to the finished product.

7. In lieu taxes collected at a processing point often will not go to the point of production, thus shifting revenues and, in turn, tax burdens.

8. Cash values of most commodities fluctuate from day to day making tax computation very difficult.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO PRINT IN JOURNAL

PRELIMINARY REPORT ON THE ACQUISITION PROCESS OF THE DIVISION OF BEACHES AND PARKS DEPARTMENT OF NATURAL RESOURCES

Report to the Subcommittee on Organization of The Department of Natural Resources of the Assembly Interim Committee on Government Organization State of California

Prepared by Legislative Analyst
March 17, 1958

Acquisition of Real Property for State Beaches and Parks

Acquisition of state park property, in the broad sense, begins when a project is proposed and ends when the deed of state ownership is recorded and the seller is paid.

The initial steps of acquisition, such as project investigation, are more closely related to planning and development than to acquisition per se, the latter being essentially a transfer of real estate ownership. All steps of the acquisition process are shown on Chart I attached, but only the technical real estate aspect of acquisition will be discussed here. Project investigation and development are discussed separately.

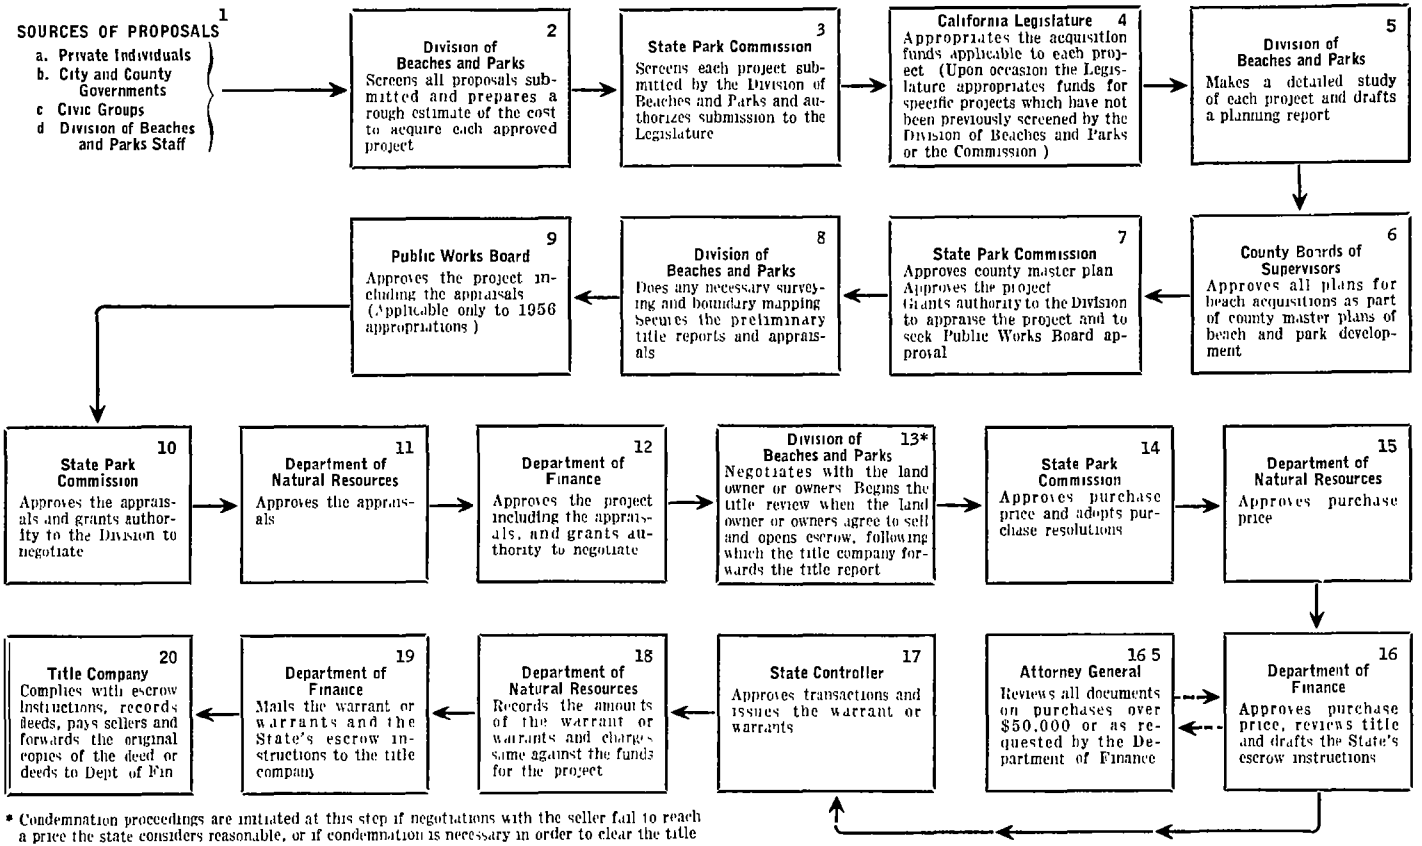

The acquisition process is a complicated one. Technically acquisition begins at Step 7 on the chart, which is the point when the acquisition unit of Beaches and Parks takes steps to have appraisals made of the property within the scope of the project. Considering the fact that Chart I shows the steps of an acquisition which has met no problems of title, no questions, etc, by any control agency that would require backtracking, and considering also that several of the steps in the chart have their own internal processes, then the acquisition process becomes complex indeed.

Many of the steps shown in the flow chart are required by law. Others are matters of administrative policy which serve apparently necessary purposes. Some steps appear completely unnecessary and could be eliminated. Others could be combined, and many might be improved as to their internal processes.

The following are supplementary details on Chart I, commencing with Step 7, the beginning of the technical acquisition process.

CHART I—THE PROCESS OF REAL PROPERTY ACQUISITION FOR STATE BEACHES AND PARKS IN CALIFORNIA

Prepared by Legislative Analyst March 25, 1958

* Condemnation proceedings are initiated at this step if negotiations with the seller fail to reach a price the state considers reasonable, or if condemnation is necessary in order to clear the title

Step 7. The technical acquisition process begins when the State Park Commission approves a project and gives the Division of Beaches and Parks the authority to obtain appraisals of the property. Authority to seek Public Works Board approval is normally given at this time also. These actions are required by law.

Step 8. The Division of Beaches and Parks through its staff and/or independent fee appraisers, proceeds to appraise the property within the scope of the approved project. Because the condition of the title of a piece of land will affect its value, preliminary title reports are normally ordered before the appraisals are made. The feasibility of a project, to a certain extent, is judged by the results of the appraisals. Making appraisals is standard to all state acquisition projects.

Step 9. Approval of the project by the Public Works Board. This is applicable only to 1956 appropriations. In making its decision, the Public Works Board uses an analysis prepared by the Budget Division of the Department of Finance and information supplied in a report by the Division of Beaches and Parks. Here the feasibility of the project is considered—i.e , will the project as planned and budgeted accomplish its intended purpose?

Step 10. Presenting the appraisals to the State Park Commission. This is a carryover from the early days of the division when raising matching funds made it necessary for members of the commission to practically live with a project from the beginning through to completion. The commission at that time, in effect, headed a fund drive as well as acting as the administrative head of the division. Every acquisition was a careful balancing of available funds from gifts and appropriations against a long sought for goal. Thus the commission was vitally interested in the appraisal reports. Today they rarely, if ever, examine them.

Step 11. Approval of the appraisals by the Department of Natural Resources. This step is required by policy of the Department of Finance as a preliminary to its own review. This step appears to be a wise control which serves as a review by an agency cognizant of the State's overall recreation and conservation program.

Step 12. Review of the project by the deputy director of the Department of Finance prior to his final approval acting for the department which approval is required by law. Only the authority to negotiate is given at this point. Final approval is always withheld until the negotiations are completed and all title matters are cleared. This review is based, to a great extent, on the same data presented to the Public Works Board. The deputy director either sits on the Public Works Board for the Director of Finance or is present at its meetings in some other capacity, and thus he is familiar with all the data necessary to make his decision.

Step 13. The Division of Beaches and Parks' staff negotiates with the property owners and reviews the title documents. This step is standard in all acquisition programs of the State. Here the Division of Beaches and Parks needs improvement of internal procedures. These will be discussed separately in this report.

Step 14. Adopting the purchase resolution by the State Park Commission. Having previously made its decision to go ahead with the project (Step 7), the State Park Commission rarely, if ever, questions an acquisition at this point. The action taken in this step is largely a routine compliance with the law. An acquisition, at this point, has had considerable staff and control agency review and will be reviewed again by the Departments of Natural Resources and Finance and possibly the Attorney General.

Step 15. Approval of the purchase by the Department of Natural Resources. This step is required by policy of the Department of Finance as a precautionary screening prior to its own review. Unless a question is raised, this review requires very little time.

Step 16. Approval of the acquisition by the Department of Finance and drafting of escrow instructions. This step is required by law as a necessary safeguard to the interests of the State. A complete review of all documents is conducted. Unless there is a serious question as to the propriety of the price paid, the condition of the title or other documents, little time is consumed by this safeguard.

Step 16.5. Review of all documents on acquisitions over $50,000 by the Attorney General. This is part of the final review given in Step 16 as a policy of the Department of Finance which may, whenever it deems that the nature of the documents warrants this review, refer any and all acquisitions to the Attorney General. Unless a serious question is raised by the Attorney General this safeguard consumes little time.

Step 17. Issuance of the warrant by the State Controller. This is done at the request of the Department of Finance and is required by law. This step consumes little time.

Step 18. Recording the amount of the warrant and other data in the Department of Natural Resources. This is a fiscal action done as a matter of routine. While the step is necessary, time could be saved if the warrant proper were sent directly to the Department of Finance for mailing and a statement by the State Controller certifying its amount and other pertinent data were to be sent to the Department of Natural Resources.

Step 19. The Department of Finance receives the warrant from the Department of Natural Resources and mails it together with the escrow instructions to the title company. This is the final action in the acquisition process taken by a state agency.

Step 20. The title company complies with the escrow instruction, records the deed in the county recorder's office, pays the seller and returns the deed and title documents to the Department of Finance. Recording of the deed gives it legal status and conveys the property to the State, thus completing the acquisition process. The original copy of the deed is filed with the Secretary of State by the Department of Finance.

It would appear from the above series of steps that there is an appreciable rehandling of documents by the same agencies. Some of these steps might be combined in the interest of saving time and effort without jeopardizing the necessary safeguards.

For example, in Step 8 the Division of Beaches and Parks prepares appraisals. Bypassing the director of that department (Natural Resources) it sends the appraisals to the Public Works Board for approval in Step 9. The staff of the Director of Finance studies the project in behalf of the Public Works Board and assist the board in reaching its decision. Not, however, until after the appraisals are returned to the State Park Commission in Step 10 for a perfunctory review and to the Director of Natural Resources for his belated review in Step 11, are the papers returned to the Deputy Director of Finance for his approval in Step 12. This despite the fact that the Director of Finance is chairman of the Public Works Board and has already received the advice of the deputy director on the project before it is considered by that board. From Beaches and Parks to Director of Natural Resources to Director of Finance for recommendation to the Public Works Board would conform to the pattern of approval followed in the case of ordinary construction acquisition projects and would seem to be the proper course to follow here.

Similarly, in Step 14, the State Park Commission is asked to adopt a purchase resolution which again appears perfunctory and could be part of Step 7, rescindable in the event situations arise which might call for such action.

Flow Chart I represents the process followed by an acquisition which proceeds without complicated interruption from beginning to end. If at any point a change is requested or an error is registered, the documents stop until the question is cleared, or, in the event a change is required by one of the control agencies, the acquisition documents return to the point where the change must be made following which they start through the necessary steps again For example, if the Department of Finance at Step 16 questions a provision in the title document and the question is simply a matter of clarification, the documents wait in the Department of Finance until a memo goes back through the Department of Natural Resources to the title review unit in the Division of Beaches and Parks and returns with an acceptable answer.

On the other hand, if the Department of Finance, at Step 16, raises a question regarding a serious restriction or condition which must be cleared by quitclaim deed, the documents return through the Department of Natural Resources to the title review unit of the division for securing the quitclaim deed and on to the State Park Commission which must accept this new interest in the land. The documents then are processed back through the Department of Natural Resources to the Department of Finance.

The State Park Commission meets only once a month and it may take some 30 days to transcribe the certified copy of its minutes. For this reason an acquisition which must be resubmitted to the commission may be considerably delayed.

ACQUISITION POLICY AND PROCEDURES WITHIN THE DEPARTMENT OF NATURAL RESOURCES

The key steps in real property acquisition are appraisal, negotiation, filing of escrow, title search, review and clearing and recording of the deed. Of these steps, the ones requiring the most discretion are responsibilities of the staff of the Division of Beaches and Parks. The functions performed by the other agencies of the State are either supplemental to these or are control and safeguard functions.

There are in the Division of Beaches and Parks two units performing the basic functions of appraisal and negotiation. Two distinct and different methods exist in the division relative to the acquisition process. The acquisition unit in the Sacramento office has one approach and set of procedures and the acquisition unit in Los Angeles has a different approach and set of procedures. The results obtained by the two acquisition units appear to be decidedly different also. In order to understand the reason for the two different results, it is necessary to examine each unit independently of the other.

The Southern California Acquisition Unit

The acquisition unit in Los Angeles is responsible for all acquisitions from the Mexican border north, to and including Monterey County. It is under the direction of a senior state park lands acquisition officer who is given considerable freedom in determining the policies and procedures governing his operation.

There is in this office a well defined philosophy for the guidance of acquisition activities. An instruction manual has been established for staff guidance which sets forth procedures and policies to be followed in making appraisals and in negotiating with owners. All transactions by the staff are recorded on control or flow charts which give a complete up-to-the-minute picture of the progress of each acquisition at every step, including those handled at the division level or higher. As many steps as possible have been reduced to routine by standardized instructions and forms.

All appraisal assignments are made in writing accompanied by detailed special instructions. Appraisal reports are carefully reviewed for technique used, clarity, completeness, proper form and documentation of findings, using a comprehensive check list.

Fee appraisers are selected on the basis of their qualifications which must be on file in the Los Angeles office. Fees are set in advance by contract.

The general policy of this office governing negotiations with landowners holds that the negotiator should have complete confidence in the soundness of the appraisals, since the division pays to secure the services of the best qualified appraisers.

The policy also assumes that the low appraisal is a reasonable estimate of the market value of the property in question.

Another requirement of the Los Angeles office is that the offers made by the negotiator should begin below the low appraisal in order to afford latitude in negotiation to achieve closing at or below the low appraisal. No negotiator has, within his own authority, the right to offer a landowner more than the low appraisal. Only under unusual circumstances will the senior in charge of the Los Angeles office authorize a negotiator to offer more than the low appraisal, since the general policy of this office is to use the processes of eminent domain if the property holder will not settle at the low appraisal.

This policy is based on the philosophy that the negotiator and his senior, as well as their superiors, are stewards of the public's money and cannot assume the authority to pay more for any property than it is worth. If too high a price is to be paid, as determined by appraisal, then the burden of that decision must be shifted to the courts. Standards for the techniques of negotiating are high and instructions to the negotiators are explicit.

The result of the approach and the methods used for acquisitions in the Los Angeles office is indicated by the fact that the total paid for all acquisitions, except gift-deeded lands but including court awarded and stipulated judgments, made through this office from July 1, 1952 through December 31, 1957, exceeded the total of all low appraisals by only 0.89 percent. For the same period, including all acquisitions except gift-deeded lands and court-awarded judgments, the total of all prices paid exceeded the total of all low appraisals by only 0 69 percent.

Northern Acquisition Office

The acquisition unit in Sacramento is, like the Los Angeles unit, a subsection in the staff services section. Unlike the Los Angeles unit, the supervisor responsible for the acquisition process in Northern California, until quite recently, performed other major responsibilities as well. The title review unit for both the northern and southern acquisition offices, is located in the Sacramento acquisition unit, and until February 1, 1958, the supervisor of acquisition was also the supervisor of project investigation and land planning. The greatly increased activity of the division, in the last five years has multiplied the responsibilities of the land planning and acquisition supervisor. On February 1, 1958, these functions were assigned to separate supervisors under a deputy chief.

However, now as before reorganization, the appraisal and negotiation functions headed by a senior state park lands acquisition officer are within the boundaries of responsibility of the acquisition supervisor. The senior state park lands acquisition officer of the northern office has the same responsibilities as his counterpart in Los Angeles, but he is responsible to the supervisor in the Los Angeles office under the existing temporary arrangement.

The title review section is headed by a supervising land title examiner who is also responsible to the acquisition supervisor. The position of supervisor of acquisition and land title examination was created to take over that part of the land planning and acquisition supervisor's functions when acquisition was separated from land planning and the latter position was abolished. This move promises to make possible much closer overall supervision of the acquisition program.

The new position is being filled on a part-time basis only at the present, no one in the northern office being considered qualified to fill the position. The senior in charge of the southern acquisition unit is unwilling to come to Sacramento on a permanent basis, but is filling in the position on a temporary, part-time basis until a qualified successor is found. He commutes by plane from Los Angeles, spending half time in each part of the State.

Before the senior from the southern office assumed overall supervision of the acquisition program, there was no manual of instruction in the Sacramento unit. No control charts or flow charts were used in either the appraisal-negotiation section or the title section until they were initiated here by the acting acquisition and land title supervisor.

An examination of the operation of the Sacramento acquisition office indicates that instructions to the appraisers were usually given orally, often over the telephone. Therefore, misunderstanding concerning the instructions could very easily have occurred.

Although standard fees were paid to the independent appraisers ($100 per day), and the best appraisers were sought, there was no file of fee appraisers and their qualifications kept in the office.

Appraisal reports were not reviewed for technique used, compliance with instructions, clarity, accuracy, etc. A check sheet for reviewing appraisals did not exist in the office.

The Department of Natural Resources, as part of its review of appraisals, did have several appraisal reports analyzed for technique, clarity, accuracy, etc. This was done by a qualified independent appraiser selected by the department, and his report was so critical of the division's appraisal reports that the department seriously questioned the validity of the appraisals. The significant criticisms were that the instructions to the appraisers were not adequate; the techniques used were wrong for the kind of property appraised; and the values set were probably as much as 30 percent too high.

Reappraisals of large parcels of one project have been ordered at considerable additional cost to the State and the results are not available as of this writing.

Based on actions and results, this tacit policy would appear to be that acquisition is urgent, that pressures from all quarters justify almost any approach including possibly paying more than property is worth in order to acquire it in the shortest time.

The results of this apparent policy in negotiating for land is demonstrated in a tally of all land acquisition payments in the northern section of the State, including court awards and stipulated judgments but not gift-deed lands, from July 1, 1952 through December 31, 1957, which shows the total paid to be 13.73 percent above the total of the low appraisals. The total of all acquisitions, including stipulated judgments but not court awards or gift-deeded lands, shows the total price paid to be 12.4 percent above the total of the low appraisal. These figures are startling when compared to 0 89 percent and 0.64 percent, respectively, in the south. (See Exhibit I.)

Examination of individual grantor files, selected at random and including purchases by the northern and the southern offices, indicates that on the average the negotiators in the north carry on negotiations with a landowner for a longer time than do the southern negotiators. Many northern negotiations seem to carry on for several months, and in some cases years, while offers continue to rise in amount. Many southern negotiations are closed at just below the appraisal in two or three days and some in one day (assuming that a negotiation is considered completed when the landowner agrees to sell at a price acceptable to the State).

There appears to be definite reluctance on the part of the northern acquisition office to acquire property through the process of eminent domain. The files show many cases where prices above the high appraisals were paid without a condemnation resolution being requested. One of the files appeared to show that a price above the high appraisal was agreed to by the division before the appraisals were even completed.

Many northern acquisitions have been delayed because the Departments of Natural Resources or Finance requested the division to give further justification for the price agreed to. Dissatisfaction has been expressed in the division because the Department of Finance questions paying any amount over 10 percent above the low appraisal.

The stated reasons why the northern office does not like to use condemnation proceedings to acquire property are because of its bad effects on public relations, because it takes an unreasonably long time (up to five years), and because judgments are often excessively high. (See Table II.) This is in direct contrast to the policy followed by the Los Angeles unit.

It is also apparent that the condemnation process is administered differently in the Sacramento office of the Attorney General than in his Los Angeles office. This will be discussed later in the report.

Title Examination Section

The title examination unit in the Sacramento office serves both Northern and Southern California, although the preliminary title examination for the Los Angeles office is done by one of the appraiser-negotiators. The Los Angeles office has been authorized a land title examiner but has not yet been able to recruit one.

The State requires that the title to all land purchased be free of any and all conditions, covenants and restrictions which could possibly interfere with the State's intended use of that land. Because the state title requirements are strict and because lands purchased often have very complicated titles, clearing the titles often requires several months. As a result, the seller often becomes impatient with the time lapse between his entering into escrow and the date he is paid for his property. When title restrictions cannot be cleared through ordinary means, then the State exercises the power of eminent domain and clears the titles through court action.

Title search and clearing is done by a title company in the county where the land is located. Title examination is done by the Division of Beaches and Parks, the Department of Finance, and in some cases by the Attorney General. The Department of Finance does not give its approval of any land acquisition until it is satisfied the title is clear.

The title examination unit of Beaches and Parks has not been able to staff all of its authorized positions, apparently because the salary schedule for land title examiners of the Division of Beaches and Parks, when compared with salaries of like positions in private industry and in the Division of Highways, is too low to attract qualified applicants.

Title review is tedious and exacting. Several files selected at random give evidence that every echelon of title review had, at some point in time, overlooked some matter that had to be cleared before the State could accept the deed. Title clearing requires much time-consuming correspondence between the division and the title company. Whenever the Department of Finance or the Attorney General find a condition, covenant or restriction which requires clearing, but was overlooked on the division level, there is a long delay while the necessary correspondence processes back and forth through channels.

Title matters seem to be the chief cause of delay in what would be an ordinary, routine purchase of land. In considering the existing organization, the situation is aggravated by two things: (1) the need to fill currently authorized examiner positions in the title review unit; and (2) the unavoidable time delay in correspondence between Finance and the Division of Beaches and Parks. We will submit a specific recommendation relative to the title review function in the summary of recommendations.

THE PROCESS OF EMINENT DOMAIN

Power to initiate the process of eminent domain in order to acquire state park property rests solely with the State Park Commission. Normally, the commission passes a condemnation resolution when property cannot be acquired through negotiation at a price it considers reasonable, or when title must be cleared through condemnation. The Department of Finance must then approve the condemnation action.

The legal phases of condemnation proceedings are carried out in the name of the State by the Attorney General who represents the division and the State in court. The Attorney General is apparently the key to the success of any condemnation action but much co-operation and action is required of the Beaches and Parks' staff also.

The Los Angeles and Sacramento offices of the Attorney General are organized differently for handling condemnation actions and each uses a different approach. The basic steps in condemnation action are prescribed by law and do not vary between the two offices.

Because the Division of Beaches and Parks apparently has two different policies regarding the use of condemnation, the difference in approach used by the two offices of the Attorney General can be somewhat understood. In the Sacramento office of the Attorney General, condemnation actions for Beaches and Parks' cases are handled by a single deputy in the Public Resources Law Section. There are at the present time 15 cases pending in this offices.

In an interview with this individual, the following comments were elicited:

1. Basic procedures are the same as in the Los Angeles office.
2. Filing condemnation action with the court of jurisdiction requires about two weeks after the necessary documents are received in the office, provided they are complete and in proper form.
3. Much delay in filing is caused when the litigation report, the condemnation resolution passed by the State Park Commission, and the legal description of the property do not reconcile exactly. When they do not, as sometimes happens, it is a matter of processing the documents back through channels to the division and the State Park Commission for necessary action.

4. It is generally a better policy to reach a stipulated judgment rather than go to trial. This is true even when the amount of the stipulation is slightly in excess of the high appraisal. (It is important to note that often appraisals are old and invalid by the time stipulated judgments are agreed to by both the Attorney General and the defendant.)
5. Close contact with the Division of Beaches and Parks staff is maintained at all times when the Attorney General is negotiating with a defendant. This contact is usually by telephone but important matters are confirmed by memo.
6. The Attorney General cannot agree to any price for stipulation for judgment without a resolution from the State Park Commission and the approval of the amount by the Department of Finance.
7. There are cases which have been pending for a long period of time. The reasons for this are as many as there are cases—but generally the delays are caused by the need for corrections in the documents and by the policy of continued negotiation on the part of the Attorney General rather than taking a case promptly to trial. Whether this is the policy of the Attorney General or an application of the division's policy of negotiating could not be determined. Much of the delay can possibly be attributed to the heavy workload of the responsible deputy.

Southern California condemnation actions for acquiring state park property in that portion of the State are handled in the Attorney General's office in Los Angeles by the condemnation section which is a unit within the government law section.

This condemnation section formed in February, 1957, is staffed with three full-time deputies and one part-time deputy. It is responsible for handling the condemnations of all state agencies and departments in the southern part of California except the Division of Highways.

When the section was created there were 11 actions for Beaches and Parks pending, some of which were five years old. All of these have either been closed by stipulated judgment or by court award, or have been set for trial. None of the pending trials is later than June 30, 1958.

Nine new actions have been opened since February, 1957, and four of these have been closed by court award or stipulated judgment.

The following criteria have been laid down by the deputy in charge of the condemnation section in Los Angeles:

1. The purpose of condemnation action is to acquire property for the State at the lowest cost and within the least time which will afford proper safeguards for the State and will be fair to the private landowner.
2. It is not proper for the State to acquire bargains at the expense of the individual but neither is it proper for any state officer, board or commission to pay more for any property than the property is worth.
3. No case will be closed by stipulated judgment for any figure higher than the high appraisal.

4. All action in new cases should be processed in a manner that will allow them to be closed by stipulated judgment or be brought to trial within one year. This principle is very important because it very materially affects the price the State may ultimately have to pay in order to acquire the property.
5. No negotiations will be conducted with the defendant without a representative of the Beaches and Parks' staff present and participating. This gives the deputy the benefit of the background information in the division as well as the special skills of the division's negotiator.
6. Thorough preparation, well in advance, must be made for every trial and for every conference with the defendant—even to the point of gathering all the members of the "team" together and conducting a mock trial with exhaustive cross examinations.

The total of 16 condemnation awards or stipulated judgments for the southern part from July 1, 1952, through December 31, 1957, was $82,035 as shown in Table I.

CONTROL AGENCIES INVOLVED IN ACQUISITION

The Department of Natural Resources exercises a control function over the Division of Beaches and Parks' acquisitions. Other control agencies are the Department of Finance, the Public Works Board and the Attorney General.

The Department of Natural Resources and the Attorney General exercise controls over certain phases of acquisitions because Department of Finance policy requires their recommendations as a prerequisite to its own approval, the latter step being by law.

We have not found any of these controls by these agencies to be unnecessary or excessive and they appear to be sound safeguards, well worth the time they require.

General Findings and Recommendations

1. The time it takes for an acquisition to be processed from negotiation to recording of the deed and paying the seller depends to a great degree upon the circumstances of the individual case. The chief delay seems to stem from title matters and delays caused when the Department of Finance questions a title determination made by the Beaches and Parks' title unit. Title determination is the most complex of the review functions. It is our understanding that general state policy as established by the Department of Finance governs the determinations. Much time could be saved between the seller's opening of escrow and the recording of the deed if the title review function were handled entirely within the Department of Finance. It is our recommendation that all title review and title determinations be made within the Department of Finance with no title review being conducted within the Division of Beaches and Parks.

2. We have only minor suggestions regarding the operation of the Los Angeles office of Beaches and Parks. So far as our observations have gone, this office is following sound policies and procedures and is yielding reasonably satisfactory results.

3. The Sacramento acquisition unit is now adopting many of the policies and procedures followed by the Los Angeles unit. This is because the supervisor of the Los Angeles unit is temporarily in charge of both. We feel steps should be taken to assure the continued existence of adequate policy and sound procedures in the Sacramento office. Perhaps the best way to do this is by selecting a real property appraiser and negotiator with the highest possible qualifications and broadest possible experience for permanent appointment to the position of land acquisition and title examination supervisor. This position should be given a classification and salary rating that will attract the best qualified applicants.

We see no evidence of change from the Sacramento office's historic policy of prolonged negotiation, and reluctance to condemn even at the risk of paying above the high appraisal being followed in the Northern California acquisitions. We do not believe that this is a wise policy or an effective stewardship of state funds. The experience of the Los Angeles unit in this regard proves that state park lands can be acquired at a fair and reasonable cost. This applies to acquisition either by negotiation or condemnation.

4. We recommend that both the Division of Beaches and Parks and the Attorney General make a study of the practices followed and the methods used by their respective Los Angeles units and adopt the soundest and best of these practices and procedures as standards for both areas.

FINAL REPORT TO THE LEGISLATURE BY THE JOINT INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE ON A LEGISLATIVE SESSION IN THE FORMER STATE CAPITOL AT BENICIA

(Created by Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 3, 1958)

Hon. Harold J. Powers, President and Members of the Senate

Hon Luther H. Lincoln, Speaker and Members of the Assembly

This final report of the Joint Investigating Committee on a Legislative Session in the Former State Capitol at Benicia should be considered as supplementary to the report of March 10, 1958, printed in the Senate Journal of March 11, 1958, and the Assembly Journal of March 12, 1958.

Pursuant to the recommendations of this committee and the provisions of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 2 (1958), a regular meeting of the Legislature was held in the former State Capitol in Benicia on March 15, 1958, in connection with the rededication of the building as a State Historical Monument.

The Legislature was addressed in joint session by the Honorable Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, and in separate sessions of each house acted on resolutions appropriate to the occasion and congratulating persons and organizations responsible for the restoration of the building and the celebration conducted in conjunction with the meeting.

The committee believes that the conduct of this session at Benicia marked a significant contribution towards the preservation of the history of California in that the occasion inspired considerable research on the legislative sessions of 1853 and 1854 in Benicia and the publication and wide dissemination of that data. The meeting of the Legislature at a site other than the established seat of government was in itself a historic event, the record of which will be appropriately preserved for posterity.

The committee wishes to extend its thanks to the leadership and to the entire membership of each house for the co-operation and assistance in this rather unique project.

Respectfully submitted

FURTHER PROCEEDINGS UNDER CALL OF THE ASSEMBLY DISPENSED WITH

At 11.59 p.m., on motion of Mr. McCollister, further proceedings under the call of the Assembly were dispensed with.

STATEMENT OF VOTE

We voted for the Third Conference Committee Report on the Budget because we felt that while there were many items both relative to water and otherwise with which we disagreed, nevertheless, we thought the importance of getting started on the vital task of supplying water to all water deficient areas in California was of overriding importance and justified the adoption of that Budget so we would not lose even nine months in beginning the enormous task of getting water where we need it and in time.
