Quorum present

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev Robert R Ferguson.

Eternal God, Our loving Father, Thou who hast put us in a world which is part of a cosmos rather than chaos, give to Thy servants ordered minds that they may face calmly and intelligently the matters before them

As we look back we realize there have been great men who have made decisions which now make our decisions possible May we have respect for them, but never be intimidated by them As crises and difficult times bring out latent potentials, among this body release hidden springs of statesmanship

May all the men in this Assembly be challenged by this hour to live up to their God-given potential to lead this State in the ways of creative righteousness and peace We pray in our Master's name —AMEN

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

The following message from the Governor was received.

STATEMENT OF GOVERNOR EDMUND G. BROWN ON TAX REFORM AND REVENUE RECOMMENDATIONS

Transmitted to the California Legislature Tuesday, March 19, 1963

To the Senate and Assembly of the Legislature of California

With this message I am submitting a two-year, two-phase series of tax reforms which should enable us to finance the services of state government through the 1964-65 fiscal year without new or higher taxes

My Budget Message, sent to you February 4, contained a general summary both of the proposals and the reasons for presenting them at this session of the Legislature In the intervening weeks you have had an opportunity to weigh my recommendations in the light of your own fiscal philosophies and to consider the comments of your Legislative Analyst

I address you today to present further evidence in support of tax reform and to correct misstatements which have given rise to an unfortunate degree of confusion

Let it be clear at the outset that I am not proposing new or higher taxes I propose only that tax payments become more current with the essential state services they finance

There is in the 1963-64 Budget now before you a gap between revenues and expenditures But we can close that gap with reforms I list below, exclusive of withholding of personal income taxes My recommendations for withholding affect not this budget but the budget for the 1964-65 fiscal year And I can tell you quite frankly that unless the withholding system is adopted this year the alternatives before us in the Budget Session of 1964 will be withholding or a tax increase

I have made a pledge that I will neither propose nor support new or higher taxes in the 1963-64 fiscal year and there is nothing in my tax reform recommendations that contradicts or evades that pledge

It is most unfortunate that partisan attempts have been made to confuse my recommendations for next year with my commitment of this year

Even a cursory reading of my Budget Message shows that we do not need withholding to balance this year's budget, but that we will need it, or a tax increase, to balance next year's budget

It is true that I could present to the current session of the Legislature only my recommendations for balancing the 1963-64 Budget and remove all possible cause of confusion But I have chosen to submit the withholding feature to you in this session, instead of in the Budget Session next year, because it will give us a longer time to prepare for the changeover and to consider possible amendments adequately in advance of enforcement

If it is your decision to enact the two-year reforms over two sessions instead of one, that is your privilege But, I repeat The necessity for enactment of withholding will be even more urgent next year and the narrow time span between enactment and compliance would create difficulties both for the State and for the taxpayer.

Admittedly, the tax reforms I recommend over the next two years will produce one-time revenue windfalls in those years But we must consider them not merely as methods of balancing our budgets over the next two years but as long-range benefits that will place this State in a much stronger fiscal position into the long future

What I propose is not new or experimental Pay-as-you-go is the policy of the federal government and of 26 of the 32 states with a general personal income tax. All have found it equitable to the employer and to the wage-earner All have found it sound public policy Governors Rockefeller of New York and Hatfield of Oregon both assure me that the sound-and-fury precedes the enactment of withholding. But once it is in effect both employers and wage-earners regard it as a tremendous improvement over former collection procedures

I re-emphasize that withholding must stand on its own merits. We should adopt it not as a temporary means of holding the tax line but as a wise and prudent long-range policy

The present system is grossly unfair to the taxpayer who must pick up the tab for the tax-dodger or the new family that comes to California but does not pay its first penny of income taxes until a year or more later

The present system forces the State to borrow from itself during lean revenue months and the interest cost is borne by the taxpayer

The present system is obsolete by all sound fiscal standards

I urge you to replace it with a system which will insure an orderly cash flow into our treasury, which will close loopholes now costing us many millions a year, and which will distribute the tax responsibility fairly among all our citizens.

But my immediate concern, of course, is with the first phase of my recommendations—action that must be taken to balance the 1963-64 Budget now before you.

First, however, let me summarize the essentials of our financial position My budget calls for General Fund expenditures in the coming fiscal year of $2 11 billion —an increase of $157 million over the current fiscal year Of this increase—

$85 million represents additional state support for local public schools and higher costs relating to school operation This includes $30 million in new state apportionments, approximately one-third of the amount sought by local school representatives

$18 million represents additional operating expenses at centers of higher education, approximately one-half the amount sought by those responsible for the direction of our State Colleges and University

$51 million is to be found in payments for public assistance, traceable not to new programs but to the increase in number of needy children and needy disabled and to the fact that this year we are using the surplus in our premium deposit fund before calling upon current tax revenue for adequate medical care of our senior citizens

$22 million represents General Fund salary increases ($8 9 million more will come from special funds) in sectors where present pay schedules are most seriously out of line with comparable positions in other public agencies and industry This, again, is approximately one-half the amount sought by the State Personnel Board and less than one-half the adjustment sought by the California State Employees' Association

The above requirements, together with a heavier workload in the field of corrections and moderate improvements in the field of mental hygiene, account for the increase in General Fund requirements in 1963-64

There is, of course, a multitude of minor adjustments resulting from population growth, but the four basic appropriations—none of which satisfies those most directly involved—are the determinants of our rising outgo

Tax collections and other revenues available to the General Fund in 1963-64 from existing sources are estimated at $1 94 billion This leaves a gap of $165 3 million between revenue resources and expenditure requirements.

THE FIRST PHASE—1963-64

I propose we close our revenue gap this year by using surplus oil and gas revenue for support of education and by taking the first step toward a current payment system for taxes on personal and corporation incomes and insurance premiums. This more current collection system, together with surplus oil and gas revenue and the closing of tax loopholes, will balance our budget Elimination of the features in our present law which allow postponed tax payment will alone produce $139 million in additional revenue

Let me re-emphasize that I am recommending neither an increase in the tax rate nor a broadening of the tax base, and that this first phase involves no elements of the withholding system proposed to take effect next year Rates will remain at exactly their present levels, and I propose to cancel income tax liability of less than $5 in the case of a single person and less than $10 for a couple or head of household This also would become effective in the 1963-64 fiscal year and would relieve 850,000 persons of income tax liability at a cost of only $2 5 million to the State

I do not have to spell out for you the vital statistics of our continuing population growth We are expanding at the rate of 660,000 new residents a year More than half come to us from other states and the remainder represent births within the State The dramatic element of our growth is that each year we become a younger state Our median age in 1950 was 32 1 years It was 30 years in 1960 and will fall to 27 3 in 1970 and 27 in 1975

Earl Warren once said our population growth is a bargain in terms of its eventual return to the State, and I agree It is not, however, free of immediate costs to government—costs which are not repaid in the same year we must furnish essential services This lag in revenue collections must continue to plague us unless we act to phase income more closely with outgo

Roughly half of our General Fund tax revenue is fully paid when due There is no installment option to be exercised at the discretion of the taxpayer Horse racing fees are paid daily during a racing meet Excises on cigarettes and alcoholic beverages are paid monthly The sales tax for one quarter is due the first month of the next quarter

Except for gift and inheritance taxes, the income tax and levies on insurance companies, banks and corporations—which amount to 40 percent of all General Fund taxes—are the only levies we do not collect on a reasonably current basis Instead, we must wait up to two years for payment of revenues we are spending today for today's needs It is here that I propose we take corrective action for the 1963-64 fiscal year

I recommend, therefore, that the installment privilege for the bank and corporation tax and the personal income tax be eliminated after January 1, 1964 This will have the effect of bringing 95 percent of all General Fund levies into greater phase with cost requirements

Here are my specific recommendations as they will affect banks, corporations, insurance companies and individuals

Banks and Corporations

1 Elimination of the franchise tax installment option after January 1, 1964

2 Closing of tax loopholes to bring our procedures into greater conformity with federal law affecting entertainment expenses, gifts, club dues and similar deductions This also will affect individual income taxpayers

The franchise tax is levied for the privilege of operating in California as a corporation It is measured by the net profits from California operations in the previous year and is payable in two installments—one accompanying the tax return the other six months later In the case of a corporation operating on a calendar year basis, the return and half the tax are due March 15, the remainder September 15

As the first step toward a current payment plan, the revenue program would require full payment by corporations when the return is filed Because banks and financial corporations pay taxes at a rate nearly double that of general corporations, the new schedule will allow banks and other financial firms two years in which to accomplish this first step This feature will add $82 5 million in General Fund revenue during 1963-64

Insurance Companies

The insurance tax is one of our oldest state levies It is paid for the privilege of doing business in the year in which the premiums are received In this respect it is much like the retail sales tax which is levied for the privilege of selling tangible personal property However, the retailers must remit their sales tax after each quarter, whereas insurance companies have until June of the following year to make payment

I propose to place the insurance tax and the sales tax on equal footing with regard to collections—both due in the quarter following the taxable transaction

In this respect we shall be following the lead taken some years ago by New York and in 1961 by Pennsylvania with respect to life insurance companies

Quarterly remittance of this tax after January 1964 will add $22 million to available revenue in the coming fiscal year and will provide a continuing source of $1 5 million additional General Fund revenue in future years

You will hear complaints that any change in California's insurance tax laws will invoke retaliation by other states against California companies This is possible but by no means likely

By sponsoring and securing enactment of retaliatory statutes in nearly all states, the insurance industry has insulated itself against tax increases In many cases, a state which raises its insurance tax rate risks subjecting its insurance companies to higher rates on business done in other states For this reason there have been few changes in the state levies on insurance business during recent years The share of government support contributed by insurance companies has remained stable In 1939-40 insurance companies accounted for 2 5 percent of tax revenue in all states Last year their share was 2 9 percent

In sharp contrast, 22 years ago corporate income taxes accounted for 3 0 percent of revenue in all states, last year their share was 6 3 percent

The situation is the same for California Where two decades ago the insurance industry accounted for 2 9 percent of state tax receipts, they contributed only 3 1 percent last year Bank and corporation taxes have moved from 7 7 percent of the total in 1939-40 to 12 6 percent last year

It may be alleged that quarterly payments of the insurance tax will also result in retaliation which will require similar payments elsewhere Again, I say this is possible but unlikely There was no retaliation against Pennsylvania when it placed life insurance companies on a quarterly payment basis two years ago If California joins Pennsylvania and New York in requiring quarterly remittance of this tax, other states are likely to follow and the issue of retaliation on this point will be short lived

Let me make it clear that I have no desire to injure California insurance companies, even though they may be caught in tax webs of the industry's own weaving But I do not believe that the insurance companies should either write our tax laws or circumscribe those whose responsibility it is to write these laws The mere possibility of retaliation by some states should not prevent us from adopting desirable changes in our insurance tax laws If having made these changes, there are instances of retaliation, I shall be glad to consider measures of relief at the 1965 legislative session

Individuals

I propose we eliminate, after January 1, 1964, the option of paying the personal income tax in three installments This change will have absolutely no effect on the 92 of every 100 taxpayers who already follow the practice of paying in full at the time they file their return Those with substantial tax obligations who now use the installment feature will be placed in the same position as those in the lowest brackets who must pay in full if the tax is $50 or less

The present law gives these people eight extra months in which to discharge their obligations Cancellation of this privilege as the first step in the current payment program will result in prompter collection of $35 million during the coming fiscal year

SECOND PHASE—1964-65

As the second step in an orderly transition to current payment procedures, I recommend the enactment of legislation providing for a withholding tax on personal income, effective July 1, 1964, and estimated tax payments by California banks and corporations, beginning in 1965

These changes in our state tax system will require careful advance planning both by the state administrative office and the business firms involved Adoption of the program at the current legislative session, rather than during the Budget Session of 1964, will not only provide time for this planning, but will afford opportunity for perfecting amendments, if needed, before the new procedure is actually placed in operation

Essentials of the proposal regarding the personal income tax include

1 Payment by means of relatively minor payroll deductions starting in July 1964, supplemented by quarterly remittances by those with substantial income not subject to withholding
2 Forgiveness of one-quarter of the tax on 1964 income when the return is filed in 1965

I want to emphasize three important facts in connection with this proposal I am not proposing new or higher taxes I am not imposing the income tax on any person who does not already have a liability to pay this tax I am not asking individuals or employers to do anything they are not already doing under provisions of the federal income tax In fact, millions of individuals who are subject to the federal tax will not be affected by this part of the state tax program

On the contrary, in addition to the cancellation of tax obligations for those in the lowest tax brackets beginning next year, forgiveness of one-quarter of the tax in 1965 will reduce the amount to be paid by a great many retired persons, farmers, small business operators and others who will be in no way affected by this legislation

Because the withholding tax is probably the most important and far-reaching part of the recommended program, I want to discuss it in some detail

First, we will conform with federal laws exempting agricultural and domestic workers from withholding.

Withholding procedures will apply to only about half of those persons who are regularly employed as wage or salary workers The remainder are not subject to the income tax because of our relatively high exemptions and the various credits allowed in determining taxable income Of course, those who enter the labor force on a temporary or seasonal basis will be subject to withholding, if their pay rates exceed the minimums In all instances, refunds of any amounts overwithheld will be promptly made

Withholding provisions will apply to single persons whose annual compensation for personal services exceeds a $2,340 annual rate and to married couples whose wage and salary rate exceeds $4,680 a year The point at which withholding starts will rise approximately $600 for each dependent For a family of four with salary income of $10,000 a year, the payroll deduction will amount to $1 a week and there will be a refund of at least $4 after the annual income tax return is filed

Employers will begin deducting state income tax in July 1964 Larger firms will send this money to the Franchise Tax Board each month, with a formal tax return once each quarter. Small firms, withholding less than $100 a month, will remit quarterly

Individuals who receive income from sources other than wages and salaries will file an estimated tax declaration and remit quarterly, if the tax on such income exceeds $40 In this respect, state practice will follow that of the federal government, except that the state law will allow for a much larger income from these sources before there is an obligation to make a tax declaration and pay currently

The transition from present income tax procedures will be substantially eased by the provision forgiving one-quarter of the tax due on 1964 incomes when the tax return is filed in 1965 In making this allowance, California will be the first state to adopt a forgiveness feature without at the same time raising tax rates or reducing exemptions New York, Minnesota and Wisconsin, the only other states granting forgiveness, all increased the amount of their levies before canceling tax obligations

I do not claim this transition can be made without an overlap in tax payments During the period which begins July 1, 1964, and ends June 30, 1965 many of our people will pay one and one-fourth year's tax However, hundreds of thousands whose tax payments are not changed by the transition—those living on moderate retirement incomes, many small businessmen and farmers—will actually pay only three-quarters of their normal tax

So let me quiet once and for all the specious claim that this is double taxation or two-years' tax in one, or any of the other false statements concerning this period of transition

From the taxpayer's viewpoint the principal advantages of the proposed current payment plan are convenience and ease of payment The great majority of taxpayers will find their state income tax obligation fully paid through the paycheck deduction

There will be no more need to meet last year's tax debt from this year's reduced income, as now occurs in the year after retirement or after a reduction in current earnings Similarly, there will be far less likelihood that the lump-sum tax payment, or an installment, will coincide with the unforeseen expense of an illness or an accident

A more equitable distribution of the taxload is a third advantage of current payments In a state such as California, even with outstanding tax administration and enforcement, many escape taxation entirely Some leave the State Others manage to keep one step ahead of the tax collector until collection expense becomes costly and the tax is written off by the State as a bad debt Still others evade the tax until one or another feature of the present enforcement program uncovers their delinquency

Under withholding tax procedures, these types of evasion and avoidance will become far more difficult, if not impossible, and these people will start to pay their share of the cost of state governmental activities currently for the first time

On adopting the withholding system, New York collected $40 million more than it expected to receive on the basis of experience This represented 5 percent of its total collections Maryland raised its collections 11 5 percent, Kentucky 9 percent and Utah 6 5 percent It is entirely reasonable to expect that California, despite excellent present administration, will uncover some evasion and the revenue estimate, therefore, contains an allowance of $10 million—an amount equal to roughly 3 percent of the present receipts—to cover this aspect of the improved tax program

The cost of compliance should also be placed in proper perspective. All employers are currently deducting federal withholding tax This plan will involve merely an extension of existing procedures In all instances the cost should be nominal

Similarly, there will be additional expense to the State The initial cost is estimated at $2 5 million, but this expense will be reduced as present administrative practices are discontinued and the full economies of modern tax machinery and methods are realized

Of the 32 income tax states, 26 now use the current payment plan in one form or another The list includes such major industrial states as New York and Massachusetts, such progressive states as Minnesota and Wisconsin, such conservative states as Vermont and Virginia, and the new States of Alaska and Hawaii Nine of the 18 western states use this collection procedure Approximately 85 percent of all state income tax nationally is now collected in this way.

I am, therefore, not proposing an innovation nor imposing burdens not generally carried by the citizens and the employers of more than half of our sister states

Current payment of the income tax through withholding and tax declarations will produce an estimated $96 2 million for the State General Fund This, coupled with the loophole closing and other revisions recommended for the coming fiscal year, will total $99 1 million in receipts from this source during 1964-65

Banks and Corporations

The essential points of my recommendations regarding the bank and corporation tax to be made effective in 1964-65 are

1 Provision for an estimated tax return by larger banks and corporations beginning in 1965

2 Credit for the double tax paid in the past by most of our corporations.

The franchise tax is levied for the privilege of operating in California as a corporation It is now measured by the net profits from California operations in the previous year and is payable in two installments—one accompanying the tax return, the other six months later In the case of a corporation operating on a calendar-year basis, the return and half the tax are due March 15, the remainder September 15

The essence of my proposal with regard to this tax is that the measure of the tax for the privilege of operating in a current year shall be the profits of that year This will involve an estimate of earnings, partial payments as the year progresses and a final settlement after the year-end Calendar year corporations and banks would estimate their earnings for 1965 and pay half the tax in June of that year The remainder would be paid in December and a final tax return would be made in March 1966

In order to limit the application of this procedure and avoid possible hardship upon small corporations, I recommend that estimates and current payments should be required only when annual taxable earnings exceed $25,000

Under present law, newly organized corporations and those extending their operations to California pay a double tax in their second year Both taxes are measured by their first-year profits One is for the privilege of having operated in that first year and the other is for the privilege of operating in year two In lieu of partial tax forgiveness for all corporations, I recommend that those which have paid a double tax under this feature of the present law be given a credit against the tax on 1964 profits—payable in 1965—in the amount of this double tax, a sum estimated at $85 million

This plan will also close one of the major loopholes in our corporation tax law. The provision making one year's profit the measure of the next year's tax is a standing invitation for fly-by-night operators and single project corporations to concentrate tax-free income in the last year of operation Under my recommendations this channel of evasion will be closed

The tax payment by banks and corporations, less the credit offset, will produce $32 million additional General Fund revenue in the 1964-65 fiscal year This, together with the final installment payment of the 1964 bank tax and the loophole closing amendments recommended for the coming fiscal year, will provide a total of $44 million additional revenue from the bank and corporation tax in 1964-65 An estimated $40 million will be added in the following fiscal year as the accelerated payment program is fully achieved

The estimated tax procedure and current payment plan recommended for banks and corporations is neither new nor costly of administration The federal government now requires that such an estimate and tax payment from the larger corporations be made in September and the revenue bill now before Congress advances this date to March Oklahoma has followed this plan since 1961 and Georgia has just recently adopted such a program

In all, less than 20,000 corporate taxpayers will be required to file an estimate of current earnings, thus, the cost of compliance and state expense will be a minute fraction of the revenue involved

Insurance Companies

I also urge you to take action at this session towards elimination of the so-called principal office deduction currently given insurance companies It would not take effect until the 1964-65 fiscal year—and would have no effect on the budget now before you But action should be taken this session if this proposal is to appear as a constitutional amendment on the 1964 ballot

The insurance tax is levied in lieu of all other taxes upon the insurance industry, except real estate taxes and motor vehicle fees This blanket exemption includes not only state taxes but local privilege taxes as well, both on the insurance companies and on their salesmen

If the insurance company owns a principal office in this State, the local property taxes paid on such holdings may be offset against the state insurance tax. Last year this offset amounted to $4,291,000 and it is increasing at approximately $500,000 a year

Curiously, only one out of every seven insurance companies has taken advantage of this deduction In many instances the home office is principally an insurance company office But in many other instances it is a commercial structure, housing stores, offices, garages and other business tenants in direct competition with other commercial building operators who receive no offset against their state tax obligations

A constitutional amendment and the necessary statutory changes would eliminate this subsidy to one-seventh of the insurance companies If this is done, the 2 35 percent tax rate will apply equally to all insurers, except those engaged in ocean marine business who pay 5 percent of their underwriting profits It will end the state subsidy for one commercial structure in competition with another, and it will return $5 3 million to the State Treasury in 1964-65

I recommend, also, that revenue from the surplus line brokers' tax be deposited in the State General Fund rather than the Insurance Fund

The surplus line brokers' tax applies to insurance placed by a broker with a company which has not been admitted to sell insurance in this State. Except that the rate is 3 percent and collections go to support the Insurance Commissioner s office, it is exactly like the gross premiums tax collected for support of general government

In total, elimination of the principal office deduction, estimated to be $5 3 million in 1964-65, earlier realization of the growth in the insurance tax base, and this broader use of the surplus line tax will produce $7 5 million for the State General Fund in 1964-65 and even larger amounts in subsequent years

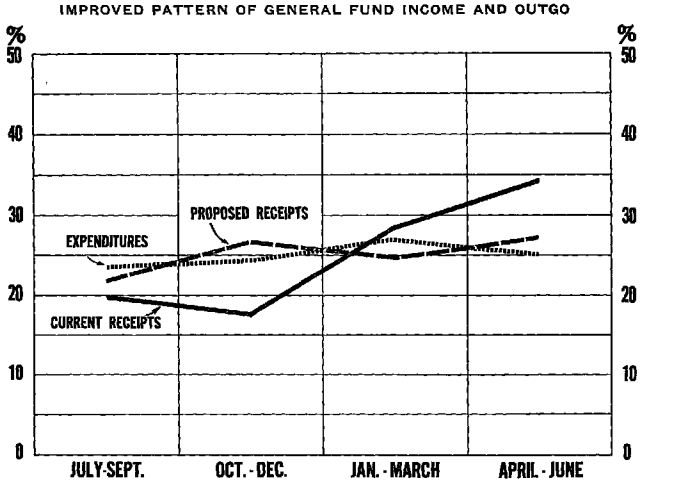
The General Fund revenue effect of this co-ordinated program is estimated to be $151 million in 1964-65 This, however, is by no means its total dimension It will provide at least $96 million in 1965-66 and a minimum of $62 5 million a year on a continuing basis as long as California maintains its recent growth rate Part of this will come through better tax enforcement, part through the closing of loopholes in the present law, part as the result of our inevitable growth Make no mistake, I am not asking you merely to harvest a tax windfall but to adopt the modern methods of tax administration now employed by many other states



Another important result of the recommended program will be the marked improvement in the flow of General Fund revenue and a better relationship between income and outgo, as shown in the accompanying chart The trough now experienced in the October-December quarter under the present system will be eliminated and peak flow of the April-June period will be materially reduced This will eliminate the necessity of borrowing from special funds

There are those who would postpone action on the withholding tax program and the current payment plan for corporations These people are not facing the problem of providing this year's services for this year's population out of last year's income I can assure them that the problem will not vanish and it will not diminish in size As long as our public school enrollments continue to grow by more than 220,000 a year, we must provide for increases of more than $44 million in apportionments for school support As long as we have 12,500 more students each year seeking an education at our State Colleges and University, we must provide additional millions for support of these centers So long as we gain 600,000 new citizens each year, we must provide the governmental services these persons require

Despite our tremendous population growth, California in the last four years has established one of the most outstanding tax records of any of the 50 states Over the four years from 1958 through 1962, the per-capita tax increase here—19 percent—has been half the increase shown in the nine other major industrial states and less than half that experienced in New York

The record is even more enviable when expressed in terms of our growing volume of personal income California's 10 percent increase in state tax burden per $100 of personal income compares with 16 7 percent in other states combined, 22 percent in the other industrial states and 31 5 percent in New York.

IMPROVED PATTERN OF GENERAL FUND INCOME AND OUTGO

This chart shows the improvement in the flow of State General Fund revenue which will result from income tax withholding and current tax payments by banks, general corporations and insurance companies. The revenue slough experienced in the October-December quarter under the present system will be eliminated, and the peak flow of the April-June quarter will be materially reduced by the proposed plan. At the same time revenue receipts in every quarter will more closely align with expenditure requirements of that quarter.

Adoption of the revenue program I have here recommended will make it possible to continue this outstanding record for another two years, when the economic growth resulting from the reduction in federal taxes will drastically cut, if not actually eliminate, the present gap between General Fund resources and expenditure requirements.

These projections assume continuing growth in California's economy stimulated in part by adoption of the federal tax reduction program now before Congress

THE NEED FOR TAX STUDY

Our present structure of taxation at the city, county and state levels is an anachronism, based on realities that existed decades ago, but exist no longer

History and California's spectacular growth have demolished many of the tax relationships among the various levels of government

Some of the basic questions needing answers are

What are the fiscal requirements of the tasks of government in California?

Which of these should be carried by cities, which by counties, and which by the State?

What are the fiscal relationships between and among these levels of government?

Who should collect the needed tax revenues to perform these tasks?

Should the State continue to finance or collect the taxes for functions which are clearly identified as local responsibilities?

Or should new tax authority be made available to local governments?

What is the impact of the tax burden on the various segments of our economy and society?

Is the burden equitably distributed or does it need to be repackaged so we all carry our fair share of the load?

What is the impact of federal taxation on our economy and how does it relate to our tax system?

Are we earmarking too large a share of revenues for specific purposes, and is this done on a sound basis?

Do we have a structure which easily permits adjustments necessary to meet changing conditions and needs?

Is the system such that the taxpayer can readily identify what his money is used for and by whom?

We need the answers, and in order to obtain them, legislation will be introduced shortly to appropriate the necessary funds to conduct the survey

I am recommending that a nationally recognized taxation expert from outside California with the highest credentials in the field be retained to direct the study

He should be jointly responsible to the Governor, acting through the Director of Finance, and the Legislature, acting through whatever committee or representatives the Legislature selects

I propose that a Tax Advisory Commission, composed of leading representatives of the business community and state and local government, be created to advise on the scope and direction of the survey

In addition, I urge the formation of a technical advisory committee of tax experts representing various segments of the economy and state and local government. Such a committee would assist and advise the Tax Research Director and serve as a technical link between him and the Tax Advisory Commission

If these steps are taken now, California will be in a position to proceed realistically on tax problems at the beginning of the next regular legislative session.

If they are not taken, the State, in my judgment, will be faced with ever-mounting tax inequities that injure both the citizen taxpayer and California

I recommend the two-year program before you without reservation. But I also recognize that it does not fully answer all the questions of the future

The program would see us through until 1965, and it would favorably influence the situation which will then be before us, but the fact remains that there will be many intervening and now unknown economic events both nationally and in California

I am therefore proposing that we act now to authorize a comprehensive tax study which will provide the facts for any necessary legislative action in 1965

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev Robert R Ferguson.

Eternal God, We confess that we need that inner quality of life which the early Christians called "Joy" We've increased in our scientific knowledge and are skilled in the art of putting certain ingredients together so that we have a momentary lift and the illusion of happiness, but our songs soon become blurred

We pray for an inner quality of life not dependent upon external happenings May our lives not be mere weathervanes turning with the current winds, tides, and stimuli

May we find steadfastness through Thy gift of joy and peace which qualities of life are so deep, no external happenings can upset our ability to do our work and destroy the quality of inner integrity

In our Master's name—AMEN

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

The following message from the Governor was received, and read.

STATEMENT OF GOVERNOR EDMUND G. BROWN ON GOVERNMENT REORGANIZATION

Transmitted to the California Legislature, Wednesday, March 20, 1963

To the Senate and Assembly of the Legislature of California

Two years ago, when I put before this Legislature the first proposals for reorganization of state government in California, I told you that 'proper reorganization can best be accomplished over a period of several years Too drastic an upheaval can thus be avoided and the benefits of experience in the early stages can be applied as further steps are taken"

Today I ask that you consider measures which will constitute a second major stage in the modernization of the executive branch of government The proposals now before you will, in my judgment, result in more economical and efficient government not only during the life of this administration but for all administrations to come

Until 1961, when we took the first steps toward streamlining state government, there had been no improvement in the structure of the executive branch in almost 30 years The trend was toward proliferation rather than reduction of the many elements of government directly responsible to the Governor As a result, the number of departments, bureaus, agencies and commissions reporting directly to the Governor had grown to more than 350 On the face of it, no Governor could find the time to consult effectively with 350 advisors, and the inevitable result was a diminution of government's responsiveness to the requirements of our 17½ million citizens.

Certainly no modern corporation would tolerate a management structure of such awkwardness and complexity, and I determined to apply to state government the now proven techniques of modern corporate management

When I became Governor four years ago, I appointed a committee to study the organization of the executive branch Out of that study came the Agency Plan—a proposal for grouping existing departments, bureaus, divisions and commissions into agencies each with an administrator directly responsible to the Governor The logical effect of this was the formation of the first Governor's Cabinet in the modern history of our State—a cabinet similar to the President's on the federal level

With your enactment of the first stage of reorganization in 1961, and my appointment of the Cabinet, the immediate result was a simplification of the structure of state government, economies in its operation and a higher degree of responsiveness.

I can tell you, without reservation, that the partial Agency Plan now in operation is fulfilling the high hopes we held for it two years ago. At the time of its enactment, the Legislature, with my support, also established a permanent Commission on California State Government Organization and Economy (The Little Hoover Commission) to appraise the preliminary steps taken and to recommend further improvements.

The commission worked diligently on its assignment. Hearings were held in all sections of the State and testimony from more than 90 expert witnesses was evaluated.

The prime objects of the commission's study were the four agencies to which you gave statutory recognition—Health and Welfare, Youth and Adult Corrections, Resources, and Highway Transportation. But it also gave much attention to four ex-officio agencies created by executive order—Business and Commerce, Revenue and Management, Public Safety and Employment Relations.

After examining the four statutory agencies, the commission agreed unanimously that they "—had made the Governor's responsibility as Chief Executive more manageable and more effective."

"—had filled a needed, but previously missing, level of political administrative leadership created by the size and complexity of California state government."

"—had provided a potentially greater opportunity for more effective legislative review and improved communication with the executive branch."

"—had produced specific and tangible benefits of program coordination among related departments, the elimination of overlapping services, and more effective utilization of manpower, space and financial resources."

To this I add my own observation. Reorganization leads to the logical question. "Is it saving the taxpayers money?" I can tell you that it is.

When the first reorganizational steps were taken in 1961, I had such confidence in ultimate savings that no appropriation was made available in that year's budget for the salary of the administrators. I said they would have to meet their own payroll out of economies within the departments they were administering. This was done, and both the savings and the salaries are now reflected in the budget document.

But the salaries of the administrators are but a fraction of the total savings under the Agency Plan. I will give you but one example of large-scale economy. One department proposed a budget of $475,000 for the first year's operation of a program to establish motor vehicle emission standards. The agency administrator recommended contracting with another jurisdiction for the services at a savings of $115,800.

Over the past two years, administrators have given you other examples of meaningful savings, and I refer you to them for specific instances in which elimination of overlapping services and more effective management have led to economies for the taxpayer.

The Little Hoover Commission believes that what we have done is sound and so do I. But only the first step has been taken. If we are to reach our goal, other advances are now in order.

I

High in priority is the Governor's need for prompt and effective executive staff services which marshal all the pertinent information vital to policy formulation and administration.

Staff advice now comes to me through two channels—my personal staff and the Department of Finance. Each makes an important contribution. My staff has the resources for determining public requirements. The Department of Finance has the resources to develop data quickly and to propose alternatives for meeting those requirements within our fiscal limitations.

But under our present system of government, the Director of Finance has a dual role. His primary responsibility is to serve as my adviser on policy, management and fiscal affairs. But he also has other major assignments, many of them unrelated to his principal duty. The demands upon him have become so heavy that it has become increasingly difficult to carry out his basic responsibility. In addition to preparing and administering the budget, the department now must provide office space, printing, communications, purchasing, automotive management and a host of other general services to state agencies.

He must also represent the State on 31 boards and commissions and provide a link between the administration and the Legislature on major fiscal issues.

Because of his many areas of responsibility, the director has had to strike a balance in the allocation of his time between the competing demands of fiscal management and general services

A Director of Finance relieved of responsibility for administering general services functions involving more than 3,000 employees would be able to undertake more basic program analysis within departments than has been possible in the past. This is essential if significant economies are to be achieved

Thus, my first proposal to you calls for a reorganization of the Department of Finance To accomplish this, I support a proposal now before you to create a new Department of General Services, to include the Division of Architecture

I also propose that activities of the Department of Finance which do not have a direct relationship to the department's primary mission, and which are not general service and supply functions, be transferred elsewhere in state government As an example, the Division of Fairs and Expositions should become a part of the Department of Agriculture

My purpose in asking for a Department of General Services is not merely to reshape the responsibilities of the Director of Finance An independently strong and conclusive case has been made for giving departmental status to the service and supply functions The proposed Department of General Services would have approximately 4,000 employees, a budget of $10,000,000, and would be concerned with the expenditure of over $300,000,000

To illustrate, the Purchasing Division alone is responsible for annual expenditures approximating $100,000,000. Service and supply functions require specialized professional attention which can be achieved only through departmental status

I asked the Little Hoover Commission to study this proposal before I presented it to you. It has produced a cogent report which reads, in part

> "In summary, the commission concurs that a basic reorganization of the Department of Finance is both necessary and desirable if the executive branch of the state government is to meet effectively the present and future needs of the state government and in turn the needs of the people of California. It is recommended, for the reasons stated herein, that steps be taken by the Legislature and the Governor to establish a Department of General Services separate from the Department of Finance Such a proposal has been regularly and responsibly put forward for the past 25 years In the commission's view, it is time to act This action, in the judgment of the commission, will not only facilitate an improved level of general services administration but will permit the Director of Finance to devote his energy and talent to his principal assignment—that of being the Governor's chief fiscal, planning and program adviser"

The commission also suggested that the Office of the State Fire Marshal be removed from the Public Safety Agency and be placed in the new Department of General Services, thereby aligning it organizationally with other central services I concur.

As you know, I also have considered reshaping the program, management, fiscal and planning activities of the Department of Finance into an Executive Office I asked the Little Hoover Commission to make an extensive, impartial analysis and present its views to you and to me. The commission does not favor such a move at this time Its special report reads in part

> " . . the commission endorses the basic objective of strengthening the program, fiscal management and policy advisory services to the Governor. It is believed, however, that these objectives can be attained, at this time, through the continued existence of a reoriented Department of Finance as a separately identified department After sufficient experience with the operation of a General Services Department and the new agencies, together with related internal reorganization and changed emphasis in the Department of Finance and the Governor's office, judgments concerning the need for further major reorganization of the central executive offices can then be reached on the basis of much more additional evidence than is now available"

This is a reasonable approach I accept the commission's judgment that we should move cautiously and will not propose an Executive Office at this time Rather, I suggest that we proceed as the commission suggests by establishing a Department of General Services, removing certain other activities from the Department of Finance, and working within this framework to achieve better coordination between my personal staff and Finance

Through this reorganization of the Department of Finance, it is my intention to (1) provide for more vigorous administration in the area of essential service and supply, (2) to provide for a more effective attack on fiscal, program, management and planning problems, and (3) to work for more direct coordination between my office and those units remaining in the Department of Finance

II

Next, I propose statutory status for the Business and Commerce Agency

Experience to date has shown, to my satisfaction, that this agency is an effective combination of activities which are of great service both in improving the economic climate of California and providing necessary regulation to protect the public interest

The Little Hoover Commission similarly approves statutory recognition of this agency

The agency would have the following components

1. The Departments of Professional and Vocational Standards and Alcoholic Beverage Control, with related boards and commissions
2. The Departments of Insurance and Banking, the Divisions of Corporations Savings and Loan and Real Estate, and the Districts Securities Commission
3. The three Boards of Pilot Commissioners, the Board of Osteopathic Examiners, the Horse Racing Board and the Athletic Commission
4. A new Office of California Development, consisting of the functions now performed by the Economic Development Agency and the World Trade Center Authority. I also contemplate that the Director of California Development will have available for consultation a California Development Advisory Board
5. A new Department of Housing will be proposed to the Legislature in a separate message, with the recommendation that it be included in the Business and Commerce Agency
6. The Office of Consumer Counsel, an office created by the Legislature in 1959 which has served as a watchdog of the consumer's pocketbook, and has clearly established its value

Before you is a separate proposal for establishment of a new Office of Tourism and Visitor Services. I give this proposal my full endorsement and if it is adopted by the Legislature, I will propose that it be incorporated into the new Office of California Development

I believe inclusion of tourism, the World Trade Center Authority and the Economic Development Agency within the Business and Commerce Agency is a logical grouping. State regulation of major financial institutions within the State has a direct bearing on what is being done in other sectors to develop a stronger foundation for our economy

III

I also propose that we consolidate gains already made in existing statutory agencies

Health and Welfare Agency

California has long had a reputation for excellence in its vocational rehabilitation service. However, there is a clear need for re-emphasis of this service in an age of swift technological change

I therefore propose that we establish a Rehabilitation Department within our Health and Welfare Agency

It has become apparent that present placement of the service within a department having the vast responsibility of educating our children has made it difficult for vocational rehabilitation to secure the attention and status it must have. Thus, it seems appropriate to recommend moving this function from the State Department of Education to the Welfare Agency, where it can co-ordinate its functions with the Departments of Mental Hygiene, Public Health and Social Welfare

The success or failure of the rehabilitation effort has a direct impact on the health and welfare programs administered by this agency. Experience has shown that the person not successfully rehabilitated will almost without exception, become a recipient of one or more of the programs under jurisdiction of the Health and Welfare Agency. Certainly, this would give the agency the greatest incentive to develop an increasingly effective program

The department I propose would consist of a number of organizational units now in the Department of Education. Included would be Vocational Rehabilitation Service, Field Rehabilitation Services for the Blind, the Orientation Center for the Blind, the Opportunity Center for the Blind and California Industries for the Blind

In developing this proposal, consultations have been held with the Superintendent of Public Instruction and his executive staff. They have been most co-operative and their views have been considered in developing this more appropriate separation of functions which are primarily vocational rehabilitation from those which are primarily educational

As a further step to improve our rehabilitation services, I have included in the budget of the Department of Industrial Relations a screening unit to review the cases of industrially injured workers This unit's purpose would be to alert the injured worker to the opportunities and services available to him

This is a function now undertaken by many other states, but one to which too little attention has been paid in California The proposal is consistent with the recommendations of the Council of State Governments for 1963

When we took the first steps toward reorganization two years ago, we recognized there were many boards and commissions that should be assigned ultimately to the most appropriate agency An example is the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Aging While this committee concerns itself with many other interests of our senior citizens, its major activities are related to, and require co-ordination with, programs that come under the jurisdiction of the Health and Welfare Agency

I therefore propose that you enact legislation to place the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Aging in the Health and Welfare Agency

When you approved my recommendation in 1959 for creation of the Office of Co-ordinator of Atomic Energy Development and Radiation Protection, the newness of the program, the degree of public concern, and the importance of assuring co-operation of all departments of state government, made it advisable to place this responsibility directly under me

The program we have since developed places California in a position of leadership in both atomic energy development and protection The United States Atomic Energy Commission in recognition of this, has transferred certain of its regulatory prerogatives to California.

I believe the program is now sufficiently established to integrate it with comparable public protection functions

I therefore recommend that you place this office within the Department of Public Health

IV

Highway Transportation

If, as I suggest, you transfer the Division of Architecture from the Department of Public Works into the proposed Department of General Services, the name "Public Works" would no longer be descriptive of that department and the name should be changed to Department of Highways

I also believe the Division of Aeronautics and the Aeronautics Board do not belong in the Department of Public Works and should be placed in the Highway Transportation Agency but not within a specific department of that agency

The original name of the agency, Highway Transportation, suggests it concerns itself only with highways Actually, the agency is involved with the relationship of highways to other forms of transportation and with the broad, comprehensive planning and development of all transportation

I therefore propose legislation that (1) re-names the agency Highways and Transportation; (2) changes the name of the Department of Public Works to the Department of Highways, and (3) places the State Aeronautics Board and the Division of Aeronautics as an integral part of the agency rather than as a part of Public Works

Youth and Adult Corrections Agency

At the present time we have an inconsistency within the Youth and Adult Corrections Agency in that the Board of Corrections is a part of the Department of Corrections I believe it should be given separate status This board has agency-wide scope The agency administrator is its chairman by law and its membership includes the director of the Youth Authority, the vice chairman of the Youth Authority Board and the Director of Corrections

I therefore recommend to the Legislature that we give the Board of Corrections separate status within the Youth and Adult Corrections Agency

VI

Once more I propose to you legislation and an accompanying constitutional amendment granting the Governor the reorganization powers now given the President and governors of certain other states

It would give the Governor authority to develop reorganization plans along the following lines

1 Transfer of any unit of government, or its functions, to the jurisdiction and control of another
2 Consolidation or integration of the functions within a unit
3 Consolidation or integration of the functions of various units
4 Abolition of part or all of the functions of any jurisdiction
5 Abolition of any unit whose functions have been found obsolete
6 Authorization for an officer to delegate any of his functions

Under this proposal, the Governor would develop reorganization plans and present them to the Legislature for consideration. The plans would become law 91 days after final adjournment of the Legislature, unless either the Senate or Assembly passed a resolution disapproving them

This would increase flexibility in the organization of the executive branch The Governor would be responsible for determining necessary changes, but the Legislature would have veto power.

In 1922, the federal government gave the President broad powers to reorganize administrative agencies by executive order. This largely was a reaction to an economic crisis. In 1939, however, the President was given more permanent authority

Today, the President's responsibility and authority to organize his administration is universally accepted The President annually submits his plans for reorganization to Congress These plans become law if not disapproved by Congress. Thus, the President has the power to initiate structural and functional changes, while Congress retains review and veto powers

Several states have followed the federal example In 1955, Pennsylvania's General Assembly passed a reorganization act modeled after the federal law, and the Alaska Constitution authorizes the Governor to make changes in the executive organization, retaining for the Legislature the power to review and approve or disapprove

Finally, while we all accept the fact that structure is important, it is skilled and dedicated personnel which ultimately determines the effectiveness of government

I therefore support legislation favored by the State Personnel Board which will make it more certain that managerial talent is used to its fullest potential

This measure would permit the State Personnel Board to establish, within the civil service framework, as provided by Article XXIV (24) of the State Constitution, a special merit system of selection, tenure and personnel management for the higher civil service positions in state government

It would be a different and entirely separate system from that which is applicable to the regular civil service and the statutes which regulate and control the operation of the regular civil service would not apply to it It would be applicable only to employees who are now in the highest levels of the present civil service structure, the relatively small number of employees who are at the level of Division Chief or higher It would meet the special problems encountered in the selection, placement and retention of top-level administrative employees No incumbent in an existing high-level classification would lose any of his rights.

I believe the affected personnel should have a closer identity with the programs of their departments Their advice on departmental plans and policies is often critical

A departmental director may well want to redeploy his managerial staff to meet shifting program needs He also may wish to place in key positions persons in whom he has complete confidence He also may wish to assign responsibilities to those who have developed outstanding managerial capacity

Regular civil service processes do not always make possible such flexible use of top civil service executives Further, the selection of men for top executive positions often calls for development of information and use of appraisal processes beyond the limitations that govern regular civil service tests Similarly, the legal guarantees that accompany permanent civil service status in a position—with removal for cause being a matter of serious personal incompetence or turpitude—are at variance with the need for a flexible assignment of top managerial talent

The purpose of the proposed legislation is to enable the Personnel Board to meet this problem by authorizing it to create a merit system specifically tailored to the personnel management needs of top administrative posts

In the large body of the civil service where the popularity and proven worth of traditional civil service practices and safeguards are well established, there need be no change beyond the continued effort at improvement that already characterizes the administration of this system

The proposed legislation does not attempt to create, full-blown, an untried system Rather it provides the machinery whereby the board can, with care and deliberation, develop and adjust a merit system which remains continually responsive to the particular needs of the State for top managerial talent

Separate legislation dealing with water quality control in California will soon be presented to the Legislature While it deals mainly with quality control of one of our most precious natural resources, it also has major organizational implications within the Resources Agency. I urge you give this serious consideration when it reaches you

My recommendations for this second stage reorganization of the executive branch are extensive but cautious They envision major changes in the present executive structure but in every case are conservative and logical extensions of first stage reforms already in effect

I have no doubt they will arouse controversy It is, unfortunately, the nature of government to multiply, rather than simplify its functions Interests within and without government will resist changes in a system—however unwieldly—which they believe presently affords them special protections or services

But controversy must not divert us from answering positively the question that confronts government at all levels today How can we serve the people more efficiently, more responsively, and more economically?

This message contains my answer, I submit it to you in the confidence that we share a common concern for the increasing demands on state government and a common determination to prepare government for even greater demands in the future

Respectfully submitted,

EDMUND G BROWN, Governor

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO PRINT IN JOURNAL

Mr Britschgi asked for unanimous consent that a communication from Ira C and Gladys E Bechtold be ordered printed in the Journal

Mr Elliott withheld unanimous consent, pending the reading of the communication

Mr Britschgi then read the communication to the members

Objections Withdrawn

Mr. Elliott then withdrew his objections, and unanimous consent was granted that the following communication be ordered printed in the Journal

COMMUNICATION FROM IRA C. AND GLADYS E. BECHTOLD

LA HABRA, CALIFORNIA, February 22, 1963

Hon Carl A Britschgi, Chairman
Assembly Committee on Legislative Representation
State Capitol, Sacramento

DEAR MR BRITSCHGI: Many times in the past and up to the present time, we have noted that various individuals and organizations have appeared in the State Capitol in Sacramento and elsewhere, as well as in the National Capitol at Washington, D C, claiming to represent our church, which is known as "The Religious Society of Friends" or merely as "Friends" and sometimes by the colloquial name of "Quakers"

We are members of the East Whittier Friends Church which in turn is a monthly meeting of the California yearly meeting of Friends Church This is the oldest Friends or Quaker organization in the State of California and the West. California yearly meeting consists of 34 monthly meetings distributed throughout the State, having a total of 7,964 active and associate members as of April 1, 1962

After extensive investigation and to the best of our knowledge and belief, neither of the above organizations have any duly appointed representatives or organizations which are delegated to speak for them or their members before government bodies in either Sacramento or Washington, D C

Certainly we, as individuals, have no duly appointed representatives having this authority

To the best of our knowledge and belief, no members of the above cited organizations are listed in "List of Legislative Advocates and Organizations, 1961" or in "Final Report of the Assembly Interim Committee on Legislative Representation, Volume 11, Number 3, 1961-1963" of the Assembly Committee on Legislative Representation of the State of California

We are writing to you stating our position in this matter for the reason that, in the past, we have not been in agreement with many, if not most, of the positions taken in legislative matters by those whom our legislators may have believed represented "The Religious Society of Friends," "Friends," or "Quakers"

It would be appreciated if you would make our position known to your associates.

Thank you for your kind consideration of this request.

Sincerely,

IRA C. BECHTOLD
GLADYS E BECHTOLD

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered·

By Mr Flournoy·

House Resolution No. 161

Relating to an interim study of the subject of local taxation for public school support

WHEREAS The statutory law of this State prescribes maximum tax rates to govern the levy and collection of school district taxes at the local level, but authorizes these maximums to be exceeded by the individual districts through "override tax" election procedures; and

WHEREAS, The statutory law itself increases such maximum tax rates by force of various separate provisions directed to insuring that sufficient moneys will be provided for a variety of purposes ranging from breakfasts and lunches for needy pupils, child care centers, and public school care centers, to installation of fire prevention facilities and payment of administrative expense contributions for social security coverage purposes, and

WHEREAS, There have been introduced at the current session of the Legislature, as in past sessions, a considerable number of proposals which would add provisions to the law to further increase the maximum tax rates for different purposes, and

WHEREAS, The great majority of the school districts in the State are being supported at the local level by district taxes levied and collected at rates so substantially in excess of the general statutory "maximums" that the latter clearly no longer closely reflect the present day realities of public school administration and finance, and

WHEREAS, Many of the most desirable programs prescribed for the public schools in recent enactments of the Legislature, such as the poliomyelitis immunization, foreign language instruction, and others, have been placed into operation by the districts without the aid of special financial support from the State, with the result that the added financial burdens make it imperative that means for enhancing the efficiency of fiscal operations at the local level be immediately devised, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California That the Committee on Rules is directed to assign to an appropriate interim committee for study the subject of local taxation for support of the public school system, the committee to study all facts and circumstances relating to this subject and to report its findings and recommendations thereon to the Legislature by the fifth calendar day of the 1965 Regular Session

Resolution read, and referred by the Speaker pro Tempore to the Committee on Rules

Quorum present

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the chaplain, Rev. Robert R. Ferguson.

O Lord, Our God, In these times which try our souls, give us that faith which is an inescapable optimism and the midst of an irresistible pessimism May we have the grace to resist fatigue, depression, and the weight of our inadequacy and have the vision of the Apostle who said, "All things work together for good to them that love God" We know this is not empirically evident but may it be verified by a long look at Thee, our ultimate concern

We pray in our Lord's name—AMEN

Yet Thou hast breathed something of Thy life into each of us; Thou hast given us minds forever seeking Thee, Thou hast given us an eternal restlessness, until we make our peace with Thee May we see the folly of clinging to little prides which can keep us from Thy eternal fellowship and the joy of abundant living. May we be conscious throughout this day that Thou art nearer than breathing, closer than hands or feet

We pray in our Master's name.—AMEN

ANNOUNCEMENT BY SPEAKER UNRUH

Announcement by Speaker Unruh

I understand some members are not clear on the constitutional 30-day waiting period before a bill can be acted upon This restriction precludes amending a bill and sending it out for reprint, and back to committee The committee secretaries have been instructed not to accept any bills for this purpose inside the 30-day period

It would help if members would not try to pressure the secretaries to do this

ANNOUNCEMENT

Speaker pro Tempore Bee again directed the attention of the Members of the Assembly to page 1306 of the Assembly Journal for March 21st where an announcement relative to the introduction of guests appears

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev Robert R. Ferguson

God, Our Father, Give us vision to see beyond the obvious. May we not have closed minds and then complain because we cannot see Thou dost teach that spiritual things are spiritually discerned, that if any man will do Thy will he shall know We pray for real knowledge concerning our lives, our purpose and destiny here on earth May we not settle for half-truths which so often are more dangerous than obvious falsehoods Give us, O God, insight as to what truths to stand for, where to stand, and the courage to stand, or we are apt to fall for anything

Give us Thy grace this day In our Master's name —AMEN

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Mr Bagley was granted unanimous consent that the following opinion of the Legislative Counsel be ordered printed in the Journal.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO, March 25, 1963

Hon Phillip Burton
Assembly Chamber

Public Assistance—No. 12776

DEAR MR BURTON

You ask the following question

Question

Would Assembly Bill No 175 give to a county additional power to impose liens for indigent aid or public assistance?

Opinion

In our opinion Assembly Bill No 175 would not give a county additional power to impose liens for indigent aid or public assistance

Analysis

Assembly Bill No 175 would add Section 2601 5 to the Welfare and Institutions Code That section provides that no lien taken by a county pursuant to Section 2601 of the Welfare and Institutions Code for care provided to a person in a county hospital shall be enforced against the property of that person during his lifetime or that of his spouse

At the present time a county is expressly authorized by law to require a person who enters the county hospital to give a lien on property owned by him to the county as security for money expended by the county (H & S C, Secs 1473, 1474, W & I C, Sec 2601)

Assembly Bill No 175 would prohibit the county from enforcing its lien during the lifetime of the person whose property is encumbered and that of the spouse of the person. The bill would in no way extend the authority of a county to take a lien for county hospital care, and has no application whatever to other public assistance programs The bill, in effect, is a curtailment of the county's authority, rather than an extension of that authority.

Very truly yours,

A C MORRISON
Legislative Counsel
By EDWARD K PURCELL
Deputy Legislative Counsel

Two copies to Honorable William T Bagley pursuant to Joint Rule No 34.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Mr Bane was granted unanimous consent to offer a resolution, at this time

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Mr Bane:

House Resolution No. 168

Relative to congratulating the Foundation for the Junior Blind on its 10th Birthday

WHEREAS, It has come to the attention of the Assembly that the Foundation for the Junior Blind will celebrate its 10th Birthday on March 30, 1963, with an Anniversary Dinner Dance in the Grand Ballroom of the Beverly Hilton Hotel in Los Angeles, and

WHEREAS, The Foundation for the Junior Blind opened its doors on March 30, 1953, in an old refurbished store building on Santa Monica Boulevard in Los Angeles to provide blind children between the ages of six and twenty-one, without regard to race or creed, with a year-round recreational program to give sightless youngsters the chance to enjoy the same life experiences as "seeing" children, in order that they will grow up as normal, active individuals who are able to take their place in the "seeing" world, and

WHEREAS, Supported entirely by voluntary contributions and without fee to the children or their parents, it has grown from an organization able to serve a handful of blind children to an organization, outstanding not only in Southern California, but unique in the entire Country, in offering to 480 young blind persons an integrated program of special education and social development, with such activities and classes as arts and crafts, cooking, poise and personal grooming, ham radio, musical instrument instruction, dramatics, ballet, foreign language instruction, woodshop, science workshop, judo, boxing and wrestling, social dances and square dances, and outdoor jaunts and field trips; and

WHEREAS, In addition to the program conducted during the school year, the Foundation for the Junior Blind concurrently operates three day camping programs, one in Los Angeles, one in the San Gabriel Valley and one in the San Fernando Valley, and a resident camping program at Camp Bloomfield on land donated to the Foundation in the Malibu Mountains, which is the only summer camp in the entire Southwest with special facilities and trained personnel for blind children, permitting the conducting of all activities done at a "sighted" camp; and

WHEREAS, Mr Norman Kaplan, Founder and Executive Director of the Foundation, and his wife, Nadia, saw that help was available to preschool blind children and to blind adults, but that there was nothing available to sightless school-age children after school, and determined to fill this gap, which has caused Mr Kaplan to work 18 to 20 hours a day, seven days a week, to keep this important work going, moving Paul Coates to describe Mr. Kaplan as "an ordinary good person of the world, performing minor miracles without the benefit of headlines, klieg lights, or fanfare—performing the quiet but spectacular miracle of brightening the lives of our children who live in darkness", and

WHEREAS, The Kaplans never refuse to admit any child to the Foundation's program and the flood of youngsters anxious to take advantage of its services resulted in a constant expansion of the program, placing severe stress on the organization's resources, which reached such a crisis in 1955 that the program was threatened with extinction unless more funds and additional volunteer workers could be obtained, and

WHEREAS, The Foundation for the Junior Blind and the work of the Kaplans was featured on Mr Coate's program, "Confidential File," in May, 1955, and the results were so gratifying that the Foundation was able to meet its debts and move to larger quarters, which are now in the process of being outgrown; and

WHEREAS, The Foundation was started by a grant from a group of 24 women called the "Freelancers" and has been aided since by a loyal staff and a group of selfless volunteers, providing teaching, transportation, administrative, supervisory and other services and contributing about 50,000 hours of volunteer service per year to supplement the work of the Foundation's staff, which is exemplified by the work of Barbara Rose, Assistant Director, who has served the organization for eight and one-half years, and

WHEREAS, The contributions of the Kaplans and the Foundation's staff and volunteer workers have led to a better community, State, Nation and world, since by teaching blind youth to become more useful citizens they have shown the way to others to aid blind children to become contributing members of society, which goal of the Foundation was expressed by Mr Kaplan in the following language: "It is important that these children learn to integrate into their society, not as beggars, but as useful citizens. Blindness must not be treated as a tragedy, merely as a nuisance Almost everyone can become a useful citizen if given the opportunity The Foundation gives these children that opportunity They live and grow by the life experiences they are exposed to and if their lives include more than just sitting in front of the radio, they grow with each experience in which they are allowed to participate", now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Members of this Assembly congratulate the Foundation for the Junior Blind on its 10th Birthday and commend Norman and Nadia Kaplan, the staff and volunteer workers for making this organization possible; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly transmit a suitably prepared copy of this resolution to Mr Norman Kaplan

DEAR SIR It is with a great deal of appreciation that I wish to thank you for your thoughtfulness and kindnesses extended to the Fourth Graders from Antioch The children were sincerely awed by their experiences in the Assembly Balcony and particularly your talk to them in the reserved section of the floor It certainly must make a lasting impression upon them and, indeed, provides a basis for further study and discussion in the classroom about our government.

Any correspondence from you could only further the rewards of an already highly successful field trip experience, and perchance create wholesome respect, curiosity, and newborn interests in our democratic form of government.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO PRINT IN JOURNAL

Mr Lanterman was granted unanimous consent that the following opinion of the Legislative Counsel be ordered printed in the Journal:

OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO, March 25, 1963

Hon. Frank Lanterman
Assembly Chamber

State Water Resources Development—No. 11246

Question

DEAR MR. LANTERMAN. You have called our attention to a proposal of the Department of Water Resources to issue revenue bonds in the amount of $325,000,000 pursuant to the provisions of the Water Code relating to the Central Valley Project[1] to finance the construction of the Oroville Dam Under the proposal, such revenue bonds would be payable from, and constitute a first lien on, the revenues derived from the sale of electric power generated at the Oroville Dam during the same period that general obligation bonds issued pursuant to the California Water Resources Development Bond Act[2] are outstanding.

You have requested our opinion as to the legality of the proposed action.

Opinion

We do not believe that the revenues derived from the sale of electric power generated at the Oroville Dam could be so pledged as security for such revenue bonds.

Analysis

The Burns-Porter Act was submitted to the voters and was approved at the general election held on November 8, 1960 (see Statement of Vote for Election of Nov. 8, 1960, issued by Secretary of State, p 23, Stats 1959, Ch 1762) In so doing, the people of this State authorized the issuance and sale of $1,750,000,000 of general obligation bonds "to provide funds to assist in the construction of a state Water Resources Development System for the State of California" (Sec 12931, Wat C.[3])

Under Section 12931, the State Water Resources Development System includes "the State Water Facilities . . . and such additional facilities as may now or hereafter be authorized by the Legislature as a part of . . the Central Valley Project ." Thus, any facility now or hereafter authorized as a part of the Central Valley Project would therefore be a part of the State Water Resources Development System

The multipurpose dam and reservoir on the Feather River in the vicinity of Oroville, Butte County, is specifically designated as one of the "State Water Facilities" by Section 12934 of the Burns-Porter Act It is also authorized as a part of the Feather River and Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta Diversion Projects unit of the Central Valley Project by

[1] Wat C Secs 11100 to 11855, incl, hereinafter referred to as the Central Valley Project Act
[2] Wat. C Secs 12930-12944, incl, hereinafter referred to as the Burns-Porter Act (see Stats 1959, Res Ch 241)
[3] All section references are to the Water Code

Section 11260 As noted above, however, any facility authorized as a part of the Central Valley Project is to be a part of the State Water Resources Development System (see Sec 12931)

One of the key provisions of the Burns-Porter Act is subdivision (b) of Section 12937 which provides as follows:

"(b) All revenues derived from the sale, delivery or use of water or power, and all other income or revenue, derived by the State, from the State Water Resources Development System[4] shall be deposited in a special account or accounts in the California Water Resources Development Bond Fund and shall be accounted for and used annually only for the following purposes and in the following order, to wit

"1 The payment of the reasonable costs of the annual maintenance and operation of the State Water Resources Development System and the replacement of any parts thereof.

"2 The annual payment of the principal of and interest on the bonds issued pursuant to this chapter[5]

"3 Transfer to the California Water Fund as reimbursement for funds utilized from said fund for construction of the State Water Resources Development System

"4 Any surplus revenues in each year not required for the purpose specified in the foregoing subparagraphs (1), (2) and (3) of this subdivision (b) of Section 12937 and not required to be transferred to the General Fund pursuant to subparagraph (a) of this Section 12937 shall, during the time any of the bonds authorized herein are outstanding, be deposited in a special account in the California Water Resources Development Bond Fund and are hereby appropriated for use and shall be available for expenditure by the department for acquisition and construction of the State Water Resources Development System as described in Section 12931 hereof." (Emphasis added)

We do not see what language could have been used to express more plainly the proposition that all revenues from the sale of power derived from the State Water Resources Development System must be used only for the matters specifically mentioned in this section And since the system by definition includes Oroville Dam whether constructed under the Central Valley Project or the Burns-Porter Act, we think the plain, literal meaning of this language forbids any attempt to divert Oroville Dam power revenues for payment of revenue bonds issued pursuant to the Central Valley Project Act so long as general obligation bonds issued pursuant to the Burns-Porter Act are authorized or outstanding

As we have pointed out above, the language in the Burns-Porter Act we have discussed is clear and unambiguous It is a cardinal rule

[4] As previously noted this "System" includes Oroville Dam whether the dam is labeled as being constructed under the Central Valley Project Act or under the Burns-Porter Act

[5] The reference is to Burns-Porter Act general obligation bonds

of interpretation that where the language in a statute is clear, there can be no room for interpretation (Caminetti v Pac Mutual L Ins Co (1943), 22 Cal 2d 344, 353-354) In this case the rule finds further support from the legislative history of the statute In the face of this clear prohibition discussed above, amendments were offered in the Assembly to authorize the use of revenues of the State Water Resources Development System to pay the principal and interest on any additional bonds issued by the State for any facilities of the system The amendments were defeated (see Assembly Journal for June 17, 1959, pp 5656-5657, 5659)

Further, in our opinion the courts would conclude that the voters who approved the Burns-Porter Act understood the clear language of the act which we have discussed to mean exactly what it said

Each voter was provided with a ballot pamphlet which contained:

(1) The text of the Burns-Porter Act, containing the clear and unambiguous language [6] we have been discussing

(2) The analysis of the measure by the Legislative Counsel, the pertinent portion of which reads as follows:

> "This bond act would pledge the full faith and credit of the State for the payment of the bonds and would appropriate from the General Fund the sum necessary to pay the principal and interest on the bonds. Annual transfers of project revenues to the General Fund would be made to meet bond service payments If project revenues in any year were insufficient to meet such payment, an amount of money equal to the deficiency would be transferred to the General Fund from project revenues as soon as it became available, with simple interest thereon at the same rate as borne by the bonds "; and

(3) The argument in favor of the measure which specifically declared as follows.

> ". . no new taxes are involved, the bonds are repaid from project revenues, through the sale of water and power In other words, it will pay for itself . The bonds [general obligation] will finance completion of all facilities needed, as described in the Act . "

In the light of these facts we think that the courts would hold that the voters, in approving the Burns-Porter Act, did so with a clear unmistakable understanding that all of the revenues of the State Water Resources Development System (including the power revenues from the Oroville Dam) were to be pledged and used only for the purposes expressly specified in subdivision (b) of Section 12937 (including the payment of principal and interest on the general obligation bonds issued pursuant to the Burns-Porter Act)

[6] Of this language the Attorney General has said "If the portion of Sec 12937(b) . . . were applied literally [i e, if it were given its plain ordinarily accepted meaning], no facilities not fully financed by the Burns-Porter Act could be funded by debt financing, except in subordination to the bonds issued under the Act" (36 Ops Cal Atty. Gen 163)

Since it is well settled that the voters' approval of a bond issue creates an obligation in the nature of a contract that must be respected, and a material departure from the proposition as voted will not be upheld (see Golden Gate Bridge etc Dist v. Felt (1931), 214 Cal 308, 339; Skinner v City of Santa Rosa (1895), 107 Cal 464; Peery v. City of Los Angeles (1922), 187 Cal 753, 767, O'Farrell v. County of Sonoma (1922), 189 Cal 343, 348),[7] and since, as stated above, the voters understood that the measure pledged all revenues of the system to the matters specified in Section 12937, we further believe that the proposal to divert the revenues derived from the sale of electric power generated at the Oroville Dam would be held to constitute a "material departure", from the proposition as voted The Oroville Dam is the principal power-generating facility of the State Water Resources Development System and will provide a substantial portion of the revenues of the system which will be available for the purposes specified in subdivision (b) of Section 12937, including the payment of principal and interest on the general obligation bonds issued pursuant to the Burns-Porter Act. As such, these revenues are clearly a part of the "ways and means for the payment of the principal and interest" which is required to be set forth in every state general obligation bond act by Section 1 of Article XVI of the California Constitution

We are aware of the fact that the Attorney General has concluded that the Department of Water Resources has authority to issue revenue bonds to finance any of the designated State Water Facilities which are also a part of the Central Valley Project, with the revenues from those facilities pledged to repay those revenue bonds (36 Ops Cal Atty. Gen 160).

In essence, the opinion of the Attorney General is based on the premise that since the Burns-Porter Act does not provide sufficient funds to construct the entire system, the Legislature did not mean what it said with regard to the pledge of State Water Resources Development System revenues, and therefore revenue bonds could be issued under the Central Valley Project provisions to be repaid from the revenues of Oroville Dam, without those bonds being subordinated to the bonds issued under the Burns-Porter Act.

We have set forth above our reasons for reaching a different conclusion. With respect to the Attorney General's opinion we have no way of proving or disproving his major premise that the Burns-Porter Act does not provide sufficient funds to construct the entire system However, even if the premise is assumed to be true it does not follow that the Legislature did not mean what it plainly said concerning the pledge of revenues of the system It is at least possible that the Legislature intended to provide additional financing in the future, when, as and if this became necessary[8] Recognition of this and similar possibilities

[7] Prior to the time that bonds are issued, creating a contractural relationship, the "obligation of contract" clauses of the State and Federal Constitution cannot be invoked to limit administrative acts Thus, these limitations depend upon Article XVI, Section 1 of the California Constitution (See 12 Stanf L Rev 439, 443)

[8] Perhaps, also, the Legislature felt adequate funds had been provided to complete enough of the system to make it feasible for agencies such as the Metropolitan Water District to construct the facilities necessary to connect to the project transportation facilities. This concept is embodied in provisions of the existing contract with the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California (see Art. 17, subd. (f), par. (2))

would not require a departure from the plain meaning of subdivision (b) of Section 12937

It should be noted that if the plain language of subdivision (b) of Section 12937 is construed away, the necessary result is to authorize the department to pledge revenues from the system to repay revenue bonds unlimited in amount, and to make it legally impossible for the Legislature to repeal such departmental authority.[9] It would be the height of irony to convert plain language used by the Legislature to prevent a diversion of the system's revenues, into a repeal of the Legislature's power to prevent such a diversion We do not believe a court would adopt a construction which would so depart from the plain meaning of a statute and achieve such a drastic curtailment of the lawmaking function of the Legislature

Very truly yours,

A. C MORRISON

The following message from the Governor was received, and read

STATEMENT OF GOVERNOR EDMUND G. BROWN ON EDUCATION

Transmitted to the California Legislature Thursday, March 28, 1963

To the Senate and the Assembly of the Legislature of California

Public education is the fountainhead of a free and democratic society

In California, dedication to that principle has produced a system of schools, colleges and universities unequaled in the world

It has also produced intellectual excellence and economic well-being which places California in the lead in many significant categories

—Nineteen Nobel Laureates live in California—more than in the entire Soviet Union

—We lead the nation in the number of physicists—3,540, mathematicians—2,501; and in fellowships awarded by the National Science Foundation

—California's graduate schools grant more than 10 percent of all advanced degrees in science in the United States

—We are first in medical research, first in atomic research and first in electronics

The effort which has culminated in the most creative intellectual climate in the nation has also paid rich dividends throughout our economy. One of our strongest economic assets is our ability to train, and our power to attract, large numbers of scientists and engineers

Largely because of our school system, California today is the key state in national defense and space. We hold 25 percent of the nation's defense contracts and more than 40 percent of the nation's contracts for space research and development

All of America's astronauts have been lifted into orbit by California rockets. We are now building the Lunar capsule for man's boldest venture into space

During the past four years, you and I have joined forces to make sure that California's schools continue to play their leading role in our changing society

We have enacted laws requiring better academic preparation of teachers and administrators in basic subjects, reduced the variety of teacher credentials from 40 to a basic five, passed a statewide testing law to assure uniform quality in our schools,

—Passed the first law in the nation requiring the studying of a foreign language no later than the sixth grade, taking effect in 1965,

—Provided the funds needed to keep our school system strong, including, in 1959, the first major increase in State support to public schools since 1952,

—Appointed to the State Board of Education men and women of the highest caliber who have resisted all attempts to water down our new laws affecting teacher licensing and school curricula,

—Developed and enacted into law the Master Plan for Higher Education under which we have given new support to the junior colleges and carried forward plans for three new campuses of the University of California, six new state colleges and a new medical school, —Greatly increased the number of state scholarships and raised the maximum grant from $800 to $900 a year.

—Won voters' approval last November of a $270 million bond issue, chiefly for construction of expanded facilities for higher education under the Master Plan,

—Given positive encouragement to the climate of free inquiry in our system of education. We have kept our pledge that the public schools must be institutions in which the traditional values of democracy will prevail, and in which indoctrination, from the left or the right, shall have no place.

That is a memorable four-year record, a record of co-operation between the executive and legislative branches of state government, which no other state can match. Its impact may be found the length and the breadth of this State—on campuses where new classroom buildings and laboratories are now under construction. It may be found in local communities where children cross sunlit lawns to enter clean, airy schoolrooms in which, day in and day out, dedicated teachers work to instill in them the "sense of wonder" that is the hallmark of good education.

But the dimensions of the task ahead are vast, indeed. Before the end of this decade, we must expand our system of public education to duplicate the total effort of the past 80 years. Last year, we built 10,000 new classrooms, more than twice the number built by New York, and there is no sign of an easing in the demands of growth. The following chart graphically illustrates the challenge

Enrollment in California's System of Tuition-free Education

	1950	1960	1970	% Increase 1960-70
Kindergarten through 12th grade	1,689,425	3,368,101	5,105,300	51 6
Junior Colleges	70,052	142,080	293,200	106.4
State Colleges (regular enrollment)	25,670	67,043	178,100	165 7
University of California (graded enrollment)	37,827	48,705	96,400	92 9

With this message, I commend to your attention nine measures and related actions which are urgently needed to meet the challenge of the classroom in California

I regard these actions as a minimum program to maintain California's leading position in education, to finance the massive growth of our student population; to erase the tragedy of school dropouts, and to assure every California child an equal opportunity to grow and to learn

Investment in Education

1. In the budget now before you, I have again assigned first priority to public education I recommend the expenditure of $1,233,000,000 for this purpose from current income. This includes an increase of $78 million for apportions for average daily attendance, of which $3 million exceeds the legal requirements

Already, there are more students in California schools than there are people in each of 38 other states We have 4¼ million students in our public schools alone.

Between now and the end of this decade—seven short years—we must provide the desks and the teachers for 1¼ million more students in the grades from kindergarten through junior college

Just to construct the school facilities for those new students, we must make an estimated investment of at least $2½ billion

Next fall, 220,000 new students will enter our schools. Under present law, this growth would require an additional state contribution of $48 million

I have proposed, however, that we add $30 million to that amount to relieve the heavy demands now made on the local property taxpayer.

Certainly we wish more money were available And I agree that spokesmen for educational groups can make a good case for increased state support of more than $75 million, or $100 million, or even more

But there is a limit to our available funds. I therefore recommend the $30 million increase, including $2 million for increased support of junior colleges, and $28 million to go into equalization rather than basic assistance Our purpose here is to give more adequate support to the less wealthy school districts

2. I ask that you make the additional $30 million available only if you also enact a realistic program of countywide equalization which would provide another $25 million a year for school support

This year I have resubmitted to you my request, originally made in 1961, for laws to equalize state aid on a countywide basis rather than district-by-district

The pressures increase on our schools, and on the property taxpayers who finance them We can lighten the load by making sure the wealthy segment of a county pays its proper share of the cost of supporting schools throughout the county.

Last year, for example, property tax rates for school support varied statewide from a low of $ 28 in one district to a high of $6.53 in another.

In 1961-62, the rates in Los Angeles County ranged from $1 82 to $6 53

In Alameda County the rates of unified districts varied from $1.65 to $3.68. Emeryville, with the $1 65 rate, spent $1,102 on the education of each pupil. Alameda, with the $3 68 rate, spent $462 per pupil

In elementary schools, the wealthiest district had 7,000 times as much taxable wealth per pupil as the poorest district

These inequalities of educational opportunity would be ended under this plan which proposes that each school district will make the same minimum tax effort and each will be guaranteed the same level of support. The present islands of assessed wealth would then contribute their fair share to our school system.

3 I urge your authorization of the constitutional amendment, now before you, to cut the affirmative votes needed to pass a locally sponsored bond issue from 66⅔ to 60 percent

Under existing law, a small minority of voters can block approval of a school bond issue, frustrating the will of the majority, and ultimately forcing city governments to pay bonus prices for new schools.

In 58 recent elections in California, more than 60 percent of the voters approved proposed bonds, but the measures failed because they fell short of the legally required two-thirds. In one northern California city, school bonds failed four times by razor-thin margins

The unreasonably high requirement now denies the desires and rights of a substantial majority to provide essential schooling for their children As a result, children are forced into double sessions and inadequate schooling even though a majority of the voters are willing to pay for adequate schools

Corrective action is supported by the County Supervisors Association, the League of California Cities and the school districts I urge you to authorize a vote upon a Constitutional amendment to correct this situation in 1964

Higher Education

Our public system of higher education encompasses hundreds of activities, from exploring the mysteries of the earth's interior at San Diego, to exploring the mysteries of human behavior at a clinic in San Francisco

This system must continue to have our dedicated support, and I have therefore proposed the following

University of California and State Colleges—Next year, enrollment at these institutions is expected to increase by 12,000 students The university and state colleges will therefore require operating funds of $266 million

Commitments for future enrollments will also call for additional classrooms and other educational facilities totaling $125 million from the state building bond issue approved last November This includes $67 5 million for the University of California and $57 6 million for the state colleges.

I again ask you, too, to provide $500,000 for faculty research within our state college system, as recommended by the Master Plan

Junior Colleges—The junior colleges remain under the law primarily a local responsibility—a system administered by the school districts But our Master Plan for Higher Education has given new definition to their important role, and the State must continue to extend to the junior colleges all possible co-operation and support

We further propose that the junior colleges be given $2 million in increased school support in 1963-64

In the past four years, it should be noted, we have increased by 35 percent the foundation program under which junior colleges operate The construction bond issue approved last November will provide an additional $20 million for the junior colleges

Broader Opportunity for Youth in the Space Age

California, like other urban states, has been plunged into a Technological Revolution since World War II Like the Industrial Revolution which preceded it, it brings drastic changes in every aspect of our lives

What are the implications of the Technological Revolution?

Some are good California, for example, has attracted industry and won worldwide recognition as an intellectual center because of our rich pool of scientific brains and skilled workers

But there are other implications Many of our young citizens are now falling by the wayside of technological advancement because they cannot keep up Unable to compete in class, they join the grim army of school dropouts Unschooled and unskilled, they become unemployable Often they become juvenile delinquents and criminals

California's dropout rate is lower than that in other states—but it still affects one in four students, and it is still too high At this session, I propose that we take vigorous action to reduce it

The problem must be met first in elementary school We must reach the poor readers and the nonreaders We must reach the children who develop emotional problems at home and therefore fail to adjust to school We must reach the children who are culturally handicapped.

All need special attention early—attention these particular children often can be given only in the classroom

As they advance in school, these children must be given the opportunity to go on to junior colleges, state colleges or the university if they can make the grades If their talents lie in technical fields, they must be convinced that their best hope for full lives lies in finishing high school

First and foremost, we must be sure that, whatever their education, they are equipped to compete in the labor market of 1963 and later We can no longer afford to write off large segments of our youth—through neglect, or by offering them horse-and-buggy training in the age of the lunar rocket

I therefore propose the following measures:

1 To guarantee that we do not train our young men and women for occupations that may no longer exist after they graduate, we must review and expand our system of vocational training.

Many vocational courses have not been changed in decades They waste the students' time and the taxpayers' dollars If we really wish to reduce dropouts, if we really wish to give our youth job security, vocational training courses must be updated

Here are some forceful reasons why

—Of the children in grades one through six today, 50 percent will be employed in occupations that do not yet exist

—Two-thirds of all the products that we will buy 20 years from now are still to be developed

—In January of this year, the national unemployment rate was 6 6 percent This was the unemployment rate within specialized groups of the labor force professional and technical, 1 9 percent, clerical, 4 percent; skilled workers, 8 percent; and unskilled laborers, 17 8 percent

—The President's Panel of Consultants on Vocational Education recently reported this astonishing fact Some 79 million Americans must receive some form of vocational training during this decade if they are to meet the educational requirements of our technical age

California cannot allow persistent hard-core unemployment to go unchecked At present, jobs for electronics technicians, mechanical draftsmen and trained secretaries go begging—but there are not enough jobs for those who can work only as messengers, waitresses and unskilled laborers

Now before you is a bill proposing to establish the California Commission on Manpower, Automation and Technology That bill is part of our many-pronged effort to make automation an asset, not a detriment, to our economy

The bill provides for co-operation with the United States Manpower Development and Training Act which will make possible federal financial assistance in this field I urge you to enact this measure into law

Dr Joel Hildebrand has pointed out that if an oil field or a mine is not developed, it is still there for future use But every youth who is born with a good potential but never awakened to intellectual adventure is a priceless resource, forever lost to society Our future depends on our saving this resource

2 In my earlier message on human rights, I asked you to act to eliminate de facto segregation in our schools, and to assist students who come from culturally deprived backgrounds

Today, I renew my request that we extend special help to local school districts in the effort to eliminate de facto segregation This should be done through the proposed Commission on Inter-Group Relations

Again, I urge your support to legislation providing compensatory funds for the disadvantaged children from poor social and economic backgrounds

3 In addition, I urge that we provide special programs and classes for educationally handicapped children who, because of parental neglect or ignorance, develop problems that leave them isolated in our schools

The culturally deprived child may and often does have devoted parents But he is handicapped by language, poverty and ignorance at home Without special help, he is destined to become a dropout

The educationally handicapped child is heading for the same bleak future for different reasons Often the product of a broken home and parental rejection, he finds it hard to establish a relationship with other children He is a logical candidate for delinquency and permanent unemployment

Your support of the measure now before you to help these children will put California at the vanguard of states in making a strong effort to stem delinquency By reducing the number of children per teacher; by giving the child the attention he lacks at home, we can salvage an important resource which would otherwise be wasted I urge your support of this major bill

There are four other areas related to education to which I would direct your attention at the current session Let us look at them briefly now

Libraries

California is justifiably proud of a long series of "firsts" in education, in public health, in agriculture, in economic leadership But when we turn to libraries, the bright picture goes dim

Since 1940, California has more than doubled in population—but the number of library books per capita has decreased by 30 percent

There are now 90,000 Californians to whom no public library service is available Six and a half million Californians have public library service below minimum standards

Before you is a bill providing $850,000 to strengthen our long-neglected public library system by encouraging regional co-operation and the formation of adequate library service areas

This is a matter of urgent public business, and I ask your wholehearted support

Educational Television

We must meet an equally pressing need to encourage the development of educational television in the local communities

This need is especially urgent as we plan to meet the requirement that all public schools begin teaching a foreign language by the sixth grade, only two years from now

California now has three educational television stations in San Francisco, Sacramento and San Bernardino All three are affiliated with the National Educational Television Network Eleven other communities now have stations in various stages of development

Before you are measures proposing a modest beginning in our effort to co-ordinate the development of local educational television stations throughout the State With the expectation that federal funds for this purpose will soon be provided under legislation already passed by the Congress, we should be prepared to expand the state effort in the future I urge passage of these measures

Federal Aid to Education

As I have said California will labor under tremendous financial pressures to support our school system in the years just ahead

For that reason, I urge you to summon support for President Kennedy's proposed program of federal aid to education

California's share would be an estimated $55½ million next year More than half of these funds would be used to strengthen elementary and secondary education

Maintaining Academic Freedom

There is one final aspect of education to which I would direct your attention

In my view, we share an obligation to set a tone, to establish a climate which gives us the quality of education we can only achieve through the free play of ideas As Governor, I will continue to help generate such a climate

We should welcome the brisk debate that has been raging for some years over educational goals We should be proud of our successful efforts to emphasize solid subjects, to minimize wasteful fringe courses, to require the study of foreign languages in our schools We should recognize that the goals of better teaching and better schools are not the exclusive property of any individuals or groups

We do not ask our schools to produce manageable robots with heads full of prepackaged slogans We want citizen-leaders, whose minds have been made safe for ideas

Our State is full of divergent opinions—and this is good It means we can never say there is some simple, easily recognized answer to the complex problem of improving our schools

Cardinal Newman said that the university is a place where inquiry is pushed forward and discoveries verified and perfected—with error exposed by the collision of mind with mind, and knowledge with knowledge

It is this freedom to think, freedom to learn, freedom to improve that we seek in our schools

We ask them to perform a Herculean task We ask them to "tame the rebellious, embolden the timid, spur the laggard, sharpen the dull and burnish the bright"

That is a large order—and not even the best-intentioned executives, legislators teachers and administrators can accomplish it fully But we can approach the goal more closely, and I therefore ask that we set our hands to this good work without delay

Respectfully submitted,

EDMUND G BROWN, Governor

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev. Robert R Ferguson:

Almighty and Eternal God, As we begin the second half of this session, clearly bring before us the purpose for which we are here—to serve Thee and the people of this State and not ourselves As the tempo increases, the pressures become greater and the hearings seem endless, give us a depth of calmness and serenity May we not needlessly alienate others through thoughtlessness or planned action In our better moments we know the stakes are too great to take out our inner frustrations and discontents on others

May we be at peace with Thee, with ourselves and our fellow man Be with the wife of our Sergeant at Arms. May she and the family have sustaining faith and courage We pray in the name of the Prince of Peace—AMEN

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Messrs. Veysey and Casey:

House Resolution No. 195

Relating to an interim study of the State Teachers' Retirement System

WHEREAS, The State Teachers' Retirement System is a large and complex system, which has 260,000 accounts and is paying benefits on 24,000 of these accounts; and

WHEREAS, The Teachers Retirement Board and employees of the system have three different funds to keep track of; and

WHEREAS, The system is over two years behind in posting to members' accounts, and audits indicate a high percentage of errors in computing benefits, and

WHEREAS, Retiring teachers have been required to wait as long as six months after applying for retirement to commence receiving benefits, and

WHEREAS, The Teachers Retirement Board is composed of the members of the State Board of Education and the appointive members of the Retirement Investment Board, and the members of the Retirement Investment Board and the members of the State Board of Education lack sufficient time to devote to the retirement system, and

WHEREAS, Counties are slow in reporting to the system the required information on members and the accounts of the State Controller do not balance with the accounts of the State Teachers' Retirement System, and

WHEREAS, The system's problems are complicated by the fact that it is not a funded system, and by the fact that different provisions applying to members who are also members of a local teachers' retirement system make computation of benefits and administration of the state system more complicated; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Assembly Rules Committee is directed to assign to an appropriate interim committee the subject matter of this resolution for study of the problems referred to herein, including any laws relating thereto, and the needed revision thereof, with authority to contract, if necessary, with a private organization to conduct a management survey of the State Teachers' Retirement System, and that such committee report its findings to the Assembly by not later than the fifth calendar day of the 1965 Regular Session, including in the report its recommendations for appropriate legislation

Resolution read, and referred by the Speaker to the Committee on Rules

Speaker Unruh further announced that tentative arrangements for adjournment by concurrent resolution on Tuesday, April 9, 1963, until Monday, April 15, 1963, are under consideration; but stated that, unless satisfactory arrangements for committee meetings can be made; and unless the condition of the file permits, this action will not be taken

EXPLANATION OF ABSENCE ON APRIL 1, 1963

Because of a parliamentary rule, the names of 25 Members of the Assembly were omitted from the roll call for Monday, April 1, 1963, among them my own

The parliamentary reason for our names not being on the roll call was that a quorum was not present and a call of the House was immediately put on A few minutes later when the call was dispensed with many of us were in various parts of the Capitol attending to legislative business

Shortly after I concluded my legislative business on the Senate side I returned to the Assembly floor and it will be noted that my name appears on roll calls on all bills we voted on that day

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev Robert R Ferguson:

Everlasting and Gracious God, As the Christian world celebrates Palm Sunday, when our Saviour came into the city of Jerusalem, not in pomp, but in humility; not to storm its gates, but to change its heart; enable us spiritually to discern the signs of his teachings for our city

May we not with our lips acclaim Him as our King on Sunday, and then by our deeds of pride, self-interest, myopic vision for others, crucify Him on Friday. May we look more deeply within so we may serve more adequately without

We pray in His Name.—AMEN.

Urgency Clause

Urgency clause read

Recommendation of the Governor

In accordance with Article IV, Section 34, of the Constitution, the Governor presented the following communication recommending the consideration of Senate Bill No. 115.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

To the Honorable Members of the Senate and Assembly

Senate Bill No. 115, "An act to add Article 15 (commencing with Section 6450) to Chapter 6 of Division 6 of the Education Code, relating to special educational programs for culturally disadvantaged children, and declaring the urgency thereof, to take effect immediately," in my opinion constitutes an emergency bill within the meaning of that term as used in Section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, the consideration of which should not await the final enactment of the Budget Bill.

I, therefore, recommend consideration of Senate Bill No 115 as an emergency measure.

Respectfully submitted,

EDMUND G BROWN, Governor

"SECTION 1 Section 25861 is added to the Health and Safety Code, to read

25861 If the department determines that any object, building, structure, or premises is contaminated by radioactive material and constitutes a hazard to the public health, it shall order the person who has control of the object, building, structure, or premises to decontaminate, or to cause the decontamination of, the object, building, structure, or premises or, in the case of an object or a building or structure, to dispose of it as radioactive waste The department shall also order such person to cease to use or occupy the object, building, structure, or premises, except to the extent necessary to accomplish the decontamination, until the decontamination has been completed or to cease to use or occupy the object, building, or structure, if such person determines to dispose of it as radioactive waste, except to the extent necessary to accomplish the disposal of the object, building, or structure

If the object, building, structure, or premises are decontaminated, the normal use or occupancy of the object, building, structure, or premises may be resumed

The department may require the person who had control of the object, building, structure, or premises to pay any costs which are incurred by the department in decontaminating, or causing the decontamination of, or disposing of, the object, building, structure, or premises and may maintain any action which may be necessary to recover such costs

The term "decontamination," as used in this section, means the reduction of the level of contamination from radioactive material to the level which the department determines is reasonably necessary to eliminate the hazard to public health which is caused by the contamination of the object, building, structure, or premises Any order by the department pursuant to this section shall prescribe the level to which the contamination is required to be reduced in order to eliminate the hazard to the public health"

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Messrs. Crown, Holmes, Whetmore, McMillan, Willson, Bane, Garrigus, Waldie, Kennick, Williamson, Frew, Mills, Thomas, and Z'berg:

House Resolution No. 196

Relating to the Long Beach tidelands

WHEREAS, It is estimated that the Long Beach Unit Area contains 1 5 billion barrels of crude oil and is the largest known undeveloped oil and gas reservoir in the United States; and

WHEREAS, It is estimated that more than 90 percent of the oil and gas reserves in the Long Beach Unit Area underlie tide and submerged lands; and

WHEREAS, The development of this tremendous reservoir will produce millions of dollars yearly in new revenue to the State; and

WHEREAS, The development of the Long Beach Unit Area will also provide an important economic stimulus to the oil business of California by creating several hundred new positions and create a new market for oilfield supplies, and

WHEREAS, City of Long Beach oil engineers with the aid, co-operation and encouragement of state and industry engineers have evolved sound and economic development plans for the Long Beach Unit Area to achieve the maximum ultimate economic production without risking subsidence or the despoilment of the Long Beach shoreline; and

WHEREAS, The City Council of the City of Long Beach, and the City Manager, City Attorney and their staffs have devoted thousands of hours in developing the foregoing plans for the benefit of the State and City, and

WHEREAS, On February 27, 1962, the people of the City of Long Beach at a special election adopted an ordinance to permit the development of the Long Beach Unit Area, and

WHEREAS, The State, city and private oil companies have drafted a proposed Unit and Unit Operating Agreement, Long Beach Unit, Wilmington Oil Field, California, and presented it for approval to the State Lands Commission in accordance with the Public Resources Code, and

WHEREAS, The City of Long Beach has prepared a proposed Field Contractor Agreement to be awarded after competitive bid to the company agreeing to pay the State and city the highest percentage of net profits under such agreement and submitted it to the State Lands Commission for approval in accordance with Chapter 29, First Extraordinary Session, Statutes 1956, and

WHEREAS, Current oil production contracts covering oil operations in the Long Beach Harbor which have yielded approximately 200 millions of dollars to the State for use outside of Long Beach will terminate early in 1964 and new contracts must be offered for competitive bid shortly, and

WHEREAS, If the proposed Unit and Unit Operating Agreement and Field Contractor Agreement are not approved promptly the city and State will be forced to delay such agreement to avoid the potential damaging effect on bidding of offering these two large oil operations at approximately the same time which could produce confusion among bidders and detract from the ultimate bids, and

WHEREAS, Every day that passes without the development of the Long Beach Unit Area delays the day when the State will receive a large and sorely needed new income, and needlessly causes the State to lose the present use of this new income at a cost of millions of dollars to the State, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Assembly urges the State Lands Commission to approve promptly the Unit Agreement, Long Beach Unit, Wilmington Oil Field, California, Unit Operating Agreement, Wilmington Oil Field, California, and Field Contractor Agreement, Long Beach Unit, Wilmington Oil Field, California, and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly is directed to transmit copies of this resolution to each member of the State Lands Commission and to the Executive Officer of the Commission

Resolution read, and referred by the Speaker pro Tempore to the Committee on Manufacturing, Oil, and Mining Industry.

PRAYER

Gracious God and Father, Give us the needed perspective in life so that on occasion when we are pessimistic by the days, we may ever be optimistic by the centuries Although forces of evil win many battles, we know the final victory is with Thee May we choose long-term right, rather than short-term wrong

We pray Thy blessing to be with Members of our Assembly going through physical stress May Thy grace be sufficient for them, for Thy strength is made perfect in our weakness

In our Lord's name, we pray —AMEN

HEADQUARTERS, DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY
OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF SUPPORT SERVICES
WASHINGTON, April 1, 1963

In Reply Refer to SPTS-MA

Hon Arthur A Ohnimus
Chief Clerk of the Assembly
California Legislature
State Capitol, Sacramento

DEAR MR CHAIRMAN The letter which you addressed to the President on March 11, 1963, has been forwarded to this Office for further reply concerning Assembly Joint Resolution No 3, adopted by the Legislature of the State of California for the establishment of a national cemetery on United States government-owned property at former Camp Elliott Naval Reservation, or at another suitable location

While it is true that available space at Fort Rosecrans National Cemetery is rapidly being used, there are many areas in the country, including all of New England, the States of Michigan and Ohio, and vast areas of the West, in which there are no national cemeteries An overall administration policy has been adopted which precludes the use of government-owned land at Camp Elliott or at any other location for the establishment of a national cemetery

For many years the Secretary of the Army, to whom responsibility for the national cemetery system is assigned, took the position that decisions on whether or not new national cemeteries should be established were matters of public policy for the Congress to decide While numerous bills were introduced in every session of Congress after World War II providing for new cemeteries at specific locations, virtually none was enacted into law.

Finally, a review of the entire national cemetery program was conducted within the executive branch of government in the fall of 1961 As a result of this study it was determined that any expansion of the national cemetery system, with the exception of Arlington, would not be in accord with the program of the President. A brief resume summarizing the facts that led to this decision is enclosed

Sincerely yours,

JAMES C MACFARLAND
Colonel, QMC
Chief, Memorial Division

Resumé

Future of the National Cemetery System

OFFICE OF SUPPORT SERVICES
DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY, April 1, 1963

In response to a request from the Chairman of the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, House of Representatives, a thorough review of the national cemetery program was conducted in the fall of 1961

In brief, the study pointed out that national cemeteries came into being during the Civil War to provide for the burial of soldiers who had died in the service Subsequently, eligibility for interment has been widened until now fewer than 10 percent of those buried are persons who died on active duty in the Armed Forces and their families More than 90 percent of those interred are veterans and their dependents Over 40,000,000 persons, about one-fourth of our total population, are eligible for burial in national cemeteries

The study also showed that the privilege of burial in a national cemetery is effectively available to only a small part of those who are legally entitled to interment In general, about 83 percent of the persons interred had lived within a 50-mile radius of the cemeteries The close relationship between proximity and the use made of national cemeteries also is shown by the fact that 87 percent of all burials occur in nine installations located close to large metropolitan areas.

While some relief from these circumstances would result from a planned general expansion of the cemetery system or from piecemeal extension of existing facilities, these approaches to the problem would be inherently discriminatory against the large number of veterans living in areas not conveniently accessible to national cemeteries; and the enormous cost of furnishing burial facilities for even a fraction of the more than 40,000,000 presently eligible individuals would be prohibitive

Interested committees of Congress, heads of government agencies and national commanders of veterans' organizations were informed in letters dated February 12, 1962, that, for the reasons summarized above, any expansion of the national cemetery system, with the exception of Arlington, would not be in accord with the program of the President

The following communication, identical copies of which were submitted by Congressman H Allen Smith and Congressman Bob Wilson, was ordered printed in the Journal

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT
SPECIAL ASSISTANT TO THE POSTMASTER GENERAL
WASHINGTON, D C, April 1, 1963

Hon. H. Allen Smith
House of Representatives
Washington, D C.

DEAR CONGRESSMAN: We are sorry to advise that it proved impossible to include a Tournament of the Roses Parade commemorative stamp, in which you had previously expressed interest, in our limited stamp program

As a result of an unusually large number of outstanding subjects suggested for commemorative stamps for 1963 and early 1964, the task of choosing recommendations by the Citizens' Stamp Advisory Committee, and deciding on stamps on our part, has been especially difficult

Too, as I am sure you can appreciate, we must give very serious consideration to the precedent that would be created by a particular issue Were we to issue a stamp for the Tournament of Roses Parade, it would be very difficult to turn down requests for other annual events, such as the Mardi Gras, the Mummers Parade, etc

We very much appreciate your interest in our philatelic program and are sorry our reply cannot be more favorable. I can assure you that the proposal was given full and detailed consideration by our advisory committee and the department

Sincerely yours,

JAMES F KELLEHER
Special Assistant to the

HOUSE RESOLUTION No 156

DEAR MR BRITSCHGI Thank you for your time in meeting with the staff of this department and the representative of the Fortune Electronics Company on the above resolution. As a result of the hearing by the Committee on Government Organization and that meeting, this department will proceed as follows.

1. The Purchasing Division will proceed to award a contract for electronic parts for Area 1 in accordance with Bid F 1266 to the low bidder.
2. As soon as possible bids will be requested for electronic parts required for Areas 2 and 3 without any requirement as to the location of outlets for the successful bidder
3. In the future when requesting bids for electronic parts we will find other means to assure prompt delivery rather than requiring the successful bidder to maintain outlets at any particular location in the State.

This policy will have no effect upon other purchases where it is generally agreed that a local supply is required, such as perishable food products.

Your attention is directed to the attached copy of a letter to Chairman Marks concerning our policy on resolutions

Very truly yours,

HALE CHAMPION
Director of Finance

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO PRINT IN JOURNAL

Mr Knox was granted unanimous consent that the following opinion of the Legislative Counsel be ordered printed in the Journal:

OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO, April 3, 1963

Hon John T Knox
Assembly Chamber

Transit Districts—No. 13715

Question

DEAR MR KNOX: You have asked us whether Assembly Bill No 889, as introduced, would affect any municipally owned transportation system

Analysis

Assembly Bill No 889 would amend Section 24505 of the Public Utilities Code to refine the term "transit", as that term is used in the law with regard to transit districts in the Counties of Alameda or Contra Costa (Pt 1 (commencing with Sec 24501), Div. 10, P U C) The bill would add the following language which we have indicated by underlining to that section

"24505 'Transit' means the transportation of passengers and their incidental baggage by any means other than by chartered bus, sightseeing bus, or any other motor vehicle not on an individual passenger fare-paying basis Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit a district from leasing its buses to private certified public carriers or to prohibit a district from providing school bus service for the transportation of pupils between their homes and schools ''

The law with regard to transit districts in the Counties of Alameda or Contra Costa Counties is applicable only to such districts. It has no application to any municipally owned transportation system. Thus, we would conclude that Assembly Bill No 889 would not affect any municipally owned transportation system

Very truly yours,

A C MORRISON
Legislative Counsel

Hon L M Backstrand
Senate Chamber

Municipal Water District Act Codification—No. 13666

Question

DEAR SENATOR BACKSTRAND You have asked whether Senate Bill No 15, as amended in Senate March 6, 1963, makes any substantive changes in the law

Opinion and Analysis

Senate Bill No 15 was drafted, at your request, by this office to codify the Municipal Water District Act of 1911 (Chapter 671, Statutes of 1911) in the same manner as the many other codification bills were prepared on behalf of the California Code Commission Thus, in preparing the bill, the objective of this office was to restate the provisions of the Municipal Water District Act of 1911 in more concise and clear language, deleting any obsolete provisions, and eliminating ambiguities and inconsistencies in the provisions of the act To the best of our knowledge no substantive changes in the law were made in the preparation of this codification bill

The amendments to Senate Bill No. 15 adopted in the Senate on March 5th and 6th merely corrected certain technical errors in the bill which resulted in its original printing in Preprint Bill form and in the preparation of the Preprint Bill for introduction in the Senate. No substantive changes were made in said amendments

Very truly yours,

A C. MORRISON
Legislative Counsel

In our Lord's name we pray —AMEN

Amendment No 2

On page 1, strike out lines 1 to 7, inclusive, and insert

"SECTION 1 Section 3124 of the Education Code is amended to read

3124 When the augmented county committee includes in its plans and recommendations proposals for the division of the school property of an existing district under Sections 3121 and 3123, such proposal shall be deemed to be an integral part of the plans and recommendations and a favorable vote by a majority of the voters on the question of reorganization, as provided in Sections 3151 to 3169, inclusive, shall be deemed to be a favorable vote upon the plans and recommendations as a whole; provided, however, that if the plans and recommendations specify that an inequity will arise from the division of real property, then the plans and recommendations may require the incurring of a bonded indebtedness or an override tax exceeding the rates otherwise prescribed by law in any district or portion of a district remaining upon the unification or other reorganization in order to provide funds to equalize the division of the school property among the newly organized districts, then the proposition for the incurring of such bonded indebtedness, or override tax, shall be submitted as a separate proposition to the electors of the district or portion thereof which is to incur such indebtedness at the same election at which the proposition of approving the plans and recommendations is submitted to vote of the electors of the proposed unified or otherwise reorganized districts. ~~The~~

In the event that the incurring of bonded indebtedness is required, the plans and recommendations shall not be deemed to have been approved unless the proposition of incurring such indebtedness is approved by two-thirds ($\frac{2}{3}$) vote of the voters of the district or portion thereof which is to incur such indebtedness voting on such proposition at said election. The proceedings for the issuance and sale of said bonds shall be taken in substantial conformity with the provisions of Sections 21701 to 21801, inclusive, and Sections 21803 to 22152, inclusive, of this code except that said bond election shall be called and canvassed by the county superintendent of schools and the proposition submitted thereat shall be

"Shall _____ __ district incur a bonded indebtedness in the aggregate principal amount of _____ dollars ($_____) for the purpose of paying its share of the equitable adjustment resulting from the reorganization of said school district?"

The county superintendent of schools shall certify to the board of supervisors of the county whose superintendent of schools has jurisdiction over the district. all proceedings had in the premises and said board of supervisors shall cause said bonds to be issued and sold as provided in Sections 21701 to 21801, inclusive, and Sections 21803 to 22152, inclusive, of this code except that the proceeds of sale of said bonds shall be deposited to the credit of the reorganized district entitled to such proceeds pursuant to said plans and recommendations.

SEC. 2 Section 3353.5 is added to said code, to read

3353.5 (a) When part of the territory of a school district is formed into a unified school district pursuant to a reorganization under this chapter and the resulting distribution of real property is not in the ratio of the assessed valuation of the territory formed into a unified school district and the remainder of the territory of the district from which the unified district is formed, and the augmented committee has determined that the procedure prescribed by Section 3124 is unsuitable to the situation, the augmented committee may provide, as a part of the plan and recommendations for reorganization, that compensation shall be made in an amount and in a manner which, in the judgment of the augmented committee, will provide equity in the distribution between the new district and the district from which it is formed of liability for outstanding bonded indebtedness and real property, subject to limitations prescribed by this section. The manner of compensation shall be limited to cash payment The total cash payment required of the district which is made the debtor for such purposes shall not exceed the lesser of the following amounts

(1) The creditor district's share of the outstanding bonded indebtedness transferred to or remaining with the district after the division, reduced by the value of the real property which was transferred to or remained with the creditor district in the division

(2) The cost to the creditor district of acquiring real property meeting state standards for school purposes multiplied by the fraction which the assessed valuation of property transferred to or remaining with the debtor district after the division bears to the total assessed valuation of the district from which the unified district was formed prior to the division

(b) The augmented county committee shall, at the request of the governing board of the debtor district, provide for the payment of any cash payment liabilities created under this section in the form of annual installments which, in any one year, shall not exceed the lesser of the following amounts

(1) The debtor district's current annual bond interest and redemption payment requirements arising in connection with its share of the outstanding bonded indebtedness of the district from which the unified district was formed, and which was transferred to or remained with the debtor district in connection with the division.

(2) The amount of the indebtedness incurred by the creditor district to acquire real properties meeting state standards which is repaid in that year, multiplied by the ratio which that part of the assessed valuation of the district from which the unified district was formed and which was transferred to or remained with the debtor district bears to the total of such assessed valuation

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision (b) no annual installment therein provided for shall require the total tax rate of the debtor district for payment of its bond interest and redemption obligations and its cash payment obligations under this section to exceed the total tax rate of the creditor district required for payment of its bond interest and redemption obligations reduced by three cents

If the creditor district becomes obligated to repay state school building aid loans received, no annual installment provided for in subdivision (b) shall require the total tax rate of the debtor district required for repayment of its bond interest and redemption obligations and its cash payment obligations to the creditor district under this section to exceed the "40-cent tax amount" utilized pursuant to Chapter 10 of Division 14 to compute the creditor district's repayment obligation to the State, reduced by three cents

(d) If the new unified district is formed pursuant to such plans and recommendations, such provisions shall be binding on the governing boards of the districts affected The governing board of the district required to make a cash payment may provide for raising necessary funds for such purposes by the district tax or by submitting to the voters of the district a proposition for the issuance of bonds of the district The rate of district tax required to provide funds for the purposes of making such payments shall be in addition to the maximum rate of tax for such district fixed or established by or under Sections 20751 or 20803

The issuance and sale of bonds of the district for the purpose of raising money for the purposes of this section shall be deemed to be a purpose for which bonds may be issued and sold pursuant to Chapter 7 (commencing with Sections 21701) of Division 16 of this code

(e) Cash payments received pursuant to this section by a newly formed unified school district shall be credited to its building fund and shall be expended only for capital outlay purposes

The provisions of this section shall apply to plans and recommendations under which any unified district was formed for all purposes on or after July 1, 1962

The amount due from the debtor district shall be deemed outstanding bonded indebtedness of the debtor district for the purposes of determining the eligibility of that district for an apportionment under the State School Building Aid Law of 1952 and shall be included in determining the eligible bonded debt service of such district under Section 19601 1, and in the bond interest and redemption obligation referred to in subdivisions (b) and (c) of this section

It shall be presumed that no inequity arises under this section or under Section 3124 if the creditor district, at the time of the division, can provide adequate school facilities for pupils, meeting all state standards, without incurring bonded indebtedness to the exient which would make it eligible for state school building aid "

PRAYER

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev Robert R Ferguson

Gracious God and Eternal Father, May we not be afraid to speak of right and duty for fear of sounding pious We confess our decisions can be so often swayed by our prejudices rather than a sense of rightness May we not allow our pride to become an idol, our laziness lull us to false security with second-rate goals, or our busyness and activity be confused with accomplishment May we be quiet long enough to hear that still small voice within, which says, "This is the way, walk ye in it"

We pray in our Lord's name —AMEN

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered

By Mr Bee

House Resolution No 212

Relating to an interim study of the age of admission of children to kindergarten or the first grade

WHEREAS, Studies show that as a result of earlier maturation, girls do better work in school than boys in the elementary grades and to a lesser extent in the secondary grades, and

WHEREAS, Under the existing law the minimum age for entering kindergarten or the first grade is the same for girls and boys, and

WHEREAS While the average girl in the first grade is ready to read early in the school year, the average boy is not ready until later in the year, and many boys, faced with this competition and, often, initial school failure, are discouraged and fail to learn to read well even after they have the maturation to do so, and

WHEREAS, Allowing school districts to admit girls to enter kindergarten or the first grade at an earlier age than boys would tend to ameliorate the effect which the maturation differences have on the learning abilities of boys and girls of the same age, now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Rules Committee assign to the appropriate interim committee for investigation and study the subject of admitting boys to kindergarten or the first grade at minimum age which differs from that of girls, and that such committee submit a report of its findings, together with its recommendation, to the Assembly not later than the fifth day of the 1965 Regular Session

The following prayer was offered by the Chaplain, Rev Robert R Ferguson

O Thou Who Art Our Creator and Redeemer, Give to us the spiritual discernment to know something of the mysteries of this Holy Week Thy Son didst embody humility by washing the dirty feet of men, didst create an eternal fellowship through the Last Supper, allowed goodness to be crucified, but didst reveal that Thy love overcomest our evil, and that death is but the launching platform into eternal life with Thee.

May we live in the realism of Good Friday and with the everlasting hope of Easter morning.

We pray in our Master's name —AMEN

State Water Projects: Recreation—No. 10934

Question

DEAR MRS DAVIS You have asked if the planning function vested in the Department of Water Resources by Section 11911 of the Water Code with respect to recreation and fish and wildlife enhancement and preservation, in connection with state water projects, can be transferred by administrative action to the Department of Parks and Recreation

Analysis

Section 11911 of the Water Code provides as follows·

"11911 The planning for public recreation use and fish and wildlife preservation and enhancement in connection with state water projects shall be a part of the general project formulation activities of the Department of Water Resources, in consultation and co-operation with the departments and agencies specified in Section 11910, through the advance planning stage, including, but not limited to, the development of data on benefits and costs, recreation land use planning, and the acquisition of land In planning and constructing any project, the department shall, to the extent possible, acquire all lands and locate and construct, or cause to be constructed, the project and all works and features incidental to its construction in such a manner as to permit the use thereof for the preservation and enhancement of fish and wildlife and for recreational purposes upon completion of the project."

As can be seen, the section specifically declares that certain planning for public recreation use and fish and wildlife preservation and enhancement is a part of the general project formulation activities of the Department of Water Resources The department is authorized to consult and co-operate with the agencies referred to in Section 11910 in connection with such planning but is not authorized to transfer that function Those agencies are the Department of Fish and Game, the Department of Parks and Recreation or any division thereof, any federal agency, and any local governmental agency with jurisdiction over the area involved

Thus, the Legislature has specifically vested jurisdiction over certain planning for public recreation use and fish and wildlife preservation and enhancement in connection with state water projects in the Department of Water Resources In view of this specific grant, we are of the opinion that the Department of Water Resources may not transfer to another department that responsibility which has been vested in it by the Legislature.

Supervisors' Salaries—No. 14682

Question

DEAR MR MARKS: Would Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 42 operate prospectively only, or would it reduce existing salaries of supervisors?

Opinion

While Assembly Constitutional Amendment No 42 would operate prospectively only, it would apply to future salaries of all supervisors in office on its effective date, as well as those taking office after that date.

Analysis

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 42 would amend the Constitution (Art XI, Secs 5 and 7½) to provide that compensation of members of county boards of supervisors shall not exceed the rate of compensation provided for Members of the Legislature

An amendment to the State Constitution submitted by the Legislature takes effect on the date of its adoption by the people (Johnston v. Wolf (1929), 208 Cal 286) There is nothing in Assembly Constitutional Amendment No 42 providing that it shall not apply to supervisors in office on that date, nor is there any other provision of the Constitution which would prevent it from applying to such officers No question of retroactive application arises since the amendment would not affect compensation already paid or owing to incumbents, but would merely reduce their compensation thereafter if it otherwise would exceed that paid to the legislators

Relative to packaging of consumer food products

WHEREAS, It appears to be a common practice for competitive food products to be packaged in a great variety of containers of different sizes, and

WHEREAS, This practice makes it difficult for the consumer to reasonably compare the prices of competitive food products, and

Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That the Assembly Rules Committee is directed to assign to the appropriate interim committee for study the subject of retail food packaging practices and the need of legislation to require retailers who sell food products to either sell such products packaged in standardized sizes or quantities or to publish the price per unit of such products offered for retail sale, and be it further

'50120 Whenever a majority of the employees employed by said transit district in a unit appropriate for collective bargaining indicate a desire to be represented by a labor organization, the board, upon determining as provided in Section 50121 that said labor organization represents the employees in the appropriate unit, and the accredited representative shall bargain in good faith and make all reasonable efforts to reach agreement on the terms of a written contract governing wages, salaries, hours, working conditions and grievance procedures In case of a dispute over the terms of a written contract governing wages, salaries, hours or working conditions, which is not resolved by negotiations in good faith between the board and the representatives of the employees, the board and the representatives of the employees shall submit said dispute to the decision of the majority of an arbitration board, and the decision of a majority of such arbitration board shall be final The arbitration board shall be composed of two representatives of the transit board and two representatives of the labor organization, and they shall endeavor to agree upon the selection of a fifth member If they are unable to agree, the fifth member shall be designated by the Secretary of the Judicial Council and shall be a person experienced in labor arbitrations The expenses of such impartial arbitrator shall be provided half by the transit board and half by the labor organization

No contract or agreement shall be made with any labor organization, association, group or individual where such organization, association, group or individual denies membership on the grounds of race, creed or color, provided such organization may preclude from membership any individual who advocates the overthrow of the government by force or violence

50121 If there is a question whether a labor organization represents a majority of employees or whether the proposed unit is or is not appropriate, such matters shall be submitted to the State Conciliation Service for disposition The State Conciliation Service shall promptly hold a public hearing and may, by decision, establish the boundaries of any collective bargaining unit and provide for an election to determine the question of representation Provided, however, any certification of a labor organization to represent or act for the employees in any collective bargaining unit shall not be subject to challenge on the ground that a new substantial question of representation within such collective bargaining unit exists until the lapse of one year from the date of certification or the expiration of any collective bargaining agreement, whichever is later.

50122 Whenever any district acquires existing facilities from a publicly or privately owned public utility either in proceedings by eminent domain or otherwise, to the extent necessary for operation of facilities, all of the employees of such public utility whose duties pertain to the facilities acquired who have been employed by said utility for at least seventy-five (75) days shall be appointed to comparable positions in the district without examination and shall be governed thereafter by the personnel system adopted by the board, and these employees shall be given sick leave, seniority and vacation credits in accordance with the records of the acquired public utility

The provisions of this section shall apply only to those officers or supervisory employees of the acquired utility as shall be designated by the board

50123 Whenever any district acquires existing facilities from a publicly or privately owned public utility, either in proceedings in eminent domain or otherwise, that has a pension plan in operation, members and beneficiaries of such pension plan shall continue to have the rights, privileges, benefits, obligations and status with respect to such established system

Whenever any such facilities are acquired by the district, the board shall consider and take into account the outstanding obligations and liabilities of the publicly or privately owned public utility by reason of such pension plan and shall negotiate an allowance in the purchase price of such utility for the assumption of such obligations and liabilities when acquiring the facilities

50124 The persons entitled to pension benefits as provided for in Section 50123 and the benefits which are provided shall be specified in the agreement or order by which any public utility is acquired by the district

50125 All persons receiving pension benefits from such acquired public utility and all persons entitled to pension benefits under the pension plan of such acquired public utility may become members or receive pensions under the retirement system established by the district by mutual agreement of such persons and the district

50126 Notwithstanding any provisions of the Government Code, the board may authorize payment of any or all of the premiums on any group life, accident and health insurance, health and welfare plan, or pension or retirement plan, on officers or employees of a district Upon authorization by its employees, a district may make deductions from the wages and salaries of its employees

(a) Pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement with a duly designated or certified labor organization for the payment of union dues, fees, or assessments.

(b) For the payment of contributions pursuant to any health and welfare, pension, or retirement plan

(c) For any purpose for which deductions may be authorized by employees of any private employer.

CHAPTER 5. RETIREMENT SYSTEM

Article 1 Establishment

50130 The board may establish a retirement system for the officers and employees of the district and provide for the payment of annuities, pensions, retirement allowances, disability payments, and death benefits or any of them

50131 The district may maintain its own retirement fund or may provide for benefits to eligible officers and employees, or their beneficiaries, by means of group insurance, or other insurance, or by such means as in the opinion of the board will satisfactorily provide an adequate and sure method of meeting the payments contemplated by the retirement system

50132 Before establishing any retirement system the board shall secure a report from a qualified actuary, which shall show the cost of the benefits provided by the system, and the prospective assets and liabilities of the system.

50133 The board may adopt all ordinances and resolutions and perform all acts necessary or convenient to the initiation, maintenance, and administration of the retirement system

50134 Nothing in this chapter prevents a district from participating in and making all or part of its employees members of the State Employees' Retirement System by contract entered into between the district and the board of administration of the system under the State Employees' Retirement Law or from participating in the Federal Social Security Act pursuant to Part 4 (commencing with Section 22000), Division 5, Title 2 of the Government Code, and the district may perform all acts necessary or convenient for such participation.

50135 The board may classify and determine the officers and employees who shall be included as members in the retirement system and may change the classification from time to time Membership of all officers and employees so classified and included in the retirement system is compulsory The retirement system shall not apply to members of the board.

Article 2 Benefits and Contributions

50140 The board may prescribe the terms and conditions upon which the officers and employees of the district or their beneficiaries shall be entitled to benefits and the amounts thereof

50141. The retirement allowance may be predicated in part upon service rendered the district by a member prior to the establishment of the retirement system, which service is known as "prior service."

50142 The board shall provide that both the district and the members shall contribute to the retirement system The rate of contribution by an officer or employee of the district becoming a member of the retirement system shall be so fixed as to provide, with accumulated interest and based on tables and assumptions adopted by the board, substantially one-half the value of any retirement allowance granted for service, exclusive of any credits allowed for prior service.

50143 All members of the retirement system shall contribute in the manner and amount fixed by the board and such contributions may be collected by deducting the amounts thereof from the salary, wages, or compensation due such members

50144 Liabilities accruing under the retirement system because of benefits other than such as are the equivalent of contributions by the members, with accumulated interests, shall be met by contributions by the district Prior service or other liabilities of the district may be met by annual appropriations instead of by one appropriation for the total of the liabilities, but until the present value of regular contributions for current service, together with assets then available, equals the present value of all allowances and benefits granted or to be granted under the system, the appropriation for any one year when added to any unused balance of any previous appropriations for such purpose shall not be less than the amount disbursed during that year on account of prior service or other liabilities of the district

50145 If any member withdraws from the retirement system prior to retirement the total amount contributed by him with such interest as may be credited thereto shall be returned to him, provided, however, that the board may prescribe the terms and conditions upon which a member, whose district service is terminated except by death or retirement, may elect to leave his contributions and interest thereon in the retirement fund, and the terms and conditions upon which a retirement allowance may be made to him after such termination based upon his contributions prior to such termination

50146 All money received by any person as an annuity, pension, retirement allowance, disability payment, or death benefit from the retirement system, and all contributions and interest thereon returned to any member of the retirement system, whether in the actual possession of such person or deposited, loaned, or invested by him, is exempt from execution, garnishment, or attachment and is unassignable

Article 3 Retirement Board

50150 The board shall create a retirement board of not more than five members, at least two members of which shall be the elected representatives of the employees, to administer the retirement system, and shall define its powers and duties and the tenure of the members

50151 All members of the retirement board shall serve without pay

50152 The retirement board shall determine the eligibility of officers, employees, and their dependents to participation in the system and shall be the sole authority and judge under such ordinances as may be adopted by the board as to the conditions under which persons may be admitted to and continue to receive benefits of any sort under the retirement system, and may modify allowances for service and disability The determination of the retirement board shall be final and conclusive and shall not be modified or set aside except for fraud or abuse of discretion

50153 If the district maintains its own retirement fund the retirement board shall have exclusive control of the administration, investment, and disbursement of such fund Investment of the fund shall be subject to the terms, conditions, limitations, and restrictions imposed by the laws of this State upon savings banks in the making of investments by savings banks, and cash may be deposited in any licensed national bank or banks in this State or in any bank, banks, or corporations authorized or licensed to do a banking business and organized under the laws of this State

Article 4 Investigation and Penalties

50155 At least once in each four-year period after the establishment of the retirement system the board shall cause to be made an actuarial valuation of the assets and liabilities of the retirement fund, and upon the basis of such investigation and valuation shall make such revision or change of the rates of contribution, the periods and conditions of service, and amounts of retirement allowances as may be necessary

50156 Except as herein provided, no member of the board or of the retirement board, nor any member of the retirement system or employee of the district, shall have any interest direct or indirect in the making of any investment or in the gains or profits accruing therefrom, and no such person, directly or indirectly, for himself or as an agent or partner of others, shall borrow any of its funds, nor shall any such person in any manner use the same except to make such current and necessary payments as are authorized by the retirement board nor shall such a person become an endorser or surety as to, or in any manner an obligor for investments of the retirement fund"
