PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker pro Tempore Keeley, the following prayer was offered by Assembly Chaplain Rabbi Mona Alfi:

In his later years, the great Spanish cellist, Pablo Casals wrote:

There are times when I feel like a boy. As long as you are able to admire and to love, you are young. And there is so much to admire and to love . . . Look at the sea, the sky, trees, flowers! A single tree—what a miracle it is! What a fantastic, wonderful creation this world is, with such diversity. That is the law of nature—diversity.

The law of nature is diversity. And like so many laws that come from human origin, it can be used to divide one person from another, or it can be used to strengthen a community that chooses to draw from its vast richness of differences. In and of itself diversity is not good or bad, it is what we do with it that gives it power.

May the Holy One of Blessing, reveal the blessings of diversity in the many shapes and forms that it has become manifest in our community, and in our world. May we always see our differences as a source of strength, may it always be used to unite, and not to destroy. May this be God's will.—AMEN.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE TO THE FLAG

Upon request of Speaker pro Tempore Keeley, Assembly Member Dutra then led the Assembly in the pledge of allegiance to the Flag.

Members of the Assembly: As requested by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, the Bureau of State Audits presents its report concerning our review of the Public Utilities Commission's (commission) consultant contract for investigating San Francisco's 1998 power failure.

The report concludes that the commission inadequately monitored the contract as it did not evaluate the qualifications of the consultant's subcontractors who performed investigative work. In addition, the commission did not make certain that the consultant's report contained sufficient detail and analysis to support all of the report's conclusions. Further, the commission cannot substantiate the amount of the contract and has not required the consultant to submit invoices. As a result, the commission has not ensured that the consultant's expenditures have been appropriate and within budget.

Respectfully submitted,

Members of the Assembly: As requested by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, the Bureau of State Audits presents its report concerning the State's administration of the Carl D. Perkins Vocational and Applied Technology Education (Perkins) program, and how the California Department of Education's (department) 1995 reorganization of its Curriculum and Instructional Leadership Branch affected its ability to administer the program.

This report concludes that both the department and the Chancellor's Office of the California Community Colleges (Chancellor's Office) used Perkins funds to administer other federal and state programs that are similar to the Perkins program. Furthermore, although Perkins funds have increased over the past five years, the department, since reorganizing in 1995, reduced its staff working on the Perkins program in the Secondary Education Division, which administers the majority of the program. This reduction resulted in diminished services to school districts providing vocational education programs. While federal guidelines do not appear to allow the State to use Perkins funds to administer other programs, more importantly, the department and the Chancellor's office have not maximized the effectiveness or availability of Perkins vocational services at the local level. As a result, students may be inadequately prepared to meet the needs of today's high technology society.

Dear Members of the Assembly: As required by Chapter 138, Statutes of 1994, the Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning the Franchise Tax Board's (board) Tax Settlement Program.

Dear Members of the Assembly: As required by Chapter 880, Statutes of 1998, the Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning the current generator fee structure prescribed in Section 25205.5 of the California Health and Safety Code and the hazardous waste fees charged by local Certified Unified Program Agencies (CUPAs) pursuant to Section 25404.5 of the California Health and Safety Code.

This report concludes that the generator fees, which are set in statute, are not fair and reasonable for all levels of hazardous waste generators. Further, the Department of Toxic Substances Control's efforts to encourage recycling in the State and to penalize businesses that do not recycle waste that could be recycled are minimal.

Although services the CUPAs and the State provide do not overlap, some aspects of the Unified Hazardous Waste and Hazardous Materials Management Regulatory Program are not being implemented. Specifically, some CUPAs have not implemented all six mandatory program elements and 15 counties in the State do not have a CUPA. Finally, state agencies responsible for overseeing certain regulatory programs are not assuring that all program elements are being implemented in counties that do not have a CUPA.

Members of the Assembly: As part of our annual financial and compliance audit of the State of California for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1999, required by Section 8546.3 of the California Government Code, the Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning the management of overtime expenditures among state departments. This report concludes that several state departments could do more to reduce the incidence of overtime paid to their employees. Large amounts of overtime earned by State employees can be more costly than hiring additional employees, and can lead to increased use of employee sick leave, more workplace injuries, added disability claims, and loss of productivity. Our review disclosed that one department relied heavily on overtime to cover staffing shortages due to vacations, training, and other absences rather than using other less costly alternatives. We also identified other departments that inappropriately paid overtime to employees who are not eligible for overtime pay. Finally, we observed that some departments did not always comply with their own internal controls for the proper administration of overtime.

Members of the Assembly: As requested by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, the Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning the Medi-Cal Managed Care Two-Plan Model (two-plan model) and its impact on quality of and access to health care. The two-plan model is a method of operating managed care in which the Department of Health Services (department) contracts with two health plans in each county to provide care.

This report concludes that based on limited available data, the department's implementation of the two-plan model does not appear to have an adverse impact on the quality of and access to medical services provided to the Medi-Cal population. To ensure that health plans are providing high quality an easily accessible medical services, the department monitors the health plans. However, the department's monitoring efforts thus far have been incomplete because its approach for monitoring health plans is not well organized.

Members of the Assembly: As requested by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, the Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning the Department of Education's (department) management of the federal adult education program.

This report concludes that the department's monitoring efforts failed to detect unsubstantiated claims for adult education funds submitted by community-based organizations. In addition, the department's award process yielded inconsistent decisions that leave it open to charges of favoritism. The department is making significant changes to the adult education program. However, the changes may not resolve past problems and could result in a drop in the number of students served.

Members of the Assembly: The Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning the Department of Health Services' (department) Forensic Alcohol Program titled Department of Health Services: The Forensic Alcohol Program Needs to Reevaluate Its Regulatory Efforts. This audit was conducted to follow up on issues identified during our 1998 audit of the 19 local forensic laboratories.

This report concludes that the department's regulatory efforts primarily emphasize reviewing written methods. Although necessary and important, the reviews are not completed promptly and focus on issues that do not improve the labs' analyses. Further, while the department also conducts periodic site visits and proficiency tests, a greater emphasis on these activities may be more beneficial to the labs than method reviews. Finally, the department's requirements for training operators of breath-alcohol analysis equipment are unnecessarily restrictive.

Members of the Assembly: As requested by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, the Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning our review of California's Child Support Enforcement Program (CSEP). This report concludes that the CSEP in California is disjointed, complicated, and lacking in leadership. More specifically, the Department of Social Services (DSS) is the agency solely responsible for administering, supervising, and monitoring the CSEP at the statewide level, yet is has not provided the counties that manage the CSEP locally with the leadership, assistance, and direction needed to ensure the program's effective operation. Furthermore, we believe that DSS's failure to provide strong leadership, combined with a disparate delivery of services by the 58 district attorneys' county-based programs, has severely limited California's success with its CSEP.

Members of the Assembly: As requested by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, the Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning conflict resolution programs and related best practices that California public schools have in place to prepare themselves for conflict between students, students and the school, and parents and the school.

This report concludes that more than 75 percent of schools have a conflict resolution program, however; few have programs where the entire school community—principals, teachers, vice principals, students, other staff, and parents—learns and adopts conflict resolution techniques. Principals of schools with comprehensive programs that train most of the school community feel their schools are better prepared to handle conflicts than those with limited programs which train few. Therefore, schools would benefit by enhancing existing programs or implementing programs where most of the school community is exposed to conflict resolution. While schools use varying resources to support programs aimed at reducing school violence, many schools rely on district general funds. Furthermore, recent legislation provides $100 million for school safety programs; however, schools must still decide whether they will devote any of the money to conflict resolution programs.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

The following messages from the Governor were received and ordered printed in the Journal:

Governor's Office, Sacramento
 July 22, 1999

To Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill No. 1107 with the understanding that SB 708 will be enacted to address concerns I have with several of the provisions contained in AB 1107.

Specifically, SB 708 will limit the state-only program for ancillary medical services to persons in Institutes for Mental Disease to one year; restore provisions requiring the consideration of assets in Medi-Cal eligibility determination; appropriate $1.2 million ($600,000 General Fund) to enhance the State's Medi-Cal provider fraud prevention efforts; and, cap funding for long-term care services to undocumented persons at the amount necessary to provide such care to 110 percent of the 1999–00 estimated caseload, as specified. Furthermore, this long-term care program will be changed from an entitlement program to a non-entitlement program.

With these changes contained in SB 708, I am signing AB 1107.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
July 22, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill No. 1111 with the understanding that Senate Bill No. 708 will be enacted to address concerns I have with specific provisions of Assembly Bill No. 1111.

Senate Bill No. 708 will clarify the provisions enacted by AB 1111 to ensure that all immigrants who entered the country after August 22, 1996, would be subject to five-year deeming under the Cash Assistance Program for Immigrants, including those with the old federal affidavits of support, thereby eliminating any potential General Fund cost in the 1999–00 fiscal year.

With this change contained in SB 708, I am signing AB 1111.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
July 27, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill No. 1, but I urge Plumas Unified School District to develop alternative sources of funding to replace those lost from the federal Forest Reserve Funds.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

The following veto messages from the Governor were received and ordered printed in the Journal and the bills ordered to the unfinished business file:

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 240

Governor's Office, Sacramento
July 26, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 240 without my signature.

It is not appropriate to require managerial and supervisory personnel to pay an agency shop fee. Collective bargaining depends on vigorous negotiations by both management and labor. Requiring managers and supervisors to pay fees to the union could undermine the process. I would be happy to work with the author if he could demonstrate that certain individuals currently designated as managers or supervisors are performing rank and file tasks, and thus should appropriately be paying agency fees.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 26th day of July 1999 at 11:45 p.m., of Assembly Bill No. 240 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

HUGH R. SLAYDEN

Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1401

Governor's Office, Sacramento

July 27, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1401 without my signature.

I have discussed with the author my desire to sign a bill that promotes better air quality without requiring a super majority vote of the South Coast Air Quality District Board.

Assemblymember Longville and I have agreed to draft a bill to accomplish these objectives, hopefully this year.

I am philosophically opposed, however, to legislation that requires a super majority of 75% to enact public policy.

I would, however, support and sign legislation that will require the South Coast Air Quality Management District to act within 60 days by a majority vote on recommendations by the Mobile Source Pollution Reduction Committee. If no action is taken within 60 days the proposal would be deemed approved.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 27th day of July 1999 at 9:15 p.m., of Assembly Bill No. 1401 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

HUGH R. SLAYDEN

Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 79

Governor's Office, Sacramento

July 28, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 79 without my signature.

This bill, while well intended, represents a sharp retreat from California's zero-tolerance policy for weapons on school campuses. For California's zero tolerance policy to maintain its strength, it needs to be enforced without ambiguity to confer upon students a firm awareness of the serious consequences of bringing weapons onto school campuses.

My goal is to make schools safer, not more dangerous. In fact, the budget authorizes an expenditure of $100 million to improve safety on campus.

Allowing guns on campus, for any reason, works at cross-purposes to that goal.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 28th day of July 1999 at 9:40 a.m., of Assembly Bill No. 79 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

LAWRENCE A. MURMAN
Assistant Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 585

Governor's Office, Sacramento
July 28, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 585 without my signature.

I commend the author for trying to solve a legitimate problem. The Department of Motor Vehicles, however, has already chosen a contractor, Polaroid, and has represented to me they will be able to process drivers' license applications within five days beginning in April 2000.

This new program is expected to be fully implemented by December 2000. Accordingly, this legislation would impose additional costs on DMV that are otherwise not necessary.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 28th day of July 1999 at 4:20 p.m., of Assembly Bill No. 585 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

LAWRENCE A. MURMAN
Assistant Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1417

Governor's Office, Sacramento
July 28, 1999

To Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1417 without my signature.

I applaud the effort of the author to find an appropriate way to allow card clubs to function in light of recent court holdings.

On the advice of Attorney General Bill Lockyer, I am asking the Legislature to insert a licensing and oversight procedure for persons or business entities who would perform the functions of the bank. With these changes, I will sign the bill.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 28th day of July 1999 at 3:30 p.m., of Assembly Bill No. 1417 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to be personally by Nancy Miller.

and Budget Item 8260-103-0001

August 13, 1999

*The Honorable Antonio Villaraigosa
Speaker of the Assembly
State Capitol, Room 219
Sacramento, California*

Dear Mr. Speaker: I write to clarify budget item number 8260-103-0001 of the 1999–2000 State budget, which provides $1 million in funding for the Chinese American Museum and the Italian Hall and AB 268 which contains intent language for the Chinese American Museum and the Italian Hall.

In regard to distributing the $1 million to the organizations, the funding is intended to be distributed equally to both organizations. The Chinese American Museum and the Italian Hall should each receive $500,000. Furthermore, expenditure guidelines and restrictions that are set forth in the budget language take precedence over guidelines included in the bill language.

It is my understanding from the California Arts Council, that the funds will be distributed after December 1999. The Council also informed me that they will conduct a workshop for recipient organizations regarding the procedure to request funding prior to December.

Sincerely,

GILBERT CEDILLO, Assembly Member
Forty-sixth District

Legislative Intent—Assembly Bill No. 1485

August 16, 1999

*E. Dotson Wilson, Chief Clerk
California State Assembly
Assembly Desk, State Capitol
Sacramento, California*

RE: *AB 1485 (Scott) Earthquake Protection: Reservoirs;
Chapter 876 of the Statutes of 1997*

Dear Mr. Wilson: I am writing to the Assembly Journal to clarify the intent of Assembly Bill 1485, Chapter 876 of the Statutes of 1997, which I authored.

AB 1485 addressed the seismic safety of a reservoir proposed to be built in the City of San Marino by the San Gabriel County Water District. Specifically, AB 1485 was introduced in response to an environmental impact report conducted on the proposed project which found that the project would represent a significant danger to the health and safety of students and faculty at the nearby San Marino High School in the event of a moderate to severe seismic event. AB 1485 required the Department of Water Resources Division of Dam Safety to conduct a seismic safety review of the proposed project as it was originally designed and submitted for environmental review.

AB 1485 was a straightforward attempt to arbitrate a dispute between three municipal entities in my district. The City of San Marino and the San Marino Unified School District believed the dam project as originally designed to be unsafe. The San Gabriel County Water District believed the proposed project to be seismically sound. It was clearly the intent of AB 1485 to require the Department of Water Resources Division of Dam Safety to conduct a seismic safety review of the proposed project as it was originally designed and submitted for environmental review.

Unfortunately, the intent of AB 1485 was circumvented when the water district submitted a substantially altered set of plans and designs to the Division of Dam Safety following extensive consultation with the geologists and engineers at the division. In fact, the public record unequivocally demonstrates that staff within the Division made numerous substantive recommendations to the Water District prior to the "formal" submittal of their application. In short, the Water District determined through consultation with the Division what changes needed to be made for the project to be approved, and consequently submitted plans that reflected those changes.

Furthermore, it was the intent of AB 1485 that Subsection (c) of Section 1 of AB 1485 apply to any substantive changes made to the original design of the project, which was the subject of the EIR in question and the only concern of the Legislature. Subsection (C) was adopted by amendment in the Senate Agriculture Committee. It was Senator Jim Costa's concern in authoring the amendment that if the City's and the School District's concerns regarding the dam were unfounded, that they should pay for the cost of the seismic review. The substantive changes made by the Water District, such as submerging the dam an additional 10 feet underground, prior to submitting the plans to the Division, in itself is evidence that the concerns of the City and School District were in fact warranted.

Thank you for this opportunity to clarify for the public record the intent of AB 1485 Chapter 876 statutes of 1997.

Very truly yours,

JACK SCOTT, Assembly Member
Forty-fourth District

Legislative Intent—Assembly Bill No. 989

August 18, 1999

*Speaker Antonio Villaraigosa
State Capitol, Room 219
Sacramento, California*

RE: AB 989 (Lowenthal),

Coastal Commission Recordings: Prospective Nature of Bill

Dear Mr. Speaker: I have authored AB 989 to give the California Coastal Commission the authority to record against the property of an owner who has violated the California Coastal Act. The bill provides due process for the property owner and expedites rescission of the recording once the violation has been resolved. It also provides constructive notice to potential purchasers of the property that there is a pending violation.

During the course of the legislative process, there has been some confusion about whether the provisions of AB 989 could be applied to violations occurring prior to its effective date. In fact, during the Assembly Natural Resources Committee hearing, I took author's amendments striking language that stated the bill was prospective only.

Since that time, Legislative Counsel has informed me that it would be unconstitutional to apply the provisions of AB 989 retroactively. It is for this reason that I submit this letter to you now, expressing my intent that the provisions of AB 989 are prospective only. The bill is not intended to apply to any violation prior to its operative date.

Thank you for printing this letter in the Assembly Journal on this date, prior to the Senate Floor vote on AB 989.

Sincerely,

ALAN LOWENTHAL, Assembly Member,
Fifty-fourth District

PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker pro Tempore Keeley, the following prayer was offered by Assembly Chaplain Rabbi Mona Alfi:

An ancient sage pondered the reason why the Book of Genesis teaches that all of humanity is descended from a single person. The sage taught that:

Humanity was created single for the sake of peace amongst humankind, so that no one might say to another: "My father was greater than yours."

(Mishna Sanhedrin 4:5)

It is human nature to try to explain our good fortune by looking at our family tree and saying "I come from something better than you." We are often prone to doing the same thing when suffering from ill fortune; we try to make ourselves the moral superior to those more fortunate than ourselves by taking solace in the mythical greatness of our ancestry.

The Bible reminds us that each of us comes from the same humble beginning. We all come from just a handful of clay that had the spirit of life breathed into it. From that single being, which was simultaneously miraculous and simple, we are all descended.

May the Holy One of Blessing enable us to see and understand how we are all connected to one another in one family of humanity, so that we can live in harmony and peace. May this be God's will.—AMEN.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE TO THE FLAG

Upon request of Speaker pro Tempore Keeley, Assembly Member Strickland then led the Assembly in the pledge of allegiance to the Flag.

Report of Assembly Committee on Judiciary on Senate Bill No. 45

In order to indicate more fully its intent with respect to Senate Bill No. 45, the Assembly Committee on Judiciary makes the following report.

Senate Bill No. 45 was introduced to effectuate the recommendation of the California Commission on Uniform State Laws that Revised Article 9 of the Uniform Commercial Code promulgated by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws be adopted in California as Division 9 of the Uniform Commercial Code. Except for the new and revised comments set forth below, the Comments of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws with respect to Revised Article 9 reflect the intent of the Assembly Committee on Judiciary in approving Senate Bill No. 45.

Section 9102 of the Commercial Code

California Comment

1. Source. All terms that are defined in Division 9 and used in more than one section are consolidated in this section. Note that the definition of "security interest" is found in Section 1201, not in this Division, and has been revised. See Appendix I. Many of the definitions in this section are new; many others derive from those in former Section 9105. The following Comments also indicate other sections of former Division 9 that defined (or explained) terms.

2. Parties to Secured Transactions.

a. “Debtor”; “Obligor”; “Secondary Obligor.” Determining whether a person was a “debtor” under former Section 9105(1)(d) required a close examination of the context in which the term was used. To reduce the need for this examination, this Division redefines “debtor” and adds new defined terms, “secondary obligor” and “obligor.” In the context of Chapter 6 (default and enforcement), these definitions distinguish among three classes of persons: (i) those persons who may have a stake in the proper enforcement of a security interest by virtue of their non-lien property interest (typically, an ownership interest) in the collateral, (ii) those persons who may have a stake in the proper enforcement of the security interest because of their obligation to pay the secured debt, and (iii) those persons who have an obligation to pay the secured debt but have no stake in the proper enforcement of the security interest. Persons in the first class are debtors. Persons in the second class are secondary obligors if any portion of the obligation is secondary or if the obligor has a right of recourse against the debtor or another obligor with respect to an obligation secured by collateral. One must consult the law of suretyship to determine whether an obligation is secondary. The Restatement (3d), Suretyship and Guaranty § 1 (1996), contains a useful explanation of the concept. Obligor in the third class are neither debtors nor secondary obligors. With one exception (Section 9616, as it relates to a consumer obligor), the rights and duties in provided by Chapter 6 affect non-debtor obligors only if they are “secondary obligors.”

By including in the definition of “debtor” all persons with a property interest (other than a security interest in or other lien on collateral), the definition includes transferees of collateral, whether or not the secured party knows of the transfer or the transferee’s identity. Exculpatory provisions in Chapter 6 protect the secured party in that circumstance. See Sections 9605 and 9628. The definition renders unnecessary former Section 9112, which governed situations in which collateral was not owned by the debtor. The definition also includes a “consignee,” as defined in this section, as well as a seller of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes.

Secured parties and other lienholders are excluded from the definition of “debtor” because the interests of those parties normally derive from and encumber a debtor’s interest. However, if in a separate secured transaction a secured party grants, as debtor, a security interest in its own interest (i.e., its security interest and any obligation that it secures), the secured party is a debtor in that transaction. This typically occurs when a secured party with a security interest in specific goods assigns chattel paper.

Consider the following examples:

Example 1: Behnfeldt borrows money and grants a security interest in her Miata to secure the debt. Behnfeldt is a debtor and an obligor.

Example 2: Behnfeldt borrows money and grants a security interest in her Miata to secure the debt. Bruno co-signs a negotiable note as maker. As before, Behnfeldt is the debtor and an obligor. As an accommodation party (see Section 3419), Bruno is a secondary obligor. Bruno has this status even if the note states that her obligation is a primary obligation and that she waives all suretyship defenses.

Example 3: Behnfeldt borrows money on an unsecured basis. Bruno co-signs the note and grants a security interest in her Honda to secure her obligation. Inasmuch as Behnfeldt does not have a property interest in the Honda, Behnfeldt is not a debtor. Having granted the security interest, Bruno is the debtor. Because Behnfeldt is a principal obligor, she is not a secondary obligor. Whatever the outcome of enforcement of the security interest against the Honda or Bruno's secondary obligation, Bruno will look to Behnfeldt for her losses. The enforcement will not affect Behnfeldt's aggregate obligations.

When the principal obligor (borrower) and the secondary obligor (surety) each has granted a security interest in different collateral, the status of each is determined by the collateral involved.

Example 4: Behnfeldt borrows money and grants a security interest in her Miata to secure the debt. Bruno co-signs the note and grants a security interest in her Honda to secure her obligation. When the secured party enforces the security interest in Behnfeldt's Miata, Behnfeldt is the debtor, and Bruno is a secondary obligor. When the secured party enforces the security interest in the Honda, Bruno is the "debtor." As in Example 3, Behnfeldt is an obligor, but not a secondary obligor.

b. "Secured Party." The secured party is the person in whose favor the security interest has been created, as determined by reference to the security agreement. This definition controls, among other things, which person has the duties and potential liability that Chapter 6 imposes upon a secured party. The definition of "secured party" also includes a "consignee," a person to which accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes have been sold, and the holder of an agricultural lien.

The definition of "secured party" clarifies the status of various types of representatives. Consider, for example, a multi-bank facility under which Bank A, Bank B, and Bank C are lenders and Bank A serves as the collateral agent. If the security interest is granted to the banks, then they are the secured parties. If the security interest is granted to Bank A as collateral agent, then Bank A is the secured party.

c. Other Parties. A "consumer obligor" is defined as the obligor in a consumer transaction. Definitions of "new debtor" and "original debtor" are used in the special rules found in Sections 9326 and 9508.

3. Definitions Relating to Creation of a Security Interest.

a. "Collateral." As under former Section 9105, "collateral" is the property subject to a security interest and includes accounts and chattel paper that have been sold. It has been expanded in this Division. The term now explicitly includes proceeds subject to a security interest. It also reflects the broadened scope of the Division. It includes property subject to an agricultural lien as well as payment intangibles and promissory notes that have been sold.

b. "Security Agreement." The definition of "security agreement" is substantially the same as under former Section 9105—an agreement that creates or provides for a security interest. However, the term frequently was used colloquially in former Division 9 to refer to the document or writing that contained a debtor's security agreement. This Division eliminates that usage, reserving the term for the more precise meaning specified in the definition.

Whether an agreement creates a security interest depends not on whether the parties intend that the law characterize the transaction as a security interest but rather on whether the transaction falls within the definition of "security interest" in Section 1201. Thus, an agreement that the parties characterize as a "lease" of goods may be a "security agreement," notwithstanding the parties' stated intention that the law treat the transaction as a lease and not as a secured transaction.

4. Goods-Related Definitions.

a. "Goods"; "Consumer Goods"; "Equipment"; "Farm Products"; "Farming Operation"; "Inventory." The definition of "goods" is substantially the same as the definition in former Section 9105. This Division also retains the four mutually-exclusive "types" of collateral that consist of goods: "consumer goods," "equipment," "farm products," and "inventory." The revisions are primarily for clarification.

The classes of goods are mutually exclusive. For example, the same property cannot simultaneously be both equipment and inventory. In borderline cases—a physician's car or a farmer's truck that might be either consumer goods or equipment—the principal use to which the property is put is determinative. Goods can fall into different classes at different times. For example, a radio may be inventory in the hands of a dealer and consumer goods in the hands of a consumer. As under former Division 9, goods are "equipment" if they do not fall into another category.

The definition of "consumer goods" follows former Section 9109. The classification turns on whether the debtor uses or bought the goods for use "primarily for personal, family, or household purposes."

Goods are inventory if they are leased by a lessor or held by a person for sale or lease. The revised definition of "inventory" makes clear that the term includes goods leased by the debtor to others as well as goods held for lease. (The same result should have obtained under the former definition.) Goods to be furnished or furnished under a service contract, raw materials, and work in process also are inventory. Implicit in the definition is the criterion that the sales or leases are or will be in the ordinary course of business. For example, machinery used in manufacturing is equipment, not inventory, even though it is the policy of the debtor to sell machinery when it becomes obsolete or worn. Inventory also includes goods that are consumed in a business (e.g., fuel used in operations). In general, goods used in a business are equipment if they are fixed assets or have, as identifiable units, a relatively long period of use, but are inventory, even though not held for sale or lease, if they are used up or consumed in a short period of time in producing a product or providing a service.

Goods are "farm products" if the debtor is engaged in farming operations with respect to the goods. Animals in a herd of livestock are covered whether the debtor acquires them by purchase or as a result of natural increase. Products of crops or livestock remain farm products as long as they have not been subjected to a manufacturing process. The terms “crops” and “livestock” are not defined. The new definition of “farming operations” is for clarification only.

Crops, livestock, and their products cease to be “farm products” when the debtor ceases to be engaged in farming operations with respect to them. If, for example, they come into the possession of a marketing agency for sale or distribution or of a manufacturer or processor as raw materials, they become inventory. Products of crops or livestock, even though they remain in the possession of a person engaged in farming operations, lose their status as farm products if they are subjected to a manufacturing process. What is and what is not a manufacturing operation is not specified in this Division. At one end of the spectrum, some processes are so closely connected with farming—such as pasteurizing milk or boiling sap to produce maple syrup or sugar—that they would not constitute manufacturing. On the other hand an extensive canning operation would be manufacturing. Once farm products have been subjected to a manufacturing operation, they normally become inventory.

The revised definition of “farm products” clarifies the distinction between crops and standing timber and makes clear that aquatic goods produced in aquacultural operations may be either crops or livestock. Although aquatic goods that are vegetable in nature often would be crops and those that are animal would be livestock, this Division leaves the courts free to classify the goods on a case-by-case basis. See Section 9324, Comment 11.

b. “Accession”; “Manufactured Home”; “Manufactured-Home Transaction.” Other specialized definitions of goods include “accession” (see the special priority and enforcement rules in Section 9335), and “manufactured home” (see Section 9515, permitting a financing statement in a “manufactured-home transaction” to be effective for 30 years). The definition of “manufactured home” borrows from the federal Manufactured Housing Act, 42 U.S.C. §§ 5401 et seq., and is intended to have the same meaning.

c. “As-Extracted Collateral.” Under this Division, oil, gas, and other minerals that have not been extracted from the ground are treated as real property, to which this Division does not apply. Upon extraction, minerals become personal property (goods) and eligible to be collateral under this Division. See the definition of “goods,” which excludes “oil, gas, and other minerals before extraction.” To take account of financing practices reflecting the shift from real to personal property, this Division contains special rules for perfecting security interests in minerals which attach upon extraction and in accounts resulting from the sale of minerals at the wellhead or minehead. See, e.g., Sections 9301(6) (law governing perfection and priority); 9501 (place of filing), 9502 (contents of financing statement), 9519 (indexing of records). The new term, “as-extracted collateral,” refers to the minerals and related accounts to which the special rules apply. The term “at the wellhead” encompasses arrangements based on a sale of the produce at the moment that it issues from the ground and is measured, without technical distinctions as to whether title passes at the “Christmas tree” of a well, the far side of a gathering tank, or at some other point. The term “at . . . the minehead” is comparable.

The following examples explain the operation of these provisions.

Example 5: Debtor owns an interest in oil that is to be extracted. To secure Debtor's obligations to Lender, Debtor enters into an authenticated agreement granting Lender an interest in the oil. Although Lender may acquire an interest in the oil under real property law, Lender does not acquire a security interest under this Division until the oil becomes personal property, i.e., until is extracted and becomes "goods" to which this Division applies. Because Debtor had an interest in the oil before extraction and Lender's security interest attached to the oil as extracted, the oil is "as-extracted collateral."

Example 6: Debtor owns an interest in oil that is to be extracted and contracts to sell the oil to Buyer at the wellhead. In an authenticated agreement, Debtor agrees to sell to Lender the right to payment from Buyer. This right to payment is an account that constitutes "as-extracted collateral." If Lender then resells the account to Financer, Financer acquires a security interest. However, inasmuch as the debtor-seller in that transaction, Lender, had no interest in the oil before extraction, Financer's collateral (the account it owns) is not "as-extracted collateral."

Example 7: Under the facts of Example 6, before extraction, Buyer grants a security interest in the oil to Bank. Although Bank's security interest attaches when the oil is extracted, Bank's security interest is not in "as-extracted collateral," inasmuch as its debtor, Buyer, did not have an interest in the oil before extraction.

d. "Certificate of Title." The uniform version of Division 9 did not previously include a definition of "certificate of title." Section 9103(2)(a) of prior Commercial Code Division 9, which was non-uniform, provided that it applied to goods covered by a certificate of title issued under the laws of any jurisdiction that required, for perfection of a security interest in the goods, that the security interest be noted on the certificate, "whether such certificate is designated a 'certificate of title,' 'certificate of ownership,' or otherwise." The adoption by California, in paragraph (10) of subdivision (a) of Section 9102, of the uniform definition of "certificate of title" is not intended to result in a different conclusion being reached as to whether a given certificate constitutes a "certificate of title" than would have been reached under prior law.

5. Receivables-related Definitions.

a. "Account"; "Health-Care-Insurance Receivable"; "As-Extracted Collateral." The definition of "account" has been expanded and reformulated. It is no longer limited to rights to payment relating to goods or services. Many categories of rights to payment that were classified as general intangibles under former Division 9 are accounts under this Division. Thus, if they are sold, a financing statement must be filed to perfect the buyer's interest in them. Among the types of property that are expressly excluded from the definition is "a right to payment for money or funds advanced or sold." As defined in Section 1201, "money" is limited essentially to currency. As used in the exclusion from the definition of “account,” however, “funds” is a broader concept (although the term is not defined). For example, when a bank-lender credits a borrower’s deposit account for the amount of a loan, the bank’s advance of funds is not a transaction giving rise to an account.

The definition of “health-care-insurance receivable” is new. It is a subset of the definition of “account.” However, the rules generally applicable to account debtors on accounts do not apply to insurers obligated on health-care-insurance receivables. See Sections 9404(e), 9405(d), 9406(i).

Note that certain accounts also are “as-extracted collateral.” See Comment 4.c., Examples 6 and 7.

b. “Chattel Paper”; “Electronic Chattel Paper”; “Tangible Chattel Paper.” “Chattel paper” consists of a monetary obligation together with a security interest in or a lease of specific goods if the obligation and security interest or lease are evidenced by “a record or records.” The definition has been expanded from that found in former Division 9 to include records that evidence a monetary obligation and a security interest in specific goods and software used in the goods, a security interest in specific goods and license of software used in the goods, or a lease of specific goods and license of software used in the goods. Charters of vessels are expressly excluded from the definition of chattel paper; they are accounts. The term “charter” as used in this section includes bareboat charters, time charters, successive voyage charters, contracts of affreightment, contracts of carriage, and all other arrangements for the use of vessels. Under former Section 9105, only if the evidence of an obligation consisted of “a writing or writings” could an obligation qualify as chattel paper. In this Division, traditional, written chattel paper is included in the definition of “tangible chattel paper.” “Electronic chattel paper” is chattel paper that is stored in an electronic medium instead of in tangible form. The concept of an electronic medium should be construed liberally to include electrical, digital, magnetic, optical, electromagnetic, or any other current or similar emerging technologies.

The definition of electronic chattel paper does not dictate that it be created in any particular fashion. For example, a record consisting of a tangible writing may be converted to electronic form (e.g., by creating electronic images of a signed writing). Or, records may be initially created and executed in electronic form (e.g., a lessee might authenticate an electronic record of a lease that is then stored in electronic form). In either case the resulting records are electronic chattel paper.

c. “Instrument”; “Promissory Note.” The definition of “instrument” includes a negotiable instrument. As under former Section 9105, it also includes any other right to payment of a monetary obligation that is evidenced by a writing of a type that in ordinary course of business is transferred by delivery (and, if necessary, an indorsement or assignment). Except in the case of chattel paper, the fact that an instrument is secured by a security interest or encumbrance on property does not change the character of the instrument as such or convert the combination of the instrument and collateral into a separate classification of personal property. The definition makes clear that rights to payment arising out of credit-card transactions are not instruments. The definition of “promissory note” is new, necessitated by the inclusion of sales of promissory notes within the scope of Division 9. It explicitly excludes obligations arising out of “orders” to pay (e.g., checks) as opposed to “promises” to pay. See Section 3104.

d. “General Intangible”; “Payment Intangible.” “General intangible” is the residual category of personal property, including things in action, that is not included in the other defined types of collateral. Examples are various categories of intellectual property and the right to payment of a loan of funds that is not evidenced by chattel paper or an instrument. The definition has been revised to exclude commercial tort claims, deposit accounts, and letter-of-credit rights. Each of the three is a separate type of collateral. One important consequence of this exclusion is that tortfeasors (commercial tort claims), banks (deposit accounts), and persons obligated on letters of credit (letter-of-credit rights) are not “account debtors” having the rights and obligations set forth in Sections 9404, 9405, and 9406. In particular, tortfeasors, banks, and persons obligated on letters of credit are not obligated to pay an assignee (secured party) upon receipt of the notification described in Section 9404(a). See Comment 5.h. Another important consequence relates to the adequacy of the description in the security agreement. See Section 9108.

“Payment intangible” is a subset of the definition of “general intangible.” The sale of a payment intangible is subject to this Division. See Section 9109(a)(3). Virtually any intangible right could give rise to a right to payment of money once one hypothesizes, for example, that the account debtor is in breach of its obligation. The term “payment intangible,” however, embraces only those general intangibles “under which the account debtor’s principal obligation is a monetary obligation.” (Emphasis added.)

In classifying intangible collateral, a court should begin by identifying the particular rights that have been assigned. The account debtor (promisor) under a particular contract may owe several types of monetary obligations as well as other, nonmonetary obligations. If the promisee’s right to payment of money is assigned separately, the right is an account or payment intangible, depending on how the account debtor’s obligation arose. When all the promisee’s rights are assigned together, an account, a payment intangible, and a general intangible all may be involved, depending on the nature of the rights.

A right to the payment of money is frequently buttressed by ancillary covenants, such as covenants in a purchase agreement, note, or mortgage requiring insurance on the collateral or forbidding removal of the collateral, or covenants to preserve the creditworthiness of the promisor, such as covenants restricting dividends and the like. This Division does not treat these ancillary rights separately from the rights to payment to which they relate. For example, attachment and perfection of an assignment of a right to payment of a monetary obligation, whether it be an account or payment intangible, also carries these ancillary rights.

Every “payment intangible” is also a “general intangible.” Likewise, “software” is a “general intangible” for purposes of this Division. See e. “Letter-of-Credit Right.” The term “letter-of-credit right” embraces the rights to payment and performance under a letter of credit (defined in Section 5102). However, it does not include a beneficiary’s right to demand payment or performance. Transfer of those rights to a transferee beneficiary is governed by Division 5. See Sections 9107, Comment 4, and 9329, Comments 3 and 4.

f. “Supporting Obligation.” This new term covers the most common types of credit enhancements—suretyship obligations (including guarantees) and letter-of-credit rights that support one of the types of collateral specified in the definition. As explained in Comment 2.a., suretyship law determines whether an obligation is “secondary” for purposes of this definition. Section 9109 generally excludes from this Division transfers of interests in insurance policies. However, the regulation of a secondary obligation as an insurance product does not necessarily mean that it is a “policy of insurance” for purposes of the exclusion in Section 9109. Thus, this Division may cover a secondary obligation (as a supporting obligations), even if the obligation is issued by a regulated insurance company and the obligation is subject to regulation as an “insurance” product.

This Division contains rules explicitly governing attachment, perfection, and priority of security interests in supporting obligations. See Sections 9203, 9308, 9310, and 9322. These provisions reflect the principle that a supporting obligation is an incident of the collateral it supports.

Collections of or other distributions under a supporting obligation are “proceeds” of the supported collateral as well as “proceeds” of the supporting obligation itself. See Section 9102 (defining “proceeds”) and Comment 13.b. As such, the collections and distributions are subject to the priority rules applicable to proceeds generally. See Section 9322. However, under the special rule governing security interests in a letter-of-credit right, a secured party’s failure to obtain control (Section 9107) of a letter-of-credit right supporting collateral may leave its security interest exposed to a priming interest of a party who does take control. See Section 9329 (security interest in a letter-of-credit right perfected by control has priority over a conflicting security interest).

g. “Commercial Tort Claim.” This term is new. A tort claim may serve as original collateral under this Division only if it is a “commercial tort claim.” See Section 9109(d). Although security interests in commercial tort claims are within its scope, this Division does not override other applicable law restricting the assignability of a tort claim. See Section 9401. A security interest in a tort claim also may exist under this Division if the claim is proceeds of other collateral.

h. “Account Debtor.” An “account debtor” is a person obligated on an account, chattel paper, or general intangible. The account debtor’s obligation often is a monetary obligation; however, this is not always the case. For example, if a franchisee uses its rights under a franchise agreement (a general intangible) as collateral, then the franchisor is an “account debtor.” As a general matter, Division 3, and not Division 9, governs obligations on negotiable instruments. Accordingly, the definition of “account debtor” excludes obligors on negotiable instruments constituting part of chattel paper. The principal effect of this change from the definition in former Division 9 is that the rules in Sections 9403, 9404, 9405, and 9406, dealing with the rights of an assignee and duties of an account debtor, do not apply to an assignment of chattel paper in which the obligation to pay is evidenced by a negotiable instrument. (Section 9406(d), however, does apply to promissory notes, including negotiable promissory notes.) Rather, the assignee’s rights are governed by Division 3. Similarly, the duties of an obligor on a nonnegotiable instrument are governed by non-Division 9 law unless the nonnegotiable instrument is a part of chattel paper, in which case the obligor is an account debtor.

I. Receivables Under Government Entitlement Programs.

This Division does not contain a defined term that encompasses specifically rights to payment or performance under the many and varied government entitlement programs. Depending on the nature of a right under a program, it could be an account, a payment intangible, a general intangible other than a payment intangible, or another type of collateral. The right also might be proceeds of collateral (e.g., crops).

6. Investment-Property-Related Definitions: “Commodity Account”; “Commodity Contract”; “Commodity Customer”; “Commodity Intermediary”; “Investment Property.” These definitions are substantially the same as the corresponding definitions in former Section 9115. “Investment property” includes securities, both certificated and uncertificated, securities accounts, security entitlements, commodity accounts, and commodity contracts. The term investment property includes a “securities account” in order to facilitate transactions in which a debtor wishes to create a security interest in all of the investment positions held through a particular account rather than in particular positions carried in the account. Former Section 9115 was added in conjunction with Revised Article 8 and contained a variety of rules applicable to security interests in investment property. These rules have been relocated to the appropriate sections of Division 9. See, e.g., Sections 9203 (attachment), 9314 (perfection by control), 9328 (priority).

The terms “security,” “security entitlement,” and related terms are defined in Section 8102, and the term “securities account” is defined in Section 8501. The terms “commodity account,” “commodity contract,” “commodity customer,” and “commodity intermediary” are defined in this section. Commodity contracts are not “securities” or “financial assets” under Division 8. See Section 8103(f). Thus, the relationship between commodity intermediaries and commodity customers is not governed by the indirect-holding-system rules of Chapter 5 of Division 8. For securities, Division 9 contains rules on security interests, and Division 8 contains rules on the rights of transferees, including secured parties, on such matters as the rights of a transferee if the transfer was itself wrongful and gives rise to an adverse claim. For commodity contracts, Division 9 establishes rules on security interests, but questions of the sort dealt with in Division 8 for securities are left to other law.

The indirect-holding-system rules of Division 8 are sufficiently flexible to be applied to new developments in the securities and financial markets, where that is appropriate. Accordingly, the definition of “commodity contract” is narrowly drafted to ensure that it does not operate as an obstacle to the application of the Division 8 indirect-holding-system rules to new products. The term “commodity contract” covers those contracts that are traded on or subject to the rules of a designated contract market and foreign commodity contracts that are carried on the books of American commodity intermediaries. The effect of this definition is that the category of commodity contracts that are excluded from Division 8 but governed by Division 9 is essentially the same as the category of contracts that fall within the exclusive regulatory jurisdiction of the federal Commodity Futures Trading Commission.

Commodity contracts are different from securities or other financial assets. A person who enters into a commodity futures contract is not buying an asset having a certain value and holding it in anticipation of increase in value. Rather the person is entering into a contract to buy or sell a commodity at set price for delivery at a future time. That contract may become advantageous or disadvantageous as the price of the commodity fluctuates during the term of the contract. The rules of the commodity exchanges require that the contracts be marked to market on a daily basis; that is, the customer pays or receives any increment attributable to that day’s price change. Because commodity customers may incur obligations on their contracts, they are required to provide collateral at the outset, known as “original margin,” and may be required to provide additional amounts, known as “variation margin,” during the term of the contract.

The most likely setting in which a person would want to take a security interest in a commodity contract is where a lender who is advancing funds to finance an inventory of a physical commodity requires the borrower to enter into a commodity contract as a hedge against the risk of decline in the value of the commodity. The lender will want to take a security interest in both the commodity itself and the hedging commodity contract. Typically, such arrangements are structured as security interests in the entire commodity account in which the borrower carries the hedging contracts, rather than in individual contracts.

One important effect of including commodity contracts and commodity accounts in Division 9 is to provide a clearer legal structure for the analysis of the rights of commodity clearing organizations against their participants and futures commission merchants against their customers. The rules and agreements of commodity clearing organizations generally provide that the clearing organization has the right to liquidate any participant’s positions in order to satisfy obligations of the participant to the clearing corporation. Similarly, agreements between futures commission merchants and their customers generally provide that the futures commission merchant has the right to liquidate a customer’s positions in order to satisfy obligations of the customer to the futures commission merchant.

The main property that a commodity intermediary holds as collateral for the obligations that the commodity customer may incur under its commodity contracts is not other commodity contracts carried by the customer but the other property that the customer has posted as margin. Typically, this property will be securities. The commodity intermediary’s security interest in such securities is governed by the rules of this Division on security interests in securities, not the rules on security interests in commodity contracts or commodity accounts.

Although there are significant analytic and regulatory differences between commodities and securities, the development of commodity contracts on financial products in the past few decades has resulted in a system in which the commodity markets and securities markets are closely linked. The rules on security interests in commodity contracts and commodity accounts provide a structure that may be essential in times of stress in the financial markets. Suppose, for example that a firm has a position in a securities market that is hedged by a position in a commodity market, so that payments that the firm is obligated to make with respect to the securities position will be covered by the receipt of funds from the commodity position. Depending upon the settlement cycles of the different markets, it is possible that the firm could find itself in a position where it is obligated to make the payment with respect to the securities position before it receives the matching funds from the commodity position. If cross-margining arrangements have not been developed between the two markets, the firm may need to borrow funds temporarily to make the earlier payment. The rules on security interests in investment property would facilitate the use of positions in one market as collateral for loans needed to cover obligations in the other market.

7. Consumer-Related Definitions: “Consumer Debtor”; “Consumer Goods”; “Consumer-goods transaction”; “Consumer Obligor”; “Consumer Transaction.” The definition of “consumer goods” (discussed above) is substantially the same as the definition in former Section 9109. The definitions of “consumer debtor,” “consumer obligor,” “consumer-goods transaction,” and “consumer transaction” have been added in connection with various new (and old) consumer-related provisions and to designate certain provisions that are inapplicable in consumer transactions.

“Consumer-goods transaction” is a subset of “consumer transaction.” Under each definition, both the obligation secured and the collateral must have a personal, family, or household purpose. However, “mixed” business and personal transactions also may be characterized as a consumer-goods transaction or consumer transaction. Subparagraph (A) of the definition of consumer-goods transactions and clause (i) of the definition of consumer transaction are primary purposes tests. Under these tests, it is necessary to determine the primary purpose of the obligation or obligations secured. Subparagraph (B) and clause (iii) of these definitions are satisfied if any of the collateral is consumer goods, in the case of a consumer-goods transaction, or “is held or acquired primarily for personal, family, or household purposes,” in the case of a consumer transaction. The fact that some of the obligations secured or some of the collateral for the obligation does not satisfy the tests (e.g., some of the collateral is acquired for a business purpose) does not prevent a transaction from being a “consumer transaction” or “consumer-goods transaction.”

8. Filing-Related Definitions: “Continuation Statement”; “File Number”; “Filing Office”; “Filing-office Rule”; “Financing Statement”; “Fixture Filing”; “Manufactured-Home Transaction”; “New Debtor”; “Original Debtor”; “Public-Finance Transaction”; “Termination Statement”;

“Transmitting Utility.” These definitions are used exclusively or primarily in the filing-related provisions in Chapter 5. Most are self-explanatory and are discussed in the Comments to Chapter 5. A financing statement filed in a manufactured-home transaction or a public-finance transaction may remain effective for 30 years instead of the 5 years applicable to other financing statements. See Section 9515(b). The definitions relating to medium neutrality also are significant for the filing provisions. See Comment 9.

The definition of “transmitting utility” has been revised to embrace the business of transmitting communications generally to take account of new and future types of communications technology. The term designates a special class of debtors for whom separate filing rules are provided in Chapter 5, thereby obviating the many local fixture filings that would be necessary under the rules of Section 9501 for a far-flung public-utility debtor. A transmitting utility will not necessarily be regulated by or operating as such in a jurisdiction where fixtures are located. For example, a utility might own transmission lines in a jurisdiction, although the utility generates no power and has no customers in the jurisdiction.

9. Definitions Relating to Medium Neutrality.

a. “Record.” In many, but not all, instances, the term “record” replaces the term “writing” and “written.” A “record” includes information that is in intangible form (e.g., electronically stored) as well as tangible form (e.g., written on paper). Given the rapid development and commercial adoption of modern communication and storage technologies, requirements that documents or communications be “written,” “in writing,” or otherwise in tangible form do not necessarily reflect or aid commercial practices.

A “record” need not be permanent or indestructible, but the term does not include any oral or other communication that is not stored or preserved by any means. The information must be stored on paper or in some other medium. Information that has not been retained other than through human memory does not qualify as a record. Examples of current technologies commercially used to communicate or store information include, but are not limited to, magnetic media, optical discs, digital voice messaging systems, electronic mail, audio tapes, and photographic media, as well as paper. “Record” is an inclusive term that includes all of these methods of storing or communicating information. Any “writing” is a record. A record may be authenticated. See Comment 9.b. A record may be created without the knowledge or intent of a particular person.

Like the terms “written” or “in writing,” the term “record” does not establish the purposes, permitted uses, or legal effect that a record may have under any particular provision of law. Whatever is filed in the Division 9 filing system, including financing statements, continuation statements, and termination statements, whether transmitted in tangible or intangible form, would fall within the definition. However, in some instances, statutes or filing-office rules may require that a paper record be filed. In such cases, even if this Division permits the filing of an electronic record, compliance with those statutes or rules is necessary.

Similarly, a filer must comply with a statute or rule that requires a particular type of encoding or formatting for an electronic record.

This Division sometimes uses the terms “for record,” “of record,” “record or legal title,” and “record owner.” Some of these are terms traditionally used in real property law. The definition of “record” in this Division now explicitly excepts these usages from the defined term. Also, this Division refers to a record that is filed or recorded in real property recording systems to record a mortgage as a “record of a mortgage.” This usage recognizes that the defined term “mortgage” means an interest in real property; it does not mean the record that evidences, or is filed or recorded with respect to, the mortgage.

b. “Authenticate”; “Communicate”; “Send.” The terms “authenticate” and “authenticated” generally replace “sign” and “signed.” “Authenticated” replaces and broadens the definition of “signed,” in Section 1201, to encompass authentication of all records, not just writings. (References to authentication of, e.g., an agreement, demand, or notification mean, of course, authentication of a record containing an agreement, demand, or notification.) The terms “communicate” and “send” also contemplate the possibility of communication by nonwritten media. These definitions include the act of transmitting both tangible and intangible records. The definition of “send” replaces, for purposes of this Division, the corresponding term in Section 1201. The reference to “usual means of communication” in that definition contemplates an inquiry into the appropriateness of the method of transmission used in the particular circumstances involved.

10. Scope-Related Definitions.

a. Expanded Scope of Division: “Agricultural Lien”; “Consignment”; “Payment Intangible”; “Promissory Note.” These new definitions reflect the expanded scope of Division 9, as provided in Section 9109(a).

b. Reduced Scope of Exclusions: “Governmental Unit”; “Health-Care-Insurance Receivable”; “Commercial Tort Claims.” These new definitions reflect the reduced scope of the exclusions, provided in Section 9109(c) and (d), of transfers by governmental debtors and assignments of interests in insurance policies and commercial tort claims.

11. Choice-of-Law-Related Definitions: “Certificate of Title”; “Governmental Unit”; “Jurisdiction of Organization”; “Registered Organization”; “State.” These new definitions reflect the changes in the law governing perfection and priority of security interests and agricultural liens provided in Chapter 3.

Not every organization that may provide information about itself in the public records is a “registered organization.” For example, a general partnership is not a “registered organization,” even if it files a statement of partnership authority under Section 303 of the Uniform Partnership Act (1994) or an assumed name (“dba”) certificate. This is because the State under whose law the partnership is organized is not required to maintain a public record showing that the partnership has been organized. In contrast, corporations, limited liability companies, and limited partnerships are “registered organizations.”

12. Deposit-Account-Related Definitions: “Deposit Account”; “Bank.” The revised definition of “deposit account” incorporates the definition of “bank,” which is new. The definition derives from the definitions of “bank” in Sections 4105(1) and 11105(a)(2), which focus on whether the organization is “engaged in the business of banking.”

Deposit accounts evidenced by Division 9 “instruments” are excluded from the term “deposit account.” In contrast, former Section 9105 excluded from the former definition “an account evidenced by a certificate of deposit.” The revised definition clarifies the proper treatment of nonnegotiable or uncertificated certificates of deposit. Under the definition, an uncertificated certificate of deposit would be a deposit account (assuming there is no writing evidencing the bank’s obligation to pay) whereas a nonnegotiable certificate of deposit would be a deposit account only if it is not an “instrument” as defined in this section (a question that turns on whether the nonnegotiable certificate of deposit is “of a type that in ordinary course of business is transferred by delivery with any necessary endorsement or assignment.”)

A deposit account evidenced by an instrument is subject to the rules applicable to instruments generally. As a consequence, a security interest in such an instrument cannot be perfected by “control” (see Section 9104), and the special priority rules applicable to deposit accounts (see Sections 9327 and 9340) do not apply.

The term “deposit account” does not include “investment property,” such as securities and security entitlements. Thus, the term also does not include shares in a money-market mutual fund, even if the shares are redeemable by check.

13. Proceeds-Related Definitions: “Cash Proceeds”; “Noncash Proceeds”; “Proceeds.” The revised definition of “proceeds” expands the definition beyond that contained in former Section 9306 and resolves ambiguities in the former section.

a. Distributions on Account of Collateral. The phrase “whatever is collected on, or distributed on account of, collateral,” in subparagraph (B), is broad enough to cover cash or stock dividends distributed on account of securities or other investment property that is original collateral. Compare former Section 9306 (“Any payments or distributions made with respect to investment property collateral are proceeds.”). This section rejects the holding of Hastie v. FDIC, 2 F.3d 1042 (10th Cir. 1993) (postpetition cash dividends on stock subject to a prepetition pledge are not “proceeds” under Bankruptcy Code Section 552(b), to the extent the holding relies on the Article 9 definition of “proceeds.”)

b. Distributions on Account of Supporting Obligations. Under subparagraph (B), collections on and distributions on account of collateral consisting of various credit-support arrangements (“supporting obligations,” as defined in Section 9102) also are proceeds. Consequently, they are afforded treatment identical to proceeds collected from or distributed by the obligor on the underlying (supported) right to payment or other collateral. Proceeds of supporting obligations also are proceeds of the underlying rights to payment or other collateral.

c. Proceeds of Proceeds. The definition of “proceeds” no longer provides that proceeds of proceeds are themselves proceeds. That idea is expressed in the revised definition of “collateral” in Section 9102. No change in meaning is intended.

d. Proceeds Received by Person Who Did Not Create Security Interest. When collateral is sold subject to a security interest and the buyer then resells the collateral, a question arose under former Division 9 concerning whether the “debtor” had “received” what the buyer received on resale and, therefore, whether those receipts were “proceeds” under former Section 9306(2). This Division contains no requirement that property be “received” by the debtor for the property to qualify as proceeds. It is necessary only that the property be traceable, directly or indirectly, to the original collateral.

e. Cash Proceeds and Noncash Proceeds. The definition of “cash proceeds” is substantially the same as the corresponding definition in former Section 9306. The phrase “and the like” covers property that is functionally equivalent to “money, checks, or deposit accounts,” such as some money-market accounts that are securities or part of securities entitlements. Proceeds other than cash proceeds are noncash proceeds.

14. Consignment-Related Definitions: “Consignee”; “Consignment”; “Consignor.” The definition of “consignment” excludes, in subparagraphs (B) and (C), transactions for which filing would be inappropriate or of insufficient benefit to justify the costs. A consignment excluded from the application of this Division by one of those subparagraphs may still be a true consignment; however, it is governed by non-Division 9 law. The definition also excludes, in subparagraph (D), what have been called “consignments intended for security.” These “consignments” are not bailments but secured transactions. Accordingly, all of Division 9 applies to them. See Sections 1201(37), 9109(a)(1). The “consignor” is the person who delivers goods to the “consignee” in a consignment.

The definition of “consignment” requires that the goods be delivered “to a merchant for the purpose of sale.” If the goods are delivered for another purpose as well, such as milling or processing, the transaction is a consignment nonetheless because a purpose of the delivery is “sale.” On the other hand, if a merchant-processor-bailee will not be selling the goods itself but will be delivering to buyers to which the owner-bailor agreed to sell the goods, the transaction would not be a consignment.

15. “Accounting.” This definition describes the record and information that a debtor is entitled to request under Section 9210.

16. “Document.” The definition of “document” is unchanged in substance from the corresponding definitions in former Section 9105. See Section 1201(15) and Comment 15.

17. “Encumbrance”; “Mortgage.” The definitions of “encumbrance” and “mortgage” are unchanged in substance from the corresponding definitions in former Section 9105. They are used primarily in the special real property-related priority and other provisions relating to crops, fixtures, and accessions.

18. “Fixtures.” This definition is unchanged in substance from the corresponding definition in former Section 9313. See Section 9334 (priority of security interests in fixtures and crops).

19. “Good Faith.” This Division expands the definition of “good faith” to include “the observance of reasonable commercial standards of fair dealing.” The definition in this section applies when the term is used in this Division, and the same concept applies in the context of this Division for purposes of the obligation of good faith imposed by Section 1203. See subdivision (c).

20. “Lien Creditor.” This definition is unchanged in substance from the corresponding definition in former Section 9301.

21. “New Value.” This Division deletes former Section 9108. Its broad formulation of new value, which embraced the taking of after-acquired collateral for a pre-existing claim, was unnecessary, counterintuitive, and ineffective for its original purpose of sheltering after-acquired collateral from attack as a voidable preference in bankruptcy. The new definition derives from Bankruptcy Code Section 547(a). The term is used with respect to temporary perfection of security interests in instruments, certificated securities, or negotiable documents under Section 9312(e) and with respect to chattel paper priority in Section 9330.

22. “Person Related To.” Section 9615 provides a special method for calculating a deficiency or surplus when “the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor” acquires the collateral at a foreclosure disposition. Separate definitions of the term are provided with respect to an individual secured party and with respect to a secured party that is an organization. The definitions are patterned on the corresponding definition in Section 1.301(32) of the Uniform Consumer Credit Code (1974).

23. “Proposal.” This definition describes a record that is sufficient to propose to retain collateral in full or partial satisfaction of a secured obligation. See Sections 9620, 9621, 9622.

24. “Pursuant to Commitment.” This definition is unchanged in substance from the corresponding definition in former Section 9105. It is used in connection with special priority rules applicable to future advances. See Section 9323.

25. “Software.” The definition of “software” is used in connection with the priority rules applicable to purchase-money security interests. See Sections 9103, 9324. Software, like a payment intangible, is a type of general intangible for purposes of this Division.

26. Terminology: “Assignment” and “Transfer.” In numerous provisions, this Division refers to the “assignment” or the “transfer” of property interests. These terms and their derivatives are not defined. This Division generally follows common usage by using the terms “assignment” and “assign” to refer to transfers of rights to payment, claims, and liens and other security interests. It generally uses the term “transfer” to refer to other transfers of interests in property. Except when used in connection with a letter-of-credit transaction (see Section 9107, Comment 4), no significance should be placed on the use of one term or the other. Depending on the context, each term may refer to the assignment or transfer of an outright ownership interest or to the assignment or transfer of a limited interest, such as a security interest.

Section 9108 of the Commercial Code

California Comment

1. Source. Former Sections 9110, 9115(3).

2. General Rules. Subdivision (a) retains substantially the same formulation as former Section 9110. Subdivision (b) expands upon subdivision (a) by indicating a variety of ways in which a description might reasonably identify collateral. Whereas a provision similar to subdivision (b) was applicable only to investment property under former Section 9115(3), subdivision (b) applies to all types of collateral, subject to the limitation in subdivision (d). Subdivision (b) is subject to subdivision (c), which follows prevailing case law and adopts the view that an “all assets” or “all personal property” description for purposes of a security agreement is not sufficient. Note, however, that under Section 9504, a financing statement sufficiently indicates the collateral if it “covers all assets or all personal property.”

The purpose of requiring a description of collateral in a security agreement under Section 9203 is evidentiary. The test of sufficiency of a description under this section, as under former Section 9110, is that the description do the job assigned to it: make possible the identification of the collateral described. This section rejects any requirement that a description is insufficient unless it is exact and detailed (the so-called “serial number” test).

3. After-Acquired Collateral. Much litigation has arisen over whether a description in a security agreement is sufficient to include after-acquired collateral if the agreement does not explicitly so provide. This question is one of contract interpretation and is not susceptible to a statutory rule (other than a rule to the effect that it is a question of contract interpretation). Accordingly, this section contains no reference to descriptions of after-acquired collateral.

4. Investment Property. Under subdivision (d), the use of the wrong Division 8 terminology does not render a description invalid (e.g., a security agreement intended to cover a debtor’s “security entitlements” is sufficient if it refers to the debtor’s “securities”). Note also that given the broad definition of “securities account” in Section 8501, a security interest in a securities account also includes all other rights of the debtor against the securities intermediary arising out of the securities account. For example, a security interest in a securities account would include credit balances due to the debtor from the securities intermediary, whether or not they are proceeds of a security entitlement. Moreover, describing collateral as a securities account is a simple way of describing all of the security entitlements carried in the account.

5. Consumer Investment Property; Commercial Tort Claims. Subdivision (e) requires greater specificity of description in order to prevent debtors from inadvertently encumbering certain property. Subdivision (e) requires that a description by defined “type” of collateral alone of a commercial tort claim or, in a consumer transaction, of a security entitlement, securities account, or commodity account, is not sufficient. For example, “all existing and after-acquired investment property” or “all existing and after-acquired security entitlements,” without more, would be insufficient in a consumer transaction to describe a security entitlement, securities account, or commodity account. Moreover, if the collateral consists of a securities account or commodity account, a description of the account is sufficient to cover all existing and future security entitlements or commodity contracts carried in the account. See Section 9203(h), (i).

Under Section 9204, an after-acquired collateral clause in a security agreement will not reach future commercial tort claims. It follows that when an effective security agreement covering a commercial tort claim is entered into the claim already will exist. Subdivision (e) does not require a description to be specific. For example, a description such as “all tort claims arising out of the explosion of debtor’s factory” would suffice, even if the exact amount of the claim, the theory on which it may be based, and the identity of the tortfeasor(s) are not described. (Indeed, those facts may not be known at the time.)

6. Subdivision (f) requires a description of investment property collateral also to meet the applicable requirements of Section 1799.103 of the Civil Code, and requires a description of consumer goods also to meet the applicable requirements of Section 1799.100 of the Civil Code. Those additional Civil Code requirements deal generally with security interests created in connection with consumer credit contracts.

Section 9109 of the Commercial Code

California Comment

1. Source. Former Sections 9102, 9104.

2. Basic Scope Provision. Subdivision (a)(1) derives from former Section 9102(1) and (2). These subdivisions have been combined and shortened. No change in meaning is intended. Under subdivision (a)(1), all consensual security interests in personal property and fixtures are covered by this Division, except for transactions excluded by subdivisions (c) and (d). As to which transactions give rise to a “security interest,” the definition of that term in Section 1201 must be consulted. When a security interest is created, this Division applies regardless of the form of the transaction or the name that parties have given to it.

3. Agricultural Liens. Subdivision (a)(2) is new. It expands the scope of this Division to cover agricultural liens, as defined in Section 9102.

4. Sales of Accounts, Chattel Paper, Payment Intangibles, Promissory Notes, and Other Receivables. Under subdivision (a)(3), as under former Section 9102, this Division applies to sales of accounts and chattel paper. This approach generally has been successful in avoiding difficult problems of distinguishing between transactions in which a receivable secures an obligation and those in which the receivable has been sold outright. In many commercial financing transactions the distinction is blurred.

Subdivision (a)(3) expands the scope of this Division by including the sale of a “payment intangible” (defined in Section 9102 as “a general intangible under which the account debtor’s principal obligation is a monetary obligation”) and a “promissory note” (also defined in Section 9102). To a considerable extent, this Division affords these transactions treatment identical to that given sales of accounts and chattel paper. In some respects, however, sales of payment intangibles and promissory notes are treated differently from sales of other receivables. See, e.g., Sections 9309 (automatic perfection upon attachment), 9408 (effect of restrictions on assignment). By virtue of the expanded definition of “account” (defined in Section 9102), this Division now covers sales of (and other security interests in) “health-care-insurance receivables” (also defined in Section 9102). Although this Division occasionally distinguishes between outright sales of receivables and sales that secure an obligation, neither this Division nor the definition of “security interest” (Section 1201(37)) delineates how a particular transaction is to be classified. That issue is left to the courts.

5. Transfer of Ownership in Sales of Receivables. A “sale” of an account, chattel paper, a promissory note, or a payment intangible includes a sale of a right in the receivable, such as a sale of a participation interest. The term also includes the sale of an enforcement right. For example, a “[p]erson entitled to enforce” a negotiable promissory note (Section 3301) may sell its ownership rights in the instrument. See Section 3203, Comment 1 (“Ownership rights in instruments may be determined by principles of the law of property, independent of Article 3, which do not depend upon whether the instrument was transferred under Section 3-203.”). Also, the right under Section 3309 to enforce a lost, destroyed, or stolen negotiable promissory note may be sold to a purchaser who could enforce that right by causing the seller to provide the proof required under that section. This Division rejects decisions reaching a contrary result, e.g., Dennis Joslin Co. v. Robinson Broadcasting, 977 F. Supp. 491 (D.D.C. 1997).

Nothing in this section or any other provision of Division 9 prevents the transfer of full and complete ownership of an account, chattel paper, an instrument, or a payment intangible in a transaction of sale. However, as mentioned in Comment 4, neither this Division nor the definition of “security interest” in Section 1201 provides rules for distinguishing sales transactions from those that create a security interest securing an obligation. This Division applies to both types of transactions. The principal effect of this coverage is to apply this Division’s perfection and priority rules to these sales transactions. Use of terminology such as “security interest,” “debtor,” and “collateral” is merely a drafting convention adopted to reach this end, and its use has no relevance to distinguishing sales from other transactions. See PEB Commentary No. 14.

Following a debtor’s outright sale and transfer of ownership of a receivable, the debtor-seller retains no legal or equitable rights in the receivable that has been sold. See Section 9318(a). This is so whether or not the buyer’s security interest is perfected. (A security interest arising from the sale of a promissory note or payment intangible is perfected upon attachment without further action. See Section 9309.) However, if the buyer’s interest in accounts or chattel paper is unperfected, a subsequent lien creditor, perfected secured party, or qualified buyer can reach the sold receivable and achieve priority over (or take free of) the buyer’s unperfected security interest under Section 9317. This is so not because the seller of a receivable retains rights in the property sold; it does not. Nor is this so because the seller of a receivable is a “debtor” and the buyer of a receivable is a “secured party” under this Division (they are). It is so for the simple reason that Sections 9318(b), 9317, and 9322 make it so, as did former Sections 9301 and 9312. Because the buyer’s security interest is unperfected, for purposes of determining the rights of creditors of and purchasers for value from the debtor-seller, under Section 9318(b) the debtor-seller is deemed to have the rights and title it sold. Section 9317 subjects the buyer’s unperfected interest in accounts and chattel paper to that of the debtor-seller's lien creditor and other persons who qualify under that section.

6. Consignments. Subdivision (a)(4) is new. This Division applies to every "consignment." The term, defined in Section 9102, includes many but not all "true" consignments (i.e., bailments for the purpose of sale). If a transaction is a "sale or return," as defined in revised Section 2326, it is not a "consignment." In a "sale or return" transaction, the buyer becomes the owner of the goods, and the seller may obtain an enforceable security interest in the goods only by satisfying the requirements of Section 9203.

Under common law, creditors of a bailee were unable to reach the interest of the bailor (in the case of a consignment, the consignor-owner). Like former Section 2326 and former Division 9, this Division changes the common-law result; however, it does so in a different manner. For purposes of determining the rights and interests of third-party creditors of, and purchasers of the goods from, the consignee, but not for other purposes, such as remedies of the consignor, the consignee is deemed to acquire under this Division whatever rights and title the consignor had or had power to transfer. See Section 9319. The interest of a consignor is defined to be a security interest under revised Section 1201(37), more specifically, a purchase-money security interest in the consignee's inventory. See Section 9103(d). Thus, the rules pertaining to lien creditors, buyers, and attachment, perfection, and priority of competing security interests apply to consigned goods. The relationship between the consignor and consignee is left to other law. Consignors also have no duties under Chapter 6. See Section 9601(g).

Sometimes parties characterize transactions that secure an obligation (other than the bailee's obligation to returned bailed goods) as "consignments." These transactions are not "consignments" as contemplated by Section 9109(a)(4). See Section 9102. This Division applies also to these transactions, by virtue of Section 9109(a)(1). They create a security interest within the meaning of the first sentence of Section 1201(37).

This Division does not apply to bailments for sale that fall outside the definition of "consignment" in Section 9102 and that do not create a security interest that secures an obligation.

7. Security Interest in Obligation Secured by Non-Division 9 Transaction. Subdivision (b) is unchanged in substance from former Section 9102(3). The following example provides an illustration.

Example 1: O borrows $10,000 from M and secures its repayment obligation, evidenced by a promissory note, by granting to M a mortgage on O's land. This Division does not apply to the creation of the real property mortgage. However, if M sells the promissory note to X or gives a security interest in the note to secure M's own obligation to X, this Division applies to the security interest thereby created in favor of X. The security interest in the promissory note is covered by this Division even though the note is secured by a real property mortgage. Also, X's security interest in the note gives X an attached security interest in the mortgage lien that secures the note and, if the security interest in the note is perfected, the security interest in the mortgage lien likewise is perfected. See Sections 9203, 9308.

It also follows from subdivision (b) that an attempt to obtain or perfect a security interest in a secured obligation by complying with non-Division 9 law, as by an assignment of record of a real property mortgage, would be ineffective. Finally, it is implicit from subdivision (b) that one cannot obtain a security interest in a lien, such as a mortgage on real property, that is not also coupled with an equally effective security interest in the secured obligation. This Division rejects cases such as In re Maryville Savings & Loan Corp., 743 F.2d 413 (6th Cir. 1984), clarified on reconsideration, 760 F.2d 119 (1985).

8. Federal Preemption. Former Section 9104(a) excluded from Division 9 “a security interest subject to any statute of the United States, to the extent that such statute governs the rights of parties to and third parties affected by transactions in particular types of property.” Some (erroneously) read the former section to suggest that Division 9 sometimes deferred to federal law even when federal law did not preempt Division 9. Subdivision (c)(1) recognizes explicitly that this Division defers to federal law only when and to the extent that it must—i.e., when federal law preempts it.

9. Governmental Debtors. Former Section 9104(e) excluded transfers by governmental debtors. It has been revised and replaced by the exclusions in new paragraphs (2) and (3) of subdivision (c). These paragraphs reflect the view that Division 9 should apply to security interests created by a State, foreign country, or a “governmental unit” (defined in Section 9102) of either except to the extent that another statute governs the issue in question. Under paragraph (2), this Division defers to all statutes of the forum State. (A forum cannot determine whether it should consult the choice-of-law rules in the forum’s UCC unless it first determines that its UCC applies to the transaction before it.) The second sentence of Section 9109(c)(2) is intended to make clear that security interests created by this State or any governmental unit in this State securing bonds, notes, bond anticipation notes, commercial paper, or other evidences of indebtedness, or lease, installment purchase, or other agreements, or certificates of participation therein, are to be governed by other statutes of this State that pertain to pledges, liens, or security interests securing those obligations unless there is no such other statute. Those other statutes do not have to use the terminology of Division 9, such as “perfection” and “priority,” or cover each subject of “creation,” “perfection,” “priority,” and “enforcement,” to come within the coverage of the first sentence. Paragraph (3) defers to statutes of another State or a foreign country only to the extent that those statutes contain rules applicable specifically to security interests created by the governmental unit in question.

Example 2: A New Jersey state commission creates a security interest in favor of a New York bank. The validity of the security interest is litigated in New York. The relevant security agreement provides that it is governed by New York law. To the extent that a New Jersey statute contains rules peculiar to creation of security interests by governmental units generally, to creation of security interests by state commissions, or to creation of security interests by this particular state commission, then that law will govern. On the other hand, to the extent that New Jersey law provides that security interests created by governmental units, state commissions, or this state commission are governed by the law generally applicable to secured transactions (i.e., New Jersey's Article 9), then New York's Article 9 will govern.

Example 3: An airline that is an instrumentality of a foreign country creates a security interest in favor of a New York bank. The analysis used in the previous example would apply here. That is, if the matter is litigated in New York, New York law would govern except to the extent that the foreign country enacted a statute applicable to security interests created by governmental units generally or by the airline specifically.

The fact that New York law applies does not necessarily mean that perfection is accomplished by filing in New York. Rather, it means that the court should apply New York's Article 9, including its choice-of-law provisions. Under New York's Section 9-301, perfection is governed by the law of the jurisdiction in which the debtor is located. Section 9-307 determines the debtor's location for choice-of-law purposes.

If a transaction does not bear an appropriate relation to the forum State, then that State's Article 9 will not apply, regardless of whether the transaction would be excluded by paragraph (3).

Example 4: A Belgian governmental unit grants a security interest in its equipment to a Swiss secured party. The equipment is located in Belgium. A dispute arises and, for some reason, an action is brought in a New Mexico state court. Inasmuch as the transaction bears no "appropriate relation" to New Mexico, New Mexico's UCC, including its Article 9, is inapplicable. See Section 1105(1). New Mexico's Section 9-109(c) on excluded transactions should not come into play. Even if the parties agreed that New Mexico law would govern, the parties' agreement would not be effective because the transaction does not bear a "reasonable relation" to New Mexico. See Section 1105(1).

Conversely, Division 9 will come into play only if the litigation arises in a UCC jurisdiction or if a foreign choice-of-law rule leads a foreign court to apply the law of a UCC jurisdiction. For example, if issues concerning a security interest granted by a foreign airline to a New York bank are litigated overseas, the court may be bound to apply the law of the debtor's jurisdiction and not New York's Article 9.

10. Certain Statutory and Common-Law Liens; Interests in Real Property. With few exceptions (nonconsensual agricultural liens being one), this Division applies only to consensual security interests in personal property. Following former Section 9104(b) and (j), paragraphs (1) and (11) of subdivision (d) exclude landlord's liens and leases and most other interests in or liens on real property. These exclusions generally reiterate the limitations on coverage (i.e., "by contract," "in personal property and fixtures") made explicit in subdivision (a)(1). Similarly, most jurisdictions provide special liens to suppliers of many types of services and materials, either by statute or by common law. With the exception of agricultural liens, it is not necessary for this Division to provide general codification of this lien structure, which is determined in large part by local conditions and which is far removed from ordinary commercial financing. As under former Section 9104(c), subdivision (d)(2) excludes these suppliers' liens (other than agricultural liens) from this Division. However, Section 9333 provides a rule for determining priorities between certain possessory suppliers' liens and security interests covered by this Division.

11. Wage and Similar Claims. As under former Section 9104(d), subdivision (d)(3) excludes assignments of claims for wages and the like from this Division. These assignments present important social issues that other law addresses. The Federal Trade Commission has ruled that, with some exceptions, the taking of an assignment of wages or other earnings is an unfair act or practice under the Federal Trade Commission Act. See 16 C.F.R. Part 444. State statutes also may regulate such assignments.

12. Certain Sales and Assignments of Receivables; Judgments. In general this Division covers security interests in (including sales of) accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, and promissory notes. Paragraphs (4), (5), (6), and (7) of subdivision (d) exclude from the Division certain sales and assignments of receivables that, by their nature, do not concern commercial financing transactions. These paragraphs add to the exclusions in former Section 9104(f) analogous sales and assignments of payment intangibles and promissory notes. For similar reasons, subdivision (d)(9) retains the exclusion of assignments of judgments under former Section 9104(h) (other than judgments taken on a right to payment that itself was collateral under this Division).

13. Insurance. The uniform version of Section 9109(d)(8) carries forward the exclusion from coverage of security interests in insurance policies, except for receivables under health insurance policies. The drafters of revised Article 9 believe that other law adequately addresses the creation of security interests in insurance policies. Because California has permitted the creation and perfection of security interests in insurance policies under the former version of Division 9 for some 30 years now, coopting the development of other law governing such matters, satisfactory industry practice should not be disturbed and California's former rule has been carried forward into revised Division 9. Given that the effect of the uniform version of Article 9 is to let the laws of individual states govern the issue, it should not disturb the structure of the uniform statute if California chooses to retain its version of the Uniform Commercial Code as the applicable governing law for this issue. This variation, therefore, is not incompatible with commercial law uniformity.

14. Set-Off. Subdivision (d)(10) adds two exceptions to the general exclusion of set-off rights from Division 9 under former Section 9104(i). The first takes account of new Section 9340, which regulates the effectiveness of a set-off against a deposit account that stands as collateral. The second recognizes Section 9404, which affords the obligor on an account, chattel paper, or general intangible the right to raise claims and defenses against an assignee (secured party).

15. Tort Claims. Subdivision (d)(12) narrows somewhat the broad exclusion of transfers of tort claims under former Section 9104(k). This Division now applies to assignments of "commercial tort claims" (defined in Section 9102) as well as to security interests in tort claims that constitute proceeds of other collateral (e.g., a right to payment for negligent destruction of the debtor's inventory). Note that once a claim arising in tort has been settled and reduced to a contractual obligation to pay (as in, but not limited to, a structured settlement) the right to payment becomes a payment intangible and ceases to be a claim arising in tort.

This Division contains two special rules governing creation of a security interest in tort claims. First, a description of collateral in a security agreement as “all tort claims” is insufficient to meet the requirement for attachment. See Section 9108(e). Second, no security interest attaches under an after-acquired property clause to a tort claim. See Section 9204(b). In addition, this Division does not determine whom the tortfeasor must pay to discharge its obligation. Inasmuch as a tortfeasor is not an “account debtor,” the rules governing waiver of defenses and discharge of an obligation by an obligor (Sections 9403, 9404, 9405, and 9406) are inapplicable to tort-claim collateral.

16. Deposit Accounts. Unlike the former uniform version of Article 9, the former version of Division 9 had long provided that deposit accounts could be taken as original collateral and were within the scope of Division 9. Revised Article 9 now also recognizes that deposit accounts may be taken as original collateral, but with a limitation: Section 9-109(d)(13) excludes the assignment of a deposit account in a consumer transaction from the scope of Article 9. Revised Division 9 does likewise. By excluding deposit accounts from the Division’s scope as original collateral in consumer transactions, subdivision (d)(13) leaves those transactions to law other than this Division. However, in both consumer and non-consumer transactions, Sections 9315 and 9322 apply to deposit accounts as proceeds and with respect to priorities in proceeds.

This Division contains several safeguards to protect debtors against inadvertently encumbering deposit accounts and to reduce the likelihood that a secured party will realize a windfall from a debtor’s deposit account. For example, because “deposit account” is a separate type of collateral, a security agreement covering general intangibles will not adequately describe deposit accounts. Rather, a security agreement must reasonably identify the deposit accounts that are the subject of a security interest, e.g., by using the term “deposit accounts.” See Section 9108. To perfect a security interest in a deposit account as original collateral, a secured party (other than the bank with which the deposit account is maintained) must obtain “control” of the account either by obtaining the bank’s authenticated agreement or by becoming the bank’s customer with respect to the deposit account. See Sections 9312(b)(1), 9104. Either of these steps requires the debtor’s consent.

This Division also contains new rules that determine which State’s law governs perfection and priority of a security interest in a deposit account (Section 9304), priority of conflicting security interests in and set-off rights against a deposit account (Sections 9327, 9340), the rights of transferees of funds from an encumbered deposit account (Section 9332), the obligations of the bank (Section 9341), enforcement of security interests in a deposit account (Section 9607(c)), and the duty of a secured party to terminate control of a deposit account (Section 9208(b)).

17. Public Construction Benefits. Subdivision (d)(14) retains the exclusion relating to public construction contracts under the Improvement Act of 1911 under former Section 9104(1).

18. Transition Property. Subdivision (d)(15) retains the exclusion under former Section 9104(m) for transition property, as defined in Section 840 of the Public Utilities Code, except to the extent that the provisions of Division 9 are referred to in Article 5.5 (commencing with Section 840) of Chapter 4 of Part 1 of Division 1 of the Public Utilities Code.

2. Codification of “Broker’s Lien.” Depending upon a securities intermediary’s arrangements with its entitlement holders, the securities intermediary may treat the entitlement holder as entitled to financial assets before the entitlement holder has actually made payment for them. For example, many brokers permit retail customers to pay for financial assets by check. The broker may not receive final payment of the check until several days after the broker has credited the customer’s securities account for the financial assets. Thus, the customer will have acquired a security entitlement prior to payment. Subdivision (a) provides that, in such circumstances, the securities intermediary has a security interest in the entitlement holder’s security entitlement. Under subdivision (b) the security interest secures the customer’s obligation to pay for the financial asset in question. Subdivisions (a) and (b) codify and adapt to the indirect holding system the so-called “broker’s lien,” which has long been recognized. See Restatement, Security § 12.

3. Financial Assets Delivered Against Payment. Subdivision (c) creates a security interest in favor of persons who deliver certificated securities or other financial assets in physical form, such as money market instruments, if the agreed payment is not received. In some arrangements for settlement of transactions in physical financial assets, the seller’s securities custodian will deliver physical certificates to the buyer’s securities custodian and receive a timestamped delivery receipt. The buyer’s securities custodian will examine the certificate to ensure that it is in good order, and that the delivery matches a trade in which the buyer has instructed the seller to deliver to that custodian. If all is in order, the receiving custodian will settle with the delivering custodian through whatever funds settlement system has been agreed upon or is used by custom and usage in that market. The understanding of the trade, however, is that the delivery is conditioned upon payment, so that if payment is not made for any reason, the security will be returned to the deliverer. Subdivision (c) clarifies the rights of persons making deliveries in such circumstances. It provides the person making delivery with a security interest in the securities or other financial assets; under subdivision (d), the security interest secures the seller’s right to receive payment for the delivery. Section 8301 specifies when delivery of a certificated security occurs; that section should be applied as well to other financial assets as well for purposes of this section.

4. Automatic Attachment and Perfection. Subdivisions (a) and (c) refer to attachment of a security interest. Attachment under this section has the same incidents (enforceability, right to proceeds, etc.) as attachment under Section 9203. This section overrides the general attachment rules in Section 9203. See Section 9203(c). A securities intermediary's security interest under subdivision (a) is perfected by control without further action. See Section 8106 (control); 9314 (perfection). Security interests arising under subdivision (c) are automatically perfected. See Section 9309(9).

Section 9310 of the Commercial Code

California Comment

1. Source. Former Section 9302(1), (2).

2. General Rule. Subdivision (a) establishes a central Division 9 principle: Filing a financing statement is necessary for perfection of security interests and agricultural liens. However, filing is not necessary to perfect a security interest that is perfected by another permissible method, see subdivision (b), nor does filing ordinarily perfect a security interest in a deposit account, letter-of-credit right, or money. See Section 9312(b). Chapter 5 of the Division deals with the office in which to file, mechanics of filing, and operations of the filing office.

3. Exemptions from Filing. Subdivision (b) lists the security interests for which filing is not required as a condition of perfection, because they are perfected automatically upon attachment (subdivisions (b)(2) and (b)(9)) or upon the occurrence of another event (subdivisions (b)(1), (b)(5), and (b)(9)), because they are perfected under the law of another jurisdiction (subdivision (b)(10)), or because they are perfected by another method, such as by the secured party's taking possession or control (subdivisions (b)(3), (b)(4), (b)(5), (b)(6), (b)(7), (b)(8), and (b)(11)).

4. Assignments of Perfected Security Interests. Subdivision (c) concerns assignment of a perfected security interest or agricultural lien. It provides that no filing is necessary in connection with an assignment by a secured party to an assignee in order to maintain perfection as against creditors of and transferees from the original debtor.

Example 1: Buyer buys goods from Seller, who retains a security interest in them. After Seller perfects the security interest by filing, Seller assigns the perfected security interest to X. The security interest, in X's hands and without further steps on X's part, continues perfected against Buyer's transferees and creditors.

Example 2: Dealer creates a security interest in specific equipment in favor of Lender. After Lender perfects the security interest in the equipment by filing, Lender assigns the chattel paper (which includes the perfected security interest in Dealer's equipment) to X. The security interest in the equipment, in X's hands and without further steps on X's part, continues perfected against Dealer's transferees and creditors. However, regardless of whether Lender made the assignment to secure Lender's obligation to X or whether the assignment was an outright sale of the chattel paper, the assignment creates a security interest in the chattel paper in favor of X. Accordingly, X must take whatever steps may be required for perfection in order to be protected against Lender's transferees and creditors with respect to the chattel paper.

Subdivision (c) applies not only to an assignment of a security interest perfected by filing but also to an assignment of a security interest perfected by a method other than by filing, such as by control or by possession. Although subdivision (c) addresses explicitly only the absence of an additional filing requirement, the same result normally will follow in the case of an assignment of a security interest perfected by a method other than by filing. For example, as long as possession of collateral is maintained by an assignee or by the assignor or another person on behalf of the assignee, no further perfection steps need be taken on account of the assignment to continue perfection as against creditors and transferees of the original debtor. Of course, additional action may be required for perfection of the assignee's interest as against creditors and transferees of the assignor.

Similarly, subdivision (c) applies to the assignment of a security interest perfected by compliance with a statute, regulation, or treaty under Section 9311(b), such as a certificate-of-title statute. Unless the statute expressly provides to the contrary, the security interest will remain perfected against creditors of and transferees from the original debtor, even if the assignee takes no action to cause the certificate of title to reflect the assignment or to cause its name to appear on the certificate of title. See PEB Commentary No. 12, which discusses this issue under former Section 9302(3). Compliance with the statute is "equivalent to filing" under Section 9311(b).

Section 9312 of the Commercial Code

California Comment

1. Source. Former Section 9304, with additions and some changes.

2. Instruments. Under subdivision (a), a security interest in instruments may be perfected by filing. This rule represents an important change from former Division 9, under which the secured party's taking possession of an instrument was the only method of achieving long-term perfection. The rule is likely to be particularly useful in transactions involving large number of notes that a debtor uses as collateral but continues to collect from the makers. A security interest perfected by filing is subject to defeat by certain subsequent purchasers (including secured parties). Under Section 9330(d), purchasers for value who take possession of an instrument without knowledge that the purchase violates the rights of the secured party generally would achieve priority over a security interest in the instrument perfected by filing. In addition, Section 9331 provides that filing a financing statement does not constitute notice that would preclude a subsequent purchaser from becoming a holder in due course and taking free of all claims under Section 3306.

3. Chattel Paper; Negotiable Documents. Subdivision (a) further provides that filing is available as a method of perfection for security interests in chattel paper and negotiable documents. Tangible chattel paper is sometimes delivered to the assignee, and sometimes left in the hands of the assignor for collection. Subdivision (a) allows the assignee to perfect its security interest by filing in the latter case.

Alternatively, the assignee may perfect by taking possession. See Section 9313(a). An assignee of electronic chattel paper may perfect by taking control. See Sections 9314(a), 9105. The security interest of an assignee who takes possession or control may qualify for priority over a competing security interest perfected by filing. See Section 9330.

Negotiable documents may be, and usually are, delivered to the secured party. The secured party's taking possession will suffice as a perfection step. See Section 9313(a). However, as is the case with chattel paper, a security interest in a negotiable document may be perfected by filing.

4. Investment Property. A security interest in investment property, including certificated securities, uncertificated securities, security entitlements, and securities accounts, may be perfected by filing. However, security interests created by brokers, securities intermediaries, or commodity intermediaries are automatically perfected; filing is of no effect. See Section 9309(10), (11). A security interest in all kinds of investment property also may be perfected by control, see Sections 9314, 9106, and a security interest in a certificated security also may be perfected by the secured party's taking delivery under Section 8301. See Section 9313(a). A security interest perfected only by filing is subordinate to a conflicting security interest perfected by control or delivery. See Section 9328(1), (5). Thus, although filing is a permissible method of perfection, a secured party who perfects by filing takes the risk that the debtor has granted or will grant a security interest in the same collateral to another party who obtains control. Also, perfection by filing would not give the secured party protection against other types of adverse claims, since the Division 8 adverse claim cut-off rules require control. See Section 8510.

5. Deposit Accounts. Under new subdivision (b)(1), the only method of perfecting a security interest in a deposit account as original collateral is by control. Filing is ineffective, except as provided in Section 9315 with respect to proceeds. As explained in Section 9104, "control" can arise as a result of an agreement among the secured party, debtor, and bank, whereby the bank agrees to comply with instructions of the secured party with respect to disposition of the funds on deposit, even though the debtor retains the right to direct disposition of the funds. Thus, subdivision (b)(1) takes an intermediate position between certain non-UCC law, which conditions the effectiveness of a security interest on the secured party's enjoyment of such dominion and control over the deposit account that the debtor is unable to dispose of the funds, and the approach this Division takes to securities accounts, under which a secured party who is unable to reach the collateral without resort to judicial process may perfect by filing. By conditioning perfection on "control," rather than requiring the secured party to enjoy absolute dominion to the exclusion of the debtor, subdivision (b)(1) permits perfection in a wide variety of transactions, including those in which the secured party actually relies on the deposit account in extending credit and maintains some meaningful dominion over it, but does not wish to deprive the debtor of access to the funds altogether.

6. Letter-of-Credit Rights. Letter-of-credit rights commonly are "supporting obligations," as defined in Section 9102. Perfection as to the related account, chattel paper, document, general intangible, instrument, or investment property will perfect as to the letter-of-credit rights. See Section 9308(d). Subdivision (b)(2) provides that, in other cases, a security interest in a letter-of-credit right may be perfected only by control. "Control," for these purposes, is explained in Section 9107.

6.5. Policies of Insurance. Except with respect to health care insurance receivables in which a security interest is normally perfected by the filing of a financing statement and cannot be perfected by notice to the insurer, subdivision (b)(4) provides that a security interest in, or claim in or under, any policy of insurance, including unearned premiums, may be perfected only by giving written notice of the security interest or claim to the insurer.

7. Goods Covered by Document of Title. Subdivision (c) applies to goods in the possession of a bailee who has issued a negotiable document covering the goods. Subdivision (d) applies to goods in the possession of a bailee who has issued a nonnegotiable document of title, including a document of title that is "non-negotiable" under Section 7104. Section 9313 governs perfection of a security interest in goods in the possession of a bailee who has not issued a document of title.

Subdivision (c) clarifies the perfection and priority rules in former Section 9304(2). Consistently with the provisions of Division 7, subdivision (c) takes the position that, as long as a negotiable document covering goods is outstanding, title to the goods is, so to say, locked up in the document. Accordingly, a security interest in goods covered by a negotiable document may be perfected by perfecting a security interest in the document. The security interest also may be perfected by another method, e.g., by filing. The priority rule in subdivision (c) governs only priority between (i) a security interest in goods which is perfected by perfecting in the document and (ii) a security interest in the goods which becomes perfected by another method while the goods are covered by the document.

Example 1: While wheat is in a grain elevator and covered by a negotiable warehouse receipt, Debtor creates a security interest in the wheat in favor of SP-1 and SP-2. SP-1 perfects by filing a financing statement covering "wheat." Thereafter, SP-2 perfects by filing a financing statement describing the warehouse receipt. Subdivision (c)(1) provides that SP-2's security interest is perfected. Subdivision (c)(2) provides that SP-2's security interest is senior to SP-1's Example 2: The facts are as in Example 1, but SP-1's security interest attached and was perfected before the goods were delivered to the grain elevator. Subdivision (c)(2) does not apply, because SP-1's security interest did not become perfected during the time that the wheat was in the possession of a bailee. Rather, the first-to-file-or-perfect priority rule applies. See Section 9322.

A secured party may become "a holder to whom a negotiable document of title has been duly negotiated" under Section 7501. If so, the secured party acquires the rights specified by Division 7. Division 9 does not limit those rights, which may include the right to priority over an earlier-perfected security interest. See Section 9331(a).

Subdivision (d) takes a different approach to the problem of goods covered by a nonnegotiable document. Here, title to the goods is not looked on as being locked up in the document, and the secured party may perfect its security interest directly in the goods by filing as to them. The subdivision provides two other methods of perfection: issuance of the document in the secured party's name (as consignee of a straight bill of lading or the person to whom delivery would be made under a non-negotiable warehouse receipt) and receipt of notification of the secured party's interest by the bailee. Perfection under subdivision (d) occurs when the bailee receives notification of the secured party's interest in the goods, regardless of who sends the notification. Receipt of notification is effective to perfect, regardless of whether the bailee responds. Unlike former Section 9304(3), from which it derives, subdivision (d) does not apply to goods in the possession of a bailee who has not issued a document of title. Section 9313(c) covers that case and provides that perfection by possession as to goods not covered by a document requires the bailee's acknowledgment.

8. Temporary Perfection Without Having First Otherwise Perfected. Subdivision (e) follows former Section 9304(4) in giving perfected status to security interests in certificated securities, instruments, and negotiable documents for a short period (reduced from 21 to 20 days, which is the time period generally applicable in this Division), although there has been no filing and the collateral is in the debtor's possession. The 20-day temporary perfection runs from the date of attachment. There is no limitation on the purpose for which the debtor is in possession, but the secured party must have given "new value" (defined in Section 9102) under an authenticated security agreement.

9. Maintaining Perfection After Surrendering Possession. There are a variety of legitimate reasons—many of them are described in subdivisions (f) and (g)—why certain types of collateral must be released temporarily to a debtor. No useful purpose would be served by cluttering the files with records of such exceedingly short term transactions.

Subdivision (f) affords the possibility of 20-day perfection in negotiable documents and goods in the possession of a bailee but not covered by a negotiable document. Subdivision (g) provides for 20-day perfection in certificated securities and instruments. These subdivisions derive from former Section 9305(5). However, the period of temporary perfection has been reduced from 21 to 20 days, which is the time period generally applicable in this Division, and "enforcement" has been added in subdivision (g) as one of the special and limited purposes for which a secured party can release an instrument or certificated security to the debtor and still remain perfected. The period of temporary perfection runs from the date a secured party who already has a perfected security interest turns over the collateral to the debtor. There is no new value requirement, but the turnover must be for one or more of the purposes stated in subdivision (f) or (g). The 20-day period may be extended by perfecting as to the collateral by another method before the period expires. However, if the security interest is not perfected by another method until after the 20-day period expires, there will be a gap during which the security interest is unperfected.

Temporary perfection extends only to the negotiable document or goods under subdivisions (f) and only to the certificated security or instrument under subdivision (g). It does not extend to proceeds. If the collateral is sold, the security interest will continue in the proceeds for the period specified in Section 9315.

Subdivisions (f) and (g) deal only with perfection. Other sections of this Division govern the priority of a security interest in goods after surrender of the document covering them. In the case of a purchase-money security interest in inventory, priority may be conditioned upon giving notification to a prior inventory financier. See Section 9324.

Section 9315 of the Commercial Code

California Comment

1. Source. Former Section 9306.

2. Continuation of Security Interest or Agricultural Lien Following Disposition of Collateral. Subdivision (a)(1), which derives from former Section 9306(2), contains the general rule that a security interest survives disposition of the collateral. In these cases, the secured party may repossess the collateral from the transferee or, in an appropriate case, maintain an action for conversion. The secured party may claim both any proceeds and the original collateral but, of course, may have only one satisfaction.

In many cases, a purchaser or other transferee of collateral will take free of a security interest, and the secured party's only right will be to proceeds. For example, the general rule does not apply, and a security interest does not continue in collateral, if the secured party authorized the disposition, in the agreement that contains the security agreement or otherwise. Subdivision (a)(1) adopts the view of PEB Commentary No. 3 and makes explicit that the authorized disposition to which it refers is an authorized disposition "free of" the security interest or agricultural lien. The secured party's right to proceeds under this section or under the express terms of an agreement does not in itself constitute an authorization of disposition. The change in language from former Section 9306(2) is not intended to address the frequently litigated situation in which the effectiveness of the secured party's consent to a disposition is conditioned upon the secured party's receipt of the proceeds. In that situation, subdivision (a) leaves the determination of authorization to the courts, as under former Division 9.

This Division contains several provisions under which a transferee takes free of a security interest or agricultural lien. For example, Section 9317 states when transferees take free of unperfected security interests; Sections 9320 and 9321 on goods, 9321 on general intangibles, 9330 on chattel paper and instruments, and 9331 on negotiable instruments, negotiable documents, and securities state when purchasers of such collateral take free of a security interest, even though perfected and even though the disposition was not authorized. Section 9332 enables most transferees (including non-purchasers) of funds from a deposit account and most transferees of money to take free of a perfected security interest in the deposit account or money.

Likewise, the general rule that a security interest survives disposition does not apply if the secured party entrusts goods collateral to a merchant who deals in goods of that kind and the merchant sells the collateral to a buyer in ordinary course of business. Section 2403(2) gives the merchant the power to transfer all the secured party's rights to the buyer, even if the sale is wrongful as against the secured party. Thus, under subdivision (a)(1), an entrusting secured party runs the same risk as any other entruster.

3. Secured Party's Right to Identifiable Proceeds. Under subdivision (a)(2), which derives from former Section 9306(2), a security interest attaches to any identifiable "proceeds," as defined in Section 9102. See also Section 9203(f). Subdivision (b) is new. It indicates when proceeds commingled with other property are identifiable proceeds and permits the use of whatever methods of tracing other law permits with respect to the type of property involved. Among the "equitable principles" whose use other law may permit is the "lowest intermediate balance rule." See Restatement (2d), Trusts § 202.

4. Automatic Perfection in Proceeds: General Rule. Under subdivision (c), a security interest in proceeds is a perfected security interest if the security interest in the original collateral was perfected. This Division extends the period of automatic perfection in proceeds from ten days to 20 days. Generally, a security interest in proceeds becomes unperfected on the 21st day after the security interest attaches to the proceeds. See subdivision (d). The loss of perfected status under subdivision (d) is prospective only. Compare, e.g., Section 9515(c) (deeming security interest unperfected retroactively).

5. Automatic Perfection in Proceeds: Proceeds Acquired with Cash Proceeds. Subdivision (d)(1) derives from former Section 9306(3)(a). It carries forward the basic rule that a security interest in proceeds remains perfected beyond the period of automatic perfection if a filed financing statement covers the original collateral (e.g., inventory) and the proceeds are collateral in which a security interest may be perfected by filing in the office where the financing statement has been filed (e.g., equipment). A different rule applies if the proceeds are acquired with cash proceeds, as is the case if the original collateral (inventory) is sold for cash (cash proceeds) that is used to purchase equipment (proceeds). Under these circumstances, the security interest in the equipment proceeds remains perfected only if the description in the filed financing indicates the type of property constituting the proceeds (e.g., "equipment").

This section reaches the same result but takes a different approach. It recognizes that the treatment of proceeds acquired with cash proceeds under former Section 9306(3)(a) essentially was superfluous. In the example, had the filing covered "equipment" as well as "inventory," the security interest in the proceeds would have been perfected under the usual rules governing after-acquired equipment (see former Sections 9302, 9303); paragraph (3)(a) added only an exception to the general rule. Subdivision (d)(1)(C) of this section takes a more direct approach. It makes the general rule of continued perfection inapplicable to proceeds acquired with cash proceeds, leaving perfection of a security interest in those proceeds to the generally applicable perfection rules under subdivision (d)(3).

Example 1: Lender perfects a security interest in Debtor's inventory by filing a financing statement covering "inventory." Debtor sells the inventory and deposits the buyer's check into a deposit account. Debtor draws a check on the deposit account and uses it to pay for equipment. Under the "lowest intermediate balance rule,” which is a permitted method of tracing in the relevant jurisdiction, see Comment 3, the funds used to pay for the equipment were identifiable proceeds of the inventory. Because the proceeds (equipment) were acquired with cash proceeds (deposit account), subdivision (d)(1) does not extend perfection beyond the 20-day automatic period.

Example 2: Lender perfects a security interest in Debtor’s inventory by filing a financing statement covering “all debtor’s property.” As in Example 1, Debtor sells the inventory, deposits the buyer’s check into a deposit account, draws a check on the deposit account, and uses the check to pay for equipment. Under the “lowest intermediate balance rule,” which is a permitted method of tracing in the relevant jurisdiction, see Comment 3, the funds used to pay for the equipment were identifiable proceeds of the inventory. Because the proceeds (equipment) were acquired with cash proceeds (deposit account), subdivision (d)(1) does not extend perfection beyond the 20-day automatic period. However, because the financing statement is sufficient to perfect a security interest in debtor’s equipment, under subdivision (d)(3) the security interest in the equipment proceeds remains perfected beyond the 20-day period.

6. Automatic Perfection in Proceeds: Lapse or Termination of Financing Statement During 20-Day Period; Perfection Under Other Statute or Treaty. Subdivision (e) provides that a security interest in proceeds perfected under subdivision (d)(1) ceases to be perfected when the financing statement covering the original collateral lapses or is terminated. If the lapse or termination occurs before the 21st day after the security interest attaches, however, the security interest in the proceeds remains perfected until the 21st day. Section 9311(b) provides that compliance with the perfection requirements of a statute or treaty described in Section 9311(a) “is equivalent to the filing of a financing statement.” It follows that collateral subject to a security interest perfected by such compliance under Section 9311(b) is covered by a “filed financing statement” within the meaning of Section 9315(d) and (e).

7. Automatic Perfection in Proceeds: Continuation of Perfection in Cash Proceeds. Former Section 9306(3)(b) provided that if a filed financing statement covered original collateral, a security interest in identifiable cash proceeds of the collateral remained perfected beyond the ten-day period of automatic perfection. Former Section 9306(3)(c) contained a similar rule with respect to identifiable cash proceeds of investment property. Subdivision (d)(2) extends the benefits of former Sections 9306(3)(b) and (3)(c) to identifiable cash proceeds of all types of original collateral in which a security interest is perfected by any method. Under subdivision (d)(2), if the security interest in the original collateral was perfected, a security interest in identifiable cash proceeds will remain perfected indefinitely, regardless of whether the security interest in the original collateral remains perfected. In many cases, however, a purchaser or other transferee of the cash proceeds will take free of the perfected security interest. See, e.g., Sections 9330(d) (purchaser of check), 9331 (holder in due course of check), 9332 (transferee of money or funds from a deposit account).

8. Insolvency Proceedings; Returned and Repossessed Goods.

This Division deletes former Section 9306(4), which dealt with proceeds in insolvency proceedings. Except as otherwise provided by the Bankruptcy Code, the debtor's entering into bankruptcy does not affect a secured party's right to proceeds.

This Division also deletes former Section 9306(5), which dealt with returned and repossessed goods. Section 9330, Comments 9 to 11 explain and clarify the application of priority rules to returned and repossessed goods as proceeds of chattel paper.

9. Proceeds of Collateral Subject to Agricultural Lien. This Division does not determine whether a lien extends to proceeds of farm products encumbered by an agricultural lien. If, however, the proceeds are themselves farm products on which an "agricultural lien" (defined in Section 9102) arises under other law, then the agricultural lien provisions of this Division apply to the agricultural lien on the proceeds in the same way in which they would apply had the farm products not been proceeds.

10. Cash Proceeds: Retention of Character. Subdivision (f) retains former Section 9306(6) providing that cash proceeds retain their character as cash proceeds while in the possession of a levying officer pursuant to provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Section 9316 of the Commercial Code

California Comment

1. Source. Former Section 9103(1)(d), (2)(b), (3)(e), as modified.

2. Continued Perfection. This section deals with continued perfection of security interests that have been perfected under the law of another jurisdiction. The fact that the law of a particular jurisdiction ceases to govern perfection under Sections 9301 through 9307 does not necessarily mean that a security interest perfected under that law automatically becomes unperfected. To the contrary: This section generally provides that a security interest perfected under the law of one jurisdiction remains perfected for a fixed period of time (four months or one year, depending on the circumstances), even though the jurisdiction whose law governs perfection changes. However, cessation of perfection under the law of the original jurisdiction cuts short the fixed period. The four-month and one-year periods are long enough for a secured party to discover in most cases that the law of a different jurisdiction governs perfection and to reperfect (typically by filing) under the law of that jurisdiction. If a secured party properly reperfects a security interest before it becomes unperfected under subdivision (a), then the security interest remains perfected continuously thereafter. See subdivision (b).

Example 1: Debtor is a general partnership whose chief executive office is in Pennsylvania. Lender perfects a security interest in Debtor's equipment by filing in Pennsylvania on May 15, 2002. On April 1, 2005, without Lender's knowledge, Debtor moves its chief executive office to New Jersey. Lender's security interest remains perfected for four months after the move. See subdivision (a)(2).

Example 2: Debtor is a general partnership whose chief executive office is in Pennsylvania. Lender perfects a security interest in Debtor's equipment by filing in Pennsylvania on May 15, 2002. On April 1, 2007, without Lender's knowledge, Debtor moves its chief executive office to New Jersey. Lender's security interest remains perfected only through May 14, 2007, when the effectiveness of the filed financing statement lapses. See subdivision (a)(1). Although, under these facts, Lender would have only a short period of time to discover that Debtor had relocated and to reperfect under New Jersey law, Lender could have protected itself by filing a continuation statement in Pennsylvania before Debtor relocated. By doing so, Lender would have prevented lapse and allowed itself the full four months to discover Debtor's new location and refile there or, if Debtor is in default, to perfect by taking possession of the equipment.

Example 3: Under the facts of Example 2, Lender files a financing statement in New Jersey before the effectiveness of the Pennsylvania financing statement lapses. Under subdivision (b), Lender's security interest is continuously perfected beyond May 14, 2007, for a period determined by New Jersey's Division 9.

Subdivision (a)(3) allows a one-year period in which to reperfect. The longer period is necessary, because, even with the exercise of due diligence, the secured party may be unable to discover that the collateral has been transferred to a person located in another jurisdiction.

Example 4: Debtor is a Pennsylvania corporation. Lender perfects a security interest in Debtor's equipment by filing in Pennsylvania. Debtor's shareholders decide to "reincorporate" in Delaware. They form a Delaware corporation (Newcorp) into which they merge Debtor. The merger effectuates a transfer of the collateral from Debtor to Newcorp, which thereby becomes a debtor and is located in another jurisdiction. Under subdivision (a)(3), the security interest remains perfected for one year after the merger. If a financing statement is filed in Delaware against Newcorp within the year following the merger, then the security interest remains perfected thereafter for a period determined by Delaware's Article 9.

Note that although Newcorp is a "new debtor" as defined in Section 9102, the application of subdivision (a)(3) is not limited to transferees who are new debtors. Note also that, under Section 9507, the financing statement naming Debtor remains effective even though Newcorp has become the debtor.

This section addresses security interests that are perfected (i.e., that have attached and as to which any required perfection step has been taken) before the debtor changes its location. It does not apply to security interests that have not attached before the location changes.

Example 5: Debtor is a Pennsylvania corporation. Debtor grants to Lender a security interest in Debtor's existing and after-acquired inventory. Lender perfects by filing in Pennsylvania. Debtor's shareholders decide to "reincorporate" in Delaware. They form a Delaware corporation (Newcorp) into which they merge Debtor. By virtue of the merger, Newcorp becomes bound by Debtor's security agreement. See Section 9203. After the merger, Newcorp acquires inventory to which Lender's security interest attaches. Because Newcorp is located in Delaware, Delaware law governs perfection of a security interest in Newcorp's inventory. See Sections 9301, 9307. Having failed to perfect under Delaware law, Lender holds an unperfected security interest in the inventory acquired by Newcorp after the merger. The same result follows regardless of the name of the Delaware corporation (i.e., even if the Delaware corporation and Debtor have the same name).

3. Retroactive Unperfection. Subdivision (b) sets forth the consequences of the failure to reperfect before perfection ceases under subdivision (a): the security interest becomes unperfected prospectively and, as against purchasers for value, including buyers and secured parties, but not as against donees or lien creditors, retroactively. The rule applies to agricultural liens, as well. See also Section 9515 (taking the same approach with respect to lapse). Although this approach creates the potential for circular priorities, the alternative—retroactive unperfection against lien creditors—would create substantial and unjustifiable preference risks.

Example 6: Under the facts of Example 4, six months after the merger, Buyer bought from Newcorp some equipment formerly owned by Debtor. At the time of the purchase, Buyer took subject to Lender's perfected security interest, of which Buyer was unaware. See Section 9315(a)(1). However, subdivision (b) provides that if Lender fails to reperfect in Delaware within a year after the merger, its security interest becomes unperfected and is deemed never to have been perfected against Buyer. Having given value and received delivery of the equipment without knowledge of the security interest and before it was perfected, Buyer would take free of the security interest. See Section 9317(b).

Example 7: Under the facts of Example 4, one month before the merger, Debtor created a security interest in certain equipment in favor of Financer, who perfected by filing in Pennsylvania. At that time, Financer's security interest is subordinate to Lender's. See Section 9322(a)(1). Financer reperfects by filing in Delaware within a year after the merger, but Lender fails to do so. Under subdivision (b), Lender's security interest is deemed never to have been perfected against Financer, a purchaser for value. Consequently, under Section 9322(a)(2), Financer's security interest is now senior.

Of course, the expiration of the time period specified in subdivision (a) does not of itself prevent the secured party from later reperfecting under the law of the new jurisdiction. If the secured party does so, however, there will be a gap in perfection, and the secured party may lose priority as a result. Thus, in Example 7, if Lender reperfects by filing in Delaware more than one year under the merger, it will have a new date of filing and perfection for purposes of Section 9322(a)(1).

Financer's security interest, whose perfection dates back to the filing in Pennsylvania under subdivision (b), will remain senior.

4. Possessory Security Interests. Subdivision (c) deals with continued perfection of possessory security interests. It applies not only to security interests perfected solely by the secured party's having taken possession of the collateral. It also applies to security interests perfected by a method that includes as an element of perfection the secured party's having taken possession, such as perfection by taking delivery of a certificated security in registered form, see Section 9313(a) and perfection by obtaining control over a certificated security. See Section 9314(a).

5. Goods Covered by Certificate of Title. Subdivisions (d) and (e) address continued perfection of a security interest in goods covered by a certificate of title. The following examples explain the operation of those subdivisions.

Example 8: Debtor's automobile is covered by a certificate of title issued by Illinois. Lender perfects a security interest in the automobile by complying with Illinois' certificate-of-title statute. Thereafter, Debtor applies for a certificate of title in Indiana. Six months thereafter, Creditor acquires a judicial lien on the automobile. Under Section 9303(b), Illinois law ceases to govern perfection; rather, once Debtor delivers the application and applicable fee to the appropriate Indiana authority, Indiana law governs. Nevertheless, under Indiana's Section 9-316(d), Lender's security interest remains perfected until it would become unperfected under Illinois law had no certificate of title been issued by Indiana. (For example, Illinois' certificate-of-title statute may provide that the surrender of an Illinois certificate of title in connection with the issuance of a certificate of title by another jurisdiction causes a security interest noted thereon to become unperfected.) If Lender's security interest remains perfected, it is senior to Creditor's judicial lien.

Example 9: Under the facts in Example 8, five months after Debtor applies for an Indiana certificate of title, Debtor sells the automobile to Buyer. Under subdivision (e)(2), because Lender did not reperfect within the four months after the goods became covered by the Indiana certificate of title, Lender's security interest is deemed never to have been perfected against Buyer. Under Section 9317(b), Buyer is likely to take free of the security interest. Lender could have protected itself by perfecting its security interest either under Indiana's certificate-of-title statute, see Section 9311, or, if it had a right to do so under an agreement or Section 9610, by taking possession of the automobile. See Section 9313(b).

The results in Examples 8 and 9 do not depend on the fact that the original perfection was achieved by notation on a certificate of title. Subdivision (d) applies regardless of the method by which a security interest is perfected under the law of another jurisdiction when the goods became covered by a certificate of title from this State.

Section 9337 affords protection to a limited class of persons buying or acquiring a security interest in the goods while a security interest is perfected under the law of another jurisdiction but after this State has issued a clean certificate of title.

6. Deposit Accounts, Letter-of-Credit Rights, and Investment Property. Subdivisions (f) and (g) address changes in the jurisdiction of a bank, issuer of an uncertificated security, issuer of or nominated person under a letter of credit, securities intermediary, and commodity intermediary. The provisions are analogous to those of subdivisions (a) and (b).

7. Agricultural Liens. This section does not apply to agricultural liens.

Example 10: Supplier holds an agricultural lien on corn. The lien arises under an Iowa statute. Supplier perfects by filing a financing statement in Iowa, where the corn is located. See Section 9302. Debtor stores the corn in Missouri. Assume the Iowa agricultural lien survives or an agricultural lien arises under Missouri law (matters that this Division does not govern). Once the corn is located in Missouri, Missouri becomes the jurisdiction whose law governs perfection. See Section 9302. Thus, the agricultural lien will not be perfected unless Supplier files a financing statement in Missouri.

8. Application to Licenses. Section 9316(a)(3) provides that if a secured party has perfected a security interest by the filing of a financing statement and the debtor “transfers” the “collateral” to a person “located” (Section 9307) in another jurisdiction, the secured party becomes unperfected as to that “collateral” one year after the “transfer” unless the secured party perfects against the transferee in the other jurisdiction. This rule does not apply unless there is a “transfer” of the “collateral.” For purposes of Section 9316, and notwithstanding any contrary implication that may exist by virtue of the United States Copyright Act, where an owner of a general intangible has granted a security interest in the general intangible, the grant of a license (exclusive or nonexclusive) by the owner of the general intangible in favor of a licensee to use the general intangible does not “transfer” the general intangible (the “collateral”) itself. It only gives the licensee the right to use the general intangible. The licensee’s right to use the general intangible does not create in the licensee an ownership or property interest in the general intangible itself. Thus where an owner of a general intangible has granted to its secured party a security interest in the general intangible and the owner later licenses the use of the general intangible to a person located in another state, the licensee does not constitute a “transfer” of the “collateral” (the general intangible) for purposes of Section 9316(a)(3). Accordingly, Section 9316(a)(3) would not oblige the secured party of the licensor to perfect its security interest in the state where the licensee is located, if different from the state where the licensor is located. Of course, for example, if the license is a disguised outright transfer of ownership of the general intangible itself and all exclusive rights therein, then a “transfer” of “collateral” may have occurred.

California Comment

1. Source. Former Sections 9301, 10307(2).

2. Scope of This Section. As did former Section 9301, this section lists the classes of persons who take priority over, or take free of, a security interest. Section 9308 explains when a security interest or agricultural lien is “perfected.” A security interest that has attached (see Section 9203) but as to which a required perfection step has not been taken is “unperfected.” Certain provisions have been moved from former Section 9301. The definition of “lien creditor” now appears in Section 9102, and the rules governing priority in future advances are found in Section 9323.

3. Competing Security Interests. Section 9322 states general rules for determining priority among conflicting security interests and refers to other sections that state special rules of priority in a variety of situations. The security interests given priority under Section 9322 and the other sections to which it refers take priority in general even over a perfected security interest. A fortiori they take priority over an unperfected security interest. Paragraph (a)(1) of this section so states.

4. Filed but Unattached Security Interest vs. Lien Creditor. Under former Section 9301(1)(b), a lien creditor’s rights had priority over an unperfected security interest. Perfection required attachment (former Section 9303) and attachment required the giving of value (former Section 9203). It followed that, if a secured party had filed a financing statement but had not yet given value, an intervening lien creditor whose lien arose after filing but before attachment of the security interest acquired rights that are senior to those of the secured party who later gives value. This result comported with the nemo dat concept: When the security interest attached, the collateral was already subject to the judicial lien.

On the other hand, this result treated the first secured advance differently from all other advances. The special rule for future advances in former Section 9301(4) (substantially reproduced in Section 9323(b)) afforded priority to a discretionary advance made by a secured party within 45 days after the lien creditor’s rights arose as long as the secured party was “perfected” when the lien creditor’s lien arose—i.e., as long as the advance was not the first one and an earlier advance had been made.

Subdivision (a)(2) revises former Section 9301(1)(b) and treats the first advance the same as subsequent advances. That is, a judicial lien that arises after a financing statement is filed and before the security interest attaches and becomes perfected is subordinate to all advances secured by the security interest, even the first advance, except as otherwise provided in Section 9323(b). However, if the security interest becomes unperfected (e.g., because the effectiveness of the filed financing statement lapses) before the judicial lien arises, the security interest is subordinate. If a financing statement is filed but a security interest does not attach, then no priority contest arises. The lien creditor has the only claim to the property.

5. Security Interest of Consignor or Receivables Buyer vs. Lien Creditor. Section 1201(37) defines “security interest” to include the interest of most true consignors of goods and the interest of most buyers of certain receivables (accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, and promissory notes). A consignee of goods or a seller of accounts or chattel paper each is deemed to have rights in the collateral which a lien creditor may reach, as long as the competing security interest of the consignor or buyer is unperfected. This is so even though, as between the consignor and the debtor-consignee, the latter has only limited rights, and, as between the buyer and debtor-seller, the latter does not have any rights in the collateral. See Sections 9318 (seller), 9319 (consignee). Security interests arising from sales of payment intangibles and promissory notes are automatically perfected. See Section 9309. Accordingly, a subsequent judicial lien always would be subordinate to the rights of a buyer of those types of receivables.

6. Purchasers Other Than Secured Parties. Subdivisions (b), (c), and (d) afford priority over an unperfected security interest to certain purchasers (other than secured parties) of collateral. They derive from former Sections 9301(1)(c), 10307(2), and 9301(d). Former Section 9301(1)(c) and (1)(d) provided that unperfected security interests are “subordinate” to the rights of certain purchasers. But, as former Comment 9 suggested, the practical effect of subordination in this context is that the purchaser takes free of the security interest. To avoid any possible misinterpretation, subdivisions (b) and (d) of this section use the phrase “takes free.”

Subdivision (b) governs goods, as well as intangibles of the type whose transfer is effected by physical delivery of the representative piece of paper (tangible chattel paper, documents, instruments, and security certificates). To obtain priority, a buyer must both give value and receive delivery of the collateral without knowledge of the existing security interest and before perfection. Even if the buyer gave value without knowledge and before perfection, the buyer would take subject to the security interest if perfection occurred before physical delivery of the collateral to the buyer. Subdivision (c) contains a similar rule with respect to lessees of goods. Note that a lessee of goods in ordinary course of business takes free of all security interests created by the lessor, even if perfected. See Section 9321.

Normally, there will be no question when a buyer of chattel paper, documents, instruments, or security certificates “receives delivery” of the property. See Section 1201 (defining “delivery”). However, sometimes a buyer or lessee of goods, such as complex machinery, takes delivery of the goods in stages and completes assembly at its own location. Under those circumstances, the buyer or lessee “receives delivery” within the meaning of subdivisions (b) and (c) when, after an inspection of the portion of the goods remaining with the seller or lessor, it would be apparent to a potential lender to the seller or lessor that another person might have an interest in the goods.

The rule of subdivision (b) obviously is not appropriate where the collateral consists of intangibles and there is no representative piece of paper whose physical delivery is the only or the customary method of transfer. Therefore, with respect to such intangibles (accounts, electronic chattel paper, general intangibles, and investment property other than certificated securities), subdivision (d) gives priority to any buyer who gives value without knowledge, and before perfection, of the security interest. A licensee of a general intangible takes free of an unperfected security interest in the general intangible under the same circumstances. Note that a licensee of a general intangible in ordinary course of business takes rights under a nonexclusive license free of security interests created by the licensor, even if perfected. See Section 9321.

Unless Section 9109 excludes the transaction from this Division, a buyer of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes is a “secured party” (defined in Section 9102), and subdivisions

(b) and (d) do not determine priority of the security interest created by the sale. Rather, the priority rules generally applicable to competing security interests apply. See Section 9322.

7. Agricultural Liens. Subdivisions (a), (b), and (c) subordinate unperfected agricultural liens in the same manner in which they subordinate unperfected security interests.

8. Purchase-Money Security Interests. Subdivision (e) derives from former Section 9301(2). It provides that, if a purchase-money security interest is perfected by filing no later than 20 days after the debtor receives delivery of the collateral, the security interest takes priority over the rights of buyers, lessees, or lien creditors which arise between the time the security interest attaches and the time of filing. Subdivision (e) differs from former Section 9301(2) in two significant respects. First, subdivision (e) protects a purchase-money security interest against all buyers and lessees, not just against transferees in bulk. Second, subdivision (e) conditions this protection on filing within 20, as opposed to ten, days after delivery.

Section 9311(b) provides that compliance with the perfection requirements of a statute or treaty described in Section 9311(a) "is equivalent to the filing of a financing statement." It follows that a person who perfects a security interest in goods covered by a certificate of title by complying with the perfection requirements of an applicable certificate-of-title statute "files a financing statement" within the meaning of subdivision (e).

Section 9320 of the Commercial Code

California Comment

1. Source. Former Section 9307.

2. Scope of This Section. This section states when buyers of goods take free of a security interest even though perfected. Of course, a buyer who takes free of a perfected security interest takes free of an unperfected one. Section 9317 should be consulted to determine what purchasers, in addition to the buyers covered in this section, take free of an unperfected security interest. Division 2 states general rules on purchase of goods from a seller with defective or voidable title (Section 2403).

3. Buyers in Ordinary Course. Subdivision (a) derives from former Section 9307(1). The definition of "buyer in ordinary course of business" in Section 1201 restricts its application to buyers "from a person, other than a pawnbroker, in the business of selling goods of that kind." Thus subdivision (a) applies primarily to inventory collateral. The buyer in ordinary course of business is defined as one who buys goods "in good faith, without knowledge that the sale violates the rights of another person and in the ordinary course." Subdivision (a) provides that such a buyer takes free of a security interest, even though perfected, and even though the buyer knows the security interest exists. Reading the definition together with the rule of law results in the buyer's taking free if the buyer merely knows that a security interest covers the goods but taking subject if the buyer knows, in addition, that the sale violates a term in an agreement with the secured party.

As did former Section 9307(1), subdivision (a) applies only to security interests created by the seller of the goods to the buyer in ordinary course. However, under certain circumstances a buyer in ordinary course who buys goods that were encumbered with a security interest created by a person other than the seller may take free of the security interest, as Example 2 explains. See also Comment 6, below.

Example 1: Manufacturer, who is in the business of manufacturing appliances, owns manufacturing equipment subject to a perfected security interest in favor of Lender. Manufacturer sells the equipment to Dealer, who is in the business of buying and selling used equipment. Buyer buys the equipment from Dealer. Even if Buyer qualifies as a buyer in the ordinary course of business, Buyer does not take free of Lender's security interest under subdivision (a), because Dealer did not create the security interest; Manufacturer did.

Example 2: Manufacturer, who is in the business of manufacturing appliances, owns manufacturing equipment subject to a perfected security interest in favor of Lender. Manufacturer sells the equipment to Dealer, who is in the business of buying and selling used equipment. Lender learns of the sale but does nothing to assert its security interest. Buyer buys the equipment from Dealer. Inasmuch as Lender's acquiescence constitutes an "entrusting" of the goods to Dealer within the meaning of Section 2403(3) Buyer takes free of Lender's security interest under Section 2403(2) if Buyer qualifies as a buyer in ordinary course of business.

4. Buyers of Consumer Goods. Subdivision (b), which derives from former Section 9307(2), deals with buyers of collateral that the debtor-seller holds as "consumer goods" (defined in Section 9102). Under Section 9309(1), a purchase-money interest in consumer goods, except goods that are subject to a statute or treaty described in Section 9311(a) (such as automobiles that are subject to a certificate-of-title statute), is perfected automatically upon attachment. There is no need to file to perfect. Under subdivision (b) a buyer of consumer goods takes free of a security interest, even though perfected, if the buyer buys (1) without knowledge of the security interest, (2) for value, (3) primarily for the buyer's own personal, family, or household purposes, and (4) before a financing statement is filed.

As to purchase money security interests which are perfected without filing under Section 9309(1): A secured party may file a financing statement, although filing is not required for perfection. If the secured party does file, all buyers take subject to the security interest. If the secured party does not file, a buyer who meets the qualifications stated in the preceding paragraph takes free of the security interest.

As to security interests for which a perfection step is required: This category includes all non-purchase-money security interests, and all security interests, whether or not purchase-money, in goods subject to a statute or treaty described in Section 9311(a), such as automobiles covered by a certificate-of-title statute. As long as the required perfection step has not been taken and the security interest remains unperfected, not only the buyers described in subdivision (b) but also the purchasers described in Section 9317 will take free of the security interest. After a financing statement has been filed or the perfection requirements of the applicable certificate-of-title statute have been complied with (compliance is the equivalent of filing a financing statement; see Section 9311(b)), all subsequent buyers, under the rule of subdivision (b), are subject to the security interest.

The rights of a buyer under subdivision (b) turn on whether a financing statement has been filed against consumer goods. Occasionally, a debtor changes his or her location after a filing is made. Subdivision (c), which derives from former Section 9103(1)(d)(iii), deals with the continued effectiveness of the filing under those circumstances. It adopts the rules of Sections 9316(a) and (b). These rules are explained in the Comments to that section.

5. Authorized Dispositions. The limitations that subdivisions (a) and (b) impose on the persons who may take free of a security interest apply of course only to unauthorized sales by the debtor. If the secured party authorized the sale in an express agreement or otherwise, the buyer takes free under Section 9315(a) without regard to the limitations of this section. (That section also states the right of a secured party to the proceeds of a sale, authorized or unauthorized.) Moreover, the buyer also takes free if the secured party waived or otherwise is precluded from asserting its security interest against the buyer. See Section 1103.

6. Oil, Gas, and Other Minerals. Under subdivision (d), a buyer in ordinary course of business of minerals at the wellhead or minehead or after extraction takes free of a security interest created by the seller. Specifically, it provides that qualified buyers take free not only of Division 9 security interests but also of interests “arising out of an encumbrance.” As defined in Section 9102, the term “encumbrance” means “a right, other than an ownership interest, in real property.” Thus, to the extent that a mortgage encumbers minerals not only before but also after extraction, subdivision (d) enables a buyer in ordinary course of the minerals to take free of the mortgage. This subdivision does not, however, enable these buyers to take free of interests arising out of ownership interests in the real property. This issue is significant only in a minority of states. Several of them have adopted special statutes and nonuniform amendments to Article 9 to provide special protections to mineral owners, whose interests often are highly fractionalized in the case of oil and gas. See Terry I. Cross, Oil and Gas Product Liens—Statutory Security Interests for Producers and Royalty Owners Under the Statutes of Kansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas and Wyoming, 50 Consumer Fin. L. Q. Rep. 418 (1996). Inasmuch as a complete resolution of the issue would require the addition of complex provisions to this Division, and there are good reasons to believe that a uniform solution would not be feasible, this Division leaves its resolution to other legislation.

7. Possessory Security Interests. Subdivision (e) is new. It rejects the holding of Tanbro Fabrics Corp. v. Deering Milliken, Inc., 350 N.E.2d 590 (N.Y. 1976) and, together with Section 9317(b), prevents a buyer of goods collateral from taking free of a security interest if the collateral is in the possession of the secured party. “The secured party” referred in subdivision (e) is the holder of the security interest referred to in subdivision (a) or (b). Section 9313 determines whether a secured party is in possession for purposes of this section.

Under some circumstances, Section 9313 provides that a secured party is in possession of collateral even if the collateral is in the physical possession of a third party.

2. Licensee in Ordinary Course. Like the analogous rules in Section 9320(a) with respect to buyers in ordinary course and subdivision (c) with respect to lessees in ordinary course, the new rule in subdivision (b) reflects the expectations of the parties and the marketplace: a licensee under a nonexclusive license takes subject to a security interest unless the secured party authorizes the license free of the security interest or other, controlling law such as that of this section (protecting ordinary-course licensees) dictates a contrary result. See Sections 9201, 9315. The definition of “licensee in ordinary course of business” in subdivision (a) is modeled upon that of “buyer in ordinary course of business.” Subdivisions (a) and (b) are effective until January 1, 2004.

3. Lessee in Ordinary Course. Subdivision (c) contains the rule formerly found in Section 10307(3). The rule works in the same way as that of Section 9320(a).

4. Application of Section. Section 9321(c) pertains only to licenses that are nonexclusive. In this context, nonexclusivity is determined through examination of the actual terms of the license. A license is nonexclusive where the licensee does not have the sole or exclusive right to exploit the general intangible in the territory, period, and manner specified in the license, and the licensor is free to grant the identical rights to exploitation, in the same territory, period, and manner, to a competing licensee. This is a functional analysis, which cannot be defeated by recitations of nonexclusivity where the agreement or practice between the licensor and the licensee indicates otherwise. In the event of dispute whether a given license is nonexclusive, the party seeking the benefit of that status—for example, a licensee arguing that its license is not subject to a security interest granted by the licensor—bears the burden of proof concerning the licensee’s nonexclusive status. Moreover, the nonexclusive licensee takes free only of security interests granted by its licensor. For example, assume a master licensor grants a security interest to a secured party and then the master licensor licenses rights on an exclusive basis to a primary licensee, who in turn licenses identical rights on a nonexclusive basis to several sublicensees. The sublicensees might take free of any security interest granted by the primary licensee, but would not take free of a security interests granted by the master licensor.

California Comment

2. Scope of This Section. A security agreement may provide that collateral secures future advances. See Section 9204(c). This section collects all of the special rules dealing with the priority of advances made by a secured party after a third party acquires an interest in the collateral. Subdivision (a) applies when the third party is a competing secured party. It replaces and clarifies former Section 9312(7). Subdivision (b) deals with lien creditors and replaces former Section 9301(4). Subdivisions (d) and (e) deal with buyers and replace former Section 9307(3). Subdivisions (f) and (g) deal with lessees and replace former Section 10307(4).

3. Competing Security Interests. Under a proper reading of the first-to-file-or-perfect rule of Section 9322(a)(1) (and former Section 9312(5)), it is abundantly clear that the time when an advance is made plays no role in determining priorities among conflicting security interests except when a financing statement was not filed and the advance is the giving of value as the last step for attachment and perfection. Thus, a secured party takes subject to all advances secured by a competing security interest having priority under Section 9322(a)(1). This result generally obtains regardless of how the competing security interest is perfected and regardless of whether the advances are made “pursuant to commitment” (Section 9102). Subdivision (a) of this section states the only other instance when the time of an advance figures in the priority scheme in Section 9322: when the security interest is perfected only automatically under Section 9309 or temporarily under Section 9312(e), (f), or (g), and the advance is not made pursuant to a commitment entered into while the security interest was perfected by another method. Thus, an advance has priority from the date it is made only in the rare case in which it is made without commitment and while the security interest is perfected only temporarily under Section 9312.

The new formulation in subdivision (a) clarifies the result when the initial advance is paid and a new (“future”) advance is made subsequently. Under former Section 9312(7), the priority of the new advance turned on whether it was “made while a security interest is perfected.” This section resolves any ambiguity by omitting the quoted phrase.

Example 1: On February 1, A makes an advance secured by machinery in the debtor’s possession and files a financing statement. On March 1, B makes an advance secured by the same machinery and files a financing statement. On April 1, A makes a further advance, under the original security agreement, against the same machinery. A was the first to file and so, under the first-to-file-or-perfect rule of Section 9322(a)(1), A’s security interest has priority over B’s, B both as to the February 1 and as to the April 1 advance. It makes no difference whether A knows of B’s intervening advance when A makes the second advance. Note that, as long as A was the first to file or perfect, A would have priority with respect to both advances if either A or B had perfected by taking possession of the collateral. Likewise, A would have priority if A’s April 1 advance was not made under the original agreement with the debtor, but was under a new agreement.

Example 2: On October 1, A acquires a temporarily perfected (20-day) security interest, unfiled, in a negotiable document in the debtor’s possession under Section 9312(e) or (f). The security interest secures an advance made on that day as well as future advances. On October 5, B files and thereby perfects a security interest that previously had attached to the same document. On October 8, A makes an additional advance. On October 10, A files. Under Section 9322(a)(1), because A was the first to perfect and maintained continuous perfection or filing since the start of the 20-day period, A has priority, even after the 20-day period expires. See Section 9322, Comment 4, Example 3. However, under this section, for purposes of Section 9322(a)(1), to the extent A's security interest secures the October 8 advance, the security interest was perfected on October 8. Inasmuch as B perfected on October 5, B has priority over the October 8 advance.

The rule in subdivision (a) is more liberal toward the priority of future advances than the corresponding rules applicable to intervening lien creditors (subdivision (b)), buyers (subdivisions (d) and (e)), and lessees (subdivisions (f) and (g)).

4. Competing Lien Creditors. Subdivision (b) replaces former Section 9301(4). It addresses the problem considered by PEB Commentary No. 2 and removes the ambiguity that necessitated the Commentary. Former Section 9301(4) appeared to state a general rule that a lien creditor has priority over a perfected security interest and is "subject to" the security interest "only" in specified circumstances. Because that section spoke to the making of an "advance," it arguably implied that to the extent a security interest secured non-advances (expenses, interest, etc.), it was junior to the lien creditor's interest. Under Section 9317(a)(2), a perfected security interest is senior to the rights of a subsequent lien creditor. Subdivision (b) of this section eliminates the erroneous implication of former law by providing that a security interest is subordinate to the extent that the specified circumstances occur.

As under former Section 9301(4), a secured party's knowledge does not cut short the 45-day period during which future advances can achieve priority over an intervening lien creditor's interest. Rather, because of the impact of the rule in subdivision (b) on the question whether the security interest for future advances is "protected" under Section 6323(c)(2) and (d) of the Internal Revenue Code as amended by the Federal Tax Lien Act of 1966, the priority of the security interest for future advances over a lien creditor is made absolute for 45 days regardless of knowledge of the secured party concerning the lien. If, however, the advance is made after the 45 days, the advance will not have priority unless it was made or committed without knowledge of the lien.

5. Sales of Receivables; Consignments. Subdivisions (a) and (b) do not apply to outright sales of accounts, chattel paper, payment intangibles, or promissory notes, nor do they apply to consignments.

6. Competing Buyers and Lessees. Under subdivisions (d) and (e), a buyer will not take subject to a security interest to the extent it secures advances made after the secured party has knowledge that the buyer has purchased the collateral or more than 45 days after the purchase unless the advances were made pursuant to a commitment entered into before the expiration of the 45-day period and without knowledge of the purchase. Subdivisions (f) and (g) provide an analogous rule for lessees. Of course, a buyer in ordinary course who takes free of the security interest under Section 9320 and a lessee in ordinary course who takes free under Section 9321 are not subject to any future advances. Subdivisions (d) and (e) replace former

Section 9307(3), and subdivisions (f) and (g) replace former Section 10307(d). No change in meaning is intended.

Section 9334 of the Commercial Code

California Comment

1. Source. Former Section 9313.

2. Scope of This Section. This section contains rules governing the priority of security interests in fixtures and crops as against persons who claim an interest in real property. Priority contests with other Division 9 security interests are governed by the other priority rules of this Division. The provisions with respect to fixtures follow those of former Section 9313. However, they have been rewritten to conform to Section 10309 and to prevailing style conventions. Subdivisions (i) and (j), which apply to crops, are new.

3. Security Interests in Fixtures. Certain goods that are the subject of personal-property (chattel) financing become so affixed or otherwise so related to real property that they become part of the real property. These goods are called "fixtures." See Section 9102 (definition of "fixtures"). Some fixtures retain their personal-property nature: a security interest under this Division may be created in fixtures and may continue in goods that become fixtures. See subdivision (a). However, if the goods are ordinary building materials incorporated into an improvement on land, no security interest in them exists. Rather, the priority of claims to the building materials are determined by the law governing claims to real property. (Of course, the fact that no security interest exists in ordinary building materials incorporated into an improvement on land does not prejudice any rights the secured party may have against the debtor or any other person who violated the secured party's rights by wrongfully incorporating the goods into real property.)

Thus, this section recognizes three categories of goods: (1) those that retain their chattel character entirely and are not part of the real property; (2) ordinary building materials that have become an integral part of the real property and cannot retain their chattel character for purposes of finance; and (3) an intermediate class that has become real property for certain purposes, but as to which chattel financing may be preserved.

To achieve priority under certain provisions of this section, a security interest must be perfected by making a "fixture filing" (defined in Section 9102) in the real property records. Because the question whether goods have become fixtures often is a difficult one under applicable real property law, a secured party may make a fixture filing as a precaution. Courts should not infer from a fixture filing that the secured party concedes that the goods are or will become fixtures.

4. Priority in Fixtures: General. In considering priority problems under this section, one must first determine whether real property claimants per se have an interest in the crops or fixtures as part of real property. If not, it is immaterial, so far as concerns real property parties as such, whether a security interest arising under this Division is perfected or unperfected. In no event does a real property claimant (e.g., owner or mortgagee) acquire an interest in a "pure" chattel just because a security interest therein is unperfected. If on the other hand real property law gives real property parties an interest in the goods, a conflict arises and this section states the priorities.

5. Priority in Fixtures: Residual Rule. Subdivision (c) states the residual priority rule, which applies only if one of the other rules does not: A security interest in fixtures is subordinate to a conflicting interest of an encumbrancer or owner of the related real property other than the debtor.

6. Priority in Fixtures: First to File or Record. Subdivision (e)(1), which follows former Section 9313(4)(b), contains the usual priority rule of conveyancing, that is, the first to file or record prevails. In order to achieve priority under this rule, however, the security interest must be perfected by a “fixture filing” (defined in Section 9102), i.e., a filing for record in the real property records and indexed therein, so that it will be found in a real property search. The condition in subdivision (e)(1)(B), that the security interest must have had priority over any conflicting interest of a predecessor in title of the conflicting encumbrancer or owner, appears to limit to the first-in-time principle. However, this apparent limitation is nothing other than an expression of the usual rule that a person must be entitled to transfer what he has. Thus, if the fixture security interest is subordinate to a mortgage, it is subordinate to an interest of an assignee of the mortgage, even though the assignment is a later recorded instrument. Similarly if the fixture security interest is subordinate to the rights of an owner, it is subordinate to a subsequent grantee of the owner and likewise subordinate to a subsequent mortgagee of the owner.

7. Priority in Fixtures: Purchase-Money Security Interests. Subdivision (d), which follows former Section 9313(4)(a), contains the principal exception to the first-to-file-or-record rule of subdivision (e)(1). It affords priority to purchase-money security interests in fixtures as against prior recorded real property interests, provided that the purchase-money security interest is filed as a fixture filing in the real property records before the goods become fixtures or within 20 days thereafter. This priority corresponds to the purchase-money priority under Section 9324(a). (Like other 10-day periods in former Division 9, the 10-day period in this section has been changed to 20 days.)

It should be emphasized that this purchase-money priority with the 20-day grace period for filing is limited to rights against real property interests that arise before the goods become fixtures. There is no such priority with the 20-day grace period as against real property interests that arise subsequently. The fixture security interest can defeat subsequent real property interests only if it is filed first and prevails under the usual conveyancing rule in subdivision (e)(1) or one of the other rules in this section.

8. Priority in Fixtures: Readily Removable Goods. Subdivision (e)(2), which derives from Section 10309 and former Section 9313(4)(c), contains another exception to the usual first-to-file-or-rule. It affords priority to the holders of security interests in certain types of readily removable goods—factory and office machines and (as discussed below) certain replacements of domestic appliances. This rule is made necessary by the confusion in the law as to whether certain machinery and appliances become fixtures.

It protects a secured party who, perhaps in the mistaken belief that the readily removable goods will not become fixtures, makes a UCC filing (or otherwise perfects under this Division) rather than making a fixture filing.

Frequently, under applicable law, goods of the type described in subdivision (e)(2) will not be considered to have become part of the real property. In those cases, the fixture security interest does not conflict with a real property interest, and resort to this section is unnecessary. However, if the goods have become part of the real property, subdivision (e)(2) enables a fixture secured party to take priority over a conflicting real property interest if the fixture security interest is perfected by a fixture filing. Note, however, that unlike the purchase-money priority rule in subdivision (d), the priority rules in subdivision (e) override the priority given to a construction mortgage under subdivision (h).

The rule in subdivision (e)(2) is limited to readily removable replacements of domestic appliances. It does not apply to original installations. Moreover, it is limited to appliances that are "consumer goods" (defined in Section 9102) in the hands of the debtor. The principal effect of the rule is to make clear that a secured party financing occasional replacements of domestic appliances in noncommercial, owner-occupied contexts need not concern itself with real property descriptions or records; indeed, for a purchase-money replacement of consumer goods, perfection without any filing will be possible. See Section 9309(1).

9. Priority in Fixtures: Judicial Liens. Subdivision (e)(3), which follows former Section 9313(4)(d), adopts a first-in-time rule applicable to conflicts between a fixture security interest and a lien on the real property obtained by legal or equitable proceedings. Such a lien is subordinate to an earlier-perfected security interest, regardless of the method by which the security interest was perfected. Judgment creditors generally are not reliance creditors who search real property records. Accordingly, a perfected fixture security interest takes priority over a subsequent judgment lien or other lien obtained by legal or equitable proceedings, even if no evidence of the security interest appears in the relevant real property records. Subdivision (e)(3) thus protects a perfected fixture security interest from avoidance by a trustee in bankruptcy under Bankruptcy Code Section 544(a), regardless of the method of perfection.

10. Priority in Fixtures: Manufactured Homes. A manufactured home may become a fixture. New subdivision (e)(4) contains a special rule granting priority to certain security interests created in a "manufactured home" as part of a "manufactured-home transaction" (both defined in Section 9102). Under this rule, a security interest in a manufactured home that becomes a fixture has priority over a conflicting interest of an encumbrancer or owner of the real property if the security interest is perfected under a certificate-of-title statute (see Section 9311). Subdivision (e)(4) is only one of the priority rules applicable to security interests in a manufactured home that becomes a fixture. Thus, a security interest in a manufactured home which does not qualify for priority under this subdivision may qualify under another.

11. Priority in Fixtures: Construction Mortgages. The purchase-money priority presents a difficult problem in relation to construction mortgages. The latter ordinarily will have been recorded even before the commencement of delivery of materials to the job, and therefore would take priority over fixture security interests were it not for the purchase-money priority. However, having recorded first, the holder of a construction mortgage reasonably expects to have first priority in the improvement built using the mortgagee's advances. Subdivision (g) expressly gives priority to the construction mortgage recorded before the filing of the purchase-money security interest in fixtures. A refinancing of a construction mortgage has the same priority as the construction mortgage itself. The phrase "an obligation incurred for the construction of an improvement" covers both optional advances and advances pursuant to commitment. Both types of advances have the same priority under subdivision (g).

The priority under this subdivision applies only to goods that become fixtures during the construction period leading to the completion of the improvement. The construction priority will not apply to additions to the building made long after completion of the improvement, even if the additions are financed by the real property mortgagee under an open-end clause of the construction mortgage. In such case, subdivisions (d), (e), and (f) govern.

Although this subdivision affords a construction mortgage priority over a purchase-money security interest that otherwise would have priority under subdivision (d), the subdivision is subject to the priority rules in subdivisions (e) and (f). Thus, a construction mortgage may be junior to a fixture security interest perfected by a fixture filing before the construction mortgage was recorded. See subdivision (e)(1).

12. Crops. Growing crops are "goods" in which a security interest may be created and perfected under this Division. In some jurisdictions, a mortgage of real property may cover crops, as well. In the event that crops are encumbered by both a mortgage and a Division 9 security interest, subdivision (i) provides that the security interest has priority. States whose real property law provides otherwise should either amend that law directly or override it by enacting subdivision (j).

2. Limitation on Ability to Set Standards. Subdivision (a), like former Section 9501(3), permits the parties to set standards for compliance with the rights and duties under this Chapter if the standards are not “manifestly unreasonable.” Under subdivision (b), the parties are not permitted to set standards measuring fulfillment of the secured party’s duty to take collateral without breaching the peace.

3. In considering whether a standard is “manifestly reasonable,” the court may consider the sophistication and relative bargaining power of the parties. However, the parties’ agreement may not eliminate or reduce the obligation of the party disposing of the collateral to act in a commercially reasonable manner. A non-waivable item under Section 9602 cannot be waived through a definition of standard under Section 9603.

2. Duties to Unknown Persons. This section relieves a secured party from duties owed to a debtor or obligor, if the secured party does not know about the debtor or obligor. Similarly, it relieves a secured party from duties owed to a secured party or lienholder who has filed a financing statement against the debtor, if the secured party does not know about the debtor. For example, a secured party may be unaware that the original debtor has sold the collateral subject to the security interest and that the new owner has become the debtor. If so, the secured party owes no duty to the new owner (debtor) or to a secured party who has filed a financing statement against the new owner. This section should be read in conjunction with the exculpatory provisions in Section 9628. This section does not permit a secured party to ignore information, for example, a changed address of the debtor, and then assert that it had no duty because it did not know how to communicate with that debtor.

Section 9608 of the Commercial Code

California Comment

1. Source. Subdivision (a) is new; subdivision (b) derives from former Section 9502(2).
2. Modifications of Prior Law. Subdivisions (a) and (b) modify former Section 9502(2) by explicitly providing for the application of proceeds recovered by the secured party in substantially the same manner as provided in Section 9615(a) and (e) for dispositions of collateral.
3. Surplus and Deficiency. Subdivisions (a)(4) and (b) omit, as unnecessary, the references contained in former Section 9502(2) to agreements varying the baseline rules on surplus and deficiency. The parties are always free to agree that an obligor will not be liable for a deficiency, even if the collateral secures an obligation, and that an obligor is liable for a deficiency, even if the transaction is a sale of receivables. For parallel provisions, see Section 9615(d) and (e).

4. Noncash Proceeds. Subdivision (a)(3) addresses the situation in which an enforcing secured party receives noncash proceeds.

Example: An enforcing secured party receives a promissory note from an account debtor who is unable to pay an account when it is due. The secured party accepts the note in exchange for extending the date on which the account debtor's obligation is due. The secured party may wish to credit its debtor (the assignor) with the principal amount of the note upon receipt of the note, but probably will prefer to credit the debtor only as and when the note is paid.

Under subdivision (a)(3), the secured party is under no duty to apply the note or its value to the outstanding obligation unless its failure to do so would be commercially unreasonable. If the secured party does apply the note to the outstanding obligation, however, it must do so in a commercially reasonable manner. The parties may provide for the method of application of noncash proceeds by agreement, if the method is not manifestly unreasonable. See Section 9603. This section does not explain when the failure to apply noncash proceeds would be commercially unreasonable; it leaves that determination to case-by-case adjudication. In the example, the secured party appears to have accepted the account debtor's note in order to increase the likelihood of payment and decrease the likelihood that the account debtor would dispute its obligation. Under these circumstances, it may well be commercially reasonable for the secured party to credit its debtor's obligations only as and when cash proceeds are collected from the account debtor, especially given the uncertainty that attends the account debtor's eventual payment. For an example of a secured party's receipt of noncash proceeds in which it may well be commercially unreasonable for the secured party to delay crediting its debtor's obligations with the value of noncash proceeds, see Section 9615, Comment 3.

When the secured party is not required to "apply or pay over for application noncash proceeds," the proceeds nonetheless remain collateral subject to this Division. If the secured party were to dispose of them, for example, appropriate notification would be required (see Section 9611), and the disposition would be subject to the standards provided in this Chapter (see Section 9610). Moreover, a secured party in possession of the noncash proceeds would have the duties specified in Section 9207.

5. No Effect on Priority of Senior Security Interest. The application of proceeds required by subdivision (a) does not affect the priority of a security interest in collateral which is senior to the interest of the secured party who is collecting or enforcing collateral under Section 9607. Although subdivision (a) imposes a duty to apply proceeds to the enforcing secured party's expenses and to the satisfaction of the secured obligations owed to it and to subordinate secured parties, that duty applies only among the enforcing secured party and those persons. Concerning the priority of a junior secured party who collects and enforces collateral, see Section 9607, Comment 5.

Section 9610 of the Commercial Code

California Comment

1. Source. Former Section 9504(1), (3)

2. Commercially Reasonable Dispositions. Subdivision (a) follows former Section 9504 by permitting a secured party to dispose of collateral in a commercially reasonable manner following a default. Although subdivision (b) permits both public and private dispositions, “every aspect of a disposition . . . must be commercially reasonable.” This section encourages private dispositions on the assumption that they frequently will result in higher realization on collateral for the benefit of all concerned. Subdivision (a) does not restrict dispositions to sales; collateral may be sold, leased, licensed, or otherwise disposed. Section 9627 provides guidance for determining the circumstances under which a disposition is “commercially reasonable.” For a discussion of the obligation of a seller of goods to make a resale in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner, see Official Comment 2 to Uniform Commercial Code Section 2706.

3. Time of Disposition. This Division does not specify a period within which a secured party must dispose of collateral. This is consistent with this Division’s policy to encourage private dispositions through regular commercial channels. It may, for example, be prudent not to dispose of goods when the market has collapsed. Or, it might be more appropriate to sell a large inventory in parcels over a period of time instead of in bulk. Of course, under subdivision (b) every aspect of a disposition of collateral must be commercially reasonable. This requirement explicitly includes the “method, manner, time, place and other terms.” For example, if a secured party does not proceed under Section 9620 and holds collateral for a long period of time without disposing of it, and if there is no good reason for not making a prompt disposition, the secured party may be determined not to have acted in a “commercially reasonable” manner. See also Section 1203 (general obligation of good faith).

4. Pre-Disposition Preparation and Processing. Former Section 9504(1) appeared to give the secured party the choice of disposing of collateral either “in its then condition or following any commercially reasonable preparation or processing.” Some courts held that the “commercially reasonable” standard of former Section 9504(3) nevertheless could impose an affirmative duty on the secured party to process or prepare the collateral prior to disposition. Subdivision (a) retains the substance of the quoted language. Although courts should not be quick to impose a duty of preparation or processing on the secured party, subdivision (a) does not grant the secured party the right to dispose of the collateral “in its then condition” under all circumstances. A secured party may not dispose of collateral “in its then condition” when, taking into account the costs and probable benefits of preparation or processing and the fact that the secured party would be advancing the costs at its risk, it would be commercially unreasonable to dispose of the collateral in that condition.

5. Disposition by Junior Secured Party. Disposition rights under subdivision (a) are not limited to first-priority security interests. Rather, any secured party as to whom there has been a default enjoys the right to dispose of collateral under this subdivision. The exercise of this right by a secured party whose security interest is subordinate to that of another secured party does not of itself constitute a conversion or otherwise give rise to liability in favor of the holder of the senior security interest. Section 9615 addresses application of the proceeds of a disposition by a junior secured party. Under Section 9615(a), a junior secured party owes no obligation to apply the proceeds of disposition to the satisfaction of obligations secured by a senior security interest. Section 9615(g) builds on this general rule by protecting certain juniors from claims of a senior concerning cash proceeds of the disposition. Even if a senior were to have a non-Division 9 claim to proceeds of a junior's disposition, Section 9615(g) would protect a junior that acts in good faith and without knowledge that its actions violate the rights of a senior party. Because the disposition by a junior would not cut off a senior's security interest or other lien (see Section 9617), in many (probably most) cases the junior's receipt of the cash proceeds would not violate the rights of the senior.

The holder of a senior security interest is entitled, by virtue of its priority, to take possession of collateral from the junior secured party and conduct its own disposition, provided that the senior enjoys the right to take possession of the collateral from the debtor. See Section 9609. The holder of a junior security interest normally must notify the senior secured party of an impending disposition. See Section 9611. Regardless of whether the senior receives a notification from the junior, the junior's disposition does not of itself discharge the senior's security interest. See Section 9617. Unless the senior secured party has authorized the disposition free and clear of its security interest, the senior's security interest ordinarily will survive the disposition by the junior and continue under Section 9315(a). If the senior enjoys the right to repossess the collateral from the debtor, the senior likewise may recover the collateral from the transferee.

When a secured party's collateral is encumbered by another security interest or other lien, one of the claimants may seek to invoke the equitable doctrine of marshaling. As explained by the Supreme Court, that doctrine "rests upon the principle that a creditor having two funds to satisfy his debt, may not by his application of them to his demand, defeat another creditor, who may resort to only one of the funds." Meyer v. United States, 375 U.S. 233, 236 (1963), quoting Sowell v. Federal Reserve Bank, 268 U.S. 449, 456-57 (1925). The purpose of the doctrine is "to prevent the arbitrary action of a senior lienor from destroying the rights of a junior lienor or a creditor having less security." Id. at 237. Because it is an equitable doctrine, marshaling "is applied only when it can be equitably fashioned as to all of the parties" having an interest in the property. Id. This Division leaves courts free to determine whether marshaling is appropriate in any given case. See Section 1103.

6. Security Interests of Equal Rank. Sometimes two security interests enjoy the same priority. This situation may arise by contract, e.g., pursuant to "equal and ratable" provisions in indentures, or by operation of law. See Section 9328(6). This Division treats a security interest having equal priority like a senior security interest in many respects. Assume, for example, that SP-X and SP-Y enjoy equal priority, SP-W is senior to them, and SP-Z is junior. If SP-X disposes of the collateral under this section, then (i) SP-W's and SP-Y's security interests survive the disposition but SP-Z's does not, see Section 9617, and (ii) neither SP-W nor SP-Y is entitled to receive a distribution of proceeds, but SP-Z is. See Section 9615(a)(3).

When one considers the ability to obtain possession of the collateral, a secured party with equal priority is unlike a senior secured party. As the senior secured party, SP-W should enjoy the right to possession as against SP-X. See Section 9609, Comment 5. If SP-W takes possession and disposes of the collateral under this section, it is entitled to apply the proceeds to satisfy its secured claim. SP-Y, however, should not have such a right to take possession from SP-X; otherwise, once SP-Y took possession from SP-X, SP-X would have the right to get possession from SP-Y, which would be obligated to redeliver possession to SP-X, and so on. Resolution of this problem is left to the parties and, if necessary, the courts.

7. Public vs. Private Dispositions. This Chapter maintains two distinctions between “public” and other dispositions: (i) the secured party may buy at the former, but normally not at the latter (Section 9610(c)), and (ii) the debtor is entitled to notification of “the time and place of a public disposition” and notification of “the time after which” a private disposition or other intended disposition is to be made (Section 9613(1)(E)). It does not retain the distinction under former Section 9504(4), under which transferees in a noncomplying public disposition could lose protection more easily than transferees in other noncomplying dispositions. Instead, Section 9617(b) adopts a unitary standard. Although the term is not defined, as used in this Division, a “public disposition” is one at which the price is determined after the public has had a meaningful opportunity for competitive bidding. “Meaningful opportunity” is meant to imply that some form of advertisement or public notice must precede the sale (or other disposition) and that the public must have access to the sale (disposition).

8. Investment Property. Dispositions of investment property may be regulated by the federal securities laws. Although a “public” disposition of securities under this Division may implicate the registration requirements of the Securities Act of 1933, it need not do so. A disposition that qualifies for a “private placement” exemption under the Securities Act of 1933 nevertheless may constitute a “public” disposition within the meaning of this section. Moreover, the “commercially reasonable” requirements of subdivision (b) need not prevent a secured party from conducting a foreclosure sale without the issuer’s compliance with federal registration requirements.

9. “Recognized Market.” A “recognized market,” as used in subdivision (c) and Section 9611(d), is one in which the items sold are fungible and prices are not subject to individual negotiation. For example, the New York Stock Exchange is a recognized market. A market in which prices are individually negotiated or the items are not fungible is not a recognized market, even if the items are the subject of widely disseminated price guides or are disposed of through dealer auctions.

10. Relevance of Price. While not itself sufficient to establish a violation of this Chapter, a low price suggests that a court should scrutinize carefully all aspects of a disposition to ensure that each aspect was commercially reasonable. Note also that even if the disposition is commercially reasonable, Section 9615(f) provides a special method for calculating a deficiency or surplus if (i) the transferee in the disposition is the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor, and (ii) the amount of proceeds of the disposition is significantly below the range of proceeds that a complying disposition to a person other than the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor would have brought.

11. Warranties. Subdivision (d) affords the transferee in a disposition under this section the benefit of any title, possession, quiet enjoyment, and similar warranties that would have accompanied the disposition by operation of non-Division 9 law had the disposition been conducted under other circumstances. For example, the Division 2 warranty of title would apply to a sale of goods, the analogous warranties of Division 10 would apply to a lease of goods, and any common-law warranties of title would apply to dispositions of other types of collateral. See, e.g., Restatement (2d), Contracts § 333 (warranties of assignor).

Subdivision (e) explicitly provides that these warranties can be disclaimed either under other applicable law or by communicating a record containing an express disclaimer. The record need not be written, but an oral communication would not be sufficient. See Section 9102 (definition of “record”). Subdivision (f) provides a sample of wording that will effectively exclude the warranties in a disposition under this section, whether or not the exclusion would be effective under non-Division 9 law.

The warranties incorporated by subdivision (d) are those relating to “title, possession, quiet enjoyment, and the like.” Depending on the circumstances, a disposition under this section also may give rise to other statutory or implied warranties, e.g., warranties of quality or fitness for purpose. Law other than this Division determines whether such other warranties apply to a disposition under this section. Other law also determines issues relating to disclaimer of such warranties. For example, a foreclosure sale of a car by a car dealer could give rise to an implied warranty of merchantability (Section 2314) unless effectively disclaimed or modified (Section 2316).

This section’s approach to these warranties conflicts with the former Comment to Section 2312. This Division rejects the baseline assumption that commercially reasonable dispositions under this section are out of the ordinary commercial course or peculiar. The Comment to Section 2312 has been revised accordingly.

2. Notification in Consumer-Goods Transactions. Paragraph (1) sets forth the information required for a reasonable notification in a consumer-goods transaction. A notification that lacks any of the information set forth in paragraph (1) is insufficient as a matter of law. Compare Section 9613(2), under which the trier of fact may find a notification to be sufficient even if it lacks some information listed in paragraph (1) of that section.

3. Safe-Harbor Form of Notification; Errors in Information. Although paragraph (2) provides that a particular phrasing of a notification is not required, paragraph (3) specifies a safe-harbor form that, when properly completed, satisfies paragraph (1). Paragraphs (4), (5), and (6) contain special rules applicable to erroneous and additional information. Under paragraph (4), a notification in the safe-harbor form specified in paragraph (3) is not rendered insufficient if it contains additional information at the end of the form. Paragraph (5) provides that nonmisleading errors in information contained in a notification are permitted if the safe-harbor form is used and if the errors are in information not required by paragraph (1). Finally, if a notification is in a form other than the paragraph (3) safe-harbor form, other law determines the effect of including in the notification information other than that required by paragraph (1).

4. This notice does not expand the rights of a secured party beyond those otherwise permitted by law.

California Comment

2. Application of Proceeds. This section contains the rules governing application of proceeds and the debtor's liability for a deficiency following a disposition of collateral. Subdivision (a) sets forth the basic order of application. The proceeds are applied first to the expenses of disposition, second to the obligation secured by the security interest that is being enforced, and third, in the specified circumstances, to interests that are subordinate to that security interest.

Subdivisions (a) and (d) also address the right of a consignor to receive proceeds of a disposition by a secured party whose interest is senior to that of the consignor. Subdivision (a) requires the enforcing secured party to pay excess proceeds first to subordinate secured parties or lienholders whose interests are senior to that of a consignor and, finally, to a consignor. Inasmuch as a consignor is the owner of the collateral, secured parties and lienholders whose interests are junior to the consignor's interest will not be entitled to any proceeds. In like fashion, under subdivision (d)(1) the debtor is not entitled to a surplus when the enforcing secured party is required to pay over proceeds to a consignor.

3. Noncash Proceeds. Subdivision (c) addresses the application of noncash proceeds of a disposition, such as a note or lease. The explanation in Section 9608, Comment 4, generally applies to this subdivision.

Example: A secured party in the business of selling or financing automobiles takes possession of collateral (an automobile) following its debtor's default. The secured party decides to sell the automobile in a private disposition under Section 9610 and sends appropriate notification under Section 9611. After undertaking its normal credit investigation and in accordance with its normal credit policies, the secured party sells the automobile on credit, on terms typical of the credit terms normally extended by the secured party in the ordinary course of its business. The automobile stands as collateral for the remaining balance of the price. The noncash proceeds received by the secured party are chattel paper. The secured party may wish to credit its debtor (the assignor) with the principal amount of the chattel paper or may wish to credit the debtor only as and when the payments are made on the chattel paper by the buyer.

Under subdivision (c), the secured party is under no duty to apply the noncash proceeds (here, the chattel paper) or their value to the secured obligation unless its failure to do so would be commercially unreasonable. If a secured party elects to apply the chattel paper to the outstanding obligation, however, it must do so in a commercially reasonable manner. The facts in the example indicate that it would be commercially unreasonable for the secured party to fail to apply the value of the chattel paper to the original debtor's secured obligation. Unlike the example in Comment 4 to Section 9608, the noncash proceeds received in this example are of the type that the secured party regularly generates in the ordinary course of its financing business in nonforeclosure transactions. The original debtor should not be exposed to delay or uncertainty in this situation. Of course, there will be many situations that fall between the examples presented in the Comment to Section 9608 and in this Comment. This Division leaves their resolution to the court based on the facts of each case.

One would expect that where noncash proceeds are or may be material, the secured party and debtor would agree to more specific standards in an agreement entered into before or after default. The parties may agree to the method of application of noncash proceeds if the method is not manifestly unreasonable. See Section 9603.

When the secured party is not required to "apply or pay over for application noncash proceeds," the proceeds nonetheless remain collateral subject to this Division. See Section 9608, Comment 4.

4. Surplus and Deficiency. Subdivision (d) deals with surplus and deficiency. It revises former Section 9504(2) by imposing an explicit requirement that the secured party "pay" the debtor for any surplus except as provided in Section 701.040 of the Code of Civil Procedure, while retaining the secured party's duty to "account." Inasmuch as the debtor may not be an obligor, subdivision (d) provides that the obligor (not the debtor) is liable for the deficiency subject to Section 9626(b). The special rule governing surplus and deficiency when receivables have been sold likewise takes into account the distinction between a debtor and an obligor. Subdivision (d) also addresses the situation in which a consignor has an interest that is subordinate to the security interest being enforced.

5. Collateral Under New Ownership. When the debtor sells collateral subject to a security interest, the original debtor (creator of the security interest) is no longer a debtor inasmuch as it no longer has a property interest in the collateral; the buyer is the debtor. See Section 9102. As between the debtor (buyer of the collateral) and the original debtor (seller of the collateral), the debtor (buyer) normally would be entitled to the surplus following a disposition. Subdivision (d) therefore requires the secured party to pay the surplus to the debtor (buyer), not to the original debtor (seller) with which it has dealt. But, because this situation typically arises as a result of the debtor's wrongful act, this Division does not expose the secured party to the risk of determining ownership of the collateral. If the secured party does not know about the buyer and accordingly pays the surplus to the original debtor, the exculpatory provisions of this Division exonerate the secured party from liability to the buyer. See Sections 9605, 9628(a), (b). If a debtor sells collateral free of a security interest, as in a sale to a buyer in ordinary course of business (see Section 9320(a)), the property is no longer collateral and the buyer is not a debtor.

6. Certain “Low-Price” Dispositions. Subdivision (f) provides a special method for calculating a deficiency or surplus when the secured party, a person related to the secured party (defined in Section 9102), or a secondary obligor acquires the collateral at a foreclosure disposition. It recognizes that when the foreclosing secured party or a related party is the transferee of the collateral, the secured party sometimes lacks the incentive to maximize the proceeds of disposition. As a consequence, the disposition may comply with the procedural requirements of this Division (e.g., it is conducted in a commercially reasonable manner following reasonable notice) but nevertheless fetch a low price.

Subdivision (f) adjusts for this lack of incentive. If the proceeds of a disposition of collateral to a secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor are “significantly below the range of proceeds that a complying disposition to a person other than the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor would have brought,” then instead of calculating a deficiency (or surplus) based on the actual net proceeds, the calculation is based upon the amount that would have been received in a commercially reasonable disposition to a person other than the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor. Subdivision (f) thus rejects the view that the secured party’s receipt of such a price necessarily constitutes noncompliance with Chapter 6. However, such a price may suggest the need for greater judicial scrutiny. See Section 9610, Comment 10.

7. “Person Related To.” Section 9102 defines “person related to.” That term is a key element of the system provided in subdivision (f) for low-price dispositions. One part of the definition applies when the secured party is an individual, and the other applies when the secured party is an organization. The definition is patterned closely on the corresponding definition in Section 1.301(32) of the Uniform Consumer Credit Code.

2. Duty to Send Information Concerning Surplus or Deficiency. This section reflects the view that, in every consumer-goods transaction, the debtor or obligor is entitled to know the amount of a surplus or deficiency and the basis upon which the surplus or deficiency was calculated. Under subdivision (b)(1), a secured party is obligated to provide this information (an “explanation,” defined in subdivision (a)(1)) no later than the time that it accounts for and pays a surplus or the time of its first written attempt to collect the deficiency. The obligor need not make a request for an accounting in order to receive an explanation. A secured party who does not attempt to collect a deficiency in writing or account for and pay a surplus has no obligation to send an explanation under subdivision (b)(1) and, consequently, cannot be liable for noncompliance.

A debtor or secondary obligor need not wait until the secured party commences written collection efforts in order to receive an explanation of how a deficiency or surplus was calculated. Subdivision (b)(2) obliges the secured party to send an explanation within 14 days after it receives a "request" (defined in subdivision (a)(2)).

3. Explanation of Calculation of Surplus or Deficiency. Subdivision (c) contains the requirements for how a calculation of a surplus or deficiency must be explained in order to satisfy subdivision (a)(1)(B). It gives a secured party some discretion concerning rebates of interest or credit service charges. The secured party may include these rebates in the aggregate amount of obligations secured, under subdivision (c)(1), or may include them with other types of rebates and credits under subdivision (c)(5). Rebates of interest or credit service charges are the only types of rebates for which this discretion is provided. If the secured party provides an explanation that includes rebates of pre-computed interest, its explanation must so indicate. The expenses and attorney's fees to be described pursuant to subdivision (c)(4) are those relating to the most recent disposition, not those that may have been incurred in connection with earlier enforcement efforts and which have been resolved by the parties.

4. Liability for Noncompliance. A secured party who fails to comply with subdivision (b)(2) is liable for any loss caused plus $500. See Section 9625(b), (c), (e)(6). A secured party who fails to send an explanation under subdivision (b)(1) is liable for any loss caused plus, if the noncompliance was "part of a pattern, or consistent with a practice of noncompliance," $500. See Section 9625(b), (c), (e)(5). However, a secured party who fails to comply with this section is not liable for statutory minimum damages under Section 9625(c)(2). See Section 9628(d).

5. This section does not expand the rights of a secured party beyond those otherwise permitted by law.

2. Remedies for Noncompliance; Scope. Subdivisions (a) and (b) provide the basic remedies afforded to those aggrieved by a secured party's failure to comply with this Division. Like all provisions that create liability, they are subject to Section 9628, which should be read in conjunction with Section 9605. The principal limitations under this Chapter on a secured party's right to enforce its security interest against collateral are the requirements that it proceed in good faith (Section 1203), in a commercially reasonable manner (Sections 9607 and 9610), and, in most cases, with reasonable notification (Sections 9611 through 9614). Following former Section 9507, under subdivision (a) an aggrieved person may seek injunctive relief, and under subdivision (b) the person may recover damages for losses caused by noncompliance. Unlike former Section 9507, however, subdivisions (a) and (b) are not limited to noncompliance with provisions of this Chapter of Division 9. Rather, they apply to noncompliance with any provision of this Division. The change makes this section applicable to noncompliance with Sections 9207 (duties of secured party in possession of collateral), 9208 (duties of secured party having control over deposit account), 9209 (duties of secured party if account debtor has been notified of an assignment), 9210 (duty to comply with request for accounting, etc.), 9509(a) (duty to refrain from filing unauthorized financing statement), and 9513(a) or (c) (duty to provide termination statement). Subdivision (a) also modifies the first sentence of former Section 9507(1) by adding the references to “collection” and “enforcement.” Subdivision (c)(2), which gives a minimum damage recovery in consumer-goods transactions, applies only to noncompliance with the provisions of this Chapter.

3. Damages for Noncompliance with This Division. Subdivision (b) sets forth the basic remedy for failure to comply with the requirements of this Division: a damage recovery in the amount of loss caused by the noncompliance. Subdivision (c) identifies who may recover under subdivision (b). It affords a remedy to any aggrieved person who is a debtor or obligor. However, a principal obligor who is not a debtor may recover damages only for noncompliance with Section 9616, inasmuch as none of the other rights and duties in this Division run in favor of such a principal obligor. Such a principal obligor could not suffer any loss or damage on account of noncompliance with rights or duties of which it is not a beneficiary. Subdivision (c) also affords a remedy to an aggrieved person who holds a competing security interest or other lien, regardless of whether the aggrieved person is entitled to notification under Chapter 6. The remedy is available even to holders of senior security interests and other liens. The exercise of this remedy is subject to the normal rules of pleading and proof. A person who has delegated the duties of a secured party but who remains obligated to perform them is liable under this subdivision. The last sentence of subdivision (d) eliminates the possibility of double recovery or other over-compensation arising out of a reduction or elimination of a deficiency under Section 9626 in a transaction other than a consumer transaction, based on noncompliance with the provisions of this Chapter relating to collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance. Assuming no double recovery, a debtor whose deficiency is eliminated under Section 9626 may pursue a claim for a surplus.

Damages for violation of the requirements of this Division, including Section 9609, are those reasonably calculated to put an eligible claimant in the position that it would have occupied had no violation occurred. See Section 1106. Subdivision (b) supports the recovery of actual damages for committing a breach of the peace in violation of Section 9609, and principles of tort law supplement this subdivision. See Section 1103. However, to the extent that damages in tort compensate the debtor for the same loss dealt with by this Division, the debtor should be entitled to only one recovery.

4. Supplemental Damages. Subdivisions (e) and (f) provide damages that supplement the recovery, if any, under subdivision (b). Subdivision (e) imposes an additional $500 liability upon a person who fails to comply with the provisions specified in that subdivision, and subdivision (f) imposes like damages on a person who, without reasonable excuse, fails to comply with a request for an accounting or a request regarding a list of collateral or statement of account under Section 9210. However, under subdivision (f), a person has a reasonable excuse for the failure if the person never claimed an interest in the collateral or obligations that were the subject of the request.

5. Estoppel. Subdivision (g) limits the extent to which a secured party who fails to comply with a request regarding a list of collateral or statement of account may claim a security interest.

2. Scope. The basic damage remedy under Section 9625(b) is subject to the special rules in this section. This section addresses situations in which the amount of a deficiency or surplus is in issue, i.e., situations in which the secured party has collected, enforced, disposed of, or accepted the collateral. It contains special rules applicable to a determination of the amount of a deficiency or surplus. Because this section affects a person's liability for a deficiency, it is subject to Section 9628, which should be read in conjunction with Section 9605. The rules in this section apply only to noncompliance in connection with the "collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance" under Chapter 6. For other types of noncompliance with Chapter 6, the general liability rule of Section 9625(b)—recovery of actual damages—applies. Consider, for example, a repossession that does not comply with Section 9609 for want of a default. The debtor's remedy is under Section 9625(b). In a proper case, the secured party also may be liable for conversion under non-UCC law. If the secured party thereafter disposed of the collateral, however, it would violate Section 9610 at that time, and this section would apply.

3. Rebuttable Presumption Rule. Subdivision (a) establishes the rebuttable presumption rule for transactions other than consumer transactions. Under paragraph (1), the secured party need not prove compliance with the relevant provisions of this Chapter as part of its prima facie case. If, however, the debtor or a secondary obligor raises the issue (in accordance with the forum's rules of pleading and practice), then the secured party bears the burden of proving that the collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance complied. In the event the secured party is unable to meet this burden, then paragraph (3) explains how to calculate the deficiency. Under this rebuttable presumption rule, the debtor or obligor is to be credited with the greater of the actual proceeds of the disposition or the proceeds that would have been realized had the secured party complied with the relevant provisions. If a deficiency remains, then the secured party is entitled to recover it. The references to "the secured obligation, expenses, and attorney's fees" in paragraphs (3) and (4) embrace the application rules in Sections 9608(a) and 9615(a).

Unless the secured party proves that compliance with the relevant provisions would have yielded a smaller amount, under paragraph (4) the amount that a complying collection, enforcement, or disposition would have yielded is deemed to be equal to the amount of the secured obligation, together with expenses and attorney's fees. Thus, the secured party may not recover any deficiency unless it meets this burden.

4. Burden of Proof When Section 9615(f) Applies. In a non-consumer transaction, subdivision (a)(5) imposes upon a debtor or obligor the burden of proving that the proceeds of a disposition are so low that, under Section 9615(f), the actual proceeds should not serve as the basis upon which a deficiency or surplus is calculated. Were the burden placed on the secured party, then debtors might be encouraged to challenge the price received in every disposition to the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor.

5. Delay in Applying This Section. There is an inevitable delay between the time a secured party engages in a noncomplying collection, enforcement, disposition, or acceptance and the time of a subsequent judicial determination that the secured party did not comply with Chapter 6. During the interim, the secured party, believing that the secured obligation is larger than it ultimately is determined to be, may continue to enforce its security interest in collateral. If some or all of the secured indebtedness ultimately is discharged under this section, a reasonable application of this section would impose liability on the secured party for the amount of any excess, unwarranted recoveries but would not make the enforcement efforts wrongful.

6. Consumer Transactions. Subdivision (b) provides that the debtor or any secondary obligor in a consumer transaction is liable for any deficiency only if certain specified conditions are met. In a consumer transaction in which a deficiency or surplus is an issue, a secured party has the burden of proving compliance with the provisions concerning collection, enforcement, disposition, and acceptance whether or not the debtor or a secondary obligor places compliance in issue. In a consumer transaction, where a deficiency or surplus is calculated under Section 9615(f), subdivision (b) imposes on the secured party the burden of proving that the amount of proceeds of a disposition is not significantly below the range of prices that a complying disposition to a person other than the secured party, a person related to the secured party, or a secondary obligor would have brought.

2. Exculpatory Provisions. Subdivisions (a), (b), and (c) contain exculpatory provisions that should be read in conjunction with Section 9605. Without this group of provisions, a secured party could incur liability to unknown persons and under circumstances that would not allow the secured party to protect itself. The broadened definition of the term "debtor" underscores the need for these provisions.

If a secured party reasonably, but mistakenly, believes that a consumer transaction or consumer-goods transaction is a non-consumer transaction or non-consumer-goods transaction, and if the secured party's belief is based on its reasonable reliance on a representation of the type specified in subdivision (c)(1) or (c)(2), then this Division should be applied as if the facts reasonably believed and reasonably relied upon were true. For example, if a secured party reasonably believed that a transaction was a non-consumer transaction and its belief was based on reasonable reliance on the debtor's misrepresentation that the collateral secured an obligation incurred for business purposes, the rebuttable presumption rule would apply under Section 9626(b). Of course, if the secured party's belief is not reasonable or, even if reasonable, is not based on reasonable reliance on the debtor's misrepresentation, this limitation on liability is inapplicable.

3. Single Liability for Statutory Minimum Damages. Subdivision (e) ensures that a secured party will incur statutory damages only once in connection with any one secured obligation.

2. Renunciation or Modification of Rights. This section provides that no renunciation or modification by the debtor of any of his or her rights under this chapter as to consumer goods shall be valid or enforceable unless the renunciation or modification is in consideration of a waiver by the secured party of any right to a deficiency on the debt.

PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker pro Tempore Keeley, the following prayer was offered by Assembly Chaplain Rabbi Mona Alfi:

It was taught by the Dhammapada:

Our way looks right to each of us,

But what of truth?

That is weighed beyond our sight.

Heaven prefers righteousness and justice to sacrifice.

From our human perspective it is difficult to see what is the ultimate meaning of truth. For each of us "truth" means something different, it is colored and shaded by the experiences we have had and the place from where we look onto the world.

But we do have a better understanding of what is meant when we speak of righteousness and justice—these values have a universal meaning: to treat others with dignity, respect and a sense of fairness and honesty.

May our many paths towards truth lead us to a place where righteousness and justice are a way of life and not merely a goal, and when heaven's judgement comes may our efforts be judged with the same degree of compassion that we practiced in our lives.—AMEN.

Legislative Intent—Assembly Bill No. 1620

*E. Dotson Wilson
Chief Clerk of the Assembly
State Capitol
Sacramento, California*

Dear Mr. Wilson: This letter is to clarify the intent of my bill, AB 1620 relating to hazard waste materials and subpoena.

The investigations of hazardous materials accidents and any examination conducted by a county health officer or administering agency upon delegation from the board of supervisors, as authorized in AB 1620, is subject to the attorney-client privilege as specified in the Evidence Code.

In the Senate Committee on Environmental Quality, I agreed to an author's amendment striking language concerning this privilege that was unnecessary and redundant. The Evidence Code concludes that the attorney-client privilege applies to all types of investigations, including the type of investigation authorized by this bill, and that the bill does nothing to allow a breach of the privilege. Consequently, this amendment did not make a substantive change to the bill.

Sincerely,

TOM TORLAKSON, Assembly Member
Eleventh District

PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker pro Tempore Keeley, the following prayer was offered by Assembly Chaplain Rabbi Mona Alfi:

The great American poet, John Russell Lowell wrote on his theology of life:

God is in all that liberates and lifts,
In all that humbles, sweetens, and consoles.

The Divine Presence is manifest in the world around us in so many simple ways: a kind word from a friend, a smile from a stranger, a hand held out to support someone in need.

God's presence surrounds us, waiting for us to discover it.

May the Holy One of Blessing enable us to be messengers of all that liberates and lifts, and to see all that humbles, sweetens and consoles. May this be God's will.—AMEN.

PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker pro Tempore Keeley, the following prayer was offered by Assembly Chaplain Rabbi Mona Alfi:

J. Arthur Hatfield wrote:

Nature is economic in her gifts: she will not give strength to those who will not expend it. . . . She is lavish in her gifts to those who will use them. . . . The Sea of Galilee is fresh and blue and gives life to living creatures within its sunlit waters—not because it receives waters, but because it gives them freely. The Dead Sea is dead, not because there is no supply of fresh water, but because it permits no outlet. It is a law of nature—a law of life—that only by giving shall we receive.

May we always have the strength and ability to give freely of our time as well as our spirit. And may the world flourish from the gifts that we bestow upon it. May this be God's will.—AMEN.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

The following message from the Governor was received and ordered printed in the Journal:

Governor's Office, Sacramento
August 31, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am allowing Assembly Bill No. 1323 to become law without my signature.

As a result of the voter approved Proposition 140, legislative budgets were reduced. Fewer than two dozen legislative employees accepted an early retirement option anticipating their retirement benefits would be calculated on the highest twelve month basis.

The bill that would have allowed that early retirement option for these few employees was never enacted.

While I do not like to single out a group of employees, this appears to be a unique situation.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

The following veto message from the Governor was received and ordered printed in the Journal and the bill ordered to the unfinished business file:

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 461

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 1, 1999

To Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 461 without my signature.

This bill would reinstate a previously repealed requirement that Health Services (DHS) annually report to the Legislature findings from its review of Medi-Cal rates of payment to physicians and dentists. This bill is not necessary since the DHS annually surveys reimbursement rates and this information is readily available to the Legislature when requested. In addition, the additional work required by this bill could not be performed by existing departmental staff, yet no provision has been made for additional administrative resources.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 1st day of September 1999 at 11:41 a.m., of Assembly Bill No. 461 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

HUGH R. SLAYDEN

PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker pro Tempore Keeley, the following prayer was offered by Assembly Chaplain Rabbi Mona Alfi:

The great American writer, Ralph Waldo Emerson spoke on the elusiveness of time. He wrote:

The days come and go like muffled and veiled figures sent from a distant friendly party, but they say nothing, and if we do not use the gifts they bring, they carry them as silently away.

Each day we wake up is a gift, carrying with it both mysteries and blessings. The gift of time can not be put on a shelf to be used at a later date. If used unwisely, it is lost forever, but when it is well spent, it can be savored for years to come.

May we live each day to its fullest capacity, creating for our future treasured memories of time well spent. May this be God's will.—AMEN.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

The following veto message from the Governor was received and ordered printed in the Journal and bill ordered to the unfinished business file:

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 164

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 2, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 164 without my signature.

This bill requires the Trustees of the California State University (CSU) and the governing board of each community college district to direct their respective campuses to make every effort to distribute a voter registration form annually to each newly admitted student, as specified. The measure would also require officials at each institution to make voter registration materials available at central campus locations. This measure requests the Regents of the University of California (UC) to adopt a similar policy.

While I support good faith efforts to distribute voter registration materials at our institutions of higher learning, I am opposed to imposing a state-mandated cost on the California community college districts. The 1999 Budget Act did not appropriate funding for these purposes, and I continue to believe that it is not necessary to provide funding for an activity that could easily be undertaken by campus groups or other civic groups.

In addition, the measure's five specified distribution methods would restrict the respective campuses' flexibility to utilize methods that would be more suitable to local circumstances.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 2nd day of September 1999 at 2:17 p.m., of Assembly Bill No. 164 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

Legislative Intent—Assembly Bill No. 811

September 1, 1999

Mr. E. Dotson Wilson

*Chief Clerk, California State Assembly
Assembly Desk, State Capitol

RE: AB 811 (Keeley) Electrical restructuring—Power Exchange Energy Credit

Dear Mr. Wilson: As the author of Assembly Bill (AB) 811, I wish to clarify the issue of cost recovery by the utilities resulting from the implementation of procedures necessary to meet the requirements of the bill. AB 811 requires the California Public Utilities Commission (Commission) to specify an energy credit for customers with meters capable of recording data on an hourly basis to be based on the actual hourly data recorded by a customer meter and calculated as prescribed. As a result of this measure, affected utilities will be required to make programming changes in order to accommodate the movement from customer class load profile to the actual usage data of the customer in the determination of the energy credit.

During the debate on AB 811 in Senate Energy, Utilities and Communications Committee on July 13, 1999, testimony by the affected utilities revealed a wide disparity as to the cost of implementing these provisions. Cost ranges from $250,000 to $1 million were indicated by Pacific Gas and Electric, yet Southern California Edison testified that the cost would be de minimis. As a result, the discussion centered around a cost cap and what, if any, costs would be recoverable. Ultimately, the committee was reluctant to place a cap in the bill, anticipating that the affected utilities would seek to recover costs at the upper limit of any cap, regardless of the actual costs. Therefore, the committee resolved that any determination regarding the reasonableness of such costs and their possible recovery should fall to the Commission and be examined under existing procedures used in reasonableness reviews by that body.

As such, to avoid confusion, I request that this explanation be printed in the Assembly Daily Journal in order to aid commission personnel, utility personnel, and ratepayers in understanding the intent of Assembly Bill 811.

Sincerely,

FRED KEELEY, Speaker pro Tempore
California State Assembly

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

The following veto messages from the Governor were received and ordered printed in the Journal and the bills ordered to the unfinished business file:

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1490

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 7, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning AB 1490 without my signature.

Assembly Bill No. 1490 would allow part-time playground positions to be part of the classified service when the employee in the position also works in the same school district in another classified position.

While I appreciate the effort to support classified employees, I cannot support this bill because it would impose requirements retroactively as of June 1, 1999. School districts have already approved their budgets and staffing arrangements for this school year, and this bill could cause considerable disruption if enacted in its current form. In addition, this provision would prohibit districts from adjusting their staffing as a result of the implementation of this bill. This would be an unnecessary intrusion on the local collective bargaining process.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 7th day of September 1999 at 4:53 p.m., of Assembly Bill No. 1490 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

HUGH R. SLAYDEN
Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1440

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 7, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 1440 without my signature. This bill would allow journalists virtually unlimited access to convicted felons incarcerated in California state prisons.

Under present law, journalists have ample opportunities to interview convicts: 1) during regular visiting hours on the same basis as family and friends; 2) by accepting collect phone calls from the prisoner; 3) by written correspondence; and 4) by unlimited access to the prisoner's lawyer.

This bill would give journalists preferential treatment by giving them greater access than even members of the prisoner's own family. Furthermore, according to correctional authorities, its implementation would disrupt the orderly administration of prisons.

Moreover, this bill is inconsistent with the national trend to reduce, not expand, rights of prisoners (e.g., prohibiting them from profiting from their crimes by selling their "stories" via book, television, or movie rights).

The purpose of incarceration is punishment and deterrence, it is not to provide additional celebrity to convicts, many of whose criminal acts were brutal and violent, thereby causing further pain to the victims and their loved ones.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 7th day of September 1999, at 6:25 p.m., of Assembly Bill No. 1440, without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

HUGH R. SLAYDEN
Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 166Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 7, 1999*To the Members of the Assembly,*

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 166 without my signature.

Assembly Bill No. 166, an urgency measure, would make county offices of education eligible to receive funding to implement the Carl Washington School Safety and Violence Prevention program.

The $100 million provided in the 1999–00 Budget Act for this purpose was intended to serve the needs of school districts. By expanding the number of local education agencies eligible for funding, this measure would reduce the amount available for school districts.

I would be supportive of a measure which provided funding to county offices of education for this purpose, as long as the appropriation did not exceed $1 million and did not detract from the sum currently available to school districts.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Re: AB 34, Mental Health Funding, Local Grants

Dear Mr. Wilson: As author of Assembly Bill (AB) 34, I wish to clarify the meaning intended by the phrase “provision for services to be client-directed.” This phrase was added in the September 3 amendments to AB 34.

As used in my bill, the term “client-directed” is intended to provide for services to be focused upon and directed toward the needs of the individual clients, and generally means the following:

- Service planning and delivery for each individual client that is directed at the whole client, including support for the client in areas such as housing, employment, education, social interaction, health, parenting, and other aspects of the client's life activities;

- The participation of clients in the service planning and delivery process, including consideration of each client's interests, abilities, strengths, weaknesses, experiences, and preferences in services provided within the adult system of care.

To avoid confusion, I request that this explanation be printed in the Assembly Daily Journal in order to aid the understanding of the intent of this phrase in AB 34.

Sincerely,

DARRELL STEINBERG, Assembly Member
Ninth District

Upon request of Assembly Member Shelley, Assembly Members Alquist, Cox, and Briggs were granted unanimous consent that the following communications be printed in the Journal:

September 7, 1999

*Mr. E. Dotson Wilson, Chief Clerk
California State Assembly
State Capitol
Sacramento, California*

Dear Mr. Wilson: I respectfully request that this letter be printed in the Assembly Journal to explain that although I am listed as a co-author of AB 818, I am opposed to the bill in its current form. This bill has been significantly amended in conference committee, and I would have removed my name as a co-author if that option had been available to me in a timely fashion.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

ELAINE K. W. ALQUIST, Assembly Member
Twenty-second District

September 7, 1999

*Mr. E. Dotson Wilson, Chief Clerk
California State Assembly
State Capitol
Sacramento, California*

Dear Mr. Wilson: I respectfully request that this letter be printed in the Assembly Journal to explain my co-authorship of AB 818.

AB 818 was sent to a conference committee on August 31, 1999 at which time I was accurately reflected as a co-author on the legislation. However, the proposed conference committee report dated September 3, 1999, changed the bill so that I can no longer support this measure and regret being listed as a co-author.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

DAVE COX, Assembly Member
Fifth District

September 8, 1999

*Mr. E. Dotson Wilson, Chief Clerk

Dear Mr. Wilson: I respectfully request this letter be printed in the Assembly Journal explaining my co-authorship of AB 818.

AB 818 was sent to a conference committee on August 31, 1999 at which time I was accurately reflected as a co-author. However, the proposed conference committee report changed the bill significantly so that I can no longer support this measure and regret being listed as a co-author.

Sincerely,

MIKE BRIGGS, Assembly Member

PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker pro Tempore Keeley, the following prayer was offered by Assembly Chaplain Rabbi Mona Alfi:

Katherine Logan wrote on what she believed to be the secret to success, a formula that seems to be taken to heart by the Assembly:

To have faith where you cannot see; to be willing to work on in the dark; to be conscious of the fact that, so long as you strive for the best, there are better things on the way, this in itself is success.

May we continue to have faith in the work that fills our days and nights, may we continue to strive for the highest ideals, and may we never lose faith in what we can only dream will one day be reality. May this be God's will.—AMEN.

Explanation of Vote—Assembly Joint Resolution No. 27

September 9, 1999

E. Dotson Wilson
Chief Clerk of the Assembly
State Capitol, Room 3196

Re: Explanation of Vote

Dear Mr. Wilson: AJR 27 was taken up by the Assembly on August 24th and adopted by voice vote. My abstention on this vote is due to concerns that AJR 27, for some, may blur the line between Japanese Americans and the Japanese government causing a backlash against Asian Americans.

Sincerely,

GEORGE NAKANO, Assembly Member
 Fifty-third District

Upon request of Assembly Member Shelley, Assembly Member Wildman was granted unanimous consent that the following statement of legislative intent be printed in the Journal:

Legislative Intent—Assembly Bill No. 470

September 8, 1999

To the Assembly Journal:

For the record, I would like to state my legislative intent regarding a few concerns brought up by interest groups during the legislative process.

The Construction Employers' Association was concerned about the development of the prequalification requirements for design-build entities. It is my intent that when the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Director of Industrial Relations are developing the requirements for prequalification, they should consider current labor law provisions relating to public works projects.

For example, if general contractors comply with the mandates of Labor Code §§1775 & 1776, they should not be automatically disqualified from prequalification. Specifically, a contractor group, prior to January 1, 1998, should not be automatically precluded from the design build qualification process, for prevailing wage violations, if a contracted subcontractor committed violations and the contractor had no actual knowledge of the violations by the subcontractor.

Some subcontractor organizations expressed concerns about AB 470. The American Subcontractors Association, California, Construction Industry Legislative Council, Engineering Contractors' Association, and Engineering Utility Contractors' Association expressed concerns about the 5% percent retention rate held by the design build entity. It is my intent that a level retention playing field be established for all participants in the design build process. The September 1, 1999 Version of AB 470 gave additional protections to subcontractors that were not expressly stated in a previous version. If these protections are found to be inadequate, which I believe they are not, then I will introduce legislation to address this matter.

The Seismic Safety Commission expressed concerns that Assembly Bill 470 would be overriding current law regarding: school districts and the architect of record for school construction plans; and the requirement that the school construction project inspector be an independent inspector reporting directly to the school district for the construction project.

Although I do not believe that Assembly Bill 470 changes the need for an architect of record or an independent inspector, I will address this concern, if needed, in subsequent legislation. Further, as a member of the State Allocation Board, I can also request administrative action by the State Allocation Board if Assembly Bill 470 does cause these provisions to be no longer current law.

Sincerely,

SCOTT WILDMAN, Assembly Member
Forty-third District
(Burbank, Glendale and Los Angeles)

Communications

The following communications were presented by the Chief Clerk, and ordered printed in the Journal:

September 10, 1999

*E. Dotson Wilson, Chief Clerk
California State Assembly
Sacramento, California*

Dear Mr. Wilson: Yesterday, H.R. 39, honoring Doris Allen, was surreptitiously buried on the docket and approved upon a voice vote. My silence is not to be interpreted as consent. Ms. Allen has lost three elections, including her own recall, and as such, there is no precedent for bestowing her that honor.

Sincerely,

HOWARD KALOOGIAN, Assembly Member
Seventy-fourth District

September 10, 1999

*Dotson Wilson
Chief Clerk of the Assembly
State Capitol
Sacramento, California*

Dear Dotson: Last evening, the Assembly adopted by unanimous consent H.R. 39. Pursuant to Assembly Rule 104, we the undersigned request that the Journal reflect that it was not our intention to support this measure.

We would appreciate your immediate attention to this request.

Sincerely,

STEVE BALDWIN
JIM BATTIN

PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker pro Tempore Keeley, the following prayer was offered by Assembly Member Bill Leonard, of the 63rd Assembly District:

17th Century Nun's Prayer

Lord, Thou knowest better than I know myself that I am growing older and will someday be old. Keep me from the fatal habit of thinking I must say something on every subject and on every occasion. Release me from craving to straighten out everybody's affairs. Make me thoughtful but not moody; helpful but not bossy. With my vast store of wisdom, it seems a pity not to use it all, but Thou knowest Lord that I want a few friends at the end.

Keep my mind free from the recital of endless details; give me wings to get to the point. Seal my lips on my aches and pains. They are increasing, and love of rehearsing them is becoming sweeter as the years go by. I dare not ask for grace enough to enjoy the tales of others' pains, but help me to endure them with patience.

I dare not ask for improved memory, but for a growing humility and a lessening coxsureness when my memory seems to clash with the memories of others. Teach me the glorious lesson that occasionally I may be mistaken.

Keep me reasonably sweet: I do not want to be a saint—some of them are so hard to live with—but a sour old person is one of the crowning works of the devil. Give me the ability to see good things in unexpected places, and talents in unexpected people. And, give me, O Lord, the grace to tell them so.—AMEN.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE TO THE FLAG

Upon request of Speaker pro Tempore Keeley, Assembly Member Ducheny then led the Assembly in the pledge of allegiance to the Flag.

Legislative Intent—Assembly Bill No. 575

September 9, 1999

Assembly Journal

RE: Assembly Bill 575, Statement of Author's Intent,

AB 575 is the result of recent efforts to examine and institute reforms in the state's foster care system as it pertains to minors who appear before the juvenile court as a result of a petition under Welfare and Institutions Code sections 601 and 602. AB 575 is intended to bring California's delinquency statutes into compliance with Title IV E of the United States Social Security Act, and implement the requirements of the Adoption and Safe Families Act.

The Legislature directs the Judicial Council to adopt rules, forms and procedures that are consistent with the intent of AB 575, to promote reasonable efforts that preserve and reunify families, and where possible, ensure that all children grow up in safe permanent homes.

It is the intent of the Legislature that the Judicial Council monitor the provisions of AB 575 by maintaining data on the number of youth with juvenile court ordered permanent plans of return home, and the number of orders for legal guardianship, alternative planned living arrangements, termination of parental rights, and adoption.

Sincerely,

DION S. ARONER, Assembly Member
Fourteenth District

Dotson Wilson

*Chief Clerk of the Assembly
State Capitol
Sacramento, California*

Dear Mr. Wilson: This letter is to clarify the intent of Assembly Bill AB 137. Section 2, number 4(A), last sentence should read “The district is not required to check the items specified under subparagraph (D) . . .” rather than “(C)”.

Sincerely,

MARCO ANTONIO FIREBAUGH, Assembly Member

Re: AB 1511 Legislative Intent

Dear Mr. Wilson: I am writing to articulate the intent of Assembly Bill 1511 which is pending on the Senate Floor. AB 1511, sponsored by State Treasurer Philip Angelides, will protect the integrity of the municipal bond markets by reinforcing the geographic nexus requirement of the Marks-Roos Act.

AB 1511 is declaratory of existing law. Under Government Code § 6500 et. seq., two or more public agencies must agree to form a Joint Powers Authority (JPA). AB 1511 would not alter this requirement. It would merely clarify that although a mutual water company may join in an already validly formed JPA consisting of at least two public agencies for the purpose of jointly exercising common powers, it cannot be considered a member of the JPA for purposes of satisfying the geographic nexus requirements of Government Code § 6586.5.

Under current law, a project to be funded by a JPA must be located within the jurisdiction of at least one of the constituent public agencies. Despite the fact that the definition of a “public agency” for purposes of the JPA law does not include a mutual water company, some recent financing transactions have been premised on the notion that a mutual water company can satisfy this geographic nexus requirement. AB 1511 is intended to end this latest effort to mislead investors about legality of “roving JPAs” and the appropriate uses of mutual water companies.

Sincerely,

DEAN FLOREZ, Assembly Member
Thirtieth District

RE: AB 884 (Kuehl) Advance-Fee Talent Services

Dear Mr. Wilson: As the author of Assembly Bill (AB) 884, I wish to clarify the intent and purpose of the bill.

A concern was raised that piano teachers and those who provide similar services would inadvertently be brought within the scope of this bill. It is my intent that the language of Section 1701 (a)(1) of the Labor Code apply only to those persons offering services that are directly related to the future employment of the artist as an artist.

Those persons offering employment counseling or services in exchange for a fee unrelated to future employment should not be considered within the scope of this bill.

Sincerely,

SHEILA JAMES KUEHL, Assembly Member
 Forty-first District

Legislative Intent—Assembly Bill No. 1584

September 10, 1999

Mr. E. Dotson Wilson, Chief Clerk
California State Assembly
State Capitol
Sacramento, California

Dear Mr. Wilson: The purpose of this letter is to clarify my intent as the author of Assembly Bill 1584 with regard to certain provisions contained in the bill.

Article 8 of this measure creates the Yuba Feather Flood Protection Program. It is my intention that this article serves to provide funding necessary to assist state and local entities with the costs associated with flood protection projects in the region. Section 76068.8 (c) requires that local project proponents agree to pay at least that portion of the nonfederal capital costs required by Government Code Section 12585.5. This provision is not intended to require a mandatory local share where a local agency may be subject to the "ability to pay" provisions under subdivision (m) of Section 103 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 (33 U.S. C. 2213 (m)).

Furthermore, Section 79068.12 is intended to provide local share money for projects in Sutter County and implemented by the County of Sutter.

Sincerely,

MICHAEL J. MACHADO, Assembly Member
 Seventeenth District

Dear Mr. Dotson: I respectfully request that the following letter be printed in the Assembly Daily Journal:

“To the Members of the Assembly and Senate:

I am the author of AB 1584, which provides for an Interim Reliable Water Supply and Water Quality Infrastructure and Management Program, Article 4 (commencing with Section 79205.2) of Chapter 9 of Division 26.

The intent of Article 4 is to respond to the critical water needs of California. In the event of a drought or other environmental circumstance, which leads to a substantial curtailment of California’s water supplies, the funds provided by Article 4 are designed to provide improved water reliability and quality for our state’s water supply.

It is my intent and the intent of Senator Jim Costa, that individual projects funded under Article 4 shall be reviewed on a project-by-project basis as part of the budget process. Further, these projects shall be recommended by the Department of Water Resources, with final approval being granted by the Governor.

It is not, however, the intent of Article 4 that any of the funds be used to construct surface water storage facilities or to extend the San Luis Drain.

Sincerely,

MICHAEL J. MACHADO, Assembly Member
Seventeenth District”

Thank you for your consideration of my request.

Sincerely,

MICHAEL J. MACHADO, Assembly Member
Seventeenth District

Legislative Intent—Assembly Bill No. 1685

September 9, 1999

*E. Dotson Wilson
Chief Clerk, California State Assembly
State Capitol, Room 3196
Sacramento, California*

Dear Mr. Wilson: The following is to clarify the intent of AB 1685, authored by the Assembly Committee on Information Technology, regarding the implementation of the statute proposed by this measure, should it be adopted into law.

The bill proposes to establish a process for placing notices of proposed changes to local regulated substance rules and regulations on the Internet. This measure provides that, should a city or county submit such a notice to the California Environmental Protection Agency (Cal-EPA), the Agency then place that notice on the Internet.

It is not the intent of the Committee to require Cal-EPA to post the exact notice sent by local regulating bodies on the Internet, but rather to require complete posting of the information contained therein. Further, it is the intent of the Committee that Cal-EPA determine how the information is to be posted best on the Internet. Moreover, it would not be inconsistent with the intent of the Committee to assume that Cal-EPA has the flexibility, within the requirements of this measure, to allow for uniform posting of information regardless of the form in which it was submitted to the Agency.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN A. DUTRA

Chair, Assembly Committee on Information Technology

Legislative Intent—AB 1652

September 9, 1999

*The Honorable E. Dotson Wilson
Chief Clerk of the Assembly
State Capitol, Room 3196
Sacramento, California*

RE: AB 1652

Dear Mr. Wilson: As author of Assembly Bill 1652, I wish to clarify the meaning of Section 4 of the bill.

Section 4 of the bill, as passed by the Senate on September 9, 1999, contains a new Section 226.7 of the Labor Code, prohibiting any employer from requiring any employee to work any meal or rest period mandated by an applicable order of the Industrial Welfare Commission.

This new section does not repeal any existing exceptions or waivers to meal or rest period requirements that are contained in any order, such as those which permit work during meal periods when the nature of the work prevents an employee from being relieved of all duty pursuant to a written agreement between the parties.

Sincerely,

DARREL STEINBERG, Assembly Member
Ninth District

Re: Assembly Journal Submission Request

I am writing to request permission to submit the following statement to the Assembly Journal regarding Assembly Bill 311.

“AB 311 adds 3 members to the State Teachers’ Retirement Board, and changes the qualifications for existing appointed seats on the Board. In making those changes, it is my intent that any individual currently serving on the Teachers’ Retirement Board not be required to leave the Board before the expiration of their term, and that any person currently serving on the Board not be required to leave the Board before their replacement is appointed. Thank you for this opportunity to state my intent for the record.”

Thank you for your consideration of this request.

Sincerely,

MICHAEL M. HONDA, Assembly Member
Twenty-third District

Legislative Intent—Assembly Bill No. 604

*Mr. E. Dotson Wilson
Chief Clerk of the Assembly
State Capitol
Sacramento, California*

Dear Mr. Wilson: This letter is to clarify the intent of my bill, AB 604, relating to nonpoint source (NPS) pollution, and my expectations for the state Water Resources Control Board (SWRCB) in this endeavor.

While AB 604 requires the SWRCB to consult with other state agencies to establish a program strategy and implementation plan and performance goals for management measures for NSP pollution in compliance with federal law by certain dates, I understand that the SWRCB does not have the statutory authority to mandate the policy or allocation of resources for the 22 other state agencies with NPS responsibilities. Therefore, the word “it” on page 3, line 37, and on page 4, line 7, refers solely to the status of the SWRCB’s NPS program elements, and I understand that this section does not give any additional authority to the SWRCB.

In addition, federal decisions of the state’s NPS Fifteen-Year Program Strategy and Five-Year Implementation Plan, by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, is expected in the spring of 2000. Since meeting the deadlines in the bill for establishing the performance goals and reporting to the Legislature on the management measures under development may be difficult to achieve by the dates specified, the bill calls on the SWRCB to notify the appropriate legislative policy and fiscal committees if these mandates cannot be completed nine months prior to the deadlines.

Sincerely,

HANNAH-BETH JACKSON, Assembly Member
Thirty-fifth District

Legislative Intent—Assembly Bill No. 427

September 10, 1999

*The Honorable Antonio Villaraigosa
Speaker of the Assembly
State Capitol, Room 219
Sacramento, California*

RE: AB 427 (Scott) Insurance: Delinquency Proceedings

Dear Mr. Villaraigosa: The amendments to Government Code section 11042, contained in AB 427, are declaratory of existing law. Officers and agencies currently exempt from the requirements of section 11042 pursuant to Government Code section 11041 are not affected by this bill. This statement reflects the intent of the Legislature. I ask that it be printed in the Journal of the Assembly.

Respectfully submitted,

JACK SCOTT, Assembly Member
Forty-fourth District

Legislative Intent—Assembly Bill No. 1161

September 10, 1999

*Speaker Antonio Villaraigosa
State Capitol
Sacramento, California*

Dear Mr. Speaker: This letter concerns AB 1161, Medi-Cal, nursing facilities. This bill was approved by the Governor on August 23, 1999.

It is the author's intent that nothing in AB 1161 is to prevent the Department of Health Services from using the statement in Section 3 (to be codified at Welfare & Institutions Code § 14006.4(a)) as part of the standard nursing facility admission agreement developed pursuant to Health & Safety Code § 1599.61.

Thank you for the opportunity to clarify the author's intent.

Sincerely,

NELL SOTO, Assembly Member
Sixty-first District

Legislative Intent—Assembly Bill No. 1154

September 10, 1999

*Mr. Dotson Wilson
Chief Clerk of the Assembly
State Capitol
Sacramento, California*

RE: Letter to the File AB 1154 (Torlakson)

Mr. Wilson: I am writing this letter to the file to clarify my intent in the meaning of Section 5, subdivision (a) of AB 1154. Specifically, this section reads:

"It is the intent of the Legislature that a minimum of eighty-five million dollars ($85,000,000) be appropriated for the program established pursuant to this article, through the annual Budget Act. Of the funds appropriated for the program, 50 percent shall be reserved for programs that operate at elementary schools and 50 percent shall be reserved for programs that operate at middle and junior high schools.”

I did not intend for this to conflict with the language in the Budget Act of 1999. The Budget Act appropriates an additional $35 million to the After School and Safe Neighborhoods Program—$25 million for middle school programs and $10 million for the elementary school program. Therefore, it is my intent that AB 1154 complies with the Budget Act for the appropriation of funds for this program. I would be happy to introduce follow up legislation next year to clarify this intent.

Sincerely,

TOM TORLAKSON, Assembly Member
Eleventh District

Legislative Intent—Assembly Bill No. 214

*E. Dotson Wilson
Chief Clerk to the Assembly
State Capitol, Room 3196
Sacramento, California*

RE: AB 214 (Wiggins)

In introducing AB 214, it was my intent to encourage the use on public works projects of 1) unmanufactured materials that have been produced in the United States (preferably in California), and 2) manufactured materials that have been manufactured in the United States (preferably in California) from materials that are substantially derived from the United States (and preferably from California). This will channel taxpayer dollars collected from Californians to support jobs in California and in the United States rather than to export those jobs to other countries.

Thus, it was not my intent for this bill to deny a preference to materials where a substantial part of the labor involved in the production of the materials occurs in the United States or California. For example, if imported steel is re-rolled in California and the re-rolled steel is subsequently fabricated in California for use on a public works project, it would qualify for the preference. That is because the re-rolled steel that is subsequently fabricated is “substantially derived” from labor performed here in California. It was not my intent that there be a requirement in this bill that all the labor involved in creating the steel to be fabricated be performed in California or that the raw materials come from California. Rather, because the final “manufactured material” is the fabricated steel (not the unfabricated steel), it is enough that prior to fabrication a “substantial” amount of the labor necessary to create the steel which is subsequently fabricated (i.e. the material to be “manufactured”) is performed in California.

It is my belief that the language in this bill reflects my intent as outlined in this letter.

Sincerely,

PAT WIGGINS, Assembly Member
Seventh District

Upon request of Assembly Member Shelley, Assembly Member Nakano was granted unanimous consent that the following communication be printed in the Journal:

September 10, 1999

*E. Dotson Wilson, Chief Clerk
Room 3196
Sacramento, California*

Dear Mr. Wilson,

Please note in the Assembly Daily Journal that I would like to be added as a co-author to AB 214. I wholeheartedly support this measure that would require state agencies to use American manufactured steel for all public works projects. Unfortunately, Assemblywoman Wiggins did not receive my request to co-author prior to the last amendment, which prevented me from adding on to this measure.

Sincerely,

GEORGE NAKANO, Assembly Member
Fifty-third District

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

The following veto messages from the Governor were received and ordered printed in the Journal and the bills ordered to the unfinished business file:

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 131

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 16, 1999

To Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 131 without my signature.

This bill would increase the state reimbursement for costs associated with local agencies transporting prisoners incarcerated at state prison facilities. Under AB 131, these costs incurred by local agencies would include all direct costs, and local agencies would be entitled to recover all actual direct costs for total round-trip distance.

The 1999 Budget Act includes a base augmentation intended to address reasonable and necessary costs incurred by local agencies for the transportation of prisoners to and between state prisons. The need for additional resources beyond this budget augmentation has not been demonstrated, and for this reason, I am unable to sign AB 131.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 16th day of September 1999 at 3 p.m., of Assembly Bill No. 131 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

HUGH R. SLAYDEN
Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1361

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 17, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1361 without my signature.

Small claims court filing fees were increased in 1998 to support court operations. This requested increase would result in a small claims filing fee increase of nearly 70% in just 2 years.

Small claims court filings have decreased 23% in the last 10 years. Each filing fee increase contributes to closing the courthouse doors.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 17th day of September 1999 at 11:15 a.m., of Assembly Bill No. 1361 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

LAWRENCE A. MURMAN
Assistant Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 84

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 22, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 84 without my signature. Not only is this bill anti-competition and anti-consumer, it represents the worst kind of end-of-session maneuvering by special interests. A bill with an unrelated purpose was gutted and changed entirely in the final hours before the Legislature adjourned. It then was rushed through both houses with virtually no public notice, no public input and no demonstrated public need. An argument can be made that the preference by many local governments for retail economic activity over manufacturing or housing is questionable public policy that must be addressed by, among other things, looking at the fiscal arrangement between state and local governments. But matters largely involving local land-use and zoning decisions should not be preempted by the Legislature and Governor without thoughtful deliberation. As a general principle, consumers should not be limited in their choices simply through questionable governmental fiat, and that is exactly what this bill seeks to do.

However, I am signing another measure, AB 178, which provides a responsible process for dealing with the issue of large retail stores. AB 178 prohibits local governments from offering financial incentives to large retail stores or auto dealers that relocate from one jurisdiction to another jurisdiction in the same market area, unless the receiving local government offers a contract to share some of the resulting sales tax revenues with the other local government.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 22nd day of September 1999 at 4:15 p.m., of Assembly Bill No. 84 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

LAWRENCE A. MURMAN
Assistant Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 23

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 27, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 23 without my signature.

This bill would have transferred specified portions of certain streets, highways, and bridges from the City of Long Beach to state ownership as part of State Highway Route 710.

I recognize that the City of Long Beach and the Port of Long Beach have had ongoing and lengthy discussions with the Department of Transportation regarding the transfer of these properties. Unfortunately, a recent site investigation has disclosed four hazardous waste sites involving soil and water contamination on the property to be transferred to the state. Because state and federal hazardous waste laws charge the owner of property with responsibility for the cost of cleaning up such contamination, this bill would burden the state with the costs of cleaning up the hazardous materials.

The bill contains no provision for the unknown but likely significant costs to the state for remediation of these sites. Therefore, the bill is premature until discussions between the City and the state regarding key issues, including liability for the hazardous material sites on the property, have been concluded.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 216

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 27, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 216 without my signature.

This bill would eliminate the current transfers of specified fines from the Alcohol Beverage Control Fund to the General Fund, and instead provide for deposit of those funds into a new Alcoholic Beverage Control Special Enforcement and Training Fund. The bill specifies that 75 percent of this new fund's annual appropriation would go to grants to local law enforcement agencies, and the remainder to the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control for remedial licensee training and administration of the grant program.

The bill would result in a loss of $2.7 million available to the General Fund, which was not reflected in the 1999 Budget Act.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 378

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 27, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 378 without my signature.

Assembly Bill No. 378 would permit the governing board of any non-merit system school district or community college district to delegate decisions on discipline of classified employees to binding arbitration. This bill would also clarify existing law to provide that districts that have adopted the merit system are not precluded from negotiating a provision that makes the findings and decision of a hearing officer or other authorized representative binding.

While I am supportive of binding arbitration in some cases, I see no reason to alter the current system of discipline in school and community college districts with regard to classified employees. School districts and community college districts should retain the authority granted under current law.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 558

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 27, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 558 without my signature.

Assembly Bill No. 558 would require the State Department of Education to develop and distribute a curriculum about domestic violence prevention instruction. This bill would also allow, but not require, school districts to provide domestic violence prevention instruction to pupils in grades 1 through 12.

While I am supportive of efforts to reduce domestic violence, I cannot support this bill for the following reasons. Existing law already requires instruction in the principles and practices of individual, family, and community health. In addition, if districts chose to provide such instruction this bill could result in redirections of up to $7 million away from core academic programs. Any such issues should be addressed through the annual Budget Act. Finally, this bill contains no provision for parents to exempt their children from this instruction if they so choose.

I would support a requirement that the state's health curriculum framework, as adopted by the State Board of Education, include sections on domestic violence. This revision would be included as part of the regular curriculum framework adoption process. Any such legislation should also include a provision allowing for parents to exempt their children from instruction in this area.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 985

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 27, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 985 without my signature.

Assembly Bill No. 985 would specifically authorize schoolwide parent teacher associations or similar organizations to sell food on school sites if all income from the sales benefit schools or student organizations. This bill would prohibit food sales from occurring more than twice per month, and authorize a school district to establish a policy to limit the sale of food if the district determines that the sale would affect the financial viability of the school cafeteria program.

While I support the intent of this bill—to ensure that parent teacher associations are able to sell food to benefit their schools, I believe that the bill is unnecessary. While current state regulations restrict the sale of food by pupil and student organizations, nothing in current law or regulations prohibits the sale of food by parent teacher associations. Local school boards have the authority to set their own policies regarding such food sales, provided that those policies are consistent with state law.

Because this bill would prohibit food sales from occurring more than twice per month, it would place undue restrictions on the ability of parent teacher associations to conduct food sales to benefit schools. Local school boards should retain the right to set their own policies regarding food sales, as provided for under current law.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 989

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 27, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 989 without my signature.

This bill would authorize the executive director of the California Coastal Commission to record a notice of violation if the director has determined that property has been developed in violation of the California Coastal Act.

The bill would inappropriately shift the burden of proof from a governmental entity to a private individual who must then affirmatively prove they did not act in violation of the Coastal Act. Current law provides the Coastal Commission with other remedies to address violations of the act. Therefore, this bill is unnecessary.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1293

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 27, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1293 without my signature.

This bill would have required the Coastal Commission to carry out public education and outreach programs relating to boating and nonpoint source pollution and would have extended the Commission's authority beyond the coastal zone for purposes of these programs.

I do not support expanding the Commission's authority beyond the coastal zone. Moreover, the Department of Boating and Waterways is the appropriate agency to carry out public education programs related to boating. In addition, programs relating to nonpoint source pollution should be carried out by the State Water Resources Control Board and the regional water quality control boards.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1370

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 27, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1370 without my signature.

This bill would enact the Earned Income Tax Credit Information Act and would require employers who must provide unemployment insurance to their employees to notify their employees that they may be eligible for the federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC).

Given that the EITC is federal law, it is primarily the responsibility of the federal government to educate taxpayers on its availability. It would be inappropriate for the state to impose this responsibility on businesses, as this bill would do.

Federal agencies and nonprofit groups have made commendable efforts to make those who are eligible aware of the EITC through outreach programs in many different languages. These entities also help employers interested in assisting employees in receiving credit payments.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1596

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 27, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1596 without my signature.

This bill would establish the Task Force on Financing Essential School Facilities, consisting of 15 members, for the purpose of identifying federal, state, and local resources available for financing essential school facilities not eligible under the State School Facilities Program. A task force report including findings and recommendations would be due to the Legislature by July 1, 2000.

There are few challenges more important for California's future than the need to build additional school facilities. While the facilities cited by the author as ineligible under the current school facilities program are meritorious, I believe that our first commitment must be to financing additional classroom space in order to meet the state's future enrollment growth. Meeting this most basic need remains my highest priority.

In addition, the Commission on Building for the 21st Century is charged with developing a comprehensive building plan that will address the state's infrastructure needs, including school facilities. I believe that the Task Force established by this bill would duplicate the work of this Commission.

Assembly Bill No. 1596 creates a new task force whose mission is not clearly defined. I am not convinced that a task force and a corresponding appropriation of $50,000 is appropriate at this time, as the bill does not appear to have a clearly defined purpose nor delineate specific deficiencies in the current School Facilities Program. In addition, any such task force should include representation from the State Board of Education and the Office of the Secretary for Education.

For these reasons I cannot support this bill.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 27th day of September 1999 at 10:30 a.m., of Assembly Bills Nos. 23, 216, 378, 558, 985, 989, 1293, 1370, and 1596 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

RALPH ROMO

Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 214

Governor's Office, Sacramento

September 28, 1999

To Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 214 without my signature.

Assembly Bill 214 would require all State and municipal procuring authorities to contract only with persons or entities who agree to use or supply materials of United States origin. It also establishes for the same contracts, a 5% price preference for California-made products. The bill applies to all contracts of $50,000 or more.

While the intent of this legislation is laudable, it could result in California companies and workers actually losing millions of dollars in domestic contract and export opportunities. As written, this bill would automatically trigger reciprocal preferences against California companies in 35 out of 50 states, thus negating any benefit of the preference. The bill also appears to violate the Agreement on Government Procurement provisions of the World Trade Organization, which could result in billions of dollars in retaliatory trade measures aimed at U.S. and, in particular, California industries.

The bill would also increase the cost of public works projects in California by as much as hundreds of millions of dollars. In fact, construction costs for building new public schools alone could increase as much as $77 million.

AB 214, however, highlights a serious problem that deserves action. As a result of current procurement practices that favor the lowest bidder, foreign-made steel of questionable quality is being used in public works projects. Some of this steel has failed to meet California safety standards in major public facilities including bridges.

In order to ensure that public works projects meet the highest level of safety standards, I am issuing the attached Executive Order. This Order will:

- Require all contracting agencies, including CalTrans, to use the highest quality standards for materials permissible in pre-qualifying bidders for all public works projects.
- Direct the Department of General Services to evaluate and recommend whether "best value" contracting practices should be expanded beyond current statutory authority.
- Direct the Department of General Services to evaluate and recommend legislative language for introduction in 2000 to broaden California's reciprocal preference laws to include additional products and services.

I support the intent of the sponsors in drafting this legislation, but I believe this legislation is too broad and would cost California businesses and workers much more than it would gain.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 29th day of September 1999 at 9:04 a.m., of Assembly Bill No. 214 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

HUGH R. SLAYDEN

Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 38

Governor's Office, Sacramento

September 28, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 38 without my signature.

Assembly Bill No. 38 would authorize any district governing board to develop a specified plan for the establishment of a comprehensive education and guidance program. Current law already authorizes any district governing board to provide a comprehensive educational counseling program for all pupils enrolled in the schools of a district.

While the general intent of the bill—to align the comprehensive education and guidance program with the National Standards for School Counseling Program is laudable, this bill is too prescriptive. If the district governing board decides to initiate a plan, this measure would mandate the plan to include, among many other things, developmentally appropriate pupil competencies, strategies for phasing out noncounseling activities currently being performed by counselors, provisions to ensure 80% of counselor time is spent in direct prevention and intervention services, and provisions for links between the educational guidance and counseling program and resources in the community. These provisions are too restrictive and may actually deter school districts from establishing a comprehensive education and guidance program.

Earlier this year, I signed AB 1113 (Florez), an education budget trailer bill, which provides $100 million for safety related initiatives, including additional secondary school counselors. AB 1113 provides both important resources and flexibility to school districts which is not provided in AB 38.

For these reasons, I cannot support this measure.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 100

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 28, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 100 without my signature.

Although the measure is well intentioned it is flawed in several important respects:

First, tobacco related illnesses covered by MediCAL are already paid for by the state general fund. There is no need for a restricted fund to cover these costs. In addition, there are two tobacco-related funds which have been created by initiatives, Prop. 99 and Prop. 10. These propositions provide over $400 million and almost $700 million respectively for health and education.

Second, during my tenure as California's Lieutenant Governor, I asked the then Attorney General to sue the tobacco industry. After he refused to do so I filed an action pursuant to the California Private Attorney General Statute. Several months later, the Attorney General did file a case and our suits were joined. The causes of action seeking recoupment of health related expenditures by the state were dismissed by the Court. The cases were then settled by the parties.

Therefore, the tobacco lawsuit causes of action from which these monies derive were based on California's Unfair Competition Act (Business and Professions Code Section 17200 et seq.) and the state's false advertising law (Business and Professions Code Sec. 17500 et seq.) and not for reimbursement of health care coverage.

Finally, it is the better policy to maintain flexibility in the use of the tobacco settlement funds for other purposes as well. In the event of unforeseen fiscal emergencies, it is critical for the Administration to have discretionary control of the uses of these monies.

Therefore, while I appreciate the importance of providing sufficient health services to Californians in need of these services, I cannot sign Assembly Bill 100.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 597

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 28, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 597 without my signature.

This bill would require the Department of Transportation (Caltrans) to develop proposals for flexibility in existing statewide design standards for certain types of highways, including highways that serve as towns or city streets, highways in environmentally sensitive areas, and highway or bridge retrofit or maintenance projects. Caltrans also would be required to establish an internal working group, comprised of representatives of a broad range of interests, to assist in the development of the design standards.

Costs to form the working group and develop standards would be approximately $300,000; however, the bill does not provide funding necessary for implementation. This program and the funding required to implement it, should be considered as part of the normal budget process.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 662

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 28, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 662 without my signature.

This bill will apply civil discovery procedures to criminal profiteering asset forfeiture proceedings; allow a court to stay an asset forfeiture proceeding in a criminal profiteering case until a criminal proceeding is completed; requires the district attorney to locate parties who may hold security and ownership interests in the property subject to forfeiture; and provides that state forfeiture procedures and provisions preempt inconsistent local ordinances.

The bulk of this bill's provisions are laudable, giving prosecutors more tools to trace the fruits of illegal activity and to seize assets acquired by criminals in organized crime cases. While it is reasonable to provide for a uniform set of procedural protections, I do not support this bill's broad attack on local forfeiture ordinances. This language was added hastily, without proper debate and support from the law enforcement community.

It is not appropriate for the State to take away the tools from Oakland, Sacramento, and other cities considering the adoption of similar ordinances without a more careful analysis of the amount of discretion which should be left to cities to craft their own remedies in response to local conditions.

I invite the Legislature to revisit this issue next year with a measure that receives input from all interested parties and a careful analysis on the impact to public safety.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 745

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 28, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 745 without my signature.

This bill would cap the amount of a penalty assessment at $100 for motor vehicle registration and equipment violations. The bill also requires the Department of Motor Vehicles to retain "failure to appear" records for ten years, rather than five as under current law.

This bill, while well-intentioned, may send the wrong signal that equipment violations and failures to appear in court are no longer considered serious matters. Vehicle equipment violations are enforced by law enforcement for reasons of safety. Failure to repair a defective headlight could well affect the safety of the motoring public. Reducing fines for failure to correct violations and failure to appear in court would also diminish the importance of these matters in the public's mind.

In addition, while the bill implies that the penalty limitation is exclusive to equipment violations, the bill in fact encompasses a variety of serious offenses that are well beyond equipment violations, such as seatbelt and motorcycle helmet laws and prohibitions against the use of radar jamming devices.

Finally, the Department of Finance believes that notwithstanding other objections, this measure would not be effective unless problems in records coordination between the courts and DMV are resolved.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 889

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 28, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 889 without my signature.

The State of California can reasonably assume that people entering into marriage are fully cognizant of their contractual rights and responsibilities.

However, I would support a measure that would require the Judicial Council to create this fact sheet and make it available upon request, rather than making it mandatory.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 933

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 28, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 933 without my signature.

While this bill seeks to divert cases involving domestic violence to arbitration, it may have the effect of increasing the operations of trial courts statewide. As the cost of these court operations increase as a result of this bill, the aggregate total could create an unknown but significant pressure on the General Fund.

A more realistic and less costly alternative may be to provide security for the participants in the arbitration meeting itself, thus expending less money than is associated with a full trial proceeding and other court related services.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 952

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 28, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 952 without my signature.

While this bill has merit, it involves major budgetary expenditure and should be considered in the normal budget process.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 956

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 28, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 956 without my signature.

This measure would require the Fish and Game Commission, based on a recommendation from the Department of Fish and Game, to identify a non-listed species that would benefit from a prevention-based strategy to reduce risks to the survival of that species and halt its further decline. The bill also would require the Department to develop a recovery strategy for that species.

I am supportive of the purpose of this bill, which is to develop recovery strategies for non-listed species in order to avoid further decline of the species and to avoid potential listing as threatened or endangered under the California Endangered Species Act. However, the bill contains no funding to carry out its requirements and therefore creates an expectation for significant revenues from the General Fund. Funding for such a program should be considered in the normal budget process.

Further, the bill inadvertently requires the Director of Fish and Game to certify to the Secretary of State that sufficient funds for its implementation have been appropriated. This provision is unnecessary. The appropriate officer to determine whether funds have been appropriated for a program should be the Director of Finance.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1423

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 28, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1423 without my signature.

This bill would require local agencies to submit biannual reports on investments and the placement of their local agency moneys, to the California Debt and Investment Advisory Commission (CDIAC) under specified conditions.

The bill would result in a state reimbursable mandated cost for local agencies to submit the required reports to CDIAC. In addition, the bill would require additional resources of $225,000 annually to the State Treasurer to support the activities of the bill. Funding for this program should be considered as part of the normal budget process.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

HUGH R. SLAYDEN
Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 604

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 28, 1999

To the Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 604 without my signature.

This bill would require the State Water Resources Control Board (SWRCB), in consultation with other state agencies, to establish a nonpoint source program strategy and implementation plan and performance goals for management measures and submit a progress report to the Legislature on the program.

This bill is unnecessary because the SWRCB currently is working, in cooperation with 22 other state agencies, to comply with federal requirements to establish a comprehensive coastal nonpoint source pollution program, including the development of management measures. The deadlines for developing performance goals in AB 604 are inconsistent with this effort and do not reflect the commitment by appropriate federal, state, local and private interests that is necessary to address the water quality problems caused by nonpoint source pollution.

However, I am signing SB 227 which establishes the statutory framework for California's nonpoint source program and requires the SWRCB to report regularly to the Legislature. Senate Bill 227 better complements existing water quality law and takes into consideration recent negotiations with the federal government.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 151

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 28, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 151 without my signature.

This bill is redundant. All of the named individuals are already protected. Furthermore, this bill is overly broad and requires that the Department of Justice (DOJ) submit to the Legislature a study that examines the best way to protect the:

- (1) Attorney General,
- (2) State Public Defender,
- (3) Members of the Legislature,
- (4) Judges or court commissioners,
- (5) District attorneys,
- (6) Public defenders,
- (7) Attorneys employed by the Department of Justice, the Office of the State Public Defender, or a county office of the district attorney or public defender,

- (8) City attorneys and attorneys who submit verification from their public employer that they represent the city in matters that routinely place them in personal contact with persons under investigation for, charged with, or convicted of, committing criminal acts, if those attorneys are employed by city attorneys,
- (9) Nonsworn police dispatchers,

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 407

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 28, 1999

To Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 407 without my signature.

This bill would add the "immigration status" to the list of classes protected against discrimination by the Unruh Civil Rights Act (Unruh Act).

All persons should be free from discrimination. Under the Unruh Act all residents of California, regardless of immigration status, are already protected from discrimination based in their personal characteristics, specifically ethnic origin and nationality. This bill is unnecessary because the addition of "immigration status" to the list of protected classes would not materially enhance the scope of protection that is now available under the Unruh Act.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 442

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 28, 1999

To Members of the Assembly

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 442 without my signature.

This bill would prohibit the use of state funds by an employer, either directly or indirectly, in whole or in part, to discourage unionization by an employer or any other employees. It would also require the adoption of regulations to implement these provisions and to respond to complaints by auditing to see if a violation had occurred. Violators are subject to civil damages and taxpayers would be authorized to bring action against employers, with the taxpayers being eligible to recover reasonable attorney's fees and costs as part of the judgement.

This legislation has the potential to impose an unreasonable burden on businesses in that they would have to maintain minutely-detailed records to track goods, services and funds received from the State in order to avoid violating the provisions contained therein. In addition, in the absence of a verified complaint, it would be extremely difficult, if not impossible, to determine the accuracy and truthfulness of any report or fund utilization submitted by an employer.

Finally, AB 442 also has the potential to significantly increase employers' litigation costs by providing countless opportunities for disgruntled employees to file civil actions merely in an effort to harass employers.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1040

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 28, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1040 without my signature.

While this bill individually may have merit, it must be considered in concert with the legislation already signed into law this year.

Earlier this year, I signed into law five bills which prohibit the manufacture and sale of assault weapons, ban unsafe handguns known as "Saturday Night Specials," limit the frequency of handgun purchases, require trigger locks on all firearms sold in California, and increase regulation and oversight of gun shows. Taken together, this legislation provides California with the toughest gun-control laws in the nation—much stronger than federal law. A strong majority of Californians clearly demanded and supported such action, and I made a commitment as a candidate for Governor to deliver it.

Law enforcement agencies must have time to absorb and enforce the major revisions enacted into law this year. Additionally, I would like the benefit of feedback from law enforcement officials, including prosecutors, on the effectiveness of these bills before burdening them with additional responsibilities. Accordingly, I urge the Legislature to withhold passage of any additional significant firearms-related legislation during the balance of this session until the impact of the laws recently enacted can be measured and analyzed.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 30th day of September 1999 at 11:55 a.m., of Assembly Bills Nos. 151, 407, 442, 1040, and 1142 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 851

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 5, 1999

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 851 without my signature.

Existing law requires every school district to ensure that all pupils in grades 7 to 12 receive AIDS prevention instruction, including instruction regarding the human immunodeficiency virus, unless the parent or guardian of the child requests otherwise.

I support requiring HIV/AIDS instruction to be medically accurate and unbiased. I recently signed Assembly Bill 246 (Chapter 234, Statutes of 1999), which requires that all sex education course materials and instruction offered by school districts to be medically accurate and free of racial, ethnic, and gender bias.

However, I believe that Assembly Bill No. 851 is unnecessary. Approximately 870 school districts are currently providing sex education instruction at their discretion. Those districts are required by Education Code Section 51533 to "stress that sexually transmitted diseases are serious possible hazards." Thus, in the vast majority of school districts in the state, this instruction already includes information on sexually transmitted infections. In addition, that instruction is required to be medically accurate and free of racial, ethnic, and gender bias.

For this reason I cannot support Assembly Bill No. 851.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1325

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 5, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1325 without my signature.

Assembly Bill No. 1325 would revise the current equalization process for juvenile court and county community school revenue limits by providing that, commencing in the 1999–00 fiscal year, all county offices of education with revenue limits below 115 percent of the statewide average receive a full cost-of-living adjustment. This bill would require that funds in excess of this adjustment be used to equalize revenue limits in these programs pursuant to a new equalization formula.

While I am aware of the disproportionate inflation allocations provided to these programs under current law, I note that there remain disparities between counties' revenue limits. The purpose of the current equalization process is to close the gap between these levels of funding.

This bill would widen the funding gap by reducing equalization funding from the low-wealth counties and allocating it to the higher-wealth counties in the form of an inflation adjustment. In addition, by using a "moving target" for equalization purposes, this bill would modify the equalization process such that the allocation could extend indefinitely.

Finally, I believe that this bill is unnecessary. Current law requires that the equalization process extend until the 2000–01 fiscal year, or until these revenue limits have been sufficiently equalized. At that time, all counties will receive full cost-of-living adjustments.

For these reasons I cannot support Assembly Bill No. 1325.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RALPH ROMO

Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 58

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 6, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 58 without my signature.

AB 58 requires any health care professional making a medical necessity decision for health care services to be licensed in California.

I have already signed Senate Bill 59 which requires an HMO's Medical Director to be licensed in this state. I am concerned, however, that AB 58 will unduly restrict the ability of health plans and insurers to retain the services of out-of-state professionals (for example, physicians from the Mayo Clinic, Johns Hopkins and Sloan-Kettering) who may be needed to make medical necessity decisions.

AB 58 would preclude out-of-state experts from making determinations regarding medical necessity which will, in some cases, inhibit the best input on critical clinical questions. While the bill would allow a California physician to consult with an out-of-state physician, the final decision would have to be made by a California licensee. This effectively prohibits plans from employing top experts to make the decisions in very specialized cases.

Out-of-state expertise provides significant benefits to patients, especially when dealing with rare diseases. While I believe very strongly that physicians should be making medical necessity decisions, the requisite expertise to make these decisions sometimes lies beyond our borders.

I look forward to working with the Legislature to receive an improved version of this bill on my desk next year.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 123

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 6, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 123 without my signature.

This bill contains an appropriation of $110,000 Proposition 98 General Fund for 1999–00 to provide supplemental funding to school districts for snow removal. This bill specifies that the funding is for 50 percent of the actual cost of snow removal in excess of $10 per unit of average daily attendance. This bill also specifies legislative intent that funds for this purpose continue to be appropriated in each annual Budget Act to reimburse school districts for snow removal.

The 1999 Omnibus Education Trailer Bill, AB 1115 (Strom-Martin), includes an appropriation of $182,500 on a one-time basis for snow removal to the districts eligible under the provisions of this bill. Since AB 123 would provide additional funds to the same districts for the same purpose, I believe this legislation is unnecessary.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 444

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 6, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 444 without my signature.

This bill requires the State Controller to establish an amnesty program for delinquent holders of unclaimed property. Under the amnesty program, qualified holders who remit property during the amnesty period would not have to pay interest on amounts that are past due.

Although I support the objectives of this bill, I believe the bill contains technical problems and inequities that may not have been considered by the Legislature. For example, amnesty would be available only to holders that are not, at the time of surrender of the property, the subject of an "investigation" or "audit." These terms are not defined in the bill and could include any type of inquiry regarding a holder's report or compliance with the Unclaimed Property Law, regardless of how innocuous the issue might be.

Additionally, from an equitable standpoint, the bill would allow amnesty only for holders that belatedly come forward during the limited amnesty period, but leaves those companies that previously voluntarily remitted unclaimed property to the state potentially liable for interest. It does not seem fair and reasonable that holders who comply with the law only upon the inducement of an amnesty program should be placed in a more favorable position than those who previously voluntarily remitted unclaimed property to the state.

Moreover the severe 13 percent penalty—in addition to the 12 percent per annum interest—on holders that remit delinquent unclaimed property after the amnesty period ends may backfire and actually discourage voluntary compliance with the Unclaimed Property Law by those who merely failed to learn of the amnesty program in time to take advantage of it. Such a result would not only run contrary to the state's long-term interests, but also would be detrimental to owners of unclaimed property and the opportunity to recover it.

Nevertheless, amnesty for holders of unclaimed property is a worthwhile proposal since it would bring in substantial non-tax revenue to the state as well as identify new holders who may continue reporting unclaimed property to the state in the future. This would serve the dual goals of the Unclaimed Property Law: to reunite owners with their forgotten property, and provide a non-tax source of revenue to the state until the rightful owners can be located.

Therefore, I am willing to work with the author and the Legislature next year to fashion unclaimed property amnesty legislation that will provide greater equity and fewer technical problems than AB 444.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 469

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 6, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 469 without my signature.

Reducing the number of beneficiaries otherwise eligible to be enrolled in managed care plans would reduce the fiscal viability of plans, which rely on size and economy of scale to manage the care of beneficiaries under a fixed monthly capitation rate for each beneficiary. Also, to the extent capitation payments are less than equivalent fee-for-service costs for beneficiaries shifted away from managed care and into fee-for-service, this bill will reduce General Fund and Federal Fund savings.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 805

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 6, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 805 without my signature.

AB 805 would appropriate $1.7 million ($500,000 General Fund) for the Women, Infant, and Children (WIC) Farmers Market Nutrition Program. While I support the provision of nutritional services to vulnerable populations, I vetoed a similar augmentation for this purpose in the 1999–2000 budget because (1) state law shifted authority for this program to the Department of Health Services to enable continuance of this service without General Fund expense and (2) nutritional services (including fresh fruits and vegetables, in some instances) are currently available through other programs such as the WIC Supplemental Nutrition Program, Food Stamps, the California Food Assistance Program, and the Emergency Food Assistance Program. This measure would introduce the use of General Fund resources for a program currently supported by federal funds and vendor fines and penalties.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1058

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 6, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1058 to the Legislature without my signature.

This bill would authorize the Air Resources Board (ARB) or a court to lower the amount of a penalty related to the use of illegal fuels if the ARB or a court determines that the operator or fuel supplier was not aware that the regulations applied to them.

I am concerned that this bill attempts to influence the outcome of a pending enforcement action while the investigation is open and settlement discussions are in progress.

The rationale for this bill is based in the inaccurate assertion that the ARB failed to provide sufficient notice to airport ground vehicle operators and fuel suppliers regarding fuel requirements. This bill sets an inappropriate precedent by legitimizing an "ignorance of the law" defense. In fact, the ARB took appropriate action to notify airport operators of new fuel standards.

This bill is unnecessary because current law requires the ARB and the courts to consider all relevant circumstances when determining whether a penalty should be assessed and the amount of the penalty. Factors such as the knowledge and intent, preventative efforts taken, and the cooperation of the business must be considered in penalty decisions. This bill could lead to needless litigation.

For these reasons, I am returning AB 1058 without my signature.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1328

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 6, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1328 without my signature.

Assembly Bill No. 1328 would require the Board of Trustees of the Los Angeles Community College District to establish seven trustee areas in the district, and would require members of the governing board to be elected by trustee area.

The decision to create single-member trustee areas is best made at the local level, not by the state. Furthermore, current law allows registered voters residing in the Los Angeles Community College District to petition for the creation of trustee areas.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1363

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 6, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1363 without my signature.

AB 1363 establishes guidelines for school-based health centers and allows those which meet required conditions to be included as traditional and safety net providers in the Healthy Families Program (HFP).

While I believe that school-based clinics have a legitimate role in providing health care to children, it is unclear how the placement of voluntary guidelines into statute will assist the formation or continuation of such programs or the integration into managed care networks.

School health centers are deemed traditional and safety net providers for purposes of health plan contracting in the HFP if they also participate in the state's Child Health Disability Prevention program. Health plans may or may not choose to contract with a particular traditional and safety net provider. I will, however, direct the Managed Risk Medical Insurance Board to report to me by December 31, 1999 on any programmatic or health plan contracting barriers to including such school-based health centers in the Healthy Families program.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 6th day of October 1999 at 1:35 p.m., of Assembly Bills Nos. 58, 123, 444, 469, 805, 1058, 1328, and 1363 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

HUGH R. SLAYDEN
Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 133

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 133 without my signature.

This bill would allow small school districts to qualify for Class Size Reduction (CSR) funding based on an average class size of 20 students per teacher, with a maximum class size of 22 students per class. This bill would also require these school districts to obtain approval from the representative for the certificated employees or, if there is no bargaining representative of certificated employees, the school site council in order to allow averaging of class sizes over all grades participating in the K-3 CSR program.

I recognize that districts do not have control over their enrollment and that this unpredictability may be compounded in small districts. However, by allowing class sizes to be averaged over all grades in the program in the district, this bill would erode the integrity of the goal of holding class sizes to no more than 20 pupils. CSR funding should be limited to those who actually achieve smaller class sizes. The CSR program already provides flexibility for classes to compensate for changing enrollment during the school year. The requirement for 20 pupils per class is based on the average size for each class over the entire school year.

However, I also recognize small school districts may experience more difficulty in implementing this program. Therefore, I am willing to entertain legislation that would allow small school districts to average class size within each participating grade, provided that district has exhausted all other options for participation.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 192

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 192 without my signature.

Assembly Bill No. 192 would establish a new pilot program in up to 100 high schools to encourage students to consider careers in teaching.

I support strategies that promote the teaching profession among young people. That is why my budget proposal included $1.2 million for high school teacher academies through the Partnership Academies program. In addition, I note that the California Postsecondary Education Commission and the Center on Teaching Careers both conduct outreach to encourage high school students to enter the teaching profession.

While this proposal may have merit, I note that it could lead to costs of over $2 million in future fiscal years. Given the fiscal significance of this proposal, I believe that it should compete with other spending priorities in the development of the state budget.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 249

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 249 without my signature.

AB 249 would require the California Medical Assistance Commission (CMAC) to consider medical education programs for physicians, nurses or allied health professionals, when it negotiates contracts with California hospitals for Medi-Cal inpatient services.

This bill is not necessary as CMAC is already required to consider medical education costs as they contribute to county hospital and university medical center costs for caring for medically indigent patients, and is already permitted to consider other factors, including medical education costs generally. In addition, this bill is premature because the related study by CMAC, the University of California, and the Department of Health Services required by Chapter 799, Statutes of 1997 on the future funding of graduate medical education and other health professions training programs is expected in November 1999.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 363

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 363 without my signature.

This bill would raise the post-retirement death benefit from $600 to $5,000 for retired school members of the Public Employees' Retirement System (PERS). In comparison, this same benefit is $2,000 for the designated beneficiary of a state employee who dies after retirement.

School employees have recently received a generous retirement benefit package. The death benefit proposed in this bill exceeds the benefit provided to other retired state employees under PERS. There does not appear to be a compelling reason to provide retired school members with a greater death benefit than that received by state retirees.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 428

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To Members of the California State Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 428 without my signature.

This bill would raise the burial death benefit for retired state members of the Public Employees' Retirement System (PERS) from $2,000 to $5,000.

Since a burial allowance is a benefit that will apply to current State employees upon retirement, this benefit would be subject to collective bargaining. The state has entered into new collective bargaining agreements with employee organizations representing state employees. The burial death benefit was not an issue that was raised by the unions in the last round of collective bargaining.

The first year cost to implement this benefit is approximately $16,000,000. The state has extended a very fair compensation package to state employees as part of the new collective bargaining agreements. Additional benefits should be the result of the bargaining process and accompanied by a budget appropriation.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 437

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 437 without my signature.

AB 437 continuously appropriates $2 million in General Fund dollars for deposit in the Sale of Tobacco to Minors Control Account (STAKE) for increased enforcement efforts.

While the intent of this measure to further reduce youth access to tobacco products has merit, California is currently in compliance with federal law in this regard. In addition, the Budget Act of 1999 provides over $59 million for anti-tobacco health education, including school-based programs, competitive grants and a strengthened, hard-hitting media campaign aimed at educating California's youngsters about the harmful effects of smoking. It is my preference that any increased funding for the STAKE program be allocated through the annual budget process.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 580

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 580 without my signature.

The objective of this well-intentioned bill, to study investment and trade growth in the context of California-Mexico relations, will be accomplished under Senate Bill No. 213, which I intend to sign.

That bill appropriates $1,050,000 for the establishment of 17 Mexican International Trade Centers. Their purpose is to increase California's export opportunities to Mexico.

Therefore, the goal of Assembly Bill No. 580 is accomplished by my signing of Senate Bill No. 213, and the taxpayers of California are saved the $125,000 cost of a study.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 611

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 611 without my signature.

AB 611 would require the Department of Health Services to (1) review the adequacy of prenatal care information available to health care providers through continuing education programs, (2) determine the efficacy of current educational efforts targeting women regarding prenatal nutritional information within certain state programs and (3) report its findings to the Legislature by January 1, 2001.

While the intent of this measure has merit, it is unclear why such a bill is necessary. The department continually updates its prenatal care information to include the most recent information and monitors its programs to remove any barriers to the use of its services. In addition, since continuing education programs used by health care providers are principally the responsibility of professional organizations, I would suggest that funding for a comprehensive evaluation of these programs be supported with private foundation funding.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 667

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 667 without my signature.

This bill requires the California State University and the California Community Colleges, and requests the University of California and the independent colleges and universities of California to work together to improve student transfer rates and reporting.

While I am supportive of increased collaboration between the segments of higher education, I believe that this measure is premature. This bill requires that the segments track and report on student transfer patterns. This data is currently not collected for all students by academic pattern. The implementation of a student information system would be necessary to issue such a report.

I am signing Assembly Bill No. 1570, which will require the California Postsecondary Education Commission to expand its existing database to support longitudinal studies on issues such as student transfer. In the future, this system will provide information which will allow the higher education segments to meet the requirements of this bill.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 709

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To Members of the California State Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 709 without my signature.

Currently, polling places are required to be open between the hours of 7:00 a.m. and 8:00 p.m. on the day of any election. Assembly Bill 709 would require polling places to stay open one hour longer and close at 9:00 p.m.

While this bill would increase the time available for voters to cast their ballots, I am concerned that keeping the polls open for another hour would delay the tabulation of votes on the night of the election and yet have no discernible effect on voter turnout. According to the Secretary of State's Office, data collected from the counties and various polling organizations indicate that the busiest hours for voting are between 7 a.m. and 8 a.m., and between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. Only approximately 5 percent of all ballots cast are voted between 7 p.m. and 8 p.m. Additionally, in a survey conducted in 1987 of various states' voting hours, states with longer polling hours did not appear to have commensurately higher voter turnout.

Apart from my concerns regarding vote tabulation and voter turnout, this bill would likely result in potentially significant state-mandated General Fund costs for which funds have not been budgeted. Accordingly, I am returning Assembly Bill No. 709 without my signature.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 798

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 798 without my signature.

Assembly Bill No. 798 would allow a school district or county office of education operating an Adults in Correctional Facilities program to claim the average of the average daily attendance (ADA) during the previous six fiscal years, or their previous year's ADA, whichever is greater, for the purposes of calculating their allowance for this program.

This bill is intended to address school districts or county offices of education that experience a temporary decline in correctional facility ADA due to extenuating circumstances, and as a result cannot restore their previous funding level.

I cannot support this bill because it would unnecessarily allow all districts, regardless of whether a district experienced a temporary decline in ADA, to use the average of their previous six years of ADA, or their previous year's ADA, to determine their funding level. In addition, I see no reason to use the average of six years of funding as the means of calculating the appropriate allowance for this program. In these ways this bill would unnecessarily increase funding for this program.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 806

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 806 without my signature.

This bill limits the amount of funds that a public entity, a contractor, or subcontractor, may hold in "retention" on public works projects to five percent of the payment and no more than five percent of the contract price, and applies all of the above requirements to all public works contracts entered into after January 1, 2000.

The state has a fiduciary responsibility to the California taxpayers to use their money wisely which includes not incurring unnecessary risks. The state's construction projects for schools, universities, community colleges, prisons, and state office facilities involve billions of dollars. While the private sector can choose contractors with whom they have experience and are familiar with their reliability and the quality of work, public entities must accept the low bidder. Because of this requirement, public entities inherently face a higher level of risk when contracting for construction projects.

While the concerns of the construction industry are real, the state has a higher responsibility to the taxpayer ensuring that publicly-funded projects are completed on budget and on time. It would be irresponsible to remove public agencies' flexibility to establish a reasonable retention limit on public works projects.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 902

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 902 without my signature.

This bill would allow the California State University (CSU) to transfer no more than $2,000,000 between General Fund support and capital outlay appropriations to pay for feasibility studies for capital outlay projects, require an annual report of all such transfers to the Department of Finance and the Legislature, and eliminate the need for CSU to notify the Legislature for all health center projects excess of $65,000.

I am not supportive of enacting new statutes where authority exists to meet identified needs. The authority provided in this bill to transfer funds between items of expenditures in order to fund feasibility studies is unnecessary. CSU has sufficient flexibility to fund from its support budget feasibility studies for projects it deems to have a high priority for the remainder of the current year. In future years, CSU may continue to expend support funds for this purpose, or in the alternative, CSU may budget capital outlay funds for this purpose in future years' budgets.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1027

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1027 without my signature.

Assembly Bill No. 1027 would require the State Superintendent of Public Instruction to allocate funds for the community-based English tutoring for adults program in accordance with regulations adopted by the State Board of Education, pursuant to specified criteria. The bill would require a financial review of the program, and require the State Department of Education to present an annual status report on the program to the Legislature beginning in August, 2000.

The 1999–00 budget provides $50 million for this program, as required by Proposition 227. I am supportive of the intent of this bill—to provide the state with information on the effectiveness of this program. However, I cannot support this bill in its current form because it would provide only descriptive information regarding school districts' implementation of the program. I believe that our first concern should be the effects of the program on student achievement.

In addition, the Department of Finance estimates costs of $2.5 million to school districts to provide the information required by the study. An issue of this magnitude should compete with other proposals during the development of the annual state budget.

For these reasons I cannot support Assembly Bill No. 1027.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1212

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1212 without my signature.

Assembly Bill No. 1212 would allow school district employees, with specified exceptions, to be eligible to serve as members of county boards of education.

This bill would violate the common law rule against the holding of incompatible offices. The purpose of this rule is to disallow a person from holding two or more offices in which he or she is in a position in one office to review and approve his or her actions in the other office, and to disallow the holding of offices wherein his or her duties and loyalties are incompatible. County boards of education have jurisdiction over several areas which would present such a conflict, such as fiscal oversight, budgeting, and student discipline and transfer.

Moreover, I note that current law prohibits school district employees from being elected or appointed members of their school district governing boards.

For this reason, I cannot support this measure.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1343

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To Members of the California State Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1343 without my signature.

This bill would require the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board to commute attorney's fees from the end of the payment process to the beginning of the process for awards in subsequent injury cases.

This bill would result, in most cases, in the attorney being paid long before the applicant ever received any funds. Thus, applicants who need the additional compensation which has been awarded to them for their work related injury or illness would have to wait until their attorney has been paid before receiving their benefits. In some cases, where the applicant dies before sufficient benefits accrue to allow for payment of an attorney's fee, the applicant would receive no benefits while the attorney would already have received his or her fee.

Placing the priority in workers' compensation cases on payment of attorneys' fees before payments to injured workers is neither a rational nor appropriate expenditure of public funds.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 8th day of October 1999 at 2:22 p.m., of Assembly Bills Nos. 133, 192, 249, 363, 428, 437, 580, 611, 667, 709, 798, 806, 902, 1027, 1212, and 1343 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

HUGH R. SLAYDEN

Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 486

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 8, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 486 without my signature.

Although the provisions of this bill are optional, the concern is that the public will confuse an advisory interpretation, which is non-binding expression of the agency's interpretation of the law it enforces, with a legally binding regulation. The procedure prescribed for adopting an advisory interpretation is much the same as the procedure for adopting a regulation. An advisory interpretation would have no legal effect; would be entitled to no judicial deference; could not prescribe a penalty or course of conduct, confer a right, privilege, authority, exemption, or immunity, impose an obligation, or in any way bind or compel; and could not be used as an alternative means of adopting binding regulations. There is a potential that advisory interpretations could ultimately become underground regulations. Existing law already provides a process for declaratory decisions to be issued by a state agency that have the "same status and binding effect as any other decision issued by the agency in an adjudicative proceeding: (Gov. Code 11465.10 et seq.). State agencies have various other methods by which they may publicize their interpretation of the laws they enforce.

Existing law already provides a shortened and efficient process for adopting non-controversial regulations.

The provisions of AB 486 are duplicative of existing law and therefore, unnecessary.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 601

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 8, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 601 without my signature.

This bill would appropriate $6 million from the General Fund to the Department of Housing and Community Development for grants to property owners in the cities of Los Angeles and Compton to convert commercial property to housing or mixed residential and commercial use.

As California moves into the next century, revitalization of its numerous urban core areas is of vital importance to every community of this state. I fully support the intent of this bill; however, the funding source and limited scope of the bill is inappropriate. I would support a similar program to be included in the housing bond proposed for the November 2000 ballot and expansion of the program to allow participation by other California communities facing downtown revitalization challenges.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1605

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 1605 without my signature.

This bill would make an appropriation to the Department of Water Resources for the purposes of developing new technologies to reduce the cost of desalinating the Colorado River and other brackish waters.

While I support the bill's objective of increasing desalination efforts to reduce our dependence on existing water supplies, I believe that another funding source is more appropriate. The Safe Drinking Water, Clean Water, Watershed Protection, and Flood Protection Act of 2000 will provide funds for this purpose. Moreover, existing bond funds are available to finance desalination projects and feasibility studies.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1663

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1663 without my signature.

This bill would extend the sunset dates for the State Public Works Board Energy Efficiency Revenue Bond Program to January 1, 2005. Additionally, the bill would extend the sunset date for two California Energy Resources, Conservation and Development Commission energy efficiency loan programs to January 1, 2011.

Although I am supportive of the Public Works Board Energy Efficiency Revenue Bond Program and increasing energy efficiency in public buildings, there does not appear to be a demand for the energy efficiency loans from the Energy Conservation Assistant Account or Local Jurisdiction Energy Assistance Account because loans are available from private-sector lenders at a lower rate of interest. I believe resources for these programs could better serve the needs of Californians for other high priority programs.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1696

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1696 without my signature.

This bill would make technical and clarifying changes to the various provisions of law governing state contracts.

I would like to thank the author for carrying this measure on behalf of the Department of General Services. Unfortunately, Senate Bill 401 and Senate Bill 966 unintentionally amended some of the same sections of the Government and Public Contract Codes as Assembly Bill 1696. This bill would chapter out some of the important provisions contained in Senate Bill 401 and Senate Bill 966.

I encourage the author to re-introduce this measure next year.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 8th day of October 1999 at 3:40 p.m., of Assembly Bills Nos. 486, 601, 1605, 1663, and 1696 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

HUGH R. SLAYDEN

Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 73

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 9, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 73 without my signature.

This bill would provide opportunities for public-private partnerships in developing roadside rest areas. While I support the goal of providing opportunities for public-private partnerships, I am concerned that this bill would jeopardize the priority to operate vending facilities on state property that blind vendors have under current law.

Given that this measure was amended at the end of the session and did not have adequate review to address the concerns of handicapped vendors, I am returning the bill without my signature.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 195

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 9, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 195 without my signature.

This bill would require the state to reimburse local agencies for the costs (including any medical costs) of detaining offenders sentenced to state prison when: (1) the abstract of judgement has been completed, (2) the probation and sentencing reports are completed, and (3) the Department of Corrections (CDC) has been notified that the person is ready for transfer, but a physician has certified in writing and the department concurs that the person cannot be transported due to a medical condition.

This measure would require the State to pay for medical conditions existing or occurring prior to the State receiving the prisoner, conditions that are beyond the State's control. The result is a shift of medical costs that are currently being paid by counties to the State. This bill would result in significant General Fund costs that have not been included in the 1999 Annual Budget Act.

For these reasons, I am vetoing this measure.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 395

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 9, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 395 without my signature.

This bill would amend many Education Code Sections governing special education programs. Much of this bill consists of technical changes to current law that would bring the state into compliance with federal law governing special education. There are however, some sections of this bill that would exceed federal law and therefore potentially result in state mandated costs. In addition, there are new requirements, not referenced in federal law, that would increase costs to the state. This bill also eliminates the sunset date for special education.

I am unable to sign this bill as it would unnecessarily exceed requirements contained in federal law. While it is of great importance that state special education law be in compliance with federal special education law, this bill provides, in many instances, such specificity in school district or Special Education Local Plan Area requirements that it would likely be found to create significant reimbursable state mandates.

I will direct my Department of Finance and Office of the Secretary for Education to work with the Department of Education this fall to develop a proposal which does not impose any mandated costs beyond what is required in federal law. I have no objection to technical changes or requirements of state agencies which are absorbable within existing state or federal resources, as long as those changes do not impose or lead to reimbursable local mandates.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 508

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 9, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 508 without my signature.

This bill, an urgency measure, would reduce San Bernardino County's fine and penalty remittance to the Trial Court Trust Fund. In addition, this bill would appropriate $439,000 from the General Fund to the trial courts to backfill the 1998–99 fiscal year revenue loss.

Trial Court Reform, enacted under Chapter 850, Statutes of 1997, provided fiscal relief to the counties and stable funding for the trial courts. In doing so, that legislation provided a one-time adjustment to county maintenance of effort (MOE) contributions to the State into the Trial Court Trust Fund. That process, which is now complete, provided specific eligibility categories of what adjustments could be made to reflect the true county responsibility for their local trial courts as of fiscal year 1994–95. Fine and penalty revenue MOE requirements were not adjusted nor was any authority provided to do so in Chapter 850. The only subsequent adjustments enacted in later legislation were made to county fine and penalty revenue MOE requirements to correct overpayment by specific counties for a 13th month of remittance to the State. San Bernardino County received annual relief of $581,000 beginning in 1999–00 as one of these overpayment corrections.

This bill's proposed relief to San Bernardino County for $439,000 has no relation to the above mentioned revenue correction that has already taken place. Instead, this bill would set a precedent and begin a process for adjusting county MOE payments for audits that took place before and after fiscal year 1994–95. Trial Court Reform and its current funding structure are specified in statute. I cannot therefore support this legislation which would provide a single type of adjustment not previously authorized or afforded to other counties and would be the catalyst to again redefining the trial court funding responsibilities of the counties and the State. Furthermore, this bill would result in a significant State cost not included in the Budget Act of 1999.

For the reasons above I must veto this bill.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 527

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 9, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 527 without my signature.

The current operation of the grand jury, which follows English common law practice, has remained essentially unchanged since California was admitted to the Union in 1850 and has served us well for 150 years.

Thus, any major departures from existing practice warrants thorough and thoughtful consideration and debate within the legal community and among legal scholars. For example, there is no indication that the Law Revision Commission was asked to perform a study to determine the efficacy of this legislation. The Law Revision Commission is equipped to study and make recommendations to the Governor and the Legislature on issues as important as this one.

AB 527 would place a new burden on what is now a reasonably effective grand jury system. Additionally, the presence of defense counsel in grand jury proceedings may lead to undue delays and interference with the grand jury's "fact finding process."

The secrecy of grand jury proceedings is an essential element of the grand jury process. AB 527 has the potential for turning "a fact finding process" into a quasi-adversarial proceeding.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 614

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 9, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 614 without my signature.

This bill would prohibit the installation and operation of video or surveillance cameras on schoolsites unless a school board first adopts, at a public hearing, a policy concerning the installation and operation of video or surveillance cameras. It would also require posted notices at schoolsites where video or surveillance cameras are in operation.

I believe that this bill is unnecessary. The Education Code already prohibits the use of any electronic listening or recording device in any elementary and secondary school classroom without the prior consent of the teacher and the principal. Any person, other than a pupil, who willfully violates that prohibition is guilty of a misdemeanor. In addition, the Penal Code prohibits the intentional recording of confidential information without the consent of all parties to a confidential conversation by means of any amplification or recording device, including a video camera.

It is my understanding that this bill was introduced in response to an incident in which teachers at a school site were videotaped without their knowledge or consent. Current law already addresses such situations. To impose a mandated solution on all school districts in the state in response to a problem in one district would be inappropriate and potentially costly.

For this reason I cannot support this measure.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 630

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 9, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 630 without my signature.

This bill would prohibit a school district from designating or offering a course of instruction that is characterized as an "honors course" unless the University of California (UC) confirms that the course would be accepted as an honors course at UC, and permits the Superintendent of Public Instruction to allocate specified unencumbered funds to school districts to initiate or expand honors programs at high schools with a large percentage of low income pupils.

I support the concept of standardization of honors courses. However, this bill would place an undue burden on high schools in the middle of an academic year. If a large number of high schools sought approval from the University of California for their honors courses, high schools might experience delays in assigning credit for their courses. The University of California already has an articulation process for courses designated as honors courses. Nothing in existing law prohibits a school district from submitting course descriptions to UC for consideration as UC-accepted honors courses. In addition, this bill could restrict districts from designating courses as honors courses that are not required for admission to California's public universities. This might have the effect of limiting the number of honors courses offered in the state's high schools.

Finally, I would note that the new program proposed by this bill would permit the Superintendent of Public Instruction to use funding not budgeted for this purpose in the Budget Act of 1999. Such a proposal should compete with other funding priorities in the budget process, and should provide an approval role for the State Board of Education.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 853

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 9, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 853 without my signature.

This bill would establish and provide funding for the Extended School Day and School Year Pilot Program for the Bellflower Unified School District's Intensive Learning Center and would also provide funding for an Extended School Year Program for the Alameda Unified School District. This bill would require the Bellflower Unified School District to perform an evaluation of the program and report its finding to the Legislative Analyst's office on or before January 1, 2003. The program would sunset on July 1, 2002.

It is my understanding that the funding provided to Bellflower is not directed toward extending the school day or school year but, rather, is intended to restore funding lost due to absences during the normal 180-day school year. Such funding serves to circumvent current law, as Bellflower and all other districts had their ADA funding rebenched by Senate Bill No. 727 (Chapter 855, Statutes of 1997). I believe this bill is inappropriate as no other district receives funding for this purpose.

For these reasons, I cannot support AB 853.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 917

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 9, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 917 without my signature.

This bill would require, beginning January 1, 2000 until January 1, 2005, special elections to fill congressional, State Senate, and State Assembly vacancies, and special primary elections to be conducted on a consecutive Saturday and Sunday, or on Tuesday that is within a specified period following the issuance of an election proclamation. The Secretary of State's Office indicates that there is no evidence to suggest that voting on a Saturday and/or a Sunday would increase voter turnout. On the contrary, weekend voting is more costly, make recruitment of pollworkers more difficult, and may compromise the overall security of the elections process. Due to these concerns and since the bill could result in potentially significant costs to the General Fund which have not been budgeted, I am returning Assembly Bill No. 917 without my signature.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1026

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 9, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1026 without my signature.

This bill would require an assessment of instructional needs for English language learners who are reclassified as reasonably fluent in English. It would also require parents of English language learners to be notified of the student's placement and of their right to request a waiver under specified conditions. Finally, this bill would require school development plans to include activities to ensure adequate numbers of trained staff are available for English language learners.

I believe that this bill is unnecessary because federal law and state regulations already govern the assessment and reclassification procedures for English Language Learners (ELLs). Title V regulations require that reclassification procedures be established by local governing boards and that these criteria use multiple assessment measures including input from teachers, parents and a language appraisal team. Title V regulations also require measurement of English proficiency before transferring ELL pupils from structured immersion to English language mainstream classrooms. In addition, the State Board of Education has codified the reclassification standards established by the federal court by requiring school districts to continue to provide additional and appropriate educational services to ELLs until they have demonstrated English-language proficiency comparable to that of the school district's average native English-language speakers, and recouped any academic deficits which may have been incurred in other areas of the core curriculum as a result of language barriers.

I recently signed Senate Bill No. 638, which will require annual English testing of ELL students. In addition, the Budget Act of 1999 provides $50 million for the English Language Acquisition Program which requires local districts to conduct assessment, provide an instructional program, provide supplemental instructional support and coordinate available services and funding for English language learners.

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1375

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 9, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1375 without my signature.

This bill would make it unlawful for a floral vendor to misrepresent the geographic location of its business by listing a local telephone number or a name that misrepresents the location of the business.

While this bill might help to eliminate consumer confusion, it ignores the realities of a global economy where companies located all over the world compete globally for customers.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1451

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 9, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1451 without my signature.

This bill would establish a two-year implementation period for the Jack O'Connell Beginning Teacher Salary Incentive Program, established by Chapter 53 of the Statutes of 1999. This program provides incentive funding to participating school districts to increase the beginning salary for fully credentialed teachers to at least $32,000 by the end of the 1999–00 fiscal year. The 1999 Budget Act provides $50 million to implement this program.

Enactment of Assembly Bill No. 1451 would allow school districts to delay full implementation of the program for one year, until June 30, 2001, while they continue to receive full funding support from the State. While Assembly Bill No. 1451 would require that all funds received be used to increase the beginning salary for teachers, the bill would decrease the amount of funding many school districts would provide to reach the minimum $32,000 target. The original intent of this program was to provide incentive funding to increase teacher salaries, thereby facilitating the recruitment and retention of people in the teaching profession. Assembly Bill No. 1451 would reduce the financial commitment of school districts in achieving this goal, and I am therefore unable to support this measure.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 9th day of October 1999 at 11:30 a.m., of Assembly Bills Nos. 73, 195, 395, 508, 527, 614, 630, 853, 917, 1026, 1375, and 1451 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

LAWRENCE A. MURMAN
Assistant Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1160

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 1160 without my signature.

This bill would make several changes to nursing-home facility oversight and enforcement: require additional training for direct-care staff in nursing facilities; establish phased increases in staffing ratios to 3.5 hours of direct care per patient per day, subject to the level of appropriation in the annual Budget Act; and require that a new acuity-based reimbursement system be developed and presented to the Legislature by January 1, 2001.

Through the 1999 Budget Act, I have already addressed legitimate nursing home quality-of-care issues. I sustained $72 million ($36 million General Fund) to (1) increase Medi-Cal funding for costs to raise the minimum staff-to-patient ratio from 2.9 to 3.2 hours per patient per day, and (2) provide a 5 percent wage increase to nursing-home staff involved in providing direct patient care. I understand from nursing-home operators that even the staffing-ratio increase funded in the 1999 Budget Act will be difficult to achieve, since implementation will entail the hiring of more than 5,000 additional nursing-home staff statewide (about 3,500 for Medi-Cal patients alone) by January 1, 2000.

AB 1160 would delay the effective date of the 3.2 staff-to-patient ratio until April 1, 2000, without any commensurate reduction in the funding provided in the 1999 Budget Act. Over five years, the cost of implementing the provisions of this bill establishing incremental staffing ratio increases to 3.5 hours per patient per day would exceed $500 million ($250 million General Fund).

Although AB 1160 contains many well-intentioned, commendable features, it does place a significant burden on the state General Fund. Additionally, I believe it is appropriate to assess the effects on the long-term care system of the staffing increases for which funding is already provided in the 1999 Budget Act prior to enacting any further significant staffing changes. Therefore, I am requesting the Department of Health Services (DHS) to allow additional time for nursing-home facilities statewide to attain the 3.2 staff-to-patient ratio and continue focusing its enforcement efforts on quality of care. However, I expect nursing home facilities to achieve reasonable compliance by April 1, 2000, with funds in the 1999 Budget Act to be expended only for staffing and wage increases that have actually occurred.

For the fiscal reasons stated above, I am unable to sign AB 1160 at this time. I remain committed to working with the Legislature during the annual budget process in pursuing meaningful additional nursing-home reforms that will result in improved quality of care for nursing-home patients.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 228 without my signature.

This bill would permit an absentee voter to designate a person other than immediate family members to return an absentee ballot, and establish other requirements on local elections officials in printing absentee ballots and envelopes.

While I recognize the inconvenience of limiting those persons permitted to handle an official, completed ballot, this bill would weaken the most important safeguard against fraud by allowing virtually anyone to handle an official ballot on behalf of the voter.

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 308

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

This bill would add two categories for consideration in regional transportation plans, extend that planning cycle from the current two years to three years, and expand the annual report to the Legislature prepared by the California Transportation Commission (CTC) to include a summary of unfunded local road and transit maintenance, rehabilitation, and safety needs as identified in the regional transportation plans.

Although modest cost savings might be realized as a result of the change in the planning cycle, the provisions related to the scope of the regional transportation plans and the CTC reporting requirement are unnecessary. The existing statutory authority related to the preparation of regional transportation plans, as well as the direction to the CTC to prepare its annual report, is already sufficiently broad to allow consideration of road and transit maintenance, rehabilitation, and safety needs as part of those documents.

This bill specifies that the incentive offered in 1994 for counties to switch to the Teeter Plan (method of allocating delinquent property tax revenues) shall be available to the five counties that offered the Teeter Plan before the Legislature established the incentive.

I am vetoing this bill because it would result in an annual $2 million General Fund loss for three years. In addition, these counties elected to participate in the Plan before the incentive was offered by the Legislature and derived benefits from their choice.

This bill requires the Attorney General to review and approve mergers and other acquisitions involving health care service plans to ensure that these transactions do not substantially lessen competition or create a monopoly in California.

While I agree with the author that this issue should receive scrutiny at the state level, I think the responsibility to examine a merger or acquisitions impact on patient care and competition should reside in my new Department of Managed Care. I would consider signing carefully crafted legislation that provides the Department of Managed Care with the authority to consider anti-competitive concerns arising out of such transactions, in consultation with the Attorney General of the State of California and federal regulators.

This bill will provide district attorneys and public defenders with relocation expenses when a credible threat against them or their family has been received.

I recognize that some individuals have faced increased risk as part of their responsibilities as members of the criminal justice community, however there is no guarantee that relocating all the people identified in this bill removes the hazards that they must unfortunately face.

Therefore, I encourage the Legislature to revisit this issue next year with a measure that narrows the provisions to address the immediate public safety needs of district attorneys.

This bill would waive the background check fee charged by the Department of Justice to employers receiving services through the In-Home Supportive Services program.

In my budget, I indicated a willingness to waive the background check fee for the small number of volunteers in child care centers, but see no reason to reduce the fees for employers or employees. To do otherwise would require a fee increase for all other individuals who are required to pay for a background check.

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1310

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1310 without my signature.

This bill requires the Department of Health Services (Department) to establish a trial program under which Medi-Cal Treatment Authorization Requests (TARs) submitted by certified Prosthetists and Orthotists be subject to utilization controls on a preservice sampling basis.

Under current law, prosthetics, which would exceed $500, and orthotics which exceed $250, require prior authorization. Any relaxation of utilization controls for Medi-Cal services creates new opportunities for fraud and over-billing the Medi-Cal program. With recent history of fraudulent billing in the area of orthotics, we would anticipate that along with administrative costs associated with the trial program, there would be substantial increases associated with fraud and abuse of billing Medi-Cal.

Proponents of this legislation intended that TARs submitted by certified Prosthetists and Orthotists be expedited resulting in fewer delays in TAR adjudication. While reducing delay is a goal the Department shares, relaxing utilization controls for potentially costly medical devices are not the preferred option. The Department has convened an advisory group that is reviewing the TAR process for prosthetics and orthotics without incurring such additional costs.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1500

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1500 without my signature.

This bill would allow counties, under certain circumstances, to renew family preservation service contracts until January 1, 2006 without a competitive bid process.

I do not believe it is appropriate to establish a precedent for procurements by and for other county-administered programs by not requiring the counties to formally advertise and to seek the best solution and cost for the program through the competitive bid process. Regulations governing the administration of contracts provide for limited extensions of contracts when an emergency exists that would disrupt services to clients.

In the history of these programs, only one county, Los Angeles County (LAC), has requested waivers to the competitive bid process requirement. Since 1992, LAC has contracted with 28 lead agencies to provide family preservation service. There have been at least three requests by LAC to extend contracts or waive rebidding requirements altogether, citing the enormous difficulties in the process and the possibility of disruption of service to clients. Despite granting three time-limited extensions in consideration of planning to avoid these problems, there has not been a re-bid process by LAC.

Furthermore, renewing lead agency contracts without a competitive bidding process would deter the formation and development of new collaborative efforts in communities being served and in those communities that are not being served under the State Family Preservation and Federal Family Preservation and Support Programs. As such, this bill is contrary to the intent of this program that encourages the continuing assessment and evaluation of community needs and the flexible provision of services to strengthen families.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1511

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 1511 without my signature.

This bill would declare that a mutual water company is not considered to be a public agency or a local agency as specified under the Marks-Roos Local Bond Pooling Act of 1985.

While I understand the intent of AB 1511 is to close a statutory loophole which inadvertently allows mutual water companies to join a "roving" joint powers authority as a local agency or public agency, I am concerned this bill may adversely affect several development projects that are already well beyond the start-up phase, potentially halting work on these projects, slowing economic growth in the affected regions of the State, and creating financial hardship for investors in these projects.

Therefore, I am unable to sign AB 1511. However, I would support subsequent legislation which expressly states that closure of this statutory loophole is effective prospectively, ensuring that bonds already issued for projects prior to the enactment of that legislation are not jeopardized.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1534

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1534 without my signature.

This bill would provide for the Trade and Commerce Agency to issue Microenterprise Technical Assistance Grants to providers who assist current and former CalWORKs participants to establish, maintain and expand small businesses.

While I am supportive of the needs of CalWORKs recipients who operate or wish to operate small businesses, the measure is unnecessary because counties that wish to operate microenterprise demonstration projects may currently contract with local providers or the Trade and Commerce Agency to do so. Furthermore, the project could be completely funded as either a component of the counties' single allocation block grant for CalWORKs or from existing county fiscal incentives and thus have no negative impact upon the state's Temporary Assistance for Needy Families reserve or the Job Creation Investment Fund.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

I acknowledge receipt this 10th day of October 1999 at 10:45 p.m., of Assembly Bills Nos. 228, 308, 349, 351, 792, 912, 1310, 1500, 1511, and 1534 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

HUGH R. SLAYDEN
Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 645

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 645 without my signature.

This bill would revise the provisions of juvenile court law to clarify the responsibilities of child welfare services, probation departments, court-appointed special advocates, and court-appointed counsel. Specifically, this bill would require designated personnel to monitor the educational rights of children, including the right to receive special education and related services if a child has special needs, and the right to receive accommodations if a child has disabilities.

I am supportive of efforts to ensure the coordination and provision of educational services for children under the jurisdiction of the court. However, this bill would impose reimbursable state mandates on local governments required to comply with provisions of this bill.

Specifically, this bill would create mandated costs for local governments to expand the scope of assessments, investigations, and case studies; consult with other agencies; develop written protocols; and include additional information in required reports. The costs associated with these provisions exceed the level of funding provided for those purposes in the Budget Act of 1999.

For this reason I am unable to support this measure.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1517

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 10, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1517 without my signature.

This bill would expand gambling by allowing progressive pot games.

I made clear last year that I do not personally favor gambling, and I certainly do not encourage others to gamble. Therefore, I am not generally inclined to support measures that allow more than a modest expansion of gaming.

This measure is also premature in that Proposition 1A will be on the March 2000 ballot, which will give voters the opportunity to vote on gaming on Indian tribal lands in California. It is appropriate to let the voters speak before addressing any further gaming issues.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1657

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1657 without my signature.

AB 1657 establishes a procedure for notification by public electric utility companies to affected school districts, county offices of education, community college districts, California State University, University of California, and all state agencies, of the imposition of a new capital facilities fee or the increase of an existing capital facilities fee. The intent of this measure was to impose a prospective 120-day statute of limitations for initiating a judicial challenge to these fees.

However, AB 1657 does more than accomplish those stated purposes. Unfortunately, the bill also establishes two new statute of limitations in the Public Utilities Code relating to the imposition of utility fees and charges on the entire school community, K-12 schools and higher education, for other than electric service. These provisions would apply to capital facilities fees even when such fees have not been noticed or disclosed and arguably could be applied retroactively, thus justifying improper fees previously charged to public education entities and state agencies. The fiscal impact to the entire education community would be over $100 million and substantially more for state agencies. Therefore, I cannot sign AB 1657 with such broad fiscal impacts on educational facilities and state agencies relative to the imposition of capital facilities fees. If appropriate changes are made to this measure and returned to my desk, I will sign it during the next legislative session.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

HUGH R. SLAYDEN

Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 217

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 217 without my signature.

This bill would require the Department of Health Services to establish risk-adjusted capitation rates for beneficiaries with HIV based on a specific methodology and require managed care plans to pass-through an appropriate proportional amount of those rates to providers treating Medi-Cal beneficiaries with HIV.

My budget reflects a strong commitment to provide effective HIV/AIDS treatment, including a recent augmentation of $13.4 million General Fund to expand HIV/AIDS education, prevention and care and treatment services. In addition, the Budget provides $140.3 million to fully fund anticipated demand for the AIDS Drug Assistance Program. The Department of Health Services has also developed a special Medi-Cal rate for persons with AIDS, allowing treatment in a managed care environment. I have also just signed Assembly Bill 155, which allows disabled persons, including persons with HIV and AIDS to return to work but retain their Medi-Cal coverage.

This bill, however, is not necessary, as the need for special rates for HIV-infected Medi-Cal beneficiaries has not been identified. Further, Medi-Cal managed care plan contractors already may request special capitation rates, as in the case of the aforementioned special rates which have been established for AIDS patients. According to DHS, this bill was introduced without any prior request by any managed care plans for HIV-specific capitation rates.

Requiring the proposed rate-setting methodology would limit DHS' ability to negotiate capitation rates with managed care plans, thereby reducing the cost-effectiveness of the Medi-Cal program. Requiring managed care plans to pass-through rate changes to specialty providers is contrary to the concept of managed care because managed care plans are given the flexibility to administer plans within the funding provided through capitation payments made by the State or private payors.

Medi-Cal managed care plans are currently required to provide medically necessary services to all plan enrollees. Managed care plans, like Medi-Cal generally, currently provide comprehensive coverage for AIDS, AIDS-related conditions, and HIV-infection.

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 607 without my signature.

This bill would provide that all children in foster care receive specified assessments, requires the Secretary of Health and Human Services to coordinate state agencies in providing services to foster children and requires child welfare service workers to obtain specified health information from children entering the foster care system.

The 1999–2000 Budget already includes $9.9 million for the Health Care Program for Children in Foster Care which is designed to help children in foster care gain improved access to health-related services. I have also just signed Assembly Bill 543, which requires certain health information to be entered into the foster care case plan. Any additional program changes should be reviewed in the context of the budget process and other program priorities.

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1020 without my signature.

This bill would allow a foster parent, guardian, pupil advocate or designated adult to request, under specified circumstances, that a foster child be assessed for special education services and to participate in the child's individual education plan process.

While I support many features of the bill, its legal definition of "parent" is overly broad including a "pupil advocate," which would unnecessarily drive up the number of referrals at taxpayers' expense.

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1039

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 1039 without my signature.

Among its changes, AB 1039 would set a standard of one hour of preparation time, up to a maximum of six hours per week, to count towards a CalWORKs recipients participation requirement and establishes guidelines for a pilot program to allow counties to implement a subsidized employment program as an alternative, or in addition to, community service activities.

While I am supportive of fine tuning the CalWORKs program to optimize its implementation, I am not supportive of making any major changes. Providing subsidized employment for up to 60 months is inconsistent with the message that welfare is temporary and may reduce the incentive for recipients to find unsubsidized employment.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1155

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1155 without my signature.

This bill would specify that Senate Constitutional Amendment (SCA) 3 is to appear on the ballot of the November 7, 2000, statewide election, would establish deadlines and public hearing requirements for a county's adoption, on or prior to the approval of SCA 3, of a transportation expenditure plan. The proposed Constitutional Amendment would allow for the approval of a transportation special tax by the majority vote of a local electorate, rather than the current two-thirds voter approval requirement.

I believe it would be premature to enact this bill prior to the approval of SCA 3. Furthermore, I am reluctant to endorse any specific proposal to address local infrastructure needs prior to the final report by the Commission on Building for the 21st Century. I want to address overall infrastructure needs in the context of the final report.

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1345 without my signature.

AB 1345 would increase from $3 million to $6 million the maximum available resources in the Attorney General Antitrust Account, which are used by the Department of Justice to prosecute antitrust cases. This bill would also delete the requirement that money in the account may only be appropriated by the Legislature in the annual budget bill.

The 1999–2000 Budget Act already included an additional $677,000 in General Fund monies to ensure that the Department of Justice has the resources necessary to address an increasing workload in the Antitrust Section. Any further additional appropriation of resources which may be necessary should be part of the normal budget process.

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1652

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1652 without my signature.

This year I have signed into law major increases in criminal penalties for employers who fail to meet workplace safety standards, employers who operate "sweatshops," and significant legislation protecting workers' rights to fair wages and overtime pay.

This legislation, while laudable in its intent, duplicates many existing enforcement efforts and contains excessive penalties.

Existing law already provides penalties against employers who issue bad checks for payment of wages. Additionally, requiring employers who engage in a pattern of violating wage and hour laws to post a declaration that there will be no further violations is unworkable and meaningless. This legislation, as drafted, is overly broad.

I would be happy to consider additional legislation to protect workers against unscrupulous employers if present enforcement efforts prove to be insufficient.

HUGH R. SLAYDEN

Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 103

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 10, 1999

To the Members of the State Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 103 without my signature.

This bill would require the State Department of Health Services to create and implement by January 1, 2001 a method of reporting and tracking HIV test results by unique confidential identifier.

The State Department of Health Services is pursuing a grant from the federal Centers for Disease Control to fully fund the costs of an HIV unique confidential identifier surveillance system. If California receives such funds, I will take steps to immediately implement such a system.

My budget reflects a strong commitment towards preventing the transmission of HIV and in providing effective treatment, including a recent augmentation of $13.4 million General Fund to expand HIV/AIDS education, prevention and care and treatment services. In addition, the Budget provides $140.3 million to fully fund anticipated demand for the AIDS Drug Assistance Program. Whether or not California receives federal funding for surveillance, I will ensure that California is directing its own HIV/AIDS efforts in a manner that stresses prevention, counseling and testing and have directed my Director of the State Department of Health Services to report to me by December 1, 1999 on how the state currently targets its education and prevention efforts towards areas and/or populations that may be experiencing an increase in HIV infection.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 144

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 144 without my signature.

This bill would change reporting requirements associated with the Standardized Testing and Reporting (STAR) program to exclude the scores of English Language Learners who have been in a school district for fewer than 12 months from district, school, and grade level reports. This bill would require the scores of these pupils to be separately reported to the state and on the Internet.

While I appreciate the author's efforts, this measure, if signed, would conflict with the education reforms adopted by the Legislature this spring. Those reforms provide substantial financial rewards to schools based on improved student achievement. Since state law last year required English Language Learners to take the Stanford 9 examination, and these results were counted in districts' baseline scores, I am reluctant to approve a measure which would artificially raise these scores next year, and distort the consistency of the longitudinal data developed over the life of this program. It is critical to have consistent, year-to-year data as a measurement of student progress.

This year I signed into law the English Language Acquisition Program, which will provide $55 million for supplementary English language development instruction. This program is designed to assist students in developing English language skills, as well as master the state's academic content standards. The budget also provides $5 million to the University of California to establish the English Language Development Professional Institutes. These Institutes will train teams of teachers to provide comprehensive and rigorous instructional programs designed for English Language Learners.

I believe that the education reforms which we have already instituted will, if accompanied by the extra effort of pupils, teachers, principals, parents, and mentors, produce genuine student achievement of which we can all be legitimately proud.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 361

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 361 without my signature.

This bill requires school district governing boards to adopt rules and regulations that establish district policy regarding the training of administrators assigned to evaluate certificated employees. It also requires an administrator assigned to evaluate certificated employees to receive this training by January 1, 2005, and specifies that this training must be applied to the 150 clock hours of professional growth required by law. This bill specifies that the requirements imposed by this bill shall only apply during those fiscal years that funds are appropriated for those purposes.

I support efforts to improve the training of school administrators. That is why I established the Governor's Principal Leadership Institute at the University of California. However, I cannot support this bill because, according to the Department of Finance, it could impose costs of up to $10 million over a five year period. Because this bill could involve significant costs to the state, including some reimbursable mandated costs, it should compete with other priorities for funding in the annual budget process. Furthermore, this proposal should be coordinated with the Governor's Principal Leadership Institute, which will commence next summer.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 470

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 470 without my signature.

This bill would, among other things, authorize school districts to enter into design-build contracts for the design and construction of projects under the state school facilities program, with a requirement to retain the services of an architect or structural engineer in order to ensure compliance with the provisions of the bill. The bill would prohibit withholding of retention proceeds by school districts using design-build contracts, and authorizes withholding of subcontractor retention proceeds by a design-build entity.

I am supportive of the design-build process in concept. However, I cannot support this bill because it prohibits the withholding of retention proceeds by school districts using design-build contracts necessary to protect taxpayers if the contractor does not fulfill his responsibilities under the contract. This provision would put public funds at risk, and for that reason I cannot support this bill.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 543

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 543 without my signature.

This bill would specify that no person shall sell cast iron plumbing pipe or fittings used for potable and wastewater piping systems unless each fitting and pipe is marked with the country of origin and the manufacturer's name.

This bill aims to hold manufacturers accountable for faulty cast iron piping. While I believe this is a worthwhile objective, this bill will make it difficult for wholesalers and retailers in California to purchase products from other states and other countries. I believe this issue is best pursued through the Federal Trade Commission, not the State of California.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1078

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 1078 without my signature.

This bill would authorize the release of confidential home address information to lienholders or their agents for the purpose of conducting lien sales.

I believe people should be responsible and meet their financial obligations. I am troubled, however, by releasing confidential information from the Department of Motor Vehicles. Further, this bill does not cover all of the circumstances where such information would be needed to complete a lien sale transaction. For example, it fails to acknowledge mechanics liens, liens against vessels, and lien sales conducted by lienholders and agents that reside outside of this state.

I am willing to work with the author to develop an acceptable solution to the problem that the bill was intended to address.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1207

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 1207 without my signature.

This bill attempts to address important issues concerning the health and safety of children in schools including indoor environmental quality, portable classrooms, and the use of pesticides at school facilities.

While laudable in much of its intent, this legislation contains a serious flaw which precludes me from signing it. My main concern with this bill is the overly prescriptive requirements on the use of pesticides on school sites. Unfortunately the bill is drafted with such broad language that it creates costly requirements for schools that are not reasonable or optimal approaches to pest management.

AB 1207 would, for example, require school districts to notify parents of applications in schools of such commonly used household insecticides as Raid and Combat, or three days before applying insecticides to address pest emergencies such as hornets nests or fire ants on school property. The bill would require schools districts to notify parents of applications of pesticides even during school vacations when children would not normally be present in the school. For example, parents would need to be notified each time a summer baseball league applies weedkiller, such as Round-Up, to delineate lines on a ballfield on school property.

The California Department of Finance indicates that this measure would result in estimated costs of $2.7 million in 2000–01, $1.7 million in 2001–02 and $1.2 million annually thereafter. In addition, this bill would result in reimbursable state-mandated costs estimated in the tens of millions of dollars for school districts to comply with the notification and posting requirements for pesticide use, establishing the least hazardous integrated pest management program, and training to implement the program.

In the 1999–2000 Budget Act, I set aside $1 million to provide a comprehensive review of air quality in portable classrooms. Additionally, the Department of Health Services (DHS) conducts an Indoor Air Quality Program charged with studying indoor environmental quality and coordinating the state's response to indoor air problems. DHS's Environmental Health Investigation Branch investigates environmental health problems in the state and has consulted with several school districts at their request on recent school environmental health issues, including potential problems in portable classrooms.

I continue to believe the issue of air quality in portable classrooms is an important issue that must be addressed to ensure that any unsafe conditions are identified and promptly addressed, and I will support legislation to utilize the funds set aside in the budget toward that end.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1430

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 10, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 1430 without my signature.

This bill would remove the requirement that electronic data transmission prescriptions be reduced to writing, permit a prescriber to electronically enter prescriptions into the computer at hospitals or pharmacies as specified, and allow dangerous drugs or devices to be furnished without a prescription as specified.

While I am generally supportive of incorporating new technologies to increase efficiency, the California Attorney General advises that this bill would (1) inappropriately broaden the authority of manufacturers and wholesalers to provide dangerous drugs and devices, (2) diminish the authority of the Board of Pharmacy to closely monitor the acquisition and maintenance of such drugs by providers, and (3) fails to provide strict policies and procedures for identification of who may be authorized to obtain dangerous drugs. I am also aware that the federal Drug Enforcement Agency is also evaluating an electronic encrypted prescription system, which will hopefully provide additional guidance to states evaluating this issue.

I am concerned that this bill could create avenues for the illicit diversion of controlled substances and urge the author to work with the Attorney General on crafting a product that eliminates this potential.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1485

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1485 without my signature.

This bill adds a new list of violent felonies to those offenses for which the Department of Motor Vehicles can deny or revoke an application for a certificate to drive a school bus or a vehicle used to transport developmentally disabled persons.

While this measure is well intended, it inexplicably reduces the period in which a prospective applicant convicted of enumerated offenses must wait before they can apply for a certificate and employment as a school bus driver from seven to three years. This would allow existing certificate holders who have previously been convicted of a serious or violent felony to retain their certificates.

I applaud the author for his efforts to toughen the requirements for the issuance of school bus certificates. However, I cannot support a bill that allows any individual who has committed a serious felony, including those associated with driving, regardless of how long ago the crime occurred, to be employed by a school district to drive a school bus.

GRAY DAVIS

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 47 without my signature.

This bill would require specified Williamson Act cancellation fees to be deposited into the Agricultural Land Stewardship Program Fund beginning on July 1, 2001.

The bill would reduce the fiscal flexibility of the state without the opportunity to judge the relative merits of the Agricultural Land Stewardship Program with other programs. Furthermore, the amount dedicated to the program under this bill would be arbitrary, depending on the amount of Williamson Act cancellation fees received each year, rather than based upon an analytical review of program needs.

In addition, the Agricultural Land Stewardship Program will be eligible for general obligation bond funding under both the park and water bonds, which will appear on the statewide ballot in March of next year.

October 10, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

The costs incurred by public school employers for collective bargaining are currently reimbursable by the State. The need to extend collective bargaining in school-related joint powers agencies has not been demonstrated.

However, for school districts and county offices of education choosing to form joint powers agencies, this bill may result in situations where the State is required to backfill Public Employees' Retirement System contributions for employees whose employment is transferred to joint powers agencies. Based on this, I am unable to support this measure.

This bill makes various changes related to the rights of foster parents to participate in dependency hearings and expands the waiver criteria for the treatment of adolescents in drug abuse recovery and treatment facilities.

While I believe that foster parents should be able to more fully participate in juvenile court dependency hearings, we should not need legislation that imposes state mandates to allow such participation. In addition, I believe that allowing additional adolescent services in adult residential alcoholism or drug abuse recovery or treatment facilities is premature because the Department of Alcohol and Drug Programs is currently in the process of developing standards and procedures to implement the statewide Adolescent Treatment Program as required by Assembly Bill 1784 of 1988.

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 312 without my signature.

This bill extends the operation of a charter school, which currently operates as a county community school, and allows the charter to receive funding as a community day school.

I understand that the original legislation that created charter schools was ambiguous concerning the administration of charter schools by county offices of education, thereby necessitating the placement of the Soledad Enrichment Action, Inc. charter in statute. However, I note that Assembly Bill No. 544 (Chapter 34, Statutes of 1998) clarified this ambiguity by allowing county offices of education to operate charter schools. Therefore, the extension of the sunset for the Soledad Enrichment Action, Inc. charter school is unnecessary. Instead, the charter school should obtain approval locally from the Los Angeles County Office of Education.

In addition, I recently signed Assembly Bill No. 1115 (Chapter 78, Statutes of 1999), which establishes a new direct funding model for charter schools. This model is designed to provide funding which is equal to the total funding that would be available to a similar non-charter school serving a similar pupil population. This charter school should be treated as all others with respect to funding from the state.

For these reasons I cannot support this measure.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 315

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 10, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 315 without my signature.

This bill would expand gambling by allowing wagering on all horseracing rather than just quarter horse racing in specified circumstances.

I made clear last year that I do not personally favor gambling, and I certainly do not encourage others to gamble. Therefore, I am not generally inclined to support measures that allow more than a modest expansion of gaming.

This measure is also premature in that Proposition 1A will be on the March 2000 ballot, which will give voters the opportunity to vote on gaming on Indian tribal lands in California. It is appropriate to let the voters speak before addressing any further gaming issues.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 487

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 487 without my signature.

This measure, while well intentioned, allows local agencies to hire a person for park-related employment without conducting a criminal background check, provided that the job applicant is currently employed in a school district or office of education located in the same jurisdiction where the hiring agency is located. The measure also prohibits local agencies from retaining an employee or volunteer in a position having supervisory authority over a minor if it learns that the person has been convicted of an offense that would have disqualified him or her from initially being hired.

Our highest priority is to protect citizens and their children using our parks and public facilities. I cannot sanction the elimination of routine background checks, which could prevent a predator from having access to our children.

For this reason, I am vetoing AB 487.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 512

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 512 without my signature.

This bill would provide licensed private investigators and process servers a means to obtain home address information. It would further erode the public's perception of privacy and the confidentiality of private information in governmental records.

By allowing general access to confidential home address information without specifically identifying the need or specifically prohibiting this information from being shared with others, this bill violates the confidentiality in which Californians expect their information will be held.

Moreover, I recently signed historic legislation revamping collection of child support which will utilize Franchise Tax Board's ability to locate deadbeat parents, garnish wages and attach bank accounts.

I understand that this information may be necessary for private investigators and process servers to locate witnesses and others involved in civil or criminal proceedings. However, this information can be attained through private sources without violating the public trust.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 789

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 789 without my signature.

AB 789 would increase the minimum monthly personal and incidental needs allowance for age, blind or disabled Medi-Cal beneficiaries in institutional care.

This bill, while well intentioned, would result in estimated new annual General Fund costs in excess of $2 million that was not included in the 1999–2000 budget. Any increase in the personal and incidental needs allowance should be considered as part of the annual budget deliberations.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1410

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1410 without my signature.

Government should not operate by different rules than ordinary citizens. I am strongly in favor of government making payments in a timely fashion. The penalties for late payments, however, in this measure (24% per annum) are excessive.

I will sign a bill extending to local governments the same late payment penalties that apply to the State.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1480

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 1480 without my signature.

Though this bill contains needed reform of the Williamson Act compatible use provisions and would facilitate “land swap” easements that place property into the Agricultural Land Stewardship Program, the bill also contains a site-specific exemption for a nonagricultural manufacturing facility. The creation of such an exemption in the closing days of the session denied the opportunity for full public comment and review.

I encourage the Legislature to work with my office to fashion an appropriate bill next year.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 10th day of October 1999 at 10:52 p.m., of Assembly Bills Nos. 47, 91, 247, 312, 315, 487, 512, 789, 1410, and 1480 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

HUGH R. SLAYDEN
Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 311

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 311 without my signature.

This bill would expand and change the composition of the State Teacher Retirement System (STRS) Board of Directors by adding three elected members, removing restrictions on my current appointment authority, and adding three seats to the board.

While I support the election of STRS Board members, as well as the removal of restrictions on my current appointment authority, I believe that no more than two elected members would be an appropriate composition of the board. The expansion of the Board to 15 members would add unnecessary cost and could make it difficult for the board to operate efficiently.

For this reason I cannot support this measure.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 366

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 366 without my signature.

This bill would permit state annuitants and their survivors and beneficiaries to enroll in health benefit coverage provided by the Public Employees' Medical and Hospital Care Act at the time of retirement or during the open enrollment periods.

Although the actual costs are unknown, this bill could result in potentially significant General Fund costs to pay health benefit premiums for additional annuitants, dependents, survivors, and beneficiaries who previously forfeited health care benefits. In addition, the California Public Employees' Retirement System (CalPERS) indicates that it would be difficult to complement provisions of this bill because it may not be possible to establish the enrollment eligibility of some annuitants and their survivors. Further, providing health care for the group of annuitants addressed in this bill would be higher than the program average; and as a result, lead to higher gross premium rates for the employees of the State and contracting agencies.

Under current law, CalPERS has the authority to administratively restore health benefits eligibility if the loss of eligibility was due to an error or omission.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 953

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 10, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 953 without my signature.

This bill would adjust special education per average daily attendance (ADA) funding for necessary small special education local plan areas (SELPA), providing them with additional funding for ADA increases and minimizing the impact of declining enrollment.

I am unable to support this measure for several reasons. All SELPAs, including necessary small SELPAs, receive funding annually based on the statewide target amount per pupil. This formula, established in Assembly Bill No. 602 (Chapter 854, Statutes of 1997), was developed through lengthy negotiations and considerable input from the special education community and was designed to simplify the funding of special education. Requiring the State Department of Education to determine separate per ADA funding rates for each necessary small SELPA would further complicate funding for special education which would undermine the effort behind Assembly Bill No. 602. Finally, this bill would impose new costs on the state that were not anticipated in the Budget Act of 1999.

Despite the hard work of this very able author, I am unable to support this measure.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1287

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 1287 without my signature.

This bill would require persons of certain age that own or operate a motor boat to pass a written boating safety examination and obtain a certificate.

There may well be reasonable measures we can adopt to enhance the safety of boat operators, but unfortunately this bill will not accomplish that goal. There is little evidence that a written test alone will improve the piloting skills of motor boat operators or reduce boating accidents. Until such evidence is brought forth, I do not believe it is appropriate to require millions of Californians who enjoy boating as recreation to run the gauntlet of yet another government bureaucracy to obtain licenses to pilot their boats.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

HUGH R. SLAYDEN

Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 137

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill 137 without my signature.

AB 137 would establish a pilot program for evaluating the presence of hazardous materials at 100 public schoolsites and requires the State Allocation Board to adopt regulations for the pilot program.

I am fully committed to ensuring that California school children are safe from environmental harm. To this end I have signed SB 162 and AB 387 by Senator Escutia and Assemblyman Wildman. Together these bills require school districts to conduct a comprehensive environmental assessment and any necessary environmental cleanup before receiving funds from the State to do new construction. In signing these bills we are working to ensure that every new public school built in California meets strict environmental standards, protecting California's children from harmful contaminants.

However, AB 137 would fail to help meet this goal in a credible or useful way. I am concerned that this bill would yield very little valuable information for the level of effort required. It is unclear how the evaluation of 100 schoolsites required by AB 137 would be useful on a statewide basis as each of the 8,000 schoolsites are inherently different.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

HUGH R. SLAYDEN

Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

Veto Message—Assembly Bill No. 1553

Governor's Office, Sacramento

October 10, 1999

To Members of the Assembly:

I am returning Assembly Bill No. 1553 without my signature.

I generally do not favor creating exceptions from local planning and land use laws. The property in question is a 1000 acre parcel of prime commercial property in San Bernardino County known as the "doughnut hole." It is located within the unincorporated area, but surrounded by the City of Redlands. Common sense dictates that the City and County should cooperatively plan this parcel, and that a revenue sharing agreement should be in place if the land is to be annexed to the City of Redlands.

This is a local land use dispute and locally elected officials should resolve it. However, I note that this legislation is supported unanimously by San Bernardino County, the San Bernardino LAFCO, and the Inland Valley Development Agency, a creation of the state legislature designed to stimulate job producing industry while paying for the redevelopment of the recently closed Norton Air Force Base.

As Californians, we are in this together. There are reasonable ways development of this property can and should proceed that will benefit all the residents of San Bernardino County. At stake are additional jobs and an expanded tax base for the region. I encourage the City of Redlands, the affected property owners, and the multiple service jurisdictions to end this 10-year-old dispute quickly.

If no progress is made on a fair and equitable resolution of the development and service responsibility issues, I will look favorably on similar legislation next year.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

RECEIPT

I acknowledge receipt this 10th day of October 1999 at 10:56 p.m., of Assembly Bill No. 1553 without the Governor's signature, together with a statement of his objections thereto, signed by the Governor, delivered to me personally by Nancy Miller.

HUGH R. SLAYDEN

Acting Chief Clerk of the Assembly

The following item veto messages from the Governor were received, and ordered printed in the Journal, and the item vetoes placed on the unfinished business file:

Item Veto—Assembly Bill No. 27

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am signing AB 27, which requires the California Health and Human Services Agency to prepare a long term care information infrastructure blueprint.

However, I am deleting the $149,000 General Fund appropriation from the bill and instead directing the Secretary of Health and Human Services Agency to implement the provisions of AB 27 within existing resources.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Item Veto—Assembly Bill No. 403

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill No. 403; however, I am deleting the $200,000 General Fund appropriation contained in Section 1.5.

AB 403 would appropriate $200,000 from the General Fund to the Department of Justice (DOJ) for training local law enforcement on the enforcement of firearm laws at gun shows.

Having recently signed legislation tightening regulation of gun shows, I support the need for additional training. However, primary responsibility for law enforcement at gun shows is a local responsibility, and I believe the Commission on Peace Officers Standards and Training is the appropriate state agency to provide training for local law enforcement officers.

If the Commission desires to contract with the Department of Justice to provide such training, I will provide the necessary funding in the budget process.

This bill would also require local law enforcement agencies to make available to a victim one copy of a domestic violence incident report within a specified period of time.

I believe this is an important measure that will help victims of domestic violence obtain the documentation they need to secure restraining orders as quickly as possible.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Item Veto—Assembly Bill No. 756

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill No. 756, however I am reducing the following item:

Item 3790-302-001—for relocation and restoration of Stilwell Hall in Monterey County, and for the stabilization and restoration of the Copperopolis Armory in Calaveras County. I reduce this item from $3,020,000 to $3,010,000 by deleting the funding for Copperopolis Armory.

This appropriation inappropriately diverts funding intended for high priority state park cultural heritage projects to a local project. This project should be funded from local resources.

The other budgetary augmentations and reallocations provided for in this bill are appropriate expenditures and have my full support.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Item Veto—Assembly Bill No. 1168

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill 1168, which creates the Noxious Weed Management Account and establishes a new local mechanism to address the eradication of noxious weeds.

However, I am reducing the appropriation in the bill from $500,000 to $200,000 per year for the 1999–2000, 2000–01, and 2001–02 fiscal years.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Item Veto—Assembly Bill No. 1645

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill No. 1645; however, I am eliminating the $127,500 appropriation to the State Department of Education made in subdivision (a) of Section 2. The bill provides that this appropriation is for expenditure “exclusively for staff.” Appropriate funding levels for staff are typically determined in the annual budget change proposal process based on a workload analysis and in consideration of all other priorities. Given that the department has eight staff already devoted to this area, it should be able to implement this bill without additional staff.

I am, however, sustaining the one-time $300,000 appropriation which will be used to develop an agricultural education curriculum. Agriculture plays a vital role in California's culture and economy. This bill will help ensure that agriculture is given the appropriate emphasis in our curriculum so that our children grow up recognizing its value.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

The following messages from the Governor were received and ordered printed in the Journal:

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 15, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill No. 734 with the following comments.

This bill requires the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges (CCC) to report to the Legislature and myself on various issues relating to community college financing formulas which include program based funding criteria, equalization, cost of living adjustment rates, and non-credit instruction rates. The bill requires the CCC attempt to complete this report on or before January 15, 2000. Further, the report will identify budgetary or statutory changes to accomplish the recommendations of the board.

While I agree that the CCC's recent evaluations of current funding formulas should be shared with the Legislature and Administration as intended by this bill, I am concerned that my signature may imply an endorsement for changing the existing budget process or diminish the focus on the Partnership for Excellence. I believe any recommended changes in funding formulas should not further constrain the budget process, but rather should provide incentives to increase educational outcomes within funding available for the colleges. Furthermore, this bill's emphasis on funding formulas should not overshadow completion of the details on the Partnership for Excellence program which, for the first time in adjustments, to accountability for increased student outcomes. Consistent with my stated interests to increase accountability in all segments of education, the highest current priority for systemwide financing of the colleges should be to complete the requirements for this new $145 million annual program.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 16, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill 1499 with the expectation that the Department of Health Services and the Department of Social Services will develop a program that provides the necessary skills needed without imposing any undue burden on the employees.

I expect that all three agencies will concur in the nature and duration of the training program, and that the program is developed within existing resources of the departments.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
September 28, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

On this date I have signed Assembly Bill No. 1587.

I would have preferred that the former Attorney General appeal a 1997 Sacramento Superior Court decision effectively overturning previous law prohibiting a person subject to a 72-hour hold as a result of a mental disorder from owning a gun for five years. Since no appeal was taken, I have no choice but to sign this measure.

AB 1587 allows the state to persuade a judge that a person who poses a threat to public safety may not purchase or possess a gun without first demonstrating that the person will not be likely to use a firearm in a safe and lawful manner.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 6, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

Although a recent study of school bus seat belts by the National Transportation Safety Board is inconclusive, I am signing Assembly Bill 15 because the bill's requirement that seat belts be placed on newly manufactured buses does not begin until January 1, 2002, by which time a follow-up federal study and recommendations are scheduled to be completed.

The NTSB has recommended that the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration "In two years, develop performance standards for school bus occupant protection systems that account for frontal impact collisions, side impact collisions, rear impact collisions and rollovers."

AB 15 provides the opportunity for the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration to modify seat design to better enhance the safety of school children, and gives time for manufacturers to incorporate those changes on school buses at the same time seat belts are installed.

However, as written, AB 15 requires a specific course of action unless prohibited by the federal government's study. Therefore, I am signing this bill with the clear understanding that the author will introduce clean-up legislation to accommodate the specific findings and recommendations of the upcoming federal study.

I also am signing AB 15 on the assumption that the follow-up federal study will be completed on a timely basis, and with the author's agreement that he will extend the starting date of the legislation if that study is not completed by January 1, 2002, or if the study is inconclusive.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill No. 56 with the following comments.

This bill will require the State Department of Education, in consultation with the State Board of Education, to convene a working group for the purpose of selecting a contractor to conduct an independent evaluation of the effects of the implementation of Proposition 227 on the education of pupils in K-12.

I am concerned that this bill implies that the state wishes students to meet standards adopted by local education agencies. This is not my intent in signing this bill. I support efforts to ensure that students meet state adopted content and performance standards. I am signing this bill because the author has assured me that she will provide clean-up legislation which removes references to district standards from this law.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill No. 181 with the following comments.

Assembly Bill No. 181 is an urgency measure which would authorize the continued operation of a child care program administered by the City of San Diego. This program, known as "6 to 6," would be allowed to operate as a license exempt program until January 1, 2002.

While I am signing this bill, I have serious concerns regarding the exemption of this program from state licensure. This bill extends an exemption for a period of two years, which is ample time for this program to come into compliance with state standards. State licensure will ensure access to criminal background checks, safe facilities, and proper training for staff in this program.

During the next two years the "6 to 6" program should take the necessary steps to meet state licensing standards. I do not intend to sign another bill granting a further extension.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill 387. This bill, together with Senate Bill 162, protects children and school employees from hazardous health risks and ensures that all environmental contamination is addressed before schools are constructed and occupied.

It is of the utmost importance that the schools we build for the new millennium are safe, conducive learning environments for children. In signing these bills I am protecting California's children from dangerous hazardous materials by requiring every new public schoolsite to meet strict environmental standards.

However, it is not my intent, nor the intention of the author to remove the cap on the reimbursable state funding put in place by the voters in Proposition 1A.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill 394 which would require the State Department of Health Services (DHS) to adopt regulations establishing minimum nurse-to-patient ratios by licensed nurse classification and by hospital unit for all licensed hospitals.

Registered nurses are a critical component in guaranteeing patient safety and the highest quality health care. Over the past several years many hospitals, in response to managed care reimbursement contracts, have cut costs by reducing their licensed nursing staffs. In some cases, the ratio of licensed nurses to patients has resulted in an erosion in the quality of patient care.

I do not generally support setting rigid formulas into law. However, this bill gives the DHS the flexibility needed to set realistic standards while addressing the problem of adequate nurse-to-patient ratios.

I am also directing DHS to establish minimum staffing standards only for those tasks which are exclusively under a nurse's scope of practice and not for those tasks which can be performed by unlicensed personnel. In addition, I am directing DHS to write the regulations so that the minimum required staffing does not exceed that necessary to comply with other existing standards and the levels necessary to provide quality care. In other words, the minimums should be just that, in order for hospitals to retain reasonable flexibility.

Finally, the author has agreed to my request for subsequent legislation to extend the deadline for the regulations by at least one year. This will provide the necessary lead time for DHS to consult the interested parties and to reach consensus on necessary ratios. The current regulation adoption date of January 1, 2001 cannot be met.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill 406, which would require the Public Utilities Commission (PUC) to develop and implement measures to efficiently allocate telephone numbers within telephone prefixes.

The Federal Communications Commission, at my request, granted a petition filed by the PUC giving California the ability to stop the proliferation of area code overlays and reclaim unused numbers. Also following my request, the PUC reversed plans for 11-digit dialing and overlays planned for Los Angeles, San Diego and San Jose.

Assembly Bill 406 codifies aspects of the PUC's actions and provides for key utilization studies to be completed to determine the extent of unused numbers. These studies will allow California to more efficiently allocate numbers and avoid costly and confusing area code overlays.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill 431, which revises the licensure terms and fees for real estate appraisers and makes numerous changes to the Civil Code relating to trust and deeds. However, I urge the Legislature to send me further legislation that would correct the projected deficit to the Real Estate Appraisers Regulation Fund in the 2003-04 fiscal year.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill 519 with the following comments.

I am supporting this legislation as it will bring the sexual harassment laws into conformity with other California sexual harassment prohibitions in the Government Code. In addition, this will conform California law to federal anti-sexual harassment laws. Specifically, this bill will delete the requirement that the victim of sexual harassment must ask the harasser to stop the offensive conduct before seeking legal redress.

This legislation will benefit adjudicatory bodies by providing consistent definitions and standards for deciding sexual harassment actions in business, professional and service relationships.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill 575 which would place California in compliance with federal rules pertaining to children under the supervision of the probation department.

At my request, the author has agreed to correct in subsequent legislation a provision that would unnecessarily create a mandated local program by requiring probation departments to consult with local education agencies prior to the completion of certain tasks.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill No. 655 with the following comments.

This bill requires the Chancellor of the California Community Colleges, the Chancellor of the California State University, the President of the University of California, and the President of the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, by April 1, 2001, to jointly submit a report to the Legislature and the Governor containing a recommended plan and budget to significantly increase the number of students graduating from nursing programs, and provide specialty training to licensed nurses.

While I support development of the plan to ensure that California's colleges and universities have sufficient capacity in nursing programs, I am requesting the higher education segments to consider strategies to fund the plan within existing resources, including consideration of redirecting resources from low-demand programs, and to allocate a portion of annual enrollment growth funding to nursing program enrollment growth identified by the plan.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill No. 673 with the following comments.

This bill requires the Judicial Council to request and administer federal grant moneys for child access and visitation programs, including implementation of sliding scale fees to accommodate low-income families who use the visitation and exchange services. I support implementation of the sliding scale fees if funded with federal funds only; I do not intend to commit any state funds for this purpose.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill 784 which enhances my Medi-Cal fraud initiative contained in the 1999–2000 budget. This bill will require certain Medi-Cal providers to provide a bond or other security of not less than $25,000 which gives the Department of Health Services financial protection against losses due to provider fraud and billing abuses. The bill also provides the department with authority to audit the records of more providers and suppliers to ensure invoices submitted and reimbursed are valid.

At my request, the author has agreed to introduce subsequent legislation to conform the definition of “provider” contained in the bill with the broader definition contained in the Budget Act, thus allowing consistent application of my strengthened anti-fraud efforts to all types of providers.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill 807 which would establish the Pajaro River Watershed Flood Prevention Authority with the power to undertake flood prevention and flood control protection projects in the Pajaro River Watershed.

This measure will help resolve the flooding problems that have plagued this region for years. I would urge the Authority to take into account the recommendations of the hydrological study, to be funded through the Safe Drinking Water, Clean Water, Watershed Protection, and Flood Protection Act of 2000, when crafting flood control and protection solutions for the Pajaro River Watershed.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill No. 910 with the following comments.

Assembly Bill No. 910 will provide funding for school library materials for school districts and county offices of education which did not apply for funding for this purpose in the 1998–99 fiscal year.

While I am signing this bill, I do not intend to approve funding in such situations again. It is the responsibility of local education agencies to apply for funding made available by the state.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 7, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill No. 931, to establish and validate minimum standards for the competency and training of electricians, and perform other activities, as specified. However, any additional resources required by the Department of Industrial Relations to implement the provisions of this bill would need to be justified through the annual budget process.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill 993, which enacts the Marine Life Protection Act and requires the Department of Fish and Game to prepare a master plan for the management of the State's Marine Protected Areas.

In signing this measure, I am encouraging the proponents and the Department to seek assistance from private resources to help implement the provisions of the bill.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill No. 1319 with the following comments.

This bill re-authorizes the Early Intervention for School Success (EISS) Program by extending the sunset date from June 30, 1999 to June 30, 2004. This bill also proposes various changes to the statutes governing the EISS Program, including a change in focus of the program to enhance development of reading and literacy skills, parent education resources, and alignment with state standards. This bill also requires that the program's management plan include plans to expand to serve 300 school sites by June 30, 2004.

I am supportive of this program, and have no objection to its re-authorization. I note, however, that this bill creates an expectation that the program will be expanded to 300 sites, or 100 more sites than the program currently serves, by 2004. While this is a meritorious goal, additional funding for this program will need to be balanced against other priorities for Proposition 98 funding in the development of future state budgets.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill 1492 which will ensure that four existing demonstration projects continue providing supportive services to individuals who have experienced life-changing head trauma. These services are substantially similar to independent living skills training provided to developmentally disabled adults. This bill would also expand services to these clients.

However, this bill would retroactively impose a cap on revenues that are attributed to the Traumatic Brain Injury (TBI) fund, resulting in a loss to the TBI Fund of $1.1 million. Therefore, I am requesting subsequent legislation to remove this retroactive imposition of a $500,000 revenue cap for 1997-98 and 1998-99 and allow the funds to be spent on this worthwhile program.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To Members of the California Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill No. 1498 with the following comments.

This bill will establish criteria for the allocation of specific funding for disadvantaged public school students to attend residential outdoor science camps.

Assembly Bill No. 1115 (Strom-Martin), the 1999 Omnibus Education Trailer bill, includes $1.5 million from the Proposition 98 Reversion account to subsidize the costs of low-income children's participation in residential science camps. However, as I stated in my signing message, this funding is to be considered a one-time appropriation and it would be more appropriate for residential science camp programs to develop alternative funding sources for the future.

I would request that the author provide legislation next year which would require that, as a condition of funding, applicant school districts present a plan to the Department of Education which describes the sources of funding which will support their programs once this one-time state funding has been exhausted.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor's Office, Sacramento
October 5, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing AB 1600, which, among other things, adds a definition of "alternative payment program" to the Child Care and Development

Services Act that includes provision of “support services.” The bill’s definition is technically flawed in its reference to Education Code section 8220.2. I am signing this bill with the understanding that the definitions in Education Code section 8208 of the Child Care and Development Services Act will be interpreted to apply to all state-subsidized alternative payment providers, including those serving CalWORKs families.

In addition, I want to clarify that my signature on this bill does not imply endorsement of any particular level of support services to be provided through alternative payment programs. These services are discretionary and are subject to available funding through the annual Budget Act.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor’s Office, Sacramento
October 10, 1999

To Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill 1685, which would modify the public notice requirements for public meetings related to local regulated substance ordinance changes and require the California Environmental Protection Agency (CalEPA) to post copies on the Internet.

In signing AB 1685 I am also directing CalEPA to implement this bill from existing resources.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Governor’s Office, Sacramento
October 8, 1999

To the Members of the Assembly:

I am signing Assembly Bill No. 1686, which postpones by two years the sunset date which would eliminate the Department of Information Technology.

I believe that the Department of Information Technology has proven itself to be an indispensable leader of the State’s technology management strategy. The department has shown extraordinary leadership and effectiveness in its stewardship of the state’s Year 2000 Program. However, creating a sunset date for a department is highly unusual and potentially deleterious. It suggests a lack of commitment to the department’s mission, which has affected employee morale and impacted the department’s ability to attract and retain staff in a highly competitive environment.

Therefore, I intend to sponsor legislation in the next session that would eliminate the sunset date from the Department of Information Technology, thereby reassuring the present and future employees of the state’s commitment to this department’s vital mission on behalf of the people of California.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Members of the Assembly: As requested by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, the Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning the California Science Center's mismanagement of its personnel function.

This report concludes that the Science Center has poorly managed its personnel responsibilities and created a workplace in which employees are not assured fair and equitable treatment. Specifically, we found problems with its examination and hiring process, inconsistent resolution of employee complaints and grievances, a deficient training program, and poor record keeping. As a result, it is exposing the State to the risk of litigation.

Members of the Assembly: As requested by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, the Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning the Department of Transportation's (CalTrans) management of the circumstances surrounding the damage to the Century Freeway. This report concludes that CalTrans disregarded warning signs of potential groundwater problems during the original design, planning, and construction of the Century Freeway.

In its efforts to resolve the resulting problems of cracked pavement and a damaged storm drain system, CalTrans made emergency repairs and is continuing permanent repairs. As of May 1999, total repair costs are estimated at $67 million, which does not include the cost to dispose of the groundwater pumped out from under the freeway. CalTrans is currently reviewing options for the beneficial reuse of this groundwater and these options could add millions of dollars more to the total cost of solving the freeway's problem. Further, CalTrans has taken appropriate steps to review and revise its own procedures to avoid similar problems in future highway projects.

Members of the Assembly: As a follow-up to issues we previously reported in October 1998, the Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning the California Multiple Award Schedules (CMAS) program.

This report concludes that although the CMAS program may have reduced administrative costs and improved the flexibility of procurements of information technology, it does not ensure that purchases represent the best value. Specifically, CMAS prices are merely ceiling prices, not the best prices available. Furthermore, the Department of General Services' assertion that CMAS prices are fair and reasonable is based on several faulty assumptions, and as a result, we noted several instances in which CMAS vendors overcharged state agencies. Therefore, comparison shopping is essential to optimize the benefits of the CMAS program.

Members of the Assembly: As requested by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, the Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning a review of the operational changes that have occurred as a result of the merger of the University of California, San Francisco Medical Center and Stanford Health Services. Additionally, we were asked to review the factors that may have caused the hospitals to lose money and to determine the cause of the UCSF Stanford Health Care's (USHC) failure to achieve the expected benefits of the merger. Lastly, we reviewed the actions planned to achieve operational savings goals and whether the USHC's recovery plan is likely to be achieved.

This report concludes that USHC has been unable to achieve the clinical and financial goals of the merger to the degree anticipated. Specifically, USHC has failed to combine intellectual capital, and incurred actual merger costs that exceeded savings from merging.

Further, we estimate the merger contributed $19 million in losses during the first two years, but it may generate $140 million in profits in the next two years if the portions of proposed revenue enhancements and cost savings that we attribute to merger-related activities are achieved.

This report concludes that many counties will likely create public authorities to meet the requirement of recent legislation to act as the employer for individual providers of program services for purposes of negotiating wages and benefits. Although these actions will likely increase program costs, neither the Department of Social Services nor the existing public authorities can definitively demonstrate that counties with public authorities deliver program services more effectively than counties without public authorities.

This report concluded that Wasco's management has failed to create an atmosphere of vigilance in which emergency equipment is adequately maintained and inmates are appropriately monitored as mandated by its policies. In addition, Wasco has not adequately prepared the prison and its staff for institution-wide emergency situations. Finally, we are concerned about the depth and the timing of the exercises Wasco intends to use to test the viability of its year 2000 contingency plan. Members of the Assembly: As requested by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, the Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning the ability of the State of California's 78,000 adults with developmental disabilities (consumers) to receive optimal services from organizations in the community (providers) and the statewide network of 21 independent, nonprofit regional centers.

This report concludes that although the State's service delivery system was designed to provide optimal services to consumers, its success has been undermined by insufficient state funding and budget cuts. The providers we surveyed unequivocally agree that their inability to compete for direct care staff—those individuals who work directly with the consumers—and receiving insufficient state financial support are the primary obstacles to consistently delivering quality services. Providers report that most of their direct care staff, who earn an average of $8.89 per hour, remain on the job barely two years. It takes providers almost three months to replace these staff, thus creating disruptions in services and impeding continuity for the consumers. Regional centers also report similar delays in replacing their case managers who leave, causing consumers to lose contact with the person who is key to ensuring that they get their services. The Department of Developmental Services is taking some steps to improve the system. However, until the State commits to ensuring that sufficient funding is available for this program, consumers will continue to receive less-than-optimal services to facilitate their inclusion into the community.

Members of the Assembly: As requested by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, the Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning the Department of Health Services' (department) handling of information developed using public funds.

This report concludes that the department has not withheld information inappropriately. Furthermore, we found no evidence that the department timed the release of reports to improperly influence the public or pending legislation. However, because the department lacks policies to guide its managers' decisions on releasing information publicly, and it sometimes incurs lengthy delays in releasing reports, it exposes itself to allegations of impropriety. The department could also reduce its exposure to such allegations by making its information more accessible to the public, such as maintaining a list of available reports on its Web site.

Members of the Assembly: As requested by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, the Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning the Los Angeles Unified School District's (district) decisions surrounding the move of its business services center in 1995.

This report concludes that the district made a reasonable decision in moving its business services center, and that its choice of replacement buildings appears defensible. However, its process lacked an independent evaluation of the information and recommendations provided by its private consultant, a real estate broker. It is not prudent for a public agency to rely exclusively on someone who benefits from a transaction. Further, although the district's lease ends in March 2002, it has just recently started to consider where it will move next. The district needs to act quickly to successfully relocate its employees to a permanent site. Finally, the majority of funding the district received for its business services center was appropriate. However, a miscommunication led to the inappropriate award of more than $130,000 by the State Allocation Board.

This report concludes that, despite controversies about the issue of pornography, the evidence we reviewed and the absence of clear standards for staging academic conferences and for judging their academic sufficiency do not allow us to determine that this conference lacked academic merit. CSU Northridge, the California State University system, and many major research universities in the United States have no pertinent standards to guide the staging of academic conferences, affect their content or direction, or influence the expression of the views conveyed. Many universities believe that such standards may abridge the principles of free speech, freedom of association, and academic freedom.

Also, many criticisms about the conference are not sustainable. Regarding the criticism that the conference failed to include opposing views, scholars agree that balance is not required at any one conference; those with differing views may hold, and indeed have held, their own academic conferences. Further, the support services provided to the center were neither extensive nor unprecedented. CSU Northridge provided no state funds for the conference while the center availed itself to the publicity and press-related services the university offers to all campus centers.

Finally, because some scholars would consider the conference to be at least partially research oriented, we believe that CSU Northridge would have been better able to respond to the controversy surrounding the conference had it applied procedures that many other universities have in place to investigate allegations of research misconduct.

Members of the Assembly: As requested by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, the Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning the potential dismantling of the current system of geographic rate averaging in California. This report concludes that because several years will pass before the current system of rate averaging is reviewed or changed in California, there is no immediate impact on services or rates paid by rural and urban telephone customers.

However, in light of the Federal Telecommunications Act of 1996 (act) that attempted to level the telecommunications playing field by opening all aspects of the market to increased competition, the California Public Utilities Commission (commission) will need to revisit current regulatory policies guiding California's market. Specifically, the commission will need to review rate averaging and analyze how any policy changes would impact its universal service goals to provide affordable telephone service to at least 95 percent of all households in California. Before any policy is dismantled, the commission will need to conduct in-depth studies and hold several public proceedings to discuss concerns. The commission will begin its evaluation process, which may take between 18 months and 6 years to complete, in early 2000. Thus, the timing and magnitude of any policy changes are unknown.

Although the future course for rate averaging is still undecided, telephone customers currently receive the same telephone services for comparable rates regardless of whether they live in rural or urban areas. Further, the vast majority of rural customers now have access to the same advanced technologies, such as high-speed Internet connections, that are available to urban customers.

Members of the Assembly: As requested by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, the Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning the Los Angeles City Fire Department's (department) adequacy of safety policies and procedures of its air operations.

This report concludes that the department has made changes to improve the safety and effectiveness of its air operations. However, although some of the department's staffing policies may save money, they diminish the effectiveness of its air operations. Further, the department underemphasizes training and other safety issues. Finally, the department lacks a formal helicopter replacement policy to ensure that it has helicopters that meet the specific needs of its varied missions.

Members of the Assembly: As requested by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, the Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning state and local agencies' compliance with the Dymally-Alatorre Bilingual Services Act (act).

This report concludes that some state agencies have not fully complied with the act; therefore, they cannot ensure that they provide equitable services to clients who require bilingual assistance. Specifically, we noted that 8 of the 10 state agencies we audited have not established procedures to periodically assess their need to provide bilingual services to their clients. Further, only 1 of the 10 agencies translate materials explaining services into languages spoken by a substantial number of the individuals it serves. In addition, we noted that the State Personnel Board, which provides technical assistance to state agencies and compiles a report for the Legislature about the status of bilingual services state agencies provide, could do more to fulfill its responsibilities under the act. Finally, although local agencies are exercising their discretion allowed under the act, the bilingual services they provide may not be meeting their clients' language needs.

STATEMENT OF ASSEMBLY EXPENDITURES PRINTED IN JOURNAL

The following Statement of Assembly Expenditures was ordered printed in the Journal:

Honorable Antonio Villaraigosa

State Capitol, Sacramento, California

Dear Mr. Speaker: Transmitted herewith is the annual report of Assembly expenses. It includes the total expenditures by Member, committee, leadership office, service operation, and overhead according to various categories for the 12-month period ending November 30, 1998. Every expenditure made from the Assembly Operating Fund during this period is accounted for. Additionally, the report includes an itemization, by Member, of per diem expenditures from the General Fund during the same period of time.

It is important to note that this report is compiled on a cash basis. Therefore, the cost of goods and services incurred by a Member during the preceding reporting period but paid for during the current period are included. Furthermore, some goods and services which were received toward the end of this reporting period were not paid for until the beginning of the December 1998–November 1999 reporting period and are, therefore, not included in this expenditure report.

The following indicates the types of expenditures which are included within each classification:

Staff Salary: This includes the salaries paid to all employees in the Member's district office as well as those employees who work in the Member's Capitol office, provided they are not committee or leadership office personnel. The salaries of the latter group of employees are included in the specific detail report for each of the respective committee and leadership offices.

All Assembly personnel are classified according to job descriptions approved by the Assembly Rules Committee. The committee has established specific salary ranges for each of the classifications. The salary within a range for a specific employee reflects a combination of years of service in his or her position and his or her own job performance since the amount of annual merit salary increases is based on evaluations of each employee's work. Thus, a Member whose office staff includes employees with substantial Assembly seniority, and/or outstanding records of service, will have a higher total expenditure for salaries than will a Member who employs more junior personnel.

Member Travel and Per Diem: Separate totals are shown for in-state travel and out-of-state travel. Most in-state travel expenditures are for attendance at interim committee hearings. Out-of-state travel expenditures are generally for participation in conferences dealing with an issue area pertinent to the legislative specialty of the Member or are for investigative trips.

Staff Travel: Almost all expenditures reported, by Member, in this category, are for mileage reimbursements to district office personnel. The staff travel expenditures reported, by committee, are generally costs incurred in connection with interim committee hearings which are generally held away from Sacramento for the convenience of citizens who wish to provide testimony to the committees.

Car Lease: The amount reported in this category is the share of the automotive lease payment made by the Assembly Rules Committee.

Assembly policy stipulates that a car will be leased for the legislative use of each Member but that the Assembly will pay only 90% of the monthly lease rate or $400, whichever is less. The Member must pay the difference from personal funds.

Car Maintenance: The costs reported in this category will vary significantly because of the variance in the number of miles driven by the Members. Members in large-sized districts and Members who represent districts wherein air travel between the Capitol and the district is not practical tend to utilize their cars more than other Members. Accordingly, the maintenance costs of such cars is likely to be higher than for others.

Gas and Oil: Expenditures in this category are for gasoline and oil supplied to cars and private aircraft for legislative business. These costs, too, vary for the same reasons as those affecting car maintenance.

Car Rental, Staff and Member: This expenditure category includes the use of state-owned pool cars and commercial rental cars by both the Member and his/her staff in the course of legislative business.

This category, as listed in the Support Services section of the report, includes, in addition to car rental, the costs of gas, oil, and maintenance for cars utilized by the office of the Sergeant at Arms.

District Office Rent, Maintenance and Utilities: Each Member is entitled to rent an office within the district he/she represents so that constituents may have direct access to their legislators. In some of the larger districts, two or three offices are sometimes authorized. Accordingly, Members representing districts in high-rent metropolitan areas or Members representing large districts requiring more than one office will be reported with higher expenditures in this category than will other Members. Costs included in this expenditure item are rent, utilities (except telephone), janitorial service, and incidental maintenance costs.

Telephone and Telegraph: All telephone charges (except equipment installation charges for the Capitol phones) are reported in this expenditure category. Included are district office phones, Capitol phones, credit card charges, and state lease-line charges. Members who will likely have higher charges than many of their colleagues are those representing districts which are either far from the Capitol, in areas not serviced by the state lease-line network, or in regions which cover large geographic areas.

Postage: The category includes the total amount expended for postage except for the postage utilized in the mailing of legislative mailings.

Communications—Printing and Postage: The costs included in this expenditure category are printing, handling and mailing of legislative mailings authorized under provisions of Proposition 73 of June, 1988.

Furniture and Equipment: This category includes the purchase, rental, and maintenance of certain furniture and equipment items utilized in the Capitol and district offices of the Members. It does not include the purchase of items which will, during the course of their usefulness, be utilized by a number of Members during succeeding years. Expenditures for items of that description are reported in the Furniture and Equipment category as General Overhead expenditures.

Office Supplies: Stationery items, other printing costs charged to the Assembly Operating Fund, general office supplies, and related miscellaneous supplies utilized in the Members' Capitol and district offices are reported in this expenditure category.

Subscriptions and Publications: Each Member is authorized to subscribe to the newspapers generally circulated within his/her district and to certain metropolitan daily newspapers. Members representing districts which include many cities and towns will frequently have higher expenditures in this category than will Members representing relatively compact areas. Expenditures for subscriptions and publications incurred by the committees and leadership offices are reported separately. Each committee is authorized to purchase relevant books and to subscribe to periodicals specializing in the subject matter of the committee for which the expenditure is made.

Miscellaneous Services: Most of the expenditures shown in the Miscellaneous Services category for the Members are for services such as telephone answering services in district offices and newspaper clipping services. Included in this category for the committee reports are such items as witness expenses, meeting expenses, data-processing costs, and other miscellaneous services.

A number of operational costs incurred by the Assembly are not directly attributable to any of the Members, committees, leadership offices, or support services. Such expenditures are classified as General Overhead and are reported according to the following categories:

Miscellaneous Salaries: Accrued vacation payments made to terminating employees, and salaries paid to employees on extended sick leave are reported in this category.

Employee Benefits: This expenditure category includes the Assembly's contribution to the OASDI (Social Security) fund, the Public Employees' Retirement System, various health and dental insurance premiums, the Compensation Insurance Fund, and unemployment and disability insurance.

Building, Rent, Maintenance and Utilities: Reported in this expenditure category are construction and remodeling costs and the rent, maintenance, and utilities for offices (other than Members' individual district offices) utilized and paid for by the Assembly outside the Capitol.

Telephone: This listing is for the cost of telephone equipment installation in all Assembly offices except for the Member's district office.

Furniture and Equipment: The expenditure indicated in this category is for the purchase, rental, and maintenance of furniture and equipment not reported elsewhere in the report. Most furniture and equipment is considered a capital investment which will be used, through the years, by a number of different Members or other offices and can therefore not be appropriately reported as an expense on behalf of any particular Member or office.

Office Supplies: The amount shown in this expenditure category represents office supplies which were purchased by the Assembly for the use of Members and other offices but which were not distributed to any such offices before the end of this reporting period.

Annotated Codes and Law Books: Each Member's office and certain other Assembly offices are furnished with Annotated California Codes and certain other law books. The cost of these books is considered a capital expenditure in the same manner as many furniture and equipment items, and is therefore reported in this General Overhead category.

Meeting Expenses: This expenditure category includes certain costs incurred by the Assembly relative to the conduct of Assembly Sessions and Joint Sessions of the Legislature which cannot be readily charged to any other expenditure category, rental costs for some meeting rooms, and some conference registration fees.

Freight, Moving and Delivery: This expenditure category includes costs incurred for the transport of furniture, supplies, and other items which are not chargeable to any particular office.

Printing Reimbursements: This category reflects the charges made for printing performed by the Assembly.

Other Miscellaneous Services: The major expenditures reported in this category are for the costs of photography services related to official Assembly publications, vehicle liability insurance, and organization memberships.

Study Contracts: From time-to-time the Assembly finds it practical to contract with individuals, firms, universities, and other governmental agencies in order to expand its research capability with respect to specific projects. The costs reported in this category are for payments made under such contracts during this period.

The next report of Assembly expenditures will be for the period between December 1, 1998 and November 30, 1999.

Sincerely,

ROBERT M. HERTZBERG

Chairman of the Assembly Committee on Rules

PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker pro Tempore Keeley, the following prayer was offered by Assembly Chaplain Rabbi Mona Alfi:

As we stand at the dawn of a new century, and a new millennium, we find ourselves at the crossroads between what has been and what might be. We are called upon to look at all that we have accomplished, as well as to be honest about the difficult work that still lies ahead of us.

Senator Robert Kennedy said: Some men see things as they are and ask why. I dream of things that never were and say why not?

Now is the time for each of us to envision the world as a better, stronger, freer, more prosperous and humane place and say "Why not?"

May we always hear the still small voice that dwells within our heart that calls us to do more, go further, and create what can only now be imagined. May the Source of All Blessings make our footsteps firm and our actions noble. May our legacy be one of wisdom and compassion, prosperity and peace. May this be God's will.—AMEN.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE TO THE FLAG

Upon request of Speaker pro Tempore Keeley, Assembly Member Washington then led the Assembly in the pledge of allegiance to the Flag.

REPORTS

The following letters of transmittal were presented by the Chief Clerk, and ordered printed in the Journal:

California State Auditor

99024

November 24, 1999

*The Honorable Speaker of the Assembly
The Honorable Members of the Assembly of the Legislature of California
State Capitol, Room 3196
Sacramento, California*

Members of the Assembly: As required by the 1999–2000 Budget Act, the Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning its evaluation of the Department of Justice’s (department) claims review process for the Witness Protection Program.

This report follows up on our prior audit report and concludes that the department has begun to address the recommendations in our prior audit report, but has additional steps it must take. In particular, it must ensure that it has adequate staff to administer the rapidly expanding program and to conduct audits of district attorneys’ offices that participate in the program.

Respectfully submitted,

KURT R. SJOBERG
State Auditor

Above report referred to the Committee on Budget.

California State Auditor

99120

December 9, 1999

*The Honorable Speaker of the Assembly
The Honorable Members of the Assembly of the Legislature of California
State Capitol, Room 3196
Sacramento, California*

Members of the Assembly: As requested by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee, the Bureau of State Audits presents its audit report concerning the communication and coordination among Child Protective Services (CPS) agencies, parole, and county probation departments regarding the release of convicted child abusers.

The report concludes that CPS agencies do not now receive inmate release information that could serve as an advance warning in protecting children from abuse. Further, legislation that takes effect in January 2000 will not fully bridge this gap in communication between law enforcement and CPS agencies. Moreover, without legislative clarification, CPS agencies may lack the authority to act even if they did receive information concerning the release of a known child abuser.

Respectfully submitted,

KURT R. SJOBERG
State Auditor

ASSEMBLY ADDRESS

BY

ANTONIO R. VILLARAIGOSA

“Let us show the nation what is possible.”

Welcome back to the first session of the 21st Century. Today marks the 150th anniversary of a revolution.

It was—and is—a bloodless revolution. Yet, it changed the nation—and it is changing the world.

This revolution had its humble beginnings in a small adobe room in San Jose, California in 1850. And its legacy continues today in Sacramento—with you and me—inside this Chamber.

One hundred and fifty years ago, the first California Assembly convened in San Jose. It was—I imagine—a bit different than what we see around us today.

The geographical make-up of the membership was something that many of you from San Francisco, and Sacramento, could envy.

Out of those first 32 Assembly members in 1850, 24 were from Northern California; Six were from the coast and Central Valley; Only two were from Los Angeles.

How times change.

But, one thing hasn't changed. Then—as now, California, and this Legislature, represented hope and promise to a growing nation . . . and to the entire world. Since the days of that first Assembly, the nation has looked to California—and its government—for leadership.

As State Librarian, Dr. Kevin Starr said: “The American people have assigned California a special role. To seek out the American future, to test it, to try its options, rejecting what doesn't work and building upon what does.

Our task then—as it has been for 150 years—is to show the nation what is possible.

What we believe, is America's hope. What we do, is America's promise. What we accomplish, is America's future. In that first Assembly—150 years ago—all 32 members were white, and all were male. Women and minorities were excluded entirely from the political process.

Yet, even in those times of legalized racism, the California Assembly showed glimmers of what was possible. The first State Assembly voted unanimously against making California a slave state. It also struck down a motion to bar freed slaves from California.

That first Assembly also shocked the nation by voting to grant women the right to own property. California led the nation in granting these rights—and the nation saw what was possible. The State Constitution also laid the groundwork for the California University system—the first of its kind—and the nation saw what was possible.

For the next fifty years—and then throughout the 20th Century—California led in:

Agriculture and Finance
 Entertainment and Tourism
 Manufacturing, International Trade, and High Technology.

California became what historian, Arnold Toynbee, called: “The prism through which the United States glimpsed its future.”

No legislative body helped shape that future more than this Legislature, and this Assembly. Members who sat where you are sitting now, set in motion the freedoms and hopes of the last Century. It is that legacy that we are now pledged—and bound by honor and duty—to continue. Yet, we go forth into the New Century, knowing our predecessors set the bar high.

In 1907, the Legislature showed what was possible in higher education by creating an unsurpassed community college system. Today, California’s university system is the envy of the world.

In 1911, the Legislature showed what was possible in enlightened leadership by approving 23 Constitutional amendments, which Teddy Roosevelt called: “The greatest advance ever made by any state for the benefit of its people.”

Included was the most extensive labor reform ever passed in the nation—or the world, for that matter. It limited work days for women to eight hours. It humanized child labor laws; created the first worker’s compensation laws in the country; provided the right of the Citizen’s initiative; and most importantly, it gave women the right to vote. It was six years before Congress extended women the same right.

In all these things, California led, and Congress, and the nation followed. California has been the leader in health care and care for the disabled. In 1928, the Legislature passed a Constitutional Amendment providing state aid to the disabled. Congress, and the nation followed. In 1975, the state passed the nation’s first managed health care bill. Congress, and the nation, followed.

California has long been a leader in preserving its natural resources and protecting its environment. In 1905, the California Legislature helped launch the National Parks system by giving the federal government its most precious natural wonder, the Yosemite Valley.

In 1932, the state passed the nation’s first ban on off-shore drilling on tidelands.

In 1935, we passed the nation’s first clean water act

In 1947, the first clean air act

In 1965, the first farmland protection act

In 1972, the first coastal protection act,

And in 1973, the first timber protection act.

In nearly all these critical environmental and human health issues, the state acted, and Congress, and the nation, followed.

Yet, in no more important endeavor has this state led the world than in the quest for human rights and social justice. Certainly, for minorities and women this has been a slow, and often painful process.

Yet, today, the men and women of this body stand as a symbol of opportunity for our children. When they look upon this Assembly, they see a reflection of the changing face of California.

And they see what is possible.

As a Latino, and the son of an immigrant—I am proud to follow in the footsteps of John Moreno, and Phil Soto, the first two Latinos in this Century elected (in 1962) to the State Assembly.

Today is also a day to honor Gloria Molina, the first Latina elected to the State Assembly in 1982; and of course, Cruz Bustamante, the first Latino Speaker of the Assembly, and now the first Latino Lt. Governor.

Today, the bi-partisan Latino Caucus is comprised of twenty-four members—seven Senators and 17 Assembly members. We have only begun to show the nation what is possible.

For African-Americans, the California Legislative Black Caucus—and the Legislature itself—is showing what is possible by making great strides in breaking the economic and social chains of the times.

Today is a proper day to remember Frederick M. Roberts, the first African American elected to the California State Assembly, in 1918. And a day to remember those who continued his legacy—members of distinction and courage, like:

—Byron Rumford, who authored the Rumford Fair Housing Act to end discrimination in California.

—Mervyn Dymally, the first African American State Senator; and Lt. Gov.

—Yvonne Brathwaite Burke, the first African American woman elected to the Legislature.

—Gus Hawkins, who later became the first African-American Congressman from California.

—And, of course, the first African-American Speaker, Willie Louis Brown.

They showed the nation what was possible. In Willie's case, he's still showing them.

Asian-Americans also triumphed over decades of hardships, such as the Chinese Exclusion Act, and the Internment Camps of World War II. In 1963, Alfred Song broke through to become the first Asian-American elected to the State Assembly. He was followed by March Fong Eu, who later became Secretary of State.

Today is also a proper day to honor:

Esto Broughton; Grace Dorris; Anna Saylor; and Eleanor Miller—who in 1918 were the first women elected to the California State Assembly.

And it is a day to congratulate Sheila Kuehl, the first openly lesbian member of the Assembly; and Carol Migden, another trailblazer, for their continued struggle to realize the dream of full equality for gays and lesbians in our society. You are indeed showing the nation what is possible.

Today, as we stand at the gateway to a new Century and a new Millennium, the nation and the world looks to us more than ever to show them what is possible.

They see a state with no ethnic majority. And they ask: Can a society so diverse it represents every race, language and religion on earth, be a just and prosperous society? I believe we must show the country . . . and the world, that the answer to this question is a resounding: “YES!”

It will not be easy. A multitude of challenges lie before us. California is increasingly a society of ‘haves’ and ‘have-nots’ . . . of those who have found their Golden Dream . . . and those who still struggle in poverty, ignorance and despair.

We are faced with the daunting tasks of upgrading our schools; cleaning up our environment; and making our cities more livable. These are not simple problems, with simple solutions. Yet, our mission is clear. We must once again show the nation and the world what is possible.

We have shown how to grow enough food to feed the world . . . now we must make sure every child gets enough to eat.

We have built the greatest public university system in the world . . . now we must make sure every child is prepared to walk through its doors.

We have created the best health care system in the world . . . now we must make sure that every family can afford to use it.

We have the best architects and builders in the world . . . now we must make sure there is affordable housing for every Californian.

We are pioneering civil rights for those of all races and religions . . . now we must make sure no Californian suffers from discrimination because of their sexual orientation.

We have the most creative and productive information systems in the world . . . now we must close the Digital Divide and make sure that every child has access to the tools of technology.

I know that among us, there won’t even be total agreement on what these challenges are—let alone how to meet them. And that is how it should be in the California State Assembly. At all times, the debate should be vigorous and in earnest.

But, I also believe the nature of that debate must be one steeped in civility. Let it not be a debate of indictment or divisiveness. Our success—the nation’s success—depends on our ability to build bridges, not burn them.

Let us be dedicated to debating our differences—then searching together for common ground. For common solutions. For the common good. Let us—with civility and common sense—focus the unmatched abilities of this State Assembly on that goal.

Let us walk forward together, and carry on the legacy of courage, innovation, and resolve, that for 150 years has been unmatched by any legislative body on earth.

Let us gladly, and humbly, assume the mantle of leadership, and act with daring and optimism. With faith and wisdom. With passion and compassion.

For on our shoulders lie not only the promise of this state, but the future of this nation, and the hope of the entire world.

Thank you, all of you, for giving me a wonderful two years. This has been an honor for me, that in my wildest dreams, I couldn't have imagined. This really is a House that is unmatched anywhere in the world. This really is a Legislative body that all of us can be proud of, and say, maybe we only had six years—but it was six years of making the world a little better. It was six years of showing the rest of the nation and the world, what you can do, when you have the will to do it.

Thank you. And most of all, let's have a great year, Members. We have much to be thankful for, and much to look forward to.

PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker Villaraigosa, the following prayer was offered by Assembly Chaplain Rabbi Mona Alfi:

With the story of Moses, the Bible shows us the makings of a reluctant leader. In Exodus chapter 3, we are told a story about Moses when he was still a shepherd. One day while he is going about his usual business tending his flock, he stumbles upon a miraculous sight. He sees a burning bush. Burning, but not consumed by the fire that surrounds it. Awed, overwhelmed, and a bit frightened, he turns away. But then, he hears his name being called. MOSES! MOSES! What he hears is the call to serve.

God calls upon Moses to serve his people, to question the powers that be, and to do what is right, even though what is right contains many risks, both for Moses and for those whom he has been called upon to serve.

Scared, Moses tries to resist what is being asked of him. He knows that it is easier to be one of the people than to be singled out to lead. He knows that what is being asked of him carries responsibility and consequences. In the end, he knows that his calling is one to lead and to serve.

He goes back to his father-in-law and tells him what has happened and says that he must be with his kinsmen in the land of their exile and in the time of their great need. His father-in-law imparts this simple blessing on him as he goes to meet his destiny: Go in peace.

As this esteemed body continues on its journey of attending to the needs of our community, we turn to the Source of All Blessings, and we ask that when we hear the call to lead and to serve, we will not turn away. We ask that we shall always have the courage, strength and wisdom to do what is asked of us. And as we go to face our destiny, may we go in peace. May this be God's will.—AMEN.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE TO THE FLAG

Upon request of Speaker Villaraigosa, Assembly Member Wesson then led the Assembly in the pledge of allegiance to the Flag.

GOVERNOR'S ADDRESS PRINTED IN JOURNAL

Without objection, the following text of Governor Gray Davis' State of the State Address was printed in the Journal:

STATE OF THE STATE ADDRESS ASSEMBLY CHAMBERS, STATE CAPITOL
WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 5TH, 2000

Lieutenant Governor Bustamante, Speaker Villaraigosa, President pro Tempore Burton, distinguished Members of the Legislature, my fellow Constitutional Officers, honorable Justices of the Supreme Court, esteemed Cabinet Secretaries, friends and fellow Californians, please join me in welcoming the love of my life, the First Lady of California, Sharon Davis.

And let me also take this opportunity to pay tribute to a man here tonight to whom we owe a special debt: the longest-serving justice of the California Supreme Court in our state's history, Justice Stanley Mosk.

As we gather this evening—in this august chamber, by radio, television and, for the first time, by Internet—we represent the first full congregation of California democracy in the new millennium. Blessed are we for life, for our good fortune and for reaching this moment.

And guess what? Computers are still working, prisoners are still behind bars and airplanes are still flying. I want to thank our entire Y2K compliance team, headed by Eli Cortez and all of the public and private sector participants for a job well done. They've even fixed that little glitch we had in counting your votes. Now, when any one of my bills comes up, we'll get the total right!

Ladies and gentlemen, I am pleased to report that the state of our State is strong. Our economy is booming, unemployment is at an historic low, the technological revolution begun in our Silicon Valley is transforming the globe, our universities are world class, crime rates are heading downward and our budget is balanced. In 1999 alone, California's economy created 400,000 new jobs—enough to fill the Rose Bowl four times over. And, believe me, I wish they'd all been there with me cheering for Stanford on Saturday!

Over the course of the last 100 years, leaders larger than life stood here and shared their visions of a California alive with possibility and promise.

It was Governor Earl Warren who found our future in the mind of every child. And he built a thousand elementary schools.

Governor Pat Brown dreamed of a California where opportunity and a world-class education are the birthright of every child. And he built a public university system that remains the envy of the world.

It was Governor Ronald Reagan who believed that California's gold could be discovered in the heart of every individual who dared to risk everything for the sake of an idea. Under his watch, the seeds of California's unrivaled leadership in industries such as aerospace and high technology were sown.

And it was Governor Jerry Brown who taught us that, if we would only free our imagination, there is nothing as powerful as the combined abilities of California's people.

As we enter the door to this new millennium, it is our privilege to stand on the shoulders of those who preceded us and our duty to reach higher still.

EDUCATION

Every great human endeavor begins with a cause. Ours is—and must remain—to make every student, teacher, principal and parent in California demand more from themselves and each other than they ever believed possible.

Together, we took significant steps to achieve this last year. We insisted on higher expectations by passing the first high school exit exam in our state's history. We set the bar higher for every school by holding each one accountable for the only thing that really matters—improved student achievement. And we focused like a laser on the gateway skill—reading.

We instituted testing requirements and performance awards. We invested more in pre-school and after-school programs. School safety and building repairs. Books and parental involvement.

We signaled to students, teachers and parents alike that we expect the best of them.

And you know what? They're responding. Across this state, communities are rising to the challenge of higher expectations, sometimes going to extraordinary lengths.

Take, for example, the Reading Awards we established last year.

I'd like you all to meet Principal Faye Sarfan and three young readers from Mayo Elementary in Compton. Mayo's students are meeting the challenge of our Reading Awards, pledging to read 60,000 books by April. If they do, Ms. Sarfan has promised to dye her hair green in front of the entire student body! I think that kind of leadership deserves a round of applause.

As I look around this room, at Democrats and Republicans alike, I am filled with pride, respect and gratitude. Last year, we put partisanship aside and we put California's children first. All of you who helped deserve credit. And I thank you.

Our efforts represent powerful, ongoing, fundamental changes in our commitment to improve student and teacher achievement. We demonstrated to everyone that we are determined to do everything within our means to recapture California's rightful place at the head of the class.

But, to those who say we've done enough for now: let me remind you that by all accounts, California's students still rank near the bottom of the 50 states. That's not good enough for me. And it's certainly not good enough for the children of California.

We will never regain our former prominence without the most vital ingredient—a first-rate teacher for every classroom, in every school, in every neighborhood. Our democratic system of self-governance and our prosperity itself are entirely dependent on the participation of educated citizens—men and women who can read, write and reason. And for this great responsibility—for the creation of good citizens—we rely on teachers.

No one has greater respect than I for the men and women who have fought for this country. Our prosperity and peace, we owe to them. But the war for the future will not be fought on some distant battlefield, but right here at home. It will be fought school to school, classroom to classroom, desk to desk—one qualified teacher at a time, one motivated student at a time.

My friends, after parents, teachers are California's greatest force for social good. They are exceptional people doing extraordinary things. They represent the foot soldiers in the most important battle we face: the war on mediocrity in our public schools.

And so, to our youth, let me say: There is no higher calling, no greater public service, no contribution more valued than to join the front lines of the future, in the classroom. This is our generation's call to arms.

And to the best and brightest students in our colleges and universities—and all you junior-high and high school students watching here in the Capitol—I say this: Whether you spend four years or forty in the classroom, your commitment and contribution will make a difference. One mind at a time, you will change the world.

As a state, our challenge is daunting.

In the next eight years, we must recruit and train more teachers than were troops in the allied forces that stormed Normandy on D-Day. Let me repeat that: more teachers than troops in the D-Day invasion. We must not meet that demand by lowering standards or by sacrificing quality. In this Era of Higher Expectations, our schools, students and teachers must meet higher standards, not lower ones.

But let's face the facts. For far too long, teachers and the teaching profession itself have been undervalued. Well, to borrow a phrase from Uncle Sam, I intend to say to our young people: I want you to be a teacher.

Last year, we boosted beginning teacher salaries and instituted performance awards of up to $25,000 for teachers whose students show extraordinary improvement.

This year, if you agree to work in a school that ranks in the bottom 50 percent—where the need for good teachers is greatest—here's what we're going to do:

- If you want to become a teacher, we'll pay for your college education with up to $11,000 in forgivable college loans.
- If you're one of our top college graduates, you'll be eligible for a $20,000 competitive teaching fellowship if you get your credential.

- If you become a fully credentialed teacher, we'll give both you and your school a $2,000 bonus and you'll be eligible for a $10,000 forgivable loan for the down payment on a new home.
- And, if you're a teacher with national board certification, we'll boost your award for that achievement from $10,000 up to $30,000.

What's more, if you're a retired teacher, we'll allow you to keep your full pension if you return to teaching at any school you want.

And that's not all. I'll seek funding to establish five teacher recruitment centers that will aim to enlist thousands of new teachers. We'll couple that with an aggressive out-of-state teacher recruitment campaign.

With these measures—and with a loud and consistent voice from your governor—we will begin to tell California, especially our youth, what must be said: teaching is a noble pursuit. Good teachers are vital to us all.

If California can feed, entertain and connect the world—as we do—then we can put a qualified teacher in every classroom.

Yes, we must spend more. And we will. But even more important, we must spend wisely. We cannot win this battle simply by throwing money at it. We must not let taxpayer dollars be wasted on bureaucracy but, instead, we must invest them directly into the classroom: for students and for teachers.

That's what we did this year, when we sent 6,000 teachers to our Reading Institutes. It's an amazing program. Teachers who have been through it will tell you that our Reading Institutes were the single most effective professional training experience in their careers. I've invited three of those teachers to join us tonight, along with an educator from UC San Diego who literally put this program together in record time, Gretchen Laue. Could you all please stand up and be recognized for your hard work?

This year, I will propose a 10-fold increase in this program—by far the most ambitious teacher-training initiative in America. We will provide focused professional development for more than 70,000 teachers this year alone in reading, algebra, English language learning, and key skills across the curriculum—all aimed at preparing students to meet higher academic achievements.

These institutes embody the largest and most rigorous state-sponsored drive to train teachers ever initiated by any state. With a curriculum developed by the University of California and the California State University system, our great institutions of higher learning are allocating powerful human and fiscal resources to make sure we raise K-12 education to the level our children and parents deserve.

Tonight, I want to thank two educators for their extraordinary leadership in making our teacher-training institutes such a smashing success, University of California President Richard Atkinson and California State University Chancellor Charles Reed. Thank you, gentlemen, from the bottom of my heart.

Now, we're also going to follow up on last year's tough new standards for students with incentives for them to do better. We'll begin by offering $1,000 college scholarships to every ninth, tenth and eleventh grade student who scores in the top 10 percent statewide or the top 5 percent of their school on the STAR test.

That's up to $3,000—plus interest banked in the Scholarshare Program—that will be available to the hardest-working, top-achieving high school students for college or trade school. We expect about 100,000 students per year will win these scholarships—every single one based on merit.

To encourage our young people to pursue science and technology, we will offer distinguished scholar awards of $2,500 to any high school student who also scores a 5 on the Advanced Placement math exam and one AP science exam. If AP classes are not yet available, then we will allow the student to qualify for a scholarship by obtaining an equivalent score on the Golden State Exam.

But that won't last long, because I'm calling on the Legislature to provide the funds to make at least one AP class available to every student in California by this fall. At first, it may mean students have to go to another location to take the class. Or watch the teacher on closed-circuit TV.

By the following year, however, I don't want to hear any more excuses. I propose spending $20.5 million to ensure that at least four core AP classes will be available to every high school student. No child in California capable of taking AP classes will be held back because we couldn't get the job done.

We're also going to bring schools and classrooms into the 21st Century. I will be calling on private industry to join our Digital High School program to wire every school in California to the Internet. And I will ask you to invest an historic $200 million to make sure that every classroom has the computers they need and teachers trained to use them.

While we're investing in our oldest pupils, we won't forget the youngest in their formative years.

Last year, we provided pre-school slots for 17,000 children below the poverty line. This year, I will ask you for funds to complete the effort we began last year to provide pre-school for 100,000 4-year-olds.

Last, but not least, I will ask you for $75 million to launch California Institutes for Science and Innovation, to be established at three campuses of the University of California. This new initiative will give rise to world-class centers for strategic innovation that combine cutting-edge research with training for new scientists and technological leaders.

Our institutes will concentrate intellect, experience and entrepreneurial talent in focused areas of scientific inquiry to discover and apply the breakthroughs necessary for the next generation of technologies.

With one in five new jobs in the high-technology sector, California is the nation's leader in research and development. In part, that results from the rich collaboration between our great universities and private industry—a nexus that has given birth to some of the world's most innovative and productive high-tech firms that create hundreds of thousands of high-wage jobs and billions of dollars in income and revenues.

Our California Institutes for Science and Innovation—whether they concentrate on medicine and bioengineering, telecommunications and information systems, energy resources, space or agricultural technology—will seek matching funds from private industry, foundations and communities to ensure that we maintain and expand our role at the leading edge of technological invention in the 21st century.

Fifty years ago, there was no Silicon Valley. Thirty years ago, there was no biotech industry. Ten years ago, there was no Internet. Who knows what new enterprises will be created or what medical breakthroughs will result because of our institutes? But this we do know: Breakthroughs will occur. And I want to make sure they will occur right here in California.

Finally, let us keep in mind that our economy has blessed us with vast new revenues and that the people of California rightfully expect us to invest the lion's share in education. And we will. But to those who propose education measures that would require massive tax hikes beyond the record revenues already flowing to the state, I remind you that I believe in working within the resources the economy provides us. And that's what I intend to do.

HEALTH CARE

Now, just as we have a duty to the children who embody our future, so, too, do we have an obligation to those who personify our past: those who fought wars, endured hardships and delivered us our great good fortune.

In a state where people over 85 represent the fastest growing segment of our population, it's time to put new policies in place to assist our older citizens in Aging with Dignity.

Our approach—consistent with our values—should be to keep families together by providing the services older Californians need to remain in their own homes, instead of nursing homes.

First, I will propose a $500 tax credit for caregivers, or for the elderly themselves, for the cost of caring for older citizens who need special assistance at home. I will ask you also to increase the pay for those who provide in-home support services to the elderly. We will also allow Medi-Cal to cover more out-of-pocket costs for disabled seniors.

And, in partnership with the private sector, I hope to make $500 million available over the next 10 years—including a $20-million jump-start this year in state funds—to expand adult day care facilities, community centers and full-service residential centers. I am confident that when I call on private foundations to meet this challenge, they will rise to the occasion.

While we all want to see nursing homes as a last resort, they must at the same time be places where people go to live out their remaining years with dignity, not where they go just to die.

So we will tighten the financial requirements for operating a nursing home. We'll add 200 investigators to ensure quality care. And we will increase to $100,000 the fine that may be levied against a nursing home operator whose negligence leads to the death of an elderly resident.

We will increase pay for nursing-home workers. And we will also make available substantial Workforce Investment Act funds to give people the skills they need to work in nursing homes and provide in-home services.

Finally, I will be asking you to commit $26.2 million to the massive effort my administration began in July—in conjunction with the FBI—to stamp out the estimated $1 billion in Medi-Cal fraud being perpetrated by scam artists posing as providers. Although we've launched the most widespread attack ever on these crooks, we've only scratched the surface. And to those so-called doctors, lawyers, and businessmen who are defrauding the state: We're coming after you next.

TRANSPORTATION

My friends, California's economy is the greatest engine of job creation we have ever known. But people can't work if they can't get to work. If we are to keep our economy moving forward, we must find faster, more efficient ways to connect goods, services and—most important of all—people.

Last year, motorists on California's freeways spent more than 800,000 hours each day in traffic jams at a daily cost of nearly $8 million. Our freeways are anything but free.

The more time people spend in clogged commuter corridors, the less productive they are on a daily basis and the less time they have to spend where it matters most—with their families.

Last year, we invested $3.5 billion to repair transportation facilities, completed 300 miles of new highway lanes, upgraded 1,500 miles of highway, completed Highway 180 in Fresno and the 405 between Los Angeles and Orange County. And we finally finished the Cypress Freeway replacement in Oakland.

Nevertheless, we remain behind the curve. Our need in transportation alone is estimated at over $100 billion during the next decade. So we must make choices and we must spend wisely.

This year—for roads, highways, commuter transit and inter-city rail—I will propose spending $7.5 billion, including $3 billion in new funds.

Even more important, we need a new framework for thinking about and planning for transportation funding.

Here is mine: It's the job of local governments and regional agencies to identify and finance local projects. After all, nearly 75 percent of state and federal transportation funds go directly to local governments for local use. It's the state's job to connect regions and localities to speed up the movement of people and goods.

Like many of you, I'm intrigued by the idea of high-speed rail along the spine of California. I hope someday we'll be able to afford to make it a reality. But, in the near term, I am focused on traffic congestion in commuter corridors that affect the daily productivity and quality of life of Californians.

That means, in particular, improving access in the Central Valley. Speeding up the commute between the San Joaquin Valley and the Bay Area. And reducing congestion in Silicon Valley, the Inland Empire, San Diego and the Los Angeles basin.

Those are my priorities. But, while millions of Californians sit stranded in traffic, billions of highway dollars are languishing unspent in local coffers. My message is simple: Use it or lose it.

If these funds are not obligated for local projects by July 31st, then we will program $1.7 billion of those funds by the end of the year. No longer can we afford to hit the snooze button on vital transportation dollars. If we can put those funds to work now, then we can get California moving again.

This is the guiding principle of a larger proposal I will outline as part of my budget next week.

Of course, transportation is not the only huge infrastructure demand facing California. Because of your decisions last year, Californians will have an opportunity in March to pass historic measures to finance parks, coastal protections, water projects, libraries, crime labs and veterans homes. If we are to pick up where Earl Warren and Pat Brown left off, then we must once again build the facilities California needs to thrive in the next century.

PUBLIC SAFETY

Amid all the changes that mark the turning of the millennium, one thing remains constant: the fundamental duty of government to provide for the public safety. No one, let me assure you, is more committed to this mission than I am.

Last year, we put more cops on the street, made our schools safer, gave police and sheriffs the tools they need to combat crime and, with your bold decisions, approved funding for a badly needed new prison and enacted the toughest and most far-reaching gun control measures in the nation. We took military-style assault weapons off the street. We banned unsafe handguns. We limited gun purchases to one a month. We required child-safety locks. And we tightened up on gun shows.

These are sensible, forward-looking gun safety laws. But, my friends, they need time to work.

I'm pleased to note tonight that in 1999, the crime rate in California in the first half of the year dropped 15% to its lowest point in a quarter of a century.

This is a tribute to the brave men and women in law enforcement—everyday heroes who wake up every morning, put their badge on their uniform and their lives on the line. Our safety is their purpose. Our protection is their passion. Tonight, I ask you to give them a warm round of applause.

Yet, despite lower crime rates and the sacrifices of cops on the beat, few people feel genuinely safe. For, while the number of crimes has decreased, the nature of crime is more random and violent than ever.

This year, we will put even more police officers and sheriffs deputies on the streets. And we will sharply increase grants to local law enforcement agencies for crime-fighting technology to improve response times.

We're also going to take dramatic steps to prevent crimes from occurring in the first place. We will establish a Second Strike Task Force by hiring more than 100 new parole agents to concentrate attention on high-risk parolees. Today, parole agents who supervise two-strike felons have a caseload of 70-to-1. We'll cut that load down to 40-to-1. Simply put, our goal is to stop that third strike before it's committed.

I will also ask your support to create the Turning Point Academy at Camp San Luis Obispo, where 160 cadets will be offered intensive physical activity, education, counseling and substance-abuse treatment.

It's not enough that current law authorizes schools to expel students who bring a firearm to campus. We will say to these offenders who put our children in jeopardy: "You've got a choice. You can do a year in jail or you can go to Turning Point Academy, a year-long boot camp with high-quality academic instruction."

For working with my administration to develop the Turning Point Academy, I am indebted to local law enforcement leaders—Sheriffs Lou Blanas of Sacramento, Lee Baca of Los Angeles, Mike Corona of Orange County and Bill Kolender of San Diego. Thank you, Sheriffs—we applaud you.

CONCLUSION

Education first and foremost, health care, transportation and public safety—these are my priorities for the coming year. But there is much more we must do.

In the coming days, I will unveil initiatives in higher education, environmental protection, veterans' affairs, e-government and additional tax relief. We'll set forth our plan to allow motorists to register their vehicles with the DMV on line. With the help of Cisco Systems, Sun Microsystems and Pacific Bell, we're putting together for the first time ever a system to allow citizens to e-mail the governor and receive a reply. And for those who have any constructive comments about this speech, I've even got a new e-mail address: graydavis@governor.ca.gov.

Friends, as we begin this new century, it's important to remember the contributions of those who came before us. The investment made by our founding fathers in public education is largely responsible for all the great things this nation has produced. They understood that free enterprise, coupled with a highly educated people, could yield wonders never before seen in the world. And it did.

As I said in my Inaugural Address a year ago, this is our time. Let us resolve that we shall do for our children what our parents did for us—provide them with the tools to fulfill their dreams. Guided by the example of those who preceded us, let us recognize that—except for securing our own freedom—there is no job more important than educating our children. It is the obligation of our generation and the best hope of the next.

It is our duty, quite simply, to leave California a better place than we found it. And, with your help and the grace of God, that is what we will do. Thank you and God bless you.

PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker pro Tempore Keeley, the following prayer was offered by Assembly Chaplain Rabbi Mona Alfi:

There is something about the turning of a calendar page to a New Year that prompts us to reflect upon the meaning of life.

President Harry Truman offered these words of advice for us to consider:

Fame is a vapor, popularity is an accident, and money has wings. All that endures is character.

It is sometimes difficult to remember that what is important is the work that needs to be done, and the manner in which we do that work, not the glory or financial rewards that might be a byproduct of it. At the end of the day, and the end of all of our days, what we will be remembered for is how we treated one another as we tried to accomplish our goals. Were we kind? Were we fair? Did we live with integrity?

May we live each day as though it was our last, filling our lives with meaning and with purpose. May this be God's will.—AMEN.

Upon request of Speaker pro Tempore Keeley, Assembly Member Cardenas then led the Assembly in the pledge of allegiance to the Flag.

PRAYER

Upon invitation of Speaker pro Tempore Keeley, the following prayer was offered by Assembly Chaplain Rabbi Mona Alfi:

It was written by the philosophies of the Tao Te Ching:

The earth is not yours to remake.
A sacred vessel, it breaks at your touch.
You lose it even as you reach for it:

Let it be. Look:

Some things go forward, some are left behind.
Some things are hot, some are cold.
Some things are strong, some are weak.
Some things are born, some things die:
All things are only for a time.
The wise do not overreach,
The wise do not overspend,
The wise do not overrate themselves.

May we always remember the sacredness and fragility of all that has been entrusted to our care. And let us be able to recognize things as they are and respect their temporal quality. May the Holy One of Blessing grant us enough insight to be aware of our limitations, and enough wisdom to benefit from our strengths. May this be God's will.—AMEN.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

The following message from the Governor was received and ordered printed in the Journal:

Governor's Office, Sacramento
January 10, 2000

To the Senate and the Assembly of the California Legislature:

I submit for your consideration the Governor's Budget for 2000–01.

As we begin this new century, California's remarkable economic expansion continues. Personal income is rising at a vigorous pace and will top the $1 trillion mark for the first time this year. Unemployment is at a 30-year low, and inflation remains under control. For a second straight year, we have the opportunity to invest significant new resources on behalf of our state and its people.

In 1999, we made solid progress on our top priority of improving our public schools and the education they provide for our children. In 2000, we must do much more. This budget encourages and rewards high academic achievement from our students, and breaks new ground in efforts to recruit, retain, and support the very best teachers. We owe it to California's children to continue to build on the historic reforms now underway until our schools are restored to nothing short of excellence.

The budget also reaffirms my commitment to reduce crime and improve public safety, puts forward new initiatives for transportation funding and environmental protection, and recommends a comprehensive plan to improve the quality of life of the fastest growing segment of our population, our senior citizens.

Congratulations on your fine work in 1999. Let's do even better in 2000.

Sincerely,

GRAY DAVIS

Accompanying Governor's Budget and Budget Summary ordered filed with the Secretary of State.
