Upon invitation of the Chief Clerk, the following prayer was offered by the Reverend R Wilbur Summons, Chaplain of the Assembly for the 1959 Regular Session:

Almighty God, Believing that through the years Thine eternal purpose runs, we come together again to take our humble part in shaping the destiny of our State During the time of recess the ranks of this Assembly have been broken by death, and we pause in tribute to Neth Johnson Let memory lead us to a greater appreciation of past experiences, and to a sense of privilege in the present moment of assembly and assignment When we have completed the work of this new session on the principles of truth, justice, and honor, may it be evident that we have turned to Thee, the source of all truth, the fount of justice, and the standard of all honorable conduct In the spirit of prayer we turn now to the work of these coming days, and may God help us!—AMEN

LETTERS OF TRANSMITTAL

CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE
ASSEMBLY INTERIM COMMITTEE ON WATER
January 11, 1960

Hon. Ralph M. Brown, Speaker of the Assembly
Members of the Assembly
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

GENTLEMEN: The Assembly Interim Committee on Water submits herewith its Final Report on Economic and Financial Policies for State Water Projects. Work on this report was started by the Joint Committee on Water Problems pursuant to Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 198 (1957 General Session). Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 149 (1959 General Session) resulted in transferring the work to the Assembly Interim Committee on Water for completion. An interim report was issued under the title of Twelfth Partial Report of the Joint Committee on Water Problems. This final report also covers your committee's conclusions regarding Assembly Resolution No 293 and Assembly Bill No 2861, (1959 General Session) which were also assigned to the committee

The attached report does not directly concern itself with Senate Bill No. 1106 or any other water legislation Pursuant to Assembly Concurrent Resolution No 198, it sets forth the committee's general conclusions on economic and financial policies for state water projects resulting from work extending over a period of three years and including 36 days of hearings or work sessions To the best of my knowledge, this is the most comprehensive investigation yet undertaken by a committee of the State Legislature As more fully set forth in the body of the report, your committee has concluded that water from state projects should be priced to recover all costs incurred in its delivery There should be no state subsidy to water users and other project beneficiaries, although local distributing agencies may choose to price the water to recognize differing values of the water to the ultimate consumer A state pricing policy on water which recovers all costs involves no subsidy and no need for the State to limit deliveries of water to those who are willing to pay for it Project power should be priced at its market value and used to operate the project pumps Under such a pricing policy the committee feels that there is no need for an acreage limitation as contemplated in Assembly Bill No 2861 or in some different form

The committee wishes to express its appreciation to the numerous organizations, state agencies and private citizens who have contributed generously of their time and talents The members wish to express particular gratitude to those Senators and Assemblymen who were on the Joint Committee on Water Problems and who worked on the subject matter of this report before the Legislature discontinued the use of joint committees These legislators bear no responsibility for the contents of this final report Because the authority for this work and the conduct of more than half of the work were concurrent or joint between the Assembly and Senate, your committee requests that copies of this report be furnished to Members of the Senate

Finally, your chairman and committee members wish to thank the Legislative Counsel Bureau, the chairman and staff of the former Joint Committee on Water Problems and those members of the staff of the Legislative Analyst who have provided technical and staff services to the committee. Their invaluable assistance made the task of the committee much easier and more profitable

Respectfully submitted,

Hon Glenn M Anderson, Lieutenant Governor of the State of California, then addressed the Joint Convention and presented Governor Edmund G Brown to the Joint Convention as follows

Mr Speaker, Governor Brown, President pro Tempore, Members of the California State Senate, Members of the California State Assembly, My Friends:

It is a pleasure to extend my greetings to you upon the occasion of the opening of the special and budget legislative sessions of 1960 The memory of the fine spirit of co-operation, which was responsible for the most constructive Regular Session of 1959 is very fresh in my mind I believe I could express no more appropriate wish for all of us than that we may be able to work together as effectively and with such substantial success as we did at that time

I am honored this afternoon by the privilege of presenting to you the man whose leadership charted the far-reaching goals and with your help, steered the good course last year Ladies and gentlemen—His Excellency, Edmund G Brown, Governor of California

ADDRESS BY GOVERNOR EDMUND G BROWN

Lieutenant Governor Anderson, President pro Tempore Burns, Speaker Brown, and Members of the Legislature:

I present to you a budget faithful to the principles of fiscal solvency, faithful to the needs of today, faithful to the future of California It is balanced not by borrowing against the future but by living within our means It provides for a prudent investment in colleges, state hospitals, parks, and other public facilities essential to accommodate the relentless, magnificent growth of our population and industry

The annual budget stands as a portrait of the dedication, the demands, and the discipline of all the people of California It reflects the preferences and mirrors the basic decisions not only of me as Governor and you as legislators, but of all the citizens of this State Neither the complexity nor the abstractions of the budget should ever blind us to this public truth

The hopes and needs of people are not expressed in percentages or ratios, or even in dollars Instead, in the context of government, they exist in terms of the facilities and services that people rightfully demand of their government—for example, penal institutions, recreational facilities, and to the needy blind, and many more matters of a social and economic nature The wisdom of a budget cannot be measured solely by bookkeeping entries or an accounting analysis In a democracy, a budget should do more than balance, it should serve as an instrument for the fulfillment of the just desires and vital needs of the people

A year ago when I took office, there was a crisis in state finances The State had been spending more than its income year after year Fiscal experts of the previous Administration anticipated a General

Fund deficit at June 30, 1959, of more than $60 million, and 1959-60 expenditure requirements were expected to exceed estimated revenues from then existing sources by more than $200 million

I asked you in my first budget message to join me in facing up to our responsibilities and to adopt a program to put our State back in the black The program called for an aggressive economy drive and new, broadly obtained revenues to meet the State's obligations You gave these recommendations magnificent support The action on last year's budget showed that the people of California have the courage and the character to choose the course of fiscal solvency

Because of our accomplishments last year, our state finances today are on a sound basis We now estimate that on June 30, 1960, the General Fund will show a net balance of approximately $73 million Much of this results from the improvement in economic conditions More than $23 million, however, arises out of our savings—expenses which we were able to cut below budget authorizations This is a result of our determined drive to get maximum effectiveness from every tax dollar

For the fiscal year ahead, I pledge you and the people of this State unswerving diligence on behalf of stern economy and efficiency in our public stewardship I have demanded that agency directors, in their individual diligence, develop improved economies of operation, hand in hand with better service for the public In the coming year, I shall press even more insistently for those objectives

In measuring this budget with the State it must serve, you will find that the central, all-pervasive fact of life in California is growth—growth in population and industry, and growth in the responsibilities that government, like each of us individually, has in an increasingly complex society The size of the budget is a symptom of this growth!

Indeed, the budget can be understood only in terms of our relentless population increase, our spiraling complexity as a community, our immense potential Nearly all of our citizens have personal knowledge of the overcrowding of California's schools and colleges, prisons, hospitals, campsites, and other public facilities The aggravations and inadequacies—public and private—resulting from these shortages have accumulated over many years Just ahead lie still greater demands and still greater loss of potential economic and social wealth and well-being if we fail to build parallel with California's irrepressible expansion in population

To meet the public needs of the State requires what is properly called "substantial capital outlay for institutions and facilities" But these are cold, impersonal words For me, it is more meaningful to liken our schools, campuses parks, and other public facilities to a house It is the other house that you and I and our children live in It occasionally needs roof repairs, the plumbing has to be fixed, the wiring repaired, just as in our own houses And when the family of Californians grows as it does by over 500,000 new residents each year, we need to add more rooms, just as we would for our own families

I would no more think of permitting California's house to become impossibly overcrowded or dilapidated than I would allow this to happen to my own house I am sure each of you feels the same way

I propose that the great bulk of the balance which will be on hand

at the end of the present fiscal year be invested—not just spent—to provide the buildings and equipment immediately necessary for our skyrocketing educational demands, our rising prison problems, our mental health requirements, and our other basic capital needs In this way the state government can best help build for California's future It is also the only way to reduce the backlog of need caused by neglect in prior years

The prospects for California's future growth and greatness refute the notion that revenues can be cut back at this time. The rate of population increase expected in the years ahead indicates that basic demands on the state government for long established responsibilities will not soon lessen In the face of that, the fiscal solvency and capital plant of the State must be kept up, not undercut To reduce revenues in the face of the urgent educational needs—to take just one example—would constitute a callous disregard for the State's credit standing and financial soundness To cut back now would be irresponsibility of the same character as that which produced the financial crises I inherited at the beginning of my term in office We should reject the glib advice of those who prefer the easy path of fiscal self-deception to the austerity of fact.

I want to stress that the contemplated net balance will be used for immediately-required capital construction which otherwise would have to be financed by bonded indebtedness I believe that this is particularly sound during this period of high interest rates, which I am advised will likely continue in the foreseeable future To use the prospective balance to keep down debt financing on continuing, non-revenue producing public responsibilities is an objective of government supported by the responsible leadership of both our major political parties. When I became Governor, I pledged fiscal responsibility for this State; and that is exactly what I am determined to affirm through this budget

I want to turn now to a brief definitive summary of the budget for the year 1960-61 The total amounts to $2,477,121,574, a profound responsibility for you of the Legislature and for myself.

The proposed budget is essentially an extension of the budget which I submitted to you last year and which received your approval with little modification It is an austere budget with every expenditure item having been subjected to the strict test of necessity.

I want to take just a few minutes of your time to indicate highlights of the most important expenditure requirements In addition, I urge you to review complete analyses and program data set forth in the budget document.

Education

In my Inaugural Address last year, I stated my determination to provide California with the best public educational program in the United States. There is no better investment for the future of our State and Nation than moneys prudently expended in our schools, colleges and universities. This means, quantitatively, that each individual shall have a full educational opportunity consistent with his abilities. Qualitatively, it means we shall strive continually to raise standards of excellence, not only for sound fundamental training but to develop social, political and ethical understanding of our technological achievements

I am recommending in this message that $1 045 billions, or 42 percent of the entire budget, be devoted for the support of the public school system and for higher education in California It is interesting and perhaps surprising to note that California, which is so attractive to senior citizens, actually does not have an aging but a "youngning" population An increasing percentage of our total population is of preschool and school age

Of the children in the 5 to 17 age group, California has a higher percentage enrolled in the public school system than any other state in the Union In aggregate, we anticipate in 1960-61 an average daily attendance in the public school system of 3,355,000, greater by half a million than New York State, which is now second in the Nation to California

With the increased support for the public school system adopted last year, the State's obligation will amount in 1960-61 to $678,957,600 This includes a sum of approximately $40 million to accommodate the enrollment of 200,000 additional students over the current year California is one of the states which contributes most heavily to the support of its public school system Without this support, the burden on local property owners from school district taxes would be far heavier and in many cases inequitable

State Colleges

The sharp increase in births in the early 1940's first caused the great expansion in our public school system and is now reflected in increased applications for admission to college I am recommending in this budget a total of $66½ million for the net operating costs of our state college system to meet the challenge presented by an increase in the enrollment by 7,600 students Provision is also made for a modest beginning, in rented quarters, for the three new colleges in Orange, Alameda and Stanislaus Counties, previously authorized by legislative action This means that for state colleges, there will be a budgetary increase of 14 8 percent This increase is primarily a reflection of the increased workload and the necessary preparation for anticipated continued expansion of the program without a marked change in the level of educational service

I also propose the expenditure of $42 5 million for capital outlay for the state colleges This includes, among other needed projects, funds for the planning and development of the new colleges at Orange, Alameda and Stanislaus Counties, and to permit work to proceed upon those new campuses without delay

University of California

For the University of California the budget provides from the General Fund $113 million, an increase of 14 2 percent over the current year This will help provide for the anticipated increase in enrollment of 3,850 students on the various campuses of the university Significant research and other important educational activities of the university are also recognized and supported

The necessary building expansion of the University of California justifies the recommendation of a total of $52 2 million for Capital Outlay projects This includes a sum of $5,721,440 as an initial step in the development of a School of Science and Engineering at La Jolla This project, with the support of private contributions, was launched prior to consideration of a general campus for the University at La Jolla and is justified without regard to the latter In addition to the actual recommendations for plant development for the coming year, I have expressed my genuine concern for providing an additional medical school, and called for the development of plans for that as expeditiously as possible.

Educational Television

I am deeply interested in the contributions that educational television may make to the excellence of our education program at all levels Pilot work along this line is concurrently under way in some school districts and at several state colleges I am recommending that $250,000 be appropriated to the University of California to permit further experimental work in instructional television at that institution

I am extremely hopefnl that there will be developed an integrated effort on the part of educational institutions at all levels to develop public policies in co-operation with the State both economically prudent and educationally sound

Mental Health

This year's budgetary increase of $9 5 million for the Department of Mental Hygiene not only adds to the traditional program of the state hospital system, but places heavy emphasis on new approaches to an old and complex set of problems The incalculable human suffering and tremendous expense make it imperative that our full resources be brought to bear on these problems We are resolved to seek new ways, new techniques and new thinking

In the forthcoming year, we propose to make a beginning on three new approaches in mental hygiene First, we propose to expend $450,000 to develop one of the newer concepts in modern psychiatric care, the day hospital These day hospitals will enable patients who do not require twenty-four-hour hospitalization to receive treatment at an all-day center and to return to their families and homes each night We fervently hope that this new-look in treatment will live up to its present promise of providing a more effective and more economical alternative to full-time hospital care The funds proposed will provide three of these day hospitals as an experimental start

Second, we propose to provide funds for new techniques and facilities in the pre-hospital and post-hospital periods which are so important to effective treatment and speedy recovery $232,000 is provided for finding foster homes for recovering patients, and strengthening social service care for them, $220,000 is provided for an after-care clinic at three state hospitals, and $286,000 is provided for psychiatric care for patients whose recovery permits them to leave the hospital, but who still need occasional treatment and guidance

Third, we want to assist those communities which are assuming responsibility for sharing the load of mental health problems The budget

provides $50,000 for highly skilled people—few in number, but important—to help local communities undertake mental health programs to care for patients in familiar surroundings near their homes

The tremendous demands for treatment services caused by population growth account for $7 million of the budget increase for mental health We have also budgeted a $200,000 increase in the encouraging program of research now being carried on by the department, a program which has attracted to it a total of more than 1 million dollars in grants by the federal government An additional $240 000 has also been budgeted for the treatment program in mental hospitals to permit purchase of new and improved medicines and drugs Finally, a $208,000 increase is provided for training to make present mental health personnel more effective.

Beaches and Parks

Existing financing for acquisitions and improvements of state beaches and parks does not provide sufficient funds for this important program to go forward The development and operation of the State's system of beaches and parks is dependent, under existing laws, upon revenues from tideland oil royalties Unfortunately, there is no longer an adequate amount from this revenue source to support the other demands upon it and all that is required for the beaches and parks program

The appropriations for acquisitions and improvements made pursuant to a five-year program submitted in 1956 have produced a deficit in the Beaches and Parks Fund I am recommending in this budget that the Beaches and Parks Fund be augmented by a transfer of $5 million from the General Fund so that the program can go forward without interruption during the next fiscal year

As a long-term plan of action, I have asked the Director of Natural Resources to prepare a completely revitalized five-year program for new acquisitions and development and work with the Director of Finance to formulate a sound financing proposal which can be submitted to the 1961 Session This budget includes a major increase in the planning staff in the Division of Beaches and Parks needed for this program In the increasing age of leisure into which our society is emerging, and in the face of the increasing population congestion that lies ahead, we must move with vigor and vision to develop adequate recreational facilities for our people

Corrections

Substantial progress is being made on the conservation camp program adopted at the 1959 Session This budget includes funds for constructing the 1,200-man Conservation Center in Lassen County and for branches in the Tuolumne and Mono-Inyo County areas Five additional forestry work camps are being established This program is not only meeting the serious shortage in facilities to house the increase in inmates, it is also a valuable extension of the correctional rehabilitation program and is providing much needed forestry conservation work This is an outstanding example of humanitarian and constructive penology

Water Development Program

The budget recommends, pending the voters' action on the water resources development bond issue, appropriations aggregating $34 million for the following purposes already authorized by legislative action

(a) Additional canal and reservoir work on the South Bay Aqueduct,

(b) a subsidence feeder canal in the San Joaquin Valley Division, and

(c) completion of railroad and highway relocation work at Oroville, except for minor items to follow in 1961-62

We are thus clearing the way and laying the groundwork for the proposed state water program on which the people of California will pass this November—a program as bountiful of ultimate good as the great TVA and Central Valley projects have already proven themselves to be

Salary Increases

Included in this budget is provision for the salary increases for state employees recommended by the State Personnel Board in its annual report to the Governor and the Legislature required by the Government Code The report recommends a general increase averaging 5 percent for 85,000 employees in the state civil service and 9,500 academic and nonacademic personnel of the state colleges. Additional funds are also proposed to make special adjustments for certain groups, principally the lower clerical classes, whose pay requires a greater adjustment to bring it to prevailing rates in comparable employment Also included are sufficient amounts to grant comparable increases to the 20,000 employees of the University of California and to other groups not under the jurisdiction of the Personnel Board

Future Benefits

Rough estimates of future revenues and future expenditure requirements give no cause for complacency regarding the budgets for the immediate years ahead There is strong indication that even though no new large expenditure programs are adopted and even though reasonably good economic conditions continue, we shall be hard-pressed to meet the State's obligations within prospective revenues There is one basic underlying fact which we cannot escape and which will make budget balancing exceedingly difficult for many years to come. Our school age population is growing at a faster rate than the whole population and at a faster rate than our economy is expanding. Heavy increases in educational requirements are inevitable Comparable demands in other fields of well established public responsibility also lie ahead Frugality, therefore, and increased efficiency in all levels of government are essential

In conformity with Section 34, Article IV of the Constitution, I submit to you the Budget for the State of California for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1960, and ending June 30, 1961

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Budget Message of the Governor was received

Budget Message by Governor Edmund G. Brown

To the Senate and Assembly of the Legislature of California:

I present to you a budget faithful to the principles of fiscal solvency, faithful to the needs of today, faithful to the future of California It is balanced not by borrowing against the future but by living within our means It provides for a prudent investment in colleges, state hospitals, parks, and other public facilities essential to accommodate the relentless, magnificent growth of our population and industry

The annual budget stands as a portrait of the dedication, the demands, and the discipline of all the people of California It reflects the preferences and mirrors the basic decisions not only of me as Governor and you as legislators, but of all the citizens of this State Neither the complexity nor the abstractions of the budget should ever blind us to this public truth

The hopes and needs of people are not expressed in percentages or ratios, or even in dollars Instead, in the context of government they exist in terms of the facilities and services that people rightfully demand of their government—for example, penal institutions, recreational facilities, and to the needy blind, and many more matters of a social and economic nature The wisdom of a budget cannot be measured solely by bookkeeping entries or an accounting analysis In a democracy, a budget should do more than balance, it should serve as an instrument for the fulfillment of the just desires and vital needs of the people

A year ago when I took office there was a crisis in state finances The State had been spending more than its income year after year Fiscal experts of the previous administration anticipated a General Fund deficit at June 30, 1959 of more than $60 million , and 1959-60 expenditure requirements were expected to exceed estimated revenues from then existing sources by more than $200 million

I asked you in my first budget message to join me in facing up to our responsibilities and to adopt a program to put our State back in the black The program called for an aggressive economy drive and new, broadly obtained revenues to meet the State's obligations You gave these recommendations magnificent support The action on last year's budget showed that the people of California have the courage and the character to choose the course of fiscal solvency

Because of our accomplishments last year, our state finances today are on a sound basis We now estimate that on June 30, 1960 the General Fund will show a net balance of approximately $73 million Much of this results from the improvement in economic conditions More than $23 million, however, arises out of our savings—expenses which we were able to cut below budget authorizations This is a result of our determined drive to get maximum effectiveness from every tax dollar

For the fiscal year ahead, I pledge you and the people of this State unswerving diligence on behalf of stern economy and efficiency in our public stewardship I have demanded that agency directors, in their individual diligence, develop improved economies of operation, hand in hand with better service for the public In the coming year, I shall press even more insistently for those objectives

In measuring this budget with the state it must serve, you will find that the central, all-pervasive fact of life in California is growth—growth in population and industry, and growth in the responsibilities and opportunities that government, like each of us individually, has in an increasingly complex society The size of the budget is a symptom of this growth

Indeed, the budget can be understood only in terms of our relentless population increase our spiraling complexity as a community our immense potential Nearly all of our citizens have personal knowledge of the overcrowding of California's schools and colleges, prisons hospitals, campsites, and other public facilities The aggravations and inadequacies—public and private—resulting from these shortages have accumulated over many years Just ahead lie still greater demands and still greater loss of potential economic and social wealth and well-being if we fail to build parallel with California's irrepressible expansion in population

To meet the public needs of the State requires what is properly called "substantial capital outlay for institutions and facilities." But these are cold, impersonal words. For me, it is more meaningful to liken our schools, campuses, parks, and other public facilities to a house. It is the other house that you and I and our children live in. It occasionally needs roof repairs, the plumbing has to be fixed, the wiring repaired, just as in our own houses. And when the family of Californians grows as it does by over 500,000 new residents each year, we need to add more rooms, just as we would for our own families.

I would no more think of permitting California's house to become impossibly overcrowded or dilapidated than I would allow this to happen to my own house. I am sure each of you feels the same way.

I propose that the great bulk of the balance which will be on hand at the end of the present fiscal year be invested—not just spent—to provide the buildings and equipment immediately necessary for our skyrocketing educational demands, our rising prison problems, our mental health requirements, and our other basic capital needs. In this way the state government can best help build for California's future. It is also the only way to reduce the backlog of need caused by neglect in prior years.

The prospects for California's future growth and greatness refute the notion that revenues can be cut back at this time. The rate of population increase expected in the years ahead indicates that basic demands on the state government for long established responsibilities will not soon lessen. In the face of that, the fiscal solvency and capital plant of the state must be kept up, not undercut. To reduce revenues in the face of the urgent educational needs—to take just one example—would constitute a callous disregard for the State's credit standing and financial soundness. To cut back now would be irresponsibility of the same character as that which produced the financial crises I inherited at the beginning of my term in office. We should reject the glib advice of those who prefer the easy path of fiscal self-deception to the austerity of fact.

I want to stress that the contemplated net balance will be used for immediately-required capital construction which otherwise would have to be financed by bonded indebtedness. I believe that this is particularly sound during this period of high interest rates, which I am advised will likely continue in the foreseeable future. To use the prospective balance to keep down debt financing on continuing, non-revenue producing public responsibilities is an objective of government supported by the responsible leadership of both our major political parties. When I became Governor, I pledged fiscal responsibility for this State, and that is exactly what I am determined to affirm through this budget.

Summary

I want to turn now to a brief definitive summary of the budget for the year 1960-61. The total budget amounts to $2,477,121,574, a profound responsibility for you of the Legislature and for myself. Following is a summary of the total General Fund revenue and expenditure estimates for the fiscal year 1960-61.

* Not included in totals

Important Aspects

The proposed budget is essentially an extension of the budget which I submitted to you last year and which received your approval with little modification. It is an austere budget with every expenditure item having been subjected to the strict test of necessity.

I want to take just a few minutes of your time to indicate highlights of the most important expenditure requirements. In addition, I urge you to review complete analyses and program data set forth in the budget document.

Education

In my Inaugural Address last year, I stated my determination to provide California with the best public educational program in the United States. There is no better investment for the future of our State and Nation than moneys prudently expended in our schools, colleges and universities. This means, quantitatively, that each individual shall have a full educational opportunity consistent with his abilities. Qualitatively, it means we shall strive continually to raise standards of excellence, not only for sound fundamental training but to develop social, political and ethical understanding of our technological achievements.

I am recommending in this message that $1.045 billions, or 42 percent of the entire budget, be devoted for the support of the public school system and for higher education in California. It is interesting and perhaps surprising to note that California, which is so attractive to senior citizens, actually does not have an aging but a "youngling" population. An increasing percentage of our total population is of preschool and school age.

Of the children in the 5 to 17 age group, California has a higher percentage enrolled in the public school system than any other state in the union. In aggregate, we anticipate in 1960-61 an average daily attendance in the public school system of 3,355,000, greater by a half a million than New York State, which is now second in the Nation to California.

With the increased support for the public school system adopted last year, the State's obligation will amount in 1960-61 to $678,957,600. This includes a sum of approximately $40 million to accommodate the enrollment of 200,000 additional students over the current year. California is one of the states which contributes most heavily to the support of its public school system. Without this support, the burden on local property owners from school district taxes would be far heavier and in many cases inequitable.

State Colleges

The sharp increase in births in the early 1940's first caused the great expansion in our public school system and is now reflected in increased applications for admission to college. I am recommending in this budget a total of $66.1 million for the net operating costs of our state college system to meet the challenge presented by an increase in the enrollment by 7,600 students. Provision is also made for a modest beginning, in rented quarters, for the three new colleges in Orange, Alameda and Stanislaus Counties, previously authorized by legislative action. This means that for state colleges, there will be a budgetary increase of 14.8 per cent. This increase is primarily a reflection of the increased work load and the necessary preparation for anticipated continued expansion of the program without a marked change in the level of educational service.

I also propose the expenditure of $42.5 million for capital outlay for the state colleges. This includes, among other needed projects, funds for the planning and development of the new colleges at Orange, Alameda and Stanislaus Counties, and to permit work to proceed upon those new campuses without delay.

University of California

For the University of California the budget provides from the General Fund $113 million, an increase of 14.2 percent over the current year. This will help provide for the anticipated increase in enrollment of 3,850 students on the various campuses of the university. Significant research and other important educational activities of the university are also recognized and supported.

The necessary building expansion of the University of California justifies the recommendation of a total of $52.2 million for capital outlay projects. This includes a sum of $7,721,440 as an initial step in the development of a School of Science and Engineering at La Jolla. This project, with the support of private contributions, was launched prior to consideration of a general campus for the University at La Jolla and is justified without regard to the latter. In addition to the actual recommendations for plant development for the coming year, I have expressed my genuine concern for providing an additional medical school, and have called for the development of plans for that as expeditiously as possible.

Educational Television

I am deeply interested in the contributions that educational television may make to the excellence of our education program at all levels. Pilot work along this line is currently under way in some school districts and at several state colleges. I am recommending that $250,000 be appropriated to the University of California to permit further experimental work in instructional television at that institution. I am extremely hopeful that there will be developed an integrated effort on the part of educational institutions at all levels to develop public policies in co-operation with the State both economically prudent and educationally sound.

Mental Health

This year's budgetary increase of $9.5 million for the Department of Mental Hygiene not only adds to the traditional program of the state hospital system, but places heavy emphasis on new approaches to an old and complex set of problems. The incalculable human suffering and tremendous expense make it imperative that our full resources be brought to bear on these problems. We are resolved to seek new ways, new techniques and new thinking.

In the forthcoming year, we propose to make a beginning on three new approaches in mental hygiene. First, we propose to expend $450,000 to develop one of the newer concepts in modern psychiatric care, the day hospital. These day hospitals will enable patients who do not require twenty-four-hour hospitalization to receive treatment at an all-day center and to return to their families and homes each night. We fervently hope that this new-look in treatment will live up to its present promise of providing a more effective and more economical alternative to full-time hospital care. The funds proposed will provide three of these day hospitals as an experimental start.

Second, we propose to provide funds for new techniques and facilities in the pre-hospital and post-hospital periods which are so important to effective treatment and speedy recovery. $232,000 is provided for finding foster homes for recovering patients, and strengthening social service care for them, $220,000 is provided for an after-care clinic at three state hospitals, and $286,000 is provided for psychiatric care for patients whose recovery permits them to leave the hospital, but who still need occasional treatment and guidance.

Third, we want to assist those communities which are assuming responsibility for sharing the load of mental health problems. The budget provides $50,000 for highly skilled people—few in number, but important—to help local communities undertake mental health programs to care for patients in familiar surroundings near their homes.

The tremendous demands for treatment services caused by population growth account for $7 million of the budget increase for mental health. We have also budgeted a $200,000 increase in the encouraging program of research now being carried on by the department, a program which has attracted to it a total of more than one million dollars in grants by the federal government. An additional $240,000 has also been budgeted for the treatment program in mental hospitals to permit purchase of new and improved medicines and drugs. Finally, a $208,000 increase is provided for training to make present mental health personnel more effective.

Beaches and Parks

Existing financing for acquisitions and improvements of state beaches and parks does not provide sufficient funds for this important program to go forward. The development and operation of the State's system of beaches and parks is dependent, under existing laws, upon revenues from tideland oil royalties. Unfortunately, there is no longer an adequate amount from this revenue source to support the other demands upon it and all that is required for the beaches and parks program.

The appropriations for acquisitions and improvements made pursuant to a five-year program submitted in 1956 have produced a deficit in the Beaches and Parks Fund. I am recommending in this budget that the Beaches and Parks Fund be augmented by a transfer of $5 million from the General Fund so that the program can go forward without interruption during the next fiscal year.

As a long-term plan of action, I have asked the Director of Natural Resources to prepare a completely revitalized five-year program for new acquisitions and development and work with the Director of Finance to formulate a sound financing proposal which can be submitted to the 1961 Session. This budget includes a major increase in the planning staff in the Division of Beaches and Parks needed for this program. In the increasing age of leisure into which our society is emerging, and in the face of the increasing population congestion that lies ahead, we must move with vigor and vision to develop adequate recreational facilities for our people.

Corrections

Substantial progress is being made on the conservation camp program adopted at the 1959 Session. This budget includes funds for constructing the 1,200 man Conservation Center in Lassen County and for branches in the Tuolumne and Mono-Inyo County areas. Five additional forestry work camps are being established. This program is not only meeting the serious shortage in facilities to house the increase in inmates, it is also a valuable extension of the correctional rehabilitation program and is providing much-needed forestry conservation work. This is an outstanding example of humanitarian and constructive penology.

Water Development Program

The budget recommends, pending the voters' action on the water resources development bond issue, appropriations aggregating $84 million for the following purposes already authorized by legislative action: (a) additional canal and reservoir work on the South Bay Aqueduct, (b) a subsidence feeder canal in the San Joaquin Valley Division, and (c) completion of railroad and highway relocation work at Oroville, except for minor items to follow in 1961-62 We are thus clearing the way and laying the groundwork for the proposed state water program on which the people of California will pass this November—a program as bountiful of ultimate good as the great TVA and Central Valley projects have already proven themselves to be

Salary Increases

Included in this budget is provision for the salary increases for state employees recommended by the State Personnel Board in its annual report to the Governor and the Legislature required by the Government Code The report recommends a general increase averaging 5 percent for 85,000 employees in the state civil service and 9,500 academic and nonacademic personnel of the state colleges Additional funds are also proposed to make special adjustments for certain groups, principally the lower clerical classes, whose pay requires a greater adjustment to bring it to prevailing rates in comparable employment Also included are sufficient amounts to grant comparable increases to the 20,000 employees of the University of California and to other groups not under the jurisdiction of the Personnel Board

Future Benefits

Rough estimates of future revenues and future expenditure requirements give no cause for complacency regarding the budgets for the immediate years ahead There is strong indication that even though no new large expenditure programs are adopted and even though reasonably good economic conditions continue, we shall be hard-pressed to meet the State's obligations within prospective revenues There is one basic underlying fact which we cannot escape and which will make budget balancing exceedingly difficult for many years to come Our school age population is growing at a faster rate than the whole population and at a faster rate than our economy is expanding Heavy increases in educational requirements are inevitable Comparable demands in other fields of well established public responsibility also lie ahead Frugality, therefore, and increased efficiency in all levels of government are essential

In conformity with Section 34, Article IV of the Constitution, I submit to you the Budget for the State of California for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1960, and ending June 30, 1961

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, WASHINGTON, June 16, 1959

Mr Arthur A Ohnimus,
Chief Clerk, Assembly California Legislature,
3196 State Capitol, Sacramento 14, California

DEAR MR OHNIMUS The Department of State has received by your letter of June 5, 1959 a copy of Assembly Joint Resolution No 33 adopted by the California Legislature on May 28, 1959 relative to the international outfall sewer

This international problem has been under discussion with the Government of Mexico for several years At the suggestion of the Department of State the Governor of California appointed a committee in 1953 to consider all international aspects of the water resources problem of the Tijuana River Basin This Advisory Committee on Tia Juana River Problems was to act as an advisory body to the United States Commissioner on the International Boundary and Water Commission Through it the United States Commissioner has attempted also to keep the California State Government informed of developments in relation to the international sewage problem

Several alternatives have been studied for permanent solution of the problem The immediate situation is that no further progress can be made in the discussions with Mexico until the city of San Diego is able to furnish the United States Commissioner estimates of costs for disposal of Tijuana sewage through the proposed new San Diego treatment plant As soon as these estimates are received, the commission can resume its discussions and perhaps decide upon a means of solution

Sincerely yours,

For the Acting Secretary of State

DEAR MR OHNIMUS Assembly Concurrent Resolution No 115 requests the early completion of improving State Highway Route 75 to freeway standards through the City of Concord

For your information, excellent progress is being made in the planning of this project so that it can be placed under contract when funds are available However, this project is an integral part of the problem in this area to provide for the approaches to the Martinez-Benicia Bridge It appears that priority should be given to the section from Monument Junction to the Martinez-Benicia Bridge which is on the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways and would be constructed with interstate funds

Because of the present status of the interstate program, nationally, there is a considerable uncertainty when funds will be available to finance this interstate route The proposed freeway from the junction of the interstate route northerly of Monument Junction to the industrial highway via Concord is not on the interstate system The funds available for projects not on the interstate system are not sufficient to finance all of the many projects which are justified on the basis of traffic needs within the same period of time that the interstate system will be financed

The Department of Public Works operates on an annual budgetary basis and each year the California Highway Commission allocates the funds available for right-of-way acquisition and construction according to a priority of needs, which is established on a basis of comparing the relative needs throughout the entire group of the 45 northern counties

This project will be brought to the attention of the California Highway Commission for their consideration in the preparation of the next budget

Respectfully,

ROBERT B BRADFORD, Director of Public Works

DEAR MR OHNIMUS The House Government Information Subcommittee has been working with Congressman Harlan Hagen to carry out the intent of Assembly Joint Resolution No 9 on public inspection of federal crop allotment records in the State of California

A subcommittee staff investigation disclosed that officials of both the California Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee and the Kern County office of the ASC Committee had restricted access to crop allotment records As a result, the subcommittee sent the Department of Agriculture the enclosed letter of May 29, 1959

The department's answer on June 19, 1959, a copy of which is enclosed, states that the crop allotment records should have been readily available to the public and ASC Committee officials in California have been asked to clarify any misconceptions The subcommittee will follow up the matter to make sure that the clarification is accomplished

Please notify the California State Assembly of the successful results of action taken on Assembly Joint Resolution No 9

Sincerely,

JOHN E MOSS, Chairman

DEAR MR OHNIMUS I refer further to your letter of 22 May 1959 to the Secretary of Defense inclosing a copy of California Assembly Joint Resolution No 1, adopted by the California Legislature on 21 May 1959, regarding regulation of navigable waters of the United States

The concern of the State of California and of citizens operating vessels in coastal waters over the closure, through military necessity, of additional water areas is well appreciated by this office and the particular military branches involved

Restricted areas are established under federal law in Chapter XIX of the Army Act approved 9 July 1918, for reasons of either military security or public safety, and the authorizing act is explicit in stating that these areas are to be established so as not to interfere unreasonably with or restrict the food-fishing industry I am sure that you understand the need, with present-day weapons of greater range and power, of adequately providing for the safety of those vessels operating in areas in which these activities are being conducted

I assure you that every effort will be made to keep the areas and times of closure of these offshore waters to an absolute minimum compatible with military security and public safety Existing regulations will also be periodically reviewed to eliminate restrictions in areas no longer being used by the military agencies

These regulations are widely advertised in advance of adoption, except in special cases where military necessity precludes such advertisements, due either to security requirements or urgent need of early enactment, and full cognizance is given to representations of any interested persons, organizations, or governing bodies Public hearings are then held whenever it is determined that the interests of those using the area and the Department of Defense can be furthered by such proceedings

I trust that the above information meets your present needs However, should you desire additional data, I shall be pleased to furnish it

DEAR MR OHNIMUS I refer to your letter of May 4, 1959 to Secretary Herter enclosing a copy of Assembly Joint Resolution No 22, adopted by the California Legislature April 29 We appreciate the Assembly's expression of confidence in the efforts of the United States Government to achieve self-enforcing international agreement for the suspension of nuclear weapons test

Our government believes that it is essential to the peace of the world to seek a solution to the arms problem We believe as well, however, that any agreement reached in the disarmament area must be safeguarded through inspection and control to assure compliance by all parties to the agreement The United States has been adamant in its position in the Geneva negotiations on a test ban that any agreement reached must be adequately safeguarded

In the belief that it may be of interest to Members of the California Legislature, I am enclosing material defining the United States position on this matter, including summaries of the reports of the Panel on Seismic Improvement recently introduced into the Geneva discussions by the American delegation

DEAR MR OHNIMUS Reference is made to your letter of June 25, 1959, inviting attention to House Resolutions Nos 292, 284 and 394, adopted by the California Assembly on June 19 1959, and to my reply of June 26, 1959

House Resolution No 394, relative to establishing speedometer check points, requests this department, in co-operation with the California Highway Patrol and the Department of Motor Vehicles, to mark and post stretches of state highways at appropriate places throughout the State to enable motorists to check the accuracy of their speedometers while traveling

A meeting of representatives of the three departments was held on July 16 It was the consensus of the group that the number of locations should be kept to a minimum and that two miles be used as the minimum length It was agreed that most of the locations would be of the two-mile length, although lengths up to ten miles would be acceptable in the desert area

It was further agreed that the Traffic Department of the Division of Highways would design suitable signs for the speedometer check installations and that they would compile a detailed list of locations suitable for speed checks

Signs acceptable to the State Sign Committee have been designed and ordered Twenty-three locations have been established throughout the State, and signs will be placed as soon as they can be received from the manufacturer, probably the first part of January

DEAR MR OHNIMUS House Resolution No 384, adopted by the Assembly at the recent session of the California Legislature, directed attention to a landslide situation in the vicinity of Portuguese Bend on the Palos Verdes Peninsula, and directed the Department of Public Works to make a thorough study of the problem and report to the Legislature at the beginning of the 1960 Regular Session the results of its study, together with its recommendation for continuing to maintain the coastal highway serving the area

We have attempted to ascertain a source of funds for the purpose of the resolution There is no state highway on the Palos Verdes Peninsula As a matter of fact, the nearest state highway in this area is the Pacific Coast Highway, which is some miles distant from the slide area Under these circumstances, state highway funds could not be used for the purpose of the resolution We have been advised by the Budget Division of the Department of Finance that there appear to be no other funds available which can legally be used for such a study It would appear, therefore, under the circumstances that the Department of Public Works cannot carry out the study directed by the resolution

DEAR MR OHNIMUS Reference is made to your letter of May 25, 1959, and Mr McCoy's acknowledgment of May 26, 1959, regarding House Resolution No 274 which concerned the placing of signs directing to Daffodil Hill

Our records indicate that you were never notified of the action taken by this department concerning this resolution

Signs were placed on the state highway locations requested, at the Fiddletown turnoff in Pinegrove and in Sutter Creek, on August 6, 1959 The third location, Fiddletown, is not on a state highway The resolution was called to the attention of the Amador County authorities in order that they might erect signs at that location

DEAR MR OHNIMUS Further reference is made to your communication of April 13, 1959 and to our acknowledgment of April 15, 1959, concerning House Resolution No 179, adopted by the Assembly on April 10, 1959 and printed in the Assembly Journal at page 3322

The resolution relates to the placing of directional signs indicating emergency hospital facilities along state highways at such points as the department deems appropriate The present practice, which has been in effect for several years, is to place signs directing to hospitals which accept emergency cases, provide 24-hour service and are the only hospitals serving a large area. Signs are normally placed facing both directions of travel on the nearest state highway at the intersection with the road which leads to the hospital by the most direct route. This practice was developed with the concurrence of the State Sign Committee and has proven satisfactory for many years. This practice of signing to hospitals was reviewed by the Sign Committee at their meeting on December 18, 1958, and no change was recommended.

The California Sign Committee was organized to promote orderly, safe, and consistent signing throughout the State. Members of the Sign Committee are the State Division of Highways, State Department of Highway Patrol, California State Automobile Association, Automobile Club of Southern California, California Supervisors Association, League of California Cities, and Institute of Transportation and Traffic Engineering of the University of California.

The matter has been further reviewed by the Division of Highways since receiving the Assembly resolution and we do not believe the present practice should be changed. Obviously it would be impossible to provide a sufficient number of signs in any area to enable a motorist who did not know the local geography or the general location of hospital facilities, to find his way merely by looking for hospital directional signs. An average reflectorized hospital directional sign, installed, costs approximately $150. The placing of signs of this type of necessity has to be made somewhat uniform throughout the State, so that any change would involve a great many signs.

As indicated, we do not believe that the present policy should be changed. However, if there are unusual specific locations where additional signing would be advisable, we will be glad to review them, upon being advised of their locations.

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev R Wilbur Simmons:

The eyes of the people are upon us, O God, But it is Thine all-seeing and ever-watchful eye that gives us pause We pray that it may be Thy wisdom rather than public opinion which moves us to our decisions We ask that we may behave like statesmen rather than prospective candidates and that rather than keeping an ear to the ground we may keep it tuned to the eternal Deliver us from forsaking the contemplation of the invisible for the manipulation of the visible Hear our prayer, O God, lest we become prisoners of the expedient and unimportant, and the end result of our labors becomes a tragedy of the trivial We would pray and live after the manner of Christ —AMEN

STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
February 1, 1960

Hon Glenn M Anderson
President of the Senate, and Members of the Senate

Hon Ralph M Brown
Speaker of the Assembly, and Members of the Assembly
Assembly Chamber, Sacramento

GENTLEMEN Assembly Concurrent Resolution No 88, adopted in the 1959 Session, provides that " the State Board of Education and the Regents of the University of California are requested to report on the subject of this resolution to the Legislature at its 1960 Regular Session within three days of the convening thereof . " Pursuant to this resolution, we now transmit the recommendations of the study requested, which is entitled A Master Plan for Higher Education in California, 1960-1975 The complete report is now being reproduced and will be transmitted to you before March 1 The Liaison Committee further plans to issue the reports of the technical committees as separate documents

We are glad to inform you that these recommendations were unanimously approved in principle by the Regents of the University of California and the State Board of Education in joint session on December 18, 1959 Because of the enthusiastic endorsement of these recommendations by our two boards and their wide acceptance by our faculties, the California Press, and many informed citizens, we are anxious to have them fully implemented

Accordingly, the full resources of our respective offices are available to assist in any way to carry out those recommendations requiring legislative action Since the remaining ones already have the approval of our boards, we shall proceed without delay with their implementation.

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL TO THE LIAISON COMMITTEE

January 29, 1960

To: Liaison Committee of the State Board of Education and the Regents of the University of California

From: Master Plan Survey Team

Subject: Transmission of "A Master Plan for Higher Education in California 1960-1975"

Assembly Concurrent Resolution No 88 approved by the 1959 Legislature requests the Liaison Committee ". . to prepare a Master Plan for the development, expansion, and integration of the facilities, curriculum, and standards of higher education, in junior colleges, state colleges, the University of California, and other institutions of higher education of the State, to meet the needs of the State during the next 10 years and thereafter . " and to transmit that plan " . to the Legislature at its 1960 regular session within three days of the convening thereof . " Accordingly, the committee at its meeting on June 3, 1959, took the two following actions, both subsequently endorsed by the two governing boards.

1 Approved the general outline for the study and the major problems to be included.

2. Created a study committee (later called the Master Plan Survey team) and delegated to it responsibility for developing the plan in accordance with the approved outline

The Master Plan Survey team now transmits its report to the Liaison Committee In so doing it comments as follows·

1 Despite widely divergent views held by different members of the team as to how higher education in California should develop in the future, the 63 recommendations made to the committee were approved by the team without a single dissenting vote

2 The suggestions made by the Liaison Committee for clarification and modification of the survey team's recommendations were of such a constructive character that the team accepted those changes. Consequently, the wording of the recommendations as approved by the two governing boards in Chapter I is identical with that found in the body of the report.

The team wishes to record its deep appreciation particularly to the Technical Committees which provided much of the basic information underlying the Master Plan Survey Report and to the Joint Advisory Committee In addition, it is most appreciative of the fine co-operation on the part of administrators and staff of both public and private institutions of higher education in the State, Members of the Legislature, other departments of the state government and the many other persons who contributed to the completion of this report within the time schedule.

Respectfully submitted,

Master Plan Survey Team:

PREFACE

Many factors contributed to the passage of Assembly Concurrent Resolution No 88, the authority for this study Among these were the rapidly mounting enrollments in the State's institutions of higher education, the State's financial outlook and, perhaps most important, a growing concern that competition and unnecessary, wasteful duplication between the state colleges and the University of California might cost the taxpayers millions of dollars

The basic issue in the development of the Master Plan for Higher Education in California is the future role of the junior colleges, state colleges and the University of California in the State's tripartite system and how the three segments should be governed and co-ordinated so that unnecessary duplication will be avoided After careful consideration of this basic issue the Master Plan Survey team concluded that structure, function, and co-ordination were all so closely interrelated that they must be dealt with as a single problem Moreover, the team concluded that the primary role of each of the three public segments and their relationship one with another were so basic to their orderly development that these roles and these relationships ought to be a part of the State Constitution

Accordingly, there is recommended the addition of a new section to Article IX of the Constitution which defines the primary role of each of the three public segments and the machinery for their co-ordination

In addition to the constitutional amendment, the Master Plan Survey includes other recommendations relating to various aspects of higher education in the State, all designed to provide educational opportunity to qualified students at a minimum cost to the taxpayer

The Master Plan Survey recognizes the great contribution private colleges and universities have made and will continue to make to the State It has included these institutions in the recommended statewide co-ordinating agency with the opportunity for authentic voice bearing on policies directly affecting their welfare

The Master Plan Survey team believes in the validity of the recommendations of this report, which have been unanimously approved by both the Regents of the University of California and the State Board of Education If the recommendations are carried out and the Constitution amended as indicated, California's tripartite system of public higher education, long admired by other states, will be saved from destruction by unbridled competition If these actions now recommended are taken, California will again pioneer in the field of higher education, its system a model of co-operation for the whole Nation

RECOMMENDATIONS

Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 88 enacted by the 1959 Legislature requested the Liaison Committee of the State Board of Education and the Regents of the University of California " to prepare a Master Plan for the development, expansion, and integration of the facilities, curriculum, and standards of higher education, in junior colleges, state colleges, the University of California, and other institutions of higher education of the State, to meet the needs of the State during the next 10 years and thereafter. . "

Pursuant to this request the Liaison Committee, through its Master Plan Survey team, developed such a plan and transmitted it to a joint session of the Regents of the University of California and the State Board of Education on December 18, 1959 At that time the following resolution was unanimously adopted (For the resolution, Regents, 21; State Board of Education, 9, against, none) ·

BE IT RESOLVED by the Regents of the University of California and the State Board of Education, in joint meeting assembled, that the accompanying recommendations of the Liaison Committee, based upon the report of the Master Plan Survey, be approved in general principle.

The recommendations of the Liaison Committee as presented to the joint session of the two boards are as follows·

To the Regents of the University of California and the State Board of Education:

Your Liaison Committee reports that, pursuant to the provisions of Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 88, adopted by the Legislature in 1959, and pursuant to action taken by the two boards in joint session on April 15, 1959, it has directed a basic study and the preparation of a Master Plan for Higher Education in the State of California to meet the needs of the State during the next 10 years and thereafter; and

Structure, Function and Co-ordination (See Chapter III)

It is recommended that:

1 An amendment be proposed to add a new section to Article IX of the State Constitution providing that Public higher education shall consist of the junior colleges, the state college system, and the University of California Each shall strive for excellence in its sphere, as assigned in this section

2 The junior colleges shall be governed by local boards selected for the purpose from each district maintaining one or more junior colleges. The State Board of Education shall prescribe minimum standards for the formation and operation of junior colleges, and shall exercise general supervision over said junior colleges, as prescribed by law Said public junior colleges shall offer instruction through but not beyond the 14th grade level including but not limited to, one or more of the following: (a) standard collegiate courses for transfer to higher institutions, (b) vocational-technical fields leading to employment, and (c) general, or liberal arts courses. Studies in these fields may lead to the associate in arts or associate in science degree Nothing in this section shall be construed as altering the status of the junior college as part of the public school system as defined elsewhere in the Constitution—

3 The state college system

a Shall constitute a public trust, to be administered by a body corporate known as "The Trustees of the State College System of California" with number, term of appointment and powers closely paralleling those of the regents

b. The board shall consist of five ex officio members the Governor, the Lieutenant Governor, the Speaker of the Assembly, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, and the chief executive officer of the state college system, and 16 appointive members appointed by the Governor for terms of 16 years The chief executive officer of the state college system shall also sit with the regents in an advisory capacity, and the president of the University of California shall sit with the trustees in an advisory capacity The members of the State Board of Education shall serve ex officio as first trustees, being replaced by regular appointees at the expiration of their respective terms

c The state colleges shall have as their primary function the provision of instruction in the liberal arts and sciences and in professions and applied fields which require more than two years of collegiate education, and teacher education, both for undergraduate students and graduate students through the master's degree The doctoral degree may be awarded jointly with the University of California, as hereinafter provided Faculty research, using facilities provided for and consistent with the primary function of the state colleges, is authorized

4 The University of California shall be governed by the regents as provided in Section 9 of Article IX The University shall provide instruction in the liberal arts and sciences, and in the professions, including teacher education, and shall have exclusive jurisdiction over training for the professions including but not by way of limitation, dentistry, law, medicine, veterinary medicine and graduate architecture. The University shall have the sole authority in public higher education to award the doctor's degree in all fields of learning, except that it may agree with the state colleges to award joint doctor's degrees in selected fields The University shall be the primary state-supported academic agency for research, and the regents shall make reasonable provision for the use of its library and research facilities by qualified members of the faculties of other higher educational institutions, public and private.

[1] Order of recommendations has been changed

5 An advisory body, the Coordinating Council for Higher Education·

a Shall consist of 12 members, three representatives each from the University, the state college system, the junior colleges, and the independent colleges and universities The University and the state college system each shall be represented by its chief executive officer and two board members appointed by the boards The junior colleges shall be represented by (1) a member of the State Board of Education or its chief executive officer; (2) a representative of the local governing boards; and (3) a representative of the local junior college administrators The independent colleges and universities shall be represented as determined by agreement of the chief executive officers of the University and the state college system, in consultation with the association or associations of private higher educational institutions All votes shall be recorded, but effective action shall require an affirmative vote of four of the six University and state college representatives, except that on junior college matters the junior college representatives shall have effective votes, and on the appointment and removal of a director of the council all 12 shall be effective

b A director of the staff for the Co-ordinating Council shall be appointed by a vote of eight of the 12 council members, and may be removed by a vote of eight members of the council He shall appoint such staff as the council authorizes

c The Co-ordinating Council shall have the following functions, advisory to the governing boards and appropriate state officials

(1) Review of the annual budget and capital outlay requests of the University and the state college system, and presentation to the Governor of comments on the general level of support sought,

(2) Interpretation of the functional differentiation among the publicly supported institutions provided in this section, and in accordance with the primary functions for each system as set forth above, advise the regents and the trustees on programs appropriate to each system

(3) Development of plans for the orderly growth of higher education and making of recommendations to the governing boards on the need for and location of new facilities and programs

d The council shall have power to require the public institutions of higher education to submit data on costs, selection and retention of students, enrollments, capacities, and other matters pertinent to effective planning and co-ordination.

Selection and Retention of Students (Chapter V)

Validity of Entrance Requirements

It is recommended that:

1 The junior colleges, state colleges, and University make statistical studies of their entrance requirements, and report annually, in standard form, to the co-ordinating agency on validity judged by: (a) scholastic success, (b) persistence, (c) rate of dismissal, and (d) scores on standard tests

2 Each public segment report annually to the co-ordinating agency on its grading standards, providing data on such matters as:

a Distribution of undergraduate grades awarded (proportion of each grade given for each institution, department, and by lower and upper division)

b Its grading differential with other institutions or segments as computed from the records made by transfers.

Admission Policies and Procedures

It is recommended that:

1 In order to raise materially standards for admission to the lower division, the state colleges select first-time freshmen from the top one-third (33⅓ percent) and the University from the top one-eighth (12½ percent) of all graduates of public high schools in California (as defined by criteria established by each system for itself), with:

a Continuation of existing special programs and curricula involving exceptions to this rule subject to approval by the respective boards, and these to be kept to a minimum, and those that are continued to be reported annually to the co-ordinating agency. Any new special programs and curricula involving such exceptions to be approved by the co-ordinating agency.

b Graduates of private and out-of-state secondary schools held to equivalent levels.

2. Implementation of Recommendation Number 1 be left to the two systems with these provisions:

a Each have the new requirements in force for students admitted for fall, 1962.

b. Inasmuch as the survey team favors acceptance in both systems of a requirement that all, or almost all, of the recommending units for admission shall be in college preparatory courses, that the application of such a requirement be carefully studied during 1960, and this principle be applied as fully as possible throughout both systems

3. For both the state colleges and the University, freshman admissions through special procedures outside the basic requirements of recommending units of high school work and/or aptitude tests (such as specials and exceptions to the rules) be limited to 2 percent of all freshmen admissions in each system for a given year. Furthermore that all "limited" students be required to meet regular admission standards (The state colleges are now in the process of changing rules to require this.)

4 Junior college functions now carried by state colleges and nondegree lower division programs at any state college or University campus (other than extension) be subject to the following rule

The equivalent of junior college out-of-district tuition be charged beginning in fall, 1960, against the counties of residence of all lower division students who are ineligible to admission by regular standards, and the funds collected paid to the General Fund of the State

Furthermore, that such junior college functions now carried by state colleges at state expense be terminated not later than July 1, 1964, all admittees thereafter being required to meet standard entrance requirements

5 The state colleges and the University require a minimum of at least 56 units of acceptable advanced standing credit before considering the admission of applicants ineligible to admission as freshmen because of inadequate grades in high school, except for curricula that require earlier transfer,[2] and except also that each state college and campus of the University, through special procedures developed by each, be permitted to accept for earlier transfer not more than 2 percent of all students who make application for advanced standing in any year

6 Undergraduate applicants to the state colleges and the University who are legally resident in other states be required to meet higher entrance requirements than are required of residents of California, such out-of-state applicants to stand in the upper half of those ordinarily eligible Furthermore, that there be developed and applied a common definition of legal residence for these public segments

7 A study of the transfer procedures to both the University and the state colleges be undertaken through the co-ordinating agency during 1960 with the view of tightening them Evidence available to the Master Plan Survey team indicates the need for such action

8 A continuing committee on selection, admission, and retention as a part of the co-ordinating agency be established, to make further studies in these fields (see Validity of Entrance Requirements above) and to report annually to the appropriate agencies and persons on a Transfer procedures as indicated in 7 above

b State college and University procedures in admission to the graduate division.

c The desirability of differing standards of admission for the varying programs within each segment of publicly supported institutions

9 Private institutions of higher education in California in the approaching period of heavy enrollments strive for increased excellence by adopting rigorous admission and retention standards

Retention

It is recommended that:

1 Each segment strive for greater uniformity in policy and practices on probation and dismissal, that among segments where the programs are comparable, an effort be made to secure uniformity in policy

[2] Both systems have already adopted 60-unit rules for such transfer students, but each left a way to bypass it The state colleges allow admission on 24 units with "B" average, the University, on 30 or more with 2 4 grade point average and a satisfactory score on the scholastic aptitude test and practices on probation and dismissal, and that each segment report annually full retention statistics to the co-ordinating agency.

Distribution of Lower Division Students

It is recommended that:

1 In order to implement more fully the action of the Regents of the University of California and the State Board of Education in 1955 that "the University of California emphasize policies leading to the reduction of lower division enrollments in relation to those of the upper and graduate divisions, and that the state colleges pursue policies which will have a similar effect," the percentage of undergraduates in the lower division of both the state colleges and the University be gradually decreased 10 percentage points below that existing in 1960 (estimated to be 51 percent in both segments) by 1975 It is further recommended that the determination of the means by which this recommendation can best be carried out, be the responsibility of the governing boards [3]

California State Scholarship Program

The operation of the California State Scholarship Program created by act of the Legislature in 1955 has fully demonstrated a satisfactory means of affording the youth of California with greater freedom to attend the institution which can best serve their needs regardless of tuition and fees This experience has resulted in substantial net savings to the taxpayers in capital investment, in instructional facilities and operating costs This program has also encouraged independent institutions to expand their enrollment and facilities and thus absorb a large proportion of the student's educational cost without the above-mentioned burdens upon the taxpayer

In view of the successful experience of other states with similar programs, in view of the expected growth of population in higher education in California, and in view of the principle expressed by the Technical Committee on the Selection and Retention of Students that the most able students should have the greatest freedom of choice, it is recommended that:

1 The present scholarship program be expanded to include additional scholarships to provide for the rapidly increasing number of qualified applicants.

2 The amount of the scholarship be increased to compensate for additional educational costs since the original stipend was established

3 In the event a state scholarship recipient elects to attend a junior college before entering a four-year institution, his scholarship be retained for him, provided his junior college record meets the level required by the State Scholarship Commission

4 In addition to the State Scholarship Program a new and separate bill be enacted to provide subsistence grants to recipients of state scholarships, the amount of such grants to be based on the financial need of

[3] It is estimated that this recommendation would result in the transfer of some 40,000 lower division students to the junior colleges by 1975 It is expected that the recommendation to select state college students from the upper 33⅓ percent of all public high school graduates and the University from the upper 12½ percent, together with the recommendation that all "limited" students be required to meet regular admission requirements, will make up another 10,000

the individual students, the maximum amount being that necessary to defray expenses of room and board at the average of such charges to the student in institutionally operated student residences

5 In view of the need to divert more college graduates into teaching and the need for more funds to provide fellowship assistance to those in graduate training, a new state graduate fellowship program be established to accomplish these purposes and to assist in making it possible for graduate schools to operate at as near capacity as possible

Institutional Capacities and Area Needs (Chapter VI)

Utilization of Physical Plants

It is recommended that:

1 The standard utilization of classrooms in the junior colleges, state colleges, and the University of California be at the maximum practicable levels, but in no case shall [classrooms] average less than 30 scheduled hours per week, with class enrollments after the first month of the term averaging 60 percent of room capacity

2 The standard room utilization of teaching laboratories in the junior colleges, the state colleges, and the University of California be at the maximum practicable levels, but in no case shall [laboratories] average less than 20 scheduled hours per week, with class enrollments after the first month of the term averaging 80 percent of room capacity

3 In determining the need for instructional facilities in the junior colleges, state colleges, and campuses of the University of California, these factors be taken into account

a The above recommended standards of utilization

b The space standards as found in Tables 33, 34 and 36 of A Restudy of the Needs of California in Higher Education (with such modifications as changes in the present differentiation of functions among the public segments may justify)

c The number of FTE (full time equivalent) students used in projecting building requirements be limited to those to be instructed in the day program, that is, from 8 a m to 5 p m

4 In the scheduling of classes greater use be made of the late afternoon and evening hours and when possible of Saturday, thereby making the achievement of the above utilization standards easier

5 The scheduling of instructional facilities be centrally controlled on each campus with such exceptions as may be approved by the appropriate governing board (Examples of exceptions are the physical facilities for medicine, law and other areas where the facilities are designed for highly specialized uses)

6 The co-ordinating agency (or a continuing committee on plant problems which it might create) undertake without delay the following studies:

a A complete study of the current utilization in the junior colleges, state colleges, and the University of California [no such study has been made since 1953-54] for the specific purpose of making such modification in the above-recommended standards of utilization as are justified by the findings

b The possible economic and educational gains that might be effected by the adoption of an articulated calendar for all segments of public education in California

7 Space provisions for health services be increased to allow for infirmary care on state college and university campuses where dormitories are provided

8 Inasmuch as the space standards found in A Restudy of the Needs of California in Higher Education, in Tables 33, 34 and 36, were based on the then existing functions of the state colleges and the University, such standards be modified where agreed-upon changes in functions require different space allocations

9 In order to provide calendar arrangements that will both fit the public-school year and permit fuller use of the State's higher education physical facilities, it is recommended that:

a Every public higher education institution and private institutions, as able, offer academic programs in the summer months of unit value equivalent to one-quarter of a year, one-half or three-quarters of a semester

b State funds be provided for the state colleges and the University of California to offer during the full summer period academic programs on one or more of the patterns indicated in (a) above for regular degree and credential candidates who have met basic admission requirements

c The co-ordinating agency (or a continuing committee which it might create) study during 1960 the relative merits of three-semester and four-quarter plans for year-round use of the physical plants of both public and private institutions, and on the basis of that study recommend a calendar for higher education in California

Enrollment Limitations and Projected Plant Needs

It is recommended that:

1 With respect to the establishment of new state colleges and campuses of the university, the governing boards reaffirm their action taken in joint session on April 15, 1959, to the effect that "no new State Colleges or campuses of the University, other than those already approved, shall be established until adequate junior college facilities have been provided, the determination of adequacy to be based on studies made under the direction of the Liaison Committee of the State Board of Education and the Regents of the University of California " with the further provision that the new state colleges and campuses of the university established by action of the Legislature in 1957, and by action of the regents, also in 1957, be limited to upper division and graduate work until such time as adequate junior college opportunities are provided for the primary area served by these institutions.

2 That the full-time enrollment ranges (as shown in Table 1 following) be observed for existing institutions, for those authorized but not yet established, and for those later established

Type of institution	Minimum[a]	Optimum	Maximum
Junior colleges	400	3,500	6,000[b]
State colleges:
In densely populated areas in metropolitan centers	5,000	10,000	20,000
Outside metropolitan centers	3,000	8,000	12,000
University of California campuses[c]	5,000	12,500	27,500

3 That the State give encouragement to making junior college facilities available for the school districts not now adequately served either through the establishment of new junior colleges or by making them a part of districts now served by junior colleges

Evidence at hand indicates that there is need for new junior colleges in the school districts as shown in Table 2

4 New state colleges in addition to those already authorized be established and in operation by 1965 in these areas and in descending order of estimated enrollment potential:

Approximate Location	Estimated 1975 Full-time Enrollment Potential
In the vicinity of the Los Angeles International Airport	19,900
In the San Bernardino-Riverside vicinity (vicinity of Rialto)	12,800

Although it is believed that these two institutions should be master planned for an ultimate capacity of 20,000, the survey team recommends that the 1975 enrollment be held to 10,000 and 8,000, respectively

5 In 1965 and again in 1970, if applicable, and before considering the need for new state colleges in any other areas of the State, careful studies be made by the co-ordinating agency of the following State Economic Areas to determine the actual need then existing for new state colleges

SEA-F Los Angeles-Long Beach Metropolitan area, Griffith Park-Glendale vicinity

SEA-A San Francisco-Oakland Metropolitan area, vicinity of Redwood City

SEA-A San Francisco-Oakland Metropolitan area, Contra Costa County

SEA-K Bakersfield Metropolitan area, Kern County

SEA-7 South Coastal area, Ventura County

6 The three new campuses approved by the regents in 1957—(a) San Diego-La Jolla area, (b) Southeast Los Angeles-Orange County area, and, (c) the South Central Coastal area (Santa Clara, San Mateo, Santa Cruz, San Benito, and Monterey Counties)—be completed with-

Moraga—additional campus	Contra Costa	750
Victor Valley	San Bernardino	550
Barstow	San Bernardino	400
Total—22 colleges		56,650

It is further recommended that these three campuses be planned for 1975 enrollments as follows

San Diego-La Jolla	7,500
Southeast Los Angeles-Orange	12,500
South Central Coast	10,000

7 Inasmuch as the estimated University enrollment potential of the San Francisco-Oakland area, which includes the Berkeley campus of the University is 46,550 in 1975 (as compared with a maximum enrollment of 27,500 for the Berkeley campus as recommended for a University campus above, the co-ordinating agency undertake appropriate studies as how best to accommodate the difference between these figures

[a] Although these are arranged in descending order on projected 1970 full-time enrollment, this is not intended to indicate urgency of need in this same order

[b] The enrollments given in the list as passed by the joint boards on December 18, 1959, were for 1970 To keep the original list in descending order according to 1975 estimated enrollments required some rearrangement However, it is still the same list Subsequently the Bureau of Junior College Education of the State Department of Education prepared a new list which includes additional colleges not in the above list Because action has already been taken on the above list, the new ones are not included

(approximately 19,000), such steps to include careful study of these possibilities:

a. Diversion of some of these potential students particularly to the Davis campus and the new South Central Coast campus.

b. The accommodation of the remaining part of the difference (i.e., 19,000 less the impact of (a) above) through the establishment of branch installations from existing campuses in specialized fields of study such as instruction in science at Livermore. (These would be similar to the off-campus centers for teacher education now operated by certain of the state colleges.)

8. In 1965 and again where applicable in 1970, and before considering the need for new University facilities in any other areas of the State, careful studies be made by the co-ordinating agency on the need for additional University facilities in the San Joaquin Valley and the Los Angeles area. In the latter area special consideration should be given as to how the difference between the 1975 estimates of potential University enrollment of 53,450 and the 27,500 maximum of the UCLA campus (some 26,000 students) can best be accommodated. Such consideration should include the following:

a. To what extent will this difference be cared for by the new Southeast Los Angeles-Orange County campus, and to what extent could these potential students be diverted to the La Jolla, Riverside and Santa Barbara campuses?

b. Will there be a need for the establishment of branch installations in specialized fields of study from existing campuses in this area similar to that included in recommendation 7b above?

9. Because the University, among the publicly supported institutions in California, has the sole responsibility for the preparation for professions such as architecture, dentistry, law, librarianship (graduate), medicine, optometry, pharmacy, public health, and veterinary medicine, periodic studies be made of the relation of supply to demand, particularly in fields where there seem likely to be shortages, such as medicine and pharmacy, for the purpose of determining what steps the University should take to meet its responsibilities in these professional fields.

Faculty Demand and Supply (Chapter VII)

It is recommended that:

1. Much greater effort be made to divert a greater proportion of college graduates into graduate training preparatory to careers in college and university teaching. This diversion can best be accomplished by a concerted effort on the part of adequately staffed and supported counseling and guidance services at all levels of education, and with the full co-operation of all college and university faculty members.

2. More funds be secured to provide financial assistance to those in graduate training. The high attrition rate in graduate programs is, in large part, due to financial difficulty; and these withdrawals constitute not only a loss to the potential faculty supply but an economic waste to the State. Provisions of fellowship and loan funds for graduate students is undoubtedly one of the best ways of reducing the attrition rate.

3. Greatly increased salaries and expanded "fringe benefits," such as health and group life insurance, leaves, and travel funds to attend professional meetings, housing, parking and moving expenses, be provided for faculty members in order to make college and university teaching attractive as compared with business and industry. (As an example of the wide differences, of 44 persons awarded Ph.D.'s in shortage fields by the University of California in 1959, 31 accepted positions in industry at an average salary of $9,884 and 13 went into college teaching at an average salary of $6,075.)

4. Greater use be made of California-trained doctor's degree holders, especially in the shortage years immediately ahead.

For the three-year period 1955-58 only 53 percent of those so trained who enter teaching, did so in California. Evidence indicates that those leaving California do not do so by choice. (Of 44 doctor's degree holders recently placed in college and university teaching outside California by the Teacher Placement Service of the University of California at Berkeley, 87 percent had stated a preference for a position in California.)

5. Individual faculty members and their institutions jointly assume responsibility for both the initiative and opportunity for the faculty inservice preparation and self-improvement, so essential for the growth and development of the institutions.

6. Strengthening of the master's degree programs in all institutions offering such programs be undertaken by these institutions so that the holders of this degree may be more effective additions to the faculties of colleges, universities and junior colleges.[4]

7. Reorientation of present doctoral programs offered by California institutions be undertaken to insure that those receiving the degree and planning to enter college and university teaching possess the qualities not only of scholars, but of scholar-teachers. Because the University of California awarded 54.6 percent of the doctorates given by California institutions for the period 1952-53—1955-56, it has a particular responsibility for the implementing of this recommendation.

8. Because of the continual change in faculty demand and supply, the co-ordinating agency annually collect pertinent data from all segments of higher education in the State and thereby make possible the testing of the assumptions underlying this report.[5]

Total Estimated Costs (Chapter VIII)

Junior College Support

It is recommended that:

1. Procedures be devised to assure that all funds allocated to and for junior colleges for current expense or for capital outlay by the State be expended only for junior college purposes, and further that the law be clarified to require that all funds received from county junior college tuition funds for use of buildings and equipment be expended solely for junior college purposes.

[4] This is of particular importance to the junior colleges because the highest degree held by 64.7 percent of those newly appointed in the years 1957-58 and 1958-59 was the master's degree. Although all institutions in the State should co-operate in this effort, the lead should be taken by the state colleges and the University of California because of the high proportion of all such degrees they award.

[5] The 1958 report entitled, A Study of Faculty Demand and Supply in California Education, 1957-1975, contains a recommendation, approved by both boards, for its re-examination in 1960. A similar procedure should be followed with respect to this analysis.

2. In view of the added local financial obligations, for both current expenses and capital outlay which will result from the Master Plan Survey recommendations designed to divert to the junior colleges some 50,000 lower division students from the 1975 estimates for the state colleges and the University of California, and the attendant savings to the State resulting therefrom, these actions be taken:

a. Procedures and methods be devised and adopted by the Legislature that will increase the proportion of total current support paid to the junior colleges from the State School Fund (augmented for this purpose) from the approximately 30 percent now in effect to approximately 45 percent, to be achieved not later than 1975.

b. A continuing program be devised and adopted by the Legislature that would distribute construction funds either through grants or loans or both, for capital outlay purposes annually to junior colleges as determined by growth, this program being for the purpose of assisting junior colleges to meet the facility needs of projected enrollments and of the students to be diverted to the junior colleges.

3. All the territory of the State not now included within districts operating junior colleges be brought into junior college districts as rapidly as possible, so that all parts of the State can share in the operation, control and support of junior colleges. Pending the achievement of this objective, means be devised to require areas that are not a part of a district operating a junior college to contribute to the support of junior college education at a rate or level that is more consistent with the contributions to junior college support presently made by areas included in districts that maintain junior colleges.

Student Fees

For the State Colleges and the University of California it is recommended that:

1. The two governing boards reaffirm the long established principle that state colleges and the University of California shall be tuition free to all residents of the State.[6]

2. Students who are residents of other states pay as follows:

a. All students except those exempt by law pay tuition sufficient to cover not less than the State's contribution to the average teaching expense per student as defined by the Master Plan Survey team's Technical Committee on Costs of Higher Education in the institution or system as follows:

"Teaching expense is defined to include the cost of the salaries of the instructors involved in teaching for the proportion of their time which is concerned with instruction plus the clerical salaries, supplies, equipment, and organized activities related to teaching."

b. Other fees for services not directly related to instruction.

3. Each system devise a fee structure and collect sufficient revenues to cover such operating costs as those for laboratory fees, health, inter-

[6] The distinction between "tuition" and "fees" is: tuition is defined as student charges for teaching expense, whereas fees are for charges to the students for services not directly related to instruction, such as health, counseling other than that directly related to the students' educational program, placement services, housing, recreation, and the like.

collegiate athletics, student activities, and other services incidental to but not directly related to instruction

4. The operation of all such ancillary services for students as housing, feeding and parking be self-supporting Taxpayers' money should not be used to subsidize, openly or covertly, the operation of such services Because of the various methods which are used to finance construction of auxiliary enterprises such as residence halls and dormitories, it is impossible to state in general which portions of amortization and interest payments are properly chargeable to operating expense Consequently, it is recommended further that the governing boards determine which of such costs are appropriate charges to operating expense and include as much as possible of those with other operating expenses of such ancillary services

5 Additional provisions be made for student aid and loans, particularly as fees and nonresident tuition increase

6 Periodically the governing boards recompute their per-student teaching expense and set nonresident tuition accordingly Periodically they recompute the cost of operation of services such as feeding, housing, and parking, and set fees for such services accordingly.

7. Each institution retain moneys collected from nonresident tuition

8 All the above policies when approved by the two governing boards be applicable immediately to the state colleges and the University of California, and that they be applied to the junior colleges as a matter of state policy and when applicable

Adult Education in California (Chapter X)

It is recommended that:

1 The "Guiding Principles for Adult Education in California's Publicly Supported Institutions" as revised by the State Advisory Committee on Adult Education in February 1958, be continued as the policy framework within which co-ordination is accomplished, such principles to be periodically examined in the light of changing conditions throughout the State

2 The existing State Advisory Committee be responsible to the co-ordinating agency and continue the responsibilities delegated to it by action of the State Board of Education and the Regents of the University of California in 1953 Furthermore, that the co-ordinating agency, to which the committee will annually report and to which it will make its recommendations, provide the committee with necessary staff assistance

3 In order for the State Advisory Committee to be more fully representative of agencies engaged in adult education, it be enlarged to include the following representatives, these to have the same length of terms as other members of this committee

a A representative of the Agricultural Extension service of the University of California to be appointed by the president of the University

b A representative of the independent colleges and universities of the State to be appointed by the Association of California Independent Colleges and Universities

4 In the long-range plans for providing opportunities in higher education to the people of California provision for adequate state support of adult education services be assured However, in this determination of what the State should support, effort be made to differentiate between those enrollees who are pursuing a stated planned program with definite occupational or liberal education objectives, and those who are enrolling in single courses for which matriculation or prerequisites are absent.

Other Recommendations

It is recommended that:

1 The foregoing recommendations, in the form approved by the two boards, be transmitted by the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the president of the University to the Governor, and to the Legislature through the chairmen of the Legislative Committees on Education.

2. The Superintendent of Public Instruction and the president of the University be requested to call to the attention of the Governor the desirability of including in any call for a special session of the Legislature in 1960 the consideration of those recommendations which require legislative action.

Quorum present

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev R. Wilbur Simmons

O Lord of Hosts, Enable our State to be a proper host to Olympic athletes, tourists and visitors, refugees from other nations, and to all new citizens within our borders First of all make us to be host to Thee, the Most High God, and then more essentially to prepare our schools to be host to children and youth Touch our imaginations with these words of Daniel Webster

"If we work upon marble, it will perish
If we work upon brass, time will efface it
If we rear temples, they will crumble to dust
But if we work upon men's immortal minds,
If we imbue them with high principles,
With the just fear of God and love of their fellow man,
We engrave on those tablets something which no time can efface,
And which will brighten and brighten all eternity."—AMEN.

House Resolution No. 24

Relating to the completion of the Harbor Freeway in the County of Los Angeles

WHEREAS, The Harbor Freeway in the County of Los Angeles is nearing completion, extending now from the interchange with the Hollywood Freeway to 125th Street and with work now in progress on this freeway between 125th Street and 190th Street, and

WHEREAS, The only unfinished link in this freeway is between 190th Street and the Pacific Coast Highway (U S 101), a distance of approximately five miles, and it is estimated that the cost of constructing this remaining portion of the freeway will be 7½ million dollars, and

WHEREAS, The Harbor Freeway is the most highly traveled of all the Los Angeles freeways, with a daily traffic count of 211,400 motor vehicles, and serves not only the Los Angeles Harbor (the busiest harbor on the Pacific Coast) but also the large and rapidly increasing industrial and residential area surrounding this harbor and the many recreational areas and attractions in this region, and

WHEREAS, In view of the importance of the area to be served and its rapid growth, with the accompanying expansion of the traffic problems in this area, it is essential that the Harbor Freeway be completed by the early construction of the unfinished link between 190th Street and the Pacific Coast Highway, and

WHEREAS, This early completion of the Harbor Freeway is supported by officials of both the City of Los Angeles and the County of Los Angeles and by officials of other surrounding communities and of civic and business organizations in the area, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the California Highway Commission be requested to allocate money from the State Highway Fund for the completion at the earliest possible time of the Harbor Freeway in the County of Los Angeles from 190th Street to the Pacific Coast Highway, and be it further

Relating to compensating the Philippine Scouts for their services rendered in World War II

WHEREAS, The Philippine Scouts units serving with the United States Army rendered heroic and invaluable services in behalf of the United States of America and the Free World during World War II, and suffered particular hardship and cruelties in the early days of that conflict when their homeland was overrun by the hostile forces of the common enemy, and

WHEREAS, The Philippine Scouts served side by side with American troops and conducted themselves with great valor and distinction in the campaigns in the Philippine Islands, and particularly in the battles on the Bataan Peninsula and at the island of Corregidor, and

WHEREAS, During these campaigns and prior thereto the Philippine Scouts were compensated pursuant to pay scales fixed by the Government of the United States with levels of remuneration substantially lower than those prescribed for other soldiers serving with the United States Army, with the result that the compensation received by these brave men was not commensurate with the extraordinary service they rendered, and

WHEREAS, Action taken by the Congress of the United States, through enactment of Public Law 607 of the 77th Congress on June 16, 1942, to raise pay scales applicable to the Philippine Scouts to levels of equality with those of other soldiers serving with the United States Army were never fully effectuated in respect to services rendered by those men in the early campaigns in the Philippine Islands, and

WHEREAS, Many important and prominent personages, including the former commander in the Philippine area, General Douglas MacArthur, have commented upon and urged that appropriate actions be undertaken to effect the long overdue adjustments in compensations earned by the men who served in the Philippine Scouts during those critical days; and

WHEREAS, A special appeal in this regard is presently being undertaken, principally through the efforts of Mr Fortunato de Gracia, National Vice Commander of the Filipino Guerrilla Veterans' Legion, who is at this time visiting the United States with the view of obtaining these compensations, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Congress of the United States is respectfully memorialized to undertake appropriate measures to provide for those Philippine Scouts who served in World War II, extra remuneration or other emolument to compensate them for the lesser wage and salary amounts paid them at that time; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly is hereby directed to transmit copies of this resolution to the President and Vice President of the United States, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and to each Senator and Representative from California

REPORT

Findings

Nature of disaster In instituting a records preservation program, the possibility of nuclear attack has been of primary concern. However, during the past few years Santa Cruz County records were damaged by a flood, and Humboldt County's by an earthquake. Fire is a constant hazard, particularly in older buildings Hence a records preservation program must contemplate conditions in which the normal life of the community and the State is not deeply disrupted, as well as those in which society is shaken to its roots

Three types of documents. Three principal types of documents require preservation. These are.

1. Those needed for alleviation of damage Such are emergency manuals and directives with associated maps and drawings These must be available at emergency headquarters

2 Those needed for re-establishment of public services These include, but are not limited to engineering and scientific studies which could be repeated only at excessive cost in manpower.

3. Those defining proprietary interests of individuals and of governments

Progress of the State's program Government Code Section 12265, added by the 1958 Legislature, provided that "Each state agency, with the concurrence of the Department of Finance shall determine what state records it has that are essential to the functioning of the State Government in the event of a major disaster" On April 4, 1958, the Director of Finance assured the Legislature that the Department of Finance was prepared to carry out the provisions of this measure without an additional appropriation (Letter printed in Assembly Subcommittee on Impact of Enemy Attack, THIRD REPORT, May 1958, p. 58)

On February 2, 1959, the Director of Finance reported that his staff had reviewed the problem of selecting records needed during the height of an emergency by agencies having state-of-emergency missions. The staff findings were that few records were needed during a crisis Emergency manuals and certain reference materials were needed Study of essential state fiscal, personnel and retirement records and the functional records of the agencies was to be undertaken later (FOURTH REPORT, March 1959, pp 33-39)

As of January 25, 1960, almost two years since the original letter cited, no report was available from the Department of Finance on safeguarding the essential normal operating records of any agency We have been assured orally that four men are now assigned to this project.

Status of local government's program. We find that a number of county clerks and county recorders have instituted the practice of making security copies of their records We commend them for it, and for the interest their associations have shown in this program We find that there is a substantial amount of agreement as to which document series in each office are so essential as to require statutory standardization

We find that few counties and cities have made any selection of their administrative documents for duplication in a protection program

There is also no clear agreement as to which administrative documents should be duplicated We find that the experience of large corporations is to require proposals from operating branches regarding documents to be protected, and to establish responsibility for supervising such a program at a high level within the organization. We believe that this experience is applicable to government, and we deem it appropriate to authorize administrative procedures for developing a co-ordinated statewide program of selecting local governments' documents for duplication and preservation.

We find that the following governmental units have completed approved disaster operations plans, including manuals covering alleviation of damage.

City of West Covina
City of Richmond and environs
County of Santa Cruz County of San Joaquin
City of Stockton

Approximately a hundred other local governments have begun such plans In several areas, including Sacramento city and county, an integrated program covering a number of local governments has been undertaken.

Areas of primary concern. While any area of the State may be subject to fire, flood and earthquake, we find that the State may be divided into three classifications, as designated by the Director of the California Disaster Office Listed in descending order of hazard to records, they are·

1. Critical target areas
2 Potential target areas.
3 Refuge areas.

Financing. Because of the high hazard to the preservation of government in critical target areas, the State may well give consideration to a matching funds program if it is found to impose an unreasonable burden on local government

General considerations. We find that other methods of reproduction than microfilm may be desirable for certain documents, and that state and local agencies should not be restricted by statute to any one method of reproduction

We find, also, that great care should be used in designating document series as "essential," in order to avoid excessive cost of copying and storage

Administration. We find that an essential records preservation program is an appropriate phase of the emergency planning for "continuity of government" now being carried out by the California Disaster Office We deem a representative committee of qualified professionals reporting to the California Disaster Council an appropriate means of obtaining technical and periodic review of essential records programs Such a records committee should include representatives of the appropriate associations of local governments.

Recommendations

At the earliest appropriate moment we propose to introduce legislation covering the following points.

1. Statutory requirements that county clerks and recorders of critical target areas make security copies of certain of their document series
2. Creation under the State Disaster Council of a technical committee containing representatives of state and local governments and industry to advise the Disaster Council in establishing lists of state and local government documents which are to be duplicated for security purposes
3. Assignment of responsibility to the California Disaster Office for co-ordinating the record preservation programs of all levels of government
4. Provision of matching funds on a priority basis to cover initial costs of such a program by local governments

Proclaiming Advertising Week

WHEREAS, In this country of ours we have achieved a "good life," in a material sense, far exceeding that enjoyed by any society since the beginning of time, and

WHEREAS, There are many reasons for this natural resources, boundless energy, and that characteristic which we can only define as a national desire for self-betterment; and

WHEREAS, It is fitting, therefore, that we give recognition to that institution in our economy which plays such an important role in keeping this desire alive, the advertising business, and

WHEREAS, Advertising informs us about the things we want, but in a social sense it does more than that; it helps to broaden our horizons, suggests new activities and new experiences, and it arouses our interest, not only in things like automobiles and television sets, but also in books, travel and music, all of which contribute to our "good life", and

WHEREAS, Economically it helps create mass markets calling for mass production methods which bring these products within the reach of the average person, and

WHEREAS, As President Eisenhower recently said in a message to the industry, "As the voice of business enterprise, the advertising industry plays a strong and creative role in the American economy. Like the press, it bears great responsibilities for the welfare of our people", now, therefore, be it

DEAR MR OHNIMUS· Further reference is made to your letter of February 5, 1960, inviting attention to House Resolution No 24, relating to the completion of the Harbor Freeway in the County of Los Angeles, adopted by the Assembly on February 3, 1960

As indicated in my acknowledgment of February 8, 1960, this resolution was presented to the California Highway Commission at its meeting held in Sacramento on February 17

Both the California Highway Commission and the Department of Public Works recognize the importance of completing the Harbor Freeway and have been proceeding in an orderly manner for several years toward this end The section referred to in the resolution, from 190th Street to the Coast Highway, is the only incompleted section of the Harbor Freeway The route has been adopted, the plans are practically completed, and the acquisition of right of way has been under way for several years.

As indicated in the resolution, the cost of construction is 7½ million dollars within the limits specified and it is the intention of the commission to finance the completion of the Harbor Freeway at the earliest possible time commensurate, of course, with the requirements for other freeways in Los Angeles County Our annual budget is based on estimated revenue and in the preparation of the yearly budget a careful and thorough review is made of the requirements on the entire state highway system.

Respectfully,

Maps Designating Areas of Public Lands in South Humboldt Bay

STATE LANDS COMMISSION, STATE LANDS DIVISION
DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE, STATE OF CALIFORNIA
STATE BUILDING, LOS ANGELES 12, February 25, 1960

Mr Arthur A Ohnimus
Chief Clerk of the Assembly
California State Legislature
State Capitol, Sacramento 14, California

DEAR SIR Assembly Concurrent Resolution No 44 (Chapter 106, Statutes of 1959) requested that the State Lands Commission determine the ownership and extent of the state-owned tide and submerged lands in South Humboldt Bay and report such ownership to the Legislature not later than the fifth day of the 1960 Budget Session

The purpose of this request was to have a map prepared which would designate the areas of public lands in South Humboldt Bay which are available to the people of the State for fishing and clam digging

The State Lands Commission has prepared a set of three maps and an index and symbol sheet which cover South Humboldt Bay Tidelands sales and swamp and overflow patented lands are shown as described in the original transfers from the State and are designated by symbols explained on Sheet 4 It must be noted that the boundary lines of state ownership do not always coincide with the boundaries described in the original conveyances of tide and submerged lands Although some such sales were described originally to include channels and deep-water areas, the statutes define the waterward boundary of these patented tide and submerged lands as the line of mean low tide, which restricts private ownership to lands above the natural mean low tide line The boundaries of state ownership, as shown on the maps enclosed herewith, follow this natural mean low tide line as closely as can be determined from all available records

Data obtained from official county, state, and federal records were used in the determination of the boundaries as shown The latest available delineated natural low water line was taken from the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey Coast Chart of 1956, and its position was confirmed by aerial photographs taken in 1956 A field check was made in January, 1960, to verify physical features shown on these maps

Therefore, a set of these maps and a copy of the record of approval by the State Lands Commission are transmitted herewith for the information of the Legislature.

Yours very truly,

F J HORTIG, Executive Officer

ASSEMBLY JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 7 OF THE 1955 SESSION
CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE—1955 REGULAR SESSION

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 7

Introduced by Messrs. Thomas J. Doyle, Miller, McGee, Pattee, Smith, and Wilson

REFERRED TO COMMITTEE ON RULES

Assembly Joint Resolution No 7—Relative to the Caryl Chessman case and writs of habeas corpus

WHEREAS, On or about January 11, 1955, the Chief Judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit stayed execution of a judgment imposing the death penalty on Caryl Chessman, convicted sex terrorist and kidnapper; and

WHEREAS, This infamous criminal has been convicted of 17 felonies as a result of jury verdicts and the criminal record upon which the conviction of this depraved person is based is so shocking that it is hereby briefly summarized

January 3, 1948 (1) first degree robbery

January 13, 1948 (2) grand theft of an automobile which was used in perpetrating subsequent crimes and in which Chessman was fleeing when he was apprehended ———

January 18, 1948 (3) first degree robbery

January 18, 1948 (4) first degree robbery

January 19, 1948 (5) first degree robbery (6) First degree robbery (7) Kidnapping of a female person for the purpose of robbery with infliction of bodily harm, punishment fixed at death (8) Violation of California Penal Code Section 288a, relating to a crime of sex perversion, committed against a female person ((7) above)

January 20, 1948 (9) first degree robbery

January 22, 1948 (10) attempted robbery (11) Kidnapping a female person for the purpose of robbery with infliction of bodily harm, punishment fixed at death (12) Attempted rape of a female person ((11) above) (13) Violation of California Penal Code Section 288a, relating to a crime of sex perversion, committed against a female person ((11) above)

January 23, 1948 (14) first degree robbery (15) First degree robbery (16) Kidnapping a male person for the purpose of robbery, with infliction of bodily harm, punishment fixed at life imprisonment without possibility of parole (17) Kidnapping a male person for the purpose of robbery

Each of the above paragraphs represent a separate general criminal enterprise, in each of which one or more offenses were committed The jury further found that Chessman was armed at the time of the commission of each of the crimes except that of grand theft, numbered (2) above; that he was armed at the time of arrest; and that he had been twice convicted previously, one for robbery, and one for assault with a deadly weapon, and

WHEREAS, One of the female victims of this brutal and fiendish sex pervert suffered a mental breakdown which permanently deprived her of soundness of mind, requiring her confinement in an asylum where she remains to this day; and

WHEREAS, The Supreme Court of the State of California affirmed the decision of the trial court, upholding the judgment of conviction of the 17 felonies; and

WHEREAS, Our Anglo-American legal history apprises us of our righteous sensitivity to the fact that, in the course of ordinary legal procedures, men may occasionally be convicted of a crime through no fault of their own Nevertheless, cases of the Chessman type forcibly remind us of the inadequacy of the post-conviction procedures which have been erected to guard against the contingencies of improper conviction when such procedures have the effect not of releasing the convict but of clogging the courts with the fraudulent and unfounded claims of the guilty; and

WHEREAS, The Supreme Court of the United States has come to realize the gravity of this situation by remarking in the case of Wade v Mayo, 334 U S 672 (1948) note 51, 681-682·

"Statistics compiled by the Administrative Office of the United States Courts show that during the fiscal years of 1943, 1944 and 1945 there was an average of 451 habeas corpus petitions filed each year in federal district courts by prisoners serving state court sentences; of these petitions, an average of but six per year resulted in a reversal of the conviction and a release of the prisoner The releases thus constituted only 1 3 percent of the total petitions filed ", and

WHEREAS, The Supreme Court of the United States as recently as the year 1952 has again recognized this situation in a note to its decision in United States v Hayman, 342 U S 205, at pages 212-213 that

"In several districts, up to 40 percent of all applications for habeas corpus filed during the years 1943, 1944 and 1945 were so-called repeater petition "; and

WHEREAS, Chessman has compiled an astonishing record in his relentless and seemingly unending pursuit of post-conviction remedies Chessman has been turned down by the California Supreme Court on his appeal from the trial court and has been refused three applications for a writ of habeas corpus in the same court, he has been rejected by the United States Supreme Court in five applications for writ of certiorari, or review, he has been denied five times by the United States District Court on applications for a writ of habeas corpus; he has been turned down previously by the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit on an appeal from the District Court, and

WHEREAS, Chessman has been refused executive clemency upon several occasions both by Governor Goodwin Knight and by former Governor Earl Warren, now Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, and

WHEREAS, The prostitution of our legal procedures by this depraved sex terrorist brings sharply into focus this aberration in the law of post-conviction procedures, and

WHEREAS, The National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws has prepared and urges the adoption of a Uniform Post-Conviction Procedure Act designed to remedy the defects in state court procedures, and

WHEREAS, The federal law with respect to the writ of habeas corpus should be made the subject of a Congressional study for the purpose of devising more adequate safeguards for society as well as the wronged individual by amendment of the appropriate federal laws now permitting a convicted person serving a term in a state prison to repeatedly clog the calendars of the federal courts with petitions for writs of habeas corpus, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly and Senate of the State of California, jointly, That the Legislature of the State of California respectfully memorializes the Congress of the United States to undertake an investigation and study of the federal laws relating to the repeated use of the writ of habeas corpus by convicted persons serving terms in state prisons with a view to providing a limited right in the federal courts to entertain such writs consonant with the due process of law requirements of our Federal Constitution; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly be hereby directed to transmit copies of this resolution to the President and Vice President of the United States, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and to each Senator and Representative from California in the Congress of the United States.

REQUEST TO PRINT EXTRA COPIES

Mr. Belotti requested that 2,000 copies of Assembly Joint Resolution No. 7 of the 1955 Session be ordered printed as a separate document.

Motion to Refer

Mr. Winton moved that the request be referred to the Committee on Rules.

Motion lost.

The question being on the request by Mr. Belotti that 2,000 copies of Assembly Joint Resolution No. 7 of the 1955 Session be ordered printed as a separate document.

Request granted.

Total	$7,990,000

All of the items shown above were appropriated to carry out the purposes of Chapter 124, Statutes of 1955, which are to provide funds for use in connection with the holding and staging of the winter Olympic games in California in 1960, to provide facilities therefor, and to encourage and assist participation by persons from all parts of the world.

The appropriation under Chapter 1, Statutes of 1956, required an agreement between the California Olympic Commission and the organization designated to stage the winter games, to provide that the net revenues from all sources including, but not limited to, the sale of television and radio rights, concessions, and admission receipts, over and above operating expenses and other obligations, be paid to the State for deposit in the State Beach and Park Fund This provision makes revenues from the Olympic games available for the payment of expenses in addition to the specific appropriations shown above For budgetary purposes the California Olympic Commission has estimated revenues from the Olympic games at $3,867,000 This amount added to the $7,990,000 appropriated by the State Legislature from the State Beach and Park Fund totals $11,857,000 which has been estimated as the total amount available for expenditure

As of January 31, 1960, approximately $2,100,000 of the total estimated revenues of $3,867,000 had not been realized

The State of Nevada has contributed $363,000 for the construction of a spectator center The $363,000 is included in the revenues of the California Olympic Commission shown in the accompanying Exhibit A

In May, 1958, the Eighty-fifth Congress of the United States appropriated $3,500,000 for the construction of a sports arena on United States government land in Squaw Valley, California Two major reservations were specified by the Congress relative to the construction of the sports arena (1) that the arena is the property of the United States, and (2) any lease by the United States of the property on which the arena is located is to be reviewed, and lease occupancy after April 1, 1960, is to include a fair and appropriate rental reflecting the added value and utility represented by the arena

The Congress has also authorized the expenditure of up to $900,000 in federal funds for military support to the staging of the Olympic games.

The accounting office of the Organizing Committee has not maintained adequate budgetary control Encumbrances, such as requisitions, etc, have not been posted against budget allotments at the time the obligations have been incurred Therefore, requisitions have been approved by the controller of the Organizing Committee and his staff without knowledge of the amounts of the unencumbered balances of the particular allotments against which the items being approved were chargeable Under these circumstances, we were unable to determine the status of the budget allotments because the actual expenditures are not entered in the detailed accounts until after the close of the month in which the items are paid

As of February 20, 1960, it is estimated that there were $800,000, or more, of unrecorded liabilities and commitments which under good budgetary accounting procedures would have been posted to the detailed accounts as encumbrances

Operations

A summary statement of operations consolidating the operations of the Olympic Commission with those of the Organizing Committee for the period from inception to January 31, 1960, follows:

Resources:
State of California	$7,990,000.00
United States Government	3,500,000.00
State of Nevada	363,000.00
Revenues	1,388,013.52
Contributions	244,626.67
Total resources		$13,485,640.19
Expenditures:
Acquisition of land, planning, constructing, and preparing facilities	$8,826,605.11
Administration and operation of the facilities and events	3,049,414.61
Total expenditures		$11,876,019.72
Excess of resources over expenditures		$1,609,620.47

The above summary shows the net results of operations to January 31, 1960, after eliminating certain items which were transferred between the Olympic Commission and the Organizing Committee.

The expenditures shown above do not include the following approximate obligations of the Olympic Commission and the Organizing Committee which existed at January 31, 1960:

Olympic Commission construction contracts	$440,000
Organizing Committee:
Construction contracts	450,000
Unpaid invoices	400,000
Open purchase orders and requisitions	200,000
Total	$1,490,000

The unencumbered funds at January 31, 1960, amounted to approximately $120,000. The amounts of revenues realized from the actual operation of the Olympic games will not be known for several weeks after the close of the games. As was mentioned above, at January 31, 1960, approximately $2,100,000 of the total estimated revenues of $3,867,000 had not been realized.

Controls over revenues from parking, admissions, program sales, ski lift ticket sales, and meal ticket sales were reviewed during the operation of the games. The deficiencies observed by us were attributable to inadequate advance planning and the absence of written instructions to operating personnel. As a result of our observations several improvements were made immediately.

PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker Brown, the following prayer was offered by Rev. Robert S. Romeis of St. John's Lutheran Church of Sacramento:

Gracious God and Heavenly Father, Grant us wisdom to determine the important from the trivial Give us the clarity to see beyond the figures in the budget to the human figures to be served—the sick to be cared for, the aged to be helped, the weak to be strengthened, the warped to be straightened, the young to be educated Make us realize that we are dealing with a living thing which dare not be smothered with words or burned beneath high-sounding phrases Cause us to remember, O God, that the Budget represents the State's service to its people, and grant that we who determine the dimensions of that service must not choose the good, not the better, but the best; through Christ our Lord.—AMEN.

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

CALIFORNIA RECIPROCITY COMMISSION

Hon Ralph M Brown
Speaker of the Assembly
State Capitol, Sacramento 14, California

Attention Arthur A Ohnimus, Chief Clerk

DEAR SPEAKER BROWN I am transmitting to the Assembly herewith the Fifth Annual Report of the California Reciprocity Commission as provided in Chapter 1002, Statutes of 1955

Respectfully,

ROBERT McCARTHY, Chairman

Enc

FIFTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE CALIFORNIA RECIPROCITY COMMISSION TO THE CALIFORNIA STATE LEGISLATURE

(Section 8007—California Vehicle Code)

To the Members of the Senate and Assembly of the State of California

Pursuant to Chapter 1002, Statutes of 1955, the California Reciprocity Commission herewith submits its annual report to the California Legislature

Commission Membership

Robert McCarthy, Chairman—Director of Motor Vehicles
Glenn M Anderson—Lieutenant Governor
Alan Cranston—State Controller
Robert B Bradford—Director of Public Works
Bradford M Crittenden—Commissioner, California Highway Patrol

Commission Business

The new commission assumed its duties in January, 1959 (see Section 2600 of the California Vehicle Code) An organizational meeting was held on September 4, 1959, for the purpose of apprising the commissioners of the functions and duties of the California Reciprocity Commission No business was conducted since negotiations were under way with the States of Iowa, Nebraska and Missouri to enter into the Uniform Prorate Agreement and at that time the agreements were not finalized for submission to the commission.

At a meeting of administrators from the Compact States, held in Kansas City, Missouri, September 2-3, 1959, the name of the compact agreement was changed from "Western States Vehicle Registration Proration and Reciprocity Agreement" to "Uniform Vehicle Registration Proration and Reciprocity Agreement" This action was brought about by the fact that the reference to a "western compact agreement" no longer was descriptive of the compact since many midwestern states were negotiating to enter into the agreement

Ratification of Agreements With Iowa and Nebraska

Following the Kansas City meeting in September, 1959, the States of Iowa and Nebraska submitted prorate agreements to the nine-state compact group and requested admission to the compact

The commission assembled on November 6, 1959 for the purpose of ratifying the two agreements Members of the trucking industry were invited to attend the business session The agreements were the standard form used by the Compact States complete with authentications and appendices of the respective states Mr E C Funke, representing the Attorney General, testified that the agreements complied with California requirements as to legal content and they were thereupon ratified by the commission

By popular vote the commissioners selected Mr Robert McCarthy to act as chairman for the commission, to sign documents on its behalf, and to conduct business other than that calling for policy-making decisions of the commission as a whole

Ratification of Agreement With Missouri

Subsequent to the above action, the State of Missouri submitted a prorate agreement, together with authentication and appendix to the agreement, and requested that it be admitted to the compact Another meeting of the commission was called for December 14, 1959, at which time the Missouri agreement was ratified, the commission having first been assured by the Attorney General's representative that the agreement met the requirements of the California law The compact now consists of 12 western and midwestern states This meeting was also attended by members of the trucking industry

Interchange Trailers

Submitted to the commission for approval was a plan whereby the State of California would include interchange trailers in the prorate system

By definition, the term "interchange trailers" does not refer to casual exchanges among truck operators, but to a certain type of lease agreement authorized by the United States Interstate Commerce Commission for the purpose of expediting the through movement of common carrier shipment of goods Without such interchange provision, no common carrier could permit his equipment to be operated over routes for which he did not have commission authority Thus, if a trailer were destined to a place beyond the authority of the common carrier to serve, it would be necessary to unload the goods and place them in the trailer of a carrier who did have authorization in the other territory The Interstate Commerce Commission has, by rule, established the terms and conditions under which common carriers can exchange such equipment without unloading, this serves to reduce the cost of through movement and is termed "interchange"

The Uniform Prorate Agreement provides that prorate operators are considered to be the "owners" of leased equipment The purpose of this is to prevent the prorate operator from avoiding prorate responsibility by leasing equipment licensed in non-compact reciprocal states, the agreement also requires prorate operators to report all additions and withdrawals from their fleets.

Were the prorate operator required to add and withdraw interchange trailers by proration supplement it would be an almost impossible task since interchange occurs without notice to the operator at points widely separated from his licensing control headquarters and at any hour around the clock. If it were necessary for an operator to await clearance of licensing procedures, stoppage of the interchange trailer would ensue until such licensing data could be forwarded to the various prorate states and clearance received which would enable the trailer to move Such unwieldy procedures would destroy the primary purpose for which the Interstate Commerce Commission had authorized interchange Secondly, if administrators were to require the reporting by supplement of the addition and withdrawal of interchange trailers, there would be a constant flow of supplements relating to equipment which might well be out of the State's jurisdiction before application for the original clearance had been received

In reviewing the problem the Department of Motor Vehicles determined that elimination of continual reporting would be desirable if it were possible to accomplish without loss of possible revenue and satisfactory clearance could be provided for enforcement purposes

The department designed a form for use of "Interchange Trailer" operators which would provide payment of fees for the mileage use of their trailers by California intrastate operators and to provide payment of fees when use of interchange trailers resulted in an overall increase in their trailer fleets for operation in California

Enforcement agencies are supplied with a listing of the companies qualifying under the above system Sixteen such companies qualify at this time The enforcement agencies are given instructions that any of the listed companies may pull any currently licensed trailer from another state provided the "interchange" form has been completed and is carried on the trailer

The commission was informed that a test had been run on this system which proved to be quite effective and eliminated burdensome paper work and delays thus facilitating interstate movement with no loss of revenue.

The procedure as outlined was approved by the commission and is now in full operation.

Revenue

It is interesting to note that in the calendar year 1959 California had 700 active prorate operators who registered 39,614 vehicles and who paid to the state, for the period December, 1958, through November, 1959, the sum of $2,769,175 96 in fees This represents revenue that would not have accrued to the state under the old form of mirror reciprocity had not the prorate system been authorized by the California Legislature.

Attached to this report is the statistical breakdown of the fourth year of operation under the prorate plan.

Respectfully submitted this 1st day of March, 1960.

House Resolution No 30

Relating to compensating the Philippine Scouts for their services rendered in World War II

WHEREAS, The Philippine Scouts units serving with the United States Army rendered heroic and invaluable services in behalf of the United States of America and the Free World during World War II, and suffered particular hardship and cruelties in the early days of that conflict when their homeland was overrun by the hostile forces of the common enemy, and

WHEREAS, During these campaigns and prior thereto the Philippine Scouts were compensated pursuant to pay scales fixed by the Government of the United States with levels of remuneration substantially lower than those prescribed for other soldiers serving with the United States Army, with the result that the compensation received by these brave men was not commensurate with the extraordinary service they rendered, and

WHEREAS, Action taken by the Congress of the United States, through enactment of Public Law 607 of the Seventy-seventh Congress on June 16, 1942, to raise pay scales applicable to the Philippine Scouts to levels of equality with those of other soldiers serving with the United States Army were never fully effectuated in respect to services rendered by those men in the early campaigns in the Philippine Islands, and

WHEREAS Many important and prominent personages, including the former commander in the Philippine area General Douglas MacArthur, have commented upon and urged that appropriate actions be undertaken to effect the long overdue adjustments in compensations earned by the men who served in the Philippine Scouts during those critical days, and

WHEREAS, A special appeal in this regard is presently being undertaken, principally through the efforts of Mr Fortunato De Gracia, National Vice Commander of the Filipino Guerilla Veterans' Legion, who is at this time visiting the United States with the view of obtaining these compensations, now, therefore, be it

PRELIMINARY REPORT OF ASSEMBLY COMMITTEE ON JUDICIARY—CIVIL

ASSEMBLY, CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE
March 1, 1960

Hon. Ralph Brown, Speaker
Members of the Assembly
Assembly Chamber, State Capitol

GENTLEMEN· By constitutional mandate, the Legislature is responsible for setting the salaries and maximum number of all municipal court personnel, and of reporters for both the municipal and superior courts.

As a practical matter, therefore, the Legislature is asked to pass on the personnel problems of thousands of court employees every session During the 1959 Session, the Legislature, and in particular the Committee on Judiciary—Civil, considered some 92 bills pertaining to the personnel problems of court employees The Legislative Analyst has estimated the unit cost of each bill introduced in the Legislature at $1,500

These bills generally gain committee approval automatically if they bear the approval of the supervisors and grand jury of the county concerned

This expensive and time-consuming process has been a matter of great concern to the Assembly Committee on Judiciary—Civil, and has led to the study which is the subject of this preliminary report.

In October 1959, a hearing was held to consider suggested solutions to this problem Witnesses included representatives of the Municipal Court Clerks Association, the Judges, Marshals and Constables Association, the League of California Cities, the County Supervisors Association, the California Court Reporters Association and the California State Hearing Reporters Association Individuals attending included individual county representatives and a superior court judge.

From the testimony at this hearing and other information collected by the committee, we have concluded that the present system of setting these salaries has the following shortcomings:

1) The Legislature has neither the time nor the facilities, nor the information to provide the administrative direction needed in this area.

2) There is no pinpointed political responsibility in any one governmental body for establishing the number and salaries of these personnel

3) There is an undesirable lack of flexibility since, under the present system, the Legislature can pass on salaries and related problems only every two years, whereas personnel problems often call for annual adjustments

Various solutions have been submitted to the committee The Municipal Court Clerks Association suggested that the Legislature maintain control, but set up a uniform pay scale similar to the one now governing judges' salaries Under this system, three or four bills could cover the trial court personnel and the court reporters in the state.

The League of California Cities and the County Board of Supervisors Association favored a constitutional amendment that would turn back control of the number and salary of these court personnel to the counties

Another possible solution would be to delegate to an independent agency some authority to regulate the salaries and the number of these trial court personnel The federal government and 20 states now have similar agencies The functions of these agencies differ from state to state; but in at least two states, Connecticut and New Jersey, the court administrators exercise some supervisory control over court personnel.

The committee is still studying these various solutions. However, we feel that it is imperative that some steps be taken now to make the present system more workable and at the same time to provide the committee with the information necessary to evaluate both the multiplicity of individual bills and the long range solutions which have been suggested to the committee Therefore, we are introducing an Assembly Concurrent Resolution at this special session This resolution will require the Judicial Council to·

1) Make a continuous study of all municipal court personnel and superior court reporters

2) Recommend appropriate legislation

3) Make recommendations with regard to bills pending before the Legislature

4) Supply information, on request, to the chairmen of legislative committees to which bills relating to court personnel have been referred

This resolution does not represent a permanent solution to all of the problems in this field, but we feel that it is a significant step in the right direction Unless we take some action now, we will once again face an impossible situation in 1961.

Respectfully submitted,

Relative to a study of effects of the various forms of federal assistance on the financial needs of local administrative agencies of the Public School System

WHEREAS, Various federal laws authorize the granting of federal financial and other assistance for the use and benefit of local school districts and school administrative authorities in this State, including programs providing direct financial assistance for current school operations and school building construction in areas affected by the impact of federal activities, the distribution of Federal Forest Reserve moneys, various "in lieu tax" subventions payable to local agencies by numerous federal agencies and authorities, vocational education grants, grants and subventions for cafeteria and school lunch program purposes, and other similar forms of such assistance, and

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Assembly Interim Committee on Education, created by House Resolution No 320 of the 1959 Regular Session, is directed to undertake a comprehensive study of all aspects of federal assistance provided for support of the Public School System in California and the effects of such assistance upon the financial needs of local agencies administering the public schools The committee shall report upon its study to the Assembly by the 10th calendar day of the 1961 Regular Session, and shall include in its report appropriate recommendations for any legislation necessary to insure that provision made for financial support of the public schools at the State and local level adequately takes into account federal financial assistance being received

REPORT TO DIRECTOR—DEPARTMENT OF WATER RESOURCES, STATE OF CALIFORNIA, BY BOARD OF CONSULTANTS ON ALTERNATIVE AQUEDUCT SYSTEMS TO SERVE SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

SEPTEMBER, 1959

Introduction

Mr Harvey O Banks, Director, California Department of Water Resources by letter of January 10, 1958, invited and authorized this board to assist and review the studies by his department directed toward the selection of the best route or combination of routes for the conduction of Northern California water from the Kings-Kern County line to Southern California The studies by the department pursuant to this objective have been both ramifying and complex, involving broad and detailed matters of engineering, geology, economics, and finance. The department's conclusions derived from these studies are set forth in the department's Bulletin No 78.

Mr Banks subsequently, by letter of June 22, 1959, requested the board to confine its final report to.

a Determination of probable future water requirements
b Determination of probable time when water from Northern California will be required c Designation of areas to be served by the aqueduct system to Southern California.
d Selection of the most favorable aqueduct system

Item d, above, "Selection of the most favorable aqueduct system," is, of course, the final objective of this phase of the department's investigation Items a, b, and c, above, although very complicated and important in themselves, must be considered primarily as basic antecedents to the problem of selection of the most favorable aqueduct system.

This board has been in existence approximately 19 months, and during that period its efforts and activities have been of various kinds We have had numerous meetings, both private and with executives and staff members of the department, we have inspected in the field various aqueduct routes and sites of the principal structures and have made reconnaissance observations by airplane over large portions of the areas of study; individual members of the board have joined the staff in detailed field observations of critical portions of the routes to see at first hand and to help the staff assess the problems imposed by the physical setting of the various lines and sites, and also have maintained close contact with individuals of the staff, giving their personal attention to specific matters of economics, geology, design, construction and cost estimation; we have met in public sessions with a large number of individuals and public entities having interest in and knowledge about the water problems of Southern California; we met in a similar way with representatives of the utilities which might supply power for pumping over the various topographic divides, and might purchase any power recovered on the downslope sides of those divides; we have reviewed progress reports on various phases of the department's studies and the preliminary drafts of Bulletin No 78; and we have directed, from time to time, communications of comment, discussion, and recommendation to the director of the department.

By specific assignment, we limited our deliberations to the consideration of aqueduct routes and systems south of the Kings-Kern County line, which would serve southern San Joaquin Valley, Antelope Plain, the San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara and Ventura areas, the Antelope Valley-Mojave and Whitewater-Coachella areas in the desert, the Southern California Coastal Plain, and coastal San Diego County We have not considered any of the engineering or other problems involved in the collection and transportation of water north of the Kings-Kern County line

Selection of the Most Favorable Aqueduct System

The basic conclusions of Bulletin No 78 are, first, that no individual route will serve adequately the various parts of Southern California which now need or will soon need additional water, and, second, that a combination of routes, designated in Bulletin No 78 as System B, will be the most effective and favorable combination for the conveyance of water to the various areas of water-need We concur in these basic conclusions

It will perhaps be self-evident, but we wish to emphasize that the studies underlying Bulletin No 78, although intricate and voluminous, are sufficient only for the accomplishment of this limited objective · the selection of the most favorable aqueduct system for the conduction of water to areas of need in Southern California Having ascertained the most favorable system, the department must now subject it to intensive additional studies of various kinds—engineering, geological, economic, and financial—so that the outlines of the aqueduct system, now broadly drawn, may be sharpened and defined The following topics of this report bear upon the various phases of Bulletin 78 which have led to the selection of the most favorable aqueduct system, and some of the further studies which will be required before any attempt is made at final, detailed design We believe that these additional studies will improve the scheme and enhance the advantages of System B over alternative systems, but it must be anticipated that future studies will lead to material and significant changes within the framework of the recommended system as now defined.

Growth of Population and Water Demand

The impending need for more water than is available from existing sources is a matter of common knowledge Population in Southern California continues to increase, industry to expand, and irrigated agricultural land, although confronting a curtailment in many parts of Southern California because of urban encroachments, is in other parts expanding rapidly and will expand very significantly in the future if enough water is made available at reasonable cost Analysis of the probable pattern of future water demand in the various parts of Southern California, and for the various main purposes—domestic, industrial, and agricultural—has been a basic first step in the department's investigations

Chapter II of Bulletin 78 summarizes the comprehensive study that the department has made of these matters In this study, the department has divided the Southern California area into seven major service areas, and has projected, decade by decade to the year 2020, the expectable growth in population, future water-needs, and the required importations of water for various kinds of use

The projections have been made by methods that are standard for this type of analysis and those methods have been applied carefully and thoughtfully In our opinion, the projections portray the trends of growth and water demand as realistically as is possible in the face of uncertainties inherent in the prognostication of future events Naturally, the projections are most reliable for the next two or three decades, and become more speculative as they are applied to the more remote future.

These projections will startle all but close students of population trends in the Southern California service areas and the dynamic potential for future growth For instance, it is estimated that the present population of about 8,700,000 will increase to about 19,800,000 in 1990 and to over 28,000,000 in the year 2020. The Southern California coastal plain is expected to have the highest population increase, but the projections indicate a surprising population growth elsewhere Table 1, attached, summarizes the anticipated growth of population in the seven major service areas

The department concludes that the water needs accompanying those estimated growths in population will follow this pattern. imported water from the north will be required prior to 1970. these requirements may reach 3,266,000 acre-feet by 1990, and 5,535,000 acre-feet by 2020 Table 2 summarizes the anticipated water demands in the various service areas at intervals up to 2020

Data from Table 12 of Bulletin 78

In deriving these overall figures, it has been necessary, of course, for the department to anticipate the changing economies of the different areas The department concludes that the areas of irrigated crops in the coastal part of Los Angeles County will decrease from 58,000 acres in 1957 to none in 1990 In coastal San Bernardino and Orange Counties, the department concludes, the irrigated area will decrease from 179,000 acres in 1957 to 42,000 acres in 1990, and to none in 2020 In coastal Riverside County, it is estimated that irrigated areas will decrease rather uniformly from 76,000 acres in 1957 to 46,000 in 2020 On the other hand, increases are anticipated in San Diego County and southwest Riverside County from 61,000 acres in 1957 to 178 000 in 2020 The department estimates that Kern County will experience a large increase in irrigated area if water becomes available at reasonable cost, and San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara Counties are estimated to have smaller but substantial growths in agriculture after the importation of Northern California water, but in Ventura County a decrease in irrigated acreage is anticipated as municipalities and industries encroach upon land now irrigated In the desert (Antelope-Mojave and the Whitewater-Coachella areas), the cost of imported water from Northern California will, in the opinion of the department, prohibit any significant expansion of irrigated agriculture beyond that which may be possible by some future development of the meager local supplies of water Therefore no provision has been made by the department for furnishing any imported water from Northern California for irrigation use in these desert areas We believe that this is a logical assumption and that it should be used as the basis for final designs

In developing the probable future land use and water requirements, the department has taken into account the present available water supplies and has determined the approximate time at which water from the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta would be made available under each of the three aqueduct systems to guarantee the continued and future growth of the various service areas A summary of the probable delivery dates is given in Table 3

While agreeing generally with the reasonableness of these projections, as to the areas to be supplied with water imported from Northern California, and their probable future lines of development, water demands and dates of first water deliveries, we wish to emphasize three specific points of uncertainty First, the projections of irrigated areas and the resulting water demands are based on certain assumed costs of imported water. Naturally, any significant changes in actual cost of water may decrease or increase the anticipated water demands. Second, it has been assumed by the department that the amount of water required for municipal and industrial use will not be appreciably affected by the cost of imported water However, water imported from Northern California undoubtedly will cost substantially more than the waters now available; and the increase in cost could retard the present trend in per capita consumption, and thus lead to importation of amounts different than anticipated at any given time Third, some imponderables surround the supply of water to Southern California from Colorado River Storage works on Upper Colorado

River, now under construction or contemplated, and related developments of irrigation projects, could reduce the flow at Lee Ferry to at least that specified by the Colorado River Compact—and possibly to some lesser amount, since hydrologic records complete to this time indicate that the average annual runoff of the river has been less than was anticipated when the compact was made If the average annual runoff continues in the future to be less than originally anticipated, the amount of water available for diversion into the Colorado River Aqueduct conceivably could be less than the claimed rights of the Metropolitan Water District Moreover, the availability of Colorado River water could be decreased by an adverse decision in the Arizona-California litigation, now in progress, relative to the allocation of Colorado River water between the two states

Regardless of the specific accuracy of these projections, they support beyond argument this basic conclusion: Southern California will need large quantities of water in excess of the present supply, this need beginning in the rather near future and increasing thereafter. The department should therefore maintain a continuous study of actual trends and developments so that the projections can be progressively modified in the light of real occurrences.

Quality of Water

Southern California, as represented by the seven service areas listed in Table 2, now obtains its water from a variety of sources· Southern California Coastal Plain and coastal San Diego County are served by Owens River and Colorado River Aqueducts, by extensive groundwater basins in some parts and by local supplies of surface water; Southern San Joaquin Valley in the Kern County service area, is inadequately served by groundwater, the desert areas are served by groundwater; and the San Luis Obispo-Santa Maria-Santa Barbara areas are served partly by groundwater, but mainly by surface water.

These various waters differ widely in quality. Owens River water has a low mineral content, the Colorado River has a rather high mineral content (between 700 and 800 parts per million); the various local sources, surface and subsurface, are different in quality among themselves, but generally lie between these two extremes

Testimony was recently introduced in the litigation between Arizona and California to the effect that upstream developments upon the Colorado River would cause a deterioration of water quality downstream, probably increasing the total dissolved solids to 1,100 or 1,200 parts per million. The United States Public Health Service has established 500 parts per million as the desirable limit of total dissolved solids for a drinking water, but considers 1,000 parts per million as permissible. It cannot be predicated just when this anticipated deterioration in quality of Colorado River water will occur, but it must be considered in connection with the routing and timing of deliveries of Northern California water

At the behest of the department, the Stanford Research Institute has studied and reported upon the "Effects of Difference in Water Quality—Upper Santa Ana and Coastal San Diego County" That report concludes that the continued use of Colorado River water in these areas will raise the mineral content of certain groundwater basins by about 1980 to 1,000 parts per million total dissolved solids This conclusion is based on the assumption that the mineral content of Colorado River water being delivered to the Colorado River Aqueduct will continue to be about as it is today Any deterioration in the quality of Colorado River water would, of course, increase the content of dissolved solids in the water of these underground basins at rates faster than predicted

Another facet of the problem involves the quality of the water that would reach the several areas from the Sacramento-San Joaquin River Delta Bulletin 78 concludes that water reaching the upper Santa Ana Valley and coastal San Diego County from this source would have a mineral content of about 200 parts per million after full development and utilization of upstream storage and construction of delta improvement works for salinity control This conclusion may be on the optimistic side, but in any case would be invalid if the improvements upstream in San Joaquin Valley and in the Delta were not provided The actual conditions in the Delta should be examined periodically with regard to water quality so that progressive planning may keep step with actual conditions

Speaking generally, water from the Delta will meet all requirements for irrigation without further treatment However, most of this water delivered south of Tehachapi Mountains will be required for urban or industrial use It will have to be treated for the removal of bacteria, tastes, odors, color, and turbidity. Bulletin 78 recognizes this necessity and includes in its estimates of capital and annual costs proper amounts which will be incurred for filtration and chlorination by the local agencies distributing the water beyond the main aqueduct

Alternative Aqueduct Systems

The department has studied means of conveying Northern California water to Southern California for almost a decade. The studies have considered many routes which would lead by various directions into the Southern California service areas. These many routes can be grouped generally into three categories:

1. Routes that would head westerly from Avenal Gap and then southerly through San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara Counties to San Fernando Valley.

2 Routes to southern San Joaquin Valley and across Tehachapi Mountains and then to the Southern California Coastal Plain via San Fernando Valley

3 Routes which, after traversing the southern end of the San Joaquin Valley, would cross Tehachapi Mountains and extend easterly through the desert areas, and thence by tunnel into the Southern California Coastal Plain.

It became evident from these studies that no one route could serve all of the Southern California areas of need, and that some combination of routes would be required The department, in Bulletin 78, designates these combinations of routes as "systems" Of the various combinations of routes (systems) that were considered, three systems finally emerged as those deserving detailed analysis and comparison The department has designated these as Systems A, B, and C Each aqueduct system is a conception of works to be constructed by and at the expense of the State, or some overall agency to make water available to the seven main service areas The department properly assumes that the additional works required to deliver water to and within the service areas would be provided by and at the expense of the local agencies in the various service areas

This "system" concept follows naturally from the fact that supplemental water will be required

1 In San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara Counties
2 In southern San Joaquin Valley
3. In Ventura County, Los Angeles County, and Orange County
4 In San Bernardino, Riverside, and coastal San Diego Counties where a basic need exists and where, also, a supply of water of low mineral content will be needed to maintain a proper salt balance in the surface and subsurface supplies
5 In the desert areas—the Antelope-Mojave and Whitewater-Coachella regions

Obviously, no one route can supply all of these widely separated areas

The department s Aqueduct System A is primarily a coastal route with a branch to serve southern San Joaquin Valley and the high desert areas The main aqueduct would lead westward from Avenal Gap and thence southward through the upper Antelope Plain, San Luis Obispo County, Santa Barbara County, Ventura County, and finally through Conejo Reservoir to terminal storage in San Fernando Valley at Bell Canyon Reservoir.

A smaller inland aqueduct from Avenal Gap would lead to Buena Vista Lake and thence to the service areas in south San Joaquin Valley, and continuing southward through a series of pumping plants, into the desert to a terminus at Little Rock Creek to serve the Antelope-Mojave and Whitewater-Coachella areas

The department's Aqueduct System B is primarily an inland route, the major aqueduct extending from Avenal Gap along southern San Joaquin Valley and across Tehachapi Mountains, traversing those mountains by a series of pumping plants, penstocks and tunnels to Cottonwood Creek En route, this aqueduct would serve south San Joaquin Valley areas At Cottonwood Creek the inland aqueduct would divide into the western and eastern branches

The Western Branch would continue from Cottonwood Creek in tunnels, siphons, power drops, reservoirs, and canals through Castaic Reservoir and on to the Balboa Terminus in San Fernando Valley

The Eastern Branch would extend from Cottonwood Creek through a power drop, canals, and pumping plants, traversing the desert area to Cedar Springs Reservoir, on the headwaters of Mojave River In this section water would be diverted to the Antelope-Mojave and Whitewater-Coachella areas From Cedar Springs Reservoir, the branch would tunnel through San Bernardino Mountains and continue through power drops, afterbays, and siphons to terminal storage in proposed Perris Reservoir

A coastal branch would divert from the main aqueduct at Avenal Gap and proceed by pumping and power-recovery plants, canals, tunnels and siphons to a terminus in Santa Maria Valley in Santa Barbara County, servicing en route upper Antelope Plain and San Luis Obispo County

The department's Aqueduct System C may be considered as coastal and inland in equal degree One aqueduct would extend from Avenal Gap via Buena Vista Lake across Tehachapi Mountains, passing into the desert area and following the same general alignment as the Eastern

Branch of the Inland Aqueduct System B, terminating at Perris Reservoir A second aqueduct would extend westerly and southerly from Avenal Gap through San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, and Ventura Counties, following the same general alignment as the Coastal Aqueduct of System A, and terminating at Bell Canyon Reservoir in San Fernando Valley

Each of the three systems, as described in Bulletin 78, requires a different combination of open canals, pipelines, siphons, tunnels, pumping plants to lift the water across the topographic divides, and power plants to recover power on the downstream side of these divides. Moreover, the sizes and capacities of the various elements of each system differ also, and different facilities are required for the distribution of the water by local entities to each service area, from the aqueducts to the points of consumption.

It is our opinion that the three aqueduct systems, as selected by the department for detailed study, have been well chosen and that they represent a logical and practical basis for the determination of the most favorable aqueduct system for conveying imported water from the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta to furnish a supplemental water supply for the Southern California area

Conveyance and Distribution of Imported Water to Service Areas

It is the concept of the department that after the aqueducts have been built, passing through some of the service areas and terminating at points that are strategic for the distribution of water to others, the local agencies will assume the engineering and financial responsibility for building the systems necessary to convey the water into the various areas of use and to the individual users But even though the State or equivalent overall agency would have no responsibility for these distribution systems, they nevertheless represent an element of cost that must be considered in the comparison of alternative aqueduct systems The manner of local conveyance and distribution within the individual service areas would differ significantly for the three alternative aqueduct systems, and the costs would differ also We, as a board, concur in this concept.

Speaking generally, the department has outlined and estimated costs of conveyance and distribution works within the various service areas to points selected common to all three aqueduct systems for serving the consumers but has not studied the costs that would be involved in getting the water from those common points to the consumers themselves. There are a few exceptions to this generalization in areas of future irrigation in which there now exist no distribution facilities whatever—in these instances the department's studies have been carried all the way to the farmers' headgates.

These studies of conveyance and distribution have required a detailed consideration of sizes and capacities, taking into account seasonal demands, the needs for local storage for regulation or protection against outage, the pumping requirements and the possibility of power recovery, the treatment of water by filtration and chlorination where required, the applicability in some instances of groundwater replenishment and storage underground, the sequences and timing of the construction, and other like matters of similar engineering intricacy

The cost of these conveyance and distribution facilities as estimated by the department are listed on Table 4, and may be summarized as follows:

Aqueduct System	Est Capital Costs in 1,000 Dollars: Main Aqueduct	Distribution Facilities	Total	Cost of Distribution Facilities as a Percent of the Main Aqueduct Cost
A	2,361 0	1,220 0	3,581 0	51.7
C	2,162 0	703 0	2,865 0	32 5

It should again be pointed out that it has been assumed by the department, and properly so, that these costs are to be assumed by the local agencies They are of major importance, involving in Aqueduct System B, 41 percent of the cost of the main aqueducts. Further, although they represent the cost of such works to common points in the service areas, there will still remain very large additional expenditures on the part of the local agencies to permit delivery of water to the customers

The cost of distribution facilities to convey and deliver aqueduct water to the customers will be an item of major importance in determining the cost of bringing Delta water to the users in the various service areas A great deal of additional study will therefore be required to determine the total cost of water delivered to the customers.

Pumping and Power Recovery

A very crucial element in designing any route or system is the scheme adopted for pumping over the various topographic divides and for recovery and utilization of the power that may be generated on the downstream sides of those divides, since the utilization and disposal of the energy thus consumed and generated will affect vitally the economics of the whole plan. Bulletin 78 lists and briefly describes the following schemes for pumping and power recovery:

1 Purchase of off-peak electric power and sale of the power that may be generated.
2 Purchase of off-peak electric power and the feedback of generated power into the pumping system.
3. Pumping by direct steam and steam-electric drive and sale of the power that may be recovered.
4 Pumping by direct steam and steam-electric drive and feedback of the power which is generated into the pumping system.
5. Pumping by steam-electric drive; feedback of the power which is generated into the pumping system.
6 Pumped storage (a system involving pumping into high-level reservoirs during periods of off-peak power demand, the release of water to the aqueduct as required, and the retention of the remainder for later return through the penstock for generation of power during periods of peak demand).

Undoubtedly, different schemes of pumping and power recovery will prove to be most favorable for different parts of the adopted system

The department has considered it to be unnecessary that all of these schemes be analyzed fully to attain the limited objective of Bulletin 78 · the selection of the most favorable aqueduct system For purposes of financial comparison, the department, in Bulletin 78, elected to appraise aqueduct Systems A, B and C, assuming that pumping and power recovery would be by. (a) off-peak electric and feedback (No 2 above), or (b) steam and steam-electric drive and feedback (No 4 above), and a comparison of capital and annual costs for these two schemes is made in Bulletin 78—with the qualification that the off-peak electric and feedback scheme was considered to be infeasible for Aqueduct System A

By this comparison, the department concludes that the "steam" or "steam-electric drive" with power feedback would be cheaper both in capital cost and annual costs than the "off-peak electric drive with power feedback." Accordingly, all further financial and economic analyses set forth in Bulletin 78 are based on the use of the "steam" or "steam-electric" drive with power feedback for pumping and power recovery

We agree with the department that comparisons made on this basis are legitimate and can lead to proper conclusions as to the most favorable aqueduct system However, we wish to express strongly our opinion that in the future, prior to final design, complete studies and comparisons must be made of all reasonable schemes of pumping and power recovery

It is again appropriate to state, in anticipation of a later topic of this report, that the department favors Aqueduct System B, and that we concur Aqueduct System B clearly seems to be the most favorable system for the conduction of water from Northern to Southern California It is our belief that future studies of pumping and power recovery schemes will enhance the advantages of Aqueduct System B over the alternative systems, and improve the economic advantage of that system beyond that indicated in Bulletin 78 We recommend particularly that a conclusive study be made of the possibilities of pumping with low-valued utility off-peak power and generating higher valued peaking power for disposal, and extending this concept to the possible utilization of pumped-storage (Item 6, Page 245) Parts of System B appear to be particularly adapted to this concept and if later studies prove this to be so, the problems of financing and repayment may well be significantly easier than indicated in Bulletin 78

We have arrived at the following general convictions regarding pumping and power recovery·

1 That the project can be and should be financially self-supporting, with the costs of construction, operation, and maintenance defrayed by the various service areas which are to be the recipients of the imported water, and that credit for energy disposed of or used, from power recovery plants, should be applied to the capital and operating costs of the pumping plants which contribute falling water to the recovery plants
2 That to accomplish 1, above, full advantage must be taken of the existing and well integrated facilities of the power utilities operating within the different areas under consideration; and in this connection, we urge that the Power Committee, formed in 1958, and composed of representatives of the power utilities and the department, continue actively its meetings and discussions

3 That any schemes selected for pumping and power recovery should be aligned with proven engineering practices, since the quantities of water and the heights of pump-lift, when taken in combination, are without precedent, and since the consequences of erratic or undependable operation would be so serious to the economy that will be built around this project. The project must operate consistently and dependably. We are frankly dubious of the practicability of any plan to pump by direct steam-drive There is no precedent for this kind of pumping in the quantities and to the heights here contemplated.

Since any system will require large amounts of energy for pumping and will recover lesser amounts, the net drain upon the State's and the Nation's reserves of energy must be considered However, this consideration has little bearing upon the choice of aqueduct system, since the estimated net expenditures of energy by the different systems differ very little Those systems requiring lesser expenditures of energy for pumping, recover less power, and the systems requiring greater expenditures of energy, recover more By way of example, we extract from Table 23 of Bulletin 78 the following comparisons between Aqueduct System A (predominantly coastal), Aqueduct System B (predominantly inland), and Aqueduct System C (equally coastal and inland):

Estimated Annual Power Consumption and Generation

	Aqueduct System A	Aqueduct System B	Aqueduct System C
Pumping plant consumption for year 2000 in million KWH	6,291	10,703	9,040
Power plants generation for year 2000 in million KWH	1,082	3,779	2,588
Net consumption in million KWH	5,209	6,924	6,452
Average annual fuel consumption, 1965-2020 (in millions of barrels of oil per year)	8 03	9 35	8 67

Aqueduct System A requires the least energy but recovers the least System B requires the most energy but recovers the most System C is intermediate between A and B The differences in fuel consumption are not great Such comparisons will be different for each scheme of pumping and power recovery, but it seems probable that System B will benefit more than the other systems from further study and refinement

Financial and Economic Analysis

The economic comparisons which the department has made of the several aqueduct systems are sufficient for selection of an aqueduct system These comparisons are summarized below in terms of ratios, derived from actual dollar values as set forth in Table 4, Page 250

Summary of Economic Comparison of Alternative Aqueduct Systems
(Comparisons are expressed in ratios with System B shown as unity in each instance)

	Aqueduct System A	Aqueduct System B	Aqueduct System C
1. Capital cost of main aqueduct south of the Delta (to be built by the State or over-all agency)	1.31	1 00	1.20
2. Capital cost of local conveyance and distribution facilities (to be built by local interests)	1.64	1 00	0 94
3. Capital cost of main aqueduct south of the Delta and local conveyance and distribution facilities	1 40	1 00	1.12
4. Average unit cost of water delivered to service areas	1.19	1 00	1 07
5. Total direct benefits	1.00	1 00	1.00

Inasmuch as these comparisons indicate that the total direct benefits are essentially equal for the three systems, Aqueduct System B is shown by relative total capital and unit costs to be economically superior to System C and possesses a substantially greater advantage over System A The estimates of costs and benefits made by the department were based on various assumptions which are considered generally to be valid for present purposes. However, when a full study has been made of pumping and power recovery schemes, it is likely as we have mentioned earlier, that System B will appear in an even more favorable light. We hold this opinion because System B appears to offer a substantially greater opportunity to capitalize on the economic advantages of using low-valued off-peak commercial power for pumping and the generation of high-valued peaking power by the power recovery facilities.

The department has made certain assumptions relative to the recovery of all costs of building and operating the main aqueduct system These assumptions are that:

1 The capital investment of each stage of construction will be repaid with interest at 3½ percent per annum within a period of 50 years.
2 The interest due on the investment during the period of construction and prior to delivery of water will be capitalized
3 The repayment of the capital investment will commence on the date of first water deliveries
4 Costs of the aqueduct systems were allocated to the service areas by the "Proportionate Use of Facilities Method"
5. Pumping plant costs were allocated to the service areas in the same proportion that the peak capacity requirements bore to the summation of peak requirements of all service areas
6 Costs of power recovery plants were added directly to the cost of pumping plants which they would serve and were allocated to the service areas in the same manner as for the pumping plants
7 Credit for energy from the power recovery plants was applied to the capital and operating costs of the pumping plants which contribute falling water to the recovery plants

The department has assumed that the aqueduct system will be built in stages and the foregoing assumptions were applied to each stage We believe them to be in accordance with good practice and that their use is logical and reasonable, although it should be recognized that the interest rate is somewhat low under present market conditions

The department, in Bulletin 78, has developed what is termed an "average cost of water," over the 50-year repayment period, for the entire service area and points out that this is not the price at which it is assumed water will be sold, and we wish to reiterate and emphasize this point. The actual "cost of water" represents the money that must be obtained each year from some source to amortize the debt and cover operation and maintenance costs in each year for the basic aqueduct system.

In considering such amortization, the department contemplates that each service area will begin annual payments to cover the "cost of water" to the area when water is first delivered These annual payments will be, from the first year of repayment, sufficient to pay costs allocated to the area for (1) all maintenance and operation; (2) all interest on capital, and (3) part of the capital cost. Item (3) above may be somewhat less in the early years than in later years, but will be geared to return all the capital cost allocations over a period of 50 years, less the period of construction prior to water delivery. We anticipate that the use of water in each service area will start from some minimum quantity the first year of delivery and increase to the full estimated consumption only after several years It is unlikely that recovery of costs during these early years can come entirely from charges for water delivered

For this reason, if the project is to be self-liquidating and if it is to amortize its own costs, some repayment arrangement will be required that will provide funds from each service area to meet the annual payments above described, every repayment year equal to the annual "cost of water" for the whole service area Amounts which are not provided from water sales can be obtained as taxes in service areas, in some such manner as has been employed by the Metropolitan Water District to provide funds for the Colorado River Aqueduct and its appurtenant facilities, or some other comparable and equally effective mechanism may be devised

Description of Aqueduct System B

As background for discussions which follow, we must redescribe the recommended system—Aqueduct System B—in more detail It would bring water southward from the latitude of Avenal Gap in the following ways:

A principal aqueduct, designated the Inland Aqueduct, would pass generally southward via a reservoir at the site of Buena Vista Lake, across Wheeler Ridge and Pastoria Creek, serving en route the areas of water-need in south San Joaquin Valley, and continuing to Tehachapi Mountains Four pumping plants would be required en route to lift the water to an elevation of approximately 3,415 feet, at which elevation a tunnel would traverse the mountains Emerging from the tunnel near Cottonwood Creek, on the south side of Tehachapi Mountains, the aqueduct would divide. A Western Branch would continue via Castaic Reservoir to a Balboa terminus in San Fernando Valley This branch includes two power drops on the south side of the mountains between Cottonwood Creek and Castaic Reservoir This branch, then, would serve Ventura County, Los Angeles County, and adjacent portions of the Southern California Coastal Plain.

At Cottonwood Creek the Eastern Branch of the Inland Aqueduct would drop some 500 feet and proceed generally south and east to a point near Pearblossom, and then be pumped again some 500 feet to permit gravity flow to Cedar Springs Reservoir on the headwaters of Mojave River Beyond Cedar Springs Reservoir, a four-mile tunnel would conduct the water through San Bernardino Mountains to two power drops in Devil Canyon, a short distance north of San Bernardino From there, the aqueduct would continue across the upper Santa Ana Valley to Perris Reservoir, which would be the major terminus of this Eastern Branch From Perris Reservoir, water could be supplied to the San Diego Aqueduct, the Metropolitan Water District Aqueduct, and to service areas to the west. Laterals could be constructed between Devil Canyon and Perris Reservoir to serve other areas to the east and west This branch, then, would deliver water to the Antelope-Mojave area, the Whitewater-Coachella area, portions of Southern California Coastal Plain, and coastal San Diego County

A coastal branch would diverge from the main aqueduct at Los Perillas Reservoir, a small forebay near Avenal Gap From Los Perillas Reservoir at about elevation 325, the water would be pumped in three lifts to about elevation 1,190 and then carried largely in canal to the east portal of a tunnel beneath Polonio Pass, with diversions en route to supply upper Antelope Plain in San Joaquin Valley Westward from Polonio Pass, the aqueduct would extend to another tunnel beneath Cuesta Pass near San Luis Obispo Just south of Cuesta Pass, the aqueduct would drop approximately 500 feet to San Luis Obispo power plant, and continue to its terminus at Santa Maria River about 405 feet above sea level This branch, then, would serve upper Antelope Plain, San Luis Obispo County, and Santa Barbara County.

Each prong of this system involves a complex assortment of canals, pipe-conduits, tunnels, siphons, reservoirs, pumping plants, and power plants It is unnecessary to restate the details of specific features and combinations of features which make up the recommended system In our opinion, the general routes, the proposed structures and their locations and the sizes and capacities which the department has brought together in framing their recommended system are reasonable and workable and entirely satisfactory for the accomplishment of the department's present objective, the determination of the best aqueduct system for the conduction of water to the areas of need in Southern California

However, we wish to emphasize that many changes in detail will result from the further studies which are now required to perfect the selected system sufficiently for final design and construction In particular, modifications will result inevitably from a complete investigation of all different schemes of pumping and power recovery, since each scheme will have, within the framework of the selected system, its own best combination of locations, types, and sizes of the various component elements The greatest changes will result if a pumped storage scheme of pumping and power recovery proves to be advantageous

Apart from the detailed changes which may be made, a few larger elements of Aqueduct System B perhaps can be improved by further study. Bulletin 78 proposes a lateral diversion from near Hesperia to serve the Whitewater-Coachella area. At first glance, it appears that this area could be served more economically from the Colorado River Aqueduct of the Metropolitan Water District, through some exchange agreement with the district If such an arrangement could be effected, the Whitewater-Coachella Lateral would be decreased in length, and flow would be increased through the aqueduct to Cedar Springs Reservoir, Devil Canyon power plants and Perris Reservoir

About 20 miles east of Cottonwood Creek, the same Eastern Branch of the proposed aqueduct passes quite close to Fairmont Reservoir on Los Angeles' Owens River Aqueduct system This reservoir serves as regulating storage to permit peaking of power plant operation below that point on the Owens River Aqueduct We understand that the aqueduct has a capacity of about 1,000 cfs between Fairmont Reservoir and Dry Canyon, but that the average aqueduct flow is only about 500 cfs Conceivably, an agreement with the City of Los Angeles would permit the use of this reservoir facility for delivering some water to San Fernando Valley—with advantage to all parties concerned

On the coastal prong of the recommended system, the aqueduct, as mentioned earlier, terminates in Santa Maria Valley That part of Santa Barbara County southerly and westerly of Santa Maria Valley is proposed to be served by a lateral constructed and operated by local agencies It may be that further study will indicate the possibility and desirability of continuing the main aqueduct to Cachuma Reservoir on Santa Ynez River, so that this reservoir could serve as terminal storage This change would require an agreement with the Bureau of Reclamation. Such a plan would provide badly needed storage for diversion to adjacent service areas and would permit feeding some water backwards into the aqueduct if an outage should occur to the north

We single out these three instances of possible modification of the recommended system simply as examples of improvements in the system which may result from further study, and to re-emphasize that the investigations and analyses reported in Bulletin 78 are not, and were not meant to be, final or conclusive in all detail We believe that conservative assumptions have been applied to these and similar areas of incomplete study and that the recommended system can only be improved by future studies We do not mean to imply that the studies to date have been careless or superficial, indeed, they have been entirely adequate for present purposes. But the problem at hand is one of enormous complexity and we wish merely to make the point that much remains to be done before the project is finally designed and built

Geological Conditions and Construction Problems

Any conceivable system to conduct water from Northern to Southern California will present very formidable problems of design and construction because of difficult conditions of geology and terrain. The entire area of interest south of Avenal Gap is seismically active. At several points, major faults of known or suspected activity must be crossed and many other faults, both major and minor, from which earthquakes could emanate, lie close by. The department and this board have consulted Doctors Perry Byerly and Hugo Benioff, both eminent seismologists, about the seismic potentialities of the area. Any system will pass through areas of unstable ground where landslides have occurred in the past and will occur in the future. The coastal areas are particularly vulnerable in this regard. Routes in south San Joaquin Valley will traverse areas of ground-subsidence This subsidence is of two kinds: subsidence resulting from the withdrawal of underground water for irrigation, and subsidence which in some areas results from the application of water to the parched soils of this arid region. In many instances, the individual structures—dam sites, pumping plants, power plants, conduits, and canals—will require special design because of inferior foundations. All tunnels will traverse difficult ground

Such difficult natural conditions have beset engineering construction in these parts of California since the earliest occupation of the area, and they have not prevented the successful consummation of major engineering undertakings The magnitudes of some features of this project greatly exceed the magnitudes of like works that have been successfully constructed in these areas in the past, but the hazards confronted by these larger works now proposed can be surmounted by the exercise of the same principles and methods by which similar difficulties, in this area and elsewhere, have been successfully surmounted.

The department has recognized the difficult natural conditions which confront the construction of any aqueduct route or system to Southern California, and accordingly has studied the geology ably and with great care, and has appraised very realistically the engineering problems imposed by the different geologic and topographic conditions in the different areas. The preliminary designs outlined in Bulletin 78 have been adapted very appropriately to the natural conditions. It is proposed to cross the major active faults on the surface rather than underground in tunnels, even though this requires pumping to higher elevations than would otherwise be necessary In particular, the elevation of the Tehachapi Mountains tunnels permit crossing the Garlock and San Andreas faults on the surface San Andreas fault would again be crossed at the surface after leaving the tunnel through San Bernardino Mountains On the coastal route, also, San Andreas fault would be crossed on the surface, beyond the western portal of Polonio Pass tunnel

The choice between open canal, pipe-conduit or tunnel throughout the system has been appropriate to the geology and topography of the different parts of the system Special problems, such as the areas of ground-subsidence in south San Joaquin Valley, have been and are still the subject of special research, and we believe that the solutions to such special problems as suggested in Bulletin 78 are practical and realistic Bulletin 78 has recognized the problems inherent in the design of structures such as dams, powerhouses, and pumping plants which will rest on foundations ranging from mediocre to poor in quality.

In short, the area under consideration is not conducive to easy and routine design and construction It presents many problems and difficulties arising from the geology and topography. But the department has recognized and studied each of these problems and proposes methods for surmounting them which, in our opinion, are entirely practicable.

Operating Problems

The long aqueduct lines, numerous pumping lifts, power plants, power supplies, and storage facilities which must be combined for system operation will present major operating problems These problems will be accentuated by the fact that all three routes making up System B will encounter difficult natural conditions, as mentioned previously

With terminal storage at Cedar Springs, Perris, Castaic, Bell Canyon, and Conejo Reservoirs, any shutdown of the aqueduct will not immediately affect the supply of water to the service areas downstream However, a serious break in the aqueduct north of Avenal Gap would disrupt service both to the inland and coastal lines Bulletin 78 contemplates the construction of reservoirs for emergency storage by the local entities comprising the individual service areas—not by the State or some overall agency constructing the aqueduct system Such construction will be necessary in Kern County, San Luis Obispo County, Santa Barbara County, and in the Antelope-Mojave and Whitewater-Coachella areas Breaks in the coastal or inland aqueducts, south of Avenal Gap and upstream from the terminal reservoirs would, of course, cause serious problems, but smaller areas would be affected

Special consideration must be given to the problems arising from shutdowns, caused by physical breaks in the conduit, power outages, normal operating disturbances, or other emergencies or catastrophes To provide for such contingencies there should be sufficient storage and wasteway capacity at strategic points along all three routes to handle the flow until the aqueduct can be shut down or its flow drastically reduced at some upstream point of control We recommend that careful study be made of these operating problems before final designs are undertaken

Estimates of Cost

Individual members of the board have worked closely with the department in the development of cost estimates In our opinion, proper consideration has been given to availability of construction materials, the special procedures of design and construction necessary to surmount local problems, and trends of costs determined from analysis of recent bids on somewhat similar work

We believe that the unit costs adopted for the various features of the aqueduct system are in general agreement with 1958 prices, and that the resulting total costs are reasonable Adequate provision has been made for contingencies, engineering and overhead Of course, if prices continue to increase as they have in the past, the estimates must be revised from time to time

We wish to point out again the distinction that is made in Bulletin 78 between the capital and operating costs of the various branches of the system itself, and the separate costs which would be incurred by the local entities responsible for the distribution of the water from various points along the system into the various service areas Distribution facilities have been assumed to be constructed and operated by appropriate local agencies who would distribute the water as required to meet local demands The costs of such distribution facilities are cited only for comparison of total costs for the three main aqueduct systems which were studied, and are not assumed to be a charge against the State or other overall agency constructing and operating the main aqueduct.

Staging of Construction

In a project of this magnitude with construction continuing over several decades to meet the progressive demands for water, and with expenditures of hundreds of millions of dollars each decade, it would be highly desirable to so plan the works that they may be built in successive units or stages, thus reducing capital expenditures in the earlier years of the project, and securing some income from early water use for application toward the costs of later construction The department has concluded that only a limited amount of staging is practicable and beneficial This conclusion is based in part upon the concept that it would be impracticable to enlarge either canals or tunnels at some later time because they must be maintained in continuous operation Accordingly, the department's estimates for these features are based upon initial construction of these features to the capacity estimated to be required in year 2020 Similarly, all dams and reservoirs are assumed by the department to be built initially to the 2020 capacity. This procedure was based on the premise that adequate funds could be made available The department, however, has assumed stage-construction for pipe-siphons and for pumping and power plants and penstocks. The department argues plausibly in this connection in Bulletin 78 and it may well be that it is correct in its conclusions Nevertheless, we have certain misgivings and believe that the whole problem of staging of construction requires further study.

While duplicate tunnels and canals of smaller size would certainly cost more than single structures of larger size, the initial capital cost and interest charges would be much less if smaller ones were constructed initially. We wish to re-emphasize a point made earlier, that the projections of growth of population and water demand, although as good as can be made, contain elements of speculation, and may prove to be erroneous for periods in the more distant future, and the ultimate capacities now thought to be required 30 to 60 years hence may be too high or too low Developments now unforeseen may occur in the fields of construction, pumping and power generation before the turn of the next century We question the wisdom of building at the outset in accordance with present anticipations of the total demands and the technologies of the remote future.

Conclusions

1. We agree with the department's selection of Aqueduct System B as the most favorable, subject, however, to modifications after further detailed investigations Aqueduct System B provides: (1) An inland aqueduct south of Avenal Gap to the southern end of the San Joaquin Valley, thence across the Tehachapi Mountains with a western branch on to a terminus in the San Fernando Valley, (2) an eastern branch aqueduct leaving the main aqueduct at Cottonwood Creek in the Tehachapi Mountains and going eastward to a point north of San Bernardino where it turns south to penetrate the San Bernardino Mountains and terminate in upper Santa Ana Valley at Perris Reservoir, and (3) a coastal aqueduct westward from Avenal Gap to San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara Counties with south terminus at Santa Maria River

2. Aqueduct System B has the following principal advantages over any of the others:

a. Least capital cost to the State or other overall agency
b. Least capital cost of combined main aqueducts and local conveyance and distribution facilities.
c Least average cost of water over the repayment period as delivered to service areas
d. Best distribution of water south of the Tehachapi Mountains to meet water demands and problems of water quality.
e. Most favorable for power recovery program.

3. Aqueduct System B requires higher pumping lifts for large quantities of water than alternative systems But, any system must include large pumping installations, and Aqueduct System B would require only about 16 percent more fuel oil or its equivalent than would be required by a coastal aqueduct, which would have the lowest consumption Furthermore, large financial benefits may be realized by incorporation of the most appropriate power-recovery methods

4 The estimates for future water needs are large, but reasonable However, the estimates for the near future are much more reliable than those for the more remote future, and all planning should maintain flexibility to conform to trends as they may actually develop

5 We concur in the assumption that no plans should be made by the department for furnishing a supplemental irrigation supply to the Antelope-Mojave and Whitewater-Coachella service areas The cost of water will be too high for such use Supplemental supply for these areas should be confined to future municipal and industrial demands.

6. We believe that all reasonable methods of pumping and power recovery should be thoroughly investigated No other elements of the contemplated works present such unprecedented problems of construction or operation, or offer such opportunities for savings in capital and operating costs We believe that the best solution will be the one taking maximum advantage of the integrated facilities of the public utilities in the area, using, insofar as possible, lower-valued utility generated off-peak power for pumping, and generating higher-valued peaking power for sale A possible alternative method would be to deliver power from project plants into the utility systems and withdraw energy from such systems to serve the projects' pumping plants. We doubt the reliability of the direct steam-driven pumping schemes outlined in Bulletin 78, and believe that for the unprecedented volumes of water and heights involved, this scheme will prove to be inadequate

7. The topographical and geological conditions to be met by any route or combination of routes are formidable, but the department has recognized these difficulties and proposes sound methods to meet them.

8. We believe that the estimates of construction costs presented in Bulletin 78 are realistic for the present time.

9. In a project of this size and importance, staging and timing is important. Prognostications of events in the distant future are uncertain because of possible changes in economic trends and technologic advantages now unforeseen For these reasons, initial construction to the capacities now estimated for the distant future involve unpredictable uncertainties—the works built to meet these anticipations could be smaller or larger than ultimately necessary. We recommend further serious study of staging and timing of aqueduct construction.

10. We believe that the entire project can and should be self-supporting with the costs of construction and operation defrayed by the various service areas which are to be the recipients of the imported water; that credit for energy sold or used, from power recovery plants, should be applied to the capital and operating costs of the pumping plants which contribute falling water to the recovery plants, and that complete financial analyses should be made at an early date to determine the probable total cost of water in the several service areas, with particular attention to such costs during the early years of operation.

Comments on the Final Report of the Board by ADOLPH J. ACKERMAN
Consulting Engineer and Member of the Board

The Final Report of the Board of Consulting Engineers on Alternative Aqueduct Routes was submitted to me for my signature. After a careful examination of the report, and a review of all available references, I have signed the report with the notation: "I regret that I cannot join in this report, since the problems of financial feasibility, which are within the area of my professional specialization, have not been adequately examined. I am therefore submitting a separate report."

I cannot subscribe to all of the statements in the final report for the following reasons:

1. The report refers to the original letter of instructions from the Director of Water Resources, dated January 10, 1958. This letter not only outlined the unrestricted conditions under which the members of the board accepted appointment, but it also provided a guide for developing all essential facts during the period of investigation. The report also refers to a letter subsequently received by the board on June 22, 1959, which "requested the board to confine its final report" to four specific questions; the report has been written to respond to this request. However, I consider myself bound by the original instructions to the board, and by the recommendations of a previous board of consulting engineers (report of May 8, 1957), that "no specific project be authorized for construction prior to detailed investigation of its engineering feasibility, economic justification and financial feasibility." In my opinion, this demands a conclusive analysis of basic problems such as the estimated cost of a project of limited size, determination of the best operating procedures, probable price of water to the consumer, financing problems and their influence on the State's credit position (or on greater tax levies), repayment of invested capital, and similar issues. Such a program of analysis would lead to the drawing of basically different conclusions from those contained in the final report.

2. Much valuable technical work has been carried out in the past three years on topographical and geological mapping, studies of hazards due to earthquakes, problems in design, construction and tunneling, and studies of growth in demand for water. Notwithstanding the importance of these features in the planning of a project, they are nevertheless, in my opinion, only a means to an end of formulating a sound program of financing. In other words, the overriding question is: "Is the project, as conceived, of the type that the money can be successfully raised by voluntary investment from the savings and accumulated resources of the thrifty, or will it be forcibly extracted from the pockets of the taxpayers?" The feasibility of voluntary investment has not been demonstrated, and the available evidence only points to the latter source of money.

3. The basic issue is not "water," but "financial soundness" of the project as now conceived. The citizens are expected to decide by their vote on the financing of this project; for this purpose they should receive the essential facts from an impartial source, so that they can determine to what extent they are willing to commit themselves to the requisite tax obligations which may be required to maintain the integrity of the State's credit. The proposed project would call for the largest financial commitments ever undertaken by a state for a single project, its magnitude cannot be visualized by the voters who will be expected to express their approval or disapproval. This has placed all the more obligation on the Board of Consulting Engineers in helping to develop a competent and independent interpretation, particularly from the standpoint of "financial feasibility," (within the conventional definition). At this stage no adequate demonstration is available to show the "financial feasibility" of the project as now proposed. The adoption of a project under these circumstances would contribute to damaging the State's credit position for many years to come In my opinion any inference, that the current proposal has been developed to a stage where the public can repose its full confidence in it, is wholly unwarranted

In summary, I do not question the sincerity or good intentions of the engineers who have planned the Feather River-Southern California Aqueduct project I do, however, seriously question the soundness of their proposals.

Both the stature of the engineering profession as well as the public confidence in the profession are under severe test It may well be said that never before in engineering history have such great responsibilities been entrusted to a board of consulting engineers With respect to the planning of public works, a board of professional engineers has the primary obligation of safeguarding the public interest. The public has developed a great trust and faith in the integrity of the engineering profession and this serves as a powerful challenge to merit such confidence in the future. This demands not only the impartial and competent exercise of professional skills and self-imposed disciplines, but it also demands, at times, a declaration of unpalatable truths

In support of my position I have prepared the more detailed report which is presented in the following pages

Member, Board of Consulting Engineers
Alternative Routes, Feather River-Southern California Aqueduct

In discharging my professional obligations, as I see them, on one of the greatest engineering problems ever to confront an independent consulting engineer, I feel obligated to avail myself of the privilege granted to me by my distinguished colleagues on this board by recording my opinions and conclusions in greater detail I consider this my obligation in serving the public interest.

Status of the Board of Consulting Engineers

When this board was first appointed in January, 1958, there was general recognition that its members had been selected with exceptional prudence; the specialized qualifications of each member implied that all facets of the unprecedented problems in this project would receive adequate study, and that the collective judgments and conclusions which would evolve from the board's deliberations would represent the highest level of performance within the capabilities of the engineering profession Certainly, the public officials and the people of the State of California, as well as all the investors throughout the country who place their savings in California's undertakings, have a right to expect such professional performance Furthermore, public assurances have been given that such professional services are an intrinsic part of the basic planning at the current stage of this project

The comprehensive nature of the board's assignment and responsibilities are indicated in the terms of reference which the director addressed to the board on January 10, 1958, and which are reproduced in the later pages. These terms of reference not only enumerate 13 specific elements of the problem, which should receive the board's consideration, but also "any others you deem significant" This statement has placed on the board a major responsibility of determining how the resources of the engineering profession may be applied to best serve the interests of the people of the State of California during this critical stage of "molding" the total "conception" of a new project

During the frequent meetings and field trips of the board members, there was evidence of a high degree of mutual confidence as well as unanimity of judgment on the basic criteria which should be considered in developing the optimum plan for a water delivery system

It was generally assumed that during the current planning stage of this project, in which the board participated, all of the essential alternative studies would be made and that, through a process of direct comparison, the best solution would emerge so it could be acceptably understood by all concerned, at the same time, the less promising concepts could be eliminated through the evidence of conclusive analysis There was ample reason to expect that, with competent engineering planning procedures, such studies could be made within the available time

The board has examind a great mass of engineering data and reports Notwithstanding the fact that the board had indicated the need for certain additional studies which it considered essential before valid conclusions and recommendations could be reached, the requisite planning studies and financial analyses, unfortunately, were not placed at its disposal for adequate study before its services were terminated As a consequence, the board did not have the opportunity to present its independent views in time to serve as a reference during the period of legislative debate on this project Furthermore, by allowing the board's status to expire on June 30th, 1959, (State funds not being available beyond that date for continued services) the board has not been in a position to write the kind of concise and conclusive independent engineering report which is traditionally expected, and which responsible officials and the general public could study before voting on this project

Specialized Responsibilities

Within the scope of the unrestricted professional services which are commonly implied by the appointment of an independent Board of Consulting Engineers, two important issues have developed in areas which I regard as my field of professional specialization These relate to the technical and economic problems in the field of pumping and power recovery, and to the broader problems of financing and managing the project More specifically, in addition to some of the technical factors which have been examined, I regard the following related factors as significant in developing a soundly engineered concept for consideration by the interested citizen These are:

a Financial feasibility.

b. Relationship to other financing programs; total financing capacity

c Administrative responsibility for building and operating the project

d. Relationships with existing agencies in the field of water supply and power.

In view of the lack of essential planning information within the area of my specialized responsibilities, I was confronted with the choice either of giving my consent and participation to a board report on which serious limitations have been imposed, or of recording, to the best of my ability and in greater detail, my professional judgment and opinions, based on my two and one-half years of participation in the planning of this project.

After due consideration I have chosen to exercise the privilege of presenting this report The summary which follows is supported by a more detailed exposition in the later pages

Summary

1 The typical citizen is seldom conscious of the tremendous resources of skill and discipline which results in the delivery of safe drinking water to his home at low cost He has become mentally conditioned throughout his lifetime to give little or no heed to the problems of operating a water supply system, or to the problems of financing and building a major extension of additional water supply to meet the needs of a growing population. He simply places his faith and trust in the engineering profession and in the skills and disciplines which the professional engineer has vowed to apply to the best of his ability in safeguarding the public welfare The very fact that the individual citizen has this implicit faith and confidence in the integrity of the engineering profession, serves as a powerful challenge to every engineer to merit such faith and confidence in the future.

2 The Feather River-Southern California Aqueduct as proposed would be a project of unprecedented magnitude The planning of such a project within economic and financially sound principles is a tremendous responsibility, the significance of the combination of a new public organization and the unprecedented responsibilities with which it is confronted, must be kept in mind A seasoned organization with a high record of performance, if given an assignment of competently planning a project only one-tenth in magnitude of the one here under consideration, would find itself hard pressed to fulfill its responsibilities in a commendable manner Therefore, an adequate allowance of time for the planning period is a prerequisite A hasty and inadequate performance at the planning stage would lead to confusion, waste of money and a serious loss of time at a later stage.

3 Under our system of government the citizens will be called upon to exercise their privilege and franchise of deciding whether or not the project should be authorized The foremost questions in each one's mind are, of course "What will this cost me?" and "What will be the price of the water?" The development of the desired answers with the supporting evidence must, of necessity, be complete and understandable in all respects, not only to the local citizen, but also to the many citizens throughout the country who might be willing to invest their savings in the State of California and in the proposed project

4 As part of the basic planning of a major project it is essential to indicate the structure of a suitable organization or agency, which would be expected to administer such vast responsibilities Competent administrative capacity of a high order would be required, free from political pressures, and special qualifications would be a prerequisite particularly in the areas of financial responsibility as it applies to the investor, to the consumer, to the taxpayer, and to the State's credit position

5 In the course of developing the technical factors for this project during the past two years, the hydraulic capacity of the aqueduct, in terms of annual quantity of water delivered to Southern California, was increased somehow, and without satisfactory explanation, from 1,800,000 acre-feet to 3,499,000 acre-feet; the capacity of the aqueduct south of the Delta was raised to 8,000,000 acre-feet All planning of project facilities was stepped up to meet hypothetical conditions assumed to prevail in the year 2020, based on estimates that Southern California's population of 8,850,000 in 1958 would increase to 28,600,000 by the year 2020.

6 Instead of determining the most economical and financially feasible "first stage" which would meet the demands for water in the foreseeable future, with provisions for expansion as and when justified by future circumstances, the concept of "global" or "total planning" of a project to meet demands in the year 2020 has been introduced. I do not consider it feasible to make a sound appraisal of a project concept based on conditions which are presumed to materialize more than a half century from now.

7. On August 4, 1958, the board outlined its specifications of what it considered a suitable final report The board also made an evaluation of progress in the planning of the project and questioned the feasibility of completing the necessary investigations before July 1, 1959. However, on February 26, 1959, the department published a preliminary summary known as "Bulletin 78" which the board had declined to approve This report subsequently served as a basis for legislation enacted in June 1959, and it has thus become a document of historical importance

8 Engineering studies were directed to three alternative project concepts, designated as "System A," "System B" and "System C " All three systems have the common generalized objective of "bringing water from the north to the south" and of meeting all demands for water in Southern California to the year 2020 However, as described in the State's "Bulletin 78," these concepts do not include analyses of the optimum scheme of operation, and bear no relationship to a clearly defined facility as might be visualized in a railroad "system "

9 References to the Board of Consulting Engineers have been published with the implication that it has endorsed the work on "Bulletin 78 " For example, one of the department's annual reports states "the best engineering talent available from outside the State's service was brought in to work with the department engineers through a seven-man board of consultants."

10 Although the board pointed out in its letter of August 4, 1958, that the pumping and power recovery studies, as outlined, must be completed before any rational decision can be made as to the most feasible route, the department has chosen to designate "System B" as the "selected system" without having met the board's request for studies which it considered essential

11. Although an estimated figure of $1,807,000,000 has been indicated for the portion of the project (south of the Delta) designated "selected system B," little recognition has been given to the probability of cost increases during the coming decades, which in terms of current trends could readily increase the estimated cost of the project by 100 percent or more

12 The total public expenditures (which by implication are authorized if the currently proposed bond issue of 1 75 billion dollars is approved) are likely to be several times greater, since this does not cover the total program involved in delivering 8,000,000 acre-feet per year to the service areas south of the Delta

13 Financing of the project has been proposed by issuing general obligation bonds, with "the full faith and credit of the State of California pledged for the punctual payment of both principal and interest thereof " An examination of this proposal calls for a review of recent reports by legislative committees which contain such warnings as: "The existing rate of increase in the State's general obligation bond indebtedness is presently reaching problem proportions even without any bonds for water projects," and "It thus can be seen that the financial position of the State is not encouraging," and "In recapitulation, California in the 1959-60 fiscal year finds itself on the brink of one of its most serious fiscal crises " (For detailed references see later pages.)

14 As a means of holding the indicated cost of water at the terminal points to palatable levels, low interest rates have been assumed, and the estimated earnings have been spread out over a total payout period of 105 years "Cost Recovery Schedules" were submitted to the board at its meeting in Sacramento on April 24, 1959 It has been assumed that, to whatever extent 50-year bond issues reach their redemption date, without funds for such redemption being available, new bonds would be issued automatically until the payout for the entire project has been reached This overlooks the fact that 50 years from now the State's commitments for additional public facilities cannot be visualized as to type, magnitude or capital requirements It also ignores the harmful effect of such a policy on the marketability of all bonds for this project.

15 The estimated revenues are based on low water charges which make it impossible to absorb all the capital charges in less than 100 years. According to the "Cost Recovery Schedules," large operating deficits are shown to accrue as long as 75 years after initiation of construction Such deficits are indicated as being met by the questionable solution of raising additional capital, apparently by issuing more bonds. A major economic setback could result in incurring even greater deficits than have been assumed billion. The graphical charts in Appendix A indicate how the estimates of bonded indebtedness, due to the water program as proposed, would build up on top of the State's current indebtedness, depending upon the future policy of budget balancing with respect to all other state activities By 1990 the state debt would stand somewhere between 6 and 16 billion dollars.

16. As a result of these financing procedures, the debt status for the project near the end of the contemplated construction period in the year 2009 is shown to be $2 73 billion This corresponds to 50 percent more than the estimated $1 81 billion cost of constructing the aqueduct facilities south of the Delta Furthermore, additional bonds would be issued, according to the tabulations, after completion of the construction program, in order to meet further operating deficits and to provide for the redemption of the earlier bond issues as they mature. As a result, the "cumulative capital requirements" reach a figure of $4.23

17. The department's payout tables show capital requirements for the Aqueduct Project South of the Delta increasing until the year 2040. If this is the final year in which it is proposed to issue 50-year bonds, these would mature in the year 2090, or 130 years after the start of construction of the project With such continuous and overlapping bond commitments, the concept of committing water rights to correspond to the life of the bond issues would entail a commitment of such rights for a period of 130 years

18 By employing prices of water and revenue estimates based on present day concepts of the value of water to the citizen and, by relating these revenue estimates to project expenditures to be made in the distant future, subject to inflationary influences, it becomes quite impossible to apply competent judgment on which to forecast the repayment possibilities on bond issues The forecast of progressive growth in consumption of water (and in resulting revenues) have been based on the assumption that there will be no disturbing influences on the growth and general economy of the State during the 100-year period of payout. Such an assumption is outside of the range of competent judgment, and wholly unsupportable.

19. A proper correlation of financial studies would need to take account of the significant recommendation made in an engineering report to the State in 1955, which points out that the Oroville Reservoir Project can be deferred for a considerable period, and that a more economical pumping and power scheme (than the one given priority in Bulletin 78) can be developed through co-operation with the existing power systems.

20. For pumping the water over the Tehachapi Mountains, the department has chosen to give preference to an unprecedented scheme which would call for the building of special steam plants In contrast, the water could be delivered to Southern California at less cost, and at a great saving in capital investment, if the electric utilities were permitted to co-operate by supplying the pumping power, and by distributing the power recovered at the power plants This would also assure a higher degree of dependability of the power supply, particularly in emergencies.

21 No clear demonstration has been presented that a commitment on the part of the public for a bond issue of $1,750,000,000 is needed First of all, substantial opportunities exist for financing a major portion of the project by means of revenue bonds, it would be in keeping with sound financial planning to establish this on a realistic basis before contemplating the idea of burdening the taxpayer with a major obligation. Eventually it may become necessary to issue state obligation bonds on the order of $300,000,000 for certain elements of a well-defined first stage of the project, provided that the full potentialities of earnings and revenues have been identified, and provided that the requisite administrative structure has been established and is functioning within sound financial disciplines.

22 A serious defect in engineering analysis of the financing problems is implied in the sequence of published pronouncements regarding the size of the proposed bond issue, as reported in several numbers of a national engineering magazine In January 1959, the proposed bond issue was announced as $658,000,000. Three months later the bond issue was reported to be $960,000,000, and in May a proposal for a bond issue of $1,750,000,000 was reported. The inference of such a range of estimates is that the financial planning for the project has been developed without regard to the recognized professional disciplines

23 No conventional demonstration has been made of the financial feasibility or justification for the project, and no clearly engineered concept has been presented which may be considered as valid and in the public interest Any inference at this stage that the project has had the benefit of a complete engineering study and represents the best product of the engineering profession in which the public can repose its full confidence is, in my opinion, wholly unwarranted

24 The execution of a "global (or total) plan of development" under the procedures evidenced to date would result in such a concentration of responsibilities and authority as to violate the most elementary principles of sound engineering, as well as of good government and of public service

25 At this stage the overriding problem is to guard against the possibility of public officials and taxpayers, by a simple vote, adopting unlimited commitments for themselves and for future generations, without the opportunity of examining the alternatives Any implication that they should relinquish important rights and place them irrevocably into the hands of even the best talent which the engineering profession could offer, would not only be a reflection on the good sense of the general public, but would also constitute an exploitation of professional obligations.

DETAILED REVIEW

Water for Southern California

The past several years represent an important period in the study of water supplies in California Based on a long record of earlier studies and inventory of water resources, several fundamental facts have been established:

(1) A shortage of water is developing in Southern California which, at the present rate of growth in consumption, is likely to reach a critical stage by 1970-75 when the remainder of the currently available water resources in that region will have been fully developed

(2) The resources of fresh water which fall on the northern region of the State, and which are largely being wasted by drainage into the Pacific Ocean, offer an opportunity for diverting surplus waters to Southern California to meet local demands for the foreseeable future

(3) In view of the statewide nature of the problem, the 1957 Legislature has established a Department of Water Resources to examine the engineering and economic problems involved in conducting water from the north to the south, and to determine how such a development could be carried out to best serve the public interest

(4) "Water rights matters as they apply to the department's responsibilities are, of course, the major concern of the Water Rights staff members Acting under legislative directives (Section 10500, Water Code), the Department of Water Resources, in order to insure the orderly development of the State's water resources, has reserved approximately 90 percent of the present surplus waters on the major streams of the State for use in furtherance of general or co-ordinated plans for development of the State's water resources" (First Annual Report, Dept of W R 1956-57)

This is a major assignment and a tremendous responsibility, the significance of this combination of a new public organization and the unprecedented responsibilities with which it is confronted must be kept in mind A seasoned organization with a high record of performance, if given an assignment of competently planning a project only one-tenth in magnitude of the one here under consideration, would find itself hard pressed to fulfill its responsibilities in a commendable manner

Appointment of Board of Consulting Engineers

These facts, undoubtedly, influenced the Director of the Department of Water Resources during the latter months of 1957 to appoint an independent Board of Consulting Engineers This appointment was of historical importance in several respects·

1 The director indicated his determination to draw on the full resources of the engineering profession in developing the basic plans for the Feather River-Southern California Aqueduct along sound and economical lines

2 The board was assured of the requisite freedom and independence in the exercise of its responsibilities

3 The board accepted exceptionally great responsibilities in examining the merits of a project of unprecedented magnitude, and in committing its professional obligations of serving the public interest In view of the confidence generally accorded to the engineering profession, this demanded that the board discharge its obligations within the highest standards of the profession

Terms of Reference

On January 10, 1958, the Director of Water Resources addressed the following terms of reference to the board

"Under legislative directive this department is making a comprehensive investigation to determine the best system to deliver waters of the Feather River Project throughout that portion of California lying south of Latitude 35° 45'.

"We request that the Board of Consultants review these studies from time to time, and all other pertinent data and that you report to the Director, Department of Water Resources, your opinion as to which aqueduct system would be in the best interests of the State of California and of the potential users of that water in the southern portion of this State

"Within the limits of available funds, you are free to devote whatever time you find necessary The staff of this department will assist you in every way possible in your review of their studies If at any time further studies are found necessary or desirable, please so advise me so that arrangements may be made At your first meeting, we will advise you as to the funds that are available for the services of your board.

"Your review and report should include consideration of the following elements of the problem and any others you deem significant.

1 Cost of construction of each alternative system or variant

2 Time required for construction of each alternative system or variant

3 Special hazards that could affect construction costs or times for construction

4 Special hazards that could affect future operation of each system or variant.

5 Power and energy requirements and feasibility of recovery of power and energy.

6 Unit costs of transportation and delivery of water to each sub-area in excess of the cost of development and transportation of that water southerly to latitude 35° 45'

7 Prices that users of water for municipal and industrial purposes could be expected to pay for water delivered to each sub-area

8 Prices that users of water for irrigation use could be expected to pay for water delivered to each sub-area.

9. Growth in demand for supplemental water for domestic and industrial purposes and the sub-areas in which such demands will develop.

10. Growth in demand for supplemental water for irrigation use and the sub-areas in which such demands will develop

11 Regulatory storage required for economical operation and the time and place where such storage should be provided.

12 Integration of supplies of water of the Feather River Project with the supplies available from local sources, from the Colorado River and from other sources, for each sub-area, with particular reference to the quality of the water available from these sources and through the Feather River Aqueduct System and to operation of ground water basins

13. Proper points of delivery of Feather River Project water to the water supply systems of the local contracting agencies.

"It is respectfully requested that your board furnish me within 90 days subsequent to the first meeting of the board, your comments and advice on the studies which the staff of this department have made to date and the current and projected work programs."

Board Activities

Following its appointment, members of the board devoted themselves to an examination of the voluminous reports which have been developed during the past years, and to a review of current studies which were being carried out by the various engineering divisions of the Department of Water Resources.

The board held a total of nine formal meetings and forwarded its observations to the Director of Water Resources in the form of some 18 formal communications from the chairman or vice chairman, together with various letters from individual board members dealing with matters concerning their specialized areas of interest.

A significant step was taken by the board when it held public hearings in Los Angeles on May 12 and 13, 1958. At these meetings official representatives from the three power agencies, from the Metropolitan Water District, and from other interested agencies submitted their preliminary views for the board's consideration

In its formal communication of August 4, 1958, the board informed the director:

"The board is of the definite opinion that it is unlikely that it will be possible to complete the necessary investigations and prepare a final report to permit the selection of the most feasible route prior to July 1, 1959 At the same time, the board understands the obligation of the department to present a report to the Legislature at its session during the early part of 1959. It is therefore, recommended that an interim report be submitted to the Legislature giving a summary of progress to date and advising that the final report will be made available later in the year. This procedure would permit the completion of the pumping power and pumped storage studies as outlined and which, in our opinion, must be completed before any rational decision can be made as to the most feasible route."

In this letter, the board also stated that

"The final report submitted by the department should, in the board's opinion, represent the best the engineering profession can provide. It should be thorough, complete and defensible in all respects. The physical facilities as proposed and operating procedures should be sound from the standpoint of standards as applied by the many large water utilities in the State The pumping and power features should be thoroughly co-ordinated with the power facilities and the resulting financial analyses should reflect probable power costs and power sales at the various aqueduct facilities. In other words, when the final report is released, it should embody a complete practical plan of development from sources to the service areas. The facilities should be designed to supply both irrigation and municipal water to the designated service areas in accordance with the best practices and in complete co-ordination with the water and power utilities "

Preliminary Departmental Report

On February 12 and 13, 1959, the board met in Los Angeles for the purpose of reviewing a first draft of a proposed report which had been designated as "Bulletin No 78, Preliminary Summary Report on Investigation of Alternative Aqueduct Systems to Serve Southern California."

The meeting of the board had been called as part of the preparations for official publication of "Bulletin 78" at a public hearing on February 26 of the following week However, advance copies of the proposed bulletin were not available for examination during the board meetings, and the board adjourned without taking formal actions Nevertheless the public hearing was held on February 26, and subsequently the director informed the board that "the California Water Commission by formal resolution had approved the overall concept of 'Aqueduct System "B" ' (as presented in "Bulletin 78") for transport and delivery of water from Northern California to Southern California

Shortly after this public hearing the project became the subject of active legislative consideration On June 17, 1959, the Legislature passed a bill formalizing the project, and a proposal is to be submitted to the state electorate in November, 1960, in the form of a referendum on a bond issue of 1 75 billion dollars with which to finance the construction of a part of the project These events, in effect, have given "Bulletin 78" the status of a document of historical importance

Revised Terms of Reference

The department continued with the preparation of various studies corresponding to the board's terms of reference, and as had been requested from time to time by the board These studies were particularly concerned with analyses of financial feasibility of the project However, in April the director requested that the board's final report be limited to the following four facets of the problem·

(a) Determination of probable future water requirements.

(b) Determination of probable time when water from Northern California will be required

(c) Designation of areas to be served by the aqueduct to Southern California

(d) Selection of the most favorable aqueduct system

This request was confirmed in the director's letter of June 19, 1959, addressed to the members of the board

Although I recognize the need for dealing with the realities of currently available information and of accomplished facts, I feel obliged, nevertheless, to consider myself bound by the original terms of reference I have, therefore, sought to discharge my responsibilities as I regard them in relationship to the public interest, and in terms of a perspective from which I cannot depart.

Board Responsibilities

The Board of Consulting Engineers, in several respects, has been confronted with responsibilities of unprecedented importance On behalf of the engineering profession the board has had a duty similar to the obligation which the Supreme Court of the United States has in the judicial or legal area Originally the board was presented with the opportunity of developing a masterful report, based on an impartial analysis of all relevant factors, and of interpreting and translating a highly involved technical proposal of unprecedented magnitude into understandable language for the responsible citizen Certainly this project is of such importance that nothing less than the best should have come forth. However, instead of this, the time limit for the board's services was reached before it was in a position to present a conclusive report

Planning Concept at Issue

The basic issue is this· (1) Shall a project concept be developed in which the first stage is clearly defined but of limited scope, capable of supplying the amount of water needed in the foreseeable future, financed within the limits of current abilities and means, and capable of earning realistic revenues for repayment, and with the possibilities of expansion, as may be determined by some future decision of the citizens? Or (2), shall a concept be adopted of a "global" or "total project" of unprecedented size, which is aimed at some arbitrarily chosen objective more than a half century in the future, with the attendant inability to forecast ultimate costs, prices of water, growth of demand, repayment schedules, economic stability or depressions, and similar imponderables?

Notwithstanding the fact that the first concept represents the conventional and feasible approach, the currently adopted project is based on the second concept Such an open-ended program of public works would tax the imagination of even the most competent planning engineers, if they tried to define the broad spectrum of responsibilities which are implied in its execution At this stage the overriding problem is to guard against the possibility of public officials and taxpayers, by a simple vote, adopting unlimited commitments for themselves and for future generations, without the opportunity of examining the alternatives Any implication that they should relinquish important rights and place them irrevocably into the hands of even the best talent which the engineering profession could offer, would not only be a reflection on the good sense of the general public, but would also constitute an exploitation of professional obligations

Any inference, at this stage, that the project has had the benefit of a complete engineering study and represents the best product of the engineering profession, in which the public can repose its full confidence is, in my opinion, wholly unwarranted. The execution of a "global" or "total plan of development" under the procedures evidenced to date would result in such a concentration of responsibilities and authority as to violate the most elementary principles of sound engineering, as well as of good government and of public service

Financial Feasibility

A demonstration of "financial feasibility" of a project requires the determination of the most economical project concept in terms of a self-contained first stage, in terms of the estimated first cost, in terms of the estimated operating costs of the project, and in terms of the resulting revenues which may reasonably be expected Such investigations are a fundamental part of the basic planning for a new project; failure to develop them would constitute a failure in professional responsibilities.

The expression "financial feasibility," when correctly applied, is one of major importance; in simple terms it means that the project will pay for itself under conventional policies of operation, and that the bonds to finance the project are saleable However, in modern times considerable effort is being made to give this expression new definitions and interpretations which tend to undermine the entire process of project planning and financing The financial feasibility of a sound project is readily defined, provided all of the essential factors have been presented in a fair manner In examining an engineering report, it should be possible for any person of reasonable competence in the field of finance to satisfy himself regarding the validity of the claims of financial feasibility In view of the considerable abuse which is practiced in the use of the term "financial feasibility," it is important to recognize that other definitions of this expression deserve examination, some may be unsupportable or deliberately misleading

The demonstration of financial feasibility of a project, as presented in a sound engineering report, is essentially the same information which eventually appears in a prospectus at the time the bonds are offered for sale Potential investors have developed considerable confidence in honestly prepared prospectuses and it is, of course, of greatest importance that the financial picture for this California project be presented within the limits of such accepted practice This should have been defined in the present case for a practical first stage of development, and there is no reason for mystery or guesswork.

A study of the expected revenues from this project calls for estimating the price of water delivered to each of the various sub-areas in Southern California, as suggested in the original terms of reference. This, of necessity, requires consideration of the cost of bringing the water from Northern California to Avenal Gap, together with the cost of delivering the water southward from Avenal Gap and pumping it by the most economical means over the Tehachapi Mountains to a suitable terminal reservoir and into a primary distribution system

The opinion has been advanced that it is not feasible to estimate the earning capabilities of a project without having contractual commitments from the prospective consumers This, however, is not a valid claim By developing dependable market studies, the experienced engineer is capable of making fair appraisals and estimates (for a reasonable period ahead) of all elements of a project, including revenues from water supply and from electric power

The department submitted a series of "Cost Recovery Schedules," one for each of the eleven service areas south of the San Francisco Delta, to the board at its meeting in Sacramento on April 24, 1959 These schedules, or tabulations, were stated to represent "payout tables" for the project

The purposes of these financial analyses, as stated in the department's official report on page VII-1 of "Bulletin No 78," were to ascertain "(a) the financial feasibility, apart from considerations as to sources of capital investment funds, of constructing each system, (b) the portion of the total capital investment in each system attributal to delivering water to each service area, and (c) the unit cost of water delivered to various points on the systems " It should be noted that the analyses cover a period of 103 to 105 years

For each service area, the estimated "equivalent annual cost" per acre foot of water is shown on the bottom of the corresponding tabulation These figures (in round numbers) for all eleven service areas are also tabulated in Table 24, page VII-7, and on page VIII-13 of "Bulletin 78 "

Unfortunately, the studies of estimated costs and revenues and other elements of the financial picture, which were presented to the board up to the time of its final meeting, were not adequate to allow sound conclusions to be reached in compliance with the original terms of reference

The Benefit-Cost Ratio

For certain types of proposed projects attempts have been made in recent years to demonstrate their justification by means of computations which purport to show that the expected benefits from the project exceed the estimated cost of the project Such computations are referred to as "benefit-cost analyses," and are claimed to indicate the so-called "economic feasibility" of a project; they are generally being introduced on projects for which it is difficult, or impossible, to demonstrate "financial feasibility" by means of conventional "revenue-cost analyses"

The hazard in using evaluations of benefits, instead of revenues, for justifying a proposed project, lies in the arbitrary way in which "benefits" can be evaluated and manipulated This is a departure from the economic principles which are generally employed, and tends to weaken the protection of the public interest which is traditionally afforded by sound engineering planning A means for exploiting the planning procedures is thus opened

One of the principal conclusions (No 10) stated in "Bulletin 78" is·

"This system, designated Aqueduct System 'B' in this report, is feasible of construction and operation from an engineering standpoint; is economically justified, having a ratio of primary benefits produced to costs of 2 38; and is financially feasible from the standpoint of recovery of the incurred costs, from water revenues"

Unfortunately, no demonstration of "financial feasibility" in the traditional engineering manner has been presented. Furthermore, the "benefit-cost ratio" has little significance and no direct relationship to the conventional concept of "financial feasibility"

Financing Policy

Estimates of the revenues required to liquidate the bonded indebtedness were carried forward for a period of over 100 years, without regard to the conventional concept of "financial feasibility" based on staged development and a 50-year limit for debt repayment. Instead, it was assumed that bond issues which were limited to a 50-year life, but which had not been fully amortized, would be reissued at maturity for an additional period of up to 50 years, without regard to the financial market or the credit position of the State at that time. Furthermore, any operating deficits encountered during the 100-year period were assumed to be met by issuing more bonds. By inference also, any limited water rights would be committed for a similar period of over 100 years

The interest rate was assumed at 3½ percent, which cannot be considered a realistic basis. Although a low interest rate, below the prevailing market, helps to keep down the indicated price for delivered water, it also gives a misleadingly favorable picture of the "financial feasibility" of the project. This is equally true of the approach of considering only the "global" project, with water rates set so low that the resulting revenues would require the period for completing the bond repayments to be stretched out to more than 100 years

A serious defect in engineering analysis of the financing problems is implied in the sequence of published pronouncements regarding the size of the proposed bond issue, as reported in several numbers of a national engineering magazine In January 1959, the proposed bond issue was announced as $658,000,000. Three months later the bond issue was reported to be $960,000,000, and in May a proposal for a bond issue of $1,750,000,000 was reported The inference of such a range of estimates is that the financial planning for the project has been developed without regard to the recognized professional disciplines.

"Bulletin 78" indicates that instead of dealing with a limited project calling for the delivery of 3,880,000 acre-feet of water in the ultimate plan, it is actually proposed to build a project capable of delivering 8,000,000 acre-feet; this would involve expenditures which are likely to exceed six billion dollars.

The question of financing such a tremendous project calls for examination of the State's other general financing requirements, its bonding capacity in the coming years, the hazards to the State's credit position, and the problems of the various local agencies which are expected to finance distribution facilities and other structures to implement the main water delivery system.

The State's Financial Position

Various Legislative reports provide valuable references for examining the financial position of the State These have an important bearing on the problem of financing the aqueduct project by means of general obligation bonds In the Twelfth Partial Report by the Joint Committee on Water Problems of March 24, 1959, the committee reports on pages 12, 13, and 22:

(Page 12) "The present rate of bond sales will double the State's bonded indebtedness within approximately four years and thus bring it up among the top ranking states in bonded indebtedness per capita. The existing rate of increase in the State's general obligation bond indebtedness is presently reaching problem proportions even without any bonds for water projects."

(Page 13) "It thus can be seen that the financial position of the State is not encouraging Funds for water resources development are being sought at a time when the State has a serious general fund deficiency which does not finance its existing programs At the same time the State is already placing general obligation bonds on the market at a rate which requires careful management not to depress the market. As the latest program to be added by the State, water resources development stands in an unfavorable position with respect to funds"

(Page 22) "Great care in the authorization and timing of bond issues for water resources development, or for other purposes, will be required to preserve the State's credit position and avoid excessive interest costs In fact, careful management will be required to permit any water project construction program to be financed"

The "Report of the Joint Legislative Tax Committee" published by the Senate of the State of California in May, 1959, stated in its "Conclusions" (Page 40)

"In recapitulation, California in the 1959-60 fiscal year finds itself on the brink of one of its most serious fiscal crises Governmental functions are being carried out only at the cost of an ever widening gap between revenues and expenditures Available reserves are either dwindling or have been committed so as to leave no hope from this quarter for substantial budgetary aid beyond June, 1959 This dark financial outlook results primarily from the unparalleled population growth taken in conjunction with the necessity to match federal aid programs and the pressing need for a water program."

"Presently earmarked funds and continuing appropriations leave less than one-third of state expenditures under the direct budgetary control of the Legislature This situation derogates the traditional and historic role of the Legislature to determine the application of the citizens' tax moneys to the problems of State As the control of the budget function is removed from the people's elected representatives, the people are left without voice in the expenditures of their public moneys. The net effect is that when unanticipated financial demands arise, the Legislature, restricted by earmarked funds and the semifixed demands upon the available General Fund, has little alternative, on a short term basis, but to meet the emergency by expropriating reserves or increasing taxes Reserves are now near complete depletion and only the latter course will be available in the future."

Pumping and Power Recovery

The idea of conveying the water over the Tehachapi Mountains, to an elevation of some 3,500 feet above sea-level, and down on the southern slope, is a valid concept, provided the most economical system of pumping and power recovery is employed The aqueduct section known as the "Tehachapi Crossing" will represent the largest investment along the route of the aqueduct, and the choice of pumping and generating equipment for this section, with related operating procedures, requires particularly careful engineering study

At the outset, five alternative schemes of pumping and power recovery were suggested for study. Some, obviously, had more merit than others, but it is quite feasible, for those skilled in the art, to make the requisite technical and financial analyses of the various alternatives within the available time, and to develop acceptable demonstrations of the relative merits of such alternatives, as well as of the one scheme which is superior to the others Such an analytical process has the advantage of letting the evidence speak for itself and thereby removing any implications of personal or partisan bias

Although my professional experiences and background in this specialized field have given me a level of judgment on which the outcome of such comparative studies could be predicted with reasonable accuracy, I considered it presumptuous to suggest that my judgment be accepted solely on faith and confidence I preferred to rely on the outcome of the board's specifications for carrying out such studies If these specifications had been respected, I am confident that it would have resulted in producing conclusive evidence, to the satisfaction of all concerned, regarding the best means for conveying the water over the mountain range.

Furthermore, it should be noted that, in an engineering report made for the State in 1955, this problem was examined with considerable care The most obvious technical solution, namely, a pumping scheme utilizing off-peak electrical energy from the utility systems, combined with on-peak generation of energy in the power recovery plants on the south side of the mountains, and return of the resulting energy to the utility systems, was shown to offer several important advantages. Firstly, the net cost of the energy required for conveying the water across the mountain range can be reduced substantially below the cost involved in other alternatives; and secondly, this, in turn, contributes to a lower cost for the delivered water Although some increase in the size and cost of the water passageways is required in the ultimate stage for such intermittent operation, together with other provisions to assure maximum dependability of operation for such an interchange of electrical energy, subsequent studies during the past two years have demonstrated the feasibility of incorporating such provisions without losing the advantages previously mentioned. In the course of these studies the managements of the utility systems have displayed a highly co-operative attitude in seeking a solution which will best serve the public interest.

It is difficult to understand why a scheme, with the fundamental advantages and economies as forecast in the engineering report of 1955, has been displaced by a new proposal which involves a questionable concept of pumping, without acceptable precedent, together with the idea of the State building its own steam boiler plants

A plan for taking advantage of the tremendous resources of power supply from the California utility systems would contribute not only to a reduction in the cost of water delivery, but also to a reduction in capital costs by eliminating the construction of special steam facilities Furthermore, a supply of power from the existing utility systems has considerably greater dependability, since a great diversity of power sources would be available, along with the organizational resources, with which to meet any emergency. To whatever extent such a co-operative system of operation contributes to the reduction in the cost of delivery of water, and to greater reliability of service, the utility systems should be given the opportunity to participate in the program. However, contrary to this, the economic potentialities in this respect have not been given full consideration in "Bulletin 78."

An adequate solution of the "Tehachapi Crossing" problem, in terms of the best technical and operating features for pumping and power recovery, and in terms of optimum economies and financial feasibility, was called for by the board in its letter of August 4, 1958 These studies were considered by the board as a prerequisite "before any rational decisions can be made as to the most feasible route."

Administrative Responsibilities

A very important factor in developing a new project concept is the organizational plan for managing the financing and construction of the project as well as its ultimate operation This has a direct bearing on the ultimate cost of delivered water to the service areas A number of large public agencies in various parts of the United States provide a pattern of competent administration and operation of similar projects. Through a long-standing record of good performance and service, substantially free of political controls, such agencies have demonstrated their capabilities and sense of responsibility to the public as well as to the investors

Although this question of a most suitable type of administrative agency received limited consideration for the present project, it appears to be of such basic importance that its further examination should be given highest priority.

APPENDIX "A"

FORECAST OF BONDED INDEBTEDNESS
(Due to California Water Plan)
State of California

In order to illustrate the impact which the currently proposed water plan would have on the State's financial position, the relevant data have been assembled and are presented graphically in Charts No. 1 to 4 (It should be noted that Charts Nos. 3 and 4 are hypothetical studies, without regard to the probability of future modifications in financing policies Their purpose is to show the implications of current proposals for financing the water plan.)

Chart 1. Annual Tax Collections and Borrowings

ANNUAL TAX COLLECTIONS
and

and 1958-59 Annual tax collections have increased from less than 0.5 to more than 2 0 billion dollars in the past 14 years However, since 1946 tax collections have been insufficient to meet annual obligations The general obligation bonds which have been issued each year to obtain the additional funds required to meet financial committments are shown by the shaded area, while the upper line shows the annual financial commitments

Before 1945 a policy of balancing budgets by means of tax collections had been in effect, in fact, the total bonded debt was reduced by 40 percent between 1940 and 1945 Beginning in 1946, this trend was reversed, with general obligation bonds being sold each year in increasing amounts At present, the rate of borrowing through the sale of general obligation bonds is $310,000,000 per year.

According to a United States Department of Commerce bulletin of March 31, 1959, the State of California borrowed more money in 1958 than did any other state in the Union, namely, $337 million In round figures this amounted to more than twice the borrowing of the next-highest state, New York, four and one-half times that of each of the next three highest states, Pennsylvania, Illinois, and Texas, and nearly 12 times that of the State of Michigan

Chart 2. Trends of Bonded Indebtedness, Population and Per Capita Bonded Indebtedness

The growth in debt due to borrowing by issuing general obligation bonds is shown by the line AB, "Cumulative Bonded Indebtedness" From 1945 to 1959, the debt has increased, in round figures, from $100 million to $1,700 million, or to 17 times the 1945 figure By comparison, the relative rate of growth in California's population, which is generally considered as spectacular, is shown by the lower dotted line. From 1945 to 1959 the population has increased from 8 5 million to 15 3 million, or to 1 8 times the 1945 figure

In other words, since 1945, the bonded debt has increased at a considerably greater rate than the population This is illustrated by the middle line, "Per Capita Bonded Indebtedness" which shows that by 1959 the per capita debt had increased to a point 9 4 times the 1945 figure

In this connection Mr Robert Harkness, Chief of the State's Budget Division, Department of Finance, stated on January 29, 1958 "The present rate of bond issues will double the State's bonded indebtedness within approximately four years and thus bring it up among the top ranking states in bonded indebtedness per capita" He also pointed out that "The existing rate of increase in the State's general obligation bond indebtedness is presently reaching problem proportions even without any bonds for water projects"

The statement by the Los Angeles Panel of Financiers on November 13, 1957, is also significant "* * * The big supply of State of California general obligation bonds with large and frequent offerings has pushed up the interest rate This has also increased interest costs on bonds of California cities and districts Some investors have their portfolios pretty full of State of California bonds, and they are loath to buy more except at liberal interest rates. Investors generally like diversity in their bond portfolios. A large supply of bonds does affect the market and the interest rate." (See Subcommittee Report on Policies for Water Projects, Joint Committee on Water Problems, March 24, 1958, page 13.)

ligation bonds would be required except for the financing of the proposed Water Plan This would require an increase in annual taxes of about $310,000,000.

The line AB from Chart 2 is reproduced in the lower left of Chart 3 to show bonded indebtedness since 1945 The bonded debt is expected to reach $2 02 billion in 1960. The line BC represents the assumption of no increase in debt after 1960 for financing of state programs other than the Water Plan

New issues of general obligation bonds which would be required to finance the San Joaquin-Southern California Aqueduct south of the Delta are represented by the line BD These bond issues would cover capital costs of construction "plus operating deficits." (Note: Data for this part of the Water Plan were taken from 11 "Cost Recovery Schedules" or financing analyses of Aqueduct System "B," which were presented to the Board of Consulting Engineers in Sacramento on April 24, 1959. Assumed costs per acre-foot of delivered water, as used in these tables, are reproduced to the nearest dollar on pages VII-7 and VIII-13 of "Bulletin 78", these unit costs of water apparently served as the basis for the department's estimates of future water demands and deliveries. Thus, on page VIII-14 it is stated "Since water deliveries from the aqueduct system were adjusted to the rates of economic demand for water that will occur at the foregoing costs, and since full recovery of invested capital with interest was achieved from water revenues over the postulated period of 50 years for each stage of aqueduct construction, the aqueduct system from this standpoint is considered financially feasible ")

Still more bond issues, represented by the increase in debt between curves BD and BE, would be required to finance construction of the northern storage and diversion facilities which are required to augment the supply of water for the aqueduct (Data for this part of the Water Plan were obtained from the brochure, "Water—Today and Tomorrow" published by the Department of Water Resources in 1959)

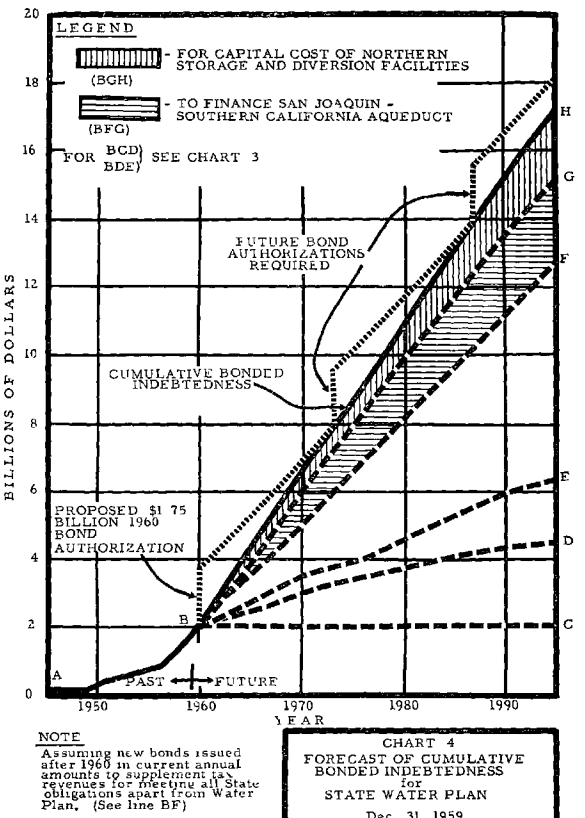

These various bond issues would increase the bonded indebtedness, in round figures, from $2 billion in 1960 to $6 billion in 1990 It is to be noted that during the next 30 years three water bond issues, of $1.75 billion each, would be required to finance the water program as proposed in the references cited above

(Based on assumption that new bonds would be issued after 1960 in current annual amounts to supplement tax collections for meeting various state obligations in addition to the Water Plan)

In the lower portion of Chart 4 (to a compressed scale) the curves AB, BC, BD, and BE which were presented in Chart 3 are reproduced for comparative purposes In the upper portion of Chart 4, the effect of continuing the current policy of borrowing is projected into the future.

In this case, it is assumed that issuance of general obligation bonds at the present rate of $310 million per year would be required in the future for state obligations other than the water plan. This would result in a total debt amounting to $11 3 billion in 1990, as indicated by

Assuming new bonds issued after 1960 in current annual amounts to supplement tax revenues for meeting all State obligations apart from Water Plan. (See line BF)

FORECAST OF CUMULATIVE BONDED INDEBTEDNESS for STATE WATER PLAN

the line BF. Above this would be superimposed the borrowing necessary to finance the Water Plan as described for Chart 3, which would bring the total bonded indebtedness to the amounts indicated by the line BH. The combined result would be to increase the State's bonded indebtedness, in round figures, from $2 billion in 1960 to over $15 billion in 1990.

PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker Brown, the following prayer was offered by Rev. Robert S. Romeis, of St. John's Lutheran Church of Sacramento:

Almighty God, The Creator and Sustainer of All Men Who Dwell Upon the Face of the Earth; Forgive us our pride in believing that we can manage life without Thy help; forgive our folly in thinking that we know all the answers when we haven't even understood all the questions; forgive our unfaithfulness as we again and again fail to practice what we profess. Cleanse our hearts, sharpen our minds, stiffen our wills, so that in facing the grave decisions which stand before us we may do that which is honest, considerate, just, merciful and pleasing in Thy sight, through Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Lord.—AMEN

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was presented by the Speaker, and ordered printed in the Journal

SAN FRANCISCO, February 27, 1960

Hon Ralph Brown, Speaker of Assembly
State Legislature, Sacramento, California

DEAR MR BROWN At a meeting of the Executive Board of the San Francisco Council of Women's Clubs, held on Friday, February 26, a report on juvenile courts was given by the committee, headed by the Council President, Mrs Alfred B Edwards, who attended a conference with the President of the National Council of Juvenile Court Judges, Judge G Bowdon Hunt of Bartow, Florida, and Past President, Judge Walter Scott Criswell of Jacksonville, Florida

The conference was held at the San Francisco Youth Guidance Center on Wednesday, February 24, and presided over by San Francisco Juvenile Court Judge Melvyn I Cronin A group of San Francisco judges and clubwomen were educated as to what the National Council of Juvenile Court Judges stand for and also learned that juvenile courts were created to deal with the problems of Youth This court is the newest of our judicial system and most juvenile court judges embark upon their judicial duties without the benefit of specialized formal education and little practical experience Why? Because law schools have not incorporated juvenile court law and procedure in their curriculum and most attorneys do not practice in juvenile court There are no textbooks on the subject, no law courses, no reference books, therefore, the National Council of Juvenile Court Judges attempts to be school and experience for the juvenile court judges

After hearing the report on this grave problem the Executive Board of the San Francisco Council of Women's Clubs went on record

"to exert its efforts to the end that law colleges in California shall for the first time in history include in their curricula, courses in Juvenile Court procedure, so that the welfare of our youth may be given widest understanding and help"

The San Francisco Council of Women's Clubs appeals to you, Mr Brown, to bring this suggestion to the attention of the Assembly, State Legislature, for consideration

Very truly yours,

MRS CECIL L COOLEY, Corresponding Secretary
San Francisco Council of Women's Clubs

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Messrs Mulford and Luckel:

Relative to congratulating Rear Admiral Richard S. Andrews

WHEREAS, The Members of the Assembly of the State of California have learned of the retirement, on November 1, 1959, after more than 35 years of exemplary service, of one of the most distinguished and gallant officers of the United States Navy, Rear Admiral Richard S Andrews, and

WHEREAS, Admiral Andrews, who was commended for heroism in actual combat, has been awarded during his illustrious career, in addition to numerous campaign medals, the Bronze Star Medal with Combat "V," the letters of commendation with Combat "V" and three stars, the Purple Heart, and the Order of Naval Merit from the Brazilian Government; and

WHEREAS, The son of Frank E and Goldia Stottko Andrews, Admiral Andrews was born at Silver City, New Mexico, on July 7, 1907. PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker Brown, the following prayer was offered by Rev. Robert S. Romeis of St John's Lutheran Church of Sacramento.

O God of Mercy, Whose only-begotten Son prayed for those who drove nails into His hands and feet, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do," grant us forgiveness for our failure to heed the voice of Thy love Help us to know that there is no honor in being able to evade the making of decisions, but that the only honor worth while is the honor of standing firmly upon the principles of true justice and true mercy which Thou hast made known Make us realize that laws do not make men good, but only men who are right with Thee can enact good legislation Give us grace to see ourselves in all our weakness, prejudice, and our pride, so that in thus acknowledging our sins, and seeking Thy pardon, we may with cleansed consciences be worthy to lead the people of this State forward on the road of righteousness through Thy Son, Jesus Christ our Lord, who liveth and reigneth with Thee and the Holy Ghost, one God, world without end—AMEN

Report by Department of Finance on Surplus State-owned Lands

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE
STATE CAPITOL, SACRAMENTO, February 12, 1960

Hon Glenn M Anderson
President of the Senate
Hon Ralph M Brown
Speaker of the Assembly

GENTLEMEN Pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 1573, Statutes of 1951, the Department of Finance submits herewith its annual report to the Legislature on surplus state-owned lands.

On November 2, 1959, the Department of Finance sent instructions to all land-holding state agencies under the subject "Annual Inventory and Report of Excessive State Lands" These instructions read in part as follows

"Government Code Section 11011 requires all state agencies to submit an annual report of lands that are in excess of foreseeable needs

"Each agency should make a thorough review of the state lands under its jurisdiction and submit a written statement that all lands owned by the agency have been checked The statement should also list those lands that are excess, or should state that there are no excess lands"

In response to the above, seven parcels comprising approximately 609 acres have been submitted by various agencies as being surplus to their foreseeable needs The salable properties have an estimated value of $1,380,000 and are described in detail in the body of this report It is recommended that legislation to sell, exchange, or otherwise dispose of these parcels be enacted at the 1960 Session The Department of Finance has caused a Senate bill to be introduced for this purpose

Since the beginning of the surplus property program established by Chapter 1573, the Department of Finance has sold approximately 2,020 acres of property under specific legislative authority and the property returned to the local tax rolls, with the exception of a few parcels that were sold to property tax-exempt agencies, such as local municipalities The total revenue received by the State as a result of these sales has amounted to $2,332,510 Supplement "A" to this report described in detail those properties disposed of during the period 1958-59, for a total consideration of $171,420

Presently held as surplus by the Department of Finance but not yet sold are properties valued at approximately $7,550,000. The current status of these lands is shown in Supplement "B" of this report.

Yours very truly,

JOHN E. CARR, Director of Finance

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Mr. Kilpatrick was granted unanimous consent that the following letter of transmittal and Special Report of the Judicial Council to the Legislature Concerning Criminal Procedure During Periods of Disaster be ordered printed in the Journal; and that 500 copies of the report and letter of transmittal be ordered printed as a separate document.

Hon Ralph M Brown
Speaker of the Assembly

DEAR MR SPEAKER I enclose herewith a copy of the Special Report of the Judicial Council to the Legislature on Criminal Procedure During Periods of Disaster, made pursuant to Assembly Concurrent Resolution No 66 of the 1959 Session The letter from the Judicial Council transmitting this report appears on page 138 of the Assembly Journal for February 29, 1960 (Budget Session), but the report itself is not printed in the Journal.

Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 66 which requested this study was authored by members of the Subcommittee on Impact of Enemy Attack on Economy and Constitutional Government of the State of California, who felt it was vital that a survey be made of legislation needed to provide for a system of criminal procedure in the courts of California during periods of disaster which would follow an enemy attack

The report of the Judicial Council is itself evidence of the careful work done by that agency, covering, among other vital matters, statutes of limitation, time for trial, venue and jurisdiction, jury trials, habeas corpus, rights of accused persons, time for procedural steps on appeal and custody of prisoners. It also covers court records and facilities and personnel

As chairman of the subcommittee which asked for the study, I feel it merits the attention of every member and of the public generally I therefore ask that it be printed in full in the Journal, and that 500 copies be printed as a separate document

Very truly yours,

VERNON KILPATRICK

LEGISLATIVE REQUEST FOR STUDY
(A C R. No 66 of 1959; Res. Ch. 187)

The Legislature at its 1959 Regular Session requested the Judicial Council to submit this report The resolution of the Legislature reads

WHEREAS, California's long coastline exposes it to attack by missiles launched from submarines, and a few well-placed hydrogen bombs carried by intercontinental ballistic missiles could create havoc and utter confusion, and

WHEREAS, Split-second disaster could arise in California due to these ever-increasing destructive forces created by man, and

WHEREAS, To provide a system of criminal procedure in the courts during periods of disaster is an immediate need that should be provided for and resolved by the Legislature of the State of California, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, the Senate thereof concurring, That the Judicial Council is requested to survey the area of legislation which is necessary to provide for a system of criminal procedure in the courts of California during periods of disaster such as would follow an enemy attack; that the Judicial Council is requested to seek the co-operation and recommendations of the state and local bar associations, and that the Judicial Council's report and recommendations as to basic legislation necessary in this field be submitted to the Legislature not later than February 1, 1960, so that legislative action may be taken as early as possible thereafter; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly is directed to transmit a suitably prepared copy of this resolution to the Chief Justice of the California Supreme Court

sary in this field" (Assembly Concurrent Resolution No 66), the council herewith presents its report

A. Introduction

Assembly Concurrent Resolution No 66 requesting the Judicial Council to survey the area of legislation necessary "to provide for a system of criminal procedure in the courts of California during periods of disaster such as would follow an enemy attack" is closely related to recent legislative enactments designed to assure "a continuity of leadership, both legal and actual," in the event of a nuclear attack[1] These laws have two major goals [2] (1) discouragement of potential aggressors by creating a high probability that our governmental institutions will be preserved despite an attack of great destructiveness; (2) avoidance of the imposition of martial law[3] by establishing public confidence in the stability of civilian institutions under disaster conditions

B. Scope and Method of Survey

The Judicial Council through its chairman appointed a committee of three of its members to study the subject matter of the resolution. The co-operation and recommendations of the state and local bar associations were sought Specific suggestions were requested by the Chairman of the Judicial Council from officials, agencies and organizations concerned with criminal procedure throughout the State An analysis of problems pertaining to criminal procedure during periods of disaster, as well as a bibliography, was prepared by the council staff

The council's committee concluded that any system of criminal procedure established to safeguard individual rights and adequately meet the special problems likely to result from a large scale enemy attack on this country must provide for necessary flexibility.[4] Recent statements by military experts and civilian defense officials emphasize the

[4] Admiral A G Cook, U S N (Ret), a director of San Francisco Disaster Council and Corps, and a member of the Committee on Civil Defense and Disaster, League of California Cities, replied as follows to the Judicial Council's inquiry concerning a system of criminal procedure for periods of disaster "We believe that a simple, clear, flexible plan for criminal procedure which shows responsibilities and provides for operating with a minimum of facilities and personnel, following as closely as practicable normal judicial procedure, with ample provision for the rights of the individual, offers the best chance for successful operation under disaster conditions"

And, see statements of Edward L Keenan, Deputy Assistant Director for Manpower, Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, and Captain G W Jewett, U S N, Assistant Chief of Staff for Operations of Twelfth Naval District at Emergency Manpower Conference in San Francisco December 8, 9 and 10, 1959, as to need for flexibility in planning to meet conditions following nuclear attack, reported in San Francisco Chronicle, p 8, December 10, 1959 devastating effects of the use of nuclear weapons They point out that such an enemy attack would result in the destruction of sizeable areas, which could not be reconstructed for considerable periods of time because of radioactive contamination [5] Our existing court system, including procedures for administration of criminal justice, does not allow for the flexibility needed during this type of catastrophe in such matters as venue, jurisdiction, and time for trial of criminal actions Nor is there any provision made for the naming of acting judges to replace those killed, missing, or disabled until such time as the Governor has an opportunity to consider appointment of their successors.

C. Areas in Which Legislative Changes May Be Needed

Changes in the administration of criminal justice which may be needed in the event of a disaster fall within three general areas: procedural matters, court personnel, and records and court facilities

1. Procedural Matters

Difficult problems in criminal procedure would arise during a disaster period

a. Statutes of Limitation

It has been suggested that statutes of limitation be tolled during the post-disaster period, but this seems unnecessary in California since the statute of limitation for felonies is three years or longer,[6] and for misdemeanors one year [7] In both cases periods when the accused is outside the State are excluded [8]

b. Time for Trial

The Penal Code [9] provides that an action must be dismissed if an information is not filed within 15 days after a person has been held to answer, or in the superior court if the defendant is not brought to trial within 60 days after the finding of the indictment or the filing of the information An action based on a misdemeanor charge must be dismissed if the defendant is not brought to trial 30 days after he has been arrested and brought within the jurisdiction of the court. Since these time periods are likely to be too short in the event of a large scale enemy attack, it would be desirable to suspend their operation or provide for a more flexible standard [10]

[5] Mr Harold D Robinson, Director, California Disaster Office, in response to an inquiry by the Judicial Council concerning the effect of a nuclear attack stated "Such an enemy attack would result in widespread destruction and radioactive contamination of the immediate impact area for a considerable period as well as less contamination in a much larger contiguous area for at least a week' And, see article "What if San Francisco Is Bombed'", San Francisco News-Call Bulletin, December 12, 1959, prepared in consultation with Admiral A G Cook, U S N (Ret), Director of San Francisco Disaster Council and Corps, and his assistant, Thomas J Farrell, and based on the Greater St Louis Citizens' Committee for Nuclear Information, Vol II, No 7, St Louis, Mo, Sept 1959, reprinted Dec 1959 See also the Holifield Subcommittee Hearings on Radiation of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy, June 1959 For residual effects of nuclear radiation and fallout, see "The Effects of Nuclear Weapons," Glasstone, Editor, published by the United States Atomic Energy Commission, June 1957, Ch IX, pp 390-445

c. Venue and Jurisdiction

With one minor exception there is no constitutional venue provision for criminal actions in California [11] The Penal Code provides the territorial limits of the courts to try criminal cases [12] "Jurisdictional territory" is defined as "in the case of a superior court . the county in which such court sits" [13] Municipal courts have territorial jurisdiction of misdemeanors where the offense charged was committed within the county in which the court is established [14] Justice courts have jurisdiction of certain misdemeanors where the offenses charged were committed within the county in which the court is established [15] and exclusive jurisdiction in cases involving violation of city or town ordinances within the districts for which such courts are established Amendments to these Penal Code sections would be advisable so that offenses committed during the emergency within a county which becomes uninhabitable might be tried in some other competent court Such amendments should apply both to persons awaiting trial at the time of the enemy attack and to those committing offenses after the attack [16]

d. Jury Trials

Although the right of every person accused of a crime to a jury trial is secured by the California Constitution,[17] in a period of disaster increased criminality and scarce manpower might cause long delays if jury trials were demanded However, at this time the Judicial Council is not prepared to recommend any specific changes in the jury system during periods of disaster [18]

[10] The Governor declared a holiday each day after the San Francisco earthquake and fire until the Legislature met and passed legislation extending the statutes of limitation and providing remedies for destroyed records Crotty, "The Administration of Justice and the A-Bomb," 37 A B A J 893 (1951)
Members of the California Jury Commissioners Association suggested that time for trials be extended by at least 30 additional days Certain public defenders thought that despite the likelihood of delay and the fact that relaxing time requirements encourages dilatory action of authorities causing innocent persons unjust embarrassment, the public interest justifies at least a modest delay

[11] People v Richardson, 138 Cal App 404, 409 (1934), an indictment for a libelous newspaper publication must be tried in the county where the paper is published or in the county where the libeled person resides but the place of trial may be changed for good cause Cal Const, Art I, Sec 9

[12] Pen Code Sec 777 provides that " except as otherwise provided by law the jurisdiction of every public offense is in any competent court within the jurisdictional territory of which it is committed"

[15] Cal Pen Code § 1125

[16] Some members of the California Jury Commissioners Association and the Commissioner of the California Highway Patrol suggested a provision extending venue and jurisdiction to the nearest existing or most available court

[18] Some members of the California Jury Commissioners Association suggested the following changes concerning jury trials and jury commissioners (1) suspending competency and exemption provisions for past and current services of jurors (See C C P, Secs 199 and 200), (2) reducing the number of jurors to six and reducing the number of allowed peremptory challenges to five, (3) statutory authority allowing jurors to recess during deliberations so they may return to their homes at night, (4) jury commissioners (or in courts lacking such officers, or where such officer is unable to act, the clerk of the court) should be delegated the authority (now found in C C P, Secs 226 and 227) to direct the sheriff, marshal), or an elisor to summon sufficient persons to complete the immediate panels whenever no judge is present or able to act A traveling judge might be available to issue such an order in advance Some other qualified officer should be authorized to issue an emergency order for conscription of sufficient jurors, and (5) designation of a jury commissioner or liaison officer between the military and judiciary in matters concerning courts and jurors
The president of the Public Defender and Legal Aid Association of California reported that it was the opinion of some public defenders that jurisdictional changes should provide relief so far as the group from which the venire is to be chosen but considering the present percentage of appearance of persons summoned for jury duty, it seems unlikely that a general panel could always be obtained during a disaster

e. Habeas Corpus

The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus is not absolutely inviolable in California [19] If it is to be suspended after an enemy attack,[20] amendment of the Constitution would appear to be necessary

f. Rights of the Accused

"In criminal prosecutions, in any court whatever, the party accused shall have the right to a speedy and public trial, to have the process of the court to compel the attendance of witnesses in his behalf, and to appear and defend, in person and with counsel" [21] The question of what is a "speedy trial" depends on the "circumstances of each case bearing on the factors of good cause and the reasonable exercise of discretion in allowing postponements" [22] Postponement because of disaster conditions following an enemy attack would appear to provide good cause for delay in bringing accused persons to trial

The right of the defendant to compel attendance of witnesses may cause trials to be delayed in time of disaster if persons are subpoenaed who may be indispensable to emergency duties or whose movement between areas may be prohibited However, it would be difficult to satisfy due process of law requirements without the power of the defendant to compel witnesses to testify [23]

The time limit on taking an arrested person before a magistrate [24] is probably too inflexible for emergency conditions and some provision for delayed arraignment might be desirable Penal Code Section 1049 provides that a defendant is entitled to five days after the entry of his plea to prepare for trial Although this is a short period, an even shorter period might be needed if there is widespread disobedience of civil defense regulations

g. Time for Procedural Steps on Appeal

This area is subject to the rule-making power of the Judicial Council and covered by the Rules on Appeal and the Rules on Appeal to the Superior Court Many of these rules, such as time for filing notice of appeal, appeal from an order denying a new trial, time for preparation of the reporter's transcript, time for filing briefs, and time in which to petition the Supreme Court for a hearing, could be revised to allow for extensions during enemy attack

[19] Cal Const, Art I, Sec 5 provides that "The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless, when in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require its suspension" (A bombing attack alone might or might not be considered an "invasion")

[20] Fairman does not believe it would be necessary to suspend the writ ("Government Under Law in Time of Crisis" in Government Under Law, pp 285-286) On the other hand the California Highway Patrol Commissioner foresees a problem in criminal procedure concerning "uncertainty of ability to allow for due process resulting in an exercise of habeas corpus writs to defeat enforcement" Such uncertainty would exist when the officer witnessing the violation is not immediately available, or a jury cannot be impaneled, or an attorney is demanded by defendant but is not available

[22] In re Lopez 39 Cal 2d 118, 120 (1952), and see People v Crittenden, 93 C A 2d Supp 871 (1949)

[23] Some public defenders suggest that necessary delays be allowed, and if the right to be represented by counsel interferes with civil defense, the defendant's right may be preserved by postponement until counsel is available They would also preserve the defendant's right to adequate representation and suggest that Government Code sections pertaining to public defenders permit them to be available to some larger class of persons or, should necessity arise, to all persons charged with crimes

[24] Cal Pen Code § 825 provides that this be done "without unnecessary delay, and, in any event, within two days after his arrest, excluding Sundays and holidays"

h. Custody of Prisoners

During a period of disaster serious problems will arise in maintaining proper custody of prisoners in their movements between jails, reception centers, prisons and road camps Consideration should be given to the need for amendment of Penal Code provisions governing custody of prisoners in order that both the safety of the prisoners and of the public will be assured [25]

2. Records and Court Facilities

Certain court records are indispensable to criminal proceedings, such as the indictment or information, the judgment, the record of past convictions, and the record of the preliminary hearing There is now no mandatory provision for duplication and deposit of these records A bill requiring mandatory duplication of some of these records was introduced at the 1959 Session of the Legislature [26] but did not pass [27]

Inadequate courtroom facilities might deprive a defendant of his constitutional right to a fair trial [28] Since court facilities are now strained in many areas, disaster conditions would require utilization of new space for court proceedings The Government Code [29] provides that it is the board of supervisors' duty to provide space for the superior, municipal, and justice courts of the county If suitable facilities are not provided, the court directs the sheriff of the county to provide them Each court or county could be required to survey sites for alternative courtrooms within its jurisdiction

[25] The president of the Public Defender and Legal Aid Association reported that some public defenders think that some sentenced prisoners should be released on parole or on their own recognizance or at least be made available for community service during a disaster period The Commissioner of the California Highway Patrol suggested that confinement be allowed in either the place nearest or most accessible to the place of arrest since post attack operations would involve destroyed facilities, including jails in the attack area Section 4007 of the Penal Code provides for this contingency but is narrow in its procedure for designating which place of confinement shall be used

The Director of the Youth Authority thinks it might be advisable to provide for legal placement of more dangerous inmates in custody in an adjoining state The Director of Corrections observed that while county prisoners may now be delivered to any California state prison by a sheriff for safekeeping, removal in accordance with Penal Code Section 4007 can only be ordered by the superior court of the county from which the prisoner is delivered He suggested that legislation might be considered providing that the superior court of the county in which the prison is located assume jurisdiction in such cases during the emergency with action for removal of prisoners to be initiated by the Department of Corrections or the sending sheriff Some public defenders expressed the opinion that similar changes would be needed The Director of Corrections further suggested providing for alternate notice methods for designation of reception centers for prisoners convicted of felonies (under Penal Code Section 1202a notice by registered mail is required)

[27] The Director of the Department of Motor Vehicles stated that identification of motor vehicles would be important after an enemy attack and recommended budgetary provision for a supplemental registration record system to be stored in a remote area

The Attorney General pointed out that if Sacramento were attacked, the Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation probably would be unable to function, and if the levees along the river broke, the bureau would be inundated

Some agencies have adopted a microfilm program of duplicating facilities at some distant point Among these are the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the City and County of San Francisco Some members of the County Clerks Association consider present provisions for microfilming older records adequate and suggested that current records be microfilmed in the same manner

The Association of Municipal Court Clerks of California recommended that criminal records on pending uncompleted cases be organized and kept in such a manner as to facilitate immediate removal should there be adequate advance warning of a disaster to permit removal, and also recommended that such records be safeguarded in fire resistant cabinets or vaults so as to maximize the probability of survival if not removed

3. Court Personnel

An enemy attack, after taking its toll of court personnel and facilities, would be followed by an increased workload in the courts, according to some writers [30] Disruption of legal relationships may cause increased civil litigation and encourage criminal activity [31] Orders of administrators and civil defense agencies will require enforcement and the influx of evacuees into undamaged areas will intensify these problems Greater strain will fall on the reduced manpower of the judicial system Insofar as court personnel other than the judiciary are concerned, present provisions appear adequate to assure sufficient personnel during an emergency [32]

The Governor has exclusive power to fill vacancies on the supreme, appellate, superior, and municipal courts [33] Vacancies in the justice courts are filled by the board of supervisors for the county [34] Provisions for succession to these offices [35] ensure that the power to fill judicial vacancies will not lapse However, some writers suggest that acting judges be appointed for each judge in the State since there will be tremendous demands on the Governor after an enemy attack.[36] These acting judges will immediately replace a missing judge until the vacancy is filled by the normal method Other writers [37] propose that the Governor appoint temporary judges or masters [38] to avoid making long term appointments without opportunity for investigation of appointees Although the Constitution allows pro tem judges to sit by stipulation of the parties [39] a constitutional amendment may be needed to allow acting judges to serve without stipulation Surviving judges, evacuated from target areas, would be available for assignment to functioning courts by the Chairman of the Judicial Council. On the appellate level new judges are appointed subject to confirmation of the Commission on Qualifications, composed of the Chief Justice or

CONCLUSION

The Judicial Council concluded on the basis of its study that in certain areas legislative changes are necessary to provide California with a system of criminal procedure that would function effectively in periods of disaster such as would follow an enemy attack It is recommended that the Legislature amend Penal Code provisions covering the following subjects so as to achieve the desired flexibility for operation during disaster periods:

1. Length of time in which to bring criminal actions to trial
2. Venue and jurisdiction of criminal actions.
3 Time for arraignment of defendants in criminal actions

The Legislature may wish to consider other changes in provisions incidental to the efficient functioning of the courts under disaster conditions, including jury trial, custody of prisoners, and duplication of records such as the indictment, information, preliminary hearing, judgment, and conviction.

Finally, it is suggested that the Legislature consider whether or not constitutional provision should be made for the appointment of temporary or stand-by judges to sit in the courts in the place of those judges who are killed, injured or missing, until the Governor has sufficient time to consider appointments to fill vacancies.

PRAYER

It Is a Fearsome Thing, O Great God, To come into Thy presence for we may be led to do Thy will and not our own, and if we ignore Thy guiding spirit it would be better by far not to pray at all Deliver us from any thought of personal gain, advancement, or election; set us free from such party loyalty as guarantees a narrow, typical course of action; and to Thee, O God, and to all our fellowmen, give to us a strong allegiance alongside which all lesser impulses rightly take their place Make us men who cannot be bought, nor dissuaded from our convictions, nor pressured from our principles Thus, our Father, may we win the battle most worth fighting in life, the saving of our own integrity and our own souls. Earnestly we make our prayer unto Thee —AMEN

Relative to congratulating the Sacramento 1960 Winter Games People-to-People Committee

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, as follows

WHEREAS, During the recent VIII Winter Olympic Games, held at Squaw Valley, California, a remarkable demonstration of international good will occurred in that many Sacramento people entertained foreign athletes in their homes, thus providing them with a real chance to know and understand Americans as individuals, and

A. Summary of Interim Activities

1 Committee Hearings

On August 5, 1959, your committee met in Sacramento to organize for interim work The committee decided to first undertake a study of Assembly Bill No 2319 (Porter, 1959) because of the controversy stirred by the proposed amendment to the Milk Stabilization and Control Law during the 1959 General Session. The committee also decided to participate in the California Legislative Internship Program

On September 4, 1959, your committee met again in Sacramento to hear witnesses from the State Department of Agriculture discuss administrative problems relating to resale milk pricing under the Milk Control Law.

On November 9, 1959, your committee met in Stockton to obtain testimony from industry witnesses relating to Assembly Bill No. 2319. The hearing was very well attended and 17 witnesses testified for the record.

On November 10, 1959, your committee met in San Francisco and obtained testimony from 15 witnesses relating to Assembly Bill No 2319. The hearing was moderately well attended

On November 12, 1959, your committee met in Paramount, Los Angeles County, and obtained testimony from 28 witnesses relating to Assembly Bill No 2319 The hearing was well attended

On January 20, 1960, your committee met again in Sacramento to complete its planned hearing schedule on Assembly Bill No 2319 Twelve witnesses testified and the hearing was well attended.

2 Staff Research

On September 18, 1959, an intern was assigned to your committee and began research on resale milk pricing and administration of the Milk Control Law by direction of your chairman The intern helped prepare agenda for each committee hearing, made summaries of each of those hearings and spent a total of three man-days in field work related to resale milk pricing and dairying practices Additional research, including field trips, appears necessary and will be undertaken by the intern, under directions from your chairman, upon adjournment of the 1960 Budget Session

B. Proposed Studies

1 Tentative Hearings

Your committee has been assigned to study additional proposals referring to (1) all milk pricing under the California Milk Stabilization and Control Law, (2) milk hauling charges, (3) the marketing of manufacturing grade milk, (4) butter manufacture and pricing, and (5) buttermilk processing An effort will be made to hold at least one hearing jointly with the Senate Fact-Finding Committee on Agriculture in Fresno on item (3) above and, at the same time, hold a separate hearing on items (1) and (2) above Additional hearings will be necessary on items (1), (4) and (5) above if your committee is to complete its assignment during the current interim It is tentatively planned to resume the hearing schedule as soon as possible after adjournment of the 1960 Budget Session in order that projected studies will be completed by commencement of the 1961 General Session

2 Proposed Relevant Research

Staff research, in addition to committee hearings, will be necessary to augment data obtained from testimony The complexities of resale milk pricing, as revealed in your committee's hearings to date, indicate much deeper study is necessary before the committee can make legislative recommendations Other areas of inquiry, particularly in wholesale milk pricing, milk hauling charges and the marketing of manufacturing grade milk, may also require the acquisition of data and knowledge beyond that which is revealed by testimony from interested witnesses Objective data must be gathered and analyzed before your committee can make legislative recommendations which, hopefully, will relieve or resolve the complex economic problems of California's growing dairy industry in the public's interest

C. Related Matters

1. Litigations.

Outstanding in a series of milk pricing litigations is the Misasi Case now under submission before the Third District Court of Appeals It is a suit involving retail grocers and milk distributors on one side and dock plant operators and the Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Milk Control on the other If the appellate court upholds the San Joaquin County Superior Court decision—and declares that dock plants are a "separate and distinct method of distribution" and are thus entitled to a price differential as granted by bureau—it is conceivable that plaintiff-appellants will carry their appeal to the California Supreme Court, thus, any recommendation by your committee would be jeopardized before the possibility of enactment If the appellate court invalidates the lower court's ruling, the defendant-respondents likely will appeal Moreover, the court may include some legislative prescriptions in its dicta which could enlighten the committee as to its task in amending the Milk Control Law in order to maintain the law's essential integrity while inducing reasonable flexibility

Another case is pending before the court of appeals involving the Bureau of Milk Control authority to set minimum differential prices for plant dock operations Still other cases, now numbering four, are pending before various superior courts and certainly it behooves your committee to study and understand the complaints made in those cases before any recommendations for remedial legislation are made to the Assembly by your committee All current cases question either the authority or the procedures of the Bureau of Milk Control in setting prices

2 Interagency Co-operation

Your committee chairman is aware that the California Consumer Counsel, Mrs Helen Ewing Nelson, has received numerous complaints and requests for information on milk pricing from interested groups and individuals By direction of your chairman, the committee's Legislative Assistant has met with Mrs Nelson and broadly discussed methods of promoting public knowledge and understanding of milk pricing procedures in California Furthermore, under the supervision of your chairman, the committee staff has begun exploring such methods with officials in the Bureau of Milk Control and with industry spokesmen Your committee is well aware of a lack of concerted effort, by industry and government, in this vital area and will make, through its staff, a pronounced and determined effort to rectify this discrepancy through co-operative interaction with such public and private agencies and groups as indicated.

PRAYER

Forgive Us, O God, That so often we are found spending our energies in considering the punishment of crime rather than its prevention and in dealing with the consequences of evil rather than the causes Remind us again of an ancient proverb "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" Enable us to strengthen our public education that we may secure respect for human life and property, building in all our youth high moral and ethical standards, rooted firmly in religious faith, thus achieving deterrents to transgressors far stronger than fear Fire our minds with a vision of a more perfect society, built solidly upon more perfect men, in which justice and right, peace and brotherhood shall reign according to Thy holy will —AMEN

SEC 2 This act is an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety within the meaning of Article IV of the Constitution and shall go into immediate effect The facts constituting such necessity are

Credit unions may be formed under California law "for the purposes of promoting thrift among its members and creating a source of credit for them at legal rates of interest " (Fin C, Sec 14000) Those that are so formed are presently subject to the Bank and Corporation Tax Law (R & T C, Sec 23001 and following), however, and because of the taxes thereby imposed, find it financially difficult or impossible to operate, and thus are unable to accomplish their objectives

In addition, credit unions organized under federal law are exempted from federal, state and local taxation, other than taxes on their property (12 U S C, Sec 1768) As a consequence, credit unions organized under California law are discriminated against by virtue of the taxes imposed on them, but not on the federal credit unions, by the Bank and Corporation Tax Law

The existing "tight money" situation has made it virtually impossible for many credit union members to obtain necessary financial assistance, at reasonable rates of interest, from any source other than their credit unions Even this source, however, will be eliminated unless the financial fetters now binding those organizations are removed, and with all possible haste"

Bill ordered reprinted, engrossed, and to be re-referred to the Committee on Revenue and Taxation

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr Belotti arose to the following parliamentary inquiry Has the Committee on Water been activated at this session, and can Assembly Joint Resolution No 10 be considered by that committee?

Speaker Presiding

At 11 18 a m, Hon Ralph M Brown, Speaker of the Assembly, presiding

Reply by Speaker

The Speaker replied that the committee has not been activated at this session, so it cannot consider the resolution

Parliamentary Inquiry

Mr Hawkins arose to the following parliamentary inquiry. May not resolutions be acted upon at any session?

Reply by Speaker

The Speaker replied that they could, with certain exceptions, but, because of the constitutional limitations on the bills which may be considered at a budget session, only the Committees on Rules, Ways and Means, Revenue and Taxation, and Engrossment and Enrollment have been activated at this session, so the consideration of a resolution by any committee other than these which have been activated, would not be in order at this session

Statement by Mr. Porter

Mr Porter stated that he had the same problem with another resolution, and that he was planning on introducing the resolution in the First Extraordinary Session, where all committees have been activated; and recommended that Mr Belotti also introduce his resolution at the First Extraordinary Session

Parliamentary Inquiry

Mrs Davis arose to the following parliamentary inquiry Would not such procedure cause a delay in the action on these resolutions, and could there not be a Rules Committee stipulation in the Budget Session relative to resolutions, without re-referring them to the Water Committee?

Reply by Speaker

The Speaker replied that neither the Rules Committee nor the Speaker has the power to transfer a resolution from one session to another session

Parliamentary Inquiry

Mr. Hawkins arose to the following parliamentary inquiry Could not the Committee on Water be activated at this session for the consideration of resolutions only?

House Resolution No. 108

Relating to retirement of Helen Van Wagoner

WHEREAS, The Members of this House have learned with mixed feelings of happiness and regret of the retirement of Helen Van Wagoner, who is ending a long and illustrious career in the state service, and

WHEREAS, These mixed feelings stem from the fact that while the members are extremely happy that Helen Van Wagoner now has the well-earned freedom to direct her abundant energies toward leisure activities during the golden years which lie ahead, they nevertheless regret the loss to the state service of such a dedicated and valued public servant, and

WHEREAS, Helen Van Wagoner was educated in the public schools of Sacramento, graduating therefrom in 1912, and

WHEREAS, Immediately following her graduation in that year, "Helen," as she is affectionately known to her scores of friends and admirers, first began her employment with the State of California, and

WHEREAS, After being employed for some five years in other departments of the State, Helen Van Wagoner was appointed to the position of Secretary to the State Printer in February 1926, a position which she filled with competence and rare human understanding during the remaining 34 years of her employment in the Civil Service, and

WHEREAS, Over the years of her tenure, "Helen" has served with distinction as secretary to the following State Printers: Messrs King, Whitmore, Smith, Hammond, Moore, and Gallagher, and

WHEREAS, A vivid realization of the length of time during which this dedicated employee has served the people of the State of California may be grasped from the fact that her long career, which began during the term of Governor Johnson has extended through the terms of nine more chief executives of this State, to-wit: Governors Stephens, Richardson, Young, Rolph, Merriam, Olson, Warren, Knight, and Brown, and

WHEREAS, Despite her busy career in the service of the State, "Helen" found time to maintain a lovely home for her late husband, Mr Eli Van Wagoner, to rear a daughter, Mrs Thomas Montgomery, and to lavish loving affection upon her three grandchildren, and

WHEREAS, It is therefore fitting that the Members of this House extend some token of their appreciation for the fine services to the people of California performed by Helen Van Wagoner during her long and distinguished career, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Members of this House join together in extending their heartiest congratulations to Helen Van Wagoner for a job well done and in wishing her Godspeed and all possible happiness during the wonderful years which lie ahead, and be it further

THIRD READING OF ASSEMBLY BILLS

Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 20—Relative to St Patrick's Day

Resolution read, and adopted unanimously

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO PRINT IN JOURNAL

Messrs. Ernest R Geddes and Hanna were granted unanimous consent that the following remarks by Mr Gaffney relative to Assembly Concurrent Resolution No 20 be ordered printed in the Journal:

REMARKS BY ASSEMBLYMAN GAFFNEY ON SAINT PATRICK'S DAY RESOLUTION, ASSEMBLY CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 20

Mr. Speaker and Members of the Assembly:

Invoking the spirit of Saint Patrick, "May God bless all here!"

History and historians seem more or less agreed that Patricius Magonus Sucatus was born of Roman parents at Bannavem Taberniae near Dunbarton, Scotland, about the year 389 A D His father, Calpurnius, was a deacon and a consul of Rome and his mother was a sister of Saint Martin of Tours Patrick died on March 17, 461 A D

At the age of 16, he was captured by a troup of sea raiders and sold in slavery to an Irish chieftain in County Antrim For six long years, Patrick lived a life of comparative solitude, privation, and prayer, tending his master's sheep and swine He managed, however, to acquire the Gaelic language, which knowledge meant so much to him and to the world later in his life work

Being a boy, he yearned for home and managed to escape and find a ship leaving for the European shores. He induced the captain to take him aboard, and after three days' rough journey, we are told, landed somewhere in Britain and found his way to a reunion with his family

He then went to a monastery in Gaul and began his long and arduous 18 years study for the priesthood, and was sent by Pope Celestine to evangelize the people of Ireland, whom as a boy he had learned to love

What kind of a people were the Gaels whom St Patrick was commissioned to evangelize? Druids in religion—who worshipped stone images and the elements—turbulent in nature, fierce in battle, feuding, battling amongst the clans, but possessed of a system of government and laws democratically drawn in assemblies, and a tradition of merit to individuals and families based upon service to the state in the following order Ard chiefs, lesser chiefs, Druid priests, bards, poets, and teachers—and corresponding rank for artisans in order of importance goldsmiths, armorers, silver and ironsmiths, ship and building men, and tillers of the soil

To this strange, warlike people he brought the gospel of Christianity, and, with no weapons except the Cross, converted a whole nation, set up monasteries of piety and learning from which scores of Irish Monks spread the gospel throughout Britain, Scotland and Northern Europe They also traveled across Europe rekindling the fires of faith and bringing the tidings of the faith in the one God and His love and mercy to countless peoples

In closing, may I again invoke the gentle spirit of St Patrick (so like the spirit of St Francis) and ask the Irish prayerful parting wish "May the hills rise gently before you, and may the wind be always at your back!"

School Textbook Contracts—No 2600

DEAR MR Z'BERG

Question

To what extent may the Department of Finance control contracts for school textbooks pursuant to Section 13370 of the Government Code and Section 9358 of the Education Code?

Contracts for the purchase of school textbooks are subject to fiscal control and supervision by the Department of Finance, under Section 13370 of the Government Code and Section 9358 of the Education Code

The Department of Finance is vested with the responsibility and the discretion in reviewing such contracts "to conserve the financial interests of the State, to prevent improvidence, and to control the expenditure of state money"

In exercising these powers, the Department of Finance may not infringe upon the constitutional right of ultimate selection of textbooks by the State Board of Education

You have indicated that your question is concerned with the recent decision of the State Board of Education to purchase completed textbooks, rather than to acquire textbooks which may be printed by the State Printer, and the extent to which fiscal controls may exist over the purchase contracts

The Legislature has plenary power limited only by the provisions of the Constitution As said in Fitts v Superior Court (1936), 6 Cal 2d 230, at page 234, the courts "do not look to the Constitution to determine whether the Legislature is authorized to do an act but only to see if it is prohibited"

Section 7 of Article IX of the State Constitution vests certain powers in the State Board of Education with regard to the selection of textbooks for use in the common schools of the State Section 7 provides that the board "shall provide, compile, or cause to be compiled, and adopt, a uniform series of textbooks for use in the day and evening elementary schools throughout the State" The section further provides that the board "may cause such textbooks, when adopted, to be printed and published by the Superintendent of State Printing at the State Printing Office, and wherever and however such textbooks may be printed and published, they shall be furnished and distributed by the State free of cost or any charge whatever, to all children attending the day and evening elementary schools of the State, under such conditions as the Legislature shall prescribe"

In State Board of Education v Levit (1959), 52 Cal 2d 441, it was held that the constitutional power of the State Board of Education to select textbooks was exclusive and could not be directly controlled by the Legislature The court did state, however, that the Legislature was free to impose certain fiscal controls and other procedures upon the printing and distribution of textbooks so long as the board's ultimate power of selection was not infringed upon (52 Cal 2d 441, 459, 463)

The Legislature has prescribed in the Education Code that all printing required by the State Board of Education must be done in the State Printing Office (Ed C Secs 157, 364; see also Gov C Sec 13530 "All state printing must be done in the State Printing Office . .") On the other hand, the Education Code contemplates that the board may purchase completed textbooks (Ed C Secs 9351, 9358, 9359) In Section 9351 of the Education Code enumerating the powers of the State Board of Education, it is provided that the board may purchase books when necessary Before purchasing textbooks from a source other than the department, however, the board must file a statement showing the necessity for the purchase (Ed C Sec 9358).

The effect of these sections, therefore, is that if plates and material may be leased from the publisher so that the selected textbooks may be printed, assembled or manufactured by the State Printer, the work must be done by him, but that completed textbooks may be purchased by the board when they may not be acquired in any other manner. The Attorney General has recently so advised the Director of Education (35 Ops Cal Atty Gen 41)

Section 9358 of the Education Code provides:

"9358 The State Board of Education, before purchasing textbooks from any source other than the Department of Finance shall file with the department a statement showing:

(a) The price which will be paid for the books

(b) The cause preventing its production by the department

(c) Evidence that will support the fact that the publisher actually refused to lease copyright matter, if such refusal is assigned as a cause preventing the production of the book by the department

(d) The particular advantages of the textbook proposed to be purchased as compared generally with other textbooks on the same subject"

Whenever the State Board of Education files a statement described in Section 9358, the State Printer may also file with the Department of Finance a statement showing the names of textbooks which he is able to publish, the cost of publishing them, the names of their authors, and, if they have been published previously, the names of their publishers (Ed C Sec 9359).

Section 13370 of the Government Code specifies that

"All contracts entered into by any state agency for (a) the hiring or purchase of equipment, supplies, materials, or of textbooks for use in the day and evening elementary schools of the State are of no effect unless and until approved by the Department of Finance"

Section 13370, with Section 13070 of the Government Code, vests in the Department of Finance general powers of supervision over all matters concerning the business and financial affairs of the State, and is part of the general fiscal control to which all state agencies, however organized and constituted and empowered, are subject (Cal Const, Art IV, Secs 1a, 34)

In holding that the Legislature by Section 13370 could constitutionally subject textbook contracts to Department of Finance approval, the State Supreme Court stated in State Board of Education v Levit, supra, at p 458-459

"This court has held that the purpose of legislation such as section 13070 is 'to conserve the financial interests of the state, to prevent improvidence, and to control the expenditure of state money by any of the several departments of the state' (State v Brotherhood of R R Trainmen, 37 Cal 2d 412, 422 [232 P 2d 857]) The provisions of section 13370 are imbued with the same purpose and design As amicus curiae suggests, the Legislature, without intending to interfere with the constitutional function of the State Board of Education in any way, may have thought it necessary for some responsible fiscal officer of the state to approve textbook contracts from the point of view of fiscal soundness only Review of a contract prior to its effectiveness is a proper requirement to insure that conditions have been met (e g, Ed Code, sec 11154, cost to be paid from funds specifically appropriated for that purpose, Ed Code, sections 11157-11158, procedural requirements in the adoption process, Ed Code, section 11181 1, Gov Code, sections 13370 1, 13370 2, formalities in bidding) Like other agencies of government the State Board of Education is subject to supervision of its fiscal affairs by the appropriate financial officers of the state, to supervision of its expenditures, and to the control and enforcement of its budgets (Const, art. IV, secs. 1a, 34) Approval of textbook contracts required by section 13370 of the Government Code is an appropriate device for carrying out this fiscal control and supervision

"The conclusion has been reached that this section can be constitutionally applied to the board's textbook contracts so far as fiscal and related matters are concerned It is presumed that in exercising the powers of approval given to him by section 13370 of the Government Code the respondent will observe constitutional and statutory limitations appropriate thereto"

It is clear, therefore, that under Government Code Section 13370 the Department of Finance must review contracts for the purchase of textbooks so far as fiscal and related matters are concerned, as part of the Legislature's general supervision and control over the State's fiscal and budgetary matters

Similarly, Sections 9358 and 9359 of the Education Code contemplate that the Department of Finance shall review, from the standpoint of fiscal policy, the decision of the State Board of Education to purchase completed textbooks rather than acquire textbooks printed by the State Printer No other interpretation is possible from the requirement in Section 9358 that before purchasing textbooks from any source other than the Department of Finance, the board must submit a statement indicating the various economic factors involved and the necessity therefor, and the provisions of Section 9359 permitting the State Printer to file what amounts to a statement in rebuttal, setting forth the alternatives available and their relative costs

The language of Article IX, Section 7 of the State Constitution relating to the printing of textbooks by the State is permissive (Smith v Board of Control (1932), 215 Cal 421) and was added to the Constitution in 1884 to meet the doubts expressed by Senate committees that the state printing of textbooks was unconstitutional under the 1879 wording of Article IX, Section 7 [1] (Senate Journal, pp 134, 229)

Pursuant to the 1884 Amendment to Article IX, Section 7, the Legislature in 1885 passed an act to implement the adoption, printing and distribution of textbooks, which act provided that the printing of all textbooks adopted under the act was to be done by and under the supervision of the Superintendent of State Printing at the State Printing Office (Stats 1885, Ch 8, p 6)

In the 1929 codification of the School Code (Stats 1929, Ch 23), the language relating to the printing of textbooks more closely followed that of the Constitution Section 6 260 of said code provided that the State Board of Education "shall adopt and may cause to be published by the Superintendent of State Printing . textbooks and teachers' manuals " Section 6 270 of said code gave the State Board of Education the power to compile and manufacture textbooks, to purchase books when necessary, or to lease materials for use in compiling, printing and publishing textbooks In 1931, sections were added to the School Code to require a statement by the board setting forth why printing could not be done by the State, as a prerequisite to the purchase of textbooks from other sources (School Code 6 274), and permitting a counterstatement to be filed by the Superintendent of Printing (School Code 6 275) It was also in 1931 that Section 675a of the then Political Code was amended to require approval of textbook contracts by the Department of Finance (Stats 1931, Ch 325)

Section 13370 of the Government Code and Section 9358 of the Education Code then, are provisions of law vesting in the Department of Finance certain discretion over questions of fiscal policy concerned with the purchase of completed textbooks vis a vis the purchase of textbooks printed by the State Printer The extent of that discretion is to "conserve the financial interests of the State, and to prevent, as far as possible, any improvident acts by any of the departments thereof; to give to the State such powers as would enable the Department of Finance to control the expenditures of state money by any of the several departments of State" (Ireland v Riley (1935), 11 Cal App 2d 70, 72, see State Board of Education v Levit, supra, p 459; State v. Brotherhood of R R Trainmen (1951), 37 Cal 2d 412, 422)

[1] Article IX, Section 7 of the 1879 Constitution read "The local boards of education, and the boards of supervisors, and the county superintendents of the several counties shall adopt a series of textbooks for the use of the common schools within their respective jurisdictions, the textbooks so adopted shall continue in use for not less than four years, "

This discretion over fiscal matters thus vested in the Department of Finance will not be overturned by the courts unless it is clearly arbitrary or erroneous. In speaking of the discretion of the department in another area—control over the Emergency Fund—the court in Vandegrift v Riley (1934), 220 Cal. 340, stated at p 350·

> " . the determination of whether an emergency exists involves a question of fact. The ascertainment of those facts naturally devolves upon the Department of Finance When the facts are ascertained the exercise of discretion thereunder will not be disturbed by the courts unless a lack of power to exercise the same or an abuse of discretion is made to appear."

In the Levit case, the court indicated that the Legislature may effectively prohibit the use of certain textbooks selected by the board for budgetary reasons or for curriculum considerations (52 Cal 2d 441, 465) The court expressly recognized in the Department of Finance fiscal control and supervision, provided the ultimate power of selection of textbooks is not infringed upon (52 Cal 2d 441, 459).

To conclude, therefore, the Department of Finance may control the purchase of textbooks by the State Board of Education to the extent that the department, in the exercise of its discretionary powers over the fiscal affairs of the State, determines that such action is necessary to conserve the financial interests of the State and prevent improvident expenditures While the department may not consider the merits of particular textbooks so as to interfere with the ultimate power of selection of such textbooks by the Board of Education, it would appear to have broad discretionary powers, based on fiscal and economic considerations, to approve or disapprove contracts for the purchase of such textbooks

Hon Charles Edward Chapel
Assembly Chamber

Elections—No. 2709

DEAR MR. CHAPEL.

Question

You have submitted to us the following question Would the law be violated if a delegation to the National Party Convention of the Republican Party were selected so that less than two or more than four delegates were selected from one or more congressional districts?

Opinion

In our opinion, if less than two or more than four delegates are selected from any congressional district that is not located within a county containing two or more entire congressional districts, the law would be violated In counties containing two or more entire congressional districts, the law permits the delegates allocable to such congressional districts to be selected from the county at large

The selection of delegates to the national conventions from this State is regulated by the presidential primary provisions appearing in Chapter 1 (commencing at Sec 2000) of Division 5 of the Elections Code

Under these provisions, the chairman of each state central committee, on or before the first day of March preceding the primary, is required to notify the Secretary of State of the number of delegates to represent the State at the national convention of his party (Elec C, Sec 2050). If this is not done the Secretary of State must secure the information from the call of the convention issued by the national committee of the party (Elec C, Sec 2052).

We are informed by the Secretary of State that the number of delegates allocated to this State by the National Committee of the Republican Party is 70

The law requires that the group of delegates to a national party convention be selected in accordance with a formula which gives representation on the group to each congressional district, with one exception which will be noted below The formula is that the smallest number of the group in any congressional district shall not be less than the integer of the quotient obtained by dividing the number of the names of candidates for delegate by the total number of congressional districts of the State, and the largest shall not be greater than twice that integer There are 30 congressional districts in the State Thus, for 1960, the smallest number for the Republican Party is two and the largest is four in any congressional district This is computed by dividing the number of delegates (70) by the number of congressional districts (30), giving a quotient of two and one-third The integer—the whole number —is two One exception to this formula is provided in that in any county in which are located two or more entire congressional districts, the delegates may be selected from the county at large (Elec C, Sec 2078) The committee is required to select alternates in the same manner as delegates (Elec C, Sec 2079)

The method described for the selection of delegates is a mandatory requirement. The law expressly provides that if the names are not selected in the manner described, they shall not be certified by the county clerk to the Secretary of State (Elec C, Sec 2078)

It is our conclusion, therefore, that if a slate of delegates to the Republican National Convention is selected so that less than two or more than four delegates are selected from any congressional district, apart from a congressional district located in a county containing two or more entire congressional districts, the law would be violated In a county containing two or more entire congressional districts, the aggregate number of delegates to which such districts are entitled may be selected from the county at large

Relative to a study of effects of the various forms of federal assistance on the financial needs of local administrative agencies of the Public School System

WHEREAS Various federal laws authorize the granting of federal financial and other assistance for the use and benefit of local school districts and school administrative authorities in this State, including programs providing direct financial assistance for current school operations and school building construction in areas affected by the impact of federal activities, the distribution of Federal Forest Reserve moneys, various "in lieu tax" subventions payable to local agencies by numerous federal agencies and authorities, vocational education grants, grants and subventions for cafeteria and school lunch program purposes, and other similar forms of such assistance, and

WHEREAS, It appears that the laws of the State prescribing the methods and procedures by which financial support is provided for the public schools and allocating, between the State and local administrative agencies, the financial burdens therein involved, fail in some instances to properly take into account the various forms of assistance provided by the Federal Government, with the result that some inequities appear to have arisen in the overall financing of public school operations, now, therefore be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Assembly Interim Committee on Education, created by House Resolution No 326 of the 1959 Regular Session, is directed to undertake a comprehensive study of all aspects of federal assistance provided for support of the Public School System in California and the effects of such assistance upon the financial needs of local agencies administering the public schools The committee shall report upon its study to the Assembly by the 10th calendar day of the 1961 Regular Session, and shall include in its report appropriate recommendations for any legislation necessary to insure that provision is made for financial support of the public schools at the State and local level adequately takes into account federal financial assistance being received

Assembly Committee on Agriculture

The Assembly Committee on Agriculture was assigned for the interim the task of investigating the extent of vertical integration and contract farming in agriculture (A C R 60), the problems of the family farm (H R 365), the possibility of setting up a division of small business aid in the state government (A B 1470), the use of compound 1080 in agricultural pest control (A B 1996), and the setting up of a board to govern agricultural pest control operations (A B 2513)

A B 2834, covering soil reserves, was assigned to the committee in November so no investigations have yet been made upon it

In conjunction with field investigations, hearings were held on these bills in Fresno, Bakersfield, San Jose, Salinas, Santa Barbara, Stockton, Petaluma, Riverside and San Diego

At these hearings, attended by some 500, testimony was taken from some 250 farmers and farm officials on the various subjects covered

Vertical Integration

We found that vertical integration—the more or less complete control of production, processing and marketing of agricultural products by one link in the chain between farmer and consumer, usually by someone who sells some sort of supplies to the farmer—is almost complete in the poultry industry, is growing in eggs and dairying and in some fruit crops, and is a menace in the beef cattle industry elsewhere, but has not yet reached cattle production in California

Poultry and Eggs

The independent farmer in turkeys and poultry has almost disappeared because of hard times brought on by overproduction resulting from the entry of processors and suppliers and even retailers into production and marketing

In the turkey industry vertical integration has actually operated to keep the less-efficient growers in business, because they were the first to need financing from suppliers when low prices caused normal credit sources to close. They are kept going merely to provide an outlet for feed or poults from dealers or hatcherymen

The havoc wrought by vertical integration is finally starting to alarm the integrators. In Southern California we found national firms pulling out of one area and leaving the field to smaller local people In Sonoma

County, one firm which testified before us that they controlled half the broilers and turkeys in the county, went broke two weeks ago.

In eggs, integration hasn't yet moved in to any great extent But in Southern California, prices and production costs are so close together that suppliers, almost willy-nilly, are moving into the position of integrators

Tree Fruit, Tomatoes

In tree fruit and tomatoes, control of acreage by processors and canners is again becoming a menace, as it was some years back In the northern San Joaquin, thousands of acres of peaches owned by canners will soon be in competition with orchards of the growers from whom the canners buy. In tomatoes, canners were tying up larger and larger acreage under contracts

Milk

Vertical integration has been tried several times in the past, but it has not worked It is starting again with several medium-large processors involved The most serious charge made is that these processors are allotting higher quotas of Grade A to their own herds than to the herds of dairymen from which they buy

Cattle

Vertical integration, elsewhere in the country, is moving apace in the beef cattle industry The free market is fast disappearing—the market for feed along with the market for cattle This process does not yet seemed to have reached California, perhaps because we still are an importing state.

Solutions to Vertical Integration Problem

Farmers were not slow to advance ideas on how to control the aspects of vertical integration which were operating to their disadvantage

There is strong sentiment for "some sort of antitrust legislation" which would prevent processors from being also producers in all the areas we have mentioned

There is a feeling that farmers must, themselves, continue their move into processing with co-operatively-owned canneries and the like

Almost all the farmers who spoke of the problem felt that co-operatives must be greatly strengthened and that they would probably have to exercise some sort of production controls

National poultry, turkey and egg enabling acts, which would allow controlled marketing to prevent surpluses from depressing prices, were favored by most

On the state level, legislation which came up at the last session was urged again quality grading, labeling of California-grown poultry and eggs as such, control of loss-leaders on poultry

Family Size Farm Problems (H.R. 365)

We found that the family farmer was still an efficient operating unit, but that he was peculiarly susceptible to the present farm crisis because he has less money to watch go down the drain than larger operators do

The crisis which is affecting farmers of all sizes, according to their testimony, is one of rising costs and declining prices, largely brought about by the operation of the socalled "free market" in agriculture

Each year demand increases, but production increases just a few percent more, with disastrous results to prices

With few exceptions, farmers who testified before the committee suggested that the best way to handle the problem is to set up marketing agreements that will allow farm products to be put on the market in quantities sufficient to meet all demands, but not to glut the market The growers recognized that such a program might imply production controls although it was often pointed out that the market might absorb California's full production of high quality foods if all consumers were able to purchase a good diet

Growers protested discrimination against membership in bargaining groups which sought orderly marketing It is apparent that we need a broad law which would make bargaining with farm bargaining groups a positive duty on the part of processors, as it is now for most of industry when dealing with labor organizations

Greenbelting

Legislation was urged to protect valuable farm land from being gobbled up by sprawling cities, which ought instead direct their subdividing toward the hills, as is being done near Salinas.

Small Business Aid (A.B. 1470)

This bill, because of the press of farm problems before the committee, had little testimony presented on it

Compound 1080 (A B 1996)

The proposal to outlaw the use of compound 1080, an economical but deadly rodent killer used by grain ranchers and cattlemen was overwhelmingly supported by farm groups, who pointed out the many safeguards which surround it It was just as strongly attacked by smaller groups, such as the Audubon Society and others interested in wildlife preservation It is obvious that the State Department of Agriculture and the State Division of Fish and Game should reactivate their joint committee on pest control problems and invite farmers and conservationists to sit with them upon it, in order to review the whole situation of farm pest control needs against dangers inherent in pest control

Pest Control Board (A.B 2513)

There was general agreement that this was a bad measure, and its original backers disclaimed it at the Fresno hearing

(g) H R 306 (Automatic increases for retirement benefits) Referred to subcommittee Additional hearings contemplated.

The Subcommittee on Retirement Benefits has held hearings on A B 1596 and H R 306 (as noted above) and is in the process of reporting partial recommendations to our full committee Additional hearings will be scheduled during the remaining interim period

The following bills have not been heard to date

(a) A B 2257. (Disability benefits of state employees)

(b) A B 2746 (Increases death benefits under SERS)

In addition, the subject of co-ordination of Old Age Survivors and Disability Insurance with the State Employees Retirement System has been referred to our committee due to apparent disagreement on the method of implementing this program A B 2062, which contains this subject matter, was passed by the last legislative session and required an election on the part of the members of SERS Several hearings are contemplated due to the dissension caused by the election held last fall

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES W MEYERS, Chairman

The Interim Committee on Constitutional Amendments has to this date concentrated its efforts in the field of possible overall revision of the State Constitution

The committee has thus far held three days of public hearings, one in San Francisco and two in Los Angeles At these hearings it received testimony on the following questions.

1 Does our State Constitution need revision?
2. What specific areas most need revision?
3 What is the most desirable method of revision?
4 Should Article XVIII, Section 2 of the Constitution be amended to provide a new method of revision?
5 Would it be desirable to make it more difficult to amend the State Constitution by initiative?

A report on past attempts to revise the California Constitution and a report of the recent experience of other states in this field have been prepared with the assistance of the Legislative Counsel The committee has also made use of an analysis of all past amendments to the Constitution that was prepared by the Citizens Legislative Advisory Commission.

The committee reports the following progress.

1. Does Our State Constitution Need Revision?

With one exception, all witnesses that have appeared before the committee and all research so far completed lead us to the conclusion that the State Constitution needs substantial revision The document is now the second longest state constitution in the United States, and contains thousands of words of obsolete and statutory language

2. What Specific Areas Most Need Revision?

Testimony and research so far completed have not produced a clear answer to this question Many sections of the Constitution have been suggested to the committee as being in great need of revision Some of these are so controversial that their inclusion in plans for revision might lead to the defeat of the entire revision For this reason, the committee intends to seek further testimony and to devote intensive study to this question The committee is generally agreed at this time that any important material removed from the Constitution should be placed in either a new Basic Law Code, or in the other codes

3. What Is the Most Desirable Method of Revision?

This seems to be the crucial question before the committee To this date it would seem that the possibility of obtaining a revision of the Constitution through the convention method is doubtful. One of the reasons for this is the difficulty in limiting any convention, once constituted, to the revision of nonsubstantive areas of the Constitution. The convention would have full plenary powers to change all parts of the document, including the provisions on reapportionment, and other controversial subjects

It has been suggested that the commission method of revision or possibly a combination of the commission and the convention method might yield the best results The committee will devote much further study to this question

4. Should Article XVIII, Section 2 of the Constitution Be Amended to Provide a New Method of Revision?

Many witnesses testified that it would be desirable to amend Article XVIII, Section 2 of the Constitution to spell out more clearly procedures for revising the document After completing study on Question Three, the committee plans to draft a constitutional amendment to amend Article XVIII to accomplish this result

5. Would It Be Desirable to Make It More Difficult to Amend the State Constitution By Initiative?

A good deal of interest was evidenced in this proposal but the committee feels that it would be unprofitable to pursue this subject further until such time as substantial constitutional revision is in progress

As indicated above, the committee is presently considering a constitutional amendment to Article XVIII, Section 2 Such an amendment would be presented to the January 1961 Session of the Legislature In addition, the committee is studying a number of proposals to eliminate obsolete language from the Constitution by way of constitutional amendment

The committee feels that the research and the hearings thus far completed have been very valuable The public interest in this subject has been remarkable There is no doubt that continued work in this field will result in positive improvements in the makeup of our California Constitution

Summary Report of Assembly Interim Committee on Criminal Procedure

The Committee on Criminal Procedure held an organization meeting in San Francisco on September 23, 1959, at which time we outlined our interim program.

Several bills involving changes in the present laws on the subject of narcotics were referred to this committee for interim study. The committee staff have been collecting data from earlier studies and hearings in this area Soon after the end of the legislative session the committee will spend two days in Chino and Los Angeles studying the nalline program currently operating on an experimental basis under the direction of the Department of Corrections We shall make specific recommendations to the next general session of the Legislature as to the desirability of legislation in this field.

H R 316 directed this committee to study the feasibility of revising the Penal Code This study has already taken a lot of time on the part of the committee staff Such a revision would be a monumental undertaking and we will have to spend much more time simply considering all the aspects of a possible revision and the most effective means of accomplishing it At the present time I am not planning a hearing on this subject although it may prove to be necessary later on to collect a cross section of opinion and suggestions by this method. We are attempting to solicit these suggestions by mail and hope to be able to make a specific recommendation to the next general session of the Legislature.

H R 383 directed this committee to study the subject of juvenile delinquency and the prevention thereof We plan to hold a two-day hearing on this subject and hope, with the co-operation of the Special Study Commission on Juvenile Justice, to be able to make specific recommendations for legislation to the 1961 Session of the Legislature I have planned a two-day hearing on this subject

H R 378, asking a study of correctional institutions, probation, and parole, was referred to this committee This is such a broad area that we do not expect to be able to do any definitive work on it with our present staff and workload However, we do plan a study trip to various penal facilities and hope to identify the specific problem areas most deserving of further legislative study.

This committee has been directed to study a proposed revision of our laws relating to criminal insanity We are working in this area and intend to hold a two-day hearing on the subject later this year We hope, also, to be able to take advantage of the work now being done by the Governor's Commission on Criminal Insanity, as well as testimony given in considerations of this problem in other states' legislative hearings We will make a report to the Legislature containing specific recommendations for legislation on this subject

On November 13, 1959, this committee held a hearing in Los Angeles to hear testimony on A B 1852 which proposed several changes in the criteria used to establish a defendant's eligibility to the services of a public defender In addition to the hearing testimony, we have solicited opinions and suggestions from many interested parties by mail We have concluded our study in this area and will report our findings to the next general session of the Legislature

The committee has had under consideration a bill, A.B 2016, to require that upon the determination of a criminal action or proceeding against a person, in his favor, his photographs, fingerprint impressions, and records of arrest, made by direction of the police after the arrest giving rise to the action or proceeding, or made during pendency of same, and copies thereof, shall be returned to him on demand We have studied similar legislation in effect in other states and countries. We held a hearing to explore the extent of the employment problem presented by such arrest records and to consider possible solutions. We have concluded our study in this area and intend to offer legislation to correct this problem.

In 1957 the Legislature made a number of changes in the laws of arrest The Committee on Criminal Procedure held a two-day hearing in February to evaluate the effects of the 1957 changes in these laws and of the courts' interpretations of them Although this is an area deserving continuing legislative appraisal, we plan no further hearings on this subject during the current interim We expect to report our findings to the 1961 General Session of the Legislature and to offer legislation to modify the laws of arrest.

The Assembly Interim Committee on Education established six subcommittees for the interim period 1959-61 These subcommittees were (1) County Superintendents of Schools, (2) The Teachers' Retirement System, (3) Adult Education, (4) Guidance Schools, (5) Special Education, and (6) Higher Education There have been a total of eight hearings

County Superintendents of Schools

The Subcommittee on County Superintendents of Schools, chaired by Assemblyman Carlos Bee, centered its attention on A B 2392, 2393 and 2394, which were assigned to the Education Committee These bills would remove many of the controls currently exercised by the county superintendents of schools over large school districts The effect of this proposed legislation would have been to establish a new level of school organization, that of the independent district, with the affected districts reporting directly to the State Department of Education The subcommittee felt that this would be a major undertaking with far-reaching implications and that a great deal more study should be given to any such proposals At the present time the subcommittee felt that the materials presented did not warrant such a far-reaching and costly study Therefore, no further hearings are planned on this subject nor is legislation to be recommended

The Teachers' Retirement System

The subcommittee on the Teachers' Retirement System, chaired by Assemblyman Richard T Hanna, has had one hearing to date The hearing was devoted to a discussion of several bills which were assigned to the subcommittee A B 1198, A B 1289, A B 1413, A B 1469, A B 2098, and A B 2557 Particular attention was given to A B 1198, which relates to the transfer of membership by employees of certain school district retirement plans to the State Teachers' Retirement System One further hearing is planned on this and related matters which will be held jointly with the Senate Interim Fact Finding Committee on Education At the hearing, however, testimony disclosed several current abuses of the retirement system and constructive legislation to correct these abuses will definitely be proposed in the committee report

Adult Education

A full scale review of adult and evening education programs in the high schools, the junior colleges, the state colleges, and the University of California is now being conducted by the Subcommittee on Adult Education, headed by Assemblyman Ernest R Geddes Two hearings have been held, one collecting testimony and data on the current statewide offerings of the various educational segments and another on the current financial support of these programs as well as the State's ability and responsibility to support them Because of the scope of this review, two additional hearings have been planned to explore the content of such courses and programs and to discuss proposed legislative changes When the subcommittee has completed these hearings and independent investigations, the subcommittee hopes it will be able to recommend a sweeping legislative revision

Guidance Schools

The Subcommittee on Guidance Schools, chaired by Assemblyman Carl A Britschgi, began its study of the problems of predelinquent youth with an October hearing The subcommittee is concerned with youngsters who are extreme behaviour and discipline problems both at home and in school, who have not yet sufficiently violated the law to be classified as delinquent A considerable amount of public interest has been generated by the work of this subcommittee and several proposed solutions to the problem are being explored At the one hearing held so far testimony was heard regarding one proposed solution—the guidance school A guidance school is a residence school designed to rehabilitate the student by removing him from an environment which has had much to do with the cause of his behavioral problem Other proposed solutions will be studied at additional hearings before any proposed legislation is adopted

Special Education

The Subcommittee on Special Education held an organizational meeting at which, for the first time, outstanding leaders in the field of special education and governmental agencies dealing with special education discussed their common problems and suggested useful legislative reforms for the subcommittee's consideration. Many of those present pointed to the need for consolidation and co-ordination One more hearing of the subcommittee will be held in Southern California to explore these suggestions and to determine necessary legislative changes to facilitate the needed co-ordination within governmental agencies offering services to the handicapped

Higher Education

The Subcommittee on Higher Education has held two hearings. A two-day hearing gave general consideration to the problems of the junior colleges Evidence gathered at this hearing has been highly praised for it represents the most complete compilation of data and opinion now available on California junior colleges One additional hearing is planned to consider proposed legislative changes to problems and abuses which were exposed at the earlier hearing. A second hearing was held regarding proposed changes in the method of selecting the Superintendent of Public Instruction and/or members of the State Board of Education. As a result of this hearing, the subcommittee will propose legislation in 1961.

While the Assembly Education Committee has not been active as a whole in the preparation of the master plan for higher education, the committee staff and four members appointed by the Speaker of the Assembly to sit with the Liaison Committee of the State Board of Education and the University of California have devoted significant amounts of time and effort to the preparation of the plan. There were approximately 11 days of formal meetings. This work, in addition to the regular hearings and outside staff work, has produced an interim period which has thus far been rich in accomplishment and service, not only for the committee, but also for the Legislature and the people of the State of California

The Los Angeles Hearings

The committee heard a total of thirty-three (33) witnesses in Los Angeles, among them, legislators and party officials representing the two major parties and the Prohibition Party The Registrar of Voters, Mr Ben Hite and a representative of the Los Angeles Regional Planning Commission, Mr John Commons, were both very helpful in providing the committee with useful figures on registration and population

The San Diego Hearing (two days)

In accordance with House Resolution No 326, Section 12, the following progress report is hereby submitted·

(A) Motor Vehicle Sales

The committee has been studying Civil Code provisions governing sale of motor vehicles on conditional sale contracts

There are many indications that the 1945 law is outdated in terms of preventing exorbitant charges on the buyer and setting forth safeguards of the buyer's equity in his automobile and providing warnings in the contract as to penalties and losses he may be subject to in the event of default.

Scores of complaints have come to the committee from car buyers, attorneys and reputable salesmen who maintain that the current law is inadequate to either prevent or punish unconscionable automobile dealers who inveigle or deceive unsuspecting buyers into truly outrageous purchase contracts

Undeniably, one of the objectives of the 1945 law was to furnish protection to the buyer, yet recent court interpretations of the statute have had the tendency to so emasculate these safeguards that unethical auto dealers can violate both the letter and the spirit of the law with little fear of having their actions challenged in court

We have scratched only the surface of this subject and expect to hold several public hearings in order to develop testimony that would show how Sections 2981 and 2982 of the Civil Code might be strengthened so as to eliminate existing ambiguities and provide effective protection to the buyer. The first of these hearings will be held in Los Angeles in May

At this time it appears that some legislation probably is necessary along the lines of the Unruh Act of 1959 (which applies to conditional sales of household and other goods for personal use)

(B) Lending Institutions

The committee has been engaged in an exhaustive, parallel study of interest rates and charges which may be imposed by lenders under California law.

Experience of the committee in the last general session (at which bills for interest rate increases for various types of lenders were considered piecemeal) led to the conclusion that a gradual and thorough study of the whole lending field would be desirable during the interim

The Lending Institutions Section, headed by Assemblyman Bert DeLotto, held an exploratory public hearing on January 28 Primary emphasis was put on mortgage lending and consumer credit in view of the impossibility of surveying the entire field in a one-day hearing.

In the months ahead, the subcommittee will give particular attention to the activities of banks and insurance companies, as well as commercial finance companies As a result of the study, it is confidently expected that committee members, most of whom are laymen, will be better equipped to understand the strengths and weaknesses of proposals that will come before them at the next general session.

(C) "Ten Percenters"

For the past three months we have been making preliminary investigations into the field of second trust deeds We are working in several specific areas The first is the use of the second trust deed in financing new housing The next is the use of the second trust deed by a home owner to borrow money The third is the sale of trust deeds through trust deed exchanges

We have discussed this with the Real Estate Commissioner, the Corporations Commissioner, and also representatives of industry We are co-operating with Assemblyman Hanna's Judiciary Subcommittee which is looking into the Orange County trust deed problem

We hope to continue our efforts and to develop comprehensive legislation which will cover the entire field.

(A) Rees-Doyle Health and Welfare Program Supervision Act

The Rees-Doyle Act of 1957, which provides for supervision and regulation of many types of employee benefit plans, expires by its own terms in mid-1960 The act was referred to this committee for study and possible revision for the purpose of resubmission to the Legislature prior to that termination date.

The committee has rewritten the act in accordance with the several recommendations of the advisory council provided for by its original terms The definition of plans to be covered was revised to coincide with the definition in the Federal Disclosure Act Regulation was put on a self-supporting basis through a schedule of nominal fees required of the individual plans Unnecessary duplication of reports to be filed was eliminated Annual investigation of each individual plan was eliminated. Various other provisions of the act were revised and language tightened to insure a minimum financial burden on the regulated plans

A specific expiration date for the act was originally set forth as a result of a wait-and-see attitude on the part of the Legislature in regard to what provisions might emerge from Congress as a result of the McClellan Committee's investigations In view of Assistant Labor

Secretary John Gilhooley's criticism that the most recent federal legislation on this subject is "vague, weak and ineffective," there appears to be every need to continue California's law

Governor Brown has placed the subject of welfare and pension funds on the agenda for the extraordinary session and hearings on A B No 23 (Rees) are in process as this report is submitted

(B) Disability Insurance

The Social Insurance Section, chaired by Assemblyman Jerome Waldie, conducted an extremely profitable inquiry into the problem of the diminishing fund balance in the UCD (unemployment compensation for disability) account last October

Statistical projections made by the Department of Employment indicate that the fund will decline from $100,500,000 at the end of 1959 to $47,200,000 by the close of 1962 Departmental spokesmen consider this a "precarious" situation

In public hearing the committee listened to testimony from representatives of the department, unions and insurance companies

As a result of this inquiry, the committee is in a much better position to make a determination as to what course to follow in restoring the fund to a sound basis

The remedies proposed to the committee include raising the tax base on incomes so as to include actuarially sounder classifications of employees, raising the rate of employee contributions, some combination of the two In another direction, the spokesmen for certain interests advocated the elimination altogether of private carriers from the plan on the assumption that their participation in the program is inimical to the sound operation of the State's plan

While most of the work on this subject has been completed, the committee will wait until all its data is in before making a recommendation to the Assembly

In the balance of the interim, the committee will appraise the effects of A B No 494 (Unruh, Burton) which was enacted at the 1959 Session and which revised the schedule of disability insurance payments

(C) Unemployment Insurance

The Social Insurance Section is due to hold public hearing in August to gauge progress made so far in a study of attachment to the labor market

To some extent this study relates to A B 2073 (Z'berg, Samuel R Geddes) which was assigned to Finance and Insurance for interim study by the Rules Committee A B 2073 proposed to repeal Section 1277 of the Unemployment Insurance Code which provides the test which is applied to a claimant who earned a portion of his base period wages during a prior benefit year before his lag period wages can be used in computing his benefit rights

The law seeks to provide unemployment compensation to persons who are actually "attached" to the labor market Tests of attachment presently require that the applicant earn at least $750 in his base period and that he must be able and available for—and actively seeking—work while receiving benefits

There are many factors which come into play in the determination of eligibility for unemployment benefits The purpose of the study is to carefully appraise these factors with an eye toward how they meet the actual conditions which determine whether a person is, in fact, "attached" to the labor market

A B 36 (Thomas), which was assigned by Rules Committee for interim study and which concerns filing procedure for unemployment claims, will be considered at a future hearing along with A B 697 (Elliott) which would eliminate the requirement that a claimant seek employment during the period of compensation

(D) Automobile Parts Warranties

A B 2703 (Holmes) was introduced at the last general session and subsequently referred to this committee for interim study.

The bill would require persons selling performance warranty contracts on motor vehicles, household appliances, and so forth, to obtain permits from the Insurance Commissioner The commissioner would be empowered to adopt regulations regarding solvency of the firms and their ability to discharge obligations

It is in the area of auto parts warranties that most abuses have developed.

A system of interconnected warranty companies operating out of New Jersey did the lion's share of this business until their imprudent and inefficient management brought about the financial collapse of the business last year

The defunct Consolidated Warranty System has left unsatisfied an estimated $100,000 worth of claims in this State This fact, as well as others which cast a bad light on the operation, came out as a result of an investigation by this committee last year.

Through the co-operation of the Department of Insurance, the committee has prepared a bill for submission in 1961 which would properly classify warranties as insurance and thereby serve to protect Californians from a repetition of the disgraceful tactics of some companies during the past several years.

(E) Franchise Life Insurance

A subcommittee chaired by Assemblyman Alan G Pattee has held a public hearing in which the problem of "franchise" or "wholesale" life insurance was given a thorough airing

As a result of this inquiry, it is believed that a satisfactory groundwork has been laid for development of legislation to be offered at the next General Session to regulate a type of insurance that could prove disastrous because of departure from accepted standards of sound underwriting

(F) Automobile Insurance

Pursuant to House Resolution 200, the Rules Committee has charged this committee with responsibility for an investigation into "the practice of many insurance companies of canceling policies in an arbitrary manner"

Preliminary inquiries of this committee have shown that arbitrary, sudden (and usually unexplained) cancellation of automobile coverage uniformly have the effect of prejudicing a person's chances of obtaining insurance elsewhere Since the Financial Responsibility Law, to all intents and purposes, has the effect of requiring the public to carry automobile insurance, the committee believes the public has some right not to be suddenly denied what they have contracted for

Our investigation will have much to do with the Assigned Risk Plan In view of the fact that the governing committee of the plan is now considering amendments (which will take effect in the near future), this committee will await the results of these revisions before proceeding further

(G) Health Insurance

The Rules Committee has referred for action to this committee the substance of House Resolution No 284 which calls for a study of "group insurance plans providing medical and hospital insurance coverage and their relations to the costs of hospital services and medical care" in this State

Assemblyman Ronald Brooks Cameron is in charge of a subcommittee carrying out this inquiry In his preliminary report to the full committee on January 29, Mr Cameron reported that the national average of prepayment of hospital and medical costs is less than 50 percent He has offered a bill that is intended to satisfy what he discerns as the three major points that are involved in this problem of soaring costs

These items are

(1) The high cost of "per day bed charge" for hospitalization

(2) Over-utilization of hospitalization Many medical authorities argue that people are being put in hospital beds for ailments that might be treated through outpatient care

(3) The paradox of the average empty hospital bed costing 70 to 80 percent of the cost of an occupied bed

Mr Cameron's proposal forms a workable operating basis for committee hearings during the balance of the interim.

PROGRESS REPORT OF THE ASSEMBLY INTERIM COMMITTEE ON FISH AND GAME

WILLIAM F SCHEUERMANN, JR., Committee Consultant
March 16, 1960

During the period covered by this progress report, your Committee on Fish and Game conducted six field trips, held one two-day hearing and participated in four conferences

In the opinion of committee members, proper foundations as to the necessity for future hearings should be investigated through the prior use of field trips in areas where problems exist In this regard, the committee concentrated upon the field trip as a method of investigation during this portion of the interim period in preparation for formal hearings prior to the 1961 General Session

Field Trips

A B. No 1411, one of the bills referred to the committee for interim study, concerned the planting of catchable size trout and closure of streams for a short period after planting In order to observe the alleged practice of "truck following," and to investigate hatchery operations, planting techniques and angler behavior, the committee conducted intensive field trips at Hot Creek Hatchery in Mono County, San Joaquin Hatchery in Fresno County, and the Kernville Hatchery in Kern County

During these field trips, committee members and staff witnessed the loading of catchables into tank trucks for delivery to planting sites, toured hatchery facilities, observed such aspects of operation as artificial spawning, brood stock ponds, egg tray maintenance and feeding and rearing techniques During the remainder of the interim period, the committee contemplates at least two field trips devoted to a continuation of this investigation into state fish hatchery and planting operations

On July 20 and 21, the committee conducted an ocean field trip devoted to various aspects of marine fisheries problems The entire two days were spent at sea aboard commercial fishing boats and the Department of Fish and Game's research vessels, affording committee members the opportunity to view firsthand the operations and functions of the boats and to talk personally with commercial fishermen

and fisheries biologists At the request of Assemblyman Thomas and commercial fishing representatives, the committee contemplates during the remainder of the interim period conducting an additional one-day field trip in conjunction with a two-day hearing relative to marine fishery problems

One of the fish and game areas about which there has been perennial controversy is that of deer management There has been great divergence of opinion not only among administrators and sportsmen, but among sportsmen and biologists and among sportsmen's groups Certainly it is true that reasonable men may disagree, but the wide breach of divergence and the magnitude of the disagreement regarding ways in which California's deer herds ought to be managed seemed to indicate to your committee that it might be advisable to investigate not only the disagreement on management policies, but also the status of the resource itself

Two field trips were devoted to this subject During one, the committee participated in the department's deer composition count of the Devil's Garden Interstate Deer Herd and the Glass Mountain Subunit of the resident herd The composition count was designed to classify those deer seen according to sex in order to arrive at a buck-doe-fawn ratio

During the other field trip on this subject, a jeep caravan of 44 people spent two days and over 400 miles investigating range and herd conditions and current land use and management techniques employed in the Lava Beds and Devil's Garden Area of Modoc County Represented on this trip were various sportsmen's groups, the Fish and Game Department and Commission, U S and state forest services, Bureau of Land Management, and ranching and cattlemen's interests. Discussions were held at various stops along the way and while there were instances of bitter and marked differences of opinion, members of the committee making the trip were made fully aware of the many problems existing in the management of the deer herds in these areas

During the remainder of the interim period, the committee contemplates participating in the State Line Track Count in order to see on a firsthand basis the methods by which deer censuses are achieved, since the basic argument between the department and the sportsmen seems to center around the question of just how many deer are present on the ranges Additionally, the committee plans to view from helicopter migrating herds of mule deer, finances permitting

Hearing

Sportsmen throughout the State were given an opportunity on January 18-19, 1960, to present their views on the financial status of the Department of Fish and Game and the current level of services and programs This was the first time the license-buying public was able formally to say whether it was satisfied with the level of fish and game programing and the returns received and to decide what areas might be expanded and what areas might require cutbacks The hearing was attended by the full committee, representatives of the Senate Committee on Natural Resources, department personnel and over 25 witnesses speaking for sportsmen's organizations throughout California The committee decided to hold this particular hearing on the financial status of the department as close to the convening of the Budget Session as possible in order to afford legislators the opportunity to have some expression from the sportsmen as to their desires regarding the programs of their department Although too lengthy for inclusion here, several portions of the court reporter's transcript, especially those regarding the possible use of the so-called "frozen funds" of the agency and other funding aspects, will be printed separately in the Assembly Journal for the information of all Members of the Assembly prior to final action on the budget document during this current session.

During this hearing, a motion was unanimously adopted to create a Citizens' Advisory Committee on Big Game, the presentation and adoption of the motion being predicated upon the dissention among sportsmen's clubs and the Department of Fish and Game over deer management policies Chairman Davis felt that one way to bring the situation to a head would be to bring all parties to the controversy together on mutual grounds in an effort to resolve the controversy On February 15, a 20-member advisory group was appointed At this writing, the group has not yet met, but an organizational meeting has been scheduled by the impartial moderator for March 18, at which time the advisory committee will probably decide upon its bylaws procedures and future meeting places and dates The committee will meet at its discretion and must report its findings and its recommendations to the interim committee prior to the 1961 General Session

Conferences

By request, the committee was represented during this portion of the interim period at the Annual Sardine Conference of the California Co-operative Oceanic Fisheries Investigations at La Jolla, an informal hearing of the Congressional Merchant Marine and Fisheries Subcommittee at San Rafael and a commercial fishing industry meeting in Monterey During these conferences, oceanographic and biological information, the status of the sport and commercial fisheries, the impact of water development plans on anadramous species, the effects of military closures on ocean fishing and other subjects were discussed

Also by request, the committee was represented at the annual California Wildlife Federation meeting in San Rafael.

Future Plans

In addition to those subjects already mentioned for continued investigation, the committee contemplates during the remainder of the interim period completing its study of the department's license administration with the hope of simplifying not only the form of the actual license but the administrative and accounting procedures required of the license agents Upon the request of the authors of bills referred for study, the committee will also hold hearings on subjects related to the shrimp, abalone and sardine resources, and will meet in late November or early December to receive the report of the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Big Game

HONORABLE RALPH M. BROWN
Speaker, State Assembly
Sacramento, California

DEAR SPEAKER BROWN: The following information is submitted regarding the activities to date of the Assembly Interim Committee on Government Organization We have undertaken investigations into the following major areas of study during the period from June, 1959, through February, 1960, and in each of the studies, we are still in the process of gathering and evaluating material, we, therefore, wish to make no recommendations at this time.

I Division of Architecture

Problems relating to the Division of Architecture had been brought to the attention of the committee during the last regular session of the Legislature, and it was felt that an investigation into all the various aspects of the division would be valuable Considerable time has been spent studying the costs and operations of the division with the aim of securing efficiency and economy in State Government

After several months of gathering background information, a hearing was held on the Division of Architecture in Sacramento on January 18, 1960, with State Architect Anson Boyd as the principal witness. Of special interest were the following points·

A Budgetary position of the Division of Architecture:

At present, the Legislature has no control, fiscal or otherwise, over the operations of the division This agency is financed indirectly through capital outlay appropriations and, in effect, may assess the various departments and agencies any fee it so desires The committee is in the process of studying this peculiar situation, the reasonableness of these charges, and the desirability of more legislative control

B Selection of outside architects·

There is no definite standard in the selection of outside architects The State Architect picks three names and submits them in order of preference to the Director of Public Works for final approval This practice has led to some unusual practice, and methods of improving this selection process are under study

C Planning and design·

There is considerable interest in the role of the Division of Architecture in the planning and design of state buildings and responsibility given to outside architects when used This phase of the problem is being given careful attention by the committee.

Other topics relating to the Division of Architecture include personnel use, role of the schoolhouse section, relations with local communities, and record of performance of the division

II. Night Harness Racing

Legalizing night harness racing has been a public question in California for sometime. In the last session of the Legislature, a bill (A B 1320) accomplishing this was introduced and referred to this committee for interim study During the past eight months, a staff investigation into this controversial problem has been made and is now nearing completion.

As night harness racing is synonymous with the State of New York, where over seven million fans attended the sulky races last year, a study in depth of the sport in New York has been made In addition, other subtopics under study include the past and present position of harness racing in California, a survey of harness racing in the several states, and possible benefits and problems that could be expected with the implementation of night racing in California

III. Government Reorganization

The committee has been gathering materials on government organization and has talked informally with a number of interested people regarding the problem. Hearings will be held as soon as the Governor's reorganization plan is released The committee has postponed any investigation of the several organizational bills referred for interim study so that the many problems inherent in reorganization can be studied as a unified whole.

Preliminary examination has been given to several other bills referred to the committee for interim study, including Assembly Bill 2848, relating to the creation of a California Youth Corps, and Assembly Bill 2342, relating to the prohibition of minors at race tracks Lack of time has prevented a more thorough investigation as of this date As matters pertaining to alcoholic beverage control referred to this committee are also being studied by the Senate's Business and Professions Committee, we felt no need to duplicate their work in this area The committee staff has attended Senate hearings, however, and is keeping abreast of alcoholic beverage control developments as they arise

The above is only a partial listing of the committee's activities during the past eight months A full report with recommendations will be forthcoming at the next regular session of the Legislature.

Respectfully submitted,

GORDON H. WINTON, JR

A. Organization of the Committee

Chairman Lester A McMillan scheduled an organizational meeting to be held September 1, 1959, in the Los Angeles State Building to discuss the subjects assigned for study In addition to Chairman McMillan, committee members present at that meeting were· George E Brown, Jr , Lou A Cusanovich, Edward M Gaffney and Jerome R. Waldie All assigned subjects were briefly discussed and classified into three priority groups

1. Priority One

(a) A B 607—George E Brown, Elliott, Hawkins and McMillan Relating to collective bargaining by public employees
(b) A B 1300—Unruh and Burton Relating to employment discrimination against an otherwise qualified person solely on the grounds of age.
(c) H R 367—McMillan Relating to the feasibility of a Space Age Exposition.

The committee members agreed that the subjects of the two Assembly bills could be adequately discussed in two 2-day hearings, one in Los Angeles (October 29 and 30) and a second in San Francisco (November 19 and 20)

Chairman McMillan informed the committee members of the Rules Committee's authorization of Pat Martin's continuance of work on the Space Age Exposition project.

Assemblyman Cusanovich announced a committee field trip October 31 for the members to view the latest developments in space age technology at the Rocketdyne installation in his Assembly district

2. Priority Two

(a) A B 300—Gaffney, Thomas, Busterud and Masterson Relating to dismissal of employees when their wages have been garnished
(b) A B 604—Garrigus, Lunardi, Lowrey and Frew Relating to lowering the minimum age of male minors for agricultural employment
(c) A B 2102 and 2103—Holmes Relating to the licensing of carnivals by a state agency
(d) H R 273—Bee Relating to tax-exempt institutions hiring minors in profit-making enterprises

The committee members scheduled a two-day hearing at the State Capitol (December 17 and 18) to discuss these subjects An organizational meeting of the committee followed the hearings. Chairman McMillan announced the assignment of S B 1185—Senator Regan, relating to arbitration During the discussion of H R 273, specific reference was made to an institution in Northern California The chairman assigned the consultant to investigate the matter before the committee scheduled another hearing on this subject Based on the consultant's report, it was determined that further committee action was unnecessary

3. Priority Three

(a) A B 1967—Charles H Wilson. Relating to personal services by inmates of state institutions

(b) H.R. 322—Sedgwick. Relating to the maximum hours of work of women

These subjects, in addition to S B 1185, will be scheduled for hearings in 1960

B. Preliminary Results

1. A.B. 607

Collective bargaining by public employees was the most controversial matter assigned to the committee and attracted the greatest public reaction Both hearings were well attended with advocates and opponents of the measure adequately represented The committee heard testimony from over 40 witnesses, representing labor organizations, public employee associations, governmental agencies and other interested groups Research sources informed the committee on existing collective bargaining agreements with public jurisdictions, mostly in other states. In addition to providing the committee with a wealth of information, the hearings stimulated several organizations to re-examine this subject and submit their studies to the committee Sixteen organizations have requested transcripts of both hearings for further study

The discussions basically followed six questions·

(1) Was there a need for this legislation with existing public employee organizations functioning already?

(2) What form or organization would best serve the public employees and what method would insure they obtained the desired type of organization?

(3) What should be the relationship between the public employee organization and the public jurisdiction?

(4) Could the collective bargaining process be adapted to function within the public jurisdiction framework?

(5) What methods would be necessary to resolve differences when the bargaining sessions have reached a stalemate?

(6) What questions of public employment are subjects of concern for the State Legislature?

Collective bargaining by public employees is a dynamic issue with new developments occurring periodically The Los Angeles Metropolitan Transit Authority disputes exposed several problems and court opinions on public employees The fire fighter organizations, granted collective bargaining at the last session, have met with resistance in their efforts to represent their membership Some existing public employee associations have been frustrated in their attempts to properly function The committee should watch these developments closely and suggest legislative remedies to clarify laws governing these entities

The committee should also examine the experiments of public jurisdictions throughout the United States with variations of the collective bargaining process Each time the subject is discussed or another agreement is consummated, great experience in this field is gained

It is highly unlikely that the legislation will be reintroduced in its present form Based on the information gathered at the hearings and other material compiled by the committee, legislation will be introduced on this subject Thorough drafting will eradicate the ambiguities and basic misconceptions of the author's intent Clarifying terms would alleviate some of the fears and give a better understanding of this legislation.

Abolition of age factors in employment is a widely discussed topic in our nation today The U S Senate has been conducting nationwide hearings to gather data for possible legislation Governor Brown has appointed a commission to investigate various phases of this problem Nine states in our country have legislation enacted prohibiting job discrimination based on age.

The committee heard excellent testimony in both hearings from persons and organizations that deal with this problem daily Unfortunately opponents of this legislation did not testify, although they were invited to appear However, the possible objections to the bill were thoroughly discussed by the committee members and the witnesses The California Department of Employment submitted two comprehensive reports to the committee The Fraternal Order of Eagles also provided the committee with data compiled by their organization

Three basic questions typified the discussion

(1) What reasons do employers give for such discrimination and are they justifiable?
(2) Would this legislation create new sociological and economic problems in California?
(3) Can such legislation be adequately enforced?

Discrimination in employment has reached a critical stage in our nation. Equality of opportunity in employment is still a key issue in our democratic society The passage of the Fair Employment Practices Law has stimulated the advocates of abolition of age discrimination to intensify their efforts This discrimination is as unfair and cruel as any other type of discrimination These unemployed older workers feel useless and dejected and become burdens to society by their nonproductivity.

This legislation can serve to educate employers in re-examining their employment practices to benefit our society as well as their own businesses

Legislation will be introduced next session, probably in amended form of the original bill to make it more practical and acceptable Necessary exemptions to this legislation should be included in the bill and the burden of law enforcement in this area should be clearly indicated.

3. A.B. 300

The subject, dismissal of employees when their wages have been garnished, was discussed at the Sacramento hearings Several witnesses appeared and testified in support of the legislation Only minor objections were raised and these slight flaws can easily be deleted from the bill

The legislative intent was to protect those employees that have found themselves in financial difficulty for the first time Many times, these were cases of mistaken identities or an oversight of payment, hardly substantial causes for dismissal from employment

Since the objections can easily be removed by slight changes in the bill and the committee members agreed on the basic intent of the legislation, this bill will be reintroduced next session

Assemblyman Charles Garrigus presented testimony in support of lowering the age restrictions of male minors in agricultural employment The legislation would lower the age requirement from 18 years of age to 16 in the agricultural processing plants and packing houses It would also remove the hour restrictions on this age group This age group would like to work in the packing houses, but are restricted by present laws and Department of Industrial Relations' regulations

The Division of Industrial Welfare and several labor organizations testified against this legislation They felt present regulations are in the best interest of the youth and this situation should remain They also felt this legislation would open the door to possible unscrupulous actions

Assemblyman Garrigus will probably reintroduce this bill, but the committee members look unfavorably to this action and would recommend refusal of passage of this bill

5. A.B. 2102 and 2103

A representative of the carnival interests presented the view of a state agency licensing carnivals He stated that carnivals find the differences in regulations by the various local authorities work a hardship on the carnivals Standardization by the State seems to be his solution The Division of Industrial Safety testified against the bill on the basis it was impractical and an encroachment of local jurisdictions

On the basis of the remarks by the Division of Industrial Safety, no further action will be taken on these bills

6. H.R. 273

The problem of tax-exempt institutions participating in profit-making enterprises is an extremely complex situation A furniture manufacturer testified that a Seventh Day Adventist Academy manufactured and sold furniture in direct competition to his and other firms

The committee felt that more information was necessary and the consultant was assigned to secure that information.

On the basis of the consultant's report, the committee decided that no further action would be taken on this subject.

Attached is a resume of the activities to date of the Assembly Interim Committee on Judiciary—Civil, and a brief report on its plans for the remainder of the interim

Rather than consider a broad range of subjects, this committee has restricted its studies to a few serious problems in civil law and procedure where a definite need for ameliorative legislation has been shown You can expect to be called on to consider bills inspired by the studies of this committee in each of these important fields We feel that they will merit your interest and careful study

I. Uniform Securities Act

A substantial part of the committee's work has been devoted to study of A.B. No. 2531, the Uniform Securities Act as proposed for adoption in California.

Two full committee hearings were held on A.B. No. 2531 in San Francisco and in Los Angeles. Some 38 witnesses representing the bar, the investment industry, regulatory agencies and law schools were heard.

Other interested committees were invited to take advantage of our hearings and Assemblyman Bruce Reagan, representing the Assembly Interim Committee on Finance and Insurance and Senator Fred Farr, representing the Senate Judiciary Committee, sat with us and participated actively.

For assistance in evaluating the wording and policy of the many highly complex amendments proposed by witnesses at these hearings, an advisory committee composed of representatives from all the interested groups and agencies mentioned above, has been appointed to study these proposals and make recommendations to this committee.

When this advisory group makes its report, the Committee on Judiciary—Civil will have substantially finished what has been one of the most intensive and thorough studies made of the Uniform Securities Act by any state. The committee should be able to make its recommendations to the Legislature well before the 1961 Session.

II. Court Personnel

By constitutional mandate, the Legislature is charged with setting the number and pay of all municipal court personnel and of all municipal and superior court reporters. Each time it is proposed that the number of attaches in a particular municipal court, for instance, be increased or their salaries raised, the Legislature must enact a separate bill. During the 1959 Session, 92 of these bills were introduced.

Generally, such bills are not approved unless they have the endorsement of the board of supervisors and the grand jury of the county concerned. It has been suggested that the role of the Legislature in such cases often amounts to that of an expensive rubber stamp, since no legislative committee has time during the general session to inquire into the merits of such bills This expensive and time-consuming process has been a matter of serious concern to the Committee on Judiciary—Civil

In October 1959, a hearing was held in Sacramento to consider suggested solutions to this problem Witnesses included representatives of the Municipal Court Clerks Association, the Judges, Marshals and Constables Association, the League of California Cities, the County Supervisors Association, the California Court Reporters Association, the California Association of State Hearing Reporters, municipal court judges and individual county representatives

The committee is still studying the various solutions proposed However, it was felt imperative that steps be taken to make the present system more workable and at the same time to provide the committee with the information necessary to evaluate these suggested solutions Therefore, legislation will be introduced during the special session to require the Judicial Council to (1) Make a continuous study of the salaries and numbers of all municipal court personnel and superior court reporters, (2) recommend appropriate legislation; (3) make recommendations with regard to all bills pending before the Legislature in this area; and (4) supply information, on request, to the chairmen of legislative committees to which bills relating to court personnel have been referred.

III. Prepaid Service Contracts

Attorney General Mosk, Consumer Counsel Helen Nelson, district attorneys and better business bureaus throughout the State have received complaints from hundreds of California citizens who have been bilked by certain unconscionable health studios and dance schools which are not representative of these businesses generally

The committee is presently working with the Attorney General and the Corporations Commissioner on suggested legislation which would require every seller of these prepaid service contracts to get a permit from the Division of Corporations The seller would have to disclose all aspects of his operations in his application, and the commissioner could then review the facts and require appropriate safeguards or in some instances, refuse the permit. Hearings will be held on this subject in May.

IV. Real Estate Transactions

The past few years have seen an increasing number of abuses in the field of loans to homeowners and contracts for the purchase of real property. A study of this area is now under way, with a view to producing legislation providing greater safeguards for the public.

V. State Bar Legislative Program

At every regular session of the Legislature, the State Bar introduces many bills affecting the civil law and procedure of California These bills are the product of continual studies made by various committees of the bar and by its board of governors They constitute an important part of each session's agenda for this committee

The Committee on Judiciary—Civil will devote one interim hearing to the State Bar program alone in order that this important and extensive program can be studied and its ramifications explored

VI. California Law Revision Commission

The California Law Revision Commission was created by the Legislature in 1953 to examine the common law and statutes of the State, to recommend such changes in the law as it deems necessary to modify or eliminate antiquated and inequitable rules of law, and to bring the law of this State into harmony with modern conditions

Its studies and recommendations, carefully prepared and widely circulated, are an important and valuable part of the agenda of the Committee on Judiciary—Civil In order to give the committee sufficient opportunity to familiarize itself with these bills, we shall try to arrange a hearing solely for consideration of the Law Revision Commission's 1961 program

VII. Uniform Commercial Code

Adoption of the Uniform Commercial Code by California would bring important and sweeping changes in the business law and procedure of the State

At present, a bill embodying part of this code is being studied by the Senate Judiciary Committee In view of the importance of this bill, and its complexity, we hope to arrange for an interim hearing that will give the Committee on Judiciary—Civil an opportunity to study the bill and its problems more carefully than the crowded schedule of the regular session would permit

Pursuant to H R. No 326, adopted by the 1959 General Session, the Special Assembly Committee on Legislative Representation was established as an interim committee to continue to carry out its duties as set forth in the 1959 Permanent Rules of the Assembly, No. 20.

The committee conducted a public hearing on September 8, 1959, to consider.

(1) The organization of the interim activities of the committee, with particular emphasis on a staff analysis of the California Lobby Act,

(2) A complaint against two legislative advocates whose activities during the 1959 General Session were reported to be in violation of California's Lobby Act (Note The complaining witnesses failed to materialize)

There is now in progress a searching study of the California Lobby Act and a comparative analysis of legislative regulation of lobbying in other states Significant data has been received from 49 states, and a worthwhile analysis is anticipated The study will continue in order that the committee might determine whether or not there is a need for additional legislation in this area.

A. Summary of Interim Activities

1. Committee Hearings.

On August 5, 1959, your committee met in Sacramento to organize for interim work The committee decided to first undertake a study of Assembly Bill No 2319 (Porter, 1959) because of the controversy stirred by the proposed amendment to the Milk Stabilization and Control Law during the 1959 General Session The committee also decided to participate in the California Legislative Internship Program.

On September 4, 1959, your committee met again in Sacramento to hear witnesses from the State Department of Agriculture discuss administrative problems relating to resale milk pricing under the Milk Control Law.

On November 9, 1959, your committee met in Stockton to obtain testimony from industry witnesses relating to Assembly Bill No. 2319 The hearing was very well attended and 17 witnesses testified for the record.

On November 10, 1959, your committee met in San Francisco and obtained testimony from 15 witnesses relating to Assembly Bill No 2319. The hearing was moderately well attended

On November 12, 1959, your committee met in Paramount, Los Angeles County, and obtained testimony from 28 witnesses relating to Assembly Bill No 2319 The hearing was well attended.

On January 20, 1960, your committee met again in Sacramento to complete its planned hearing schedule on Assembly Bill No 2319. Twelve witnesses testified and the hearing was well attended.

2 Staff Research.

On September 18, 1959, an intern was assigned to your committee and began research on resale milk pricing and administration of the Milk Control Law by direction of your chairman The intern helped prepare agenda for each committee hearing, made summaries of each of those hearings and spent a total of three man-days in field work related to resale milk pricing and dairying practices Additional research, including field trips, appears necessary and will be undertaken by the intern, under directions from your chairman, upon adjournment of the 1960 Budget Session

B. Proposed Studies

1 Tentative Hearings

Your committee has been assigned to study additional proposals referring to (1) all milk pricing under the California Milk Stabilization and Control Law, (2) milk hauling charges, (3) the marketing of manufacturing grade milk, (4) butter manufacture and pricing, and (5) buttermilk processing An effort will be made to hold at least one hearing jointly with the Senate Fact-Finding Committee on Agriculture in Fresno on item (3) above and, at the same time, hold a separate hearing on items (1) and (2) above Additional hearings will be necessary on items (1), (4) and (5) above if your committee is to complete its assignment during the current interim It is tentatively planned to resume the hearing schedule as soon as possible after adjournment of the 1960 Budget Session in order that projected studies will be completed by commencement of the 1961 General Session

2. Proposed Relevant Research

Staff research, in addition to committee hearings, will be necessary to augment data obtained from testimony The complexities of resale milk pricing, as revealed in your committee's hearings to date, indicate much deeper study is necessary before the committee can make legislative recommendations Other areas of inquiry, particularly in wholesale milk pricing, milk hauling charges and the marketing of manufacturing grade milk, may also require the acquisition of data and knowledge beyond that which is revealed by testimony from interested witnesses. Objective data must be gathered and analyzed before your committee can make legislative recommendations which, hopefully, will relieve or resolve the complex economic problems of California's growing dairy industry in the public's interest

C. Related Matters

1 Litigation

Outstanding in a series of milk pricing litigations is the Misasi Case now under submission before the Third District Court of Appeals It is a suit involving retail grocers and milk distributors on one side and dock plant operators and the Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Milk Control on the other If the appellate court upholds the San Joaquin County Superior Court decision—and declares that dock plants are a "separate and distinct method of distribution" and are thus entitled to a price differential as granted by bureau—it is conceivable that plaintiff-appellants will carry their appeal to the California Supreme Court, thus, any recommendation by your committee would be jeopardized before the possibility of enactment If the appellate court invalidates the lower court's ruling, the defendant-respondents likely will appeal Moreover, the court may include some legislative prescriptions in its dicta which could enlighten the committee as to its task in amending the Milk Control Law in order to maintain the law's essential integrity while inducing reasonable flexibility

Another case is pending before the court of appeals involving the Bureau of Milk Control authority to set minimum differential prices for plant dock operations Still other cases, now numbering four, are pending before various superior courts and certainly it behooves your committee to study and understand the complaints made in those cases before any recommendations for remedial legislation are made to the Assembly by your committee All current cases question either the authority or the procedures of the Bureau of Milk Control in setting prices

Your committee chairman is aware that the California Consumer Counsel, Mrs Helen Ewing Nelson, has received numerous complaints and requests for information on milk pricing from interested groups and individuals By direction of your chairman, the committee's Legislative Assistant has met wth Mrs Nelson and broadly discussed methods of promoting public knowledge and understanding of milk pricing procedures in California Furthermore, under the supervision of your chairman, the committee staff has begun exploring such methods with officials in the Bureau of Milk Control and with industry spokesmen Your committee is well aware of a lack of concerted effort, by industry and government, in this vital area and will make, through its staff, a pronounced and determined effort to rectify this discrepancy through co-operative interaction with such public and private agencies and groups as indicated.

The main problems which the committee has considered have been those dealing with tidelands oil One of the concerns in this area has been the decreasing revenues received by the State from tidelands oil production The committee heard testimony on this problem at its December 11, 1959, hearing in Santa Barbara It was brought out at that time that the domestic oil market had been suffering from a slump for over a year, thus resulting in decreased revenues to the State from its tidelands leases, and that revenues from Long Beach have been further reduced on account of the initial capital investment in subsidence control equipment.

Another very important problem relating to tidelands oil production is that of the damage caused by subsidence in the City of Long Beach and surrounding areas This committee, both through its December 1-2, 1959, hearing in Long Beach, and through staff research, has closely followed the methods by which the subsidence problem is being attacked Water injection wells are repressurizing the Wilmington field and unitization agreements are being drawn up In view of the seriousness of this problem, and the effect on state revenues from this area, the committee feels that continued observation and research on this subject are essential

The Long Beach subsidence problem is related to another question which has been of concern to the committee—the U.S. v. Anchor, etc, suit. In this suit, the United States charges that through the extraction of oil and gas, the defendants (oil companies operating in the Wilmington field, the City of Long Beach, and the State of California) have caused the subsidence which has damaged the federal Navy yard. The federal claim is for damages, and an injunction against the defendants requiring them to stop all oil production in the subsidence area, both of which would be detrimental to the State's interests Testimony at the December 1 hearing indicated that while the injunction application is "off calendar," subject to being reset, the damage claim is pending and is being prosecuted. This suit has not been settled and involves great potential state liability.

In addition to these problems, the committee has also heard testimony and done staff research on a number of other matters dealing with tidelands oil, including the proposed use of certain lands and tidelands' revenues for municipal purposes; the boundary controversy regarding the tidelands in Long Beach; and a proposed annexation of tide and submerged lands in Santa Barbara. Many of these things require further examination

Staff research has also been done on A B 2912, which was assigned to this committee for interim study The bill proposes to reduce air pollution by making unlawful the sale of gasoline and diesel fuel which does not meet certain standards, including sulfur content, acid heat of reaction, and certain maximum limits to the content of tetra-ethyl-lead. Material on the bill has been gathered from various sources including oil companies and air pollution control districts

The committee held hearings on December 1 and 2, 1959, in Long Beach, and on December 10 and 11, 1959, in Santa Barbara Both of these hearings dealt with tidelands oil matters with regard to the areas where they were held

In accordance with House Resolution No. 326, the Assembly Interim Committee on Military and Veterans Affairs undertook the study of ". . . the subject matter of the Military and Veterans Code, uncodified laws relating to veterans and the military, and other matters relating to military and veterans affairs."

To date the committee has undertaken a study and inquiry of the following:

1. A B 457 which provides that members of the Veterans' Home of California whose income exceeds $50 per month, excepting wages paid member employees on regular assignments, reimburse the State a reasonable amount for maintenance Testimony was received at a public hearing conducted by the committee in Los Angeles on August 31, 1959, and it was evident that further study would be necessary, at least on a staff level before a definite finding could be reported.

2. A B 710 which provides several changes in connection with eligibility for admission to the Veterans' Home of California, with particular emphasis on the length of residence and type of service discharge requirements for qualification. Detailed testimony was received at the August 31 hearing of the committee in Los Angeles No further hearings are contemplated on this matter but the committee expects to make a conclusive recommendation in its report.

3. S B 799 which purports to amend Section 980 of the Military and Veterans Code by broadening the definition of the term "veteran" to include career servicemen not otherwise eligible who were stationed and had bona fide residence in California on December 7, 1941, or on June 27, 1950. No oral testimony was received in connection with this matter so the committee took it under submission and a study is being conducted by the staff.

4. Whether or not service now rendered by county officers should be transferred to the Department of Veterans Affairs A public hearing was conducted to receive testimony on this subject matter on September 1, 1959, at Los Angeles The information received is currently being analyzed It has not been determined whether or not an additional hearing will be required to complete the study

5 Whether the Department of Veterans Affairs, Division of Farm and Home Purchases, reorganization, which will lead to the elimination of 57 employees in the Division of Farm and Home Purchases, will impair the service to veteran applicants for loans. The committee conducted a public hearing in San Francisco on January 8, 1960, and received oral testimony and numerous written documents into evidence. A further study of this problem is contemplated

None of the challenging problems considered by the committee at this writing have been resolved but the committee expects to make conclusive recommendations in its final report.

I. Organization of the Committee and Outline of Work for the Interim

On September 24, 1959, the Assembly Interim Committee on Municipal and County Government, under the Chairmanship of Assemblyman Clark L Bradley, held its organizational meeting in San Jose in conjunction with the Annual Conference of the County Supervisors Association. At that meeting the committee reviewed the various subject matters and bills of the 1959 General Session which were referred to it for study by the Rules Committee for the purpose of setting up a work schedule for the interim period As a result of this hearing, the committee decided to devote most of its time to these following subjects·

1. The consolidation and/or elimination of certain superfluous special district acts, coupled with a review of certain procedures in these acts.
2. Review of the law and procedures concerning the disposition of assets when there is a withdrawal of territory from a special district.
3 Review of the history, functions and procedure of fire grading and rating in California
4. A complete review of the annexation laws and related incorporation laws.
5. Study of legislation relating to reform and improvement of general law counties' problems
6 Functional consolidation.

II. Hearings of the Committee to Date

During the six months' period since the organizational meeting in San Jose, four formal hearings on various subjects have been held, as follows:

1 Consolidation and/or Elimination of Special Districts
San Francisco, October 21 and 22
2. Distribution of Assets Upon Dissolution or Annexation
Los Angeles, December 6.

3 Fire Grading and Rating
Los Angeles, December 7
4 Annexation and Related Incorporation Laws
San Diego, January 14 and 15

As a result of these hearings, the committee decided that legislation would be necessary in some of these fields, however, the committee decided that some of these subjects needed further hearings before it could be determined just what type of legislation should be introduced at the next General Session

A. Hearings Covering Subject Matters on Which No Future Hearings at This Time Are Contemplated and Where Legislation Probably Will Be Proposed.

(a) Consolidation and/or Elimination of Special Districts Hearing
San Francisco, October 21 and 22.

The committee at this hearing studied the district acts dealing with harbors, cemeteries, parking and the control and disposition of garbage to determine whether there could be some effective consolidation and/or elimination of superfluous acts Also, the committee reviewed these acts to ascertain whether each contained a dissolution clause As a result of the testimony received at this hearing, and further research on the matter, the committee at this time contemplates some legislation in this field The final report on the subject is now being prepared

This problem has been a continuing study of this committee for many years which has in the past produced legislation to reduce the number of special district acts.

(b) Distribution of Assets Upon Dissolution or Annexation
Los Angeles, December 6.

At this hearing the committee heard testimony from various witnesses for the purpose of determining whether or not it is possible to arrive at a solution, whether it is a formula or a basis for calculation, on this problem This subject matter is the same as that which was contained in A B 1095 and A B 2743 of the 1959 Session which had been referred to the committee for study

At this time the final report is in the process of preparation and the committee is tentatively contemplating new legislation in this field.

(c) Fire Grading and Rating
Los Angeles, December 7.

The committee received testimony on the history, functions and procedure of fire grading and rating in California The main purpose of this hearing was to build up a record so that an objective and informative report could be published by the committee

At the present time the committee has not decided whether any legislation will be proposed

B. Hearings Already Held Covering Subject Matters on Which Further Hearings Are Presently Contemplated

(a) Annexation and Related Incorporation Laws
San Diego, January 14 and 15.

This was the first of a series of hearings that the committee is planning to hold throughout the State on these subjects Here approximately 30 witnesses, some representing cities or counties, and others speaking as individuals, came before the committee to testify that certain changes in the present law are needed The amount and type of changes proposed ranged from the suggestion that only a complete revision of the law could solve the problems that have been created to the suggestion that only minor changes are needed since the present laws are fairly adequate

The committee at this time plans to hold another two-day hearing in Oakland on May 5 and 6 to hear various witnesses from the northern and central part of the State and then at a later date hold another hearing to hear witnesses from such statewide organizations as the League of California Cities and the County Supervisors Association.

III. Conclusion

As a result of its work so far, the committee has disposed of for this interim as far as further hearings are concerned, three of the six major subjects which it contemplated covering However, the committee is of the opinion that the biggest subject is the review of the annexation and related incorporation laws Therefore, it contemplates spending a great deal of time in hearing witnesses and doing research before it decides just what type of changes, and to what extent, are needed in the present law.

In regard to the subject of functional consolidation, the chairman has reappointed Assemblyman Frank Lanterman as chairman of a subcommittee which will continue its study of this problem which was started some years ago It is felt that this very important subject should again be pursued, since every year the work of the committee in this field has shown tremendous steps forward and its program has been of extreme benefit to the taxpayers of the State of California

The committee also plans to pursue its contemplated study of the problems of general law counties since it feels that a number of changes could be made in the law to allow for permissive local county procedures, first approved by the voters, which would help to streamline and make more efficient what is today admittedly good county government

A total of eight hearings were held by the Assembly Interim Committee on Natural Resources, Planning, and Public Works and its subcommittees during the interim period of June 1959, through February 1960

Three hearings were held on the subject of soil and water conservation, as follows Salida on November 5, San Bernardino on November 10, and Red Bluff on November 19, 1959 A summary report of these hearings was issued on February 3, 1960, and legislation will undoubtedly be introduced at the 1961 Session of the Legislature

A B 2007 relative to co-ordination of releases from reservoirs, introduced by Assemblyman Biddick at the 1959 Session, was discussed at length during the morning session at Salida on November 5. A transcript of this hearing was published and entered in the record on February 3, 1960

The Subcommittee on Records Preservation held two meetings, one a two-day hearing in Los Angeles on December 10 and 11, 1959, and the other a one-day roundtable discussion in San Francisco on January 25, 1960

The Subcommittee on Bay and Water Pollution conducted a field trip to Candlestick Cove, Brisbane, California, on the morning of December 21, 1959, and a hearing was held that afternoon in the San Francisco State Building A transcript of this hearing is now available in the committee office The purpose of this hearing was to investigate the pollution problem created by sewage disposal in this area

The committee participated in a field trip to Squaw Valley on November 20 at which time we viewed the facilities with the intention of holding a hearing at some later date relative to A C R 133 introduced by Mr Bee at the 1959 Session This resolution proposes that the facilities at Squaw Valley be used for educational purposes. In view of the fact that the Ways and Means Committee subsequently scheduled a complete hearing on Squaw Valley, our committee did nothing further in the way of a hearing

* Appointed January 12, 1960, Vice Allen Miller

Our study on soil and water conservation is concluded The matter of bay and other pollution problems is a continuing one and it will probably be necessary to schedule hearings on this subject during the ensuing interim

In my capacity as chairman of the committee, I was invited to participate in a panel discussion at the Western States Supervisors' Association convention on February 13 at San Diego The discussion covered problems involving relationship between the state and federal governments on public lands and in lieu taxes Also in attendance and participating in the conference were legislators from the other states representing the Public Lands Committee of the Council of State Governments

Authorization and Organization

The Assembly Interim Committee on Public Health, created by House Resolution No 326 of the 1959 Regular Session of the Legislature, was by the terms of that resolution, assigned "the subject matter of the Health and Safety Code and the subject matter of the healing arts in the Business and Professions Code, all uncodified laws relating to such subject matters, and other matters relating to public health" In addition the following specific topics were assigned to the committee by Rules Committee on July 29, 1959.

(1) Alcoholic Rehabilitation (A B 1752)
(2) Approval Gas Appliances (A B 2029)
(3) Vitamin Labels (A B 2386)
(4) Air Pollution (H R 131)
(5) Fire Prevention (H R 333)
(6) Environmental Safety (H R 403)
(7) Radioactive Air (A B 172)
(8) Radiological Safety Agency (A B 1833)
(9) Kosher Meats (A B 2725)

In order to facilitate the study of those matters referred to it, the committee organized into working subcommittees Their activities and future needed study are outlined below.

Subcommittee on Air Pollution

Cameron (Chairman), Marks, Mulford, Crawford, Dills, Rumford

Meetings
Berkeley, October 27, 1959
Riverside, December 17, 1959
Sacramento, January 18, 1960

In accordance with House Resolution 131, the subcommittee was appointed to study the air pollution problem, specifically the problem created by emissions of pollutants from motor vehicles which have been found to be a major contributor to air pollution in California

Because of the complexity of the problem assigned the subcommittee, an Advisory Committee on Motor Vehicle Pollution Control was appointed to assist the committee Members were appointed to the advisory committee who represented those agencies, organizations and interests most conversant with the problems related to motor vehicle-created air pollution and included scientists expert in this field, representatives of the State Departments of Public Health and Motor Vehicles, the California Highway Patrol, air pollution control districts, motor car dealers associations, automobile owners associations, and automobile and oil industry representatives

On October 27, 1959, the subcommittee met with the members of the advisory committee in Berkeley to review the questions which needed to be answered before legislation could be considered In the following weeks, the advisory committee met on numerous occasions to answer those questions which the subcommittee assigned to it for study and to prepare its report to the subcommittee

On December 17, 1959, at a meeting at the University of California in Riverside, the advisory committee submitted its preliminary report to the subcommittee

On January 18, 1960, a meeting of the advisory committee and the subcommittee was held in Sacramento to review the draft of a bill based on the advisory committee's report

Two measures incorporating the subcommittee's recommendations have been introduced at this 1960 Special Session of the Legislature It is recommended therefore that these two measures, Assembly Bill No 17 and Assembly Bill No 19, be enacted during this session as the next essential step towards the solution of California's air pollution problem

Subcommittee on Alcoholic Rehabilitation

Members Coolidge (Chairman), Cameron, Cunningham, Hegland, Marks, Thelin, Dills

Los Angeles, December 15, 1959

A B 1752 which was referred to the committee for study related to the program of the Division of Alcoholic Rehabilitation Its principal effect would have been to limit state assistance to local rehabilitation programs to an amount not to exceed 50 percent of the total cost of such programs It would also have provided an augmentation of funds for increased assistance to local programs and for the departmental study and research program

The committee determined that before reviewing the specific provisions of the bill, it should obtain current information on the nature and extent of alcoholism in the State and review the entire program of the division It was for this purpose that the subcommittee held its hearings on November 13 and December 15, 1959

At the first hearing, the division reported that its program is substantially the same as it was when under the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Commission. It includes· (1) treatment and rehabilitation, (2) study and investigation, and (3) education, information and training Under the treatment and rehabilitation aspect of the program, funds are subvened to local communities for the operation of six pilot clinics located in San Diego, Oakland, Los Angeles, San Jose, Sacramento, and Stockton, for the research clinic operated by the UCLA Department of Psychiatry and for partial support of the San Francisco Adult Guidance Center During the last three years the clinics have treated a total of 3,500 patients, with an additional 1,200 now under treatment. Because no comprehensive followup study has been completed, no figures are available as to the success of the treatment program. As a part of its research program, the division is conducting a number of studies to explore the causes of alcoholism and effectiveness of various methods of treatment With regard to education, the division publishes a bimonthly review and a newsletter, maintains a film library, compiles various reports and statistical summaries, arranges conferences for interested groups, and sends out TV, radio, and newspaper announcements

The second hearing concentrated mainly on the work of the local clinics Clinic heads testified and were asked about the problems of their organizations Several clinics reported the need for additional personnel so that they could handle patients who are now being turned away from the clinics Persons from Long Beach reported that alcoholism is a major problem in that city and that a clinic is urgently needed They asked that the State set aside funds for such a clinic with a starting budget of $50,000 and that a rehabilitation program be established at the Long Beach prison farm

The committee intends to hold two additional hearings to study some of the unresolved questions including. (1) the extent and nature of state responsibility in the field of alcoholic rehabilitation; (2) the relationship of the division's program to other rehabilitation programs in the State; (3) the adequacy of state activities in relation to the problem in California today, including the question of the need for new clinics or the expansion of existing clinics; and (4) the method of financing the state program

Subcommittee on Fire Protection

Public Hearings Berkeley, November 4, 1959; Los Angeles, December 18, 1959

The subcommittee was directed by its authorizing resolution (H.R. 333) "to ascertain, study, and analyze all facts relating to fires as a cause of accident and death, including all facts and circumstances relating to fires occurring in family dwelling units, apartment houses, hotels, and schools, and * * * to study the State Housing Act * * * and other laws relating to fire prevention and fire protection * * * "

The first hearing on November 4, 1959, dealt with school fire protection, with particular emphasis on state and local roles in the enforcement of fire safety regulations The committee heard testimony as to the severe damage, injury, and loss of life which can take place in school fires State officials representing those agencies responsible in some way for school fire safety—the Bureau of School Planning, the State Fire Marshal, and the Division of Architecture—reviewed their agencies functions Local school officials and PTA representatives testified as to dangerous conditions in particular school districts The hearing brought out two major problem areas.

(1) New school structures are checked adequately in the planning stage for fire safety aspects, but there is evidence that inspection at the local level when the building is under construction may be inadequate

(2) Old school buildings often present fire hazards because of outmoded methods of construction A major difficulty preventing fire authorities from compelling school districts to bring school buildings up to adequate standards of fire safety is the lack of funds in local communities for such a purpose A measure designed to assist local school districts in this regard (A B No 53) has been introduced at this 1960 Special Session

The second hearing held in Los Angeles on December 18, 1959, dealt with fires in residential structures The committee heard testimony from representatives of the State Division of Housing which administers the State Housing Act, the State Building Standards Commission, local building departments, labor and the construction industry, all of whom indicated their concern with this problem and their support of the committee study It was brought out at the hearing that

(1) The State Housing Act is generally felt to be out of date and ineffective, and those concerned with its administration feel that its function might be better served by an administrative rule-making body empowered to prescribe standards and keep them up to date.

(2) Overlapping and confusion in building regulations is closely related to the problem of providing adequate fire safety rules for residential structures.

The system of state laws and regulations in this area is so complex that it will require intensive study to formulate solutions to the problems indicated above The committee anticipates that, in addition to extensive staff work on these problems, it will be necessary to schedule two additional hearings during 1960

Subcommittee on Radiation Protection

Members Rumford (Chairman), Cameron Grant, Marks, Mulford, Thelin

Legislation recommended by the Public Health Committee in 1959 created a statewide radiation protection program It was felt that this new program should be given a full year of operation before being reviewed by the committee In the meantime, the committee has been following the progress being made and the activities being undertaken in accordance with the provisions of the 1959 legislation A two-day hearing is planned for 1960 to review the program including the work of the Office of the Coordinator of Atomic Energy Development and Radiation Protection, the source registration program which, under the new program, was assigned to the Department of Public Health, and the statewide environmental monitoring program

Other Activities

Several inquiries have been directed to the committee relating to pesticide and other chemical residues in food products which may be harmful to the consumer The committee is presently gathering information on the responsibilities of governmental agencies in this field One meeting is planned for late this year to further consider this problem

The committee is compiling information on the other measures referred to it prior to the scheduling of the additional hearings which will be required to complete the 1959-61 interim program of the committee

During the interim period since July, 1959, the Committee has held four hearings, a summary of which follows:

House Resolution No. 386

Relative to railroad safety regulations

A hearing was held in San Francisco on September 24, 1959 The committee was informed that it was the general feeling of the railroad brotherhoods that informal complaints made to the Public Utilities Commission were being disregarded The representatives of the Public Utilities Commission testified that during the period July 1, 1954 to June 31, 1959, 408 informal complaints were received by them These informal complaints were usually in the form of letters or other communications from the brotherhoods, local agencies or private citizens Of the 408 received, 344 were settled, 46 were found to be unwarranted and 18 were still pending During the period 1954 to 1959 there were seven formal complaints filed by the brotherhoods and three formal complaints filed by individuals relating to railroad safety and operation

Spokesmen for the brotherhoods stated that if, in fact, the California Public Utilities Commission had authority to adopt regulations relative to the health, safety and comfort of railroad employees there would be little need to come to the Legislature for changes in the safety sections of the Public Utilities Code Spokesmen for the commission stated that there was the problem of dual jurisdiction between the Industrial Accident Commission and the Public Utilities Commission and were somewhat confused as to just what was expected of each concerning safety of railroad employees. Both the brotherhoods and the commission expressed a desire to recommend legislation to end this confusion at a subsequent hearing

At this hearing the committee requested of the brotherhoods that they send any informal complaints they might have to the Public Utilities Commission The brotherhoods were promised a subsequent hearing at which time these complaints would be reviewed and the diligence of the commission examined

Future Action by the Committee

The committee intends to hold a hearing on this subject matter in Los Angeles and expects to recommend to the 1961 Legislature legislation removing the confusion of dual jurisdiction of the Industrial Accident Commission and the Public Utilities Commission Also, if necessary, the committee will recommend legislation relative to railroad grade crossings

Installation and Relocation of Public Utility Facilities

A hearing was held in Los Angeles on January 13 and 14, 1960 The general subject matter of A B No 330 (Hanna), A B No 628 (Francis), A B No 1968 (Charles Wilson) and A B No 2811 (Bradley) was covered at this hearing The committee was informed that there are three major problems involved in this subject matter (1) cost of the installation and/or relocation of a public utility facility, (2) adequate co-ordination of all the various utilities and agencies that are using the same general area, whether it be a street, highway or other easement, (3) inconvenience to the public when there is a course of constant construction, especially on streets and highways

It was the consensus of those appearing before the committee that the cost of installation and relocation of public utility facilities is adequately covered by present law It was generally stated that though there might be room for improvement, the resulting confusion would make any legislation in this regard inadvisable

The committee was informed that in highly populated areas of the State it would be to the advantage of everyone if various projects could be co-ordinated so as to combine and limit the construction time This would not only lower construction costs but would lessen the time the public is inconvenienced by reason of disruption of streets and highways The committee received testimony that in some areas voluntary public utility co-ordinating committees had been formed and participation on these committees by local agencies and public utilities had resulted in substantial savings to all and the inconvenience of the public held to a minimum

Spokesmen for local agencies requested that they be allowed, at a subsequent hearing, to present legislation for the formation of public utility co-ordinating committees on a permissive basis It was generally conceded that these committees would operate more efficiently and be more effective if they enjoyed legal status

The committee intends to hold a hearing on this subject matter in Sacramento or San Francisco and expects to recommend to the 1961 Legislature legislation relative to formation of public utility co-ordinating committees It is anticipated that such legislation will be of a permissive nature and not mandatory on local agencies where no benefit would accrue

House Resolution No 358

Relative to pay television

A hearing was held in Los Angeles on November 4, 1959 A field study of the subject was made on the afternoon of the 4th and the morning of the 5th of November, 1959

Summary of Hearing

The committee learned that there are two basic types of pay television systems in the process of development One of the types would transmit the television signal over the air There would be a scrambling device that would make the signal impossible to understand unless the viewer used a code to unscramble the picture and sound Another system would rely on prepaid subscriptions and if sufficient people subscribed to a particular program, the program would be broadcast with an unscrambled signal and could be received by any television set in the area This type of system is under the exclusive control of the Federal Government

The other type of contemplated pay television systems would deliver the television signal to the home viewers set by means of wires or cables in the same manner in which telephone and electric service is delivered to the home Intrastate operation of this type of system is a matter of state control Of the two major companies, Skiatron and Telemeter, which use the wire or cable method, Telemeter was the only company that presented testimony to the committee The committee was informed that Telemeter, a subsidiary of Paramount Pictures, was in mass production of their system and at that time contemplated an installation of the system in West Toronto, Canada Telemeter would franchise its system to local businesses and would also furnish much of the entertainment material It is expected that the backbone of Telemeter's system would be first-run movies and sporting events of national interest

Summary of Field Study

The committee visited the Santa Monica plant of Telemeter and saw an actual demonstration of that system The programs would be developed at a central studio which would use film or direct wire signals to start the program on its way to the home viewer The signal from the studio would reach the home over a coaxial cable capable of carrying all of the programs originating at the studio At the home television set there would be a box placed upon the set which would, when activated, announce the various programs and give the price of each The home viewer could then select the program of his choice and could receive it by placing the necessary amount in the coin slot provided on the box which would automatically release the program By means of an electronic tape inside the box a record is kept of the programs purchased and in the event of overpayment or failure of the program, a refund can be made It is contemplated that the money in the coin receptacle will be collected at the home

Future Action by the Committee

The committee intends to hold a hearing in San Francisco on this subject matter The installation of Telemeter in West Toronto will be covered thoroughly In the event legislation is necessary to protect the public, local agencies or other general interests, such legislation will be presented to the 1961 Legislature

Relative to sale of business franchises

A hearing was held on this subject in Los Angeles on December 1, 1959 The committee was informed that there might be the possibility of evasion of the Securities Exchange Act by persons selling a franchise for the purpose of capitalizing a business However, it was generally agreed that the great majority of such sales did not need regulation and the benefit would only be in those cases where there was the intent to defraud

The committee did receive testimony concerning unethical practices on the part of some dance studios, weight reducing parlors and home work programs Generally these involved contracts and promissory notes for goods and personal services and in the event the goods were not delivered or as specified and the personal services were not rendered the person being defrauded would have to litigate the question, usually at a place far removed from his home

The committee staff made a study of the laws of other states relative to the control of sales of business franchises and found that only three states had laws on the subject Colorado and Wisconsin regulate the franchises of automobile dealers and Minnesota regulates the franchises of farm equipment dealers The rest of the states, even those given above, appeared to leave this matter a subject of their general laws

The committee finds that it would not be advisable to attempt to legislate concerning the sale of business franchises at this time and that abuses of the unethical business man can best be controlled by proper amendment to the Code of Civil Procedure

The Assembly Interim Committee on Revenue and Taxation has met four times during the interim

At its first meeting on October 8, 1959, the committee organized its program for the interim period and decided, among other things, to postpone a study of possessory interest taxation until after the 1960 Budget Session of the Legislature Studies of this problem are presently being conducted at the national level For this reason the committee felt that it would be desirable to await the results of those efforts before starting a study of its own Further action on this subject will undoubtedly be taken prior to the 1961 General Session.

The question whether California should adopt a far-reaching change in its ad valorem property tax structure was also considered by the committee on October 8, 1959 Consideration was given to A C A 56 and A B 2866, introduced by Assemblyman Kilpatrick at the 1959 Session of the Legislature These proposals would provide for the gradual elimination from the property tax base of improvements to realty and personal property No further hearings on this subject are contemplated.

One of the most important subjects considered by the committee during the interim was the question whether California should continue to collect its cigarette tax by means of stamps and meter impressions or whether the tax should be collected by means of reporting on invoices and inventories similar to the method presently used to collect California's sales tax and liquor tax In a comprehensive report submitted to this committee by the Legislative Analyst he pointed out that an estimated annual saving to the State of 1 8 million dollars could be achieved by eliminating the stamps He has since increased the estimated annual saving to 1 9 million dollars. Proponents of the stamp method of collection argue that considerable bootlegging of cigarettes will result if some indicia of the tax is not placed on the individual packages The committee requested the Legislative Analyst to make an objective appraisal of the likelihood that bootlegging would take place in California should the stamps be eliminated. On January 13, 1960, the analyst's staff reported its findings to the committee, and on January 20 and 21 there were public hearings in Sacramento. As a result of these investigations, A B 13 (MacBride), proposing a change in the method of collection, has been introduced at the present session of the Legislature.

Another problem studied by the committee during the past interim period is whether tax appeals boards should be created in metropolitan counties of the State to hear taxpayer complaints against property tax assessments Testimony at the hearing on this subject in Los Angeles on the 13th of January indicated that further staff study will be necessary before the committee will be able to make a recommendation

Subject Analysis and Comparison of the Various Counties' General Relief Programs

Chairman Phillip Burton conducted this hearing in Los Angeles on November 2, 1958

The meeting was held to compare the various counties' general relief programs and the various standards used by the counties for qualification for general relief, to determine if uniform state legislation is advisable to improve the general relief program within the State

Witnesses at this hearing consisted of welfare directors from San Joaquin, Los Angeles, and San Diego Counties, which counties it was felt, would give a good representative picture of the general relief program in California Also testifying were John M Wedemeyer, Director of the Department of Social Welfare, representatives from welfare divisions of unions; a representative of the County Supervisors Association, and various other interested individuals.

Legislation will be introduced in this area.

Pursuant to House Resolution No 326, Section 12, the Assembly Interim Committee on Transportation and Commerce hereby submits a brief progress report of its activities for the period June 1959 through February 1960, as follows·

The Transportation and Commerce Committee has held hearings on the following assigned bills and resolutions·

House Resolution No 381, relating to a factual study of state functions bearing on the ownership and use of motor vehicles, will enable the administrative officials of the Department of Motor Vehicles, California Highway Patrol, and the Division of Highways to make studies in order to develop a factual blueprint of immediate and long-term requirements as a basic guide for sound legislative and administrative action. Comprehensive factual studies are being undertaken in all functions of state government related to the administration of motor vehicle affairs. The active co-operation of the State Highway Patrol, the Department of Motor Vehicles and the Division of Highways is appreciated.

Meetings have been held on H R No 381 as follows

July 23, 1959	San Francisco
August 25, 1959	Sacramento
October 15 and 16, 1959	San Francisco
January 26, 1960	Sacramento

It is my considered opinion that due to the complexity of the problems presented and the widespread public interest in this study project, it will be necessary to hold at least five more committee hearings on this subject during 1960

Assembly Bill No. 1352, relating to the testing and approval by the California Highway Patrol of tires for sale in California, was heard before this committee on August 24, 1959, in Sacramento, and no future hearings on this subject are contemplated and no legislation has been proposed.

Assembly Bill No. 2124, relating to vehicles turning left at intersections, was heard in Sacramento on August 24, 1959 A companion bill,

S B. No 1018 (Christensen), was heard by the Senate Judiciary Committee of the last general session and it was decided that the civil liability aspects of the subject should receive additional study and the bill was referred to interim Whether or not legislation will be proposed will depend on the outcome of that study

Assembly Bill No 2539, relating to the creation of a Motor Vehicle Advisory Board, was heard in Los Angeles on November 19, 1959 No future study is contemplated nor has any legislation been proposed

Assembly Bill No 2540, relating to the revision of existing statutory provisions defining and regulating authorized emergency vehicles, was heard on November 19 in Los Angeles It is anticipated that one more hearing will conclude this study and that legislation will be proposed on the subject

House Resolution No 170, relating to the transfer of the driver education program from the Department of Education to the Department of Motor Vehicles, had a full day hearing in Los Angeles on November 20, 1959 It is probable that another one-day hearing will be necessary in order to conclude this study A number of citizen groups have suggested that the existing program needs revision

House Resolution No 118, relates to the study of mass transportation problems in the San Francisco Bay area, and directs that this committee shall report its findings to the Assembly not later than the fifth calendar day of the 1961 Regular Session This subject was heard in San Francisco on December 18 and 19, 1959, and it is contemplated that at least two more hearings will be necessary in order to conclude the study.

A subcommittee of the Transportation and Commerce Committee met with the Senate Transportation and Public Utilities Committee in Los Angeles on December 8, 1959, to hear testimony of the Division of Highways on their development of barriers for use on the freeways and highways of California, as well as testimony on county road policies

In order to conserve the time of witnesses and cost to the State, this committee plans to hold additional meetings with the Senate Transportation Committee on matters of mutual interest

We have 15 assigned items which have not yet been considered, plus the additional items which will be referred to the committee at this session.

Progress Report to the 1960 Budget Session

During the 1959 interim the Assembly Interim Committee on Water devoted its attention exclusively to the study of economic and financial policies for state water projects In so doing it completed work which had been underway during the two preceding years by a subcommittee of the Joint Committee on Water Problems

The committee gave priority to the above work because both A.C R. No. 149 and H R No 293 directed that the investigations be concluded and reports be submitted during the 1960 Budget Session. Accordingly, a final report designated as Volume 26, Number 1 of Assembly Interim Committee Reports was prepared and presented to the Assembly on February 1, 1960 This report concludes all work by the committee as directed by the above resolutions

A total of 15 days of hearings and work sessions were held by the committee between August 5, 1959, and January 12, 1960, in the locations and pertaining to the subject matters as listed below.

Date—Location	Subject

The conclusions of the committee are set forth in Chapter VI of the report The determination whether legislation will result from this work will depend in part upon decisions made by the committee, the house leadership and the Governor's office In any event, the committee's final report will be a basic document in the preparation of future legislation on water resources development

The Assembly Interim Committee on Ways and Means has considered three subjects during this interim period They have been, (1) the fiscal condition of the State Beach and Park Fund, (2) the future disposition of state property at Squaw Valley, California, and (3) the economic effects of the marketing of proposed state water bonds

The fiscal condition of the Beaches and Parks Fund was discussed at a hearing held in Sacramento, December 11, 1959 This hearing dealt with the potential deficit situation facing the fund Personnel representing the Division of Beaches and Parks, the Department of Natural Resources, the Legislative Analyst's Office and the State Park Commission, appeared and testified before the committee

It was made clear at this hearing that unless some other source of moneys than the State Lands Fund was found for financing the operation, acquisition, and development of state parks a deficit situation would result in the immediate future It was pointed out that 16 million dollars worth of acquisition and development projects, already appropriated for by the Legislature, would have to be deferred in order to balance the division budget in 1960-61

The possibility of augmenting the fund by increasing the percent of oil revenue earmarked for beaches and parks was discounted It was made clear that declining oil royalties, even if completely dedicated to beaches and parks would be insufficient to pay even the current support costs of the division In addition, these costs will continue to rise as new parks, already acquired, are developed and begin operating Complicating the problem is the indefinite future of Squaw Valley, which will become a part of the State Park System at the conclusion of the 1960 Winter Olympic Games Indications are that the valley will require further expenditures of park funds if it is to be properly integrated into the State Park System

There was almost unanimous agreement among the witnesses that the most practical solution to the problem would involve doing away with the special Beaches and Park Fund This would make it necessary for beaches and parks needs to be supplied from the General Fund

The conclusions reached, which may result in legislation, should preclude the need for further study in this area However, further study is contemplated in the realm of planning for future beach and park development This will involve, among other things, a study of the California Public Outdoor Recreation Plan which will be presented to the Legislature this March

The second hearing of the committee dealt with a problem that had been touched on in the first—Squaw Valley and its future disposition The expenditure of $7,990,000 and the designation of Squaw Valley as a state park by the Legislature, had acquired for the State a major financial problem The committee heard testimony concerning the State's past expenditures, the present status of the State in the valley, and the future use or disposition of the state property in the area

The hearing, which took place January 4 and 5 in San Francisco, called on officials of the California Olympic Commission, the Olympic Organizing Committee, the Department of Finance, the State Park Commission, the Department of Natural Resources, the Division of Beaches and Parks and the Legislative Analyst's office Also appearing were the two largest landowners in the valley, Alex Cushing and Wayne Poulsen

The hearing brought out a diversity of opinion as to the future disposition of the state property involved This opinion ranged from suggestions that the State immediately "sell out and get out," to advice that the State acquire, either by negotiation or condemnation, all the ski and resort property necessary to give the State a completely integrated state park, for winter and summer use

The situation is complicated, partially because of contracts between the State and the Squaw Valley Development Company These contracts, negotiated by the California Olympic Commission with the approval of the Department of Finance, turned over to the company control of the two state-built ski lifts for 10 years and the beginners ski area for 30 years Included in the 30-year lease were certain parking privileges on state-held land The result of this contract is that the State, in negotiations for a potential concessionaire, is left with little bargaining power, since the principal money-making state facilities are already in private hands Consequently, the best concession bid received to date by the Division of Beaches and Parks, would net the State a yearly loss of $175,000.

It was also brought to the committee's attention that if the State is to regain control of any of this property through condemnation, legislation will have to be passed to that effect The right of eminent domain, exercised by the Division of Beaches and Parks in other parts of the State, has been restricted in Squaw Valley This restriction was embodied in Assembly Bill No 1774 of 1957, which designated the area as a future state park There was general agreement among the committee members that legislation restoring this power should be presented and passed A committee bill to that effect has been presented to the Legislature, passed by the Assembly and is now being acted upon in the Senate.

The diversity of opinion regarding the future of this area indicates the need for further interim study which will be carried on by this committee after the Budget Session

The economic effects of the marketing of water bonds was the subject matter of the third hearing held by the committee during the interim period This meeting took place in Los Angeles, January 14, 1960.

Since several vital programs are financed through the issuance of state bonds, the addition of the water bonds to the already large sales by the State might seriously effect the bond market and in turn the economic stability of California

The State Treasurer testified that he was already charged with the responsibility for the annual sale of 200 million dollars worth of bonds He pointed out that these large sales have resulted in a single syndicate bid for California bonds and a consistent payment by the State of higher interest rates than other bonds of similar quality throughout the country However, the Treasurer, as well as other expert witnesses, testified that state bond marketing practices could be revised in order to minimize the negative effect produced by the water bonds It was also suggested that some state programs presently financed by bonds, could in the future go to the General Fund for their support

In addition to the State Treasurer, testimony was received from the Legislative Analyst, the Director of the Department of Finance, and representatives of three of the large bond houses that participate in the syndicate which has in the past purchased the majority of state bonds

Although no definite conclusions were reached it was generally agreed that the water bonds, if properly handled, would have no serious detrimental effect on the state economy

The information gathered by this hearing has been offered to the Assembly Water Committee for possible use in their future studies

Subcommittee On Social Welfare Costs

Authority and Purpose

The Subcommittee on Welfare Costs of the Ways and Means Committee was authorized by H R. No 326 24 to look into administrative and program costs of welfare in the State of California

This committee is especially concerned with ascertaining whether services now offered by state, area, and county welfare offices are dealing effectively and economically with those persons who are actually in need of aid.

Preliminary Work

The preliminary work of the subcommittee included conferences with representatives of state and county organizations who have knowledge of welfare programs, and the preparation and circulation of questionnaires to 19 representative counties Material secured on questionnaires from these counties is now being analyzed and visits to supplement this information have, so far, been made to nine of the 19 counties

The committee held two hearings, one in Sacramento, one in Los Angeles, to learn the views of county supervisors and directors of welfare; members of the State Welfare Board; state departments of social welfare, taxpayers' associations; and other organizations and professions concerned with this subject

Preliminary Findings

From these sources the following preliminary findings are presented, subject to modification as further facts develop

1 There are strengths as well as weaknesses in the welfare programs in California and a general desire on the part of welfare administrators for improvement of the system

2 California is among the leading states in standards of welfare given It prohibits recovery liens on property and is liberal in terms of real and personal property recipients of aid may retain.

3 The pattern of expenditures in all California assistance programs is, in certain respects, extravagant The pattern has been dominated by old age assistance along lines that have expressed major concern for underwriting economic need This approach, most nearly appropriate for older people, is not sufficient for other categories

4 The California welfare program seems in many respects to be out of balance and full of contradictions

5 The administrative procedures of concentrating on determination of eligibility and the amount of need, while ignoring basic causes of dependency—especially in the aid to needy children cases—has not proven successful Most of these families have a host of problems and are known to several public, and often private, agencies They cost the community a great deal more than is reflected in the welfare budget

6. There appears to be a lack of co-ordination of state agencies handling problems of health and welfare of the people of California. Problems are often viewed from the standpoint of administrative organization rather than agency function This leads to duplication, delays, gaps, and overlapping of services

7 Insufficient attention has been given to how expenditures can most effectively resolve community or individual problems which resulted in dependency.

8 Better trained welfare staffs appear to be a crying need Sufficient remuneration to attract qualified staff would likely be offset by saving in long-term aid payments

9 Although total welfare aid payments in California run over a half billion dollars a year, the Legislature has in a large part abdicated its control of the purse strings The Welfare and Institutions Code puts 97 percent of state welfare costs outside of legislative control and review by making them continuous appropriations The remaining 3 percent is influenced by the 97 percent No clear statement of legislative intent is in the Welfare and Institutions Code.

10 The State Social Welfare Board adopts policies and increases the cost of welfare programs without asking the cost or seeking legislative approval; commits the State to substantial costs without the responsibility for finding the revenue for such costs

11 There is ambiguity in the Welfare and Institutions Code provisions dealing with aid and the method of paying it

12 County welfare departments, administering aid programs with federal money, are required as a condition to accept state supervision To give these supervisory services, three fully staffed area offices are set up, in Sacramento, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. Because of the wide variation in interpretation of law, rules and regulations by the large staffs of the three area offices, it appears the present plan is more costly than practical and reappraisal of this plan of supervisory service is essential

Need for Further Study

The following considerations make further study essential as a guide to legislation which may be proposed for the 1961 Session · (1) numerous and complex problems have emerged which need further investigation, (2) it is deemed wise now to add Los Angeles County to the study since approximately 40 percent of the welfare aid in the State is handled by this county; (3) important welfare legislation now pending in the U S Congress must be studied for its effect upon the aid problems of California, (4) a proposal made at the Los Angeles hearing for county-state projects to demonstrate comprehensive welfare programs must be studied, (5) projects of an emergency nature, based upon developing conditions, may require study by this committee prior to the 1961 legislative session.

HONORABLE MEMBERS OF THE ASSEMBLY
Assembly Chamber, Sacramento

GENTLEMEN: Attached are several excerpts from this committee's hearing held in Sacramento on January 18-19, 1960

This hearing was called in order to give sportsmen throughout the State an opportunity to present their views on the financial status of the Department of Fish and Game and the current level of services and programs This was the first time the license-buying public was able formally to say whether it was satisfied with the level of fish and game programing and the returns received and to decide what areas might be expanded and what areas require cutbacks

The hearing was attended by the full committee, representatives of the Senate Committee on Natural Resources, department personnel and over 25 witnesses speaking for sportsmen's organizations throughout California Although the court reporter's transcript of the hearing was not ready for distribution at this writing, the following excerpts from the court reporter's notes are submitted for the interest of all Members of the Assembly prior to final action on the Budget during this 1960 Session Further information on this subject is available from the committee office

TESTIMONY ON THE USE OF "FROZEN FUND" MONEY

Mr. Shannon, Director of the Department of Fish and Game:

In relation to the 1960-61 budget, which is a part of the Governor's Budget or the Governor's Budget which has not as yet been announced, I might say, even though it hasn't been announced, we are prepared to discuss with you our proposals which did call for increase in level of some services and programs.

The proposals for increases we have made generally are those programs which we listed as needing improvement in 1957 when the Fish and Game Commission and the department asked the Legislature for increased revenues, which you granted us

In relation to the use of so-called "frozen funds," we have approached this on the basis that such funds required to cover the proposed budget, which are duly appropriated by the Legislature, become unfrozen by that act This approach was adopted after consultation with the offices of the Legislative Analyst and the Department of Finance

Whatever the action of the Governor and the Legislature is in relation to our 1960-61 proposed budget and its relation to so-called "frozen funds," we do not anticipate that any license increase would be necessary within the foreseeable future to provide for the anticipated needs of a sound wildlife conservation program

We estimate a working surplus of $4,269,861 in the Fish and Game Preservation Fund on June 30, 1960, and end of the current fiscal year Of this, $3,734,494 comprises the so-called accumulation "frozen funds" and $535,367 the so-called "unfrozen" working capital

If all our budget proposals were adopted for the 1960-61 fiscal year, and our total revenue estimates, including so-called "frozen funds" continue true, revenues will cover all operations and maintenance. The only proposed draft on accumulated funds would be in the amount of approximately $760,000 for one-time capital outlay expenditures

This would leave an estimated fish and game preservation fund balance of $3,738,697 at the end of the 1960-61 fiscal year.

Chairman Davis· Mr Shannon, may I ask you a question there? You are considering, in order to be able to make this statement the use of the frozen fund moneys?

Mr Shannon Yes, we are contemplating use of the frozen money.

Chairman Davis· I think this should be made very clear. I think some people generally have the opinion that the only way these frozen moneys could be released would be by a special bill to so indicate what these funds would be expended for, but that is not the case as you have stated and that is, that merely the adoption of this program in the Governor's Budget releases these frozen funds, right?

Mr Shannon: Adoption by the Legislature of the Governor's Budget

Chairman Davis. That is correct So actually if you were not to use these frozen funds, what would be your financial status for the next fiscal year as far as revenue is concerned? Would you actually be in a hazardous position?

Mr Shannon Of course, in proposing our budget, we took into account, as I mentioned, the areas where we indicated we would expand or put increased emphasis if we got a license increase and we followed that plan pretty much assuming that that is what the sportsmen wanted and what they felt was the area that we should put more effort into

In reference to the financial crisis of the Marine Research Committee which Mrs Davis mentioned in her letter, this is being met during the current and coming fiscal year by reducing programs back to a level of expenditures within the anticipated income During the previous two fiscal years, revenues were greater and the committee materially expanded its program utilizing accumulated surpluses

The Marine Research Committee has reported to the director that a return to its expanded program is desirable but not possible in view of its reduced reserve income At its meeting last month, the committee considered the possibility of widening its revenue base by several means These included an increase in the tax on those species now taxed, adding other species to those now taxed, looking for other sources such as grants from foundations or the federal government, and seeking support from the State's General Fund

The committee has not finished its evaluation of the situation nor has it made any recommendation upon which I would base my judgment as director as to which avenue should be followed

Assemblyman Thomas· May I ask a question? What is the crisis of the Marine Research Committee? How much deficit is there, if there is a deficit?

Mr Shannon. There is a deficit I would like to call on Harry Anderson here to give you the situation better than I can

Mr Anderson, Deputy Director of the Department Madame Chairman, and members of the committee, I do not have the specific figures here, but the revenue as I recall is approximately $50,000 less than what was anticipated Therefore, the program will be underfinanced by approximately that amount They will have to curtail this year's program They are also estimating a continuation at the reduced level for next year.

Assemblyman Thomas There is a $50,000 deficit?

Mr Anderson I recall that is the approximate figure Is it more than that in total? I would be glad to pick those figures up and give you the further detail later if you would wish Chairman Davis Well, I believe that possibly we should have them You are interested in having that specifically, aren't you, Mr Thomas?

Assemblyman Thomas Well, you call it a financial crisis I was wondering, what is the crisis

Mr Shannon· The crisis is the fact they are spending more money than they are taking in by quite a little bit, quite a sizeable percentage when you look at their total budget

Mr N B Keller, Legislative Analyst's Office Mrs Davis and members of the committee, I don't have a formal statement to make, but Mrs. Davis did ask me to get together some information on the fund condition of the Department of Fish and Game, particularly with respect to the so-called frozen portion As you recall the bill which increased the various fees included a section which said that 50 percent of the increase would be kept in a separate account as it were and would not be subject to expenditure except by specific appropriation of the Legislature

Of course, each time that a budget is proposed and it contains any part of this frozen portion and the Legislature passes it, this constitutes an approval of the appropriation of the frozen portion

Now, the budget that is being proposed for 1960-1961 will come within a half million dollars of expending the total revenue for the year and this is without including any capital outlay I have no specific figures on capital outlay as yet, but I understand some will be forthcoming.

Among the things I recall that have been talked about, for example, are the construction of the new patrol vessel for the north coast There is only one that is doing the job now and it isn't sufficient This would mean that if any capital outlay is included that the revenue for the 1960-1961 fiscal year will be expended almost in its entirety

Now, from the time the act became effective up to and including the proposed budget year, the so-called frozen portion should have totaled according to my calculations somewhere in the vicinity of six and a half million dollars, so that the total surplus at the end of the budget year of 1960-1961 should have been something in the vicinity of seven million dollars

Actually this surplus will only be about five million dollars which means in effect that through that budget year you will have expended two million dollars out of this supposed frozen portion Now, at the rate that the revenues have been increasing contrasted with the rate at which salaries have been going up, with the annual increases, the normal permit salary adjustments for the salary ranges, increases in costs of all the services that the department obtains, if in the following year, that is 1961-62, there is no increase in level of service, no new programs, no additional positions, and if the revenue increases no more than has been projected in the past, that particular year may well be a point at which you have reached a saturation That is, you will be expending every nickel the department takes in.

If you, on the other hand, add anything to services in any way, you are going to start to dip into the surplus and you will be operating in essence on a deficit basis You will be spending more than you take in.

Chairman Davis So actually, what you are saying, Mr. Keller, is that for the year 1960-61, if we should grant the expanded program even to some degree, that the department is requesting, they will use proportionately the majority of the frozen funds that are intact now?

Mr Keller Yes

Chairman Davis And then realistically you would have to assume that the department in the year of 1961-62 would not be before the Legislature asking for one single additional staff or any increase anywhere in order to continue on their basic level and keep within their revenue basis, is that what you are saying?

Mr Keller Yes, essentially if they are to stay within their revenue, they would have to come before you in 1961-62 with essentially the same level of service they are asking for now

Chairman Davis· Well now, have you found in your experience around these legislative halls that any state agency customarily remains status quo and never comes to the Legislature without any specific requests for a single solitary thing? Is that realistic to assume?

Mr Keller There have been examples There have been some agencies that have remained static Oddly enough there have been a few that have been cut back Actually, the program which is—I think the Department of Fish and Game hasn't expanded a great deal I think a good part of their increased expenditure has been purely salary adjustments, just increased costs of doing business This is one of the unfortunate parts of a fixed form of income in which you have a fixed fee irrespective of what it costs to provide a service

In the case of almost all of the other state services, its income is more or less based on the total economic level of the State You have in a sense a percentage of the total income of the citizens of the State in the form of the sales tax and so on

In the case of an agency like this where you have a fixed fee and you cannot anticipate that a great many more people are going to make use of these facilities each year, they are caught in a kind of nutcracker

On the one hand the salaries keep getting pushed up each year, as you know, nearly every year for the past, as long as I have been here, there has been a salary increase fund Certainly prices for everything, goods, services, supplies, everything that they buy, have been going up and with all due respect to the agency some of their trouble is not their own fault

Chairman Davis Well this we recognize, but then you are not saying, or are you, that their program they are recommending this year with 75 new people in their department is a hundred percent justified?

Mr Keller No, ma'am, I am not saying it is either justified or unjustifiable at this time I am just trying to establish some street signs as it were

Chairman Davis I think we can all recognize that if we should give the department the staff they are requesting in total of 22 people for water projects, this would be I would assume just the mere beginning because any time you embark upon the staff that is needed for the investigation in water projects, certainly that is going to be a continuing thing Am I not correct in my assumption?

Mr Keller This is probably true, but it can still be controlled by the Legislature. They can be allowed to expand or not as the Legislature sees fit

Chairman Davis I understand that So actually unless they keep the status quo for the year 1961-1962, there is a probability that the sportsmen would be faced with a probable increase in license all of it depending upon what their programs would consist of at that time?

Mr Keller That is right, unless you wanted to begin to use up the surplus

Chairman Davis Any other questions by the members?

Assemblyman Thomas Has your office taken any action on the proposed budget by the department?

Mr Keller: Not yet

Assemblyman Thomas Well, do you anticipate that, do you know?

Mr Keller: Well, we are in kind of a bind right now Mr Post is on his back with the flu and——

Assemblyman Thomas· You don't know officially just what the position will be?

Mr Keller: I don't know We were going to discuss it this week Now, I can't tell you when we will discuss it

Assemblyman Thomas. And this surplus that you talked about, was that six million dollars?

Mr Keller It is about five million dollars or will be five million at the end of the budget year

Assemblyman Thomas So the money is there? The money will be available?

Mr Keller Yes

Assemblyman Thomas So actually the department wouldn't have to be operating in the red?

Mr. Keller· No, they will not be operating in the red, assuming the revenues come in as anticipated

Assemblyman Thomas For 1962 we can still say we have some money there?

Mr Keller That is perfectly true

Assemblyman Thomas So the department is financially in a good position?

Mr Keller Well, they are not broke if that is what you mean

Assemblyman Thomas No, that is right In 1962 they would still have money?

Mr Keller They will still have a surplus but that surplus will amount to just a fraction of their annual cost of operation, less than half

Assemblyman Thomas I know that, but you were also anticipating the income Are you taking into consideration the income of 1962?

Mr Keller Yes, we are What I said was based on the income coming in on pretty much the same level of annual increase that we have had There are a certain number of new hunters and fishermen every year

Assemblyman Thomas What I am trying to get at, you are not going to use the five million dollars in 1962?

Mr Keller No, of course not

Assemblyman Thomas That is the point, you will still have something available?

Mr Keller: Yes.

Assemblyman Thomas So coming to a conclusion, a logical conclusion, the department financially is in a pretty good position?

Mr Keller. The department is in a good position from the standpoint of having this surplus

Assemblyman Thomas Yes

Mr Keller. But the point I was trying to make is that if there is any substantial expansion in the programs of the department in 1961-

62, they will begin to be spending more than they will be taking in and this is simply not a good policy on the face of it

Assemblyman Thomas· What is the five million dollars doing there? What are we going to do with it?

Mr Keller· Generally speaking, since this is a special fund, the five million dollars or at least a substantial part of it ought to be preserved as a cushion There may be situations of emergency that might arise There might be unexpected drops in the revenue, and a drop in the revenue is not going to drop a program or curtail positions They will be there just the same and they will have to be supported and I think from a financial standpoint it is wise to keep a certain amount of cushion there.

Now, I am not going to argue that five million is the figure Maybe three million is the figure.

Assemblyman Thomas That is what I was coming to

Mr Keller But the point I wanted to make is that this is the time at which you would have to start to think of which way you are going Are we going to start to use up some of the surplus or are we going to start to think in terms of another round of fee increases?

Chairman Davis Any other questions by members of the committee? Mr Keller, can you submit to this committee a breakdown of the frozen fund moneys that you have quoted here today in addition to what my secretary is able to take down so we have it for the record?

Mr Keller I don't have it in good enough condition right now to give to you but I will have it for you tomorrow Will that be all right?

Chairman Davis That will be fine Thank you very much

Assemblyman Thomas May I ask Mr Shannon a question? Mr Shannon, you are director of the department What is your opinion on the financial status of the department? Does it look black? I mean what does the future look like?

Mr Shannon I think the financial position at the present is sound I don't disagree too much with what Mr Keller stated We have been operating you might say very economically and with rather severe restrictions over the past few years because of the lack of funds Then we got the license increase Now a certain amount of money has developed We have money for increased operating expenses and some for capital outlay

We think in view of the need to protect and maintain California's resources, this is the time to step forward and use some of the money that we have gotten from the increased license fees We don't propose to operate in the red

For a special fund agency to operate in the red is bad business, I believe We have as far as the surplus is concerned five million dollars or whatever it may be, four million and a half, or whatever it is, and that is sufficient cushion to provide for any emergency

In fact, my own personal thought is that it is almost twice as much as is really needed for a cushion and I don't say that we should use all that up, but for certain one-time, one-shot capital expenditures, we can draw on that surplus occasionally Does that answer your question, Mr Thomas?

Assemblyman Thomas Yes, in other words the department is financially stable right now for the next three or four years we can say?

Mr Shannon I think we are in pretty good position and if in 1961-62 it appears that by increasing our services considerably we would be in the red, if I am director at that time, I wouldn't do it

Assemblyman Thomas And even though you are making application for 75 new positions, you still feel that that financial situation is good?

Mr Shannon It is still sound in view of the added positions

DEPARTMENT'S PROPOSED NEW PHEASANT POLICY NOW PENDING BEFORE FISH AND GAME COMMISSION

Chairman Davis Mr Shannon, let me ask you if the commission should go along with your recommendation on the elimination of, what is it, six game farms?

Mr Shannon: Approximately.

Chairman Davis And retaining the one at Chino and the one at Yountville and as I understand the one at Yountville is one where you would primarily raise the baby chicks?

Mr Shannon Both of them—at both of them we would raise chicks for the sportsmen

Chairman Davis And how many? Do you have any amount in mind?

Mr Shannon· Of chicks?

Chairman Davis. Yes

Chairman Davis. What is going to happen to the pheasant tags that we have had all this time? I mean the pheasant program and the revenue that they bring in?

Mr Shannon Well, that is up to the Legislature, of course, because that is set by the Legislature There is a license fee in effect to hunt pheasants and as to what would happen to that would be up to the discretion of the Legislature

As a little back history on that, the pheasant tag was not specifically tied to the game farm program At the time that the pheasant tag was inaugurated a system of co-operative hunting areas was in the picture and the feeling, and I can't say by all the legislators certainly and I don't mean to try to interpret intent, but by some of the legislators, they felt that this money could be obtained through the sale of pheasant tags and it would help finance the co-operative hunting program which has been in existence for a number of years and came on about the same time as the pheasant tag

The pheasant tag was not designed to finance specifically and restricted only to the game farm program

Chairman Davis What was your revenue from the pheasant tags this present season? Do you have any idea?

Mr Shannon It was approximately $400,000 We have in the neighborhood of 200,000 pheasant hunters

Chairman Davis Then, as far as this year is concerned were you planning on absorbing that $400,000 in some other programs since it wasn't specifically earmarked for the pheasant program?

Mr Shannon Well, the $400,000 is not earmarked specifically for the co-operative hunting program It is used to finance that and other game programs and partially, too, the game farms

Chairman Davis So what you are saying is that money would be disbursed to other programs?

Mr Shannon Well, it is disbursed to other programs now and if we did away with the game farms, of course, it would cost so much to run these two game farms and raise these 20,000 chicks, but then the money that came in, in addition to that, that was required for those purposes would be used to improve pheasant habitat and to provide more effective patrol perhaps in pheasant areas and so forth and perhaps some of it would, if there was more than that necessary for those purposes, it would go into other game programs, no doubt

Chairman Davis Will you discuss briefly just what you plan on doing with these baby chicks that you are going to raise at these two game farms? You are going to give them to whom?

Mr Shannon Well, at the present time we have quite a few groups that like to raise pheasants and release them and they have established pens and paid for them sometimes out of their own funds, sometimes out of the county fine moneys and they have a program set up wherein they co-operate and obtain, feed and raise these birds from small ones up to maturity, and then they are released in accordance with regulations of the Fish and Game Commission They have to be released on public lands, so we would in order not to throw these people out of business who have their pheasant pens established and it is a hobby, and many times it is one of the things that keeps the club together—we would propose to furnish these clubs with all the small birds that they have to depend upon the State for as a rule, and we would continue to supply these so that they could continue their pheasant program

We think possibly after a number of years they would come to the same conclusion we have and some of them already have in the past that raising mature birds for put-and-take shooting is a pretty expensive proposition

Chairman Davis Well, Mr Shannon, are these private clubs going to be able to retain some of these baby chicks for reimbursement for raising these baby chicks to adulthood, or do they have to plant all of them on private lands?

Mr Shannon These are not private clubs as such They are sportsmen's groups In other words it is a sportsmen's group, anybody can join Sometimes it is a large club and they raise these birds to maturity

Chairman Davis I know that, but are you going to let them retain some of these baby chicks for their own planting on their particular areas?

Mr Shannon Yes, the regulations provide that they would retain a certain number of these for planting and then they would have to plant a certain number in accordance with the direction of the Department of Fish and Game on public lands

Chairman Davis May I at this time with the permission of the committee ask Mr Kent DeChambeau, who is the counsel for the committee, relative to discussing and making very clear the law as it relates to the pheasant program?

Mr DeChambeau I believe you are referring to Section 1529 of the Fish and Game Code which provides the output of any state game farm shall be distributed on public lands or where the department determines that the output will receive adequate protection and be most likely to thrive and multiply. I believe this would apply to any birds that could be considered the output of a game farm I believe that would include these small chicks, so therefore they would be required to be planted on public lands or wherever they would be most likely to thrive and multiply

Mr Shannon That can be worked out They have to be planted on public lands That is one part, or they must be planted at a place where the department thinks that they will thrive and multiply So this latter part can often be done in consultation with the sportsmen's clubs which raise the birds and most often is They want to know where we think would be the best place for these birds and in most cases that is where they are planted

Then in addition many of them go on to public lands, which is the first part of that section that you read

Chairman Davis Do you feel, Mr Shannon, that at all times these birds have been released according to this law, that they were released in areas natural to their habitat where they can actually survive even by these clubs?

Mr Shannon I couldn't honestly say in all cases that this has been done I would say this, that we have been guided by this in our planting of birds out of game farms, that we have tried to plant them on public lands and that is why we plant a lot of them on co-ops, our co-operative areas, where people can shoot them and take them

In some cases there is a question in relation to private lands as to whether or not they have been planted in areas where they would thrive and multiply That is open to question in some cases I wouldn't say

Chairman Davis· Just one more question if I may and that is that since you are decreasing your number of chicks that you are going to have an interest in, who is going to supply these co-op areas, these public co-op areas that you have supplied in the past, or is it just going to be a thing of the past, or are they going to become an interest of the county government or probably a sportsmen's organization or what is going to happen to these public shooting grounds?

Mr Shannon Well, in relation to our proposed policy, you are talking if our proposed policy goes through?

Chairman Davis That is correct.

Mr Shannon In relation to the proposed policy in Southern California, the two co-ops would go out of existence unless the sportsmen wish to raise these birds and plant them on a co-op I mean they might pick this up, raise their own birds and we would furnish the chicks and they could conduct the co-op on their own down there and plant birds on public lands where people could shoot them

In Northern California, or rather Central California where we have the greatest number of co-ops, we would plan on continuing our co-ops, but the supply of birds would be dependent upon wild birds and not upon put-and-take shooting Now, this may seem a little strange when you first think about it, but actually the number of planted birds that end up in the hunter's bag is relatively small, perhaps 10 percent or less, of all the birds that end up in the hunter's bag, and I can say in some cases in certain areas that are never stocked with planted birds, they produce better hunting than those that are stocked with planted birds

For instance, we can take our Gray Lodge Refuge up here which is one of our waterfowl management areas that we open to pheasant hunting during each pheasant season The take of pheasants on that area is probably as high or greater per hunter than any other co-op and yet we don't plant birds there for put-and-take shooting

Chairman Davis Mr Burke, I believe you had a question?

Assemblyman Burke How long before the season opens are these birds planted? Are they planted long enough ahead so they kind of get acquainted with the territory and so forth before the season opens?

Mr Shannon· Many years ago we operated somewhat on that principle and we found that we were pursuing the wrong tack In other words we plant as close to the opening of the season as possible and right during the season Through investigation we found that many more of the birds are taken that way than they are if they are planted ahead of the season.

Now, when they are planted a month or two months or three months ahead of the season one normally would think they would become adapted to their environment and do better On the other hand, what happens to them is that many of them succumb to predators and you have much fewer birds available during the hunting season

Rather than adapting themselves to the environment, they disappear. They die They are not used to the surroundings they are put in or they are taken by predators So in order to get the most birds in the hunters' bags we found the best procedure is to plant close to the opening of the season and sometimes right during the season

Chairman Davis Mr Shannon, I understand you have a point you want to clarify as far as definition of public land, so you may proceed at this time

Mr Shannon In the previous testimony I said that we planted birds on public lands in the co-operative hunting area Actually these are private lands but they are open to access by the public through agreement with the department and our understanding of the intent of the Legislature is that what they wanted is the bird planted in areas which would be accessible to the public and we have interpreted that to mean that if private lands are open to access by the public we would be within our proper sphere if we planted birds on such lands because they would be open to public access

Now, in some cases we have other areas where we plant birds that are on lands which are under agreement not in the co-operative hunting areas but in other areas where the owners have agreed to open the lands and sometimes after we have planted the birds they have failed to open the land and in that case we haven't planted any more birds

Our principal rule is to plant those birds where they are accessible to the public Chairman Davis May I at this time ask Mr DeChambeau if that is his interpretation of the law?

Mr DeChambeau No, our office opinion of public land is as it is defined in Ballantine's law dictionary, which says that it is that part of the public domain which is subject to sale or other disposition under general laws So this would not include land which is not subject to sale or other disposition under general laws

Chairman Davis Mr Shannon

Mr Shannon Well, in this case I feel if we continue with the present pheasant program we should ask the Legislature for a change in the law so we wouldn't be violating technically you might say the law.

PRAYER

Speak, Lord, For Thy Servants Would Hear Speak to us now, Lord, lest other voices crowd out Thy still small voice The clamor of the voices of influence peddlers, the almost unheard voices of little men, nameless and without number, the voices of friends, well meaning but sometimes misleading, the powerful voices of political parties, large pressure groups, and selfish interests, the voices of opponents and critics from whom we can learn much, the inner voices of personal ambition, subtly persuasive; all of these and more become a din in our ears, especially in a budget session We pray humbly that, above all else, we may hear Thy guiding voice so that our decisions may be right, and all Thy people served justly, through Jesus Christ our Lord —AMEN

The following resolutions were offered

By Miss Donahoe and Mr Unruh

House Resolution No. 113

Relative to salary schedules of Department of Mental Hygiene personnel

WHEREAS, The Members of the Assembly recognize that the objective of state hospital programs is treatment and cure of patients as opposed to long-term custody, that such a program calls for the use of skilled and adequate personnel and that the Department of Mental Hygiene is handicapped at present in this program by chronic vacancies, high turnover, inability to recruit and retain needed personnel of high quality, and

WHEREAS, Unnecessary human suffering results when the department is unable to perform in accordance with modern procedures in psychiatric medicine, and

WHEREAS, Failure to implement effective treatment programs results in gross inefficiency and waste and permits the backlog of untreated patients to create new demands for custody, and more building construction, thereby causing a vicious cycle of increasing support budgets, and resulting in many patients who could be cured and released in short periods of time remaining for years of life in custodial care, and

WHEREAS, The principal handicap in implementing the treatment program may be the present inadequate salary schedule for treatment personnel in nursing service, medical, social work and psychology classes, and

WHEREAS, Inequities exist, in that other state agencies have beginning salaries for essentially the same kind of personnel at a much higher rate, and part of the problem may lie in the present procedures of the Personnel Board, and

WHEREAS Efforts have been made for several years through Personnel Board procedures to correct these situations without result, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That an interim study be made of the foregoing matters by the Assembly Committee on Ways and Means and a report be given to the 1961 Session of the Legislature during the first 30 days of the session, and be it further

Resolved, That the Department of Finance is hereby requested to give greater attention to the treatment and cure objectives of the state hospitals in preparation of future budgets, and to consider particularly the effect of salaries upon treatment programs, and be it further

Resolved, That the State Personnel Board is requested to assist in studies of the problem, with the object of establishing a salary schedule for the Department of Mental Hygiene which

(2) *enables the department to recruit capable professional personnel with ad*vanced skills in medical, psychological, social work and registered nurse classes, and

(3) which enables the department to compete favorably in the labor market for college-caliber high school graduates who are making a choice of career, for the psychiatric technician classes and which reflects general comparability with salaries paid in other state services engaged in rehabilitation work, and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor is requested to exercise his leadership in the solution of these problems in which he is known to have great concern, and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly is hereby directed to transmit copies of this resolution to the Governor, the Department of Finance, the State Personnel Board, and the Department of Mental Hygiene

Resolution read, and referred to the Committee on Rules.

Parliamentary Inquiry

Mr. Shell arose to the following parliamentary inquiry: If the amendments are adopted today, will the bill be on second reading file tomorrow?

Reply by Speaker

The Speaker replied that the Rules so provide, but that, by consent of the House, the Rules could be suspended, and the bill ordered to third reading

Motion to Amend Motion

Mr. Unruh moved to amend his motion to adopt the committee amendments to include that the bill be placed on third reading file tomorrow.

Parliamentary Inquiry

Mr. Bruce F. Allen arose to the following parliamentary inquiry. Since the Rules provide that the bill be returned to the second reading file tomorrow, would it not require a suspension of the Rules to place the bill on third reading tomorrow?

Reply by Speaker

The Speaker replied that it would

Restatement of Motion

Mr. Unruh moved that the committee amendments be adopted, and that the bill be placed on the second reading file tomorrow

Inquiry by Speaker

Speaker Brown inquired of Mr. Unruh. Does the motion also include the right to re-amend out tomorrow what is included in the amendments today?

Reply by Mr. Unruh

Mr. Unruh replied that it did not

Point of Order

Mr Hawkins arose to the following point of order That Rule No 69, provides that the adoption of amendments on second reading, other than by a roll call vote, shall not preclude the subsequent consideration of such amendments on third reading

Ruling by Speaker

The Speaker ruled that the motion is merely to adopt the committee amendments, but that the provisions of Rule No 69 would govern

Parliamentary Inquiry

Mr Unruh arose to the following parliamentary inquiry If the motion is not voted upon by a roll call vote, does the House have the opportunity to keep the question open?

Reply by Speaker

The Speaker replied that the adoption of committee amendments on second reading without a roll call vote does not preclude their further consideration by the House.

Parliamentary Inquiry

Mr Hawkins arose to the following parliamentary inquiry: Since Mr Unruh has stated that he will not ask for a roll call vote on the amendments today, is the question not resolved?

Reply by Speaker

The Speaker replied in the affirmative

The question being on the motion by Mr Unruh that the committee amendments be adopted, and that the bill be placed on the second reading file tomorrow

Motion

Mr Bradley moved that the body may submit further amendments to the committee amendments

Motion ruled not in order

The question being on the motion by Mr. Unruh.

Letter of Transmittal

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DEPARTMENT OF WATER RESOURCES
SACRAMENTO, December 1, 1959

Hon. Edmund G. Brown, Governor
Members of the Legislature of the State of California

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to transmit herewith Bulletin No 78, "Report on Investigation of Alternative Aqueduct Systems to Serve Southern California," preparation of which was initiated through funds provided by Item 419 5 of the Budget Act of 1956, and continued under subsequent appropriations

This bulletin presents the results of comprehensive analyses of the future water needs of that portion of Kern County in the San Joaquin Valley, the coastal portions of Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside, and San Diego Counties, the Counties of San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Ventura, and Orange; and the Antelope Valley-Mojave River and Whitewater-Coachella areas Based on those projected water needs, extensive and detailed studies were conducted to determine that aqueduct system serving the entire area which would produce the greatest net economic benefit and which would deliver water to the ultimate consumer, considering the total area, at minimum over-all cost

The latest projections of future population and economic growth in these areas, as reported in this bulletin, indicate that the recent phenomenal growth therein will continue It is estimated that about 5 5 million acre-feet of supplemental water would have to be imported from Northern California by the year 2020 to sustain this growth, and that initial water deliveries would have to be made by 1965 in the San Joaquin Valley portion of these areas, and by 1971 to most of the remainder.

It is concluded that the one system that would meet these demands for water most economically, would comprise an aqueduct from the Delta along the west side of the San Joaquin Valley to Avenal Gap, branching there into a coastal aqueduct leading to Santa Maria Valley, and an inland aqueduct from Avenal Gap south through Kern County and across the Tehachapi Mountains, with a west branch terminating at the north edge of San Fernando Valley and an east branch extending along the south edge of the Antelope Valley through the San Bernardino Mountains and terminating at Perris Reservoir site in Riverside County This system would also provide the best combination, from the standpoint of mineral quality, of imported Northern California water with the other sources of water, both local and imported, available to Southern California

This aqueduct system has been determined to be the optimum, or most favorable, under several alternative schemes of operation as regards power for pumping and the utilization of recovered energy Final decision as to the operational scheme to be employed which would provide the most economic and financially advantageous combination of power for pumping and the utilization, or disposition, of the energy to be recovered by power drops in the Tehachapi and San Bernardino Mountains and on the coastal aqueduct near the City of San Luis Obispo, will be made after further study which will include consideration of the feasibility of addition of pumped storage hydroelectric power generation.

Bulletin 78 is not intended to be a complete feasibility report. It is directed principally to the single objective of determining the optimum aqueduct system to serve the long-range water needs of the areas to be served thereby

The aqueduct facilities which will be constructed with the financing to be provided under the Burns-Porter Act (the Water Development Bond Issue Act), will comprise the first stages of development with sufficient capacity to supply the needed supplemental water until 1990 If water demands develop as now anticipated, additional capacity would have to be added at that time

Because of the long period of time which necessarily will be required for the construction of this aqueduct system, the final design thereof and the acquisition of the necessary lands, easements and rights-of-way must be carried forward as speedily as possible Actual construction work must be started as soon as possible if we are to be able to deliver supplemental water within the various service areas in time to keep pace with their expanding needs

Very truly yours,

CHAPTER IX. CONCLUSIONS

The principal conclusions of this investigation of alternative aqueduct systems to transport and deliver surplus water from Northern California to the water deficient areas of Southern California, which include that portion of Kern County in the San Joaquin Valley, San Luis Obispo County, Santa Barbara County, Ventura County, Orange County, the Antelope Valley-Mojave River area, the Whitewater-Coachella area, and the coastal portions of Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside, and San Diego Counties, are presented·

1 The phenomenal growth of population and industry experienced in recent years in Southern California is expected to continue and provision must be made for an adequate supply of water therefor

2 The only feasible source of additional supplemental water for these water deficient areas is the surplus water that can be developed in and exported from Northern California, over and above the needs of the watersheds of origin

3 Additional supplemental water will be required to sustain the economic development of the Southern California area after 1970 By that date, only 11 years away, the water needs of expanding population, industry and agriculture will have fully utilized the entire claimed right of The Metropolitan Water District of Southern California in and to waters of the Colorado River, amounting to 1,212,000 acre-feet per year Northern California water is needed now in the San Joaquin Valley and in other portions of the Southern California area

4 The annual supply of 1,800,000 acre-feet of water originally considered for delivery to the area south of the Tehachapi Mountains and the 840,000 acre-feet of water originally considered for Kern County, in the report entitled "Program for Financing and Constructing the Feather River Project," dated February 1955, will be fully utilized within 20 years after first deliveries of Northern California water are made to these areas

5 Based upon the latest projections of population and economic growth in the considered portions of the Southern California area, it is estimated that the economic demands for supplemental water to be imported from Northern California will amount to about five and one-half million acre-feet annually by year 2020

6. Since south of Avenal Gap neither a "coastal" nor an "inland" aqueduct route, separately, can physically or economically serve all areas of need wherein an economic demand for Northern California water will exist, an aqueduct system comprising elements of both of these routes must be constructed

7 The aqueduct system must be so planned and constructed as to deliver the requisite quantities of supplemental water in the several areas which will have a demand therefor, in time to meet those demands This will require a more extensive aqueduct system of greater capacities than heretofore envisioned

8 In planning for the importation of supplemental water, particular attention must be given to the necessity of providing a supply of high quality water to the Upper Santa Ana Valley and coastal San Diego County in order to avoid large economic losses in these areas.

9 The aqueduct system which can serve forecast demands for surplus Northern California water most economically will include an aqueduct from the Delta along the west side of the San Joaquin Valley to Avenal Gap, a coastal aqueduct from Avenal Gap to Santa Maria Valley, an inland aqueduct from Avenal Gap south through Kern County and across the Tehachapi Mountains, with a west branch to San Fernando Valley and an east branch along the Antelope Valley through the San Bernardino Mountains to Perris reservoir site in Riverside County.

10 This system, designated Aqueduct System "B" in this report, has been determined to be the best system for delivering water from Northern California to the coastal counties the San Joaquin Valley and Southern California The system is feasible of construction and operation from an engineering standpoint, is economically justified, having a ratio of primary benefits produced to costs incurred of 2 34, and is financially feasible from the standpoint of recovery of the incurred costs

11 This optimum aqueduct system is adaptable to staged construction over a 55-year period consistent with the build-up of economic demand for water therefrom

12 The aqueduct system will eventually deliver about five and one-half million acre-feet of water annually to the San Joaquin Valley south of Avenal Gap, the coastal counties, and the area south of the Tehachapi Mountains under the following schedule:

Year	Delivery in acre-feet
1970	146,000
1980	1,854,000
1990	3,237,000
2000	4,222,000
2010	4,940,000
2020	5,495,000

13 The aqueduct system must be constructed in time to provide initial deliveries of water to lands in San Joaquin Valley between San Luis Reservoir and Avenal Gap and in Kern County by 1965, through the Coastal Aqueduct to San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara Counties by 1971, through the West Branch of the Inland Aqueduct to the Southern California coastal plain and Ventura County by 1971, and through the first sequence of construction of the East Branch of the Inland Aqueduct to the Antelope Valley by 1971

14 The second sequence of construction will include the extension of the East Branch of the Inland Aqueduct from Little Rock Creek in the Antelope Valley to Perris Reservoir in Riverside County, with completion scheduled for 1982 to serve the Mojave River and Whitewater-Coachella areas and provide additional water supplies, needed by that time from both quantity and quality standpoints, to the Southern California coastal plain and coastal San Diego County

15 The second sequence of construction could be completed by 1977 if economic demands for water from the system developed earlier than estimated herein.

16 The optimum aqueduct system is physically adaptable to several feasible methods of pumping and power recovery, from which a single definite selection will be made at a later time after further engineering and economic study. Pending further study, none of the operational schemes evaluated or referred to in this bulletin should be considered as adopted features of the San Joaquin Valley-Southern California Aqueduct System.

17 Satisfaction of forecast economic demands for surplus Northern California water which will be delivered by this aqueduct system requires an immediate start on acquisition of lands and on design and construction of facilities throughout the system

Hon Jesse M Unruh
Assembly Chamber

DEAR MR UNRUH.

Question

(1) What would be the effect of failure to pass the Budget Bill by a two-thirds vote?

(2) What would be the effect of failure to enact a Budget Bill?

(1) In answering your first question it is our assumption that the Budget Bill is passed by a majority vote, though not a two-thirds vote. The result would be a failure of funds in respect to all state functions (except the Public School System) supported from the General Fund and whose support appropriations are normally included in the Budget Bill The state agencies could not function after that date because of lack of an appropriation from which salaries could be paid and supplies purchased.

(2) Failure to enact a Budget Bill would mean that as of the first day of July no appropriations would be available for those state agencies that are supported from the General Fund and whose support appropriations are normally included in the Budget Bill These state agencies would, therefore, of necessity, cease to function This situation would not be true, however, as to those agencies that are supported from special funds Special funds in the State Treasury are generally continually appropriated for the respective purposes for which the funds were created, which ordinarily includes support of the agency administering the particular activity

(1) Section 34a of Article IV of the Constitution provides that appropriations from the General Fund of the State for any fiscal year, exclusive of appropriations for support of the Public School System, shall not exceed by more than 5 percent the appropriations from such fund, exclusive of such public school appropriations, for the preceding fiscal year unless two-thirds of all the members elected to each house of the Legislature voted in favor thereof, provided, that no amount appropriated in excess of such 5 percentum shall become a part of the basis for determining the maximum appropriation for a succeeding fiscal year

The section further provides that the first bill passed (whether it be the Budget Bill or any other bill) by less than a two-thirds vote which exceeds the 5 percent limit should be reduced by the amount in excess of that limit, and all other subsequent appropriations from the General Fund not passed by such a two-thirds vote shall be void

For all practical purposes the Budget Bill must be passed by a two-thirds vote of all members elected to each house of the Legislature, since failure to obtain such a vote will void all of the appropriations therein from the General Fund except appropriations for the support of the public school system Only the appropriations from special funds would be effective In other words, failure to pass the Budget Bill by the required two-thirds vote has substantially the same effect upon state agencies supported from the General Fund as a failure to pass any Budget Bill at all

The "base" referred to in Section 34a of Article IV of the Constitution is the total appropriated from the General Fund, other than for public schools, for the 1933-35 biennium plus 5 percent accumulated for each two years thereafter until 1947 Since that time (when the Constitution was amended to provide for annual Budget Bills) the base has been one-half of the 1945-47 base plus 5 percent accumulated for each fiscal year

During the years immediately following the adoption of Section 34a, a number of continuing appropriations from the General Fund were enacted or amended to increase the total amount appropriated from the General Fund to such an extent that for many years these continuing appropriations alone exceeded the original base plus the 5 percent accumulated increases As a result, any appropriation made by the Legislature from the General Fund for the next fiscal year is in excess of the base prescribed by the Constitution and is void unless it is passed by a two-thirds vote This is equally true whether the appropriation is in the Budget Bill or in a separate bill

This office has had occasion to consider this question on numerous occasions Opinions to the same effect as this one appear in the Senate Journal for May 29, 1945, at page 3205, in the Senate Journal for March 24, 1952, at page 166, and in the Assembly Journal for June 7, 1949, at page 4157 We also call your attention to a communication from the Director of Finance to the Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee with reference to the computation of the existing amount of General Fund appropriation over the maximum amount allowable under the constitutional limitation printed in the Senate Journal for May 29, 1945, commencing at page 2992

(2) There is no provision made in the Constitution of this State for the automatic renewal of appropriations upon failure to enact a Budget Bill Section 22 of Article IV of the Constitution provides in part that no money shall be drawn from the Treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law Failure to enact a Budget Bill would mean that as of July 1, there would be no appropriation against which the Controller would be authorized to draw a warrant upon the General Fund for the support and administration of the state agencies whose support appropriations from that source are included in the Budget Bill Those agencies would be unable to pay salaries or purchase supplies to carry out their functions.

As to agencies supported from special funds, the inclusion in the Budget Bill of appropriations for their support does not, in fact, constitute making an appropriation but rather imposes a limit upon the amount that may be expended by the particular agency from the special fund during the fiscal year Failure to enact the Budget Bill or the omission of such items from the Budget Bill would not preclude such agencies from expending special funds, insofar as they have been heretofore appropriated for their support

Very truly yours,

RALPH N KLEPS, Legislative Counsel

Deputy Legislative Counsel

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev R Wilbur Simmons:

"Slow Me Down, Lord: Ease the pounding of my heart by the quieting of my mind Steady my hurried pace with a vision of the eternal reach of time Give me, amidst the confusion of my day, the calmness of the everlasting hills Break the tension of my nerves and muscles with the soothing music of the singing streams that live in my memory Help me to know the magical restorative power of sleep Teach me the art of taking minute vacations of slowing down to look at a flower, to chat with a friend, to pet a dog, to read a few lines from a good book Remind me each day of the fable of the hare and the tortoise that I may know that the race is not always to the swift, that there is more to life than increasing its speed Let me look upward into the branches of towering trees, and know that they grow tall because they grow slowly and well Slow me down, Lord, and inspire me to send my roots deep into the soil of life's enduring values, that I may grow toward the stars of my greater destiny"—AMEN (Author unknown)

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr McCollister arose to the following parliamentary inquiry: Is not the record, which appears at the bottom of page 531 of the Assembly Journal for March 21, 1960, wherein Mr Bradley moved, as a substitute motion, "that the amendments offered by the Committee on Ways and Means be adopted subject to the right of the members to offer further amendments to the amendments on third reading" incorrect in that it should read on "second reading" instead of on "third reading"?

Reply by Speaker

The Speaker replied that the record was correct, but that the motion would in no way interfere with the consideration of the amendments on second reading today.

Parliamentary Inquiry

In the same spirit of dedication let us get down to the busines of our State, knowing that our work, too, is God's affair Show us all that we may yet do to reprieve the past, and enable us, without undue concern for the morrow or the farther distant scene, to live today as we know we ought to live Through Jesus Christ, our Lord —AMEN

INQUIRY BY SPEAKER

Speaker Brown requested that Mr Unruh advise the members on the proposed procedure relative to the special order of business for today, and the matters on the unfinished business file

Reply by Mr. Unruh

Mr Unruh stated that he would propose that Assembly Bill No 1 be held at the desk without reprinting, until all proposed amendments have been considered, and requested that the special order be considered prior to the items on the unfinished business file

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO CORRECT AMENDMENTS

Mr Mulford asked for unanimous consent that the Chief Clerk be authorized to make Amendment No 1 by Mr. Mulford, appearing at page 548 of the Assembly Journal for March 22, and Amendment No 4 of Set No 2 of the amendments by Mr Z'berg, appearing at page 549 of said Journal, conform to the bill if both amendments are adopted

By Mr Hawkins:

House Resolution No. 108

Relating to retirement of Helen Van Wagoner

WHEREAS, The Members of this House have learned with mixed feelings of happiness and regret of the retirement of Helen Van Wagoner, who is ending a long and illustrious career in the state service, and

WHEREAS, These mixed feelings stem from the fact that while the members are extremely happy that Helen Van Wagoner now has the well-earned freedom to direct her abundant energies toward leisure activities during the golden years which lie ahead, they nevertheless regret the loss to the state service of such a dedicated and valued public servant, and

WHEREAS, Helen Van Wagoner was educated in the public schools of Sacramento, graduating therefrom in 1912, and

WHEREAS, Immediately following her graduation in that year, "Helen," as she is affectionately known to her scores of friends and admirers, first began her employment with the State of California; and

WHEREAS, After being employed for some five years in other departments of the State, Helen Van Wagoner was appointed to the position of Secretary to the State Printer in February 1926, a position which she filled with competence and rare human understanding during the remaining 34 years of her employment in the civil service, and

WHEREAS, Over the years of her tenure, "Helen" has served with distinction as secretary to the following State Printers: Messrs King, Whitmore, Smith, Hammond, Moore, and Gallagher, and

WHEREAS, A vivid realization of the length of time during which this dedicated employee has served the people of the State of California may be grasped from the fact that her long career, which began during the term of Governor Johnson has extended through the terms of nine more chief executives of this State, to wit Governors Stephens, Richardson, Young, Rolph, Merriam, Olson, Warren, Knight, and Brown, and

WHEREAS, Despite her busy career in the service of the State, "Helen" found time to maintain a lovely home for her late husband, Mr Eli Van Wagoner, to rear a daughter, Mrs Thomas Montgomery, and to lavish loving affection upon her three grandchildren, and

WHEREAS, It is therefore fitting that the Members of this House extend some token of their appreciation for the fine services to the people of California performed by Helen Van Wagoner during her long and distinguished career; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Members of this House join together in extending their heartiest congratulations to Helen Van

Wagoner for a job well done and in wishing her Godspeed and all possible happiness during the wonderful years which lie ahead; and, be it further

Explanations of Votes

I did not vote "Yea" or "Nay" on the Budget Amendment offered by Assemblyman Bruce Reagan, though I would have ordinarily voted "Nay," because Mr Reagan was made the target of completely unjustified and insulting remarks by two or three opposition Assemblymen Such tactics are most repugnant and endanger our system of a Republican form of government

CLARK L BRADLEY

I did not vote on the Bruce Reagan Amendment of 5 percent cut across the board because it may have nullified the 5 percent increase to state colleges and other groups for which I voted Had this been clarified, I firmly believe that a 5 percent cut across the board would be in order due to the anticipated surplus of $100,000,000 plus

Consideration of House Resolution No. 99, as Amended

House Resolution No 99

Relative to meetings of public agencies

WHEREAS, In 1953 the Legislature enacted the statute popularly known as the Brown Act, which requires all meetings of legislative bodies of local agencies to be open to the public; and

WHEREAS, The purpose of the statute is to guarantee the right of the public to keep informed in respect to the actions and deliberations of the public boards, commissions, and councils established to conduct the people's business; and

WHEREAS, It was the intent of the Legislature as shown by the clear and precise language of the statute that all meetings of such bodies, with the single exception of executive sessions to consider personnel matters, shall be open to the public; and

WHEREAS, A number of reports have come to the attention of the Legislature indicating violations of this law by use of "pre-meeting" caucuses and other subterfuges; and

WHEREAS, The employment of such evasive tactics to prevent the public from knowing what its governmental agencies are doing is deplorable, and is a violation of the spirit of the law and, in many instances, of the letter of the law as well; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the subject matter of the application of the law requiring meetings of legislative bodies of local governmental agencies to be open to the public, and the necessity for further legislation on that subject, is assigned to the Committee on Rules for reassignment to an appropriate interim committee for study, which committee shall report thereon to the Assembly not later than the fifth calendar day of the 1961 Regular Session of the Legislature

CONSIDERATION OF HOUSE RESOLUTION NO 113

By Miss Donahoe and Mr Unruh

House Resolution No 113

Relative to salary schedules of Department of Mental Hygiene personnel

WHEREAS, The Members of the Assembly recognize that the objective of state hospital programs is treatment and cure of patients as opposed to long term custody, that such a program calls for the use of skilled and adequate personnel and that the Department of Mental Hygiene is handicapped at present in this program by chronic vacancies, high turnover, inability to recruit and retain needed personnel of high quality; and

WHEREAS, Unnecessary human suffering results when the department is unable to perform in accordance with modern procedures in psychiatric medicine, and

WHEREAS, Failure to implement effective treatment programs results in gross inefficiency and waste and permits the backlog of untreated patients to create new demands for custody, and more building construction, thereby causing a vicious circle of increasing support budgets, and resulting in many patients who could be cured and released in short periods of time remaining for years or life in custodial care, and

WHEREAS, The principal handicap in implementing the treatment program may be the present inadequate salary schedule for treatment personnel in nursing service, medical, social work and psychology classes, and

WHEREAS, Inequities exist, in that other state agencies have beginning salaries for essentially the same kind of personnel at a much higher rate, and part of the problem may be in the present procedures of the Personnel Board, and

WHEREAS, Efforts have been made for several years through Personnel Board procedures to correct these situations without result, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That an interim study be made of the foregoing matters by the Assembly Committee on Ways and Means and a report be given to the 1961 Session of the Legislature during the first 30 days of the session, and be it further

Resolved, That the Department of Finance is hereby requested to give greater attention to the treatment and cure objectives of the state hospitals in preparation of future budgets, and to consider particularly the effect of salaries upon treatment programs, and be it further

Resolved, That the State Personnel Board is requested to assist in studies of the problem, with the object of establishing a salary schedule for the Department of Mental Hygiene which

(1) Reflects the level of the work required,

(2) Enables the department to recruit capable professional personnel with advanced skills in medical, psychological, social work and registered nurse classes, and

(3) Which enables the department to compete favorably in the labor market for college-caliber high school graduates who are making a choice of career, for the psychiatric technician classes and which reflects general comparability with salaries paid in other state services engaged in rehabilitation work, and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor is requested to exercise his leadership in the solution of these problems in which he is known to have great concern, and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly is hereby directed to transmit copies of this resolution to the Governor, the Department of Finance, the State Personnel Board, and the Department of Mental Hygiene

WHEREAS, No comparable deduction is permitted for the payment of cigarette and other tobacco taxes which are paid by consumers, and

WHEREAS, There is no apparent basis for such dissimilarity in treatment, now, therefore, be it

PRAYER

The following prayer, offered by the Chaplain, Rev R Wilbur Simmons, at the First Extraordinary Session, was read by Mr Ernest R Geddes, Member of the Assembly from the Forty-ninth District

Keep Me Quiet, Lord, So that now, in this moment of prayer, I can hear what can be heard only in silence Keep me quiet, Lord, in the work sessions of this Assembly that I may listen to the speaker of the moment, and make it possible for others to listen who want to hear Keep me quiet, Lord, out of courtesy to my coworkers who in turn may show such courtesy to me Help me to know that great forces always have their beginnings in quiet places and that the flow of mighty rivers goes back to hidden springs among the hills Keep me quiet, Lord, that like the owl I may seem wiser than I am, and that when I do speak it will be with the accent and wisdom of Christ, of whom it was said, "Never yet spake man as this man" —AMEN

Eternal God, Who dost set time limits for us all, we come to the final day of this budget session praying that the pressure of time and the limit of physical energy may not impair the soundness of our judgment The strength of the State rests largely in the character of its public servants, the many workers with specialized training who must labor with confidence in those who provide their support We pray that we may not have failed them, nor failed either to cut off services which are no longer needed, or to start new programs made necessary by our changing world We pray humbly, knowing that we will be kept humble by taxpayers, for we must keep faith with them, too Time limits this prayer, our work on the budget, the days of our lives, accept them all, we pray in Christ's name — AMEN

Upon invitation of Speaker Brown, the following prayer was offered by Rev. Robert S. Romeis of St. John's Lutheran Church of Sacramento:

Gracious God and Heavenly Father, Grant us wisdom to determine the important from the trivial, give us the clarity to see beyond the figures in the budget to the human figures to be served—the sick to be cared for, the aged to be helped, the weak to be strengthened, the warped to be straightened, the young to be educated. Make us realize that we are dealing with a living thing which dare not be smothered with words or buried beneath high-sounding phrases. Cause us to remember, O God, that the Budget represents the State's service to its people, and grant that we who determine the dimensions of that service must not choose the good, not the better, but the best; through Christ our Lord.—AMEN.

PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker Brown, the following prayer was offered by Rev. Robert S. Romeis of St. John's Lutheran Church of Sacramento:

Eternal God and Heavenly King, We give Thee thanks for this bright new day which Thou hast given us. May it be an opportunity for us to atone for the sins of yesterday, to make straight the crooked places of the past, to free ourselves from the prejudices inherited from a primitive age. Humbly let us seek Thy will, that when this day shall close we with quiet consciences may offer it to Thee as a testimony of our obedience and our love. Put us in our place, O God, that we attempt not to usurp Thy authority and Thy power. Remind us that this day demands men who can match mountains, not men who stumble over molehills; through Jesus Christ, Thy Son, Our Lord.—AMEN.

So Let us act this day and every day that we receive Thy commendation; through Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Lord.—AMEN.

PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker Brown, the following prayer was offered by the Rev. Robert S. Romeis, of St. John's Lutheran Church of Sacramento:

Eternal God and Heavenly King, We give Thee thanks that Thou hast brought us safely to the beginning of another day and another week. Defend us and lead us this day by Thy mighty power that we commit no evil under the guise of expediency, that we choose not that which is safe instead of that which is right, that we walk not the lower road because it is the easier way. Remind us that we are to be instruments of Thy justice, mercy, and love; and not tools in the hands of lethargy, obstinacy, and popularity. We have a sacred trust and its performance cannot be evaded or postponed. Guide us, O God, in Thy way.

We also pray for the speedy recovery of the Chaplain of this Assembly, the Rev. R. Wilbur Simmons. By Thy grace may he soon be restored to health; through Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Lord.—AMEN.

PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker Brown, the following prayer was offered by Rev. Robert S. Romeis of St. John's Lutheran Church of Sacramento:

O God of Mercy, Whose only-begotten Son prayed for those who drove nails into His hands and feet, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do," grant us forgiveness for our failure to heed the voice of Thy love. Help us to know that there is no honor in being able to evade the making of decisions, but that the only honor worth while is the honor of standing firmly upon the principles of true justice and true mercy which Thou hast made known. Make us realize that laws do not make men good, but only men who are right with Thee can enact good legislation. Give us grace to see ourselves in all our weakness, prejudice, and our pride, so that in thus acknowledging our sins, and seeking Thy pardon, we may with cleansed consciences be worthy to lead the people of this State forward on the road of righteousness: through Thy Son, Jesus Christ Our Lord, who liveth and reigneth with Thee and the Holy Ghost, one God, world without end.—AMEN.

PRAYER

It Is a Fearsome Thing, O Great God, To come into Thy presence for we may be led to do Thy will and not our own, and if we ignore Thy guiding spirit it would be better by far not to pray at all. Deliver us from any thought of personal gain, advancement, or election; set us free from such party loyalty as guarantees a narrow, typical course of action; and to Thee, O God, and to all our fellowmen, give to us a strong allegiance alongside which all lesser impulses rightly take their place. Make us men who cannot be bought, nor dissuaded from our convictions, nor pressured from our principles. Thus, our Father, may we win the battle most worth fighting in life, the saving of our own integrity and our own souls. Earnestly we make our prayer unto Thee.—AMEN.

Forgive us, O God, That so often we are found spending our energies in considering the punishment of crime rather than its prevention and in dealing with the consequences of evil rather than the causes. Remind us again of an ancient proverb: "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." Enable us to strengthen our public education that we may secure respect for human life and property, building in all our youth high moral and ethical standards, rooted firmly in religious faith, thus achieving deterrents to transgressors far stronger than fear. Fire our minds with a vision of a more perfect society, built solidly upon more perfect men, in which justice and right, peace and brotherhood shall reign according to Thy holy will.—AMEN.

PRAYER

O God, Father of Us All, Who hast made of one blood all the nations upon the earth, we praise Thee for the assimilation of the many races and cultures which make up the people of California. On this St. Patrick's Day we pay tribute to the wearers of the green, who have enriched us all with their music and humor, their zest for life and their genius in politics. Our Father, extend our empathy as we pray not merely for our own State but also for those communities where the struggle for the integration of races has become tense. In Thy mercy, O God, deliver the people of our nation from violence within and from attack without, and make us all to be worthy of Thy continuing and watchful care.—AMEN.

Lord, Teach Us to Pray. For here is a dimension of life that we can too easily miss. It is possible to live almost as if there is no God and to neglect the spiritual disciplines of life. The urgencies of life are great, the work of this Legislature begins to be hurried, the campaigns for re-election increase their tempo. We pause, O God, to rest, to breathe deeply, to find poise, to confess our need, to renew our depleted energies. It is springtime; it is the period in the churches which is called Lent; there is new life bursting out all over, even for us. In quietness and in confidence shall be our strength. Lord, teach us to pray.—AMEN.

Speak, Lord, For Thy Servants Would Hear. Speak to us now, Lord, lest other voices crowd out Thy still small voice. The clamor of the voices of influence pedlars; the almost unheard voices of little men, nameless and without number; the voices of friends, well meaning but sometimes misleading; the powerful voices of political parties, large pressure groups, and selfish interests; the voices of opponents and critics from whom we can learn much; the inner voices of personal ambition, subtly persuasive; all of these and more become a din in our ears, especially in a budget session. We pray humbly that, above all else, we may hear Thy guiding voice so that our decisions may be right, and all Thy people served justly; through Jesus Christ our Lord.—AMEN.

PRAYER

"Slow Me Down, Lord: Ease the pounding of my heart by the quieting of my mind. Steady my hurried pace with a vision of the eternal reach of time. Give me, amidst the confusion of my day, the calmness of the everlasting hills. Break the tension of my nerves and muscles with the soothing music of the singing streams that live in my memory. Help me to know the magical restorative power of sleep. Teach me the art of taking minute vacations . . . of slowing down to look at a flower, to chat with a friend, to pet a dog, to read a few lines from a good book. Remind me each day of the fable of the hare and the tortoise that I may know the race is not always to the swift; that there is more to life than increasing its speed. Let me look upward into the branches of towering trees, and know that they grow tall because they grow slowly and well. Slow me down, Lord, and inspire me to send my roots deep into the soil of life's enduring values, that I may grow toward the stars of my greater destiny."—AMEN. (Author unknown.)

O God of Love, Whose mercy is higher than the heavens, wider than our wandering, and deeper than all our need, we are humbled that our vision of public service is greater than our ability to provide payment. Remind us of the words of Christ: "Did ye not know that I must be about my Father's business?" In the same spirit of dedication let us get down to the busines of our State, knowing that our work, too, is God's affair. Show us all that we may yet do to reprieve the past, and enable us, without undue concern for the morrow or the farther distant scene, to live today as we know we ought to live. Through Jesus Christ our Lord.—AMEN.

Keep Me Quiet, Lord, So that now, in this moment of prayer, I can hear what can be heard only in silence. Keep me quiet, Lord, in the work sessions of this Assembly that I may listen to the speaker of the moment, and make it possible for others to listen who want to hear. Keep me quiet, Lord, out of courtesy to my coworkers who in turn may show such courtesy to me. Help me to know that great forces always have their beginnings in quiet places and that the flow of mighty rivers goes back to hidden springs among the hills. Keep me quiet, Lord, that like the owl I may seem wiser than I am, and that when I do speak it will be with the accent and wisdom of Christ, of whom it was said, "Never yet spake man as this man." —AMEN.
